OY SCOUTS MAKE STUDY OF STARS

Members of Boy Scout Troop 2 of erryton enjoyed an hour of star udy Monday night at Scout meetng under the leadership of Dewy Allen, scoutmaster, and R. L. askey, scout executive.

A surveyor's transit was used to bserve several of the heavenly bodies, including the moon, the planet upiter, and several real stars. Perhaps the most interesting sights to the Scouts were the craters on the moon and three of the moons of the planet Jupiter. This planet was explained to the Scouts as being a member of the solar system like our earth, but whereas the earth has only one moon Jupiter has nine. Three of these moons were visible to the Scouts. A double star was also observed through the transit. This star appears to be one bright star to the naked eye, but is seen through the telescope as two stars, one colored red and the other green.

Several constellations of stars were pointed out to the Scouts and interesting facts told about comets, meteors and nebulae. After the discussion the Scouts could better understand how the Psalmist of old said that the heavens declare the Glory of Jehovah.

A part of the Scout meeting was spent in sawing out boards to make road signs. Each Troop in Perryton has been assigned a quota of one hundred road signs to be made from scrap lumber and painted with the name Perryton and the distance. These signs are to be put up during the first week of February by the Scouts over the entire Tex-Okla council.

Roy Thrush and Jerald Jones flew to Dallas Monday in Mr. Thrush's plane. While there he will take his transport examination.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feaster returned last Saturday to their home in Farnsworth after a months visit at Mount Ary, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Apple returned Sunday from a two weeks vacation.

THE WORD CHRISTMAS

The modern habit of writing the word "Christmas" with an "X" is something which "good form" alone should forbid. The Greek letter chi, found in the word for Christ, has the form of our X, and from this the abbreviation of the word has followed. A writer in the Capital News of Boise, Idaho, reminds us that X stands for the unknown quantity in mathematical problems. Do those who use it, then, intimate thus their ignorance of the Christ? Certainly it would not seem as if any who have a deep sense of the sacredness of this word, "Christmas" would write it in a hasty abbreviation. Further, X is the sign used by illiterate people to show that they cannot write their own names. Is this Xmas, then, a sign that the present generation has not yet learned to write or read its title clear?

X is, furthermore, a voiceless letter; that is, it has to borrow the sound of other letters to make itself heard. It is the ostracized letter of the alphabet and always discarded when its use is not indispensible.

If X is regarded as a sign of the cross, that great symbol of Christian history, it is incorrect in form. In any case, to connect the thought of the cross with the Christmas blessedness is no longer the need for those who have witnessed the resurrection. Let this symbol of ignorance, indifference and suffering, then, no longer appear as a disguise of the beautiful word "Christmas."

The writer in the News concludes: Let this meaningless, ugly sign "X"-mas be banished forever. Let the reporter scorn to use it. Let the city editor frown upon and stab it with his blue pencil. Let the advertisement writer cease to make it a blot and blur upon his otherwise beautiful lettering. Let the teacher, with his fine sense of eternal fitness of things, condemn it. Let the student be taught never to use it. Let the people in their private correspondence disdain to disfigure their letters with its presence. Let everyone demand the removal of this barnacle from the English language. And whenever we have occasion in writing or printing to refer to the initial event of the centuries, let us use that sweet, sacred and beautiful word, "Christmas."—Reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor, December 13, 1910.

Hold Service School

Wilson-Daley Buick Company Employees Given Three Day School In Body Servicing

R. E. Dougherty of the Buick Motor company spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Perryton, conducting a school in the mechanics and servicing of closed bodies at the Wilson-Daley Buick company.

According to Mr. Dougherty, coach work and servicing is becoming one of the most important things in the garage business. With the introduction of more powerful motors, faster cars and the four-wheel breaks, the strain on the coach bodies is even greater and it is necessary to know how to service them.

With this instruction and practical experience behind them, the mechanical force at the Wilson-Daley Buick company are now as capable of servicing bodies as the workmen in the larger cities.

MERLYN RAY MIXON

Meryln Ray Mixon, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mixon of this city, died Friday, December 13, at Shattuck, Oklahoma, from an attack of spinal meningitis. Everything that loving hands and medical skill could think of was done for the little fellow. Meryln was born on July 5, 1927. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Knowles, Oklahoma on December 15, following the funeral services which were conducted by Rev. Oharah, pastor of the Nazarene church at that place. The sympathy of the entire community goes forth to the mother and father and the little sister who survive.

Mrs. Hugh Lackey returned Thursday from a short visit with her father in Amarillo.

LIONS BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

LADIES ARE HONOR GUESTS AT ANNUAL FEED SERVED AT NEW HOTEL PERRYTON COFFEE SHOP

On last Tuesday night the wives and sweethearts of the members of the Lions club were honor guests at a very elaborate banquet served at the New Hotel Perryton Coffee Shop. This banquet marked the close of a highly interesting membership contest, in which the Witt bunch went down in defeat before the gang captained by Luke Lance, and as a result the losers had to pay for the feed.

Dave Shanks, first president of the Club served as "roastmaster" and as usual came in for most of the "roasting" himself. W. B. LaMaster, present president, made a very interesting talk concerning the work of the Lions Club, both locally, nationally, and internationally. Short talks were made by practically every member of the club. After considerable delay, try-outs, etc., Tail Quister Claybaugh, lined up a quartette composed of Shupe, Barbour, Cutter and Claybaugh, who dished out some real harmony.

The main talk of the evening was delivered by A. T. Holcomb, Dalhart, district governor of the Lions Club of the Panhandle. Mr. Holcomb, who is an enthusiastic Lions worker, made a very interesting, and instructive address. The Lions Club of Perryton now has a membership of almost fifty members, holding regular noon day luncheons every Tuesday. It is a constructive organization and is a very important factor in the upbuilding of the Perryton country.

Hold Turkey Shoot

Curtis Roach and Raymond Clark To Hold All Day Shoot Saturday December 21

An all day turkey shoot will be held Saturday, December 21, at the Perryton baseball park just north of town, starting at 10:00 o'clock in the morning. Curtis Roach and Raymond Clark are in charge of the shoot.

Targets and clay pigeons for shot guns and rifles can be used by those taking part in the shoot.

POULTRY MEET HERE SATURDAY

WILL COMPLETE ORGANIZATION OF NORTH PLAINS POULTRY ASSOCIATION DECEMBER 21

A meeting of the officers and others interested in the formation of the North Plains Poultry Association will be held in this city, Saturday, December 21, at the courthouse to complete the organization and to formulate plans for the betterment of the poultry industry in this vicinity.

Officers of the newly formed association are E. W. Rogers, Farnsworth, president; Mrs. R. D. Hall, Booker, vice-president; and Geo. E. Voss, Perryton, secretary. They will confer here Saturday with County Agent Guy R. Sheets and others to work out a constructive program for the benefit of the poultry raisers and to lay plans that will tend to make the show here in 1930 bigger and better than this years exhibit.

Fred Kreiger, editor of the Hansford County News, Gruver, Texas, and John W. Cooper, sales manager of the Gruver Roller Bearing Co., were Perryton visitors last Saturday. They report that many new and substantial business buildings and dwellings are being built at Gruver. In our opinion Gruver is going to make a mighty good town and Fred Kreiger and the News are doing their share to put it over.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Barbour were Amarillo visitors Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many people of Perryton who were so kind and helpful to us during the last illness of our little son and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mixon and daughter.

Carter Pens at The Herald Office.

Physician Locates Here

Dr. G. L. Kengle, Enid, Oklahoma Forms Medical Partnership With Dr. W. J. Brewer

Dr. G. L. Kengle came in last Saturday from Enid, Oklahoma to locate in Perryton, for the practise of surgery and general medicine with Dr. William J. Brewer, pioneer physician of this county.

Dr. Kengle comes here with very high recommendations. He has lived in the Enid country for many years, and has been practising there for some time. He graduated from the medical school of St. Louis University, later serving for two years as interne and senior physician in the St. Louis city hopital. After a years service as resident physician at the Koch Hospital in St. Louis, he returned to his home at Enid. Dr. Kengle is an ex-service man.

BAPTISTS WILL FINISH CHURCH

HAVE PLACED ORDER FOR TILE AND BRICK; WILL START CONSTUCTION WORK IN THREE WEEKS

C. Lex Shelby, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Perryton, states that actual construction work on the completion of their new church will start within the next few weeks. The brick and tile have already been purchased and delivery will be made in a few days. The contract for the construction work will be let soon.

When completed the new home of the Baptist people in this city will be one of the most imposing church structures in the Panhandle. The basement was completed two years ago and has been used for church and Sunday School purposes. The completion of this fine church home will fulfill the dreams of a few loyal workers who have labored long and hard for a new building for many years.

