Indiana Firm Considers Expanding —

Industrial Prospects Look at Us

Three executives from an Indiana manufacturing company were in Post last Friday for their second look at the Post Economic Development Corporation (PEDC) owned Postex Plant.

"The company is seriously interested in the facility for expansion of their manufacturing," PEDC board member Lewis Earl comments, "although no decision has been made, we certainly are hopeful they will want to locate here." The company manufactures steel fabricated grills and registers from air conditioning systems in buildings, mobile homes and recreational vehicles.

According to Earl, the Indiana-based firm is interested in expanding into West Coast markets and a facility in this area would be beneficial.

While in Post the company officials expressed interest in the churches, schools and housing.

"There are other prospects who are visiting," Earl added, "but this particular company is our best prospect at this time."

"We certainly don't want to issue any false hopes to the people, but at the same time, we are encouraged by the interest that is currently being shown by various industrial prospects," Earl continued.

"We have a lot to offer, with our excellent transportation arteries, outstanding plant facilities, and plenty of inexpensive water," Earl emphasized.

The Indiana manufacturing company employs from 70 to 125 people, but exact information about plans here are not known.

City Council Rejects 'Gift' from Commonwealth Theatres

By Wes Burnett

The Post City Council voted Monday night to reject acceptance of the warranty deed from Commonwealth Theatres for the two old buildings downtown.

The September 1984 agreement, which carried no restriction on use, which Commonwealth president Dale Stewart had signed, was invalidated by the council action as a result of a deed restriction which was sent to the city.

The city had planned to find ways to use the old Tower theater building for cultural uses, but the warranty deed signed by Stewart specifically restricts the use of the building for 21 years.

Commonwealth had offered to donate the building to the city and was to have claimed a value of $50,000 as a tax write-off.

The building is appraised for tax purposes at Garza County at $2,000.

The agreement for the building donation which Stewart signed on behalf of Commonwealth, stated "The city desires to own the Theatre and the property for charitable, cultural and other public purposes, and Commonwealth is willing to contribute, give and donate the Theatre and the property to the City for such public purposes."

The warranty deed restrictive language says, "For a period of twenty-one (21) years from the date this Deed is recorded no part or parts of the subject property may be used for theatre, motion picture, exhibition of theatrical purposes."

Commonwealth Threes Realty Inc., is located in Jackson County, Missi.

The council instructed city attorney Harvey Morton to write Commonwealth advising them of their action and that the property could not be accepted with any restrictions on use.

The council also heard a report from council member Weaver McKamie concerning the recent purchase of equipment by the EMS.

In an apparent violation of state law, the EMS purchase did not comply with bid procedures. (Related story this page).

The council approved bid from South Plains Chevrolet for the purchase of a pickup truck at a price of $8,848.09 after trade-in of a 1977 pick-truck. Others bidding on the vehicle included Gene Messer Ford at $8,765.47, Smith Ford for $9,225 and Arroyo Motors for $9,549.91.

After a discussion, the council voted to accept the South Plains bid, considering that the Chevrolet warranty service could be done in Post.

Bids for the city's bank depository will be advertised as well as vehicle insurance coverage, following council action.

The contract with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper for engineering services was approved and the council authorized supporting the TML study of GTE's rate request.

A previous discussion about new furniture at city hall was continued, with the council instructing the city manager, Bill Pool to present a proposal in February for expenditures authorized in the budget.

Morton reported to the council that a problem in the legal description of the city-county airport land has delayed the preparation of an airport annexation ordinance.

There are three different legal descriptions on file, and Morton told council members that a survey of the property would have to be completed before any action could be taken.

The council asked Pool to work with Morton on researching the land records.

Morton told the council that the city ordinance establishing an airport board apparently authorizes the board to contain five members.

Two members are appointed by the city, two by the county commissioners and one is selected by the other four.

Morton's report was in response to an earlier (Continued on P2)

Equipment Purchase Aired

By Wes Burnett

A recent $17,242 order for life-support systems by the Post EMS sparked a controversial discussion during Monday night's Post City Council meeting.

