THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl, was engaged at 18 to a young scion, JOHN LAWRENCE, who was sent to France as one of the first to go. They were married and never returned. Sybil mourned him for months—then, in the way of youth, gave herself up to romance and indiscretions in a vain attempt to forget. Years later she contracted a disease which she thought was a beautiful child was born. When her son was a year old, Sybil brought suit for divorce. On the day on which her case was to have opened, her husband was killed while motoring from his home in New Haven to court in Boston. Sybil incurred her family's wrath and the displeasure of her friends by celebrating his death with a theatrical party. Shortly afterward she goes apartment hunting with MABEL MOORE, her dearest friend. The real estate agent calls for them at Mabel's flat. When he opens the door Sybil shrieks "John!"

She recognizes her and falls fainting at her feet.

Sybil and Mabel revive him—and he tells the story of his strange disappearance. John Lawrence—back from the dead!

When he concludes his dramatic and tragic tale of battles and deaths, Sybil looks at him as if she were looking at the history of the bravest of the brave—he takes Sybil in his arms. And, "do you love me Sybil?" he asks her.

But, meaning, Sybil has another lover—RAIG NEWBALL. Her heart is pounding wildly as she tries to answer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

Sybil drew away but he held her in the circle of his arms.

"Oh, John! Pray don't do this to me! Not now! Not now! I've been waiting for you for so long! So much has happened. How can I tell?"

His arms about her tightened and he kissed her hair as he had done so many times before.

"You've bobbed it, dearest!" he accused her.

He held her away again, and looking up, she saw that his forehead was wrinkled as though he were puzzled.

"This that odor?" he said surprisedly.

"Odor?" she repeated stupidly.

"What odor?"

"The stuff you use on your hair," he told her and pulled his eyes together in a painful squint.

"John closed his eyes tightly so that they made a crinkly furrow. And furtive memory drew her skirts tantalizingly across his nose.

"It was a girl in Paris," he said at last. "She used that same stuff! Oh! at Maxim's! Something about her reminded me of somebody. But I didn't know what it was—or who it was. She drove me almost crazy. I used to sit and watch her and listen to her. One night—she was a coquette you see, Sybil—and this night she asked me to buy her a drink. I stood there staring like a fool—and all of a sudden I got dizzy. I didn't know what it was. God, Sybil, don't you remember that girl had 'vervina' too?"

John passed his hand over his forehead.

"I can smell her now. Vervina. That's what it was."

"Poor darling," Sybil took his thin cheeks between her palms and drew his head down to her lips to kiss him. "You remind me of me. I suppose only you could know."

"An odor," he said brokenly. "Like a breath from the past."

"And it comes back any time," she asked. "You used to like my hair, John—remember? When I had it cut, I put it all away and kept it in my memory of you and your kisses on it. I remember I had some perfume in a little green atomizer with pink roses on it—Ted gave it to me one Christmas. And I always squirted it on my hair when I was going to meet you because you told me once I had the sweetest hair in the world. That reminded me awfully. Tell me about that girl, John. You didn't associate her name with any particular thing about her?"

"I knew there was something," he repeated, "but I couldn't quite lay hold of it. I sort of thought it was her name. She kind of flustered them. You know the way some girls do when they talk."

"I used to wonder if those white hands of hers held the secret of all the forgotten. I don't remember of having been conscious of any event about her. But now it all comes back. I can close my eyes and see her sitting there."

"She always wore black. French women do, don't you know? Her hair was sort of golden-brown, I suppose. And it used to kind of slip out from under her hat. She'd sit there, looking with a glass and smiling quietly. . . . Sometimes I thought it was her smile that would bring things back."

"Didn't you ever talk with her?" demanded Sybil, leaning over him.

John raised his shoulders.

"Yes," he said heavily. "I talked with her—after a while. It didn't do any good, of course."

