HEDLEY HIGH WINS BASKET BALL GAMES

Saturday, January 14 brought a double victory to Hedley High School basket ball teams. The boys defeated Clarendon by a score of 88 to 27. The girls won a game from Memphis by a score of 33 to 16.

The boys' game was the second played with Clarendon High School. The first was played at Clarendon, resulting in a score of 46 to 34 in favor of Hedley. The boys are showing splendid work. Since the basket ball season opened, the boys have not lost a game played with high school teams. The line-up for Saturday's game was as follows:

Hedley	Clarendon
Forwards
Pool	Wood
Richey	Hughes
Guards
Shaw	Waldron
Simmons	Patman
Center
Clifton	Ratliff

The girls have certainly proved their increasing ability this year. They have not lost a game. In team work they have far out classed every opposing team. We have no doubt at all that the girls will win the next few games before the Interscholastic meet. The line up in the girls' game was as follows:

Hedley	Memphis
Forwards
Behl	Temple
Grimsley	Jones
Guards
Hefner	Odom
M Newman	Anthony
Center
V. Newman	Gober
Cooper	Mattox

The boys' team will play McLean in Clarendon Friday night, January 27th. Here's to their success.

A Square Deal and Courteous Treatment is our motto.

SOCK SOCIAL

The young ladies of the Missionary Society, Circle No. 2, gave a Sock Social in the Methodist church basement last Friday evening, and were greeted by a crowded house. A splendid program was carried out and greatly enjoyed by all present. Little socks were sent out with the invitations, and these were returned with coins enclosed that amounted to $12.50, which this Circle will use to help pay its pledge.

Delightful refreshments were served and the event proved a decided success, both socially and financially.

POULTRY SCHOOL 28th; NO POULTRY SHOW

On account of not being able to secure a suitable building in which to hold the Poultry Show on Jan 27th and 28th, we have decided to postpone holding the show until sometime in the coming Fall.

However, the One Day Poultry School will be held in Hedley on Jan. 28th. The lectures by the Poultry Experts from A & M College will be given in the brick store building on Main street recently vacated by the Hedley Hardware.

Everyone interested in getting more profit out of their poultry should be there. Everybody is cordially invited to come. Free to all. Come and hear something good.

St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."—Mrs. DELIA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted, by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

How's Your Appetite? Headache? Weak?

Good Looks Follow Good Health

Saratoga, Texas—"A year ago I tried several different medicines, but kept getting worse, and felt that I never would have good health again. I became so poor and weak I could hardly do my housework. I suffered from loss of appetite, headache, constipation, shortness of breath, and functional disturbances. Sometimes I would have spells of indigestion and weak sick spells and thought I would die. I never expected to be well any more. At last I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets (sold by druggists) and now I can truthfully say I am in better health than I have been for several years. I advise all women suffering as I did to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. If there are any medicines on earth that will help women who are broken-down in health, these will."—Mrs. Winnie Comer.

SNEEZE WEED KILLS SHEEP

Plant Seems Impracticable of Eradication and Stockmen Are Warned to Avoid It

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A plant poisonous to sheep on the ranges, and for which no practical method has been discovered either for eradication or for cure of the resulting disease, is described in a recent bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture. The weed is most troublesome in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico and in the eastern half of southern California, as well as in scattered areas in eastern and western Nevada, southeastern Oregon, southeastern Idaho and northwestern Wyoming.

It was first reported to the department in 1903 that a mysterious disease, characterized by vomiting, wasting away, and death, was attacking sheep in Utah. The disease was at first attributed to Zygadenus (death camas), but several years later department botanists observed that sneeze weed was usually found on ranges occupied by the affected sheep. Subsequent experiments covering five years fastened responsibility upon the sneeze weed. No effective remedy has been found, and sheep which do not die retain symptoms as long as two or three years.

The weed is a strong perennial, growing to a height of one to three feet, with one or several stems. The plant, when young, is often hairy or woolly, particularly the stems. There may be one or several flower heads, which are two to three inches broad with ray flowers of an orange color. The seeds are numerous and hairy. The plant occurs at elevations of 5,200 to 12,000 feet. Its best habitat is on sunny slopes of the southern spruce belt in moist and in well-drained soil. From the color of the flowers it is sometimes called "yellow weed," and Sneeze Weed.

Some stockmen call it sunflower, but in Utah it is most commonly known as sneeze weed.

The weed seems impracticable of eradication. Digging out costs about $40 an acre and cutting with a scythe only stimulates growth. Department scientists, therefore, see the only relief in acquainting stockmen with the appearance and character of the plant and warning them to keep their sheep away from infested areas.

COST OF PORK PRODUCTION

Records Easily Kept Will Show Breeder If His Profit Is a Fair One, or the Reverse.

Before it is possible to determine profit or loss, it is necessary to know the cost of production. Investigations of farm costs of pork, made by the University of Minnesota, gave the following results for 100 pounds of salable hog:

Feed, 564 pounds; labor, man, 62 hours; labor, horse, 9 hour; cash expense, 7.4 cents; general expense, 12.6 cents; interest, .36 cent.

The only items of cost that are not accounted for are shelter and equipment. For hogs fattened in the fall and sold in the early winter, this would be a small item.

It is a simple matter to determine the cost of pork production by supplying local values to the amounts of feed and labor required. General expense covers general labor not directly connected with hog feeding.

WINTER SHELTER FOR COLTS

DON'T SNEEZE AND SNUFFLE!

Check That Coming Cold With Nash's Salve, the Sure, Quick, Safe Home Treatment.