Gifts For Veterans

Auxiliary Tea Provided Funds To Buy Christmas Gifts For Disabled War Veterans

The members of the American Legion Auxiliary are very thankful to the ladies of Perryton for their attendance at the tea held at the Legion Hall on last Friday afternoon. The proceeds from the sale of gift items placed on sale at the tea were used to send Christmas gifts to disabled war veterans who are now patients in government hospitals.

Over $90.00 was realized from the sale, approximately $70.00 of which was profit. This amount was used to purchase gifts for nine men who are in the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas. They were each sent cigarettes, tooth paste and brush, stationary, cards, stamps and some money. In addition to the above gifts, a box was sent to the adopted veteran of the Unit. All of the above items were included in his box and in addition the following: a tie, fountain pen and ink and a box of handkerchiefs. These gifts go to men who are without means of any kind and are patients in hospitals without any money compensation from the government.

KINDERGARTEN HONOR ROLL INCOMPLETE

In last weeks issue we gave a list of the pupils for the kindergarten honor roll and left out one of the names, our mistake. Jack Williams should have been on the list.

A CORRECTION

In last weeks issue of the Herald, the names of the directors of the Farmers Cooperative Society were omitted from their page display advertisement. Three of the most substantial farmers in this locality, H. C. Brillhart, F. C. Spencer and M. W. Hawk, compose the board. The officers are G. W. Powers, president; F. L. Bell, vice-president; and the veteran oil man, E. H. Dodd, is general manager. This cooperative oil company has enjoyed a wonderful business since it was organized last spring.

MCBRIDE IS OUT OF RACE

WITHDRAWS FROM REPRESENTATIVE RACE IN FAVOR OF JOHNSON, CANDIDATE OF DALHART

G. Gordon McBride has announced his withdrawl from the race for state representative from the 124th legislative district.

Mr. McBride, a member of the law firm of McBride, McBride & Dally of Borger, asks his friends to support A. C. Johnson, insurance man, of Dalhart. The only other candidate now in the race is C. M. Armstrong, oil man, of Borger.

Governor Dan Moody has called a special election January 4 to choose a successor to Representative John White of Borger, resigned.

Mr. McBride said last night:

"Since I announced my candidacy two other candidates have entered the race. Under those conditions it would require all my time in making an active canvass. I prefer to withdraw and support Mr. Johnson. He will be in a position to serve the diversified interests of the districts without being obligated to give undue preference to any special interest.

"I appreciate the support my friends have given me and regret if do not see my way clear to give the time an active campaign would require."

Junior School Band

Makes Very Creditable Showing at First Appearance Wednesday Morning

The Junior band of the Perryton schools made their first public appearance on the Wednesday morning chapel program. Director Rudolph R. Willmann deserves much praise for the wonderful showing that they made. This band is made up of pupils from the grades, the majority of them coming from the lower rooms.

Mr. Willmann states that they have had very little opportunity to practise in a body, practically all of the work has been done in section or group rehearsals. There are thirty-seven members of the band.

COYOTE RODEO HERE DEC. 21

AMERICAN LEGION IS SPONSORING EVENT; FASTEST DOGS IN COUNTRY ARE EXPECTED

Some of the fastest coyote dogs in the country are expected to be in Perryton on next Saturday, Dec. 21, when the American Legion will sponsor a coyote rodeo under the management of Shope & Gregory, so states C. B. Rogers, chairman of the finance committee of the Legion. Twenty vicious coyotes will be provided by the promoters for the races.

The rodeo will start promptly at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon and will last for three hours. An admission fee of fifty cents will be charged. Cash prizes of $40.00, $30.00 $20.00, and $10.00 will be awarded to the winning pairs of dogs according to the time in which they catch and kill their coyote. An entrance fee of $10.00 for each pair of dogs will be charged.

"SI" SMITH WINS FOOTBALL LETTER AT SCHOOL

"Si" Smith, former Perryton high school star athlete and a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Smith of this county, was one of seventeen who were awarded regular letters in football at the Texas College of Arts and Industries, Kingsville, Texas.

Russell J. Cook, principal of the high school here for several years, is Dean of Agriculture in the South Texas School, which is the leading college of that part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Whippo and Miss Gabriella Black were Amarillo visitors Saturday.

Francis and Alfred Dowers and Max Dean were Spearman callers Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Garrett visited Sunday with her parents at Woodward, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones were Amarillo visitors Sunday.

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

Back in 1897, a little New York girl, Virginia O'Hanlon, wrote to the New York Sun. That newspaper was edited by Charles A. Dana. The reply to Virginia was written by Francis P. Church. Letter and reply tell the story. Here is the letter:

"Dear Editor: I am 8 years old. Some of my friends say there is not a Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon,
115 W. 95th Street"

Here is the reply:

"Virginia your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its higest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might get your papa to hire men on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would they prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not but that's no proof they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God, there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man nor the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten thousand times a thousand years from now; he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Carload of Delco Light

T. C. Shaw Is Shipping Fourth Solid Carload of Plants Here For This Year

T. C. Shaw, local dealer for the Delco Light states that his fourth solid carload of Delco Light plants for 1929 is now enroute from the factory for distribution to the farm homes of the Perryton trade territory. This car is expected to be into Perryton in time for delivery of the plants before Christmas.

Mr. Shaw says that there will be several plants in this shipment that are not already contracted and that they will be available for immediate sale. By going in together and buying these plants of the cooperative plant, a considerable sum is saved over the regular retail price.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kelley returned to their home in Winfield, Kansas, Saturday after a several days visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dowers.

Mrs. Smith Gregg, who is visiting with her granddaughter, Mrs. Earl Rice and Mrs. J. M. Grigsby spent the day Monday iwth Mrs. J. J. Long.

Mr. and Mrs. Virby Conley, Myrtle Conley and Arch Talley were guests for a quail dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. F. Bray Sunday evening.

MANY HURT IN CAR ACCIDENTS

MR. AND MRS. KELLEY MYERS AND DAUGHTER IN HOSPITAL; R. C. JOHNSON INJURED

Last week-end was a bad one for residents of Perryton and vicinity in the matter of car wrecks. On last Thursday afternoon, J. T. Carlson of this city and Milton Sweigart, who lives fifteen miles southeast of Perryton, had a very narrow escape from death or serious injury when Mr. Carlson's Buick car and a truck loaded with wheat and driven by Mr. Sweigart, collided at a highway intersection ten miles east of Perryton. The truck hit the car broadsides. Fortunately neither machines overturned but both were total wreck. Both drivers were slightly injured.

R. C. Johnson, owner of the Johnson Motor Co., local Ford dealers, is in a hospital at Wichita Falls, suffering from injuries sustained when his car ran into a truck near Wichita Falls last Saturday night. The truck was running without lights. From meager reports of the accident received in Perryton Mr. Johnson was meeting another car at the time and evidently the glaring lights blinded him so that he could not see the truck. Mr. Johnson was on his side of the highway. No bones were broken but Mr. Johnson received a number of severe cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Myers and little daughter of the Balko country are in the Brewer Hospital as a result of a car collision a few miles north of town last Saturday night. Mr. Myers has a broken leg, the little girl a broken jaw bone and Mrs. Myers a number of severe cuts. Mrs. Nichols and daughter of this city, who were in the Myers car, also received a number of severe cuts and bruises. From reports, the Myers car was coming south on the highway, when they ran head-on into a car occupied by Leo Kerns and Miss Stella Lyle of Gray. The Kerns car was attempting to pass another car and had turned out to go around when they met Myers. The occupants of the Kerns car were only slightly injured.

MEN HAVE CHARGE OF PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

The men were in charge of the last meeting of the Parent-Teacher association, held at the high school auditorium Monday evening and a splendid evening of entertainment was given without the assistance of the ladies.

C. W. Callaway, L. O. Byerly and G. I. Horne acted as the committee in charge of the affair which was in the nature of a try-out. It was opened with a xylophone solo by Rudolph Willmann, accompanied by J. Lee Funk. A quartet number was featured next, given by Pete Krause, Herman Lowen and Waldemar and Arnold Krause.

A tap dance was given by Emory Lee and a stunt given by W. L. McDivitt and A. K. Wooten. Another quartet composed of Jas. E. Barbour, C. W. Claybaugh, E. E. Shupe and Addison Cutter followed. An impersonation number with singing and clogging was given by Clyde Jones. The closing number on the program was several violin pieces and some stunts on the violin by Mr. Rich.

