RRC Attacked By Candidate

AUSTIN (AP)-A candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission charges that body has short-changed the city of San Antonio by not investigating rate increases levied by the railroad that hauls coal power to city's utilities.

Jim Hightower, former editor of the "Texas Observer," said Alamo City residents are being "gouged" by the Burlington Northern Railroad.

"Burlington Northern's rates have gone from $11 per ton to more than $19 per ton in the last three years," Hightower said.

Governors Session Ends

AUSTIN (AP)-There are only 18 Republican governors, but they came away from their annual convention convinced they know the way to a GOP comeback: Hanging the energy problem on the ruling Democrats.

"This will be a battle cry. It will be a crusade," said Ohio Gov. James Rhodes. "And I know the Republican candidates will start speaking out after this meeting concerning energy.

"If we can solve the energy problem," Rhodes said, "we will elect a Republican congress and also a Republican president."

The Republican Governors Association concluded its three-day meeting Tuesday by adopting a resolution charging the "National administration and the Congress have failed to respond to the nation's energy crisis."

Beefing Up Strike Power

WASHINGTON (AP)-The United States is doubling its aircraft carrier striking power in waters leading to Iran to underscore President Carter's demand that 49 American hostages be released unharmed.

Carter ordered the 81,000-ton carrier Kitty Hawk and its 85 planes sent to the Indian Ocean on Tuesday.

Slain Marine Identified

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Defense Department identified the Marine guard killed at the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, today as Cpl. Steven Crowley, 20, of Port Jefferson, N.Y.

A Pentagon spokesman said Crowley, who was single, enlisted in the Marines in July 1977. He is survived by his mother, Georgene Crowley of Selden, N.Y.

Listening to the libbers and ERA people, you would think that women were strangers to high office. But that's not the case in Texas.

We received a piece of publicity the other day from the Texas Foundation for Women's Resources that reminded that Texas not only had elected a woman governor just five years after women in the U.S.A. were granted the privilege of voting, but the state also had an all-woman supreme court.

"Most Texans know about Ma Ferguson, but few have ever heard about the all-woman supreme court..." says Ann Richards, who now is a member of the Travis County Commissioners Court.

It was in 1925 when a court case styled Johnson vs. Darr came before the Texas Supreme Court. The suit involved a real estate claim being asserted by a trustee for the Woodmen of the World and the three justices of the court were members of that fraternal organization. So were most of the male attorneys in Texas.

So, Gov. Pat M. Neff appointed three women attorneys to sit on the Special Supreme Court to hear the case.

Gov. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson was inaugurated as the first elected woman governor in the United States on Jan. 20, 1925, and her inauguration fell between the first two sessions of the all-woman supreme court. These three women supreme court justices were Hortense Ward, chief justice; Ruth Brazzil, and Hattie L. Henenburg, associate justices. Although they returned to private practice following their special service, all three had distinguished careers in the legal profession.

Ma Ferguson was elected, one might surmise, because Texans trusted her more than her husband, James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson who had been impeached. It is said that an incident involving Snyder's bid for "West Texas A&M College" possibly contributed to his impeachment as governor. He was suspected of juggling the count in a vote by the site selection committee, which, if it had been counted correctly, might have established a state university here. At the time, Gov. Jim Ferguson was under fire on other matters in Austin, and the incident involving the college site added some fuel to the flames. It also stifled efforts to establish a "West Texas A&M College." The project was shelved while the country was involved in World War I, and then was revived in the early twenties, only that time it had changed to Texas Technological College, which eventually went to Lubbock.

Who knows, if Ferguson's wife had been governor then instead of him, Snyder might have had a four-year college all these past 60 years.

Americans Rescued From Mob...

Burn Pakistan Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pakistani army rescued about 100 Americans from the rooftop of the U.S. embassy in Islamabad today after a mob of perhaps tens of thousands stormed and set fire to the building, the State Department said. A Marine guard died in the siege.

The Americans saved in the dramatic rescue were evacuated to the British embassy. State Department officials said other Americans might still be trapped, but a spokesman for the Pakistani embassy here said all were removed safely from the building.

The Marine guard, identified by the Pentagon as Cpl. Steven Crowley, 20, of Port Jefferson, N.Y., was killed by gunfire in the initial melee. No other American casualties were reported.

The embassy attack apparently was sparked by Iranian charges of American involvement in the takeover of a holy mosque in Mecca, Saudi Arabia.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter strongly denied the charge and said Pakistani authorities cooperated with U.S. officials throughout the crisis.

The department said in a statement that the allegation of a U.S. and Israeli role in the mosque incident was "false and irresponsible."

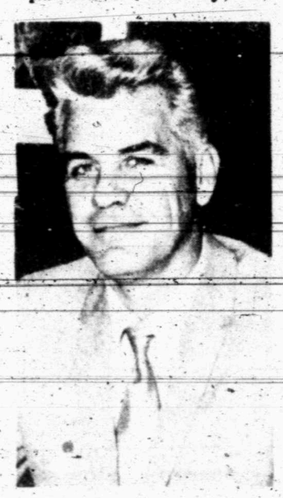

"The Saudi Arabian embassy in Washington has already described the takeover as the responsibility of a band of renegades to the Islamic religion," the statement said.

Hopkins, Baird In New Duties

Two personnel changes have been announced at Western Texas College to become effective immediately.

Rex Hopkins will become director of maintenance for the college, filling the vacancy left by the death of L.D. Walden earlier this year. Bill Mapes will continue as assistant director.

Jerry Baird, who has been public relations director and assistant director of continuing education, will replace Hopkins as director of continuing education.

Hopkins came to WTC in August, 1970, as the first business manager for the college. He holds the bachelor of business administration degree from West Texas State University, and had served as business manager for Howard College in Big Spring and Odessa College before coming to WTC. He has also served the college as acting director of occupational education and technology and director of public service programs.

Baird was first employed by WTC in February, 1971, as a counselor. He holds the bachelor of science and master of education degree from Sul Ross State University, and had worked with public schools before coming to WTC.

As Director of Counseling at WTC, Baird helped develop what he feels is a unique college counseling program. Faculty members have been invited to serve as an advisory committee for the counseling staff to provide current information in their special fields of interest. DUFI (Dial Us For Information) is a service of the counseling center which may be used by the public for a variety of taped messages via telephone.

New Phone Rates Placed In Effect

AUSTIN (AP)—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. today placed into effect new rates that are expected to raise the company's income by $138.7 million.

Bell spokesman Dale Johnson said the detailed tariffs, carrying out rates authorized Nov. 9 by the Texas Public Utility Commission, were approved Tuesday by the commission's staff.

Johnson said it would be a while before customers started feeling the full impact of the new rates.

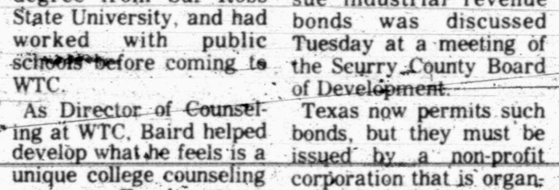

The commission said Bell could increase rates for basic residential service by $1.15 a month and for basic business service by $3.45 a month and raise the price of pay telephone from 20 cents to 25 cents.

In addition, Bell will raise prices for a variety of business telephone services such as Centrex and PBX.

Johnson said the increase in basic residential and business rates will be applied immediately, but it would be about a month before bills show the impact of the increase.

For example, he said, a residential bill dated Friday will have added to it a pro-rated share of the $1.15 increase for two days, he said. Johnson said the telephone company would have to modify each of the thousands of pay telephones in Texas to take advantage of the nickle increase in the cost of a coin-operated telephone call.

"It will take a minimum of two weeks," Johnson said.

Q-If the Southwest Conference gets four of its football teams into bowl games this time, will it be a first?

A--No. Actually it will be the third year in a row and the fifth time in history. In fact, it will be the third time that Texas, Arkansas and Baylor have been a major bowl games the same season, and all three times there have been a fourth SWC team in another bowl.

Industrial Bond Plan Discussed

An agency which would have the authority to issue industrial revenue bonds was discussed Tuesday at a meeting of the Scurry County Board of Development.

Texas now permits such bonds, but they must be issued by a non-profit corporation that is organization via a local government entity, Bill Warner, consultant, told the BCD members. Thus, the industrial foundation here could not serve in that capacity. Warner said plans are to call a meeting of a local task force, with chamber, BCD, industrial foundation, county and city officials attending.

Some 17 Texas communities already have formed such organizations which enables them to compete with other states in seeking new industry, Warner said. At this time, there is no project in sight which would require industrial bonds, but the organization could be formed and ready if and when there is a need, it was noted.

The BCD members also discussed souvenir buckles and white buffalo stickers which will be used to advertise Snyder. The first shipment of 250 buckles is due soon, Warner said.

Guy Sullivan, BCD chairman, presided over the meeting and board members attending were Dale Stuard and Clyde Hall.

