City to Eliminate Stray Dogs and Cats

The City of Wellington is taking action to lower the dog and cat population weeding out strays or unwanted animals Mayor John Coleman announced.

This will be done in three phases.

First, anyone wanting to get rid of animals they now have may call Jim King, Chief of Police, at 2642, and a list will be made of the animals to be picked up.

Phase two will be the vaccination of animals Wellington residents want to keep. This will take place Saturday, May 13, at the City Barn, 4th Street and West Avenue from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. Vaccination tags will be issued, and these must be worn on the animal's collare at all times.

Phase three will be the complete coverage of the town for strays. All animals that are tagged and collared will be let alone.

Mayor John Coleman emphasized that this does not relieve the dog or cat owner from responsibility for any destruction caused by the animal.

A new city ordinance is now being drafted which the mayor said will be fair and legal for all citizens, and also assure greater safety for children of the community.

County Hospital Board Organizes for New Year

The six members of the Collingsworth County Hospital Board running for re-election were returned to office, along with one new member in the election Saturday, April 1. A total of 626 votes were cast, and although it is only a little more than one-third the voting potential of the county, it was still regarded as a good vote for an election in which no issues were at stake.

The new board member is John Eron Forbis of Wellington, who replaces Jeff Wilson, secretary of the interim board, who did not seek re-election. Mr. Forbis, farms near Wellington.

Other board members in the order of their vote were:

Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Janes and Mr. Emmert will serve two year terms and Mr. Howell, Mr. Henry and Mr. Forbis one year terms.

It met in regular session Monday night, April 3, to canvass the election and elect officers for the coming year.

Mr. Henry was re-elected president and Mr. Emmert was re-elected vice president. Mr. Hubbard was elected secretary to succeed Mr. Wilson.

The Collingsworth County Hospital Board is enlisting the help of the community in its search for more doctors in Wellington.

We are asking all civic clubs and other organizations, as well as individuals to keep their eyes open for a doctor who you believe could be interested in being located here, said Garner Altom.

Any information should be given to him or to the board, which will check into it further.

The decision to ask the community's help in bringing additional physicians or surgeons into the community was made at the Monday night meeting of the Hospital Board, which was attended by Dr. Carter Holcomb, Hospital Chief of Staff.

"The facility will be an 80 bed capacity offering private rooms with their own baths to accomodate couples," said Mr. Yates. County Gets $7 Million Federal Funds in 1971

Federal funds expended in Collingsworth County in 1971 totaled $7,377,828, according to figures released to the counties last week. This includes all federal monies, down to $6 paid by the USDA under the Wool Act Program, County Judge Zook Thomas said.

A breakdown of the $7 million figure by agencies shows that the Department of Agriculture payments accounted for more than half the funds paid Collingsworth County, $4,659,043. Of this Cotton direct payments amounted to $2,099,448; Feed grain direct payments $915,604; and wheat direct payments $283,955. Commodity loans added another $293,900. Farm operating loans totaled $9,350.

There are other expenses that occur from year to year, such as soil and water loans, conservation technical assistance and the Great Plains Conservation Program, the ASCS and Farmers Home Administration offices.

Because 1971 was drouthy and a bad crop year, USDA made $441,710 in emergency loans to farmers, and an additional $88,460 for emergency conservation measures.

Schools received a share of the USDA dollar. The school lunch program amounted to $16,054; special food service program for children, $2,497; child breakfast program $1,294; and non-food assistance to schools program, $2,732.

One of the newer sources of federal funds poured into the county was food stamp bonus coupons, amounting to $84,493

We are told that every dollar changes hands 5 times before it leaves a community, and by that measure, these bonus food coupons accounted for around $400,000 to our economic benefit, said Judge Thomas.

There was additional money from what is called Influence of federal activities and this includes farm ownership loans, soil and water loans, direct food distribution to schools, low to moderate income housing loans, etc.

Federal funds from the Department of Health Education and Welfare accounted for the second largest amount $1,950,365. The largest single figure in this was Social Security Old Age Survivors Benefits, for a total of $1,071,055. Then there was Medicare, $240,119, and Medicaid. $105.351.

The county's part in the medical assistance grants to the state was $118,469.

Old Age Assistance accounted for $182,386; and in addition there were the federal government's part of the funds to the blind, pernanently and totally disabled, families with dependent children, and $33,284 dent children, and $33,284 for vocational rehabilitation.

