Two Glamorous Personalities Co-Starred In 'After Office Hours'

Newspaper Room, Scene Of Intense Drama

Setting Of 'After Office Hours' Authentic To Nth Degree

For intense drama few things can surpass the city room of a great metropolitan newspaper at press time. Well recognized by dramatists, this fact has more recently been put to use by the screenists of "After Office Hours," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture co-starring Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, opening Sunday and Monday at the Ritz theatre.

AT THE RITZ SUNDAY, MONDAY

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett in "After Office Hours"

enormous rectangular room of the familiar newspaper room pattern, at the raised end of which are the city editor and his two assistants busy at phones, all the controlled excitement of reporters at work was evident when "shooting" began.

On either side of a long state desk was a jumble of desks. Men with hats on hunched over telephones or rapidly punched typewriter keys with their index fingers. From the "society desk" a blonde called shrilly for a copy boy.

Humming Of Presses Aging copyreaders, collars askew, bent over a great curved desk, blue pencils in hand. The soft insistent humming of presses from another floor could be heard above the staccato din.

A reporter from a local newspaper, engaged as technical adviser, had seen to it that every detail was beyond the criticism of even the most veteran news hawk. Enormous signs, "Is It Interesting?" and "Be Brief" hung overhead, supplying the last note of authenticity.

Into this scene Director Robert Z. Leonard brought his camera and his co-stars—Gable to play the managing editor and Miss Bennett

Melodramatic Navy Thriller Opens At Queen Theatre Today

Warner Bros. melodramatic thriller of Uncle Sam's Jack-tars "Here Comes the Navy," opens at the Queen theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien co-starring and 3,000 sailors' tender active part. The picture is said to carry some of the most breath-taking thrills ever witnessed, in addition to supplying plenty of hilarious comedy and a glowing romance. The action takes place aboard the "U.S.S. Arizona" at the dirigible field at Sunnyvale, Cal., with the "U.S.S. Mason" at the Naval Training Station at San Diego, Cal., and at the Navy yards at Bremerton, Wash.

One of the stirring scenes which comes in as part of the background of the picture is the westing of anchor of the entire Pacific Fleet to start its cruise for Alant's waters on Presidential command. This is the first time such a scene of an entire fleet in action has ever been shown in a picture.

There is thrill after thrill in the picture, two of the most breath-taking being the rescue of a gun crew from a flaming turret and the saving of a man who has been carried aloft clinging to a gun-wire of a dirigible by a sailor sliding down the rope with a parachute strapped to his back and dropping with the man to the ground.

Cagney and O'Brien have the stellar roles of two victim jack-tars who hate each other with intense fury, the more so because the former loves the latter's sister. The feud is accomplished by rapid fire action to a smashing climax.

Gloria Stuart furnishes the romantic part while hilarious comedy is enacted by the two principals and by Frank McHugh, Dorothy Tenn and Maude Eburne. Others in the cast include Robert Barrer, Charles Robertson, Colin Williams, Howard Hickman and George Irving.

Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the screen play by Hal McKinnon's story. Catcher scenes were written by Fain and Kohal.

St. Benedict's To Honor Powell's With Church Devotion

Mr. and Mrs. Ira M. Powell of Dallas will be honored at a reception to be given Monday evening at the First Baptist church.

Mrs. J. A. Coffey, assisted by Miss Evelyn Walker, has prepared a program of recitals and musical numbers which will be presented in a unique fashion.

Light refreshments will be served by the members of the W. M. B. The party will begin about 8 o'clock.

News items, however, are only incidental to the story which deals primarily with a society murder on Park Avenue.

Featuring Stuart Erwin, Billie Burke, Harvey Stephens and Katharine Alexander, the new picture was produced by Bernard Hyman.

British Policy and the American Dollar

It may be that the fall in the price of cotton and of other international farm products has been due to uncertainty about the government's policy in supporting their prices. But the uncertainty about the government's policy is almost surely due to a deeper cause, that is to the pressure upon the world price level resulting from the recent depreciation of the pound sterling and the currencies which are linked to it. The traders of the world have reason to ask themselves whether the government can by means of such devices hold up the domestic price of cotton in the face of a severe threat to its world gold price.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain's speech last week declared a British policy which makes it impossible to put off much longer the determination of an American policy. Mr. Chamberlain took the view that America and France were "united" to gold, that gold was "fluctuating" in value, that Britain would not fluctuate with gold, would maintain her paper currency to maintain a stable price level at home, and would not now consider proposals to stabilize by international action either gold or the rates of exchange. While he denied, no doubt quite correctly, that the British authorities were deliberately depreciating sterling and thus causing gold to "fluctuate," he admitted by implication that they were not determined to prevent depreciation.

As a practical matter it comes to the same thing. When a government admits it is not trying to stabilize its currency, it invites speculation and the owners of loose funds to depreciate the currency. That is the way Mr. Roosevelt depreciated the dollar in 1933. With the exchange market so thin that small transactions one way or the other produce mighty effects, with a lot of frightened money rattling around in the markets of the world, depreciation is a simple matter once a government says, as Mr. Chamberlain has said, that it will not attempt to stop depreciation.

It must be assumed that the American government will defend its internal price level just as jealously as the British government is defending its price level. It will not do again what it did from September, 1931, to March, 1933; that is to say, it will not sit by and take the punishment of a deflation of its price level.

In view of the fact that the British authorities reject the idea of stabilization by agreement, there would seem to be three main lines of action open to America.

One would be to restore the embargo on gold, or in other words to leave the gold standard to which we returned last winter and then to manage the dollar as the British are managing the pound with a view to keeping our own internal prices from fluctuating. The chief objection to this policy is the loss of confidence which a "Wall Street" feels in the monetary competence of the Roosevelt administration, and there is some danger that this lack of confidence would affect the government bond market. Another objection to the policy is that it would be regarded as a departure of currency matters, and when war is declared it is known how peace is to be made.

A second line of action, which has some impressive supporters, would be to accelerate and advance the sale of gold in order to buy silver. It is argued on behalf of this policy that, if resolutely carried out, the sale of American gold and thus steady or rising gold prices, and at the same time it would raise the value of silver and cause a backfire in London from British and Japanese interests in the Orient.

The chief objections to this policy are, first, that there is lacking convincing expert opinion that it would do what is expected of it, and, second, the ineradicable complexities about silver, instilled in Americans by the Bryan campaign of 1893, which prevent most Americans from considering silver with an unbiased mind.

A third line of action would be to go to the French as leaders of the gold bloc and say to them in effect the following: "We think the dollar is sufficiently devalued in terms of gold and we do not wish to devalue it further. Will you and your partners make a prompt and convincing decision as to whether you really do or do not mean to devalue, and if so how much, and to bring over with you and for all and then join with us in creating a greater gold bloc of genuine stabilized currencies." Simultaneously, we could approach the Scandinavian countries which are now linked with sterling and ask them whether they are prepared to join a genuine gold bloc of this sort.

There is no real objection to this policy except that it is difficult to know whether we and the French have the skill to execute it. But since it suits so well the real interests not only of France and ourselves but of all of continental Europe, it seems to me that it is the policy which ought to be most thoroughly explored before resorting to any of the alternative policies. Failure would not prevent us from adopting other policies. Success would obviate the risks of those policies.

Whatever the decision taken, the ultimate objection should never be lost sight of. It is to convince those for whom Mr. Chamberlain speaks that Britain's real interest is to stabilize. A greater gold bloc, especially if it included important countries that now have their currencies managed in London, might by the prestige of its financial power produce that change of mind in a country which profits so much by being the money market of the world. If that conviction cannot be produced by such a construction policy, then it will be necessary to consider, preferably together with France, whether the conviction might not be most quickly produced in London by suspending the gold standard through the joint action of the European gold bloc and the United States.

