Invading Friends Of E. M. Smith, of Edinburg, Ask Resignation Of Montgomery In House

Action Of Picketeters From Hidalgo County Undecided Last Night; May Open Case Again Today

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—The house of representatives tonight refused to budge from its previous position in voting to seat W. R. Mansueti, of Hidalgo county, as a member and a crowd variously estimated at from 200 to 500 citizens of that county who came here to "picket" the legislature and ask that it reopen the case was undecided on its next course of action.

The invading friends of E. M. Smith, of Edinburg, who had contested Montgomery's seat, sat in the gallery during the proceeding and listened to nearly four hours of debates upon parliamentary procedure, at times applauding ardently at remarks of some friendly legislator on the floor below.

Barron Warns Spectators
As one time Speaker W. S. Barron warned the spectators that "if there is any further applause, the galleries will have to be cleared." The protest was turned down on a point of order by Keller of Dallas that the subject dealt with matters heretofore considered by the legislature, and that a motion to reconsider and table had been carried, precluding its being reopened. The vote on the point of order was 74 to 55.

Although he was fortified by two parliamentarians, an extra one having been imported into the house especially for the occasion, Speaker Barron submitted each of the many points of order to the house membership for disposal.

Following disposition of the case, the delegation filed quietly out of the house.

One More Impeachment And Oklahoma Statehood Should Go, Walton Says

To Philippines? Impeached Governor Gives His Views On Sooner Row

(By Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 13.—Jack Walton, impeached and removed as governor of Oklahoma in 1923, today gave his impressions of the trial of Governor Henry S. Johnston, now in progress before the state senate court of impeachment.

Walton views the situation of Johnston as an ironic turning of tables, he told the Associated Press in an interview. He was said he was "decidedly interested in seeing Johnston caught in the same machine which he helped form to get me." Walton blames his removal on the Ku Klux Klan, for which he said Johnston was a lecturer and officer.

Has Better Chance
The former governor said he believed Johnston stands a better chance of acquittal than he did. Public sentiment is for Johnston, Walton said, but if the senate is against the present executive, "he will be ousted despite the sentiment."

Oklahoma has tried to impeach nearly all of its governors except former Governor Robert L. Williams, probably the reason territory didn't try to get him was because he was a war-time governor.

"If we have about one more session of this kind in the state, I believe the United States government should declare the people of Oklahoma incapable of self government, should repeal the act giving them statehood and place them back under government control, as was done when the people of the Philippine Islands were declared incapable of handling their own affairs," Walton concluded.

Permits Continue To Mount Higher, Total Is $544,075
Lubbock's Pace Forward Is Increased Wednesday In Issuance Of $35,425 In Permits

Lubbock will more than likely be up very near the top of the list among Texas cities for building permit records if the last half of this week keeps up with the first half. Last week's achievement of jumping to second place has created for Lubbock much favorable attention, and should this six-day period develop a repeater, it would prove that much more advantageous.

Yesterday's permits totalled $35,425, following closely on the heels of Tuesday's record of $34,400, making the two days total at $69,825. The month's total is now at $282,347, while that of the year to date is $544,075. There have been 27 permits issued this month, making 93 for the year.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who today completed the last leg of his round trip to Central America inaugurating air mail service to the canal zone, twice took the air after his return to search for fellow pilots forced down in the Florida Keys.

After making a four and a half hour flight over the keys in search of a plane from which two persons were rescued by a ferry boat, the flying colonel, accompanied by Colonel John A. Hambleton, vice president of the Pan-American Airways, Inc., roared away into the dusk to seek the pilot of one of the planes that joined the search today, returning several hours later without having sighted the lost flier.

Grandmother Is Charged In Death Of Eight Children

Young Mother Confesses to Being Present As Woman Strangles And Poisons Infant Son Sunday

Story Is Denied

(By Associated Press)
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Feb. 13.—Sheriff Fred G. Bryant said tonight that Mrs. Okel Gorham, 23, had confessed she was present Sunday morning when her mother, Mrs. Ethel Lewis, 49, poisoned and strangled the infant son of the younger woman, and Mrs. Gorham had formally charged her mother killed three other grand children and four children of her own.

The younger mother, whose home is in Dowagiac, Mich., charged earlier in the day that her mother had killed five infant children but in a signed statement tonight increased the number to eight.

Put Dope In Milk
"Ma put dope in the milk and choked it," Mrs. Gorham said when questioned about the death of the boy, Clarence Wesley, 17 months old, who died Sunday.

Mrs. Lewis, the sheriff said, admitted placing poison in the child's milk but denied choking the boy or causing the deaths of the seven other children.