Federal funds from other departments included:

-Department of Housing and Urban Development: $3,000 insurance for property improvement loans (Housing Project).

-Department of Labor: unemployed insurance and federal employee injury compensation, $18,514.

-Post Office Department: $220,839.

-Department of Transportation: highway planning and construction, and Coast Guard, marine Harbor and Shore Service, $37,105.

-Treasury Department: interest on US bonds and savings bonds, $152,206.

-Civil Service Commission: annuities and retirement: $143,850.

-Railroad Retirement Board: $6,745.

-Veterans Administration: $157,745.

A breakdown of this was released earlier by Riley Dunson, Veterans Service Officer. It included disability pensions, dependence and indemnity, disability compensation, readjustments training and a number of other funds. The largest figure was $50,346 for disability compensation.

The total for 1971, $7,377,828 is $684,000 more than the U.S. Expenditures in the county in 1970. That year it totaled $6,693,238 according to figures of the Office of Economic Opportunity, as reported by the new Texas Almanac. The total income for the county that year (1970) was $12,621,000.

Some of Collingsworth's neighbors received more federal money in 1971, some got less. Childress County had a total of $10,417,044, while Donley received $5,113,182, Gray County $15,784,487; Hall county $9,944,254; and Wheeler County $6,710,089.

Last Minute Easter Seal Appeal Made

A last minute appeal for support of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and adults and its program of services to the handicapped was issued today by Mr. Jack Neely who is the Easter Seal Representative in Collingsworth County.

The Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services for over 22,000 physically handicapped children and in adults in Texas last year, he said, and this program needs to be expanded. Many people are going without services that would increase the productiveness of their lives and make them happier. With increased growth of the Easter Seal Society, more and more of these people will be reached, he added.

The Society is carrying out a continuing program to seek out the disabled who are doing without services and see that they receive the help they need

As Easter Seal Representative, Mr. Neely is the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society.

The Easter Seal Society of Texas helps support 19 treatment facilities in Texas where crippled children and adults are treated, regardless of their abilito pay.

Physical, occupational and speech therapy are offered to help the handicapped overcome their disabilities. A complete referral program to ensure equal rehabilitiation services to every person in Texas is included in Easter Seal Society services.

The Easter Seal Appeal will close Easter Sunday, April 2, and full support should be given the Easter Seal Society by every citizen of Collingsworth County, he added.

This Is a Public Notice

Due to increased dog and cat population in Wellington and with dog days coming up, it is our hope to weed out strays or unwanted animals.

This is to be done in three phases:

Phase 1: Any person wanting to get rid of animals they now have, can call 2642 and a list will be made and the animals will be picked up.

Phase 2: Vaccination, Tags, and Collaring of wanted animals. To be vaccinated May 13th at the City Barn, 4th and West Avenue, 9:00 to 12:00 a.m.

Phase 3: Complete coverage of the town for strays. With all animals tagged and collared to be let alone.

NOTE: This does not relieve the owner of any animal running loose, from the responsibility of destruction caused by that animal. A new city ordinance is being drafted to make it fair and legal for all the citizens. It is only with you, the citizens, that this problem can be dealt with, so that our children can be safe.

Dr. Marion Baumgardner, right, confers with Texas Tech College of Agricultural Sciences Dean Anson S. Bertrand about the potential benefits of the new technology of remote sensing to the field of agriculture. They are viewing a computer translation of a photograph taken of the Lubbock area from a space craft 127 nautical miles up. Tech researchers are particularly interested in remote sensing as an aid to land use planning, range and wildlife management, soil pattern mapping and water resources management. Baumgardner is aerospace applications program manager for the Laboratory for Applications of Remote Sensing at Purdue University. (Tech Photo)

Former Countian Makes Remote Sensing Work for Agriculture

LUBBOCK, -- The same technology that, from the Wright Brothers to manned space flight, has gotten man further and further off the ground is now helping him get a closer and more valuable perspective of the earth's surface than was ever before possible.

Coupled with the new technology of remote sensing, it has given him a view of the earth that any bird would envy and is supplying him with a wealth of new information that has direct application to valuable advances in agriculture, geology, horticulture, water resources development, parks and recreation facilities planning, forestry and other fields.

The potential value of this new technology is especially meaningful to agriculturalists, according to Dr. Marion Baumgardner of the Laboratory for Applications of Remote Sensing (LARS) at Purdue University. Dr. Baumgardner and his family spent the Easter Holidays in Wellington with his mother, Mrs. Joe Baumgardner, and his brother, Mr. and Mrs. David Baumgardner and family.