Execution Threat Follows Hint Of Military Action

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iranian militants threatened today to execute the 49 American they hold as hostages in the U.S. Embassy if the United States mounts a military operation against Iran.

The threat followed a veiled hint of military action by the Carter administration which on Tuesday ordered the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escorting warships to the Indian Ocean. Another U.S. task force led by the carrier Midway is already in the area, about 600 miles south of the Persian Gulf.

The students, who occupied the embassy Nov. 4 demanding the return of the exiled shah from New York, issued a similar threat in the first days of the crisis.

Earlier in the day, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini whipped up mammoth anti-American demonstrations across Iran today as part of his campaign to pressure the U.S. government into surrendering the deposed shah.

Hundreds of thousands chanted "Mar bar shah, mar bar Carter" — "Death to the shah, death to Carter" — as they marched in orderly, well-organized columns through the streets of Iran's capital.

The religious leader of the Iranian revolution hardened his threat to try as spies the 49 Americans still held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The Carter administration responded with its first veiled threat of military action and ordered the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escorting warships to the Indian Ocean.

Another U.S. task force led by the carrier Midway is already in the area, about 600 miles south of the Persian Gulf.

Chamber Of Commerce Elects Four Directors

Snyder Chamber of Commerce Directors last night welcomed four new board members and set up a committee to review activities sponsored by the chamber and make recommendations for next year's activities.

Bill Warner, chamber manager, announced that Elizabeth Potts, realtor; Tommy Lay, of Central Tire; Brenda Hedges, assistant vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan, and Truett Bryan, manager of Snyder Motor Co., had been elected to the board.

The board is scheduled to elect a vice president, secretary and treasurer at its December meeting. Charley Henderson, president-elect, will take over as chamber president in January.

The board got reports on recreation vehicle rallies, the Western Texas College Classic, arts month, football playoff games and other activities. This led to a discussion of chamber sponsored events throughout the year and their financial requirements. Following the discussion it was agreed that a committee should review the events with which the chamber has been identified with a view toward strengthening the slate and possibly deleting any that may have become a financial burden. Dalton Walton, chamber president, and C.A. McCown are to serve on this committee, with two others to be named.

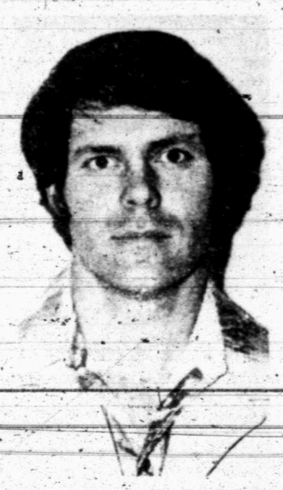

Howard Limmer gave a brief report on Christmas season plans made by the merchants committee.

Warner said that 25 of the collectors' buckle sets the chamber had offered for sale were to be delivered today. He also said that Norman Cutliff, the designer, had advised that silver costs would result in a price increase. A committee was to meet with Cutliff today and discuss the buckle sets. The board decided not to handle any more orders for the buckles.

Warner reported that Snyder Jaycees were still working on chamber memberships and that they hoped to complete their drive within two weeks.

Area Prepares For Holiday

Many Snyder area residents were preparing for a general holiday as Thanksgiving approached.

A number of business firms, along with government agencies, financial firms and other offices will be closed Thursday for the traditional holiday.

Public schools and Western Texas College dismissed classes this afternoon for a holiday weekend. They will resume their regular schedules Monday. The Snyder Daily News will publish a Thursday issue, but it is due to be off the press earlier than usual so that employees will be off in time for Thanksgiving dinner.

money by any means

A Miami bank has a money problem, but not of the usual variety.

It is the local branch of the Federal Reserve and it has too much of the stuff. So much, according to a Wall Street Journal report, that it doesn't find it necessary to issue new currency, one of the functions of the Reserve system, but is in the position of a supplier, shipping much of its surplus to other reserve districts.

The principal source of Miami's abundance is the central bank of Colombia, and thereby hangs a tale of particular interest to another agency of the government.

The flow suggests not so much that the South American country suddenly has become unusually prosperous and has a high regard for the U.S. financial system as a secure repository for its holdings, but that Colombia has become the chief supplier of marijuana and cocaine to the American market.

A study by the Justice Department's Drug Enforcement Administration, the Journal reports, concludes that Colombia has replaced Mexico in this role.

Additional funds are finding their way into Florida commercial banks, all as a part of what the drug study describes as a sophisticated international banking system evolved to facilitate the drug traffic.

To the Reserve it's all U.S. currency and, as an official observes, "we'll accept it."

Well, business is business. But a businesslike attitude like that could well get a private citizen a stiff sentence as an accessory.

saturday night feet

We've been hearing for some time about the danger to hearing in all those decibels.

Now it develops that's not all that's hazardous in contemporary preferences in music.

According to the Health Insurance Institute, a new recreational injury is rapidly gaining on jogger's knee, tennis elbow and the like.

It's disco foot, and some 25 percent of dance-related injuries now coming to the attention of the medical experts are attributable to disco dancing, according to one specialist, Dr. Joseph D'Amico at New York College of Podiatric Medicine, cited in an institute report.

Disco foot can involve numerous familiar ailments such as sprained ankles, pulled tendons and bursitis. It is twice as common among women as among men, most probably because of differences in footwear. Disco dancing, according to D'Amico, is the only athletic activity made more difficult to perform by the equipment worn - high heels.

There are, however, steps that can be taken to reduce the risk. First, it is advised, take a brisk pre-dance walk of several blocks. Follow up with 50 or so toe raises and some vigorous ankle movements.

That should get the old circulation going, loosen the muscles and limber up the joints. And who knows? After all that exertion, dancers a little short on wind to start with might even decide they have already had enough and it is time to go home.

Injuries wouldn't be the only thing saved. Think of all the money.

Today's homemakers may be bringing forth some of the family's cut-glass and other heirlooms for the Thanksgiving table tomorrow. Certainly they'll be extending the same old warmth and hospitality when friends and family from far away gather around. But they'll be preparing the feast far more simply than grandma did.

Thanks to convenient foods such as packaged herb seasoned stuffing, it isn't necessary to spend the whole day in the kitchen any more.

Thanksgiving in its most solemn sense allows American women to acknowledge not only the bounty and blessings of our great country but their own liberation from drudgery.

Because of the changes in the last quarter century, women have more time and freedom than ever before. Her challenge lies in using them wisely.

In a world torn by threat of war, family unrest and starving people, there is nothing more important this Thanksgiving than establishing an atmosphere of tranquility in the home.

The smell of stuffed turkey roasting, mingled with the essence of pumpkin or pecan pie, can go a long way toward reminding the family that certain values are timeless and thanks are forever in order.

Harvest celebrations of Thanksgiving date back to Biblical times. In this century, we can credit the Pilgrims for creating the feast as we know it--from cranberry sauce to roast stuffed turkey and pumpkin pie--and President Lincoln for making Thanksgiving a national holiday.

Did you ever wonder why the turkey became the traditional entree for holiday feasts? An expert on history of the American Indian says the turkey probably became the traditional Thanksgiving centerpiece because it was too stupid to run away and was easy to catch. He also said the Indians who worshiped animals in a way, didn't seem to have too much respect for the turkey. While it is true the turkey is not as bright as other fowl, the more experienced modern-day wild bird is quite the contrary. He's wised up somewhat.

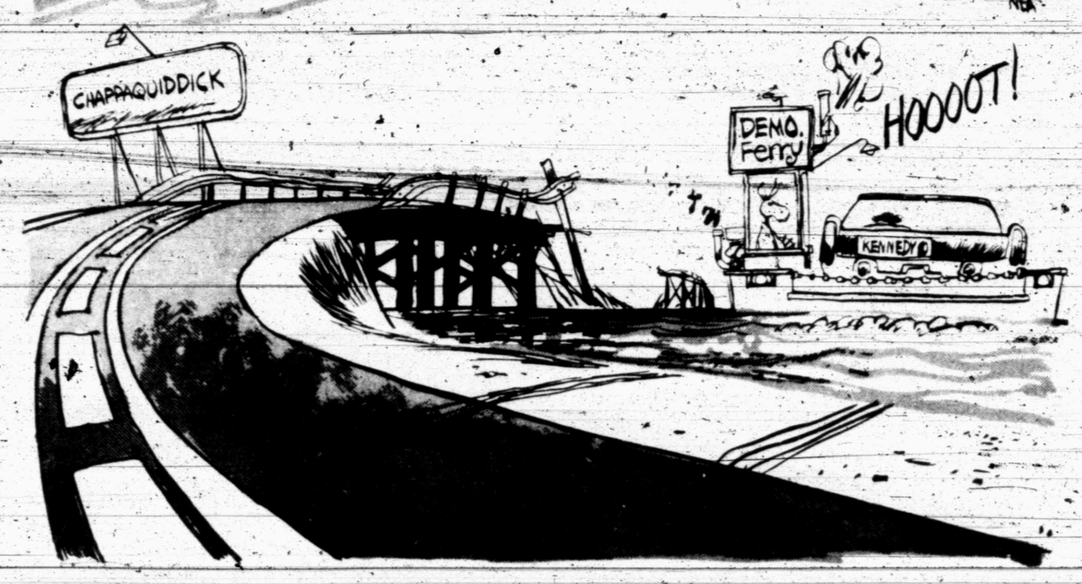

The big bird will retain his priority as the main course for some time to come most likely. How much did you pay for hot dogs this week?