AMERICAN AIRLINES CUTS TIME ON CHICAGO-ST. LOUIS AND FORT WORTH AIR ROUTE

Dallas, Fort Worth, St. Louis, Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Chicago, as well as intermediate cities on American Airlines' route to the southwest, will be brought closer together Sunday, March 17, when a revision of American Airlines' schedule to the southwest will take place and an "all Vultee" plane service established between these cities. That was announced today by C. A. Rheinstrom, general traffic manager of the company.

The Vultee is the famous speed transport plane, in which trans-continental records were made in January and February by Major Jimmy Doolittle of St. Louis and Leiland S. Andrews, well known southwest division pilot of American Airlines. The plane carries eight passengers and cruises over 300 miles per hour. The Vultee's flight between Chicago and Fort Worth is flown by the Vultee in five hours and forty minutes on the morning north-bound trip, an average speed of 350 miles per hour including three stops. The Vultee's manufacturer by the Avian Development corporation of Glendale, California, and named for its designer, Gerald Vultee.

Full Schedule Arranged For Day At Union Revival

Rayburn To Address Men At 2:30 P. M.

Five Services Planned For Day, Including Two Major Sermons

A full schedule of services has been arranged for the Rayburn union revival here Sunday. The meeting is entering its third week, having begun Sunday, March 3, and will continue through Sunday, March 31. There have been five services planned for the day, including the two major services at the Deats building.

The schedule is as follows: 10:45 a. m. Dr. Rayburn will speak at the tabernacle on "The Missing Disciple."

2:30 p. m. Dr. Rayburn will address the men and boys of Big Spring or "Manhood." This is one of the outstanding meetings of the entire campaign, and you will regret it if you are not there.

5:00 p. m. Mrs. Rayburn will speak to the women and girls at the First Baptist church. You will want to hear her message.

6:30 p. m. All young people should hear Robert Rayburn at the First Methodist church.

7:30 p. m. "The One Thing Imperative" is Dr. Rayburn's topic for Sunday night.

Three Lads and What They Said, sermon, subject by Dr. James Rayburn at Friday night's service.

Scripture: Luke 14: 15-24. Text: "Come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse."

He said, "I would tell you about three lads. Here they are. The first said, 'I have bought a piece of ground.' Another said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen,' and the other said, 'I have married a wife.'"

The last of the 17th verse and the first of the 18th verse (text) contain the center of the story. The Bible is a book of invitation. From beginning to end, there is

A STUDY OF WASHINGTON PERSONALITIES

Here is a glimpse of official Washington at work—a study in faces of administration leaders as they grappled with the day's problems. Top, left, is Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board as he appeared before the house banking committee; top, right, Francis Biddle, of the national labor relations board, before the senate labor committee; lower, left, Donald Riechers, NRA boss, addressing the senate finance body; and lower, right, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes pondering a question at his press conference. (Associated Press Photos)

come! come! come! God calls, God pleads, God invites. He gives urgent, repeated, glorious invitations, and always to come to something good. God is calling us to something that makes a town better and homes happier. It makes better business, better credit, more honesty, more integrity.

"They all with one consent began to make excuse." The scripture does not say that they began to give reason. They "made," they manufactured, excuses—lies, falsehoods. The first one said he had bought a piece of ground. He did not say that he must get an abstract recorded or take up an option. He had bought it and it was his. The truth was that he had an invitation to the feast and did not want to go, and he did not have manhood enough to tell the king so. Did you ever have a man tell you to tell God that he did not want to go to heaven? No, he made excuses.

"And the next fellow said, 'I have bought ten head of cattle. What man would buy a draft team before he knew whether or not they would pull under load?'"

"The other fellow said, 'I have married, I cannot go.' He was the biggest liar of them all. When she is a bride in the one time in a woman's life that she likes to "god."

"These three excuses are Jesus' picture of silly nonsense. In striving against the love of God you may make forty excuses for refusing His love, but you have no reason. Reason is all on one side. All the foolishness is on the other side. There is no reason on earth why men should choose death instead of life.

"The excuses that come to a preacher are not one bit less ridiculous or preposterous than these three. You will never find one excuse that will stand the acid test of Jesus Christ before the Judgment. Here is the first excuse: it is the egotistical one. People say, 'Yes, it is a fine thing and I intend to be a Christian when I am ready. I am going to be a Christian.' How do you know that you will have an invitation when you get ready? How do you know that you will not be run over by an automobile or struck down by lightning tomorrow? That excuse is a rank insult to God Almighty, and not a one of you would give it to your friends if you are at all courteous. God says 'come now,' you think you could be a Christian just one night, and then, with scripture reading and prayer, live a Christian all the next day? That is all there is to being a Christian. 'As thy days, so shall thy strength be.' All you do is hold on. Christ holds out as the eternal Saviour. 'Having loved his own, he loved them to the end.' I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. If he can keep the saints down through the ages, he can keep us now.

"There is another fellow who says, 'If it were not for my friends.' Friends are one of the greatest blessings in the world, but who is a friend? He who helps, and a person who would get between your soul and Christ is not a friend. "Another says this: 'I believe you are right, but you simply cannot be a Christian in my business.' If you have a business which you cannot take Jesus Christ, either you ought to be a Christian and get your business or the sheriff ought to get you. Jesus will dignify any legal business under the sun. This gospel is not to get people ready to die but ready to live. Jesus said, 'I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.' Some of the very best Christian friends that I have are railroad men. You can be a Christian merchant, doctor, lawyer, farmer. You can take Christ into any legal business.

"Now I come to the darling excuse of all excuses. Some people seem to think that you could take it to Christ on the judgment seat and he would remain silent. You hear it everywhere, among all people. And listen, you don't use it in anything else but religion. There are so many hypocrites in the church. You know fellows in Masonry who are there only for the prestige and better credit it gives them. I saw an Odd Fellow emblem on a man in a white apron behind a saloon bar. Why don't I go around saying that all Odd Fellows are saloon keepers? We all know that there is counterfeit money in circulation today, but it is not enough to upset the money situation; not enough to keep you from cashing a check. The only reason a counterfeit is "get by" is because there is so much good money in circulation. The reason a hypocrite "gets by" in the church is because there are thousands of good people there. You can't hide behind a pitch fork handle. Neither can you hide behind a hypocrite unless you are smaller than he is. I had rather live in the church with my Saviour, even if there are a few hypocrites around, than to go to hell and live with all of them. 'And appoint him his portion with the hypocrites.' "Now the last excuse, and it is a cold-blooded one. 'I am not interested. I have no time for such things.' Someday the rider on the pole horse will knock and call for you; and you will have time to answer. You will have time when God Almighty sends for you. "Just keep on excusing and keep on excusing yourself, and someday God will say to his Angel, 'excuse him.' God does not allow his love and grace to be refused forever.

"Blessed are they that are called to the marriage feast of the Lamb."

SCOUT NEWS

"Chief" A. C. Williamson will be here this week for at least three days beginning on Wednesday. Principal reason for his coming will be the finance campaign for the Big Spring district.

But while he is here, plans for the training school which will start the first week in April will be completed. It has been almost a year since a scouters training course was staged here. Scouters who took it, a camping course, will remember it as one of the most enjoyable ever held here.

Plans are afoot to bring scouting to more Big Spring boys. People in the west part of the city, where there is now no troop, have expressed an interest in getting scouting underway there. A fine troop of boys could be organized in that section and would doubtless wake up some of the older troops.

The executive board meeting is scheduled to be held here March 25. It is the regular bi-monthly meeting of the board. In view of the fact that jamboree time will be so near at hand, the meeting will be most important.

And don't forget that May 10 and 11 are dates for the jamboree tent it something else please. That leaves not too much time for preparations for the affair. Six hundred scouts and scouters are expected here for the occasion.

TROOP MEETINGS
Troop No. 2—The troop met in the basement of the First Methodist church for their regular weekly meeting Friday at 7:30 o'clock.

At the opening of the meeting the patrol played a game of "steal the bacon." Business was then taken up and a hike was planned for next week. The patrol then went into their respective rooms for a ten minutes meeting. After the patrol meetings a series of stunts was put on and to the winner one point was given in the contest which is now on. The "Bear" patrol carried off honors. There were 14 scouts, 3 visitors, and 2 officials present.—Reported by Billy Robinson.

