Restaurant Collapse Kills 53 Employes

SEGOVIA, Spain (AP) — Provincial police and engineers sifted the wreckage of a brand new mountain resort restaurant today, seeking what caused the collapse that killed 53 supermarket employes celebrating their annual meeting and injured 101.

Police held four men for questioning—the director of the housing development where the restaurant was completed three days ago and the building's architect, foreman and contractor.

Five hundred supermarket employes and their families were crowded in two second floor dining rooms Sunday when the floor gave way at one end of the restaurant.

More than 200 persons fell to the ground flood and the roof collapsed on top of them.

The convention luncheon was the first meal served in the building. Gov. Adolfo Suarez of Segovia province and the captain general of the 8th military region personally headed the investigation.

Government technicians said two brick pillars apparently crumbled beneath the weight of the crowd.

Three Strikes—Out

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Joaquin Cruz, 43, walked along US 181 in San Antonio Sunday. He was struck by a car.

After being treated and discharged at a hospital, Cruz walked down the same highway about 12 hours later.

He was struck by another car. As he lay in the road, a third car ran over him.

Cruz was reported in critical condition at Bexar County Hospital.

Enlistment Bonus Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lump sum enlistment bonus, which could amount to several thousand dollars, is being studied by the Pentagon and a presidential commission searching for ways to minimize reliance on the draft and develop all-volunteer armed services.

Other proposals include pay boosts, broadened educational benefits, better housing, efforts to improve the status and image of servicemen in society and sharper recruiting methods.

Although most of the ideas are still tentative, the Nixon administration is committed to upgrading military salaries.

The armed services have used bonuses to lure men into re-enlisting. But a bonus to attract high school graduates into a first enlistment would be a new approach in modern times.

Some officials feel a lump sum payment at the beginning might prove more attractive than a pay increase whose impact would be spread over many months.

Enlistment bonuses have been used in the past, most notably during the Civil War, but it very often was corrupted and unmanageable.

The Nixon administration was prepared last winter to ask for a service pay boost, but had second thoughts.

A military pay study, drafted by a group headed by Rear Adm. Lester Hubbell before the Nixon administration took office, has been submitted to a nongovernmental management institute for study.

Happy Day

George Pompidou, newly elected to the French presidency, smiled and waved to well wishers as he left his Paris headquarters today.

Pompidou Promises To Be More Liberal

PARIS (AP) — After serving 25 years in the shadow of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, a former school teacher called Georges Pompidou will succeed the general as president of France.

Though promising fidelity to the policies of De Gaulle, Pompidou has pledged to be more liberal, particularly in foreign affairs, and promised to enlarge his government to bring in new faces and ideas.

His personal style also is expected to be less grating to friends and allies than De Gaulle's often high-handed, uncompromising manner.

One of Pompidou's first acts as president is expected to be the appointment of Jacques Chaban-Delmas as premier. Chaban-Delmas has been one of De Gaulle's most faithful supporters since World War II days and president of the National Assembly since 1952.

The victory had been widely forecast and was never in doubt from the minute the first returns came in Sunday. Fired as De Gaulle's premier a year ago, Pompidou, 57, rolled up a bigger margin in Sunday's election than the general himself gained in the 1965 presidential election.

Official returns for all of metropolitan France and part of the overseas areas gave Pompidou 57.78 per cent of the total, while his main opponent, interim President Alain Poher, got 42.2 per cent. But about 31 per cent of the 29.5 million registered voters stayed away from the polls—almost double the number who abstained three years ago.

Poher, who stepped into the Elysee Palace when De Gaulle quit in April, had campaigned to end "De Gaulle's "rule by oppression."

Congratulatory messages flowed from the United States, Britain, West Germany and other countries. De Gaulle, who sat out the presidential race in Ireland, cabled: "For all national and personal reasons, I send you my most cordial congratulations."

Pompidou announced: "The vote today seems to me to constitute a consolidation and even a consecration of this great reform that we owe to Gen. de Gaulle."

The Constitutional Council is scheduled to officially proclaim the results of the election Thursday night and Pompidou will assume the presidency Friday. There will be no formal swearing-in ceremony, but Poher said he would be on hand to welcome Pompidou to the Elysee Palace.

Pompidou is expected to announce his complete cabinet list Friday or Saturday.

The Communist party had called for the boycott after the first round of presidential balloting June 1 when Pompidou and Poher finished ahead of five other candidates. In that round Communist candidate Jacques Duclos got 21 per cent of the vote.

Pompidou, the grandson of farmers and the son of a school teacher, was teaching school in Paris when a friend nominated him for a job on De Gaulle's staff when the general headed the provisional government after the liberation of France.

After De Gaulle retired to his country home in eastern France in 1946, Pompidou kept in touch and was entrusted with a number of confidential missions.

Pompidou went to work at the Rothschild Bank and rose to a top administrative position. When De Gaulle returned to office in 1958, he brought back Pompidou as head of his personal staff—Chef de Cabinet—during the seven months De Gaulle served as premier while the constitution of the Fifth Republic was being prepared and approved.

When De Gaulle moved in as president in 1959, Pompidou went back to the bank, but he was still close to the president.

In 1962, Pompidou was named premier. At that time he was a political unknown, had never been elected to any public office but was pictured as a man who had De Gaulle's confidence and could be counted on for unflagging loyalty to his boss.

Adam Powell Wins High Court Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court found today the U.S. House was without power to exclude Rep. Adam Clayton Powell in March, 1967.

Chief Justice Earl Warren said: "Our examination of the relevant historical materials leads us to the conclusion that petitioners (Powell and a group of Harlem voters) are correct and that the Constitution leaves the House without authority to exclude any person, duly elected by his constituents who meets all the requirements for membership expressly prescribed in the Constitution."

Warren's 62-page opinion cited instances in which the House had refused to seat other elected representatives in the past. However, the chief justice said: "That an unconstitutional action has been taken before surely does not render that same action any less unconstitutional at a later date."

He added:

"What evidence we have of Congress' early understanding confirms our conclusion that the House is without power to exclude any member-elect who meets the Constitution's requirements for membership."

These qualifications, as set forth in the Constitution, are that a representative must be at least 25 years old, have been a U.S. citizen seven years and a resident of the state from which he was elected.

Powell argued, and the court agreed, that a congressman who met these qualifications could not be kept from taking his seat.

Officials of the House relied primarily on another constitutional provision, one that says "each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members . . ."

Powell, a New York Democrat was kept from taking his seat after a select committee of the House had found him guilty of "gross misconduct" as a congressman and recommended that he be censured, fined and stripped of all seniority. He had represented predominantly Negro Harlem for 22 years and was chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

A specific charge was that he had misused public funds.

Powell was re-elected and took his seat in the 91st Congress last January. When two federal courts here rejected his claim that he had been unconstitutionally excluded from the 90th Congress, he appealed to the Supreme Court.

Some observers suggested the case threatened a collision between the legislative and judicial branches of government. But this did not dissuade the Supreme Court from ruling for Powell.

"Our system of government requires that federal courts on occasion interpret the Constitution in a manner at variance with the construction given the document by another branch," Warren said.

"The alleged conflict that such an adjudication may cause cannot justify the courts' avoiding their constitutional responsibility . . .

". . . It is the responsibility of this court to act as the ultimate interpreter of the Constitution."

The 7-1 ruling is a victory, but not a complete one or an immediate one for the Negro congressman. For instance, the high court said a district court here would have to judge the "propriety" of Powell's claims that he is entitled to $55,000 in lost pay.

Warren's decision drew a constitutional distinction between the expulsion of a member of the House and the exclusion of a duly elected member.

The chief justice said Congress unquestionably has a right to preserve its integrity and authority to punish members for disorderly behavior, and in extreme cases, to expel a member on a two-thirds vote.

But, he said, the House certainly did not have the power to deny Powell his elected seat by a majority vote.

Fighting Senators Eager To Get Credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hot, behind-the-scenes fight to line up votes on President Nixon's Safeguard program has spawned a sub-battle between two New England senators over who gets credit for a proposed compromise on the controversial missile defense project.

The senators, Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., both serve on a special Armed Services subcommittee where the compromise proposal emerged.

The plan is dubbed the McIntyre-Brooke compromise, or the Brooke-McIntyre compromise, depending on which office you talk to.

Each is eager to get credit for it.

McIntyre, in his second Senate term, is striving to improve his image in his normally Republican state. He also is trying to walk the line between somewhat dovish constituents and the strongly pro-ABM Manchester Union-Leader, the state's biggest and most vocal newspaper.

Brooke, not entirely happy with beng on the opposite side from President Nixon, would like to be the one to promote a compromise that would prevent either an administration defeat or a victory so narrow as to be damaging politically.

All indications point to a near deadlock on the Nixon plan with the fate of the Safeguard program in the hands of a half-dozen senators who have not committed themselves on the President's ABM plans.

According to Brooke's office, he suggested the compromise to the subcommittee May 22 when he urged deployment of the missile portion of the Safeguard system be withheld this year, while research continues on radars and computers.

A week later, on May 29, in a speech at Laconia, N.H., McIntyre broke a long silence on the ABM to outline what he termed "a constructive and balanced alternative to a simple Yes or No vote on the administration's proposed Safeguard antiballistic missile system."

McIntyre proposed that "no ABM missiles be deployed at the present time" but that "our research and development testing of radars and computers be continued."

As to the similarity of the proposals, McIntyre aides said the senator had been working gradually towards the idea, and his thoughts crystallized that week.

Though McIntyre and Brooke maintain hope of at least polling a strong minority vote in the 18-member Armed Services Committee, the hard-core ABM opposition outside the committee is very unenthusiastic about their proposal, especially the part about deployment at the two sites, which they contend is no compromise since the missiles wouldn't be ready for deployment next year anyway.

And the word from administration officials is that President Nixon opposes any compromise.

Air Transport Funds Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking note of the nation's clogged airports, President Nixon proposed today a 10-year 5 billion federal aid program to be financed largely by an increased tax on airline tickets and on general aviation fuel.

"The purpose of air transportation is to save time," the President said in a message to Congress.

"This purpose is not served when passengers must wait interminably in terminals; when modern jet aircraft creep at five miles an hour in a long line waiting for takeoff; when it takes longer to land than it takes to travel between cities; or when it takes longer for the air traveler to get into an airport than it does to fly to his destination."

The President proposed that the program for construction of airways facilities and equipment be increased to about $250 million annually for the next 10 years. It contrasts with an average of $93 million appropriated in each of the last 10 years.

Nixon also proposed federal aid for airport development in fiscal 1970 of $180 million and in fiscal 1971 of $220 million "with continued expansion leading to a total of $2½ billion in the next 10 years."

The airport aid funds would be matched 50-50 by state and local governments, so that this strongly increased program will permit financing of $5 billion in new and expanded airport facilities," the President said.

The pograms would be financed from a separate account, similar to the highway trust fund now used to pay for the interstate and other federally aided programs.

The special fund would come from:

—A tax of 8 per cent on airline tickets for domestic flights. This is an increase from the current 5 per cent.

—A tax of $3 on passenger tickets for most international flights beginning in the United States, including Puerto Rico and Hawaii. Such flights are not now taxed.

—A tax of 5 per cent on air freight waybills. There is no such tax now.

—A tax of nine cents a gallon on all fuels used by general aviation. General aviation, which does not include the commercial airlines, now pays two cents a gallon into the highway fund. The nine cents would go into the separate aviation fund.

Sen. McGovern Attacks Appropriations Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern, a leading critic of U.S. Vietnam policy, has attacked a multimillion-dollar appropriation to pay for modernizing South Vietnam's armed forces.

The $308 million appropriation proposal, up for Senate consideration today, would help pay to train and equip South Vietnamese soldiers to take over an increasing share of combat operations now conducted by U.S. forces.

President Nixon cited the need for more and better trained South Vietnamese troops in announcing the withdrawal of 25,000 American fighting men later this summer.

But McGovern, the South Dakota Democrat who failed in a bid for his party's presidential nomination last year, challenged the program.

"We could spend $60 billion and still be no better off without a strong political base," he said. "Half of it will probably wind up in the hands of the Viet Cong."

The modernization item is part of a $4.45 billion catch-all appropriations bill to cover administration requests for the current bookkeeping year, which ends June 30.

All told, the budget for South Vietnamese modernization during that period totaled $526 million. Nixon's budget for the year ahead would provide $651.9 million for modernization efforts.

Brig. Gen. Donnley P. Bolton, deputy director of Army operations, testified April 14 the Vietnamese training program was making gradual but satisfactory progress.

"I think basically the results are showing good progress," he said. "I think we have a long way to go."

Bolton, in testimony made public as the Senate Appropriations Committee approved the money bill, reported that the total U.S. investment in South Vietnamese military modernization is estimated at $6.2 billion through June 30, 1974.

The supplemental appropriations bill totals $4.45 billion—some $67 million more than the House approved.

Denies Ray New Trial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Shelby County Criminal Court Judge Arthur Faquin Jr., today again denied James Earl Ray a new trial.

The action was the latest step in an increasingly complicated effort by Ray to take back a guilty plea he entered March 10 to the slaying of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

J.B. Stoner and Richard Ryan, two of Ray's new lawyers, asked Faquin for permission to go into an appellate court in an attempt to overturn his denial May 26 of a new trial for Ray.

Faquin held that his earlier decision was an interlocutory decree—one that is not finalized —and that defense lawyers should file a bill of exceptions. He gave them 60 days to do this.

'A' Student Admits He's Speedy Reader

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Thomas H. Lagos graduates from Wittenberg University with a straight A average today —one year after his high school graduation.

The 19-year-old who says he was a bit lazy in his final term is one of four seniors to receive summa cum laude honors at Wittenberg's graduation.

Lagos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lagos, will enter the University of Michigan Law School next fall with a full tuition scholarship. He turned down similar offers at the Harvard and Chicago law schools. He began taking college courses after his junior year in high school. As a senior at Shawnee High School he carried a full load of high school and college courses.

By the time Lagos had graduated from high school last spring he had completed 15½ course hours of college work. Wittenberg requires only 36 hours to graduate.

Lagos received about 12 credit hours after successfully completing examinations on courses he did not attend.

This spring, when he admitted he was a bit lazy, Lagos was taking one independent study course in constitutional law, studying for credit by examination in government finance and, "just to keep busy," taking a computer programming course at night. In addition to his regular Wittenberg studies, he also worked fulltime as a researcher for a Springfield firm.

"Tom Lagos is probably the best all-round student I have worked with in more than 20 years of teaching," said Robert P. Schultz, head of the Wittenberg University economics department. "He has a perfect academic average at Wittenberg and has achieved the highest advanced score on the Graduate Records Examination ever made by an economics major at Wittenberg. He has accepted his success with a sense of humility and with continued perseverance."