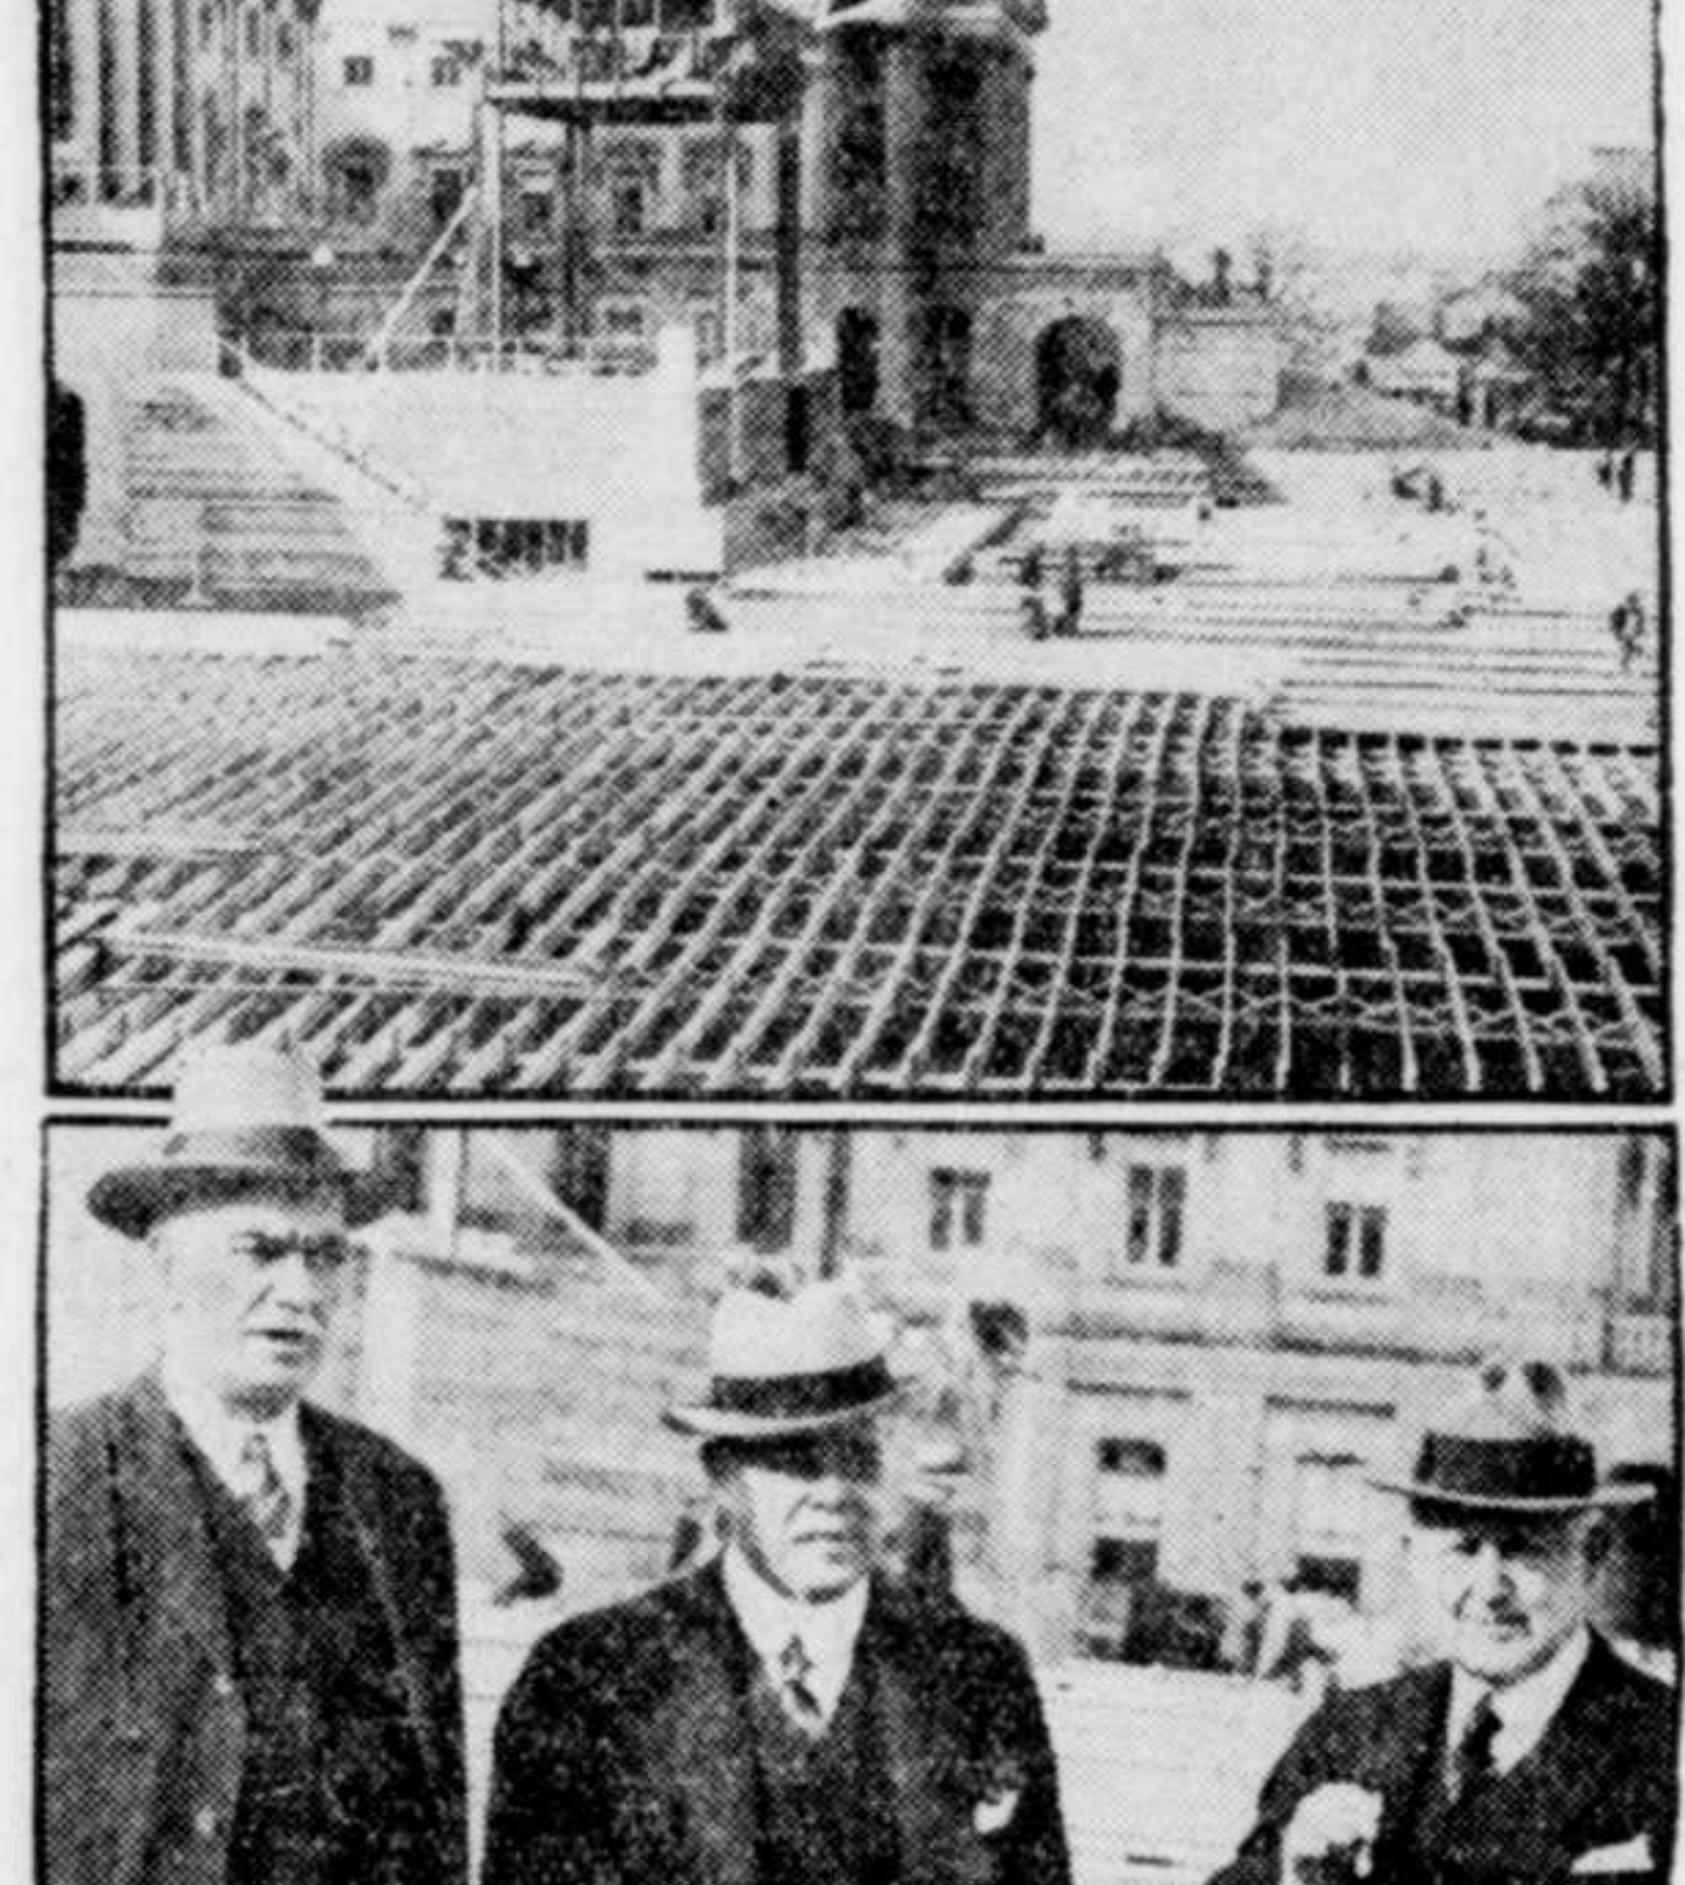

"It's a lie. They're all lies," Mrs. Lewis shouted. "The girl must be crazy."

Witnessed Another Death
The younger woman asserted in her confession that she also witnessed the poisoning of another daughter, Isabelle Gorham, but said she was not a witness to the death of the other children.

The children who Mrs. Gorham charges were strangled, and poisoned by her mother, besides Clarence Wesley and Isabelle were Louise Jane Gorham, 18 months old, who died in February, 1923; Mary Jane Gorham, 18 months old, died in November, 1926; two twin daughters of the elder woman, born of a

Officers Required To Hold Bergdorf As Verdict Heard

Convicted Man Attacks Officers Following Reading Of Decision; Charged In Dallas Boy's Death

Plead Insanity

(By Associated Press)
BIG SPRING, Feb. 13.—Five officers were required to subdue A. Bergdorf, farmer, in the courtroom here late today after a jury had given Bergdorf death for the murder of Charles Wallace, Dallas youth, last October.

For a moment after the verdict was read Bergdorf retained his stoical indifference. Then he suddenly attacked the deputy nearest him with his fists. There was a wild scramble before the officers subdued the man and placed handcuffs on him. He still was struggling as he was led from the courtroom.

Pleaded Insanity
Bergdorf had pleaded insanity, declaring his mind was a blank the night Wallace was shot to death with a rifle while standing in a filling station at Fairview, eight miles from here. Bergdorf said he drank liquor several hours before Wallace was slain.

The verdict in the filling station where the shooting occurred said Bergdorf, acting "queerly," drove into the station and ordered the youth to get in his automobile and accompany him. When Wallace refused, he said Bergdorf drew a rifle from his automobile and without a word shot the youth through the head.

Coolidge Approves Ship Construction

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Overlooking his objection to its time restriction clause, President Coolidge today approved the naval construction bill under which 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier will be laid down before July 1, 1931.

The measure was signed shortly after the president had conferred with leaders of both parties in congress on means of providing money for beginning the construction, and of preventing the enactment of other measures calling for expenditures in the present fiscal year.

Under the terms of the measure five cruisers of 10,000 tons each, the maximum tonnage allowed by the Washington treaty, must be laid down in each of the fiscal years of 1929, 1930 and 1931, with work started on the aircraft carrier, a vessel of 13,800 tons, before expiration of that period.

Nation's Youngest Portia Plays Lone Hand In Life; Never Intends To Marry; Is Great Talker

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 13.—The youngest woman lawyer in the United States is Miss Irma Von Nunes. At 19, she probably is the youngest lawyer of either sex but her career is that she never has been to law school.

Georgia, it happens, does not require law school training for admission to its bar. A sufficient knowledge of the law is the only requirement. Nor must its attorneys have attained their majority.

Irma was only 15, when she made three very important decisions; she was going to have a legal career; she was not going to keep house; she was not going to have a husband.

Out-Talked Brothers

There were five brothers in the Nunes family, and Irma was the only girl. Maintaining the feminine viewpoint against such library routine opposition convinced her that she had the making of a good lawyer. If she could out-talk five brothers, wasn't it logical that she could convince an ordinary jury?

Tillou Von Nunes, Irma's father, is one of Atlanta's best known attorneys. Irma could have gone to boarding school, or college. She could have continued her study of music or French. She might have gone abroad. But as soon as she got her high school diploma, Irma showed up at her father's office, pulled out a volume of Blackstone, and began to read.

Read Whole Library

She read for two years. No one was asked to teach her. With the aid of a comfortable chair and many a box of chocolates, she waded through that law library until, last July she announced herself ready for the bar examination. She passed, with a high rating.

In addition to arguments with her brothers, Miss Nunes gained her first legal training by accompanying her father to Fulton superior court. There she sat inside the railing listening while he tried cases, and fairly soaking in the legal atmosphere.

So the courtroom held few terrors for Irma when, immediately after admission to the bar, she began the practice of law by trying a case before the Georgia supreme court. It was the first case in which a woman attorney ever had appeared before this highest tribunal. She won it. Now she has a regular professional practice and has an office with her father.

In telling of her appearance before the court, this attractive young person who prefers the ways of law to those of romance explained first of all that the issue depended upon a technicality and that one doesn't have to appear in person before the supreme court justices.

Likes Mystery Tales

"You can just submit a brief," she pointed out, "but I thought I might be able to make it clearer and stronger if I was there and

Irma Von Nunes . . . could out-talk five brothers, so wasn't it natural that she could convince an ordinary jury?

argued it myself."

Miss Nunes prefers detective stories next to the legal code of Georgia. She doesn't dance at all, uses neither rouge nor lipstick and doesn't smoke.

"I shall never marry," insisted the 19-year-old girl, "though I have no complaint against men. In fact, they are easier to work with than women."

Asked about the new freedom women are beginning to enjoy she declared that in her opinion much that "was just silliness" hemmed in women during past centuries, and that it is good that many of these conventions are being dropped.

Enjoys Hard Work

"We talk of our new age and our new customs," she said, "but the old virtues will always remain. If you are honest and sincere and have consideration for others, you can't be far from the right road."