In an apparent violation of state law, the Post EMS ordered the equipment without following state required bidding procedures.

Council member Weaver McKamie, who also sits on the Ambulance Committee for the city of Post, explained to the council that the purchase of the equipment by the EMS was done prior to the approval of the committee.

Funded jointly by the city, county and hospital board, the EMS is under the jurisdiction of the Ambulance Committee. "We were told at the committee meeting that since each government unit was only supplying $4,000, that bids were not required," McKamie reported.

After a lengthy discussion, city attorney Harvey Morton cautioned the council, "I can not recommend disbursement of funds when the law has been clearly violated."

The life-support equipment was ordered from one supplier, but includes three major items, one of which is less than $5,000.

The state law requires publicly funded government units must advertise for bids for any item which is more than $5,000.

The city had authorized funding of $4,000 in the budget for the EMS, but no action had been taken to authorize the expenditure of the funds.

Several months earlier the county commissioners approved funding of $4,000 for the equipment, conditioned upon the approval of the hospital board.

The hospital board rejected the participation in the purchase earlier, then at the December meeting approved the funding.

In October the hospital board included $4,000 in the new budget for EMS equipment, but not specifying what kind of equipment.

In December the hospital board approved the $4,000 for the life-support equipment, contingent upon the approval of the Ambulance Committee.

According to McKamie and council member Jack Ault, who is also on the ambulance committee, the equipment was purchased by the EMS prior to the approval by the ambulance committee.

"I asked at least two times at that meeting if what we were doing was legal," Ault explained, "I was concerned that the whole thing was not legal."

Some of the equipment has been delivered by the supplier to the EMS, although none of it has been used.

Morton recommended to the council that the EMS be instructed to follow proper bid procedures before funding would be authorized for the equipment.

One member of the ambulance committee, who asked not to be identified, said that he left a meeting of the ambulance committee last summer with the understanding that the equipment purchase had been approved.

"We had a joint meeting with the commissioners, Judge Dalby and members of the EMS," the source commented, "and representatives of the equipment supplier demonstrated the life-support system."

"After discussing the issue, we agreed the equipment was needed, on the recommendation of both Dr. Rodriguez and Dr. Churn who were at the meeting, but felt that the hospital board should first approve the purchase," the committee member added.

"I left that meeting thinking, as I am sure the EMS people thought, that the ambulance committee had approved the purchase, contingent on approval by the hospital board," he said.

The official minutes of the ambulance committee do not reflect a vote on the purchase, which was taken up at the most recent meeting.

Mayor Giles McCrary emphasized that the Post EMS is a vital part of the community and the people serving as volunteers provide a valuable service to the community.

"There certainly wasn't any intent I'm sure," the mayor comments, "and this procedural problem has been corrected."

The mayor reports that Tuesday morning the EMS cancelled the order for the equipment and will advertise for bids.

"The misunderstanding about bidding was a result of the organization of the EMS as a separate association," the mayor explains, "and as an association the EMS is not ordinarily required to bid...except when city funds are involved, then the association has to follow the normal bidding procedures."

"These are fine folks and we sure don't want this situation to cause any problems for anyone," the mayor adds.

Stenholm Introduces Balanced Budget Amend.

Cong. Charles W. Stenholm (D-Stamford) has introduced legislation that would require the nation's government to operate under a balanced budget.

The proposal, which could become the 27th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, was filed by Stenholm on the opening day of the 99th Congress, which has just convened in the nation's capitol. Stenholm, who is co-sponsoring the bill with Cong. Larry Craig (R-Idaho), said the proposal is vital to the nation's future.

"The tremendous deficit-spending habit that our government has is one of the most, if not the most, serious problem facing our country in 1985 and beyond," the Stamford Democrat said. "If we do not learn to live within our means as a government, our grandchildren will pay dearly."

The proposed amendment would not allow Congress to pass a budget in which outlays exceed receipts, unless three-fifths of the total membership of both the House and the Senate vote specifically to do so. The President would also be required to submit a balanced budget to Congress.

