Supreme Court Permits Board Ruling To Hold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to review a government arbitration board ruling that could mean ultimate loss of about 48,000 jobs of railroad freight and yard firemen and other train crewmen.

Four railroad operating unions attacked the ruling in two appeals. Today's decision means that the board's ruling stands.

The railroads declined comment on the decision, except to point out that under the agreement with the unions the arbitration award will go into effect May 7—10 days after the final court decision.

Only firemen will be affected directly, because the local bargaining machinery involving other train crewmen already has been set in motion.

The issues the unions raised were separate from those in the prolonged rail labor dispute in which President Johnson announced April 22 that an agreement had been worked out.

The Supreme Court's refusal to review was announced in a brief order, which gave no reasons. The order noted that Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, former secretary of labor, took no part in the case.

NEW AIR FORCE CARGO PLANE
—Oklahoma City—The Air Force announced Monday that its training program for pilots and flight engineers for the new Lockheed C-141 Starlifter transport will be held at Tinker AFB. Fourteen of the craft

Weather Calms After Heavy Rains

By KATRICIA COCHRAN

Generally calm weather has been promised Wichitans this week as a respite from the recent turbulence - plagued days which saw 2.62 inches of rain occur in a four-day deluge.

No precipitation is anticipated for the next several days and skies will be clear to partly cloudy.

Officials at the U.S. Weather Bureau said that Monday's winds won't be nearly so stiff as those which whistled through the city Sunday hitting up to 42 miles per hour from the west. Winds Monday were west - northwesterly at 15 to 20 m.p.h.

Outlook
Temperatures were expected to warm somewhat. The high Monday was due to be near 80 following Sunday's 76. Early Monday morning the minimum was 53.

Tuesday should have a low of about 55 with a maximum in the low 80s.

Forecasters said there is no immediate rain in sight. However, the extended outlook calls for the possibility of some moisture in the latter part of the week.

April doesn't need the rain. The downpour of last week boosted the month's tally to 3.22 inches while par for all of April is 2.53 inches.

Up to Wednesday, only .60 of an inch of moisture had fallen this month. But the hail-spiked thunderstorms deposited 2.62 inches with the greatest amount, 2.04, occurring Friday.

Above Normal
Total precipitation for the year now stands at 7.19 inches while normal through April 27 is 6.25 inches.

Although Wichita Falls and area cities got more than a

President Asked To Confer On Civil Rights Bill Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., called today for President Johnson to confer with congressional leaders and agree to make some changes in the civil rights bill.

Aiken, who said he wanted to support a strong measure, told the Senate he felt that the present version contains "some outstanding weaknesses."

"President Johnson must know that continued insistence on passing the bill identically as it came from the House will likely result in killing the legislation," Aiken said.

The time has come for the President to confer in changes which "will eliminate discriminations and wipe out the political implications and tinges of hypocrisy it now contains," Aiken said.

"I believe the President can do this and if he will do so I shall give the resulting proposal my fullest active support," Aiken said.

Teamster Boss Called To Trial

Jack Ruby Denied Criminal Charges Move To Hospital

DALLAS (AP) — Condemned killer Jack Ruby seemed assured today of a new full scale jury trial to determine whether he is now sane or insane.

This development came during a hearing today on a defense request asking for hospitalization at once of the slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald. Judge Joe Brown denied the motion.

Ruby's sister, Mrs. Eva Grant of Dallas, formally asked Judge Brown to empanel a jury and go into the question solely on whether Ruby now is insane, as she contends.

Provided Mrs. Grant's petition is properly drawn, legal sources said, Judge Brown has no choice under state law but to order a full dress trial to determine whether Ruby is insane.

If a jury finds Ruby sane, his death sentence for killing Oswald stands. If a jury decides he is insane, he must be committed to a state hospital and remain there unless state experts later decide Ruby has regained his sanity—and must be tried once more.

Present appeals from his conviction automatically would be suspended by a finding of insanity.

Ruby looked extremely pale and obviously agitated as he returned to the court room where he was convicted March 14 and sentenced to the electric chair for killing Oswald.

Dr. Louis West, the defense psychiatrist, said in advance that Ruby was "preoccupied with delusions of persecution of Jews" and "obviously psychotic."

West is head of the department of psychiatry and neurology at the University of Oklahoma school of medicine and a consultant with the aerospace research center at San Antonio.

West examined Ruby after the prisoner's nearly bald head was banged against a cell wall Sunday in what Sheriff Bill Dekker said was "a deliberate act."

Ruby's head bore a red mark about the size of a half dollar as he appeared in court.

Judge Brown allowed Dr. West to read a prepared statement and then formally denied the defense request. Defense lawyers said they wanted to let West administer drugs and hypnosis in hope of determining whether malice and premeditation governed Ruby at the time he shot Oswald.

Ruby's sister, Mrs. Eva Grant of Dallas, sobbed quietly while West was on the stand. Before court convened, she filed a petition asking a sanity hearing for Ruby. There was no indication when Brown might rule on the request.

Lawyers for Ruby asked Judge Brown several days ago to order the transfer of the prisoner to a hospital. The former night club operator pleaded insanity at the trial in which he drew the death penalty for killing Oswald two days after the Nov. 22 assassination of President Kennedy.

Guards searched all newsmen and other spectators.

TO BUSINESSMEN

Johnson Promises Federal Restraint

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that times are good, there is no inherent hostility between business and government. He pledged to businessmen that the government will act with restraint and responsibility.

In return, Johnson asked for restraint from businessmen in decisions which affect the general economic well-being and responsibility in choosing to support or oppose government policies and proposals which serve all the people.

Johnson faced his largest audience of businessmen, representatives of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, in Constitution Hall.

In his prepared address, he said that racial and religious discrimination costs more than $15 billion a year and unused or underused manpower costs even more.

"That is why," he said, "this administration is dedicated to lifting of the burdens which weigh down our national productivity, expansion and prosperity."

The President covered a broad sweep of domestic and foreign policy in generalities.

"As this nation can be reasonable without becoming reckless in relations with other nations," he said, "I believe this government must be more frugal without becoming less compassionate here at home."

And he told the businessmen in a speech that was friendly and laced with bits of humor that:

"Whatever else you have, you have an independent, tax-paying, light-bill-saving president in the White House — one who has faith in America and faith in American enterprise."

GOP Candidate Here Tuesday

Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, George Bush, will arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday evening to meet with supporters. Campaigning Tuesday in Big Spring, Lubbock and Abilene, Bush will arrive in time to attend a 7:30 coffee planned for him at the Woman's Forum Clubhouse.

Bush, one of the top contenders for the Senate seat, subject to the Republican primary Saturday, has an enviable record of success. He was one of the youngest Navy pilots ever commissioned. For his bravery in action in the Pacific he won three Air Medals and the Distinguished Flying Cross. Going to work in Midland at the end of his Navy service he was the organizer and is now president of Zapata Offshore Co., with headquarters in Houston. While in Midland he became interested in both civic and Republican party affairs. He was founder of the Midland YMCA and in 1956 was named one of the CHICAGO (AP) — Selection of jurors was begun today for the third trial of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, on criminal charges since he took over leadership of the nation's largest union.

GEORGE BUSH

Before prospective jurors were called for questioning, defense and government lawyers conferred privately in the chambers of Judge Richard B. Austin of U.S. District Court for 40 minutes.

Hoffa, already under conviction for attempting to rig a jury in another case, and seven codefendants are charged with fraudulently obtaining $20 million in loans from the union's pension funds.

Hoffa talked with reporters before the court session began. He declined to discuss reports that officials of the union are disputing over who should pay the lawyers defending him.

The union's general counsel, Edward Bennett Williams, is reported to have started the controversy by advising that it would be illegal for the union to pay the fees.

A special venire of 100 prospective jurors was on hand and another 200 have been directed to appear later, if needed.

Attorneys for the government and the defendants have said they expect the trial to last three to five months.

The Teamsters' president and three others were convicted on March 4 in Chattanooga, Tenn., of tampering with a jury during Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville, Tenn. The Nashville trial ended when the jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

Hoffa has appealed the conviction and is free on $100,000 bond.

The present trial revolves around a 28-count indictment returned last year against the 51-year-old labor leader and seven others. Conviction on all counts could result in penalties totaling 140 years imprisonment and $37,000 in fines for each of the accused men.

First Lady From Texas

The indictments accuse the eight defendants of diverting more than $1 million for their personal benefit while fraudulently arranging loans totaling $20 million from the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund, of which Hoffa is a trustee. The fund has its headquarters in Chicago.

The fund was set up in 1955 and collects payments from employers for the benefit of more than 177,000 Teamsters in 20 states. Administered by eight trustees representing employers and eight representing the union, the fund has assets totaling about $200 million.

Hoffa was the only trustee indicted. He is accused of influencing the other trustees to approve loans sought by his seven codefendants for themselves and others.

Soviet Engineers Blasting Channel Through Landslide

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet engineers have begun blasting in an attempt to drain off flood waters threatening the fabled Mongol capital of Samarkand and villages along the Zeravshan River blocked by a huge landslide.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said engineers sent to the edge of the Pamir Mountains in Southwest Asia Sunday night began blasting a canal through the slide, which was said to be as high as an 80-story building and 2,000 feet wide.

Pravda said 625 million cubic feet of water have built up behind the slide, which on Friday formed a huge natural dam. It said the water level behind the dam rose more than 105 feet in 50 hours.

The landslide dropped into the Zeravshan at a point where the river flows through a gorge.

Engineers are blasting a canal 985 feet long to drain the backed up waters into the river bed below the dam formed by the landslide. Otherwise, it was feared the pent up waters would sweep away the dam and unleash a torrent on villages along the river and on Samarkand, ancient city of blue-tiled mosques and new industries.

The area is 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow, near the juncture of the Soviet Union, Red China and Afghanistan.

Junior Editors Quiz on UMBRELLAS

QUESTION: Is there a difference between an umbrella and a parasol?

ANSWER: Originally both of these were designed as protection from sun, not rain. The Latin word 'umbra' meant shade, and from this came 'umbrella'—a little shade. 'Parasol', derived from the Italian 'parasole', combines the words 'parare' meaning to ward off, with 'sole' or sun. The countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea, were hot and dry, with a fierce sun, and shade was a great luxury. From very early times, such as the Egyptian and Babylonian, Pharaohs and other important people had slaves hold sunshades over them, and these became the first umbrellas. The Greeks and Romans also used them. But as the Roman Empire began to spread north into wetter regions, Romans discovered the umbrella was even better as a protection from rain. By the 1700's, umbrellas were used throughout Europe for this purpose. However, by the early 1800's parasols also had come into fashion; wherever lady went she carried her parasol to protect her skin from the sun. We still think of parasols as light sunshades used by women and of umbrellas as larger, used to ward off the rain.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try to think of an important exception to the rule we just made. Give up? It's the beach umbrella—much larger than any parasol, and yet used for the same purpose, to protect from the sun.

Defense Firms Issued Warning

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen are being advised to plan for a gradual shift of some government spending from defense to civilian programs.

The financial publishing firm, Prentice-Hall, discusses the change and possibilities in the latest issue of its Executive Report.

"Develop your capabilities so you can take advantage of the big new growth markets that are shaping up," it counsels. "Initiate or intensify research and development of new products and technologies in the directions that growth in nondefense sectors is likely to take."

Take Up Slack

It is expected that actual and prospective defense spending declines will likely be offset—and outweighed—by heavier expenditures on civil public works and nondefense services.

Prentice-Hall says: "Prepare now to tap new growth markets in nondefense lines by either expanding into them or merging with firms now active in them."

