Growing Potatoes—Where It's Hotter—Buying Sunlight—Court Delays—

Charles Weeks, California colonization expert who is to undertake the settlement of 5000 acres here, should be interested in the potato crop of Fred Staber, who lives on the Iowa Park road. Mr. Staber brought to The Record News and Daily Times office Thursday 12 potatoes weighing more than 12 pounds, and will secure 100 bushels to the acre from his crop. Mr. Weeks, primarily interested in poultry, will find use for wide diversification in the development of his small-farm project.

While the potato crop in Wichita county this year as a whole was far from that anticipated, the yield here is usually good. Even in an unfavorable year, unusually large potatoes of fine quality were produced. Few sections could produce a potato crop such as Mr. Staber's after the crop had been frostbitten three times as was the case with the Wichita farmer.

Wichita Falls residents, watching the daily temperature readings and bemoaning the heat, should be thankful they have only to bear the high temperatures, instead of extreme heat and extreme humidity. Deaths or serious strokes from the heat are seldom recorded in West Texas, although quite common in other parts of the nation. If you can't spend the summer in a cooler climate, there is no more healthful section than hot West Texas.

A Wichita Falls man with lumbago or some such ailment told this writer Thursday of spending $3 a day for treatment by "artificial sunlight" from some sort of ray generating machine. Which seems an absurd procedure. This writer knows nothing of the man's lumbago or of the new machines maintained by Wichita Falls physicians. But why spend $3 for 30 minutes of "artificial" sunlight in a country which is furnishing the real article 12 hours a day, free of charge, and delivered at a temperature of from 90 to 105 degrees?

A limited number of campaign orators who are still wailing for "swifter justice and fewer technicalities" should read the record of the supreme court of Texas. Only 19 cases were carried over by the supreme court of the state from this term to the next, which begins in October. A few years ago the supreme court was seven and one-half years behind it docket. Of the 19 carry-over cases, nine had been submitted and 10 were pending for submission. Seventy-four are pending in each section of the commission of appeals, 10 cases are awaiting reference and one case is before a special court. There is little law delay in Texas.

As for the criminal side of Texas law, there are more convicts in prison and on the prison farms than ever before in the history of the commonwealth, and the electric chair is never idle. These convicts have been larrely put behind the bars by courts and prosecutors in the last year. Facts are facts.

Skelly Has 100,000 Bbls. Of Potential Production

TULSA, Okla., July 5.—The Skelly Oil company's daily potential production on its Hendricks leases in the Hendricks pool, of Winkler county, West Texas, is placed at 100,000 barrels, by economists with the company.

Its newest well is No. 5-A Hendricks, in the southwest corner of the 160 acres in section 40, block 26, of public school lands survey, which had the pay at 2728 feet, and big pay at 2752 to 2754 feet. It is now pinched to 100 barrels an hour, after making 760 barrels one hour and 800 barrels the second hour.

New Orleans Man Takes Life by Drinking Poison

NEW ORLEANS, July 5. (AP)—Henry Conti, assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company here, committed suicide today by drinking poison.

Drinking the poison in the bathroom of his home he rushed into the yard where his wife was, informed her of what he had done and collapsed at her feet.

Mrs. Conti said she knew of no reason why her husband should kill himself.

RECALCITRANT TAKEN TO TASK IN STATEMENT

Former Cabinet Member Releases Caustic Suggestion

BELITTLES BOLTER

"Influence Greater Out Of State," Given As His Reason

AUSTIN, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Albert S. Burleson, postmaster general in President Wilson's cabinet, and warm supporter of Gov. Alfred Smith for president, suggested somewhat caustically here Thursday that Texas Democratic candidates who have announced intention to "bolt" the New York governor, carry more weight outside of Texas than within, and for that reason should have their names left on the July primary election ballot for an evaluation by the home folks at the polls.

In a statement decrying bolting, Mr. Burleson objected to any effort to remove the bolters' names from the ballot, declaring "they have done all the injury to our national nominees they can."

Undeserved Influence

"This injury results not so much in Texas where they are known," he said, "but beyond its limits where, because of their candidacy for important state offices they are given an influence to which they are not entitled. Outside of Texas, voters do not know just what queer erratic and unusual people can, by the payment of a small entrance fee, have their names placed on our Democratic primary ballot. They do not understand just how unimportant and of what little consequence such people really may be. Would it not be wise to leave the names of these bolters on the ballot so that the result of the primary election could show what value Texas Democrats place on them?

Engineers Accused In Russian Plot to Die

MOSCOW, July 5. (UP)—Eleven Russian engineers, accused of counter revolutionary tactics, were sentenced to death today after a long and sensational trial. Two Germans accused with them were acquitted and two Russians involved in the charges were held innocent. Clemency was recommended for five of those sentenced to death and it was believed likely their sentences would be commuted. Six others of the 20 defendants at the trial were sentenced to from one to 10 years in prison.

Financier's Strange Death Causes Huge Losses

Investors in Loewenstein's Holdings Suffer Stock Reversals; Mystery of Channel Tragedy Deepens

LONDON, July 5. (UP)—The death of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, spectacular and mysterious man of international high finance, shook the stock markets of four old world capitals today and caused losses of hundreds of millions of dollars to stockholders of companies in which he had holdings.

Loewenstein stepped from the door of one of the big fleet of private airplanes as it sped across the English channel to Brussels Wednesday night and dropped to his death in the sea.

Mystery Unsolved

The mystery surrounding his death, as it had surrounded his life, was unsolved tonight but the impression grew throughout the day that the financier had committed suicide.

Loewenstein left Croyden airdrome about 6:45 p. m. His pilot landed about 8 p. m. on the sands at Dunkirk and reported the financiers disappearance when the plane was about five miles off the French coast. The airplane carried, besides a pilot and mechanic, a valet and two women secretaries.

Loewenstein usually traveled with a large staff of secretaries and assistants and often with a fleet of private airplanes.

Pilot in Interview

Captain Ronald Drew, pilot of the airplane, in an interview said:

"We crossed the channel at a height of 4000 feet. The body would have been completely shattered by a fall from such an altitude. It would be impossible to say just when he fell but it probably was about five miles off the French coast.

"After the valet found that Loewenstein was not in the machine he wrote on a piece of paper the words 'captain gone' and held it against the glass partition separating the pilot's seat and the passen-

Accompanying them were 200 sailors, familiar with the Spanish language, to be used for duty at the polls during the coming Nicaragua election. The Medusa is due at Corinto July 10.

AMY EARHART HOME TODAY

New York to Greet Trio This Morning

NEW YORK, July 5. (US)—Miss Amelia Earhart, the aviation wonder girl who, with her co-pilots, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, made the first successful transatlantic flight from Trepassy Bay, N. F., to Burryport, Wales, will be welcomed back to America tomorrow morning.

All honors possible will be heaped upon the three intrepid fliers of the Friendship plane. New York's welcome will begin when the three leave the S. S. Roosevelt and board the Macom, the official tug which steams out to sea to garner in all visiting celebrities.

Ticker Shower

And then Miss Amelia and Messrs. Stultz and Gordon will see the town! This means a ticker tape shower and innumerable banquets. Thousands of people watching the parade in honor of the fliers will join in mighty voice to cheer the modest young aviatrix.

New York's welcoming committee, headed by Grover A. Whalen, is in charge of the fliers' reception. After an official welcome at the city hall, Miss Earhart will be whirled away in a series of entertainments, according to plans made by George Palmer Putnam, co-backer with Mrs. Frederick Guest of London of the Friendship's flight.

Byrd Gives Luncheon

Commander Richard E. Byrd tenders a luncheon to the fliers tomorrow afternoon. The guest list includes Sir George Wilkins, Mrs. Theodore Rooseveit, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer Putnam, Bernt Balchen, Clarence Chamberlin and Kent Cooney.

Monday morning Miss Earhart will fly to Boston to be feted there. She will return here Tuesday to board a special train to Chicago where a four-day celebration will take place.

Cal Finds Fishing Mate In Wisconsin Governor

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 5. (AP)—President Coolidge found a new fishing companion today in Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin, whom he invited to come for a day and night visit to Cedar Island lodge.

President Coolidge had gone fishing before the Wisconsin governor reached the executive residence. He returned, however, to bid his guest welcome and then suggested fishing again. Governor Zimmerman will leave the lodge tomorrow with President Coolidge when the latter will come to Superior for his biweekly call at his offices.

Money Changes Leave Securities Untouched

TEXAS G. O. P. TO PUT SLATE IN CAMPAIGN

Butte Most Likely To Be Candidate For Governor

WICHITAN NAMED

Bullington for Senator Is Plan of Party In Elections

DALLAS, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Workers at Republican state headquarters here have been going ahead with plans for placing a full G. O. P. state slate in the field this year, with strong possibility that it will be headed by Dr. George C. Butte of Austin, candidate for governor, and Orville C. Bullington, Wichita Falls, candidate for United States senator.

Leonard Withington, headquarters executive secretary, said today that a vigorous campaign would be waged by the party in Texas not only to carry this state for the national ticket, headed by Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis, but also for the election of all state officers.

Other men mentioned as possible candidates for governor were: T. P. Lee of Houston and Henry Zweifel of Fort Worth and Arthur Reinhart, Dallas street commissioner.

Doctor Butte, whose name was heard most frequently in connection with the governor's race, opposed Mrs. M. A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee, in the gubernatorial contest in 1924, receiving approximately 300,000 votes. He is special assistant to the solicitor general in the department of justice at Washington but has maintained his citizenship in Texas.

Planes in National Tour Land at Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 5. (UP)—With the most difficult part of their tour stretching just before them, the planes remaining in the national air tour landed at Meacham field here today.

Flying Fort Worth's entry in the tour, Al Henley was the first of the 23 aviators who took off today from Tulsa, Okla., to land here, his plane coming to rest at 11:26 a. m. He completed the 240-mile hop in two and a half hours. Charles W. Meyers followed Henley by a few seconds.

(AP)—Determined to have his national campaign organization shaped up before he goes away, Secretary Hoover probably will delay until late next week his departure for his old home in Palo Alto, Calif., where he will be notified formally of his selection as the Republican presidential nominee.

"Discovery" Has Never Acted

Eva von Berne, brought to America's filmland by Irving Thalberg, Metro-Goldwyn executive, has neither stage nor screen experience. She was born in Serajevo, Bosnia, where a certain grand duke was assassinated and was educated in a convent. The daughter of an Austrian colonel who was killed in the war, Eva went forth to earn her living as a dancing teacher. While giving recitals, her photograph found its way to the Sunday supplements where it was noticed by Thalberg while on his honeymoon. He tracked her down and arranged a screen test.

Swedish Fliers Drop Provisions To Members of Italia Crew On Island

ROME, July 5. (AP)—An official communique from the Citta di Milano says that Swedish fliers today succeeded in dropping provisions, medical supplies, and new batteries to the marooned members of the Italia's crew who are camped on the ice near Foyne island.

The communique gave no details of how the reprovisioning was carried out.

At the same time another Swedish airplane explored the eastern and southern coasts of Northeast Land in search of Capt. Roald Amundsen and his missing companions. A report from Alpinists who have joined the rescue attempts said they had explored the eastern coast of Northeast Land to within seven miles of Cape Leigh Smith, its northeastern point, without finding any trace of Capt. Alfredo Mariano, one of the Italia's pilots who with two companions started out in an effort to reach land a few days after the dirigible crashed.

Captain Sora, of the Italian Alpine troops engaged in an attempt to reach the Foyn island castaways, started out for that point but was dissuaded from his attempt by the Norwegian aviator Lieut. Lustzow Holm who found that weather conditions were too bad for the attempt to be made safely.

Four Killed When Jap Bandits Loot Train

TOKYO, July 5. ITALIANS LAND AFTER FLYING 4600 MILES

Small Beach at Natal Stopping Point In Air Argosy

FINAL GOAL MISSED

Aviators Take Off for Rio After Spending Hour At Village

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 5. (UP)—The National Telegraph company announced tonight that the Italian aviators, Major Ferrarin and Major Del Prete, returned to Natal, Brazil, this evening after starting southward from there at 9:00 p. m.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, July 5. (AP) Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major C. P. del Prete, after landing on the beach at Point Genipabu, 10 miles north of Natal, resumed their flight from Rome at 9:10 p. m. heading for this city. They were at the beach an hour and 20 minutes.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, July 5. (AP) A new distance record for sustained flight was completed this evening when Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. del Prete landed on a little beach near Natal, Brazil, some 4600 miles from their takeoff at Montecello field, Italy.

Battle Storms

They brought their big seaplane, the Savoia-64, in which they previously had established a world record for duration flight, to land after a flight that took them across the Mediterranean, through the straits of Gibraltar and then southwest over the Atlantic via Cape Verde islands.

Stormy weather with heavy clouds put the fliers in peril in the last hours of their effort and radio reports received here indicated that they had difficulty in maintaining their bearings after they reached the coast of Brazil. They were sighted over Port Natal at 4:05 p. m., and were then believed to be heading for Pernambuco. But three hours and 45 minutes later they came down 10 miles north of Natal, at Point Genipabu.

Crowd Disappointed

The failure of the two intrepid Italians to wind up their flight at Rio Janeiro brought disappointment to a huge crowd of spectators in this city. Word that the fliers had gone beyond Natal flying to the south, coupled with absence of any report of their landing near Pernambuco, spread rapidly through the capital and brought throngs to the waterfront. All day there were crowds about the bulletin boards eagerly scanning every bit of information on the flight that came from island stations and steamers en route.

Hopes were raised then lowered at the various reports, many of them conflicting, were made public. News that the airmen were near the Brazilian coast early this morning and then that they had passed Pernambuco bound for Rio Janeiro was greeted with a frenzy of joy. Within a few hours the Italian ambassador here was deluged with hundreds of telegrams of congratulations.

When the plane was sighted at Natal preparations were immediately begun to welcome the fliers here and special trains were ordered to carry aviation enthusiasts to Alfonso aviation field where lights were ordered so that the aviators could land even if they arrived after dark. All Rio was a riot of color, with Italian and Brazilian flags intertwined, while big crowds cheered in front of the bulletin boards.

Although the aviators finally were forced to land far to the northward, the city kept on celebrating, and the boulevards were crammed with excited persons.

Latest reports received here indicated that Captain Ferrarin, even after he had turned back toward Natal, thought he was continuing toward Rio Janeiro but finally, discovering his error, was forced to land at Genipabu.

RASKOB II KILLED

CENTERVILLE, Md., July 5. (AP) William F. Raskob II, 19, son of John J. Raskob, vice president of the Dupont company and chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation, was killed today when his automobile left the road near here and overturned.

$21,000,000 IN BIG GAS DEAL

Moody-Seagraves Buys Phillips Holdings

HOUSTON, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Purchase of all the E. L. Phillips Natural Gas interests in the southwest by Moody-Seagraves of Houston and Galveston for approximately $21,000,000, was announced today by W. L. Moody III, head of the Moody-Seagraves group.

In the merger, Moody and Odie R. Seagraves obtained all the common stock of southwestern companies formerly owned by Phillips, whose headquarters are in New York.

The companies, control of which was acquired by Moody-Seagraves, include Houston Gas and Fuel company, Houston Gulf Gas company, Southern Gas company, Southern Gas Utilities company, Western Gas and Fuel company. Seagraves, by the merger, was made president of these concerns.

Moody-Seagraves interests already owned the Dixie Gulf Gas and Dixie Gas and Fuel companies, of which Moody will be president. Moody also will be vice-president of the group headed by Seagraves.

FLIER DELAYED

HORTA, Azores, July 5. (UP)—Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British flier who is attempting a flight from Lisbon to New York, is having serious difficulty replacing a broken blade in his radio generator drive, which may delay him several days.

"Vacation, Hmph!" Says Al Smith As He Leaves For Cooler Clime

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Scoffing at the thought that his four days' stay in New York was a "vacation," Governor Alfred E. Smith left for Albany today aboard William F. Kenny's private car and homing for cooler weather.

Just before the train departed, one who remembered that the Democratic presidential nominee had said he was coming to New York "to rest," inquired, "How did you enjoy your vacation, Governor."

"Vacation," expostulated the governor, "why how can a man have a vacation when eight telephones are going at one time, 9,000,000 people are coming to see you, when you have to speak to a couple of meetings and you have to change your clothes three times a day because of the heat!"

Norris "Double Dog Dares" Judge To Sentence Women Working On Church

DALLAS, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Asserting that he would remain until he thought his protest had its effect over the nation, the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Fundamentalist Baptist church, was in jail here tonight for contempt of court.

After Anderson had been found guilty of contempt today by District Judge Towne Young he was fined $100 and costs and ordered to jail "until he shall have purged himself of this contempt" by posting $1000 bond that he would obey the temporary injunction against construction of a tabernacle in a local residence district.

Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Fundamentalist Baptist church at Fort Worth, paid a visit to Anderson's cell today. "Thirty women in overalls are working at the tabernacle this afternoon and I 'double-dog dare' the judge to put them in jail," Dr. Norris said. "I'll give him $10,000 to put them in jail. The judge can go to where the fires don't stop burning."

Judge Young pronounced Anderson guilty of contempt because he "willfully and deliberately failed and refused to obey" a temporary injunction commanding him and others to cease work on the tabernacle, granted after property owners had protested that the structure violated city building ordinances.

