PDAP program held Wed.

Ozona high school students and their parents had an opportunity to hear a reformed drug addict tell of his trials and tribulations during his years as a drug abuser here Wednesday in two separate programs.

Ron White, a senior advisor for the Palmer Drug Abuse Program, of San Angelo spoke to students at 10 a.m. and to parents and interested adults in an evening program at the high school auditorium Wednesday. He is also a counselor for the San Angelo school district.

PDAP is a fellowship of young people and parents who have joined forces to solve common problems associated with drug and alcohol abuse.

White told of his experiences leading up to drug use and abuse. He started smoking marijuana at the age of 12 years. This led in turn to his use of mind altering pills. White said as a child he was obese and rejected in school athletics because of this, leading to marijuana.

In ninth grade, White was selling drugs and in tenth grade he was a basic trouble maker. He skipped school to get stoned so often he was expelled. While on drugs he joined the Navy and was released from the service as a hopeless drug addict. Using ever stronger doses of drugs three or four times a day, he became mixed up in theft to feed his habit. He was jailed numerous times and on probation. When his probation was revoked, he started attending meetings in Houston held by ex-drug users. The programs started teaching him how to build self esteem. White said it took people who had been through the same thing to help him.

White told how good it feels to be off drugs and sober. He learned how to be hurt, scared and to cry without the drug crutch. He cautioned adults to communicate with youngsters, be a friend to them and just listen. Above all, he said to parents, let them know you are interested in them.

A question and answer period followed the talk. White urged parents to band together to meet the problem of alcohol and drug abuse in the community. He said if a parent suspects his child might be using drugs to check his room and set down firm rules.

The program was sponsored here by the Ozona Woman's League.

Lionettes win one, lose one

The Ozona High School Lionettes opened their season last week with a win and a loss. They beat Iraan 35-26 in the season opener and lost by a point to Crane Friday night.

Lori Clayton was high point in the Iraan game with 11 points, followed by Kaye Thompson with eight.

Friday night in a see-saw game with Crane, The Crane team won in the last five seconds of the game. Lana Cole took high point honors with 15, followed by Jana Lilly with seven.

examines a stuffed fabric Christmas tree while Bazaar co-chairmen Becky Childress and Cathy Dawn Moore look on.

Postal service attempts to combat mail fraud

The Postal Inspection Service, the Federal Law Enforcement Branch of the U.S. Postal Service, is making an all-out effort to combat mail fraud. Although the vast majority of mail order companies are legitimate and seek only to offer quality products to the public at a fair price, some unscrupulous promoters seek to victimize the public through mail order fraud.

During the holiday season, many consumers do their gift shopping by mail. Therefore, it seems an appropriate time to suggest some guidelines consumers may want to consider when buying by mail.

Examine the offer carefully. If it sounds too good to be true, it often is. Beware of exaggerated claims on products or price. If the claims relate to your health or physical appearance, your family doctor may be a good source of advice as to the likely value of the product. Be particularly wary of claims by unknown sellers that they have achieved a "scientific discovery" that somehow eluded the big companies or established professionals. Read advertising claims for what they actually say rather than what you might hope they offer.

Do not rely solely on a picture of the item. Note the description, size, weight, color, and contents. Be sure to completely describe the article or service you are purchasing in the order. Give explicit instructions.

When ordering holiday gifts by mail be sure to do so well in advance to avoid heavy seasonal mail volume. If the company offers such a service, be sure to specify whether or not the gift should be sent directly to the recipient. Clearly indicate recipient's name and address and how the gift card should be signed.

Look for a company policy on returns. If the policy is not stated, ask for it.

If a substitute is acceptable, indicate it.

Ozona to observe holiday

Most Ozona businesses will observe the Thanksgiving holiday by closing Thursday, Nov. 27. Several offices will also be closed Friday. Schools will dismiss Wednesday and reconvene Monday morning.

Some convenience stores and service stations will be open during the holiday period. Most retail stores will be open Friday and Saturday following the Thursday holiday.

Be sure to enclose shipping, handling, or tax charges with the order.

Do not send cash with the order. Pay only by check, money order, or, if acceptable, credit card.

Keep a record of the order, including the name and address of the company with which you are dealing.

If there are any doubts about a company, check it before placing an order. You might be guided on a company's reliability by inquiries to the Better Business Bureau and Chamber of Commerce in the area of the company, or you can consult your state or local consumer protection office. Because a product is advertised in a responsible newspaper or magazine, do not assume the claims have necessarily been verified by the publishers. In most cases, the publishers have no choice but to assume the advertiser is honest.

Annual Pecan Show coming up

Crockett County residents are gearing up for the Fifth Annual Crockett County Pecan Show which will be held December 8, at the Civic Center. The show is sponsored by the Crockett County Program Building Committee.

The show has grown each year with over ninety entries last year. However, the pecan crop is expected to be below par this year due to the summer heat and drought.

Food and pecans will be displayed for the public from Cold front brings rain

Rainfall Friday night and all day Tuesday amounted to .50 of an inch of moisture for Ozona and parts of the county.

The cold front which moved into the area early Tuesday dropped temperatures and the moisture turned to sleet as the mercury dipped. Snow was forecast for Ozona and falling in Barnhart at 4 p.m. but with the temperature at 35 degrees at 4:00 p.m. the moisture had let up in Ozona under laden skies.

By 5 p.m. light snow was falling and sticking on shoulders and barrow ditches. Freeze was forecast for the night.

Calvary has special service

Calvary Baptist Church will have a special Thanksgiving service Saturday evening, Nov. 29, at 7 p.m., featuring the Sinclair Family in concert.

The concert will be presented by Larry Sinclair and family of Fort Worth. Larry was recently with the Followers and has now formed his own group. He is looking forward to being in Ozona again.

The public is cordially invited to attend this special service.

5 until 7 p.m. on the day of the show, with food as samples and coffee served.

There will be three divisions this year. In addition to the pecan division and food division, there will be an art and craft division. There will be a $10 cash prize for the first place winner and $5 for second place. Items entered in this division must use pecans. Craft items should be turned in between 7:30 and 10:30 a.m. on the day of the show. All entries may be picked up by the exhibitor following the show at 7 p.m.