"Whether you are a defense contractor or not, your business will be affected by defense spending cuts—either directly as contracts and subcontracts get skimpier, or indirectly as the secondary effects of defense spending weaken."

Likely Areas

The publisher sees the areas likely to gain most from prospective channeling of public funds into civilian uses as urban renewal, urban mass transit, water and sewer systems and education and medical services.

To rehabilitate American cities, an average of $10.5 billion annually in public and private funds will be required for the next 20 years. About $1.5 billion was spent for that purpose in 1963.

Financial requirements to relieve growing congestion in downtown areas by fast rail and bus service are officially calculated at $1 billion a year for 10 years. Current annual expenditures run to less than one-fifth of that.

Urgent Needs

Spending of about $4 billion yearly through 1970 is needed to eliminate the backlog of urgent needs for water and sewer systems. Only about half that amount is being spent now.

Construction of 100,000 classrooms annually is needed through 1969, compared with about 65,000 built in 1963. The market for educational aids will grow faster than school construction as industry and government manpower training programs expand.

Health services will expand rapidly. About $1 billion is needed to modernize hospitals. Medical schools, now training 8,000 enrolled students a year, will eventually have to take care of 12,000 to meet health service demands.

WEATHER—

fair share of rain, the lakes all but missed out on it. Lake Kickapoo, the city's water supply, received only .79 of an inch of moisture Friday and Saturday.

Monday morning the water level at Kickapoo was 1,039.2 while spillway is 1,045. The rains caused very little rise in the level and the lake isn't expected to get up any higher as a result of the light moisture which fell there.

Lake Diversion, which at first was expected to wash over its spillway and possibly cause some serious flooding, didn't quite make it.

Flooding Limited

Despite the better than three inches of rain which fell there during the violent storms, the level Monday registered 1,051.1 — just under the spillway mark of 1,061.4. The pounding precipitation did cause almost a foot rise in the lake level.

No increase in the water level is anticipated at Lake Kemp where only .15 of an inch of rain fell Friday. The level of the lake is 1,133.7 while the spillway mark is 1,150.6.

Neither did the rains cause the rivers to rise as high as was at first anticipated. The Wichita River was receding steadily.

At Kamay, where some seven inches of rain occurred, only two homes had any water wash in although several were threatened.

Squad Exhibitions

Kiwanis Plans Benefit Games

Two inter-squad exhibition football games, sponsored by the Wichita Falls Kiwanis Club, are planned for May 7 and 8. The teams of both schools were guests of the Kiwanis Club at noon Monday in the YMCA.

Permission was given for the benefit games following the spring training of the two teams.

In the past only one exhibition game has been played, but with the Rider Raiders now classified in 4-AAAA, they will be able to join in this special event.

Walter T. Fowler, games chairman, said all proceeds from the football games will go to the North Texas Crippled Children Clinic and Youth Fund.

Rider High School will play Thursday, May 7 at Midwestern University. The Coyotes will play in Coyote Stadium Friday, May 8.

Tickets will be on sale in advance, with the Ki-Anns promising their help with the ticket sales.

Sonic Booms To Sound Here

Despite fair and sunny skies, loud "thunderclaps" may rumble over Wichita Falls and area this week: the thunder will be sonic booms.

Supersonic flight activity will be conducted daily from Monday through this Friday along an air corridor which will pass over the vicinity of Wichita Falls, according to announcement by the 19th Air Division of Strategic Air Command located at Carswell Air Force Base, Tex.

Sonic booms may be heard by Wichitans at intervals during each day as these Air Force training flights traverse the route from Altus Air Force Base to a point 15 miles northeast of Bowie and then terminating over Marshal, Tex.

The sonic boom, resembling a loud clap of thunder, is caused by the shock wave of air accompanying an aircraft flying faster than the speed of sound. When this wave of air pressure reaches the ground, it is registered to the ear in a booming sound.

The intensity of the boom varies with the altitude and speed of the aircraft in supersonic flight, the atmospheric conditions and the characteristics of the terrain over which the flight is conducted.

All of these supersonic flights are scheduled to be flown during the daylight hours.

Washington Scores At State Meet

At the state tennis meet Thursday and Friday, Jacqueline Jackson and Lois Grate won the women's doubles from the Waco team, then in the finals were defeated by the Lufkin team.

In men's doubles, Darron Ingram and Tommie Knight were defeated in the first round.

Miss Jackson won the "first round in women's singles by default and then was defeated by the Lufkin player.

Miss Grate received a second place medal in the women's doubles and Miss Jackson received two second place medals, one for women's singles and one for women's doubles.

New Viet Nam Commander Is Tough; He Wants To Win

EDITOR'S NOTE—

Li Gen. Westmoreland takes command of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam on Aug. 1. An Associated Press writer who served under him in Korea gives a picture of the man who is getting one of the Army's toughest assignments.

By HUBERT J. ERB

NEW YORK (AP)—The new U.S. commander in South Viet Nam — Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland — is tough. Ask any man who served under him. All he thinks about is winning.

He showed it in the Korean war where he commanded the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, "The Rakkasans," Japanese for those who descend by umbrella.

As one who served under Westmoreland, the writer remembers the 50-year-old general's best in his own words. The scene was a command position overlooking the Red Chinese lines on a sunlit afternoon. Westmoreland was addressing a half dozen officers seeing action with the regiment for the first time.

Pursue The Enemy

"Gentlemen," he said, "we take our losses but we fight bravely, we pursue the enemy, and when we have him, we annihilate him."

Later, when war's end was just around the corner but a big Red push was on next door to the 187th's Kumwha Valley "Blackjack Bastion," Westmoreland came up front and called together the officers and senior noncoms of the 3rd Battalion's K Company.

"You are here," he said, drawing a line on the ground with his right foot. "If the enemy comes, you may go to here."

He took a step sideways and with his left foot drew a line about 30 inches behind the first. "No further. Here you will stand and here you will die if need be."

Westmoreland's paratroopers loved the general. On a move forward, a lead company was astounded to find the general, wearing a full pack, waiting for them atop a high ridge. He had a habit of piling into a plane and announcing, "Ok, men, let's go jump."

He favored short haircuts on the troops and allowed no mustaches on the Rakkasans.

Westmoreland constantly badgered 8th Army headquarters to let him attack. On one occasion headquarters turned down his request to launch a sally but told him to get some prisoners.

Westmoreland sent a platoon up a draw in Chinese territory under cover of night. The next afternoon he sent a light plane over the Chinese positions. The Reds fired, the plane smoked and a body fell out, coming to earth near the draw by parachute. The plane disappeared.

Smoke Grenade

The body was a dummy. The smoke was a grenade ignited by the pilot and the plane skimmed back to U.S. lines at bush level.

Soon a Chinese patrol moved into the draw, looking for the parachutist. The Rakkasan platoon, lying in wait, took several Chinese prisoners and killed at least 30 of the enemy.

Westmoreland's motto for his regiment was "All the way!" The troops made up a song about it.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible To Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H®.

In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

Closed Nuclear Explosive Plants May Be Converted

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear explosive plants shut down by President Johnson's cutback in plutonium production may be converted into huge civilian electric power plants.

The Atomic Energy Commission considers the conversion to be technically feasible and has invited utility firms to undertake studies, at their own expense, of the economic and engineering problems involved.

Two reactors soon to be withdrawn from producing plutonium — one at AEC's Hanford, Wash., installation and the other at Savannah River, S.C. — have been offered for commercial power generation.

An AEC official said the two have the capability of delivering "many hundreds of megawatts" of electric power — that is, many hundreds of millions of watts — if the shift to peaceful use can be carried through.

This would suggest a capacity larger than any of the 13 nuclear plants now producing commercial power.

At Savannah River, one group of 11 Southern utility companies has signed an agreement with AEC to invest $300,000 to $400,000 in studying the feasibility of taking over the heavy-water type reactor scheduled to be shut down about July 1.

Two other groups have indicated interest in this reactor, one of them representing a number of rural electrical co-ops.

The AEC has invited private and public utilities in the Pacific Northwest to undertake similar feasibility studies at the Hanford Center, looking to the possible conversion and operation of one of the three plutonium producing reactors being discontinued there.

Some utility groups have expressed interest informally in this reactor, an AEC spokesman said, but none has yet committed itself to undertake a feasibility study.

The AEC is particularly anxious to encourage private ventures at Hanford, because curtailment of AEC activities there is expected to reduce employment in the surrounding tri-city area of Richland, Pasco and Kennewick, Wash.

AEC spokesmen said they could provide no guidance on whether the government, if successful in turning the reactors over to private industry, could expect to recover any substantial part of its large investment in the nuclear fireboxes.

AEC has not indicated specifically whether it hopes to sell or lease the idle Hanford and Savannah River reactors.

The feasibility study at Savannah River is being made by the Bechtel Corp., as general contractor for 11 Southeastern private utility firms joined under the name of the Savannah River Nuclear Study Group.

Peptic Ulcers Now Plaguing Children

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Ulcers, once considered the monopoly of beleaguered businessmen, are plaguing children.

Peptic ulcers are more common in infants and children than was formerly believed because it is much harder to recognize in children than in adults. A child, unfortunately, cannot always describe his symptoms accurately. Also, peptic ulcer symptoms always vary with age.

Often there are no symptoms until a complication such as perforation of the ulcer through the wall of the stomach, intestine or through a large blood vessel occurs. If a blood vessel is perforated there may be a massive hemorrhage through the bowels or vomiting of blood.

Several factors contribute to the cause of peptic ulcers in children. They are seen more often in children with parents who have had ulcers. They appear to be commoner in those whose blood group is O. Boys are afflicted about six times as frequently as girls.

As with adults, ulcers may follow extensive burns, treatment with the cortisone group of drugs, malnutrition or a serious debilitating disease. These children are usually more high-strung than their playmates and they often harbor hostile feelings that they may not show. They have a stronger than average need for praise and affection.

Although X-ray examination should be used in the diagnosis, the results are often less definite in a child than in an adult. However, once diagnosis is made, treatment is often easier than with an adult. One child was cured when his father arranged to spend more time with him. Whatever the factors are that make the child tense, they should be found and corrected. When medical or surgical measures are required they are the same as for an adult with an ulcer.

Mechanic Is Blood Donor

The records at the Red River Regional Blood Center list Grady Smith as a mechanic but he really is a lifesaver. He gives regularly of his O positive type blood and has become a member of the Red Cross Gallon Club made up of persons who have donated a gallon or more of their own blood to transfuse others.

For his service to his fellow man, Smith received a certificate of appreciation from the Wichita Falls Times and Record News. Blood Center officials presented him with a lapel pin shaped like a golden drop of blood.

Smith, a Baptist, and his wife, Phillis K., and son, Jeffrey Scott, reside at 2005 Kemp. He belongs to the IOOF and likes music.

For Tuesday, April 28

Present—For You and Yours . . . During the early hours, temper is apt to flare, but soon dies down. Don't let obstacles cause you to feel resentful toward your superiors. The cause probably lies on your own doorstep. Bide your time as people will be more cheerful and kind as the day progresses. Aspects are great for evening.

Past . . . On April 28, 1942, the government ordered all communities within fifteen miles of the Atlantic coast to "dim-out" their electric lights to mislead Nazi submarines during World War II.

Future . . . When they land on the moon, the Apollo astronauts will be clad in suits and equipped with back packs that will function in effect as one-man spaceships, meeting most life-sustaining needs.

Charisse Woods, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Jean Woods, 406 Calhoun, received the biggest thrill of her two-year career as an autograph hunter recently when the mailman delivered a picture of President Lyndon B. Johnson and his family with an autographed calling card from the president and a letter from Juanita D. Roberts, the President's personal secretary.

