Sixty-one Members of Senior Class in Line for 1929 Graduation

School's Largest

Senior Class Is Largest in History of Wellington High School

According to Miss Louise Harle, sponsor of the Senior class of Wellington high school, sixty-one members of that class are now candidates for graduation in May, which will make the class of 1929 by far the largest in the history of Wellington schools. The number in line to receive diplomas this spring is almost twice as great as any preceding Senior class.

Although no definite arrangements have as yet been made for commencement week, members of the class are beginning to turn their eyes toward graduation day and formulating plans for what is always the most eventful week in the school year calendar.

Candidates for graduation are Norma Wildman, Oleta Gladney, Lona Joyner, Emma Joyner, Inez Glaze, Loraine Kelser, Kay Woods, Belle McInnis, Katherine McMinn, Ruth Owens, Odus Thompson, Condy Hartman, Evelyn Conner, Beryl McClure, Bessie Jean Willis, Dean Durfee, Seth Lindsey, Dan Henard, Ralph Long, Velman Warrick, Nan Weir, Etta Mae Allred, Dorothy Hunt, Nellie Wright, Leon White, Margaret Goforth, Eva Glenn, Robert Lucas, John H. Mr. Greer states that many changes will be made in the rules governing the exhibits made at the fair this year and that Panhandle growers and breeders will be given a more equal showing than ever before.

Will The Anchor Hold?

Local Ladies Are Badly Injured in
Car Wreck Friday

Mrs. Morris Wells and Mrs. Deskins Wells in Quanah Hospital

Following a serious automobile accident which occurred Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock, Mrs. Deskins Wells and Mrs. Morris Wells of this city are confined in the Quanah hospital where they are recovering from serious injuries which were sustained in the wreck. The ladies were returning from Dallas when the accident occurred near Goodlett. Mrs. Morris Wells was driving the car and lost control of the machine in a rough stretch of road, the car turning over several times and causing serious, though not alarming, injuries to the occupants. Contrary to first reports, the accident was not caused by a tire going down, as an examination of the wrecked car disclosed that all tires were up. The exact cause of the wreck cannot be explained by the ladies other than the driver lost control of the machine which was being driven at approximately 50 miles per hour. There is a possibility that the steering wheel became locked or that one of the wheels came loose from the machine, as only three wheels remained on the wrecked car which was a Buick coupe.

Mrs. Morris Wells was thrown out of the car after receiving several cuts about the face, arms and body, a deep gash in her head being the most serious of her injuries. This wound extends from the crown of her head to and across her forehead, and is cut entirely to her skull. She also received deep cuts about the arms and legs. She was never thrown

W. W. Carter
Has Objection
To Wellington

W. W. Carter of Dodsonville was in Wellington last Saturday, and voiced the following objection to the city: "My objection to Wellington is that I can't park my car on the square or anywhere near it on Saturdays. Great town is Wellington. I'll keep coming if I have to park out on the highway and walk in."

The other two candidates, Miss Bertha Sasser of the C. I. A. club and Miss Hermine Stover, sponsor of the Domestic Science, have 50 and 30 votes respectively at this time.

The winner of the contest will be determined when the voting boxes are closed Saturday night, March 30. The winner will be crowned queen of Wellington's community week and will reign during the week of April 1 during which time the community week programs will be presented by the various clubs in the city federation.

League Program
For Coming Meet
Now Completed

Complete Program Shown in This Issue of The Leader

All details in connection with the arrangement of the program for the Interscholastic Meet which will be held in Wellington March 27 to 30 have been completed by the executive committee, and the entire program as scheduled appears on page 9 of this edition of the Leader.

The Wellington chamber of commerce is sponsoring this meet because it is one of the biggest factors in developing the highest type of students and contributes to a better citizenship. Heretofore the county meets have been handled financially by teachers which worked a hardship on them and the chamber of commerce came to their assistance this year. All prizes have been purchased by the chamber of commerce and all financial problems connected with holding the county meet this year will be met by the Wellington organization.

Schools which are members of the Interscholastic League of Collingsworth county and which will be represented in the track and field meet this year are: Aberdeen, E. T. Vaughn, principal; Abra, Miss Bertha Gardner, principal; Buck Creek, E. E. Am-burn, principal; Cottonwood, Mrs.

Collingsworth county is now valued at $6,529,492, according to figures shown on the books of Mrs. Annie Bird, tax assessor, and based on 1928 valuations.

This figure is based on the total value of all land, town lots, mules and horses, cattle, sheep, dogs, hogs, automobiles and other vehicles, merchandise, tools, individual deposits, railroads, money in banks, rolling stock, telegraph and telephone lines, pipe lines and intangible assets.

Meeting Arranged
For Dairymen and
Poultrymen Soon

Meeting Is Called for Friday, March 22, at District Court Room

Committee Works

Committee Determines Amount of Interest Toward such Organization

A meeting of the dairymen and poultrymen of Collingsworth county has been called for Friday, March 22 in the district court room, at which time plans for the organization of a bull circle in this county will be formulated. The dairy and poultry committees have been working for several days to determine the amount of interest in such organization, having sent out questionnaires to many farmers over the county. The reports derived from the questionnaires indicate that a sufficient number are interested in the organization of a bull circle to justify immediate procedure.

Members of the dairy and poultry committee are H. A. Phillips, J. B. Baumgardner, Jeff Greer, A. E. Smallwood and C. B. Anderson.

All farmers who are interested in the progress of dairying and poultry raising are urged to be present at the meeting Friday, March 22. Many discussions of interest to this work will be heard at that time and definite plans for the various organizations will be outlined at the meeting. Farmers of Collingsworth county are convinced that organizations of this nature are essential to place these phases of farming on a remunerative basis and members of the committee urge a large attendance.

Terracing School
Is Big Success

A large number of farmers and others interested in terracing work attended the terracing school held Monday of this week which was considered quite successful from every angle.

Approximately 50 farmers met in the district court room Monday morning where instructions in terracing were given, followed by demonstrations at the S. T. Smith farm near Wellington in the afternoon.

The terracing school was arranged by C. C. Stinson, county agent, who was assisted by A. B. Smith of the Wellington Farm Loan association and by the Wellington chamber of commerce. M. R. Bentley of the extension department of Texas A. and M. college and A. K. Short of the Federal Land Bank at Houston conducted the demonstrations.

FRESNO PIE SUPPER

A pie supper, combined with a box supper, will be held at the Fresno school Thursday night. A cake for the prettiest girl will be sold and other interesting features arranged. A P. T. A. program will be held in connection with the evening's entertainment, according to B. W. Beard, principal of the school.

Parents of
"Lost Boy" Are Grateful

W. and Edna Mathews, parents of Odus Mathews whose address for a time was unknown by his parents and who was located by a story carried in The Leader, have written the following note to this newspaper: "We wish to thank you and your readers for the help you gave us in locating our son. Best wishes to you and your readers."

New Members for School Board to Be Elected Soon

Election Will Be Held for New Members for Board April 6

Announcement has been made by E. L. Winn, secretary of the Wellington school board, that an election will be held of four new members for Wellington's school board of education will be held April 6, at which time four new members are to be named by popular vote.

The members to be elected at that time are to replace A. Y. Bell, Henry Holcomb, Henry Singley and E. L. Winn whose terms are expiring. Three members of the present board will be carried over for another term. They are Lee Fortenberry, Paul Starr, and Joe Baumgardner.

Very little interest has been shown in past years in election of this nature, but it is hoped that the people of Wellington will take note of this election and that a large number will go to the polls at that time to cast their votes so that the new trustees which are to be elected will be favored by the majority of Wellington citizens. The members who are retiring from the board have accorded the people of Wellington a splendid service and their places should be filled by the most competent men available so that the work of the board of education may continue as smoothly as has been the case this year. For this reason, people are urged to remember the date of the election, April 6, and go to the polls at that time.

All people who wish to suggest names for the ballot are privileged to do so. All that is necessary to have any name placed on this ballot is to leave the candidates' names with E. L. Winn, secretary of the board.

EASTERN STAR MEETING

A meeting has been called by the worthy matron of the O. E. S. chapter for March 20 at 8 p. m. at the Masonic Hall for the purpose of receiving a visit from the Assistant Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Lillian Bernard of Pampa. All members are urged to be present and visitors will be welcome, Mrs. R. C. Dryden states.

VISITING IN LEXINGTON

Mrs. T. E. Bengel left this week for Lexington, Missouri, where she will visit with her son, Lester, during the coming two weeks. Lester is attending school at Wentworth Military academy.

Commissioners
Authorize Bond
Election May 11

County Will Vote on $800,000 Bond Issuance for Good Roads

Petition Presented

Petition Is Presented to Commissioners Who Vote Unanimously

Commissioners of Collingsworth county at their regular meeting Monday authorized a bond election to be called for May 11 to determine whether or not the citizens of this county wish to vote bonds amounting to $800,000 to be used in paving roads in two directions across Collingsworth.

If such election carries, highways running north and south and east and west across this county will be paved from each boundary of the county to the opposite side. All previous road bond elections in this county have specified that the highway affected by such bond would be the road running north and south. The election called for May 11 will specify that the road running east and west will be taken care of just as the north and south road. Because of this fact, the bonds to be voted are double in size those of any previous road election.

A petition with approximately 90 signatures was presented to the commissioners Monday requesting that such election be authorized. The commissioners, however, acted on their own volition and authorized the election without being influenced materially by the petition, voting unanimously that such election be held.

In view of the fact that this election will effect highways running in two directions, it is believed it will be given stronger support than any similar election held in Collingsworth county.

