Solons Assured Final Victory Is Approaching

Senate Prepares To Pass 'Decisive Budget' War Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Congress was assured today the United Nations were rapidly approacing a "final victory" and that the war would be brought home to Japan in such a manner that "the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

This statement from Lieut. General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, was included in testimony made public by the Senate appropriations committee as the Senate made ready to pass the Army's $71,500,000,000 "decisive budget" war bill.

At one point, General McNarney told Senator Gurney (R-SD) the use of the word "rapidly," might have been an overstatement, but added:

Progress Is Made

"In the training and equipping of our armies and getting them ready for combat, we have made enormous progress in the last year. We have now committed to act, in concert with other United Nations, a rather large force."

Asserting that "strong and experienced enemies" confronted the United Nations on widely separated fronts, General McNarney nevertheless declared in a statement bristling with confidence:

"The co-ordinated operation of our land and air forces is rapidly bringing us toward a final victory.

"Our operations in the Pacific have turned the tide of Japanese advance into a gradual withdrawal toward their home bases. Since our victory at Attu, the strategic movements of the Japanese have followed our lead.

"It is our intention to bring the war home to Japan in such a manner that the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

In this, he declared, "our Allies are with us and we are united in

End To Rubber Shortage Seen

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—America's $700,000,000 rubber industry by the end of this year will be capable of meeting all essential civilian as well as military requirements, Commerce Secretary Jones said today.

Manufacturing capacity of the 40 plants throughout the country by December will be in excess of 800,000 tons a year "which is more than we have ever used and sufficient for our essential purposes," Jones declared in an address prepared for a "Made in America Rubber" luncheon at Houston. Telephone from Washington, his address was broadcast over a Texas state network.

Reports On Stockpile

Reporting on his pre-war stockpiling program, Jones declared:

"About this time in 1940, 18 months before we were drawn into the war, your government began protecting our rubber supply. In July, 1940, President Roosevelt asked the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation) to build up a stockpile of Rubber.

Roosevelt Signs Big Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP) — President Roosevelt signed today the largest naval appropriation bill in the nation's history, providing approximately $33,000,000,000 for the twelve months starting July 1.

The measure carried $28,637,222,198 in direct appropriations and approximately $6,000,000,000 in contractual authority, one of the major items being approximately $5,000,000,000 to provide the Navy an additional 27,000 planes

The President also approved the $2,621,366,879 independent offices supply bill, which had been held up on Capitol Hill by a dispute over the national resources planning board. As finally passed, the legislation called for abolition of the board August 31.

Price Changes Urged To Level Buying Power

Equality Between Farmers, Labor Is Aim Of Move

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—A readjustment of price ceilings to balance the purchasing power of war workers with that of farmers was proposed by Senator George (D-Ga) today as Congress moved toward final approval of legislation to choke off the administration's food price rollback program.

George told reporters he interpreted the votes of both houses last week to end this program as expressing a determination by Congress to 'prevent an increase of the purchasing power of industrial workers as against that of the farmers."

Administration leaders were said to be attempting, to seek congressional authority for direct subsidy payments to farmers, instead of to food processors. This move was seen on capitol hill as an effort to salvage part of the price rollback program rejected by both houses.

Byrnes, Brown Back Move

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes and Price Administrator Prentiss Brown reportedly are urging that Congress leave the way clear for direct subsidy payments to farmers in the "hold the line" fight on increasing living costs.

George charged that the effect of administration efforts to cut back retail prices by subsidies to processors would be to discourage, rather than encourage, agricultural production and to give the city workers an advantage over farmers.

Flexible Plan Favored

"I think Congress is of the opinion that price ceilings ought not to be rigidly imposed but they ought to be altered to meet the

Roll-Backs Will Stay Effective

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP) — Roll-backs in the prices of meat and butter will remain in effect until final enactment of a law against subsidies.

Office of Price administration (OPA) officials declined comment today on the action of the House and Senate in voting, in different language, against food price-cutting subsidies to processors but emphasized no immediate price changes were in prospect.

OPA had announced that coffee prices would be rolled back but this program never went into effect, and it was understood today that coffee had been abandoned in favor of some other commodity, possibly flour.

Cut Due On Pork

Retail butter prices were reduced an average of about five and one-half cents a pound, or ten per cent, on June 10.

The subsidized roll-back of meat prices went into effect June 21. These prices were reduced about three to six cents a pound, for an overall average of about ten per cent. Subsidies for cured pork are scheduled to go into effect July 5.

Should the Senate and House conferees reject the subsidy program, and no acceptable substitute be found, retail prices of meat and butter eventually would be increased to consumers.

Four Children Die Of Crash Injuries

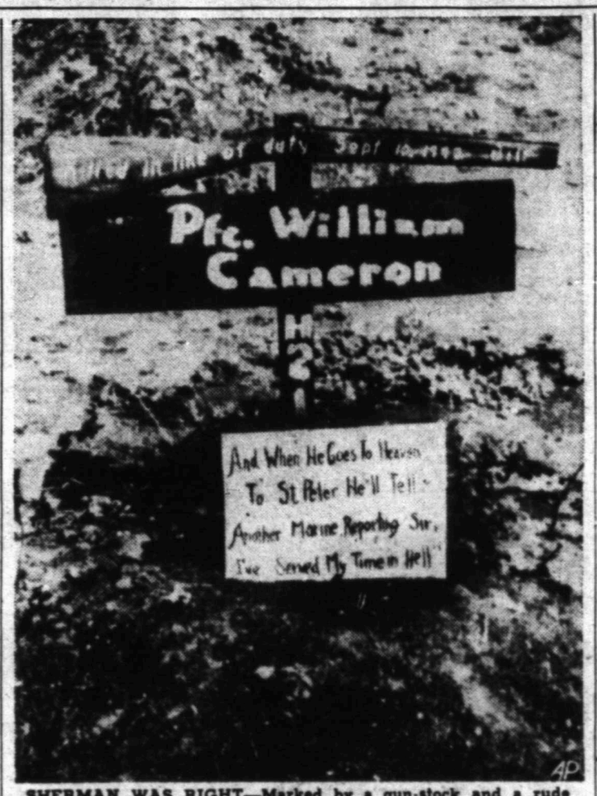

HUNTINGTON, BEACH, Calif., June 28 (AP) —Four children died today from injuries they received when a P-38 Army pursuit plane crashed and exploded on the beach before the eyes of 20,000 bathers yesterday.

Sixteen other persons sustained injuries and burns as the plane rocketed down in a circular dive from an altitude of 8,000 feet and scattered wreckage and flaming oil over a wide area.

The pilot parachuted to safety but burned so seriously they succumbed were Mary Silva, 12, her sister Frances, 4; Faith Barrega, 8, and her sister, Rosalvo, 5.

U.S. Warships Said In Mediterranean

Invasion Escort Is Aim, Says Axis

(By The United Press)

LONDON, June 28 — American battleships have steamed into the Mediterranean to reinforce British squadrons preparing to escort Allied landing forces to the shores of southern Europe, the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported today.

The STAB dispatch, datelined Berlin, did not identify the American warships, but the report coincided with a general rise in Axis invasion fever, as reflected in reports reaching London from Europe.

European sources said also that the harbor-bound Italian fleet had put to sea, either to seek a safer haven or, less likely, to strike an offensive blow calculated to disrupt any Allied invasion plans.

Concerned With Invasion

The British navy, which long has been seeking a chance to strike at the Italian warships, as well as the reported American naval vessels in the Mediterranean were presumed to be primarily concerned at present with invasion preparations, rather than with hunting down the Fascist warships.

There are some experts, however, who believe that the Italian navy might be sacrificed in a final all out effort to break up the coming Allied invasion. In that event the combined resources of the British and Americans probably would be thrown into a

Gen. De Gaulle Is Warned

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 28—Gen. Charles De Gaulle and his adherents had unofficial but emphatic notice today that the Allied commander in French Africa —charged with final preparations for an assault on Axis-held Europe—will brook no interference due to French political controversies.

An exposition of Anglo-American policy and purposes made available to this writer by such informants and in such circumstances as to leave no doubt as to its authenticity makes it clear that General Eisenhower will be firmly supported by both governments in whatever additional steps he finds it necessary to take to secure his communication lines, avert delay in using the French African bases for aggressive action against the enemy and, above all, reduce the hazards to American, British and French forces under his command.

The Allied commander took the first step when he insisted to the French committee for national liberation at Algiers that Gen. Henri Giraud must remain in complete authority over French elements of his armies and that efforts by DeGaulle to oust French officers under Giraud in favor of his own adherents come to an end.

Time Vital Element

There can be no doubt, that time is regarded as a vital element in the military situation in French Africa, or that French political controversies will be dealt with on a strictly military basis and regardless of the effect on the

West Texans In Group Cited For Installing Telephones

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, June 21 (Delayed) (AP)—The telephone has replaced the native tom-tom as the speediest means of communication in New Guinea, and the boys who did the replacement job received the praise of generals tonight.

At the nearest New Guinea equivalent of a banquet, the signal battalion construction company which built the Army's network of telephone and telegraph lines on this island received the official commendation of Lieut. General George C. Kenney, commander of the Fifth Air force.

General Praises Men

The general's commendation praised the officers and enlisted men of the company for "splendid work accomplished under extremely adverse conditions from October, 1942, to March, 1943, in construction and installation of 95 miles of telephone and telegraph lines in New Guinea."

The project also involved the cutting and hauling of poles over 22 miles of mountainous road and installation of the poles in rough jungle terrain and frequently in stormy weather.

Texans Get Citations

Major General R. J. Marshall, commander of services of supply in this area, and two colonels added expressions of commendation at the banquet.

The citations of valuable service went to these Texans: Pfc. Jack W. Sinclair, Waco; Sgt. Natividad G. Reyna, San Antonio; Sgt. Bill Smith route 2, Plainview; Pvt. John T. Phillips, Dallas; Sgt. Leslie R. Trigg, Brownfield.

Armed Forces Urge Pay Hike To Dependents

Reynolds Offers Bill For Raise Of 10 Per Cent

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The armed forces recommended to Congress today a minimum increase of 10 per cent in the dependence allowances to children of military personnel in the lower ranks, along with broadening of the whole allowance system.

Effect of the proposed increases, incorporated in a bill introduced by Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the Senate military committee, would be to boost the allowance for a wife with one child from the present $62 a month to $68. Each additional child would receive $11 instead of $10.

A wife with no children would continue to receive $50, of which the government contributes $28 and the enlisted man $22. The government meets the entire cost of allowance for children.

New Classification Urged

Chairman Johnson (D-Colo) of a military subcommittee said a joint committee representing the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard recommended that a new classification be set up for dependent mothers which would boost their allowances from the present level of $25 a month to $50.

On recommendation of the joint committee, the Reynolds bill also incorporated a provision permitting the upper three grades of Army sergeants and those in similar ranks in other services to elect to take on the dependency obligation instead of receiving $37.50 a month for quarters as now.