Charisse, an eighth-grade student at Hirsch Junior High School, has already collected 30 autographed pictures, including an official photograph of the late President John F. Kennedy and another of Mrs. Kennedy with her children.

She received a prompt reply from President Johnson's secretary, together with the family picture and the autographed calling card.

"This is wonderful. I thought the newspaper should know about it," Charisse said.

The youthful collector also has autographed pictures from many Western television and movie stars, and a picture of Jay North, who plays "Dennis the Menace."

Charisse, whose other hobbies are swimming and horseback riding, wants to be a rodeo queen when she gets older.

Banged-Up Escapee Does It Again

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—LeRoy Turnbill Jr., 36, who had casts on both legs and walked with crutches, managed to escape from a deputy sheriff.

Turnbill's legs were broken when he jumped from a jail window at Lexington in February. He was taken from the Jefferson County Jail to a hospital Friday to have the casts removed.

The jail's chief security officer, William Davis, said the deputy was talking to a hospital clerk about another prisoner when he saw Turnbill walk down the hall and into a room with a man wearing a white coat.

WAIT A MINUTE... are you going to spend all that money?

Sure, it's yours. You earned it... you deserve it. That's just what we're talking about! Part of that money should be yours to keep. So, before you start out to buy all the things you feel you need, pay yourself first. Take out a reasonable amount — try $10 a month — and start a regular savings program. Then take that money out first every payday.

Here's what will happen. You'll get along just about the same. You'll notice little difference in the way you live or the things you have... except you'll have a savings backlog, and that's one of the most comforting feelings in the world.

Why not do this? Tear out this ad and put it in your pocket or on your dresser as a constant reminder. Then next payday — the very next one, don't put it off — stop in and see us. Pay yourself first.

Ray Walston Finally Hits It

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is Ray Walston's year—and about time!

The offbeat comedian-actor has been turning in fine, stylized performances on the stage and screen — "South Pacific," "Damn Yankees" — for several years without making an appreciable impact on the public. This television season he finally hit big with "My Favorite Martian."

Now he has inherited a leading role in "Kiss Me, Stupid" from heart-stricken Peter Sellers. There can be no doubt he is enjoying his surfeit of riches.

Nothing Before
"I've made a lot of pictures in pretty good roles and nothing happened," he remarked. "Now maybe it will."

"There are two versions of how it happened," said Walston. "I read in the trade papers on the Tuesday after Sellers' illness that Danny Kaye and Tony Randall were being considered as replacements."

"That started me thinking. Randall had beaten me out of a couple of parts I wanted to play. Why couldn't I do the role? So I placed a call to my agents and told them to talk to Billy Wilder about it."

Other Version
"The other story is that even before my agents could get through to Wilder, he was placing a call to them to ask about my availability."

It was learned later that both stories were correct. The thought of Walston's casting apparently occurred to him and Wilder at the same time.

The actor went to see the producer-director-writer and reminded him of a remark he made during the filming of "The Apartment." "You told me one day you would write me a good part," Walston said.

"This is a great part," Wilder corrected.

But Walston still didn't have the job. He took the script home and called Wilder the next day.

Little To Say
"I told him it was a very good script," said Walston. "What else could I say? That it was the best script I had ever read? I couldn't say that to Billy Wilder. I'd sound like an idiot from Hicksville."

Walston, a confirmed worrier, noted that Wilder sounded chilly over the phone, and he feared he had blown the job. His fears were unfounded. He finished the season's shooting of "My Favorite Martian" on a Thursday and began "Kiss Me, Stupid" the next Monday.

Wilder and Walston have contended over only one issue — the actor's hair. Said the actor: "Wilder said my blonde Martian style looked like a poodle. He wanted me to dye it black, which I feared would make me look like some Italian villain."

Alaskans Fear Spring Breakup

By JOE RIGERT

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's largest city, parts of it resting on a bed of blue clay, is thawing out from a long winter's freeze.

There is nothing unusual about the "breakup," as Alaskans call it. Every year, the warming weather defrosts the refrigerated soil and releases the ice-bound rivers.

Alaskans look forward to spring's coming — out party, when the lawns green up, the leaves and flowers burst forth. But the great Alaskan earthquake has changed all that.

To the citizens of Anchorage, the breakup has become a threat rather than a promise.

New Threat

The earthquake posed the threat; the thaw may add to it, and the blue clay is at the bottom of it.

The clay, underlying parts of the city with an estimated thickness of more than 250 feet in some places, has been blamed for the earthquake-triggered landslides that caused a major share of the $200 million damage in the Anchorage area.

Geologists say the underlying clay, which is weak and unstable even in normal circumstances, remains deeply disturbed from the seismic upheaval.

A group of 40 geologists, after a study, said spring thawing probably will weaken the clay mass even more in four major slide areas along Anchorage bluffs.

Settling Likely

The likely result, they said, will be slumping, settling, and cracking of foundations.

The geologists also said another earthquake, even though less intense than that of March 27, probably would cause landslides along the vulnerable bluffs.

In view of the threat, geologists recommended evacuation of the slide-damaged bluff areas and opposed any business or residential use—all pending further study. The areas involve more than 100 city blocks and is the site of many of its finer homes and buildings.

The extent of the problem may not be known until mid-May when the earth-frozen to a depth of five feet in some places—is expected to thaw.

The City Council left evacuation of the designated hazard areas to the discretion of residents, but decided to withhold permits for repairs or new construction pending the studies.

A possible $50-million urban renewal plan in the downtown area calls for a large park and parking lots—rather than buildings—in potential slide zones.

MacArthur Plan Told In Detail

NEW YORK (AP)—Life magazine says the late General of the Army Douglas MacArthur presented a plan for ending both the Korean War and the cold war to President-elect Dwight Eisenhower in December, 1952.

The occasion was a meeting of the men at the New York home of the late John Foster Dulles, who was to become Eisenhower's secretary of state. The proposal was not carried out.

The plan called in part for an Eisenhower-Stalin summit meeting to agree on reunification of Korea and Germany under popular governments, neutralization of Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea, and removal of all foreign troops from Germany, Japan and Korea.

Alternative

As an "or else" alternative, North Korea would be cleared of enemy forces through atomic bombing and amphibious invasions—with possible bombings in Manchuria and support of a Nationalist invasion to neutralize Red China's war capability.

"Dulles praised this plan but thought Ike should first take a year to consolidate his position as president," the magazine said.

"MacArthur's counter argument—that Ike's prestige and freedom of movement would be greatest at the start of his term—was his last attempt to influence U.S. policy where it was made. He stuffed the memo in Ike's breastpocket and departed."

Editorial Comment

Life, which has purchased MacArthur's memoirs, commented on Scripps-Howard and Hearst posthumous publication of interviews with MacArthur in an editorial.

It said the memo summary of MacArthur's war-ending plan will appear in the memoirs and that its gist is this:

"During the 20 months since MacArthur's firing (as Far Eastern commander by President Harry S. Truman), the Red Chinese had vastly strengthened their Manchurian base, and above all their symbolic strength in the eyes of the world because of the U.S. failure to defeat them.

"Yet they could still be routed said MacArthur to Ike, and the Russians knew it. He therefore proposed an Ike-Stalin summit conference in which Ike would offer an ultimatum:

Reunification

"A. The reunification of Korea and Germany under forms of government to be popularly determined upon."

"B. The neutrality of Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea to be permanently guaranteed by the United States and the Soviet 'with all other nations invited to join."

"C. The removal of all foreign troops from Germany, Japan and Korea."

"D. An amendment to the U.S. and U.S.S.R. constitutions 'outlawing war as an instrument of national policy'."

LISTEN TO WHAT OUR TOUGHEST CRITICS HAVE TO SAY

You would have to search long and hard to find a tougher critic of cars than the average Cadillac owner.

For those who have owned and driven this great car over the years have become accustomed—year in and out—to the finest that motoring can offer.

And yet, occasionally, there comes along a car of such dazzling prowess that it inspires their most lavish and unstinted praise. The 1964 Cadillac is such a car.

Listen to a few current Cadillac comments:

"It took my breath away the first time I drove it."

"That new 340-horsepower engine and new transmission turn out the smoothest performance imaginable. It's a wonder in traffic."

"I found it hard to believe a car of its size could be so effortless to handle."

"I've owned five Cadillacs, and this one tops them all—on every count."

And backing up our owners are the men who evaluate cars by stop watch and test track. Never have these professional critics been so eloquent about Cadillac—or any other automobile in its class.

So the next time the talk turns to cars, listen well to the man who has driven a 1964 Cadillac.

You can believe every wonderful word he says. And you can double check him behind the wheel at your Cadillac dealer. You won't be a skeptic long.

The money came from her share of her mother's estate, which Tom Taylor had profitably reinvested for her.

Explaining this step, she observes astutely: "Lyndon has always had a marvelous status, close knit and able, but there's nobody who cares quite as much about your business as yourself, and next to yourself, your wife. I decided to serve because I cared that extra little bit. To put it bluntly, I also realized that I could probably get into a few offices and see a few people that the staff members couldn't, and this was important to Lyndon's constituents."

Lyndon, like most husbands, had no sooner married the girl whom he considered perfection than he began trying to make her over into a new mold. He urged Bird to dress more fashionably and started selecting her wardrobe for her. To please him, she cut her hair, and switched from tailored, golfing dresses to

With such evident favor at the White House, LBJ lacked even an opponent for re-elections in 1938 and 1940. Everything went smoothly, in fact, until FDR persuaded him to run for the vacant Senate seat of Morris Sheppard, who had died in office in 1941.

A dozen other candidates declared, too, but the race soon narrowed into a contest between youthful Representative Johnson and the colorful governor, W. Lee O'Daniel. The latter came

Tips To Future Teachers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE S-449: Ronald D., aged 26, just obtained his Ph.D.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have accepted a teaching position in a small Iowa college."

"And I'd like to make good. So how can I be sure that I will become a huge success as an educator?"

"I am a competitive player, so to speak, so I want to be far more than just an ordinary professor."

Tests For Teachers

Ronald already shows a cardinal sign of a superb teacher, which is real zest for that profession.

But he should also realize that teaching is only a branch of salesmanship where the professor sells intangibles vs. automobiles.

And every star salesman should have a flair for the dramatic. He must be a good actor and thus know how to catch attention of his audience.

Ideally, every teacher should serve at least one summer at house-to-house selling!

For such selling quickly forces a person to pay constant attention to the facial expression of every prospect.

A salesman thus cannot make good by reciting a monotonous palaver while looking at the ceiling and thus ignoring his customer.

Yet far too many teachers fail to maintain eye-contact with their audience.

Many of them focus on the

"Dr. Crane," a college student recently informed me, "when we are unprepared in Spanish class, all we need do is ask a question about Mexico City, and that starts the teacher on another discussion of her vacation spent down there."

Another Trait

"She'll devote the rest of the hour to her trip. And though it is boring from excessive repetition, we are willing to 'trigger' her next repetition just to avoid being called on."

Another trait of every outstanding teacher is his ability to increase the students' LIKING for his subject.

For, without this basic hunger for more facts, no student will ever become superior in any field of education.

So every star teacher is an enthusiast for his own courses. He has missionary fervor to "sell" every student on LIKING them.

Send for my "Test for Good Teachers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Rate your entire faculty thereon.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Spanish is spreading slowly among the Indians of western South America. Most still speak Quechua.

Followers Of Christ Can't Be Peevish

QUESTION: I once was a devout follower of Christ, but a few weeks ago they got a new teacher for the class I taught. Since that time, I haven't been able to pray, and I do not feel like going to church. What is the matter with me?—D.S.