Plaques will be furnished by the Pecan Growers Association for the champion shelling pecan, champion in-shell pecan and champion native pecan. A $50 cash prize goes to the Grand Champion Pecan of the show. This prize went to Jack Baggett last year for his Success variety pecan.

A $25 cash prize will be awarded the reserve champion and $10 will go to the person with the most pecan varieties entered. Last year Mrs. Roy Henderson won the plaque in the shelling division with her Kincaid variety, which was also named reserve champion of the show. She also won in the regional pecan show.

First place winners in each class will be submitted to the regional show again this year.

In the food division, $10 cash will be awarded for champion in each food category and $5 for runner up. A $10 cash prize will also go to the person with the most food entries.

Pecans must be used in all food recipes. The entire recipe must be entered for judging and the recipe must be turned in with the food entry. Food categories are cake, pie, candy, cookies, breads and miscellaneous.

A complete set of rules for all three show divisions may be picked up at the Crockett County Extension office in the courthouse annex.

Historical Soc. hears cowboy

The Crockett County Historical Society met in the Civic Center on Friday evening, November 21, with 30 members and guests present. Longtime members, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Schwalbe of Stanton, were unable to be present and expressed regrets since they are regular in attendance. Ted M. White, president, presided, and noted that Ozona's oldest house, moved to town from the original townsite of Emerald, was now owned by the Crockett County Historical Commission. Plans for it to be moved and perhaps become a part of a new Museum Complex are now under way. Mrs. P.L. Childress, Museum Director spoke of the need for Ozona to have a good Museum and Mr. White appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Childress, Mrs. Joe Clayton and Mrs. R.A. Harrell to explore possibilities for building a museum.

John Stokes, vice-president, introduced the speaker, Mr. Don Hedgepeth who is a native Texas cowboy who is a Masters Degree in History. He has held many places of leadership in historical circles and is now a freelance writer and author of books and articles.

Mr. Hedgepeth complimented Ozona for cherishing its ranching heritage and encouraged those present to continue to work for a museum and all which preserves that heritage.

"Too many writers tell only the superficial when writing of cowboys when the public longs for the real thing," he said. "One very good writer on the subject is Elmer Kelton of San Angelo," he added.

Saying that cowboy songs tell more about the real things than do most stories he entertained the group by singing these ballads.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. White and Mrs. Childress.

Two Ozona men get DHT awards

Supervising Resident Engineer W.F. "Bill" Dixon of the Crockett County Residency of the State Department of Highways & Public Transportation (DHT) in Ozona presented two of his men with 15 year Certificates of Service and lapel emblems. Receiving the awards were John A. Lowe and L.D. "Doyle" Lovell.

Lowe began his Department career with Resident Engineer R.A. McCulloch (retired) at Sonora, beginning as an hourly worker and advancing steadily to his present position of Engineering Technician III. John is a Certified Engineering Technician, holding a certificate in the national organization which is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers.

John and his wife Bonnie Sue, and two daughters Stacy Lynn and Dianna Kay, moved to Ozona in 1974, when John transferred to the Ozona residency. John's hobbies are fishing and hunting.

Lovell began his DHT career in Ozona, first working as a clerk typist, but soon becoming an Engineering Aide, then advancing to Engineering Technician III.

Doyle is very active in community affairs. He is a volunteer fireman, Past Master of the Masonic Lodge and he and his wife Vicki, children Darla Renea, and Leonard David, attend First Baptist Church. Doyle's hobbies are fishing, hunting, and music. He plays guitar, and "plays at" several other instruments.

Supervising Resident Engineer W.F. "Bill" Dixon congratulated John and Doyle upon their long service, and wished them many more pleasant and productive years.

APPRECIATION CHECK goes to the Ozona Volunteer Fire Department for their assistance when the Texaco Bulk Plant burned in Barnhart, Sept. 2. Fire Chief Dorris Halre, left, accepts the check from Charles W. Wolff, Representative for Texaco, Inc. from San Angelo. Stanley Turner, Texaco representative from Big Lake, looks on.

It is impossible to open a magazine or newspaper these days without encountering another article on the "right-wing menace." Similarly, book stalls are filled with tomes cataloging the horrors that await us if conservatives achieve political power.

Typical of the genre is Thunder on the Right by Alan Crawford. Crawford's book opens with the grim prognostication that "America is lurching to the right." It continues, in the same paragraph, "Many Americans are fearful of crime. They are distressed by rising taxes and double-digit inflation." Well, Heaven help us if we fall into the hands of the wild-eyed opponents of crime and inflation.

Crawford caught my attention by mentioning me in his book. The only problem is, he refers to me as someone who "once" headed The Heritage Foundation. Be straight with me, Crawford — do you know something I don't?

At least Crawford, unlike the authors of most of the other articles and books I have surveyed, claims to respect the "right sort" of conservative. The others are completely indiscriminating where any political views to the right of Ted Kennedy's are involved. It is not a question of these writers warning us against the Ku Klux Klan, or some other hate group. In article after article, responsible organizations and publications are lumped together with nasty ones, and are accused of being part of some far-reaching right-wing plot to rob us of our freedom.

If there were such a plot, I'd be the first one to speak against it, unless the other conservatives I know beat me to it. But as far as the conservative movement goes, it makes me hot under the collar every time I read some article suggesting that conservatives want to diminish our freedoms. On the contrary!

You see, it is not conservative organizations like The Heritage Foundation, or the various tax-limitation or pro-family groups, that are trying to take a free people and make them unfree. If anyone tosses you in jail for the wrong opinions these days, it is likely to be a self-proclaimed liberal. In effect, that is what has happened to Professor James Dinnan of the University of Georgia. He was jailed for contempt of court after refusing to reveal how he voted in a tenure decision. The woman who was denied tenure sued the university for sexual discrimination. Dinnan's poignant question to the judge: "If academic freedom is not the right to judge one's peers free from outside pressure or intimidation, then what is it?"