Presently there is no effective deficit-spending barrier. Tax-and-spend issues are decided by a simple majority vote. Potentially unpopular votes, such as tax increases, are sometimes incorporated into votes on essential legislation, rather than being voted on individually.

More than 80 other members of Congress have already signed on as co-sponsors to the joint resolution, which is being called the Craig-Stenholm bill after its originators. Stenholm is the leading Democrat on this proposal. Craig, a Republican, will be in charge of gaining his party's support.

If approved by Congress, the legislation would then be presented to the states. In order to amend the constitution, 38 states must ratify any proposed amendment.

The Craig-Stenholm proposal is substantially the same as the Balanced Budget-Tax Limitation Amendment presented in the 98th Congress. That bill gained momentum under Stenholm's and Craig's leadership in the final days of the 98th Congress. Stenholm expects the revised joint resolution to be designated H. J. Res. 27, which the Congressman requested because, if approved, the legislation would become the 27th Amendment.

At least two dozen national organizations, such as the National Tax Limitation Committee, the National Taxpayers Union and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, have indicated early and strong support for the resolution.

Bureau Slams Regs

Texas Farm Bureau President S. M. True says that although the final pesticide regulations "appear to be more workable and do show improvement, our organization still maintains that the regulations are unreasonable and definitely unnecessary."

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower on Dec. 21 announced the final regulations which will go into effect January 21.

In a letter to 35 agricultural groups which opposed the proposals first announced in October, True said the final draft completes Hightower's "first move to wean farmers and ranchers from using agricultural chemicals."

True told the agriculture groups that "we must maintain our unity on this issue as the Commissioner has full authority to implement these or more restrictive regulations."

In his letter, the TFB President praised the efforts of those who opposed the first-announced regulations in five hearings around Texas in November.

"Credit is due and congratulations are in order for the many farmers and ranchers and others who pleaded their case so effectively against the unreasonable regulations. Your leadership and your organization's efforts were most helpful in obtaining the beneficial changes," True said.

"The final draft is very different from the first copy which was 'bootlegged' from the Texas Department of Agriculture back in August."

"We were going against great odds in opposing an agency which already had its mind made up when we began our efforts in August," he said.

True said that the Texas Farm Bureau convention delegates November left no doubt of how they felt about the regulations. The 1410 delegates, representing the 317,5 member families of the Texas Farm Bureau, approved the following resolution:

"We support legislation which would remove the authority of the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture to make arbitrary decisions concerning agricultural chemicals."

True said the Texas Farm Bureau from the beginning opposed the regulations because "the need for such regulations had not been sufficiently documented, the Texas Department of Agriculture currently has ample authority to prevent pesticide abuse and the end result would be needless burden and added cost to farmers and ranchers who are already in an economic squeeze."

City Council

question about how many members should be on the board.

Mayor Giles McCrary suggested the city look into exercising its one-half mile extra-territorial jurisdiction for the purposes of planning future development, specifically when the Post Lake project starts.

A contract for preparing engineering studies for the city-county park improvement project with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper was signed, setting the stage for the improvements which are expected to begin in the spring.

The park improvements are part of a Texas state parks grant, with county and city matching funds.

Council member Larry Mills aired a complaint about Star Cable TV service, explaining that a customer had been told by Star Cable that a service call would not be answered unless there were at least five complaints from that same area.

The final action by the council was a resolution naming the Caprock Cultural Association as the primary arts agency for Post, Texas.

Attending the meeting were Mayor McCrary, council members McKamie, Jack Ault, Maxine Earl, Lewis Holly and Mills.

City manager Pool, secretary Wanda Wilkerson and attorney Morton were also at the meeting.

Cotton Talks

Officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. are joining other cotton industry leaders in urging all-out attendance at the second of Cotton Incorporated's annual producer meetings to be held in Lubbock January 16, beginning at 6 p. m. in the Memorial Civic Center.

For producers, ginners and others connected with the industry in the High Plains and nearby southwestern areas, says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "It's a once-a-year opportunity to update their knowledge of CI's extensive work on behalf of U. S. cotton."

The meeting will open with a Big Ham's barbecue dinner, provided, as last year, compliments of American Cyanamid Company.