Happy Thanksgiving!

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Everyone talks about the "baby" of the family, but no one ever does anything about him.

Is he the "favorite" of his mother? The last hurrah of his father? The indulged brat? The babysitter for Mom and Dad? It all depends on who you talk to.

I've gotten together a profile of "the baby" of the family as seen through the eyes of its members.

According to his older brothers and sisters, the "baby" is spoiled, indulged, and raised without rules. He got the digital watch when he was four, a car when he was 12, an allowance usually reserved for heirs to the British throne, and got to sit in the white living room before he was 16.

He has never known curfews, what it means to share a bedroom, handprints on his backside, chores, hand-me-downs, or heard the expression, "Clean up your plate." By the time he was born the family had a full set of encyclopedias, a riding mower, two TV sets, big bucks to send him to a college someone had heard of, and he was encouraged not to work as if interfered with his grades.

Father views the "baby" of the family as his last shot at being a father...a pal to take fishing, go to football games with, and even violate the siding on the garage by mounting a basketball hoop on it.

When this one is launched it's goodbye tuition, hello St. Thomas...goodbye car insurance premiums, hello sailboat. He's at the end of the line and somehow it doesn't seem very important that the kid borrowed his gasoline charge card when he was a sophomore and hasn't returned it since.

A mother's view of the "baby" is she's losing ground on what she does best. Mothering. That is why when the "baby" is 56, has a stomach that hangs over his belt, and a hairline shaped like the map of the Florida Keys, he will still be her "baby." What she used to hit, smack and put the others in their room for she now laughs at, ignores, or says, "You're such a tease."

Whether from guilt or the luxury of more time she wants to rap about how he feels about life. She's more relaxed, has fewer pressures and figures, "What the heck, when this one is gone, I'll clean the house."

The "baby" has an entirely different approach to his status. He regards his position as a bummer. Abandoned by the good times, he is stuck with older parents in a quiet house and a refrigerator that holds only low fat milk, yogurt and honey wheat bread without calories or preservatives. He has the pressures of an only child, but the pain of an empty baby book.

The "baby" will be with us forever, but look at it this way, It's a dirty job, and someone has to do it.

tough competition

NEW YORK (AP) You can tell that American industry is up against a fierce competitive scrap in the 1980s by the people it is putting in charge, said the professor.

"They are young, vigorous and mature beyond their age. They are tough as nails," he said.

Prof. Eugene E. Jennings, source of the observation, has studied the executive suite for three decades while teaching at Michigan State, counseling chairmen and writing basic texts on executive careers.

"You can always tell when industry is up against the wall," he said. "It's choice of leaders always is an indicator of what they believe to be the critical problems ahead."

A critical problem, one that involves many lesser ones, will be the level of competition. "Few companies believe there will be a big expansion," he said. "Growth will come from sheer competitiveness."

To face the pressure, industry has been appointing young but tested leaders. In the past two years, Jennings found, industry opted for the youngest batch of presidents since the 1966-1969 period.

Studying the 500 largest industrial companies, he found presidents of no less than one in four concerns are still in their 40s. The average age when made president was 47. Two years ago it was 51.

Despite their age, Jennings has found them thoroughly experienced. Most were divisional managers during the recession of the mid-70s and so learned "back" management. They are survivors, they're tough.

Back management is the art or science of retrenchment, of trimming an operation lean and competitive, of making it fit and efficient. These survivors learned it well; otherwise they wouldn't be where they are.

Later in the 1970s, as the economy expanded for four years, these leaders excelled in forward management too. They showed they knew how to grow, to expand markets. They demonstrated their versatility.

"They're also going to improve with time," Jennings believes, and so he calls them "a tremendous national asset," the kind that can stand the "horrendous" pressures of competition in the 1980s.

The odds are heavy that some of the young presidents might not last in their jobs. "Always when you opt for youth there are mismatches," said Jennings.

Mismatch, he emphasized, is not necessarily failure; instead, it may mean the individual's personality of goals fail to synchronize with company expectations. Many mismatches are likely to be placed again.

Jennings explains that in many companies today the directors are less apt to let time pass while a president attempts to prove himself. And, he feels, presidents are less inclined to stay when not wanted.

In fact, the professor says, some openings for young presidents developed because companies recently have been flushing out mismatches, preparing for what they see as tougher competition in the 1980s.

American forces under Gen. W. H. Harrison defeated a combined British and Indian force near Moraviantown, Ont., in 1813 during the War of 1812. The British commander, Col. Henry A. Proctor, escaped, but the Indian chief Tecumseh was killed.

Americans have been rather chary to date about monumentalizing their former presidents.

After taking note of the Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson memorials, what else have you in the capital itself in the way of major monuments? A fourth, to Franklin Roosevelt, has been under discussion for a quarter of a century but as a cause of so much design controversy the odds are it may never get beyond the drawing board stage.

The presidents themselves, however, may have found a way around this public reserve with the presidential libraries. There are now six of them with a seventh and possibly eighth coming up, and there is someone who thinks this is already more than enough.

He is Rowland G. Freeman, head of the General Services Administration, and it is his suggestion that a central library be constructed near Washington to house the archival material of the next six presidents.

The GSA has a special interest in this matter because although the practice is to construct presidential libraries with privately donated funds, they are then turned over to the government for operation and maintenance.

There are now six such: The Roosevelt library at Hyde Park, N.Y.; the Truman at Independence, Mo.; the Eisenhower at Abilene, Kans.; the Johnson at the University of Texas; the newly dedicated Kennedy at Boston, plus the Hoover Institution of War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford University. The latter, although a presidential insitution, is devoted primarily to material from Hoover's World War I, pre-White House period.

The annual operating bill is now more than $9 million, and when the Ford library at Ann Arbor, Mich., is completed in 1981 it is expected to climb to more than $12 million. There also will be a Nixon library, if that ex-president has his way.

Freeman has a point. In fact, he has several.

Presidential libraries started out rather modestly with the Hoover and Roosevelt facilities. But the concept has tended to become grander over the years. The later libraries extol the personalities and accomplishments of their namesakes more than centers of learning might be expected to do.

This is particularly true of the pharaonic Johnson edifice in Austin and the architecturally more successful but still overwhelming Kennedy structure.

Freeman, who spelled out his views to the Senate Appropriations and Government Affairs subcommittees, notes this growth of the presidential libraries from storage sites for historic records into virtual museums.

In increasing the government's responsibility, he would also limit their purpose to maintaining presidential archives with very limited exhibition facilities.

He estimates that his proposed six presidents in one museum would cost $222.5 million, as compared with $280.5 million for six individual structures.

Cost isn't the only consideration, however. Federalizing the presidential library system would be one way of dealing with the controversial disposal of presidential papers, which chief executives have been in the habit of packing off with them when they leave the White House.

The presidential library issue is not one of the more pressing facing the country and it's a long way between the suggestions and actually throwing the book at the proliferation.

But it's certainly something to be considered. The way things have been going, with a new president in less than every eight years, the end of the century could find American from sea to sea in presidential self-memorials.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

I would like to take this opportunity to say "thanks" to the Snyder School Bands and directors for Friday night's half-time performance. It was very impressive! In these days and times it isn't often that patriotic performances are brought to the public.

There was a time when this way of showing pride, love, and respect for such a great country was the rule, rather than the exception. The pity is that it seems to take a national crisis to make us aware of the greatness of our nation.

Perhaps the public should be reminded that many do not stop their rushing to get their places in the stadium before the kickoff when the national anthem is being played. Some do not even remove their hats. These are small things to do to show appreciation for the many freedoms we take for granted.

I realize many of us lived through at least one major war. The lumps in our throats and the tears in our eyes come more readily to us than they do to most of the younger generation when the stars and stripes flutter in the breeze and the last notes of The Star Spangled Banner fade. I hope and pray to God each day that these young people never have to learn respect for our great country in such a terrible way.