A 1950 graduate of Texas Tech University, Baumgardner has just completed a visit to the Tech campus to confer with College of Agricultural Sciences Dean Anson R. Bertrand.

Bertrand said Texas Tech researchers, especially in the College of Agricultural Sciences, are particularly interested in the data being made available by remote sensing operations for its use in land utilization planning for parks and recreation facilities, range and wildlife management studies and soil and water conservation research.

Baumgardner, program leader in aerospace applications research for LARS and a specialist in agronomy, explained that the LARS program was established in 1966 as the Laboratory for Agricultural Remote Sensing with primary research objectives aimed at developing remote sensing techniques and investigating applications of these techniques in the field of agriculture.

Baumgardner, who has been with LARS since its beginnings, said the program has recently expanded its objectives to include investigations in geology, hydrology, geography and other fields in addition to agriculture and was appropriately renamed.

LARS has been funded since its inception jointly by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Remote sensing, Baumgardner said, "is essentially making measurements at a distance without coming into physical contact with the object being measured." He explained that high altitude photography is one of the principal methods now being used in the research program connected with aerospace applications of the remote sensing program.

Baumgardner brought with him several photographs from a data gathering project, including one of the city of Lubbock and surrounding area taken from 127 nautical miles up by special cameras mounted in the Apollo 9 space craft. He said there is work now being done to develop techniques for transplanting these types of photographs or images into quantative values that can be stored on computer tape and recalled.

Through these photos and other types of remote sensing instruments, startlingly detailed views of earth surface areas as well as vegetative cover and bodies of water are possible. Baumgardner said researchers can accurately map even the different types of vegetation which may cover a certain area.

"Realizing this, the potential value of remote sensing becomes readily apparent to the agriculturalist," Bertrand said. "Such a highly accurate and far-reaching method of mapping soil patterns which determine land use and productivity has broad application in assessing land values."

Baumgardner said the data can become invaluable as a source for making crop inventories, measuring and mapping crop acreages and even in measuring the exact land area covered by playa lakes at certain times of the year in an area such as the High Plains and how much crop land is taken out of production as a result.

"As our remote sensing operations become more sophisticated and more precise," Baumgardner said, "we hope we may even be able to accurately analyze and record such things as crop plant density and quality; that is, to be able to separate diseased and healthy plants, for example."

The research, he added, may even lead eventually to accurate yield predictions for world crops. Another use of the data is foreseen in making possible utilization of pasture lands for livestock by providing a basis for predicting vegetative abundance and capacity for grazing and to prevent overgrazing.

Prior to joining the LARS program, Baumgardner was associated with the Purdue University agronomy department. After graduation from Texas Tech, he went to the University of Alahabad in India and taught agronomy there for three years before returning to Purdue to complete his master's degree.

After a year studying theology at Yale, Baumgardner returned to Purdue to complete his doctorate. He then went to Argentina for two years to establish graduate programs in agriculture at the four agricultural universities in that country under a program sponsored by the Ford Foundation.

Baumgardner again returned to Purdue after his stint in Argentina to teach and eventually to become associated with the LARS project. This past summer, he spent six weeks in Bulgaria for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations to advise in the development of a national conservation research program in southeastern Europe.

Baumgardner's brother, Jim, is a professor of animal science at Texas Tech. Another brother, Haynes, served until last year as professor of aerospace science at Tech and is now in charge of general administrative guidance for all Air Force ROTC units in the U.S.

Life Preservers Now Required

AUSTIN -- If you go out in a canoe without a Coast Guard approved life saving device, you could be "up the creek without a paddle."

New water safety laws require all recreational boats, including sailboats, canoes, rowboats and even towed boats, to have one Coast Guard approved life saving device for each person on board. Children 12 years old and under must wear a vest-type device when the boats are underway.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials who enforce the state's water safety laws say all types of watercraft, not just motorboats, can lead to drownings, and life preservers should give boaters an edge against fatal accidents.

We Can Put Our Dollars In the Fight on Cancer

April is Cancer Crusade month, and this is one drive to which this county has been most generous -- for cancer is so close to everyone of us, and the second greatest killer of all diseases.

Since the mid-1940s, the cure rate of one in every three persons stricken with cancer has been achieved . . . . but that means two of every three are still dying. If nothing is done to change the trend, 52 million Americans living today will be stricken with cancer and 32 million will die of it.