Why sneeze and snuffle when you know everybody around you is hoping you leave before they catch your cold, too? You can stop that cold instantly. You can do it at home or while you work. You can be free from the all-gone effects which follow the use of the powerful "cold cures." Simply get a bottle of Nash's Salve (get two bottles, keep one at your place of employment). With fingers insert small amount in nostrils, close mouth and inhale deeply. A few moments later repeat the process and go about your business—no more sneezing—cold all gone, stopped!

As a preventive there has never been anything to equal Nash's Salve, "that stronger kind." Sold only in bottles, 25 and 50 cents at all drug stores.

DID SEEM LIKE A PROBLEM MADE HIT WITH YOUNGSTER

No Wonder Small Boy Was Disgusted When He Saw What His Chum's Gift Was.

Mysterious things were happening around the house. An addition to the census report of Indianapolis was expected, but Little Sonny didn't understand.

"We're going to have something you'll love," the mother said.

"You're going to be tickled to death with it," the father said.

Little Sonny didn't understand at all, in fact he was so mystified that he told his little pal next door about it.

"Whatever you get you've got to divide," the interested pal insisted.

"Sure I will," said the generous Sonny.

"When the baby finally came Little Sonny and his pal were ushered in for the first visit.

"A fine chance you've got to divide that thing," the pal said disgustedly.

Companionable Mother Need Not Have Been Afraid She Was Overdoing Her Romping.

A prominent Hoosier clubwoman is a devoted mother, and takes time to romp with her children every night. The other evening her eight-year-old daughter brought her chum home with her for the night. The chum's mother is dignified and never romps or jokes with her children. So the prominent woman outdid herself for the children's amusement. Finally she said laughingly: "I must stop or Mildred will think you have a nut for a mother."

The next morning when she went upstairs to pull her daughter out of bed she heard the two youngsters talking. And the little visitor said: "I'm going to begin to pray that God will make my mother into a nut like yours."

"Those Who Dance Must Pay The Fiddler"

There's a settlement in profit or loss, for nearly every indulgence.

Sometimes the pay day is long deferred, and in that case the settlement may bear compound interest.

Often a payment in ill health is required for the dance had with tea or coffee during earlier years. Sometimes the collection comes in sleeplessness, sometimes in headaches, sometimes in high blood pressure, or in nervous indigestion—sometimes in all these penalties.

Nerves won't always stand the whipping of tea and coffee's drug, caffeine.

If you've been dancing to tea or coffee's fiddling, why keep on till payment time comes? If you're beginning to pay, now, why not cancel the contract?

There's an easy and pleasant way to avoid ten and coffee's penalties, as thousands have found who have changed to Postum. It is a delight with any meal—rich, comforting and satisfying—and it never harms. Even the little children can have a breakfast cup of Postum, with no fear for what may happen to sensitive nerves.

Instead of paying penalties for your meal-time drink, let it pay benefits to you, by giving natural health a full chance—and begin the new arrangement today. Any grocer will sell you, or any good restaurant will serve you Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

OBITUARY

On December 13th, 1921, the Master called from our midst our dear loved one, J. T. Kidd.

He was born in Kentucky on February 6th, 1836, and moved with his father to Grayson county, Texas, when about 12 years old. He was converted when quite a young man, joined the Methodist church, and has lived a Christian ever since. At about the age of 21 years he was married to Martha Shipps. To this union were born fifteen children, eight of whom are still living.
Five of these children were at his bedside when he died, namely, Mrs. Lizzie Jackson of Elmer, Okla., Mrs. Sarah Tedrow of Megarrel, Texas, J. A. and T. R.
Kidd and Mrs. W. E. Mullis of Hedley, besides several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

He had 53 grandchildren and 55 great grandchildren, and was 45 years, ten months and seven days old when he passed away.

Weep not, dear ones, for we know that he doth rest in perfect peace,
Where there can come no sorrow and no pain.

We know his troubles all have ceased
And he is in that Home Above where God, our loving Master, reigns, regular monthly meeting on last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. S. Johnson. Twenty-five members were present. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Baker. The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. The various committees and officers made their reports. The secretaries gave excellent quarterly reports, showing the class manifestation of deep interest and fine progress in the work. Very delicious refreshments were en-

COVERED DISH PARTY

The P. N. P. Society was delightfully entertained with a Covered Dish Party Friday evening, January 13, at the home of Misses Mai and Alice Johnson.

Our new pledge, Miss Lois Masterson, was initiated. After ceremonies of initiation, we assembled in the dining room, where covers were laid for four teen guests. The Society colors, green and white, were uniquely carried out in table decorations.
One especially pretty feature was the white cake with green trimmings which served as a centerpiece. Just before the last course was served, the guests engaged in an interesting contest. Music was enjoyed throughout the evening.

The hour of departure, thirteen minutes until 10 o'clock, arrived all too soon.

How Yeast Vitamon Tablets Put On Firm Flesh

Quickly Increase Your Energy and Beautify the Complexion—Easy and Economical to Take.

Thin or run-down folks! Take Mastin's VITAMON—two tablets with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself each week and continue taking Mastin's VITAMON regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy. Mastin's VITAMON contains highly concentrated yeast-vitamins as well as the two other still more important vitamins (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C). It is now being used by thousands who appreciate its convenience, economy and quick results. By increasing the nourishing power of what you eat Mastin's VITAMON supplies just what your body needs to feed the shrunken tissues, strengthen internal organs, clear the skin and renew shattered nerve force without upsetting the stomach or causing gas. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish as if by magic and the complexion becomes radiantly clear and beautiful.