Academic freedom is only one of the liberties threatened by the liberal activists of yesterday, who in so many cases have become the judges and federal administrators of today. The average American is finding more and more obstacles to his right to live where he wishes, to send his children to the school of his choice, or simply to hold on to enough of his paycheck to pay the rent and grocery bills.

The liberal activists arrived at their present powerful positions because, for the last couple of decades, they have engaged in effective organization, fund-raising and public relations, and have managed to elect many of their own to office and to appoint the rest. The conservative organizations they decry are modeled on their own research foundations, political action committees and single-interest groups.

In this case, imitation is not a form of flattery. But it has been the road to success, for conservative ideas are beginning to win the attention and approval of Americans in both public and private life. That's because a lot of Americans really are worried about losing their freedom.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

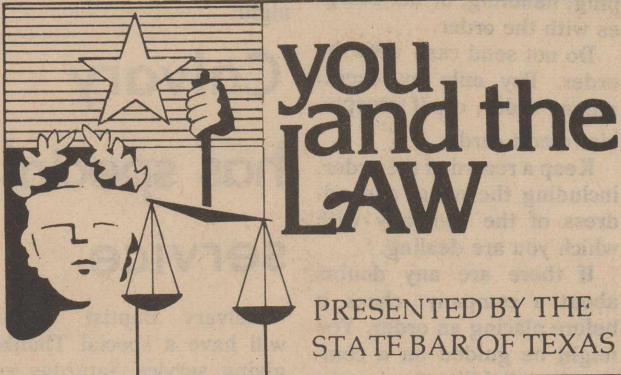

AUSTIN—If you're a Texan who survived the 1980 onslaught of campaigns and elections, then hold on to your hat: you may have to go through another one soon.

Texas U.S. Senator John Tower, a Republican, is the latest subject of possible political scenarios which abounded at the Capitol last week. Tower, a strong Reagan backer, is said to be high on the President-elect's list of names for U.S. Secretary of Defense.

If Tower were tapped for that job, leaving a vacancy in the Senate, a special election would be held within 90 days of Tower's resignation from Congress. With that possibility in mind, several politicians are already jockeying for the inside track.

Should Tower resign, the man pulling the strings in the first act will be Gov. Bill Clements. Clements will have the power to immediately appoint someone to Tower's seat, and then call for the special election.

Obviously, whoever occupies Tower's old seat will enjoy some election benefits for an incumbent, even a 90-day incumbent.

Q: After the airline lost my baggage I filled out the proper claim forms and was told my suitcases would be delivered. Later when they called to tell me they had located my missing luggage, I threw away the baggage tickets. Only two of my three bags were delivered. Now they tell me I can't have my third bag because I don't have the claim ticket. It contains my diamond earrings and wedding ring among other valuables. What in the world can I do?

A: Because of the high value of your luggage, you should have your attorney file suit against the airlines and request the court take custody of the property until your case is decided. If less expensive items were involved, you should write to the office of the airline and offer to identify the goods. Send a copy of that letter to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Bureau of Consumer Protection, in Washington, and request that they investigate your claim.

Q: I have completed my investigation of a recent political scandal. May I write a magazine article using several persons' real names without being sued for defamation of character?

A: The law of libel protects a person's good name and reputation. If an article injures someone's reputation, he is likely to sue the author and publisher. But, generally speaking, he cannot win money damages in a libel suit if the facts in the article are correct. For example, you are safe in calling a person a criminal only if he has been convicted. It is libel to call an innocent person a criminal. To avoid a suit, you should be certain of your facts and avoid words with double meanings.

Q: I have owned some vacant lots for twenty years. This summer a neighbor asked permission to park his travel van on the property. I told him I'd rather he didn't as it might jeopardize my ownership. If he parks there regardless, will he eventually have a claim to the property?

A: If your neighbor parks his

An Electable Appointee

Clements will have to choose wisely, for Democrats are still strong in Texas and are likely to send a strong champion from their ranks to take over the long-coveted seat held by John Tower. Tower won re-election by the slimmest of margins two years ago over Bob Krueger, evidence enough that Texas Democrats can get more excited by that race than by supporting Jimmy Carter.

Any candidate who gets into the fray must have several assets immediately: name identification, high voter preference, campaign experience and personal money. Ninety days is not much time to raise money or learn by trial and error.

Clements, therefore, needs to choose someone who would run strong even without the advantage of a short incumbency, and several names have come to the fore.

Connally, Armstrong

Former Gov. John B. Connally and former U.S. Ambassador to England Anne Armstrong are strong Republican considerations. Both are wealthy and experienced. Connally has a strong edge in name identification; whether he is an electable candidate is another question.

Also mentioned are Republican Congressmen Bill Archer of Houston and Jim Collins of Dallas. Archer has said he may get into the race, even if Clements does not appoint him.

One long-shot is State Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, who has said he may switch parties to run for lieutenant governor as a Republican in 1982.

Eager Democrats

The Democrat mentioned most often is former Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who is eyed as a probable challenger to Tower in 1984. An experienced conservative, Briscoe could easily muster a 90-day campaign.

Other Democrats include U.S. Ambassador At-Large Bob Krueger, former Atty. Gen. John Hill, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, and Congressmen Mickey Leland of Houston and Charles Wilson of Lufkin.

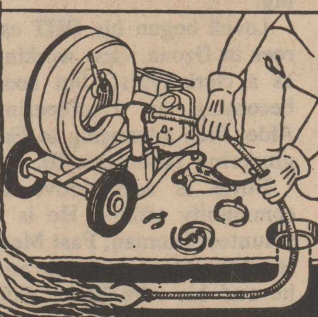

Speculation For Naught?
Of course, all such political speculation during the past two weeks may be for naught if Reagan chooses a Defense Secretary other than Tower, which is what Clements said last week he thinks will happen.

Reagan's closest political advisors were reported to have preferred former NATO supreme commander Gen. Alexander Haig over Tower, which Clements said could cause some difficulties. American tradition has put a civilian, not a military man, in charge of defense. A former deputy secretary of defense under Nixon and Ford, Clements ought to know the inside story.