DRY CHIEF TO OUST VIOLENCE

Rigid Tests Given Pro Agents

By ALFRED P. RECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 5. (UP)—A mild-mannered, red-headed chemist—Dr. James M. Doran—chief of the dry forces of the United States, has won a moral victory in eliminating the old-style, door-smashing enforcement from the prohibition service.

Word went out from his office today to all administrators to select agents who can enforce the law without violence or the necessity for apologies afterward.

"A new era has come in prohibition enforcement," Doran said. "Our recent efforts in New York have demonstrated that the law can be enforced without door smashing and wrecking the establishments where violations are found.

No Violence

"As long as I am in charge, there will be no more rough stuff. Of course, we are not going to handle law violators with kid gloves but we will enforce the law in a lawful manner without violence or the necessity for apologies afterward.

"Except in the moonshine areas, the people will find a new type of prohibition agent at work. He will be a man who knows his job and does it in a quiet, thorough manner without spectacular raids or gun play.

"We are going to have new examinations for prohibition agents soon—perhaps the latter part of this month—and the men we select will be able to pass in any company and yet capable of enforcing the law.

"The prohibition law is a dignified law and can be enforced in a dignified manner."

Former Chemist

"Doc" Doran became prohibition commissioner slightly more than a year ago. He had been chief chemist in the service for some years previously. As the son of a Methodist minister, Doran was born with a belief in prohibition and law enforcement, but he had little experience in administrative work in either line.

Eight Men and One Woman Face Dry Charge

Eight men and one woman, charged with violations of the federal liquor laws, were brought before J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, Thursday.

Wallis Oliver, H. Heuy, Eugene Beer and George Standfor, pleaded not guilty in charges of the sale of whiskey but were committed to jail on default of $750 bonds set by Lantz. Complaint were filed against them by F. E. Summers, city officer.

Cleve Patton, charged with the possession of whiskey, waived hearing and was committed to jail for failure to make a $500 bond. He was arrested by city officers, J. E. Glen, N. Daves and L. N. McKelvey.

E. T. Kendrick waived hearing on a charge of possession of beer. He did not make bond of $500. He was arrested by city officers, F. E. Summers, Homer Bentley, and W. P. Belcher.

Beulah Kendrick was committed to jail on failure to make a $750 bond set for charges of sale of beer. Complaint against her was filed by City Officer W. P. Belcher.

D. A. Wilcoxson waived hearing and made a $500 bond on charges of possession of whiskey. He was arrested by M. A. Perdue, F. E. Summers and W. P. Belcher.

W. H. Cook failed to make bond of $500 on beer charges.

Warrants Issued In Shook-Pryor Cases

Warrant for arrest of Ed Pryor, indicted by the grand jury Tuesday on charges of burglary, was given to Sheriff W. G. Bralley Thursday morning. The warrant had not been served Thursday night.

Pryor is under bond of $1000 following his arrest early last week on charges of "concealing a criminal" filed by Mr. Bralley after Pryor had been arrested in bed with Henry Shumate, who escaped the county jail a day before recaptured.

Tom Shook, former chief of police at Electra, is in jail. He was jointly indicted with Pryor and Shumate for burglary of the H. E. King news stand in Electra the last of May.

At the time Shumate made his escape from the county jail Robert Moore and Jeff White, previous jailbreakers, also escaped. Neither of them had been recaptured Thursday night.

The trial of Pryor, Shook and Shumate was set for call Monday, July 16, in 30th district court, by Ben P. Allred, district attorney.

Two Men Have Same Name—One Faces Charge

In an issue of The Record News of last week a story was carried telling of narcotic charges filed against R. D. Ford.

Since that time it has been called to the attention of The Record News that an R. D. Ford was connected with the Freear Furniture company here until recently. Leaving this concern Mr. Ford moved to Boulder, Colo., where he now lives.

The Record News wishes to differentiate between the two persons. The charges were not filed against the R. D. Ford who was connected with the Freear Furniture company and who moved from Wichita Falls on or about June 15.

The R. D. Ford against whom the narcotic charges were filed is lodged in the Wichita county jail. His bond, set at $1250, has not been made.

Electra Church Names Nominating Committee

ELECTRA, July 5.—At the regular monthly conference of the First Baptist church on July 4, a nominating committee of eight was appointed to recommend officers and heads for the various departments of the church to serve during the coming associational year. The list includes B. Y. P. U. leaders and directors, Sunday school superintendent and assistant, church trustees, chorister and pianist.

The committee is composed of Rev. W. W. Rivers, chairman; Mrs. Jodie Smith, J. O. McCulloh, Mrs. John Brownlee, W. L. Cozart, Mrs. J. M. Tanner, Mrs. J. L. Clayton, and C. F. Birkhead. Reports will be submitted at the first conference meeting in August.

G. O. P. Leaders Consult Nominees On Campaign

Air Captain Saves Lives of Pals When Plane Crashes Into River

WASHINGTON, July 5. (UP)—Seven army enlisted men probably owe their lives to the calmness and courage of Captain Myron R. Wood, U. S. air service, when the transport plane in which they were flying dove 200 feet into the Potomac river today.

Three of the eight in the plane were injured; all were stunned by the water crash.

Captain Wood and his companions were returning to Boiling field after a short flight when the engine went dead 200 feet above the river. The distance was too short to use parachutes. Captain Wood ordered the men to discard their parachutes and huddle in the rear of the plane to keep its nose up while he attempted to bring it down by volplaning.

The huge plane crashed in eight feet of water, 50 feet from shore. Captain Wood swam to the surface and noted that all but one of the men had come to the surface. He dived and found Private Thomas Standeven unconscious in the rear fuselage. Captain Wood pulled Standeven to the surface and then dove again to see that no one was left in the plane.

Passing boats brought the eight men ashore.

Funeral Services For Mrs. R. E. Huff July 15

Funeral services for Mrs. R. E. Huff, who died as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in France several days ago, probably will be held here on July 15, it was learned Thursday. Judge and Mrs. Huff and their son, Dr. R. E. Huff Jr. were in Bordeaux, France, when the automobile in which they were riding and a second car collided. Both Judge and Mrs. Huff were injured, and Mrs. Huff later died.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Huff left Wichita Falls Wednesday for New York, where they will meet Judge Huff and Dr. Huff who are en route from Bordeaux with the body.

Permits for Quarter Here Total $487,343

Building permits for the last quarter totaled $487,343.50, according to the monthly report of F. M. Rugeley, city engineer. O. the three months, June showed the greatest total value in construction and repair permits, while June and April were tied for the greatest number of permits.

June's 51 permits were for a total value of $190,010. The 47 permits in May totaled $165,450.50, and the 51 in April were for $131,883.

RESCUE WORK ON NEW BASIS

Food and Fuel Supply Base Planned

VIRGO BAY, Spitzbergen, July 5. (UP)—The work of rescuing the stranded men of the transpolar dirigible Italia was placed upon a new basis today when it was decided to have the Swedish seaplane Uppland establish a gasoline and food supply station nine miles from the ice encampment from which General Umberto Nobile was rescued.

The Uppland will establish this station on the coast of Northeast land.

Meanwhile, the rescue ship Branganza disembarked the seaplanes which Captain H. Riiser Larsen and Lieut. Luetzow Holms will fly. The Branganza started for North Cape carrying a Finnish airplane which will be used at the new base to be established by the Uppland.

Captain Einer-Paal Lundborg, who rescued Nobile and then crashed when he attempted to bring off the companions of the dirigible's commander, sent a wireless message today saying he was patiently waiting rescue but the ice floe was becoming so thin that landing an airplane on it would be dangerous. He recommended that seaplanes be used.

The floe upon which Lundborg and five men are encamped has been driven five miles westward since Wednesday.

The Russian icebreaker Krassin has been unable to extricate herself from the pack ice.

HEAT WAVE UNBROKEN

ALVA, Okla., July 5. (UP)—The heat wave in this section of northwest Oklahoma remained unbroken today with the mercury bobbing up to 102 degrees.

A new home savings bank has been patented. It is attached to a clock, which is wound every day by means of inserting a coin.

Gray Reports On Rotary Convention

Home town praise was omitted from the talk of almost all speakers on the program of the Rotary International convention at Minneapolis, Harry A. Gray, a delegate from Wichita Falls, told Rotarians at the club luncheon Thursday noon.

Only on rare occasions, Mr. Gray said, did the speakers digress. "The one thing stressed by Rotary is fellowship," he declared. "To me the local Rotary cluub is the whole thing, and Rotary International is the necessary machinery to help the local clubs coordinate."

R. E. Shepherd lead the club singing and Walter Cline introduced the guests.

Plans for the year's work were discussed and committees were appointed.

The following committees were named: Classification, Dr. Charles R. Hartsook, John W. Thomas and A. E. Myles; program, Leslie Stringer, O. H. Kellogg, E. H. Eddleman, Charles Pogenpohl and Ralph Dilday; education, T. L. Coplin, Dr. T. R. Krohn, Dr. J. W. Powers, Frank Van Wormer and Father Lawrence Hoyt; attendance, William E. Huff, George D. Fox, R. E. Collier, Ralph Schultz and Joe Emold; fellowship, George Mobley, N. H. Coleman, Al Burnsides, George Gutzman and C. C. McDonald; boys' work, William Ward, Joe Jones, Guy Airey, Alfred Howard, and John Riggs; crippled children, Dr. Q. B. Lee, Dr. M. H. Glover, Charles Haar, Paul Pond and W. L. Herblin; student loan, E. B. Marriott, Charles Reed, Ivan Murchison, John Nossett and Henry B. Mayes; rural-urban relations, Carl Williamson, A. V. Mohler, Theo Beck, Al Burnside and E. B. Lehrack; inter-city relations, O. D. McCoy, S. A. Covington, Walter Campbell, Dr. Wallace J. Masters and Linton Estes; business methods, John W. Bradley, Dr. E. F. Brown, Fred Goss, Roy Hammond and Harry Joiner; community service, A. H. Britain, Everett McCullough, W. W. Brown, J. W. Culbertson and Sam Kruger.

SCHOOL BOARD SPLIT IN ROW

San Antonio Schools Run Without Meetings

SAN ANTONIO, July 5. (AP)—School affairs in San Antonio have been handled since March 20 without a regular meeting of the board of education. The school board is hopelessly divided over several controversial issues and the two factions have been duelling since March for the advantages.

When Miss Ora Johnson was ousted last year as principal of Brackenridge High school the faction against her mustered five votes to two for the other faction. One of the five votes was the vote of President Frank Haines.

Then came a schoor board election and the voters replaced one of the Haines members with a member opposed to Haines policies. This gave the president a majority of four to three when every member was present, but made it possible for his opponents to break a quorum if one of his own supporters failed to attend the meeting.

Two of President Haines' faction took long vacations and the president has not issued a call for the regular bi-monthly meetings since March 20, when the last one was held. Special meetings, at which it was agreed that no controversial matters would be discussed, have been held to make the necessary purchases of supplies and transact other necessary business.

Now all but one of the members of the president's faction are in town and he is able to muster three votes and tie any vote that is taken on a controversial issue. The opposing faction, however, has adopted fabian tactics and refuse to attend special called meetings unless the matters to be discussed are announced in writing in the call for meeting. By staying away from the meeting they are able to prevent the presence of a quorum.

The missing board member is in Europe and it is uncertain when she will return.

Grandfield Boy Leaves For Military Academy

GRANDFIELD, Okla., July 5. (Sp)—Hugh Riley has left for New York to enter West Point Military academy, following an appointment received from Congressman J. V. McClintic. He will join other appointees at St. Louis and will enter the academy for the four-year course.

Tulia Drug Store To Be Improved by New Owners

TULIA, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Allan S. Heard of Amarillo, and Walker B. Jones, have become owners of the Shaw Drug company by a deal recently closed. They are moving to the building two doors south of the Flores building, which will give them an additional 500 square feet of space.

Fad Is Economical

Bathing beauties have started a new fad which has the unusual advantage of being economical. It is to make coolie coats for beach wear out of flour sacks. They may be dyed in brilliant colors. Pictured is Louise Bremer of Chicago, whose coat is trimmed with striped green linen.

Graves in Cemetery At Alvord Given Care

ALVORD, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—A. Y. Leslie, president of the Alvord Cemetery association, is spending a great deal of time in making the cemetery a well cared for place.

A great deal of plowing and harrowing has been necessary in properly caring for graves of those whose families have moved from the city. The work of cleaning the premises has been handicapped through a lack of financial backing and those who desire to have graves of their loved ones cared for are requested to send a small amount of money for that purpose.

MUNDAY PLANS VET REUNION

Civil War Patriots Meet July 11-12

MUNDAY, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—The reunion of Confederate veterans to be staged here July 11 and 12, will be one of the most enjoyable occasions of the year, according to plans outlined by the arrangement committee appointed by the Munday chamber of commerce. Sub-committees have been named and will have charge of certain features.

The first day of the reunion will be spent in entertaining the veterans, their wives and widows, according to plans made known at the last meeting of the committee. The second day will be taken up with an old-fashioned picnic, when baskets of food will be provided, and friends of the veterans invited in to spend the day and have a good time.

Among the features will be an old fiddlers' contest on the evening of the first day with substantial premiums awarded winners, the address of welcome delivered by Mayor C. L. Maves, and a drill staged by world war veterans under the direction of John Ed Jones.

Sub-committees are as follows: J. A. Kennedy U. R. Houser and Rev. R. B. Freeman, entertainment; C. R. Elliott, Ben Guinn and E. W. McGlothlin, arrangement: Fred Warren, F. O. Campbell and Frank Decker, refreshments and food; P. D. O'Brien, and the Boy Scouts, housing and comfort; J. C. Campbell, W. R. Moore and George Isbell, transportation.

Machinery for New Alvord Mill Installed

ALVORD, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Machinery for the new building which is to house the Mosley Mill and Feed store, has been moved in and hooked up ready for operation. The new solid concrete floor building is located just east of the post-office and occupies the site upon which four wooden buildings formerly stood.

The new mill will not only do custom grinding but will manufacture a large variety of stock feed. A cream testing station was installed and cream will be tested each Tuesday and Saturday.

Mr. Mosley will continue to operate his large chicken farm and hatchery in the west part of town.

Munday Ladies Given Eastern Star Honors

MUNDAY, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Six Munday ladies were awarded certificates in the Oorder of the Eastern Star as a result of an examination taken at a meeting of the order in Vernon. They are Mesdames Clyde Nelson, D. T. Mauldin, J. A. Kennedy, J. D. Kethley, and Hershel Cowan.

They were accompanied by Messrs. Mauldin, F. A. Coxsey and Nelson.

I CAN think of nothing more conducive to competency on the part of the working populace than little individual water coolers. The etiquette book will probably say very little about the exact position of such an innovation, but I believe six inches from the guest would be the place for 'em. It takes at least three minutes to walk out into the hall for a drink of cool water. This trip is taken by each worker in an office or shop at least a dozen times a day. If there are 30 workers in each office, and each one takes off 12 times 3 minutes for filling purposes only, you may readily see the urgent need of such a step.

ENGLISH industrialists do not take so kindly to working women engaging in business as do Americans. Caustic criticism is made of women who infringe upon the rights of men to indulge in work. Here are some of the remarks gleaned from speeches made by leading London business men:

"Educated girls are too casual."

"Girls are unable to stand emotional strain, due, perhaps to too much intensive education, and an attempt to burn the candle at both ends."

"They have too great an idea of their own importance."

"They do not stand up when they should."

"They say 'righto' instead of a demure 'yes sir'."

"They work with one eye on the clock."

They might have all these faults and outgrow them, if only they had the right kind of teaching. And besides, we don't believe all that has been said about them. If this indictment were true, no nation, not even the United States would employ 9,000,000 women to hold down jobs, for there are that many women engaged in the industrial work of this nation, and 2,000,000 of them are married women.

THE women of Wichita Falls are not slackers, anyway. In a heat like this, when most of the world has disbanded for the summer months, little mention has been made of discontinuing work of such organizations as missionary societies and golf clubs for the summer. And the work of suc horganizations has been made doubly difficult because of the many departures of members for the summer time.

AND women are being cajoled by the hot sunshine to carry parasols despite their determination not to have an added struggle with the winds of the spring and summer. Now and then you see a girl or young woman carrying a brightly colored parasol, rather gingerly, it must be admitted, and mutely seeking the approval of the passer-by. They have my consent.

Former Wichita Falls Boy Weds in New York

Miss Priscilla Parsons of New York City was married to Page Trotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Robertson of Thirteenth street, in New York, June 18, according to word received by friends here. Mrs. Trotter was a student in a Philadelphia fine arts academy when Mr. Trotter studied there, and their marriage was the culmination of a romance begun at that time.

Mrs. Trotter won a trip abroad as a result of her work in the academy, while the bridegroom has won two such trips.

Mr. Trotter is well known in Wichita Falls where he was reared and educated. They will make their home in New York City where Mr. and Mrs. Trotter are both illustrators.

STATISTICS ORGANIZATION

QUANAH, Texas, July 5.—Hardeman county is now organized for registration of all vital statistics, with registrars appointed in each justice precinct and each incorporated city or town.