IMPORTANT! While the amazing health-building value of Mastin's VITAMON has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, nervous troubles, anemia, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, it should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having their weight increased to normal. You can get Mastin's VITAMON tablets at all good druggists.

MODEST HOME OF SIMPLE DESIGN

Type of House That Will Interest Home Builders

TYPOFIES BEST IN PLAIN WAY

Has Seven Well-Arranged Rooms That Reflect Comfort and Hospitality—Permanent in Makeup and Without Freaks.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

For over three years the country has been looking forward to a healthy resumption of home building. Time and time again we have been disappointed, in 1919, again in 1923 and then in 1921 when it was almost considered a foregone conclusion that the revival was at hand. But many causes entered into this depression. High prices of material at first, then business depression, but finally in September a change became perceptible. During the previous twelve months or more prices had been undergoing an extensive adjustment and on the other hand rents had been increasing by leaps and bounds. The people everywhere were beset with a big problem and as soon as they saw that they could save money by building, the open season had arrived. Building permits in September were nearly double those of the preceding year and exceeded any September mark in history. October followed right along with the same sensational showing. Instead of falling off with the approach of the cold weather, building has started fireplace in the side wall with windows on each side of it. A pair of French doors open out on to the porch as does the main front door. The vestibule has been omitted to save that much space and add it to the living room. French doors open into dining room and sun parlor from the living room.

On the second floor which is more or less a half story are three very bright, well ventilated bedrooms, 18 by 15 feet, 11 feet 9 inches by 15 feet and 16 by 10 feet. There is a bathroom equipped with modern built-in fixtures. The bedrooms are well lighted by large windows and have plenty of closet space.

and terrace. The lower part of the porch supports is brick. The first floor exterior is rough finished stucco, while shingles are used above that to the gables on front and sides. The wood trim throughout is of artistic treatment and greatly enhances the general appearance of the house. Broad ed with renewed life and bids fair to continue all through the winter.

The people who have been planning to build homes can now go ahead and build with a certain feeling of security. Moreover they can build a house now for much less than a short time ago. There will be many small homes built during the next few years.

Many prospective homebuilders will be interested in the design shown here. This is a well built home of very attractive exterior appearance and an efficiently arranged and proportioned interior. One of the most striking features of the house and one that will appeal to the man and wife who have three or four "kiddies" is the spacious open front porch and terrace extending across the front of the house and partly around the side. It reflects comfort and hospitality. A superficial glance at the home would give one the impression that it is very concrete steps mark the approach to the porch.

This is a small and economical home that would do any average family proud and embodies all of the comforts of a more pretentious establishment. It is permanent in makeup, a house that will endure for several generations and not in any way freakish in design. It is recommended to the homeseeker as a real good investment and an excellent design. More homes of this type will go a long way in establishing a balance in the housing situation and bringing living costs back several steps towards normalcy.

FAMOUS WORDS OF INDIANS

According to Ohio Writer, They Were Mostly Delivered on the Soil of That State.

Whether actually made, or placed in their mouths by others, the most noted of the speeches of Indians, as preserved in literature, are said to have been delivered on Ohio soil, says J. H. Galbraith, in the Columbus Dispatch. It was in his cabin on Darby creek, near Plain City, that Chief Teaguetanago, too ill himself to go hunting, gave this optimistic parting address to his captive, young Smith, who was starting on the chase:

"Brother, be assured that you will be supplied with food and that just in the right time. But you must continue diligent in the use of means. Go to sleep. Rise early in the morning and go a hunting; be strong and exert yourself like a man and the Great Spirit will drive it your way."

It was when Cornstalk had returned from the battle of Point Pleasant to Mowway Plains that he said in addressing his fellow-chiefs, urging the making of peace: "What will you do now? The big knife is upon us, and we shall all be killed. I'll go and make peace."

Lighting as a Photographer.

Sometimes amazing and almost unbelievable anecdotes find their way into official government reports—as, for example, the following statement regarding lightning as a photographer, sent in by Candler Cobb, an American trade commissioner:

"In the heart of an old beech tree recently cut up on the island of Skye there were found burnt marks in the very heart of the tree showing a man's name and the date '10-9-00.' It is supposed that these figures were photographed on the interior of the tree by the electrical effect of lightning striking near the spot."

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores. Advertisement

DAIRY FACTS

BETTER COWS HELP PROFITS

High-Producing Dairy Animals Make Best Market for Different Home-Grown Feeds.

Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of feed is consumed annually by our dairy cows. The net income is large or small, according to the way that feed is used. When production is increased through feeding and breeding, the income rapidly expands, yet a few real scrubs on any dairy farm will deflate the net income.

Farmers of the United States furnish feed and care for 23,000,000 dairy cows. Because of low-producing cows a large part of that feed is wasted. Weighing out expensive feeds to a low-producing cow is like shoveling costly coal into the fire box under a leaky boiler; and the farmer who keeps such cows seldom has to pay any income tax.

Like a factory, the dairy cow transforms raw materials—silage, hay, and concentrates—into the finished product, milk. In this way she furnishes a market for the feeds. Whether that market will be good or bad depends in part upon the way the cow is fed, and in part upon the cow herself. There is no better way to market the feeds grown on the farm than to feed them to a herd of high-producing dairy cows. The cow takes corn silage, grain, and hay and converts them into a product for which there is always a ready sale.

It is much easier to send the milk or cream to the creamery than to haul the hay to town. In the long run it is generally much more profitable, because it keeps the soil fertility at home.