Following the proggram the members attending were taken to the home economics rooms where apples and pop corn balls were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rogers and family are planning to return to their home at Sparta, Mo. in a short while. They have been in Perryton and vicinity since spring. This week they are visiting in Perryton in the homes of Mrs. Rogers' brother, Geo. Pletcher, and Mr. Rogers' sister, Mrs. T. J. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Byerly, Mrs. R. C. Allen, Mrs. B. B. Kent and Mrs. C. W. Callaway were Shattuck, Okla. visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lance and son, Wilfred, visited Saturday and Sunday in the home of their son and brother, W. H. Lance, and family of Dalhart.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredw Dowers and family left last week for Montgomery, Alabama where they will remain until spring.

DEVIL-MAY-CARE

by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

ILLUSTRATED BY DONALD RILEY

At a party in Palm Beach given by Mr. Cooper Clary, Leeson, an attorney, meets Lucy Harkness, known as Devil-May-Care because of her adventurous, eventful life. In a game in which partners for the evening are chosen, Lucy is won by Tim Stevens, who has a great reputation as a successful heart-breaker. Leeson is a bit jealous. Tim Stevens tells Lucy they are going aboard his boat, the Minerva, and she accedes in order not to be "a quitter." Asked if she is sorry that he won her company, Lucy says she is not and that evidently Fate has arranged it. Tim thereupon tells her to stop looking regretfully after Leeson.

Aboard Stevens boat, the Minerca, Stevens tells Lucy of his love. When she replies with contempt for him, he grows violently angry and she becomes afraid of him. He says he will never let her go from the Minerva until she accepts him. To escape him, she leaps into the water from her cabin window, swimming a short distance under water.

Lucy reaches land and mets Dr. Fergus Faunce on an island. He takes care of her and takes her home. Everyone is worried about her, and when she meets Stvens he is frantic, regretful and still ardent in protestations of love.

Leeson informs Lucy that Stevens must raise a quarter of a million dollars or go to Jail—"at five o'clock." Lucy goes to her bank and raises the sum.

Lucy goes to Stevens to help him, but he refused to take money from a woman to whom he is not married. So Lucy marries this man that she hates, and promptly runs away from him, going to her staunch friend Dr. Fergus Faunce to tell what she has done.

Stevens sets out in search of Lucy. Meanwhile, Dr. Faunce and Lucy launch a new boat. A hurricane is saved ETAOI e@,eoSJUhI wrecks them on their first trip. Lucy is saved, and finds herself aboard the Minerva, wondering what happened to Dr. Faunce.

Now Go On With The Story

She felt her throat constract and was conscious of an almost mastering desire to scream. If Fergus had not been saved, if her mad companion in her mad adventure, had been lost, then life would have no savor, not even a reason for continuance. If she, impelled by motives which even to herself were obscure, had dragged Faunce to his death, then would she be guilty of that death.

She cried out at sight of him, and he leaped from the chair. She leaned against the outer wall of the cabin and laughed. He was so ridiculous in those clothes, obviously borrowed from Stevens's supply. Then she wept slightly, but dried her tears as he advanced upon her. She held out her hands to him.

"I wanted to die," she said. "The fear that I'd dragged you to death.

As his hand dropped gently upon hers and imprisoned it, she met his glance.

In she had known before, she would have been informed now. He loved her with that overmastering love which is given only to middle age. Youth is romantic and desirous, but the middle years bring selfless devotion.

"Don't Fergus," she said brokenly.

"My dear," he said, "I can't help it. It seems to me that it's always been so, and always will be so. But I'm not going to bother you with it, Lucy dear. I didn't mean you to read it in my eyes. But you have, and I am glad, because if ever you need any one . . . I don't want to be melodramatic, but I'd die for you, Lucy."

"Oh, Fergus, don't speak of death!" she pleaded. "We've been so close . . . so near . . ." Her voice ceased; the hand that rested beneath Faunce's moved uneasily, and then the fingers clenched. Faunce looked up. Stevens had emerged from the pilot-house forward and was now approaching them.

Unwillingly Faunce admitted the great charm of the man. His big body moved cat-like, smoothly, gracefully. He had the knack of wearing clothes well, and his blue-flannel doublebreasted jacket became him. The yachting cap could not entirely hide the blond curls, and the tan of his face but made his teeth the whiter as they showed in a smile.

"Better, dear wife of mine?" he inquired.

"I suppose I owe you my life?" she queried.

He shrugged his wide shoulders.

"No need for protestations of gratitude, my dear. The hurricane hit the Minerva and we were scurry for the lee of Barracuda Island when we saw the waterspout hit your craft. We didn't know who was in your boat, but we did the obvious thing. We managed to save you. Rather a shock to pick one's bride out of the ocean, clased in another man's arms, but as one gets older one understands that life is lurid melodrama when it isn't a savage farce. Sleep well, my dear?

"Say, Faunce, would you mind letting me have a word alone with my wife?"

"I'm not a bit afraid of him, Fergus," she said.

"Where were you going with Faunce?" he demanded.

"I don't at all mind telling you," she replied. "We were going to spend last night on Barracuda Island. Then we were going to some Bahama key and stay there."

"Forever?" he sneered.

'Until we became tired of it. Until I'd had time to think."

"Well, you're going to do just that thing," he said. "Only you're going with me, not Faunce."

"Don't be absurd," she advised.

"Absurd? My God! you talk to me of absurdity! Listen, my dear Lucy: you left me, to run away with Faunce. Do you think any jury in the world would convict me of murder if I killed him out of hand?"

"You wouldn't dare," she breathed.

"And why not? You knew better. You know that my hands are itching now to toss him overboard. So help me God, upon my word of honor—"

"Your word of honor?" she jeered.

"Upon my word of dishonor, then I'll kill him here and now unlss you agree, without further word, to go with me to Barracuda Island, to shore the tent I'll erect there, to be mine!"

Faintly, far away, her voice sounded as she made her decision.

"I'll go to Barracuda Island with you," she said.

"Please tell Dr. Faunce I wish to speak to him," said Stevens.

"My wife and I", said Stevens easily, "have composed our differences. And so, Doctor, I'm going to send you to Miami in the Minerva, while she and I continue in a motor-boat, the voyage that you and she began. I leave it to your own decision what explanation you may make, if any. It would of course, sound plausible if you stated that your motor-boat had been lost in the storm, and that you had been picked up by Mr. and Mrs. Tim Stevens, honeymooning on their cruising house-boat, and continuing their honeymoon with a camping-trip a deux on Barracuda Island. Any unwitting injury you may have intended doing a man who had never injured you would be balanced by such a story, I think."

He rose abruptly and went forward; they saw him enter the pilot-house where Modane the skipper steered the Minerva. Faunce looked at the girl.

"You . . . want this?" he asked.

She nodded, avoiding his eyes.

"Because, my child, if you don't" he began.

She cut him short:

"Fergus, he's my husband, and . . I'm coming to my senses."

She rose and walked away; already, in obedience to orders given by Stevens, the Minerva was losing way. Members of the crew were swinging outward the davits where was slung a motor-boat; stewards were placing supplies in the boat. She entered the pilot-house. She held out her hand.

"I want to thank you, Captain, for saving me," she said.

Modane glanced at Stevens.

"Why, ma'am, Mrs. Stevens, ma'am—"

Stevens slapped him on the back.

"Attaboy, Modane! Modest as any sailor, my tarry salt of fiction. Well, Mrs. Stevens is eternally grateful to you for leaping into the water after her, and so am I. I'd be a widower but for you, Modane, instead of a bridegroom starting upon his honeymoon."

* * * *

It was a busy afternoon that followed luncheon. Stevens had no suggestions to make to her, but he accepted her aid. He chopped wood; he erected the tent first clearing a space for it back from the beach. He found the spring which trickled in a tiny stream to the sea, and cleaned it out, and sunk in it aluminum containers which held butter and cheese. She washed the dishes, put them in order, stacked the stores beneath a tarpaulin which Stevens stretched poles which he chopped and sunk deeply in the sand.

"How . . . long do you expect to remain here?" she inquired. To save herself, she could not keep anxious timidity from her tones.

He shrugged carelessly.

"Oh, I told Modane to drop by in a week or so. If we weren't here I told him to cruise over to the Bahamas and get trace of us there. Why?"

"Oh, I just wondered," she replied.

"But why wonder?" he insisted. "What do you care where we go, so long, my dear, as you're with me?"

Since they had landed his manner and words had been impersonal. Now she felt the jeer behind them. And this was the man who professed to love her, this man who took joy in her spiritual agony. Well, she would not give him the satisfaction of knowing her fear, her horror of him. Instead, she would show her contempt.

"Quite right," she said. "Inasmuch as Paradise itself would be hell if you were present, what difference can it make what we do or where we are?"

"That's more like Devil-May-Care, the high-spirited maiden whom I wooed and won," he mocked her. "Well, let's have some supper."