"Sweetest Baby in Texas!"

For over fifty years, mothers, like this well-known Texas woman, have been telling each other about California Fig Syrup, and leading physicians have been endorsing it. Nothing else acts so gently and harmlessly to propel the souring waste from the delicate system of babies and children, which, when allowed to remain, keeps them cross, feverish, bilious, headachy, weak, with coated tongue, bad breath, broken-out skin, no appetite or energy. Its rich, fruity goodness helps to give tone and strength to their little stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own record. It helps to build up and strengthen them—makes them active and happy.

"I have used California Fig Syrup with my little daughter since early babyhood," says Mrs. La D. Smith, 109 S. Calaveras street, San Antonio. "Whenever she has a cold, is the least bit constipated or doesn't seem just right, I always give her a little, and it fixes her up quick. She's the picture of health now, and friends say she's the sweetest baby in Texas. She has never had a serious illness, and I give California Fig Syrup full credit for it."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton bears the word "California."

CHIC CHERIE

The United Association of Amalgamated Laundry Workers must be behind it. Or something of the sort. Else why are all the smartest shoes of the season made of cotton or linen or shantung, with crepe de chine close following after? Cherie, to the right, is reflecting just what damage an evilly intentional boll-weevil could do to the shoe business this summer, while gazing with admiration at the oxford of printed linen tricked out with trimmings of green, kid. The larger sketch shows a shoe of plain and block printed linen, a shoe of printed cotton, a shoe of white pique with red edgings, a shoe of printed Rodier fabric. Washable fabrics, will they wash? Someone else can try!

LATEST FASHIONS

Cherie, of course, is an exhibit of the summit of fashionableness. She has shoes to match her costume. Now whether she had the suit made to match the shoes or the shoes made to match the suit, we don't know. Or perhaps she bought them that way from a shop that specializes in these things. Her suit is of printed linen—a two-piece dress with a belt and narrow ribbon ties, a short coat bound with ribbon, a pleated skirt. And the shoes that match! Ernest and Eustace and Edwin are coming up with lemonade, books, fans and anything else that can save her a step or two, because Cherie finding herself the perfect fashion picture thinks she will just sit here and be decorative all day.

Special Train to Take Students to Farm Course

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 5.—The firs special train from the South Plains of Texas to the annual short course at College Station will be operated this year, carrying farmers, farm wives, club boys and girls, county agricultural agents, home demonstration agents and others to the annual farmers' school.

SALLY'S SALLIES

monopolize my personal desk, and what makes me the maddest of all they open my dresser drawers and use my powder, pins, etc. How do other women deal with this problem? Do they grit their teeth and dumbly endure or do they quit asking people with children to visit them?—MARY.

Answer.—They quit asking people with children to visit them. Your experience is a common one. Mothers who have the nicest sense of honor and respect for others' belongings themselves seem to feel that their children have a perfect right to roughhouse it when they go visiting and destroy other people's property at will. Self-preservation has made most of us as wary of asking a mother to pay us a visit as we would of calling in a wrecking crew.—DOROTHY DIX.

Marvin laughs like this almost all the time. We can't emagine expending that much energy in this hot weather, though the lad seems to enjoy it, doesn't he? Laughing, like the wrinkle some of us wear, if after all, a matter of habit.

Marvin's eyes are blue if you could see 'em, and his hair is rather light. But judging from his dark skin, he will probably be a very handsome dashing young man like Dad.

Marvin Junior is a native, though his parents moved here from Dallas some five years ago. Marvin Hudson Junior is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hudson of 1672 Dayton street, and is six months old.

Body of Wichita Falls Woman Sent to Denver

The body of Mrs. E. J. Tschabold, 1609 Lucile street, who died in a local hospital Wednesday morning, was forwarded by the Hines mortuary Thursday morning to Denver.

The body will be cremated in Denver in accordance with a wish expressed by Mrs. Tschabold in a letter left to be opened after her death.

Simple funeral services were held from the residence Wednesday afternoon.

She is survived by her husband, who is a member of the Baber and Tschabold, jewelers; and two children, Edward, 15, and Margaret Elisabeth, 11.

Press Association To Meet at Big Spring

BIG SPRING, Texas, July 5. (AP)—An outstanding program has been arranged for the third annual convention of the West Texas Press association, which will be held here July 13 and 14, it was announced by officials of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

The claim that this body is the largest regional press association in the world is being confirmed with reservations being made daily for the meeting, officials said.

Oklahoma Blind Orator Withdraws From Contest

DUNCAN, Okla., July 5. (UP) Thomas P. Gore, former U. S. senator from Oklahoma, picturesque blind orator and long a colorful character in Oklahoma Democratic circles, has abandoned his last race for office, it became known today.

Gore, who had sought the Democratic nomination for congressman from the sixth Oklahoma district, last night informed Jeff Long, Duncan, one of his rival candidates, that he had withdrawn, Long said today.

Gore telephoned Long last night and said he had decided against making the race. He gave no reasons, saying he would write him further details, Long said.

Entire Schoolhouse Taken to Alaska

WASHINGTON, July 5. (UP)—An entire school house and complete equipment will be carried aboard the U. S. S. Boxer this week for use at Point Barrow, Alaska, the furthermost tip of the North American mainland, the department of interior announced today.

The school house will replace a building destroyed by fire last January. Because of the lack of lumber in this remote section, the bureau of education found it necessary to transport the entire building and equipment from the west coast.

Congress appropriated funds for re-establishment of the school so that 72 Eskimo pupils at Point Barrow could resume their education under an American teacher.

Artificial Wool Soon To Be Placed On Market

LONDON, July 5. (UP)—The financial correspondent of the Evening Standard says he learns that a fine quality of artificial wool, for years the despair of research scientists, now is an accomplished fact and shortly will be manufactured on a large scale at a low cost.

Indian Delegation Leaves Labor Parley

LONDON, July 5. (UP)—The Indian delegates withdrew in a body from the British commonwealth labor conference today when the conference rejected a resolution demanding withdrawal of the labor members on the Simon Indian commission.

Going About With Married Man At Least Can Do Girl No Good

What Is the Harm in a Girl Going About With a Married Man?—Is Marriage a Success Between the Man and Woman Who Have Known Each Other Since Childhood? Danger of Inviting Guests With Children.

Dear Miss Dix—What is the harm in going about with a married man? Some old conservatives tell me it will be disastrous for us both and that it is poor taste. I thought all of that old stuff was taboo in this day and age. I know enough to keep my head and not fall in love with him. He is sane and too fond of his own family of four children to become infatuated with me. I am 21, a salesperson, and the man and I happen to board at the same place. His work called him here for the winter. His family, for financial reasons, remained in another state. Admiring him at a distance, I, as only a woman knows how, made the opening and took the initiative in forming a very intimate though aboveboard friendship. We have driven at night in his car, sometimes with others, oftener alone when I could engineer it. Sunday trips together. Daring talks on life. So great our understanding that we could talk unembarrassedly on anything. Often we met in his room. Intimate little feeds. Oh, a thousand trifles.

Aside from trumping up the situations to bring us together, what harm have I done? I know I can't have him, though I must confess I would like to. If I thought I was weaning him from his wife, making him like me too much, I would cut it all out. So what is the harm in it all?—PUZZLED PATRICIA.

Answer.—I might answer your question by asking: What's the good of it all? What good have you done yourself by setting the gossipy tongues to wagging in a boarding house, as you undoubtedly have, by running around with a married man and going to his room at night?

How much have you added to your happiness and peace of mind by filling your life with your affection for this man and your mind with thoughts of him by coming to depend on him for sympathy and understanding when he is bound by every tie of honor and honesty to another woman?

How much good have you done him by letting him see that he has the power to attract a young girl so that she runs after him? By making him contrast you in the freshness of your youth and beauty and enthusiasms with a wife who is certainly older and perhaps far less attractive than you are? Do you think you have made it easier for him to be faithful to his wife? For not all unfaithfulness is physical—the worst of it is mental. It is when a man gives all of his thoughts and his heart to another woman that he is most unfaithful to his wife.

And be honest with yourself about this matter, Patricia. The best test of conduct yet devised is the Golden Rule. Do unto others as you would be done by. If this man were your husband and you were staying at home with four little children, working and scrimping and saving and denying yourself the pleasure of being with him in order to get along and save up enough to get a start in the world and educate the children, would you want some young girl to try to vamp your husband?

Would you want some young girl to go to his room? Would you want her to go riding with him night after night, and for him to be spending money on her taking her out? Would you want her to be discussing with him the topics that may be life but are only fit to be discussed between husbands and wives Would you want her to be showing him just how sympathetic and understanding and tender a woman can be?

You know very well you wouldn't. And you know very well that any wife would be miserable and jealous if she knew her husband was having such a platonic affair with a young girl. And she wouldn't believe much in the platonic side of it, either. Nor do I. Nor would any one else.

You call the conventions "old stuff." They are, but they will never be scrapped, because they have been built up, block by block, by the wisdom and experience of thousands of generations for the protection of society. For the protection of foolish young girls like yourself.

And conventions make it taboo for a girl to run about with married men because she is the one who always gets hurt. The man plays safe. The girl takes the risk. She smirches her good name. People laugh at him for being a devil among the women. She jeopardizes her chance of marrying because she is giving her time to a man who can't marry her, and not many men want to marry a married man's ex-sweetheart. She gives her heart knowing that she can get nothing back in return that she can honorably take. The girl who wastes herself on a married man is just as silly as she is wicked.

You say that you know enough not to let yourself fall in love. Alas, my child, that is something that the wisest and strongest cannot say they will do or will not do. The heart rules the head, not the head the heart, and no man or woman can control their love. It is like the wind, that comes and goes as it listeth. Probably no girl who enters into an affair with a married man ever intends to go too far, but before she knows it she is swept beyond her bounds on the tide of passion and is lost.

There is an old adage about the danger of playing with fire that I would call to the attention of every girl who is tempted to have a flirtation with a fascinating married man.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What do you think of the chances of a marriage between a man and woman who have known each other from childhood? There is a young man with whom I have grown up. He seemed no more than a good brother who was kind and generous to me until recently, but now he is no longer a brother. He is a lover and wants me to marry him, and, strange as it seems, I have fallen in love with him. Do you think I would get more thrills in being married to a man who was a comparative stranger to me?—B. E.

Answer.—"Like the moonlight, like the sunlight, is the handsomest of strangers, like the fire upon the hearthstone is a neighbor's homely daughter," sang the poet. And this is just as true of men as it is of women. The man you have known all of your life is a safe bet, and you stand ten times the chance of happiness in marrying him than would in marrying some man of whom you know nothing.

When you marry a boy with whom you made mud pies and with whom you have gone to school, you run no risk of being disillusioned. You know every quirk of his disposition and all the ramifications of his temper and temperament. You know what sort of a disposition you will have to deal with and whether he is generous or stingy, tender-hearted or hard-boiled, courteous and considerate or rude and selfish. You know what his money-making abilities are and whether he is likely to succeed or be always only an also-ran.

But with a stranger you know none of these things and you have no way of finding out, because a man always puts his best foot foremost when he is trying to win a woman. Many a girl who thinks she is getting a Prince Charming for a husband discovers after she has got him that he is a grouch and a tightwad.

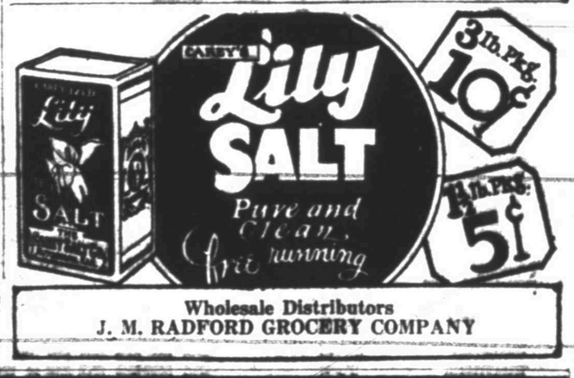

Also, when you marry a man you have known all of your life, you are pretty likely to get a congenial mate, for you have been reared in the same environment and you have the same background and the same tastes and habits and views. And this makes it easier for you to adjust yourselves to each other and goes a long way toward obtaining domestic tranquility.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Just how much is it necessary to endure from a dear friend's children. They are of high school age. When they come to spend the week-end with me they take possession of everything in the house. They come to the kitchen and peek in the pots to see what we are going to eat. They choose their own places at my dining-room table without consulting anything but their own desires. They criticize the food and tell me why they don't like it. They

AMUNDSEN HAS REAL ADMIRER

Dane Believes Explorer Will Come Back

LOS ANGELES, July 5. (UP)—"He will come back—well, just because he is Amundsen."

A jinx of the air, "the bitter misery of the wind-swept wastes" of the north can not defeat the spirit of Roald Amundsen—the happy-go-lucky play boy of the poles.

Haakon H. Hammer, former captain in the Danish royal navy, who for many yearrs was associated wih Amundsen in the ice regions of the north and south, today told what manner of man it was who risked his life to save Gen. Umberto Nobile, a foe.

Amundsen Felt Jinx

Hammer told of the ill fortune that hounded the Norse explorer each time he went into the air. Amundsen felt that jinx, but he flew.

Going from New York to Seattle in 1922, Amundsen "cracked up" in Pennsylvania, Hammer recalled. In the Arctic in 1925 his plane was wrecked and the explorer was lost in the ice for 30 days. And now he is dead, or waging a fight for his life against terrific odds, as a result of his flight to save Nobile.

Amundsen's dislike for flying and for Nobile was cited by Hammer as showing the character of the Norseman when he went out on his latest perilous mission.

His return to civilization after being lost a month three years ago was related by Amundsen's former comrade as giving cause for hope he would emerge from his present peril.

Has Noted Knife

Hammer, inventor of the sun compass used by Nobile and Amundsen in their flight across the North Pole, worked with Amundsen from 1916 to 1924.

On a table nearby, as Hammer told of those days, was the knife with which Amundsen carved the marker announcing the presence of the first man at the South Pole.

Hammer spoke of the quarrel between Amundsen and Nobile which presumably started as the Norge soared over the North Pole. He intimated that a torrid scene must have occurred within the craft's cabin.

Afterward the two clashed publicly.

"But he knew the bitter misery of the wind-swept wastes that clasped the marooned crew of the Italia better than any man living. It was his duty to go and in the face of duty the old quarrel faded."

GLAD HANDERS

Abilene Cops Ordered To "Welcome" All Tourists

ABILENE, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Members of the local police force have been given new jobs. They have been made official "glad-hand" men for the municipal government to greet all visitors who come here in automobiles.

Mayor Thomas E. Hayden and Chief of Police J. T. Dodson have instructed patrolmen in the downtown districts to keep a check on all out-of-town automobiles parked in their beats. Immediately such vehicles stop the officers are to hand the driver a special "courtesy card" issued by the city commission.

The card gives the visitors special courtesies from all city officials. On it is printed the traffic regulations of the city and a condensed summary of the outstanding features of the community.

Any visitor who unknowingly violates traffic regulations will be exempted from the penalties prescribed for such infractions on presentation of the "courtesy card," Mayor Hayden said.

VETERAN DIES

BERGANO, Italy, July 5. (UP)—Guido Slova, 84, one of the surviving of Garibaldi's followers, is dead here.

ROW BREWS IN OKLA. SCHOOL

College Head Flays Editor At Stillwater

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 5. (UP) Some information that "may startle the state" was promised today by Harry B. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture, in an open letter relating to his administrative control of Oklahoma A. & M college, Stillwater.

President Cordell's letter replied to an editorial in the Stillwater Daily Press, labelled "Old Harry," in which Randle Perdue, editor, criticized Cordell for "boasting he had all the newspapers licked," in recent agitations surrounding administration of the school.

Cordell, writing to W. W. McCollom, chairman of the entertainment committee which sponsored a banquet at which President Cordell recently spoke in Stillwater, said:

"I want to assure the citizens of Oklahoma that I will continue to fight for A. & M college as I have done for 14 years as a member of the Oklahoma legislature, but I want to assure you of one thing, that if the type of Mr. Randle Perdue and the Stillwater Daily Press represent the sentiment of Stillwater business men in the future, I will never appear before any civic organization in that city."

President Cordell declined to amplify his closing paragraph, which said: "Later on, it may be inside of a few hours, we may be able to give out some information that will startle the state of Oklahoma."

MONTAGUE, Texas, July 5. (Spl.) The I. O. O. F. at Montague is planning an annual picnic to be held July 25 and 26. The boys' band from Corsicana will probably supply entertainment.

Pair of Texas Burros Sent East as Mascots of Demo Nominee's Forces

HOUSTON, July 5. (AP) — Texas Grapefruit and Ponderosa, native Texans, are on their way to fame in the East.

The pair, Texas burros, have been sent to eastern Democratic headquarters, where they will be mascots of the Governor Alfred E. Smith forces during the presidential campaign.

Both mascots were the gift of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Secretaries' association, which brought them to Houston for the Democratic convention.

Texas Grapefruit, three months old, entertained delegates here in the convention hall and on the roof of the Rice hotel with childish pranks such as nibbling at tablecloths and coats as she followed her master, who was an ardent campaigner. She has been donated to the Democratic club of Woodbridge, N. J. The other burro, Ponderosa, has been sent to the Thirty-first Ward Democratic club of Philadelphia.