In selling feeds to dairy cows the farmer has a wide choice of markets—bad, good, and very good. Few men discriminate closely enough between these markets. If a wheat buyer offers 1 or 2 cents a bushel more than other buyers he gets the wheat; if a wool buyer offers half a cent a pound more he gets the wool. But if one cow returns $3 from a dollar's worth of feed and another only $2, it is scarcely noticed. There is a difference of a dollar in the income every time each of these two cows eats a dollar's worth of feed.

According to estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, the average dairy cow in the United States produces annually about 4,000 pounds of milk and 160 pounds of butter fat. According to 40,000 yearly individual-cow records recently tabulated by the department, the average cow testing association cow produces 5,990 pounds of milk and 246 pounds of butter fat a year. The world's records are 37,381.4 pounds of milk and 1,205.09 pounds of butter fat in a year. There is plenty of room for improvement, it would seem, in the average production.

The keeping of individual cow records is easy. To test a half dozen samples of milk for butter fat requires about half an hour. Weighing the milk, estimating the weight of roughage, and weighing the concentrates requires but little time. The testing of a composite sample of each cow's milk from two consecutive milkings once a month furnishes the figures from which the yearly production records can be computed. Any man competent to care for a dairy herd can easily learn to make the butter fat test and to keep feed and production records.

WINTER FEEDS FOR HEIFERS

Young Animals Should Not Be Compelled to "Rough It" During Cold Weather Period.

Young heifers should not be expected to "rough it" during the winter, but should have feed and shelter. The feeds should of course include bulky feeds, such as silage, stover, hay, fodder, etc., and concentrates. The young animals should have enough such concentrates as cottonseed meal, wheat bran, shorts, rice flour, alfalfa, pea hay, peanut hay to develop body.

Practice of Testing Cows.

The practice of testing cows to determine their milk and butter fat production and feed consumption by means of cow-testing associations has become widespread. There are now 452 associations of this kind in the United States.

Cracking Velvet Beans.

Velvet beans, as a dairy feed, are improved by cracking, soaking and grinding. Cracking alone does not pay for the work of doing it, but grinding did, in a feeding test in Texas.

UNDER THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE

Picturesque Scenes and Incidents of Which Few New Yorkers Have Any Knowledge.

Brooklyn bridge at midnight is as fascinating as the ten-twenty and thirty melodramas used to picture it. There is the roar of a hundred city noises—the clang of the elevated, the cry of the train guards, the shrill-voiced newsmen and what not. O. O. McIntyre writes in the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Home-rushing Flatbushers, returning Coney Islanders, midnight workers enjoying the lunch hour, derelicts of the night who are drawn by the busy hum of life—all give romantic shades to this picturesque spot hard by the linky black and brooding East river. From the bridge one may see dimly outlined Blackwell's island, with sentinels patrolling along the walls.

Down under the bridge many sawdust-carpeted eating places still survive. They are frequented by hardy customers—men with hair on their chest, who have been around the Horn on windjammers; newspaper hucksters, who hold their corners by the night of fists, and quite a sprinkling of petty criminals, snarkers and snitches.

Mother Marge, a wrinkled old crone, still laddles out her bean soup from a dirt-incrusted tureen. She cackles like the hag of the old Broadway melodrama that is gone. Her smile even strikes terror, revealing as it does black rows of teeth and cunning cupidity. When not laddling soup she is using snuff and reading paper-back novels.

Pegleg Timmins has his oyster bar near by. He lost his right leg trying to emulate Steve Brodie in a leap off the bridge. He struck a girder going down and doesn't remember what happened after that. He cuts his pipe tobacco off a plug and has a silver plate in his head, brought about by a first mate's belaying pin when he roved the sea.

Down in Franklin street there are a few restaurants whose patronage is mostly printers from Newspaper row. Franklin street booms with noise by day as giant dray horses strike fire from cobblestones pulling great loads, but at night it has the quiet of the country churchyard. East on Park the eating places and pool halls are light with mercury lights and have the glitter of Broadway—and are almost as noisy.

"The Learned Blacksmith."

"The Learned Blacksmith" was an epithet conferred upon Elihu Burritt (1810-1879), American reformer, author and linguist. He began life as a blacksmith about 1827, and worked at that trade for many years, during which time he made himself proficient in numerous ancient and modern languages. Of him Mathews' "Getting on in the World" says: "Elihu Burritt acquired a mastery of eighteen languages and twenty-two dialects, not by rare genius, which he disclaimed, but by improving the bits and fragments of time which he could steal from his occupation as a blacksmith."

Printers as Translators.

Compositors are supposed to be able to decipher all kinds of handwriting. On this point Robert Clark, the Edinburgh printer, used to tell a story. Prof. Lindsay Alexander came into his office one Friday with the manuscript of a sermon, "You must let me have proofs of this tomorrow," he said. Mr. Clark told him the time was too short. He must give them a few days longer. "No," he said, "I must preach this sermon tomorrow. It is a special sermon. I wrote it ten years ago, and now I can't make out a word of it."—The Argonaut.

True Love Creates Appetite.

Any emotion that gives pleasure acts healthily on the heart and other organs, the circulation becomes more brisk, and appetite and health improve. Love, hope, and happiness all produce these emotions and, contrary to the accepted notion, the ardent lover ought to enjoy his meals thoroughly. Despair, grief, and fear have quite another effect. They make the action of the heart slower and enfeeble the nervous and muscular systems, often upsetting the digestion as well. The muscles for the time being are taut and tense, and the secretion of bile is increased. A reaction follows rapidly, when muscles become flabby and a feeling of weakness pervades the body.