The hour-and-a-half meeting to follow will work from the theme "Building Markets for You." Featured will be top CI executives in charge of consumer advertising, retail merchandising, international marketing, product development and production research.

CI has assured us, Johnson says, that there will be no "dry speeches." Instead states CI's Associate Director of Field Services Earle Younts, "The reports will be interesting and fast-moving, with plenty of audiovisual illustration and ample time for questions and answers."

CI funds come from producer contributions of just over two dollars per bale, collected by first buyers. Called the "Producer's fiber company," CI conducts programs of research, product development, consumer promotion, farm production research, foreign market expansion and fabric development, plus supplying technical assistance to mills, manufacturers and retailers.

Before 1984, CI held a single annual meeting at its Raleigh, North Carolina research headquarters, providing an opportunity for only a limited number of cotton people to view its market development activities. Four meetings were held across the Cotton Belt, with good attendance, in early 1984.

This year the Lubbock meeting is one of seven being held, making it practical for thousands to hear a firsthand update on what's being done with producer dollars.

A life-threatening episode can be the catalyst that leads us to modify or completely restyle our priorities. Such was true of former governor John Connally, wounded in the presidential assassination some 20 years ago. New Years Resolution

By Glenda Baker
 Each year thousands of Americans wake up on New Years Day vowing to never take another drink.

For alcoholics the vow is one they have made hundreds of times to themselves and their families. Resolutions are invariably broken as the obsession to drink overpowers all promises and good intentions. Thus another day and another year in the progression of the disease of alcoholism.

Alcoholics generally begin drinking for the same reason others drink. The difference they find is that their non-alcoholic friends can drink or not drink as they choose while they become increasingly dependent on the drug of alcohol.

Chronic alcoholism does not happen overnight. Many alcoholics drink for years without any real problems before the progression of alcoholism begins.

In the early stages of the disease relief drinking gradually becomes constant drinking to solve everyday problems. As a tolerance to alcohol progresses, so does the feelings of guilt and inability to stop drinking when others do. The onset of memory blackouts and increasing dependence on Each brought a sharper focus, a honing of his commitment to things lasting and of God.

In lives that seek God, the best is still ahead. May our own experiences of days and events past be only that which shapes our pursuit of tomorrow. Experience becomes the training ground for obtaining a greater future. Then in our tomorrows we can truly win the race set before us.

alcohol is a sign of the crucial phase of alcoholism.

As the disease progresses work and money problems generally occur and friends and family are avoided as efforts to control drinking fail repeatedly. Many try geographical escapes, only to find added problems and heavier drinking sprees coming closer together.

The chronic phase of alcoholism brings about a decrease in alcohol tolerance, moral deterioration and physical deterioration from the neglect of food occur.

Impaired thinking and blackouts give cause for indefinable fears and the morning drink becomes necessary to control tremors in order to function.

At this chronic stage the obsession with drinking and inability to stop continues in vicious circles until complete defeat is admitted and they seek help for alcoholism.

If your New Years resolution was to stop drinking and you have already found yourself in a daily battle with yourself over alcohol please seek help now for a safe and healthy New Year.

EMCYTRAT

The loudest noise created in a laboratory is 210 decibels or 400,000 acoustic watts, reported by NASA in October 1965. The noise came from a 48-foot steel and concrete horn at Huntsville, Alabama. Holes can be bored in solid material by this means.

Reduction noise levels for the residents of communities surrounding airports is the goal of an extensive pilot-awarness program, sponsored by the National Business Aircraft Association (NBAA). Pilots are encouraged to use techniques especially on approach and takeoff, such as avoiding low flying around populated areas near airports whenever possible, or cutting back on power when flying over noise sensitive areas—flying techniques that can make a real difference in the amount of aircraft sounds people on the ground can hear. It's a program that's helping many Americans enjoy the benefits airports bring to their areas—more jobs and better business—with far less noisy interference.

Double Ring Vows -Read Here Jan. 1

Double ring wedding vows were exchanged between Mona Love Porter and Michael Vaughn Williams January 1 in the Post Nazarene Church.