ANSWER: Naturally, you were disappointed when for some reason or other you were thrust out of a place of service, which obviously you enjoyed. But, as Christians, we have a higher interest than a conspicuous place of service — we owe our allegiance to Christ. Many people are in the church for the wrong reasons: for sociability, for prominence, for reasons of pride. Our love for God should be the motivation for attending the house of the Lord; not position, not influence, and certainly not selfishness.

You ask God to forgive you for acting childish. Evidently you have great gifts and great influence. If you remain away, your influence will be jeopardized. But most of all, God will not be honored by your peevishness, and your absence from His Presence. Christianity makes us big, not petty, and God has given you the opportunity of showing how magnanimous you can be, and thus glorify Him.

Rudolf Hess, Once Number Two Nazi, Howls Like Wolf

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
BERLIN (AP) — Rudolf Hess, once Adolf Hitler's deputy, sometimes howls like a wolf in his prison cell, says a man in a position to know.

Hess was 70 last Sunday. He has been behind bars 23 years. First he was in British captivity after flying to England on a "peace mission" in 1941. Then he was sentenced to life in the Nuernberg war crimes trial.

For 17 1/2 years he has been in the allied war crimes prison in the Berlin suburb of Spandau. An officer who saw him recently says:

"Hess looks every day of his age."

"His skin is deeply wrinkled. His dark, glaring eyes are deeply sunken."

Eyebrows Gray

"His thick eyebrows are bushier than ever, but now gray."

"He looks a strange sight as he shambles around in an old German army skipcap and a long military overcoat that flaps around his ankles."

Baker's Best for Dandruff-Itchy Scalp

"His mental state has not improved with the years."

"Some nights he howls like a wolf in his cell."

"The soldiers on guard can hear him plainly and sometimes they get so fed up with it that they howl back at him."

Hess and two other convicted war criminals are the only occupants of the prison built to hold 600 inmates.

Other inmates include Baldur von Schirach, the former leader of the Hitler Youth, 57, and Albert Speer, Nazi munitions minister, 59. Both complete 20-year terms in 1966.

Hess is in for life. Nuernberg rules require sentences to be served in full.

The Western powers would probably be glad to shut down what is likely the world's most expensive prison per capita — but the Soviets have blocked all moves to grant clemency to the three men.

When Hess explodes into one of his rages, Speer and Von Schirach try to calm him down. "Pull yourself together," they hiss at him in defiance of the no-talking rule.

Denounces Guards

One source says Hess likes getting his guards into trouble. He wheedles some favor out of a guard and then denounces him to an officer for breaking the rules.

Hess astounded the world by parachuting out of a fighter plane over Scotland May 10, 1941.

The British said Hess announced he had come on a "mission of humanity." He wanted to

Lewis-Albright Wedding Is Held In Oklahoma City

Miss LaCecia Ann Albright of Oklahoma City and Gilmer Allen Lewis Jr., of Wichita Falls were married in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Albright, Oklahoma City, Sunday in a ceremony performed at 7 p.m. by the Rev. James Clayton Pippin. He is pastor of the First Christian Church, Oklahoma City. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Allen Lewis, 1026 Harris Lane, Wichita Falls.

Because the bride was seriously hurt in an automobile accident several weeks ago, the original wedding plans were changed, and a home ceremony was held with only immediate members of the families present.

The ceremony was held on the patio which was encircled with a white wrought iron fence covered in climbing roses. The couple stood in front of a tall three-tiered stone fountain in which gardenias were floating. Candelabra flanked each side of the fountain.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace designed with a scalloped lace Sabrina neckline. The bouffant skirt was detailed with wide insets of scalloped Chantilly lace and extended into a chapel train. Her veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a pearl crown highlighted by aurora crystal teardrops. She carried a cluster of white gardenias on top of a white Bible covered in satin overlaid with white Chantilly lace.

Miss Linda Kay Albright was her sister's maid of honor. She wore an ice blue chiffon street length dress with a Grecian draped neckline. A tiny hat was accented with an ice blue chiffon rose and a short veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Truman Lewis of Dallas was the brother's best man.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. A pink nylon organza lace cloth decorated in white embroidery covered the serving table. The cake was used as the centerpiece and it was circled with pink sweetheart roses. After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home in Wichita Falls.

A party was given Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 in the home of Mrs. C. Coit Mock, 1622 Hursh, honoring Misses Barbara Burrus and Gretchen Reser, seniors in Wichita Falls High School. Mrs. Charles E. Collins was co-hostess with Mrs. Mock for the informal gathering which was attended by 75 guests.

Assisting in the houseparty were the mothers of the honorees

Mrs. Marvin A. Burrus, and Mrs. Wayne A. Reser and Misses Cindy Burrus and Karen Reser.

Featured as the refreshment table centerpiece were two 24 inch dolls dressed in authentic dark blue graduation gowns, and blue caps with red tassels. White and blue daisies circled the base of the dolls and extended to encircle the crystal candelabra.

An arrangement of spring flowers accented the table in the entrance hall. Favors for the guests were miniature diplomas tied with red and black ribbon and accented with a flower. Inside the diplomas were small prophecies for each girl according to her birthdate.

Both Miss Burrus and Miss Reser will be presented as Junior Forum debutantes.

Miss Burrus is the daughter of Dr. Marvin M. Burrus, 3515 Seymour Rd. She has been a Red Cross representative for several years, and a twirler for the Coyote Band the last two years. Chicken sticks, a newcomer in the finger food family, are being introduced by a company in their line of baby foods. The new type of food is designed to encourage self-feeding by older babies.

Made from tender poultry, non-fat dry milk and mild seasonings, chicken sticks may be one of the nicest tasting sources of high quality protein for babies. Special processing keeps fat content to a minimum and the size and shape were determined by small hand limitations.

The chicken sticks come in a new size glass jar. They may be served at room temperature or heated slightly. They may be used as a sandwich filling for older children or adults.

A maker of plastic wrap announces that their product has been made better. The improvements are said to include a new zip strip for easier package opening.

ing; new starter tab for easier finding of embossed film edge and easier starting of the roll; heavier film for easier handling, yet high degree of cling. And best of all, twice the value, twice as much wrap for the same price.

How long since you've swept or waxed the floor under your refrigerator? Probably not since something was dropped behind the appliance, and a good strong husband was drafted to haul it out from the wall.

One manufacturer has a model on wheels, so that a homemaker can roll her refrigerator out by herself. This makes it easy to keep the area under and around the refrigerator as clean as the rest of the kitchen. Besides the advantage of easy cleaning, the new mobility means you have more freedom at redecorating time when you wish to paint or paper the wall behind the refrigerator.

Hints from HELOISE

Proper Care Of Teakwood

Dear Heloise:

We purchased our teak furniture in a foreign country. The following instructions for the care of genuine teakwood came direct from the manufacturer himself:

Mix two-thirds boiled linseed oil and one-third turpentine.

This mixture is considered to be the best for teakwood, but the oil cannot be kept for a long time. It does more harm than good to the wood if not used shortly after mixing.

The furniture should be oiled as seldom as possible. When it needs oiling it acquires a greyish, dead look.

Moisten a clean cloth with a little of the mixture. If the right quantity is used it will take some hard rubbing before you can see the oil on the wood.

The hard rubbing causes heat, which opens the "grains" so that they may absorb the necessary oil right away. The wood can absorb very little oil and if too much is used the surface will be ugly and sticky and gather dust. The company suggested polishing the furniture at night and waiting until the next morning to put all of your knick-knacks back in place.

Scratches, mars, water, alcohol rings and stains can be removed easily. Soak the spot in question with the oil mixture and rub gently along the grains with a piece of the finest steel wool.—Mrs. J. A. Bond

Dear Folks:

Having talked with one of the biggest importers in teakwood overseas, I am told by them that this wood is loaded with its own natural oils. Therefore, do not put too much oil mixture on your teakwood and be sure to rub it hard and briskly until the sheen occurs. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: I believe I can tell you how to protect wooden salad bowls from becoming sticky and acquiring that glue-like residue on the inside.

Rather than using a damp cloth to wipe the bowls clean, rinse them well under running water and dry with paper toweling.

After bowls are dried thoroughly, take a piece of wax paper and rub entire bowl briskly inside and out.

This keeps the surface of the wooden bowls sealed against the oils and you will not find any more stickiness. — Vera M.

Two Rider Girls Honored With Graduation Party

Two prospective June Graduates were honored Sunday afternoon with a party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gibson, 4234 Idlewood. Co-hostesses were Misses Becky Barlow and D'Alene Gibson.

Honorees were Miss Elaine Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bryant, 6712 Geronomo, and Miss Mary Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald, 4814 Earle.

Both girls attend Rider High School, and the party rooms were decorated with the school colors of black and gold and spring flowers. The center of interest was the guest registry table which held a bouquet flanked by framed photographs of each girl. Black and gold ribbons and flowers led from each picture to separate guest books signed by 50 close friends.

Miss Bryant and Miss Fitzgerald are members of the A-cappella and all region choirs, Rider Roundup staff, and are active in the youth program at Lamar Baptist Church.

Miss Bryant has participated in the all state choir, Quill and Scroll Society, Future Teachers of America and Spanish Club.

Miss Fitzgerald has been active as an office practice assistant, secretary of her home room, vice president of the Wichita Archer Baptist Youth Rally, and a Red Cross Volunteer at the State Hospital.

Both girls have been selected for staff membership at Glorieta Baptist Assembly, Glorieta, N.M. They will begin their six weeks of service there July 15, and in the fall Miss Bryant will begin studies at Oklahoma Baptist University where she will major in elementary education.

Hospital Patients Take Home Nursing Training

(Second in a series of articles on volunteers at the Wichita Falls State Hospital. The Hospital is holding open house through Friday.)

By BETTY BURNS

Once each week Mrs. W. O. Gatton, 1715 Woodrow, forgets that she is retired from her profession as a registered nurse and resumes a schedule for the day. "Since my husband retired recently after many years with Mobil Oil Company, we have not followed a strict schedule," Mrs. Gatton said, "but once each week

I am very careful to be on time for a class I teach in home nursing at the Wichita Falls State Hospital."

In the class are patients from the hospital ranging in age from 19 to 60 years. The purpose of the course is to give the patients self-confidence and to equip them to find jobs if and when they are released from the hospital. Those who have finished the 12-hour course are allowed to assist in nursing duties at the State Hospital.

The students in the class must attend six two-hour sessions after which they receive a pin and a Red Cross home nursing certificate. Then in order to work in the hospital, they must spend 10 hours in orientation.

Mrs. Gatton says it is very important to her to fulfill her commitments at the hospital and says if she is unable to go she always calls and explains because the students look forward eagerly to her class each week. They need the security of knowing that she will be there when she is scheduled, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatton moved to Wichita Falls about four years ago from Fort Worth.

"The first year we lived here I was ill most of the time," Mrs. Gatton said. "People were so helpful and kind to me that I had a desire to do something for others to repay in a measure the kindnesses that had been shown me. A friend, Mrs. Linton H. Estes, suggested that I volunteer my services as a nurse at the State Hospital," she said.

Mrs. Gatton is a Red Cross volunteer and is qualified to wear three nursing caps — Gray Lady, registered nurse and home nurse.

During the recent tornado disaster here, Mrs. Gatton worked three days as a volunteer in the disaster headquarters. She has received a 500-hour pin for volunteer work at the state hospital.