Return Match
Smith and Fox

Leo Fox of Dallas and Chesty Smith have made plans to have another go at the Legion Hut tonight. Fox took the match last Thursday, and Smith will be out for revenge tonight. He says he's in top condition and is going to give the Dallas Cyclone a good dime's worth. This is a best-two-out-of-three affair and assures the fans a feature attraction well worth seeing.

Fred Wood is scheduled to meet Dynamite Dan, the wrestling Greek of Waco, one fall to a finish. This will take place at the semi-finals. Other preliminaries consisting of boxing and wrestling among the younger pups will serve as fitting while-you-wait entertainment.

Negotiations are underway to bring Cal Farley of Amarillo to Wellington in the near future to meet the winner of tonight's match. More definite details of this match will be given in the next edition.

WILL HOLD MARKET

The Yellowjackets, girls basketball team of Wellington High School, will hold a market Saturday at the Barnes and Hastings grocery at which time cakes, pies, chickens and other edibles will be sold, according to Miss Bertha Sasser.

WILL RECEIVE BIDS

The east ward school is ready to receive bids for the laying of 2000 square feet of sidewalks, according to Lee Fortenberry and Paul Starr, members of the board of education who will receive all bids for this work.

Clint Small For Governor

The Leader is not the only newspaper in Texas which has discovered that Wellington has produced a man who is not only capable of filling the Governor's chair, but who is deserving of that distinction. In an editorial last week, The Leader stated that Honorable C. C. Small of Wellington was the best gubernatorial timber available in Texas at the present time. On the same day that The Leader was published, the Amarillo Daily News carried a similar editorial in its columns. The Leader and the News are, consequently, the first papers in Texas to intimate that he is the most logical man to replace Dan Moody. Other West Texas newspapers are beginning to fall in line, and with this great area standing solidly behind him, the murmur of "Clint Small for Governor" will swell into a roaring battle-cry that will sweep Wellington's fighting Senator into the state's highest office if he ever intimates that he would accept the position.

The editorial which was carried last Thursday in the Amarillo News follows:

"Senator Clint C. Small has ably demonstrated his capabilities as a statesman worthy to lead and represent the people of Texas. If he does not offer himself for governor two years from now, it will be because he does not care to seek the office. There can be no question of the indorsement which West Texas now holds for him, and his victorious land title campaign has made him a state leader in public affairs. The overwhelming majorities given his validating bill in both houses of the Legislature bespeak the confidence of all sections of Texas have in his judgment and his ability.

"Senator Small is a whole-souled product of the Panhandle. He established himself as an attorney, and then served the people of the East Panhandle on the bench. He went to the Legislature 60 days ago, and today he stands as the recognized leader in the upper house. He sponsored the anti-land grabbing legislation not for political purposes, but as a principle of honesty and fair dealing. He championed it because it was right.

"The Daily News knows nothing if his political ambitions, but it does know the high esteem in which he is held by the people of Northeast Texas, and that they will be eager to reward him with any public office he may seek."

Highway Situation

Cone Johnson delivered a great oration at Austin on the dangers of reducing the license cost on pleasure cars, and advocated more gas money taxes. Unless this Legislature delivers the people from the Highway Commission we may hardly expect things to ever change.

When the old system of each county looking after its own business was changed to the present highly centralized and autocratic Highway Commission every effort was made and is still being made to get more and more money into the coffers of that body. Of course, the Commission would oppose any measure to cut down their money. They have got to have big high powered cars to ride around in and maintain an endless chain of district supervisors and superintendents to look after the roads.

We would be willing to gamble that the Wilbarger Commissioners Court could take the same amount of money now being expended on Highway No. 5 and 28 through this county and do better work and have money left at the end of the year.

In a few more years it will be impossible to sneeze without first wiring Austin and getting permission from the Sneeze Commission to do so. Just check up on things during the past ten years and see how fast everything is being taken from the hands of the people and put into commissioners and bureaus. This stuff about freedom we boast about is just about gone.—Vernon Times.

With the aid of a radio receiving set, members of the Intermediate School heard Herbert Hoover take the oath of office as the thirtieth president of the United States. In other words, these modern Stamford boys and girls listened to history as it was being made instead of gleaning it from lectures and textbooks and probably gained more knowledge in that single lesson than they would in a week of the usual routine. Truly this is a marvelous age.—Stamford American.

Despite the fact that it is still dry and no rain has been had, the farmers are going right ahead preparing their land for the crops this year. Most of them say the soil is still working nicely, but they are getting rather nervous because they fear it will not continue to do so long. But it is going to begin raining some of these days, and when it does the chances are we will be wanting it to quit just about as bad as we want it to begin. At least the history of this country is that one extreme follows another. If this holds good, we will surely have a long wet spell.—Paducah Post.

TEXAS & TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes

NO JUDICIARY REFORM

Hon. C. H. Jenkins, member of the legislature from Brown county, one of the ablest lawyers of the State, who introduced a number of court reform measures in the House in line with the resolutions adopted by the Texas Bar Association, has abandoned all hope of any substantial court reform so long as the legislature is so largely composed of young lawyers. In a letter to the press he states that the judiciary committee of the House, composed of 21 lawyers, killed all his bills looking to reforming court proceedings, without giving any reasons, and without offering any amendments or substitutes. A few of the older lawyers strongly favored all the measures, but the young attorneys of the kind usually sent to the legislature evidently do not want and will not have court-proceedings simplified in the interest of those who are forced to resort to the courts. The present almost unbearable conditions will continue in Texas as long as the people continue to send fledgling lawyers to the legislature. From Judge Jenkins' experience it would seem that Texas courts are suffering from lawyer made laws.

CISCO'S NEW HOTEL

Cisco is doing the things that make it look more and more like the city its progressive people are determined it shall be. That new 8 story hotel is about completed and those who have seen it say that there will be nothing in Texas hotel architecture or equipment to beat it. The Cisco News, which fosters every worth-while local enterprise, is going to help commemorate a special hotel edition.

WEST TEXAS ENTERPRISE

That West Texas is developing rapidly and that there is strong local rivalry between the towns is shown in the increased activities of the chambers of commerce. A few years ago it was difficult for any West Texas town to raise $5,000 or $10,000 for its chamber of commerce, but Abilene has decided that it will need $40,000 for that purpose this year and will go to work with that amount as the goal. As this is only $7,000 more than was used in 1928, the undertaking is not so difficult as it first appears.

TOO MUCH POLITICS

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of remedial or constructive legislation of any kind in Texas is too many legislators are more interested in politics than in legislation. Before any regular session is over there are scores of wire-pulling candidates at work in both houses, and nearly half the members are prospective candidates for some position. Under such conditions the interests of the State are subordinated to personal ambitions. Special sessions later in the year are even worse, for by that time almost everything else seems to be forgotten and politics reign supreme.

BUYING CHURCH SCHOOLS

It is bad that in their denominational efforts churches establish schools that can not be properly supported, but it seems even worse that in admitting their poor business judgment in starting too many schools, the successful school should have to suffer along with the unsuccessful. Both the Methodist and the Presbyterian churches in Texas have, it seems, more schools than are needed. Some are self-supporting and others are not, and both denominations are now planning consolidations or removals. The localities in which these schools are situated have put their money into them in good faith with the churches, and it looks like bad faith on the part of the denominations to abandon or remove a self supporting school built up largely on the gifts and enterprise of a community. It is even worse when a church puts a school on the auction block and sells it to the city that will pay the highest price. Churches should be careful, even more than individuals, to maintain their business integrity.

MORE AND BETTER COTTON

Seemingly, Texas does not need more cotton, but it does need better cotton. Some 20 years ago an A. & M. teacher went to Brazil to experiment in that country for a railway company in the raising of cotton. Returning in 1926, he brought with him some cotton seed that is said to produce twice as much cotton to the acre as that grown on surrounding land and that it sells for four cents more than the best staple. Experiments conducted with this cotton in Shelby county are so satisfactory that a large acreage is being grown this year for seed.

TEXAS "STAGGERS" VISITORS

A traffic representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, making his first visit to Texas since 1927, says: "The development since then has been such as to stagger the imagination, and Texas' greatest development is yet to come." He adds that "principles of sound business forced us to establish a Texas office."

Many of us who see Texas growing all the while fail to see anything remarkable in that growth, but the occasional visitor is impressed with the progress that is everywhere so evident.

CARLSBAD CAVERN ROAD

Carlsbad Cavern, which is partly in Texas, is to be made more accessible to visitors from this State by the building of a State highway from Pecos, a distance of 51 miles, to a connection with the New Mexico highway. Improvements being made within the Cavern will make it more easily explored, and this new roadway connects with the Broadway of America. Incidentally, it will also help along the big boom at the enterprising Pecos City.

PECAN DUTY SOUGHT

Pecan Growers in session at Junction City discussed at some length the competition with pecans imported from Mexico. These pecans are in appearance much like the Texas pecans, but are inferior in quality and are a large factor in keeping down the price of Texas grown pecans. An effort will be made to get Congress to increase the present 3 cent duty to 6 cents a pound and to place a 12 cent a pound duty on hulled pecans.

Graveyard Stuff

By BUDGE

And now, dear readers, after leaving this column out of the paper for a few issues, I'll try once more to amuse, entertain or bore you. There is small doubt which it will be, for right at the present I do not have a solitary idea (nothing unusual about that) in mind as to what or who to write about. So with this cheerful thought let's proceed.

The change to the first person in writing this column is made in order to keep abreast with the modern trend. Percy Bones at Shamrock, William Russell Clark and Lyman Robbins at Memphis, O. O. McIntyre of New York and Deck Wells of local fame (all of whom are praise-worthy columnists) use the first person in their writings. So if that many can get by with it, there is room for a few more imitators like myself.