Clifton Smith of Post read the 2 p. m. ceremony before a white arch with greenery and royal blue bows and candle trees on either side. Pews were marked with white bows and fresh baby's breath.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Porter of Vega, Texas and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dooley of Post.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Vogue designer original ankle length gown of white satin. She carried a bouquet of blue silk flowers and fresh baby's breath in a white wicker basket.

Matron of honor was Angela Jordan of Levelland, sister of the bride and bridesmaids were Janet Davis of Vega and Lana Porter of Amarillo, sister of the bride. They wore royal blue taffeta gowns with sweetheart neckline, large puff sleeves and gathered skirts. They carried smaller matching baskets, matching that of the bride.

Wedding guests were registered by Mr. and Mrs. Monte Williams, brother of the bridegroom.

Serving as best man was Tim Tanner of Post. Groomsmen were Steve Kitchens and Bobby Smith all of Post. They wore silver gray tuxedos, western ties, blue jeans and boots.

Acting as ushers were Rodger Lowery of Vega and Rickey Thomas of Levelland. The ushers also served as candlelighters.

Wedding music was provided by Margie Pennell, pianist and Denise Upton of Tahoka, soloist, who sang "You Light Up My Life," and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception followed the ceremony in the Nazarene Church Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was laid with a royal blue cloth with lace overlay, the bridesmaids baskets were used as centerpieces and crystal appointments were used. The groom's table was laid with a royal blue over white lace cloth, using silver appointments and a chocolate boot cake was served.

Members of the houseparty were Janie Tanner, Tammy Owens and Edith Thomas.

Following a wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple are residing in Post.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Vega High School and a 1984 graduate of South Plains College with an associate degree in Science. The bridegroom is a Post High School graduate and attended South Plains College. He is employed by C & C Well Service in Post.

Twin Cedar News

By Darla Davis

Hi there, here we are again. I would like to apologize for not having an article in the paper for the last couple of weeks, with Christmas and New Years everything has been so busy.

Everybody had such a good time over the Christmas holidays and would like to thank all of those who helped to make our Christmas a special one.

We would like to welcome Agnes Odom and Roberta Barnes back with us. They were in Garza Memorial Hospital for a while. They are doing much better now.

Sunday services were brought to us by the First Baptist Church. We really enjoyed the church service and all of the good fellowship that they bring to us. It is always so sweet of them to remember us in their prayers.

We have had so many visitors and would like to welcome each and everyone of them. We always appreciate people coming and thinking of us.

Well until next week, keep this thought in mind: "Faith in God helps us ride out any storm."

Arbor Day Foundation Urges Tree Planting

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free trees to people who become Foundation members during January, 1985.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to encourage tree planting throughout America.

A Colorado Blue Spruce, Red Maple, White Flowering Dogwood, Red Oak, European Mountainash, Black Walnut, Silver Maple, Norway Spruce, Green Ash, and Sugar Maple tree will be given to members joining during January.

These trees were selected to provide a wide range of benefits: flowers, shade, berries, nuts and beautiful fall foliage, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring. The Foundation makes its spring shipments between February 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting and conservation. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during January.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by January 31, 1985.

Fabulous Fallacies!

Myths about acne can cause confusion for many acne sufferers. First, acne is neither caused nor worsened by what you eat. Next, the disease is not infectious, nor is it caused by poor hygiene or dirt on the skin. In fact, for those with acne, too much washing can dry out the skin too much.

Perhaps the most misleading myth of all is that nothing can be done for acne—that only the passage of time will improve the condition. Actually, acne can be significantly improved if properly treated by a doctor. Among the treatments a dermatologist—a medical doctor who is a skin specialist—can prescribe for acne is an antibiotic, such as Cleocin T, which is applied to the skin and helps kill the bacteria involved in acne blemishes.

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

Dieters who want to succeed should promise themselves some pleasant activities during the day, psychologists say. Exercise with a friend... see a good movie... make time for your favorite hobbies. Brighten low-calorie diets with delicious but non-fattening treats, such as a hot cup of tea between meals. Soothing and satisfying, it can help keep your waistline trim!