Once again his manner became impersonal, light-hearted, even gay, and she was angrily humiliated that she took her tone from him. Why should he have any power over her whatsoever, even the power to make her smile or frown?

"Lucy," he broke a long silence, "do you hate me?"

"And depise you," she said.

"Why did you marry me?" he asked.

"I don't know just why," she honestly replied.

"I do," he told her.

"Then why?" she inquired.

"Because, as my wife, you could hurt me more than in any other way. And you did. To run away, to humiliate me . . . Well, despite everything, you are my wife, and I've caught you, and I have you. You can't get away from that, my dear."

"No," she said flatly.

He reclined upon the sand, propping his head up with one hand, his elbow digging into the sand, and stared at her.

"You've never guessed how desirable you are, have you, Lucy?"

"Men have asked me to marry them" she retorted.

"But you didn't; you married me. Do you know why?"

"You've just told me why," she said.

"Oh, that! That was the immediate motivating impulse. But behind that, wasn't it fate, Lucy?"

"Perhaps," she admitted.

"And fate, when it brings a man and a woman together, means love, doesn't it, Lucy?" he persisted.

She looked at him coldly.

"Don't be a cad," she said. "Don't try to justify yourself by persuading yourself that, in spite of everything, I'm really in love with you but haven't found it out. Be man enough to do what you intend without excuse. Love you? I think you're the most contemptible thing that breathes. Are you satisfied?"

"Plenty," he said. "And now, my dear wife, will you please go to the tent and . . . wait for me!"

Well, she had proposed the game, made the rules, interpreted them. And she had given her word, to save Fergus Faunce from the dreadful anger that could possess this man. She rose obediently, walked to the tent, entered it, and the flap fell behind her.

"Lucy," he called.

Her voice came back to him, clear, unafraid, tinged with co

5. In the light of this star we have learned unselfishness. And each succeeding Christmas it has brought the world a little nearer the ideal of "others" as against self.
6. In the light of this star, we have been led thru paths of sorrow into ways of great joy. In sorrow and pain, Jesus was born. Heaven had given its best; men were unheeding; a woman through the Valley of the Shadow had brought forth Him; a scene of great sorrow yet a scene of great joy. So we have gone on suffering and giving and yet in all our sorrow there is the joy and happiness of being with Christ in His kingdom bought by his blood.
7. In the light of this star we find a starting place and terminus of life. A beginning of all worthwhile things and an end of sorrow, pain and death. It has lighted the way of our Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the End.

Briefly thus we point you to the Star that lights the way to Jesus. It remains only for us to play the part of wise men at this great season of rejoicing and happiness and follow till we find peace of soul and life, that Utopian dream of Christianity—a city whose builder and maker is God.

Christmas Program Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Christmas time with all its joy is upon us. True it is that all of us have dreams that have never materialized and have even in these splendid days, we have heartaches and some disappointments. But, Jesus came to bring peace. That peace is ours. Not as the world gives, but peace as it comes from a loving heavenly father. Thru our tears and in midst of our troubles we find this one ray of sunshine that grows brighter until in the evening time of life it completely fills us and lightens our way down the dark valley into that beautiful world of sunshine that lies just beyond.

Let us all, regardless of belief or station in life, show our appreciation of this great hope by attending church next Sunday. The few minutes that we would thus spend together would be worth untold values in helping us build for the coming New Year.

At the morning preaching service we will speak on "Jesus and John the Baptist" This study is a worthy one and vital also. It will be the fourth in a special line of sermons that we shall preach Sunday morning until Easter.

At the evening sermon we shall speak on the subject, "Jesus, the measure of a Man". This is a Christmas sermon that is different and you will enjoy it. Special music and a good song service by a large chorus choir and orchestra.

You are especially invited to enjoy a Christmas program and good time on Tuesday evening, Christmas eve, at 7:30 o'clock. The children will bring the program. Come and have a good time with Santa. You are always welcome at the homelike church.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday December 22

THE CHILD IN A CHRISTIAN WORLD

Luke 2: 8-20

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Where ever civilization reaches, there the story of the Christ Child will be told during these immediate days. Though opinions may differ wondrous joy will be experienced by those who even catch the harmony involved in the song of the angels, which echoes, on from that Gloria in Excelsis which the Bethlehem shepherds heard about 1933 years ago. Untold millions will be in tune next Tuesday evening. Low wave will carry the songs of cheer to most distant and inaccessible places. No life has ever touched the whole world so vitally. Read all the Scripture indicated by the Lessons Committee: Matthew 18: 1-6; Mark 9: 36-37, 42; 10: 13-16; Luke 2: 1-20.

No teacher has benefitted childhood as has Jesus. Both women and children have better standing, where Christianity expresses itself in any manner. This lesson relates to all children as well as to the Christchild. Society in caring for a child conserves its best asset for the future. Always keep in mind that the boys and girls of today will be the men and women of tomorrow. The upstarts of that first century were surely given a jolt when the Master Teacher answered question about the "greatest in the kingdom of heaven" by placing a child in their midst as an object lesson. Mark records how He took a child in His arms and insisted on child's rights as an absolute necessity. We can still hear him saying, as in the Golden Text, "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come unto me: for to such belongeth the kingdom of heaven," Matthew 19-14. Herein we find Jesus' evaluation of a child.

The spiritual King of the world was not found in Jerusalem or in any capital of the world. Shepherds heard the glad tidings as they were caring faithfully for their simple duties in the fields of Judah. They were startled, but at once began their investigation as they said "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing that is come to pass." Multitudes have failed to find because they never followed the gleam. One of the most interesting stories of the Event is called "Zerah", by Montanye Perry. The lad was eager to spend the night with Uncle Nabor the shepherd but saw more by helping his grandfather, the keeper of the inn. He, as the story goes, found the unused manger-cradle. Later he came with his little friend Ruth to see the Child. " 'Come closer, lad—and thou too, little maid,' said Mary's clear voice, and as they knelt beside the manger she lifted the Babe's wee hand and placed in on Zerah's curls."

A worthy response to the Gift of God is for each one to help children receive the benefits which come through the practise of His teachings. Such good news must be passed on, and where most needed. The shepherds went forth at once to proclaim their new found information.

The writer extends the greeting of "MERRY CHRISTMAS" to all his readers.

Mrs. Miles Edwards and R. L. Christopher came in last Thursday evening from Long Leaf, La., where they visited several weeks with Mrs. Christopher and little son and with Mrs. Edwards' parents.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Day and children returned to their home at Lycan, Colo. Sunday after a visit with his father, J. F. Day, and with his sister, Mrs. Ernest Records.

Audie Conley left Saturday for Dallas to get Mrs. Conley and daughter, Carolyn, who have been visiting since Thanksgiving with relatives at Piano, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Mrs. Lucile Happy and daughter, sister of Mrs. Conley, returned with them to visit thru the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Bowen and children, Lipscomb, Mrs. Elizabeth Cutter, A. F. Cutter and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Thrower were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cutter Sunday.

Geo. Pletcher and J. L. Hurter leave today, Thursday, for Guthrie, Okla. to get Misses Marie and Elizabeth Hurter, who will spend the holidays with home folks.

Mrs. R. H. Holland is ill at her home in the west part of town.

Nora Jeanne and Stella Beth Lamb are visiting in the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Conley.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holt and son, Robert Howard, spent Saturday and Sunday visiting and attending to business in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dowers spent the day Sunday visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. eBn Kennedy, Boyd, Okla.

Playthings at CHRISTMAS

By Marjorie Howe Dixon

It is a regular feature in the comics that appear close to Christmas, to show a youngster lifting a pitiful face to his Dad, saying "Please can I have my electric train, now,—you've had it all morning." Well, child, be patient with your father. When he was a boy, a train of iron cars that moved when the string was jerked was the best he knew. Besides he hasn't grown up. You can thank your stars for that part and hope he never will.

Grown-up toys — amusing little gadgets and thing-um-bobs are part of the usual merchandise on Christmas counters, these days. The serious-minded person is much puzzled with them. Why make an elephant of tin shavings,—say he, or she. Besides it's an ugly elephant. Anything that wishes to depart from realism in a whimsical mood is always ugly.

One dear lady was really shocked at a small porcelain cow. It was a cartoon of a cow, an inquisitive, frisky and kittenish cow with dilated nostrils and waving tail. "I think that's simply awful!" she said decidedly and turned to the contemplation of a pottery basket decorated with rosebuds. We are so glad that the manufacturers give us the rosebud baskets and the ribald cows, too.

Odd Birds and Beasts.

The artists in the glass factories are permitted to create quaint birds and beasts—some of them choarming grotesque, others dragons with weirdly twisted necks and other animals-that-never-were. Mules, deer, geese, playful cats and sombre pigs are created in blown glass.

