Six Gallon And One Pint Donors

"It doesn't hurt a bit," Mayor Lippard told Mrs. Donna L. Cost as she prepared to donate a pint of blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank last Wednesday. Because it was her first donation, Mrs. Cost was a little apprehensive. The mayor was awaiting his turn to donate another pint of blood, his forty-eighth, making him a "Six Gallon Donor."

Mrs. Cost expressed hope that her husband 1st Lt. Terry L. Cost, now serving in Viet Nam, would be proud of her for donating blood to the Red Cross.

A first grade teacher at Hardin school, Mrs. Cost lives at 307 1/2 Avenue E. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Noll, 1402 Shady Lane. The Costs' were married just one month when Lt. Cost was assigned duty in Viet Nam. He has now served for six months.

Post Toasties Co. Joins Marine Corps Physical Fitness Program

WASHINGTON — An effort to promote greater awareness of proper physical fitness for the youth of America has been given a strong helping hand.

United States Marine Corps officials announced in Washington today that the Post division of the General Foods Corporation has agreed to assist the Marine Corps in the operation of the Corps' Youth Physical Fitness Program.

Officials of General Foods, in making their announcement in White Plains, New York, revealed that Post division would sponsor a segment of the Marine Corps program.

The highly successful Marine Corps program is conducted in support of the President's council on Physical Fitness. It provides educators and students at the secondary school level materials, help and guidance in the building and maintenance of good physical condition. The program was initiated in 1958 on a limited scale and now encompasses some 427,000 teenage contestants in more than 1,500 junior and senior high schools across the country. The number of schools and participants continues to grow.

The Post division, through its Post Toasties Corn Flakes product, will sponsor transportation, feeding and incidental expenses involved in bringing regional winning teams to Washington, D. C. for a three-day period during which the youngsters compete for national honors and tour the nation's Capital.

General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, has given the Youth Physical Fitness Program his endorsement and support. His interest has been a key factor in the continued success and rapid expansion of the program.

M. C. Baker, General Manager of the Post division, said that "it is an honor to provide a public service for this most noteworthy program."

The fitness program is based on a series of five exercises which are part of a series used by the Marine Corps to maintain and test the fitness of its own recruits. At the secondary school level, the fitness program is administered by the school itself. School teams then compete in city and district competitions. District winners from the six Marine Corps Districts are brought to Washington, D. C.

The Marine Corps program is already in progress during this school year. The final national competition will take place in late June, 1967.

The exercises consist of five events which are given in the following order: (1) Sit-ups to test strength and endurance of the abdominal muscles. (2) Push-ups to test strength and endurance of extensor muscles of the arms and shoulder girdle. (3) Squat thrusts to test the strength and endurance of leg muscles. (4) Pull-ups to test the strength and endurance of the flexor muscles of the arms and shoulder girdle. (5) 300-yard run to test speed and cardio-respiratory endurance.

Residents Urged To Contribute To Easter Seal Drive March 20

With the door-to-door Easter Seal drive set in Burkburnett for March 20, James Frye, chairman, has issued an appeal to all residents of the city.

"On behalf of all the handicapped children and adults in this area," he said, "I want to ask you to contribute all that you can when an Easter Seal volunteer calls at your home."

There are 35 children or adults from Burkburnett who have received help at the North Texas Rehabilitation Center in Wichita Falls. Easter Seals provide the primary source of support for the rehabilitation center.

Out of every 1,000 people in Wichita County, an estimated 118 of them have a physical disability of some sort, Frye said. "Six per cent of the school-age children have a speech problem serious enough to require expert help, according to state statistics," he said.

"This help is available. It is available at the rehabilitation center," Frye stressed.

The effects of crippling in America are so enormous—both in terms of human suffering and cost to the nation—that they cannot be calculated, Frye said. "But we can glimpse the magnitude of this problem from the fact that some 30 million Americans are prevented by crippling from leading entirely normal lives."

There are an estimated three million children in the United States who have serious speech defects. "A child suffering severe speech defect is out of touch with the world around him," Frye said. "He is unable to ask the questions a child needs answered. He cannot easily establish relationships with others, and his personality development is slowed."

Frye said that "We here in Burkburnett are fortunate that our children have an opportunity to receive help at the rehabilitation center in Wichita Falls."

The children and adults who receive physical, occupational or speech therapy at the center are not asking for "hand-outs." They are willing to undergo the hard work of therapy.

"But they need help. So when an Easter Seal volunteer calls at your home on March 20," Frye said, "please make your contribution a generous one."