Ellen Terry's Wit.

Ethel Barrymore, apropos of a witty remark made by a young actress at a garden party, said: "This young lady reminds me of Ellen Terry, who was the wittiest and most tactful woman I ever knew. I once heard a story which is characteristic of Miss Terry's ready wit. She was sued by her dressmaker for an unpaid bill and the case went against her. Asking to be allowed to appeal, she gave as one of her reasons that the judge who rendered the decision was too old to understand the case. The judge of appeals reminded her that once before, in another suit, she had complained that her case had been tried by a bit of a boy. 'What age, may I ask, madam, do you want a judge to be?' the judge of appeals inquired. 'Your age,' Miss Terry smilingly replied.

Slovenly habits lead to disaster.

Treasures in Waste-Paper Baskets.

Life is one long treasure hunt for those who sort the waste paper purchased by the large waste-paper companies that now exist in many American cities. The waste paper itself is valuable, but this article has little to do with that portion of the treasure trove. Beside the waste paper there are the many and varied articles that separate themselves from their rightful owners, and eventually find their way into the hands of the waste-paper sorters. If some of the hotel managers of the country could see the amount of fine linen, serviettes, hand towels, etc., that they lose in this manner, they would be very much surprised. Dry goods stores lose thousands of dollars' worth of stuff every year in this manner, the articles ranging from silk blouses to small pieces of lace.

Barbarity Long Remembered.

It happened when I was three years old and my sweetheart six months younger. He visited me often, and I always allowed him to take from me any particular toy which his majesty fancied, so great was my love for him. But one day things came to a crisis. He insisted on pulling out the hair of my wonderful French doll. Taking it from him, I gave him a good, sound whack on the head with it. Tears were shed on both sides. Even now that I have reached the age of eighteen, when "that old sweetheart of mine" asks to call or take me to a party I refuse. I can not and will not ever forgive him for his barbarity.—Chicago Journal.

Sweeps Up to Music.

A Detroit housewife says she makes it a point to do all her housework to music of the phonograph. She read somewhere about bricklayers and factory workers using a rhythmic movement so they wouldn't get tired so easily. So the next day she tried sweeping to the music of the phonograph, and says she found the work much easier. With the phonograph playing she didn't think so much about the sweeping. "It's the same with other sorts of housework, too," she says. "A little swing, a little sweep, and there you are. And every little movement has a meaning all its own."

The Shrieking Cat.

The Canada lynx, or loup-cervier, is in the habit of uttering horrifying shrieks when it is hunting. It is surmised that the shrieks are for the purpose of terrifying the animals for a long distance around so that the lynx may detect their whereabouts by their stealthy movements. This is contrary to the habits of most members of the cat tribe, which stalk their prey in utter silence.

FOUGHT LONG OVER SILESIA

Frederick the Great and Maria Theresa Sworn Foes on Account of "Debatable Land."

How many "travelers in little things" know that Upper Silesia, now so often in the world's mouth, was once the cause of a change of name in certain country inns far away in England? And Eighteenth-century England was very far from Silesia in point of time. During the continental wars of that century the British sometimes hired Frederick the Great of Prussia for their ally and sometimes the Empress Maria Theresa, better known to the public then as the queen of Hungary; and many a country inn was called by their names. But the more prudent inn-keeper kept two signs. When Frederick was likely to be popular with his guests, he hung out "The King of Prussia"; but as soon as policy changed, and the popular opinion of travelers with it, up went the head of "The Queen of Hungary." So you might ride down over the brow of the hill into the village, and "The King of Prussia" would welcome you in three-cornered hat and peruke. But next time, instead of his narrow jaw, you would catch sight of the overhanging lip of the Hapsburg, and would dismount under the full-bottomed wig of the empress. To this hour one sits his horse so at the bottom of Unter den Linden in Berlin and the other her throne off the Burg Ring in Vienna. Now, he and she were sworn foes; they were in honor bound to take opposite sides, and the standing ground of their quarrel was the possession of this debatable land, Silesia.

Overlapping Watersheds.

South America is distinguished among all the continents for the absence of clearly defined watersheds between the great river basins. From the Orinoco delta to the Rio de la Plata estuary there is almost a continuous overlapping of these basins. In southern Venezuela where the country thrusts a political peninsula into northern Brazil, below the town of Esmeraldo, the waters of the upper Orinoco suddenly decide to part company, some of them reaching the Amazon and others going in the opposite direction.

Entirely Willing to Oblige.

Mrs. Smith engaged a new housemaid and was annoyed to find that the girl persisted in addressing her as "Mrs. Smith." She remonstrated and suggested that she should address her in the same way as the other maids did. "Well," said the girl, thoughtfully, "I can't call you ma'am or mum; I always call mother that. But I don't mind calling you auntie if you like."

A hungry man was invited to look at the scenery

The sunset was all right, but what the man came for was supper.

It's hard to satisfy appetite with pictures and prizes—and it's hardly fair to the stomach.

The charm of Post Toasties is in the food itself. No scenery outside the package, but, inside, that wonderful Post Toasties taste and quality.

That's how Post Toasties gained universal recognition as the superior corn flakes.

Post Toasties are more substantial than their imitations. There's something to Post Toasties to eat. And there's such a distinctive crispness and rich corn flavor! Post Toasties stay crisp longer after cream or milk is added—no mushing down into a pulp.

The appetite that comes for a meal of Post Toasties wants Post Toasties and it can't be satisfied with substitutes and scenery.