"I haven't any illusions about the law," she added, turning again to her chosen subject. "I know it is a plugging profession but it happens to be the sort of plugging I don't mind. The happiest people in the world are the ones with real jobs, not positions."

but I'd rather pick the job, and I think I've got about the best one in the world."

Boston Banker Declares Texas Is Due For Great Development In Textiles; State Is Attracting Much Attention

(By Associated Press.)

DALLAS, Feb. 13.—Great textile development in Texas and the south generally was predicted here today by A. W. Hill, representing the National Shawmut Bank of Boston. Five percent of the textile manufacture of the country now is done in southern states, he said.

"Eastern capital," he declared, "formerly shy at southern industries, has awakened to the opportunities of the south for textiles and is seeking outlets in this line."

"Texas, with all her natural resources, has attracted attention of bankers of the east and stands out prominently for investment in mills."

Financial Problem Of Justices Given Partial Solution

Woodward Introduces Bill Which Calls For Total of $3 Fee In Counties Of 35,000 Population

(The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—The financial problem confronting justices of the peace through the ruling several months ago by the court of criminal appeals that justices could not receive fees in cases dependent on a conviction was solved in some measure today through passage by the house of a bill written by Senator Woodward of Coleman.

The bill provides that fees for both the justice and county clerk shall total $3 in counties of 35,000 population and less and $2 in more thickly populated sections, regardless of what final disposition is made of the criminal case.

Present Account The officers are expected to present to the commissioners court a written account specifying each criminal case in which they have acted. The commissioners court is required to approve the account and order a draft issued upon the county treasurer in favor of the judge or justice.

Under an amendment drafted by Representative Johnson of Carrizo Springs and approved by the other all fees and costs shall be turned into the county treasury.

those of the day. The galleries were crowded with persons who had gathered to witness the ceremony, but they were more disposed to heed the announcement of the vice-president that there should be no applause than were the members of Congress.

Forty-one minutes after the senate appeared marching in double file at the doors of the house, the vice-president made the formal declaration that of the 531 electoral votes, Herbert Hoover had received 444 and Alfred E. Smith 87 for president, and Charles Curtis, 444, and Joseph T. Robinson, 87, for vice-president, then he announced the session dissolved and induced the senators to return to the senate.

Gifford Gets Ovation The most applause came when it fell to the lot of Representative Gifford, republican, to announce that his state, Massachusetts had cast its vote for Governor Smith. The cheers of the democrats cut him short and he was forced to stop while the vice-president restored order. A moment or so later, however, he announced with considerable emphasis that North Carolina had chosen Hoover and the republicans applauded.

There was more applause and several for hunting yells from the republicans when the Virginia and Texas announcements were made.

Although John Coeldige and Florence Trumbull have definitely spelled the chance for a White House wedding during the present administration by setting their wedding date for the summer, there's just a chance that the society matrons of Washington may have the opportunity of witnessing one before the close of the Hoover occupancy of the White House in 1932. the capitol. They were not in evidence tonight, and some of them went home. Gordon Griffin, attorney for Smith said tonight.

Future Action Undetermined Griffin said he did not know what further action would be taken. Never before in the history of Texas it is said, has a demonstration similar to the one made before the legislature today by the Hidalgo county been witnessed at the state capitol.

The delegation made its way into the capitol in a body shortly after the house had convened after the noon recess. It climbed the stairs to the second floor and halted in front of the outer doors to the hall. The door was guarded by Sergeant-at-arms Joe White and his assistant, Rand Roberts.

Griffin asked to see Representative Gasky Woodruff of Decatur, and was admitted to the reception room. There he delivered to Woodruff a petition to the speaker requesting that the case be reopened, attached to which was a petition bearing what he said were signatures of 5474 "legally qualified, white American voters of Hidalgo county" asking that Smith be given a hearing on his contest allegations, accompanying it was another petition addressed to Montgomery, which Griffin said was signed by 5210 legally qualified white American voters of Hidalgo county" demanding that he resign.

Delegation to Galleries A few minutes later the delegation climbed to the galleries, which were already almost filled with spectators from Austin who had gathered to witness the fight.

The senate cut its deliberations short and soon most of the senators were on the floor of the house, many of them accompanied by their wives and members of their families. There were many women on the floor of the house and they contributed with vigor to the waves of applause that swept the chamber as speakers made points from time to time.

The stenographers both in the house and senate and from the departments of the capitol gathered to watch the fireworks and when the offices in the building closed departmental heads and their staffs joined the onlookers.

The setting was said not to have been surpassed even by the stormy impeachment proceedings which have taken place in the house in recent years.

Arrive At Noon The delegation from Hidalgo reached the state capitol in automobiles just before noon. They wore ribbons bearing the inscription: "Good government, Hidalgo county." The automobiles bore stickers with similar wording. The cars were packed in the capitol grounds, the occupants detained and stood on the steps to the capitol for a group picture, then dispersed to eat lunch at a local hotel.

With word of the approach of the "invaders," Speaker Barron had conferred with Sergeant-at-arms White and they decided it would not be necessary to press deputies into service.

Rangers On Hand Downstairs in the Adjutant General's department lotted Texas Rangers, rolling cigarettes and swapping yarns of their escapades in the days when law and order was not so rampant.

The speaker decided to let the house decide if the matter was privileged and it so voted, 91 to 26. He then asked if it wanted to hear the communication and it voted 100 to 25 in the affirmative.

The reading clerk then read the communication of Griffin asking that the petitions be accepted and read to the house, and followed with the petitions complaining of the house's action in "summarily dismissing the contest without notice to Smith, in violation by the house of his constitutional and legal rights" and demanding a "rehearing and retrial of the contest." The petitioners "demanded" that they be

Daytime Frocks For Spring Retain Simplicity

One of these frocks exploits angles, and the other a jabot and frills, and each in its own way achieves chic and youthfulness.

BY HENRI BENDEL

NEA Service Writer NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Daytime frocks for the early spring retain their former simplicity and youthfulness and add a piquancy and charm that sets them apart from the late winter styles.

Materials are very important this spring, and are varied. Too glossy surfaces and those with a high sheen are not so smart as those that are less obviously silky. The satin, for instance, of this year, has toned down its high-lights and has depth rather than brilliance.

Silk crepes that are really smart have a dull mat surface rather than a shiny one, with a decided crepiness to the weave.

The prints of this season achieve perfection of design and beautiful color schemes rather than daring effects. All of these manifestations in material are prompted by the present sophisticated attitude of woman toward her clothes.

She seeks all the time to perfect what is good and tried, and to grow into elegance rather than novelty.

Illustrating the Trend

Vionnet illustrates the modern trend in clothes perfectly in the morning frock which is made of flat crepe in two shades of tan and where the triangle is the motivating design. It is formed almost entirely of angles, so deftly arranged that they are not monotonous in the least. The sleeve is cut raglan style—Vionnet specializes in this line, and the collar folds so softly that there is no suggestion of severity.

Fullness is introduced in the skirt by the addition of a triangular insert in the front, and the only concession to ornamentation is suggested in the brown rings which fasten the narrow, tailored belt.

Another daytime frock which is easy to wear, carried out in the mode of the moment, is the model developed in boys de rose silk crepe. The distinctive blouse has a side jabot which effect is repeated in the wide girde which wraps twice around the hips and ties in a large bow with long ends at the right hip.

Severely plain sides wrap over the pleated section of the skirt and form an overcoat on the left side. Long straight, perfectly fitting sleeves keep the silhouette straight and narrow, in spite of its jabot and its bows.

This model is wearing the type of hat which is so popular now at the inter resorts and will be bound to be popular here all summer—white ballbunt, with a band of grosgrain ribbon and an impudent bow at the side front.

Women Select Spring Costumes From Gamut Of Colors And Styles, Lubbock Man Reports On Return From Market

Women are choosing their spring costumes from materials printed in a gamut of colors and from styles which are made very feminine through the use of flares, drops and a variety of other features, according to Spencer Wells of the Hemphill-Wells company, who has been buying in eastern style centers.

Chiffon is a leading fabric and georgette is maintaining popularity, since they are adaptable to the trend of fashion this year, Mr. Wells said. Crepes continue as a staple item.

Prints are popular. The designer of prints has produced materials for this season lovelier than the popular patterns of other seasons and these are shown in an endless variety of colors and designs. Brilliance is a keynote of fashion and colors are repeated throughout the entire costume with accessories having a prominent place.

The ensemble is leading for early spring with woolen coats and silk printed or plain frocks or with both dress and coat of silk. Mr. Wells said. Many of the spring coats are fashioned without fur in order that one may make up her own ensembles through the choice of coats and dresses.

This same thing has been featured in the selection of piece goods with plain and printed materials having been chosen in the same quality and of harmonizing shades.

Cocktail Coats Appear Some of the ensembles are made up with cocktail coats, some have long coats a little longer than the dress and others have coats longer than the dresses. These costumes are effective either with or without the coat.

A few flares are seen in coats and there is a tendency toward the use of embroidery, particularly on models without fur.

Dresses show an airiness in design and construction in contrast to the boyishness of frocks during preceding seasons and always there is a predominance of color in costumes. Hats, bags, gloves, shoes and other accessories have been made up in a way to harmonize with the dresses. Some purses have embroidered tapestry designs which combine effectively with the costume.

Visca straws in close fitting models are popular hats. Feather and other trimmings are used on these models. Some hat and scarf sets are shown in printed silks. All-year felts continue to be shown.

Navy Leads Solids In the solid color materials for dresses navy blue is a leading color and a new tone, known as Byrd blue, is being featured. The color for shoes which combines with this new color is known as Commander blue with aqua blue in jewelry.

Jewelry has followed the dress trend and is airy and bright. Metallic necklaces and bracelets are popular. Dots and gingham checks are being bought along with other prints, according to Mr. Wells.