To get this down to terms we can understand, it means that of the 4,750 people living in Collingsworth County, it is possible that almost 1200 of us will have cancer and 800 of us will die of it.

We see why it is so urgent that action be taken.

President Nixon has declared the conquest of cancer a national goal and sponsored a new federal program to achieve it. This gives the American Cancer Society, of which the Cancer Crusade is a part, the double job of promoting funds for government research and supporting its own. The quarter billion dollars the ACS has put in cancer research in the last 25 years has paid off richly.

Yet we have to confront the sober reality that we are still a long way from the conquest of cancer. That is why we in Collingsworth are asked to join others like us throughout the nation and give our support to the Cancer Crusade.

The War Against the Press

An excellent example of the inherent inequity of government controls over the marketplace can be seen in the publishing business. Magazine and newspaper publishers are subject to Phase II guidelines but not the Postal Service which is free to raise postage rates to any level it deems necessary. In the second class category, postal rates are slated to increase about 150 percent over five years. Third class postal rate increases are following a similar trend. The net result of all this is there is likely to be a gradual drying up of the flow of news and information upon which the public depends to arrive at fair and reasonable conclusions on important issues of the day.

If publications can be put out of business through postal rate increases, the question of censorship of the press becomes academic. There will be very little press to censor and the written word as an element of the right of free speech will steadily diminish in importance as insolvency thins the ranks of America's thousands of daily and weekly newspapers as well as the nation's magazines.

STATE Capital NEWS

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex. -- State lawmakers polished off billboard control and primary election finance legislation in a three-day special session -- and added far-reaching procedural reform rules for good measure.

They will be back to work in June on budget and tax matters.

In their "mini-session", the legislators -- many anxious to get back to the campaign trails -- logged these accomplishments:

* They provided for emergency state financing of the May and June primary elections and set aside $2 million to pay the bills. Another long-term primary finance measure will be necessary next year.

* They moved to meet federal highway beautification requirements by out-lawing billboards within 660 feet of major highways and providing for screening of junkyards. The measure will cost the state about $5 million a year in condemnation costs for five years. But it will prevent a $24 million loss of federal highway construction funds for non-compliance with regulations.

* Both House and Senate adopted joint rules including sharp limitations on powers of conference committees to write new legislative matters without majority permission.

* The House also accepted rules installing a limited seniority system for committee assignments, reducing the number of committees from 46 to 25 and providing for electronic recording of House and committee proceedings.

* Legislators also made Texas the eighth state to ratify a proposed federal constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal rights for women.

Highlight of the opening day was election of Rep. Rayford Price, 35, of Palestine as new speaker of the House. Price won 77-65 over Rep. L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi. He succeeds Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham who resigned after his conviction for bribery conspiracy.

ALLOWABLE ADJUSTED -- Texas Railroad Commission decided to hold the oil allowable for the big East Texas Field to 66 per cent during April instead of the 100 per cent fixed for the rest of the state.

An increase for the East Texas Field was postponed pending completion of a study.

Chairman Byron Tunnell justments," Teaver said.

Teaver contended the Board's refusal earlier to suspend the inflation trend factor would cost Texans an additional $27 million in premiums next year, when a $14 million reduction could have been made under his own recommendations.

TRAFFIC TOLL REVEALED -- A total of 3,594 persons died in Texas motor vehicle accidents during the year of 1971, according to Texas Department of Public Safety tabulations.

DPS Director Col. Wilson E. Speir said the death toll represents a one per cent increase over 1970, when 3,560 died on the streets and highways.

Speir noted that vehicle miles driven increased from 68 billion in 1970 to more than 70.7 billion for 1971 -- a four per cent rise in driving. At the same time, the number of licensed Texas drivers rose by nearly 324,000 to a total of almost seven million.

The death rate per 100 million miles of travel actually decreased three per cent from 5.2 in 1970 to 5.1 in 1971, Speir said. The death rate in 1966 was 6.2. Of the 3,594 deaths in 1971, 2,184 occurred on rural roadways and 1,410 in urban areas. There were 2,993 fatal accidents and 394,166 total accidents last year. Speeding and driving while intoxicated were listed as primary violations in fatal mishaps.

FIRE ANT ON RAMPAGE -- Imported fire ants are migrating from East Texas west to the Dallas- Fort Worth area and south as far as Corpus Christi, warns State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

The fire ant is now found in 55 Texas counties and infests 16 million acres, White reported. White said future of the only bait used to control the ants -- Mirex -- is pending before the Environmental Protection Agency. The Agriculture Department now distributes the bait to designated officers in infested areas.