"Oh, well," Sybil said, her arm through his. "Let's talk about something else. Come—sit down. We'll talk about me. Have I changed, John? Much? I mean, of course I've grown older."

They sat on the divan in front of the fire, but the old girl touched her. "Look at me," she commanded, "and tell me." She laughed.

"Talk to me tenderly," she begged. "Tell me how."

"Lies!" he said. "I don't have to tell you lies, Sybil. You were an exquisite child, my dear, and now you are a beautiful woman."

"She clapped her hands softly. "Hear! Hear!" she cried. "Tell me more, John." And she drew closer to his shoulder.

"You were a white-headed child," he said, and said into the voice of a man when he speaks of the husband died. There WERE a few little stories. Last November it was.

"I was in Washington then," he explained, "adjusting my compensation. I was there two weeks."

He was very pale. He put his cup on the table, and his long fingers, dropping between his knees twitched nervously. Sybil, noting his agitation, took his arm tenderly.

"John, this has been an appalling experience for you. I want you to go home, and I'll go to see you this evening. You're in for a terrific period of readjustment, and you've got to take things easily. Where are you living, John."

He pressed her hand, weakly grateful.

"At the Fairmore," he told her.

"And I guess you're right, dear. I hate to act like a weak-kneed idiot. But I am pretty well done up. Will you really come round this evening?"

"I surely will," she promised.

"And I'll drive you down now myself. I'll be back for the baby in half an hour. Mab, you won't mind keeping him awhile?"

"Lord, no."

Mabel loved taking care of Teddy. "I'll tell him a story," she said, "about a man who went to sleep and when he woke up he was somebody else."

She laughed shortly. "It's ghostly—a dead man materializing in front of your eyes. Lordy! I thought for a minute we'd all gone crazy."

She shrugged with a semblance of horror and proffered her hand.

"John Lawrence, if you're half the man Sib thinks you are, I'm glad she found you."

He bowed courteously. "I hope,"

he said, "we may be something more than business acquaintances now. I'd like to be your friend Mrs. Moore."

"That's all right by me," she assured him, and pushed them out with rough good nature. "Be good children now—and don't hurry back, Sybil."

When they had gone, she set the room to rights with housewifely zeal, straightening the rugs and the table cover. Brushing cigarette ashes into the fireplace. Slapping and puffing the pillows on the divan.

"Hello! What's this?"

A little white box beneath an overstuffed cushion. Mabel opened it curiously.

"A wedding ring! Well, I'll be darned! Whose? Sib's?"

She peered within the narrow circle. "R. C. to C. B."

She held it between her fingers, appraising it unconsciously. One section of her brain coating diamond chips. The other deliberating.

(Mabel tells Sybil about the wedding ring—and then—but it's all in the next chapter.)

The leaves and branches of trees give a good indication of how fast the wind is blowing.

Officials Request Close Co-operation In Weed Burnings

Lubbock citizens who live within proximity to high weeds or tall grass, or who own property that is near enough to vacant lots or yards upon which grass and weeds, now that they are becoming dry and inflammable, can not only cooperate with the fire department in eliminating these hazards, but they can call upon the fire department for cooperation in getting rid of grass and weeds. City manager G. W. McCleary said yesterday.

City Will Aid
"If any citizen wants the grass and weeds burned off of vacant lots or yards," said Mr. McCleary, "if they will call upon the fire department several firemen will be sent to assist them in burning these weeds, and the department will watch the blaze to see that it does not get out of control. If the fire department is called upon to control the blaze until such time as the weeds are destroyed."

Mr. McCleary said it is much better for citizens to call the fire department for such aid before setting to work to burn the weeds, in order that the fire can be guarded, than it is to set fire to grass and weeds and then call the department when they think the fire might endanger neighboring property.

Just Call Chief
"Just call Fire Chief Twitty," he said, "and tell him what you want. He will be glad to send the necessary number of firemen to help."