Arrangements to give the burros to the clubs were made by Myron F. Ward, secretary-manager of the Harlingen Chamber of Commerce, and G. C. Richardson, secretary of the chamber at Brownsville.

Prince Carol Hints He Will Discuss Divorce

BUCHAREST, July 5. (US)—Princess Helen's divorce from former Crown Prince Carol became legally effective today, the period in which appeal against the verdict of the Bucharest court might be taken expiring without Prince Carol acting.

The Official State Gazette today publishes the decree and the details of Princess Helen's charges are already known. Prince Carol's answer, however, said: "I reserve the right to at some future date and before a competent tribunal, to discuss the political reasons which brought about the present divorce situation."

Burglars Get $100 In Raid at Electra

The Panhandle filling station on the south side of Electra was burglarized of more than $100 Wednesday night, according to Dick Morris, deputy sheriff who is stationed there in the absence of Ed Pryor, constable.

The filling station was entered through a back window, Mr. Morris said, and the cash register was broken open. A complete check-up on the amount of money taken was not available, but employes of the company declared that there had been more than $100 in cash. About $50 in checks was left in the register by the burglars.

Death of Student, 18, Under Investigation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 5. (UP)—Police are seeking an explanation of the death of Louis Grady, 18-year-old Cambridge student who was fatally injured in a fall from the roof of his home. A witness of the plunge said Grady seemed to be walking in his sleep. Relatives said the youth often slept on the roof on warm nights.

Forest Fires Threaten Siberian Coal Mines

CAPTURED U. S. CITIZENS SAFE

Two Men Rescued From Mexicans

MEXICO CITY, July 5. (UP)—W. H. Mitchell and John F. Hooper, American men kidnaped by bandits June 22, have been released and are safe at Guadalajara, the American consulate there reported to the American embassy today.

The message was dated yesterday but had been delayed in transmission.

Mitchell, manager of the Los Lobos mine of the Pacific Mining company, and Hooper, the mine's engineer, were returning by automobile June 22 from Guadalajara to the mine at Mezquital Del Oro, in Zatacecas state.

Bandits halted and seized them and sent their chauffeur back to Guadalajara, telling him to obtain $9000 ransom. It is not known whether this was paid.

SEA GIVES UP IVORY RICHES

Divers Penetrate Sunken Belgian Liner

ST. NAZAIRE, France, July 5. (UP)—One of the most unique fortune hunting expeditions in sea history plunged to the bottom of the ocean here today and reaped the first fruits of their endeavors. Sixty tons of valuable ivory tusks were brought to the surface by divers who penetrated the hulk of the sunken Belgian liner, Elisabethville, resting deep in the mud off Belle Isle.

This little harbor town watched with growing interest the activity of the treasure hunt, which, it is believed, will yield the valuable cargo stored in the hold of the Elisabethville when she wallowed and sunk during the war, a victim of German submarines.

The liner put out from Africa, with a rich cargo of gold from the Congo, but she failed to reach port. Just off Belle Isle the vessel was sighted by enemy submarines and fell easy prey to a torpedo. Recently it was decided to attempt to recover her priceless cargo and after long search the hulk was located. Today the first treasures were recovered.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 5.—This is the season of the year when the boy and girl hitch-hikers descend upon the city. The college year over, they bum their way here with a few dollars or nothing, trusting to luck to see to it that they have a good time and want for nothing in the biggest city. The boys seek out jobs aboard ship, or hire out as help in resort hotels, or bunk with friends of fraternity brothers. With what they can scrape up by means of appeals to Pa or Ma, or borrowings from trusting or unresisting acquaintances, they have a grand time summering in Manhattan and environs.

Last year, a young friend of mine posted his white flannels and dinner coat to general delivery, New York; and hitch-hiked a thousand miles to the big city. Of the distance he had to walk 40 or 50 miles.

After exhausting all of the weekend and dinner possibilities afforded by his friends, and having made the acquaintances of several companionable young women whom he could take to parties when he was able to crash them, he slept in parks or on beaches, eating in places where it is possible to get a meal for 20 cents, and bathing at municipal bathhouses or bathing beaches. When there was a party to go to, he got his dress clothes from the checkroom in which he kept them, and shaved and adorned himself in one of the booths available for such a purpose in the Grand Central and Pennsylvania stations.

His mornings he spent in the public library devouring the books his curious soul longed for, or in Metropolitan Museum of Art, or wandering in the streets, absorbing the color of the city. Afternoons he joyfully accompanied the expeditions organized by real estate salesmen to sell lots in the far reaches of Long Island, Westchester or New Jersey. This usually meant a free meal, certainly an entertaining ride, and possibly some companionable conversation with a more or less attractive young woman.

One evening, broke and all the loan possibilities exhausted, he sang songs for nickels and dimes aboard a ferry. He knew only three songs, learned upon the campus, and was put to it to disguise the words of the varsity and class hymns, so that they would not be recognized by any chance alumnus of the college he attended. The evening netted 55 cents and a banana, the latter a donation of a kindly old lady.

He "crashed" everything that suggested that it might result in experience or entertainment, such as producers' call for chorus men, invitations to free lectures on spiritualism, single-tax and interracial strife in Montenegro. He tried out as usher in a movie cathedral, as a window demonstrator of fountain pens, as messenger for a Wall street house. He made it a rule to keep a job only three days.

His summer's sport cost him 55 cents, which was the difference between what he had when he left the campus and what he had when he got back, after hitch-hiking from New York. He told me he encountered a number of young men—and several young women—who were vacationing in New York in the vagabond manner.

New York newspaper offices are being besieged with offers from young men and young women, some with aviation experience, to undertake all sort of aero adventures in return for financial backing from the newspapers. They want to fly to Russia, to Japan, to Patagonia.

Incidentally, New York newspapers refused to sponsor the flight of Amelia Earhart, the Boston girl who was first to hop from North America to England. They were not anxious to pay a woman to try and kill herself. They similarly refused Ruth Elder, Mrs. Frances Grayson and Mabel Boll. However, after Miss Earhart succeeded in getting across, a newspaper paid her for her exclusive story.

The Record News Staff Poet

Speak

If your friend be heavy laden,
Crushed by heel of hard luck's host,
Go and help him lift the burden;
That is when he needs you most.
Why should any man be glad
When his brother's luck is bad?

If your own load should be lightened
By your friend's most willing hand,
Tell him so—you owe it to him;
Tell him so he'll understand.
Show him your appreciation
For his kind co-operation.

If you have a friend worth having,
Tell him so, man! Tell him so!
Don't delay until life's evening
Blind his eyes with sunset's glow.
Why should praises ne'er be said
Of your friend until he's dead?

—John Self Elliott.

Congressman to Speak In Tulia Thursday

TULIA, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Marvin Jones, district congressman, will address voters of Swisher county in Tulia, at 3:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, according to word received from him by the Tulia Herald.

One-Minute Sermon

Who would not fear thee, O King of nations? for to thee doth it appertain: forasmuch as among all the wise men of the nations, and in all their kingdoms, there is none like unto thee.

But they are altogether brutish and foolish: the stock is a doctrine of vanities.—Jeremiah, x, 7-8.

Let's Have a Decision

NOW THAT the grand jury has returned indictments against Ed Pryor, constable, and Tom Shook, former chief of police of Electra, it is to be hoped that a speedy trial in the courts of Wichita county may settle the issue. This in justice to the Electra men, as well as for the good of law enforcement in Wichita county.

We are naturally, it seems, ever ready to doubt the motives and policies of not only officers of the law, but of all public servants whose activities may fail in any way to conform to custom. When these natural doubts are given strength by the returning of grand jury indictments, or by filing of charges in courts, we are quite likely to conclude the whole fabric of our governmental system to be shot through with the sins charged to individuals.

Wichita county not only demands efficient and honest officers, but officers who carry the confidence of law-abiding citizens. Let the juries decide, and quickly.

Frankie Uale's Casket

"HE WAS BURIED in a $15,000 casket," might well be the epitaph of Frankie Uale, New York gangster, and certainly his only claim to more than passing fame in departing this life. Gangster Uale fell a victim to the bullets of other gangsters, in the same kind of warfare he had led for years.

It must be true the modern gangster is little, if any, removed from the savage of 10,000 years ago. He kills with less compunction, and when he is removed by some rival, he is buried in a $15,000 casket, just as his savage ancestor was buried with his beads, stone hatchet and other finery.

If Frankie Uale had chosen his own ending, he probably would not have it different, but what a travesty it seems on modern civilization, what a mockery of a million years of slow and tortuous progress. When the thing we know as life quits the body, it leaves a cumbersome, useless and ugly shell. Saint and sinner, builder and derelict are reduced to a common basis, not altered by burial in a silver casket or a pine box. And Frankie Uale and all others of his ilk know it not.

Coolidge Turns Away

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, according to a recent newspaper dispatch, is not going to bother much over this summer's political campaign.

"He is willing to help," says the dispatch, "but intends to devote most of his time to fishing unless he is drafted."

It occurs to us, accordingly, that this silent Vermonter, who has been president of the United States ever since 1923, is in a highly enviable position right now.

The goals of human endeavor in this world are many and varied, men being the ambitious creatures they are; but the man who can shove worries of leadership, dilemmas of hope and pangs of rivalry behind him and devote himself to quiet idling in a canoe on a woodland river, with a fishing pole jutting lazily out over the side, has little more to ask of fortune. To fight for your goal is fine, and to attain the power and the glory are soul-filling; but to turn your back on them—to say, "I have had enough and henceforth I will taste the minor joys of life"—that is really to live.

Few men can ever do it. American life is geared to a fast pace, and offers the successful little time for retrospective leisure. Too often the man who reaches the top finds that he has to work just as hard to stay there as he did to get there. He fights and struggles and toils, always looking forward to some time when he can retire and commune with himself; and presently, before his chance comes, he dies, and his life has been only half lived.

For the things that give life a rich, meaty flavor are not always the things that come from the realization of soaring ambition. They are the little things. The significance and beauty of life are seldom realized in the heat of the arena. They come home to one in times of inactivity, when one can drowse, meditate and examine his place in the world. An afternoon on a sunlit woodland river can do more to convince a man that living is worth while than a decade of struggling in office or forum.

What is a man's soul, anyway? Is it that part of him that makes speeches, devises stratagems and fences with his fellows? Not at all. It is a shy, inner being, that cannot come out and gain expression in the heat of action. It needs quiet and repose. Minor joys—warm sunlight, country winds in summertime, starlit evenings by quiet waters, desultory converse with friends around a fireside—these are the things that nurture it.

So, we repeat, Calvin Coolidge is greatly to be envied. He has reached the heights; and now he is turning his back on their deceptive vistas and is taking advantage of the chance to enjoy life. He is a wise man.

CITY TOO AMBITIOUS

Conventions are very desirable gatherings, and the city that goes out of its way to secure regional meetings of various organizations, will find themselves none the worse for having fostered such movements, and as a general rule will profit by the endeavor to an inestimable degree.

A city makes a mistake when it becomes too ambitious, however, and seeks conventions which it is not able to take care of satisfactorily. The writer has in mind a Texas city of thrice the size of Gainesville, which sought to take care of a convention of 1000 visitors, and made a miserable failure of hotel accommodations. The delegates were forced to room with utter strangers, and in some instances went from hotel to hotel at the direction of the hotel committee, only to find the rooms designated already occupied.

AMERICA'S NEED OF POETS

A "Poetry House" or "meeting place for poets and lovers of poetry" has been opened in Greenwich Village, New York City, and its moving spirit defensively states that when Lord Bryce came as ambassador from Great Britain 20 years ago he told her that America's greatest need was poets. Greenwich Village already has a crop of "free verse" writers, but whether they are supplying our national lack is at least open to debate.

San Antonio Arms in Defense of Holdup Men; Police to Be Increased

SAN ANTONIO, July 5. (AP)—San Antonio is fast becoming a much unhealthier place for burglars and holdup men, following a recent flare-up of crime in which many groceries, ice cream stores and filling stations were robbed and one large payroll taken.

Immediate action to increase the size and the efficiency of the police force have been promised by the city administration. A recent request for a raise in pay for policemen was granted in the last budget, but an accompanying request for an increase of between 25 and 50 members of the force was denied.

After the $6500 payroll robbery of the San Antonio Light, however, Mayor Chambers promised a better police force, even if the city is compelled to overdraw its bank account.

Three banks have employed expert shots as guards since the Light payroll robbery and a number of mercantile establishments have hired noted pistol shots to guard them against thefts. The American Legion and the naval recruiting station are receiving many requests for sharpshooters to act as guards. The naval recruiting station has issued a call for ex-sailors in order to fill the demand for men who can shoot.

Prosperous Half Year Predicted by J. A. Shaw

HOUSTON, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Present sound business conditions and splendid crop prospects promise that the last half of 1928 will be one of prosperity, in the opinion of James A. Shaw, state banking commissioner.

"State banks, as a whole, reflect a healthy and well-balanced background," Mr. Shaw said. "This year is an unusually good liquidating period. Not only have farmers been cautious and conservative in their borrowing, but the banks have been just as judicious in making loans. And with a fair crop, loans can be paid, placing both farmer and banker on a mutually satisfactory plane.

Diamond Ranch Sends Herd to Iowa Show

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, July 5. (AP)—The best show herd ever to leave the Diamond ranch, famous for its Hereford cattle, will be shipped to Des Moines, Iowa, on August 1, for exhibition at the show, which opens there August 23, F. W. Alexander, owner of the ranch has announced.

This herd will be exhibited at the American Royal, Kansas City, and other northern shows, returning to Texas for the state fair in Dallas in October, Alexander said.

Groner To Head College Of Marshall July 11

MARSHALL, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Dr. F. S. Groner of Dallas, who has been general secretary of all Baptist work in Texas for the past 10 years, will become president of the College of Marshall on July 11. A luncheon in honor of the new president will be given the following day by civic organizations here.

The Marshall Chamber of Commerce recently underwrote $30,000 for the institution.

San Antonio Employs Movies For Advertising

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 5. (AP) Motion pictures are to be employed as part of the campaign which the San Antonio Builder's exchange will make to bring the 1930 convention of the national association here.

Motion pictures have been made of building activities here and in the valley and these will be sent to the various exchanges over the country.

Dinner Stories

Inside Tip

To interest and instruct a local class of boys of the sub-normal type, speakers in many lines have given their best efforts. The program recently was given by a banker, who explained the workings of the institution, and then answered questions which were asked by the youngsters.

The talk was designed to impress the boys with the importance of thrift, honesty and ambition.

The speaker was therefore surprised when one of the boys came to him after the meeting and inquired earnestly:

"Say, mister, can you burn through one of them big vault doors with an electric torch?"

Aged Veteran Of Two Wars Keeps Job in Munday

MUNDAY, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Henry Harris, veteran of two wars, and pensioner of the Union Pacific Railroad company, puts in a full day's work, nevertheless, in the sanitary department of the town.

And when referred to as colored, he has no hesitancy in telling you that he has quite a bit of Indian blood in his makeup, all of which is somewhat difficult to reconcile with his too evident willingness to work.

When war was declared with Spain, Henry served his country for 13 months in Cuba and for four years in the Philippines. Upon being released from service, he obtained employment with the Union Pacific with which company he remained until too old for active service.

When the country entered into the world war Henry was drafted for a year's service in San Antonio. And sometime soon, he will probably be pensioned by the United States.

He left a family back in Nashville, Tenn., when he first served his country in the Spanish-American war, and would now like to get into communication with them, as life's wartime for him is nearly over.

Parks Elected Head Of Alvord Glee Club

ALVORD, Texas, July 5. (Sp)—Henry Parks was elected president of the Alvord Glee club, at election of officers held at the First Baptist church. Other officers elected were: Malvern Vaughan, secretary and treasurer and O. J. Meadow, sponsor.

An invitation will be extended ladies who desire to join the club, according to a decision reached at the meeting. R. M. Morgan of Floydada, song writer and teacher, addressed the club and gave musical selections.

Marrying Justice Performs No. 1200

MARSHALL, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Judge J. W. Pace, Harrison county's "marrying justice of the peace," has just recorded his 1200th marriage ceremony since he took office November 15, 1914.

All of the 1200 couples he has married, except the first three, are on Judge Pace's records. So far as he knows, only four of the couples have been divorced.

Last Stretch of Eagle Pass Road Completed

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 5. (AP) The work of paving the last stretch of highway No. 85 has reached this city, which will give Eagle Pass a paved highway to San Antonio, a distance of 162 miles.

Piedras Negras, located across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, joined this city in celebrating the event on the Fourth of July.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

This Has Happened

Nathaniel Dann is engaged to Virginia Brewster, whose father dies suddenly after losing his fortune. Niel begs her to marry him at once, but Frederick Dean and his daughter, Clarissa, persuade her to make her temporary home with them. This angers Niel for he suspects Dean's motives.