SUPPOSE WE HAD?

Each day brings reports from Red China telling of rebellion, terror, mass murder and a country slipping into anarchy. Schools are closed, food is scarce, railroads are not operating, industries are closed, strikes are rampant, army units fight against Mao, one time party leaders are being arrested, suicides are common, and thousands of refugees are fleeing the terror.

As Mao Tse-tung loses control his responses become wilder. No one is safe from his purges. He creates the Red Guards because he didn't trust his army, the police, the Communist Party itself, or the other leaders to support his plans.

Recently, the Red Guards have stopped attacking old people who remember pre-Communist civilization, burning books and humiliating bureaucrats. They have turned their terror on the foreign embassies in Peiping. Embassies are regarded as sanctuaries in all civilized countries. Not so in Red China. The French and even the Communist bloc embassies have come in for the worst treatment. The deGaulle friendship for Red China, and the political solidarity of the other Communist countries have not saved them from the ravages of the Red Guards.

A French official and his wife were dragged from their car in Peiping and subjected to threats and insults in freezing weather for eight hours. The Soviet embassy was placed under siege for two weeks, and finally the Russians have removed their women and children from the country. The Red Guards attacked them on their way to the airport and refused to allow the plane to leave for eleven hours.

All of this raises an interesting question. Suppose we had recognized Red China last year, as a group of professors and friends of Red China proposed? Suppose we had granted diplomatic recognition, in the interest of trade and peaceful relations? Had the administration bowed to these demands, we should have embassies and consulates in China now. Doubtless these would be under attack by the Red Guard hordes. Our diplomats, and their families would be in physical danger, terrorized, or dead. Certainly the people of the United States would not passively accept such outrages. Indeed, we might be at war with Red China had we listened to the "experts" who insisted we recognize Mao. How fortunate that the administration resisted the Red Guard Lobby.

Red China has had a political and mental breakdown. Will it now commit suicide?

Another Name For Socialism

There is coming to be a widespread feeling that social security benefits and taxes are getting out of hand. Taxes on payrolls will soon be passing ten per cent of a continually rising level of individual income. For many people, social security taxes are higher than income taxes.

The obligation of the government to pay benefits for which reserves are not now in hand is estimated at around $400 billion. This mortgage on future taxpayers is expected to rise soon to $500 billion. Apparently, we are headed in the same direction as European nations, where welfare payments take a third or more of national budgets. If the trend continues, it is hard to see where the private savings will come from that in the past have provided the capital for industrial development.

Voluntary private investment has built the great industries of the United States. As an example, life insurance companies in his country bought $768 million worth of public utility bonds during 1965. By buying life insurance for their own protection, U. S. citizens in turn provided the funds for needed growth in the utility industry. Similar institutional investing provided funds for countless other industries. In addition, millions of individuals have made direct investments in the industries of their choice—investments that have been made from savings. These investments give meaning to the phrase "people's capitalism."

As taxes rise—for whatever purpose—the ability of people to invest voluntarily and plan a future on an individual basis, diminish. By the same token, if the day comes when the capital needs of industry cannot be met from private sources, American industry will have no recourse but to turn to government for capital. In the long run, it appears that a welfare state is merely another name for socialism.

According to the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation, "U. S. farmers apply about 35 pounds of plant nutrients to each arable acre of land. Japan applies more than 200 pounds and the Netherlands puts on more than 400 pounds per acre."

Health Hints

SNOW SHOVELING
 SNOW SHOVELING is women's work. That's right! Studies show that most victims of heart attacks from snow shoveling are overweight, middle-aged men who seldom lift anything heavier than a fountain pen. Women — on the other hand — are more suited to the task by the constant physical activity of housework.

WINTER ITCH
 ARE YOU TORMENTED by winter itch? This distressing skin condition occurs when cold weather and excess bathing rob outer skin layers of their natural oils. To keep itching discomfort at a minimum, bathe only with superfatted soaps during the winter and use plenty of bath oils. Above all, avoid scratching as it can cause secondary infections.

VITAMIN POISON
 IF YOU'RE TAKING large doses of vitamin A to prevent a winter cold, you may be running the risk of poisoning yourself. Let your doctor determine just how much of any vitamin you should take. Excessive doses of vitamin A could lead to liver and kidney damage, baldness, and skin eruptions. So use discretion when taking vitamin A.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

Babson's Point Of View On: THE MOBILE HOMES EXPLOSION

Babson Park, Mass. — Expositions displaying the latest in mobile homes and recreational vehicles of all types have been popping up all over the country. And never before has the general public showed so much interest in this specialized form of transportation. Well over a million families now depend on such vehicles, sometimes just for weekends and vacations, sometimes for full-time portable homes.