The measure also would relieve men inducted in the armed forces from making the first payment toward the dependency allowance, which would be made by the government at a total cost estimated at $104,000,000 yearly.

Boost Totals $393,000,000

The proposed increases would boost government dependency outlays a total of $393,000,000 yearly, Johnson said.

Submission of the armed services' recommendations came when the committee called Brig. Gen. M. G. White of the War department for testimony on a proposal by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) to boost the government's contribution to-

German Spy Is Arrested By FBI

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP) — The Justice department announced today the arrest of Ernest Frederick Lehmitz in New York City on charges of gathering espionage information for Germany.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Lehmitz had written letters to the German intelligence in Europe containing information on shipping conditions in New York harbor and describing troop and convoy movements.

U. S. Airmen Blast 2 Enemy Airfields In Assaults On Greece

Runways Are Pitted, Hangars Shattered In Powerful Raid; Seven Enemy Planes Destroyed; Leaflets Showered On Area

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, June 28.—U. S. Ninth Air Force Liberators shattered Axis hangars, pitted runways and started fires at two airdromes near Athens yesterday in a powerful followup to the Thursday raid at Salonikia which opened the trans-Mediterranean aerial offensive against German and Italian holdings in the Balkans, it was announced today.

High explosives were loosed effectively at the air fields of both Elevsis, 10 miles west of Athens, and Hassani, southeast of the capital, and Allied leaflets were showered over the entire area.

Despite savage efforts by defense forces to break up the raids, the four-engined bombers executed their missions and returned without a loss.

"At both targets our aircraft were attacked by large formations of enemy fighters and fighter-bombers, the latter making unsuccessful attempts at aerial bombing," said the Ninth Air Force communique. "Seven enemy aircraft were destroyed, with eight others listed as probably destroyed."

Naples Bombed

(The dock area and industrial plants of Naples were bombed Saturday night by RAF Wellingtons which were guided to the city by the red glow of neighboring Vesuvius, it was announced at Allied headquarters in North Africa. Incendiaries and blockbusters were cascaded upon the west Italy supply port in a concentrated 15-minute attack.

(Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique said coastal air forces shot down six Axis planes in defense of Allied shipping Saturday and two more were destroyed by naval gunners. Two Allied aircraft of Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' command were reported missing).

Three large hangars were hit and set afire at Elevsis, the flying field west of the Greek capital. Other bombs burst on the runways and near administrative buildings and "the whole surface of the airdrome appeared to be covered with bursts," the bulletin said.

At Hassani, the story was the same. Hangars were left burning and the entire field and western dispersal area were covered with bursts. Five grounded planes were observed in flames. Other fires broke out northwest of the hangars in the western dispersal area.

The new attacks on Greece, a potential invasion route for Allied forces deployed in the Mediterranean basin, followed a massive 50-bomber raid on the Sedes airdrome at Salonika, second Greek port, on Thursday.

(Bombings of principal enemy air bases is a necessary preliminary to any ground offensive. The Germans in recent weeks have been reported increasing their ground and air strength in the Balkans, particularly in Greece.

(German propaganda agencies have been occupied increasingly with the possibility of an Allied incursion into the Balkans through Greece and the Vardar valley — a route along which the Nazis, Italians and their satellites have been harassed continually by Greek and Yugoslav guerrillas, the latter under command of Gen. Draja Mihailovic).

RAF Sinks Two Axis Ships In Earlier Sweep

Big Formation Of U. S. Bombers In Foray Late Today

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 28 — A large force of United States heavy bombers attacked targets in France late today.

The first brief announcement from headquarters of the European theater of operations of the United States Army did not specify targets and gave no details on losses and air victories.

The action, part of a round-the-clock aerial offensive of heightening intensity, followed a morning sweep in which RAF Spitfires and Typhoons sank two German ships, forced another to beach, and stopped three others off the Dutch coast.

Big Formation

The drum of the multi-engined machines continued for several minutes as the big formation headed toward the continent between Bougloen and Calais.

Coastal waters said the force apparently had struck deep inland because no bombs were heard on this side.

The RAF employed Typhoons and Hurricanes against the German convoy, found sailing in a line, the Air ministry said.

These vessels were attacked in waves and the final wave of fliers also attacked ships, believed to be tugs, trying to aid the convoy.

One RAF Plane Lost

One RAF plane was lost, the Air ministry announced, in contrast to the German high command's claim that nine were shot down. The Germans also asserted that the convoy suffered only minor damage.

Hurtling through intense anti-aircraft fire, fighters closed in to 500 or 600 yards with guns blazing in the initial attack on the convoy. An explosion and yellow flames suggesting an ammunition fire burst out of one 800-ton ship, which was beached, the Air ministry said.

One pilot saw a 600-ton ship sink within ten minutes. When the second wave of planes came over, another 600-ton ship had disappeared.

Other Typhoon bombers arriving later found two more ships which looked like tugs ploughing to the assistance of the remaining two vessels at a standstill. One of these poured out smoke after hits were registered all over her.

Coal Stoppage Easing Steadily

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, June 28 — Scattered gains in the number of men working in the coal fields were shown today in early reports which indicated the movement to restore full shifts in the partially-operating fields might be a slow process.

In Ohio, United Mine Workers leaders reported all except 2,350 of its 15,000 miners back in the pits with the expectation all would be back tomorrow. Only 3,200 worked in Ohio last week-end.

On Sunday many union meetings were held in the Appalachian field at which seores of locals voted to go back to work. Scattered reports from the Pennsylvania soft coal field gave an increase in the number of men working but the Captive steel mines still were short-handed.

Some Improvement Seen

President James Mark of the big central Pennsylvania district said incomplete reports showed 15,000 out of 45,000 miners were working, an improvement over last week by several thousand.

Kentucky reported 51,600 of its 60,000 miners working—a gain of more than 7,000 over last week. Union officials explained that "local situations" prevented the return at some mines. In western Kentucky 4,500 men wer out "on vacation" protesting they received only $20 vacation pay instead of $50 agreed upon.

Indiana reported 6,500 in the mines out of 8,000, a decrease of 500 from last week.

Pennsylvania Return Slow

Hopes for a back to work surge in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields collapsed when less than 25,000 of the industry's 83,000 workers returned to their jobs. Last week-end 28,000 worked in

Mines Will Be Returned Soon

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP) — Secretary Ickes told the House ways and means committee today the government has "no desire and no plans for the nationalization" of the coal industry and hopes to return the mines to private ownership "at the earliest possible moment."

He was unable to say, he added, when return would be possible but said the government, which took over the mines during the recent strike, would "seize the first opportunity to return them to private ownership."

That opportunity, he added, would come when there is "reasonable assurance" that the miners would work for private owners, or when the workers and the operators signed a contract.

Ickes, whom President Roosevelt placed in charge of government operation of the mines on May 1, was called to testify on legislation to extend the life of the Guffey coal act designed to stabilize the bituminous coal industry through a system of minimum prices on a regional basis.

He said he favored extension of the act, which will expire August 23 unless continued by Congress.

Man Reported Dead 3 Times Joins Army

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 28 (AP) —Earl Cummins, very much alive although he has been reported dead three times and was "buried" once, is going to give the Japs and Germans a crack at him.

The 22-year-old Shawnee youth enlisted today in the Army. He said he hoped the Army wouldn't announce his death any more often than necessary.

Cummins was first reported dead after the New London, Tex., school disaster in 1937. But he was alive enough after the explosions to help 24 fellow students to safety.

Six months later, a man killed by a freight train was identified as Cummins from his clothing and was buried by the family.

"I met this fellow in Texas," Cummins said, "and gave him some clothes. They had a nice funeral but they didn't bury me. I was in Salt Lake City."

Returning home from Salt Lake City by motorcycle, Cummins was delayed several days by tire trouble and "word got out that I was sure enough dead that time.

"But I wasn't, and here I am going into the Army, live and kicking."

Being reported dead, says Cummins, "is tough on the home folks, but it sure is nice to pop up and prove they're wrong."

Nursery Plans Are Underway

Requests for equipment for the nursery established at the Red Cross production room, Sixteenth street and Avenue J, have met with generous response but a baby bed is still a necessary item, Mrs. F. B. Malone, chairman of the project, said this morning. If anyone wants to make a donation she may get in touch with Mrs. Malone.

Two baby pens have been loaned to the nursery and building blocks were given by a planing mill.

The Asbury Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service will be in charge of the nursery this afternoon and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 1:30 until 4:30 o'colck, with Mrs J. W. Hendrix as chairman.

Eleven children were taken to the nursery last Friday.

Captain Speaks For Jaycees At Luncheon

Capt. Clinton Kirkparick of Amarillo, here on leave after 11 months bombing Jerry from a B-25 in North Africa, spoke before Junior Chamber of Commerce members at their weekly luncheon today.

"Jerry is plenty good; he still has a good fighter plane, and he has the best trained officers in the world," Capt. Kirkpatrick said, "and don't get to thinking the Germans are on the run, or that we haven't still got us a long war on our hands."

Kirkpatrick described the African campaign only as a skirmish compared with what is to come, "and yet that was plenty tough for the Eighth Army," he said. He thinks Gen. Montgomery is the greatest general in the war, unless it be Rommel, the German leader who, but for lack of equipment, was well matched in the desert with Montgomery because he had resourcefulness, hard-trained soldiers, and the will to win.

C. D. Doggett, representing the Llano Estacado auxiliary of the Red Cross, appeared at the luncheon and asked for contributions of furniture and other hard-to-get comforts for some of the day rooms and hospital wards at South Plains Army Air field.

Red Army Captures Point From Finns

LONDON, June 28 (AP)—Red Army troops captured a Finnish strong point in hand-to-hand combat in a brief flare-up on the Karelian isthmus last night, the Russian noon communique broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet Monitor announced today.

Elsewhere the Russian front was quiet with intermittent exchanges of artillery fire resulting in destruction of German machine-gun nests and blockhouses.

The attack on the Karelian front dislodged a Finnish detachment which had entrenched itself on a high point. Russian troops drove out the Finns, killing 300 officers and men, and then fought off a counter attack by the Finns.

The Russian midnight communique last night reported that in the seven days ending June 26 Red Army fliers and anti-aircraft batteries had destroyed 211 Nazi planes, as compared to a loss of 74 for the Red Army. The communique explained that these figures were exclusive of "a large number of planes . . . destroyed or damaged in our raids on enemy airdromes."

More than 2,500 miles of branch railroad line were abandoned in the United States in 1942.

Floyd Harvest At Peak Rush

FLYODADA, June 28, (Special). —The harvest job of retrieving an estimated 2,700,000 bushels of 1943 wheat from Floyd county's 150,000 acres of grain fields now is at the peak rush. Hundreds of combines are at work on 16 and 20-hur schedules.