Virginia becomes unhappy in her new home and resolves to tell Niel her fears. But when she phones his studio late at night his model, Chiri, answers. This causes doubt and a lovers' quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get Niel out of the way, Dean has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried commercial position in San Francisco. Niel begs Virginia to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

Clarissa becomes furious when she discovers her fiance, Russell Waingould, making love to Virginia, and accuses her of trying to marry for money. Virginia resolves to leave the house immediately, but when she goes to say farewell to her host, Dean tries to get her to stay and asks her to marry him. She refuses and he tells her she had better reconsider "in order to redeem your father's honor."

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIV

Virginia wheeled in a flash and stared at Dean as though he had aimed an arrow at her head. He stood, hands in pockets, and returned her wordless gaze with an air of victory that tortured her.

"What do you mean?" she managed finally to gasp from lips grown lifeless.

Dean motioned to her chair. "Sit down," he directed with a quiet note of command in his voice. Virginia found herself reluctantly obeying him. Her need for support was imperative. Reaction from the shock of his thunderbolt was turning her body to fluid, it seemed to her.

From the depths of the Sleepy Hollow chair she continued to stare at him, gripped with fear of a nameless evil.

"If you weren't such a romantic little fool I could have spared you this," Dean snapped impatiently, turning away from her stricken expression. Virginia did not answer him. She could not. Her throat was constricted until she felt she would choke if she could not soon draw a free breath.

Dean waited. "You remember, do you not," he said at last, "that your father's lawyer told you he could not account for the money that was raised on your Glen Cove estate?"

Virginia nodded.

"Well, I can tell you what became of it," he went on, talking fast. "Your father lost it in a bootlegging deal."

At this amazing statement something seemed to break through the thralldom in which Virginia was held. "That's not true!" she exclaimed fervently. "My father wouldn't have had anything to do with bootlegging."

Dean smiled wryly.

"Bootlegging is not so bad, my dear," he said pleasantly. "In fact, it's a thrilling business. I know because I was in it with your father—at his invitation, I might add."

"Do you expect me to believe that?" Virginia challenged.

"I shall prove it to you. But it isn't merely to tell you that your father engaged in a rum-running venture that I asked you to listen to me."

Virginia pulled herself erect in the big chair. "If you intend holding such a ridiculous charge as that over my head to make me listen to your insulting proposals you are making a mistake," she stormed hotly. "No one would believe you any more than I do!"

"I do not imagine we will have occasion to test the faith of the world at large," Dean remarked soberly. "I expect your loyalty to your father to save his memory from slander."

Virginia's lips curled in contempt. "Say what you like. Father's friends will never believe you."

"That is not the point. I, myself, should not care to advertise my little adventure to the public, but the fact that your father cheated me is another matter."

"Oh," Virginia cried, sharply, "how can you say such a thing about the man who was your closest friend?"

"Because it happens to be true; and the fact that he was, as you say, my closest friend, is what makes it all the more bitter to me."

Virginia made a move to get out of the chair. "I won't listen to you any longer," she declared through trembling lips.

"In that case I shall have to admit that I've underestimated your loyalty," Dean assured her. "I thought you would prefer to clear your father's name. You can do that by consenting to become my wife," he added abruptly.

"But I don't believe what you say; you're just trying to trap me!"

Dean turned to his desk. "Wait," he said curtly, and opened a drawer from which he quickly drew out two envelopes. One he handed to Virginia.

"Open it," he directed shortly.

She drew a folded sheet from the envelope and spread it open. The handwriting was her father's.

"Read it," he ordered.

Virginia wet her lips with the tip of her tongue and began to read:

"Dear Frederick:

"The failure of our first venture in B. L. was an overwhelming blow to me but I shall not give up. As you know, I raised the better part of one hundred thousand dollars on my property at Glen Cove. It was the only unencumbered real estate that remained to me. I do not know where to raise another such sum immediately, but if you will give me time I will try to get the money for you.

Sincerely yours,
Richard Brewster."

When she came to her father's signature Virginia bent her head low over the paper and sobbed softly.

"Does that satisfy you that I've told the truth?" Dean demanded unsympathetically.

Virginia raised her head. And behind the tears that brimmed in her eyes the man saw that there was still a fighting spirit shining there. It irritated him excessively, almost to anger.

"It only proves one thing," she said slowly; "that father was in some kind of business with you. But it doesn't prove that he cheated you in any way."

"Perhaps this will help to convince you," Dean flashed back and proffered her the second envelope. Virginia took it mechanically. It was nothing more than a simple agreement between Dean and her father to the effect that each was contributing $100,000 to an unnamed enterprise.

"Married!" Virginia cried. "Married! I'd rather die!"

"In the first place," Dean began when Virginia finished reading the paper, "doesn't it occur to you that the business wouldn't be 'unnamed' if it were legitimate?" He paused for an answer but Virginia remained silent.

"And why, when we had entered into this venture fifty-fifty should your father be willing to return my hundred thousand? Why, if not because he had tricked me and been found out?"

"You lie! Oh, you lie!" Virginia cried frenziedly.

"You know I'm telling the truth," Frederick Dean returned with steady emphasis. "But would it matter if you didn't? Would it change the facts at all if you persist in your blindness?"

"I can never believe that father deliberately tricked or cheated anyone."

He shrugged. "As you wish," he said coolly, "but it is still true, nevertheless, and you are giving up the one chance to make good for him. He wanted to do it himself. Can't you see that in his letter? He asked for time, but he knew he couldn't raise the money."

Through Virginia's mind shot a perplexing question, one that strengthened her faith. "But if father cheated you why didn't he have the money to pay you back when you found it out?" she asked cunningly.

"A very bright idea, my dear, but not so confounding as you think. He hadn't the money for the simple reason that he himself was double-crossed after he had double-crossed me. It goes that way in B. L." He flipped his hand in a negligent motion and smiled. "It was rather a joke on Richard, an expensive one. He informed me that he'd been hijacked, and so he was, later. I got in touch with his lieutenant and found out for myself, because I don't allow any man to lose $100,000 for me without looking into it."

His voice was hard as steel now and Virginia felt the first pang of genuine doubt creeping into her heart. But she fought on.

"He was ready to try again," she said. "Would he have wanted to do that if he had been . . . hi-jacked?"

"Richard would, yes. He was always a fool about money. You can see for yourself in his letter that he admits failure and still expresses his willingness to take another chance. All his life he'd been wrecking the Brewster fortune because he didn't know how to handle it. And at last he was driven desperate to keep up appearances. His doctor and his lawyer both advised him to put on the brakes, but he hadn't the faintest idea of how to do it."

A tortured cry rose in Virginia's throat but she stifled it, determined not to show her fear and grief to his detractor.

"But I can say that I believe he wanted to return my money," Dean went on, his tones a little less sharp. "Perhaps he would have done it, too, if he had lived. And I dare say he never would have taken advantage of a friend if he hadn't been fighting with his back to the wall. Adversity is a great leveler of character, you know. But your refusal to acknowledge the debt is a greater surprise to me, Virginia, than your father's dishonesty."

"He wasn't dishonest! No matter what you say I know my father never cheated you. But if you believe it, if you want your pound of flesh, you shall have it!" She was on her feet now, hands clenched at her side and her whole body trembling with emotion.

For an instant Dean's gaze wavered under the lash of her scorn, but only for an instant. Then he was coolly assuring her of his whole-hearted desire for the last ounce of the proverbial pound.

"And you must change your mind about leaving the house," he added. "We will arrange to be married quietly in a few weeks and slip away to the Mediterranean for our honeymoon."

"Married!" Virginia cried. "Married! I'd rather die!"

Dean's face darkened instantly. "How then, may I ask," he said frigidly, "do you propose to pay the debt?"

A RATS REVENGE

TOPEKA, Kan., July 5.—Possibly the rats rebelled. They got tired of being chased and trapped in a Chinaman's shop—without recompense. Anyhow, Jung Kee had managed to save $500, the profits from a laundry. The safest place, Kee thought, was to hide his money in his own establishment. But he hadn't counted on the rats. They found his hiding place and chewed up all of his hard earned money.

Don't fool yourself:

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Have you tried the new Listerine Shaving Cream?

Cools your skin while you shave and keeps it cool afterward. An outstanding shaving cream in every respect.

Before any "date" —end halitosis

BEFORE any engagement where you wish to appear at your best, decency demands that you rinse the mouth with Listerine.

By so doing you eliminate any risk of offending by halitosis (unpleasant breath).

You never have it? Don't fool yourself—you simply cannot know when you have it. It doesn't announce itself to you. But it does to others and offends them.

Listerine ends halitosis because it is a powerful deodorant. Prove it this way. Rub a bit of onion on your hand—then apply Listerine clear. Immediately the odor is gone. Even the odor of fish yields to it.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office and use it. It makes you agreeable to others instead of disagreeable. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

DAILY AVERAGE OUTPUT CLIMBS

Refinery Runs Show Big Increase in May

According to reports received by the bureau of mines, department of commerce, from companies which operate gathering or lead lines, the production of crude petroleum in the United States during May, 1928, amounted to 75,218,000 barrels. This represents a daily average of 2,426,000 barrels, an increase over April of 22,000 barrels.

Although production in the outstanding area of the country—West Texas—declined materially as the result of various proration agreements, increased activity in districts like California and Arkansas was sufficient to cause a gain in the national total. Daily average production in California increased by over 14,000 barrels due primarily to the completion of a number of large wells at Long Beach. Arkansas registered its first material increase in output since the peak of the Smackover as the result of the proving of a major pool, called the Rainbow field, near Champagnolle. The daily output of Oklahoma was up nearly 10,000 barrels in spite of the decline in daily average at Seminole of 9000 barrels. This probably resulted from a more or less general increase in activity in the other fields of the state to meet refinery demands without having to draw on high-priced storage.

Stocks Decrease

Although a slight decrease was recorded in total stocks of crude petroleum east of California, the first since 1926, this was insufficient to counterbalance increases in crude stocks in California and in total refined products, with the result that total stocks of all oils continued to rise. However, the increase—712,000 barrels—was much less than the increase of April, 2,468,000 barrels, or that of May, 1927, 6,760,000 barrels.

Runs to stills were again raised to a new high level in May, when the daily average crude throughput was 2,494,000 barrels. Daily average runs to stills of foreign crude petroleum exceeded 200,000 barrels for the first time since Sept., 1922.

As might be surmised from the foregoing, the output of gasoline reached a new high level of 994,000 barrels per day, an increase over the previous month of 16,000 barrels per day. Daily average domestic demand was 882,000 barrels, an increase over April, 1928, of 28,000 barrels, and over May, 1927, of the same amount, representing an increase during the year of 3 per cent. Daily average exports of gasoline exceeded the 200,000-barrel mark for the first time in history. This compensated for the small gain in domestic consumption so that stocks of gasoline were materially reduced, declining from 40,210,000 barrels on May 1, to 37,336,000 barrels at the end of the month. At the current rate of total demand, the latter represent 34 days' supply, as compared with 40 days' supply on hand a month ago and 49 days' supply on hand a year ago.

Little change was recorded in the statistics of both kerosene and lubricants. The increased use of Venezuelan and West Texas crudes at refineries was instrumental in another gain in the output of fuel oil, which with declining consumption resulted in an increase in stocks held at refineries east of California of over 3,000,000 barrels. This was the chief cause of the increase in total stocks of refined products, and in total stocks of all oils. A further strengthening in the market for wax was presaged by a decrease in output and a further decline in stocks.

The refinery data of this report were compiled from schedules of 321 refineries with an aggregate daily crude oil capacity of 3,103,000 barrels. These refineries operated during May at 80 per cent of their recorded capacity as compared with 318 refineries operating at 79 per cent of their capacity in April.

Biggerstaff Block in Fisher County Watched

ABILENE, July 5.—Among the most interesting of the new exploration operations in the Abilene sweet oil district is that of W. L. Biggerstaff on a 600 acre block in north Fisher county, where the first of four shallow tests that have been contracted for is now drilling.

Location of the operation now active is 150 feet north of the south line of section 295, H. & T. C. block 1, equal distant from the east and west lines of the section. No exact field notes on the other three tests have been reported. However, they will be in various parts of the block. The well now drilling is designated as Biggerstaff and others' No. 1 J. W. McWhirter and is about two miles south of the Double Mountain fork of the Brazos river.

The block controlled by Biggerstaff and associates is about five miles north and a little east of Rotan and near the center of the north side of the county, in a territory that has had, so far, very little testing. It is approximately 10 miles northwest of the Stephens pool in eastern Fisher county and is five miles north and west of Ideal Oil company's No. 1 Jameson in section 111, which had a fair show of oil at 2600 feet and another at 3008 feet.

Demand for Gasoline Cuts Dent in Stocks

TULSA, Okla., July 5.—Higher prices for gasoline!

Mid-Continent refiners report demand for gasoline continues strong, and the past week gasoline shipments cut into stocks approximately 3,000,000 gallons and shipments attained a new seasonal high.

Exporters are after high gravity motor fuel, offering 8⅝ to 8¾ cents for 64-66, 375 endpoint material of North Texas refineries, and paying 8¾ to 9 cents for the 68-70, 350-360 endpoint grade. They have quoted 8¾ cents for 64-66, 375 material of group 3 refineries, but whether any sales were made is not yet learned. Burning oils continue so-so.

Deputy Sheriffs Do Traffic Duty As New Little River Activity Hums

TULSA, Okla., July 5.—The scenes of the new Little River activity in Seminole are sights to behold, according to visitors to that area. One day last week there were three deputy sheriffs acting as traffic cops, and the following day four or five were stationed along the roads leading to the little town of Wolf, through which the drilling material was being hauled, and two were stationed at the cross roads. Wolf is located on the main north and south roads from Seminole through Bowlegs to Konawa, which has just been designated as a state highway, and on which highway all the available road machinery is being used to get it in good shape. The east and west highway from Holdenville to Maud is one of the best roads in that area, therefore all traffic to and from the new Little River activity must pass through Wolf.

A little more than one week ago but a few scattered derricks were to be seen, and now practically all are up for the many tests which are to be drilled, but not be permitted to drill in until August 15.

A boiler was moved through Wolf to a location a mile east, which was supposed to be the largest oil well drilling boiler in use in the state. This boiler will take the place of the usual battery of three boilers as used by many, and will furnish all of the power for drilling the well.

The boom at Wolf is said to equal the early days at Borger, Texas. The new $20,000 school for which bonds have been voted is expected to be ready for the opening of the fall term.

Crude Oil Used In Combatting Boll Weevils

EDINBURG, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Boll weevils, fleas and other cotton pests are being eliminated from the farm of J. E. Jessen, who lives near Edinburg, by the simple application of crude oil to the growing stalks.

"Although I had known of this method of combatting insects for several years, this is the first time I have tried it on my cotton, and the results are better than I expected," Mr. Jessen said.

The Tire Supreme for TRUCKS and BUSES

Firestone

Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatics hold all world records for SAFETY, DURABILITY, MILEAGE

Truck Records

A. J. Mortemer of McBrides, Mich., has to date received 51,000 miles from a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on his truck. For seventeen months these tires have been every day on a milk route, carrying two and three ton loads.

"Cannon Ball" Baker, in 1927, drove a 2-ton GMC truck, fully loaded, from Atlantic to the Pacific—3,693 miles in 137 hours and 36 minutes. This fastest and longest truck run on record was made on Firestone Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatics.

Bus Records

The Black Diamond Bus Line, Brownsville, Texas, report a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on a 20-passenger bus, ran over 83,000 miles.

Johnson Storage & Distributing Company, Fort Worth, Texas, received 63,000 miles continuous service on a set of Firestone Heavy Duty Truck Tires.

The world's longest bus line operating from Portland, Ore., to St. Louis, Mo., by way of El Paso, Texas, uses these tires exclusively, with remarkable savings of tire costs.

The Parmelee Company of Chicago since 1924 have obtained the remarkable average of better than 35,000 miles from Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on all vehicles in their passenger and baggage transfer fleets.

THESE records talk straight BUSINESS to the man who carries the responsibility for operating costs on truck and bus fleets.

These records actually SHOW how Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are smashing down the overhead on haulage—and that's what every truck and bus owner wants to know.

PERFORMANCE—that's the thing!—not mere claims or promises. How much per hauling mile? Tire buyers are entitled to the cold, hard facts, and Firestone Tires are delivering them in mileage service never before approached in the history of tire building.

Firestone has won outstanding leadership in both the truck and passenger car fields by clearly demonstrated engineering and manufacturing superiority. Firestone has pioneered every important advance in tire construction since the introduction of pneumatics. It was Firestone that won the fight against foreign monopoly of raw rubber, gained control of sources of supply and forced prices down to the low level on which they are today.

As a result of Firestone's own improved processes of manufacture, and the scientific engineering of definite types and sizes of tires to fully serve each specific purpose, new records—records unheard of a few years ago—are being piled up by literally hundreds of thousands of car and truck owners and operators.

Four hundred great Bus Lines—including the largest fleets in New York—Chicago—Cleveland—St. Louis—Los Angeles—San Antonio—New Orleans—Portland, Oregon—Washington, D. C., and many other leading cities—all have adopted Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, and are obtaining the lowest cost per mile on record, with safety, speed and all-around satisfaction.

Whatever the hauling job, Firestone has built a tire to give the most economical and satisfactory service. The FACTS are before every tire buyer—the element of gamble has been eliminated. When you buy Firestone Tires, you KNOW that you are buying

MOST MILES PER DOLLAR

Wherever mileage records are rigidly kept and economy programs of the cost per mile of operation maintained, owners of truck and bus fleets standardize on Firestone Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatic Tires

Firestone Master Service Station Dealers are better equipped to meet the specific needs of truck and bus operators. Take your haulage problems to them.