Wander-Bug Is Biting Hard

The trend toward more mobility in living has long been on the increase, but in the past few years the epidemic of the wander-bug has been spreading more rapidly. The big switch is in full swing for the simple convenience of auto travel to the more complicated comforts of trailers, tent-camping units, pick-up coach campers, and mobile homes. So far, trailers are still the most popular, since the auto can be unhitched and used separately. But motorized homes, with the compact conveniences of a small dwelling, are gaining steadily.

Sales of recreational vehicles during 1966 smashed all previous records, moving ahead almost 50,000 over 1965 to reach a grand total of more than 314,500 units. There is every reason to expect continuing advances over the years immediately ahead. Better highways, rising incomes, desire to see new parts of the country, increasing availability of suitable camping facilities, and the economical aspects of such modes of travel, —all mean more interest in portable homes.

Countryside Adapting To These Vehicles

The trailer rash brought quick emergence of overnight and longer-term parks and camping sites equipped with water, electricity and other necessities. Many were privately operated, established to capitalize on the swelling migration of trailers. Recently, arrangements for recreation-vehicle sites have been greatly stepped up because of the freshet of new families on the go.

It is estimated that there are currently over 1,400 privately owned parks in the U.S. where recreational vehicles can put up for the night or longer. In the past five years the federal government has opened 41 additional camp sites under the aegis of the National Park Service. This brings to a total of 1,700 the number of such camps run by the government alone. Since vacation - vehicle visits to all parks have skyrocketed from 86,660,000 in 1961 to 137,000,000 during the past year, it is inevitable that there will be speedy efforts to make more localities available in the immediate future. Expo 67, opening at Montreal, Canada, in April, reports 3,000 camp sites already completed in that general vicinity with work in progress sites already completed in that general vicinity with work in progress or in early prospect on about a thousand more.

More Innovations In Mobile Homes

Both trailers and self-contained motorized homes are now building in a great many features that were once optional, — and extra. People want them, and would prefer, generally, to have them already installed when they buy the vehicle instead of having to go through a dickering deal. More firms are including lavatories, pressure pumps, hot water heaters, carpeting, thermostats, complete insulation, — and some, even bathtubs! Also, demand is growing for larger structures, permitting more room for luxury equipment and storage.

Prices are not exorbitant, everything considered. Some mobile homes on truck chassis are being offered for prices somewhat less than $4,000. The average cost of this kind of transport-home not too many years ago was about $12,000. At present, there is evolving a demand that allow greater production, a situation which has always led to more reasonable prices. Even with labor and materials costs at very high levels, stepped-up output can be expected to reduce retail prices for mobile homes, — or at least to keep them at attractive levels. This will certainly add to the growing popular desire for "a home on wheels."

PHYSICAL CHECK-UP NEEDED

"Texans for Traffic Safety" point out that each motorist should be aware of his physical condition before operating a vehicle. According to the files of the Texas Department of Public Safety over 100 deaths occurred last year in connection with traffic accidents which were attributed to death from natural causes.

PATTERNS TO GO WILD OVER

Spring's hottest fashion story is in print. Never have patterned fabrics been such a wild success.

And "wild" is the word. Many new fabrics look like abstract modern paintings. Others feature "primitive" prints inspired by jungle landscapes, or by African and Indian tribal art.

More sophisticated—but wildly alluring—is the Pucci-type print. Popularized by Italian designer Emilio Pucci, it blends fantastic shapes and clear colors in dazzling patterns.

On the same wild wavelength is the 1967 craze for stripes of all kinds. The striped T-shirt shirt is making the spring scene. So is the striped blouse which transforms a classic suit into a current "happening."

The latter plan is followed by McCall's Pattern #8767 for misses, teen and pre-teen sizes: 12 sizes in all. Included are stove-pipe slacks, an A-line skirt, and a trim little jacket, adding up to a pantsuit or skirtsuit as the occasion demands.

Make it in denim or canvas, linen or lightweight wool in this season's bright colors. The catalyst is a cotton knit, silk or jersey blouse in big or little stripes.