Lagos denies he has a photographic memory but says he has a high reading speed. He said he usually reads about 750-800 words a minute, but that if he wants to concentrate he reads only about 20 pages an hour.

He said he anticipates completing law school and four years as a Navy lawyer before returning to Springfield to practice law. He says he also wants to enter politics.

Rebuffed Demos Take Cig Battle To Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Democratic congressmen, rebuffed by their committee in an attempt to open the way for stricter federal regulation of cigarette advertising, are taking their fight to the House floor this week despite a slim chance of success.

The two-day battle, pitting impassioned believers in smoking's bad effects against tobacco interests and those who aren't at all convinced cigarettes are dangerous, is scheduled to begin Tuesday. Key votes on at least six amendments won't come until Wednesday.

The rebuffed Democrats, all members of the House Commerce Committee, are Brock Adams of Washington, John E. Moss and Lionel Van Deerlin of California, John D. Dingell of Michigan and Robert O. Tiernan of Rhode Island.

The committee, working on the basic bill passed in 1965, voted to require a stiffer warning on cigarette packages but to extend six years the current bill's provision that no agency can write any other warning rule. The 1965 bill expires at the end of this month.

Its proposed label would read: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health and May Cause Lung Cancer or Other Diseases."

This is stronger than the one now required—"Caution: Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Your Health."

The five House Democrats feel the bill doesn't go far enough. They're going to try again, but face an uphill fight.

As Van Deerlin remarked to the committee, in a play on the words of one cigarette ad, "I for one would rather switch to the floor than fight in the committee any longer."

Their frontal assault on the bill will center around attempts:

—To require that the health warning appear in all forms of advertising and promotional materials as well as on the package.

—To switch the warning from the side to the front or back of the package.

—To remove the pre-emption completely, allowing agencies to act on their own, or to shorten it.

—To allow states which ban the sale of cigarettes to require that a notice to this effect be placed on advertising. All states but Louisiana and Wisconsin prohibit cigarette sales to minors but age limit differs.

—To permit the FCC to prohibit broadcasters from advertising cigarettes at certain times and on programs considered likely to reach an audience under 18 years of age.

Call Big City Police To Talk About Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee probing campus upheavals has called a group of big city police officials to testify on the role played by radical organizations, particularly the Students for a Democratic Society, in the wave of violence that swept the nation's colleges and universities.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, declined to release the names of the police witnesses in advance. "We want to protect their identity," a staff member said.

The Senate panel's initial move into the student disorder field came the same day as a special hearing of the House Education and Labor Committee into a bill aimed at curbing campus unrest through the threatened withdrawal of federal aid.

The measure, sponsored by Oregon Democrat Edith Green but backed by Republican committee members, would require colleges to file plans with the federal government on how they intend to deal with student unrest. Failure to file an acceptable plan would lead to a cutoff of federal aid to the school.

Prior to the Senate panel's hearing, the subcommittee's chief counsel said the organizational makeup of SDS would be exposed as well as how the group was tied to campus outbreaks.

"We will name names, show what makes it go and what they are," Jerome Adlerman said. "We've got quite a bit of police testimony, but much of it comes from our own investigations."

Other groups due for subcommittee scrutiny included the Black Panther party, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Republic of New Africa.

The House bill, which is opposed by some liberal Democrats as well as administration education officials as too stringent, would also extend an existing law, which cuts off federal aid to students who help disrupt a campus, to include veterans on the GI Bill of Rights and students receiving Social Security benefits because of the death or disability of their parents.

Mayor Lindsay Facing Conservative Challenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay must overcome a stiff conservative challenge Tuesday for the Republican nomination for a second term and the right to meet the winner of a five-man Democratic race.

An expected light voter turnout, Lindsay's style and incalculable resentment of four years of inflation and racial tension may provide the keys to the primaries.

There are 628,000 registered Republicans and 2.1 million Democrats, but primaries generally attract less than 30 per cent of the eligible voters.

Lindsay must appeal in the primary to Republicans more conservative than the Liberals and Democrats he must attract to win in the general election in November. He has relied on his personal image and tried not to discuss specific issues.

His opponent, state Sen. John J. Marchi of Staten Island, has tried to capitalize on anti-Lindsay sentiment. Many voters say they like Lindsay as a person but are unhappy with his record as mayor.

Both men will appear on the November ballot, Lindsay with Liberal party backing and Marchi with the Conservative party nomination.

The two men clashed Sunday in a television debate on the state's role in city financing.

Lindsay said New York City is shortchanged by the legislature in Albany, where Marchi heads the Senate Committee on New York City.

Marchi replied, "I think that Mayor Lindsay is attacking Gov. Rockefeller through me. I don't know whether the mayor is looking to November as a springboard to Albany next year or not."

Rockefeller has contributed $18,000 to Lindsay's campaign but has promised to back in the election campaign the winner of the primary. Lindsay has the endorsement of Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Charles Goodell, while Marchi is backed by more conservative state legislators, who Lindsay has termed the "upstate clique."

The Democratic race pits three liberals and a "law and order" candidate against former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who retired in 1965 after three four-year terms.

City Comptroller Mario A. Procaccino has taken a strong stand for law and order. He went to court to force City College to reopen during student disorders. Wagner has relied on nostalgia, a safe streets campaign and his good relations with unions, one of Lindsay's sore spots.

The third Democratic frontrunner, Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo, has charged Procaccino and Wagner with playing on racial fears. A native of Puerto Rico, he has tried to form an alliance of blacks, Puerto Ricans and progressives.

Norman Mailer, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author, has captured peoples' fancy with his proposal for New York City to become the 51st state. But whether he can capture their votes with his unconventional approach remains unclear.

Rep. James H. Scheuer, a wealthy Bronx congressman with a liberal record, has had trouble making inroads outside his home turf.

Badillo and Procaccino have been plagued by a shortage of funds, as Wagner pulled in traditional contributors to the Democratic party.

Brother Of Late Gov. Allred Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Raymond S. Allred, 71, former Texas district attorney and brother of the late Gov. James B. Allred, died late Saturday in a San Antonio hospital. He had had a heart condition for some time.

A native of Bowie and a resident of Odessa for many years, Allred had recently moved to San Antonio where he operated a deposition service for attorneys.

Survivors include the widow, Clara Mae Allred of San Antonio; a daughter, Mrs. John Stacey of San Antonio, a son, Maj. Raymond Allred Jr., who is completing a tour with the U.S. Army Airborne in Vietnam, and four grandchildren.

Allred had five brothers, all of whom served as district attorneys or district judges in Texas. Surviving are Renee Allred Jr. of Bowie, and Oran H. Allred and Ben P. Allred of Fort Worth. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Jeff Christian of Fort Worth.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., who received four appointments under the late govornor and was a close friend of the Allred family said, "I mourn my good and trusted friend, Raymond Allred. I relied heavily upon him in numerous campaigns. He was a sage advisor for progressive government. His good voice for the people will be missed in Texas far more than this state knows."

The senator said, "James B. Allred has been Texas' most progressive governor since World War I and Raymond Allred, his brother, was always for progress."

Funeral services are set for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Porter-Loring Funeral Chapel in San Antonio. Burial will be at San Antonio's Sunset Memorial Park.

Water Rights Filing Deadline Set For Sept. 1

The Texas Water Rights Commission has announced that final notice of the recording deadline under the Water Rights Adjudication Act of 1967 has been given. Everyone who is using water from a public stream who does not claim under a certified filing or a permit from the State must record his claim by Sept. 1, 1969. Users of water for domestic and livestock watering purposes are exempt from this requirement.

Failure to timely record the claim will "extinguish and bar" the claim of water right according to Section 4 of the Adjudication Act. All affected water users who have not already filed their claim are urged by the Commission to do so as soon as possible.

Valid claims will be recognized to the extent of maximum use of water without waste during any year between 1963 and 1967. Where the user was in the process of constructing a system or had facilities to use a larger amount of water on the effective date of the Act than he had actually used, use from 1968 to 1970 may be recognized.

Further information and forms for recording claims under the Water Rights Adjudication Act may be obtained from the Texas Water Rights Commission, P.O. Box 12396, Capitol Station, Austin, Tex 78711.

Deck Officers Strike American-Flag Vessels

NEW YORK (AP) — Deck officers have struck American-flag vessels in East and Gulf Coast ports over a demand that a ship captain's authority be matched by his salary.

"We have asked masters and licensed deck officers to safely secure their vessels as soon as they come into an American port," a spokesman for the International Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots said early today.

The strike of the 11,000-member union began at 12:01 a.m. EDT, when contracts with the Maritime Service Committee, the Tanker Service Committee and the American Maritime Association expired.

The three groups represent about 600 of America's 900 privately-owned freighters, tankers and passenger liners.

It was not immediately clear how many ships were affected. At least a dozen American-flag vessels were struck in the Port of New York. The captain of the port in Philadelphia said there were a dozen freighters and six tankers in or just south of the port. There were six ships tied up in the Port of Houston. Officials in Boston, Baltimore and Miami said they could not assess the impact yet.

In New Orleans, commissioner J.M. McInnis warned Friday that a strike meant Louisiana's oil production would be cut 2 per cent in July.

The talks recessed about 9 p.m. Sunday night. The stumbling block was the union's insistence that captains be guaranteed the highest salary on their ship. Under a new contract gained last year, some chief engineers have earned more, with overtime, than captains, a source of indignation to deck officers.

Federal mediator Robert E. Kennedy said he would try to get management and union negotiators together as soon as possible. No talks were scheduled.

The maritime industry is still reeling from the effects of the three-month strike by the International Longshoremen's Association, the longest and costliest in its history. The strike was settled in April.

Help Sought Against Weeds

Big Spring has a weed problem, and Larry Crow, city manager, is appealing to residents to help the city workmen do something about it.

"We are concerned with areas close to residences or other buildings," Crow said, particularly where the weeds create a fire or health hazard.

"We are asking people to keep the weeds on their property mowed," Crow said. Anyone wishing to contact a private mower can call A.D. Meador, fire marshal, at City Hall.

"The city has no interest in this, other than acting as a clearing house for information to help people get their property mowed," Crow said.

There has been some misunderstanding concerning the city's action on vacant lots, Crow said. "It is a physical impossibility for our two mowers to take care of all the vacant, overgrown lots," he said.

"When we are forced to have city workmen mow private property, the property owner is billed for the work. We are asking property owners to get their own property mowed in fairness to their neighbors and the community," Crow said.

Beast Stolen

SEATTLE (AP)—Mrs. Laura Marlowe's donkey has disappeared.

The beast was stolen, and it wasn't a simple matter of leading the animal away, Mrs. Marlowe told police.

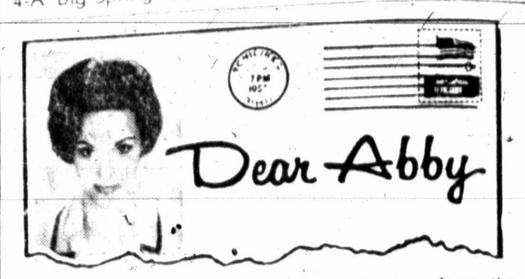

The 100-pound donkey, made of concrete, was part of a front yard display.

SO HE DID SOMETHING

MIAMI BEACH — Jerome Mitchell Hicks wanted to go to jail for doing nothing, but it was nothing doing until he did something.

Police said Hicks asked an officer for a free trip to jail for vagrancy, just as he had last year when he was here and had neither a place to stay or anything to eat.

The officer explained that Florida's vagrancy law had just been declared unconstitutional. So, police said, Hicks decided to test the state's disorderly conduct statute and was awarded 96 hours in the jug — which amounted to 12 meals and four nights in a bed.

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband and feel that he has been very good to me, but one thing is becoming a sore spot. He is a real loser when it comes to my parents.

My parents are quite old and not in very good health. My father was unable to work long before his retirement age. They now get by on a meager Social Security check.

My husband owns a cash and carry grocery store. We are not struggling. The store does very well and we have a much higher than average income, but my husband insists that my parents pay the full retail price for everything. Also, the store doesn't deliver, and although my husband goes within two blocks of their home, he refuses to drop off their groceries. So my poor father has to walk nearly a mile to the store and lug the groceries home himself.

I feel terrible about this. How can I get my husband to change his ways?

PERPLEXED IN POUGHKEEPSIE

DEAR PERPLEXED: Don't waste too much energy trying. Your husband doesn't sound like much of a prize to me, but what excuse has a daughter in better than average circumstances for allowing an elderly parent to lug groceries on foot?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What kind of crazy controversy did you attempt to settle by deciding it was a draw? A 16-year-old girl has a date with a boy she never dated before, and because her father was downstairs in the recreation room watching television she didn't bother to take her date down to meet him. And because maybe the father wasn't shaved, or maybe he had his shoes off, he didn't bother to come upstairs. So who was wrong?

You say, "Who's complaining? If it meant so much to the girl to have her father meet the boy, shame on her for not dragging the boy down there. And if the old man complains because he didn't meet the boy, shame on HIM for not going upstairs."

Well, Abby, shame on YOU! Kids should not expect their parents to come to them. The girl should have gone downstairs with her date and introduced him to her father. At least that's the way it was at our house. And I didn't care whether I had my shoes off, or my tie on straight either.

Today, no matter how bad the father looks, the boys who come to take out their daughters usually look worse. We raised four daughters and my wife used to get so dolled up just to answer the door when one of the girls had a date, I think the boy half expected her to go along.

Me? I never bothered about the way I looked, but the girls would always bring the boys to meet Pop, even if I was out in the shed back of the house in my overalls.

OLD-FASHIONED PAPA

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the 16-year-old girl on her first date with a boy and her father not coming up from the recreation room. Your indecision disappointed me, Abby. The father is at fault. Reasons:

1. The boy is a stranger and (temporarily) a guest. A little gesture of friendliness would help put the boy at ease.
2. Since it's the girl's first date with the boy, any father worthy of the title should want to know something about the young man, even if it's only his appearance.
3. It lets the girl know that her father cares.
4. To go upstairs and meet the boy would show good manners.

I could probably name 50 more reasons why the father was wrong.

One of the biggest problems in the world today is that people are so concerned with themselves that they don't consider the feelings of others. I know. I am on crutches, and every day some idiot cuts in front of me to beat me through a door, and then lets the door slam in my face without even looking back.

Solution? Every day I practice supporting myself on one crutch, so I can one day use the other to trip the culprits. Sign me

Morin, who knew Ike for a quarter of a century, measures the man by the gauge of greatness Ike set up himself.

Ousted Pastor

The Rev. Stephen Cree, author of a book defending freer practice of sex, was dropped from the rolls of the Iowa United Methodist ministry by the church's ruling body. Cree, who was pastor of three small churches, is shown with two of his five daughters, twins Evette, left, and Yvonne, both 4. Iowa United Methodist Bishop James J. Thomas of Des Moines, Iowa, denies Cree was ousted because of the book, but rather for a "general lack of effectiveness."