Before her retirement, Mrs. Gatton was an anesthetist, working for various doctors in Fort Worth. She has been retired about 15 years.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 17 I married a man I did not love just to get away from my mother. I thought I would learn to love him, but now I know that I never will. Believe me, I have tried. I will be 30 years old tomorrow and I have nine children. I just can't stand my husband any more. He isn't mean to me or anything like that, but he is such a pest. I can't explain how hard it is to live with someone you don't love. (Do I make myself clear?) I can't just leave with no excuse, and I can't think of any good grounds for divorce. DEAR ABBY: One day after school my girl friend and I were standing around in front of the school talking to a bunch of boys. All of a sudden one of the boys said something real dirty. I was so embarrassed I didn't know what to say so I just ignored it. My brother (he's a senior) was standing there at the time and he didn't say a word. Later I asked him why he didn't say something to the boy who used the dirty language in front of me, and he said it wasn't his place to say anything. I should have stood up for myself. I always thought a girl's brother was supposed to see that his sister was treated with respect. Or am I mistaken?—SOUTHERN HIGH FRESHMAN

DEAR FRESHMAN: You are not mistaken. Your brother surely must have known better. Color him yellow.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is planning to be married this summer. She has always wanted a large church wedding with a white gown, attendants, etc. The young man she is marrying was married briefly a few years ago, but his wife died. He is from out of state, and no one who will attend our wedding attended his first, excepting, of course, his immediate family. A friend told me that it would show very poor taste for my daughter to have a big, elaborate wedding, with all the trimmings, when the groom has already been through one. Is this true?—MOTHER IN DOUBT

DEAR MOTHER: No. Your daughter may have the kind of wedding she wants. The only poor taste I can see here was shown by your "friend" for pre-

Women OF THE Times

WE THE WOMEN

This Is A Man's Version: Does He Have Grounds?

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A man who reads this column states bluntly: "You women might as well face it. The reason so many of you homemakers run yourselves ragged today (despite all your labor-saving devices), is that with not enough actual physical work to do to keep you occupied, you have become a generation of female competitors."

"You turn everything you do into a competition. You don't just entertain friends with easy, warmhearted hospitality. You knock yourselves out trying to give a bigger and better party than Mrs. Whosis' gave last week."

"You are scared to say 'No' to any time-wasting woman's organization that wants to put you to work, for fear you won't be doing as much or more than other women in the way of outside activities."

"You accept invitations to affairs you know will be boring because you are competing socially and feel you have to be seen everywhere.

"You get an uncontrollable urge to redecorate or get a bigger house not only when there is a real need—but when you feel you must, in order to keep up with the Joneses, who are trying to keep up with some other Joneses."

"You start pushing your children before they reach junior high school, and half of what you do for them you are doing because you don't want any other woman's children to get ahead of yours."

"Then you talk about how overworked you are, how little time you have to do the things you really want to do, and how no mere man can possibly appreciate how hectic your life is."

"The truth of the matter is that if you women would quit competing with each other constantly—you could lead the life of Riley."

Well, that's what the man says. Does he have a point, or doesn't he?

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A ♠K 5 4 2 ♦9 7 3 ♣10 6 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ 1 ♠ 2 ♥

2 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass

3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Five diamonds. Partner obviously has a fine diamond suit for which our three small will be adequate support. On the other hand his clubs are only four in number and a bid break there might make five clubs an unplayable contract. An alternative call is four spades, but that might be a little drastic with such a weak holding in the minors.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Five spades. Partner has shown a big hand with a solid spade suit. There should be slam if the opponents are unable to grab a couple of quick tricks. Your leap over game will indicate to partner that he needs controls in the unbid suits.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A—Four spades. This bid serves a twofold purpose. The partner could muster a mere overall, your hands could fit well enough to make the contract. Furthermore, should the hand belong to the opposition, your bid makes it extremely difficult for them to get together.

WHERE HISTORY WALLS A LIBRARY—INSIDE AND OUT!

Books in the library of the University of Mexico cover that country's history back to the great Mayan Empires, centuries before Christ.

Outside, its walls are covered by Juan O'Gorman's colorful mosaic (made of more than 7½ million separate stones) depicting the history and culture of Mexico.

The school itself dates back to 1551, but its campus is one of the world's most modern. Built in 1954, it was designed by a team of Mexico's finest architects.

Even in a country known for its architecture, on a campus that is a collective example for the world, the library stands out.

The President's 'Musts'

President Johnson has given Congress a sharp reminder that enactment of the civil rights bill, important though it is, will not complete the work of the current session. The President listed four other bills which he regards as especially urgent. These are: the food-stamp bill, the omnibus anti-poverty program, which includes five related measures in addition to the food-stamp plan. For an election year, with less than three months remaining before the first of the national conventions, this is a rather formidable load.

The President's five "musts" were mentioned in response to a question. He made it clear that his list was intended only to emphasize the importance of enacting these urgent measures. It was not regarded as exclusive or comprehensive. Of even greater importance than some of the bills specifically listed is the foreign-aid bill. And, a Congress that is soon to be rated on its performance in a national election can scarcely ignore such important issues as aid to education, the proposed wilderness system and the housing bill.

Allowance must also be made for the enormous task of appropriating approximately a hundred billion dollars. To date only one appropriations bill has been reported to the Senate, and none has been passed. Not much progress can be made while the filibuster is under way in the Senate; so a piling up of major legislative chores must be anticipated at a time when legislators will be most eager to desert Washington for the holidays.

The President might well have said that the Democratic majority in Congress no less than himself has an enormous stake in completing an impressive legislative record. Largely because of last year's stalling, the performance of the Eighty-eighth Congress to date leaves much to be desired. We are glad that the President has spoken candidly while it is still feasible to think in terms of a well-rounded legislative program.

Politics In Economics

An interplanetary traveler arriving at Croydon via BOAC might be puzzled by the British economy, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch observes, especially if he knew that not very long ago there were worries about the state of business and employment. He would find in the Chancellor of the Exchequer's new budget a number of tax increases—especially on drink, tobacco and wages—and an increase in the bank interest rate to 7 per cent, the highest since 1921, to put a brake on prosperity. On the Continent he would encounter similar shifts from "miracles" of productivity to brakes on inflation.

In Britain he probably would be told that Chancellor Maudling is not going far enough in soaking up about $3 billion of purchasing power, that he should be taking up at least twice as much to slow down the buyers' rush to the stores and the bankers' eagerness to lend money to the hire-purchase companies. Stronger brakes, including higher sales taxes, probably will have to be applied before the year's end to get the economy in shape to soar again.

But Chancellor Maudling knows full well that there also will have to be an election before the year's end. So an extra penny on a pint of beer is about as far as a man feels he can go—unless he wants Her Majesty to call on the Laborites to form a new government. A chancellor must think about the economy, but he must think also about politics.

Too Long Neglected

A Texas Highway Department official, speaking before members of the North Texas Restaurant Association, declared that this state can look forward to a booming tourist industry. He revealed that Texas last year entertained more out-of-state visitors than ever before.

These were encouraging, and significant, words. For we believe that Texas too long has neglected to advertise itself in an appeal to tourists. Texans brag wherever they are, yet too little has been done to bring into the Lone Star State the number of tourists that the attractions in this state deserve and justify.

Bragging is not enough. A co-ordinated program is needed to lure tourists.

It is a fact that in Texas "you can live on the plains or the mountains, or down where sea breezes blow, and still be in beautiful Texas." The state has everything in the way of natural attractions. Moreover, other Americans, and especially Europeans, have a strong curiosity about Texas.

It is time therefore that Texans begin to capitalize on this curiosity and to begin a sound program for inviting the curious to our state.

Irresponsible Charges

The tragic assassination at Dallas has provided an excuse for too many thoughtless diatribes against the people of Texas, and Texans are getting a mite sick of hearing them. When passions cooled after the November catastrophe, thinking Americans realized the murder of President Kennedy was not a sectional matter. The assassin himself was something of a cosmopolitan renegade, a drifter who had embraced communism and denounced democracy. Most Americans agreed that every large city harbored a potential Oswald.

Yet publicity seekers and those who just naturally hate Texas have used the tragedy to vent their spleen against the Lone Star State. The latest, the ill conceived screed from H. Wentworth Eldredge, the Dartmouth professor, was answered personally by Gov. Connally. The governor called Eldredge's reference to Dallas as "semi-civilized" as childish and irresponsible. It most certainly was.

There are, we concede, hotheads and knuckleheads in Dallas. But there are also political radicals, thieves and bigots, degenerates and potential assassins in Detroit, New York, San Francisco and London. There may even be some in Dartmouth. Texans aren't judging those cities.

But they are getting a little fed up with the rash of sanctimonious, opportunist charges made against an important American city and a great American state.

Varied Reactions Seen From Civil Rights Bill

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY
Times Washington Bureau

As the tiresome civil rights debate grinds on in the United States Senate, political developments in many sectors showing that the civil rights struggle will have numerous and varied reactions this year also begin to give the impression that thousands of voters never have clearly understood just what civil rights meant.

The once liberal state of Wisconsin was known for two generations as the home of LaFolletteism, an early breed of liberal philosophy which spawned a great deal of the so-called progressive legislation of the early years of this century. It was the scene of the first real clash between the conservatives and liberal wings of the Republican party, when the GOP was the dominant political organization of the nation.

Leading The Battle
The LaFollette liberals proclaimed they were leading the battle for civil rights, and under that heading they included presidential primaries, freedom of legislative action, government control of utilities and a host of lesser reforms, most of which have been adopted in numerous states. With the passing of the LaFollette family from power in Wisconsin, liberal Democrats absorbed much of the liberal Republican following, but the conservative Republicans, traditionally known as the "Stalwarts," still wield impressive political strength on the states' rights side.

When thousands upon thousands of Democrats contributed to the 260,000 vote total scored by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in the Wisconsin presidential primary, the nation was inclined at first to credit the vote to Republicans who had crossed over to the Democratic primary, but political analysts have found that only partially correct.

Apprehensive
Many voters who supported Wallace did so because they were apprehensive about what effect civil rights legislation would have on their lives, their families and their property rights. A great many of them had not realized that civil rights touched upon all those intimate facets of existence.

It also seems to have been demonstrated that a considerable number of U.S. Senators did not thoroughly understand that their constituents were not entirely clear on the meaning of civil rights as the term affected them.

When a vast outpouring of Negro citizens from many states, along with thousands of white sympathizers, came to Washington last August to stage a huge and impressive civil rights demonstration, some sage members of Congress from Southern states sat around a luncheon table and observed, "This is a fine manifestation of Negro determination. But tell your white friends, just wait until it moves closer to them!"

Changing Reaction
That day is dawning, it now seems apparent, and the remainder of this politically charged year may see a changing reaction to the civil rights drive, in which civil rights organizations may have tried to break down the divisions which have existed for a hundred years too hard and too fast.

The outlook for enactment of an effective piece of legislation is still firm, but the Republicans, led by shrewd Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the minority leader, apparently are interpreting the views of a good many million voters who had not heretofore understood exactly what civil rights meant. Dirksen's 14 amendments to the bill involving modifications to meet shifting sentiment.

Same Implications
In Dirksen's own State of Illinois, where Sen. Barry Goldwater was the only major Republican candidate on the preferential primary ballot, his vote which came largely from downstate is interpreted here as having some of the same implications as the Wallace vote in the neighboring state of Wisconsin. There are indications of a heavy Wallace vote May 3 on the Democratic primary ticket in Indiana, as well as a heavy Goldwater vote on the Republican ticket. Between them they will be interpreted as a heavy conservative manifestation. But there again, Hoosiers in Washington say that voters' reaction on the civil rights issue has surprised them.

Indiana, Illinois and Ohio all have many small cities and towns, where residents are just beginning to understand how the provisions of the civil rights bill may affect daily living. And those small communities have an underlying resistance to change, especially when imposed by the federal government, after action by Congress.