Be sure it's the YELLOW and RED package and the name—

SWEET CLOVER

General interest in many places is being shown in getting a start with Sweet Clover, and this is just the right time to plan.

Planting should be done in January or early February. The earlier the better except in the upper plains where planting may be delayed as late as March 1st. In most Denver Road and Wichita Valley Road territory planting had better be done in January. Early planting is essential because Sweet Clover seed are very hard and require considerable time for absorbing moisture sufficient to cause germination. Experience shows that freezing and thawing weather after the seed are planted is beneficial rather than harmful. Better stands result from winter seed than spring seeding.

A hard seed bed is also essential. Many poor stands have resulted from sowing on a deeply prepared seed bed. Sweet clover does not do well except on land that is firm underneath. Seed should be covered as shallow as possible. Seed are sometimes sown on snow and not covered at all.

Sweet clover provides very excellent pasturage. Many stories have been circulated about stock not liking sweet clover. There is a simple explanation for this story. Sweet clover has slightly bitter taste, and stock do not like it at first any more than a man likes his first glass of beer. However, livestock soon acquire a liking for sweet clover, especially when turned on early in the spring before other green stuff is up.

Another mistake has caused some to think that stock will not eat sweet clover, and that is the fact that stock have been put on sweet clover pasture for the first time away along in the summer after the stems are large and tough. Stock which are unaccustomed to eating sweet clover will not touch it at this stage.

To get the best results sweet clover should be pastured heavy enough to keep most of the plants from running up and getting coarse.

The writer has seen horses, cattle, hogs and sheep grazing sweet clover. It has almost identically the same feeding value as alfalfa. It is time you were getting your seed.

CHAPTER XVI.

From Dead Hands.

At the head of the file, Capt. Tony advanced through the clearing, and what with his flowing black beard, his portly form and a certain dramatic swagger which he possessed, he looked so entirely Italian and operatic that you expected to hear him at any moment burst out in a sonorous basso. With a sweeping gesture he flung down upon the table two brown canvas bags, which opened and discharged from gaping mouths a flood of golden coins.

Slinker and the cross-eyed man shouted aloud. They ran and clutched at the coins with a savage greed.

"Gold, gold—the real stuff! It's the doubloons, all right—where's the rest of 'em?" These cries broke from Slinker and Horny confusedly as the gold slid jingling between their eager fingers.

"The rest of 'em is—where they is," pronounced Tony oracularly. "Somewhere in the sand of the cove, of course. Well dig 'em up tomorrow morning."

"What was the point in not digging 'em all up while you was about it?" demanded Slinker, lowering. "What was the good o' digging up jest these here couple o' bags and quitting?"

"Because we didn't dig 'em up," responded Tony darkly. "Because these was all ready and waiting. Because all we had to do was to say 'Thankee' to the feller that handed 'em out. We got these here bags of doubloons, as I says, without havin' to dig for 'em—once we had found the cave, which it's no thanks to old Washtubs we ain't looking for it yet. We got these here bags right out of the fists of a skeleton. Most of him was under a rock, which had fell from the roof and pinned him amids'hips. Must o' squashed him like a beetle, I guess. But he'd still kep' his hold on the bags." I turned aside, for fear that anyone should see how white I was. To the rest, these poor bones might indeed bear mute witness to a tragedy, but a tragedy lacking outlines, vague, impersonal, without poignancy. To me, they told with dreadful clearness the last sad chapter of the tale of Peter; Peter who had made me so intimately his confidante, whose love and hopes and solitary strivings I knew all about.

Vaguely I heard around me a babble of exclamations and conjectures. Murmurs of interest rose even from our captive band. Then came Slinker's voice, loud with sudden fear:

"Say, you don't suppose the—the Bones would of got away with the rest of the coin somehow, do you?" he demanded.

"Got away with it?" Tony contemptuously thrust aside the possibility. "Got away with it how? He sure didn't leave the island with it, did he? Would he of dug it up from one place jest to bury it in another? Huh! Must of wanted to work if he did! Now, my notion is that this happened to one of the guys that was burying the gold, and that the rest jest left him there for a sort of scarecrow to keep other people out of the cave."

"But the gold?" protested Slinker. "They wouldn't leave that for a scarecrow, would they?"

"Maybe not," admitted Tony, "but suppose that feller died awful slow, and went on bawling and clutching at the bags? Well, that cave wouldn't be a pleasant place to stay in, would it? And no one would have the nerve to snatch them bags away to bury 'em, 'cause a dying man, especially when he dies hard, can have an awful grip. So what they done was just to shovel the sand in on the gold they'd stowed away and light out quick."

If the ingenuity of this reasoning was more remarkable than its logic, the pirates were not the men to find fault with it. Desire is the most eloquent of advocates, and the five ruff-ans had only to listen to its voice to enjoy in anticipation all the fruits of their iniquitous schemes. The sight of the golden coins intoxicated them. They played with the doubloons like children, jingling them in their calloused palms, guessing at weight and value, calculating their equivalent in the joy of living. Laughter and oaths resounded.

And now the night that I unutterably dreaded was upon us. But the pirates still thought of nothing but the gold. They had exhausted their own portable supplies of liquor, and were loud in their denunciations of our bony dry camp, as they termed it.

It was Tony who intercepted a tentative movement of Capt. Magnus in my direction, and ordered me into the cabin with my aunt and Miss Browne. Through the walls of the hut we heard loud and eager talk of the morrow and its certain golden harvest as the pirates made their dispositions for the night. Then the voices trailed off steeply and silence succeeded, broken only by the ceaseless murmur of the waves around the island.

CHAPTER XVII.