"Sen. Tower will make a great chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee . . . and will best serve Texas in that capacity," Clements said last week before leaving for Washington to meet with Reagan's interim foreign policy advisory board.

It was the start of a new basketball season last week. Both the girls and boys A and B teams played. Tuesday they played Iraan. The girls JV team lost while the Varsity won. The boys JV team won. The Lions also lost. Thursday, the Freshman boys played against Del Rio losing the game. Friday all four teams played against Crane. The J.V. girls lost and J.V. boys won. The Lionettes lost and the Lions lost. Monday the Freshman and JV boys played Sonora. The Freshman boys won and the JV boys lost. Our basketball season seems to be picking up with our share of wins and losses. The games will continue next week after Thanksgiving Holidays.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by
Mrs. Bailey Post

As a festive Thanksgiving arrives again, I'm sure everyone is more than thankful for the most welcome rain and snow of last week. And too, one could imagine we were in fairy land Sunday after the whole countryside was so beautifully covered in snow, a very unusual display for our area and so early. Week by week and month by month it seems I am cautioning how to prepare for or react to some weather problems. Perhaps you get tired of hearing this constant reminder but we must remember, weather is the one factor in gardening the gardener cannot control. We can only study it and deal with it. Be ready to act when the right time comes, according to your own knowledge and will.

For the next five months, the south will be at its fickle best. November can be shirt-sleeve or overcoat; December cold and white or wet, or early spring; January frigid, or even mild; February, wet and cold, or wet and balmy; and March, the most fickle of all, may be anything from beautiful spring days to blasterly cold winds.

Now that the last vegetables are harvested and most of our bloom finished, sit down with pad in hand to think of your goals and how to achieve them. Most winter jobs are there to be done by next spring. Maybe this list will assist when you're ready for spring jobs.

Planting-From Thanksgiving to Easter. Fruits, nuts, fruiting vines, bush fruits, shrubs, trees, English peas, asparagus, and strawberries.

Soil preparation and care-November, Austrian peas to be planted. January, late winter and spring garden to be turned.

Composting-Make pile early, turn it regularly, put in garden when the soil is turned.

Pruning-Fruits by February 15-roses on March 1.

if not planted in Nov. and Dec. Winter flowering shrubs, after bloom; summer flowering shrubs by March 1. Evergreens: shaping by mid-March, heavy pruning during March.

Fertilizing-Manure on vegetable and flower gardens, asparagus beds, roses and strawberries by February 1. Cottonseed meal on boxwood, camillias, azaleas and other evergreens by Feb. 1; fruits by Feb. 15.

Propagating-Root dormant wood cutting by February 1-evergreens by March 1.

Dormant spraying-Fruits, flowering fruit trees, roses by Feb. 1.

If possible, obtain trees and start planting now. The roots begin to grow early and the plants become well established before the warm spring brings forth a new crop of leaves and new shoots.

Now the foremost job is the removal of leaves from lawns, garden beds, shrubs and ground covers. Leaves tend to smother grass and harbor insects around shrubs and in flower beds. Much of the die-out and die back problems with these plants in the last few years can be directly attributed either to improper mulching or to the accumulation of leaves in the center of the plants. Leaves are so valuable as a compost ingredient, they should be gathered quickly and put in compost pile where they can turn into fall gold. If you have diseased plants, burn their leaves. The main don't for this month is don't cut back roses.

Mrs. James Dockery, Miss Leta Powell and Mrs. Tom Montgomery were in Austin Wednesday night to attend a play. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Dane Vickers of San Marcos.

Woman's Forum meets

The Woman's Forum met Tuesday, November 18, in the Civic Center. Hostesses were Mrs. L.D. Kirby and Mrs. George Russell Jr.

Mrs. James Childress, President, presided during the business meeting. Mrs. Pleas Childress announced that the Museum staff is going to present a hat exhibit in the near future and would appreciate the loan of hats representing both past and present styles.

Mrs. C.O. Walker reminded members that the Church of Christ is sponsoring a family life series on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. Mrs. T.J. Bailey, Trustee of the T.F.W.C., presented the State "Golden Rule Award" to Mrs. Jess Marley for her annual report as chairman of the local Poll Power Committee.

Mrs. Kirby Moore, Federation Chairman reported on a meeting being held in Geneva, Switzerland for the preparation of "An International Law of the Sea." It must be ratified by 60 nations to become law. This meeting is chaired by U.S. Ambassador Richardson.

The program began with the Club Collect, led by Mrs. Arthur Phillips.

Slides from a recent trip to Scotland were photographed and edited by Mrs. Charlie Black. Mrs. Worth Allen and Mrs. Brock Jones presented the films and commentary.

The following members answered roll call to the question: "Did you vote?" Mrs. Worth Allen, Mrs. T.J. Bailey, Mrs. George Bunker, Mrs. Bill Carson, Mrs. James Childress, Mrs. Pleas Childress, Mrs. Bill Clegg, Mrs. Brock Jones, Mrs. Arthur Kyle, Mrs. Jess Marley, Mrs. Kirby Moore, Mrs. R.M. Owensby, Mrs. Roy Pearson, Mrs. Gene Perry, Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Mrs. Geo. Russell Jr., Mrs. W.T. Stokes, Mrs. C.O. Walker, Mrs. Bonnie Warth, Mrs. W.H. Whitaker, and Mrs. Huey Ingram.

Thanksgiving dinner for Supper Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Wester entertained the Supper Bridge Club Saturday evening at the Civic Center with a traditional Thanksgiving dinner before bridge play.

High score went to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Montgomery and low to Mr. and Mrs. O.D. West. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Cox won the bingo. Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Evert White, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kost, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Ted White, Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hayes, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dudley.

Mrs. Taylor is hostess for bridge

Mrs. Sherman Taylor was hostess for bridge at the Country Club Thursday.

Mrs. Jack Williams won high. Second high went to Mrs. Joe Friend and third high to Mrs. Brock Jones. Mrs. Bud Cox won the bingo.