Mr. McCleary said the campaign will be made by the fire department to eliminate all such fire hazards from the city within the next few days, the city manager declared.

other departments, and the work of these departments is not what it would be if we had more room. The present high school and junior high school buildings can be used for a Junior high school, including the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and we have a sufficient number of pupils in these grades now to fill nearly every room in these buildings.

The Junior high school should be made a real Junior high school, with departmental work and the elective system extended to all its grades, so that the boys and girls in these grades could get manual training, mechanical drawing and home economics, and thus be prepared for the work higher up in these studies in the Senior high school. The program we are now offering our Junior high school boys during the past three years, the Senior high school enrollment has increased more than 100 pupils a year, and the increase each year has been larger than that of the year before. With the growing popularity of our high school and the Texas Technological college, this increase will be greater each year, and in five years, we can count on there being at least 1,500 pupils in this school.

The patrons of the school should know that the congested conditions in the high school and Junior high school are the cause of the congestion in the grade schools and the half-day sessions we are having to resort to there. If we could accommodate our sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils in the present Junior high school building, with a new building for our Senior high school, we could easily take care of our grade pupils in the grade buildings. Very soon, we are going to need a grade building in the south-west part of town to take care of that rapidly growing section. At the present time, however, that building is not needed as badly as a Senior high school building. It should be the next one on the program and probably it will be needed very soon, even with the increased facilities afforded by a new high school building.

"I am making this statement in order that the people may know the needs of their schools and to point the way to meeting those needs. I have no doubt but that they will be willing to meet the needs of their schools when they know what they are, and to provide in the same big way as they have done in the past the facilities necessary to maintaining the highest standard in them."

3-0 Ponies Gallop Off With 53 To 13 Win Over Rice Owls

Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado Sweeps Notre Dame Away By 13-0 Margin

Houston Team No Match for Great Scoring Combine

Even Second Stringers Are Potent Against Owls As Methodist March Towards Conference Bunting

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Oct. 20. (AP)—The sheer power of S. M. U.'s running attack overwhelmed Rice, 53 to 13 here today in the first Southwest conference contest for either team.

Enemy scouts who sat in the stands had an off day, for Coach Ray Morrison abandoned his over-head game for simple formations. Even these proved difficult for the Owls to solve. In the first two minutes of play Johnson took a short lateral pass and raced 40 yards for a touchdown. From then on, except in the third quarter when Coach Claude Rothger's squad halted a second string Mustang eleven on practically even terms, Rice backs filtered through their opponents' forward wall almost at will.

Rice's Bid Is Feeble

Rice made a feeble bid for victory with the Mustang's best weapon—the aerial attack—and from the opening whistle to the final minute play Allyn and Smith were kept busy hurling passes to teammates who raced down the chalk lines.

One touchdown resulted from the drive through the air and an intercepted S. M. U. pass accounted for another.

Early in the second quarter after Morrison had benched nearly all of his starting eleven, Jones snared Reed's short pass and galloped 53 yards to the goal line. The second came in the last quarter when two short flips put the ball on the 35-yard line. Smith and squatted through three tacklers to add six points to his team's total.

Johnson, Hume Star

Johnson, whose shifty running in the first quarter netted the Red and Blue three touchdowns, and always elusive Hume were responsible for much of the Ponies' yardage. Sanders, giant guard was a power on defense.

New York Lethargic as Race Approaches Between Two Olympic Stars; Joie Ray Is Favorite

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Having had the doubtful privilege of watching Charlie Fyfe's cross-country haulers in a 24-hour race here this summer, New York seems a bit lethargic toward Tex Rickard's marathon duel, set for Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, between Joie Ray, once king of American milers, and El Ouafi, French Algerian winner of this year's Olympic marathon.

There are seven others in the 26 miles, 265 yards jaunt around a special tan-bark track at the Garden, but so far as the public is concerned what interest there is revolves about Ray and the man who beat him at Amsterdam.