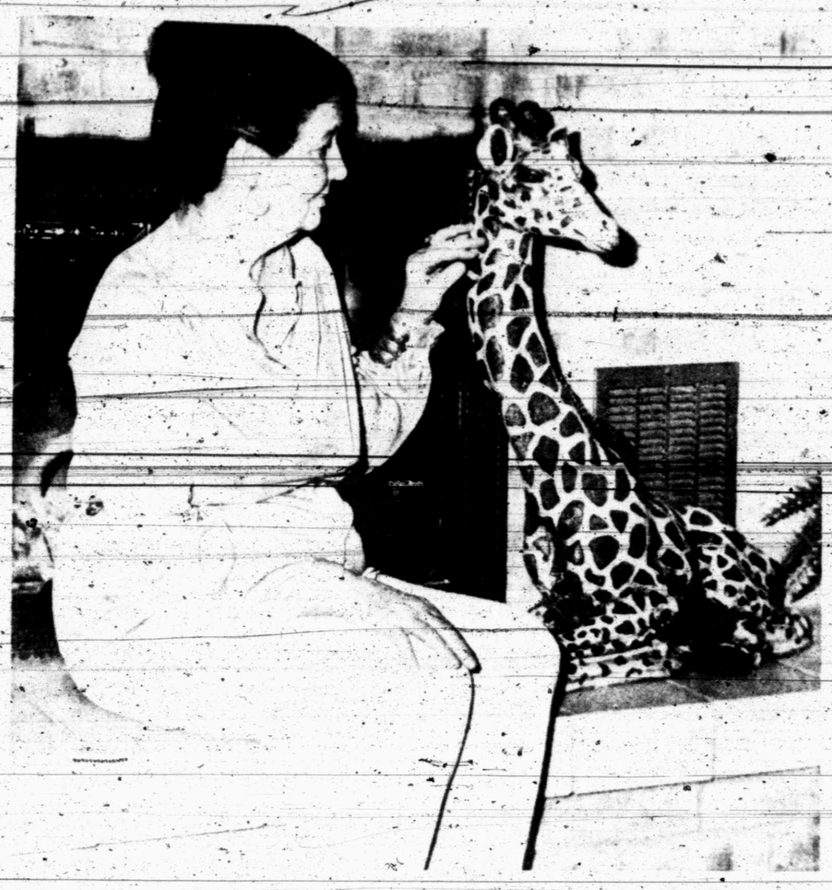

Let each of us remember that freedom really isn't free! The cost is high! All kinds of sacrifices must be made by all people.

Most of all we need to really understand and follow the guidelines set forth in The Battle Hymn of the Republic. Let our eyes see and hearts feel the glory of God as His truth does go marching on!

Gruffy Claus Book Banned

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) —West Ottawa School District administrators have banned a children's Chistmas book after complaints by parents that it portrayed Santa Claus as having a negative attitude toward Christmas.

Officials said the book, "Father Christmas" by English author Raymond Briggs, showed the jolly gift-giver grumbling about bad weather and pondering minor details like how to get into a mobile home. The book was removed from the shelves at all six of the district's elementary schools, said Ray Johnson, a West Ottawa administrative assistant.

PROGRAM-Mrs. JoAnn Peek's and Mrs. Sherry Patterson's second grade classes of West Elementary presented a play, "Many Thanks," under the musical direction of Mrs. Mary Lou Scott recently. Doc's Patients Give Him a Pain

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a little tired of all those letters from patients who complain because they have to wait to see their doctors. Please be fair and print the reasons why doctors run late.

Mrs. A. rushes in, hysterical, without an appointment, because she just noticed a lump in her breast. I examine her, then she asks if I would mind taking her husband's blood pressure since he came with her.

After Mr. J. has had his annual physical, he asks if I would mind writing out new prescriptions for his visiting aunt from the East who ran out of all nine of her medications—two months ago. And do I think the blotchy rash on her hands could be contagious? Since she arrived, everyone itches.

Mrs. B. (the "emergency" call, whose daughter has to be seen IMMEDIATELY) finally arrives. The emergency? The daughter is 24 pounds overweight, her wedding is two weeks off and the dress won't fit. "Aren't there water pills or something she can take?"

Meanwhile, the hospital is on the phone again. The coronary isn't doing well, the diabetic came out of the coma and insists on being discharged immediately, and the record room wants me to complete my charts before the staff meeting at 3 p.m.

Oh, yes, and that doctor on the phone with another doctor discussing the business deal that sounds like a tax shelter: He needs that deal. It will help him survive until some patients who were treated last year get around to paying their bills.

Most people go through the ordeal of seeing their physicians only once or twice a year; their doctors see 35 or more patients daily. Sometimes I think the wrong people are being treated.

COMPTON, CALIF., M.D.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who works for an airline, has told me some unbelievable tales about some of the stuff they find at the airport in boxes, parcels and suitcases that can't be returned to their owners because they are totally without identification!

Abby, luggage containing expensive jewelry and CASH—($1,000 or more) is somehow lost at the airport.

Please tell your readers to put their names and addresses INSIDE their luggage as well as outside. Sometimes identification tags attached to the handles fall off.

MEG IN ST. PAUL

DEAR MEG: Thanks for the timely tip. Holiday travelers, take note.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to CHICKEN IN DETROIT, the woman whose "super dude" had bad breath, you said, "If a dentist can't help him, he should see a doctor."

Abby, I resent the implication that a dentist is not a doctor. My husband is a DDS, which stands for "doctor of dental surgery," and he has as much right to call himself "doctor" as do physicians.

I think you owe dentists an apology.

WIFE OF A D.D.S.

DEAR WIFE: I apologize. I might need a doctor of dental surgery to get my foot out of my mouth!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Peanutty Beans

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Baked-bean dishes help make the most of our food dollars. They offer good eating and high protein for very little money.

PEANUT-BUTTERED BEANS

- ½ cup minced onion
- 3 16-ounce cans vegetarian beans
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- ½ cup chunky peanut butter
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon prepared spicy mustard

Combine all ingredients in 2-quart casserole. Stir to blend.

Cover and bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes. Remove cover. Bake 25 to 30 minutes longer.

Or bake in individual casseroles for 30 minutes or until hot.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

The professor's two-club opening was artificial and forcing. The student would have made the negative response of two diamonds, but West bid first and took away the need for him to bid. Then the professor jumped to four spades to end the bidding at the normal contract.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. By that time the student got up from the table to watch his mentor operate. He almost jumped with surprise when the professor ruffed the second club and led a low trump. Then he did jump with delight when West won with the ace. A second trump trick had to be lost to East later on, but the game contract was in.

There was legerdemain or other magic involved in the professor's play. He has just made a well-known (among experts anyway) safety play and it had worked.

There was no legitimate way to avoid the loss of two spade tricks. If spades broke 3-2 that is all the spade tricks that would be lost.

Suppose they were to break 4-1. Three tricks would be lost unless the spade ace were singleton and the safety play made, so the professor had made it.

The populations of the black rhinoceros, Kenya's only native rhinoceros, has dropped from 15,000 in 1969 to an estimated 1,500 today. Most have died at the hands of poachers, who covet the animal's horns. In the past few years thousands of rhinos in Kenya have been killed so their horns could be exported, although it is illegal.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

See your physician

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing to see if you can give me some advice about hemorrhoids. I'm 65 years old. I've had hemorrhoids since I gave birth to my two children and they've never bothered me. I retired some time ago but I keep myself busy. My place was overrun with English ivy and I ripped it all down. The roots go deep underground for yards and I was pulling and yanking them out.

That was three weeks ago and ever since then when I sit down or lie in bed on my back, it feels like I have to have a bowel movement. I'm using a preparation but it doesn't get rid of the pressure. There's no pain and no blood. Do you think that pulling those vines had anything to do with it? I don't want to go to a doctor because I hate that examination.

DEAR READER — The sensation of fullness and feeling like you have to have a bowel movement is a symptom of hemorrhoids. But, of course, that sensation can be caused by other problems as well. It's also true that lifting and pulling-literally anything, which increases pressure inside the abdomen, can aggravate hemorrhoids.

After all, they're simply large dilated veins and when you increase the pressure inside the rectal area or abdominal area, these veins have trouble draining and tend to pop out.

In truth, that's how childbirth produces hemorrhoids to begin with. The pregnant uterus presses on the veins that drain the rectal area and they tend to enlarge and pop out. The final insult is the birth process itself when the child's head comes through the birth canal. The pressure and squeezing on the veins at that time will really make the hemorrhoids stand out.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-12, Hemorrhoids, New Treatments for an Old Affliction. It will explain the different types of hemorrhoids, and symptoms and what can be done for the different types. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now I'm going to have to scold you about not going to see your doctor about this complaint. You don't know that this is due to your old hemorrhoids and I'd hate to think that you might have a tumor in the rectal area that's filling up the canal and causing you to have the pressure sensation while you're simply ignoring it.

Anyone who has symptoms of this sort should go see his physician for an examination. It may not be the most exciting thing in the world and it can be embarrassing for some people. But, after all, it's a fairly simple procedure.

Cancer of the colon and rectum are the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women. The vast number of these deaths could be avoided if the cancers were detected early enough for most effective treatment.

It's also true that a tumor in the rectal area can cause hemorrhoids to pop out. It can be the source of the pressure on the veins, so please don't neglect your problem any longer.

College Professor Also Master Of Turkey Talk

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

HATFIELD, Mass. (AP) — "Gaahble, gobble-gobble-gobble-gobble."

That's "Hello," from University of Massachusetts professor David Stemple, a man who's more than willing to talk turkey.