A car shortage is expected, but had not developed up to last weekend. Scores of women are driving trucks and operating combine tractors. The market last Thursday was $1.16 a bushel, with a top loan rate of $1.20 at elevators. The 1943 wheat loan rate had been announced as $1.10 a bushel for No. 2 wheat stored in elevators or warehouses, with farm stored wheat bringing loans of $1.26 for No. 2 grade.

Yield Is Good

Combines from downstate have come into the county to supplement locally owned machines. The fields have ripened rapidly. Harvest conditions are ideal. Wheat generally is yielding about six bushels an acre more than was estimated before cutting began. Trucks for hauling and harvest labor both seem adequate, and both are more plentiful than first was thought. Wheat in the southeast two-thirds of Floyd county is from three to seven days ahead of the other section of the county.

Deliveries are being made to elevators and railroad billings at Floydada, Boothe spur, Dougherty, South Plains, Muncy, Barwise, Lockney, Aiken, Cereal, Sterley, and Whitely. Cutting began two weeks ago. Estimates have been revised upward by all grain handling facilities since the work started. Slightly less than 151,000 acres of Floyd county land was seeded to wheat, and the abandonment has been practically nil. The average yield now is estimated at 15 to 20 bushels. Many acres are yielding 29 to 30 bushels.

Floydada storage space is about all taken. At other nearby points, however, there yet remains considerable elevator space. The car shortage is evpected to develop more stringently as the storage space begins to fill and run over, especially during the current week.

Business Failures Down During War

AUSTIN, June 28 (U.P) — Business men may grumble about difficulties of doing business in war time but the Bureau of Business research of the University of Texas reported today that there are fewer failures since the war began.

Frequently more than a score of Texas companies "folded up" each month in pre-war days. In the last two months, the failures have been one a month. May 1943's single failure listed assets almost equal to liabilities.

Tomatoes Shed Blossoms If Moisture Is Not Uniform

Many Victory gardeners are inquiring why tomato plants are shedding blossoms and developing blossom end rot, and housewives are asking why pinto beans do not always cook soft says Helen L. Edwards, assistant county home demonstration agent.

In areas where hot, dry weather prevailed at blossoming time, incomplete pollination resulted in shedding of tomato blooms. Later blooms no doubt will result in setting fruit on healthy plants. Blossom-end rot usually is detected when the fruit is about the size of a marble or a 50 cent piece. The fruit should be removed from the vine.

As spraying does little, if any good the most practical remedy is to keep the soil well supplied with moisture for the remainder of the fruiting season. The disease usually develops under "hot and dry today, rain tomorrow," weather conditions. Gardeners shouldn't give way to discouragement under these troubles, but should help the plants by providing uniform moisture for the remainder of the growing season.

Now the beans !It has been discovered that the way pinto beans are handled in the field is responsible for the way they cook. If left on the plants until the plants mature and die they will be tough and hard when cooked. The beans should be left on the plants until the pods begin to turn brown, but with the plant foliage still green. Plants then should then be pulled and placed in small stacks for three or four days to dry. The beans then can be picked off or run through a thresher. After shelling they may be placed in 50 pound cans or tight paper bags to prevent weevil damage.

New Class Of Cadets Arrives At LAAF

A new class of potential pilots for America's big bombers and transport planes arrived at Lubbock Army Air field Sunday to begin the final lap of the route leading to silver wings and commissions.

Officially designated as Class 43-H, the fledging fliers were sent to the twin-engine base here from Gulf Coast Training center basic flying schools at Waco and Goodfellow field, San Angelo.

Members of Class 43-G, who arrived at LAAF about a month ago from Garden City, Kans., and Perrin field, Sherman, have now been advanced to the status of upperclassmen. They are slated to complete their advanced training here the later part of July. Graduation exercises for their predecessors, Class 43-F, were held Saturday.

CASE HISTORY No. 1430 — Lady, age 40, who had arthritis, constipation, intense pain in the shoulder, knees, and almost all joints in the body were swollen and she had much pain. She also had headaches. She was carried into my office in November of 1942. At this time she was unable to walk, turn in bed, or take care of herself in any way. She began the chiropractic service and after six months she is walking, sometimes several blocks, driving her car, and is so much better that she feels she has been saved from a life time of suffering and misery. Her constipation is better, and she seldom has a headache.
CASE HISTORY NO. 375 — Lady age 34 who before coming to a chiropractor had almost died with heart trouble. She was extremely nervous, had indigestion, stomach trouble, leakage of the heart, numbness all over the body, could not sleep, and was losing much weight. She began taking Chiropractic services and almost all the above symptoms disappeared and she feels like a different person.
CHIROPRACTIC BENEFITS—There is no person, regardless of his duties, that can perform his work with the same efficiency when he has interference to nerve energy between his brain and his body as he can if there is no interference between his brain and body. If you have a vertebra out of place causing pressure upon the spinal cord within the spinal canal you have a cutting down of the quantity of nerve energy between your brain and your body. The cutting down of the quantity of nerve force between your brain and your body cuts down on the ability of your body to function. The cutting down of the nerve forces, regardless of how small, cuts down your efficiency because your ability will vary with the quality of the nerve force received from the brain. The condition may be minor now but may be serious in 10 years. An efficient chiropractor taking care of you may mean everything to your health and may have everything to do with whether you will be able to meet your everyday problems efficiently or not.

Texas Makes Debut In Rubber Industry

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, June 28 — The Southwest throws its weight today into the struggle to break the back of America's rubber famine, opening one of a series of plants which will produce 51 per cent of the nation's new synthetic rubber stockpile.

At Baytown a few miles from here production of buna S, the tough material upon which the country will depend chiefly for its synthetic tires, formally begins. Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, who has had a hand in the rubber program, and Gov. Coke Stevenson of Texas, among others, will join in the accompanying oratory. Jones, a Houstonian, will speak by radio from Washington.

The Baytown plant will contribute 30,000 tons to the 800,000-ton annual goal Rubber Director William Jeffers has called for.

Brand New Thing

The southwestern rubber industry, a brand new thing in this land of cows, cotton and oil, was set up at a cost of $200,000,000. Texas has eight plants about to begin producing either synthetic rubber or what goes into it. Louisiana will have two and Arkansas one. Their output will be 413,000 tons of rubber yearly, or 51.6 per cent of the whole. The other big producing area, the northeast, has 11 plants, while California contributes two.

Soon the greatest plant in the nation, possibly the world, will be in full swing toward its 120,000-ton capacity. It is the Port Neches, Tex., plant operated by the Goodrich and Firestone tire companies.

Texas Is A "Natural"

Before Pearl Harbor not many people had thought of it, but Texas is a natural for the production of rubber. Besides rubber, a good tire uses cotton cording to give it strength, carbon black for endurance and sulphur for curing and vulcanizing.

Texas got its first wealth from cotton and has plenty of it. Carbon black by the ton comes from its natural gas wells. Texas and Louisiana have the greatest sulphur deposits in the world. And they have the almost boundless oil deposits from which rubber can be made.

The Baytown event comes wrapped in a proclamation by Stevenson, calling this American Made Rubber Day. The celebrants will have to pay their homage to this new industry at a Baytown High school. For security reasons there will be no public visiting at the nearby plant, which is operated by General Tire and Rubber company.

Four Of Area Become Marine Lieutenants

ATLANTA, Ga., June 28 (Special) — Four South Plains men were graduated from Naval Air Training stations as Marine second lieutenants and pilots with June classes. Three of the four were ex-students of Texas Tech.

They were Billy Monroe McGough, son of Carl B. McGough of Hamlin; Henry A. Maasen, jr., son of H. A. Maasen, sr., of Tahoka; Lette Jackson, jr., son of Leete Jackson, sr., of 1608 Broadway, Lubbock; and Roy W. Wicker, jr., son of R. W. Wicker, sr., of 200 South 10th street, Slaton. The first three were ex-students of Texas Tech and were graduated from the Naval Air Training station at Corpus Christi. Wicker received his Navy wings of gold at Pensacola, Fla.

Casualties Of Civil Air Patrol Announced

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—The Office of War information said 30 fliers have been killed and 73 planes lost in the work—over land and water — of the Civil Air patrol (CAP) since its organization a week before Pearl Harbor.

The OWI, in a long review of the thrilling efforts of the patrol, said it now has more planes available for assignment than the entire Army Air corps had at the beginning of 1940.

The CAP's 75,000 volunteer airmen, operating at more than a thousand airfields, are the world's largest aerial home guard, according to the OWI which pointed out that only this country and Russia have permitted their civilians to fly in wartime.

Mexico Is Taking 700 Polish Refugees

When he awoke, a slam-bang war broadcast with shootin' and bomb crashes was on. Startled, Reese jumped from his chair, crashing his head against a sideboard. What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say— The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

PRAISES HOME FOLKS

Dear Plainsman: "How to make Johnny's furlough a success" seems to be a timely topic for writers in some popular magazines. Most of those articles contain some very considerate thoughts that could come from no one except a loving mother. And that is the reason I would like to voice a few. There are thoughts and opinions expressed in the barracks and on the field that perhaps those mothers, sweethearts and others whom are planning how to make our furloughs happy, will never have the opportunity to know. Therefore the things that I wish to say are not merely my own, but my buddys' and fellow workmen, some of who have just returned from furloughs.

Most of us that are lucky in getting to spend a few days at home are not heroes. It is sometimes embarrassing to be treated as such. We are not as much heroes as you back home. We have not given up as much as you have. We have no ration books to worry with. There is always sugar on the table. We wish you would realize that you are our heroes and heroines rather than we are your heroes.

Someone suggested that you would not bother us with the little cares and worries of home, but forget those things and make the furlough a continuous line of parties and entertainment. It is not entertainment we want, it is you. We do not want to be treated as a guest, but we want to be treated as one of you. We want our furlough to be your furlough too.

Yes we want to be ourselves again. We just have an unpleasant job that takes us away from home. We are just the same fellows that left a few months ago. So if you want to make our furloughs happy just let us be the same boys that used to cause you so much worry in those Good Old Days that are gone, but not forever..

I enlisted in the Air Corps February 1941. I have spent all my time in the Good Ole' U. S. A. My home is Littlefield, Texas. I do not mean to be critical, I have said these things because we feel like we are the debtors.

Sincerely yours,
Sgt. Shelby Oringderff,
U. S. Air Corps,
Chandler, Ariz.

Divorce Wane Caused By Housing Shortage

HOUSTON, June 28 (U.P.) — Many couples who have decided to part ways, are forced by the housing shortage here to continue living together while their divorces are pending, District Judge Kenneth McCalla said today.

"I figure that if they can stand each other because of the inconvenience and difficulty of finding separate places to live, they might as well stay married," the judge opined.

Accordion Houses Developed; May Be Folded And Moved

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

AKRON, O., June 28 — Accordion houses, which can be folded in a few hours and moved to new sites by truck or rail, were demonstrated here today to scientists celebrating inauguration of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.'s new $1,350,000 research laboratofy.