Animals are great favorites for gifts for every one. Besides glass, they are made in brass, porcelain, pottery, and tin. Much study has gone in the modeling of dogs. Some are appealing, some are sleepy, and one pup has managed to scorn the world in a most elevated manner, bless his heart. A number of these animals are attached to ash trays and cigarette holders. They decorate corks and cork screws, too.

For the boys and girls who have never grown up, even if they may be acquiring gray hair, there are other amusing novelties. Music box combinations present surprises in many forms. One of these would bring a smile to any face. A carved wooden figure of an old bum attached affectionately to a lamp post, when wound up—actually of course—proceeds to turn his head and whistle in a high pitched tenor that is very lifelike.

Music Boxes With Candy

Another similar treasure is a pretty bird in a cage that sings when wound. Music boxes are clevery concealed in bon bon boxes, powder boxes, cake plates, cigar boxes, and elaborately carved humidors, not to mention tea pots.

For the young lady home from college there are lovely velvet pups that are nearly life size. They are delightfully floppy and are delicately tinted lavender and green. For her room at school, what more charming companion could she ask?

It might be that the college youngster would appreciate a lovely set of playing cards. These come from Italy and are beautifully engraved. One set has the Bambino on the back and the other has a portrait of Dante. There is a score card also engraved with bright colors inside as well, that can be a part of this gift. The cards have gold edges.

Dolls for Little Girls.

What of the younger set? What will the miss of four or five like to receive for Christmas? A doll seems a pretty safe bet. The great difficulty is to choose one. Right here we wish to make this observation. The smaller the girl the larger the doll. The older girls prefer very tiny dolls. Two younsters of thirteen and fourteen who still loved dolls wanted tiny porcelain dollies just one inch high. It is so easy to make dresses for them. When you are four years old, you want the largest doll you can manage to carry. Yes, we know women always were hard to understand.

At any rate mothers are interested in the unbreakable dolls for their daughters. There are the new soft cuddle Kewpies that are as sweet and chummy as the pictures. And there are felt dollies, with unbreakable faces. Their dresses are bright felt, too.

For the very tiny girlie there are "soft toys" galore. Charming ducks, rabbits, lamps and kittens come in delicate tints of rose, green and lavender velvet. Others are made of felt and dressed in gingham.

New Ideas in Bath Toys.

Then there are such darling bath toys. These are made of rubber and celluloid. And if daughter insists on doing her family washing, besides a tub and wringer, clothesline and pins, there is a pretty waterproof apron for her to wear with a fat bunny for decoration.

When son wants amusement in his bath there are clever wooden ships for him as well as ducks, geese and fish of celluloid.

A young lady's gift that is boxed in a cunning way is a rope dollie. When she is undone, there is a very nice jump rope.

From Russia come clever wooden boxes brightly painted. There are nested and are perfectly fascinating to undo. The smallest one in the set is only one-half inch long.

Gifts for children are perfectly bewildering in their assortment. There are croquet sets and tennis rackets. Next door are tricycles and motor trucks, that the child operates. Then there are so many fascinating things in the kindergarten section, that are called instructive toys.

Coloring the Pictures.

Among the latter a few may be mentioned because the older folk will appreciate the toys that keep the child happy and amused for some length of time. With a book of "Painting Plays" a set of water colors is attached and crayons, too. With good outlines in the pages of the book, the child is happily employed "coloring" the pictures and is learning control of his hand at the same time.

Pretty boxes of modeling clay in assorted colors are arranged for the child. With these come tin molds that will assist him to create something. Instructions come with these.

Then there are interesting sets for "Peg printing." These contain several pegs, each of which will print a different shape—circle, triangle, square and so on. Results are quickly obtained by dipping the peg into the wet felt in a little pan, and printing it. Borders and all-over desisigns are shown in the instructions.

Weaving sets either with papers, or wools, peg boards with bright pegs to place in the holes, and stencil sets are offered in most attractive boxes. For the older children there are art books with instructions for drawing and poster making.

Find a Complete Circus

Every industry that attracts a child's imagination has its counterpart in the toy world. There one may find a complete circus, tent, animals, clowns and riders, all able to move in one way or another.

Store-keeping interests boys and girls. From the little stores that may be packed in a small box up to a large outfit, many kinds are provided. Boys enjoy the mechanical toys that wind up, and sets of pieces used to erect buildings and bridges. Airplanes seem ever fascinating and like the stores, come all the way from small wood models up to gliders that actually take the air and sail for some distance.

Then there are all the toys of motor trucks and "double decker busses" that will really go. We mentioned the electric train to start with, and how very hard it is for Dad to tear himself away from son's nice new set. No wonder,—for now there are such marvelous sets to be had, with not only a full complement of engine and cars, but switch tracks, signal lights, depots, tunnels and even villages to pass through.

Snowstorm to Complete Picture

Now if Father Christmas will only bring a pretty snowstorm with him, there will be nothing left to ask for, to complete our joy in a very merry holiday season.

SNOW

Little white feathers,
Filling the air—
Little white feathers!
How came you there?
"We came from the cloud-birds
Sailing so high;
They're shaking their white wings
Up in the sky."
Little white feathers,
How swift you go!
Little white snowflakes,
I love you so!
"We are swift because
We have work to do;
But hold up your face
And we'll kiss you true."

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

We had a fine meeting Monday night, and everyone enjoyed the oyster supper served by the members of the Legion. It was one time that the Auxiliary members had nothing to do with the refreshments. Our nexim eeting is January 6, 1930.

It was decided that we not give the silk quilted bedspread away until some time after the first of the year, as all members are too busy with Christmas preparations to help. It was also voted that we help the Legion prepare Christmas baskets for all needy families in this vicinity. If any member, or any one else, knows of a poor or needy family, please report it to the Legion or Auxiliary.

The various committees on the Exchange Tea reported. A detailed account of the Tea will be found in a news story elsewhere in the paper.

Our member, Mrs. A. R. Hoghland, who is spending the winter in California, ask that we forward her 1930 membership card, as the Auxiliary was very active there, and she wished to attend.

Our membership drive ended Monday night. Results will be given next week. Although the contest is over we should keep trying to enroll every eligible member in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright were guests for a goose dinner Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Claybaugn, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Edwards, Mrs. Anne Sellers and J. B. Cartwright spent Saturday night and Sunday in the J. C. Barton home, Lipscomb. They enjoyed a big quail dinner Sunday evening.

Mrs. Fred Hamilton underwent an operation at the Shttuck hospital Monday. She is getting along as well as could be expected.

Myers-George

A wedding of much interest to the young people of Perryton is that of Miss Graceva Myers and Lawrence George, who were quietly married Tuesday, December 17, at Liberal, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. George have been school mates since they were in the grades, graduating from the Perryton high school with the class of '25. They have both been very prominent in band and orchestra work during their school days and since and they have many friends in and around Perryton who hold them in high esteem.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mrs. W. D. Myers. After her graduation in Perryton she attended the West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon and later taught. Mrs. George made many lasting frends during her school days because of her quiet and studious manner.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. George. He has grown to manhood in our midst and is a young man of the highest type of character. He is associated with his father in wheat raising.

Mr. and Mrs. George left Wednesday for Enid, Okla. on a short wedding trip. On their return they will be at home on Mr. Lawrence's farm just west of town.

CLARA BOW IN SNAPPY FILM

"IT" GIRL PUT OVER THIRD ALL TALKIE HIT WITH "SATURDAY NIGHT KID"

Youth has its fling in Clara Bow's newest all-talking picture, "The Saturday Night Kid," for as usual the dazzling little bon-fire from Brooklyn is supported by a cast of popular young players.

There are James Hall, who played with her in "The Fleet's In"; Jean Arthur, who was seen most recently in "The Greene Murder Case"; Frank Ross, youthful young Long Island realtor whose singing voice won him a screen contract; Eddie Dunn, also seen with Miss Bow in "The Fleet's In"; Leone Lane, Jean Harlow and others.

The play was written by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, famous Broadway playwrights.

It concerns the lives of the boys and girls who work in the big department stores of the metropolis and is plentifully supplied with that picturesque "slanguage" kownn as "Americanese."

Miss Bow is the hard-working little shop-girl, serious-minded but glowing with "pep," who falls in love with James Hall, young clerk who is advanced to an enviable position—that of floor-walker. Clara's younger sister, Jean Arthur, observes Hall's apparent ability to advance to high position in the firm and decides to win him for herself.

There follows a series of stirring sequences in which the love-boat barely escapes the perils of rocky villainies many times. But the finale is one that satisfies the millions of ardent Bow fans.