Stemple is a bird watcher, photographer and hunter whose ability to attract the wild birds with his voice or a special box gives him a kind of Pied Piper status among the beak and feather set.

Either way, his gobble is so good, most turkeys can't tell the difference, he says.

Decked out in his camouflage hood and outfit, Stemple sat against a tree near his 100-year-old farm house in this western Massachusetts town and explained the ancient art of talking turkey.

To gobble himself, the 42-year-old computer science teacher uses a small mouthpiece. The call, which starts high and careens down the scale, sounds more like a screeching whinny, or a series of helps, than a gobble.

If that doesn't turn on the turkeys, Stemple has a wooden box that produces turkey-like sounds when he moves the lid.

The hardest bird to attract is the gobbler, or adult male, who is accustomed to hens coming to him — not vice versa.

If the gobbler fails to respond to hen calls, Stemple calls out like another gobbler who is mating with a hen. This, he says, arouses jealousy in the turkey's heart, or possibly the Peeping Tom in him, and he moves closer.

"When they strut they swell up to twice their size," he says. "You're sitting against a tree and it's coming right at you. Looks like a dinosaur."

Stemple, who learned to call turkeys as a boy in West Virginia, says he enjoys shooting the birds with a camera as well as with a gun.

"If I'm clicking as he comes on me, he never knows it, and if I'm pulling the trigger, he never knows if either," he says.

Stemple has learned to respect the old birds.

"They're wild, wary and they seem intelligent, even though they're not really," he says.

"Being 20-pound birds with enemies like the bobcat, wolf and coyote, they've evolved very good predator-evasion tools. They have almost 360-degree vision that picks up any movement, so they can get off the ground," he said.

"They seem smart because they're better than you are at what you're trying to do" — talk turkey.

Blacks Disinterested In Politics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With another presidential election approaching, black Americans are still not taking enough interest in politics, says Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond.

Bond criticized blacks for political apathy and said Richard Nixon would never have become President if only 10 more voters in every black precinct had voted in 1968.

"For the lack of those votes, we surrendered our right to have some control over the reins of government," Bond told the Black Women's Forum here Saturday. "We allowed the destruction of those programs erected to fight a war on poverty."

Squid can be as tiny as minnows or as large as whales, according to National Geographic. Squid can weigh as much as two tons and can be as tall as a six-story building from the tops of their heads to the tips of their arms.

In Houston Election...

McConn Wins Another Term

HOUSTON (AP)-Mayor Jim McConn withstood a bitter verbal attack from one of his chief critics, City Councilman Louis Macey, to win a second, two-year term and will preside over a council containing the first woman and first Hispanic in Houston's history.

McConn did what he had to do in this nonpartisan runoff-keep his support solid in the white middle-income precincts and pickup a giant share of the voters in the black and Hispanic sections.

In some black areas, McConn won as much as 80 percent of the vote.

Macey drew most of his strength from the affluent and Republican strongholds.

Although there were no party designations in the election, Macey had the backing of most GOP voters, while McConn was the choice in the Democratic precincts.

With 346 of 355 precincts reporting the vote was:

McConn 87,033, Macey 68,653.

Although the mayor's race, with its sharp exchanges between the two candidates, took the spotlight, the runoff changed the face of the Houston City Council.

Two women won council seats. Never before had a woman served on the governing body of this, the nation's fifth largest city.

Eleanor Tinsely, former president of the Houston School Board, stunned incumbent Frank E. Mann, a 20-year veteran, by some 13,000 votes.

Christin Hartung, a 38-year-old former county judge's aide, defeated insurance executive Don Hogan, 37.

The face-lifting actually began in the Nov. 6 general election.

State Rep. Ben Reyes became the first Hispanic to serve on the council and the black representation rose from one to three.

One other incumbent, Johnny Goyen, easily won re-election Tuesday.

About 25 percent of the 666,000 registered voters marked ballots.

McConn said of the outcome, "This was a smashing victory that indicates the confidence in the McConn administration. I am looking forward to working with the new council."

Macey said he would not concede "until the last vote is counted. But, if I lose, I will worry about it for about 15 minutes, go to sleep, and get up and start planning a campaign for two years from now.

"We had projected a larger percentage of the minority vote than we got. But we ran a fantastic race with a limited amount of resources."

Nitro Turned Out To Be Fertilizer

HURRICANE, W.Va. (AP) — Tests have confirmed that a substance believed to be nitroglycerine and carefully transported 60 miles to a munitions dump was only lawn fertilizer, state police said.

Authorities had believed five jugs found in the Jim Turner home Sunday contained 2½ gallons of nitroclycerine.

Islam Entering 15th Century

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The world's 800 million Moslems entered Islam's 15th century today with a new fervor fueled by oil dollars and manifested in Iran's radical fundamentalism and activism among Moslems from the Philippines to Morocco.

"Allah willing, it will be a century of Islamic reawakening and unity, of a rediscovery of our Islamic identity, after a century of painful servility and dissociation," a leading scholar in Beirut prayed.

Islam's 14th century did not start out favorably for Moslems, but it ended with fresh expectations born of the oil wealth in the Islamic heartland and the toppling of a powerful secular dictator, the Shah of Iran.

The collapse of the Ottoman Empire after World War I marked a sad decline for the Islamic Empire, which once spread its message of submission to the will of God from the Himalayas to Spain. European colonial powers controlled the Islamic East until the early 1950s, when the seeds of Moslem nationalism began to flower.

Today, many Moslems complain about the "great letdown" they felt at the failure of European ideals to aid the Moslem world and they are turning back to Islam for a new identity.

"Britain and France had been seen as a shining example which many Moslem countries, mainly Turkey, tried to emulate," Sheik Abdullah Alayli of the Lebanese University explained. "By the middle of the century Moslems witnessed the dismaying downfall of the British Empire and the French dominance. As we enter the 15th century, we realize that our divine creed, Islam, is the only hope left to us for survival."

Leftist ideologies also appear to be frowned upon by the emerging generation of Moslems who "tend to invest undivided hopes in Allah (God), the teachings of the Prophet Mohammed and their resolve to relive the dawn of islam," the sheik said.

Moslems observe a lunar calendar that dates back to 622 A.D., the year of the hegira, or flight, when Mohammed fled from the Arabian city of Mecca to Medina to avoid persecution and to propagate the new faith.

Holy men - the ulama, or those who know - kept a close watch on the sky Tuesday night for the first sighting of the faint crescent of the new moon ushering in Moharram, the first month of the lunar year.

New Year's Day dawned on ferment in the Moslem world. Iran's Shiite Moslems, a minority sect making up less than 15 percent of Islam, have overthrown the shah and are challenging the United States by holding 49 Americans hostage for the return of the deposed, ailing monarch.

The Grand Mosque of Mecca, which houses Islam's holiest shrine, the Kaaba, was taken over Tuesday by gunmen believed to be Shiites who apparently were challenging the Saudi royal family's traditional role of guardian of Islam's holy places.

Water Saves Historic Hall

BOSTON (AP) - A curtain of water protected 237 years of history over the weekend when a three-alarm fire 100 yards away threatened Faneuil Hall and the Quincy Marketplace.

Firefighters covered the roof of the building with water as embers fell on it Saturday night from a blaze which destroyed a six-story building at 1 Faneuil Hall Square. The building was being renovated and was occupied only on the first floor, by a fish market.

Faneuil Hall, built in 1742, was a meeting place for Revolutionary leaders before the War for Independence. The recently renovated marketplace has become a popular tourist and shopping attraction.

About 50,000 Americans each year take part in marathon races, a distance - when measured by Olympic standards - of 26 miles, 385 yards. The original marathon runner supposedly ran 22 miles, 1,470 yards, the distance a Greek soldier ran from the battlefield at Marathon to Athens to report the victory over the Persians some 2,500 years ago.

Paul Westphal, high-scoring guard of the Phoenix Suns, can shoot a basketball accurately with either hand.

RSVP 'Flappers' Group Organized

Members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) have recently organized a new special service group known as the Flappers.

It's got nothing to do with the Charleston, Marsha Krenek, RSVP director, says. RSVP Flappers are specializing in sealing the flaps of envelopes after they have inserted materials prepared by local non-profit organizations who use mail-outs.

The Flappers have already helped the Snyder Chamber of Commerce on two occasions, and other organizations who would like to utilize the group are invited to contact Mrs. Krenek's office in the Senior Center or call her at 573-0144.

The only restriction on utilizing the Flappers services is that the organization requesting assistance be a non-profit group since RSVP volunteers give their time and they must work for other non-profit groups.

RSVP is an organization for retired persons 60 years of age or older. It serves as a coordinating agency between volunteers who enjoy participating in community activities and organizations who use volunteer help.

There are about 20 Flappers at this time and all or part of the group can get to a location designated by the mailer or can work in the Senior Center.

Storm Blamed For 7 Deaths

By The Associated Press

As much as 40 inches of snow in the Colorado and Wyoming Rockies has forced the closure of school, airports, highways and factories after what, for some areas, was the worst November storm in history.