Others playing were Mrs. Wally Miller, Mrs. Clay Adams, Mrs. Joe Bean, Mrs. George Bunker, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Mrs. Joe Clayton, Mrs. John R. Hunnicutt, Mrs. J.J. Marley, Mrs. Bill Mason, Mrs. Beecher Montgomery, Mrs. J.B. Parker, Mrs. Hillery Phillips, Mrs. Buddy Phillips, Mrs. Jake Short, Mrs. C.O. Walker, Mrs. Evert White, Mrs. Charles Williams and Mrs. Gene Williams.

Duplicate bridge club

Winners in Duplicate Bridge Club play Saturday at the Country Club were Mrs. Kirby Moore and Mrs. Jack Williams. Second place went to Mrs. Joe Clayton and Mrs. Clay Adams.

In play Sunday, Mrs. Sherman Taylor and Mrs. Hillery Phillips were first and Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Gene Williams were second.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Big game provides variety and contributes high quality nutrients to meals of families of Texas sportsmen.

Utilization of this wild game aids conservation of a valuable resource and can stretch the food budget year round.

Big game also fits into the meat group of the basic four food groups.

Like domestic meat, it is rich in protein, minerals and vitamins.

There is one difference though—it is generally low in fat. Serving size is two to three ounces of lean meat.

Meat of big game furnishes protein needed for growth and repair of body tissues, muscles, blood, skin and hair. It also provides iron, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin.

For those who prefer to have their deer meat made into sausage, here are some deer sausage recipes.

Since there are many preferences for different flavors and textures, adapt these recipes to please individual tastes.

FRESH BREAKFAST SAUSAGE

25 pounds lean deer, antelope or elk meat

25 pounds very fresh regular pork trimmings (50 percent lean, 50 percent fat)

1 pound salt

1½-2 ounces ground sage

1½-2 ounces black pepper

½ ounce red pepper (if desired)

5 ounces sugar

FOR SMALL QUANTITIES

2 pounds wild game meat

2 pounds regular pork trimmings

2 teaspoons salt

4 teaspoons ground sage

2 teaspoons ground black pepper

¼-½ teaspoon red pepper

(if desired)

1 teaspoon sugar

Thoroughly mix trimmings, and grind through a plate with ½-inch holes.

Spread coarsely ground meat on table top, sprinkle seasoning on top and thoroughly mix. Regrind through a plate with 1/8 inch holes.

If a ½-inch plate is not available, sprinkle seasoning on top of trimmings, thoroughly mix and grind once through a plate with 1/8-inch holes.

For stuffed sausage, stuff immediately for best results, stuff into natural hog casings, plastic bags or muslin bags (use any cloth bag made from strong cloth that has been washed several times).

Obtain natural hog casings from meat markets, local meat processing plants or stores.

Soak them in warm, salty water for about one hour or until they are pliable.

If bulk sausage is to be served soon after making, add ¼ cup of water to about four pounds of sausage. Knead with hands until sausage becomes sticky.

Pack tightly in small molds, pans or cans and chill overnight before slicing.

CURED AND SMOKED SAUSAGE

[COUNTRY STYLE]

37½ pounds of deer, antelope or elk meat

12½ pounds of very fresh pork fat trimmings (fatback)

1 pound salt

1 ounce saltpeter (potassium nitrate—obtain at drug store)

2 ounces black pepper

½ ounce ground cloves (or ½ ounce ground nutmeg, if desired)

¼ ounce garlic powder (if desired)

desired)

Prepare and grind meat, and add seasonings as for fresh sausage.

Stuff into natural hog casings or muslin casings. Hang or place on racks to cure, and dry for 24 to 48 hours at a temperature of 38-40 degrees F.

The Fresh Breakfast Sausage recipe can also be used to make cured and smoked sausage.

Smoking-Smoke the sausage one to two hours or until light brown color is obtained.

DRAMATIC DECORATING

Yes, you can have beautiful, exciting decor in your home by using some of the principles of dramatic decorating.

One of the ways to achieve dramatic decorating is the addition of one really outstanding piece of furniture to perk up the room and bring new excitement to it.

Or, how about a new color? Or, some outstanding new accessories.

Or, how about a new mixture of furnishings? You know, one of the great trends in home furnishings is the freedom to mix—the use of specific pieces of furniture to improve a room, with only certain restraints. It is what one decorator has called "disciplined freedom." That is, the freedom of being able to mix differing furnishings but with the discipline of harmony and good taste.

In this way, you can add dramatic highlights to your rooms and assemble the exact kind of things you like. By using some dramatic decorating, you can create attractive, warm, appealing interiors for your home. And, remember we are here to help you with both the furnishings and the ideas, so stop in.

To Be Thankful

It used to be that a picture like this could only mean harvest time — big orange pumpkins, shiny red apples, colorful stalks of Indian corn. And, of course, a turkey in the pantry.

But what about today? You can buy apples almost any time. Pumpkins are available in a can twelve months of the year. And you can buy a frozen turkey as easily in July as in November.

We Americans take for granted what was a real treat in our parent's time. But in the midst of this material plenty, there is a danger of spiritual famine. To keep the proper perspective, to appreciate the gifts of life to the fullest we need the Church and the soul it has to tell us.

Maybe you can't be a pioneer — a Pilgrim. But you can follow your forefathers' example at Plymouth that first November. You can utter genuine thanks in the church or synagogue of your choice.

Crockett County Care Center News

by Joan Nicholas-Director of Activities & Social Care

One of our friends called to tell me who it is that is subscribing to the large print Guideposts, so now I know that it is Maude Couch. Thank you so much. We have many who enjoy these, and just now Cora Webb is doing quite a lot of reading.

In games we have to report that the winner of the gift certificate donated by Watson's Department Store for bingo was Paul Cavin, and second prize winner was Blanche Fortune. This Monday Mary Wilton introduced a new game to Evie Kaeding and Vera Miller-Yahtzee and Vera came out on top. I have a feeling the game will be played from now on, perhaps with more becoming interested.

Playing Toss-Acrosss Bertha Miller beat Juana and in dominoes play Paul Cavin won with Maude Pettit second; an earlier game between Maude and Seferino Garcia resulted in a win for Seferino.