Foes Seek Reforms In Surtax Measure

WASHNGTON (AP) —Backers of the proposed extension of the 10 per cent income surtax were confident today of victory in the House Ways and Means Committee but had nearly given up hope that congressional action can be completed by the June 30 expiration date.

The Ways and Means Committee, due to act on the bill today, had turned back attempts by critics to modify the extension or tie it to tax reforms.

But the House probably won't take up the measure until next week and the Senate still must hold hearings before voting, which means the chance for beating the expiration deadline has virtually vanished.

But handlers of the bill were reported discussing emergency legislation to keep withholding rates at the surtax level for several weeks while the extension bill, they hope, successfully runs the rest of the legislative course.

However, a group of Democrats who want quick action on tax reforms meanwhile will fight to open up the surtax measure for amendments.

The opponents want reforms incorporated in the bill, or the extension limited to a few months, or both.

As it stands, the measure provides extension of the surcharge at the present 10 per cent rate through Dec. 31, then at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970.

Meanwhile, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said Sunday the surtax extension is necessary to fight the current flash of inflation and the administration is in no mood to compromise on the matter.

Also Sunday, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Congress could get the extension work done before June 30, but he doubted it will do so.

He said, however, he expected a temporary extension would be approved.

Kennedy was interviewed on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation," while Dirksen spoke on ABS's "Issues and Answers."

Incorporated in the extension bill as a "sweetener" is a Nixon proposal for a special low income allowance that would take about two million families off the tax rolls entirely and, in all, give tax relief to some 13 million persons at the low end of the income scale.

Repeal, with some exceptions, of the investment tax credit by which businesses recover 7 per cent of expenditures for equipment, and postponement of reductions in automobile and telephone excise taxes also are in the package.

If Congress does not extend the surtax by June 30 and does not pass stopgap legislation, employers will have to revert to the former scale of withholding income taxes.

Routine Items Win Approval

Howard County Commissioners Court moved through a short agenda today, approving minor items.

The court approved a request from the Big Spring Rodeo Association for the county road department to water down the streets around the rodeo arena before each performance of the annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion June 25-28. The commissioners also approved the installation of a soft drink machine in the county library.

Mrs. Mamie Dodd and Mrs. Robert Knight, co-chairmen of the annual Let Freedom Ring ceremony slated July 4, appeared before the court and requested the use of the memorial plaza on the east side of the courthouse as a setting for the program. The women were dressed in colonial costumes.

Mrs. Dodd explained the program, which will include the reading of the Declaration of Independence at 6:45 p.m July 4, and the ringing of bells throughout the town from 7 to 7:04 p.m. Commissioners granted the request of using the plaza.

Fight Leaves Five Wounded

MURPHY, Mo. (AP) — A sheriff and his deputies, with only seven minutes to save four lives, charged a rural house near here Sunday where a man said he was ready to shoot himself and his three sons.

The ensuing gunfight left five persons wounded, including the sheriff and two deputies. The father and one son suffered slight wounds. The other boys escaped unhurt, officers said.

"I don't know if I did the right thing," 43-year-old Jefferson County Sheriff Walter Buerger said, "but I figure we saved four lives. I just hope Deputy Myers will be all right."

William Myers, 53, was one of a small group of deputies who charged the front door of the home of Anthony Comia, 39, while other deputies and a group of highway patrolmen fired tear gas into the house from another location.

Myers was wounded in the spine, liver and stomach, and officers said a surgeon at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Kirkwood told them Myers faced permanent paralysis.

Buerger said he was hit by a richocheting bullet. Deputy Irvin Ferguson, 43, was treated for a superficial wound and released.

Comia and a 13-year-old son, Boniface, were also treated and released from the hospital. Comia's wife called the sheriff's office shortly before 4 p.m. and said her husband told her he would kill himself and his sons at 4.

"They got hold of me," said Buerger. "I called the man three times, trying to talk him out of it. He hung up on me each time. It had something to do with domestic problems . . .

"He told me it was wasting his and my time and that he was going to shoot himself and his boys in seven minutes, at 4 p.m." the sheriff said. "That apparently was the deadline."

The sheriff tried again to talk Comia out of violence at his home.

Calls Education Key To Future

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Continuing education is the key to the full life of the future," Sen. Ralph W. Yarborouuh, D-Tex., said today at the 18th conference of the Future Business Leaders of America.

In his prepared speech, the senator said, "education is not fixed or settled.

"If a college graduate of today stops without continuing his education, the high school graduate of today who continues to study at home or in short courses will soon pass the college graduate," he said.

Mexia Man Is Indicted

DALLAS (AP) — The grand jury indicted Carlos Don Stultz today in the 1968 knife slaying of Karen An Kubat, 11, of Grand Prairie.

Stultz was indicted Friday in Groesbeck for the stabbing murder and rape of Kathy Jones, 17, a baton twirler at Mexia High School.

The Mexia man is being held in jail at Groesbeck.

Stultz was also indicted in Dallas in the burglary of a Grand Prairie home.

The Kubat girl was killed last Aug. 20 at her father's home.

The burlary indictment alleges that Stultz broke into the Grand Prairie home of Barbara Collier, taking $62 and a bayonet. Grand Prairie officers said the bayonet was the weapon used in the Kubat slaying.

HONOLULU (AP) — The Marines paid homage Sunday to comrades who lost their lives in the bloody battle of Saipan 25 years ago.

The Marine Corps commemorated the anniversary in special ceremonies at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific here.

It was June 16, 1944, that the 2nd and 4th Marine Divisions hit the beaches of the South Pacific island.

The Army's 27th Division landed the next day.

New Cars Age Fast

A line of wrecked cars marks the path of a bulldozer through a new car lot in Milwaukee Sunday. Police said an unidentified person apparently took the bulldozer from a nearby tractor plant, drove it over the cars, abandoned the machine and fled. The damage to 14 cars, also including a lamp pole that was knocked down, was estimated at more than $25,000.

Missionaries Calling For 'De-Zionization'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A group of American missionaries called today for the "de-Zionization" of Israel and the creation of a Palestine state in which Jews and Arabs would have equal rights.

The alternative, the Christian missionaries said, is "implacable hatred, vindictive contempt and endless rounds of indecisive little slaughters."

In a letter addressed to "fellow Christians," 37 missionaries proposed a solution by which Israeli Jews and Palestinian Arabs could work out a "common political and cultural destiny for the land of Palestine."

"According to such a plan, a new Palestine would emerge in place of the present state of Israel, which is committed to remaining strictly Jewish," the missionaries declared.

"We therefore offer for your informed reflection the possibility of a pluralistic and cooperative settlement of the present agonies of the Middle East."

The missionaries, ranging from a Roman Catholic priest to several Southern Baptists, urged Christians to work for a "difficult reconciliation between bitter enemies," rather than "never-ending rounds of warfare between an ethnically myopic state and its implacably hostile neighbors."

In another development, Syria claimed the United States is demanding that the Arabs call off their economic and guerrilla war on Israel as a condition for a Middle East settlement.

The official Syrian news agency, Sana, said the U.S. demands were made at the Big Four talks in New York and were added to an American action paper submitted March 30.

Sana's report mentioned no source for the story.

Dispatches from Amman and Tel Aviv reported new fighting along the Jordan-Israel cease-fire line.

A Jordanian spokesman in Amman said two Israeli half-track vehicles were destroyed in a 90-minute clash across the Jordan River at Prince Abdullah Bridge, six miles north of the Dead Sea. He said machine guns, tanks and field artillery came into play. There were no casualties on the Jordanian side, the spokesman said.

He said that Israeli and Jordanian forces earlier exchanged machine-gun and mortar fire in the Minisha area of the northern Jordan Valley.

In Tel Aviv, an army spokesman said artillery rumbled across the Jordan River intermittently for almost four hours near the Prince Abdullah Bridge. He reported no Israeli casualties but said one Israeli soldier was wounded in an exchange of fire earlier near Sha'Ar Hagolan, also on the Jordan River.

The fighting was not far from the point where Arabs cross into Israeli-held Jordanian territory to visit relatives, the spokesman said.

Seniors Face Prison Terms

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Three Garland High School seniors whom police say painted "SRS '69" on that city's water tower face prison terms up to 20 years.

The grand jury indicted the three today on charges of destruction of public property. Conviction could bring a prison term of from two to 20 years.

The indictments named Stephen Andrew Davis, Carl Henry Noska and Steven Warren, all 18. Police said the signs were painted the night the three graduated from Garland High, in a Dallas suburb.

Don Ward, the city water superintendent, said it would cost $1,500 to clean the tower.

'The New Act Of Sex' Book Nets Ouster?

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A pastor of the United Methodist Church whose book defends freer practice of the sex act has been ousted from the ministry.

The Rev. Stephen Cree of Montrose, Iowa, wrote recently in a book called "The New Act of Sex" that "sex with dependable contraception is a morally new and different act to which Biblical prohibitions against adultery do not necessarily apply."

The official conference of the church, in a closed session last week, voted to drop Cree from the ministerial rolls.

"They are trying to paddle me publicly while avoiding publicity," said Cree, who is married and the father of five daughters ranging in age from 4 to 10.

Bishop James S. Thomas, head of the Iowa conference of the church, said Sunday that Cree "clearly overlooks the church position on marriage and family life."

Denying that the views expressed in the book were the primary reason Cree was suspended from the ministry, the bishop said the pastor had shown a "general lack of effectiveness."

Cree wrote his book in collaboration with Miss Karen Manning, a school teacher of Bettendorf, Iowa.

Chief Of AMA Denies Charges

DALLAS (AP) — Texas doctors have not abused the federal medicaid program the head of the Texas Medical Association said Sunday.

Dr. Charles Max Cole of Dallas said in a statement that many doctors sign claims for groups of physicians, thus making it appear that they are receiving inordinate sums for their services.

It was reported last week that 45 Texas doctors and clinics are under investigation for possible abuse of the medicaid program.

The U.S. Senate Finance Committee is making a broader probe, and has been promised the cooperation of state Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney.

Hackney said the 45 physicians and clinics each received $25,000 or more in 1968 in medicaid payments.

Cauley Elected To Attend Boys Nation In July

Lynn Cauley, son of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Cauley, 524 Scott, was elected Friday to represent Texas at Boys Nation July 18-25 in Washington, D.C.

Cauley, 16-year-old Big Spring High School senior, was elected as a delegate while at Boys State in Austin, along with Ed Collins, Del Valle, Boys State governor.

He was a Big Spring delegate to the state meeting with Gary Hines, Gary Hughes and Joe Moss. Cauley is president of the student body at Big Spring High School, the National Honor Society and West Texas Association of Student Councils. He was also best all-around student at the school last year and among Who's Who at Big Spring High School.

Col. Muldrow To Be In Charge

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Brig. Gen. John G. Appel, commanding general of the Deseret Test Center for more than two years, has been transferred to Washington.

Army officials said Saturday he will be director of plans in the office of the deputy Army chief of staff for logistics.

Col. Robert Muldrow, deputy commander, will be in charge until a successor is named.

The test center coordinates all of the military services' interests in chemical and biological warfare.

Basic Decisions Pinpointed By Burleson For Convention

To get off the treadmill of repeating the mistakes of history, America must make some basic decisions soon, and one of these is whether to deploy the Antiballistic Missile System, Congressman Omar Burleson told the Texas Lions convention breakfast gathering Sunday morning.

Rep. Burleson has come out slugging for the ABM.

"We cannot be wrong about this," the congressman said. "There are those who would take the Soviets' word that they will love us for our weakness. Unless we are strong — equally strong with any power — we will be taking chances we cannot afford to take."

He conceded that there is disagreement about the ABM ("even the experts disagree") but charged that opponents "are not only arguing against deployment but are attacking our entire defense system."

Russia, he said, was the first nation to develop and deploy an ABM system, was the first and only to develop a 60-megaton bomb, and it is Russia who has the greatest number of missiles on pad of any nation.

"Unilateral disarmament could be suicidal; it could mean whether or not we survive," said Rep. Burleson.

Another basic decision, he added, was that on whether government can provide total security and freedom, too.

"The only real security in the world," he said, "is the opportunity to do something for ourselves. We just can't turn over to government everything, for the planners eventually will dictate how we live. The choice is clear and real."

He said he was convinced the majority of the nation feels this way, and that "if we make our voices heard, the moral fibre of our country can be held together."

David A. Evans, president of Lions International made additional presentations for outstanding service, recognizing Milton E. Laurie, Kress, Verschel H. Smith, Grandfalls, M. E. Carothers, Anson, Lloyd Chapman, Fort Worth, Joy C. Harris, Elkhart, Gordon R. Smith, Corpus Christi, B. L. (Ned) Brandt, Houston, Dexter Anderson, Eagle Lake, Bill Wales, Refugio. All are District governors.

Don Taylor, Plainview, J. W. White, Dallas, Oran T. Donaldson, Daingerfield, Conner Scott, Brownwood, Jame Ward, San Antonio, and Otto Smith Jr., Lufkin, had been recognized Saturday evening.

Lions Button Up Meeting With Governors Council

District 2A-1 and Texas Lions buttoned up their 1969 gathering here Sunday with a meeting of the council of the 15 governors of Lions districts in Texas.

More than 450 were on hand for the three-day meeting to hear an unusual array of speakers headed by David A. Evans, president of Lions International, Noshir Pundole, of Bombay, India, a candidate for third vice president of the International, and Dr. Robert A. McCullough, Tulsa, Okla., who a year hence is scheduled to be president of International. Dr. McCullough, because of a transportation schedule, could not address the closing luncheon Sunday noon. Eddie Munger, Houston, president of the Texas Lions League of Crippled Children, reported on the camp which Lions operate each summer for crippled children.

The Lions Past District Governors Association of Texas also held its meeting at the time the Council of Governors was in session, and Don Buckalew, Conroe, was named president. Other officers included Marion B. Snyder, Dallas, vice president; Roy E. Carter, Kermit, secretary-treasurer; and J. B. Woolridge, Anahuac, tailtwister.

Joe Pond, general chairman of the convention, expressed thanks to all who had a part in entertaining the convention. He said that many, even outside of Lions Clubs, had gone out of their way to be helpful to convention delegates.

Thai Troops Kill 181 Cong In Six-Hour Fight

SAIGON (AP) — Thai infantrymen backed by withering fire from U.S. dive bombers, helicopters and artillery battled a 500-man Viet Cong force early today 20 miles east of Saigon. Military spokesmen said they killed 212 enemy in six hours while suffering only six Thais killed and seven wounded.

No American casualties were reported. Spokesmen said it was the biggest battle Thai troops have fought since they arrived in Vietnam in September 1967.