Accordion houses are a new step in prefabricated homes. Bay windows and other bays which are normally part of bed rooms, push inward to make the house temporarily a compact cubicle for moving.

Intended for permanent homes, the houses are designed for a family of four and are neither cheap nor unattractive. Using some recent discoveries in plastics they have certain comforts that until recently seldom went into anything except $20,000 homes. The cost at present, in experimental stages, is not more than $2,000.

Use Plywood Plastics

The accordion houses are made of plywood plastics, the sort which the British are using in Mosquito bombers. The exterior is covered by a thin metal skin, and in the future might be covered with a plastic.

Between the outer plywood and inner wall board is a fireproof and waterproof filling of a new plastic insulating material almost as light as cotton, and so rigid it can be cut in blocks. Its insulating value in walls, floors and roofs of accordion houses is equivalent to an 18-inch thickness of ordinary brick construction.

26 By Eight Feet

The present houses are 26 feet long, eight feet high, and when expanded, 15 feet wide. Contracted for travel, they are eight feet wide, suitable for trucking on any highway or shipping on any flat car. They weigh under two tons, contain two bedrooms, a combination living and dining room, kitchenette, bath and toilet facilities, closet and storage spaces. Bedrooms come fitted out like steamer staterooms, one with a bed, the other with two bunks or cots.

Goodyear plans to build these prefabricated homes on assembly lines after the war.

WHAT HAPPENED TO FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

After seven weeks of intensive work, laboratory researchers have discovered the reason why certain batches of Fletcher's Castoria caused nausea.

Methods of preventing a recurrence of the trouble are now known and manufacture is being resumed.

No Fletcher's Castoria has been made during this seven-week period, and at its beginning the makers issued a nationwide warning to consumers and retailers not to use or sell the product and to return all stocks for destruction.

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has been kept informed of all these developments.

Q. What caused the trouble?

A. The sugar content of Fletcher's Castoria was reduced to conserve sugar under wartime conditions. A year ago, Castoria was made with this reduced sugar content and was up to standard in every respect. This year, in March, we again started production with reduced sugar. However, at that time a chemical change — harmless in itself — occurred in the characteristics of the water used in making Castoria. But this change, in combination with the reduced sugar, increased the degree and rate of normal fermentation. The more rapid fermentation retarded normal re-oxidation during the ageing process, resulting in a product which caused nausea.

Q. Why didn't normal tests show that something was wrong?

A. The changes which occurred were so elusive that they could not be detected by the regular testing procedures—procedures which had kept Castoria a respected product for more than seventy-five years. In fact, even after the nauseating effect was discovered in actual use, it took weeks of laboratory research to identify the factors that were causing the trouble.

Q. What are the makers doing to prevent a recurrence of the trouble?

A. Now that the cause is known, procedures have been put in effect which will assure normal re-oxidation of the product. Additional safeguards have been set up. New laboratory controls have been installed. New biological and chemical tests will be applied to every batch of Fletcher's Castoria. Each bottle will be stamped with a plainly visible control number, in verification of these tests.

Q. Is Fletcher's Castoria now on sale?

A. No. Manufacture has been resumed, but because of the time required for manufacture and distribution it may be about two months before Castoria will again be on sale at your retailer's. When it is, you will be notified in your local newspaper.

Q. Will the package be the same?

A. No. The Fletcher's Castoria now being made will bear a distinctive green band. This green band is for your protection in case any old Castoria has not been returned.

It is all important today that you make the most patriotic use of wartime Bus transportation.

Gordon "Recovery" Tops Sunday Game

Flash Boosts His Average 45 Points

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The latest hospital reports indicate Joe Gordon's long-ailing bat may be about to sit up and take a little nourishment again.

The patient is still pretty weak, mind you, with a hitting "temperature" of only .238 at the moment, but in the last few days it's been showing that there are still signs of life. Topping off the "recovery" with four hits in the twin bill the Yankees cut up with the Red Sox yesterday—including a two-run homer that won the opener for the Bombers—The Flash has chipped in with eight safe wallops in four games and pulled his average up 45 points.

Krist Wins Twin Bill

He's on the way again and yesterday, with a single, two doubles, a homer and three runs batted in, he was the head man of a big league party that popped up with some of the fanciest parlor tricks of the year.

There were such things, for instance, as Hurler Howie Krist winning both ends of a doubleheader for the St. Louis Cardinals; Cleveland's Oris Hockett, who once wanted to quit baseball, climbing to the top of the American league pile, and the Cincinnati Reds taking both ends of a double bill for the first time since last September.

Standings Are Unchanged

As for the pennant chases, both leagues might just as well have stayed in bed, because the Yanks held onto their two-game bulge in the American league and the Cards stayed half-a-game in front in the National.

Gordon's homer gave the Yanks a 3-2 opener win over the Red Sox, but in the afterpiece, Bobby Doerr belted a four-bagger to tie the score and then knocked in the deciding run with a hit in the 12th for a 4-3 decision. Meantime, Washington's second-place Senators, after taking the first game from the Athletics 9-0, blew the nightcap 5-4 when the A's shoved three runs across in the ninth inning, two of them on Jojo White's single.

Cards Clout Cubs

The Cards clouted the Chicago Cubs 3-2, on Danny Litwhiler's two homers, and 4-3 on a two-run rally in the eighth, with Krist taking both verdicts in relief roles. They had to do it to stay in the driver's seat, because the cooled-off Brooklyn Dodgers got hot and flailed the Phillies 9-4 and 6-0, with Rube Meltong serving up a three-hitter for the nightcap.

Elmer Riddle tossed a seven-hitter and ancient Ray Starr and Joe Beggs got together on a six-hitter as the Reds swept the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 and 5-1 to move into the National league's first division. The Boston Braves bombed the New York Giants 10-1 with a seven-run sixth inning spree in the opener. Then Mel Ott's Otters came back 6-0 in the second act behind Johnny Wittig's five-hit elbowing.

The Cleveland Indians whipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in their opener, but Edgar Smith tossed a four-hitter to give the Sox a 2-0 edge in the five-inning afterpiece. The St. Louis Browns knocked over the Detroit Tigers 6-3, and the Tigers came back 9-5 in the nightcap, with Rudy York rifling two homers and Dick Wakefield walloping one.

Amarillo Golf Play Untouched By Draft

AMARILLO, June 28. (AP)—Here's one golf tournament untouched by the draft:

It's the ninth annual Tri-State Senior tournament which opens here Tuesday and runs through Thursday.

Golfers 50 years and over participate.

Gene Howe of Amarillo is president of the organization, Herbert Dysart, Plainview, vice-president, and N. D. Bartlett, Amarillo, secretary.

Bantam Champ Ortiz Too Hot For Olivera

HOLLYWOOD, June 28. (AP)—Bantamweight Champion Manuel Ortiz hits two hard for Tony Olivera.

Ortiz registered a technical knockout over the San Francisco boy at Hollywood Legion stadium the other night in the seventh round after Tony had hit the deck three times in that round. He suffered severe body punishment and had to be helped from the ring. His corner claimed a low punch but Referee Charley Randolph disallowed the protest.

It was a slow fight for five rounds but when the El Centro, Calif., Mexican opened up with his famed body attack Olivera began to fade. He went down for a count of eight in the sixth.

Ortiz's title was not at stake as the boys came in above the 118-pound limit. It was the first time in 48 fights Olivera had been stopped.

During 1939, the U. S. Coast Guard saved lives or assisted distressed vessels in 9383 instances.

HITTER — Fielding and hitting of Shortstop Vernon Stephan (above) of the St. Louis Browns have made him one of the American League's standout players this year.

Best Seller, 18 To 1, Shot, Repeats In Win

CHICAGO, June 28. (AP)—Best Seller, at odds of 18 to 1, galloped to an upset victory in the $10,000 added Equipoise mile at Washington Park Saturday, with Thumbs Up second and Some Change third. Whirlaway, 6 to 5 favorite making his second start of the season, finished fifth, in a field of twelve.

It was a repeat performance for Best Seller, which won the same race a year ago.

Whirlaway, all-time leading money winner, never was a factor.

Best Seller ran the mile in 1:37 and returned $38.20, $13.60 and $10.60 across the board. The price on Thumbs Up was $7.80, with $5.40 to show. Some Chance, another outsider, returned $13.40 to show.

Old Timer To Carry WAAC Hopes In Play

CHICAGO, June 28. (AP)—Beatrice Gottlieb Martel, one of the dominating figures in women's golf a decade ago, will carry the hopes of the WAACS in the Women's Western open "Salute to Victory" tournament starting today.

Mrs. Martel was well known in amateur circles by her maiden name, Bea Gottlieb, and in the pro field as Virginia MaMpes. She is a veteran of 27 years experience, starting her career by winning the New York City championship at the age of 16.

She has been working nights at her station in Norfolk, Va., devoting days to practicing for this tournament and instructing a WAAC class in golf.

Patty To Try For Comeback In Women's Western Tourney

GLEN ELLYN, Ill., June 28. (AP)—Patty Berg, one of the greatest shot-makers in feminine golf history, begins a comeback attempt today when she tees off in the qualifying round of the 14th annual women's Western Open golf championship.

The Minneapolis red-head, who has been inactive in tournament participation for 18 months because of severe injuries received in an automobile accident, tops a field of 88 competitors.

The field in the Western is one of the most representative in the tournament's history. Well-regarded entrants include Mrs. Opal Hill, the veteran Kansas City campaigner.

The field will play a qualifying round of 18 holes today with the low 32 scorers winning places in the championship flight.

Match play starts Tuesday with the finals scheduled Friday over the 36-hole route.

Scott May Battle Marshall Again

DALLAS, June 28 (AP) —A return bout between State Heavyweight Champion Jack Marshall and Buddy Scott on July 15 is expected to be arranged this week.

Marshall outpointed Scott here several weeks ago in one of the best fights ever seen in Dallas.

Scott is fighting Jim Bowden in Jacksonville, Fla., tomorrow night and he indicated that if he came through this scrap without serious damage he would sign immediately for the return title bout with Marshall. Scott suffered a badly cut eye in a fight with Johnny Denson at Oklahoma City.

Haegg Secret About Dartmouth Workout

HANOVER, N. H., June 28. (AP)—For the first time since his arrival in Hanover, Gunder Haegg allowed himself to be timed Saturday as he raced on Dartmouth's cinder track but—when the timers' report came out he asked that it not be released.

However, the mile he ran against Don Burnham was very fast, especially for a practice run, and after it was over the Swedish star did not appear to have exerted himself too much.