Troop No. 4—There were 11 boys on the monthly overnight hike last Friday at the scout hut. The Bear patrol hiked out to the hut Friday morning and the Flying Eagle patrol hiked out Friday after lunch. Dee Foster, Addison Cotton, and J. Lindell Ferguson passed cooking on their second class work, and Addison Cotton also passed fire building. As night came on the patrols put on different stunts around the council fire. The boys were dismissed by the scoutmaster's benediction.—Reported by Frank Wentz.

Airlines Furnish Employment For 6500 Persons

American-operated air lines had 6,455 persons in their employ on January 1, according to an announcement today by the Bureau of Air Commerce, Department of Commerce.

These included 500 pilots, 248 co-pilots, 2,301 mechanics and ground crew men, 1,846 other hangar and field employees, and 1,487 operations and office employees.

The lines had 518 airplanes in operation at the beginning of the year. Consumption of gasoline on the air lines in the calendar year 1934 totaled 23,136,374 gallons; of oil, 838,756 gallons.

These statistics apply to the air lines operated by American operators, including both domestic routes and extensions to foreign countries.

CRIME GETS BAD BLOW WHEN AID IS CUT

The shooting to death of such outlaws as John Dillinger and "Pretty Boy" Floyd is easily the most spectacular part of the Department of Justice's drive on crime. Equally important, but far less exciting, is the quiet and methodical way in which the "G men" are cracking down on persons who give aid and comfort to gangsters.

Twenty persons stood before a federal judge in Dallas, Tex., the other day to receive sentences for having harbored or assisted tough Clyde Barrow, recently deceased, and his cigar-puffing paramour, Bonnie Parker, also recently deceased.

Among them were the mothers of the two outlaws, assorted sisters, brothers, friends, and a scattering of what might euphemistically be called business associates.

At one time or another these persons had helped the outlaws hide from the police, or had given them help in getting from one hot spot to a spot not so hot, or had done this or that to make their careers of crime more lucrative.

Judge William H. Atwell lost no time in handing out sentences which in some cases ran as high as two years in prison. The two mothers drew thirty-day terms in jail. And as a result, only one person of all those who at one time associated with the Barrow gang remains unpunished today — the gangster Raymond Hamilton, now being hunted by posse all over the southwest.

Now a roundup of this kind does not get a tenth of the public attention that the actual slaying or imprisonment of a notorious criminal gets but in the long run it is every bit as important in the drive to stamp out lawlessness.

No outlaw plays a lone hand, in modern America. The man who tried it wouldn't last a month.

There must be friends who can furnish hiding places in time of trouble, who can advance funds in the low spells between robberies, who can carry communications and help in forming plans and do all the other little services which enable a criminal to carry on his career.

To knock off the leading criminal and leave this network of friends and helpers untouched is to invite repetition of the trouble.

Getting the leader himself is the first job, of course. But after that has been done, the persons who made his career possible need attention. Those like the one against the Barrow clan in Texas are the best kind of crime prevention work.

Nothing will put a crimp in activities of the Dillingers and the Floyds like a general public realization that to give any kind of help to such men is exceedingly unhealthful.

MORE SPEED WOULD HELP

The whole network of laws, executive orders, and public agreements which constitute the New Deal seems to be heading into the somewhat constricted funnel that has its outlet in the U. S. Supreme Court.

Settlement of the gold clause cases was just the beginning. Now we are reminded that this court is to have the final word on many other things — on section 7-A, on the TVA program, on the bituminous coal code, on the lumber code, and probably on pretty nearly all the rest.

In this connection, one can only wish that judicial processes could in some way be speeded up a little. It has been upward of a year and a half since most of these moot issues were first brought forward.

The long delay between beginning of a program and final decision as to its legality is a help to none of the parties involved.

A GOOD BANK is a Servant to Business

TOO many business men are never aware of changing conditions and needs until after they have already happened. Wasted dollars might often be saved if the head of a business could put his finger on the facts in time.

A good bank is in an excellent position to supply those necessary facts. Your banker does not have to know the intricate details of your business. A knowledge of such complex details might hinder rather than help him in serving you. For your banker's value to your concern rests chiefly in his ability to bring a very broad experience to bear upon your own problems. His is a business that serves many businesses. His specialty is financing, of course, and here he can draw upon an intimate knowledge gained from years of practice.

But in other business fields, too — marketing, for example — your banker can serve you. His understanding of general business trends is far more comprehensive than one gained merely from making one product or selling a few.

If you are using your bank only as a clearing house for deposits and payments you are not letting your banker serve you to his full capacity. It will pay you to know him better.

FORGOTTEN NAZI VILLAGE LONGS TO BECOME SWISS

SCHAFFHAUSEN, Switzerland — A German village near here, without a swastika flag, a storm-trooper or a "Heil-Hitler," wants to become a part of Switzerland.

Busingen, with 900 inhabitants living on about 1,800 acres overlooking the Rhine, has been a part of Germany for more than a century, yet it is entirely surrounded by Swiss territory.

To get to Germany, citizens of Busingen must cross half a mile of Switzerland.

"Forgotten by Germany," "Germany has long since forgotten all about us," said one villager. "We work in Switzerland, but when times are bad, the Swiss lay us off to give work to their countrymen. We should like nothing better than to join Switzerland."

One of the queer map-making mistakes of Europe, Busingen is a part of Germany only in name. Only two small photographs of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the late President von Hindenburg, in the town hall, mark its allegiance.

The village's complicated history began in the Middle Ages, when it was owned by the Austrian counts of Nellenburg. In 1533, it was given by the counts to a family named Imthurn for them to rule.

Flight Due To Napoleon
The Nellenburgs took it back in 1804, when Eberhard Imthurn was exiled from the village to a Schaffhausen jail to answer charges of combatting the Calvinist religion. At that time, the count of Nellenburg also was ruler of Austria, so the village became part of the empire.

In 1805, in the map-twisting program carried on by Napoleon, Busingen was awarded to the kingdom of Wurtemberg. In 1810, it went to the Grand Duchy of Baden. At the Congress of Vienna, in 1815, when Europe tried to undo Napoleon's changes in the map, a Swiss delegate was present, but forgot to ask for the village, so it has remained part of Germany to this day.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEAHER

AUSTIN, (UP)—The Texas legislature had its own "pink slip" controversy similar to the dispute in Congress over publicity for income tax returns.

When the legislature threw open oil refiners' records to the state railroad commission to aid in checking "hot oil" there was a proviso that information should remain secret.

Then came the law to require tenders for movement of oil products. That resulted in publicity for records that had been specifically forbidden under the other law. Now a bill is before the House permitting publicity for tenders.

Considerable legislative resentment toward Governor Alfred Sturtevant, ready to flare forth on the least provocation. The Senate has had the feeling from the beginning of the session. It grew from the Governor's campaign attacks on Senatorial reticence to disclose employment.

It sprung up in the House when the Governor became active in an unsuccessful effort to elect a Speaker. It became outspoken in the House when the governor was quoted as criticizing the House Committee on Taxation.

For the time both the House and Senate are burying their private rivalry that frequently results in scurrilous references. In corridors members voiced the determination that the Governor will get what the House and Senate sends him, not what he sends them.

W. R. Ely of Abilene, highway commissioner, "dry smokes" cigars as he sits at sessions of the commission. When he really wants to smoke, he lays aside his unit cigar, takes out a cigarette, lights it and puffs away.

Sen. Claud Westerfield's bill to give men and women an equal share of political jobs results from about two-thirds of the places now being held by women. It reflects cream cups were served.

This grove has taken on new life and announced that it hopes that all of the members will support the grove and team in every way, especially with their presence at the regular meetings.

Woodmen Circle To Enter Drill Team In Competitive State Meet

The regular meeting of the Woodmen Circle was held Thursday evening at the W. O. W. hall. Mrs. Winnie Luton, Irene Luton, Grace Lee Greenwood, Altha Porter, Helen Lawther, Hazel Wilmoth, Clara Bell Lawther, Dorothy Jones, Marie Price, and Gladys Glover, were initiated into the local grove. The officers were assisted in this by the newly organized drill team in uniform.