HEARNE SOUTHPAWS SPUDDERS INTO SUBMISSION IN OPENER

SHORES STARS IN RELIEF ROLE

Bill Glitters in First Appearance as Homeling

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

A young gentleman named Hearne, and called Bunny after the fashion which doubtless will exist for left-hand pitchers for time immemorial, just as right-hand hurlers named Young are nicknamed Cy, southpawed the Spudders into submission yesterday in the opening of a 16-day stand out at the orchard.

It wasn't the fact that Hearne is a left-hander that brought about the defeat of Jim Galloway's men. The bugaboo of portsiders supposed to exist for the Spudders was proved to be a snare and a delusion on the recent road trek, where our athletes hammered the fellows who toss with the fork hand for four or five defeats. It was just that the Shreveport chucker was in such form that he would have beaten most any ball club, and the 5 to 2 victory of the Sports was well deserved by Hearne.

Bunny recently toiled for the Boston Braves and is not to be confused with the Hearne who was a left-hand pitcher, and still may be, for the New York Giants a decade or so ago. The original Bunny Hearne, or the one who was with the Giants, was managing a club down in the Virginia league the last I heard of him. The Virginia league is now defunct and that Mr. Hearne's whereabouts are more or less of a mystery. But there is no question where Shreveport's Mr. Hearne may be found.

Puzzles Spuds and Ump

Hearne turned in a superlative day's work yesterday. He limited the Spudders to five blows, which were scattered through as many innings. Bunny's sharp-breaking hooks baffled the Spudders and Umpire Tom Irwin and his fast ball and change of pace were mixed effectively.

The Sports accorded Hearne errorless support to help turn back the Spudders, with Bernie Deviveros glittering with particular brightness in smart defensive work.

The day wasn't entirely wasted by the Wichita Falls club, even though it lost the ball game. Skipper Jim Galloway trotted forth Bill Shores for first inspection in Spudder regalia. Shores was known to most of the patrons and well remembered as a pitcher with Waco last season. But yesterday marked his debut in livery of our nine and it was a most pleasing occasion.

Bill went to the mound in the sixth inning in relief for Tom Estell, after five runs had been made by the Sports. Two were out and one on base. Bill passed the first batter who faced him. Thereafter, he turned back the Sports in order and struck out three. Only one ball was hit out of the infield off Shores by the 11 men who faced him.

Sports Get Early Lead

The Sports didn't hit Estell often. But they hit him hard. And timely. Two home runs in the second inning gave them a lead that with such chucking as Hearne displayed was sufficient. Ziggie Sears, who a day or so ago had been erroneously reported sold to Mobile, started the round with a single to right. Holman, the kid third baseman, who looks better every trip here, pasted one of Tom's spitballs (anyhow, Tom made motions of moistening the ball) over the left field wall, sending Ziggie scampering home ahead of him. Deviveros went out but the peaky Frank Tobin, who is playing a mighty nice game of ball, also lifted one over the center field wall.

Shreveport tallied again in the fourth. Holman strolled. Deviveros sacrificed, Estell to Turgeon. Tobin singled to left, Holman tallying. The Sports made their last run in the fifth when Watwood tripled to center after two were out and ambled home on Phipps' hit to the same territory.

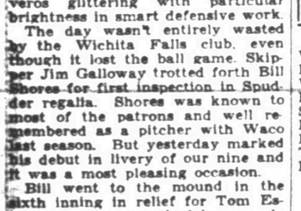

The Spudders made a gesture in the sixth when Fitzgerald walked and scored on Jenkins' double. Tom's first hit of two for the day, and Turgeon lifted over the left field barrier for a home run in the eighth. But though wavering a trifle in the ninth, Hearne came through like the excellent and stout-hearted pitcher he is, to prevent further scoring.

By losing, the Spudders lost a chance to tie the Buffs for the lead, when Beaumont trimmed Houston. Dallas slipped into a tie for second place with Wichita Falls by again handing Fort Worth a trimming.

Ritt's Riticisms

For the last 17 years National league batters have looked pretty sick. The name of the poison is Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Alex broke into the big time as a member of the Phillies. Despite the handicap he's made good, so it shouldn't be held against him.

Back in 1911 Alex had a swell curve. He's still got it, only it's speedier.

With Alex on the team all the rookie pitchers have to do is keep sitting on the bench and watch their beards grow.

Some of the boys he's fanning today saw him in his first world series. But they had to skip kindergarten to do it.

Back in 1915 the Phillies won a pennant. They had a good team then—Alex and eight other fellows.

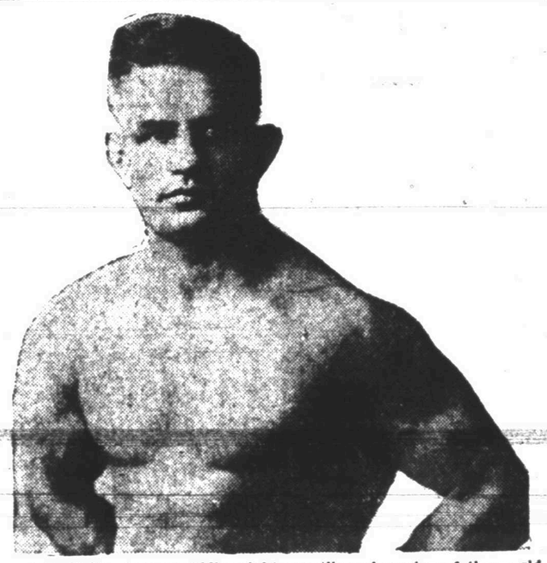

It is doubtful if the National league will ever have another pitcher to equal Alexander's record. They usually don't live that long.

Morgan and Martin Go Postponed to Wednesday

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—A sudden cloudburst, coming at the end of a sweltering day, caused postponement of the junior lightweight match tonight between Tod Morgan, of Seattle, Wash., and Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, New York challenger.

The match, one of 15 rounds, will be staged next Wednesday night.

Poorly Balanced American Olympic Team Will Be Selected This Week

Strong in Sprints and Field Events and Weak in Distance Affairs, Is Prospect for United States Squad

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, July 5. (UP)—A badly balanced American Olympic team, strong in sprints and field events and woefully weak in distance running, will be named after the final tryouts at Cambridge Friday and Saturday.

The 300 athletes gathering at Harvard stadium for the final tests represent greater strength in the dashes and weights than this nation ever has mustered for an Olympiad. In the distance runs, despite the warning of four years ago, the United States has been unable to develop anyone of prominence, save in the marathon.

From the 1500-meter run up to the 10,000-meter run, the American Olympic team will include no athlete likely to even place at Amsterdam.

This much was apparent from the list of entrants presented tonight for the two-day test which precedes the selection of the athletes who will board the President Roosevelt next Wednesday.

As for the selection, the athletes themselves must win their places with speed of foot and strength of arm in the 16 events on the final program.

The sprints, of course, will provide the most competition, and these are to be decided on Friday, contrary to custom. With room for but four men in each dash, it would not be surprising if the survivors were pushed to new records to keep ahead of the pack.

Charley Paddock, Jackson V. Scholz, Frank Hussey and the other Olympic veterans who survived the sectional tests may find themselves elbowed right off the team by some of the youngsters new to international fame.

Claude Bracey of Rice institute, Texas, has been the most spectacular sprinter of spring, but what is more important he has been a consistent winner. Consistency is a mighty important factor at the Olympic games, where a sprinter has to run through numerous heats before reaching the finals.

Simpson of Ohio State, Wildermuth, Georgetown; Wykoff, Glendale high school, and Henry Cumming of the Newark A. C., are newcomers who may hustle the veterans out of a trip to Amsterdam.

Given a break at the getaway, Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. should set a new world record in winning the 800-meter try-outs.

Notes of the Game

Jim Galloway will start Mike Cvengros or George Payne today in the second of the series.

Thompson probably will be Art Phelan's hill choice.

Recent action of congress in repealing the amusement tax benefits patrons of baseball. A new scale of prices was inaugurated yesterday at Athletic park, with box seats reduced to $1.10 instead of the former price of $1.25, and reserved seats now at $1, instead of $1.10 that prevailed when the government took its cut of a dime for a dollar.

Premature announcement was made of the sale of Ziggie Sears, the hard-hitting veteran outfielder of the Sports, to Mobile of the Southern association. The Shreveport and Mobile clubs were negotiating with the idea of transferring Sears but the deal wasn't closed, as had been reported.

Pete Kilduff, who injured his leg and was out of the game a few days on the Sports' last jaunt here, is back in the line-up, as spry as when he was keystoning in the National league, and always a dangerous hitter.

Galloway and Doc Smith, in addition to Shores, yesterday wore white Spudder uniforms for the first time. Galloway leads the pepper out on the coaching lines. Jim is well known here of course and is mighty popular with Wichita Falls fandom.

There were more extra-base hits than singles yesterday. Half of the Sports' six blows went for extra bags, homers by Holman and Tobin and Watwood's triple. Three of the Spuds' five hits were good for more than a bade. Turgeon's homer and two-base cracks by Swenson and Jenkins.

Jenkins was the only local athlete to hit safely twice.

Tobin set the pace for the Sports with a brace of knocks.

Deviveros handled nine chances, some of them difficult, without a misplay.

Benton's leg is about o. k. and the Rabbit will be in the line-up whenever needed.

It's good to see Fitzgerald patroling center field again; Howard, the rangy fellow who makes difficult chances look easy and does his share of hard and timely hitting.

STEERS AGAIN TROUNCE CATS

Dallas Wins Four Out Of Five, 3 to 2

DALLAS, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Sensational fielding and timely hitting gave the Steers a 3 to 2 decision over Fort Worth Thursday, making it four victories in five starts for the locals against the Cats in the second half.

Burns turned in a well pitched game, holding the locals to five hits, but the breaks went against him. The visitors made twice as many hits as the home nine.

Ray Pierce, new southpaw, started on the mound for Dallas and was hit hard after the third inning. Frasier was called to the rescue with runners on second and third and only one out in the eighth and caused Richardson to pop weakly to Morse and fanned Cobb to break up the Cat rally. Score:

Many Records Threatened Today And Tomorrow in Olympic Trials

Coach Lawson Robertson Predicts Fall of Numerous Marks in World Games This Summer at Amsterdam

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Coach American Olympic Team 1928

BOSTON, Mass., July 5. (US)—On the eve of the try-outs for membership on the Olympic squad of 1928, there is housed in this town, ready for competition, so many record-smashing athletes that an adding machine is almost necessary to achieve the exact total.

And before the finals are over on Saturday afternoon, it is likely that some of the existing marks will be smashed and newer and greater ones hung up.

The amazing and certainly the glorious thing from the American viewpoint is that within the squad of 350 men who go into battle tomorrow for the 90 places on the team, are men who have figured in practically every Olympic record hung up in 1924, with the exception of the long distance runs.

100 Potential Record Breakers

In other words, we have more than 100 men whose marks since 1924 are better than anything that was made to win the championships of four years ago.

For instance, a pole vault of less than 13 feet won that event in Paris in 1924. Since that time a score of our athletes have vaulted beyond 13 feet and each has done it on numerous occasions, while two men—Carr and Barnes—have scaled the 14-foot heights.

The 400-meter hurdle mark of 1924 has been smashed; the discus throw that won in 1924 has been beaten a dozen times by our men, either in practice or in competition: several of our men have thrown the javelin farther than did the Olympic champion of four seasons back.

Ninety Men on Team

Four of our men have thrown the 16-pound shot beyond 50 feet and one of them heaved it 51 feet, against 49 feet, 2¾ inches, which was far enough to win the event in 1924.

In the sprints and the middle distances, hurdles of all fashions, in the running high jump, the broad jump and other events, our athletes of today—the men who will fight it out for honors tomorrow and Saturday in the Harvard stadium—have so far eclipsed the records of 1924 that comparison is really a burlesque.

From out of the group that competes tomorrow and Saturday will be chosen 90 men who will make up our team. I expect no less than a half dozen new records to be established during those two days and I feel certain that the squad that eventually will represent us in the Olympic battling of 1928 will hang up marks in Amsterdam that will make the champions of 1924 look like novices in comparison.

Wichita Katy 9 Ties for Lead

Shares Honors With Denison in Railroad Loop

Wichita Falls M-K-T baseball team climbed into a tie for first place in the North Texas division of the Katy baseball league at Denison by splitting a double header with the Katy team. Denison won the first game 4 to 0, and Wichita Falls took the second, 4 to 2.

Manager Jakie Moore and his cohorts handed Denison its first and only defeat of the season.

Lefty Watson, Moore's star mound performer let his opponents down with three hits in the final game.

Publicty Committee Of C-C to Meet Today

The publicity committee of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce will meet in the offices of the chamber at 10 o'clock Friday morning, according to Hurbert M. Harrison, manager of the chamber. Mr. Harrison said the meeting is called at the request of Burton Stayton who said there is a proposition from the Kiwanis club to consider as well as several other matters.

U. S. DOUBLES TEAMS BEATEN

Tilden-Hunter, Lott-Hennessey Defeated

WIMBLEDON, July 5 (AP)—Beaten first by Australia and then by France, America's two remaining doubles teams, Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter and George Lott and John Hennessey, were swept out of the Wimbledon tennis championships today, leaving only Helen Wills in the singles and Miss Wills and Hunter in the mixed doubles.

Miss Wills may wear her Wimbledon crown another year without further opposition. Senorita Elia de Alvarez, her scheduled opponent in the finals, is suffering from an attack of laryngitis and will not be able toplay tomorrow. If she is unable to play tomorrow. If she is un-American girl will win by default.

Conquerors of the two American teams, Gerald Patterson and John B. Hawkes, who defeated Tilden and Hunter, and Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, who turned back Lott and Hennessey, will meet Saturday for the doubles title.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former California player, remains in the competition both in the women's and mixed doubles. Her partner in the women's events is Mrs. Joan Austin Lycett and she plays in the mixed doubles with P. D. B. Spence, South Africa.

Hunter and Tilden barely failed to defeat Hawkes and Patterson as Tilden narrowly missed victory over LaCoste yesterday. The spectacular five set match, which went to the Australians, 7-9, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4, 10-8 was fought out, point by point.

Moody to Evade Talk Of Smith in Addresses

AUSTIN, Texas, July 5. (AP)—Gov. Moody indicated today that, having intimated he will support Alfred Smith, he does not intend to refer to the subject in his campaign speeches.

He declined to answer a question as to whether he will urge "party lovalty" in his next address—at Hillsboro Saturday—except to say: "I shall discuss state politics."

CARL LAEMMLE

By CARL LAEMMLE

"Uncle Carl" stepped from a boat to the United States soll 44 years ago. At that time he possessed $50, an extra shirt and golden dreams. Today, he has monograms on his pajamas, lots of shirts and the shower in his office has gold-plated faucets.

In 1884 he landed a job sweeping the floor of a small store. Soon he got a better job—this time he swept the floor of a big department store.

Finally he drifted out to Chicago, became interested in moving pictures and entered the very infantile industry as a producer in 1906. It wasn't long until he organized the Universal Pictures Corporation. Almost every important screen star has worked for him at some time.

Now tune in on his favorite laugh producer:

"Abraham Stein," Uncle Carl told me, "invested his last nickel in the telephone company's booth and received in exchange the office of his friend, Morris Gold.

"'I vunt det you should let me spik vit Meester Gold — Meester Morris Gold,' he demanded.

"'Who is callink Mr. Gold?' came a voice over the wire.

"'Dis iss Abraham Stein—a very good frent from him.'

"'Vell, vhut iss it you vunt to tukk about to Mr. Gold?' the voice inquired.

"'I vunt det I should spik vit Mr. Gold about a very poisonal matter—I must spik vit him poisonally.'

"'Vell, vhut iss de natchure of wot you wish to spik to Mr. Gold about?' the voice persistently demanded.

"'I cannot be talling it to anyvun else. Meester Gold iss a very goot frent from mine, and vant det you shud tal him det I must tukk poisonally witt him.'

"A short wait," Mr. Laemmle went on, "was followed by the same voice: 'Now, did iss Mr. Gold spikink.'

"'Iss dis really Meester Gold himself?'

"'Yiss, it is Mr. Gold.'

"'Are you absolute posital dat dis iss Meester Morris Gold?

"'It iss.'

"'Well, din, iss dis you, Morris.'

"'Certainly.'

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Ptomaine Poisoning

More people are killed from what they eat than die from no eating. While most deaths are caused by a very slow food poisoning which interferes with some part of the body, we sometimes read about people dying suddenly from something they have eaten, and it is important that you know what causes this and what to do if you or some one close to you are so stricken.

Those substances that are poisonous in themselves, for example some classes of mushrooms containing a poisonous liquid called muscarine, while sometimes mistaken for food, can scarcely be classed as ptomaines. Some types of fish contain poisonous substances even when fresh, and one can only guard against these by knowing the varieties or by depending upon reliable markets.