Another fashion "survival kit" is contained in McCall's Pattern #8775. The basic ingredient is a long-sleeved, lightly shaped shift. Pretty shifty, too, is the neckline, which can be made three ways: round, bateau, or with a neat rolled collar. Add a string-tied self-belt if you like. In a Pucci-type print, it's a headliner!

Snip off the dress pattern at the hipline for one, two or three blouses. A pattern for tailored pants completes this design for spring success.

More spring guidelines: the tent dress, newly narrow, and flatteringly closer to the body. It shapes up with kimono sleeves, a favorite 1967 touch, in McCall's Pattern #8766 for misses sizes. This would look good in many fabrics: a "primitive" flower print, a new-as-tomorrow geometric design, even bright, brassy solid.

But whether you stick with solids or rush into print, you'll probably go wild over spring's uninhibited new fashions.

TAXPAYERS ASK I.R.S.

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q—I think I'm liable for self-employment tax. Which form do I use?

A—Use Schedule C-3 to report this tax. Any tax due should be entered on your Form 1040, line 15, page 1, and paid with your income tax.

Copies of Schedule C-3 may be obtained from local IRS offices as well as some post offices and banks.

Q—I got married this January. Can I file a joint return with my wife for 1966?

A—For tax purposes, your marital status is determined by whether you were married or single on the last day of the taxable year for which the return is filed. From the information you provide, you must file a separate return since you were not married until after the close of your 1966 tax year.

Q—I heard a lot about changes in educational deductions last year. Can I still deduct courses required by an employer?

A—Yes, you can if the course is required by your employer to maintain your present job. The cost of educational courses may also be deducted if they are taken primarily to maintain or improve the skills required on your present job.

James Frye Named To Head Local Easter Seal Drive On March 20

James Frye has been named chairman of the 1967 Easter Seal campaign in Burkburnett.

The door-to-door drive to raise funds for support of the North Texas Rehabilitation Center in Wichita Falls will be held March 20.

Frye's appointment was announced by Dr. Charles Wilson, North Texas area chairman. He also named Mrs. W. T. (Dub) Zimmerman and Jack Mathis as members of the Easter Seal appeal committee for Burkburnett.

All three serve on the board of directors of the rehabilitation center and on the board of the Easter Seal Society of North Texas. All of the eight North Texas counties which are served by the center have representatives on the boards of directors. Thirty-five children or adults from Burkburnett have received help at the rehabilitation center, Frye said. No one, child or adult, is refused therapy just because of Easter Seals, he explained, it is possible for the rehabilitation center to continue providing this therapy which is so vitally needed by so many.

Burkburnett ranks No. 3 in number of patients from North Texas cities who have received physical, occupational or speech therapy at the center, Frye said. Volunteers will be needed to help conduct the house-to-house canvass in Burkburnett, Frye said. Any individual or group willing to help out should contact him.

Protect Your Children Against Measles, Says The AMA

CHICAGO—Now is the time to have your children immunized against measles if they have not already received this protection, says the American Medical Association.

Many parents are surprised to learn how dangerous this common childhood disease really is.

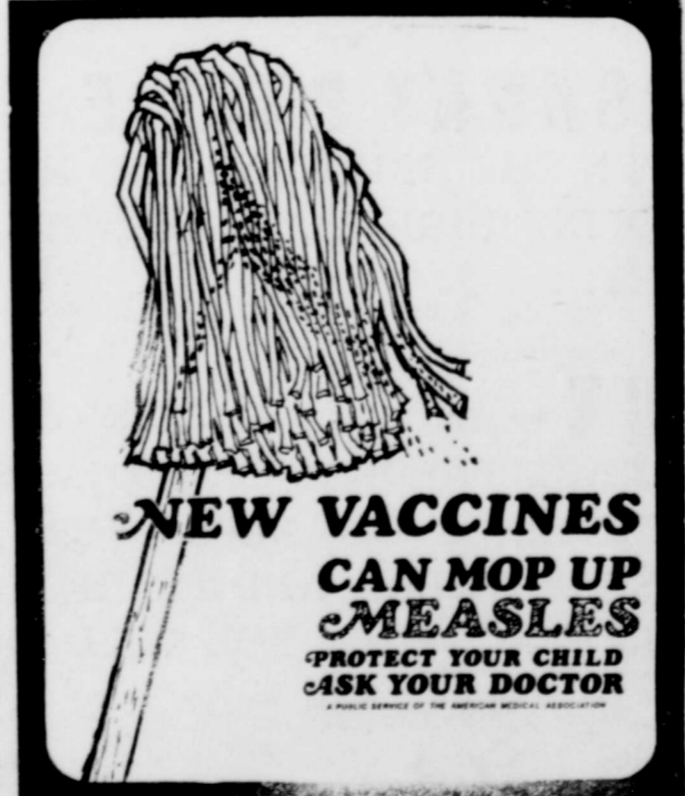

An estimated 250 American children died from measles in 1966. More than 150 suffered measles encephalitis, sometimes called sleeping sickness, or brain fever. Encephalitis frequently leaves children with permanent disabilities, including mental retardation, deafness, and blindness.