Of Which Cookie Is the Hero.

Next morning I came out of the hut in time to see Mr. Shaw and his companion in duress led forth from the sleeping quarters which they had shared with their captors. They were moored as before to a palm tree, by a rope having a play of two or three feet, and their hands unbound while they made a hasty breakfast under the eye of a watchful sentinel. Then their wrists were tied again, not painfully, but with a firmness which made any slipping of their bonds impossible.

While the pirates were breakfasting a spirited dispute took place among them as to who should go to the treasure cave and who stay in camp to guard the prisoners. Slinker and Horny urged with justice that, as they had missed all the excitement of the preceding day, it was their turn to visit the cave. The right to see the Bones they passionately claimed. Tony supported them, and it ended with Chris and Captain Magnus being told off as our guards for the morning.

In leaving the cabin I had slipped into my blouse a small penknife which I had found in Aunt Jane's bag. It was quite new, and I satisfied myself that the blades were keen. My own large sheath-knife and my revolver I had been deprived of at the suggestion of the thoughtful Magnus. I had surrendered them unprotestingly, fearful of all things that my possessions might be ransacked and Peter's diary, though hidden with much art at the bottom of the bag, be brought to light. For I might yet sell the secret of the Island Queen at a price which should redeem us all.

As the heat increased a voice of lamentation broke from Chris. He was dry—dry enough to drink up the condemned ocean. No, he didn't want spring water, which Cookie obsequiously tendered him; he wanted a drink—wouldn't anybody but a fool nigger know that? There was plenty of the real stuff aboard the schooner, on the other side of the—adjective—Island. Why had they, with incredible lack of forethought, brought along nothing but their pocket flasks? Why hadn't they sent the adjective nigger back for more? Where was the bottle or two that had been rooted out last night from the medical stores? Empty? Every last drop gone down somebody's greedy gullet? The adjectives came thick and fast as Chris hurled the bottle into the bay, where it swam bobbingly upon the ripples. Captain Magnus agreed with the gist of Chris' remarks, but deprecated, in a truly philosophical spirit, their unprofitable heat. There wasn't any liquor, so what was the good of making an adjective row? Hadn't he endured the equivalent of Chris' present sufferings for weeks? He was biding his time, he was. Plenty of drink by and by, plenty of all that makes life soft and easy. He bet there wouldn't many hit any higher spots than him. He bet there was one little girl that would be looked on as lucky, in case she was a good little girl and encouraged him to show his natural kindness. And I was favored with a blood-curdling leer from across the camp, of which I had put as much as possible between myself and the object of my dread.

But now, like a huge black Gany-mede, appeared Cookie, bearing cups and a large stone crock.

"It suitin'ly am a fact, Mistah Chris, sah," said Cookie, "dat dey is a mighty unsprituous fluidity 'bout dis yere spring yatah. Down war I is come from no pussions of de Four Hundred ain't even 'customed to partake of such. But de sassyey I has been in lately round dis yere camp ain't of de convoluted ordah; ole Cookie had to keep it dark dat he got his little drop of comfort on de side. Dis yere's only home-made stuff, sah. Tain't what I could offah to a gennelmen if so be I is got the makin's of a genuine old-style julep what is de beverage of de fust families. But hein' as it is, it am mighty coolin', sah, and it got a little kick to it—not much, but jes' enough to make a gennelmen feel lak he is one."

Cookie's tones dripped humility and propitiation. He offered the brimming cup cringing to the pale-eyed, red-nosed Chris, who reached for it with alacrity, drank deep, smacked his lips meditatively, and after a moment passed the cup back.

"Tain't so worse," he said approvingly. "Anyhow, it's drink!"

Magnus suddenly began to laugh. "S'elp me, it's the same dope what laid out the Honorable!" he chortled. "Here, ducky, let's have a swig of it!"

Cookie complied, joining respectfully in the captain's mirth.

"I guess you-all is got stronger haid den dat young gennelmen!" he remarked. "Dis yere ole niggah has help hisself mighty freely and dat prohibitionist Miss Harding ain't even found it out. Fae' is, it am puffycky harmless 'cept when de haid is weak."

False, false Cookie! Black brother in perfidy to Mr. Tubbs! One friend the less to be depended on if a chance for freedom ever came to us!

Cookie refilled the pirates' cups, and set the crock beside them on the ground.

"In case you gennelmen feels yo'-sells a life thirsty later on," he remarked. He was retiring, when Captain Magnus called to him.

"Blackie, this ain't bad. It's coolin', but thin—a real nice ladylike sort of drink, I should say. Suppose you take a swig over to Miss Jinny there with my compliments—I'm one to always treat a lady generous if she gives me half a chance."

Obediently Cookie hastened for another cup, set it on a tray, and approached me with his old-time ornate manner. I faced him with a withering look, but, unmindful, he bowed, presenting me the cup, and interposing his bulky person between me and the deeply quaffing pirates. At the same time his voice reached me, pitched in a low and anxious key.

"Fo' de Lawd's sake, Miss Jinny, spill it out! It am mighty powerful dope—it done fumented twice as long as befo'—it am bou' to give dat trash de blind-staggahs sho'tly!"

Instantly I understood, and a thrill of relief and of hope inexpressible shot through me. I put the cup to my lips and after a brief parade of drinking passed it back to Cookie, spilling the contents on the ground en route.

Gradually the rough disjointed talk of the sailors began to languish. Covertly watching, I saw that Chris' head had begun to droop. The hand that held the cup was lifted, stretched out in the direction of the enticing jar, then forgetting its errand fell heavily. After a few spasmodic twitchings of the eyelids and uneasy grunts, Chris slumbered.