This new drill team, organized in January, is planning to go to Waco the 27 of March, to enter the competitive drills, they will also take part in the pageant, which will be composed of fifty drill teams from over the state. They will be explained by Mrs. Tressie Goldsticker, district manager, who has been making Big Spring her headquarters since in January.

Both Mrs. Goldsticker and Mrs. Ida L. Valentine, have transferred memberships to Big Spring.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the drill team practiced, a social hour was enjoyed and the Mexico, and will stop here for one service only, enroute to his home.

The Big Spring Week
Black Gold And White Gold Hold Spotlight

The McDowell deep test held the spot light in Big Spring the past week. And well it might for its success as a producer would mean much to this city since it is in Big Spring's undisputed oil area. Too, it would be the opening of a new field of oil operation here since the production would come from an entirely new level. Its high gravity quality would make it much in demand.

All of this would benefit Big Spring much. What would be felt immediately would be the sinking of other deep tests in this same area. Should the test hit. Indications are that oil men would follow the trend around to the Westbrook field. Naturally, there would be no prospecting drilling, but three deep tests would pay out as much as thirty ordinary ones.

Because Big Spring has long since been interested vitally in agriculture and its principal southern crop, cotton, the break in the market last week caused some concern here. Strains, but true, it did not give the farmer so much worry as it did the speculators. Plenty of local cotton speculators look some sharp losses. Most of us were supposed to have learned a lesson from the crash of 1929, but sometime the appeal to get rich quick is stronger than the voice of experience.

It was a good week for law enforcement here. Two were brought back to stand trial for a burglary and a robbery, and two were identified as having hijacked two local gro-

There are no ethics in the Texas legislature, Rep. Alf Roark, Saratoga school teacher, has decided. He said he became a member he felt it unethical to attack a bill by a motion to strike out its enacting clause.

"Since I have been here, I have gotten over that," he said. "I do not think there is any such thing as ethics here."

Rep. Leonard Westfall of Asperinton, insisting that his patriotism was not less because he opposed a $3,000,000 centennial appropriation, announced his love of the Alamo, San Jacinto and Texas history. "I love that song 'Beautiful Texas', Westfall went on.

"Sing it," suggested Rep. Bob Alexander of Childress, but the House was spared the solo.

Veteran Representative J. W. Adamson of Denison was speaking for a Texas Centennial celebration. Youthful Representatives Jack Padgett of Austin and Jap Lucas of Athens were arguing privately about some matter.

"Keep those boys quiet, over there," said the exasperated Adamson. Sergeant-at-arms Joe White hastened to break up the conversation.

Several years ago the Texas legislators decided that Texas school children ought to study the state constitution. This week the constitution was cited to them by Maxine Cole, Dallas school girl. She criticized a House Bill to prohibit high school fraternities and sororities. She quoted the constitutional right of people to assemble together in a peaceable manner. The bill, she said, denies citizens of scholastic age that right.

every store February 16 and two more arrested here for burglary. This is encouraging. When criminals can be caught and brought to justice for their acts, the popular phrase "crime does not pay" will carry much weight.

Someone called off "black gold." Then rain ought to be known in West Texas as "white gold" for nothing can bring as much good cheer and business confidence as a general rain in this section. Last week Big Spring received its second blessing of moisture in a month's time, enabling farmers to finish plowing. Right now most land in this section is in good shape. Other rains. If they are as timely, will mean more than a gold mine to Big Spring and West Texas.

The second son of the president, Elliott Roosevelt, stopped here last week when the plane in which he was riding was grounded temporarily. Son Elliott is not a chip off the family block when it comes to personality and ability. Although he holds down an aviation position, he is not popular in the least with that trade. Many have good reason to believe he holds his $15,000 per year job because of his father. Hundreds of thousands of men possibly with more ability, did not have the right father.

You must admire Mr. and Mrs. Joe Allen Davidson. They decided to get married and a hospital bed couldn't stop Mr. Davidson, who before her marriage was Miss Nella Bridges, agreed that the time had come, took off for lunch, not the license and married and was back on the job in an hour's time. Rapid fire action like that would be worth a lot in the business world.

Druggists come into Big Spring for three days beginning Tuesday. Last week reservations continued to pile in until hotel managers felt much better. What makes Big Spring feel quite as good is the fact that some of the biggest men in the drug profession and drug trade will attend the meeting. That hasn't happened in a state meet. So congratulations to the local druggists who know how to plan a real show.

Public officers were able to announce last week that business was on the upgrade. Building permits jumped in fifteen days of March to twice the total for February and postal receipts were up considerably. Private business has shown no such gains but it has held steady. That makes the outlook encouraging.

FHA program was revived here last week after a comparatively false start last year. Still, some good came out of the campaign started here many months ago to renovate, repair and construct buildings. With a few changes in the set up, the task is due to reap even better results in the near future. If the FHA program is put over, it can produce much good for no little of the employables who are unemployed are connected in one way with the building trades.

Parent-Teacher association representatives from 18 counties will come here during April. It was announced last week. Many teachers went to Mineral Wells for a series of professional discussions. These two events are important. They are brought closer home by the announcement that the school board is going to wear. Heavy information and teachers will be able to cooperate in handling the extra scholastic load. This means that youth will be given the benefit of progressive knowledge. And nothing is so important to a community or nation as its youth.

A bill introduced in the legislature last week would cut the district court zone here to 17 weeks and the time of the entire district by 7 weeks. Behind the bill is the guiding hand of Judge Charles W. Stewart, chief of the 25th district. The measure is worthy in principle. It may be all right to cut Howard county to 17 weeks, but the entire district should be cut down on proportion. You can't figure it from any standpoint you wish, and you will find that Howard county is entitled to fifty to sixty per cent of the time. But that wouldn't do. The honorable court would be getting 18 weeks of vacation under a sort of arrangement. The district would then be revised and given more territory and nomination to serve. That would be more work for the court. Fewer weeks of business would be required. There would be no repercussions from that.

Court procedure with the bar at the court cooperating wasn't right, could be handled in half the normal time. But until the bar and court reach that millennium, there is no good reason for penalizing Howard county.

A few hours after his mother's death from a heart attack, Carl Stewart, of Cattleburg, Ky., killed himself.

Isn't it
the TRUTH?

My Home used to be my castle, where I could live without annoyance—When the door bell rang I could expect a friend or neighbor. But that is not so any more, with solicitors, agents, peddlers, ringing my door doorbell from early morning—yes, even 'till late in the evening using "something free" or smart story methods to gain admission to my home. In fact says the Prudent Housewife and Miss Thrifty Shopper—"I am pestered with peddlers trying their specialty sales arguments on me every day of the week until they have become a NUISANCE."

WHO ARE BELL RINGERS?

As a Rule many are Floaters---here today and gone tomorrow. They are NOT responsible financially, morally or otherwise. They are NOT taxpayers or voters in any community. Where a local citizen is representing a house-to-house selling firm, he or she secures the majority of business thru the friendly sympathy racket and NOT on the merits of the product. This condition is OVERWORKED in every community---and Master Peddlers are always looking for this class of representative.

Many Are Irresponsible. Men who cannot hold a position of any responsibility for any length of time---and continually float from one job to another. The large number of classified ads reading "Agents Wanted---Canvassers---Peddlers---Solicitors---Representatives to sell from house-to-house" confirms the uncertainty of the peddler.

If a Strange Man Came to Your Door---with nothing to sell---asking for permission to come into your home---WOULD YOU LET HIM IN?

Can You Afford To Take a Chance?

What Values Have These Peddlers To Offer?

Do you always receive THE SAME QUALITY as in sample shown? A large majority of these Peddlers are representing firms which go into the wholesale market and buy SECONDS—IMPERFECTS paying equally as much as your merchant does for perfect standards. When the merchandise you ordered from the peddler arrives—and it DOES NOT PROVE SATISFACTORY—Can You Get Your Money Back? Try to locate the clever salesman who collected your deposit.