The old man in the graveyard is not as distinctive as he once was. Since The Leader has been issuing a colored comic section, Slim Jim and the other characters are usurping a bit of the old man's notoriety. In fact, it might not be a bad idea to leave his picture off from the head of this column.

As this is being written, Marjorie and I are in the middle of a big batch of moving. Lee O'Neil got to pressing us for the rent so we just moved out and let him have his apartment back, only slightly used, and moved into Mr. Duke's new house—thereby taking advantage of another unsuspecting citizen.

It may be cheaper to move than pay rent—but it's a lot more trouble. I've had more fingers smashed today than I ever had when I used to run a go-devil on the farm. In fact, I think plowing is child's play compared to moving. Now that you understand my present frame of mind, is there any wonder these paragraphs are insane and incoherent? But at least you can be thankful that no profanity has been written, thus far.

Ray Goodson is so dumb he reads the Graveyard column every week to see if a correct account of all the funerals has been written.

An honest confession is good for the soul, it is said, so I think I'll let you people in on a fresh confession, me doing the confessing. It's like this: I have been sitting here in front of this typewriter for thirty minutes trying to think up a wisecrack about someone whom I know well enough to publicly abuse. Failing to do so I picked up the telephone directory to look over the names in the despairing hope that it might offer suggestions. It did not. In the first place as I turned through the pages I was reminded that the directory was printed in Lubbock and that fact is not especially side-splitting to anyone engaged in the printing business outside of Lubbock. And in the other 26 places (A to Z) there was not one humorous idea suggested by all those names.

In the A group, Wade Arnold, Clark Anderson and E. W. Alley were the only three prospects. Mr. Arnold's capers have been chronicled in this column so often that he's beginning to resent it, so that he's eliminated him. I thought about telling you readers what Mr. Alley's initials stand for, but considered it unsafe. And not having seen Mr. Anderson in more than two weeks, I hopefully looked to the B's.

With such names to use as those of Waddell Bailey, Ralph Ball, C. C. Bell, T. E. Bengel, John Bevers, C. G. Bower, S. P. Buster, J. L. Burt and Bill Burden, something should have turned up, but it didn't. There is nothing funny or unusual about a fellow delivering milk, or gasoline, or bread or coca-cola, so four of that group were shelved. The only joke about the Bengel family is Lester and he is away at college so another name was checked off. With that many of the B's down for the count, the C's were next considered.

Castleberry, Cayton, Chastain, Cocke, Cochran, Clay and Copeland were the most logical prospects offered among the C's, but every one of them tend entirely to their own business so why should I try to humiliate them by manufacturing some feeble wheeze about them. I've heard it is best to let sleeping dogs lie. (This is not supposed to infer that any of them are dogs or that they would tell a lie, either. But you can use your own judgment.)

The D's were notable for Deahl, Dorn, Dryden, Duke, Dukeminier and Duvall. Read those aloud hurriedly, and see if it doesn't sound as if you were reciting the principal parts of a Latin intransitive verb. If you can enjoy such entertainment we'll say the D's helped out a bit.

Eads, Elmore and the East Side School were the only four familiar names showing themselves among the E's, and three names aren't enough for a starter.

Looking through the F's, many people would be able to write several columns about Fain, Farrar, Fisher, Fleming, Fortenberry, Franks, French and Fuson. I might do it myself, but let's wait until some other time.

In consulting the G's, Gibson, Gillette, Gillespie, Glenn, Goforth, Goodson, Gregg and Gribble were all splendid prospects. But right now they are all feeling more or less friendly toward The Leader—so why arouse the ire of eight good men for the sake of another paragraph.

The H's were extremely prolific with suspects—or rather, prospects. Ham, Hampton, Handley, Hardy, Harper, Harrison, Henry, High, Hix, Hill, Holley, Holton, Horn, House, Hudson, Hunsaker, Hunt, Hunter and Hutchinson would be enough to write about for several weeks, since those names suggest everything from savory food to Christmas decorations. That was just the trouble—there were too many to use in a single paragraph, for you know brevity is the soul of something or other, someone once said, I think. But considering the H's again, it would be rather nice to own a House on a High Hill near the Hudson where a fellow could hunt and eat Hardy meals of Ham and blow his own Horn when talking with the Hix.

The I's were conspicuous by their absence, and the J's came up to the bat. But with seven Johnsons and ten Joneses all lined up and fighting on the same team, who'd have the nerve to wisecrack in the grandstand?

The K's naturally followed, presenting Kelso, Kersten,—and Knight! Goodnight!

In the L group it would seem Langford, Leach, LeDerer, Lewis, Little, Longino, Lynn would be enough people to contribute at least one wisecrack, but not this time. To be honest, when I saw the name Leggett I thought about that two-bits Bill Leggett borrowed last Easter and that took all the humor out of the whole situation. Who can, think up a wisecrack when his thoughts are occupied about a debt owed him by a fellow who is in France at this particular time?

Did you know that if a stranger should come to Wellington and become acquainted with all the people whose names start with M, he wouldn't be a stranger at the end of that time. Just look at this: Manzer, Martin, Masten, McClellan, McClaskey, Messick, Miller, Mims, Mitchell, Montague, Moody, Moore, Morris, Morrow, Moulton, Munice and Myers. That's enough to swing a city election in Wellington.

But on the other hand, if all were as shy as the N group, the county seat would be smaller than Quail. There were just three N's—Nowlin, Neece, and Nunneley—and one of them lives outside the city limits.

With St. Pat's Day in the offing, the O's are rather appropriate with Obenhaus, O'Neil, O'Rear, Orr and Owen. How is that for a bit of blarney?

Scanning the P's a person is reminded of Parsons, Payne, Pedigo, Phillips, Pinkston, Plmons, Porter and Powell. This brings to mind the speech Mr. Pinkston made at Hollis last week at the Rotary Banquet. Apologizing for the fact that Wellington has no luncheon club of any nature, Mr. Pinkston explained that Wellington men must never get very hungry. If this is true, how do 13 lunch stands stay open for business?

The Q's would be a nice bunch of folks—if there were any.

The list of R's shows Rainer, Reid, Richards (several times), Ricketts, Riley, Roberts, Rogel and Royal, but even those names recall nothing to mind at the present time other than the fact Mr. Rogers has promised to bring the force at The Leader a half-dozen watermelons next summer. That's a pretty good joke—on The Leader force—for Mr. Rogers will forget our address about that time.

The S's are as prominent as the proverbial wart on a nose. Reading over the names of Saied, Sammons, Sasser, Savage, Scott, Scruggs, Shamburger, Service, Self, Sherwood, Shields, Sims, Singley, Slay, Sledge, Small, Starr, Stevenson, Stinson, Stone, Stover, Sugg and Sullivan, it is interesting to note how many of them could leave off the first letter "S" and still have a plausible name. For instance, by dropping the "S" from certain ones in the above mentioned group, we would find such characters as: Ammons, Cott, Hamburger, Elf, Lay, Ledge, Myers, Nell, Tall, Tarr and Tone.

If all the T's were lined up in one row they could have a T-party, and those present would be Talley, Taylor, Tarter, Thompson, Tice, Tinkle, Tucker, Templeton, Terry, Thacker, Thomas (seven times) and Thornton. It would be a pretty good party, too, with Templeton making the speeches, Tice furnishing the groceries, Tinkle contributing the radio music and Taylor serving the ice cream.

One thing the telephone directory discloses is the fact that the U's and V's give central very little trouble.

But the W's make up for it. Here we find the smiling features of Wall, Wallace, Warrick, Watkins, Wells, Wildman, Wilkerson, Williams, Wilks, Wilson, Winters, Winn, Wiseman, Wolftrum, Woderlich, Wood, Word, Wrynn and others. Here the evolution of names is strikingly apparent. For examples: Wall—Wallace. Wilder—Wildman—Wiseman. Wilks—Wilkerson. If you care to strain a point, you can see the resemblance.

Why bother with the X, Y or Z?

The New Farm Hand Ready to Take Hold

It Took Charlie Thomsen 20 Years to Be Happy with a $30,000,000 Fortune

For the most of us the possession of $30,000,000 would go a long way toward solving the problem of how to be happy. At least, we think it would. Of course, there is the old adage that "money doesn't bring happiness," but sometimes we are inclined to believe that maybe money doesn't but how about the things that money can buy?

Charlie Thomsen of Seattle, Wash., has lived a story which proves how burdensome a vast amount of money—$30,000,000 to be exact—can be. Charlie is the son of Moritz Thomsen, Pacific Northwest financier, lumberman and mill king. The last 20 years of his life have been spent trying to make people forget that he is the heir to his father's vast fortune.

The $30,000,000 began to bother him early in life. He found, as a boy in school, that people didn't think of him as Charlie Thomsen, as they thought of other boys as "Skinney" Watters or "Freckles" Jackson, but only as the awesome heir of "the $30,000,000."

The thing began to get on his nerves. At 14 he ran away to sea incognito, in an effort to find out if he was capable of standing on his own feet. Then, he returned. Still the chorus of "My dears, he's worth $30,000,000. Imagine!" greeted him.

Charlie decided to run away again. This time to the most isolated parts of Alaska. Again he returned. Again he was the heir to an enormous fortune, and not just "Charlie Thomsen."

Finally, he decided to take a southern trip, since the northern one had failed of its purpose, and he went to Mexico. Anywhere, to escape the feeling that it was his money alone in which people were interested.

The third and last time he returned he found that plenty of positions were open to him in various industrial concerns—because he was the heir. He didn't want to be the heir. He wanted to be Charlie Thomsen.

Then dropping, temporarily, the name which had made him the envy of so many people, but which was a source of unhappiness to him, he got a job. It wasn't very much of a job, but at least he got it without feeling that it was his money which had obtained it for him. It was a job sweeping in a factory. Then he worked up. And up.