White materials are bright, colors are fast and many of the materials are washable, however, most of the silks deserve better treatment than the tub. Hoisery shows a tendency toward the sunburn shades and harmonizes with the remainder of the costume for spring.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

"I don't want to go to a girl's party."

"But, Richard, it's Jane's party. You know Jane so well—you've played with her all your life. Jane isn't just a girl."

"Yes, she is. None of the fellows want to go. They don't like girls' parties. They don't like girls at all."

"Well, what on earth has come over all of you? I declare I can't understand it. I thought your crowd were all little gentlemen, but you're acting like a bunch of ninnyes. Jane's mother has gone to a lot of trouble and I know she won't understand it. You'll just have to go, Richard, whether you want to or not. And I think the other boys' mothers will make them go too."

All Self-Conscious And so it happened. The boys all went, but they hung around like clodhoppers and were about as agreeable and polite as young Tomcats.

Never had a crowd of boys acted so terribly before! They were literally bored to death! Never would Jane's mother invite one of them to her house again! Word went round to the various mothers, who in turn were so chagrined they didn't know what to do.

They didn't know that all over Christendom, and then some, other groups of mothers were despairing about other groups of "ungentlemanly" boys who had lost their taste for girls, just as these were now doing.

And that mothers of girls were almost as desperate because their daughters had turned shy and awkward and self-conscious and lost their ability to be pals with the boys they had always played with.

The Old Story It will always be so. Boys and girls play together almost exclusively of each other until they are ten or eleven or twelve years old. Then comes the dawning of difference which we are pleased to call sex.

The first reaction to it is this withdrawal that perplexes so many parents. It is entirely natural, but it will disappear. Later they will be friends again but in a newer relation.

During this time it is excellent for parents to become very close and companionable to their developing children, and in a tactful, kindly way, as friend to friend, tell them some of the truths of life.

A book on Social Hygiene would be of help.

Mrs. Charles Moore, accompanied by Mrs. Roy Lee and Mrs. E. J. Castleberry, has returned to Falls after shopping Wednesday in Lubbock.

LUBBOCK HOUSEWIFE TESTIFIES

"I've Suffered 15 Years And Since Taking One Bottle Orgatone Feel Fine"

"I've had a long, hard struggle with ill health but by the help of Orgatone I have found relief at last," said Mrs. J. C. Harper, of 506 Ave. K, Lubbock, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently.

"I've had stomach trouble so bad for fifteen years that my life was miserable, she continued, "but I'm a lot better since I began taking Orgatone. I was in such a run-down condition, I couldn't eat anything I wanted and was losing in weight and got weaker every day. After eating even the smallest meals I would bloat up and my heart would beat so fast I was afraid something serious would result. I would have severe headaches and was weak and nervous and sometimes thought I would be compelled to stay in bed. I took all kinds of medicine but kept getting worse until I was discouraged and almost lost hope of finding anything that would help me."

"I read so much about Orgatone that I decided to try it. It may be hard to believe, but its the truth, I feel better than I have in fifteen years, and I've just taken one bottle of Orgatone. I am no longer bothered with my awful headaches, my appetite is splendid and I can eat anything I want without it hurting me in the least. My heart doesn't bother me as it did and I feel better in every way, my nerves are quiet now and I sleep fine every night. I give Orgatone credit for straightening me up and I am glad to give this statement and to recommend it to my friends."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen Drug Store under the personal direction of the special Orgatone representative.

Two Women Hold Rival Roles In Era Of Oklahoma's Governor Drama; One Self-Styled Spirit Healer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Two women, one the "Mrs. Colonel House of Oklahoma politics," the other a self-styled spiritualistic healer, have played rival roles in the "petticoat rule" of Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor facing trial on impeachment charges.

It was Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, Johnston's confidential secretary during his turbulent two years in office, who upset tradition by wielding dictatorial powers in his office. When visitors quizzed Johnston, they were told, "You'll have to see Mayme." Now Mrs. Hammonds has resigned.

Opposing Mrs. Hammonds' guardianship over the governor's private office was Mrs. Pearl B. Ashbrook, who claimed to advise Johnston through spirits of dead statesmen. Invariably her efforts to see Johnston were repulsed by Mrs. Hammonds, whom she called "that woman."

Both women claimed credit for starting Johnston on his road to the governorship. Mrs. Hammonds said she "discovered" Johnston when she first met him at the Democratic convention in 1924; Mrs. Ashbrook in turn said she had seen a "message on the wall" that Johnston would be Oklahoma's next governor.

Mrs. Hammonds made her debut into politics when she fought to keep Oklahoma out of Alfred E. Smith's democratic camp five years ago. When Johnston announced his candidacy for governor, she took a desk beside his and worked without pay.

Upon his entrance to office Mrs. Hammonds became his confidential secretary. She claimed she was in fact governor, dictating Johnston's every move. Visitors to his office were admitted only on her approval.

Johnston spurned arguments against Mrs. Hammonds and called her "an angel sent from heaven" to guide destinies of my administration.

Mrs. Ashbrook addressed Johnston as "governor" before he campaigned for the office. A message had told her, she said, that he would be elected.

She called Johnston the mystic type and said his "excellent spiritual sympathies and vibrations made him almost mediumistic."

How to Achieve Beauty

BY NINE HELENA RUBINSTEIN

One of the foremost theatrical producers on Broadway has claimed that the most important physical characteristic he requires of his girls is a good walk. You can't not imagine, he told me, how much appeal there is in a good walk. Upon the first impression and that impression will be of youth and vivacity if the walk is good.

show me a woman with tired feet, and you show me a woman with a heavy, uninspired walk, and all semblance of youth gone from her while she is in motion.

If women could learn to keep the soles of their feet flexible and their figures pliant and expressive of youth, they would be well justified in feeling that they have succeeded in cheating age. A young and vital walk is one of the most important secrets of youth.

A good walk depends a great deal upon your shoes. Have your feet measured for shoes while you are standing, not sitting down with your feet on a rug. A shoe that fits you while the weight is off your feet, is not necessarily a shoe that is going to fit you while you are standing and when the weight is distributed on your soles and heels. Short shoes often cause that disfiguring enlargement of the joint which is known as bunions.

The vogue of sport clothes which is so important to fashion these days has done much toward bringing about a same fashion in shoes. With sports clothes it is quite essential to good taste to wear low heeled shoes built along the lines of the foot. If we could go around all day in shoes of this kind, we would find ourselves and our feet in condition sufficiently good to permit of hours of dancing, and even at the end of that come up smiling. I can only sincerely hope that sports clothes retain their interest to American women, for I know if the habit of wearing comfortable shoes becomes thoroughly established, they will never go back to cramped feet within the narrow confines of what was once a fashionable shoe.

Natural lines are much more beautiful than distorted ones. I cannot see why women won't realize this. If the soles of your feet are broad, the chances are they are in complete harmony with the other lines of your body. If you have a long, slim foot, that, too, is probably wholly in keeping with your general physique. If you could only learn to follow nature, supplementing it where it is necessary, improving on it if the opportunity arises, you would have learned one of the important secrets of beauty.

If you have worn shoes that have cramped your toes, you probably are under the delusion that your toes were meant to be curved and bunched over. Try longer and broader shoes and see how quickly the toes straighten out.

Most American women have a tendency toward a narrow heel. It is well for you to indulge yourself in this matter when it comes to selecting shoes. A broad heeled shoe is very uncomfortable on a narrow heeled foot.

Remember, that a well formed foot is as lovely as a well formed hand. There isn't anything much more beautiful than the shape of a baby's foot, once it has begun to assume shape at all. Wrong shoes are responsible for every disfigurement of the feet. If you have trouble in finding shoes to suit you, go to a chiropodist, and have him study the anatomy of your foot and tell you exactly the type of shoes you should wear.

There are four essentials for a good fitting shoe. The first is width of sole, the second is sufficient room for the toes, the third is a correct heel, neither too high nor too low, and the fourth is a well-built arch and good elasticity over the instep. Buy your shoes to fit you, and your feet will never trouble you.

The Mystery Solved

How She Keeps Beautiful

The Secretary of Labor is playing the role of grand arbitrator in one of these "fool women" quarrels. To be sure, he's too polite to call it that, but we can just imagine. The Women's Bureau of the department of labor recently finished a job of research on the effects of labor legislation upon the employment opportunities of women. The report was to the effect that such legislation helped rather than retarded woman's employment opportunities.

CLAIM REPORT BIASED The National Woman's Party which, of course, resents special protective legislation for women, claiming that women lose jobs, cannot get jobs, and must take lower wages than men because of this so-called protective legislation, claims that the report was biased, being made by an organization which has always sponsored protective legislation and which, therefore, would not report any findings contrary to their own platform.

HOW ABOUT IT? Well, how about it, all ye poor working girls, have you suffered or benefited most from laws which protect you in industry? Have you been unable to find and keep jobs because of these laws, or do they merely make you less someone responsible for sanitary wash rooms, comfortable chairs, and shorter working days?

NOTHER ROW Here's another cute little row in the works. The United Restaurant Owners' Association vigorously protests to the Federal Radio Commission the permitting of cigaret propaganda on the air. The association calls the cigaret talks "a flagrant assault against public welfare, trying to transform the school girls, the growing boys and the youth of the country into confirmed cigaret addicts, regardless of the established medical and health findings."

If, in the last page of the impassioned letter, the United Restaurant Owners' Association did not remind us that it is specially detrimental for a nation-wide network to encourage cigaret smoking "as a substitute for wholesome food," one might believe their motives a bit more concerned with a whole-hearted zeal for public welfare than they probably are. In other words, it's pernicious to permit any firm to say "smoke" when the association would say "cut yourself a piece of cake."

Grid Rules Committee Likely To Rule Fumble Dead In Meeting

The announcement that Ray Morrison would stay at S. M. U. at least through another football season was somewhat of a relief to many authorities and the conference in general, but those in close touch with the situation feel certain that it will be his last season as head of the Mustang football forces.