8 Point Warning From Chief of Police To The Housewives And Citizens Of Big Spring

THIS IS A WARNING to Beware of Strangers posing as solicitors, salesmen or inspectors calling at your homes.

THEY SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED UNTIL THEY ARE ABLE TO SHOW A CITY PERMIT as issued by the City Clerks office or until they can present RELIABLE CREDENTIALS SHOWING THEY ARE LOCAL PEOPLE * * REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL FIRMS.

IN MANY CASES Strangers WITHOUT the City Permit or Reliable Credentials of Identity have proven to be "spotters" or "locators" for professional criminals and according to Police Records lack of caution on the part of the householders has often resulted in costly property losses and bitter experiences.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE to a Stranger on an order—TOO OFTEN the Customer HAS NEVER RECEIVED ANYTHING FOR THEIR CASH.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS or issue a check to a Stranger on an order as many times these checks have been "ALTERED" and later cashed by an innocent party.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY—be SURE you know who the Stranger is at your door before granting admittance to your home.

IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS—Phone the Police AT ONCE. Phone No. 6 DO NOT DELAY IN THIS as it will aid the Police in co-operating with you.

ONE NEED NOT BE AFRAID of offending anyone calling at your home to SHOW THE CITY PERMIT or CREDENTIALS—Honest Salespeople will have these credentials with them and welcome investigation.

Gregory Mangin Wins Indoor Tennis Crown Third Time District Meet To Be Held At Sweetwater April 5 And 6

BIG SPRING WILL HAVE TRACK TEAM

SWEETWATER, (Spl.)—The annual district meet of the University Interscholastic League District 3, composed of the cities of Abilene, Sweetwater and Big Spring, and the counties of Taylor, Nolan, Mitchell, Howard, Fisher, Jones, Scurry, Kerr, Pecos, Borden, will be held at Sweetwater April 5 and 6. The schedule of track and field events as announced Saturday by Athletic Director Ed Hennig is as follows: Saturday morning, April 6: 9:30 Pole vault and high jump—Final. 10:00 120-yd. high hurdles preliminaries. 10:20 100-yd. dash preliminaries. 10:40 220-yd. low hurdles preliminaries. 11:00 200-yd. dash preliminaries. Finals: 2:00 120-yd. high hurdles. 2:10 Discus. 2:25 100-yd. dash. 2:35 Shot put. 2:50 80-yd. run. 2:40 Broad jump. 2:45 220-yd. low hurdles. 2:50 Javelin. 2:55 440-yd. run. 3:10 220-yd. dash. 3:25 Mile run. 4:00 Mile relay. Hennig announced that ample food and shower accommodations will be available for all contestants at the stadium. Registrations and assignment made at the stadium at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Preliminaries in tennis, all divisions, will begin on March 30, 9 a. m., and eliminations to finals in each division will be made. Finals in tennis will take place April 6, beginning at 9 o'clock. Senior girls volleyball and junior boys playground ball will take place April 13, 9 a. m., at the high school stadium in Sweetwater. These regulations passed by the executive committee will be strictly enforced: 1. Preliminaries: Preliminaries will be held as indicated on the programs herewith, and there will be no exceptions. 2. Date of entry: All entries for district contests must be in the hands of the director general by Tuesday, April 2. No entry postmarked later than 12 o'clock on that date will be accepted. 3. Fees: A. The entrance fee for playground ball, no limit on numbers, will be $2.00 for each team; for girls volleyball $1.50 for each team. (Note: playground ball is for junior boys; volleyball is for senior girls.) B. An entrance fee for all other contests shall be 25c for each contestant certified. (Note: The payment of one fee of 25c entitles the individual to enter as many track events as he is eligible to enter.) C. It was agreed that failure to pay entrance fees before April 2 would operate to exclude contestants from participating in the district meet. Entries were received before noon of April 2. No entrant may be absent, however, unless his fee has been paid. Principals and contestants are responsible for seeing that these matters are attended to. No exceptions will be made. Let the superintendent of each school listed below write the director general stating that he will furnish the number of people for judges as indicated by the numeral following the name of each town.

Berkely Bell Beaten In 5 Hard Sets

Frustrated in his first attempt a year ago, Gregory Mangin, Newark, Saturday won the men's national indoor singles tennis championship for the third time and gained permanent possession of the challenge trophy, becoming the fifth player in 35 years to turn the trick. Mangin conquered Berkely Bell, arch rival from their college days at Georgetown and Texas Universities, respectively, in five sets—8-6, 5-5, 2-6, 0-6, 6-2 before a gallery of 1500. With his head bowed, Lester Sheenan, 44, appeared in court in New York City and admitted that he beat his mother because he did not like the meal she had prepared for him. He was sentenced to the workhouse. Fans will meet again this week in an effort to secure a place at the rodeo grounds.

Muny Tourney Qualifying To Start Today

Eighteen Holes On First Round, Ladies Flight Fixed

Qualifying for the Municipal course spring golf tournament will start today and extend through the week. The qualifying round will be eighteen holes, and golfers must secure a signed card from the club house before starting the round, Charles Akey, pro, said. The $1.50 entrance fee will include the qualifying round and all tournament matches. A ladies flight will be arranged if as many as sixteen qualify.

HEADED FOR A STATE CCC BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Real Drama Around Camps

Veteran Baseball Performers Are Trying To Make Comeback

(By The Associated Press)

The real drama of the training camps this spring has been centered around those veteran performers of the diamond who are trying to come back after unfortunate experiences in 1934. A few outstanding rookies may claim a share of the spotlight here and there but in the main it is the last ditch fight of the old-timers for one more fling under the big tent that holds the interest of fans.

The chances of almost every club in the majors depend in a measure on the ability of stars like Rabbit Maranville, Earl Combs, Lefty Grove, Travis Jackson, Joe Kuhel, Watson Clark and a host of others to show their former winning form.

Perhaps the most arresting of all present training camp dramas is the act Charlie Geibert is putting on at the Cardinal camp. After a two-year lay-off, caused by a hunting accident which all but cost Geibert his left foot, the game youngster is flashing amazing speed and form in Florida. Sheer grit and determination made it possible for him to return in the face of pessimistic reports from many doctors.

Clark Coming Back? Brooklyn fans are cheered by the reports from camp that Watson Clark has been "burning 'em over" the plate in his old time form without any pain.

Clark's case is one of the mysteries of baseball. After a great season with the Brooklyn club in 1932, the left-hander lost his form. They never have been able to find out whether there was anything seriously wrong with his arm. More than likely his decline can be attributed to general poor health. At one time or other he was supposed to have a bad heart, stomach trouble, tuberculosis and half a dozen other ailments. A chest infection dragged his weight down 20 pounds.

The Dodgers sold Clark to the Giants in the spring of 1933 but the left-hander never snapped out of his slump. At Miami last spring he didn't even attempt to throw a ball, so lame was his arm. He merely jogged around the field and snagged flies.

Bill Terry sold him back to the Brooklyn club last year after he was satisfied Clark couldn't help the Giants.

Cesar Stengel, the Dodgers' pilot, has never quit on Clark. Being one of the most serious-minded players in the game, Lefty appreciates Casey's confidence and is out to win himself first of all that he can pitch again. If he can't deliver to his own satisfaction on the training tour he is not going to ask any more money for hanging on.

It is heartily felt that he has earned the $15,000 he received from the Giants and Dodgers in the past two years.

If Clark continues to stand up under the training grind the old familiar cry of "quick Watson, the needle" may again ring out at Ebbets field as it did a few years back when a Brooklyn hurler found himself in dire need of Clark's help.

Lack Of Playing Field Hurts Fans Plan For Baseball

A baseball organization meeting the past week did little toward starting the local season. It was indicated that several good teams could be organized if a suitable place could be found to play. Fans will meet again this week in an effort to secure a place at the rodeo grounds.