At least seven deaths were blamed on the storm as it swept across the mountains toward the Plains.

Forecasters predicted new snow today from the central plains to upper Michigan and Lake Superior and rain and thundershowers from the Mississippi Valley to the central Great Lakes region. Heavy snow warnings remained in effect today for sections of Kansas and Nebraska.

Travelers advisories were posted for areas of Minnesota, South Dakota, Utah, Wyoming, and Colorado, and winter storm watches were out for parts of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Meanwhile, the major storm in the Texas Panhandle spread heavy rain over parts of Kansas and Oklahoma, where rainfall amounts of up to 12 inches were measured. Flash flood watches remained in effect for both states as the rain continued to fall today.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -7 at Bozeman, Mont., to 78 at Beeville and McAllen, Texas.

10-Year Old Faces Charge In Stabbing

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A 10-year-old Newark boy faces a preliminary hearing Nov. 30 on charges stemming from the stabbing death of a younger boy who called him a "sissy."

Robert Kratic, 8, was stabbed once in the back with a six-inch steak knife after an argument with the unidentified boy Monday, authorities said.

Essex County Assistant Prosecutor Norman Menz said Tuesday the youth, a third-grader, could be the youngest person ever charged in the county with juvenile deliquency in connection with murder.

Birchers Believe In Conspiracy

DENVER (AP)—What sets the right-wing John Birch Society apart from other organizations is its belief in "a conspiracy that goes to the highest levels of government and seeks to rule the world," a spokesman says.

The group's national council met here this weekend in a session closed to the press and public, but spokesman John McManus met with reporters to explain some of the society's views.

He said the U.S. government today is "approaching totalitarianism" and befriends communist governments all over the world. McManus claims that the society now has about 50,000 members.

Ponies Adding More To Weekly Injury List

By The Associated Press

The injury picture in the Southwest Conference football schedule was bleak in Dallas and College Station, but there was some good news in Austin.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said quarterback Donnie Little's foot injury was on the mend, and that Little could start against Baylor Saturday.

"The swelling is down and he's off crutches," Akers said.

The casualty list at Southern Methodist featured the backfield, where running backs Lott McIlhenny, Charles Wagoner and Eric Dickerson were doubtful for the Mustang's closing contest against Arkansas.

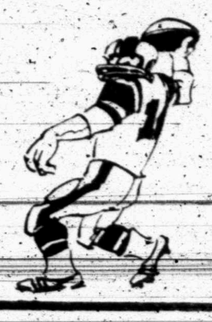

"It looks like all three will have to miss because of injuries," Coach Ron Meyer said. Wagoner has a cracked vertebra, Dickerson is nursing a sore ankle and McIhenny has a pinched neck nerve.

Starting noseguard Charles Hunt also was doubtful for SMU because of a bruised knee.

Craig James was expected to start at tailback, Michael Charles at fullback and Waldo Theus at noseguard.

Texas A&M has a longer injury list, but free safety Elroy Steen was the only victim expected to miss Saturday's game against Texas Christian.

Hrabosky Lines Up With Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA (AP)—He may be mad but he's not crazy.

With a newly inked five-year contract reportedly worth $5.9 million, baseball's "Mad Hungarian," Al Hrabosky, hinted he was looking to the future when he chose to pitch for the Altanta Braves next season rather than a pennant contender.

Twelve other teams bid for the services of the left-handed relief pitcher in the free agent draft, including World Series champion Pittsburgh, California, the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox.

During a news conference Tuesday, Hrabosky said he chose to sign with the Braves instead of any of the others because he was impressed with another baseball non-conformist, Atlanta owner Ted Turner.

"One thing I've noticed in Ted's association with the Atlanta Braves - everybody can say a total effort has been made to make it a much more productive ballclub," he said.

Milestones Are Reached; Rockets, Spurs Lose

By The Associated Press

Jack Ramsay and Gene Shue have joined the exclusive 500-win Club in the National Basketball Association.

Red Holzman, already a member, joined an even more exclusive club when his New York Knicks did a number on the Houston Rockets Tuesday night.

Ramsay, the Portland coach, and Shue, of San Diego, each reached the euphoric plateau of 500 NBA victories after the Trail Blazers defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 114-99 and the Clippers stopped the Phoenix Suns 117-110.

Holzman, meanwhile, became only the second coach in NBA history to win 500 games with one team when the Knicks defeated the Rockets 130-125 in overtime.

Red Auerbach, who did it with the Boston Celtics, is the only other NBA coach to win that many games with one team.

The new 500 Club members joined Auerbach, Holzman and Dick Motta in the exclusive group.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia defeated San Antonio 118-114, Denver stopped Chicago 124-91, Atlanta turned back Detroit 109-105, Cleveland whipped Utah 119-107 and Kansas City edged Golden State 112-109.

Clippers 117, Suns 110

Guards Brian Taylor, Freeman Williams and LLoyd Free combined for 81 points as San Diego defeated Phoenix. Taylor scored a season-high 28 points, Williams had 27 and Free, the NBA's leading scorer, contributed 26 as the Clippers won their third straight game.

Knicks 130, Rockets 125

Holzman's 500th triumph with the Knicks was fashioned with the help of 25 points from Ray Williams and 24 from Bill Cartwright. The Knicks were losing by as many as 18 points with 8 minutes remaining before making their comback before their high scorers.

Sixers 118, Spurs 111

Julius Erving had 26 points and Darryl Dawkins added 24 as Philadelphia fought off a late San Antonio rally to beat the Spurs. The Sixers had led since midway through the third quarter and held a 110-102 margin with 2:13 remaining in the game.

But rookie guard Mike Evans came off the bench to fuel San Antonio's rally, collecting seven points in the final two minutes. A layup by Evans with 34 seconds remaining cut Philadelphia's lead to 112-111. But Dawkins slammed home a dunk shot and Erving hit two key free throws with 10 seconds remaining to ice the game for Philadelphia.

Young Peach Bowl Already Getting Ripe

ATLANTA (AP)-The Peach Bowl has gone from "the outhouse to the penthouse" in ticket sales since last year, when the post-season football game almost went under for lack of sales, bowl officials say.

The bowl's Atlanta office sold out its ticket allotment Monday for the New Year's Eve afternoon match between the Clemson Tigers and the Baylor Bears.

"I've never seen so many people before or gotten so many phone calls. It was a heck of a mess," ticket committee chairman Tommy Crumbley said Tuesday. "I think ticket demand will far exceed availability of tickets anywhere."

Things were not quite so great last year.

The game was scheduled for Christmas Day, and the Peach Bowl barely made a National Collegiate Athletic Association mandate to sell 24,000 tickets locally. The goal was reached after Janet Rodgers, wife of Georgia Tech Coach Pepper Rodgers, and other coaches' wives persuaded local civic and business groups to buy the tickets.

Georgia Tech played Purdue in the 1978 game.

"It's like going from the outhouse to the penthouse in one year," executive director George Crumbley said.

About 25,000 tickets already have been sold locally. Fans still may be able to buy tickets from the participating schools, Crumbley said.

Baylor, in Waco, Texas, was alloted 10,000 tickets, and Clemson, in South Carolina, was allotted 25,000 tickets.

"Baylor is optimistic about selling its allotment," the ticket chairman said. "But if they don't, they're already getting calls from Clemson fans asking about tickets.

"Clemson really wanted more than the 25,000 we gave them, but we had to save some tickets for local fans," he said.

The game, which will be played in the 60,375-seat Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, may yield a record $340,000 for each team, compared with $173,000 each for Georgia Tech and Purdue last year.

The pot was sweetened by a three-year television contract initiated last year by CBS. Crumbley said the contract has an escalating pay scale for the second and third years.

The ticket price has also increased. Last year, they cost $9 and $14, and this year they will go for $12 or $17, he said.

Baylor Named As AL Most Valuable

NEW YORK (AP)-Don Baylor became the first member of the California Angels to win the American League's Most Valuable Player Award when the outfielder-designated hitter was made an overwhelming choice today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Baylor collected 20 of a possible 28 first-place votes from the special BBWAA committee to win by a runaway margin over outfielder Ken Singleton of the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

The California slugger, who led the Angels to their first title ever in the AL West with a league-leading 139 RBI, 36 home runs and a .296 batting average, piled up 347 points to 241 for Singleton.

Third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals was given two votes for first place and a 226-point total for the third spot.

Baylor, Singleton and Brett were the only players named on all 28 ballots.

Boston's Jim Rice, last year's MVP, finished fifth in the voting with 124 points, behind teammate Fred Lynn's 160½.

The 30-year-old Baylor's offensive totals also included 33 doubles, three triples and 22 stolen bases.

The California slugger, one of the first crop of free agents in 1976, signed with the Angels on Nov. 16 of that year.

Doomsday Down The Drain?