Future tragedies can be prevented, because safe and effective measles vaccines are now available. In the past four years, these vaccines have helped cut the measles death rate in half.

It's possible that measles could be eradicated in the near future if more parents protected their children with immunization.

The AMA recommends that every infant be vaccinated when he is about one year old. All children over this age who have not been vaccinated and who have not had measles, should be immunized now.

It is especially important that children in nurseries, kindergartens, and the first two grades of elementary school receive measles immunization. These youngsters have the highest risk of infection. If enough children are protected by immunization, measles will disappear. It's time to get rid of this familiar, but often dangerous, and sometimes deadly childhood disease.

VETERANS

Questions - Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.)

Q—How many semester hours constitute full time training in a graduate school?

A—A specific number of hours for graduate college is not specified by the Veterans Administration. The determination of what is full time training is determined by the school, and would be based upon the type of courses for which the student is enrolled.

Q—Can a veteran be enrolled in two schools at the same time?

A—Yes, when the veteran cannot get the program where he is attending or cannot obtain it within a reasonable time, training may be authorized as a secondary school. This can be done only with the approval and certification of the primary school where veteran is attending, and provided both programs lead to the same objective.

Q—Why is an established school sometimes not approved for VA training?

A—This may be because of several reasons—the most common being that school has for some reason never requested approval, or school does not meet one of the standards as set forth by the state concerned.

Q—Does the deduction for Medicare premiums from Social Security payments have to be reported as income for VA pension purposes?

A—Yes.

Q—Is an ex-service man who entered service after 2-1-55 entitled to VA burial allowance?

A—No, unless the peacetime veteran was in receipt of service-connected compensation at time of death or discharged or retired for disability incurred in line of duty.

Common Errors Delay Refunds Due Taxpayers

Dallas — Simple errors on Federal income tax returns delay refunds and cause taxpayers trouble, according to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for northern Texas.

Mr. Campbell suggests this simple checklist:

1. Check arithmetic.
2. Attach Forms W-2 from all employers.
3. Sign your return. Both husband and wife must sign a joint return.
4. Print or type name and address, including zip code.
5. Use correct tax table.
6. Total your deductions if you itemize them on page 2.
7. List your Social Security number correctly. Both husband's and wife's number should be reported on the joint return.

You can save the Internal Revenue Service and yourself valuable time and money by carefully checking your 1966 tax return before you mail it.

When shopping for durable press garments, check the construction. Make sure seams, pockets, and plackets lie flat and are smooth. If they're puckered when the finish is applied, the wrinkles become permanent and won't smooth out when laundered.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Along Foggy Bottom the debate rages over whether the nation can afford both guns and butter.

But probably Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa is wondering whether or not first of all there should be considered if the nation can afford guns for Vietnam and also afford buttering up the butter.

He points out that during the recent Christmas holidays, War on Poverty Generalissimo Sargeant Shriver arranged for some 8,000 Job Corps to spend the holidays at home.

This was done, the Congressman reports, by furnishing these school drop-outs with all expense paid trips home from all over the nation. Some went by regular airliner, and in addition 20 luxury airliners were chartered for the purpose. When the airplane could not get close to the home community, the War on Poverty also furnished bus transportation.

The tab for this little gesture, he reports, was a mere $1,200,000, which is only equal to somewhere around the entire income taxes paid by 1200 families whose taxable income runs around $5,000 per year. Thus, it is quite simple to see why there is a drive in some quarters to raise income taxes.

But Congressman Gross does not think the entire picture ends at this point.

He further comments that during this holiday season, those men in the armed forces lucky enough to get leave at that time and wanted to go home had to dig up the transportation fares out of their own pockets.

Or as he further comments "No luxury of a chartered plane for them (servicemen); not even if they had just returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam. In the Great Society it appears that a school dropout receiving Job Corps training has a higher priority rating than our men in uniform."

Thus, it is little wonder, perhaps, that a segment of the American youth so vehemently protest the draft.