High School Netters Work

Coach Wayne Matthews Starts Practice; Prospects Rosy

Coach Wayne Matthews started his high school netters to practicing the past week. Two new nets have been purchased, however, the concrete courts are in bad shape.

Jim Brigham and Jimmie Myers will head the doubles teams this year. The other doubles combinations are made up of Paul Coburn and Jack Wilson and Jimmie Ford and Sam Flowers.

Harold Talbot, Melvin Legge and Preston Sleigh will head the singles. Sleigh is probably the most experienced in that group. Seeding will start Monday.

First matches will be arranged this week.

Stamford 2, Anson 2, Hamlin 1, Roby 1, Roscoe 2, Rotan 2, Mertel 2, Colorado 2, Big Spring 3, Snyder 2, Elyvanna 1, Abilene 3, Jayton 1, Aspermont 1, Sweetwater 10, Blackwell 1, Lorraine 1, Hermleigh 1, McCauley 1, Divide 1.

Local CCC Cagers Deal Ottine Bad Threshing

TEMPLE (Special)—Big Spring CCC cagers packed all the wallop they had intended for three games into a game series here Saturday and left their bewildered brothers from Ottine smarting under a 63-13 defeat.

The Big Spring-Ottine had been slated as three game schedule but it was reduced to one.

From the beginning, it was apparent that Ottine was no match for the perfectly clicking Big Spring team.

Young ran up 29 points and Finch followed with 14 for Big Spring.

As the result of the victory, Big Spring will meet Lufkin in a featured clash here March 30.

Lieut. Satterwhite, in charge of the Big Spring team, said he would return to Big Spring with his men Monday.

Scoring—For Big Spring: Young 29, Finch 19, Greer 14, Coleman 0, Rogers 6, Bruce 1.

For Ottine: Hill 0, Bonner 2, Parrett 6, Masthey 0, Smith 2, Reppas 0.

Match Known As The "Drugist Special"; Rough

Eddie O'Shea, wild Irishman, and Charlie Heard, the world's fastest wrestler who has shaken the local fans that he can punch as well as bend bones, will furnish the main attraction at the Big Spring Athletic club Tuesday night. The match, a two out of three fall event with a two hour time limit, will be known as the "Drugist Special."

Both Willing

Eddie has often expressed a desire to meet Charlie in the ring again, and Heard showed willingness to put on a fist fight at any time. The speedy boy has been in San Antonio for the past two weeks, and Eddie fought Blondy Chrane in Fort Worth.

A special event will be a twenty minute one fall bout between Blondy Chrane and Charlie Thornton. Chrane now rates among the best matmen in this section of the country, should take the match Thornton was given a terrific beating here last week by the Frenchman, La-Belle.

Joe Morali and Sparky Walker have been booked for the semi-final. Morali is a tough leg man and gave Heard a stiff battle recently.

New To These Parts

Walker is new to these parts but comes with a good reputation. He is a former instructor at the University of Oregon and was Rocky Mountain middleweight champion for some time.

In order to eliminate further chair tossing, Herman Fuhrer will referee.

The following day typing contests and debate finals will be held. One act play finals will be held Friday evening from the Sweetwater city auditorium. Preliminaries are to be held March 29 and 30, according to Miss Ethel Harkins, director.

The district Spanish tournament is set for March 30 in the Sweetwater high school.

Tom Bensley, sports editor of The Herald, is laid up with an infected foot.

Sweetwater District Meet Program Is Out

Program for the district meet in Sweetwater April 6 and 7 have been released.

Declaration preliminaries will be held Friday with a few events reaching the final stages that day.

Chapter 42
BAGS OF GOLD

Estrada put out his hand flat on the table, the palms turned up, in the attitude of one who is about to make a great offer.

He said: "We should have met before. El Keed and Estrada have things to talk about. And, to be quick and short, Rubriz was carrying away from a place we know about, one-half of a thing which we both had seen."

As he said this, he put his other hand, in an unconscious gesture over his heart.

"Now, then," said the general, "what Rubriz was taking was a roadster—a man who better know how to use it. What I want to talk to you about is the second half. You can tell me where it is?"

"Not yet!" exclaimed Juan-Silva. "Not a word more to him, my son. I've named my price and I expect my money."

He began his cackling, husky laughter.

"Twenty thousand—two—two thousand, and every penny of it back unless he talks. Twenty thousand—three thousand, Juan-Silva."

"Thirty thousand, and not a penny less. Thirty is what I need, and that I must have. It rounds out—completes everything—it makes me a free man!"

The general glared at him, his moustaches spread and closing like the whiskers of a walrus.

Still with his eyes of hate fixed on the old man, Estrada said: "You have the money, Alvarez, and you have another part, Lascar. Put it on the table."

Each of them picked up from the floor very heavy bags. When they were dropped on the table the heavy wood was shaken by the impact.

"It is here—it is true!" said Juan-Silva. "It need not be counted. I trust you, gentlemen. I trust you perfectly. Maria—old fool—watches us up the back again. Thirty thousand—thirty thousand—"

"And every coin of it back," said the general, "unless El Keed talks to us!"

"Al, but he'll talk," said Juan-Silva. "El Keed has seen my little ways in the valley. He knows that I could persuade him to talk!"

"To you think so?" said Montana. "Altogether. He pointed at the other three. "You think, Juan-Silva, that I'll talk to them and tell what I know about the other half of the emerald crown? Juan-Silva, you think that I'll talk and let them take me away, afterwards, to make sure that what I've told them is the truth?"

The old man held out his two hands.

"You," he said, "are children. Perhaps there is no other person in the world who understands how to move the minds of men—and their tongues—as I do. But—we try the his neck and a bloody froth on his lips.

He crumpled, small as the body of a child, his head resting across his arms on the table.

The Kid was certain that this was death, but as he leaned over the body he heard a last faint whisper: "And the damned shapshards freeze their feet in the frost outside..."

The last thought of Juan-Silva was, in his grim way, a happy one. He began to slip sideways in his chair, and when the Kid straight-

"I knew!" cried the friar. "I told Mateo that it was your work. I knew!"

"Pence, pence, Pascual!" exclaimed Rubriz, and he raised his hand to command the silence, and waited for the words of the Kid.

"Juan-Silva sits dead in the next room—a woman was the finish of him," said the Kid. "In the room beyond that sits Estrada, and Lascar and Major Alvarez beside him."

"God," murmured Rubriz, "has consented to fill my hands! I shall die happy, today!"

"Follow me," said Montana. "If I have half the wits of a child, I know that the second half of the crown of emeralds is under the coats of Estrada, near his heart. We must have it before we leave. Do you hear me, Mateo? Wipe the killing out of your mind. Think man!"

"Estrada only!" groaned Rubriz through his set teeth. "Let the others live, but give me Estrada."

"Keep him back, Pascual," said the Kid—"his turned into a wild beast—and I'll go forward with this myself, alone."

"No!" exclaimed Rubriz. "I shall be as a child in your hands. Do as you wish. Give commands and I obey them!"

They entered again that big room.

"I am opening the door yonder," said Montana. "I shall ask Estrada to come in, alone. Stand one of you on each side of the door. Mind, the others must hear nothing, neither Alvarez nor Jack Lascar. But as Estrada comes through, make him speechless!"

Record Crowd Sees Babe's Braves Win
Bambino Gets Single In Third And Last Time At Bat
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The biggest crowd of baseball fans that ever attended an exhibition game in the celebrated "grapefruit league," numbering 4,730 paid admissions, Saturday witnessed a other Babe Ruth debut—his first appearance of the spring season against his old club, New York Yankees.
Ruth's Boston Braves eked out a 2 to 1 victory, but the Babe got one hit, a single to right field, on his third and last trip to bat.