Not According To Landry

DALLAS (AP)-Wide receiver Butch Johnson ticked off the names, Ed Too Tall Jones, Jethro Pugh, Charlie Waters, and Thomas Henderson.

"Let's see, we've lost the strongside of our defense now," said Johnson. "Doomsday Junior. R.I.P."

With Thomas Henderson's sudden departure Monday, the Dallas Cowboys face the distasteful task Thanksgiving Day of trying to stop Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers with a patchwork defense.

"Doomsday has ceased to exist," said Johnson. "It's all on the offense now. We've got to dominate the game, control the ball."

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that Mike Hegman will start in Henderson's strongside linebacker spot against the Oilers.

He said recently acquired John Dutton could be in Jones' old defensive end post. At left tackle where Pugh used to hold fort, Larry Cole could move in for Dave Stalls.

Of course, Randy Hughes has been subbing for the injured Waters, out for the season.

"I think our defense can overcome all these problems," said Landry. "We have good backup people. I have a lot of confidence in them."

But Landry didn't have confidence anymore in Henderson who was fired outright rather than demoted.

"I decided he couldn't function on the bench," said Landry. "It would have been hard for him to handle a second string role. His ego is such that he needs to start. I definitely thought it would affect the team with him on the sidelines."

Landry told the fifth year player he was going to be put on waivers but the controversial Henderson, who had held the media spotlight at the Super Bowl in January, announced his retirement at an emotional press conference.

"Yesterday was a trying day," said Landry at his weekly press conference, "but I believe we'll get things back in the groove."

Houston Coach Bum Phillips was asked on a telephone hookup Tuesday if he wanted Henderson and he replied: "If a guy can't get along one place the chances of him getting along somewhere else are not too good."

Landry said Tuesday that injured defensive right tackle Randy White is "the least likely player on the team to play."

Pressed about lineup changes, Landry said fullback Robert Newhouse would start because of an injury to Scott Laidlaw and that recently acquired John Dutton might start at left defensive end with Larry Cole being moved into left tackle.

Rookie Robert Shaw will start at center in place of injured John Fitzgerald.

Dusters Try HSU There

ABILENE—Coach Joe Cushing's WTC Dusters, 6-2 on the season, take on Hardin-Simmons University at 8:30 here tonight.

The Dusters will host Wayland JV on Nov. 27 and travel to Waco to meet McLennon on the 30th before beginning WJCAC play Dec. 3.

Cushing's charges are currently averaging 76.8 points per game and allowing 65.9. Four girls in double figures lead the Duster team: Linda Holubec, 12.6; Joyce Plagens, 11.3; Shari Teal, 10.4; and Katie Fisher, 10.3.

Sul Ross VB Nationals Bound

ABILENE—Sul Ross State University's women's volleyball team, including Snyder's Tracy Moore, defeated Oklahoma Baptist here over the weekend to claim the SWAIAW Division III volleyball championship.

The Lobos won 15-4, 15-9 and 15-11 to qualify for the national tournament in Los Angeles on Dec. 5-8.

The victory was the 13th straight for Sul Ross, now 35-9 for the season.

Moore is the daughter of Carol S. Moore of Snyder and Bob C. Moore of Plainview.

Amritraj Exits

Machette 6-1, 2-0

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Vijay Amritraj of India beat Mike Machette 6-1, 2-0 when Machette retired in the second set of their first-round match at the $75,000 Bombay Grand Prix tennis championship.

In other matches, India's Sashi Menon ousted Pascal Portes of France 6-1, 6-3, and Peter Elter of West Germany upset Anand Amritraj 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Defense Keys The Victory...

Felines Ignite Past Jaybirds

Snyder varsity started off slowly here last night, but used good defense to keep Jayton in check until its offense could begin producing. It did in the fourth period as Pam Gray put in eight points and got help from her teammates to finish off the Jaybirds 39-29.

The victory gives the Tigers a 3-0 start on the season. In other games here yesterday, Snyder junior varsity downed Jayton 57-39 and the freshmen fell to the Birds, 24-18.

Snyder girls are scheduled to play Colorado City here on Nov. 27.

Jayton leapt out to a quick 6-0 lead in the first quarter last night, but the Feline defense gave up no more than that for the initial eight minutes.

Meanwhile, Snyder's offense scratched and clawed for five first-period points. The Felines missed several layups and as many free throw opportunities.

It was to be the theme of the game until late in the third period when the locals went ahead 25-21 on a Brenda Anderson basket. The Tiger press forced a bushel of turnovers out of the Jaybirds, who were whistled for walking five times in the quarter. Slowly, Snyder began to take advantage of the Jayton miscues.

Tracey O'Day made it 27-21 in the early fourth, and Gray added two straight baskets as Snyder went in front by 10 points, 31-21.

Gray led for the night with 14 points. Jamie Hataway - who had a good night defensively - added 6, as did Anderson.

Snyder confiscated 11 steals in the ballgame. Sandy Sewell, in another good defensive effort, ripped off three.

Anderson led in the rebounding department with 9. O'Day had 6 as Snyder pulled down 27 for the night. Statistics on Jayton were not available.

From the floor, Snyder was 14 of 43 for 33 percent, and from the line the Felines managed only 11 of 29 free throws, but an all-around good defensive effort by each of the Snyder players was the key - holding Jayton in line until the offense found itself in the latter stages of the game.

Karri Owen paced Jayton with 9 points. Beth Owen had 8.

Earlier in the evening, Kelly Jones slammed in 15 third-period points to aid the junior varsity Tigers past Jayton, 57-39. Michelle Townsel led with 22 and Jones had 19 for the night. Shelly Davenport added 5. Trevino led Jayton with 15 points.

In the freshman game, the Jaybirds outscored Snyder for the first three quarters, then held off a strong fourth-period comeback attempt to win 24-18. For Snyder, Penny Wolf led with 6 points while Pam Vansickle and Tonya Mitchell had 4 apiece.

Westerners Will Get Their Test

CORSICANA — Western Texas College has been brushing off opponents like flies this season, but according to Coach Nolan Richardson, that will come to a halt here this weekend.

At the least, the flies will be more persistant.

"Now is the time to find out how good we are," said Richardson, who takes his highly-touted Westerners against Panola, San Jacinto and Navarro in secession this weekend.

The Westerners, 6-0 and averaging near 109 points per ballgame, will take on last year's Region 14 chanipion Panola at 6:30 Thursday as Kiwanis Classic begins here.

At 4:30 Friday, WTC goes against San Jac, followed on Friday by the Classic's feature game at 8:30 against host Navarro Junior College.

"San Jac has got to be one of the best ball teams in the country," commented Richardson. "They have three kids that I really tried hard to get, three super-supers. And they have seven sophomores coming back as well. They (San Jac) won their conference last year but got beat in the playoffs."

Navarro won't be any easier.

"Navarro is coached by one of the finest coaches I know, Lewis Orr. He always has a fine team. They were 32-2 last year and got beat by Panola in the playoffs in overtime. It was a matter of losing at the wrong time. They had beaten Panola twice before that."

Navarro, 4-1 on the season, beat Dixie College - one of this year's top-rated teams - and lost to Hutchinson, Kan. in the finals of the Blue Dragon Classic (Hutchinson).

WTC, said Richardson, is ready for the challenge. The Westerners look to be in their best health thus far of the season with sophomore guard Franklin Bennett back in the lineup. Bennett basketed 10 points against Angelo State here Monday, playing his first game since just before the regional tournament last year. Donald Warren, freshman, and Freddie Davis, sophomore, were having some knee problems mid-way through the week, but Richardson said he felt they would be ready to play by Thursday.

Bock Picks 'Pokes, Bears

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

After a month of playing like turkeys, the Dallas Cowboys are ready to kick the stuffing out of somebody.

Say hello to the Houston Oilers.

Here are the Oilers, coasting along with a four-game winning streak and a share of the American Conference Central lead with Pittsburgh.

And here are the Cowboys, sagging with three losses in their last four games and locked in a three-way tie with Philadelphia and Washington for first place in the National Conference.

They would seem to be two teams headed in opposite directions and their paths cross Thursday as the main course of the National Football League's Thanksgiving Day feast following the Chicago-Detroit appetizer.

The suspicion here is that being at home against their intrastate rivals will wake up the Cowboys...just in time.

Last week's 9-5 left the season's log at 104-62 for .627. The picks:

Dallas 31, Houston 24:

The challenge is there for the Cowboys and they must respond now. The departure of Hollywood Henderson should shake them up sufficiently to get by the Oilers.

Remember that in spite of all their troubles, the Cowboys still have the NFL's No 1 offense and the NFC's top passing game. Houston doesn't specialize in close-to-the-vest football and if this becomes a shootout, the Cowboys could prosper.