For after all, what honor is there in wearing the nation's uniform; what glory is there in being shot at in distant jungles, when those who have not even prepared themselves for a useful place in the country are the pampered ones?

Guns and butter, are one thing.

But guns, butter and whipped cream, too, becomes another matter.

FLIGHT . . . of Faith

The faith of a boy that a slender string shall hold high his kite — that when he extends a little more string his kite will go a little higher — shows that this flight is a flight of faith.

As the boy has faith in the string so must we have faith in our Lord, and the more faith we extend, the higher and more abundant our lives will be. It is written in Romans 1:17, "The just shall live by faith." Attend Church this Sunday and receive inspiration from those who share your faith, that you may, as the Apostle Paul said, "be comforted together by the mutual faith of you both."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Equality: The Level of Mediocrity

MOST of us are conscious of the fact that the world contains multitudes of men who are far abler than ourselves. Far from making us jealous or unhappy, we are exceedingly grateful for them. We enjoy great music, but we could not write it, as Beethoven, Bach, Brahms, Chopin, Tchaikovsky, Schubert, Mozart, Verdi and a host of others have done. We can play a few instruments, but not like Liszt, Paderewski, Kreisler, Heifetz, Rubinstein and many other immortals who have brought heaven down to earth with their superb excellence.

Our libraries are filled with good books, the treasuries of history, literature and culture. We take great delight in reading Shakespeare's plays and Tennyson's poetry, but we could not have written such marvelous works. We are fortunate that they could. Suppose we had no great minds such as these! How fortunate that we can ride along with them, enjoying their creations as if they were our own. Why should we be jealous of them? Rather we should be thankful and pay tribute to them.

Our devotion and spiritual perception is vastly inferior to that of a Saint Paul, a Saint Francis of Assisi, a Saint Augustine or a Saint Thomas Aquinas, but we can soar up into the heavens on the spiritual power generated by a host of saints and prophets.

We enjoy our automobile, riding about the world in jet planes, our radio, television, and stereophonic music. We could not have developed the great industrial giants of our country that have lifted the burden of toil from our backs and emancipated us from the handicraft age into a degree of luxury unknown by kings a few centuries ago, but we can enjoy the results of the efforts of the great men who created these things for our enjoyment.

When taking a loved one to the hospital, who wants a common, average surgeon? We all want a doctor, not only with superior skill, but a conscientious, honorable man whom we know has spent many long years developing the knowledge and skill required to save the life of the dear one we entrust to his care.

We don't want equality. If there were no men in this world superior to ourselves, no men capable of earning more than we earn, no men capable of preaching finer sermons, organizing greater businesses, developing greater skill in medicine, in the arts and in literature, and no men of great devotion or spiritual insight, it would be a poor, drab world in which to live. Let us have done with the cult of the common man and begin to recognize and appreciate worth, talent, ability and devotion wherever we find it. Gifted men have carried the world forward on their shoulders. Whatsoever progress we have made, we owe to them. Let us acknowledge it and be grateful for it, and not try to clip their wings and reduce them to the level of mediocrity.

County H-D Agent News

Mrs. J. A. Fouts, Mrs. M. R. Warren, Mrs. Lucy Brown, and Mrs. W. P. Blevins are among Wichita County Home Demonstration Club members currently involved in home remodeling. Each has an individual problem and shows the result of careful planning to reach desired goals. These homemakers will show their finished projects, as a part of the annual tour in the fall.

Plastics are being used more and more for appliances and home furnishings. Many new products in 1967 will be more colorful, better designed, and provided with more convenience and luxury features. The home furnishing and equipment industries are set to cater to what they call the "new consumer" with products designed to appeal to the educated, the fashion-conscious, and the quality conscious.

To remove black heel marks from floors, rub lightly with fine steel wool dipped in the wax you are using on the floor.

Some wool blankets on today's market are especially treated to make them machine washable. Wash these blankets according to the instructions that accompany them.

When buying a major appliance, check dimensions against available space.

New fibers and finishes are constantly on the market and you need to know the advantages of disadvantages of each, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

One example is light-weight dacron fiberfill for spreads; another is durable press finish for sheets, table cloths, spreads, and other home furnishings.

A finish that repels oil and water-borne stains is to be found on many of the drapery and upholstery fabrics, as well as cotton.

Other new developments are acrylic backed fabrics, thermotype drapery linings, room darkening linings, fiberless spreads, sheared pile towels, acrylic blankets, and no-shock nylon rugs.