Today, Charlie Thomsen, as Charlie Thomsen, and not as the heir to $30,000,000, owns a $5,000,000 factory and operates it himself.

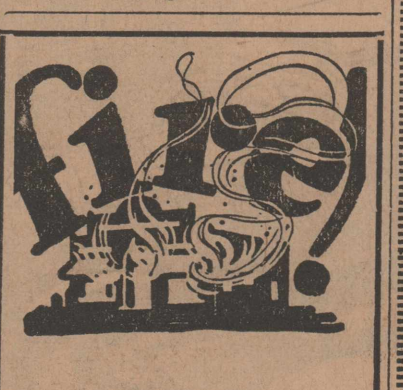

Money, which, inherited, had been a source of annoyance to him, has become a source of pride, now that he has proved to the world and to himself that he was capable of making it by his own efforts. As might be expected, his success has not spoiled him. There is nothing he likes better than to put on laboring clothes and do manual labor—as Charlie Thomsen.

Other Chevrolet officials who were in charge of dealer meetings at various times in other sections of the country expressed keen optimism over the outlook. H. A. Klingher, general manager, M. D. More Oil Tests In Greer County

A thorough test for oil and gas in the northwest part of Greer county seems assured with the filing of record in the county clerk's office of a drilling contract in a block of acreage in the vicinity of Jester, according to the Mangum Star.

Under a clause of the contract the Becker-Reed company agrees to commence the actual drilling of a well on or before April 27, 1929. It is provided that the well shall be drilled to a depth of 3,500 feet or to granite, ingenious formation or other impenetrable formation in place below 2,500 feet, or until oil or gas is encountered in paying quantities.

The Becker-Reed company is showing faith in the Jester territory by purchasing leases, royalties and land in fee simple and paying liberal prices. Records of the county clerk's office show that the company thru Roy Ashton, has purchased royalty on 1676 acres in the vicinity of the drilling site. In most instances the land owners retained one-half interest in the royalty. Ashton also purchased 480 acres in fee simple, including fee simple title to the quarter section upon which the drilling location is made. It is reported that Ashton paid $3,000 for a lease on 160 acres of land near the drilling location last week.

As a result of proposed operations in the Jester vicinity, there is now more oil "excitement" in Greer county than at any time in the past several years. Everyone seems confident that a thorough possession of the nationwide Buick sales and service organizations, which embraces more than 4,000 dealers. These dealers employ some 10,000 salesmen and 16,000 service workers, office employees and others, bringing the field personnel to a minimum of 30,000.

Residents of Flint like to think of the progress of the Buick Motor company, which produced its first automobile in a tiny plant here more than 25 years ago, as synonymous with that of Flint. The Buick city here has built more than 2,000,000 motor cars in the quarter century since that time, and the prosperity resultant from that productive work has transformed Flint from a small country town to a teeming hive of industry. The Buick city which stretches across the country has sold these 2,000,000 cars, and kept most of them running all through the years, helping to work somewhat similar transformations in every city, town and village throughout the land.

Three quarters of the 2,000,000 Buicks are still serving their owners. Estimating four passengers to each car, it will be seen that some 6,000,000 persons, about one-twentieth of the country's population, are riding in Buicks.

Buick Company Employs 25,000

FLINT, Mich., March 14.—The Buick Motor company is generally regarded as an institution peculiarly Flint's own, since it employs something in the neighborhood of 25,000 workers in its vast factories here, a figure which substantiates the frequently heard statement that Buick is a sizeable city in itself. However, examination of figures relating to Buick's field personnel indicate that there is a second Buick city of even greater population, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and depending upon Buick for its bread and butter just as directly as the factory personnel does.

This second Buick city is com-

University Plans Erection of Four Large Buildings

By supplementing the available fund with a loan of $1,250,000, a four building program is the goal sought to be reached in the immediate future at the University of Texas, according to the twenty-third annual report of the University Board of Regents to Governor Dan Moody.

Plans are about complete for the enlargement of the present library building at a cost of some $650,000. A new chemistry building, to cost about $800,000, has been designed and the plans have been approved by the Regents. The contract for the auditorium-gymnasium, the first unit of the Ex-Students Association program, will be let as soon as bids can be received after the next Regents' meeting. This building will cost a minimum of $450,000. Finally, a building to house the shops of the department of mechanical engineering must be erected to care for them after they are removed from their present site for the construction of the Chemical Laboratory there.

Blind Proof Reader Detects Errors in Braille Made by Experts With Sight

Of all vocations in which one would least expect to find a blind person engaged, proofreading certainly stands near the top. Yet, Miss Mary Hays, blind since the age of 6—who has never seen an automobile, nor any of the other modern inventions, has intimate, technical knowledge of most of them through reading about them every day at the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross.

Her sensitive fingers move over long pages of Braille type and detect errors which are made despite the best efforts of an expert staff who transcribe the text into Braille. And, despite the fact that all who do the work of transcribing have normal vision.

During last year 150,000 pages of Braille were put into libraries for the benefit of approximately 100,000 blind persons throughout the United States. Miss Hays, whose official title is "acting director of Braille," proof reads the manuscripts which are copied from popular works into the Braille by volunteer workers, all of whom have their sight.

"Volunteers are given preliminary instructions here," says Miss Hays, "and generally begin their work, when they understand the Braille system, by copying a few short stories."

She held up two bundles of paper used for the dotted writing. "These are the two best short stories of last year," she said.

"You see I come in contact with the best of all kinds of literature, but I prefer biography, travel and history."

In addition to reading proof on the manuscript, Miss Hays acts as instructor for those who wish to learn the Braille method and become contributors. When she finds a mistake in the work of one of her pupils she makes a note of it on the typewriter and explains to the transcriber so that the error will not occur again. "Generally the workers bring in a few pages of a story at a time and I correct it if necessary and divide it for sub-titles and send it to be bound," she says. "When finished it is sent to libraries that have a section for the blind."

With the exception of Adelia Hoyt who is "acting national director of Braille" for the Red Cross, Miss Hays is the only blind woman known who is employed as a professional certified proof reader. She has just finished reading proof on Ludwig's Napoleon, which fills 1631 pages of Braille, and the Romance of Leonardo da Vinci was transcribed and took 1277 pages. Some of the other recent works which were transcribed are Dmitri Merykowski, Modern American Poetry, Trader Horn, Washington Speaks for Himself, and Castles in Spain. Before this system of transcribing was worked out there were but few books available for the blind except the Bible and a few others. Now many of the books which are proof read by Miss Hays are sent to the Congressional Library, where they can be procured by anyone without charge—not even postage for mailing to different parts of the country.

Salary Raised for Harmon Officials Is Declared Legal

Legality of the salary increase to Harmon county court officials, provided by Bill No. 2, passed by the state legislature of Oklahoma in January, was confirmed by the county commissioners Monday after a prolonged disagreement which has lasted since passage of the bill.

County officials of Harmon county, Oklahoma, will get their salaries increased.

Contention regarding the legality of the bill arose after it was passed, and was instigated mainly by M. N. Wade, of Harmon county. Wade has attempted to secure legal counsel to fight the increase but was unsuccessful in Harmon county. Saturday he announced his intention of hiring the firm of Robinson and Ode of Albus, but this firm stated this week that they had not decided to handle the business as yet. No action had been filed Thursday morning.

County Commissioners refused to grant increase at their meeting in Hollis February 4, at which time Judge J. W. Watson resigned from the office of county Judge.

Refusal to pay the increase was based upon the constitutional law which states that it is illegal to change salaries of county officials while they are in office except where otherwise provided. Section 16 and 18 in the statute provides this law holds except in cases where the legislature authorizes such a raise.

Commissioners based their decision on the State versus Carter case where the raise of salaries during office of the Justice of Supreme Court were questioned. Opinion written by W. A. Ledbetter, prominent lawyer of Oklahoma City, was used to bring out the above points of law.

Ledbetter stated that it was the clear intention of the framers of the constitution that the legislature have the authority to fix salaries at any time.

It was brought out at the commissioner's meeting Monday that when Bill No. 2 was discussed in the house of representatives and the senate prior to its passage, it was the plain intention of the legislators that the increase be applied to the present county major officers.

Judge Watson resigned immediately after the wrangle started nearly two months ago. But he issued this statement Thursday:

"In view of the fact that several parties seem to want to see me out of office, and because a few have hinted that they would ask for a grand jury investigation of my office, I have decided to stick to my post and defy any to oust me. I will welcome any sort of investigation into the affairs of office of the county judge."

Watson's resignation was refused by the county commissioners Monday.

Fords Equipped With Good Tires

One of the problems which demanded most careful study and exhaustive experimenting in the building and equipping of the new Model A Ford car was that of tires.

The new Ford was an entirely new car in its class, with power, and acceleration that were also new to the field of light, moderate priced cars. The very first test models of the car proved that tires which could be counted upon to "stand the gaff" with the Model A Ford must be larger, tougher and better able in every way to withstand wear, heat from road friction and ordinary damaging action of bumps, ruts and other uneven road surfaces upon the tread and the sidewalls of the tire.

To begin with, the tires with which all Model A Fords are equipped, while designed as 30 x 4.50 in size, actually give an effect equal to that of tires measuring 30 x 4.75, when fitted to the special drop center steel spoke wheels of the car.

The designers of the Model A Ford realized that this car would go into many parts of the world and find many varied road conditions. So the tires with which the first few test models of the new car were equipped were subjected to every possible type of service and from these tests Ford engineers were able to determine specifications that would produce a truly modern balloon tire with all the excellence of design, workmanship and material to insure its giving service on a par with that of the Model A car itself.