Associated Press correspondent Jay Sharbutt reported from the battleground the Viet Cong swarmed out of rubber plantations against the artillery base of the Black Panther Division under cover of a heavy mortar barrage shortly after midnight.

He said they launched three separate assaults with machine guns, bazooka-type rockets and hand grenades, but were beaten back each time by the 300 Thai defenders and American firepower. U.S. Air Force dive bombers and Army helicopter gunships strafed the enemy with rockets and machine guns while American artillery units raked them from nearby bases.

"That broke the ground attack," said one American officer.

But the Viet Cong—identified as troops of the 274th Regiment of the Viet Cong's 5th Division—continued to harass the base with mortar and small arms fire until daylight, spokesmen added. When they withdrew the Thais found more than 600 mortar shells, rocket - propelled grenades that the enemy never got a chance to use.

During the battle a $300,000 U.S. Army Cobra helicopter gunship was hit by enemy .50-caliber machine gun bullets but made it safely back to the Thai base.

The attack followed stepped up Viet Cong thrusts against U.S. and South Vietnamese bases in War Zone D, where the Viet Cong's 5th Division is based. On March 16 the enemy division lost 168 men killed trying to overrun the same Black Panther Thai unit.

Three prisoners were captured but two died of wounds. The other was being interrogated, spokesmen said.

In earlier fighting Sunday, U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops claimed they killed 40 enemy in a battle 30 miles northwest of Saigon. One American was killed and 13 wounded.

U.S. headquarters reported 32 overnight rocket and mortar attacks, but said only 11 of them caused casualties or damage.

Headquarters also reported enemy gunners shot down and destroyed an Army Cobra gunship Sunday in Long Khanh province, 50 miles east of Saigon, wounding one American. It raised to 2,750 the number of U.S. helicopters lost in the war.

In the far north along the Laotian border, North Vietnamese sappers attacked an American paratrooper artillery base in the A Shau Valley for the second day in a row Sunday. The enemy lost 51 killed while wounding only seven Americans.

The earlier attack Saturday wounded Col. Joseph B. Conmy, the U.S. brigade commander who directed last month's controversial assault on Ap Bia Mountain. Conmy was hit in the face and knee by several small shell fragments. He was reported in good condition aboard a hospital ship.

Eleven paratroopers were killed and 46 wounded in the Saturday attack. Enemy losses were 32 killed.

The weekend attacks were the third and fourth by sappers in recent weeks in the A Shau Valley. Sappers, mainly volunteers, are demolition experts. Their mission is to penetrate defenses, inflict as many American casualties as possible and destroy equipment and bunkers.

In a report on the progress of the pacification program Sunday, U.S. officials said a record 84.2 per cent of South Vietnam's 17.2 million people are "relatively secure" from enemy control.

The evaluation system showed 134,100 persons were brought under government control during May. This means that 14.5 million of the total population is now considered "within government security" and the remaining 2.7 million persons live in contested or Viet Cong areas.

The Pentagon also said the pullback would include a Navy contingent. The U.S. Command said it would total 1,200 men to be drawn from the Mobile Riverine Force operating in the Mekong Delta and from sailors supporting Marine units in the North.

The return of 2,000 reservists will leave about 10,000 National Guardsmen and reservists sent to Vietnam last August. They were mobilized after the enemy Tet offensive and the North Korean seizure of the spy ship Pueblo.

Three Hurt In Accident

A mother and her two young children were hospitalized and their small car was demolished in a one vehicle accident 7.6 miles northwest of Big Spring early today.

Injured in the accident were Mrs. Linda Free Bedwell, 26, Knott; Billy Bedwell, 4; and Mike Bedwell, 19 months. Billy suffered painful facial cuts and was believed the more seriously injured of the three.

Highway patrol officers, who investigated the incident, said it occurred at 7:30 a.m. Mrs. Bedwell was driving her compact car and the two children were in the back seat. She told officers she glanced back to see what the youngsters were doing. She lost control of the car and it left the road, crashed into a culvert and finally turned over twice.

Mrs. Bedwell extricated herself and her children from the wreckage. She picked up the two children and began walking in search of help. About three or four hundred yards down the road, she was met by a county highway vehicle which brought her to the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the local observance and has arranged for Dr. John Bradley of the Texas Tech staff to speak.

The meeting will be at the Settles Hotel at noon.

It's A Family War

A Montagnard soldier holds his wife's hand as they wait to board a U.S. cargo plane that will fly them to a military hospital in Chu Lai, South Vietnam. They were wounded while riding a scooter which hit a mine on a road near Duc Pho, about 95 miles southeast of Da Nang.

Practices Flights In Lunar Landing Training Vehicle

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Neil Armstrong, scheduled to be the first man to set foot on the moon, went through five practice flights in the lunar landing training vehicle (LLVH) over the weekend and was scheduled for two more Monday morning.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the flights, two Saturday and three Sunday, were completed in a very successful manner.

Each of the flights lasted from three to five minutes. The fifth flight, on Sunday, reached an altitude of 350 feet. All mission objectives were accomplished during the flight, a spokesman said.

The training flights in progress are not absolutely essential to the planned flight of Apollo 11 on July 16, but are "very desirable," NASA said.

Armstrong flew simulated lunar landings in an earlier version of the LLTV before he had to parachute from one of the falling trainers last May 6. He was not injured. After the accident, the wierd-looking flying machine underwent a test program to requalify it.

Capt. James Lovell, the Apollo 11 backup commander, will train on the LLTV before the Apollo 11 launch.

The LLTV is designed to train astronauts in landing on the moon where gravity is one-sixth that on the earth.

Cairo Warehouse Destroyed By Fire

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — A large warehouse was destroyed by fire in racially-tense Cairo early today and firemen said they were driven away from the burning building by sniper fire at least twice.

The fire apparently was started by a bomb, police radio said. The police radio reported at least 10 other firebombings but fire officials said they turned out to be false alarms.

Police returned fire in the direction of the sniping. The gunshots came from a site near the Pyramid Court public housing complex. The mostly-Negro complex was a focus of violence that brought National Guard troops into Cairo for a week in April.

A detachment of state troopers was called into the city from nearby DuQuoin.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in Centralia reported cables had apparently been burned near Cairo and outgoing calls had been interrupted.

It was not learned immediately if there were any injuries.

Police Chief William Peterson ordered all taverns closed. Police said they would not comment on the situation immediately.

However, one officer said in response to a question there had been no arrests.

The warehouse was identified as belonging to the Elias Discount Store chain.

Cairo Negroes have been staging a boycott against downtown merchants. Negro and white observers pointed out today that the boycott has not been directed against the Elias store, located in the uptown neighborhood.

FIND SKULL IN CHIMNEY

POMONA, Kan. (AP) — Residents of this little eastern Kansas town have something more exciting than the weather and crops to talk about these days.

For instance, that human skull found in Joe Driver's chimney.

Driver moved out of his family's 10-year-old farm home a year ago after building a new residence nearby.

The other day workmen began tearing down the old house. Inside the base of a brick chimney was a human skull. There were no other bones.

A physician was asked to examine the skull to see if its age or anything else about it could be determined.

WHILE OVERCROWDED URBAN HOSPITALS PLEAD FOR MORE FEDERAL MONEY

150 Hospitals Standing Half Empty In Rural Areas

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 150 hospitals built or expanded with federal aid are standing half-empty in the nation's rural areas while overcrowded urban hospitals plead for more money.

One large city hospital, built in 1894 and openly branded as a firetrap by officials, has had to wait five years for federal aid.

A small mountain town in the same state got a new hospital promptly even though its old one was two-thirds empty.

A fresh fight is boiling up in the Senate to try to chop the rural favoritism out of the Hill-Burton aid program and channel more cash into the outdated, overcrowded hospitals of America's major cities. But the House has already voted against such a shift.

BIG WASTE?

Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., a doctor, has called many half-empty rural hospitals a waste. He said both politics and provincialism have played a role in passing out the federal aid.

An Associated Press examination of the hospital aid program found examples like these:

—Soda Springs, Idaho, got $800,000 to help build a new and bigger Caribou County Hospital to replace an old one that was only one-third full. The new hospital, which opened in March, remains half-empty.

—In Boise, Idaho, aging St. Alphonsus Hospital, the most crowded in the state, was turned down four times for federal aid even though the danger of a disastrous fire is so great that officials keep extending its license only a few weeks at a time.

—Bay Minette, Ala., has just received federal aid to build a $1.5 million hospital even though there are two other hospitals in the same rural county, the nearby city of Mobile has five major hospitals, and another million-dollar hospital was built with federal aid three years ago at Atmore, only 20 miles away.

—At Pineville, La., the federal government has just spent $1.1 million in a major remodeling of the half-empty Huey P. Long Charity Hospital. The facility exists for poor patients from nine parishes, or counties, in Louisiana where, the superintendent said, many hospitals refuse to admit needy patients who can't pay their bills.

MANY REASONS

—Scores of other rural hospitals built under the Hill-Burton program in towns like Romney, W. Va., Union Springs, Ala., and Durant, Miss., remain half-empty for an array of reasons. Even some doctors in the hospitals choose to go elsewhere when they get sick.

—No federal aid has been spent in the last 20 years to enlarge or improve New York's crowded Harlem Hospital in one of the poorest ghettos in the nation's largest city. Harlem is getting a new 777-bed hospital soon, but all the money is coming from state and local funds.

A total of 173 hospitals which have received $50 million in Hill-Burton aid over the past two decades are listed as half-empty or worse in the latest available American Hospital Association figures on occupancy rates. All but a handful are in rural areas.

The occupancy statistics had to be taken from the AHA's 1968 "Hospitals" guide because Hill-Burton officials in Washington don't keep track of whether the facilities they build are filled.

The Hill-Burton program feeds federal aid to the states which, in turn, pass out the money to hospitals to pay anywhere from one-third to more than half of construction or expansion costs.

FOUR TIMES

The law favors the rural areas with an aid formula that squares the low-income level for a state. This means a rural state twice as poor as New York will get four times as much money per person.

Shootings In Texas Claim Seven Lives

By The Associated Press

The weekend death count in Texas from varied forms of violence stood at 34 at midnight Sunday. Of those fatalities, 16 were attributed to traffic accidents.

Drownings took nine lives, shootings seven and miscellaneous violence two.

The Associated Press began the count at 6 p.m. Friday.

William Moore Jr., 6, of Houston drowned Sunday at Galveston's East Beach when he was caught in an undertow. His father, William Moore Sr., told police he noticed the boy floating face down in the water and carried him ashore.

Mrs. Karen Necker, 29, of Houston was killed and six other persons injured late Saturday night when her car was struck from behind by another vehicle, police said. The injured included her husband, Gerald, 33, and the couple's two children, James, 9, and Denise, 7. The accident occurred on IH 45, about 4 miles north of Conroe.

Renne Griffin, 7, of Beaumont drowned Sunday at McFaddin Beach near Port Arthur. Authorities said the girl fell from an innertube on which she had been riding.

Arron Ramsey, 54, was shot to death Sunday at the home of relatives in Houston. Police said the shooting apparently climaxed a family argument.

Three persons drowned in flash floods in West Texas late Friday night. A veteran drag racer was killed Sunday in an accident at Dallas International Motor Speedway. And a family of four was wiped out in a collision of their car and a gravel truck at Decatur.

DEEP SHOCK

Killed in the speedway accident near Dallas was Gerry Schwartz, 25, of Fort Wayne, Ind. Schwartz' car struck a vehicle drive by Pat Foster, 28, of Long Beach, Calif., when Foster's car spun out of control as both cars hit 150 mph or more. Foster was in deep shock after the accident.

Mrs. Loreen Dean, 49, and her daughter, Paula Dean, 13, were killed late Saturday night when their car and a gravel truck crashed together at a Decatur highway intersection. Lester Dean, 55, the father and husband, died shortly after reaching a Fort Worth hospital. And the youngest member of the family, Marty Dean, 6, died Sunday morning.

Floods that swept scattered sections of the South Plains late Friday night killed Archie Copeland, 69, of Lubbock while he was trapped in his car south of Anton. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sevier of Littlefield were found drowned in their car Saturday morning on FM 303 about 15 miles west of Littlefield.

VALLEY SMASH

Three persons were killed in a two-car collision south of Benevitas in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Saturday night. They were Jose Martinez, 23, Hebbronville; Royel Martinez, Hebbronville and John Mrazek, 74, Robstown. The accident occurred on Texas 359.

Javier Trevino, 14, of San Antonio drowned Saturday near the John F. Kennedy Causeway at Corpus Christi.

Two persons were killed and a third injured Saturday night in the collision of a car and a pickup truck at the intersection of FM 1847 and FM 802 near Brownsville. The dead were identified as Manuel Hinojosa, 33, and Allyne Stephenson, 30, both of Brownsville. The pickup driver was reported in good condition in a Brownsville hospital.

Hugo A. Rivera, 11, was killed Saturday when he was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle on a street in McAllen.

Petronelli Castenada was shot to death early Sunday in a Fort Wroth lounge. Police, who hunted the killer, said they believed the dead man was a resident of Fort Worth.

Thomas Garza, 27, of Dallas was shot to death near downtown Dallas late Saturday night. Dallas police said they believed another shooting in which a man was critically wounded less than a block away may have been connected with the Garza shooting.

Barbara Chambers, 27, of Grapevine was killed Sunday when a car spun out of control and crashed into a fence in Fort Worth. Police said the driver suffered only minor injuries.

J. D. Wellman, 46, of Fort Worth was killed Sunday when a fire of undetermined origin swept his garage apartment. Firemen placed the property loss at about $1,500.

South Plains Ag Leaders To Discuss Economics

LUBBOCK — Agricultural leaders and agribusinessmen from 19 South Plains counties will gather here Thursday to discuss and formulate plans to boost the economic development of the area.

Purpose of the meeting is to revitalize unified efforts of the South Plains Development (SPD) Program which was launched about two years ago. Officers and an executive committee will be elected.

The 2½-hour session will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Plains Co-op Oil Mill, announced Billy C. Gunter, District 2 Agricultural Extension Service agent.

"Areas of emphasis for economic growth and development of the area will be discussed," Gunter said. "These will include increased livestock production, producing cotton for the market and reducing cost of production, South Plains agricultural economy past, present and future, and future of irrigated farming of the South Plains."

Featured speakers will be Dr. H. O. Kunkel, dean of agriculture at Texas A&M University and acting director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; John Hutchison, director of the Extension Service; Dr. Lowell Schake, Extension area livestock specialist; Dr. Robert Metzer, Extension area agronomist; Dr. James E. Osborn, associate professor of agricutural economics, Texas Tech; and Billy Wayne Clayton, state representative and executive director of Water, Inc.

The 19 counties participating in SPD are Bailey, Lamb, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin, Howard and Midland. County Program Building Committees in each of these counties have played important roles in the program and will be instrumental in its future success.