SHORT SNORTS

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert estimates $711.1 million] in general revenue will be available for certification toward 1973 budgeting.

Texas Air Control Board will have air sampling personnel on duty for the first duty for the next several months in the area of the American Smelting and Refining Company's Amarillo plant.

Texas Civil Liberties Union filed suit to knock out the one year-six months state-local residency requirement for voting.

INSURANCE HEARING PUT OFF -- A scheduled March 29 hearing by the State Insurance Board on a proposed increase in home insurance was indefinitely postponed amid talk of compromise.

Board Chairman Larry Teaver sought a year's delay in applying a rating factor providing for rate additions due to inflation and rising construction costs. He had been out-voted by two other Board members on postponing use of the inflation factor.

"The Board is taking a thorough look at all of the factors involved with rating and working toward solutions to complex and complicated problems that arise when considering rate ad-

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where a big city asked the Federals for $4.8 million to paint its garbage cans pink and to send its trash-truck drivers to college.

By some bureaucratic boo-boo, the request was turned down and that city will have to make-do with non-pink garbage cans and degreeless truck wranglers.

Since Washington turned down this idea, it must be a good one to statusfy the trasheer profession by requiring a college degree. We could get along fine without, say, sociologist, but garbagemen are a must.

Meditations

How beautiful is night!
A dewy freshness fills the silent air,
No mist obscures, nor cloud, nor speck, nor stain,
Breaks the serene of heaven:
In full-orbed glory, yonder moon divine
Rolls through the dark blue depths;
Beneath her steady ray
The desert circle spreads
Like the round ocean, girdled with the sky.
How beautiful is night!

Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation!
Then conquer we must when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust!"
And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.
F.S. Key.

human thought is the process by which human ends are ultimately answered.

An Open Letter To The People Of Texas

Dear Voter:

I'm a candidate for attorney general of Texas because I believe it's time for a change in the office.

Crawford Martin is seeking a fourth term. It's the first time in the history of Texas an attorney general is running for a fourth term.

Campaigns should be run on the issues and I don't like to inject personalities and personal relationships into a political campaign. But, the relationship between Frank Sharp and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin cannot be swept under the rug.

The new book about the Texas stock fraud scandal, "Texas Under a Cloud," tells about that relationship. On page 128 the book says:

"Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, . . . got some free newspaper publicity when it was revealed in October, 1971, that he received a 'stock tip' from Frank Sharp – while Martin and his family were Sharp's ranch guests late in 1969 and again at Sharp's Houston office early in 1970.

"Sharp was trying personally to sell National Bankers Life stock to Martin, although the attorney general said that Sharp never mentioned the possibility of Sharpstown Bank loans to buy the stock.

"Martin said that he turned the stock offer down because it would have cost too much, because NBL was in 'shaky' condition, and because he did not buy 'speculative' stocks.

"He did not comment on the ethical aspects of a state official's accepting a stock tip of that sort – perhaps, because Martin, as attorney general, had ruled in favor of Sharp on a key legal issue about Sharpstown State Bank only two and one half years before Sharp made the stock offer to Martin.

"Martin's ruling had the effect of increasing the bank's capitalization dramatically and thus its ability to make large loans, ultimately giving Sharp the financial resources he used in the manipulations charged by the SEC."

As you know, hundreds of Texans lost their life savings because of Sharp's stock manipulations and it probably wouldn't have happened but for Atty. Gen. Martin's legal opinion.

Don't you agree, it's time for a change in the office of attorney general of Texas?

Just so you'll know what you'd be changing to, I'd like to tell you a little about John Hill. I'm a native Texan, grew up in Wink and Kilgore, was national debate champion at Kilgore Junior College and graduated from the University of Texas Law School. I served in the Navy during World War II, practiced law (much of the time in courtrooms) in Houston, and was secretary of state from 1966 to 1968.

I certainly would appreciate your support.

It is time for a change.

Catholic Church Has Easter Egg Hunt Sunday

Neighbours of Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church were startled Easter Sunday morning at 10 a.m., when the doors burst open and scores of small children came racing onto the lawn and proceeded to search every bush, tree and blade of grass. No grave emergency; just the annual Church Easter Egg Hunt.