Tires for the Model A Ford are made by several of the best manufacturers of the country but every tire must meet those specifications. The rubber which goes into each of these tires must be of finest grade, new, live rubber that has been properly cured.

Just so much of this rubber, to within a fraction of an ounce—and no less—must be used. The cotton from which the cord is manufactured must be of the fine long-fibre variety, tough and durable. And each lot of tires received at the Ford assembly plant must first be carefully inspected and tested to see that they meet these specifications and that there are no flaws or defects in thread, sidewall or shoulder.

In testing sample tires from lots delivered to the assembly lines, the Ford Motor Company subjects them in many instances to treatment they will never receive at the hands of the average owner. One of the testing devices drops the tire down from a height of several feet, under a weight equivalent to that of a railroad crossing. Tires are also placed on test cars and operated over rough roads at below normal pressures, over gravel, crushed stone and through sand and mud. For there shall be no chronic troubles in Ford engineers have determined the tires of the Model A Ford.

When old Boreas blows his wintry blast, there is a sudden increase in work for fire departments. In an effort to warm, people often overwork their heating units and if any defect is present a fire may result.

Stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes cause fires that destroy property values worth millions every year. As pointed out by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the fire may result from any one of three factors: the equipment itself may not be up to standard; installation may be poor or maintenance and operation may not be carefully conducted.

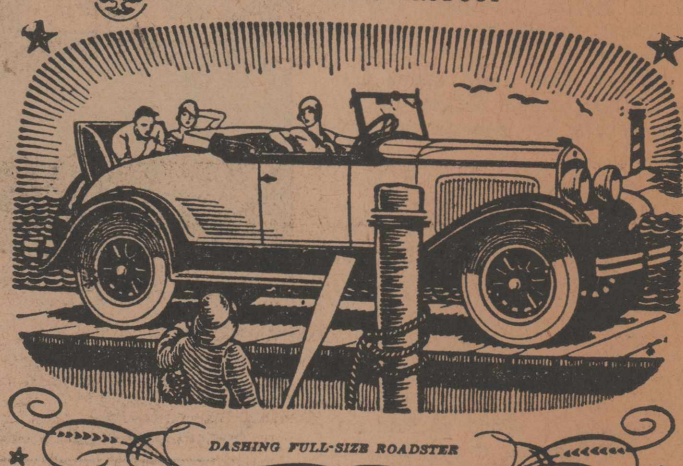

Common sense directs that the plant, its pipes and chimney should be kept clear of accumulations of soot and should not be forced too greatly during cold weather. If anyone doubts the necessity for paying more attention to heating units, let him note the huge property loss resulting from such fires: In 1925, the loss was $20,416,785; in 1926, $21,977,114; and in 1927, $17,986,432.

Are Said to be First English Cockerels Imported to Texas

What are said to be the first Leghorn cockerels ever imported to Texas from England are those which are owned by the Knowles Hatchery and Breeding Farms, located one mile west of Wellington. The cockerels are shown in the accompanying pictures.

B. L. Knowles, owner and manager of the hatchery and breeding farms, states that these cockerels come from the world's champion hen, or in other words, are from the hen with the world's highest egg-laying record. The cockerels were purchased early in 1929 from the Tom Barron farm near Preston, England, and when exporting the birds, Mr. Barron informed Mr. Knowles they were by far the best he had ever sent to America.

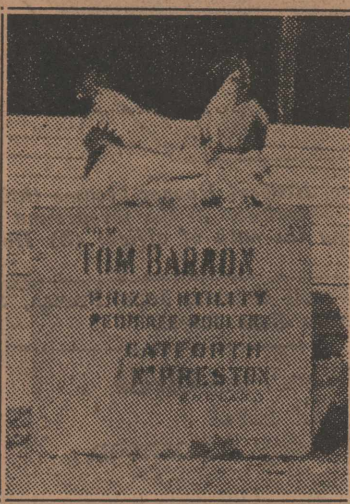

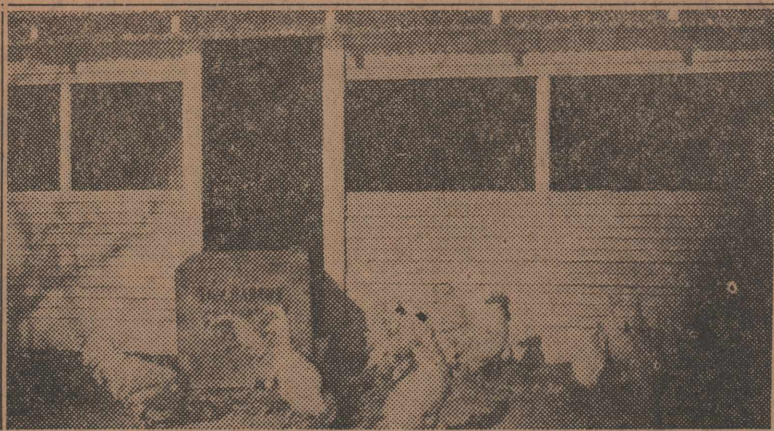

Mr. Knowles has been in the poultry business for the past 19 years, and has been breeding English Leghorns since 1912. He owns the oldest and largest hatchery and breeding farm in the Panhandle. Incubators at his farm have a total capacity of 64,512 every three weeks. A new incubator house has just recently been completed. This is made of tile and is 48 by 40.

Mr. Knowles is one of the best known poultry raisers in this part of Texas. He has devoted a great deal of time and study to the scientific production of poultry, and many other prominent poultry breeders have secured their foundation stock from him.

"In buying the fine stock in England, it was with the intention of improving the type of poultry raised in Collingsworth county," Mr. Knowles stated this week.

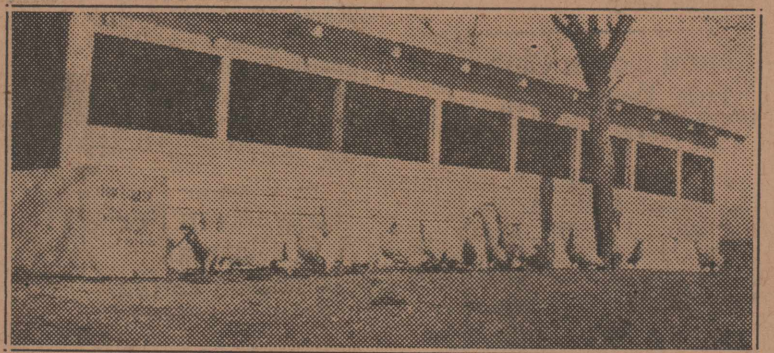

The English stock at the Knowles farm are a valued addition to the county, and will do much to improve the quality of poultry raised here.

Leghorns which Came From England

In these pictures are shown the cockerels which were purchased in England and owned by the B. L. Knowles Hatchery, the oldest and largest hatchery in the Panhandle. These cockerels are said to be the first ever imported to Texas from England.

Many poultry breeders have visited the farm to see these birds which Mr. Knowles purchased at a fancy price. Those who have seen them say that they are superior in every respect to the ordinary Leghorn and will do much to improve the type of poultry raised in Collingsworth county since they are from the world's champion egg-laying hen.

Railway Officials Visit in Childress

Headed by F. E. Williamson, president of the Burlington system, a party of Burlington and Denver Road officials reached Childress Saturday soon after noon on a train of officials' special cars. The rail officials stated that they were in Childress on a regular inspection trip, coming from Denver and proceeding southward.

After inspecting the Childress property for about an hour, they left for Wichita Falls where they spent the night, going to Fort Worth and Dallas later.

In addition to Mr. Williamson, the personnel of the party included C. E. Spens, executive vice-president of the Burlington System; H. H. Holcomb, vice president of the Burlington System; F. E. Clarity, vice president and general manager of the Ft. Worth and Denver railway company; Gen. John J. Hulen, traffic manager; Judge J. H. Barwise, general attorney; R. C. Gowdy, chief engineer; S. A. Covington, general superintendent; J. W. Mode, superintendent; J. Pfeiffer, superintendent of motive power; M. A. Stainer, maintenance of way engineer.

During one stretch of nineteen days, J. T. Draper, of Lone Star made a profit of $61.00 from his 400 hens. The eggs sold amounted to $90.05, and the feed cost $29.05. The price ranged from 30 to 36 cents. Draper intends to build his flock up to 1,000 hens and devote his entire time to them.

If you haven't room for a German police dog, maybe you'd be interested in a coonhound for a pet. It's a queer South American animal who made its social debut recently at Palm Beach. Miss Katharine Clarke, New York society girl, is shown teaching the first one how to promenade.

be perfected in Floyd county. More than twenty-five contracts were signed and leaders of the movement say that little trouble will be expected in getting a large membership for the new institution.

Things That Make Life Worth Living

Electricity and electrical appliances are to the American home what religion is to man. They make life worth living.

Nothing is more wonderful than a comfortable chair, a good book and the soft rays of an electric lamp. For the American Home Electricity has done many things. It has placed pleasures in the house where only drudgery had existed.

The vacuum cleaner, electric range, electric washer, electric ironer, toaster and refrigerator have brought many conveniences and pleasures.

Every one should have electricity and electrical appliances in their home, for when discomfort is abolished, then Life Is Worth Living!

1 Wash and dry fish, dredge with salt and flour (or cornmeal). Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To cook the fish without smoke or scorching, use enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread. When bread starts to brown, put in the fish.

Crisco-fried fish—without smoke or odor

3 Cook slowly. When the fish is nearly done, turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco through cheesecloth or a fine sieve into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

WHEN you come to think of it, should you ever fry in a fat you are unwilling to taste?

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

SENIORS

Edited By B. J. H.