NEW YORK
By JAMES MULLIN
Smooth—
There are several intriguing articles to the government's decision to abolish national bank notes by retiring the 26 consolidated and Panama Canal bonds on which they are based, with part of the proceeds to go to the New York State and a smart move. They say it means absolutely nothing in practical terms—and yet it pleased all but a few.
It means nothing because in essence it merely substitutes one form of currency for another with no change in net volume. Monetary radicals seem to think it evinces interest-bearing obligations with non-interest-bearing paper money—which isn't the case at all if it makes them happy to figure that way it's O. K. with conservatives.

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK TO SPEAK OVER RADIO
Madame Schumann-Heink, widely known concert singer, will be the speaker on the Federal Housing Administration radio program from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m., eastern standard time, Sunday, March 17. This is one of a series of twenty-five programs donated by the General Electric company to the Federal Housing Administration. Madame Schumann-Heink will speak from the Chicago studios of the National Broadcasting company. Her subject, "What Home Means to Me," will afford the radio audience an opportunity to learn the viewpoint of another person of national prominence.

With the blizzard of President Roosevelt, has come in the forest of corruption in a big way. The first in a series of the "Big Deal" $2,000,000, acres of land were bought up and put into national reservations as occupied with 3,000,000 acres acquired in 18 1/2 years before that. This land, obviously situated although it works out the party way in the end. The CCC department is a growing organization and it has to have more to do to justify its existence.
Incidentally, confidential reports to Washington say that the celebrated Mrs. President Roosevelt, advanced has raised huge too high and should be self-perpetuated for the moment. Between adverse ruling of the committee general and the congressional situation there isn't much chance of planting a wedge between the center parts of the country at any time in the near future.

Flood Control Plans Revamped
WASHINGTON (UP)—Proponents of a plan to obtain government aid for a series of flood control dams on the Brazos River, revamped plans to some extent Saturday. Henry Dunlavy, representing the Brazos conservation and reclamation district, said it appeared now the proposed $20,500,000 allocation sought might come from the $4,880,000,000 the president has asked and lengthy congressional hearings before the committees would be used by the special river board the president may name.

First Oil Wells In State Produce After Almost Forty Years
CORSIANA (UP)—Some of the first oil wells in the state drilled field are still producing after almost 40 years of pumping. They are located in the old Corsicana field.
The predecessor of the Magnolia Petroleum company, which recently sold its property in the area to C. L. Brown, Corsicana, brought in the first commercial well to open the gates to Texas' largest industry.
Oil was found in the Taylor formation, from 500 to 1,000 feet. During the first year 1,450 barrels of crude had been taken from the area. That was in 1895.

Vast Plan Announced To Curb Rig Losses From Soil Erosion
DALLAS (UP)—A vast plan to control soil and water losses throughout Texas, embracing the expenditure of $100,000,000 over a period of 10 years, was announced by Dr. H. V. Gehl, regional director of the Federal Soil Erosion service.
The plan is based upon figures showing that there is a $50,000,000 loss annually resulting from water loss and soil erosion in Texas. The object of the plan will be to check erosion, conserve moisture and control floods. All sections of the state, including the East Texas sand lands, the red lands, the West Cross Timbers, western ranges, the prairie sections and the blacklands, are included in the program.

Plans Progressing For Rehabilitation Project On Plains
LUBBOCK (UP)—Plans for a $4,000 acre rehabilitation project on the high plains west of Lubbock are nearly completed, according to W. E. Orr, assistant state rural rehabilitation supervisor.
Together with C. F. Watson, assistant manager of Texas Rural communities, Austin, he spent considerable time in Temple, Texas, studying soil erosion control methods employed in the Elm Creek watershed.
Similar methods will be used in the Lubbock rehabilitation project, he said.

Far Better It Were If This Man Had Not Put On His Trousers
FORT WORTH (UP)—There are times when having your pants on can be more embarrassing than having them off.
Officers recently raided a hotel room here and awakened three men suspected of passing counterfeit money.
A pair of trousers hanging on a chair yielded $170, bonus money. Their owner lost his last chance at immunity when he inadvertently put them on instead of leaving them hang.

Crossing Accident Near Elmo Fatal To One, Another Hurt
TERRELL (UP)—A grade crossing accident near Elmo Saturday resulted in the death of Virgil Ward and probably fatal injury to Bob Roycroft.
Mrs. Elizabeth Corbin, of Huff, Tex., arrested for begging, was found to have $40,000 in the bank.

Good News travels fast!
BAD NEWS used to have the reputation for speed. But such is the demand for the good things of life today that good news travels even faster.
... The carriers of many of the good tidings that every one is eager to hear are right before you. They are the advertisements in this newspaper. They bring good news about soap and cereals, sedans and cigarettes. Good news for the housewife. Good news for the business man. Good news for every one who believes in comfort and happiness.
Let an automobile maker in Detroit or an orange grower in Florida develop a finer product. You will hear about it—not in a couple of years, not just "some time." The whole new story will be rushed to you on the wings of the greatest good-news service in the world—advertising.
Advertisements are filled with the kind of good words you like to find. They tell you of new products, new improvements in well-known merchandise, new values and new ways to increase your well-being. And always they tell you not only where and how to purchase goods of assured merit, but also the way to be certain of obtaining 100 cents' worth of value for every dollar you spend. Read them—and get their good news regularly!

Life—
Keen observers remark that judging by Donald Rieberger's approach to congress, the administration evidently wants the bill proposing NIRA to be enacted in its entirety next legislature. They call that event strategy—pointing out that if this is done the enormous court may well throw out all pending NIRA cases on the ground that the law on which they are based has expired. This would mean at least a two-year delay in the re-organizing of the nation's big business of a non-judicial nature.
Lament—
The Texas and New York legislatures have passed bills which would take away from the federal government the right to regulate interstate commerce. The Texas bill would take away from the federal government the right to regulate interstate commerce. The New York bill would take away from the federal government the right to regulate interstate commerce.
Pay-Off—
New York awarded the prize for the greatest idea of 1935 to a well-known economist for his inscription on how to keep congress free from the influence of lobbyists. His suggestion is that any congressman who is elected for a second time—be would exclude themselves—should automatically be obliged on the public payroll for the rest of his life. The theory is that he would then have no monetary incentive for reelection and could feel free to tell lobbyists to get jump in U. S. Politics. Comment: This idea would offer a perfect campaign program for incumbent legislators. "Re-elect me!" he'd say. "I'll give you $10,000 a year."

By JOHN SELBY

NEW YORK — Thomas Wolfe wrote, it will be remembered, "Look Homeward, Angel." Now he has written "Of Time and the River" (Nesbiters). This is not only a novel almost as long as "Anthem-Adversus." It also is the general title of six novels.

Of the six related volumes four have been written, and two published. They are all large, thick books. When Mr. Wolfe writes a "short" story, his usual length is around 30,000 words. It is therefore no surprise to find that there are more than 350,000 words in "Of Time and the River."

The foreword is part of a deliberate effort to excite a certain amount of curiosity about Mr. Wolfe's book without saying much about the book itself. Although the temper of the novel may be expressed briefly, giving the flavor and importance of it demands more space than is available.

The novel is a panorama of a few years in the early twenties. It is strung upon the life of a young man, who is seen reflected against those with whom he comes in contact, his family, and life itself. It is the kind of book you can open at random and lose yourself in utterly. In spite of some terrific clichés and some Stinesque antics, it may be great.

Thumbnail Reviews
"Dante Vivo," by Giovanni Papini (Macmillan): a very wonderful biography of Dante which has fully as much Papini as Dante in it.
"Southwest," by Louise Adams Armer (Longmans): a book about the Southwest, which has the quality of a vast and mysterious painting; perhaps because M. Armer is a painter as well as a writer.

"Waiting For Nothing," by Tom Kromer (Knopf): Mr. Kromer, out of copious experience as a "blind" man, gives the horrible truth about the destitute foster; not for Aunt Lizzy.

"Women on Their Own" by Dr. Olive Knopf (Little, Brown): an intelligent discussion of women's capabilities and their place in the modern world.

"A Man Called Cervantes," by Bruno Frank (Viking): the fictionalized biography of a man about whom only a handful of facts can be known surely; often beautiful, rarely dull.