Dirksen's amendments have given the civil rights debate a new turn. In considerable measure, that can be attributed to an awakening back home, where people are beginning to understand civil rights legislation as it may affect them.

Prophecy Of Peace Based On Substance

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has made a bold and heartwarming prediction.

"I prophesy peace is not only possible in our generation," he said in opening the World's Fair, "I predict it is coming much earlier."

Is this wishful thinking? Is this campaign oratory? Is Johnson looking at a mirage? There may be a touch of all of these things. But there is a solid basis for this prediction. There is substance in it, but I would be disposed to put it a little differently.

Within Reach

It seems to me that in light of events now in motion, the opportunity to achieve a far more peaceful world than at any time since the end of World War II is within our reach — and can be grasped.

What, then, gives substance to the President's prophecy of "peace in our generation?" I believe these are the developments he had in mind:

1—The missile confrontation in Cuba struck from the hands of the Kremlin the instrument of nuclear blackmail.

2—The deep and divisive split between Peking and Moscow is causing the Soviet Union to realize that it cannot simultaneously conduct a cold war against the West and Red China.

3 — The deterrent military strength of the West is so great that the Soviet leaders simply cannot gamble their great industrial progress on any military adventurism whether to help Red China against India or Formosa or to drive the allies out of West Berlin.

Inching Forward

These are the reasons Russia accepted the nuclear test ban after scorning it for years. These are the reasons Moscow is inching slowly forward along the edges of a detente with the United States, exchanging consulates, returning fliers, calling President Johnson a "reasonable man." These are the reasons Khrushchev has been loosening some of the shackles on the Eastern European satellites.

It is evidently Johnson's judgment that this trend is going to continue.

It may well continue. But there is no real peace in the offing until three things happen:

Until the Soviet Union is willing to accept sufficient inspection to permit some solid disarmament.

Until the Kremlin allows the peoples of Eastern Europe, including East Germany, to hold free elections as it promised in the Yalta agreements.

Until the Soviet leaders are prepared to use their power and their influence against the sending of men and arms across the frontiers to foment "wars of liberation."

These are the causes of the cold war and until the Soviet Union is willing to begin to remove the causes—and not merely tamp down the symptoms—President Johnson's prophecy of "peace in our generation" will be elusive.

As long as one door is being pried open by Communist aggression into the free world, there can be no secure peace. That door is the export of communism by force across frontiers as Ho Chi Minh is doing in South Viet Nam, as Castro is doing in Venezuela.

Turned Back

In Western Europe the West turned back Communist economic aggression by means of the Marshall Plan.

In Berlin the West turned back

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Fair Culture Ranges From 86-100 Proof

By EARL WILSON

World's Fair—Dear Mother: Well, Mother, I go where the news is. Here I am in my special office at the World's Fair ... in the Hong Kong Pavilion ... at the bar.

WILSON I had just strolled in here looking for culture, in the San Luck restaurant upstairs when Willie Tsang from San Francisco hissed at me: "You're just in time to see us hang up the word 'Whisky'."

Could Warn Others
"How dare you use that ugly word in my presence? I go to World's Fairs for culture, and to learn about science," I snapped. "Where are you hanging up the word 'whisky'? I suppose I should see what it looks like so I could warn others." I saw a 60-foot-long curtain of heavy beads ... weighing about a ton, in all ... full of Chinese alphabet characters ... one set spelling out "Whisky" ... another set "Bar."

"It took six guys two weeks to count the beads necessary ... and 34 guys 20 days to put it all together," he said. "Then they sent it air-mail."

About 100 Chinese guys sat around waiting orders. "Those are bartenders ..."

"A guy has to have an office somewhere!" I said. "This seems very convenient for me!"

Popularity Predicted
I predict that the HK Pavilion with its three Chinese junkies out in front, its tailor shop where you can get a Hong Kong suit made by Hindus in New York ... the whole thing planned by Chinese artist Dong Kingman ... will be as popular as the mattress exhibit where you can nap half an hour for 50 cents, and for a little more, get a semi-private mattress.

Danny Kay's expected to visit the HK Pavilion; he's a friend of Kingman's. They serve the two most popular Chinese wines at the whisky bar: scotch and bourbon. The culture is 86 to 100 proof.

It was funny about Willie Tsang. When he finished his part of the exhibit, he lammed out for San Francisco before the fair opened. "I fell out before they stall in," he explained.

Mother, I'll write to you from another of my offices at another of the cultural exhibits tomorrow, if the bartenders can get in.

Somebody Take Pity On Dodgers

Dodger manager Walter Alston made the understatement of the week Saturday night when he sobbed, "We're kinda crippled right now."

What it amounted to was the defending World Champion Dodgers were on the skids as injuries, errors and bad all-round performances left them ahead of only the Mets after two weeks of the 26 week great National League chase.

The Dodgers were all thumbs after ace right-hander Sandy Koufax went out in the first week.

Now amid the usual April-May "fire Alston" rantings the Bums' luck is bum.

Johnny Podres, already a sore-armed Dodger, was put out of the starting rotation Saturday by wondrous Warren Spahn who felled Podres with a fast ball in the third inning.

Podres won 14 games in 1963 and a victory in the Dodgers' sweep against the New York Yankees in the World Series. He was making his first appearance of the year.

Other Injuries

The staggering Dodgers suffered two other injuries in the Milwaukee game. Left fielder Tommy Davis and relief ace Ron Perranoski were victims in the Braves rampage.

Davis, the National League's batting champion the past two years, jammed his right shoulder when he dived back to first on a pickoff attempt in the sixth inning. He remained in the game but could do little more than lob the ball on a throw back to the infield.

Perranoski, a left-hander with a 16-3 record in 69 appearances, suffered a bruised left thigh in a collision with Hank Aaron. Perranoski had to be relieved after he gave up three more hits in the sixth. Although painful, the Dodgers don't think the injury will affect his pitching.

Podres' injury was disclosed by X-rays to be a severe bruise on the left elbow. It hasn't been determined how long he'll be out of the lineup.

Right Foot Out

The Dodgers finally got off on the right foot Sunday by beating the Braves in the series windup, 1-0. Next the Houston Colts.

Houston is going all out to get the jump on the Dodgers. The best time to kick somebody is when they are down and can't kick back.

The Dodgers may be ailing in April, but by the July stretch Koufax will have 15 games under his belt. Davis will be edging past the 300 mark and Philadelphia will be back in the second division.

You can't keep a good man down, and the Dodgers have proven they have a couple of good men.

Don't look for Don Drysdale to help the Dodgers. Big Don's stuff was good in Las Vegas, but he left his curve at the slot machines. If Alston's relievers can help the king-size Dodger, maybe the season won't be as long as the first two weeks seemed.

Koufax, who is only as important to the Los Angeles Dodgers as wheels are to a wagon, has not responded to treatment to his arm injury as quickly as expected.

Dr. Robert Kerlan said Koufax would not pitch this weekend against San Francisco "barring a sharp change in his rate of improvement."

Dr. Kerlan declined to speculate Sunday on just when Koufax would be ready to pitch again.

4-AAAA BRIEFS

Haltom May Have First Contender

Haltom City has never been a real contender in 4-AAAA, but then nobody was until a couple of years ago when the Coyote stranglehold was finally wrestled loose.

It is not likely any team will ever dominate the large gathering again like the Coyotes of old did. Haltom City is expected to be one of the teams that sees to it nobody gets the chance.

The Buffaloes look to be the spoilers of some of the league's "picks." The Buffaloes haven't the overall strength to be a serious contender but it is powerful enough to turn back some first raters that comes along looking for the pushover.

Coach John Hugh Smith, surveying the situation, said, "I don't know what teams we will beat, but we will win some games."

Smith has 11 lettermen and five starters returning to back him up.

There are two offensive boys that may help the Buffaloes go places. Mike Atturio is a big 200 pound tackle and Dennis Lanier is a parttime guard from last year who can put his 175 pounds to use.

The only true starter back on defense is George Cain a 155 pound defensive half back. George Hammons (175) a line-backer and Bobby Pinkston (175) a tackle played some last year.

Smith is hoping his sophomores crop which is coming up will supply some of the depth the Buffaloes lack. "We are going to have a bigger team, but just as green as can be," Smith emphasizes.

Smith gives the new teams in the district a good ride. He rates Castleberry and Bell with definite possibilities in the league. Rider will also be of concern to the Buffaloes next season.

Crampton Steals Arnie's Pitch To Win Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bruce Crampton stole Arnie Palmer's script to win the $40,000 Texas Open golf tournament with the greatest come-from-behind performance of the year.

Palmer skipped the Texas Open this time, after winning it three times, but Crampton subbed beautifully for the man with all that money and noted for his stretch runs. Palmer once made up eight strokes.

Rodriguez had a chance to tie for it when he came into the final green seven-under-par for the tournament but he missed a six-foot putt and took a bogey.

Anyway, the Texas Open turned out to be a show for the foreigners—three took the first three places. A foreigner never before had won this oldest tournament in golf.

When the final round started Sunday, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 54-year-old two-time Texas Open champion, was leading the field with 202 for 54 holes. It was decided that if Harrison won he would be the oldest player ever to bag one of the tour tournaments. John Barnum, who won at 51, set the record.

Harrison held onto his lead through the first nine holes although he shot a one-over-par 36. But the others all were having trouble with the wind that had arisen after a rainstorm held up the start of the final round for two hours.

Crampton, though, was regaining a putting touch he lost a year ago and brought him great worry, because, when he was winning a fair share of the money, he wasn't winning any tournaments. So Bruce used his rejuvenated putter to offset the trouble caused by the wind and he came through.

Crampton, the 28-year-old Australian, shot a closing five-under-par 65 over the 6-715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course to come from a tie for 16th to the championship by one stroke with 273 for 72 holes. He made up six strokes.

Tied for second were Jan (Chih) Rodriguez, a Puerto Rican, and Bob Charles, the left-hander from New Zealand, who wound up with 274.

His $5,800 first money here gave him a total of $13,361.67 and vaulted him from 23rd to eighth in the list.

Crampton's victory came too late to qualify him for the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas this week but he will go to Burneyville, Okla., for the $20,000 Waco Turner Open starting Thursday.

Crampton's wife, Joan, knew it all the time. She told of a dream she had Wednesday night—she said she dreamed Bruce was going to win the tournament.

Cooper-Chevy Wins Modified Sports Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Self-styled hard-luck driver Skip Hudson finally changed his fortunes.

He won the modified sports car event of the U. S. Road Racing Championships at the Riverside Raceway Sunday.

Ken Miles of Hollywood was fourth in the same car that he drove to victory earlier in the day in the 125-mile race for manufacturers' Grand Touring cars.

"It's been a long struggle to get here," Hudson said Sunday after picking up $2,225 and nine points in the driver standings. "I've been a near-miss guy for a long time."

Hudson did the 182 miles around the twisting 2.6 mile course at an average speed of 95.8 miles per hour in a Cooper-Chevrolet entered by Nickey Chevrolet of Chicago.

No stranger at Riverside, the 31-year-old Hudson has been out in front in several races here but had never finished first before.

Hudson, of nearby Arlington, started in second spot in the 70-lap event and followed Dave MacDonald, Jim Hall and Jerry Titus for the first few circuits.

MacDonald lost the advantage when he pitted for repairs on the 12th lap and Hall took over. MacDonald left the race on the 25th lap with clutch trouble in his Cooper-Ford.

Hall, of Midland, Texas, kept his Chaparral Chevy in front until the 34th lap. Hudson and Hall swapped the lead several times in the next 10 times around, but Hall's luck ran out when his brakes locked and he skidded over the hay bales on a turn.

Oerter, without bothering to remove a ski jacket which he wore as protection from the wind, got off the big toss on his first try and wound up his series with another record breaking 206-4.