(Editor's Note: Each year for the past three years The Leader has carried this feature, giving, in a few weeks, write-ups of all members of the Senior Class of Wellington high school. The feature is being repeated. During the ensuing weeks, each member of this class is being given mention in this feature of The Leader.)

Norma Grace Wildman

Don't let the name scare you away—they say she isn't vicious at all. She is really a very clever young lady, writes a good hand and is a pretty good student, if there ever was such a thing.

Norma was born February 7, 1929, according to her own figures, which would make her slightly more than one month of age. But surely that must be erroneous. If that is authentic, she is graduating at a phenomenal age. We think she's wrong on her birthday, though. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wildman, and was born in Mangum, Oklahoma. (No wonder she moved to Wellington, is there?) Maybe that's why she doesn't remember the actual date of her birth. But that doesn't matter particularly. Most women do miscalculate such dates and Norma just went a step farther than most of them would.

After attending school at Mangum two years she heard about Wellington and came over where she has remained, or rather progressed, these nine years. She says her favorite studies are anything except algebra and geometry, so you can make your own selections.

Norma declares the only class office she has ever filled is that of class clown. She has always wanted to play football, but as there has never been a girls team she has had to be content, or discontent, by looking on from the sidelines.

She says she was in the glee club until she was kicked out. This may or may not be true, but the frankness of the statement is refreshing. She served as reporter for the Sage staff the first year the school paper was published.

Norma wants to attend school next year at Randolph college in Cisco, but thinks she may go to N. M. U. at Las Vegas. She says she intends to be a surgeon—probably because she is such a cut-up.

Aside from all this, she wants to develop two hobbies, which are singing and story writing.

Donald M. Curry

Young Mr. Curry was born June 14, 1912 at Wellington, which infers he's lived among us ever since he was a very small boy. He is the promising son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Curry, and with the exception of one year during which time he attended school at White Deer, he has devoted his attention to carving the desks in Wellington's schools.

He swears his favorite study is that of mathematics. That's admirable and proves his courage. He's a first class athlete and has played one year with the Skyrockets in both football and basketball.

Donald is going to worry the instructors down at T. C. U. next year, he says. He doesn't know what profession he intends to pursue. He says that he doesn't have to work—that he could starve if he wanted to.

Nora Hazel Haralson

Hazel first saw the first light of day (or the dark of night, which ever the case might have been) in Wellington August 19, 1911. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Haralson who reside on route 3.

Hazel has attended W. H. S. only one year, but has been enrolled in several different schools over Collingsworth county. Her favorite studies are home economics and math. She specialized in piano while attending school at Bonita.

She has received two free trips to College Station and one to Dallas State Fair through 4-H club work accomplished in this county.

Hazel plans to major in home economics when she attends college and her intentions are to become a teacher of this fine art.

Georgia Ruth Owens

August 22, 1911, Ruth was born at Quail, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Owens. As well as she can remember, the day was very warm and at that time she had no idea she would ever learn to like Collingsworth county as well as she does.

After attending school at Quail seven years she heard about Wellington and came here to look the place over. The school met with her approval and two years ago she cast her lot with the Seniors of '29.

Civics and English are her favorite studies, while basketball is her favorite sport. She played basketball at Quail and represented that school in several declamation contests as well.

She intends to major in home economics when she goes to college.

Emma Goodson

Emma was born Nov. 12, 1910 at Plainview, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goodson. She has been enrolled in Wellington Prior to that she attended school at Clovis, N. M., for five years.

Best of all Emma likes English and home economics. She plans to major in home economics when she attends school at the Texas Technological college at Lubbock next year, and wants to become a teacher of that subject.

Eva Glenn

For the past eleven years Eva has been a student in Wellington schools, which means that she is very well known over the city by every pupil and teacher in the school system, having become familiar with her A. B. C.'s in the local schools and later read with deep feeling that touching epic "I see Will. How do you do, Will?" in the same school after she had progressed that far in her studies. It was here that Eva became assured that 6 x 9 equals quite a good many and that half the cir-

Going! Going! Gone!

When this 150-foot smokestack at the Newark, N. J., airport was razed recently because it was a menace to air traffic, workmen first undermined the stack and supported it temporarily on wooden beams, and let the law of gravity do the rest. That accounts for the smoke which can be seen still issuing from it in this remarkable picture.

conference of a circle amounts to just about any thing the teacher said it did.

She's been president of her class during two of these eleven years. She has studied piano and is talented in the art. Her favorite studies are home economics and typing.

Next year Eva hopes to study at T. C. U. in Fort Worth.

Eunice Viola Wilkins

July 20, 1911 at Bonita, Texas. That's the date and place of birth of the above mentioned young lady who for the past nine years has been attending school in Wellington.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilkins and attended school at Durant, Oklahoma before ever coming to Wellington. (Lots of fine folks have attended school at Durant, you know.) Her favorite study is home economics. (They nearly all pick that subject out—must be awfully soft.)

Eunice moved from Whitesboro, down in the sticks, to Wellington. Later she moved to Durant and then came back to Texas and Collingsworth county and Wellington.

She hasn't decided (that's her privilege) where she will go to school next year, but plans upon a commercial course. Business is business, you know.

Dan M. Henard

That's he. The big, likable fellow with a contagious grin—Mr. Henard. He was born right here among you March 10, 1910.

Dan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Henard and secured his earliest school training at Bean Hill.

He has been a member of the staff and president of the English club during the years he has suffered along in W. H. S. True to his type, he claims math and science for his favorite studies.

He's played center with the Skyrockets for a couple of years, and has played basketball as well. Dan has been a member of the Skyrocket track team for one year and has played tennis a couple of years.

Animal Husbandry is his particular fancy, so he's going to learn more about it with the Texas Aggies next year. He's just the type of a young man who'll make good at A. & M., and when his education is all over, you will hear about him as Mr. Henard, stock-farmer.

Velman E. Warrick

Just what that "E" has to do with his name other than to part it in the middle, has not been explained. Mr. Warrick was born July 19, 1910, at Tea Cross City. (Note that last word, will you?) He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Warrick.

Velman is well known for his athletic ability, having played four years with the Skyrocket quintet, two years in football and two years in track. He's made Wellington a valuable athlete during the entire four years he has attended school in W. H. S.

He claims that his favorite studies are history, math, English and science. Wonder if he has any subjects he dislikes?

Next year he will either be among the forefathers present at the matador institution, better known as Texas Tech at Lubbock, or else he will horn-in on the Longhorns at Texas University.

He says that he will major in science and plans upon a career in the field of engineering.

Held in the A & M College of Texas mess hall, the banquet was attended by members of the college faculty and student body, by residents of Bryan and a number of former students of the college. F. M. Law, Houston, president of the board of directors of the college, was toastmaster and speakers included President T. O. Faison of the college; Owen Sherrill, Georgetown, president of the A. & M. CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Collingsworth County—Greeting:

You Are Hereby Commanded to summon William L. Sharp, T. S. Miller and A. E. Sharp by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day thereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 100th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 100th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Collingsworth County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Wellington, on the fifth Monday in April A. D. 1929, the same being the 29th day of April A. D. 1929, then and there, to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 5th day of November A. D. 1928 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1302, wherein The Panhandle Construction Company, is Plaintiff and A. E. Reed and wife, Hazel Reed, H. S. Black, The Baxter Lumber Company, William L. Sharp, T. S. Miller, A. E. Sharp, the last three composing the firm of the William L. Sharp and Company, are Defendants, and said petition alleging:

1. That prior to all the dates mentioned herein defendants Hazel Reed and A. E. Reed, husband and wife, were the owners of Lots 13 and 14 in Block 168, fronting 50 feet on the East side of El Paso Street in the City of Wellington, Collingsworth County, Texas, and that the City of Wellington is a municipal corporation in the County of Collingsworth, and was at all times mentioned herein, which City on June 18, 1922 duly adopted and put into effect Chapter 11 Title 22, of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, generally known as the general paving law, and that thereafter prior to the 6th day of June 1927, the governing body of the City of Wellington did determine that certain streets and alleys in said City should be graded, paved and drained in accordance with the plans and specifications then on file with the City. Which plans and specifications provided for such improvements abutting the before mentioned lots, and then on the said 6th day of June, did contract and agree with the plaintiff herein to have the same paved, drained and graded according to such plans and specifications at and for the price of $263.51, which would be payable in six equal installments, the first to be due ten day after the completion of such paving and its acceptance by the said governing body and the other payments at one, two, three, four and five years from date if such acceptance, all payments to draw 8 per cent interest, payable annually from date of such acceptance and to provide that if there was default in any interest or installment when due that the holder might mature the whole certificate and providing further for a reasonable attorney's fees, if the same should be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection. It being further agreed that the City upon completion and acceptance of such work would issue an assignable certificate showing all such matters and things with coupons attached to evidence the indebtedness against the property.

2. And that the City of Wellington then and there caused due notice of such contract to be given and published in the newspaper published in said City as provided by law notifying the owners of such property and all persons having or claiming any interest or right therein, to appear before such body on the 8th of July, 1927, that it might be determined whether or not such lots would be benefitted by such improvements to the extent of such $263.51, and oppose such contract should they desire to do so. And that upon said July 8th it was determined at a proper meeting of such governing body that the benefits accrued to such property on the grading, paving, and draining such streets would be equal to or more than the cost thereof as set out, and did determine and ratify such contract of June 6th, and as provided by law, did determine that the cost of such improvement would be a first lien upon such property superior to all liens except taxes and a personal liability against the owner thereof.

3. That by mechanics' lien, recorded Vol. 3 page 86 of such lien records, Collingsworth County, Texas, the said A. E. Reed and Hazel Reed did convey said Lots 13 and 14, Block 168 to the plaintiff herein to secure the payment of such indebtedness according to its terms and conditions and eventualities.