MEET APPLIED FOR

MIAMI, Fla., June 28. (AP)—Application for a 46-day horse race meeting next year, beginning Jan. 12 and ending March 4, has been filed by Hialeah park with the state racing commission. The swanky race track did not open last winter because of the ban on automobile pleasure driving.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP) — End of the great experiment: Al Lang, the voice of St. Pete, is touring the major league cities dropping hints that Florida would be glad to have the baseball clubs train there again next spring — especially since the Army is giving up its leases on a lot of hotels . . . Bob Foote of the Pasadena, Calif., Star-News says the White Sox already are pledged to drill in Pasadena next spring, if possible, and suggests that the Dodgers might join them . . . There's a good field right next door to California Tech, says Bob, and such close association of the erudite and the screwy might do both some good . . . Evelyn Chandler, the ice skater who is summering in Colorado Springs might be interested to know that her two sons, Bruce Mapes, jr., and Jerry Mapes are performing in the new stars on ice show.

MILITARY COURTESY

Ever hear about the soldier who reported to a new C. O., failed to salute or say "sir" and wasn't even reprimanded . . . Well, back in 1929 Ray Navin played right end for the University of Detroit and Art Anderson was right tackle, and they did a good job of teaming up on opposing linemen . . . Recently Pvt. Ray Navin was transferred from Fort Custer, Mich., to Indiantown Gap, Pa., and that's where it happened. The new commanding officer was, of course, Lt. Art Anderson.

SERVICE DEPT.

Ken Kavenaugh, ex-Chicago Bears end, is flying a bomber for Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and making frequent visits to Sicily . . . Winner of a recent service tennis tournament at Oklahoma A. and M., was Don Goldbeck, Army preflight student who is considered one of Texas' better racquet wielders. Other entries included Bob Deason of Arkansas, John Tarrant of Illinois, Harry Mack, California State collegiate champion in 1939 and 1941 and Abraham Levitan, a good junor player in New York . . . Lt. (jg) Gene Goodreault, who used to catch Charley O'Rourke's passes at Boston college, has just reported at the Jacksonville, Fla., Naval air station. O'Rourke slipped quietly into the Navy about a month ago as an ensign.

Bombers Take Game, 8 To 3

Two Lubbock Army Air field teams won their games Sunday but South Plains Army Air field fell before the Big Spring Bombardiers at the SPAAF field, 8-3. LAAF defeated Roswell Army Air field, 15 to 12 and the LAAF colored nine won from the Hobbs team at Hobbs 17 to 12.

In the game at SPAAF, Shelton of Big Spring set the Commandos down with a measly three hits. Anderson for SPAAF let 8 get through his infield.

The line score:
BIG SPRING: 000 010 502—8 8 3
SPAAF: 002 010 000—3 3 3

Sunday's game with Roswell evened the series for the LAAF nine, Roswell having won the opening game of the series Saturday afternoon, 8 to 7.

Managers of the two service teams here are now turning their eyes to next Sunday when the two teams, LAAF and SPAAF, clash in an Independence day contest at Hubber park for the benefit of Lubbock fans. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENTS FOR ALL

A few months ago a gentleman came to me for an examination. He complained of his back and shoulder hurting so bad he was unable to do any work. He told me of passing a kidney stone the day previous . . We traced the cause of the stone to sinus trouble, poisons settling in the shoulder contracting the muscles, pulling a vertebrae and pinching a nerve to the liver therefore the liver could not purify the blood.
Just a few adjustment for the sinus trouble, and his symptoms all subsided. . . . For further information on this or other cases please call at this office. . . .

WE'RE FAMOUS FOR OUR TIRE SERVICE

INSPECTION—First we inspect the tire thoroughly inside and out, never rely on guesswork. We can locate tire trouble like a dentist can spot a cavity.

BIG INJURY—If we find a big injury, the first thing we do is clean it out much like a dentist cleans out a tooth. Then a patch is applied and the repair vulcanized.

BRING ALL YOUR TIRE WORRIES TO US

SMALL BREAK—If the break is small and does not go through the tire body, we make a "spot" repair. Then we vulcanize this to the rest of the tire—preventing it from causing trouble later.

TUBE PATCH—After all, it's the tube that holds the air—and if it has a tiny hole or a big tear, the air won't stay in. We can vulcanize even big rips securely so that the air can't get out.

IF SOMEONE were to ask you "Are you educated?," what would be your reply? Be careful how you answer the question because even if you have a hatful of degrees and are on the Tech faculty you may be too optimistic.

In a recently issued report on liberal education, the Association of American Colleges offers a definition of what an educated person is. The report is quite lengthy—too lengthy to completely reproduce here. But a part of it will surprise a lot of people.

According to the association, an educated person should possess skills and abilities:

1. To speak one's own language correctly and effectively; to read significant documents with comprehension and to write clearly.

2. To use at least one other language with facility.

3. To recognize and organize facts of different types and to interpret them coherently.

4. To understand and appreciate great documents of art, morals and religion, and to evaluate them with imagination and wisdom.

5. To use intelligently and with a sense of workmanship some of the principal tools and techniques of the arts and sciences.

6. To live with others, with imaginative sympathy and understanding, and to work with them co-operatively and justly.

On top of all these points, an educated person, says the Association of American Colleges, should have explored wide areas of knowledge, be able to comprehend and integrate them, and acquire important human qualities and moral values.

Perhaps The Plainsman doesn't know the right people. But under the above "regulations," he doesn't know a single person in Lubbock who could be called "educated." At least, he doesn't know a single person who measures up to each and every one of the Association of American Colleges' requirements.

Harry Roberts, the engineer, comes closest to measuring up. If he can understand, appreciate and evaluate great documents of art, as set out in Item 4—and The Plainsman is not sure whether Mr. Roberts can do that, or not—he is the only "educated man" in town, according to the association, as far as we personally know. It is possible there may be others, but we haven't run across them.

INCIDENTALLY, this column cannot agree with the Association of American Colleges' idea in the matter of what a person must be able to do and understand in order to be called "educated."

We agree that any person able to measure up to the association's "requirements" would have to be called "educated."

But we disagree with the opinion that only those who can measure up are, in the exact meaning of the word, "educated."

One of the most impractical screwballs we ever knew was a man who had more earned college degrees than anyone else with whom we have ever come into contact. On the other hand, we have known a few men and women without much formal education who were highly educated in the art of living.

There is a great deal more to education than being exposed to, or memorizing, great masses of information and theory. In our book, no man is "educated" if he cannot live pleasantly with others; cannot make a living with his hands, if need be; or who cannot engender, in his heart, a sympathetic feeling for the foibles of human nature.

Those who may be prone to feel that recent reverses have smashed native Nazi arrogance will be interested in an experience of Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, who recently returned from a tour of the battle fronts.

While in North Africa, Colonel Waring heard of a particularly fine bit of brain surgery done on a captured German flier, so he went with the American Army doctor who had done the job to take a look at it.

Said the American Army doctor to the Nazi flier:

"I think you're going to be all right now. I certainly did the best I could for you."

In perfect English, the Hitlerite replied:

"It's a good thing for you that you did. You will be held strictly accountable for your operation after we win the war!"

POLITICAL musings by J. Harvey Briggs, San Antonio columnist: "Personally, I am fed up with showmen and glamour boys. I hope the next President is a tough, hard, practical man who couldn't make a speech for beans and who thinks trigonometry is a breakfast food; who is highly allergic to professors and who will not hesitate to go to any lengths to preserve public order. There Are No "Minor Skirmishes"

Chapter 21

In the history books the Battle of Luzon will probably be told in a couple of sentences: "The outnumbered Filipino and American defenders of Luzon withdrew to the jungle-covered peninsula of Bataan and to the fortress of Corregidor, where they held out against large Japanese forces for more than three months. The defeding troops were short of food, medicine, and ammunition. When the end came all of them were undernourished and as high as two thirds of their total numbers were suffering from wounds, malaria, dysentery, and other diseases."

History may also note that the delaying action fought in Bataan may have given the United States sufficient time to recover from the Pearl Harbor disaster and to build up its Pacific forces to an extent that the Jap advance was finally stopped—at Coral Sea and Midway.

In itself, Bataan wasn't an important battle, as history-making battles go. But to the men who fought there it was highly important. I learned in Bataan that there is no such thing as "unimportant patrol activity" or "minor skirmishes." To the men involved in those skirmishes they are all-important. You don't have to be killed in one of the world's great battles to make your death important to you, your family, and your friends.

Sharing things was a big part of the Battle of Bataan. At first, when there was plenty of everything, it didn't mean much. Everybody had enough food, enough cigarettes, enough quinine. The change from "enough" to starvation rations came with startling suddenness. It seemed almost overnight that there was a severe shortage of gasoline; a complete absence of cannel fruits and vegetables; and only a pack of cigarettes a week per soldier—if the soldier was lucky. But the sharing continued. There was no "mine" and "yours." Everything was "ours." It was a big event when a company got a case of canned corn, or maybe some coffee or a few pieces of candy. Traveling around Bataan I would occasionally share those big events and be able to share some of the cigarettes I had brought from Corregidor.

Remembering Bataan, I think of Joaquin Miranda of the U. S. Engineers. I remembered meeting him in the lobby of the Manila Hotel the night before Pearl Harbor. He had said then that "this waiting is becoming intolerable." When war came he went to Corregidor with the Engineers, for he was a master draftsman. Then he volunteered for a dangerous assignment—to go into Manila and get badly needed information for MacArthur. By night he left Corregidor in a small banca and disembarked on the north shore of Cavite province. In the morning he walked over to the nearest road and hid under a pile of fish in the cart of a Filipino. He rode past the Japanese sentries and got into Manila without being detected. He dressed himself in a white suit and lounged around the streets, watching how the Japs acted and how his fellow Filipinos reacted to Jap rule. He delivered scores of messages from distracted officers on Corregidor to their families in Manila. He was in the home of one officer's wife when a Jap car drove up and an English-speaking captain came into the house.

Joaquin slipped off his white coat and went into the kitchen. He busied himself at the stove. The Jap captain browbeat the American woman, until she was sobbing and the three-month-old baby in her arms was crying. Then the Jap walked into the kitchen. "Who are you?" he demanded of Joaquin.

"I am the cook, sir."

"You don't look like the cook to me!"

"I am sorry, sir, but that is my occupation."

Finally the Jap went away and Joaquin slipped out to Corregidor with his information. He brought us word that the Japanese were mistreating the Filipinos, confiscating the food, and enforcing repressive measures. Filipinos who worked with the American Army or Navy were being tortured and killed. Three or four more times Joaquin slipped into Manila and came safely back again, each time bringing reports of vital importance to MacArthur.

The Battle of Bataan was especially intimate and personal for young American officers like the tall dark lieutenant and his blond companion whom I had met at Baguio. I never saw those two again but I did meet scores just like them, young Americans who had been lawyers and reporters and insurance salesmen a few months before.

When our troops backed into Bataan there came a time when they had to stop retreating and had to hold their positions. The young Americans had to go to every Filipino kid in their outfits and pat them on the back.

"Hold everything, Joe," they'd say. "Those Japs aren't too tough. Our help will be here any day now. You know me and you can trust me when I tell you that. Let's lick hell out of them."

Many of the noncoms in the U. S. 31st Infantry were given commissions and assigned to duty with the young Filipino troops. Under their steadying influence the youngsters not only stopped retreating, but they learned to stand and hold and finally they learned to attack. Give a Filipino a little edge, just the slimmest chance of winning, and he is a tough soldier.