Out in the open spaces, El Ouafi conclusively demonstrated that he was too much for the little American, but Joie thinks there will be another story tomorrow night. Ray has done much of his 18-year running career on board tracks and has the thing down to a science. El Ouafi is unaccustomed to indoor running and the necessity of rounding corners every few seconds.

Army Wins First Harvard Game In Fifteen Efforts

Cadets, Led by Texan, Win First Game from Rivals In History; Score Gives Academy 15 to 0 Victory

BY WILLIAM E. KING
Associated Press Sports Writer
HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 20 (AP)—An Army objective, first planned 33 years ago, finally was achieved here today when the Cadet football team gained its first victory over Harvard 15 to 0 in a game featured by Grimson miscues.

The game was the 14th the teams have played since 1895 and in 13 of them the soldiers were able to score but a total of six points. It took them less than that, many minutes this afternoon to better that total.

Capt. "Bud" Sprague, Texas Army tackle, who last year was given a place on the Associated Press All-American team, was outstanding.

Scoring: Touchdowns, Murrell and Messinger, (sub for Lynch); safety, Murrell. Point from try after touchdown, Sprague (place kick).

Generals Are Beaten

Washington and Lee Beaten By West Virginia Unj.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 20. (AP)—The Mountaineers of West Virginia University with a well conceived and splendidly executed attack, easily defeated the veteran Washington and Lee gridders here today, 22 to 0.

Long end sweeps, accurately placed forward passes, and a line smashing attack skillfully directed stumped the Generals.

Due more to Tech miscues and "breaks" than to any merit of their offense, McMurry was constantly in a scoring position during that colorless first quarter. Hill fumbled and a McMurry man recovered the ball on his 23-yard line. A series of line bucks advanced the ball some smattering yards and then Hayes cut through the Tech line for 12 yards and a first down on the Matadors' six-yard line.

The McMurry offense crumbled, however, and a bad pass from center on third down went wild. Payne recovered on Tech's 42-yard line and again a score was averted.

Sidelights On Tech-Indian Game

McMurry got a break just as the game was starting. An exchange of punts found Walker receiving a kick from Patterson deep in his own territory. Over-eager, "Red" juggled the kick and it bounced to the turf, being pounced upon by Captain Parks, alert end of the Indian eleven.

Payne, however, who played a splendid game in the first half, spoiled Thayer for a five-yard loss on the first McMurry try at his end and, forced to pass, McMurry made a poor attempt at a double lateral fling. The ball was grounded and Tech got the ball on her 20-yard line. A punt sent the oval spiraling into safe territory.

Fumbles were so frequent that they became tedious. The "butter fingers" weren't confined to any one side, either. McMurry and Tech being about equally guilty in the fumbling line. The promiscuous juggling of the ball had one press box wit to remark that in the next game he "was going to bet that Tech out-fumbled" her opponent.

Tech's offense looked fearfully ragged in the first half but the Matadors' attempts at advancing the ball "clicked" better in the latter stages of the game. An aerial offensive that promises something for the future was launched in this period.

Ransom Walker adds to his qualities as a football player. Yesterday he passed with coolness and accuracy. Ransom steps back calmly, surveys the field and then shoots with lots of steam to the man he has marked out as the receiver. His passes went with much better aim yesterday. Woodbridge and Payne looked better on the receiving end.

Segall going in as a substitute halfback in the latter part of the game, threw a scare into the Scarlet and Black stands by running through the whole Matador squad right from the kick-off in the second half. He was emerging into a clear field with a touchdown.

Not a Submarine Houston Motorist Gets Wetting

HOUSTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—Because old "Lizzie" had never failed him in any kind of mud-hole, a motorist disregarded a policeman's warning and drove into more than five feet of water which had covered an avenue tunnel during a recent heavy downpour here.

The result was that the thoroughly drenched man had to be assisted from the water by the officer and his car towed out by a wrecker.