"The South Plains has a tremendous potential for economic development, both for agriculture and related industries," Gunter pointed out. "A lot of hard work and some creative thinking are needed to exploit the area's resources to the fullest."

Pen Pals Plan Texas Wedding

HOUSTON (AP) — When J. Albert Martinez, 20, of San Antonio arrived in Vietnam back in March of 1968, he was just another lonely soldier over there doing his job.

The day he arrived in Cam Ranh Bay, he went to a USO center to kill some time. That's when he noticed a letter on the bulletin board from Jo Ann Padgett of Houston, asking for a pen pal.

He wrote, telling all about himself. She did the same. One letter followed another, until during his year of combat, he had sent Jo Ann 103 letters. She answered every one.

He only skipped writing a week or so twice, both times after he had been in combat and wondered if he would return.

By the time letter No. 50 came along, the couple were going steady.

Jo Ann invited him to her senior prom and he made it home just in time to accept.

They liked each other on sight as much as they did in their letters. Jo Ann is "a little heavier" than Albert expected and "Albert smokes."

Now Albert has a job as a sheet metal worker's helper in Houston. He's already asked the boss to have July 11 off . . . Something about a wedding he's got to go to.

Rockefeller Leaves Today On Third Leg Of Mission

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller took off today on the third leg of his trouble-plagued presidential mission to Latin America. His party left by charter plane from Kennedy Airport on a nine-hour, nonstop flight.

His initial destination was Brasilia, Brazil's modern capital set in its backwodsinteirro. tal set in its backwoods interior. Hostile demonstrations in Brazil and Uruguay have been promised by opponents of Rockefeller's fact-finding tour.

His three-day visit to Brazil, Latin America's largest and most populous country, will be his longest stay in any one nation on this tour.

Since Rockefeller began his fact-finding mission for President Nixon in Mexico City May 11, his tour has aroused protest demonstrations and violence that left at least three dead and scores wounded.

Peru, Venezuela and Chile asked him to postpone or cancel his stop there. Because of threatened violence, his call on Bolivia was reduced to a two-hour airport stop.

The value of a "blitz-type" tour and the wisdom of continuing it amid such hostility has been questioned by leading businessmen and newspapers in many Latin American countries and also in the United States.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) described the mission last week as a "farce" that should be ended.

But Rockefeller defends it as useful. He has said that to stop the mission now "would be a victory for the enemies of the people of Latin America."

Knots of youths attacked two U.S.-controlled banks in Rio de Janeiro and the U.S. Information Agency's office last week. "Rockefeller Out" signs sprouted in the streets of Rio and Sao Paulo.

In Uruguay, the nation's largest labor union has threatened strikes and demonstrations unless Rockefeller cancels his visit scheduled after a stop in Paraguay.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J ♡KJ93 ◇KJ76 ♣J976
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 NT	2 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—The recommended bid is three spades. You have sufficient high card strength to justify contracting for game in no trump. In other words, 10 points. But it is possible that the hand might play better at a heart contract. Your problem, therefore, is to determine whether North, your partner, has four hearts. Obviously the two club convention is no longer available to you. So, the manner of circumventing this obstacle is by making an imaginary cue bid in spades. If partner has four hearts, he should bid that suit. If not, he should go on to three no trump.

Q. 2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 102 ♡8643 ◇A852 ♣943
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Dble.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—When partner makes a take-out double, after you have passed him out, it is a drastic step. You should, therefore, bid one more heart than is necessary; that is, three hearts. This cannot be misinterpreted by partner, who knows that you cannot have six points.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQJ975 ♡AK7 ◇975 ♣A
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. You can rely on winning eight tricks in your own hand.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A2 ♡Q53 ◇KQ1076 2 ♣K3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	Pass	1 ♡

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. With a partner who has denied a holding of six points, little is to be gained by competing and there is a distinct risk in bidding even for eight tricks.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ5 ♡10643 ◇AK973 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	3 ◇	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Your hand is a rock-bottom minimum and, if this is all your partner needs to produce a game, he should have made a bid which was forcing, not merely one which was invitational.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A62 ♡92 ◇AQ84 ♣KQ86
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	1 ♠	3 ◇	3 ♡

What do you bid now?

A.—There may be a very good chance for a no trump game if partner happens to have a heart stopper. The practical way to probe for this feature is by a bid of three spades, showing control of this suit. If partner tries three no trump, you may relax. If he fails to do so, you will then go on and contract for a game in diamonds.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, and as South, you hold:
♠AJ ♡5 ◇AJ85432 ♣Q95
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♡	3 ♠	?

What do you bid?

A.—If you try four diamonds, you may miss the opportunity to play for a nine trick game. If partner has good enough diamonds, you should be safe enough at three no trump, which bid we would risk. If it should be greeted with a resounding double, the option still remains to run to four diamonds.

Q. 8—You are South, vulnerable, and you hold:
♠QJ3 ♡Q853 ◇K ♣KJ1042
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ◇

What do you bid now?

A.—There is no action that you can take at this point with reasonable safety. Remember that partner's bid of two diamonds did not advertise any great amount of strength. If partner held a strong hand, he would double in preference to reopening the bidding with two diamonds. It is discreet, therefore, to pass and let nature take its course.

No Immediate Walkout Sign At Dow Firm

ANGLETON, Tex. (AP) — Dow Chemical, Ethyl Dow and 10 unions continued talking into the early morning hours—past the midnight deadline—in trying to reach a contract settlement.

There was no immediate sign of a walkout.

Two federal mediators, Willis H. Ray and James Chandler of Houston, are in the bargaining session trying to prevent the 3,900 workers from leaving their jobs at the Freeport plants.

The negotiations involve separate contracts between Dow Chemical, and the operating engineers, electrical workers, machinists, carpenters, painters, bricklayers, asbestos workers, boiler makers and pipefitters.

The talks also involve separate contracts between Ethyl Dow and the same unions, along with the Teamsters Union.

The Operating Engineers Union represents 2,600 workers, the largest unit of workers under one contract in the negotiations.

Unsolved issues holding up negotiations include rules, seniority, wages, and overtime scheduling.

Foundations' Good Works

Considerable justified pressure is on Congress to regulate philanthropic foundations, some now giant institutions, back into line with the public-interest purposes on which their tax exemption is based. And the House Ways and Means Committee is working on proposals for doing this, with a tentative plan recently publicized.

For the most part, the committee is properly concerned with abuse of the tax exemption, either for tax avoidance or the promotion of special interests rather than matters of public interest. But at least two proposed restrictions appear to reflect partisan or other special-interest retaliation sentiment.

First there is the suggested prohibition on foundations "to directly or indirectly engage in any activities intended to influence the outcome of any elections or to influence the decision of any governmental body." Would not this end foundation aid to voter registration drives and to education for democratic participation? Would it prevent such contributions as the Carnegie Corporation's financing of research into communications policy, the Ford Foundation's aid to population-control studies, other foundations' spending on other research and analysis projects whose findings might (hopefully) influence public policy?

Then there is the committee's proposed denial of foundations' "right to make grants directly to individuals for purpose of travel, study or for other similar purposes." This proposed restriction would end such things as the Guggenheim Foundation's rewarding grants to writers and artists for creative work. Foundation's grants to individuals have, through the years, contributed immeasureably to nourishing talent and improving the quality of American civilization. Should all this end?

Society should control, rather than be controlled by, big foundations, and the same may be said for big labor, big business, big government, or any other concentration of power and influence. But we are a big people in a big country, and should be able to accomplish that without crippling the capacity of any such concentrations for doing good.

A Hopeful Idea

The need for population-control programs, most urgent where the population growth rate already threatens famine, no longer can be rationally denied. The prospect that the earth's population will double to seven billion in the next 30 years has frightful implications.

But what the United States can do unilaterally about this problem is severely limited by powerful nationalistic feelings. And what the more endangered underdeveloped nations can do for themselves is limited both by their resources and their internal politics. These obstacles largely shift hope for constructive results to international agencies.

Consequently, greatly welcome was the World Bank's decision, under the leadership of President Robert S. McNamara, to expand outlays for population-control programs from $1½ million a year to $100 million. Funds of that dimension make feasible a recent proposal by the United Nations Association of the United States.

After an unusually thorough study of worldwide population problems and the obstacles to their solution, the association recommends that the U.N. create a commissioner for population with adequate staff to coordinate the population-control programs of various U.N. specialized agencies. This office would also serve as a clearinghouse and supervisory agency for funds from member governments and private sources. It is a hopeful idea in a field where any hope should be carefully nourished.

Tourist Boom

Mexicans Know Dollar Goes Long Way

By ELOY O. AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico plans to invest heavily in the next five years feathering the nest of the hen that lays the golden eggs — tourism.

This country, which gets an average of $1.2 billion through tourism annually, will be the first Latin American nation to receive a large loan from the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank for a long-range tourist program.

The $100 million loan will help generate an almost equal investment by private enterprise.

THE PROGRAM is aimed at making more accessible to tourists two large regions with plenty of potential: The northwest Pacific coast and the Maya Route, including the state of Ycatan and parts of Chiapas, Campeche, Veracruz and Tabasco.

"We cannot afford to throw money away," says Diego Lopez Rosado, director of the planning office of the Tourism Department. "But we cannot afford to miss a chance to increase our tourism income."

The government is leaving to private sources the construction of fancy hotels, yacht clubs and restaurants.

"It is going to be good for tourism," Lopez Rosado says, "but the best part of it is that it will also help the people of the region, since we will be bringing water, buiding roads, harbors and electricity to many areas which need it desperately. We will kill two birds with one stone."

Mexicans know that a tourist dollar goes a long way. Its reproductive value in Mexico is reckoned at $4.

"No other industry requires more employment," Lopez Rosado says.

THE TWO REGIONS, which will get an equal share of the federal investment, are different in geography and attractions. While the Maya Route boasts rich archeological zones and lush jungles, the northwest region has ideal spots for the sportsmen and sun lovers. It extends from Puerto Vallarta, in Jaliseo, north to the California border, taking in the peninsula of Baja California.

Cities like Culiacan, Manzanillo, Obregon, Mazatlan and La Paz will eventually become tourist hubs for the surrounding areas.

The department plans to build airports on the Baja California peninsula, now served mostly by private chartered planes from California. Last year 4,000 private planes brought 13,000 tourists to La Paz.

The peninsula has nearly 1,000 miles of coast and its waters offer sailfish and blue marlin plus many other species. It is also an excellent area for skin - diving and snorkeling.

The government hopes to build harbors, roads, airports, and a scenic route bordering the peninsula's coast.

IN CULIACAN the government has plans for development of tourist centers that will offer, among other things, special hunting preserves.

There are also plans to increase maritime communications between the peninsula and mainland through the Gulf of Cortez, utilizing medium-sized ships which can also become floating night clubs.

The Maya Route, Lopez Rosado says, has always attracted the European tourist because of its archeological riches. Because of the ruggedness of the region, the tourist flow usually stopped at Merida and the surrounding areas.

Merida, with its jet connection to Mexico and Miami, is now receiving more U.S. tourists.

NEW AND BETTER roads could open up parts of Campeche, Tabasco and the southern part of Veracruz to increased tourism attracted to the Maya and other ruins plus the rich natural beauty of the region.

The Merida airport will be enlarged and land communications between Mexico and Yucatan will be improved when the Mexico-Cordoba-Merda railroad is finished. Other works include the construction of ports for Veracruz, Merida, and Quintana Roo.

Besides the historical Maya ruins, the region offers fishing resorts in the islands around the Yucantan Peninsula, plus yachting, beaches and hunting.

Billy Graham

We hear so much talk of peace, but do you really believe there is any hope of peace in the kind of world we have? K.C.

If we rest our hopes in alliances, the United Nations, the astuteness of our State Department, the good intentions of world leaders, the chances of peace are slim.

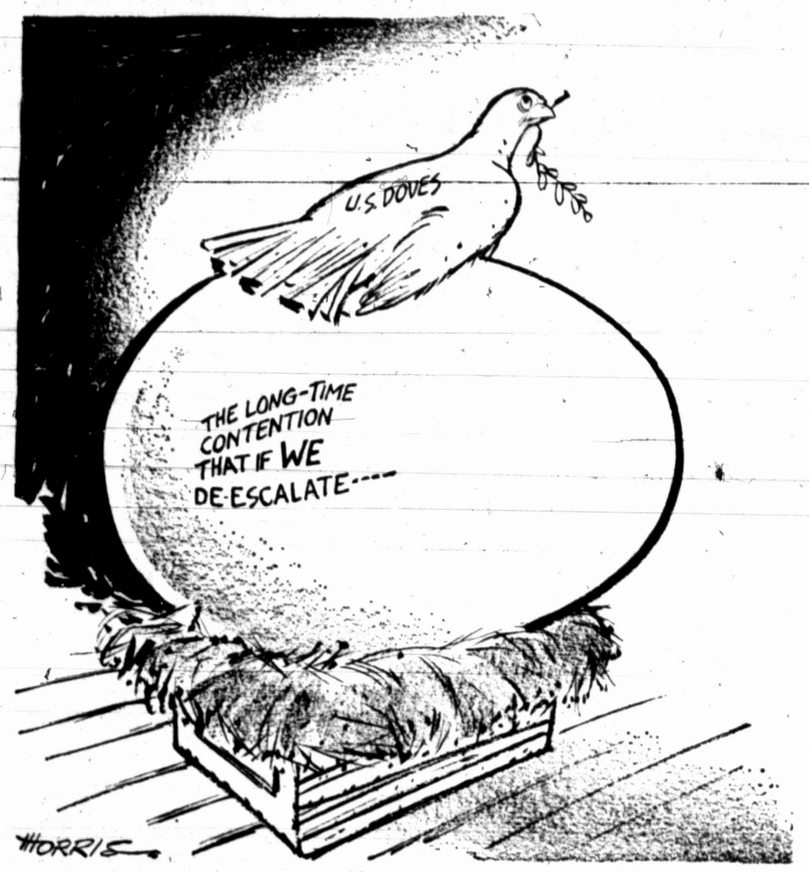

Martin Luther saw the workmen of Wittenburg building a wall around their city when the Turks invaded Europe. He said, "If the Lord is not a wall to us, that wall is nothing."

Peace is spiritual, and is obtained by recognition of spiritual principles and power. Jehu once said to Joram, "If thou do at all forget the Lord thy God, and walk after other gods and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day that you shall surely perish, as the nations which the Lord destroyed before your face shall perish."

Our nation is distinctive in that it was born in an atmosphere of faith in God. If we lose that, then we have no more assurance of peace than any other non-Christian nation.

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." No, there is little hope for peace as long as men reject the Prince of Peace.

Big Decision In Air Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — Air industry officials are awaiting with mixed anxiety and hope for a decision by the Nixon administration, perhaps within days, on whether or not to proceed with production of a commercial supersonic airliner.