Far more frequently met with than these poisonous substances are cases of poisoning from food that has become contaminated by improper handling. This is sometimes caused by the presence of air and live bacteria in metal contained foods, or from specific organisms such as tubercular bacilli, trichinosis or typhoid.

Animals or bees may be fed upon substances that make their products poisonous to man. Rye may be infected with a smut causing epidemics of ergotism. Potatoes have been known to produce poisoning from using well sprouted potatoes or those which have lain in the sun after digging. Wild potatoes sometimes will do this also, producing jaundice. Peaches will sometimes cause "summer complaint" for some unknown reason, possibly in some cases because the seeds are also used.

The treatment for any of these food poisonings is to give an emetic so as to freely wash out the stomach, and to give copious enemas. Then keep the patient active, exercising enough to produce sweating if possible. Sometimes the symptoms do not appear for several days, in which case it is advisable to give a cathartic and large quantities of water, with sweating and enemas.

The foregoing cases can not be classed as true ptomaine poisoning, since this is only caused by an alkaloid poison from putrefaction.

The most poisonous of the ptomains is mytilotoxin, found in spoiling mussels. Another very poisonous ptomaine is produced by the bacillus botulinus, and produces what is known as boltulism, first known as sausage poisoning. This organism has also been found in ham, and as it is very widely distributed in the soil, it may be present in many vegetable products, most likely those that are home canned. The poisons are not present in raw or freshly cooked foods. The presence of bubbles of gas and the softened appearance of the solid parts combined with a peculiar odor, should be sufficient excuse for discarding canned foods.

Sometimes milk and cheese become infected with a bacteria which causes intestinal irritation. So fish and mussels as well as in animals that have eaten poisonous substances, the liver is the most dangerous part to eat. Almost every type of meat, fish and fowl is liable to produce these poisons. It is interesting that the only exceptions to this is lamb and mutton. There is a type of poisoning causing paralysis of the legs from the use of the chick pea.

Sometimes good wholesome foods such as meat, eggs, milk, fish and strawberries will produce violent symptoms in certain individuals. This is an idiosyncrasy concerning some special protein. A person affected can usually obtain immunity by starting with small quantities of the offending foods, insufficient to be unpleasant, and gradually increase the amount used.

Questions and Answers

Question—C. B. asks: "What is a good diet for an anemic person?"

Answer—The first thing to remember is that anemic patients must not be stuffed with an excess of food. At the start of treatment, a fruit diet will do more than any other diet to bring the blood back to normal. After the fruit fast, all meals should be carefully balanced, using a reasonable amount of all the different food substances. As soon as the toxemia which produces anemia is thrown out of the system the body will be able to get the benefit of any good food.

Question—M. P. writes: "My meals are mostly milk and fruit, or a protein and vegetable. I am afraid I do not get enough starch. Does the body require a definite amount of starch, and will I suffer on account of the small quantity I take in?"

Answer—I do not believe it is necessary to use any highly starchy foods at all in the diet. Of course, there is always a small amount found in the non-starchy vegetables. Carnivorous animals get along very well without starch and sugar, and under certain forced circumstances men have lived for years under practically an exclusive meat diet. Don't worry about not getting enough starch; the chances are you will get too much rather than too little.

Question—D. L. writes: "We read and appreciate your articles very much. My wife is suffering from high blood pressure. Some of the doctors tell us it can not be cured. Would appreciate your advice on same."

Answer—The cause is due either to hardening of the arteries or arterial tension, and most cases can be cured by diet alone. If you will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope I will be glad to forward additional information on this subject.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—The cotton market recovered part of its pre-holiday losses in today's trading on covering and a renewal of trade or commission house demand, promoted by relatively steady buying and bullish features in the weekly crop reviews. October contracts, after selling up to 22.24 at the opening, reacted to 22.04 but advanced to 22.45 in late trading and closed at 22.43.

The opening was steady at an advance of 15 to 20 points on the firmness of Liverpool over the local holiday and unfavorable private crop advices. The bulge met much realizing or liquidation and there may have been some selling on a favorable weather map under which prices lost a good part of the initial advance.

The weekly report of the weather bureau, however, evidently made a bullish impression on sentiment, and was followed by an increase in demand which carried active months about 23 to 32 points above Tuesday's closing quotations. Demand tapered off above 22¼ for October and there were setbacks of 15 or 16 points on a favorable view of the detailed weather reports.

This decline met a renewal of the buying movement, and the market was firm later in the afternoon on continued covering or covering by recent sellers who seemed to consider that the absorption of pre-holiday liquidation had left the market in a firmer technical position and that crop prospects were showing very little improvement, despite more favorable features in the weather news.

July sold up to 22.28 and December to 22.30, net advances of 43 to 50 points on the general list. The close was only a point or two off from the best.

Exports today 20,810, making 7,537,854 so far this season. Port receipts 4762. U. S. port stocks 844,189.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 5. (AP)—After fluctuating rather widely during the morning, the cotton market strengthened near midsession today and was on the upgrade for the remainder of the session, making new highs right at the end and closing at a net advance of over $2 a bale.

October contracts advanced to 21.66 soon after the opening and then reacted to 21.49 but subsequently rallied to 21.87, 38 points above the previous close. The option closed 2 points under the latter figure with the general market steady at net gains of 35 to 44 points.

As Liverpool futures advanced during the holiday in American markets yesterday and as cables were 17 to 19 points higher today, the local market opened firm, first trades showing gains of 14 to 16 points, prices continued to advance after the start despite the comparatively dry weather map, and before the demand was supplied October reached 21.66 and December 21.56.

At these levels realizing developed, probably inducted by the dry weather over the holiday and the official forecast for fair and warm weather in the near future. October reacted to 21.49 and December to 21.42, or 16 to 17 points off from the highs.

Later when the weekly weather and crop report was issued, proving decidedly more bullish than expected, the market rallied sharply on good trade buying and covering brought out by the unfavorable summary. New highs were made at the close when October reached 21.87 and December 21.79, or 37 to 38 points above the lows and 38 to 40 points over the previous close. The close was at or near the highs with July contracts showing the maximum gain, closing at 22.36, or 44 points up for the day.

Treasury Financing Rallies Stocks; All Groups Active and Higher

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, July 5.—Treasury financing announcement rallied the stock market and easing money rates sustained the upward movement so that all groups closed higher in a more active session today.

General Motors was most active but it was the cornered airplane shares that scored the best advances with Wright skyrocketing over 16 points as shorts covered. Trading again was largely professional as the "public" has not retained sufficient courage to follow the recovery and price advances are largely effected against shorts.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and just as the fist appeared tiring, started to ease off. While the banks called in $5,000,000 there was an increasing amount of funds available from outside sources so that the rate had dropped to 5 per cent by the close.

Death of Loewenstein caused considerable disturbance in foreign markets that unsettled the foreign exchange market here. All European currencies were lower. Cotton fallied on receipt of bullish crop advices but wheat and other grains slipped off on bearish news.

The treasury financing has made it just a little harder for the reserve officials to effect further reduction in brokers' loans. It caused some belief that the treasury was not exactly in harmony with the reserve board. However, the most important task facing the treasury now is to take care of the third Liberty 4¼'s maturing Sept. 15 on the best possible basis. The federal reserve's job is to maintain a sane monetary structure so that business improvement and industrial growth is not halted. One may run contrary to the other momentarily. The treasury offering simply reflects Mr. Mellon's belief that there are a sufficient number of institutions and wealthy individuals satisfied with 3⅜ per cent return with tax exemption to take the new offering. It does not mean that the reserve will loosen the money reins at this time.

The Durant-Cutten groups quite evidently were cheered by the treasury announcement. The former started by giving the shorts in Nickel a bad time and all manner of fancy price predictions were floated around, although earnings are not believed to be much ahead of last year. The same interests were at work in Combustion and therein they talked of years to come and the bigger earnings to come with them as returns were received from contracts with Public Service of New Jersey and hoped for business from other utility companies. It was the continued strength of General Motors which these operators have picked for the leader of the new advance that influenced much of the short covering elsewhere.

STOCK-A-DAY

CALLAHAN ZINC-LEAD CO.

(Five-Year Record)

The Callahan Zinc-Lead company is engaged in mining, milling and marketing of zinc, and lead-silver ores. It was formed in 1912 under the laws of Arizona and has since that time acquired additional property from other concerns. A large portion of the company's property, including the Callahan property, are located in Shoshone county, Idaho.

The Callahan property has land totaling 1250 acres. Other properties have been consolidated into one group of 96 claims, embracing 1610 acres and is now known as the Galena property. Both of these properties are well equipped with modern concentration plants and mining machinery. A contract was signed with the American Smelting company in October, 1926, under the terms of which that company will purchase the lead-silver concentrattes of the Galena property for a period of five years. The company also has additional properties scattered through Idaho and Washington.

Shipments of ore from the Galena property were resumed in the latter part of 1926 after being discontinued for about three years. In 1927 the company mined 54,698 tons of ore, yielding 211,284 ounces of silver and 5,473,368 pounds of lead.

The company made large earnings during the war and small profits in 1919 and 1920. Net losses were reported for the next six years. Operations in 1927 resulted in a profit of $70,179 before depreciation and depletion. This compared with a loss of over $100,000 in 1926.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $7,245,920 in shares of $10 par value.

Dividends have been paid at various rates but none has been paid since 1920 when $2 a share was distributed.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets amounted to $573,957 and current liabilities to $19,054, leaving net working capital of $554,903. Cash on hand amounted to $33,851.

Women Still Shy of Aviator's Life, Record of License Bureau Shows

WASHINGTON, July 5. (UP)—Woman may have the right to fly, but she seems to prefer terra firma to the air.

The department of commerce has licensed only seven feminine pilots in the six months since Jan. 1, 1928, and only 16 in the two and one-half years since it issued air regulations and required pilot licensing.

Moreover, while 3000 young men are now registered as student pilots learning to fly, only 44 women have availed themselves of this same privilege and are on the student pilot records of the department.

Finally, of the 16 licensed women pilots, one has allowed her license to expire and another will lose hers through expiration July 30, unless renewed in the meantime.

Most of the 16 are young girls in their 20's and practically all of them are private pilots—that is, they have flown the least possible number of hours necessary to get a license. Two have been in the air alone for at least 200 hours; they are licensed as transport pilots. Two more are in the limited commercial class, which means they have 50 hours' solo flying to their credit.

Victim Chokes Would-Be Hijacker to Death

LOWELL, Mass., July 5. (UP)—Sylvio J. Desbrochers, 20, lost his life here today when the man he intended to rob Harry C. Kittredge, wealthy owner of the Lakeview Amusement park, strangled him to death in his fierce fight to escape. Desbrochers had lost his job at a department store here three weeks ago, police said.

Superfluous Wish

Jilted Lover: Away with women!

Sympathetic Friend: Yeh, boy, that's one thing you ain't got.—Judge.

Will It Be

AL SMITH or Herbert Hoover in November?

The conventions at Kansas City and Houston are over.

The candidates are nominated.

The battle lines for one of the greatest and hardest fought political campaigns in the history of the nation are forming.

The people of this section will want to follow the progress of the campaign; they will want to read what is being said and done; they will want to know what the leading political writers have to say.

The Times and Record News

will give the same superior service they have given on the conventions at Kansas City and Houston throughout the campaign — and they will give it first. Not only will they do this as regards the national campaign but in the local and state primaries as well.

If you are already a subscriber to both papers you are assured of good service. If you are not a subscriber, do not longer delay in subscribing for both papers.

LEGION MEN TO OLNEY MEETING

Wichita Legionnaires Will Attend Convention

Legionaires of Wichita Falls will be well represented at the district convention of the American Legion in Olney Saturday and Sunday, if the expectations of J. F. Friberg adjutant of the Pat Carrigan post become facts.

"Every American Legion man in Wichita Falls who can possibly get away for the convention should do so," Mr. Friberg declared. "Governor Dan Moody will be there, and all of the state officers will be there.

"Plans for the increased membership drive to bring the Texas total to 40,000 before the opening of the national convention in October at San Antonio will be discussed. The state membership is now about 30,000.

"This district, the 13th, covers the same territory as the 13th congressional district and we should all try to make this the best district in Texas.

"We of Wichita Falls have received special invitations from the Rotary club of Olney, the mayor and the chamber of commerce, and it is up to us to get in with a delegation that will be worthy of a city like Wichita Falls."

Burleson Hops On Party Bolters

was the issue, can do his party little injury by adding one more bolt to his record. In my opinion, the votes such people will receive in a Democratic primary will be truly insignificant. I prophesy now that Governor Moody will receive in the primary election more than 10 times the aggregate vote of all these recalcitrants."

Johnson Anti-Smith

W. E. Hawkins Breckenridge, and Mrs. Edith Williams, Dallas, candidates for governor and state Senator Tom Love, Dallas, candidate for lieutenant governor, have refused publicly to support Governor Smith for president.

State Highway Commissioner Cone Johnson also has said that he will not support Smith.

"I am loathe to believe Cone Johnson will bolt," Mr. Burleson said. "I like him. He is an honest man and if he does bolt it will not be the first time he has done so. His closest friends must admit that Cone has a mercurial temperament —today for this, tomorrow for that. But for this characteristic, he would have held exalted places at the hands of his party associates."

"It will take more than this handful of bolters to make Texas abandon her adherence to Democratic principles and besmirch her record as a rock-ribbed Democratic state. November will show that she is still true to the teachings of Coke, Roberts, Reagan, Mills, Hogg and Culberson. She will again stand steadfast, and in my opinion, will roll up her usual majority for our worthy candidates, Smith and Robinson."

Meeting Not Called

AUSTIN, Texas, July 5. (AP)—D. W. Wilcox, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, said from Georgetown Thursday night that he has not yet acted on the suggestion of National Committeeman Jed Adams of Dallas that he call a meeting of the state committee to organize the "party regulars" among the state, county and precinct committeemen.

The organization would include all committeemen who will support the national and state nominees of the party.

Whether the question of barring from the state July primary ticket all candidates who have expressed intention to "bolt" Gov. Al Smith for president, would be considered, could not be learned officially Thursday. Judge William E. Hawkins, candidate for governor and one of the bolters, has assumed, in a statement criticising the projected meeting, that a move to bar such avowed anti-Smith candidates is afoot.

Sleuth Given Special Badge

CHICAGO, July 5. (US)—Capt. John Stege was sworn in as a special peace officer of the municipal court today as part of the current movement to rid Chicago of crime.

Stege has been a special investigator for the special fraud grand jury, but has been without authority to make arrests or carry a gun, because of the refusal of Sheriff Charles Graydon to swear him as a deputy sheriff.

Graydon asserted that Stege's dismissal from the Chicago police department—on a technicality—was sufficient reason for refusing him as an officer.

Arrests Expected

However, with this new power, arrest of criminals wanted in connection with the violences of last election day, are expected to go forward with increased speed.

David Stansbury, special assistant attorney general in charge of the grand jury probe, asserted today that Sammy (the Greener) Kaplan, awaiting trial for the killing of Octavius Granady, had threatened to tell all unless he is speedily released from jail.

Eight Indicted

Granady, a negro politician and supporter of Senator Charles S. Deneen, was killed on the day of the April primary. Kaplan and eight others were indicted in connection with the slaying, but until Stege took charge of the investigation, Kaplan was not taken into custody, police here declaring they were unable to find him.

Already the badlands have taken up a collection to post as bond for the release of the gangsters who have fallen into the toils of the law. Thirty-five thousand dollars was the first levy, and it was reported today that this amount had been collected.

Wisconsin Bank Teller Arrested After Shortage

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 5. (AP) Erwin Voelz, 32, a teller in the National Bank of Commerce, was arrested today, charged with defalcations in excess of $100,000. Arraigned before a United States court commerce commissioner, he was bound over to the federal court for trial on $50,000 bond. A man who Voelz claims is indirectly responsible for the defalcations from the bank is sought.

Folks, Facts, Fancies

Railroad Visitors

Joe McDermott, of Dallas, traveling freight agent of the C. R. and Q. railway, and C. S. Elliott of Fort Worth, division freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific lines, are visiting the Fort Worth and Denver offices.

W. G. Bridgewater, of Fort Worth, traveling freight agent of the I. G. N. railway, and J. M. Ball of Houston, assistant traveling freight manager of the I. G. N., visited the Wichita Falls and Southern offices here.

W. R. Kinney of Dallas, traveling freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, and B. D. Shropshire Jr., commercial agent of the L. R. and N. railway, were visitors at the Wichita Falls and Southern and M-K-T offices here Thursday.

ANOTHER ZOO ADDITION

Lawrence Allen of Burkburnett caught a jack rabbit and he didn't know what to do with it.

Then he thought of the pleasure all boys and girls get out of seeing the animals at the zoo, so he made a special trip to the Lions club municipal zoo in Scotland park with his present. His jack rabbit is now lined up along with the bears, lions, wildcats and all the other animals.

Visitor Here

John B. Yauger of Shreveport, La., is visiting in the city at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. S. Tyson, 1502 Monroe.

Wichita Woman's Sister Dies

Mrs. Anna Christman of Denison, Texas, a sister of Mrs. Dan Oster, 1418 Fourteenth street, Wichita Falls, died at her home Thursday, according to word received in Wichita Falls. Mrs. Christman has visited in Wichita Falls a number of times in the past few years and has many friends here.