The more mature members of the cast include Charles Sellon, the dour-faced comedian; Edna May Oliver noted character comedienne of the stage (she most recently played Parthenia Ann Hawks in Ziegfield's "Show Boat.") Ethel Wales and Hyman Meyer. Miss Wales is a screen and stage veteran. Hyman Meyer was for nine years a dialect comedian in big-time vodvil and has been in legitimate on Broadway.

"The Saturday Night Kid" comes to the Ellis next week.

Mrs. Loretta Cowan, Canadian, visited Tuesday in the home of Mrs. G. W. Cutter. Mrs. Cowan is district president of the Rebekah lodge and she met with the Spearman lodge Tuesday evening.

HAROLD LLOYD
in "Welcome Danger"

Harold Lloyd Coming

King of Comedy Appears In First Talkie Picture At Ellis Theatre Soon

Talk about your high-tension excitement! There is nothing so electrical in effect upon the principals as preview time at the Harold Lloyd studio. Like a prize fighter and his backers awaiting the gong for an opening championship battle, the comedian and his staff are keyed to a high fettle as they await the verdict of the audience before whom the picture is about to get its "try-out."

This was especially true of "Welcome Danger," Lloyd's first sound and dialog picture, which comes to the Ellis Theatre on January 1 and 2.

It was virtually a new field the comedian was invading. It took him back to the days when he was trying out "Grand ma's Boy" which was his first feature-length comedy. The public wouldn't accept five reel comedies, he had been advised, yet "Grandma's Boy" was not only accepted, but broke box-office records everywhere and established Lloyd in the first rank of screen stars.

"You can't make eight or nine reels of talking comedy and hold an audience" it was rumbled around the Lloyd lot. Yet when "Welcome Danger" was tried out for the first talking showing, it was a sensation. Lloyd was anxious to have that first night over. He wanted to know the verdict on a lot of things about "Welcome Danger"a nd he got it more satisfactorily than he had hoped for.

"Welcome Danger" was hailed as another step forward in talking pictures by all the audiences who saw it previewed. It gets back to the old style of picture making, with speed, action, thrills and romance, mingled like only Lloyd can mix them. The dialog and the sound blended perfectly with the action, in many spots lifting the picture clear above anything Lloyd ever has done before.

There will also be a special showing of "Welcome Danger" on New Year's Eve, starting at midnight

FREE SHOW AT ELLIS THEATRE

MANAGEMENT OFFERING SEASON GREETING BY GIVING FREE SHOW CHRISTMAS DAY

The Ellis Theatre is taking a novel way of saying "Merry Christmas" to their patrons this year by offering them a free show Christmas afternoon, Wednesday, starting at 3:00 o'clock.

The picture that is to be shown will be "The Marriage Playground", an all talking production featuring Mary Brian and Frederick March, taken from the best seller written by Edith Wharton, "The Children."

The management extends a cordial invitation to the entire community to attend this free show. The picture will be shown only on Christmas afternoon, and a different program will be offered in the evening.

NANCY CARROLL IS IN SWEETIE

Lessons on how to be a "sweetie" were given recently to an eager group of schoolgirl extras by Nancy Carroll, Paramount star. As the "sweetie in "Sweetie," a romantic revue, Miss Carroll portrays a chorus girl who suddenly finds that she has inherited a boys' school.

" 'Sweetie' really comes from the word sweatheart," explained Miss Carroll. "To be a 'sweetie,' a girl must remember first of all to be as feminine as she can. It would not be a bad idea for a 'sweetie' to faint and swoon now and then as the 'sweetie' of yesterday did, just to remind men how fragile and feminine they were.

"A girl makes a great mistake in trying to merely be a man's pal. Of course, she should be a pal while she is a 'sweetie,' but to strive to be a pal only, is disasterous. Men marry their 'sweeties' but never their pals, unless they find that she really is a 'sweetie' after all. When a man pats a girl on the shoulder as though he were saying "good old girl," she is sunk.

"European women are trained to become men's 'sweeties.' They are taught from infancy up that the greatest joy in life is to fine man and be mist home. They do not aim Their only goal is to be No matter how much knows or does for a man

Mary Brian and Frederic March in Paramount's all talking picture—

"The Marriage Playground"

This picture has good wholesome, human qualities in it that puts it in a class by itself. Taken from Edith Wharton's book "The Children" which was a best-seller, the picture solidifies all the impressions it left. It is the story of seven undiciplined children, ranging from nine months to seventeen years, forgotten by their idle parents who cannot settle their martial relations. Mary Brian, as the lovable oldest child, undertakes to save them, giving her one of her finest roles.

SHARING the HEARTH FIRE

Suggestions for the Holiday Celebration

By Marjorie Howe Dixon

When a mother has two [illegible] away at school and holidays approaching, there is much [illegible] to be done. Two girls [illegible] school are delightful. [illegible] more girl chums as house [illegible] something is sure to be [illegible] moment. If the phone [illegible], there is a special de- [illegible] at the front dor, while a [illegible] holly appears at the [illegible]

[illegible] her calendar for a [illegible] "The girls will get in Sat- [illegible]. There will be church [illegible] Sunday. Tea will be [illegible]. Annabel will want [illegible] Jean, I know, and Eleanor [illegible] some one new, doubt- [illegible] a little lonesome. Well, [illegible] they will be busy with pre- [illegible] Tuesday they'll have their [illegible] trimming the tree and [illegible] the house. Thursday I [illegible] to have the old ladies [illegible] so old) and then there [illegible] big party Friday."

[illegible] back to Tuesday—Christ- [illegible]. Shall we be alone or have [illegible]? There'll have to be a [illegible] on that. Two dinners to [illegible] her sweet charity—the boys [illegible] help. All the smaller pack- [illegible] could take, too."

[illegible] mused and sat down to [illegible] the girls. Annabel, the oldest, [illegible] her Junior year. Jean Alling [illegible] home with her last year [illegible] holidays and had proved a [illegible] treasure. Trust Annabel [illegible] one such. Eleanor, a fresh- [illegible] was serious and studious. She [illegible] opened up a bit in her last [illegible] high, but she still had to [illegible] dged away from a book and [illegible] outdoors for some exercise. [illegible] was no telling whom she'd [illegible] home with her.

[illegible] mother wrote: "Remember [illegible] some girls will not enjoy our [illegible]. You will all help as us- [illegible]. Some one who is lonesome [illegible] be the sincere type, will be [illegible] with us. I leave it to you."

Plans With Her Girls.

[illegible] girls arrived and mother gave [illegible] till Sunday tea to work off [illegible] excitement at getting home [illegible] ring for their friends. Then [illegible] asked them in the quiet twi- [illegible] hour with only a candle, and [illegible] earth fire for light, to think [illegible] for the week and plan what [illegible] would like to do.

"Mother dear," purred Annabel, [illegible] mother's chair arm. "I know [illegible] have an idea or two. Christmas [illegible] per usual. Ditto Christmas [illegible] Church and a big feed— [illegible] day sleighing or skating—Fri- [illegible] the grande partie—Saturday, [illegible] a bit, and Monday much the [illegible]." She kissed her mother's [illegible]

"I'll see what the weather is, the sleighing part will have to ride," said mother, quite unconscious of a pun. The girls exchanged giggles. "I did want to give some little affair for Aunt Crosby and her beloved class of 1890."

Class Reunion Yearly.

Eleanor explained to Rosa, her guest, that Aunt Crosby had been able to get six of her class together for a reunion every year, by means of borrowing cars enough and going after them.

"Let's plan their party for Thursday evening and have the boys go after them and we'll have an 1890 ball," said Jean unexpectedly.

"Why, Jean, that's an awfully quaint and cunning idea," said mother. "What do you girls think?"

"Perfectly great, Jean! Too darling for words! Have each of them bring her favorite photograph album!" the girls chimed in. "We'll get checker boards and parchesi and Flinch decks, and authors and Old Maid—it will be ever so much fun!"

Rosa, a lovely Spanish girl, who had come from Mexico City to college, wore a little frown.

"What is it?" asked Eleanor.

"I do not know these games. I have had much trouble to learn bridge. Are these still more difficult?"

Parchesi and Checkers.

Shouts of laughter greeted her. Eleanor gave her a little hug. "Why, no," she said, "they are as easy—as easy as pie. And besides you can have one of the old dears teach you parchesi or checkers. They would be so pleased. They'd win, of course—but then it's their party." Rosa understood.

"You folks have your big dance the next night at the country club, so we must not put too many parties together," said mother, doubtfully. Annabel chuckled.

"Why honey-bunch," she said "they'll think it's ever so exciting to stay up till ten o'clock and the boys can take them home then, and be back home themselves by eleven. So we better start early, say, about seven. We'll get the list of names from Aunt Crosby and begin telephoning in the morning."