Captain Magnus was of tougher fiber. But he, too, grew silent and there was a certain meal-sack limpness about his attitude. His dulled eyes stared dreamily. All at once, with a jerk, he roused himself, turned over and administered to the sleeping Chris a prod with his large boot.

"Hey, there, wake up! What right you got to be asleep at the switch?" But Chris only breathed more heavily.

Captain Magnus himself heaved a tremendous yawn, settled back in greater comfort against his sustaining tree and closed his eyes. I waited, counting the seconds by the beating of the blood in my ears. In the background Cookie hovered apprehensively. Plainly he would go on hovering unless loud snores from the pirates gave him assurance. For myself, I sat fingering my penknife, wondering whether I ought to rush over and plunge it into the sleepers' throats. This would be heroic and practical, but unpleasant. If, on the other hand, I merely tried to free the prisoners and Captain Magnus woke, what then? The palm where they were tied was a dozen yards from me, much nearer to the guards, and within range of even their most languid glance. Beyond the prisoners was Miss Browne, glaring uncomprehendingly over the edge of her book. There was no help in Miss Browne.

I left my seat and stole on feet which seemed to stir every leaf and twig to loud complaint toward the captive pair. Tense, motionless, with burning eyes, they waited. There was a movement from Captain Magnus; he yawned, turned and muttered. I stood stricken, my heart beating with loud thumps against my ribs. But the captain's eyes remained closed.

"Virginia—quick, Virginia!" Dugald Shaw was stretching out his bound hands to me, and I had dropped on my knees before him and begun to cut at the knotted cords. They were tough strong cords, and I was hacking at them feverishly when something bounded across the clearing and flung itself upon me. Crusoe, of course!—and wild with the joy of reunion, I struggled a cry of dismay, and with one hand tried to thrust him off while I cut through the rope with the other.

IN KNITTED OUTERWEAR; FOR HOME DRESSMAKERS

FROM the sturdy and matter-of-fact sweaters of other years have come down to us the sweaters of today—also sturdy, but diversified and stylish; and the comfortable scarfs that grandmother knitted have numerous lineal descendants, that continue to be comfortable, but must also concern themselves with the element of style. In all knitted outerwear nowadays, utility and comfort are matters to be taken for granted; they are the foundation of garments that manufacturers undertake to make smart and spirited, and designers have succeeded so well that all the social and other activities of the busy women of today are reflected in this knitted wear. Its field has been immensely widened in variety of garments and in their character.

Two handsome products of the knitting mills, as shown above, lure the maid in opposite directions; one of them leading southward, toward genial climes, and the other suggesting snowy days and winter sports. The sweater at the left can allow itself to be a little fanciful—it has in its company a scarf that will protect its wearer against any little bite or chill in the air that may steal down from the north.

The cheerful and shaggy affair at the right of the picture is among the many organdie frocks and combinations of organdie and gingham. It almost goes without saying that designers make these practical frocks simple, easy to put on and take off, wear-resisting, and it is very apparent that they are centering attention on styles in them that give them a new atmosphere.

Among the simpler garments appears an apron which combines unbleached muslin with blue chambray as shown at the left of the picture below. Mercerized floss is used for the simplest of needlework embellishments on it, and this apron serves as a dress when worn with an under-bodice. SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Let's be thankful. Our blessings outnumber our troubles.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a cross, feverish, bilious, or constipated child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. Advertise—ment.

THIN, FADED HAIR NEEDS "DANDERINE" TO THICKEN IT

35 cents buys a bottle of "Danderine." Within ten minutes after the first application you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping your hair to grow long, thick and luxuriant.

Girls! Girls! Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, thin, scraggy. A single application of delightful Danderine will double the beauty and radiance of your hair and make it look twice as abundant.—Advertisement.

OSBORN FOR WEAHER

The Informer is authorized to announce F. M. Osborn as a candidate for Public Weigher at Hedley, subject to the Democratic primary in July.

Frank Osborn has been a resident of Hedley for seven years, and has, by his upright and honest walk, made a host of friends. He has never before offered for public office. He farmed until two years ago, when a serious injury to one leg resulted in making him permanently crippled in that member, and made it inadvisable to further pursue that occupation. However, he is not seeking favor on account of this fact, but because he feels capable of serving you as Weigher in an entirely satisfactory manner. We all know he is absolutely reliable, and his friends declare he will make a splendid Public Weigher. Consider his claims before balloting time comes.

We note that G. A. Wimberly, former prominent Hedley citizen, is now president of the Amarillo Amusement Park Co., a newly organized concern which is putting 200 shares of stock on the market at $100 per share. 160 acres of land near Amarillo have been purchased, and it is planned to convert this plot into a modern amusement park including lake, natatorium, playgrounds and other amusement places for the general public, according to a Daily Tribune article.

We have nothing to sell below cost. Lowest prices on all goods every day. G. P. Cloninger.

TAILOR SHOP

Casey Jones takes the Beautiful Doll Down By the Old Mill Stream, while the Alexander Rag Time Band plays Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland. You should take your Mysterious Rags to J. M. Clarke and have them cleaned and pressed, for Everybody's Doing It.

C. E. Johnson, our accommodating Telephone manager, has our thanks for a check this week renewing the three Informers he has been taking the past several years.

Mrs. Van Boone and children returned recently from a visit to relatives in Barkburnett and points in Oklahoma.

Our old time friend J. H. Irwin was a Hedley visitor Tuesday, from Clarendon.