"S. M. U. is as much out of a coach as A. & M. T. C. U., Rice and Arkansas have been during the past month," one Dallas sports writer said. "It's a cinch Morrison is leaving."

Although Morrison did not accept the position offered him by the University of Virginia and therefore did not have to apply for a release from his contract which is supposed to hold him at Dallas until September 1930, it is generally understood that the Methodist officials would not have held him back from going to the Cavalier institution. Schools do not often wish to retain a coach against his own wish. If the S. M. U. athletic council had held Morrison to his contract in the event of his resignation, it would have been rather old-fashioned as compared to the modern day ethics of the coaching fraternity.

It seems now that contracts made within the intercollegiate coaching circles are no longer binding by the legal sense of the word. Coaching contracts are worth little more than the paper upon which they are written. Time after time in recent years, the money question has come between coaches and their contracts with schools where they are employed. Naturally enough, the members of the coaching profession are going to be influenced by the money involved and the school willing to pay the fastest salary gets the man. There are exceptions when a coach changes for a shift in scenery, or because unpleasant relations have arisen.

T. C. U. authorities have reflected the general impression that Francis A. Schmidt was lured away from Arkansas University without any consideration for the Razorback institution. According to those who consummated the deal, Schmidt was not under contract at Arkansas and had already intimated that he was leaving the Porkers before the year was over. It was pointed out that a member of the Big Six or some other school was certain to have obtained the services of the Razorback mentor if T. C. U. had not grabbed him. Schmidt was leaving Arkansas, and the Horned Frogs were just lucky enough to get him.

Following his acceptance of the position of athletic director at Texas Christian University to succeed Matty Bell, Schmidt tendered his formal resignation Tuesday. The letter men of the University, meeting in an assembly of "A" men, unanimously signed a petition asking that Fred C. Thomson, assistant varsity coach, be appointed to fill the position vacated by Schmidt. This action will undoubtedly have considerable bearing on the athletic council of the university when Schmidt's successor is officially named. Thomson is capable of carrying on the regime of Schmidt and appears at present the most likely prospect for the position.

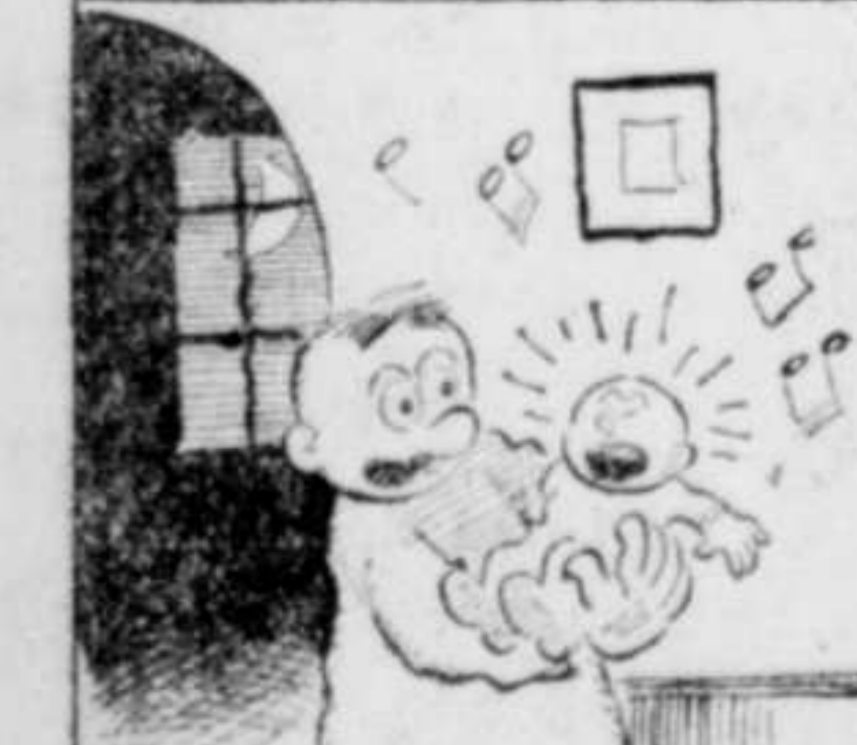

1,000,000 Francs For Race Winner

LONGCHAMP, France, Feb. 12. (AP)—The Grand Prix de Paris will be worth a cool million francs, about $400,000, to the lucky owner of the "name" race horse. The stewards have just raised the "added money stakes" to 800,000 francs—$32,000, which, with the amount accruing from the entries and scratches, should make the purse worth the round figure of the million.

The Deauville Grand Prix stakes has been placed at 500,000 francs, $20,000.

About $300,000 will be distributed in purse and stakes at the three 1 1/2-mile tracks of Longchamp, Chantilly and Deauville during the season.

Matadors Hand Alpine Basketeers Second Drubbing In Two Days As Curtain Falls On Home Schedule

Hodges Leads Tech Sharpshooters In Win Over Lobos; Game Featured By 33 Personals

The 1929 Tech basketball outfit wound up its home schedule last night by drubbing the Sul Ross Cagers 35 to 13 for the second time in two days in a contest featured by listless playing on both sides and unusual roughness. Thirty-three fouls were called during the course of the wrangle.

Apparently cocksure of their superiority over the Alpine aggregation, the Matadors lacked the ginger that has livened up their performance in previous games this season. Poor passing and poorer shooting made the Crimson look little better than the visitors during the first stanza. Occasional spurts in the final half, however, piled up the count for the locals after it appeared that neither side could do much damage to the opposition.

It would be entirely out of order to attempt to analyze the Sul Ross outfit. The Lobos continued last night to look sick in every department of play, showing no organization whatever. Loss of several stars from the lineup accounts largely for the poor showing made by the Alpine cagers in their two game exhibition. Their passing came from all directions and was as likely to end up among anywhere close to the advancing rafters of the gymnasium as forward.

Tech was unable to get started in the opening period, scoring but 14 points before the first gun sounded. Sul Ross scoring during the first twenty minutes was confined to a brace of free throws.

A slight improvement was evident in the Tech teamwork after the second half opened. More effective teamwork advanced the ball consistently through the Lobos' defense during scoring spurts, but the old incentive was lacking. Hodges led the Matador scoring during the last half with 13 of the 24 points counted during this stanza.

Hodges' 19 points was not threatened, the nearest man being 15 points behind. This was Allen of Sul Ross.

Baseball "Farm" Idea Is Failure

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—The major league "farm" system, the practice of major league clubs buying up lower class teams, is a failure in the opinion of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American baseball club.

Griffith said he thought the system unfair to the ball players themselves. "It encourages the majors to keep players in the minors who should have a chance to make good in top company," the Washington owner added.

"It prohibits the advancement of the players and the club owners are forced to cover up ball players in the minors if they make a success of the farm system. They have to beat around the bush and cut corners to do this. In other words, they keep just within the law."

Griffith declared his belief that "owner or later Commissioner Landis is going to step in and put a stop to the system."

He said the Senators had paid approximately $265,000 for 18 rookies during the past fall and this winter. This club has no stock in minor league clubs.

To Pick Referee For Bout Friday

Third Man In Ring With Sharkey And Stribling Will Be Chosen By Representatives Of Both

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—The question of the third man in the ring with Jack Sharkey, the Boston Glob, and Young Stribling, the Georgia mix it here Feb. 27, probably will be decided Friday.

This was the gist of an announcement today following a conference between Jack Dempsey, the promoter representing the Madison Square Garden Corporation, "Pa" Stribling, who manages his son, Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and members of the Miami Beach American Legion Post athletic committee, sponsors of the bout.

Names of the possible referees acceptable to both fighters will be discussed at the Friday conference which Dempsey will not attend, and if one is not agreed upon, the promoter will then name the man to referee the bout which is the first of a series of heavyweight elimination contests for the selection of a champion to ascend the throne left vacant by Gene Tunney's retirement.

While the conference regarding a referee was in session, civic officials and the chamber of commerce representatives of the great Miami area were in executive session planning to care for the 25,000 or more visitors expected to attend the fight.

Many are expected to remain aboard pullmans but plans are being made to list every available room for the hundreds who will want such accommodation.

Sharkey stepped his road work today to four and one-half miles around the Miami Kennel Club's track instead of three miles taken heretofore and went through other routine workouts.

Stribling cut his road work down but added to his other work in preparation for the biggest fight of his career. The Georgian said he believed the much road work would cut his weight too sharply.

Chess Master In Favor Of Modern Athletic Methods

BERLIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Emanuel Lasker, world champion chess player, believes that the higher development of sports is the more difficult art of intellectual and spiritual over the merely physical. As an example of his theory he cites the difference between Jim Sullivan and Gene Tunney.

"About forty years ago the heavy Sullivan was the idol of boxers," Lasker says. "Now the intelligent Tunney has taken his place. Sullivan knew how to slug with the application of all his strength. Tunney knows the more difficult art of husbanding his power and concentrating it on the weak point of his opponent."

Lasker finds a similar predominance of the intellectual in other branches of sports "throwing" (i. e. of javelin or shot) is today a matter of reflection," he holds, "as to how every ounce of energy may count in hurling the weight."

"This same thing is true of football. The arts consist in guiding a group of eleven disciplined athletes as though by a single intelligent will."

Summing up, the famous chess master finds: "The sportsman trains in order to apply to his style the results of careful contemplation; the play of his muscles, guided by practice, thus becomes the expression of a reasoned theory."

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

The Browns allowed Kress to name his own salary after he had signed a contract, unsigned. He wrote in $7,000. Why didn't he add say 40 cents, to make it worth while?

O'Goofy, by mistake, was reading the women's section of the paper the other day and noted where the length of skirts were to vary with the time of day, growing longer as the day grows older. He is going to take a course of walks through the park this spring, every morning at five.