Whatever the decision, a renewed Congressional flight is expected over the merits of the big, 1,800-mile-an-hour plane, which is expected to cost more than $1 billion before commercial production ever begins.

Industry sources say they feel certain a government committee, formed to decide whether or not to finance and build two prototype planes, has reported favorably on a design submitted last January by The Boeing Company.

• • •

THE BIG decision, of whether or not to seek financing for the project, is now up to President Nixon and then to Congress. Sources here say they expect the President to recommend appropriations but they are uncertain as to the amount.

There is a strong feeling that less than the full amount needed to produce the prototypes by 1972 will be forthcoming. And there is some speculation that the recommendation might be for a combined government-private enterprise corporation such as Comsat, which operates commercial satellites.

Present financing plans call for the government to put up $1.24 billion. The Boeing Company $202 million, General Electric—which would produce the engines — $86 million, airline customers—who already have ordered 122 of the craft—$59 million, and subcontractors $55 million.

These figures are for the production of two planes and the test flying of them for 100 hours by some time in 1972.

THE GOVERNMENT enters the picture primarily because the enormous initial production costs are believed to be beyond the ability of industry to finance. But some critics feel strongly that the funds would be better spent on housing, education and other social needs.

In defense of its position, Boeing and others in the industry claim the original government investment should be recovered at about the time the 300th plane is sold, and that if 500 sales are made, the government would benefit by $1 billion.

But financing isn't the source of all problems. There is the matter of the sonic boom which accompanies the plane and which has aroused the emotions of millions who feel technology should not override human considerations.

The Boeing Company claims that the craft will be flown at subsonic speeds over land until the sonic boom problem, which results in nerve-wracking noise and perhaps even structural damage, has been overcome.

NATIONAL PRESTIGE also is a factor, for the British, French and Russians already have tested supersonic airliners. Although far behind in time, the U.S. version is expected to be superior to the Russian and the combined British-French design.

Many of the U.S. airlines that already have committed themselves to buying the SST feel strongly that they will need it to remain competitive. If the U.S. doesn't produce one, they say, they will be compelled to buy abroad.

The designs for the SST were presented to federal authorities before a Jan. 15 deadline, and for the past several weeks there has been growing expectations that a decision would be announced.

The project is funded through June 31, end of the government fiscal year, so an announcement is likely by that date at least.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Peter the Great once tried to cure alcoholic Russians during the 18th century by awarding them a medal. The medal weighed 18 pounds and had to be worn around the neck by prisoners sent to jail for drunkenness. Most emerged with more muscular necks — and still thirsty.

EVEN THE pressure of sunlight must be taken into consideration by NASA scientists in plotting man's march to the moon. That pressure can alter the path of a spacecraft by several thousand miles.

One way to lower violence in our society and return it to calm may be to make our civilization quieter. Physiologists have found that men exposed to prolonged loud noises are "more inclined to argue, fight or fly off the handle suddenly."

THIS IS the golden anniversary of the state gasoline tax, inaugurated first in 1919 by Oregon with a one-cent a gallon levy. The tax, which has risen to 7 and 8 cents in some states, has brought in, along with federal gasoline taxes, an estimated $120 billion during the last 50 years. Projected revenues this year: $9 billion.

Two Ways To Handle Hydrocele

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I had what I understand was surgery for hydrocele. An incision was made through the scrotum. I note in your column a mention of tapping and of surgery. I do not understand what constitutes tapping.

If I had surgery, I presume I have no further worry about fluid accumulating again. Shortly after removal of the fluid, the testicle returned to normal and seems okay now.—A.L.B.

Dear Doctor: My husband has had a hydrocele for seven years, and has it tapped once a year, but in two days it is all filled up with fluid again. Please write and tell my husband what can happen if he doesn't have an operation. He won't listen to me.—Mrs. J.C.

Hydrocele is an accumulation of fluid in a membrane which surrounds a testicle. The cause of this has not been determined, but it can occur even in babies. (It usually corrects itself in that case, however.)

It is more a nuisance than anything else; damage to a testicle seldom results, although there are cases of damage.

"Tapping" means inserting a hollow needle, with which to draw off the fluid. If one or two tappings result in curing the situation permanently, that's fine. Sometimes it happens that way.

But in other cases, the membrane promptly seals itself where it was punctured by the needle, and fluid fills it up once more, either slowly or rapidly.

In such cases, surgery corrects the matter permanently, and most men prefer to have it done rather than return for repeated tappings.

Explaining just how the surgery is done becomes rather technical when you try to put it into words, but it works—and it is classified as minor surgery.

Dear Doctor: My wife is pregnant and I would like to know if the male or female is the determining factor in having twins. If this letter is not answered in your column, you will self-destruct in five minutes.—J.T.

I won't "self-destruct" because it has already been answered in the column. The female is more important in determining the chance of twins, but there are instances — a man marrying more than once and having twins with different wives — to indicate that the male plays a role, too.

I've answered you; now you answer me. Where did the writers of the TV series get any such verb as "destruct?" Did somebody destroy their dictionary? Or don't they "empluct" one in their work?

Around The Rim

Superstitious About Money

Do you doubt that most people are superstitious, especially when it comes to money?

Why else did the government decide to stop making the $2 bill? The average man thought the $2 greenback was a Jonah and didn't want it around. Sometimes when he went to change it, he couldn't get the merchant to accept it.

THE "TWO-FERS" were discontinued in 1966 after a long and totally unsuccessful fight by the U.S. Treasury to overcome the superstition.

The $2 bill may have been bad luck but I'd liked to have half a million of them laid on me.

Some people who carry money fold their bills in a certain way to ward off bad luck. How many people do you know who wear pennies in their shoes for good luck? How often have you heard that a nickel or a dime placed in the roof of the mouth will stop a nosebleed?

WHO WOULDN'T hesitate to swoop down on a penny in the gutter, reasoning it will bring good luck? Are you prone to cling to a coin minted the year you were born, reasoning it will improve the shuffle you've been getting from life?

A lot of those marked bills you have received down through time were so identified by superstitious people who reasoned that good luck would embrace them if they were fortunate enough to have them come in their possession again.

A COIN planted under a ladder is thought by some to bring good luck, which one probably wouldn't need if he didn't walk under the same ladder.

Some of the unwashed wear chicken feathers in their hair, wishing for an inheritance. Others save the first coin they acquire after New Year's Day.

An army of people believe Kennedy half dollars are not only good luck charms but religious symbols of some sort. Others see an opportunity to eash in on the craze and save them up until they have enough to flee to Mexico and sell them for a sizable profit.

SOME OF OUR antecedents insisted that money carried in the pockets was seed, because money attracted money.

Did you ever know anyone who bored a hole into a penny, ran a string through it and wore it around his neck — to ward off illness?

For years, husbands have been trying to instill in wives the belief that a person who goes through another's pockets for loot while he's sleeping will experience nothing but bad luck. That legend hasn't caught on very well, lamentably. Instant cash means a lot more to some people than rumored grief.

No Covering Up Of Campus Violence

WASHINGTON — A strange document was released on Tuesday by the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, but without comment or evaluation of the content. It was produced by a special "study group" headed by a professor at the University of California at Berkeley who is himself an activist in the current controversies.

THE NEW "study" refers to "official violence" and blames J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for having helped spread the view among police that mass protests are part of a conspiracy promulgated by agitators, often Communists, "who misdirect otherwise contented people." The "study group" issues a warning against police techniques and puts the responsibility on the police themselves for the increase in disturbances. The reason given is that the police frequently do not distinguish "dissent" from "subversion."

BUT ONE WONDERS what the police are supposed to do when students seize buildings, or when demonstrators block traffic, or when private property is invaded. Are they to regard the protestors' point of view on current questions as paramount and disregard the need for maintenance of law and order?

Perhaps the national commission did not make a comment because it had issued on Monday an official policy statement in an interim appraisal of campus disorders. It reads in part:

"A SMALL but determined minority aims not at reform but at the destruction of existing institutions. These are the nihilists. They resort to violent disruption as the means best suited to achieve their ends. They are the agent that converts constructive student concern into mindless mob hysteria. They are the chief danger to the university and its basic values."

AS FOR THE use of the word "nihilists," if one consults Webster's dictionary, it will be found that the original nihilists were members of a party in Russia which had a program "advocating revolutionary reform and using terrorism and assassination."

Another definition of "nihilism" is that it is a belief that "conditions in the social organization are so bad as to make destruction desirable for its own sake inrependent of any constructive program or possibility."

SO WHEN the national commission describes some of the protestors as "nihilists," it is paralleling what the chief of the FBI did when he said there have been some Communist agitators involved in the riots. Certainly evidence to this effect has been presented before congressional committees, and members of Congress have made speeches pointing out the Communist relationships with some of the disorders.

DESPITE ALL the intellectualisms and abstract statements about dissent, with and without violence, the American people clearly recognize that it is the duty of the police to protect the rights of university students who are not participants in the "protests" and the rights of citizens of a community who are not in any way involved in the "demonstrations." The nation will not be diverted from this belief by generalized statements that the law-enforcement agencies of federal, state or local governments have suddenly arrogated to themselves powers which they should not exercise.

The Latin-American Problem

WASHINGTON — "Leave hope, ye that enter!" is Dante's roadmarker at the gates of Inferno, and is too defeatist to describe the situation in our Latin-American affairs.

Too defeatist, but hardly too pessimistic, in terms of our participation in the conference at Port of Spain, Trinidad, June 14 to 23, where the Inter-American Economic and Social Council meets. Some of us who attended the don't-quote briefings on the agenda came away remarking that the deeper the knowledge of the briefing officers, the deeper the gloom.

HOWEVER, it is not hope which should be abandoned, but illusions. The Alliance For Progress, launched with fanfare in 1961 by President Kennedy and Secretaries Rusk and Dillon, has been the flop of the century. The Latin American policy of President Nixon, however brilliant its eventual plumage may be, is still a bird-in-the-bush, unseen by the eye of man.

How have we flubbed it? Let us count the ways. Currently and conspicuously, Governor Nelson Rockefeller's goodwill tours have been not tragical but, much worse, farcical. His grand entourage has been a circus parade that degenerated into a rat-race.

ALSO, WE HAVE flubbed it, perhaps, by President Nixon's absorption in foreign affairs elsewhere than Latin America. Maybe this can't be helped. We've got a war on in Asia, and a sizzling time-fuse in the Middle East. But we can't expect the Latins to believe we're hemisphere-conscious unless we show some priority in that direction. There have been delays and disappointments in the President's naming of diplomats for the Latin-American posts. Now the Trinidad meeting comes up and it's acknowledged that the President won't have a policy because Governor Rockefeller hasn't completed his four tours, much less written his covering reports.

AGAIN, WE HAVE flubbed because, under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, we set Alliance for Progress goals without much prospect of meeting them. The net input of capital into the Alliance was supposed to be 20 per cent of aggregate investments, and it stands at 9.6 per cent. Latin Americans have a per capita income seven times less than that in North America. If the prevailing trends continue, Latins will live on 15 times less income-per-person than we do.

WE HAVE FLUBBED through mismanagement but also because some of the problems are unmanageable by present techniques. The Latin-American countries should trade more among themselves, but the conditions of stability and industrialization don't encourage it. The U.S. consumer might be allowed to take the price advantage in Latin-American textiles and foodstuffs, but this could mean unemployment and dislocation in the United States, and is too much of a sacrifice. Commerce Secretary Stans has already warned Asian and European manufacturers to level off their exports into the United States, and it will be remarkable if the Administration can say the opposite to Latin-American shippers. We preach free trade, but we practice protectionism, and we've got to. Nevertheless, we have a bigger-than-China threat of communization in Latin America.

Long-Shot Orville Moody Captures U.S. Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Orville Moody, an off-the-board long-shot, has to be the most unlikely, unorthodox U.S. Open golf champion of all time.

Besides being a one-quarter Choctaw Indian and a 14-year Army veteran, he's a cross-handed putter, never practices, corrects presidents and—believe it or not—didn't know his own name.

Moody, 35, a nonwinner on the tour, received a telephone call from President Nixon Sunday after he had won the 69th U.S. Open with a 72-hole score of 281.

"He said it was a fine thing that someone not of the elite class, the middle class, to win this championship," Moody said.

"He said it isn't often that somebody comes out of the Army after 14 years and wins the U.S. Open.

"I told him it's the first time."

Moody shot a final-round 72 on the 6,967-yard, par 70 Cypress Creek course at Champions Golf Club and won by one stroke. Tied for second at 282 were thin Al Geiberger, who had a final-round 70, Bob Rosburg, 71, and little Deane Beman, 72.

Bob Murphy was alone in fifth at 283. Third-round leader Miller Barber collapsed with a 78 and finshed at 284, tied at that figure with Arnold Palmer, 72, and Bruce Crampton, 71. Jack Nicklaus had a 73 for 289.

"I had no dream I could win it, Moody said. "I didn't know I was good enough to win it. I came here playing good and planning to try and win it, but I didn't know I could."

Playing in the last twosome, he came to the last hole, needing only to par it to win.

"That's the first time I started thinking about it, I thought, 'Well, get up there and let her fly.' I did," he said.

He drove the fairway, started to use a seven iron and went to an eight instead.

"I thought, 'I don't want to back up now,'" he said. "So I went to the eight iron. I figured if I was a little tight, I'd probably hit an eight better than I could a seven."

He put it on the green, about 12 feet from the pin, and missed the putt by 14 inches. He walked up to it quickly and tapped it in without lining it up.

"It was a long 14 inches for a million dollars," he said. "I didn't want to think about it. I didn't want to let myself think about it. That's why I hit it so quick."

Moody left the Army—most of his time was spent running golf courses—after 14 years of service when he found three sponsors to back him on the tour.

"I met them playing golf at Killeen, Tex.," he said. "I was playing with them every day, taking their money. I guess they figured it was cheaper to put me on the tour than keep on.

He graduated from the PGA players school in 1967, played in the final 1967 event, the Cajun Classic, and has been on the tour steadily since then.

He picked up $30,000 for his first tour victory, pushing his earnings to $67,921 for the year.

Is The Era Of Giants Fading In Pro Golf?

HOUSTON (AP) — A couple of hours before leaders were to tee off Sunday in the final round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship, Arnold Palmer walked forlornly across the terrace in front of the champions clubhouse—unnoticed—and entered the locker room.

There newsmen were clustered around a bald, paunchy, character with thick-lens glasses and in another corner a burly, moon-faced man, laughing and chatting jovially.

"Excuse me," Palmer said, brushing past the crowd.

He entered one of the nooks sat down and began perusing his mail. No one moved to join him.

For the first time in more than a decade, he had some privacy while the golf spotlight shifted to near-sighted Miller Barber, the third-round leader, and Orville Moody, the big Army sergeant who was to overtake him for the Open Championship.