Course the old bus ain't no submarine, at that, the motorist concluded a bit ruefully.

Spectator Digs Just Prior To 13 to 0 Victory Over Rockne Eleven; Hoosiers Halted in Tracks

GRANT FIELD, ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 20. (AP)—After six successive years of defeat, Georgia Tech trimmed Notre Dame today for the first time in a spectacular football battle before a crowd of 30,000. The final score was 13 to 0. Tech, leading in the first and last quarters, besides putting up brilliant defense that checked all Hoosier thrusts.

While entering the gate to see the game George C. Duke, 30, collapsed into the arms of a ticket taker and died in an ambulance enroute to a hospital.

"Uncle Billy" Clark Gets One More on Record

Of the four marriage licenses issued yesterday, "Uncle Billy" Clark got to perform one ceremony, making him a total of 199 since he first took office as justice of the peace a little more than two years ago. This ceremony was that of George Smith and Miss Daisy Reid.

The three other licenses were issued to the following: Pauline Beas and Miss Hermosa Wright, M. R. Lillard and Miss Marie Wilson and J. C. Johnson and Miss Ida Burrows.

which resulted in another first down, but this was all. Scall Poole broke through center for slashed off six yards around end, three and Patterson added two more. Unable to gain further, Patterson again punted.

R. Walker drove through tackle for three. Hill hit center for three more and on the next play Dred Lassiter broke loose for 20 yards through tackle. Following this play, the visitors stiffened and the Matadors were forced to kick. In a last desperate attempt, the Indians started an aerial attack but it was short-lived. Lassiter intercepted one of the heaves and the Matadors against started down the field, making their last first down as the final gun sounded.

Tech counted seven first downs to the visitors' five and gained 115 yards in scrimmage to 104 on the part of the Indians.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 20. (AP)—A smart, powerful Yale football team that knew how to make the "breaks" of the game and turn into touchdowns served notice on the East today that another champion is in the making at Old Eli.

With every player of any ability at all in there at one time or another, the Blue Bulldogs smothered a surprisingly strong Brown eleven 32 to 14.

Brown Leads In Downs

Although Brown rolled up 12 first downs to Yale's 9 and completed seven out of 19 forward passes, while the Elis could connect with but four in eight tries, Yale never let an opportunity go to waste.

Yale scoring: touchdowns, Garvey; field goal, Hoben; Lampe, sub for Garvey; Wilson, sub for Hoben; points after touchdown: Hubbard, Miller.

Brown scoring: Touchdowns, Marsan, Al. Cornswoot. Points after touchdowns, Kevorkian 2.

FT. WORTH LIVESTOCK

PORT WORTH, Oct. 20. (AP)—The hog market today was steady. The hog price was $9.25, with the bulk selling from $8.00 to $8.10. Pig receipts were scarce. Although 1,600 sheep receipts were recorded, most of them were out through billings, and the trade was registered as a nominal affair. The cattle market also was a nominal event.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20. (AP)—Cattle trade around the market circuit this week was featured by uneven to sharp declines on most classes; beef steers and yearlings were tendered a general decline of 25 to 75c with short fed heavy steers at some points off $1.00 and more; stockers and feeders were generally 25 to 75c lower but country buyers displayed an active interest in the decline. The strike of Koster butchers in New York effected trade in choice grain fed steers on late days and highly finished offerings stopped at $17.25; majority of the beef steers arriving in the future will be fed as the supply of grass fat kinds is about finished; aggregate receipts were 1,800 against 2,545 last week and 345,655 a year ago. Receipts of hogs approximated 446,000 an increase of around 46,000 over last week and 51,000 more than the corresponding period a year ago.