The New York boxing commission held back a third of Max Schmeling's last purse until the claims of various "stockholders" should be satisfied. A boxer who can collect ten per cent of what he earns is a pretty shrewd financier these days.

Tunney once figured that if all those who claimed to have stock in him were paid, he would have just about six per cent of the gate coming for himself. Tunney, he said in his praise, told them all to hasten where it's a long time between drinks and icebergs.

If you hear somebody going around shouting that Pitcher Curlicues or Second Baseman Mistahop are only foul balls after all and really not such valuable ball players, he's giving himself away. It's a baseball magnate trying to get a guy to sign up.

Stribling has been doing a bit of roadwork on a motorcycle. We hope neither of the boys thinks he's on a bicycle when he steps into the ring down in Miami Beach.

Schmeling Bound With Old Manager

Athletic Commission Rules That German Fighter Must Stay With Contract; To Fight Jess McMahon

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission laid a heavy hand on the shoulder of Max Schmeling today, deciding that he must be bound by contracts made by his German manager, Arthur Bulow, whom he is seeking to repudiate, and by no other.

At the same time the commission prevented future controversies of similar nature by curbing the activities of American managers who swarm about visiting heavyweights of promise and checking the custom of assigning "pieces" of fighters to speculators in cauliflower.

In the specific case of "The German Dempsey," the commission announced that neither Schmeling nor Joe Jacobs, whom the fighter wants as his manager will be permitted to make his matches, that power belonging to Bulow alone.

Under this ruling, Schmeling must abide by a contract signed yesterday by Bulow under which the German is to fight for Jess McMahon, former Madison Square Garden matchmaker, at the new Starlight Arena on his return from Germany, probably some time in April.

Complaints Against Braves Granted Attorney General Following Campaign For Sunday Baseball

BOSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Complaints charging the Boston National League Baseball Company and O. J. Bruce, secretary of the outdoor recreation league, with violation of the corrupt pact, were granted today by Judge Charles T. Carr of the municipal court.

The complaints, returnable a week from today, were granted on application of the attorney general's department which for several weeks has been investigating the activities of the Braves and the Recreation League in connection with the campaign for the Sunday professional sports law which was adopted by a referendum at the last election.

Bernard J. Callahan, assistant attorney general, told the court the complaint against the Braves was sought on the ground that the ball club had violated the law which provides that no business corporation may expend or contribute money for purpose of furthering a question submitted to the voters.

Might Hurt Game The argument has been put forth that to rule dead a recovered fumble from scrimmage or in the open field would rob the game of many spectacular features. It would have prevented, for instance, the famous run in the wrong direction of Roy Riegels at Pasadena. Had it been in force years ago the name of Sam White would not ring down through Princeton's football annals such as it does because of his twin feat of beating Yale and Harvard in 1911 on runs of 69 and 95 yards for recovered fumbles.

But the answer of Roekne and other coaches to this is that the game already is spectacular enough, through the development of more open play, and that it would be even more so with the attacking side, not subject to any greater penalty.

Opposition Holds That It Would Make Game Less Spectacular and Eliminate Thrills

BY ALAN J. Gould Associated Press Sports Editor NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The chances seem to be that the National Football Rules committee will decide this week to make all fumbled balls dead at the point of recovery—if recovered by the opposing team.

On this salient point, at least, the committee will hear strong recommendations from the coaches when it meets in secret session at Absecon, N. J., Saturday and Sunday. The advisory committee of coaches, including Knute Rockne, will be there to argue for this sweeping change in the rules.

The rules committee, as a matter of fact, considered making this change a year ago to affect all fumbles. Such a rule applies now to the recovery of fumbled punts or backward passes, but the committee has sought more widespread opinion before considering more sweeping application.

"The activities of a newspaper demand good physical condition. I find Lucky Strike an immeasurable aid in helping me keep trim and fit. Whenever I am tempted to eat between meals, I light up a Lucky. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the cigarette of joy and benefit."

HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Lubbock Rotarians Hear Of Carlsbad Caverns Highway

Members of Caravan To Meeting Tell Of Possibilities of Route; Co-operation Stressed by Speakers

Talks by a number of visitors who were returning through Lubbock from the meeting of the Carlsbad Cavern Highway association, which adjourned at Carlsbad, N. M., Tuesday, featured the regular Wednesday noon luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday. Among these visitors were, President Albert Howell, of the Quannah chamber of commerce; Ex-President A. B. Wey, of same; President C. W. Snider and Manager E. H. Lilly, of the Altus, Okla., chamber of commerce; J. M. Moreau, of Olustee, Okla.

Bob Murray, president of the Rotary club, in opening the meeting, explained he had attended the Carlsbad meeting and pledged Lubbock's cooperation in that project. In response, Mr. Howell told of the extensive progress already obtained on the highway and declared his entire citizenship in being strong for the Carlsbad route.

Amazed At Growth
Mr. Snider, of Altus, said that he was amazed at the growth of Lubbock during his last visit here a few years ago. "We want this highway, because we know it will draw all of us closer together," he said. "The caverns are the most wonderful sights in the world, and we want the world to know how to get there."

"We become more neighborly, the more highways we have," was Mr. Lilly's statement, and he continued with saying the folks living along the Carlsbad route, from Oklahoma City to El Paso, do not yet realize how good their road is.

"Highways are like towns. They don't just grow. They are built, and it takes brains to build them, the same as it took brains to build a city like Lubbock," Lilly said.

Towns Must Act
"We have a real highway already in existence, from Quannah to Carlsbad," said J. M. Moreau, of Olustee, "and it is up to the towns along the route to tell the world about it."

Mr. Wey, of Quannah, said: "The Carlsbad highway will be the most direct route across the continent from Buffalo, N. Y., and the New England states, to the Pacific coast. Quannah believes this road will mean more to every town it goes through than two railroads would."

Lubbock Rotary club stands fourth for the entire world, in the point of attendance, President Murray announced. Dick Smith, Riley Huie and Alvin Hendricks were appointed as a house committee. Art Miller, classification machinery distributing, was introduced by Dean J. M. Gordon and taken into the club as a new member.

Freeze Damage To Valley Truck Crop Estimated Slight
AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (P)—Early estimates indicate the cabbage crop in the lower Rio Grande valley sustained only slight damage, if any, from the low temperatures last week while in the Corpus Christi-Robstown district one fourth of the crop was damaged, according to a report today by Charles Sperle, truck crop specialist with the United States department of agriculture.

In the lower valley beans were damaged 35 to 40 percent, tomatoes 20 to 35 percent, potatoes 20 to 30 percent, while beets and carrots were not damaged, the report stated. Onions in the Corpus Christi-Robstown district are reported to have been damaged about 25 percent and the crop set back a week or ten days, he said.

CUBS START WEST
CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (P)—The advance guard of the Chicago Cubs will depart tomorrow for the club's spring training camp at Catalina Island.

The contingent will be composed of pitchers and catchers but ten days later the infielders and outfielders will train.

DETECTIVE CHARGED
A. C. Yeager Is Indicted In Death of 14-Year Old Boy
LONGVIEW, Feb. 13. (P)—A. C. Yeager, railroad detective, was indicted today for murder in the fatal shooting of Wesley Harbison, 14, here Saturday night.

Harbison, it is alleged, was shot when he and several other youths were fleeing after they had attempted to board a freight train. Yeager says his pistol was discharged accidentally.

BROKEN REST
Caused by Bladder Irritation Is Nature's Danger Signal
C. R. Kidney, Ontario, N. Y., says: "Lithiated Buchu has done more for me than all other remedies combined. Some days I had almost a constant desire with a terrible burning sensation. Would be bothered about six times at night. Will tell or write my experience to any one." Don't take astringents for this. You may get the habit or be forced continually to aid nature. Lithiated buchu, (Keller Formula) acts on the bladder as epson salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign matter, decreases excessive acids, thereby relieving irritation.

Now Is The Time For Citizens To Aid Lubbock In Securing Park Sites

Suitable Site Locations Are Wanted By City Park Commission; Tentative Location of Six Parks Given By Group; Donations Will Be Received

Opportunity exists at this time for some one who owns a few blocks of land, all in one vicinity, and who desires to have its value increased to do either one of two things. The first would be more appreciated, not to say increasingly more attractive.

First: Donate a block or more of your land to the city of Lubbock for use as a municipal park.

Second: Offer a block or more of your land to the city of Lubbock for use as a municipal park—at a price that will enable you to sleep as well as a Boy Scout—having done your good turn.

The idea is that the Lubbock park commission, which is composed of Charles H. Mahoney, chairman; K. N. Clapp, J. B. Maxey and Mrs. C. F. Stubbs, are working on plans for a city system of parks and playgrounds. They are on the lookout for suitable sites in six different parts of town, planning ahead far enough that their work will provide park utilities to the Lubbock of five and ten years from now, as well as of today.

Tentative Location Given
These six parks are to be located in the sections as defined following: Between Broadway and Nineteenth and Texas and Avenue Q; In O'Neill Terrace, Highland Park and Heights section; Between Broadway and Nineteenth and Avenue Q and College; South of Nineteenth street and West of College Ave; In the negro flats section, and in the Mexican quarters.

It would pay any owner of considerable property to donate a block or more as a park site. With the development of the park by the city government, his other property would be increased sufficiently in value to pay him for the donation. Upkeep of these parks will be taken care of by the city, from funds to be raised by taxes, as will the business of placing the necessary playground paraphernalia in them. This latter might be done by certain civic organizations, for certain parks.

Extra Money Need Is Cause of Crime

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13. (P)—Two youths, Orville Trout, 19, and Walter I. Tryon, 18, who said they had "wanted a little extra money," confessed today they slew James Reese, 18, filling station attendant, in a robbery last night.

Reese was wounded fatally when he attempted to knock a revolver from Trout's hand.

A search by Trout for the revolver, which he threw away a block from the scene of the shooting, led to the arrests.