We were really happy to have the Beird Band back again from Big Lake on Thursday night. There were six members and accompanying family. Charlie's son has moved back to Big Lake from Nashville, and he carried a mike over to the piano several times and sang as he played; he also plays a guitar with the group. Charlie played his guitar, then took out his fiddle and serenaded various residents individually. Again we had some residents dancing and generally moving around to the music. They plan on being back with us again just before Christmas on December 18.

We would like to recognize our good volunteers who have served over the past several weeks (there may be more, but I take the names from the volunteer registry cards): Beth Boyd, Grace Dorsey, Ruth Dorris, Dorothy Doll, Alma James, Earline Jones, Doris Karr, Sophie Kyle, Georgia Kirby, Anna Bell Patrick, Liz Mary Pipes, Myrtle Post, Alice Ross, Hazel Storms, Maria Vitela, Alma Wilson, Sadie Whitehurst, Bonnie Warth; also the Presbyterian minister and about eighteen church members from Big Lake; in addition the WMU Big Lake ladies and Thelma Janes and her troupe of Senior Girl Scouts.

I would appreciate it so much if all volunteers who come and visit, give communion, on Wednesday nights or help in any way, would fill out a volunteer card in the box situated under the bookshelves in the lobby. If you are only visiting with your own family member, this does not count officially, but if, while you are visiting you do visit with others in the Center it would really help to know. As it is I have to "guess" about several when I send in the monthly report on volunteer activity to Abilene, and what I send is supposed to be documented! All this helps our nursing home in the state ratings. Thank you.

The folks we miss are the Rev. Russ Polson who has moved away; Mattie Cooper, a faithful volunteer, has moved to Clyde and I have a feeling she will be volunteering over there, and the Ybarra Band. We hope Santiago will be over his knee surgery soon and can bring his family back to play for us again.

This Monday afternoon Nikki Easterwood, Jane Bailey, and Rosario Sanchez brought nineteen little first grade Brownies to sing songs and to wish everyone a happy Thanksgiving. They were so cute and sang with such enthusiasm. Their leaders couldn't get them to leave (we didn't mind a bit) so they branched out into some Christmas carols for good measure! They also brought a tray favor for each of our residents which have been put up until Thanksgiving and will be a little surprise at dinner time.

Other activity this week included three Walt Disney nature films; Bible class with the theme "God's Covenant and Jesus Christ" and a sermonette from "Grit" which had a timely message for us.

In crafts we made turkeys from fir cones and now we have a group of turkeys in straw on top of the TV set in the lobby. We need to make a few more to use, perhaps, on the dining table.

In reading and discussion we read from Readers Digest, Sunshine Magazine and "Yesteryear" and the business of herding sheep for lambing before the first fences were constructed. The last few minutes were spent in a meeting of the residents' council.

I neglected to mention, earlier, that the 4-H children who won or placed in the Halloween door contest each received a paper weight made by our crafts class, as a small memento.

Our calendar is gradually filling up for events in December and we have much to look forward to, thanks to lots of good people.

WE WISH EVERYONE A VERY HAPPY THANKSGIVING DAY!

SOUND WAVES USED TO DETECT TRACK FLAWS

An improved technique using ultra-high frequency sound waves for detecting flaws in railroad tracks is being developed by engineering researchers at Texas A&M University.

Each year rail failures are the single greatest cause of train derailments throughout the country. Many flaws in the rails remain undetected, despite a large fleet of flaw detector cars inspecting several hundred thousand miles of track annually, said researcher Dr. Don E. Bray, a Texas A&M mechanical engineering professor.

Present methods depend on a less sophisticated system to locate and identify dangerous weak points in the rails.

The new technique under study by Bray sends ultra-high frequency sound waves into the metal and measures their echoes, akin to the technique used in radar.

The study is funded by U.S. Department of Transportation and is a continuation of rail safety research conducted by Bray during the last 16 years.

Women in Politics topic for Pandale Study Club

Mrs. R.J. Everett presented the program on "Women in Politics" for the Pandale Study Club at the meeting in the Pandale Community Center. She was also hostess for the meeting with Mrs. Elmo Arledge, the president, in charge of the business meeting.

Plans to compile a new cook book have been postponed and members voted to have an arts and crafts bazaar in November.

The Christmas meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Herbert Kunkel in Ozona Dec. 4 with members and spouses to be served a Christmas luncheon with exchange of gifts.

Mrs. David Narsworthy won the door prize.

"If you were born a female in the early decades of the 19th century in America, many things were decided about you before you could walk or talk," Mrs. Everett said in opening her program. "You were going to be a wife and mother; you would be Sympathetic and you would put aside your needs and wants to minister to the needs and wants of others."

"We have women sheriffs, tax assessors, judges, lawyers, many, many others and our own State Representative Susan Gurley McBee," the speaker said. She spoke of Mrs. McBee's education, her teaching experience and her political experiences. "Susan has served on many miscellaneous legislative committees and other organization committees for our welfare," the speaker said and gave Mrs. McBee's numerous committee assignments, including the committee on agriculture and livestock, committee on calendars and committee on elections during the 64th regular session.

She mentioned Mrs. McBee's interim assignments, her 65th regular session assignments as well as the 66th as chairman of the committee on elections and vice-chairman for the committee on calendars.

Mrs. McBee is a member of the Legislative Council and the Agriculture Oversight subcommittee.

"Susan hasn't been just a pretty addition to our House of Representatives. She has worked hard and accomplished much," Mrs. Everett said. "When I talked to her mother, she told me Susan was in Austin and would be home that night and call me. She did and she promised to get the material I have here 'first thing in the morning when I get back to Austin.' And she did."

Mrs. McBee's role of homemaker, ranching and legislation were mentioned from a published profile of the McBees and she mentioned the fact that her mother, Dorothy Gillis Gurley, also served in the Texas Legislature.

"We should be very thankful that we have Susan as our representative, not just because she is a woman," Mrs. Everett said. "She knows what is going on and if it is something that will hurt her district and its people, look out."