Annabel was the one who loved to plan, and mother knew she would have seventeen new ideas to add by morning.

Arrange for Christmas Eve

"Let's take a minute to think of Christmas Eve", said mother. "There'll be the tree for all of us, of course; do you girls want to have the boys then?"

Rosa listened with much interest. It was her first Christmas in a home in "the States" and over everything fell a lovely glamour. How very fortunate she was to be able to visit in such a home as this—she hardly had a moment to think of her own loved mother and brothers, or feel homesick.

"If we have the boys, of course, we can't have the real presents," said Eleanor. "We'd have to get some funny things, and jokes and so on. Of course, Old Fritz would be pretty lonesome if there were only Dad here. He's always here at Christmas," she explained to Rosa, "because he's so far from home."

Annabel moved and Jean seconded the idea of having the boys. "Why, two of them are staying at the hotel (that is, every moment they have to be away from us), and think how dull Christmas Eve would be."

Recalls Entertainment of 1890

"I keep thinking of the 1890 ball," said Annabel, ignoring her, "What was the name of that mild parlor entertainment that consisted in looking at a double photograph on a do-funny that you held up to your eyes to peer through?"

"Stereotican?" suggested mother.

"No, sterascope," said Eleanor the precise. "Oh, where can we dig up one of those? How perfectly thrilling it must have been to have lived then, and feel so shocked about ladies in bloomers on bikes! We must beg them to tell us about it, Mother!"

"Then there's New Year's Eve to plan," said mother. "You have your choice of the dance or the quiet 'Watch Night' service at Gandfather's. Of course, you start back the next day. What do you want to do?"

New Year's Watch Night

Rosa's velvet eyes gleamed. "That sounds so pretty," she said. "Watch Night! I expect you watch the New Year come in."

"And grandfather says a prayer for us all, and we sing a perfectly rousing hymn, to end with, don't we mother?" Eleanor forthwith announced her decision of going to Grandfather's for New Year's Eve.

"Jean has such a case on Grandfather that I shall have to go as her chaperone." Annabel smiled sideways at her friend. "Let's all go to bed right now! And say thirteen separate prayers for snow all day Monday and Tuesday. Then we will have a beautiful white Christmas for Rosa, and a sleighing party later and skiing and other excitements. I just bet Rosa never made a snow man, did you, dear?"

"Never have I seen snow save on the mountain tops," said Rosa. "Pictures showing snow over everything I have seen—but they seemed like pretty visions. I will help pray for snow, too, for it is surely my deep desire to see a snow fall."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Thirty or forty visitors attended the Boy Scout Court of Honor held in the high school auditorium, Thursdayn ight, December 12. An equal number of Scouts were present to receive badges for Scout advancement and to give demonstrations of some of their Scout work. Twenty-eight badges were awarded to different Scouts during the evening.

The program began with a few numbers by the school band under the direction of Rudolph Willman. Then, while the band played a march all Scouts filed into the auditorium and stood at attention while the American flag was brought forward and saluted. Invocation was pronounced by Rev. L. O. Byerly, pastor of the Christian Church. B. B. Kent, chairman of the Court of Honor, introduced R. L. Caskey, Scout Executive, who made a few remarks explaining the purpose of a Court of Honor.

Under the direction of Senior Patrol Leader Wilford Lance of Troop 1 a number of Scout games and contests were demonstrated by Scouts of that Troop. Pyramid building, Indian leg wrestle, and Indian hand wrestling were shown as typical Scout games for fun.

Second Class badges were awarded to Dean McLarty and R. T. Correll Jr. of Troop 3. These Scouts explained some of the work that they had accomplished in reaching this rank. The badges were presented to the Scouts by J. M. Bull, one of the members of the Court of Honor. An other very interesting demonstration by the members of Troop 3 showed First Aid, bandaging, splints for arm and leg, carries, and artificial respiration.

Four First Class candidates came before the Court and were granted their badges: Chas. Whippo Jr., Dalton Pattison, Glenn Wilson, and Clyde Cofer Jr. Mr. Kent presented these badges with appropriate remarks.

One of the most interesting demonstrations was that of a rope-making machine. Some of the Scouts made a six foot length of rope from binder twine and passed it around in the audience for examination.

Merit badges were approved by the Court for the following Scouts: Clyde Cofer Jr. in Woodwork, Metalwork, Blacksmith, Machinery, carpentry Handicraft, and Automobiling; Burl Callaway in Firemanship; Wilford Lance in Civics, Firemanship, Leathercraft, Public Health, Woodcarving, Pathfinding Woodwork, Carpentry, Personal Health, and Handicraft; Adlai Yoakley in Cycling; Francis Dowers in Carpentry; Archie Joe Troy in Cycling; Glenn Wilson in Art.

L. O. Byerly made a short talk on Scouting, telling some of his experiences as a Scoutmaster in other places. One very vivid experience told was of a Scout who saved his brother from drowning by using artificial respiration. Mr. Byerly said, "The people of this town had spent quite a bit of money on Scouting over a period of several years, but they all felt that they had been repaid when this life was saved through Scout training."

Members of the Court of Honor were: B. B. Kent, Chairman, Dewey Allen, L. O. Byerly, Donald Penn, Rudolph Willmann, J. M. Bull and R. L. Cackey.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Jackson and daughters of Spearman spent the week-end visiting in the T. A. Roper home.

LAWYERS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Readers of my letter in this column printed December 5, suggesting that we break away from the old practice of sending a lawyer to represent this district at Austin, may be interested to note the following, from the Amarillo News of December 14.

"LEGAL PROFESSION HAS NOT MOVED IN FIFTY YEARS, DECLARES JUDGE WILSON"

"Charging that apathy and indifference of lawyers is largely responsible for a growing disrespect for themselves, the courts, judges, law enforcement and the constitution itself, Federal Court Judge James C. Wilson in an address before the Amarillo Bar association in its annual meeting—declared the legal profession has made virtually no progress during the past 50 years."

The full report of the speech, as it was printed by the News, represented this Federal Judge as telling his colleagues some very unpleasant truths. It is indeed a hopeful sign when leaders of the Bar boldly declare, as is so often being done these days, that it is the legal profession itself that must bear the blame for much that is to be deplored in matters of law, courts, and justice today.

I particularly noticed this, in the report of Judge Wilson's speech; "Recalling that in past years lawyers were regarded as the most influential class in the nation, they held most important executive and legislative offices, he declared that at the present time public officers are being filled to an increasing degree by men of other professions and business lines."

So this district would be in good company and have ample precedent for breaking away from tradition, by sending a tried and proven business man, country banker or other professional man thoroughly familiar with the needs and interests of this great farming district, to represent us at Austin. There will be enough lawyers there from the districts having large cities, even if every agricultural district should reform and send a farmer or business man to attend to the business of the agricultural districts like ours.

This Federal Judge is quoted also as saying:

"Judges and lawyers will sit by until such a thing happens here as happened in England, when laymen rose up and reformed the system. It is bound to come, as laymen-members increase in the legislatures."

God speed the day, and shall not the progressive and enlightened people of this district, be one of the first agricultural sections to break away from the tradition that may have originated in the period when lawyers, and preachers, were about the only educated men to be found in many localities. But such has ceased to be the case, at least, here and now.

The times demand that more of the judgement and practical sense that has been shown in American business and agriculture, be applied to public affairs, and there is striking evidence that this demand is being more and more recognized, especially in national affairs. It should also be done in our state government.

(Too late for last week)

We are having some real beautiful weather and everybody seems to be enjoying it. It is fine for the stock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Tomlin returned last week from Iowa where they have been for several months.

Mrs. Gamble and children spent Sunday with the Will Collins family.

Mrs. Bud Whitmer was called to the bedside of her aged father, who lives near Wichita Falls, Texas. She expects to remain with him through his illness.

Bob Burgess took a load of hogs to Perryton for W. L. Collins Tuesday.

Earl Manning is out of school this week because of illness. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

Ray Mills, V. Ferguson, W. L. Collins and two other men made a trip to Clayton, New Mexico last week, returning Sunday.

The Fairview Sunday School has restarted and we invite everyone to come and help us make a lively Sunday School.

The J. E. Miller and Joe Thomas families have moved to the Camrick community.

The meeting at Camrick conducted by Bro. Arnold Griffeth last week was well attended from this neighborhood.

Mrs. Henry Willhelm's mother is critically ill.

Mrs. Fred Barnum visited Tuesday with Mrs. Bob Burgess.

Grandmother Appleton is quite ill at this writing.

B. Y. P. U. NOTES

Fifty members of the B. Y. P. U. met Sunday, December 15, for an enjoyable lesson on missions. In addition to these members of unions already organized, there were indications that the B. Y. P. U. motto, "A B. Y. P. U. for everyone from one to a hundred" is going to be put into effect in the Perryton church.