MEXICO CITY, (P)—Women suffragettes are entrenching for a long siege. A group will descend on the next convention of the anti-re-election party and demand a "votes for women" plank.

Deaths From Car Accidents Show Increase In Texas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (P)—A dream of a Brooklyn woman in which the name "Picardo" was impressed on the subconscious mind has resulted in a request by Representative Celler, democrat, New York, that the navy send airplanes to San Salvadorean waters in search of the woman's son, Lieut. Henry John Schmidt.

Schmidt was missing from his quarters on board the battleship Arkansas a month ago and inquiry developed that he apparently had been washed overboard in Central American waters.

The officer's mother, a letter to Celler said, investigated after her dream and found that "Picardo" was an island off San Salvador. She thought it possible that her son was on this island and asked that the government make an investigation there.

El Paso Holds Low Mark
El Paso holds the low records, reporting two deaths in January 1929 as compared to one on January 1928. Thirty-four deaths were reported for the year just closed as compared to 27 the preceding year.

Dallas reported four deaths in January of each year, and a gain in the yearly total from 48 to 62. Fort Worth recorded five deaths this January as compared to four last year; and 45 for the year as compared to 29.

San Antonio was the only city to report a lower death rate in January this year than last, dropping from five to four. The number for the year, however, grew from 49 to 61.

January Has Greater Number of Deaths Than 1928, Report Shows; Houston Is Leader Of Group

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Deaths from automobile accidents in the five Texas cities reporting to the United States department of commerce for the first part of the year increased from 13 in 1928 to 33 in 1929, according to the department's monthly report issued today. Deaths in the same cities for the 52-week period ending January 26 jumped to 280 from 190 the preceding year.

Houston led the state in high mortality figures for the past month and year ending January 26, and also in gains over the periods in January 1929 there were 18 deaths there as compared to one in the preceding January, and in the 52-week period ending January 1928 there were 40 deaths as compared to 78 for the year just closed.

Since the "Talkies" came, Hollywood is stronger than ever for Old Golds

"A year or so ago, Hollywood didn't think much about its vocal chords or its voices. We were all in the silent drama then.

"But the coming of the 'Talkies' has changed things. Lovely stars, leading men, 'heavies' and ingenues are guarding their throats with zealous care . . . and smoking OLD GOLDS.

"It didn't need the 'Talkies' to win me to OLD GOLDS. I've been smoking them ever since they came to Hollywood, two years ago. But it's an added satisfaction to know they are kind to the voice, when the voice has assumed a new importance!"

monition. "Go to the devil!" she commanded tersely. He stood there until she had stepped into the lift, and was whisked away. The lift, he noticed, was like a golden cage. And the thought flashed through his mind that Ashforth was a captive girl in a golden cage. Monty was not imaginative, nor particularly sentimental. He shrugged, and pulling his smart hat over his eyes, stopped a taxi and returned to his pension.

Some time after midnight, he was startled by a patter of small stones on his window. He woke instantly. With a sort of clairvoyant sense, he knew that Ashforth was in the garden throwing pebbles to rouse him. So sure was his conviction that he did not pause to look, but slipped into his dressing gown and hurried down stairs. As he stepped through the wicket into the garden, she came toward him. She was wearing a long dark wrap, and pumps with ruffled heels.

"You'll catch cold," he told her coolly, quite as though he were used to visits from beautiful girls who came at midnight, to throw pebbles at his window. "Go up stairs, and I will call Madame."

"It's about Holly!" she cried. "He hasn't come home yet." "Monty look her arm sternly. "Go in the house."

"Don't be cross!" she begged and caught his wrist with her hand. "I woke up, and when Holly wasn't there, I was so frightened, I didn't wait to dress. I didn't think, Monty. I only threw on a wrap, and came straight to you."

He led her down the little flagged walk and into the house. "Wait in my room," he commanded. "I'll be there, as soon as I can rouse Madame."

She stumbled up the dark stairs. There was a fresh, clean, shining whiteness, and the room was full of shadows. Dark, hateful shadows. And a great ugly wardrobe she bumped her knee on the thing, and tripped, falling against the bed. It was soft and warm and smelled faintly of tobacco. She sat on the edge and waited. Her heart was pounding wildly.

In a moment Monty came carrying a candle, which he shaded with his hand.

How handsome he looks, thought Ashforth. But she was trembling too violently to say anything. There were voices on the street, and the sound of a car with engine running madly. Then a horrid clattering shook the little house.

"That's the sort of knocker we have," whispered Monty. "Maybe it will wake Madame. I couldn't. It must have been an iron knocker, at the very least. It shook the bricks, and beat soft wood. And flakes of mortar came tumbling down from the walls. "It would rouse the dead," shuddered Ashforth.

Then they heard Madame breathing loudly, in the next room.

They heard her plant heavy feet on the floor, and they heard the bed creak. She struck a match and lighted her candle. And, complaining, descended the stairs. Monty went to the door, and opening it, listened to the conversation in the hall below. After a moment, he turned quietly to Ashforth.

"It's your husband," he said. "And Madame is sending him up."

Stock Market Goes Into Confusion As Sentiment Shifts

Failure of Gotham Federal Reserve Directors To Announce Action Brings Deluge of Buying Orders

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER, (Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The stock market was pushed about in confusing fashion by frequent shifts of speculative sentiment today. The market displayed considerable buoyancy at times, but heavy selling in the last few minutes of trading left prices highly irregular.

Failure of the directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank at their special meeting Monday to announce definite action to curtail the use of credit brought a heavy accumulation of buying orders over the holiday, which carried prices up sharply during the morning. Some unusually bearish commission house advices brought considerable selling into the market around midday but the upward movement was resumed during the afternoon, as call money returned to 6 per cent having opened at 7 1/2.

Traders displayed uneasiness about the regular Federal Reserve meeting tomorrow. Although brokers loans are expected to show a substantial reduction, some definite action to restrict credit available for speculation still is expected. Fears are not generally felt over the re-discount rate, as an increase here would nullify the action in London last week. Time money continued firm, and dealers buying rates for bankers acceptances were increased 1-8 of one per cent which was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that the reserve bank is tightening credit by lightening its holdings of bills.

Trade and business news was favorable. Iron age said production is sustained, after January records in both pig iron and steel output, and prices of rolled steel are gaining in strength. Iron trade review said February steel making rate indicates another monthly record and brings within reach the highest daily output rate in history. Underwood Elliott Fisher reported earnings of $6.45 a share last year, against $5.54 for the component companies of the present concern in 1927. After the close of the market, directors of Wesson Oil and Snowdrift declared a 100 per cent stock dividend.

It was deepened to 4,032 feet in the Misener sand yesterday and is to be drilled eight feet deeper today. The Misener sand was topped at 4,013 feet.

The Texas Company's Number 1 Cassidy in the Tonkawa field extension, is making 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas and flowing 25 barrels of oil by heads while drilling in black shale at 4,403 feet. It is in the northwest corner of the east half of the southwest of 29-25-1 west.

Trade Buying Is Upward Influence To Cotton Prices

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—(AP)—After an irregular opening the cotton market strengthened later today under good trade buying and covering which absorbed liquidation and realizing the forced prices up 10 to 11 points above the previous close. There was a renewal of realizing in final trading and May contracts which had traded up to 19.57 eased off and closed at 19.51, or 5 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 5 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due but the market here opened relatively steady. First trades showed gains of one point to losses of one point and after a slight rally the market encountered some selling probably induced by the unsteady English market and March sold down to 19.32, May 19.43 and July 19.46, or 3 points under Monday's close.

Offerings were absorbed at the setback by trade buying and covering promoted by bullish textile statistics of the British Board of Trade and a reduction of 26.6 per cent in fertilizer sales during December and January. Some of the covering may have been in anticipation of a bullish census bureau January domestic consumption report due tomorrow. At any rate March advanced to 19.39, May 19.52 and July 19.55, or 4 to 6 points above the previous close.

After a momentary setback the market turned firmer again under renewed covering and all active positions made new highs for the day in afternoon trading with March at 19.45, May 19.47 and July 19.60, or 10 to 11 points net up. Final prices were 6 points off from the best due to last minute realizing.

Receipts 9,392; for week 59,080; for year 8,169,603; last year 6,976,723. Exports 18,036; for week 96,786; for year 5,798,934; last year 4,799,096. Stocks 2,167,683; last year 10,987.

Trading Is Slow On Texas Market

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP)—While trading was a little slow in the cattle division here today, most classes about steady. The supply was about in line with the same day of last week. Mixed loads made up the bulk of the receipts.

Except for one load of good heavy steers, trading was limited to light and medium weights. A few rather common steers sold during the morning session at 9.00 and 10.00, or about steady, but the better steers were in the hands of the splitters at noon.

Except for a short load of heavy bulls that sold at 8.50 to 8.75 for the better heavy bulls, while common light bulls cleared around 6.50.

Cows about steady, with carlots due to sell at 8.00 to 8.25. Cannerns and cutters generally scarce with buyers paying fully steady values for them. The bulk of sales at 5.00 to 6.00.

The supply of slaughter yearlings fairly liberal with trade dragsy. A few early sales about steady at 11.25 to 11.25 and package lots up to 12.25.

Calves scarce with buyers paying prices in line with yesterday's trading. Most of the calves arrived in package lots with sales at 11.25 and less. A load of stocker calves sold at 11.25, with a few good light steer calves up to 12.00.

A very light offering of sheep sold steady, with few sales of medium to good weighty woolled fat lambs at 15.00 and 15.25; shorn fat lambs at 14.25.

No early sales in the rail division of hogs and packer buyers bidding up to 10.20 or steady. Truck hogs up to 9.75, or ten to 15c higher.

Motor Dealers To Talk Show Plans

Lubbock automobile dealers will meet tonight in a supper at 7:30 at Our Cafeteria to discuss plans and details of the approaching Automobile Show sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal which will be held at the Uptown Dance Palace, February 28, March 1.