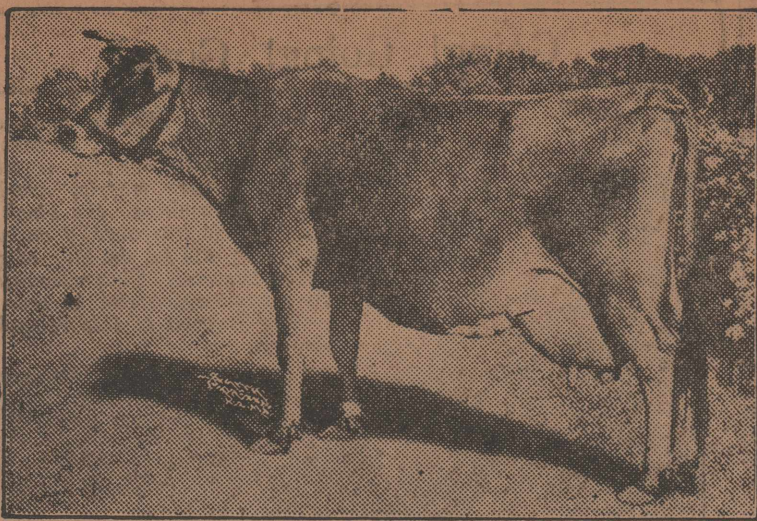

4. That acting upon such mechanics lien and the contract and ordinance as before stated, the plaintiff did proceed to grade, pave and drain the said El Paso Street abutting the property just described according to the plans and specifications agreed upon, and that the governing body of the City of Wellington did on the 17th day of September, 1927, accept the said work as compliance with the contract and ordinances and did certificate No. 12 in unit No. 34 issue to plaintiff its assignable evidencing the terms of payment

as set out and providing as permitted and acquired in Article 1090, of the Civil Statutes of the State as, such certificate should be evidenced in all Courts of the regularity and happening of all proceeding preliminary to the issue of a valid certificate and lien against said property and did deliver such certificate to this plaintiff after the same was duly signed and sealed by the proper officers of the said City.

5. That the plaintiff herein is the legal owner and holder of such certificate and all interest therein, and that nothing has been paid on the same, although on the 27th day of November, 1927, one sixth of the whole was due, and that because of the default in such payment the plaintiff has elected to mature the whole certificate, and has placed same in the hands of an attorney for collection, and has agreed to pay him a reasonable fee to represent it herein and that the sum of $175.00 is a reasonable fee for his services and that by virtue of the foregoing such attorney's fee is likewise a lien upon such property and a personal charge against the owner superior to any claim therein except that of taxes.

6. Plaintiff shows to the Court that defendant Black and defendant Baxter Lumber Company each claim or hold some sort of lien against the property by virtue of certain abstracts of judgment placed in Collingsworth County Records, and that the defendants Sharp, Miller and Sharp likewise claim a lien upon such property by virtue of a Deed of Trust thereon, but plaintiff says that such pretended judgment liens and Deed of Trust lien are inferior to the rights and liens of this plaintiff.

7. That there is now due to plaintiff by reason of its election to mature such indebtedness, the sum of $263.51 principal and 8 per cent interest thereon from November 17, 1927, and the further sum of $175.00 as attorney's fees, which defendants, and each of them have failed and refused to pay, or any part thereof.

The premises being considered, plaintiff prays for process upon all defendants, and that if have its judgment against A. E. and Hazel Reed for the sum of money set out in the preceding paragraphs, and that such sum be decreed to be a lien on the said Lots 13 and 14, Block 168, City of Wellington, Collingsworth County, Texas, and that such lien be foreclosed and the property ordered sold to satisfy the same superior to the rights of each and all of the defendants, and that if such property brings in sufficient sums to discharge the judgment, it have it execution against A. E. Reed for such sum, and it prays for such other relief legal and equitable as it may show itself entitled to receive.

ROBT A. SOWDER, Lubbock, Texas, Attorney for Plaintiff.

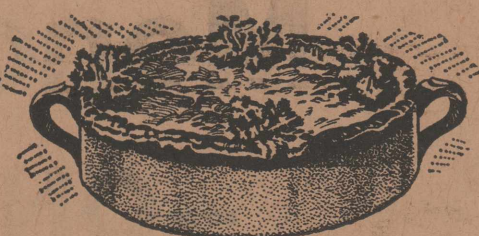

Herein Fail not but have before said Court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Wellington on this the 23 day of February A. D. 1929.

Empanada Chilean

Latin countries are famous for good—and inexpensive—food. You will understand why, when you taste this native casserole dish from the slopes of the Andes, adapted for American kitchens and improved—with Crisco. Yes, vastly improved, for no other fat in the whole wide world lends a sweeter, fresher flavor to the foods cooked with it.

2 cups finely minced cold beef or veal
1 small onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1½ cups brown gravy
1 dozen raisins
2 hard-boiled eggs, sliced
½ cup ripe or green olives, cut
Crisco pastry dough

Sauté chopped onion and pepper for a few minutes in Crisco. Mix with cold meat, raisins, eggs, olives and brown gravy. Place in Criscoed casserole and cover with rolled pastry. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 20 minutes, or until pastry is nicely browned. This makes an appetizing dinner dish which will serve 6.

Brown gravy: Brown 2 tablespoons flour in 2 tablespoons Crisco and add 1½ cups meat stock or milk.

Crisco pastry: Blend ¼ cup Crisco with 1 cup flour sifted with ½ teaspoon salt and add ice water slowly.

Honolulu Sauté

Even in romantic Hawaii, land of sunshine and flowers, housewives face the eternal problem of Left-Overs. And solve it, too, with Crisco. It's a nice thing to be familiar with a shortening like Crisco which keeps fresh and sweet in any climate and without the aid of an ice-box.

This is an economical recipe, and a good one, for using bits of "day before" food in the frying pan with Crisco. And Crisco frying is frying for Crisco itself is sweet and fresh to the taste just as it comes from the can.

½ cup chopped ham, left-over
1 small onion, chopped fine
3 tablespoons Crisco
3 eggs, beaten well
salt and pepper

Sauté onion and rice with Crisco in hot skillet. When slightly brown season with salt and pepper and pour in beaten eggs (to which the ham has been added). Cook from 3 to 5 minutes or until the egg is done and serve on hot platter garnished with parsley. This is an excellent dish for luncheon and especially attractive for Sunday night suppers.

Simplicity Croquettes

"She can make something out of nothing" (the test of a true housewife) can well be said of the woman who originated this recipe. Just cold mashed potatoes and left-over ham go into it. But when deep-fried in Crisco they become this real "company dish," croquettes, golden brown and crisp on the outside (thanks to Crisco) and well-cooked and well-flavored within. And when we stop to think about it, should any of us be willing to fry food in a fat that hasn't itself a sweet, fresh flavor? No—and that's one reason I use Crisco for frying—it tastes wonderfully sweet and fresh just as it comes from the can.

3 cups mashed potatoes
1½ cups minced left-over ham
1 cup bread crumbs
1 egg slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon Crisco

Blend potatoes with Crisco, shape into balls, hollow out center, fill with ham and cover with potato. Make round by rolling in palms of hands. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg diluted with water, and roll in crumbs again. Fry in hot Crisco (385°-390° F.) or when a small piece of bread browns in 40 seconds. Drain on absorbent paper and serve hot either plain or with sauce poured around (never on) the balls. With the addition of a salad this is an adequate luncheon.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

CRISCO was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, in the Wellington Leader Cooking School, made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure, better, surer results.

Grand Old Texas

By Phebe K. Warner

Chairman National Committee on Rural Co-operation

Recently the Denver Post carried an editorial entitled "Grand Old Texas." It was a grand editorial. And every word of it was true, I suppose. At least I am willing to concede that Colorado knows more about where Texans spend their vacations than Texas does.

When I read the editorial, it made me glad and mad and sad. It stirred my Texas pride and humiliated me all the same instant. But I'm glad that Colorado knows and appreciates Texas even if we home folks don't.

Here are a few things Colorado said, through the Denver Post about Texas: "Do you know that during the summer, three-fifths of our tourists to Colorado—that's over half—are from Texas?"

"Do you know that Texas is our best customer for our fruits and vegetables, and that carload after carload of celery, apples, potatoes, etc., are shipped into that state from Colorado?"

All of which we steadfastly believe, but isn't it a shame that it is true? Where is our Texas pride and patriotism? To think of our natural beauty going to all the year round while three-fifths of the tourists of Colorado are Texans? It would not be so bad if Texas and Colorado were exchanging summer tourists for winter tourists as the Denver Post suggests. But why aren't we? That's the tragedy we are worrying over.

Simply because the people of Colorado appreciate every lovely spot of dirt in that great state. They know where it is and they have paved a way to it and then they have broadcasted their natural glories to the world. Of course more Texans respond to their temptations because there are more of them, and we are closer than any other state with equal population. And we are not disappointed because so many people go to Colorado to cool off in the summer. I wish every man and woman and child in Texas could see Colorado. But while perhaps a half million, I'm guessing at that, have the time and means to spare to go to cool Colorado for the summer vacation, where do the other four and a half million spend their vacation?

Yes, Texas gets credit for spending $8,000,000 sight seeing every year but not one dollar of state funds goes to build up her own state park system which is one of the most union park systems in this nation, and if developed would put beauty and rest and recreation and a vacation with in reach of over three million more of our people. But even the home folks don't know much about our Texas beauty spots outside their own county and most of us have never seen all that is in our home county.