The gaily-colored eggs were provided by Mrs. Lutie Cortez and Father Pat Burke, and were hidden by Jesse Peters and Trini Cantu, Sr. before the end of the Easter Mass.

Father Pat expressed satisfaction at the great success of the Lenten and Holy Week services. "We had bigger and more enthusiastic crowds than ever this year", he reported. "We have about 60 families in this half of the parish, and there was an average of 98 percent attendance during Lent."

Increasingly in demand as a public speaker, Father Pat was recently interviewed over Childress Radio by Cleland Stallings on the tragic violence in the North of Ireland, its causes and possible remedies. Father is familiar with the area having friends on both sides of the struggle, and having visited Belfast and Derry several times in recent vacations. He expressed pleasure at the recent takeover of the Northern Government by London.

"The Catholic minority, so long oppressed, will get a much fairer shake from the British Government than it ever would from the government at Stormont. All our people want are their full rights as citizens; it's as simple as that," said the British priest.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

GLORIA SWANSON, who was one of my ideals of beautiful womanhood back in the twenties, dropped in on Congressman Wilbur D. Mills the other day. The Arkansas Democrat is chairman of the Ways and Means committee which writes the tax laws. Miss Swanson, who is 73, said: "Those Texans get depreciation allowances on oil, and I heard you can depreciate a horse. So why can't you depreciate an actress?"

GLAMOROUS Gloria was not the second coming of Sarah Bernhart; but she does make sense when she starts talking about taxes. We should have a depreciation allowance for teachers, preachers and doctors; for carpenters, painters and, plumbers; for farmers, ranchers and ginners. And by all means there should be a depreciation allowance for weekly newspaper editors.

IT REQUIRED over half a centruy of work by some of the best educators in the nation to make The University of Texas at Austin a university of the first class. Now it seems more evident that Frank Erwin and the forces he represent will succeed in making it a university of the second class in less than a dozen years.

THE HANDWRITING was on the wall when Dr. Norman Hackerman resigned as president to become president of Rice. Dr. Hackerman was an administrator and educator of proven ability. About the same time nationally known heads of departments began to leave for other universities. The latest is the resignation of the dean of the school of architecture. Texas has the money and Austin is a wonderful place in which to live. The resignations and departures made no sense unless the conditions under which these talented and dedicated men had to work had become intolerable. A great university cannot survive in an atmosphere of greed, bigotry and unconsciousable lust for power.

* * *

POLITICIANS as well as political observers are open mouthed in astonishment at the showing of Governor Wallace in Wisconsin. The latest reports indicate that he is in second place behind McGovern and ahead of Hubert Humphrey. Remember Hubert Humphrey is from Minnesota and was supposed to know Wisconsin like a book. Humphrey is a smart man with a tremendous amount of personal charm. His trouble is that he does not know when to stop talking.

JUMPIN Jehoshaphat! George McGovern for president and George C. Wallace for vice-president. What kind of a ticket would that make? Probably a donkey with two heads going in opposite directions.

BOTH the baseball players and the club owners may be treading on more dangerous ground than they suspect as they delay a settlement of the player strike at the beginning of the season. A glacier may seem so vast it has no end: but if it is receding each year instead of advancing, it is called a dying glacier. In the same way, baseball may be considered a dying sport. Take a look at the grandstands on an average day. There are not enough people there to pay the expenses. Only TV keeps the sport solvent. It is no longer the number one sport of the United States and any major setback could have a lasting effect.

Norwood Pre-Views NIL Contest Play

Samnorwood's entry in the Interscholastic League one-act play contest will be presented for the community Tuesday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The contest itself will be Thursday, April 13, in Miami, when the Samnorwood cast competes with those from 8 other schools in District 3-B.

The contest play is "The Case of the Crushed Petunia," by Tennessee Williams.

The story is impressive but simple, with Rosa Oldham in the role of the young Boston woman, Dorothy Simple, who barricades her heart behind materialistic things like petunias, and has never discovered the enjoyment of real living. There comes along The Young Man, portrayed by Mark Simpson from Life, Inc., to show her the way to enjoyable, free living, and the real meaning of life.

Others in the cast are the Police Officer, Joel Dean Rainey, while the role of the older society woman, Mrs. Dull, is taken by Lyna Coleman. Teresa Ray and Judy Bell are in charge of sound and the sets.

"The production is in an abstract setting, which leaves much of the set and some of the plot to the audience's imagination," said Mrs. Joe John Henard, who is directing the contest play.