Preparations for the show are going forward at a rapid pace with a majority of the dealers already making reservations for display space in the palace and otherwise preparing exhibits to dazzle the eye of all South Plains citizens who attend.

Mayor Harley D. Woods is to officially open the show, it was announced yesterday.

In addition to the exhibition of scores of the world's latest styles in automotive design, a splendid program of free entertainment, featuring music and dancing, will be provided.

Waste oil, burning on a vacant lot at the corner of Avenue K and thirteenth street, about 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, caused a hurried run by the fire department. Upon arrival firemen permitted the oil to burn up, as no danger threatened.

Supreme Court Is Asked To Review Convictions In Charge Of Conspiracy In Pro Laws

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Four men, two of them physicians, today asked the supreme court to review convictions in four cases charging conspiracy to violate prohibition laws by the fraudulent issue of liquor prescriptions.

The four men were convicted in lower courts of a conspiracy in which Drs. William L. Robinson and Eugene Irvine at the request of Robert A. Blaine, Jr., pharmacist, and his assistant, Thomas E. Culwell, were alleged to have written liquor prescriptions for fictitious persons, most of whom they had never seen. The alleged fraud occurred in Dallas.

All four men, in the request for a review, claimed the indictment was defective.

IN COLUMBUS' HIGHEST HOPES

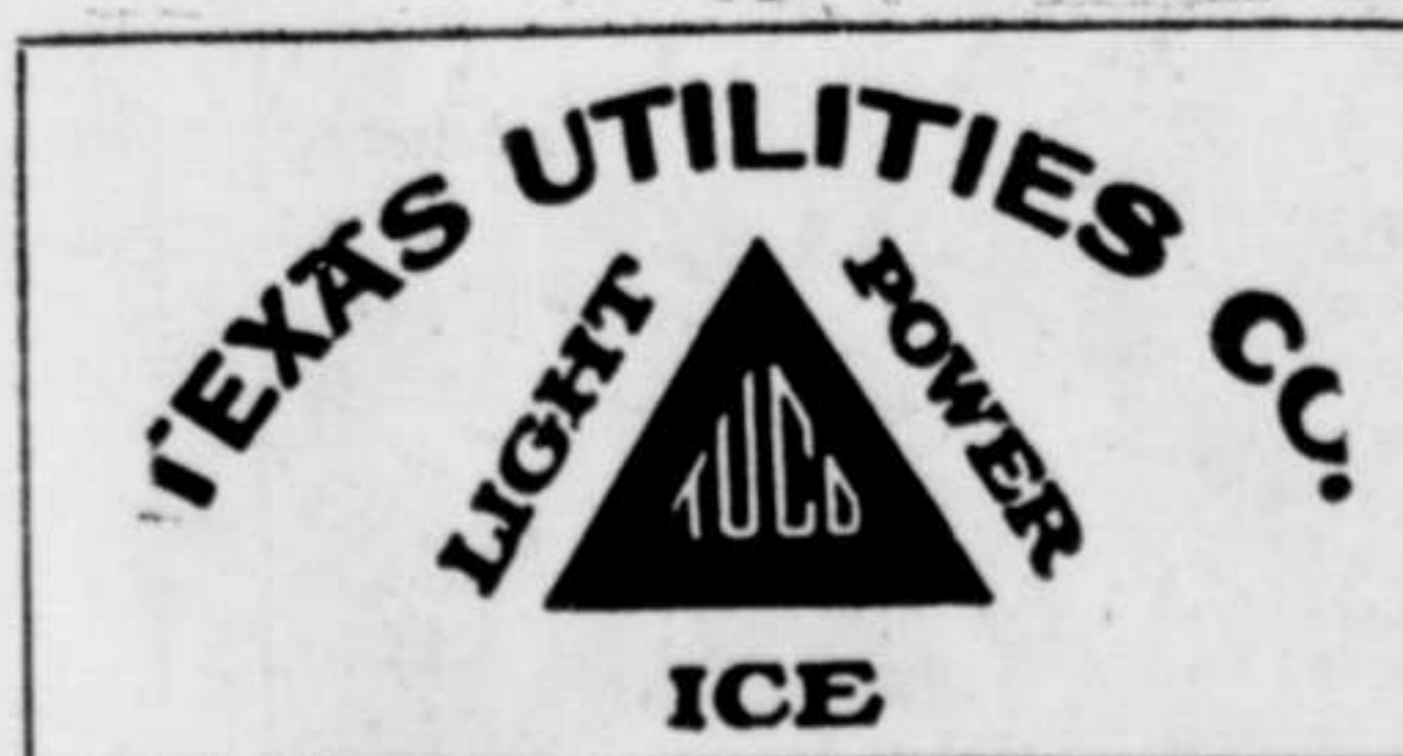

... India contained not one-tenth of the items gathered under the roofs of Lubbock's business men.

The love of endless variety in new things has proved the motive power prompting discovery throughout the ages. Isabella, Queen of Spain, sold her precious jewels to aid Columbus in his effort to discover a new trade route to India. Believing that such a discovery would place untold riches in merchandise at the disposal of the Spanish nation. Instead a new world was found.

Yet even Columbus' discoveries of merchandise of the new world never encompassed one-tenth of the items gathered under the roofs of progressive Lubbock men.

This same story is again enacted right here in our own metropolitan city . . . Lubbock. For, where once the meandering cow path trailed into endless prairies now stands monuments of the modern Columbus. Steadily growing, ever on the alert for advancement and stability.

And as it was in the days of pioneering, so will it be in the future . . . this Utilities Unit will be in the parade of progress—fighting for the common cause, happiness and prosperity in a greater West Texas.

Battle Of Reparations Is Started In France; To Attempt Final Settlement Of War Debts Problems

These men are among the experts who will meet in Paris February 9 to settle the question of German reparations and future annuities. The map shows the Rhineland occupied areas.

BY ELMER ROBERTS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—So much preliminary conversation has taken place among European statesmen on reparations while the committee of experts has been forming that the opening moves of several of the governments are rather well known to the others.

The experts gathered in Paris on February 9 to reopen the troublesome question. They will reexamine Germany's capacity to pay, and will determine the amount of annuities.

The French position, for reconnoitering will be that the German annuities are fixed by the Dawes plan at 2,500,000,000 marks plus the prosperity index increase beginning with the sixth year that is to say, September 1, 1930.

Depend On Germany
The French delegates will represent that the number of annuities is also clearly indicated by the terms of the debt payments among the allies. The mutual obligations of the allies and associated governments still run for 60 years.

The French government, as it must continue paying upon being paid also by Germany. The Dawes plan providing for the creation of a commission to fix the index of prosperity of Germany, to increase her annuities beyond the 2,500,000,000 gold marks, is therefore the real work for the committee to undertake.

The German members of the committee will represent that the country could not continue to pay the 2,500,000,000 gold marks, that to pay so great a sum has only been possible as the indirect result of foreign loans, these loans having now diminished to a point where they can be no longer counted upon as a resource. Consequently, Germany's capacity to transfer money abroad must be fixed far below 2,500,000,000. The half of that amount would strain the resources of the country.

Has Thirty Years
As for the number of years in which Germany must pay, the Treaty of Versailles mentions 30 years. Germany accepts that number of years, beginning with 1921, when the reparations commission took a decision on how much Germany should pay.

The French will insist that the term of 30 years could only be accepted if Germany doubled up her payments and completed them in 30 instead of 60 years. They will put the question that had Germany paid nothing during 30 years would that have discharged her obligations? The time must be extended until she has.

The second line of the German case is understood to be that she would pay 35 annuities, that is to say, until 1964. That year is taken because the German railway bonds would be amortized by that date. The payments on them only began two years ago, and as they amortize themselves in 37 years there are still 35 years to run. It is expected that Germany will contend tenaciously that her annuities cannot go beyond 1964.

The British position is that as they only expect to benefit from reparations to the amount of their annuities to the United States they could agree to cutting down the annuity from 2,500,000,000 to 2,100,000,000 gold marks. The percentages among the allies remain the same. England would receive 22 per cent and the remainder of her American annuities would be made up by what France and Italy would pay her out of their shares.

Italians Dissatisfied
The Italians are not satisfied with their 10 per cent. They feel that as they must pay England and the United States much more than 250,000,000,000 gold marks of the present year's annuity, they ought to have a larger percentage, or Germany ought to pay more.

Belgium is, as they say, "sitting pretty." Her debts to England and France are a priority on reparations. Besides that, she receives about 4 per cent under the present arrangement, which meets her instalments to the United States and perhaps something over.

The allies and Germany must agree, and at the same time the allies must be in accord among themselves, so that the difficulties to be overcome will require great patience and ingenuity.

There are plenty of other problems confronting the committees. To a German the presence of foreign troops in the Rhineland is humiliating. Hence the Germans will plead for general evacuation.

Further, the Germans would like to be rid of the supervision of S. Parke Gilbert, agent general for reparations; of the control of her railways; and of the transfer committee on the movement of exchange and the partial direction of the Reichsbank.

The 14 men making up the experts' committee are:

United States — J. P. Morgan,

LANGUAGE BOTHERS

PARIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—One of the bothers that will face the committee of reparations experts is that of language. Will everything have to be dealt with in three tongues?

Herr Schacht speaks excellent French and English. Vogler, is said to be less expert linguistically. Mr. Morgan knows French, but not Mr. Young.

M. Moreau, the governor of the Bank of France, does not speak any language except French. M. Parmentier knows English extremely well, as our financiers know from having met him while he was French official agent in New York.

The British delegates, Sir Josiah Stamp and Lord Revelstoke, both speak French, but not German.

Signor Pirelli, the Italian, is reputed to know 19 languages. Professor Suvich, the other Italian delegate, is also a linguist.

If interpreters are to explain in two others everything said in one language the proceedings are likely to be cumbersome and exceedingly wearying and trying for the nerves of the committee.