An unlimited array of colors is available for almost any combination of colors you might like. You have the opportunity to be creative in blending styles of furniture rather than matching.

Have you ever wished you could rent furniture like you would a house and change it when you wished? Now you can.

Some furniture manufacturers predict more of a trend in this direction. You can also rent pictures and live with several different ones before making a purchase.

Have you wished you could buy disposable articles? Some manufacturers are coming out with disposable chairs.

Be alert and intelligent consumer. Choose the articles in your surroundings with discrimination for good design.

NO "OTHER GUY"
Half of the fatal highway accidents that occur on the rural roads of Texas might well be called "do it yourself" accidents, because only one car is involved. Says "Texans for Traffic Safety."

Everybody has heard about Zip Code.

But not everybody is using it. Perhaps some people think of it as just a favor to the post office—something to do if they happen to think of it.

But Zip Code is much, much more than that.

Zip helps our postal workers move mail the modern way. With Zip, they can sort it faster and deliver it by more direct routes. With Zip, they will use modern electronic machines that "read" Zip numbers and sort mail fifteen times faster than was possible before!

People who don't use Zip Code hold up the mail for themselves and for everyone else.

So use Zip on every mailing address. Use it on your return address, too. When in doubt about a Zip Code, you can call your post office or look it up in their Zip Code Directory.

And if someone writes you and doesn't use Zip Code—tell him. For us, we need all the help we can get.

HOW ZIP CODE WORKS

Suppose the Zip Code is 60635. The "6" says it goes to the Midwest. The "06" narrows it down to Chicago. The last two digits—"35"—pinpoint the local post office. This eliminates many handling procedures. The letter is sorted faster, and sent more directly to its destination.

Mail moves the country—ZIP CODE moves the mail!

TRAFFIC COURTS

Texas needs traffic courts of record for the trial of traffic offenders, in order to better control unsafe drivers, according to "Texans for Traffic Safety." Governor Connally is going to ask the next Legislature to establish such courts, as part of his comprehensive highway safety program.

ACCIDENT CAUSES
Speed too fast for conditions, driving while drinking, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to yield right of way are the leading causes of fatal accidents on the rural highways of Texas, says "Texans for Traffic Safety."

OUR HEALTH
by J. M. Amberson, M.D.

Smart Gargling

Proper oral hygiene has occupied man's attention for thousands of years. Assyrians, about 1300 B.C., invented toothpicks, and the Chinese gave us the toothbrush almost 500 years ago.

Mouth washes, too, have long been part of daily oral care. Of course, antiseptic or germicidal mouthwash is recent; before that man gargled with—and sometimes swallowed—everything from brandy, port wine with alum, to salt water and lemon water.

There are many misconceptions about mouthwashes — what they do and don't do. Mouthwashes or gargles can neither prevent nor cure a cold and they cannot eradicate bad breath, although they may mask it for a while.

Then, you ask, what good are they? Mouthwashes do serve a very useful purpose. Used after meals, a mouthwash cleanses the mouth and teeth of many food particles. When gargled, Chloraseptic mouthwash has been found by clinical researchers to provide temporary relief for minor sore throat pain, often within seconds. Since it has anesthetic properties, this solution relieves tissue soreness in the mouth and the gums after dental visits. Available at drugstores without prescription, Chloraseptic has been used and recommended by physicians and dentists for more than 10 years. They recognize that a really helpful mouthwash or gargle has antiseptic as well as anesthetic qualities.

But they will advise that not all bad breath problems will be relieved by antiseptics. Various dental problems and other mouth and throat disorders may cause halitosis. Physicians and dentists know that chronic bad breath may be a sign of a disorder originating elsewhere in the body such as in the sinuses, respiratory tract, urinary system or digestive system, for example. Therefore, if halitosis seems a recurring problem, see your family physician or dentist to determine the underlying cause.

If you wish FREE copies of recent Our Health Columns you may have missed, write to Dr. J. M. Amberson, c/o PO Box 439, Murray Hill Station, N.Y. 10019.

Primitive prints are the biggest fashion trend in the spring cotton fabric line-up, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Textile designers are emphasizing the bright, hot colors and original native designs of primitive tribes in both the old and new worlds. For instance, the multi-colored geometric symbols showing up in many spring cottons are borrowed from the art of ancient Aztecs of Mexico . . . or Inca Indians of South America. These primitive designs look most authentic on homespun and other rough-weave cottons . . . as do the prints inspired by Africa's native fabrics.