A program on "Religious Liberty" has been arranged by W. J. Newman for next Sunday.

Song; Elements of Religious Liberty—Glen Wilson; Suffering for Soul Liberty—Robert Moore; The Testimony of Historian—Frank Mitchell; Separation of Church and State—Elma Walker; Model of America's Constitution—Doris Bruner; Churches and State Laws—Zona Partridge; Violin Solo, selected—Ruth Thornton; Song.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone from one to a hundred to attend B. Y. P. U. at the Frist Baptist church at 6:30 o'clock each Sunday evening.

Chimes To Strike The Passing Hours

FIRST NATIONAL BANK WILL PUT ILLUMINATED CLOCK ON BANK BUILDING SOON; PURCHASED THRU LOCAL DEALER

The First National Bank is erecting a magnificent electric illuminated clock on the front of its bank building on Main street, not only adding materially to the appearance of the business section of Perryton, but providing a convenience that will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by the general public.

This hadsome clock was purchased by the First National Bank through a local jeweler, Earl N. Davis, and as a timepiece, is one that the local dealer, the owner and the public in general can well be proud of.

The outside enclosure is 6 feet 11 inches tall and 2 feet 5 inches wide, of bronze, copper and brass, finished statuary bronze. The case is anchored to the bank building in a manner that will stand every test of wind and weather.

There are two dials in the clock case, one facing each direction as you approach the bank entrance.

Immediately above each dial is the name of the bank in neat art glass letters. The dials are also of art glass covered with clear glass for protection.

The big clocks are operated by electricity from a master clock inside the building, in the main banking room. This an especially handsome structure of mahogany and plate glass construction, with a 13-inch dial, and guaranteed to keep practically perfect time. Every minute the hands of the big clock are sent ahead one minute by electricity governed by the master clock within, the connection between the two instruments being perfect and insuring correct time on the large clocks on the outside as well as on the master clock inside.

The most distinctive feature of the clock, other than its unusually artistic appearance and the perfection of its construction and mechanism, is the complete set of Westminister chimes with which it is equipped. These ring every quarter hour and may be heard practically as far as the clock may be seen.

President F. P. Rogers of the First National Bank offers the following explanation of the beautiful Westminister chimes, consisting of five tubular chime bells, with which the clock is equipped, giving interesting information regarding the chimes themselves as well as explaining the objects which have prompted the bank to offer the public the many advantages to be derived and enjoyed from this beautiful clock:

"As a home institution serving the people of this locality—enjoying your good will and business favors, we have in the past endeavored to show our appreciation by presenting our patrons with calendars and novelties and otherwise recognizing your cooperation in making this a serviceable and successful banking house.

"Years of properous banking have been made possible only by your support. We wanted to show our appreciation in a substantial way and have therefore purchased from Earl N. Davis a large handsome clock combined with a set of the softest and most beautiful chimes ever heard in any city of the old or new world.

The Chimes.

"Lord, through this hour
Be Thou our guide
So, by Thy power
No foot shall slide."

"Everyone who has lived within sound of the bells of Westminister is familiar with the verse above. The origin of the carillon has never been positively established. Some writers accredit it to a Mr. Crouch who was a pupil of Dr. Randall, Regius Professor of Music. This, however, is disputed by other writers who accredit it to Dr. Randall's conception of the idea taken from a movement in the fifth bar of the opening of Haendel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The chimes were first fitted to the clock of the University church, St. Mary's the Great, in Cambridge, but were not copied until they were reproduced on a very large scale in the Victoria clock tower of the houses of parliament.

"At the quarter, half and three-quarter hour, these chimes will ring out in various musical combinations. At a quarter past the hour, four strokes—Westminister; at half past the hour, eight strokes—Reveille; at three-quarters past the hour, 12 strokes—Cathedral peal, and on the hour, 16 strokes—Westminister; followed by the striking of the full hour, in a clear, vibrant tone.

"May we hope that the chimes will mean something to all of our people—that they will have a message for the youngster on his way to school— thought for the business man who hustles through his day; a solace for the old; an inspiration to all.

"Every day of the week the chimes will be sounding their mesage—the note of warning spoken in time; the chime of rejoicing; the lament in time of sorrow. This chime will be all things to all men for it is going to belong not to us alone, but to the men, women and children of our community."

CHRISTMAS

The grand night has come at last
The snow is falling thick and fast
Stockings are hung up; Prayers are said
And all of the children are tucked in bed.

Santa lives in the north so wild.
"But he'll soon be here", thought one little child.
And, Oh, the nice toys that he will bring
Are enough to make any child's heart sing.

The woke up next morning, Christmas Day,
Santa had come and gone away,
And many nice toys ha has left
And many a beautiful, useful gift.

And so we keep our Christmas Day
In memory of a Child, who in a manger lay,
Who was born far off across the sea,
And died for the sins of you and me.

Charles Griffin
Turner School.

FARNSWORTH ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Feaster came back to Farnsworth for a few days of visit.

Mrs. A. L. Truax returned from her visit.

We will give our Christmas program Friday night and welcome you all there.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pugh and family left for Southern Texas last Friday, where they will spend Christmas.

Lone Tree came and played basket ball with us. Since they only had three girls, players were taken from our second team to play with Lone Tree. The boys played a close game. Farnsworth being victorious in both games. The outside team played the boys after the games with Lone Tree wherein the school boys were victorious.

Mrs. A. S. Burran and daughter, Miss Lola and Mrs. Ben Roberts Jr. of Booker were Perryton shoppers Monday.

"Only Thing That Ever Helped Me"

Amarillo Man has Suffered For Six Years And Spent Hundreds of Dollars—Orgatone Brings Relief

"I found Orgatone after I had suffered for six years and it was the first thing that gave me relief from my troubles," said M. I. Huddleston, telling of his restoration to health. Mr. Huddleston, who lives at 1309 E. Sixth Street, is an employee of the Amarillo Gas Company and is well known in Amarillo.

"Yes," continued Mr. Huddleston, "I suffered for six years with a combination of stomach trouble, constipation and general run down condition and you can just imagine how all those troubles simply made life miserable for me. I feel weak and worn out all the time and the bloating and gas spells bothered me so much I could hardly ever get a good night's sleep. It just seemed as if I couldn't digest anything, even the lightest kinds of food would sour on my stomach and form gas until I would bloat and my heart would flutter and make me short of breath. I lost my appetite and hardly ever even felt like going to the table and naturally going without food as much as I did I failed to get enough nourishment to keep up my strength. I had constipation mighty bad too and it just simply worried me awfully all the time. I tried every kind of treatment and medicine that I had ever heard of and spent hundreds of dollars right here in Amarillo for same and nothing seemed to be of any use or do the least bit of good.

"After reading a good deal about Orgatone in the papers and hearing what people were saying everywhere about the good it had done for them I finally decided to give Orgatone a trial and that certainly was the luckiest thing I ever did for myself. I have never taken or even heard of any medicine that would give you results as quickly. I have used three bottles in all and I now feel better in every way. I rest well at night and don't suffer at all from nervousness. I digest my food ever so much better. Everything seems to agree with me and those spells of having gas are a thing of the past. Constipation don't bother me any more now and I feel ever so much stronger and better. Orgatone certainly is the best medicine that I know anything about and I am always glad to say anything I can in its favor and I take great pleasure in giving you this statement so that others may learn of the benefits I have derived from it"

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Perryton by the Shindler Drug Co.

FOOLISH FOOD FADS

In an address at Louisville a few days ago, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of The American Medical Journal, asserted that "food faddists" are a menace, and that nothing so upsets digestion as for someone to deliver a talk on dieting at the dinner table. Modern science, he said, urges a balanced meal containing a variety of food substances—"breakfast that will include fresh fruit, cereal, milk, butter, bre perhaps, eggs and ham or a noon meal that will inclu etables and one in eveni will be complete from soup sert." He doesn't encourag eating, nor does he favor "g But he does believe that a b diet that will appeal to the tite is sure to produce good and longer life than can tained through any system ing that the "food faddist" suggest.

Farm Lighting Plants

For the farm homes of the Perryton community. This makes the fourth solid carload of DELCO LIGHT plants that has been shipped into Perryton during 1929, and it has been made possible by COOPERATIVE BUYING on the part of the farmers of this territory. By going in together on these carload shipments they have saved themselves many dollars, or in other words, approximately $100.00 on the price of every plant.

Give A Delco Light

We have four or five plants in this carload that are available for immediate delivery on the COOPERATIVE BUYING reduced price. Where is the family that would not appreciate one of these plants for a Christmas Gift. We invite you to come in and talk over the matter with us.