State Comptroller Bob Bullock will have a representative from his San Angelo office in Ozona on December 11, to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer Steve Mercer will meet with local taxpayers in the Law Library at the County Courthouse Annex from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.

"If Ozona area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing state tax forms, Mr. Mercer will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office, and we believe these face to face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

Clean your own carpet and save

Get "knee deep" in carpet care, a home economist urges homeowners.

Many savings are the reward of learning how to clean your own carpet—significantly longer carpet life and aesthetic "face-saving" too, says Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Carpet cleaning stresses.

Shampoo rugs every year or two to get rid of heavy dirt and grime.

Vacuum or sweep the rug, of course, before shampooing.

Furniture should pose no problem, as you can do half the rug one day and half the next.

Before shampooing, though, check to see if the rug fades. Simply "test" a spot using the shampoo. Use clear warm water to rinse the suds by rubbing the spot with a clean damp sponge.

Be sure the test spot is a place usually not seen—such as a spot under a piece of furniture or in a closet.

Rinse the sponge and rub the patch again. Do this several times to make sure all dirt and detergent are out—but don't use too much water.

Let the spot dry. If the color looks the same, but cleaner, after it's dry, go ahead and shampoo the rest of the rug.

Any fiber with fast color should withstand shampooing.

Some twists and weaves are more difficult to shampoo since rubbing and agitation of the pile may affect appearance, and, again, that's the reason for testing a spot: to answer all of those kinds of questions.

For the job you'll need the vacuum cleaner, a special rug shampoo or a light-duty synthetic detergent and a mixing bowl.

For the mechanical method, you'll need a shampoo applicator or an electric polisher-scrubber with a rug-cleaning accessory.

For the hand method, you'll need a soft brush, spatula, sponges and cloths. Thoroughly vacuum the rug.

Either use the special rug shampoo or whip one-fourth cup light-duty detergent with one pint warm water until a stiff foam is formed.

Apply the foam with the shampoo applicator or the polisher-scrubber.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions for use of equipment.

If you don't have devices, apply the foam with a soft brush to a small area at a time. Remove soiled lather with a spatula and rinse with a clean wet cloth.

Repeat this using overlapping circles.

Use an electric fan or reverse warm air blast from the vacuum cleaner to speed the drying. If the carpet is loose laid, drying time can be lessened by directing the air underneath the carpet.

When the rug is thoroughly dry, vacuum to remove any residue and suspended soil.

Put brown paper down if you must walk on the rug before it dries.

the U.S., 52 percent of all farm and ranch income, notes Uvacek.

In Texas 1979 cash receipts from livestock and livestock products surpassed $4.3 billion, or more than 55 percent of all agricultural income in the state.

Livestock cash receipts for 1980 will be down some from the 1979 level due primarily to reduced cattle feedlot activity.

"Retail demand for all meat products should be much improved in 1981," contends Uvacek. "Economic recovery in the business segment should help considerably. Somewhat reduced inflation will also be helpful although that may focus attention on the inevitable higher meat prices. That, in itself, could stimulate consumer resistance or, even worse, might lead to government price controls."

Reduce poisonous plants on range

Many of Texas' range-lands are boasting poisonous plants this fall due to the summer's devastating drought. Good management is the key to reducing livestock losses from these plants.

Many cool season annuals as well as perennial plants which begin growth in the fall are both palatable and toxic (poisonous) to livestock.

Driving tips for holiday motorists

The Thanksgiving Holidays are here and more travelers are going to be on the road than there are on an average day.

"It is a time to be sure you are alert to road conditions and the many motorists whose minds are on family gatherings and not on driving," reminds Sue Alford of Midland College Traffic Safety Planning in urging motorists to "drive thankfully."

Alford offers these "driving tips" for holiday drivers:

Have every person in the car properly restrained. For children under about age 4, that means a crash-tested infant carrier or child seat, properly used. For all others, that means a seat belt and a shoulder harness, if the harness fits properly across the chest and not across the face and neck. Restraints help keep drivers behind the wheel in an emergency and keep passengers from becoming missiles.

Plan activities for youngsters who will be traveling...quite activities that will help them pass the time without getting out of their restraints or bothering the driver. Any toys provided should be soft, have no sharp edges, etc. Midland College Traffic Safety Planning does have a limited supply of Traffic Safety Bingo cards and Symbol Scout games available free to the public while the supplies last.

When packing your car for travel, secure all luggage in the trunk or luggage carrier so that your vision is clear on all sides and you have no flying missiles if you have to brake suddenly. Objects that points out Dr. B.J. Ragsdale, range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Among major species of toxic annuals are western bitterweed, one of the locos called Garbancillo, and lobelia. These plants germinate in the fall after a rain and make some growth during late fall and early winter.

Some of the cool season are placed in the interior of the car should be on the floor board.

Long hours of driving during the holidays can make you drowsy. Help keep yourself alert by taking breaks at least every two hours. Change your seat position occasionally, and leave a window open to keep air circulating around your head and face.

The wrong tire pressure can cause needless wear on tires and make your car more difficult to handle. Check tire pressure before driving, when the tires are cold, and then re-check the pressure occasionally during the trip. If your car is heavily loaded, a few extra pounds of air may help the handling.

Using the two second rule can relieve the stress of long distance driving. Here's how to do it: locate a sign or post down the road; as the vehicle in front of you passes that sign, count "one-thousand-one, one-thousand-two;" if you pass that sign before you finish the two second count, you're following too close for safety.

On holidays, traffic can be unusually heavy. Make sure you have enough room when you want to pass. Signal your intentions and pass as quickly as is safe. Make a visual check over your right shoulder for clearance before returning to your lane.

Be prepared for emergencies on trips. Make sure your spare tire is in good condition and that you have a jack, flashlight, first-aid kit and a few simple tools in your trunk. If your car breaks down and you need help, tie a white handkerchief to your antenna and raise the hood.

Postal Dept. cracks down on schemes

Postal Inspector in Charge W.R. Newsome announced today the Postal Inspection Service has initiated a program which is intended to eliminate, or drastically reduce, the effect work-at-home schemes have on postal customers.