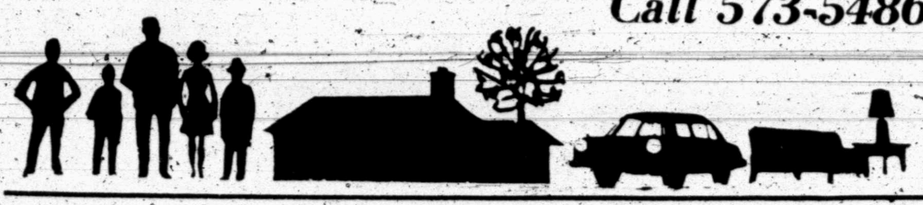

Chicago 20, Detroit 7:

The important difference here is that the Bears have the incentive of a winning streak and possible playoff berth while the Lions are playing out the string.

Detroit has been dreadful, losing 11 of 12 games while the Bears have won four straight and are 7-5, two games back of Tampa Bay in the NFC Central. So this game is important to Chicago and just another day at the office for the Lions.

Clean Up Operation Under Way

GALVESTON (AP)-A force of 340 persons, mopping up a thick blanket of oil on parts of Galveston Island, braced for another onslaught as a ribbon of crude loomed half a mile off shore, the Coast Guard said today.

The oil, leaking from the crippled tanker Burmah Agate which collided Nov. 1 with the freighter Mimosa, had dropped to a trickle prior to last weekend. However, winds began blowing from the southeast Sunday, pushing the crude onto the beaches.

Coast Guard spokesman Dave Paxton said the winds were expected to begin blowing from the north again today, keeping the 10-mile stretch of crude at sea.

"But the way the weather is around here, it's anybody's guess," Paxton said. "We're in a time game right now."

The pollution-control battle was dealt another setback Tuesday when four explosions rocked the vessel for the first time in more than a week, releasing more oil into the Gulf of Mexico.

"There was one explosion about 5:30 p.m. and three more around 6 p.m.," said Larry Clark, also stationed with Coast Guard. "There was a slight increase in the fire, but it was hard to tell what effect the explosions had on the vessel because of the fire and smoke."

Clark said there has been no more oil leaking from a crack in the left side of the ship that developed Sunday when the deck of the ship buckled. The fire spread from the right side of the vessel to the left, but went out when the crude stopped leaking.

Utility Group Holds Session

The Permian Basin Water Utilities Association held a monthly meeting here in Snyder last night and elected officers for the upcoming year.

Elected president was John B. Lowe of Midland. President elect is Nathan Hopson of Levelland, while Tom Ezell, a midland man, was elected first vice president. Jerry Lovelady of Seminole was named second vice president. Secretary-treasurer for the group is Willard Davis of Odessa.

The group met for its Thanksgiving dinner at East Elementary. Approximately 75 persons attended.

The program was presented by Joe Bragg of Lubbock, an employee of the Texas Health Department Resources. He spoke on municipal inspections for water systems.

GOP Party Highlights Due On SCAT

Cable television subscribers in Snyder will have an opportunity Thursday to view highlights of the Republican Governors' Conference in Austin.

Snyder Community Antenna Television has announced that C-SPAN has taped the highlights of the conference, which include appearances of several major personalities, such as John Connally, Sen. Howard Baker, Henry Kissinger, Gerald Ford and others. These highlights will be shown from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Thursday on SCAT Channel 4. C-SPAN regularly shows proceedings in Congress, and this will provide a special holiday feature.

bassadors from 30 Islamic countries, ranging from the Far East to Africa, to an urgent meeting prompted by the attack on the embassy in Islamabad. The holding of 49 American hostages in Iran was also a topic for discussion, officials said.

Other Pakistani mobs burned the American centers in Lahore and Rawalpindi, he said. The staffs at those facilities were evacuated safely, said another State department spokesman, Thomas Reston.

Parts of the Islambad embassy building also were set afire by the Pakistani mob, Reston said.

As many as 100 Americans had been trapped inside a third-floor vault in the embassy after the siege began; they were freed by army units and were evacuated from the roof-top to safety.

"All the people in the vault are out, but it is not clear whether there were other Americans elsewhere," Reston said. About 110 Americans work at the embassy. Another 50 dependents also live on the compound grounds.

Vandalism Under Probe

City police officers are investigating two reported criminal mischief complaints and one minor traffic accident.

One criminal mischief took the form of a window that was hit with what appeared to be a B-B. The incident occurred at Perkin's Gift Emporium and was investigated by officer Don Cheek. Damage was pegged at $200.

The other criminal mischief was reported by Kay Vansickle. She told police officer Joe Bob Martinez someone kicked in the side of her 1978 Datsun pickup. Damage in that incident was estimated at $269.

The minor traffic accident was at the Spanish Inn at 12:07 p.m. It involved a 1976 truck driven by Ricky Arnold and a 1976 Oldsmobile driven by Eva Williamson. It was worked by Cheek.

EXECUTION

in Islamabad and another group burned down the U.S. Information Center in nearby Rawalpindi. No casualties were reported. The attacks were in retaliation for the seizure Tuesday of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, site of Islam's holiest shrine. Although the invaders of the mosque were reported to be members of a Moslem sect linked to Khomeini's Shiite Moslems, the Pakistani mobs blamed the United States.

Khomeini seized on the incident to further his campaign against the United States. In a broadcast statement today he said it was "not far-fetched to assume that this act has been carried out by criminal American imperialism ... and international Zionism."

Saudi sources at the Arab summit conference in Tunis said Saudi troops today assaulted the Moslem fanatics holding the mosque and recaptured most of it. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Energy Position Earns Clements Recognition

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements basked in the warm light of recognition today after Republican governors backed his "Texas Position" on energy and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger awarded him high praise.

The governors unanimously adopted an energy resolution Tuesday calling for decontrol of oil and gas prices for stimulate domestic production, the keystone of Clements' "Texas position."

The assembly of governors also called for a change in federal rules inhibiting the use of coal.

Kissinger addressed the governors, and took the opportunity to pay homage to the host.

"We couldn't have gotten through the crisis in 1973-1976 without the strong hand of Bill Clements," said Kissinger, who was secretary of state in the Nixon and Ford administrations while Clements was deputy secretary of defense.

The energy resolution also endorsed Clements' concept that "resulting above normal revenues be plowed back into domestic energy production of all energy firms."

Clements' press secrtary, John Ford, said the governors' position was adopted without any need for "behind the scenes salesmanship," even though several governors came from consumer states that produce little or no oil.

Ford said Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio visited with the staff members who wrote the resolution and persuaded them to toughen the language, which blames the Carter administration for the current energy problems.

One staffer said Rhodes asked for language that would make the Republicans "look like heroes" to the American people.

"If we follow this, we can elect a Republican president and a Republican congress," he told the governors.

Gov. Lee Dreyfus of Wisconsin said the governors should "go beyond Congress" in pushing for an energy program that would provide independence from OPEC.

"We ought to go over their heads to the people," Dreyfus said.

Besides decontrol and plow back of windfall profits into energy production, the governor said it was "imperative" to adopt a national policy calling for:

--Conversions of oil burning generators and boilers to coals, the use of coal in new industry and modification of existing environment that inhibit the use of coal.

--Expanded construction of nuclear power plants but with "reassuring safety standards" and "appropriate safe disposal" of radioactive wastes.

--Development of precise goals for domestic energy production for each year of the 1980s "so the people can measure the nation's success or lack of it."

White Assailed For Exceeding His Boundaries

AUSTIN (AP)—Protocol was the issue Tuesday as Republican Gov. Bill Clements assailed an unbothered Attorney General Mark White, a Democrat, for overstepping his authority.

In a hotly worded letter distributed by his press secretary, Clements accused White of misrepresenting his authority in regard to oil spills and of "politicizing" the issue of the Campeche Bay runaway oil well.

Attached to it was a copy of a telegram Clements said White sent to various oil companies on Nov. 12. The telegram invites the companies to send representatives to a meeting in White's office Tuesday to discuss what might be done in response to future spills.

White said Clements handed him the letter and read him part of it at the close of a meeting they had Tuesday afternoon on another matter. White described Clements' demeanor as "mercurial," but added, "We left on very kind terms. As I have said before, I intend to get along with all the elected people."

In the telegram, White says he had been "unimpressed with the ability of the existing governmental and commercial structures to respond to the Mexican oil spill and the collision of a tanker and freighter that has resulted in an ongoing spill fouling beaches around Galveston.

"As I told you in a telephone conversation today, I take strong issue with inferences you made in the attached telegram," Clements told White.

He said the telegram impugns actions taken during the oil spills by agencies ranging from the U.S. Coast Guard to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, as well as the governor's office.

"Your communication inviting attendance at today's meeting amounts to a misrepresentation of your authority, and I hereby urge you to limit your activities to those matters within the purview of your office. It also calls upon you once again to quit politicizing the oil spill issue," Clements said.

He said White had refused the governor's request to allow either Clements' general counsel, David Dean, or Frank Cox, state coordinator of disaster emergency services to attend Tuesday's meeting with the oilmen.

This, the governor said, "clearly calls into question your motives and intentions to this matter."

White said he refused to let Dean and Cox attend because he then "would have had to let everybody else in. I was just trying to get an exchange of ideas with industry."