The scene may have been of far-flung significance.

Is this the end of the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus era? Will these two giants who have dominated the game so overwhelmingly during the past decade ever strike awe into pro golf ranks again? Will they ever win another major championship?

There are doubts, although fewer of them in the case of Nicklaus, only 29, still one of the most powerful hitters of the ball golf has ever seen and, when in form, a calculating craftsman.

Palmer is 10 years older, 39, the sport's idol, a superbly-conditioned athlete and fierce competitor but one whose confidence on the greens has been shaken.

Nicklaus is cut of another bolt of cloth. The 210-pound son of Columbus, Ohio, druggist has unlimited natural ability.

He is powerful off the tee and has proved in setting all-time records in the Open and the Masters that he is capable of completely demolishing a golf course. He is one man who seems capable of shooting in the 50s.

"I don't know what I am doing wrong," Nicklaus says. "I know what I want to do but I can't do it."

Cards Capture Extended Tilt

The Cards and the Braves locked in a mighty battle for two extra innings Saturday in the National Little League before the Cards erupted to score three runs and win 6-3.

Lovelace knocked in Mike Warren with the winning run in the top of the eighth. Roger Battle came in relief of Morgan and pitched perfect ball to ice the game for the Cards. Lovelace, Matthews and Battle each had two hits for the Cards; Newsom led the Braves with three safeties, and Taylor had two. Callihan had a booming homer for the Braves. The Cards are now 13-2, the Braves 8-7. The box score:

Cale Yarborough Wins Stock Event

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — The North rose from the dead Sunday on the wheels of the South's stock car heroes.

And it was a pair of sound-a-like names from South Carolina who may have convinced the Yankee crowd at the Motor State 500 race Sunday that big time stock car racing will now be a popular fixture north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Paid attendance was announced as 46,328.

Cale Yarborough, an ex-farm-boy from Timmonsville, S.C., survived a grinding collision with Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., to win the race at the Michigan International Speedway.

The 500 was the first major NASCAR race in the North.

The 29-year-old Cale covered the 250 laps in three hours, 35 minutes and 28 seconds and collected $17,625.

Second was David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C. He won $10,100 of the total purse of $95,125, while Richard Petty of Randleman, Tenn., was third in a Ford for $5,875.

The 30-year-old Yarborough, who is the season's leading money winner after three major victories, picked up $4,100 for fourth.

Colts Edge Jets 8-7

The Colts of the American Major Little League had to go into extra innings Saturday to edge the Jets 8-7 and extend the team's season mark to 9-6.

McMurtrey was the winning pitcher, coming on in relief of Walton and Whittington. Ramsey was the losing hurler in the game that went eight innings.

Texas Plays Again Today

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Arizona State faces an uphill struggle in battling back through the losers' World Series, but Coach Bobby Winkles says his Sun Devils may be on their way now that they've tasted tournament victory.

"This one might put us on our way," Winkles enthused Saturday after Arizona State had clipped UCLA, 2-1, in a losers' round game, eliminating the Bruins.

Massachusetts pulled the biggest upset of the first round Saturday night when the Redmen got brilliant pitching from unheralded John Kitchen to beat top-rated Southern Illinois University 2-0.

NYU exploded for four runs in the ninth inning to break up a tight duel and dump Mississippi 8-3.

The other first-round winners, Texas and Tulsa collide at 5:30 p.m. today, following a losers' bracket afternoon game matching Southern Illinois and Mississippi.

Giants Mowed By Knoepfel

The Giants waited too late to get going in a Sophomore League game Saturday evening, and the Orioles won it 9-4.

It looked like a run-away until the top of the seventh when the Giants rallied for three runs. John Knoepfel, with 15 strikeouts, shackled the Giants and allowed only two hits. Greg Crawford was the losing pitcher.

Reds Slow Cubs' Campaign, Oakland Lays It On Boston

By The Associated Press

How do you stop the Chicago Cubs? Simple, just (1) come up with some last inning heroics, and (2) take a nearly evening plane ride.

It worked for the Cincinnati Reds Sunday—although the latter solution may be only temporary.

The Reds used a one-out ninth inning single by Bobby Tolan to clip the National League's East Division leaders 7-6 in the opener of a doubleheader.

Then, after the Cubs grabbed a 5-4 lead after seven innings of the nightcap, the game was suspended so the Reds could catch a plane for San Francisco, where they are scheduled to play this afternoon.

That little bit of maneuvering will prevent the Cubs from chalking up that nightcap victory—or defeat—for at least 2½ months.

The game will be resumed from the point of interruption—but not until early September, when the Cubs make their next trip to Cincinnati.

In other National League activity, Don Drysdale made a successful pitching comeback as Los Angeles nipped the New York Mets 3-2; San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 7-4 and 6-1.

Philadelphia checked San Diego 5-4 on fill-in Terry Harmon's 10th inning single; St. Louis defeated Houston 5-3, and Atlanta slipped past Pittsburgh 6-4.

In the American League, Minnesota shaded Cleveland 3-2, Oakland thumped Boston 13-5, Detroit blanked Kansas City 7-0, New York stopped Seattle 4-0 in a game called after five innings because of rain, and Baltimore trounced Chicago 9-0 and 13-2.

That second game bit of indecision was disappointing for the Cubs in more ways than one — Don Kessinger had his newly-established major league record at errorless ball by shortstops snapped at 54.

He set the record in the opener, but booted a grounder in the seventh inning of the second game.

The old mark of 53 was set in 1951 by Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox, while Buddy Kerr of the New York Giants set the previous National League mark of 52 in 1946.

Ironically, Tolan's game-winning blow, scoring Jim Stewart from second, came after loser Phil Regan intentionally walked Pete Rose to get to Bobby.

The Reds, who blew an early 3-0 lead, came back for a 5-4 advantage in the sixth on Tony Perez' two-run homer, his 12th. But Ron Santo's 12th homer keyed a two-run Cub rally in the seventh, before Cincinnati tied it in the bottom of the inning on Alex Johnson's RBI single.

Newly acquired Paul Popovice staked Chicago to a 2-0 lead in the third inning of the nightcap with his first homer of the year, and helped build the lead to 5-1 with an RBI single in the sixth.

The Reds cut the gap to 5-4 with three in the seventh, including two on Tolan's homer.

Drysdale, taking his first turn on the mound since April 22 when he was sidelined with a sore shoulder, checked the Mets on seven hits for 5 2-3 innings before yielding to Jim Brewer, who gave up only one hit the rest of the way.

The powers-that-be in Massachusetts can't decide whether or not Boston needs a new stadium, but Oakland's Reggie Jackson may have helped matters along with his weekend wrecking job on cozy old Fenway Park.

Jackson's unsealed bid included four home runs, a triple, two doubles and two singles in 14 official at-bats and 15 runs batted in—10 on Saturday and four more Sunday—as the A's thrashed the Red Sox 4-1, 21-7 and 13-5 in their weekend series.

Lagor was the losing pitcher, and his teammates hit four safeties in piling up five runs in the initial three stanzas. The Talons now have a 7-5 season mark, and the Starfighters stand 0-11, and seeking a win in the final three games.

Reds Nip Stars, Gain 2nd Place

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The National Hot Rod Association's Springnationals ended Sunday in triumph and tragedy for two young drag racers. One won big. The other died. "When I crossed that finish line, I said to myself 'I won!,'" exclaimed Hank Westmoreland, 25, who emerged as the top fuel eliminator in the $190,000 event.

The victory, his first major triumph, could be worth $100,000 NHRA officials said. This includes prize money contingencies, personal appearances and other gratuities.

The Newport, Calif., driver piloted his Chrysler-powered AA dragster, the Beachcomber, over the quarter mile track in an elapsed time of 6.848 seconds, hitting a speed of 214.79 m.p.h.

He shaded Kelly Brown of Fountain Valley, Calif., who was clocked in 6.916 seconds at 184.04 m.p.h.

An estimated 25,000 fans jammed into the new Dallas International Motor Speedway and watched in horror as two funny cars collided at mid-strip, killing Gerry Schwartz, 25, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Schwartz died when a Mustang Mach I driven by veteran Pat Foster slipped out of control, spun across the center strip and trapped him against the guard rail.

Foster was not injured but was described as being in shock following the mishap.

The two cars were traveling at speeds approaching 160 m.p.h. Sschwartz' Cougar virtually disintegrated on impact.

Old Lady Wins Again

LE MANS, France (AP) — A Ford GT-40 called "The Old Lady" by its drivers because it won the Le Mans 24-hour endurance race last year, had the speed to do it again Sunday and beat out a field of faster but more fragile Porsches. One driver was killed.

It was the fourth straight Ford victory at Le Mans and one of the closest finishes in the history of the classic sports car event. Drivers Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Jackie Oliver of Britain just had enough to hold off a screaming Porsche to win by 115 yards.

Ickx, behind the wheel at the finish ahead of the Porsche 98 of Germany's Hans Herrmann and France's Gerard LaRousse, dedicated the victory to the memory of driver Lucien Bianchi, who was killed on the Le Mans circuit in practice in April.

Ickx followed the 17-car Porsche group for three minutes, then found himself driving through the debris of one of the top Porsches in which John Wolfe, 37, of Britain, had died.

The wreck also set fire to New Zealander Chris Amon's Ferrari.

Trustbusters May Block Antimonopoly Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top trustbuster suggested today that his assault on big, conglomerate mergers can head off a demand for drastic new antimonopoly legislation.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren said he is "neither anticonglomerate nor antibigness," but is waging his merger war against specific threats to free competition.

McLaren's vigorous court challenges, since he became chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division in January, have rocked the mushrooming, new-style conglomerate corporations.

The attack has depressed their stock prices, discouraged them from new mergers and takeovers of big companies, and raised a threat that some recent acquisitions must be unloaded —even though the merger wave has continued at a record rate because of smaller acquisitions.

"Every one of our cases is based on solid, well defined principles which the Supreme Court has applied in prior cases involving threats to competition," McLaren said in an interview.

Predictions that the merger boom, if unchecked, could cartelize the American economy in a decade or two have disturbed the White House.

The forecasts have led also to proposals for legislation aimed mainly at conglomerates—possibly a law like the Public Utilities Holding Company act, which had a "death sentence" provision to compel the breakup of the giant utility combines formed in the merger wave of the 1920s.

"That is the alternative we've got to face up to . . . If we are not successful in the prosecution of the anti-competitive cases," McLaren conceded.

Such a law, he said, presumably would provide authority for forcing multicompany corporations—if they reached a certain size or gained a certain share of the market—to divest themselves of one or more operating companies.

"I would rather do the job by the case-by-case approach," McLaren said.

Arbitrary restrictions based on size or structure of a corporation are distasteful, he explained—although he admits that some critics have accused him of bias against the conglomerates.

"We are not anticonglomerate, no matter what anyone says," McLaren declared.

"And I don't think we should try to stop all mergers. We are interested in only one thing—anticompetitiveness."

Previous antitrust chiefs believed that conglomerates could not be curbed by the existing antitrust law, which frowns on any merger whose effect may be "substantially to lessen competition . . . in any line of commerce." The merger of firms in different lines of business could not harm competition, they held, because the companies did not compete with each other.

McLaren has declared his intention of testing his much broader interpretation in the courts. "The matter is too pressing to wait," he said.

There is ample precedent in standing Supreme Court decisions, he said, for taking action against a big conglomerate which:

—"knocks off by acquisition a firm which might have come into an industry as a competitor."

—moves into a new area or industry, dissuades smaller companies from entering those markets.

—engages in "reciprocal dealing" by letting its various divisions sell only to one another.

—buys up a leading company in an industry made up of smaller companies, and gives its new subsidiary dominance in that industry because of the parent firm's wealth and power.

"If businessmen understand what we're trying to do, they will agree with us," McLaren said.

"They want to buy in a competitive market, not in an allocated or dominated market. They don't want to be dominated by suppliers or customers or anyone else.

"We are trying to keep the competitive options open for the American people."

Top Military Expert Dies

LONDON (AP) — Earl Alexander of Tunis, one of Britain's leading military commanders in World War II, died today. He was 77.

The cause of death was not immediately announced.

The last man off the beach when the British were evacuated from Dunkirk in 1940, Earl Alexander later led British forces in Burma and North Africa. In 1943 and 1944 he was the commander in chief of all allied armies in Italy, before being named supreme commander of British and American troops in the Mediterranean.

Along with fellow Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, Alexander was one of Britain's top military strategists in World War II. His combat career began in World War I where he rose to battalion commander and was wounded three times in action.

In 1945, while serving in Italy, he was named by King George VI as governor general of Canada, a ceremonial post he held for six years.

Alexander was promoted to major general at 46, the youngest Briton ever to achieve the rank. Winston Churchill appointed him minister of defense in 1952.

In 1958 he suffered a heart attack but he recovered to accept appointments as constable of the tower of London and lord lieutenant of greater London.

Hearings Called On Highway Improvements

The Texas Highway Department has called a public hearing for 10:30 Wednesday morning on the proposed reconstruction of U.S. 87 south from FM 700 to Hearn Street, and of FM 700 east and north from Goliad Street to IS 20. The proposed work consists of reconstructing and widening to make four-lane pavements on both projects.

The hearing will be in the County Courtroom, and citizens may appear to give views on the proposed improvements.

Seven Policemen, Newsman Injured

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Seven policemen and a newsman were wounded during sporadic battles with small bands of youths Sunday night in the predominantly Negro section of California's capital city. Up to 40 persons were arrested.

More than 100 policemen moved into the Oak Park area-southeast of the business district—after officers raided a Black Panther office, using tear gas to disperse the occupants.

Roving Negro youths with shotguns fired at several police cars, officers said.

Police Chief Joseph Rooney said officers originally moved into the area after reports of false fire alarms and gunfire. At one point, officers thought there was gunfire from the militant Negro group's local office, said police Capt. John Kearns.

HAZARDS OF TRADE

HOUSTON (AP) — A sword swallower performing with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus Sunday night was injured when a glass tube he was swallowing broke off in his stomach.

Francis F. Doran, 61, was in poor condition after being taken to Ben Taub General Hospital.

Doran, whose home is in Florida, was performing in a side show before some 100 persons about 10:30 p.m. The performer said he had swallowed about half of a 30-inch long glass tube and was bringing it back out when it broke. The performer said about half of it was still in his stomach at the time.

Doran said that this was one of his first performances since recovering from a similar accident.

Lightning Dances Across WT Skies

By The Associated Press

The eastern half of the state was due clear skies and cooler temperatures today as cloudiness continued over the western half, the Weather Bureau reported.

Lightning danced across the skies of West and Southwest Texas Sunday night, leaving a trace of rain at El Paso. Thundershowers developed over scattered portions of Southwest and West Texas during early morning hours. They were expected to continue through the day.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s and 60s in the Panhandle to the 70s elsewhere. Some 70s were recorded in South Texas.