Permit for Residence

S. B. Wilson will build a new home at 1634 Dayton street, according to the provisions of a building permit issued Thursday by the office of W. E. McBroom, city clerk. The house will cost $3000 and construction will start at once.

Candidates To Speak Friday

"Group Two" Will Appear At Bellevue Park

Wichita Falls will have its second opportunity within the week to hear county candidates speak on their individual merits at Bellevue park at 8 o'clock Friday night, when members of group two make their first campaign appearance here.

Members of group one will speak at Iowa Park.

Although it was originally planned to allow each candidate 15 minutes in which to outline his qualifications, a special committee composed of John O. Marrs, Sam B. Spence, Max Shumate, Bob Crain and Harry Bunnenberg, with approval of other candidates, has cut the time to 10 minutes.

It will be the first local appearance of group two. The group is comprised of candidates for district attorney, district judge of 78th court, state representative of 112th district, sheriff, tax collector, judge of the county court at law, district clerk and county clerk.

Iowa Park citizens will hear candidates for representative district 111, county judge, county attorney, district judge of 89th district court, tax assessor, county school superintendent and county treasurer.

Deaths

L. T. CARTER

The body of L. T. Carter, 37, who died in a local hospital Wednesday was forwarded to Fort Worth Thursday morning by the Hines mortuary.

Buoy Lines to Mark Restricted Lake Area

Fishing and swimming near the dam at Diversion lake will be restricted in the interests of public safety, according to an announcement made Thursday by Guy A. Remington of irrigation district.

Lines held by buoys will mark the restricted area, he explained. The cause of the ruling was given as a recent accident which cost a life. Mr. Remington said that the restriction is being made simply in the interest of greater public safety.

C-C Receives Photos Of Wichita Skyline

The first skyline photographs of Wichita Falls taken since 1920 were delivered to the chamber of commerce Thursday, according to an announcement by Hubert Harrison, manager of the chamber. They are 10 feet long and will cost $15 each, he said. Those who wish them may obtain them at the chamber offices.

FIDDLERS PEP UP VAUDEVILLE

Jig Act at Park One Of Season's Best

Old time fiddling and dancing thrilled the 4500 people at the free vaudeville program at Bellevue park Thursday night, and made one of the biggest hits of any program given this summer.

A surprise had been announced for the program, and when it was sprung, the crowd was all jigging. Messrs. Tucker, Driscoll and Robinson, old time fiddlers, steamed up to the proper point, and A. Smith was working his banjo with them. Then, Fiddler Tucker laid down his instrument, shook his feet once or twice, and settled down into an old time minstrel dance while Smith played the banjo accompaniment.

The Camp Fire girls band and Wilson Gray's orchestra played several numbers, and Dorothy Kaufhold did some stunt dancing. Her steps were all original as she has never had a lesson, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks, who put the number on the program.

Wilma V. Engle, eight, sang several solos and was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Bruce Engle. Miss Eleanor Pitman sang some songs and played her ukulele. Miss Letitie Keith, a pupil of Miss Pitman's sang and danced.

A guitar trio composed of Miss Elizabeth Fisher, Claud Gold and Mrs. A. W. Ayers completed the program.

Girl, 17, Expected To Survive Poisoning

Miss Gertrude Wickersham, 17, of 304 Patterson street was in a serious condition at the Wichita General hospital Thursday night as the result of poisoning.

Physicians who examined the girl did not believe the poison would prove fatal. Miss Wickersham was taken to the hospital in a Hines mortuary ambulance about 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Poisoning Proves Fatal For Wichita Falls Woman

Funeral services for Ruth Mills of 304 Lake street, who died in a local hospital at 2 o'clock Thursday morning from bichloride of mercury poisoning, will be held from the Hines chapel at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Burial will be in Rosemont.

Woman Hurt in Mishap In Improved Condition

Mrs. Harry Abouisk of Fort Worth was in an improved condition at the Wichita General hospital Thursday afternoon following an accident on the Fort Worth highway early Thursday morning.

Mrs. Abouisk suffered a broken collar bone and a broken arm.

Financier's Death Causes Losses

ger compartment. I read it there. I thought the best thing to do was to land as soon as possible and make a search and inquiry after the body. The staff in the airplane took his disappearance with remarkable calm. Neither of his two women secretaries showed any signs of excitement, or fear, as might have been expected."

The mystery of the disappearance was accentuated today by the statement of a Croyden air official familiar with the Fokker machine Loewenstein was using.

Opening Difficult

"In my opinion it was impossible to open the door and fall accidentally through it," he said. "The door was fastened with bolts on the inside, opens outward and the entire terrific wind pressure from the engine on the wing is directly against it. It would require considerable strength to force the door open."

The Dunkirk fishing fleet searched unsuccessfully throughout the day for Loewenstein's body.

Effect of Loewenstein's death on stock markets was attributed to his personality. He was the dominating figure in most of the interests in which he participated and his disappearance precipitated an uneasiness among shareholders.

Wife Scoffs Suicide

BRUSSELS, July 5. (UP)—When Mrs. Loewenstein returned from Calais where she questioned the occupants of the airplane from which her husband met his death, she said:

"It is stupid to say Capt. Loewenstein committed suicide. He was an energetic, characterful man and had no reason to desire death. I know the airplane well and it is easy to mistake the door of the retiring room for the outside door."

Suicide Decision

PARIS, July 5. (UP)—A coroner's board convened here and reached the conclusion that Captain Loewenstein had committed suicide but no formal announcement was made. The decision is being communicated to Brussels and London on the belief that the evidence clearly shows the financier's death was not due to an accident.

Fishermen Find Wreck Of Missing Airplane

MARSEILLES, July 5. (UP)—Fishermen found in mid-Mediterranean an abandoned passenger plane of the Marseilles-Algiers service, which had been missing four days. There was no trace of the crew and passengers who numbered four.

GARDEN: "The Cactus Trail." Serial. Comedy.
GEM: "The Cowboy Prince." Serial. Comedy.

Love versus luxury in a story of gold digging wives is told in "Soft Living," a Fox picture starring Madge Bellamy now playing at the Olympic. The story it tells is unusual as it shows what happens to a poor working girl who marries simply to make some money. The twist is when she doesn't make money out of the divorce she planned. Then the fun and action start.

"The Lion and the Mouse," historic old play, will open Friday at the Strand. It is a vitaphone picture with more talking and dialog than any talkie so far released, according to the advance announcements.

Lionel Barrymore and May McAvoy are starred. Everyone remembers May McAvoy for her recent work for Warner Brothers as shown at the Strand on the vitaphone. She is one actress who seems to have retained her hold on the public. All the Barrymores are good artists, and Lionel is no exception. The team should go a long ways in making this picture one of the biggest yet seen.

Ramon Novarro continues to draw good houses at the Majestic theater in "A Certain Young Man." It's a gay society comedy about young Lord Jerry and his escapades and loves in England and on the continent.

Tom Mix is pleasing the lovers of action, and he is playing the pied piper of Wichita Falls to the kids. Never before has this popular star and his great horse, Tony, attracted such a big storm of applause and good comment. The Mission theater, which reopened with this great actor featured in "The Horseman of the Plains," should enjoy a happy season after a friendly reception on its opening.

Wichita Falls, Claud and Amarillo Guard Units Leave Here Saturday

Wichita Falls, Claude and Amarillo units of the 36th division will leave Saturday morning for the annual training camp at Palacios which will last 15 days, according to Captain O. E. Nelson of battery D of the 131st field artillery, one of four Wichita Falls units which will board the train here.

Company L, Capt. L. V. Abernathy commanding; company M, Capt. G. C. Shankle commanding, and the Third battalion headquarters company, Lieut. J. Z. Steinkoenig commanding, are the three units of the 142nd infantry of this city that also will be in the party. A total of 225 men are going from Wichita Falls.

Amarillo will have one battery of artillery and two companies of infantry, and Claude will have a company of infantry on the same train.

The cannons and equipment of D battery of Wichita Falls have already been shipped ahead to Palacios to be ready for the troops on arrival.

The train will remain in Dallas about four hours, and will be joined there by a number of others. It is expected that 22 special trains will arrive in Palacios between the time the Wichita Falls train is due at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and sun down.

There are 9000 men in the division, which is commanded by General John A. Hulen. All in it are Texans. In this respect, Texas has a place occupied by only four other states in the country in so far as the state has within itself a complete division.

Revision Of City Pump Schedule Saves $5,000 Year On Water

"More water for less money."

That is the slogan adopted in fact by the city of Wichita Falls in the fight by the city manager form of government to lower the cost of city water plant operation.

About $5000 will be saved in the cost of operation of the water department due to one saving alone which has been effected at the suggestion of George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

The June report of the cost of pumping as delivered by Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department, Thursday, shows more water was pumped in June, 1928, for less money than a smaller quantity of water was pumped in June, 1927. The actual saving was $411.25, and was made by shutting off the pumps at night.

The 500,000-gallon aerial tank at the west end of Ninth street used to overflow when the use of the water was light, but the pumps were always kept going in case the demand should suddenly become heavy. A way was found to measure the water in the tank, however, by means of the pressure. After several days' experimenting it was found that the pumps could be shut off for about 10 hours each night without the pressure running too low at any time.

The month of June saw the plan in operation all month, and the saving in the power bill resulted.

In June, 1927, it cost $2261.25 to pump 135,840,000 gallons. In June, 1928, it cost $1850.00 to pump 139,080,000 gallons used by the city. The difference of $411.25 resulted.

Highest Court of Land To Be Asked To Consider Case of Girl Slayer

LOS ANGELES, July 5. (US)—Announcement that the case of William Edward Hickman will be taken before the United States supreme court was made today by Attorney Richard Cantillon, of Hickman's counsel.

The state supreme court at San Francisco today handed down a decision affirming the judgment of the Los Angeles county superior court sentencing Hickman to be hanged for the murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker. The decision upheld the constitutionality of the new California insanity law.

Rights Violated, Claim

Attorney Cantillon, in declaring Hickman's case would be taken to the highest court in the land, asserted the belief that Hickman's constitutional rights were violated at the trial.

"The right of trial by due process of law is abrogated by the new state law permitting a plea of 'not guilty by reason of insanity,'" Cantillon said. "There is a conclusive presumption of guilt in the double plea of 'guilty, but not guilty by reason of insanity.' This peculiar admission of two opposite states of fact is absurd."

Motion Is Stay

Hickman will be resentenced by Presiding Judge Douglas L. Edmonds of the superior court after the state supreme court decision becomes final in 30 days. The slayer will be brought here from San Quentin for the purpose. The execution date will be fixed at not less than 60 and not more than 90 days from the day of resentencing.

The United States supreme court will not be in session until September 1. Filing of a motion for a writ of error would act as a stay of execution.

Retains Politeness

SAN QUENTIN PENITENTIARY, Cal., July 5. (UP)—Politeness that William Edward Hickman learned when he was a model student in high school did not forsake him today when his greatest hope of escaping the death penalty for the murder of Marion Parker was swept away by a ruling of the state supreme court.

The young slayer whose crime startled a nation was notified by Warden James B. Holohan that his appeal to the state supreme court had been denied.

"Thank you, warden," Hickman said.

Then, without a single show of emotion or indication of what the message really meant to him, Hickman courteously ushered the prison official from his cell in the "condemned row" of the penitentiary.

DEATH PLOT BARED

TIRANA, Albania, July 5. (AP)—A new and daring plot to assassinate Ahmed Zogu, president of Albania, was unearthed today by police who arrested a number of Bulgarian suspects and Major Ismail Shahin, alleged to be a representative of former Premier Hassan Pristina.

1600 BACK TAX NOTICES SENT

Delinquent Rolls Mailed Out by Hyer

Notices that their property is being placed on the delinquent tax rolls are being mailed out to 1600 Wichitans, according to an announcements made Thursday by W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector.

"These notices are required by law, and do not carry the amount the property holder owes as that amount may change in the interest charge between the time the notice is received and the time the property owner comes to pay his taxes," Mr. Hyer said. "The cards indicate to the property owner that he should call at the tax office to pay the tax, penalties and interest on both his city and school taxes."

Jesse Jones to Join Robinson in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 5. (UP)—Upon his arrival here today for a rest before going to New York Monday for conferences, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, vice presidential candidate of the Democratic party, turned his attention to answering thousands of letters and telegrams. He will be joined here Friday or Saturday by Jesse H. Jones of Texas, sponsor of the Houston convention.

Crime Expert Lauds Papers

NEW YORK, July 5. (UP)—Publicity is one of the most effective means of fighting crime, in the belief of J. P. Banton, district attorney of New York.

In an interview, marking the second anniversary of the so-called "Baumes laws," the stringent criminal code of New York state, Banton seemed more inclined to credit newspaper campaigns with the reduction of crime than he did the Baumes laws.

District attorneys of three other boroughs of greater New York, strongly praised the Baumes code.

Sentences "Played"

"Crime comes often in waves," Banton said. "Publicity frequently drives criminals out of town and keeps them out for long periods. But they drift back again. Then we have a crime wave.

"When I took office in 1922 I arranged a conference with all of the city editors of New York papers. I asked them to give as much publicity to the punishment given criminals as to the news of the crime itself. They agreed and they kept their agreement. They played up sentences.

"We had a marked drop in crime. The crooks were frightened by the news they were reading.

"When the scare subsided, of course, the crooks began their activities again.

Burglaries Reduced

"We later conducted a drive against burglaries. The papers helped us. Burglaries dropped off right away—but we found that a lot of the burglars were turning into stick-up men.

"Later, with cooperation of the papers, we began campaigning against 'fences'—the men who dispose of stolen goods for the crooks. The fences became scarce for the period of the campaign and for quite a time afterwards. Gradually they came back.

"Headlines will drive criminals away like flies before the north wind. But they come back in time."

Lamkin Heads National Education Association

MINNEAPOLIS, July 5. (AP)—Dr. Ruel W. Lamkin, president of Northwest Missouri State Teachers' college at Maryville, was elected president of the National Education association without opposition today.

Equal educational opportunity for every boy and girl in America, is his ambition, Said Dr. Lamkin, who began his teaching career as principal at Clinton, Mo., in 1897.

HEALTH NOTE

Sanitary Chief Warns Wichitans to Cut Weed Patches

"Cut those weeds."

That is the suggestion and health warning issued Thursday by Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief sanitary inspector.

There were 270 weed notices sent out in June, and many more are being sent out daily to property owners whose property has a weed growth which might be a menace to the health of the city.

Guy Powell, city milk inspector, reports the milk conditions in the city to be excellent. Mr. Powell's departure from city office was reported several weeks ago, but that report was found to be erroneous.

JURORS MAY REPORT TODAY

Investigators Tour County Jail

The grand jury in 30th district court recessed at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon until 9 o'clock Friday without having made a report on the day's activities, according to Judge E. G. Thornton.

Oral Jones, foreman, signified that the body would be prepared to bring in a report late Friday afternoon.

The entire body Thursday morning spent a short time in investigation of the county jail in an effort to determine whether faulty construction was responsible for the recent escapes.

Sheriff W. G. Bralley, who had asked an investigation into the jail structure following three breaks in as many months, was questioned by the body. He escorted the body about the jail, pointing out what he deemed necessary changes.

It is believed that the recommendations concerning the jail will be given in the final report of the jury, expected this week.

10,000 Attend Funeral Rites for Gangster

NEW YORK, July 5. (US)—Tons of flowers, pure and peaceful looking, were interpreted today as gangland's flaunted promise to avenge the murder of Frankie Yale, the Beau Brummel of the Brooklyn underworld.

All the flowers were carried in Yale's funeral procession with him to the grave. There were 200 automobiles and 10,000 mourners and curious in the line of march.

GENEVA, July 5. (UP)—The conference on abolition of export and import restrictions today adopted the United States reservation with regard to helium gas.

AIR QUOTA HERE $50,000

Report Received On Petroleum Line

Wichita Falls' quota for the Petroleum air line has been tentatively set at $50,000 by the committee which was named to draw up an outline of the cost and method of operation of such a line, according to Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

"It was estimated in the report which I received Thursday from E. P. Halliburton at Duncan, that the line will cost abuot $250,000 to start and operate.

"The report suggested that the cost be distributed on the basis of $50,000 to Tulsa, Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City, and $25,000 each to San Angelo, Abilene, Duncan and Bristow.

"The committee of the chamber here probably will be called together early next week to consider the plan. Meantime, Wichita Falls is in no way tied up and has not accepted any liability. It is a plan, which if found practical, will be considered seriously here."

The report suggests three trimotored ships, each to cost about $46,000, capable of carrying 10 passengers and baggage. Mail and express also will be carried by the line. Four pilots, four mechanics, and a general manager would be hired under the plan.

Demand For Charity Drops

Better employment conditions in Wichita Falls in the past month have resulted in lighter demands on organized charity according to the finding of the financial board of the Community chest which held its monthly meeting Thursday morning in the directors' room of the City National bank.

Miss Myrle Neely, secretary of the Community chest, gave the financial reports of the member organizations of the chest. The combined report was approved and funds appropriated for the operation of the chest for the coming month.

Those attending the meeting included J. B. Price, W. E. McBroom, H. R. Gray Jr., A. E. Kelly and Miss Neely.