There was no doubt the Scouts were tough soldiers. There was the Scout private you saw on the operating table in Base Hospital No. 2 in the woods near Little Baguio. He was horribly shot up but he was grinning, smoking a cigarette out of the corner of his lips, and asking the doctor how soon he could get back and fight "those damn' Japs." The doctors and nurses told us they could always tell when their patient was a Scout. He would never show any signs of suffering or pain, never whimper; never complain because he would be crippled or blind for life.

Then there was General MacArthur, as he strode through the woods of Bataan or paced tirelessly about on Corregidor. MacArthur never allowed himself the luxury of letting down. He always kept his shoulders back and his chin thrust forward at a fighting angle. He always looked serenely confident, even in the blackest moments. He spoke to privates, always with a word of praise or cheer, as readily as he spoke to the members of his staff. His hair grew long but his trousers retained their crease and his shoes their polish. It was part of his personal code to keep them that way.

There was MacArthur, a soldier and a man of culture, whom some men hated because he was both prophet and poet and a master of the English language; who could tell you the details of every great battle in history; whose incisive brain and great military knowledge should have been occupied in planning great battles, massing hundreds of thousands of men and thousands of tanks and planes to attack, not to defend, for MacArthur knew that wars are not won by denfense.

MacArthur always thought in terms of offense. He would say, "I will take this company of men, and those three tanks and that torpedo boat, and hit the Jap there." He never thought, as some commanders did, in terms of what he might lose.

Back on Corregidor there was Mrs. MacArthur, the general's wife and their son, Arthur. Mrs. MacArthur wore cotton - print dresses and a crocheted turban. She and the general had decided to die together, when the end came, and of Arthur, they said, "He is a soldier's son." During the daytime Mrs. MacArthur sat under a canvas shelter in the officers' mess at the entrance to Malinta tunnel. She knitted and read and chatted with officers and men.

I remember one day on Corregidor when I was caught far from shelter when the siren screamed. Bombs were already shaking the island as I ran down the long road to Malinta tunnel. A car overtook me and stopped. Mrs. MacArthur opened the door and invited me to ride with her to the tunnel. By stopping, she had spent the precious couple of minutes that might have meant the difference between her being killed on the road, and reaching a place of safety. She was one of MacArthurs' finest soldiers.

This Curious World

Today's Journal Editorial

STANDARD OIL'S PECULIAR POSITION

Perhaps Standard Oil company of California doesn't care what people of the nation think of it. If it and other Standard Oil enterprises do place value on public good will, it seems incredible they would require legal action to cancel the recent Elk Hills oil leases with the Navy department.

No transaction in recent years has been criticised more vigorously. It has been termed worse in many respects than the Teapot Dome scandal. Officials of the Justice department have branded the deal illegal. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox—who permitted the mess to be cooked up and tried to keep it secret—has announced that the leases have been abrogated.

Yet Washington reports the other day indicated that the government may have to bring condemnation suits to regain the holdings that someone tried to sign away to Standard Oil. This suggests that Standard Oil may intend to fight for the holdings gained under suspicious circumstances. Otherwise, why should law suits be necessary?

Seemingly, Standard Oil would be glad to get out of this business as easily and as gracefully as possible. Seemingly, it would be anxious to escape any further tarnish on an already badly soiled reputation. But if it does take, or persist, in an attitude of "public be damned," it may discover that people of the United States are so big and so powerful that corporations like Standard Oil are no more than bacterial in comparison.

There Are Jobs Galore Now, So Workers "See The Country"

Migration Is Now No. 1 U. S. Labor Problem

By PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

NEWEST problem on the manpower front is a wartime labor migration which industrial management is not yet able to fully explain. Its manifestations are a rapid turnover in the labor force, with a high quit rate, terminations of employment often exceeding new hirings.

This new labor migration in the midst of a wartime boom of prosperity has been developing gradually in a number of local areas in which the situation is no longer news. But the first complete roundup of the problem has just been brought back to Washington by Lawrence A. Appley, executive director of the War Manpower commission, following a swing around the country to get firsthand information on today's manpower situation.

EDSON

The problem is, according to Appley, most in evidence in the Pacific coast region, where another "spirit of the gold rush days" is leading many war workers to pull up stakes and move on to some other claim where they hear the diggings may be better.

One shipyard on the west coast reported that of 26,000 workers hired, only 5,000 stuck on the job from the time they were hired to date.

Another yard with a labor force of 36,000 had a record of 250,000 hirings to keep the force intact at the 36,000 figure.

NOT WAGES

EXIT interviews are now conducted by personnel directors and employment men to find the reasons behind a workman's giving notice that he intends to quit, but so far they have not revealed any deep, underlying motives for this labor unrest. In most instances, the conventional causes of quitting are found not to exist.

Housing problems in most of the established yards are now licked. Transportation — the problem of getting to and from work — may have been solved by the construction of new travel facilities such as special bus lines or through shuttle trains loading and unloading on special sidings, conveniently located. They won't be used to capacity, men preferring to crowd six or more in a passenger car to creep over corrugated highways in rush hours.

Working conditions and wages may be as good in one place as the next. In spite of all this, when the urge to move hits a migrant worker, nothing on earth seems able to hold him to his job, and he ups and gits.

One phase of this wartime turnover of workers is the development of an out-migration of considerable proportions. People who rushed to the west coast to get jobs in the airplane plants and the shipyards have grown restless and gone back home as labor shortages and increasing employment have developed in the places they came from.

Another phase is pure restlessness or wanderlust. A shipyard worker or an airplane plant worker who has spent the winter in a Southern California plant may decide to spend the spring and summer working in the northwest, so off he goes.

CHECKS MIGRATION

WITHIN local war production areas where employment conditions have been established there are certain restrictions on the movement of labor. A workman can't quit one job to take a similar job in a nearby war plant unless he gets a release from the first employer. That's to prevent pirating and job-shopping by workers for higher pay.

These controls apply locally, however, and not regionally. They would apply, for instance, in San Diego or San Francisco areas. They would not apply regionally, however, as in the entire five-state Pacific coast region.

The administrative problem ahead for war industry management and labor therefore becomes one of checking this new kind of migratory movement by regions. Restrictions of the local area War Manpower commission stabilization agreements may have been winked at to a certain extent, if a workman from one area showed up in another area where there was a labor shortage. A tightening up on these voluntary restrictions can do much to check further development of this migratory movement, it is believed.

Biggest contribution to licking the problem can probably be made by securing the co-operation of war workers themselves in taking one war job and sticking to it. The alternative might be something like a national service bill, which labor doesn't want, but which is now before Congress, anyhow.

Jobs now aren't "frozen" though that word is loosely used to designate voluntary employment stabilization agreements. A national service law would actually freeze jobs, but the effort will be made to continue present voluntary practices, without compulsion.

One-Third Of People Still To Make Quarterly Tax Payments Under Pay-As-You-Go System

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, June 28 — About one taxpayer in every three still will have to make quarterly income tax payments under pay-as-you-go—including many who also come under the payroll deduction system of collection.

Generally speaking, the new tax law requires quarterly payments of all income and victory taxes not paid through deductions from salary checks and wage envelopes.

The law calls for new tax returns, estimating 1943 income and victory taxes, on or before Sept. 15—along with payments Sept. 15 and Dec. 15—from the following groups of taxpayers:

1. All those whose income this year will be less than in 1942.

Non-Salaried People

2. Those who won't be subject to the wage and salary deductions—individuals who aren't on regular wages or salaries, ministers, certain members of the armed forces, farm laborers, casual laborers and household servants. Exception: farmers, who have until Dec. 15 to make their returns.

3. Those whose wages or salaries are above certain levels—$2700 a year for a single person, $3500 for a married couple (with or without dependents).

4. Those who are on regular wages or salaries but who also have income from other sources amounting to at least $100 a year.

(We'll take up next the whole matter of taxes on men and women going into the armed services.)

File Declarations

When these four groups file a declaration of estimated 1943 taxes Sept. 15, they will be able to subtract the payments they made in March and June of this year, also any amounts taken out of their wages or salaries for the victory tax during the first half of the year, and under the deduction system (20 per cent of everything above exemptions) which starts in July.

The balance of tax will be due in equal installments Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

For those whose 1943 income is smaller than in 1942, these installments will be the amounts necessary to bring their payments up to their 1942 taxes—because of the provision for cancellation of 75 per cent (or $50 of up to $66.67) of the 1942 or 1943 tax, whichever is smaller.

Must Be Accurate

Taxpayers' estimates on the new returns must be substantially accurate. There's a penalty if they aren't.

All taxpayers must make a final 1943 return next March 15. If the final return shows that the earlier tax estimate was less than 80 per cent of the final figure, the taxpayer must not only pay the difference but also a 6 per cent penalty on the amount by which his payments during the year fell short of 80 per cent of the final tax figure.

Example: A man estimates his tax at $100, which he pays. Next March he finds he actually owed $200. Now, 80 per cent of $800 is $160—so he should have paid at least $160 during the year. The penalty is 6 per cent of $60 (the difference between $160 and the $100 he paid), and of course he'll have to pay the other $100 of tax.

Note in this connection that a taxpayer may file a revised estimate on Dec. 15 and pay accordingly—the theory being that by that date he should know at least what 80 per cent of his income for the year will be.

The farmer gets special consideration: he has until Dec. 15 to pay his estimated tax—and will be charged a penalty only if he falls short by one-third (33 1-3 per cent) on his estimate.

Anniversary Of War Marked

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-nine years ago today in the Bosnian city of Sarajevo, near which Yugoslav guerrillas now battling the Axis invaders, a young Serb nationalist assassinated Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife, Sophie and touched off the first World war.

It was a hot sunny day in the provincial capital when the heir-apparent to the throne of Austria-Hungary stepped off a special train, inspected a guard of honor drawn up to welcome him and entered an open car to drive to the town hall.

The archduke, a stiff and formal man, with large, up-pointed mustache, sat straight in the automobile although tired from a long tour of inspections and watching maneuvers of the Austrian army. His wife, who had joined him only a short time previously, sat beside him dressed in the heavy clothes and thick veils of the motorist of the day.

Printer Threw Bomb

As they neared the little river that still flows between high walls, the first attempt was made on their lives. A 20-year-old Serbian printer suddenly threw an awkwardly aimed bomb that missed the archduke's automobile, wounding an aide who was following.

"What is the good of speeches?" the archduke growled. "I came to Sarajevo on a visit and I get bombs thrown at me. It is outrageous."

As a precaution, the route for the return trip to the station was changed. But the chauffeur of the royal automobile apparently misunderstood and started out on the previously planned route. He was told to change and as he halted and started to turn the vehicle around it came within the range of Gavrilo Princip, a serb student.