And those carloads of celery, fruit and vegetables. With more soil and sunshine and plenty of rain and a Little Florida and Southern California down in the Rio Grande Valley and all that marvelous fruit country in East Texas, and especially in Smith county that Henry Edwards talks about so much, why in Texas don't we furnish our own fruits and vegetables and celery and melons, and potatoes and save some of that money to build roads to our own summer and winter resorts and build better rural schools for our own children? Then why does Colorado would come to see us in winter time.

"Texas has everything down there that we haven't up here, and we have everything up here that they haven't down there. If you are thinking of going to a warmer climate this winter, run down and pay Texas a visit. Don't let them be more generous to us than we are to them."

There is a lot of truth in that statement too. But Texas has more than just what is absent in Colorado. Colorado has her Rockies, Texas has her Alps, the Davis Mountains. Colorado has her Royal Gorge. So has Texas, but how many have ever seen it? Who knows where it is? Colorado has her gorgeous canyons. Texas has her Palo Duro. Colorado has her towering trees, East Texas has her towering forests.

Texas should send a State Note of Thanks to the Denver Post for broadcasting one of the first specimens of Texas advertising ever put out. But Colorado knows how to advertise, and is not afraid to do it. There is a hint of selfishness in our Texas contentment. As a State we owe it to the rest of the world to let them know more about Texas. They may need our winter resorts and don't know where to find them. God didn't make Texas just for us, perhaps. Let's get busy and divide our beauty and comforts with Colorado and the rest of the world.

Road Builders Must Cooperate With Airports

Paved runways for the taking off and landing of airplanes, well paved thoroughfares leading to airports, and paved parking areas will mark the up-to-date city of the future.

Recently the first concrete airplane runway in America was dedicated at the Ford airport near Detroit. Last week the country's second hard surfaced runway was dedicated at the Grand Central Air Terminal at Glendale, California. Rigid runways are planned for other airports such as that of St. Louis, the Barren Island port of New York City, Wayne county, Michigan and so on.

Indications are that the Army will soon be authorized to construct hard surfaces at all Army airports.

Obviously, a well-knit transportation scheme cannot overlook aviation, for the art and business of flying is daily assuming a greater economic value. Most of this growth has taken place in the short span of two years.

The value of the airplane lies in the saving of time. This means that communities desiring to make the most of aviation must provide facilities that will reduce the time of travel to and from the airports. Smooth pavements of ample width must be constructed, pavements that will comfortably accommodate the heavy volumes of traffic that may be expected when Lindbergh comes to town, when special events are to be staged, or evenings and week-ends when there are many spectators present.

There is a "crying need" for adequate turning out places and places to park. No matter whether it is a country fair or an athletic contest, held in some outlying spot, the American motorist usually finds himself caught in a traffic tie-up largely because of the inability of motorists ahead of him to get off the road. This is due to narrow turn-outs and muddy or poorly arranged parking areas.

This situation can be remedied particularly in connection with airports for new developments give a wide latitude. Entrances to the airport should be hard-surfaced and of a bounteous width, and this paving should merge into a wide, hard-surfaced parking plaza.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION THE STATE OF TEXAS

To The Sheriff or any Constable of Collingsworth County—Greeting:

You Are Hereby Commanded to summon William L. Sharp, T. S. Miller and A. E. Sharp by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 100th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 100th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Collingsworth County to be held at the Court House thereof, in Wellington, on the fifth Monday in April A. D. 1929, the same being the 29th day of April A. D. 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 5th day of November A. D. 1928 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1903, wherein the Panhandle Construction Company a corporation, is Plaintiff, and Hazel Reed and husband, A. E. Reed and H. S. Black The Baxter Lumber Company, William L. Sharp, T. S. Miller, A. E. Sharp, the last three composing the firm of the William L. Sharp and Company, are Defendants, and said petition alleging

1. That prior to all the dates mentioned herein defendants Hazel Reed and A. E. Reed, husband and wife, were the owner of lots 23 and 24 in Block 27, fronting 50 feet on the East side of El Paso Street in the City of Wellington, Collingsworth County, Texas, and that the City of Wellington is a municipal corporation in the County of Collingsworth, and was at all times mentioned herein, which City on June 18, 1922 adopted and put into effect Chapter 11, Title 22 of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, generally known as the general paving law, and that thereafter prior to the 6th day of June, 1927, the governing body of the City of Wellington did determine that certain streets and alleys in said City should be graded, paved and drained in accordance with the plans and specifications then on file with the City. Which plans and specifications provided for such improvement abutting the before mentioned lots. And on the said 6th day of June 1927, did contract and agree with the plaintiff herein to have the same paved, drained and graded according to such plans and specifications at and for the price of $263.51. Which should be payable in six installments, the first to be due ten days after the completion of such paving and its acceptance by the said governing body and the other payments at one, two, three, four and five years from date of such acceptance, all payments to draw 8 per cent interest, payable annually from date of acceptance and to provide that if there was default in any interest or installment when due that the holder might mature the while certificate and providing further for a reasonable attorney's fees, if the same should be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection. It being further agreed that the City upon completion and acceptance of such work would issue an assignable certificate showing all such matters and things with coupons attached to evidence the indebtedness against the property.

2. And that the City of Wellington then and there caused due notice of such contract to be given and published in the newspaper published in said City as provided by law, notifying the owners of such property and all persons having or claiming any interest or right therein, to appear before such body on the 8th day of July, 1927, that it might be determined whether or not such lots would be benefited by such improvements to the extent of such $263.51, and to oppose such contract should they so desire. And that upon said July 8th it was determined at a proper meeting of such governing body that the benefits to accrue to such property on the grading, paving and draining such streets would be equal to or more than the cost thereof, as set out, and did determine and ratify such contract of June 6th, and as provided by law did determine that the cost of such improvement would be a first lien upon such property superior to all liens except taxes and a personal liability against the owner thereof.

3. That by mechanics lien, recorded Vol. 3 page 85 of such lien records, Collingsworth County, Texas, the said A. E. Reed and Hazel Reed did convey said Lots 23 and 24, Block 27 to the plaintiff herein to secure the payment of such indebtedness according to its terms and conditions and eventualities.

4. That acting upon such mechanics lien and the contract in ordinance as before stated, the plaintiff did proceed to grade, pave and drain the said El Paso Street abutting the property just described according to the plans and specifications agreed upon, and that the governing body of the City of Wellington did on the 17th day of November 1927, accept the said work as compliance with the contract and ordinances and did issue to plaintiff its assignable certificate No. 15 in unit No. 35 evidencing the terms of payment as set out and providing as permitted and acquitting in Article 1090, of the Civil Statutes of the State as such certificate should be evidence in all Courts of the regularity and happening of all proceedings preliminary to the issue of a valid certificate and lien against the said property and did deliver such certificate to this plaintiff after the same was duly assigned and sealed by the proper officers of the said City.

5. That the plaintiff herein is the legal owner and holder of such certificate and all interest therein, and that nothing has been paid on the same, although on the 27th day of November, 1927, one-sixth of the whole was due and that because of the default in such payment the plaintiff has elected to mature the whole certificate and has placed same in the hands of an attorney for collection and has agreed to pay him a reasonable fee to represent it herein and that the sum of $175.00 is a reasonable fee for his services and that by virtue of the foregoing such attorney's fee is likewise a lien upon such property and a personal charge against the owner superior to all liens therein except that of taxes.

6. Plaintiff shows to the court that defendant Black and defendant Baxter Lumber Company each claim or hold some sort of lien against the property by virtue of certain abstracts of judgments placed in Collingsworth County Records, and that defendants Sharp, Miller and Sharp likewise claim a lien upon such property by virtue of a Deed of Trust thereon, but plaintiff says that such pertended judgment liens and Deed of Trust lien are inferior to the rights and liens of this plaintiff.

7. That there is now due plaintiff by reason of its election to mature such indebtedness, the sum of $263.51 principal and 8 per cent interest thereon from November 17, 1927, and the further sum of $175.00 as attorney's fees, which defendants, and each of them have failed and refused to pay, or any part thereof.

The premises being considered plaintiff prays for process upon all the defendants, and that it have its judgment against the said A. E. Reed and Hazel Reed for the sum of money set out in proceeding paragraphs, and that such sum be decreed to be a lien on the said Lots 23 and 24, Block 27, City of Wellington, Collingsworth County, Texas, and that such lien be foreclosed and the

are specially made
to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

Wants Everyone to Know of Sargon Says Campbell

"For three years I was a constant sufferer from liver disorders, acid stomach, and other troubles. Sargon is the only medicine I ever found that overcame my troubles, and I wish it was so that everybody in Texas knew about this wonderful medicine. "No matter how careful I was about my eating, I suffered after every meal with gas pains and indigestion. I had no relish for even the most tempting dishes, my liver was inactive and I had to take strong laxatives continually. I felt tired and run-down, and became so nervous I would roll and toss about for hours every night before I could get to sleep.

"Sargon went right to my trouble after everything else had failed. It put my stomach in perfect condition and I get real pleasure out of my meals now for I eat everything I want and I have a fine appetite and I relish every bite. I even eat between meals and at night, and never have a moment's trouble from indigestion. My nerves are strong as steel again and I sleep like a top from the time I hit the pillow until time to get up in the morning. I have gained weight and I feel fine all the time.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills completely overcame my constipation. I never have to take laxatives now for my liver is in perfect condition. "I have already told many of my friends what a wonderful medicine Sargon is. It deserves full credit for it does just what they say it will do."

The above statement was made recently by T. M. Campbell, electrical engineer in charge of all electrical work at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio.

Sargon may be obtained in Wellington from Joe Hardy Drug Co., and in Quail from Dr. F. V. Walker.