Very Light
"The Cluck Abroad," by Tiffan Thayer (Doubleday, Doran): about a bright little librarian who went abroad, went to Marseilles, and there found Adventure; and there who know Marseilles will wonder why she went there.

"The First Woman," by Margaret Cullin Banning (Harvards): woman in politics, by another woman who knows a good deal about the subject.
"Was It A Holiday?" by Theodor Laroque Codman (Little, Brown): searching for French wines, and tasting them; a help-alice by the wife of a wine expert who also went along.

"Old Roses" by Mrs. Frederick Love Knays (Macmillan): judged by the jacket of the book as would say it was a romance with a sweet old lady in it; actually about roses, the kind that grow on stems.
"Don't You Weep, Don't You Moan," by Richard Coleman (Macmillan): about Nero Charlesley, by a man who obviously knows his subject; some delightful characters.

Spring Practice To Start Here Monday
A preview of what may be seen next fall will start here Monday with spring practice for high school gridsters.
Candidates will be given long drills in fundamentals. Some promising ivory is coming up for attention of mentors, who hope to round out some potential stars before the autumn season rolls around.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS AS FLOODS SWEEP ON

Suction streams continued to swirl over lowlands of the Mississippi basin, inundating new areas in a southward sweep of the floods. At top is shown the manner in which the Black river invaded Poplar Bluff, Mo., to dispossess merchants and out 2,000 persons from their homes. At bottom, a flood scene in southern Illinois, where at Harrisburg the main street was transformed into a miniature lake. (Associated Press Photos)

FLYING RECORD HOLDER

ELLING H. VEBLEN

When it comes to air records, Eiling H. Veblen, former star flier and airline pilot, has more than his share. After six months in France, when he flew with Army Air Corps, Veblen returned to the United States and continued his career as a commercial pilot. He put in five years with the American Airlines as transport pilot and made, during part of that period, only 888 round trips between New York and Boston, a total distance of 373,380 miles.

Pilot Veblen now starts 1935 with a series of records, which should win him some reward or other. He is test pilot for the Douglas Aircraft Co. in Santa Monica, California, and as such, puts in many hours each day in test flights of newly built craft. Aside from this, Veblen delivered four new Douglas planes at New York for European use, and in so doing, traveled a mere 21,400 miles in the month of January while making these four transcontinental round trips. Two of the trips were made in one week's time, Veblen going east as his own pilot and returning via American Airlines to Los Angeles, through Big Spring just a matter of covering 11,000 miles in cross-country trips in seven days.

During the month of January this pilot of various and sundry records, spent 19 days time in the air, twelve on the ground, putting in sixty hours flying himself and another sixty as passenger. His flying time from west to east averaged 13 1-2 hours, while on one trip, January 15th, he covered 420 miles in one hour and forty minutes between Cleveland and New York, averaging 232 m.h.p., a new transport plane record over that route.

At present Veblen is testing new Douglas planes in Santa Monica, but no one will be surprised if he should suddenly start out and establish a flock of new air records, but what they would be no one could imagine.

Ray Chambliss has returned from Dallas and Terrell, where he went on business.

Local Hostesses Are Planning Many Forms Of Entertainment For Women Convention Visitors

Three different forms of entertainment for the wives and women visitors who come to Big Spring to attend the druggists convention are being made by the local committee. Mrs. Shine Phillips and Mrs. George Garrette are committee on arrangements.

They have asked Meses. J. D. Biles, Alfred Collins, Cecil Long, Cecil Westerman, L. G. Talley, Adams Talley, Willard Sullivan and J. D. Elliott to assist as a reception committee to meet the women visitors and offer them use of cars.

The entertainment will include a drive to scenic sometime Wednesday, bridge at any hour of the day on the Settles mezzanine, and matinee tickets for the Ritz theatre for Wednesday's show.

Crash Starts Romance In "Grand Old Girl"

An automobile crash launches a romance on a tempestuous course in the May Robson starring film "Grand Old Girl" at the Lyric Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Mary Carlisle and Fred MacMurray play the boy and girl who begin by saying it with bumpers and end by saying it with kisses.

Miss Carlisle is seen as the pampered queen of a high school campus. MacMurray plays a husky young truck driver who refuses to be impressed either by her social position or aircraft wiles. The wiles, however, do begin having their effect as the story progresses.

The drama which this romance underlines centers about an elderly school teacher's gallant fight to rid the town of a sinister influence that threatens the morals of her students. This one-woman campaign leads to a poignant climax.

As Laura Bayles, the school teacher, Miss Robson is said to have the finest role of her career—not even excepting the part she played in "Lady for a Day."

Alas Hale, Hale Hamilton, Theodor von Eltz, William Burgess Etienne Girardot, Onest Conley and Ben Alexander are included in the supporting cast.

Donald Loper Is Host For Party

Little Master Donald Loper, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Loper entertained himself and small friends with a hilarious party Saturday morning celebrating his birthday. The party lasted about 30 minutes, which was all his friends could stand of it, reported his mother.

Games of pattocks and other equally exciting occupied the time after which vegetized wafers and orange juice were served the guests.

The guest list included: Patricia Ann Lloyd, Bob Tom Coffey, Chet Cluck, Martha Ann Mathews, Charles Lindsey Marchbanks, Grace Louise and Junellen Fields of Carlbad, N. M.

Mothers of all the guests and Mrs. Henrietta Bowling, sister of Mrs. Loper assisted in the entertaining. They were served grown-up cookies and lemonade. They were:

Mmes. Larson Lloyd, J. A. Coffey, Chester Cluck, Wayne Mathews, Lindsey Marchbanks and J. W. Fields. Mrs. Fields is Mrs. Loper's sister and is here on a visit.

Former Big Spring Girl Gone To New York To Broadcast

A letter to Mrs. William Dehlinger from Mrs. Harry Gravatt who visited her last December, announced that Mrs. Gravatt's daughter, Dessa Dreesen Hunter, has secured a year's contract in New York. She is now playing at the C. G. Grove, Buffalo.

Mrs. Hunter and her playmates were called to New Orleans to broadcast for the movie convention over WWL and then given a contract to play in New York for a year. She is now featured as the Gypsy Sweetheart.

After leaving Big Spring, when she and her mother were Mrs. Dehlinger's guests, she has been in Houston broadcasting over KPRC and also played in the Tex Theatre in Victoria, going from there to New Orleans.

Blue Mountain Camp Initiates Member

The Blue Mountain camp No. 7277 of the Royal Neighbors of America met in a regular meeting Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Carl Madison was initiated. It was announced that the 1935 district convention would be held here in the early fall.

Two Names Omitted From Co-Op Board Of Directors

In mentioning the directors of the Co-Operative Co. and Supply company in the announcement of the opening of the grocery department two names were unintentionally left out Thursday. They were Ely Satterwhite and Joe Hilsard. They were both elected to the Board of Directors of this company April 9, 1932. Mr. Satterwhite served until March 16, 1933. Mr. Hilsard served until June 10, 1933.

Mrs. Ada Ramsey, past noble state president and Mrs. Gene Cranshaw, member of the state finance committee, left Friday for Temple to attend the state lodge of the Rebekahs and I.O.O.F.

I heard a Wild Goose Yesterday

AT THE first "honk" I gazed skyward. There, high in the air flew a patriarchal gander guiding his flock due north in perfect V-formation—Nature's advertisement that spring had really arrived.

And, speaking of advertisements, do you read those that appear in this newspaper? They forewarn you of the change of seasons just as surely as the first robin or the first golden daffodils.

Reading advertisements is a habit well worth cultivating. They tell you, well in advance, of the latest trend in styles. They keep you posted on this year's developments in automotive engineering. They bring to your attention new foods—nourishing, appetizing. They introduce to you marvels in household helps. They point out interesting locales for your vacation—or for tours that broaden your outlook on life.

The advertisements are interesting, helpful, reliable. By comparing the prices and qualities of merchandise advertised you buy to best advantage. You may rely on the advice given you by the advertisements in this paper just as you depend on the advice of a friend.