That left the course clear for Hudson, who cruised in for an easy victory.

He led Chuck Daigh, who finished second, by more than a minute. Daigh, of Long Beach, Calif., drove a Lotus 19. Third was Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N. M., in a Lotus 23B that also won the under-2-liter competition.

The 27-year-old, 237-pound Oerter uncorked the throw in the Mt. San Antonio Relays Saturday, erasing his own record of 205-5 1/2.

Oerter, without bothering to remove a ski jacket which he wore as protection from the wind, got off the big toss on his first try and wound up his series with another record breaking 206-4.

Sandwiched in between was a quick trip to a trainer to get a back massage. He said he felt a twinge in his back on his third throw.

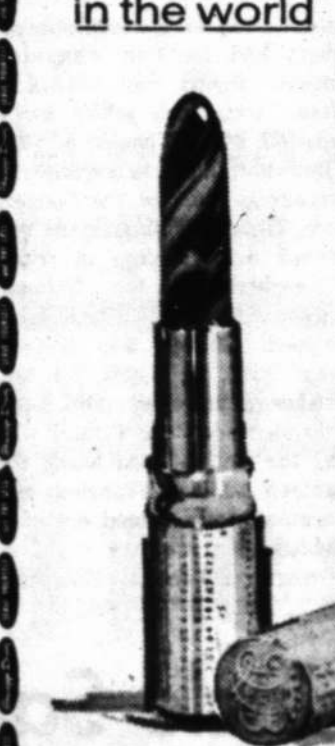

There was some speculation that a fraction of an inch might be shaved from the 206-4. But after reviewing the facts, the official score card and the surveyor's report, Meet Director Hiner Lodge said the 206-4 figure would be formally submitted for world approval.

"The circumstances were the same as a year ago when Oerter set the record at 205-5 1/2 and it was approved. There is no reason why this one should not be approved," Lodge said.

Nice Girls Don't Always Finish Last

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Nice guys, or girls, don't always finish last. Sometimes they win.

Take the case of Marilyn Smith. The 35-year-old golfer, known as "Miss Sunshine" because of her bright smile and friendly attitude on the women's tour, rewrote the record book in winning her second straight Titleholders Championship Sunday at the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course.

She finished with a one over par 72-hole total of 289, two strokes better than the four-round tournament record set by Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., in 1955. Miss Smith also set the 18, 36 and 54-hole and back nine record for the tournament in four days of what she called "the greatest golfing week of my life." The victory earned $1,300.

She had to beat the Associated Press Woman Athlete of the Year, Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., to do it. Miss Smith, who played out of Runaway Bay, Jamaica, nipped Miss Wright by one stroke when Mickey missed an eight-foot birdie putt on the final hole which would have squared the match. Miss Wright was the pre-tournament favorite.

Marilynn, who watched anxiously from the scorer's table a few feet away as Miss Wright lined up the putt, said, "I figured we'd be marching around here again Monday just like we did last year." She beat Miss Wright in an 18-hole playoff in 1963 for her first major championship in 14 years of competition.

Giving an impromptu party for newsmen after the tournament, Miss Smith explained her outgoing philosophy. "I figure that if you wait and moan about your play and get mad, then your enemies are going to say, 'Well, see what a jerk she is,' she said. 'Also, you'll just depress your friends so I try to take a positive attitude.'"

ALMOST LOSES HER HEAD—Augusta, Ga.—Marilynn Smith almost gets her head bashed in as she ducks the swinging putter of her playing partner Judy Kimball as Judy misses a putt on 11th green and pitched an angry demonstration of temper. Marilyn went on to win the tournament by one stroke. Judy was fourth. (AP Wirephoto)

Ortega Hurls Himself Into Alston's Heart

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
After pitching himself out of a permanent job with the Los Angeles Dodgers for four years, Phil Ortega has hurled himself into Manager Walter Alston's heart in about two hours.

The 24-year-old right-hander, starting in place of the injured Sandy Koufax, stymied Milwaukee 1-0 on four hits Sunday as the depleted Dodgers won only their third game in 12 starts. The victory, Ortega's first in the major leagues, came at a most propitious time.

Alston acknowledged that after the game in the dressing room.

"Is there anything I can get you? A sandwich or something? And can I carry your bag for you later?" asked Alston, who by now must think there is a conspiracy against the Dodgers, especially the pitching staff.

Starters Koufax and Johnny Podres are sidelined with elbow injuries while relief ace Ron Perranoski can barely walk because of a thigh injury. The trio won 55 games among them last season.

This is the fifth season Ortega has had a trial with the Dodgers. Even in the minors he hasn't risen to the expectations others had for him when Los Angeles signed him out of a Mesa, Ariz., high school for a reported $60,000 bonus in 1959.

But now, his 1.20 earned run average is the best the Dodgers have. Before his shutout, he had pitched 6-2-3 innings in relief.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Philadelphia whipped Chicago 5-1, Houston swept past St. Louis 6-4 and Pittsburgh and New York split a doubleheader, the Pirates winning the first 4-3 and losing the nightcap 3-2. San Francisco and Cincinnati were rained out of a doubleheader.

Ortega, a 6-foot-2, 175-pounder, struck out three and walked only one after the Dodgers gave him a run in the first inning. He was in trouble just once—when Lee Maye tripled in the fourth.

However, third baseman John Werhas grabbed Joe Torre's grounder and nailed Maye at the plate.

Los Angeles scored on Maury Wills' single, a walk, a sacrifice and Frank Howard's sacrifice fly.

Philadelphia got three home runs plus seven innings of tight pitching from Ray Culp before he tired. Tony Taylor and Gus Triandos socked solo homers while Bobby Wine unloaded a three-run blast in the sixth.

Uncle Sam Is Only Winner In Relays

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This is one of those years when the only real winner in the comparative count down after the Penn and Drake Relays is Uncle Sam.

In case you have forgotten, this is an Olympic year and the old gent in the Red, White and Blue suit rubs his hands with satisfaction over good performances whether they be in Philadelphia or Des Moines.

For you figure filberts, however, the actual count in 19 comparative events was 12-6 in favor of Drake. The athletes at Des Moines turned in faster times in eight track events and better distances in four field events.

Vince McArdle of Manhattan won the 400-meter hurdles at Philadelphia in 51.5, and Bill Hardin of Louisiana State the 440-yard hurdles in 51.7 at Drake, a standoff in view of the fact the Penn event is a few strides shorter.

Arizona's Gayle Hopkins may have stolen the show with his fine performances in the triple jump and broad jump. He bested Norman Tate of North Carolina College, voted the standout individual at the Penn Carnival, in both events. Hopkins missed the national triple jump record by 1 1/4 inch with his leap of 51 feet, 8 inches. He took the broad jump with a 26-2. Tate recorded a 51-5 in the triple, 24-11 in the broad.

Airtight Relief For Sox; Yankees Reach .500 Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a long way in from the bullpen at Chicago's Comiskey Park. Plenty of time for a relief pitcher to size up the situation. And you can bet young Frank Kreutzer was doing some fancy sizing up when White Sox Manager Al Lopez waved him into his fourth big league game.

Lopez, renowned for his handling of pitchers, picked quite a spot for the rookie left-hander in Sunday's game against Boston. The Red Sox were leading 1-0 in the second inning and the bases were loaded with one out.

All Kreutzer had to worry about was the defending American League batting champ, Carl Yastrzemski, who was the next batter, and the league's leading hitter, Frank Malzone, who was on deck. You could forgive Lopez if he shuddered just a bit.

But the youngster didn't cringe. He fanned Yastrzemski and got Malzone on a grounder. End of threat and start of 5-2-3 innings of airtight relief.

As if he hadn't already won his spurs with that performance Kreutzer really scored with his manager when he doubled home what proved to be the winning run in the fifth.

Kreutzer, who won his first big league game, allowed just three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. He fanned four.

Elsewhere in the American League, the struggling Yankees finally reached the .500 level with a 5-4 victory over Baltimore; Minnesota nipped Detroit 3-2 in 11 innings; Los Angeles snapped a five game Cleveland winning streak 7-0 and Washington downed Kansas City 7-4.

The Red Sox pushed across a first inning run against starter

Fritz Ackley on two hits and two walks. Joel Horlen put out that fire but Boston caught up with him in the second.

Horlen surrendered four straight hits in the second but Boston hadn't scored because Bob Tillman was picked off second in the midst of the rally. Then Kreutzer came on and the Red Sox were all but finished for the day.

The pitcher's clutch double in the fifth delivered Joe Cunningham with the winning run.

U.S. Cagers Finally End Russian Slide

LENINGRAD (AP)—The U.S. basketball image, shaken somewhat when Russian teams won three straight games from a touring American squad last week, appeared brighter today.

The traveling AAU team, bolstered by five Olympic cagers, ended its tailspin Sunday by trimming an All-Leningrad quintet 74-65 while, back home, Hank Iba, head coach of the Olympic squad, promised his athletes would be ready for the Russians—and anyone else—at Tokyo in October.

Jim Barnes of Texas Western, only collegian among the Olympic team members on the Soviet tour, scored 20 points Sunday to pace the U.S. comeback. The other Olympians are Larry Brown, Dick Davies, Pete McCaffrey and Jerry Shipp, all AAU standouts.

The Americans dropped two straight to the Russian national team at Moscow and were beaten here Saturday night. A U.S. team had never been beaten before in Russia. The team split a pair of games in Poland before opening its eight-game Soviet series.

Sox To Have Headache But A Real Nice One

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox are going to have a kingsized headache one of these days because of Al Weis, their No. 1 policeman.

Because slugger Pete Ward has been out of action with injuries this spring, the Sox had to shift rookie Don Buford to third base and play Weis at second base.

All well and good, but Weis has done such a tremendous job that when Ward returns to action in another week or so, the Sox will not know what to do with Weis.

Their choice will be to play Weis and bench Buford or work Ward, the team leader in almost every batting department last season, into a new position.

Weis is probably the most valuable piece of property the Sox have today. Before the 1963 season, the Sox traded Luis Aparicio, the best shortstop in the game at the time, to Baltimore along with outfielder Al Smith for shortstop Ron Hansen, pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm and Ward.

There was much speculation over the move since Hansen had a poor season in 1962. The Sox were not worried about Hansen because they felt if he failed they still had Weis.

This year the Sox dealt off veteran Nellie Fox to Houston, thereby completely wheeling off the double play combination of Aparicio and Fox. The two not only helped the Sox win the pennant in 1959, but Fox was the league's most valuable player with Aparicio finishing second.

Again, the man behind the deal was Weis. The Sox had and still have high hopes for Buford as a second baseman, but if he failed they still had Weis in the wings.

Weis, finally getting a chance to play every day, has made the most of it. Not only is he one of the slickest fielders in the game, but he is batting at a .333 clip and his bunting ability has helped the Sox win five of the last six games.

The 25-year-old, who became a switch hitter two years ago when he decided to utilize his tremendous speed by also batting from the left side, again proved his ability in a 2-1 victory over Boston Sunday which gave Chicago a sweep of its three-game series.

He drove in the tying run with a sacrifice fly, then set up the winning run with a sacrifice bunt. He also executed another sacrifice bunt which failed to materialize into any scoring.

Weis is so deft a bunter that he was sent up as a pinch batter nine times last year with orders to advance the runners with a bunt. Although opposing teams were aware of his orders, he accomplished his mission eight times.

Manager Al Lopez admits that "Weis has shown me so much that I have to think twice as to put him back on the bench when Ward returns."