Fired Three Times

The boy aimed a Browning revolver, with which he had been practicing for some days, and fired three times. The first shot hit the Archduke in the neck, the second hit him in the leg and the third hit his wife.

The assassination roused the Ausrtians against the Serbs at a time when ill-feeling between the two countries needed little prodding. Austria's ultimatum and attack on Serbia brought Russia into the war; Germany, acting under an alliance with Austria, declared war on Russia; France joined in through her alliance with Russia and Britain came in through alliances with Belgium and France.

Dependents' Pay

ward dependency allowances a blanket 15 per cent.

Under the proposed revised schedule, total amount made available to the motherless child of an enlisted man would be $42 monthly. A divorced wife would receive the same amount.

At the same time Chairman Johnson (D-Colo) made public a War department report urging the committee to delay action on the measure until it could present an analysis of the need for increases.

Justification Indicated

In this report, Secretary Stimson said the War department "is satisified that facts of common knowledge with respect to present day living costs indicate that there is justification for giving favorable consideration to some increases for certain categories of dependents."

"This is particularly the case as regards those dependents who will come into the picture if selective service begins inducting substantial numbers of married men with children," Stimson wrote. He noted that the present act "was not drawn in contemplation of any imminent necessity for inducting large numbers of men thus situated."

Stimson pointed out the Lodge bill would make a blanket increase of 15 per cent in the government's contribution for all categories of dependents. A married man in the lower ranks of the Army or Navy now contributes $22 and the government $28 to provide $50 monthly for his wife. The government pays $12 additional for one child and $10 more for each additional child.

Changed Plan Suggested

"It may be reasonably doubted," Stimson said, "whether that approach to the problem is warranted by the known facts or will really afford justice to the persons affected or to the public interest."

Stimson suggested it might be better to provide for an increase both in the amount of the soldiers' and the government's contributions.

If the terms of the Lodge bill were carried out, Stimson estimated, the additional cost to the government would be $215,000,000 a year.

Oilman Dies

during the remainder of his life. A successful ranchman and farmer, he took an active early interest in the development of the oil potentialities of the Sundown region. Approximately 40 producing oil wells now are located on his property. He was a member of the Hockley county school board.

Was Ill Two Weeks

About a month ago Mr. and Mrs. Frazier and their daughter went to Mason county to inspect ranch property that they thought of buying. En route home they visited his brother in San Antonio and then moved to Llano for a visit with the brother there. Mr. Frazier became ill there about two weeks ago and was removed to the San Antonio hospital where death occurred.

The body is due to arrive in Lubbock Tuesday morning and will be removed immediately to Levelland to await funeral services.

Town "Shot Up" When Car Of Ammunition Is Overturned

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., June 28 (U.P.)—The city of Grand Junction was saved from deadly bombardment because a steel freight car loaded with ammunition overturned and discharged its perilous cargo in the opposite direction from the town's residential district, an inspection disclosed today.

The car, rocked by explosions, fell on its side and the roof was torn off by shells screaming into virtually open territory, officials of the Rio Grande railroad said. Eight persons were injured by shrapnel, however, but only three of them seriously.

Fire Starts Explosions

The barrage was set off by fire early Sunday, and for three hours shells from two freight cars whined over the town at intervals of about one second. Many residents awakened from their sleep thought the town was under enemy attack.

The Rio Grande railroad yards where the explosions occurred was a veritable no-man's land today. The steel freight car was a twisted, perforated hulk. The other car, a wooden one, was a mound of ashes. Railroad officials believed a hot box on the wooden car, acquired during the fast mountain run into Grand Junction, may have started the blaze.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Army intelligence officers were investigating, but they said so far there was no hint of sabotage. The FBI said the investigation was "routine."

RECOVERY WAVERS

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP) — Stocks generally kept trend sights pointed upward in today's market although recovery marksmanship wavered a bit here and there as the proceedings drew to a close.

Steels, aircrafts, rails, motors and utilities were among the days' favorites, with scattered issues touching new 3-year tops. Gains at the best ranged from major fractions to more than a point.

Reinvestment demand, mild inflationary psychology, persistently cheering war developments and a more hopeful attitude toward the domestic economic and political pictures received the main credit for the better action of the list.

Stocks touching peaks for 1943 or longer included Chrysler, Willys-Overland, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Consolidated Edison, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Can and General Electric. In front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Public Service of N. J. and Electric Power & Light.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 28 (AP) — Rye surged upward to new seasonal peaks today, gaining more than a cent at times. Oats were strong but wheat weakened as buying demand slackened because open market prices had gone above the loan level in some southwestern terminals. Hedging was noted in the wheat pit.

Expectations of heavy feeding demand, emphasized by the government's forecast of a pig crop this year of 127,000,000 head, was the main factor supporting both oats and rye. It was felt, also, that any advance in the corn ceiling would be accompanied by a price gain for competitive feed grains.

Rye closed 1⅛-1⅞ higher, July $1.30, wheat was unchanged to ¼ up, July $1.44⅞-1.45, and oats were ⅛-⅜ higher, July 68⅞-69.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP) — Cotton futures moved irregularly and in a narrow range today. Buying was influenced by the defeat of the administration price roll back subsidy program. Nearby months were barely steady as scattered liquidation, especially in July, met indifferent trade support.

Late values were 26 cents a bale lower to 25 cents higher, July 20.46, Oct. 20.03 and Dec. 19.85.

Futures closed 10 to 35 cents a bale higher.

the Air ministry said two railway yards were hit, locomotives were raked with machine gun fire and R-boats off Cherbourg were straddled with bombs.

There were no indications that British planes were over Germany during the night, the first time after seven consecutive nightly attacks against the Ruhr and western Germany that the RAF failed to strike at war plants in Germany proper.

It was the ninth night, however, of the current Allied aerial offensive against Hitler's Europe.

The week-end assaults slackened in intensity, from the punishing raids last week on the Ruhr and on airports and railway targets in France.

De Gaulle Warned

status or ambitions of De Gaulle or any other individual.

Although both Eisenhower and Washington authorities are remaining aloof from French factional political wrangling, one informant here who cannot be quoted directly said the situation in French African territories is "difficult because of the continuing controversy" between De Gaulle and Giraud and their political adherents.

Elaborating on the existing situation in North Africa, as this government views it, the informant added:

"This controversy developed into an effort to obtain complete control of French military forces and into a persistent effort on the part of General De Gaulle to replace with his own adherents officers of the (French) army, navy and airforces who were previously associated with the government of unoccupied France in Vichy.

French Forces Praised

"The French army and naval forces in Africa, under General Giraud, participated with courage and success in destroying or capturing the Axis army in Africa, and in consideration of the necessity for continuing important military operations from Africa as a base, military considerations, including security of the long supply lines, must control our relations with the French civil administrators.

"With American soldiers involved in a deadly struggle with Axis armies, it is inconceivable that the Allied powers should submit to any control by local administrators that might increase the danger of our troops or adversely affect our military effort.

"At present the military command is divided between Giraud and De Gaulle, the first exercising command of forces in north and west Africa, and the latter over all French forces in other territory under French control.

Serious Complications

"This (French) private political compromise adds serious complications to the safe military control of the areas of active operations, and the essential supply service. It is essential to the safety of the Allied armies that General Giraud, who has fought so successfully with us, should exercise absolute control under General Eisenhower of the French forces in Africa. This is absolutely necessary to the safety of our soldiers, many thousands of whom would have lost their lives had it not been for the heroic fighting French patriots under command of General Giraud.

"There are many indications that the controversial activities of this two-headed 'committee of national liberation' have already undermined the spirit of the French army."

the anthracite mines.

Although at least 18 United Mine Worker locals voted at stormy week-end meetings to resume production in the hard coal fields, only a few thousand miners carried out the decision, and some mines that operated last week failed to reopen.

West Virginia reported the majority of its 130,000 miners working although absenteeism was described as high in the Pochahontas field in the southern part of the state. United Mine Workers leaders described the turnout as "better than ordinary." At least two mines there were closed because of mechanical difficulty, but early repairs were to be made.

Unofficial estimates last week placed the number of idle miners in the country at slightly over 200,000, leaving more than 300,000 on the job in the nation's underground pits.

Almost three-fourths of the men absent from work since June 20, when a two-week truce agreed upon by the UMC's policy committee expired, are employed in Pennsylvania's bituminous and anthracite fields. They refused, along with some thousands of others, in Illinois, Kentucky, Alabama, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and other states, to observe an order from the policy committee June 22 to resume production with the government in full charge of the mines.

SITUATION IS IMPROVING AT PENNSYLVANIA MINES

PITTSBURGH, June 28 (AP) — The United States Steel corporation reported this morning that operations at its southwest Pennsylvania mines were "better" but that 2,200 men out of a total of 6,600 failed to report for work.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, which has four mines in southwest Pennsylvania, reported that none of the properties were working and a spokesman said pickets had turned away workers from one mine.

A United Mine Workers union leader expressed surprise over these developments, and said he would make a check. Miners at the three J. & L. pits were reported yesterday to have voted to return to work.

The Pittsburgh Coal company, second largest commercial producer, reported 12 of 16 mines were working—twice as many as last Friday.

Officers Deny They Helped In Check-Up

AUSTIN, June 28. (AP)—Enforcement officers of the Texas Liquor Control board today flatly denied they had anything to do with stopping motorists near Longview Saturday in an OPA check-up of illegal possession of gasoline ration coupons.

Bert Ford, state liquor administrator, said that E. A. Gordon, deputy supervisor in charge of the Longview office, informed him by telephone that "we did not have anything to do with it, and it looks as if somebody had made up a story."

W. A. Griffis, jr., district OPA enforcement attorney, said at Dallas that four state liquor control board agents assisted the OPA investigators with the questioning of motorists at three points in the Longview area.

our efforts to defeat the Axis," and added, "the combined chiefs of staff have well-defined plans to accomplish this end."

McNarny asserted recent conferences with Prime Minister Churchill in Washington and in north Africa in which French officials participated "will bring further successful offensive action."

Pointing out that the nation had only 2,500,000 partially-trained and equipped men in the Army last year, McNary declared "We have in the service at this moment in the vicinity of 6,800,000."

The Army had no plans, he said, for raising its armed forces beyond the 8,200,000 officers and men, including 150,000 WAACS, set for its goal by the end of this year.

Army To Be Maintained

Once the goal of 7,500,000 enlisted men and non-commissioned officers is reached, he declared, "it is our intention to maintain our Army at 7 and a half million troop strength for the balance of the 1944 fiscal year."

McNarney said the Army's manpower goals were based "on the strength of our enemies on land, sea and in the air, their complete resources, and the total resources of our Allies and ourselves, and our combined abilities to train and to service our troops, and keep them in excellent fighting condition, without impairing the efficiency of our domestic economy."

McNarey's testimony was made public as Congress drove ahead toward clearing up $115,000,000,000 in appropriations bills ahead of a summer recess.

Rubber Situation

Between that time and the capture of the Dutch East Indies by the Japanese, we bought every pound of rubber we could possibly get.