A long-range, five-day forecast called for below normal temperatures through June 21 with more rain for much of the state beginning about midweek.

The first of a series of dances was held Saturday night at the grand opening of the Coahoma Youth Center, 113 N. 1st.

Larry Fisher, of KBST Radio, emceed the show. Dances are planned at two-week intervals throughout the summer at the center.

Any Coahoma student from seventh through 12th grade is eligible for membership. Dues will be $3 for the summer, and all activities will require a membership card.

The center also has facilities for ping-pong and table games, and a juke box. A pool table and a television have been ordered.

Gibsons Sued By Former Grocer Here

A suit has been filed in the U.S. District Court in Abilene against owners of the Gibson Discount chain by a Big Spring man who seeks damages of $209,460 on the allegation that Gibson's had forced his grocery store out of business.

The plaintiff is Scotty Frank Bell, operator of Bell's E-Z-Way in Big Spring for six years. He claims he was undercut on milk and bread prices from June, 1966, until last November, when his store closed, by the Gibson Discount Store in Big Spring.

The suit names H. R. Gibson Sr. and H. R. Gibson Jr. and Gibson Products Co. of Seagoville. It also names two Oklahoma firms which the plaintiff says H. R. Gibson partly owned, Mid-West Creamery Co. of Ponca City and Western Maid Bakery of Clinton.

The cut in prices began two years ago, Bell contends, with the aim of creating a monopoly on the milk, bread and retail grocery business in Howard County.

Bell claims the fair market value of his store dropped from $50,000 to $8,000, causing him to ask for $126,000 — triple the amount of the alleged property loss, which he contends is due under U.S. anti-trust provisions.

He also claims he lost $118,820 in actual income and $9,000 in future income and seeks treble damages of $83,460.

Attorneys' fees of $23,240 also are requested. Bell is represented by Odessa attorney W. R. Barnes. The suit was filed in the Abilene court because Big Spring is part of that court's division of the U.S. Northern District.

Eight Thefts Are Reported

Police investigated eight theft incidents Saturday and Sunday.

City Pawn Shop, 204 Main, reported to police that five guns were taken from a display window Friday night. No value estimate was placed on the guns.

Sandy Rutherford, 7-11 No. 1, Eighteenth and Gregg, reported a money bag containing $64.50 was taken from the safe between 6 and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Opal Lamar, 1102 W. 4th, told police a black fall and wiglet, a gray "topper," and a case of hair lacquer had been taken Sunday. Police said entry was made through a window which had been broken on the north side of the building. The value of property loss and damage was estimated at $165, police said.

Bob Rybolt, Armco National Supply Co., told police a soft drink machine had been broken into, and three first aid kits, a roll of six cent stamps and several pens had been taken Sunday night. Police said entry apparently was made through an unlocked window on the north side of the building.

Joe B. Nixon, 4104 Bilger, told police a toolbox had been taken from a storage building at 710 E. 13th. He did not know when the box was taken.

Police arrested a woman Saturday at the Safeway Food Store on South Gregg and charged her with theft under $5.

Mrs. Onita Wilson, 3704 Hamilton, told police her purse was taken from an unlocked car while it was parked in front of the Starlight Lounge. The purse contained $15 and personal papers, police said.

Jose Banks, 1208 NW 7th, told police burglars entered the Lakeview Cafe and took the change from a pinball machine and peanut machine. He later told police a piece of copper tubing also was removed from a refrigeration unit.

Young Lords Post Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the Young Lords Youth gang have left the Armitage Avenue Methodist Church after a four-day occupation of the building and church officials have granted a demand for use of church space.

A Young Lords spokesman said Sunday use of the church's basement for a community day care center was granted by church officials Friday.

The leader of the gang, Jose "Cha Cha" Jiminez, said another demand for church office space for the Young Lords was settled at a Sunday night meeting with church officials.

Throughout the occupation of the building, conditions were orderly and church officials declined to call in police.

Jiminez was indicted last week by the Cook County Grand Jury for invasion of a meeting of the Lincoln Park Conservation Council. He also faces charges of resisting arrest and aggravated battery in two earlier incidents.

The Lords are a so-called Brown Power gang, allied to the Illinois Black Panther Pary.

'Out Of World' Artist Captures Outer Space

By JO BRIGHT

As her name implies, Madame Julienne Vallieres of Quebec is French. In fact, she closely resembles the popular image of the modern-day woman of France, although she was born and reared in Canada.

Small of stature, with close-cropped black hair, she gestures charmingly to emphasize a point, and her large dark eyes flick about the room, like small cameras, instantly recording the scene.

The eyes are what you notice — for it's been said they see things that others do not.

Madame Vallieres is an artist who specializes in painting imaginative impressions of outer space. No less than three United States Astronauts concur with her conception of things that lie, float and swirl beyond sight of the naked eye.

Arriving in Big Spring last week, Madame Vallieres plans to remain in this area until September when she will travel to Belgium for study under a grant provided by the government of Canada. She is the mother of Mrs. Doug Rogers whose husband, T. Sgt. Rogers, is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

The petite painter, who is 51 years old, was born in Canada, where she still resides with her husband, a retired shipbuilder. She began painting about 30 years ago, although she was exposed to creative art much earlier. Her father was a church decorator, and her mother, Victoria Vallieres, acquainted herself with her neighbors by drawing charcoal portraits which her husband would then identify.

Julienne Vallieres, using her father's paint and old carton boxes (without permission) began painting at 13. She is both the niece and daughter-in-law of Laureat Vallieres, a sculpture from St. Romuald.

In the early years of her marriage, Madame Vallieres found the matter of mothering eight children taking precedence over her painting, so it was not until 1954 that she traveled to Belgium, where she studied at the Brussels Academy under Van Guent and began a series of travels which took her through 15 countries. She visited art galleries, museums and different exhibitions, all of which she paid for by selling the majority of her previous paintings.

MADAME JULIENNE VALLIERES

She met and worked with Michel Leduc in Paris six years later. It was at Clemont-Ferrand, 180 miles from Vichy, that on Sept. 7, 1967, she first entered a contest, coming away with a bronze metal and the "Diplome D' Honneur." The event, the Grande Biennale Internationale de Vichy, was sponsored by the Fereration Internationale, Union Feminine Artistique Et Culturelle, and Mrs. Vallieres was the sole representative from Canada among 34 other countries.

The international French show featured contemporary art, and Madame Vallieres won the award with an abstract painting, although, some years ago, she did not like abstract art.

Ironically, it is in this area that she has won the most recognition, including appreciation from the Office of the Administrator, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The latter came about when Madame Vallieres had a series of "space" pictures on exhibit at the Canadian Embassy in Washington, D.C. Word of this came to a NASA official at Houston who made a point of viewing her works while in the nation's capital. The artist received a letter commending her insight into the beauties of outer space, and she was presented a signed album of photographs made from the original negatives brought back from the lunar flight by Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., Col. Frank Borman and Col. William A. Anders, crew of the second manned Apollo Mission.

In appreciation, Madame Vallieres presented each of the astronauts one of the paintings on exhibit.

In these paintings one sees forms—perhaps those that the artists sees—perhaps not. The one entitled "Eclipse III" has colors ranging from hot white through sun shades of yellow and gold to edges that fade to greenish black, framing the brightness of the focal point. Other works are masses of whites and blues that swirl into orange-tinged browns. One imagines a spinning shape forming the earth or becoming the crusty earth and rock of another planet.

When she leaves here in late summer, Madame Vallieres will fly to Belgium where she will continue her studies for two years at Studio Anvers in Brussels. Meanwhile, following a number of exhibits in Canada, her oil paintings can be seen in Washington, D.C., and the Fountainbleu Art Gallery in Miami Beach, Fla.

Clean, Paint All Outdoor Furniture

Outdoor furniture needs periodic care and cleaning.

Wooden outdoor furniture may be cleaned by washing with soap and water. Unfinished redwood furniture darkens with age. A yearly coat of penetrating sealer will protect if more than varnish or shellac. And an outdoor enamel is used on painted hardwood tables or benches.

Some wrought iron and steel furniture has a rustproof guarantee. But if such furniture is not rustproof, remove any rust spots with fine steel wool and apply a metal paint primer, then touch up these areas with outdoor enamel to match the furniture.

Aluminum furniture needs occasional washing with soap and water. If it is rough with soil after being outdoors over a long period, rub with fine steel wool or a waxbase auto cleaner. Aluminum keeps its luster better if waxed once a season.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I found a new use for old rubber gloves.

I cut off the fingertips about an inch or so and I use the gloves when I go fishing! They really protect my hands not only from brown spots and freckles, but are very handy when cleaning the fish. (The slippery fish don't slide!)

Afterwards, I just soak them in warm bleach water and I'm all set for the next big fishing trip. . . . Mildred G.

Dear Heloise:

My camera now has an inexpensive lens cover made from the snap-on plastic cap from a prescription bottle.

I put a strip of cellophane tape on the cap so it sticks up in front of the viewfinder, thus saving missed pictures. . . . C.M.A.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

When my daughter got married, I purchased tiny white paper doilies, pulled them apart ahead of time and stacked them neatly beside the cake.

By holding a doily on the left side of the cake and cutting with the right hand, a slice can very easily be placed on the guest's plate.

No crumbling and no sticky fingers. . . . Inez Benton

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I love a foam cushion under my ironing board cover, but the ones sold with covers are not thick enough for me.

So I bought two thick foam floor mats (at a very nominal cost), traced my ironing board outline on each, taped them together and voila!

Now when I iron garments that have large or bulky buttons, the buttons just sink into the foam and I have a smooth ironing surface. . . . Claire Garrin

* * *

Dear Heloise:

When you need a new cover for your electric shoe polisher, take an old bathroom mat or rug and cut it to fit the polisher.

Make a hem with your sewing machine, and run elastic through it. Now slip the new cover over the polisher's old felt or bristle pads and just polish away.

These covers really do the job and are so easy to launder. . . . Mrs. M.J.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I am just another fellow who likes fishing and was always losing the stopper from my thermos jug.

I took a fish hook that already had the nylon strings and loop in it. I attached the hook far down into a cork, so there wouldn't be any stuck fingers. Then attached the nylon loop on the jug spout.

No more lost stoppers. You can also fasten the handle of your cup on the same line. . . . Mr. I. H. Weakly

* * *

Dear Heloise:

When checkers get lost as they will sometimes do . . . don't throw away the game. Just take empty spools of thread and spray paint the color you need. Use these for your replacements. . . . A Reader

* * *

Ever thought about soda pop bottle caps? They are great to replace lost checkers. . . . Heloise

Local Girls Win Offices In Austin

Glynna Diane Jones and Sharon Andrews, both of Big Spring, were elected to offices in last week's elections of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State, now in progress at St. Edward's University in Austin.

Miss Jones, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Harroll G. Jones, 1504 Dayton, won the Federal Nominee, County Clerk, County of Bippy office while Miss Andrews took Nationalist Party Nominee, County Commissioner, Place 1, County Tears. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Andrews, Andrews Lane.

Girls State, a national Americanism activity, was organized by the American Legion Auxiliary in 1937. The first program, an experimental conference at Baylor University in 1941, had 94 girls. This year 430 attended.

Girls State provides citizenship training for girls of high school age; they learn the problems of government by performing the same duties as office holders. Former citizens of Girls State and members of the Texas American Legion Auxiliary volunteer as counselors and direct the program.

The girls elected will take the oath of office, administered by Former Associate Justice Meade Griffin of the Texas Supreme Court, tonight. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will be the principal speaker for this occasion.

Color It Fashion In New Menswear

The Textile Dye Institute points to the real story in man-woman power: Man's march to color.

In these kaleidoscopic days of pastel ruffled formal evening shirts, broad-collared, high colored business shirts and floral-splashed sports shirts, hardly anything is a surprise.

That last bastion of tough conservatism, the blue jean, has surrendered to the duel thrust of fashion and color and appears on the rack in flared stripe, in plaids or tattersalls, or in a plain pink denim.

Incidentally, some men's wear stores are actually organizing their stock by color rather than by size and item — which only goes to show what stock they take in color.

Camp Fire Girls Honor Fathers

The Pasipika and Koki Camp Fire Girls groups celebrated Father's Day with a "Dad and Daughter" picnic Saturday afternoon.

Following a box lunch picnic the girls and their fathers spent the afternoon playing softball and relay games.

Highlighting the afternoon was a Camp Fire Girls ceremonial program in honor of Father's Day. Approximately 40 girls and their fathers attended the event at Birdwell Park.

A LOVELIER YOU

Here's Way To Solve The Middle Riddle

By MARY SUE MILLER

Many a Lovely lost the best friend she ever had in the fashion world with the demise of the shifty little dress. Nothing except the old tent coat so well screened a middle muddle.

Currently, belts at the waistline seldom are really snug, but they put the figure's midsection on notice. We won't even mention those giveaways the cut-outs and cut-downs. What we'll do is offer a routine for reducing the waist, abdomen and upper hip in a swoop:

A) Lie, back down on floor and cradle head in hands. Pull in abdomen and bend knees to touch chest. Then plunge legs straight down to full extension, so as just to skim floor; immediately bend knees to chest again. Repeat 20 times on a fast beat.

B) Still on floor, place arms down at sides and bend left leg to chest. Stretch right leg downward — hard; at same time, swing arms overhead to rest on floor and then stretch from top to toe. Repeat with left leg. Alternately perform for 20 counts.

C) Adjacent to a wall, stand tall with right arm stretched to side at shoulder level so that fingertips are four inches from wall. By bending repeatedly in waist, try to touch wall for half-minute. (If you are very tall or short, adjust distance from wall to allow for a good stretch.) Reverse position and bend to left for half-minute.

HIP REDUCING ROUTINES

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hipline is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, "Hip-Reducing Routines." Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

Participate In Austin Conference

Threee local persons have returned from Austin where they participated in the June 8-12 seminar of the Texas Parent Teacher Association. They are Mrs. Dwight B. McCann, 16th District president; Mrs. David Hodnett, PTA city council president; and George Archer, school administrator.

Members of the state board of managers, PTA council presidents and district representatives considered "Realities of Leadership," the conference theme.

The seminar included speakers, panel discussions, mental stimulation exercises, project reports and skits.

Robert H. McKay, Texas PTA president, greeted participants at the Sunday night seminar. The training session for council presidents was led by Harold Lichtenwald, school principal from Dallas, and Dr. Ed Tapscott, of Houston, leadership chairman, opened the main seminar Monday night. Dr. Martha Williams, professor of social work at the University of Texas, and Julius Truelson, Fort Worth school superintendent, were the guest speakers.

Participants attended a reception given Tuesday evening by Gov. and Mrs. Preston Smith.