Holiday Boat In 6th Place

ROCK POINT, Tex. (Special)—Kenneth Gulley and James Stevens, two Holliday, Tex., boatmen manning a Grumman canoe with a lateen sail, moved up a notch into sixth place as the Texas Water Safari boat race pulled up here Sunday evening.

Their boat, No. 140, arrived here at 5:03 p.m. Sunday. They depart Monday morning for Ingleside, then leave at daybreak Tuesday for the last—and shortest—leg to Corpus Christi of the 500-mile trip.

Despite bad weather, 22 boats started Sunday from Seadrift. It was two less than began Saturday. Six boats were swamped en route and one failed to get in by the sundown deadline.

Albert Widling and Robert Gillings, the Michigan entry which started in second place Sunday morning, moved into the lead with a time of 73 hours and 23 minutes. Edward Adams and LeRoy Widling of Holly, Mich., who had held the lead, dropped to second with a time of 74 hours and 43 minutes.

Gulley and Stevens, who began the Seadrift-to-Rock Point trip at 6:15 a.m., has an elapsed time of 111 hours and 44 minutes for their sixth place.

IN WINNING NBA TITLE

Russell Proves Celtics Greatest

BOSTON (AP)—"This has to be the best Celtics' team of all."

Bill Russell, the man who proved defense can dominate a scorer's game, summed up Boston's unprecedented sixth straight National Basketball Association championship and seventh in eight years.

After the Celtics defeated San Francisco 105-99 Sunday night, the big center heaved a sigh of relief in a jubilant dressing room, put one giant sneaker on the bench and beamed.

"The league was tougher this year so we had to be better to win," Russell said. "No one can tell me San Francisco isn't a great team. We all know Cincinnati was terrific. Boston had to be something special."

"I've played with great guys all my career, but these are the greatest."

"No one picked us to win and we stuffed it down their throats," said Coach Red Auerbach. "Winning these championships gets bigger every year. The first one still is the first one, something special. But next to 1957 this has to be the biggest."

No team in professional sports ever had won six straight playoff titles before. The Celtics had been tied at the previous record of five with the New York Yankees' World Series Kings of 1949-'53 and Montreal's Stanley Cup hockey champs, 1956-'60.

Boston lost the lead it had held since the second period early in the final quarter against the persistent Warriors, then regained the edge. Retiring co-capt. Frank Ramsey got the winning point on a free throw to make the score 100-92. But Chamberlain cut the lead to two points, 101-99, with 19 seconds left. Russell dunked a Tommy Heinsohn miss with 12 seconds left to settle the issue.

Russell played the full 48 minutes, had 26 rebounds, 14 points and six assists. Heinsohn scored 19 while Ramsey and Sam Jones contributed 18 each.

Chamberlain got 30 points, 18 in the second half, and scrappy, little Guy Rodgers had 19.

"There is no chance of my coming back," Ramsey said. "Winning the last one like this makes retirement so much sweeter."

The Celtics agreed they proved to the sports world what they already knew: that neither the loss of all-time playmaker Bob Cousy nor advancing years could end their reign.

Derby Hopefuls May Get Muddy Warmup

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise, the 8-5 favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, never has had a race in the mud, but it looks as if he will get his chance to see what he can do on an off track in Tuesday's Derby Trial Stakes.

The El Peco Ranch colt is expected to meet six or seven other Derby hopefuls in the one-mile trial—the last prep for Saturday's $125,000-added Run for the Roses.

The trial should prove a real test for the impressive California campaigner if the track is off—and the Weather Bureau said showers which began falling in Louisville Sunday would continue through tonight.

There's no chance for Hill Rise to duck the Derby Trial if the track is off because he has had but one race in the last two months, and was an unimpressive and sluggish winner in that one.

Bill Finnegan, the ageless trainer of Hill Rise, points out that he's been so lucky so far that he has no idea what his colt can do in the mud.

"I've just never had a chance to see," Finnegan said. "The tracks have always been fast—even for the workouts."

But Finnegan believes it's about time for the rain to catch up with him.

"I worked this horse in California before his last big race and the next day it rained," he said. "I took him to Keeneland and worked him hard for the Forerunner and the next day it rained. I worked him Saturday and just look how it poured Sunday."

Women's Bowling

Marks Fall In City Play

Conkling's Contractors erased a week-old team record Sunday afternoon in the 27th annual City Women's Bowling Tournament at Village Bowl with a three-game set of 2898.

It bettered by 37 pins the previous high of 2861 established by Flake Uniform Linen, which now is in second place. Prior to this year, the best series was a 2854 set by Shaw Motors last year.

Wanda Williams, with a 643 including a 228 singleton, highlighted the new high. Jean Adams was next with a 565, followed by Ada Thomas' 521, Sally Green's 498 and Mary Jones' 438.

After Sunday's firing and with one weekend remaining, Peggy Albright took over the lead in two departments—high game and all-events. She rolled a 254 Sunday to better the 225 high of Boots Sillar last Sunday. Her 1674 all-events was 69 pins over the 1605 rolled by Jonnie Butcher last week.

Finnegan also believes that Hill Rise has regained the edge he had in winning six straight races in California before his sluggish winning performance in the Forerunner.

"He's trained just great," he said, "and, if he's not ready now he never will be. I thought he might come back a little sore from Saturday's work but he didn't. He's just fine."

The 1 1/4-mile Derby will be the first showdown between Hill Rise, the pride of the West, and Northern Dancer, the Canadian comet who ruled the East Coast with as much authority as Hill Rise ruled the West.

Meantime, a field of at least 15, and possibly as many as 18, could go postward in the big race.

Besides Hill Rise and Northern Dancer, the probable field looks like this: Quadrangle, Dandy K., The Scoundrel, Mr. Brick, Roman Brother, Prince Davelle, Royal Shuck, Ishkoodah, Grand Garcon, Extra Swell, He's A Gem, Admiral's Heart and Clem Pace.

Electra Golfer's Long Wait Pays Off With Title

ELECTRA, Tex. — After a 20 year golfing career, Bill Jarrell of Electra won a golf tournament, and it happened to be in his own hometown.

Jarrell fired a 54-hole total of 266 to beat defending champion Bill Randall of Wichita Falls by two strokes in the Jaycee Invitational Electra golf tourney which wound up Sunday.

There was quite a battle for third place as four tied at 236. Jim Lebus of Wichita Falls won it in a sudden death playoff.

Tied were W. R. Flippin of Electra, Doyle Murphy, Don Russell and Lebus, all of Wichita Falls.

Lebus and Flippin tied with birdie threes on the first hole and both bogied the second. Lebus then sank a 11-foot birdie putt on the third extra hole to win.

Bruce Sivard of Electra won the first flight. Other winners were J. R. Baker, Wichita Falls, second flight; Joe Thompson, third flight and Bob Smith, Wichita Falls fourth flight.

Funeral services will be held at the Seymour Methodist Church with burial in Vera. Arrangements are pending.

Rites Held For Roy M. Jones

Services for Roy M. Jones, 84, a resident of Wichita Falls for 45 years, were held at 10 a.m. Monday in Owens-Brumley Funeral Home chapel.

Dr. Landrum P. Leavell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated. Burial will be in Alvord, Tex.

Born April 17, 1880 in Hopkinsville, Ill., Jones resided at 2126 Avenue G and was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Pallbearers were J. C. Dwight, A. J. Scott, Henry Reichert, C. O. Roark, J. R. Snider, H. S. Suderth, C. H. Drake and J. A. Stalcup.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. Effie Jones; and a daughter, Mrs. Merle Palczewski, Bayonne, N.J.

Enthusiasm is the key to the governor's race, says Don Yarborough, Democrat.

"I want your enthusiasm for just a few short days," the tall, handsome brunet told a group of college students. "If each of you will give me your enthusiasm and then in turn will give me 100 votes, we'll win this race."

Yarborough, 38, follows his own advice.

"I'm working 18 hours a day. Will you be willing to work 4 or 5 hours to help me?" says the Houston attorney, a Marine Corps veteran of both World War II and the Korean fighting.

He has never been elected to public office. However, in 1960 he got 43 per cent of the vote for lieutenant governor in a campaign against political veteran Ben Ramsey, who is now a railroad commissioner.

In 1962, Yarborough survived a six-man race in the first Democratic primary, which eliminated then governor Price Daniel, and was defeated by about one per cent of the vote in the runoff by present Gov. John Connally.

"Right here in this room might be enough votes to elect Don Yarborough the next governor of Texas," is a favorite ending to campaign speeches—except that it is hard to tell when Yarborough ends a speech.

Aides complain good naturedly that Yarborough keeps talking after he leaves a platform and often is still talking as he is driven off in a car.

"I'm going to be an action governor," Yarborough promises over and over. "If I can't get action out of the legislature it won't be because I have not brought the issues before the people."

Yarborough appears to thrive on the campaign trail. His deep tanned complexion usually is accented by a white or light blue shirt, a white or light gray tie, and a dark blue suit. When he has a hand free from gesturing or holding a telephone receiver, he smokes cigars.

"His only relaxation is swimming," says a harried aide. "Give him a choice between a nap or a swim and he'll take the swim every time. He's not a long distance swimmer or a diver, just a splasher."

"We've left a trail of forgotten swim trunks from El Paso to Texarkana," the helper added.

Yarborough is not alone on the campaign circuit. His wife is staying with her parents in Fort Worth but she makes brief appearances in the Central Texas area when possible. The Yarboroughs have two small daughters, Inez and Frances. Bill McIntyre, of Navasota, is the state campaign manager and Jim Barlow, formerly of the Beaumont Enterprise, is press aide.

Yarborough says he likes to talk to any group, particularly young people. "Mr. Don," was the title used by several college students in a question - and - answer session at San Antonio.

"How many of you are from towns of 5,000 or less?" he asked. "Who are your parents?" he then demanded of a hand raiser. "I didn't carry that county last time, your parents didn't work as hard as they should have. Use your enthusiasm and get everybody working."

"Let's have a contest. I promise that the one who gets the most votes for me will get to spend a weekend at the mansion when I am governor."

Two spectacular — but unrelated — fires broke out in the pre-dawn hours Monday in the same location and caused $15,500 damage.

Six fire fighting units were called to the Clinic Cafe, Eighth and Bluff, at 2:57 a.m. to battle a blaze which swept through the restaurant for more than an hour.

The eating establishment, owned by Jack Dennison, was gutted. Estimated damage to the building and contents was $9,500.

Then at 5:21 a.m. the firemen rushed back to the site to attack another blaze which flared in apartments at the rear of the cafe.

The apartments, also owned by Dennison, face on Bluff. This fire was extinguished at 7:04 a.m.

Damage to the building was estimated at $2,500 and to the contents of the apartments at $3,500.

Fire department officials said that the second fire was not started by the first.

Cause of the fires was undetermined and was being investigated Monday by the fire marshal.

Dr. James H. Landes, president of Hardin-Simmons University, and Mrs. Landes have been chosen to participate in the 1964 institute for college and university administrators at Harvard University June 16-24.

The presidents' institute was established in 1955 under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. This will be the 10th annual program.

The institute will provide discussions on topics such as educational leadership, curriculum changes, the role of the academic dean, educational organization and responsibility, financial control, and relationships with trustees.

Dr. and Mrs. Landes will reside on the campus of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration during the institute.

Landes' Sermon To Hang In Chapel

Dr. James H. Landes, former pastor of the First Baptist Church and now president of Hardin - Simmons University, Sunday night was presented a framed copy of the Congressional Record in which appeared his dedicatory sermon of the courthouse chapel by George McMackin.

Landes in turn presented the copy to Dod Wiley, county commissioner, to hang in the chapel.

When the chapel was established in the courthouse, courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, it was dedicated by Dr. Landes who was pastor here at the time.