Mr. Newsome stated work-at-home schemes are generally aimed at the unemployed, elderly, and housewives who want to supplement their income. The most common work-at-home schemes involve advertisements offering a large amount of income for "stuffing envelopes."

The promoter will require you to invest your money before you are sent any instructions.

Mr. Newsome declined to state all work-at-home promotions were illegal, but stated he knew of no work-at-home promotions which would guarantee regular salaried employment.

Advertisements which claim you can earn unusually high income with little or no effort should be viewed with suspicion. A new pamphlet describing work-at-home schemes is available at local post offices.

Mr. Newsome stated he had appointed Postal Inspector J.G. Horton to serve as the work-at-home specialist for the Fort Worth Division of the Postal Inspection Service, which encompasses the State of Texas. He said anyone who felt they had been a victim of one of these schemes should contact Inspector Horton at P.O. Box 1230, Fort Worth, Tx. 76101, or telephone (817) 334-2029.

toxic perennials which are making fall growth are wolly loco, threadleaf groundsel and perennial broomweed.

As warm season forage plants deteriorate with cooler weather, these toxic plants remain green and animals are forced to eat them, says Ragsdale. In the case of wolly loco, animals become addicted and will continue to eat these plants when other feed is available.

The specialist cautions ranchers to be on the alert for these plants. If animals show poisoning symptoms, they should be moved to pastures free from these species.

To provide a clean pasture, treat areas of toxic plants as deferred pasture during the growing season. This would provide a supply of dry forage on clean pasture during the toxicity season.

Ragsdale points out that an excellent demonstration regarding bitterweed was conducted in the Edwards Plateau recently. The demonstration indicates that death losses can be reduced by deferring a pasture during the growing season, spraying with a herbicide in fall when bitterweed plants are small and before extreme winter temperatures, and then concentrating sheep in the pasture. Several factors are involved in this type of program--most plants are killed, the remaining amount of toxic materials is diluted to a large number of animals, and an abundance of forage is available to carry animals through the critical toxicity period of late December, January and into February.

In evaluating such a practice of deferment and weed control, value of the stock saved must be balanced against cost of the practice, notes the specialist.

Another alternative would be a planned grazing system using deferment and balancing livestock numbers with forage to reduce or prevent losses. Many deferred rotation grazing systems are available to improve ranges and to subsequently reduce death losses where toxic plants are a problem, says Ragsdale. As a planned deferred rotation grazing system is carried out, desirable plants increase and become more vigorous and reduce the number of toxic plants.

While toxic plants are a natural part of native range vegetation, drought and mismanagement can intensify their effect on livestock production, says Ragsdale. Thus good management is critical.

Defrost the bird with microwave

Once upon a time, we defrosted turkeys safely in the refrigerator--and it took two or three days.

Now we can defrost the bird "a la microwave" in a quick-and-easy process--if we know what we're doing.

Remove the bird from packaging. Place it breast-side-down in a baking dish.

Defrost one-fourth of the total time (see total times listed below).

Turn the turkey breast-side-up, and defrost for one-fourth of the time.

Shield any brown or warm spots.

Turn the turkey over, rotate the dish a half turn, and defrost for one-fourth of the time.

Turn the turkey over again. Loosen the legs and wings from the body, and defrost the remaining time.

Place the bird in cool water and allow to stand 20-30 minutes. Remove the giblets and neck--the cavity should be cool, but not icy.

Defrost turkey breasts and half turkeys half the suggested time, turned breast-side-down, and then half the suggested time turned breast-side-up. They don't require all the "turn over" steps necessary for whole turkeys.

They do require that you rinse them in cool water and let them stand an additional 10 minutes until they're no longer icy, though.

For whole or half turkeys, defrost 3 1/2-5 1/2 minutes per pound on 50 percent power or medium setting--or 5 1/2-8 minutes per pound on 30 percent power or low setting.

Defrost turkey parts for 3-6 minutes per pound at 50 percent power--or 7-9 1/2 minutes per pound on low setting.

PROPER INSULATION...

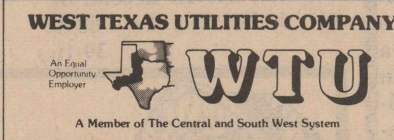

Keeps in the warm air you've paid for.

The most effective defense against rising energy costs is proper insulation. Insulation keeps the heat in during the winter and out during the summer, so that both your heating and cooling costs will be less.

Insulation is measured in R-values and the higher the value, the more effective the insulation. R-values of R-30 in the ceilings and R-18 in the walls are now being recommended for new construction in this area.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN A MORE ENERGY-EFFICIENT HOME, CALL WTU TODAY.

TEXAS A&M'S RESEARCH FUNDING INCREASES 14 PERCENT

Research funding at Texas A&M University has soared to $72.2 million in 1979-80 for a 14 percent increase over a year ago, university officials announced Wednesday.

The figures released in an end-of-the-fiscal-year report by the Office of University Research are up $8.6 million from $53.5 million when the university ranked among the top 20 research institutions in the nation.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

The reason football officials throw flags to indicate penalties in today's football is all because of a small-college coach in Ohio...Before 1941, officials blew a horn or whistle when they saw a penalty...But Coach Dike Beede of Youngstown University didn't like that idea because it often caused players to stop in the middle of a play, and also, spectators sometimes couldn't hear the horn or whistle, and wouldn't know a penalty was called till after the play was over...So, in a game in 1941, Beede got officials to experiment with dropping a handkerchief, or flag, for penalties...Everybody liked the idea and it was soon adopted...So the next time you see an official drop a penalty flag, you'll know it all started because of a man named Dike Beede.

 If National Football League teams had to go by the names of the cities where their stadiums are located, the Dallas Cowboys would be the Irving Cowboys...The New England Patriots would be the Foxboro Patriots...The Buffalo Bills would be the Orchard Park Bills...The Detroit Lions would be the Pontiac Lions...The New York Giants would be the East Rutherford Giants...The Minnesota Vikings would be the Bloomington Vikings...and the Los Angeles Rams would be the Anaheim Rams.