"As a result, when we entered the war, we had accumulated the largest rubber stockpile the world has ever known. We have drawn upon that stockpile for all our essential needs, as well as for those of the United Nations, and we still have several hundred thousands tons. We have been stimulating the production of natural rubber in South and Central America and in Africa by every means possible, and we are getting some natural rubber from these and other sources."

Task Not Easy

Of the synthetic program, the commerce secretary said "the task has not been an easy one. Those in charge of the program have had to overcome not only such problems as shortages of material and manpower, but also the confusion created by critics who sought — not always unselfishly — to question means and methods, without knowledge of all the facts.

"Now that the storm of words has subsided and government, together with industry, has been allowed time to do the necessary work, we have what we set out to get when forced into the war — a completely integrated rubber industry."

SINKINGS REPORTED

Invasion Tension

big scale naval and air battle.

A United Press dispatch from Zurich, meanwhile, said that Rome reports indicated expectation of an Allied landing shortly in Sicily, Sardinia or Italy. The dispatch quoted Swiss reports from Rome, where the newspaper Popolo Di Roma said Allied bombing raids and naval activities indicated immediate action.

Reports From Italy

The reports reached London from Rome by way of Madrid and Stockholm and were attributed to official Italian sources. Madrid, source of many pro-Axis rumors, said the Italian fleet was bound for "offensive operations," but Stockholm reported the warships were en route to safer ports in the Adriatic sea.

A large portion of the fleet last was reported anchored at Spezia, Italy's largest naval base, but an American Flying Fortress raid early this month, coupled with a British assault last Wednesday night, may have flushed the warships from the port.

A Daily Mail dispatch from the "Italian frontier" said that intensified Allied bombing raids on Sicily had created an acute water shortage there and may force the government to put the island's 4,000,000 inhabitants on a daily water ration. The heat of the Sicilian summer was said to have worsened Sicily's plight.

Public Services Upset

Anglo-American bombs also have dislocated Sicily's public services entirely, the Daily Mail said. The entire male population was represented as feverishly mining roads and fortifying beaches with the whole trend of reports indicating that the "zero hour for invasion is about to strike."

Even greater tension, in this case bordering on panic, prevails in Bulgaria because of the belief that the Allies will invade the Balkans, a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Istanbul said. There have been runs on Bulgarian banks, postal and telegraph services have been placed under military control and business generally is at a standstill the dispatch said.

realities as they exist," Geoge declared. He expressed the belief that farmers are willing to accept 'reasonable" price ceilings on their products which would bring their income in line with that of the industrial workers.

George said he thought farmers are "tired of restrictions which have been imposed on them," adding that many of these restrictions "carry back to the doctrine of scarcity."

Apparently only the formality of welding different versions into mutually acceptable language remained to effect the prohibition against food price-reducing subsidies approved by both houses last week.

Liquor Law Charges Filed In County Court

Seven liquor law violation complaints were filed this morning in county court, and the following dispositions were announced this afternoon:

Frank Harrison, 48, a negro, $100 and court costs on a plea of guilty; Curtis Malone, $100 and costs on a plea of guilty; Perk Craven, $100 and costs on a plea of guilty; Walter Gordon, 28, $150 and $250 and costs on two pleas of guilty; Roger May, 19, bond of $500 posted on a plea of innocent; Charlie Walker, a negro, $1,000 bond on a plea of innocent; Velma Hayes, 31, a negro woman, $100 and costs paid.

Some of those charged never went to jail, so a more complete record of color and age was not available.

Japanese Menace Growing Stronger

(EDITOR'S NOTE: While DeWitt Mackenzie is on vacation, this daily column is being written by Max Hill, former chief of the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo).

BY MAX HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

An Englishman who is in a position to speak with authority wrote a special article for the Associated Press which was published yesterday, and in which he said:

"The people (in Britain) know they can expect no joyride to Berlin or Tokyo."

The author is W. J. Haley, who is joint managing editor of the Manchester Guardian and Evening News, and a director of press association of Great Britain and Reuters.

Haley has just returned to England from an extensive trip through the south Pacific, and the menace that is Japan no longer is a myth to him.

Tokyo Must Go

Let us hope it was from knowledge and not sentiment that he said:

"Churchill spoke for the nation when he pledged that Tokyo must go the way of Berlin and Rome."

It is time, also, that America awakened to the critical situation in the Pacific. The status of the war in that area can be summarized in a few words, and I only hope the readers of this column won't be too shocked by the definitely ominous factors.

Our government is aware of the danger, as are the responsible heads of our armed forces. They know of the long and bitter and bloody battles which face us before the Japanese bow in defeat, as they must in the end.

But a spirit of complacency seems to permeate the attitude of the average American, especially those who live in the east and midwest.

Japan Is Strong

I have been asked many times why I didn't say so while I was in Tokyo—instead of now—if Japan was so strong. Well, this is the reason. Japan didn't fool us. She wasn't strong. We were weak and with typical American confidence we looked on Japan as a push-over.

Now Japan is strong .She had a carefully planned program of attack. In ninety days she seized a rich and vast empire. Since that time she has done nothing but prepare for the inevitable attack from the United Nations to regain it.

Any attempt to wrest this territory from her will be costly in both men and materials. Japan knows that. Now she can sit back and wait for a stalemate. She has accomplished her objectives in this war, even more than Hitler.

Nothing fits better into the Japanese program than our policy of devoting most of our attention to the Atlantic. It gives Japan time to consolidate and exploit all of her vast Oriental plunder.

Hope For Stalemate

Pearl Harbor was not the only trick of which the Japanese are capable. They have gambled from the first on a stalemate, which would be a victory for them. Let us suppose that after Hitler is defeated that the militarists ostensibly are discredited, that a supposedly mild cabinet of businesmen takes over.

They could—and would—say blandly that they were the responsible, respectable faction in Japan, the people we could deal with in safety.

Let us not be duped by any such ruse. It would mean another war in the Pacific within twenty years. Yet there is a small but potent minority in this country which would advocate such action.

In Japan the hope is that a war-weary America will compromise with her. That is a development we must guard against to the utmost.

Senate Plans Fight On Funds For NYA

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—The Senate cleared the way today for passage of the $71,898,740 war bill — and for a fight over a proposal to set aside House demands for scrapping the national Youth administration (NYA).

Asserting NYA's work is 'absolutely essential" in training young men and women for manual tasks in war plants and shipyards, Senator Truman (D-Mo) offered a proposal to appropriate $47,800,000 for that depression-born agency.

He submitted the proposal as an amenment to the $1,100,000,000 labor department-federal security administration appropriations bill in substitution for a House provision allowing the NYA $3,000,000 with which to liquidate by January 1. The Senate appropriations committee had approved the House provision by a 13 to 12 vote.

Woman Who Couldn't Take No Is Charged

FORT WORTH, June 28 (U.P.)—Charges of disturbing the peace, simple assault and destruction of private property face a 50-year-old Fort Worth woman who couldn't take no for an answer.

Not satisfied with the assertion that the store limited each customer to one pound of coffee when she demanded two pounds, the woman allegedly attacked a woman cashier in a grocery store and hurled a quart of milk at one of the proprietors. She was threatening other employes with a quart bottle of vinegar when police arrived.

Perhaps The Jurors Should Be Tried In This Sanity Hearing

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 28 (U.P.)—A sanity hearing was underway in county court.

During the testimony, two jurors suddenly left their seats among the jury of six men, walked out of the room and sauntered casually down the corridor.

"What goes on here?" demanded Judge Joe D. Browning. A bailiff hastened after the errant jurors. The judge demanded an explanation of the unorthodox conduct.

"We are not on the jury," insisted one of the men.

The two men went into the courthouse to meet an attorney, they explained. They wandered into the room, noticed a couple of vacant seats and sat down.

The commissioners' room has no jury box, since the commissioners court is the county administrative body and has no use for a jury box, so county court attendants lined up six chairs along the wall for the jury. Deputy sheriffs, instructed to obtain a jury, started sending in men to act as jurors to hear the sanity cases.

When the six seats were filled, the court assumed that the men there were sent by the officers and proceeded to open the hearing.

The clerk of the court swore in the jurors but in the formality failed to notice whether the two who walked out a little later took the oath.

"Oh, yes, you are on the jury, too," Judge Browning declared.

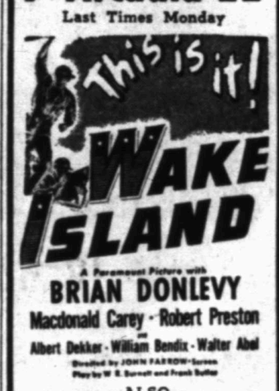

The two men returned to the chairs they had vacated, and the hearing continued.

America Is Producing Fourteen Super-Hero Fighters Each Day

BY KEN DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. LOUIS, June 28 (AP)—Fourteen super-heroes a day!

That isn't an inventory of comic books by the corner druggist, but a serious estimate of the number of U. S. fighting men who perform some outstanding feat of valor every 24 hours.

The figure comes from W. Ray Loomis, St. Louis newspaperman, who has spent 2,000 hours since Pearl Harbor in compiling an index of 3,000 men whose deeds put them in the upper bracket of bravery.

Has Long List

Because of rigid standards which he has set up—a flier, for instance, must sink the ship he attacks or damage more than one vessel—Loomis has passed up 100,000 distinguished fighters. Even so, he predicts 12,000 heroes in the "super" class before the war's end.

"The War and Navy departments at Washington tell me the issuance of medals to soldiers, sailors and marines have been in such volume they have been unable to prepare master lists," he explains.

Loomis maintains the most outstanding aerial fighter of the war is Lieut. Stanley Vejtasa of Montana.

If you can give but a part of this flier's record, the St. Louis man says, you rate tremendously high in war knowledge.

Fighter Is Modest

Vejtasa, you may remember, remarked modestly "I only helped myself to a platter of Japs." This is what he meant:

Destroyed seven enemy planes, and possibly an eighth, in a single engagement, and Loomis' records show further that he bombed a carrier two days later off New Guinea and got eight hits on Jap ships in the Coral sea battle.

Compiling war staitstics is not new to Loomis. During the first World war, his lithographed charts had a national circulation of 200,000.

Among more important information as historical aid to future generations, the St. Louis man has compiled such sidelights on a nation at war as these:

Smith Most Frequent

Smith the most frequent name on lists of heroes; oddly enough, no two the same given name.

The war thus far has produced more than 200 "aces"—fighter pilots who have downed five or more enemy planes. Among them they have accounted for nearly 2,000 enemy aircraft.

His records show the United States losing only five submarines while using these craft to sink about 240 enemy surface vessels.

Maryland has given most of the ship-sinking submarine skippers.

California and Texas produce the most flier heroes.

Hero generals from Pennsylvania are more common than from other states.

Loomis, whose 18-year-old son is in the Army, wants to add at least one more first: first United States soldier to enter Berlin!