Africana cottons are coming on strong in sports wear collections for spring. Inspired by authentic tribal prints, the cottons have the look of genuine hand-blocked fabrics. They blaze with strong earth colors; shadings of red, brown, yellow, and green etched in exotic designs on sturdy, washable cottons . . . but primitive print fabrics range from terry cloth to cotton satin. Showing up in both piece goods and ready-to-wear fashions, colorful Africana cottons are favorites for beach and lounge wear.

They're especially popular for caftans, long flowing robes worn as beach cover-ups and at-home gowns. The robes are copies after those worn for centuries by desert tribesmen in North Africa and the Middle East.

"Look Your Best" the subject for a special interest series of meetings for Wichita County homemakers to begin in March. The first meeting will be March 16 in the Times Square Auditorium in Wichita Falls. The meetings will run from 10:00 to 12:00 and are sponsored by the Wichita County Program Building Subcommittee on Clothing. Mrs. Jim Roberts is chairman of the subcommittee. The series includes: Foundation Garments, A Basic Wardrobe, and Travel Wardrobes and will be presented by local authorities.

Any interested homemaker may attend the meeting.

Clothing leaders are going to give method demonstrations to Wichita County Home Demonstration Clubs this month. Visit a club in your community.

A clothing workshop in Basic Sewing will be held in the East Branch of the YMCA in May and will be taught by Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. If interested, contact the agent for complete information.

Some evening, just for fun, imagine that your family's income suddenly rose 30 per cent more than it was.

Without discussion, ask each family member to write down what he thinks you should do with the surplus. Compare notes and prepare for a surprise.

In a recent study, nearly 100 couples were given this imaginary situation. The most agreement was in the area of future security . . . savings accounts, life insurance, and savings bonds. As you might expect, more wives than husbands expressed concern for possible rainy days.

The second most widely held value was for a better home. More husbands than wives said it should be a different house. Wives tend to suggest fixing up their present houses.

Only about 9 per cent of the couples agreed that they would buy a car should they receive the extra income. More women than men wanted new cars.

Whether or not your personal choices would include security, housing and a car in that order, chances are if you're a woman you'll say you enjoy shopping. If you're a man you don't enjoy shopping, according to this study conducted by family life specialists.

NUTRITION FOR TEENS

It has become a habit to divide the human life span into a number of segments such as infancy, childhood, pre-teens, teens, adult, middle and old age. There are different needs at different times of life, but these are not sharply pigeonholed. They merge gradually from one phase to another, and what is even more important — the differences are superficial. The basic principles are the same at all ages.

Right now it is fashionable to "tsk-tsk-tsk" at our young people about a lot of their shortcomings, which the older folks have forgotten they had in equal or maybe greater measure in their own youth. Especially do we tend to deplore the eating habits of the young.

What's so wrong about the way young people eat? If their nutrition is so bad, how come, as they say on TV, they are bigger, stronger and healthier than any previous generation?

Must Distinguish
We have to distinguish between boys and girls, which may be a bit difficult in view of stretch pants on one sex and long curls on the other—unless we accept Red Skelton's differentiation. He says the one clinging to the rear of the motorbike is the girl.

There's another way to tell the difference. Watch what they eat. Boys will eat almost anything that won't bite them first, and they are hungry all the time, and don't care who knows it. Girls are figure-conscious, and are likely not to eat enough. Studies of groups of young people show that girls are less well nourished than boys.

Many older folks are prone to shake their heads over the diet of the adolescent — hamburgers, hot dogs, popcorn, candy, peanuts, milk shakes, ice cream, pizza, soft drinks. No fruit, no vegetables . . . tsk, tsk, tsk! And how do the kids react? I'll give you one guess. How would you?

Take Unbiased Look
An unbiased look at the diet of the adolescent, left to his own choice, indicates that his love for hamburgers, often with cheese, milk shakes, hot dogs, ice cream, pizza and peanuts makes some pretty good contributions of protein (meats, nuts, cheese and milk), of dairy foods, and enriched bread in the hamburger and hot dog buns. Popcorn, buttered, is good too.

Fruits and vegetables may be deficient. But we will never motivate the young people to change their diets by nagging them, or by being critical—without even a good reason—of their choice of many useful foods.

Young people like to make their own decisions. Give them the facts, and omit the head-shaking and "that's-not-the-way-I-was-brought-up" attitude, and offer them fruits and vegetables in attractive form, and let them make a choice without coercion. Some will be foolish. Most will be sensible.

There's more to nutrition than food. Psychology plays a large part.