WEATHER

Temperatures were mostly near seasonal except maximum were generally above normal in Texas and extreme eastern districts and minima were rather low in the north central districts with light frost in southern Missouri. Mostly light to moderate showers fell on the Atlantic coastal plain section. Forecast, Western belt, fair and warmer in La., Ark., Okla., and east Texas. Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer Sunday in West Texas. Eastern belt; N. C. fair and colder tonight, possibly light frost.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (AP)—Collapsing prices plunged the wheat market downward today to within but little more than a cent a bushel above the lowest figures heretofore reached this season. Indications of a big harvest soon in countries south of the Equator adding to huge supplies of wheat already available in Canada and the United States were among the factors putting the market here under evident strain.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—The spectacular advance in stock prices, which has been under way for about a week, was seriously interrupted today by heavy selling for both accounts which carried several of the recent leaders down 3 to nearly 12 points. American Express broke from an early high of 368 1-2 to 226, dropping 20 points between sales. On the other hand, a dozen or more specialties pushed forward into new high ground, some of the gains running from 2 to 10 points. Trading was conducted at a terrific pace, with blocks of 1,000 to nearly 15,000 shares making their appearance at frequent intervals. Total sales were 2,217,400 shares, one of the largest Saturdays on record. There was nothing in the day's news to explain the reaction which was generally regarded as a normal correction of a top-heavy speculative position. Radio was one of the hardest hit, breaking 12 points to 226 and closing fractionally above that figure, but the center of the selling attack was directed against the motor shares. General Motors was hammered down 4 points to 218 and Hudson closed 3 1-2 points lower at 85 1-2 after touching 84 1-4. Chrysler, Packard and Mack Trucks lost a point or two. Adams Express, which soared 90 points earlier in the week, lost 10 points of its gain. American International, American Type Foundry, Burroughs Adding Machine, Bush Terminal, Coca Cola, Curtiss, Grand Stores, Jewel Tea, Keith-Albee issues, Warner Bros. issues, and Wright were among the many issues to lose 3 points or more. Erratic fluctuations took place in International Nickel, which opened 4 points lower at 180, ran up to 187, fell to 177 and rallied to 179 1-4, off a 3-4 net. Montgomery-Wright advanced 2 points to a new high at 352 and then fell back to 346. A. M. Byers, Johns Manville Electric Auto Lite, and National Tea closed 5 to 10 points higher, all setting new peak prices.

Daily Markets

MARKET FLASHES

New York City: Dunn's Agency says that textile activity continues to show seasonal broadening. Liverpool cable: "Cotton market felt local long liquidation of cotton and hedge selling." Manchester cable: "Fair cloth demand from South American. Yarns firm with moderate business."

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The department of agriculture estimates the acreage of cotton in India at 21,700,000 acres against 20,592,000 acres a year ago. Houston, Texas: Certified stock of cotton 4,040 bales. New York City: Certificated stock of cotton 5,865 bales.

Town Boasts Both Candidates

"Howdy, Al" and "Hello, Herbert" are the greetings when these two Tiffin, O., men meet. Scott Garrett, left, has been taken for Governor Alfred E. Smith when away from Tiffin, and Dr. W. H. Benner, right, has created a stir on trains when the word was passed that Herbert Hoover was aboard. Both are Republicans, however.

W. T. COBURN Lubbock Lumber Co. Joins MONTGOMERY WARD CO. in its Presentation of "just" HOME

This Home Designed, Built and Owned by Mr. W. T. Coburn

So thoroughly modern that it is ideal for comfortable living and pleasant entertaining! Yet its delightful architectural features have brought comments from every passer-by, the "Just Home" has genuine charm—it radiates personality. Its snug rooms seem so truly homelike, and the interior is ingeniously planned for greatest possible convenience.

The low sweep of the gambrel roof is very graceful, wise architects always design the roof to be really decorative as well as protective, and to permit greatest possible size to the rooms. The quaint entrance, the massive fireplace, sketches of the distinctive "Just Home" features. If you should ever wish to sell the "Just Home" you would find its resale value particularly great, simply because of the fact that its architecture is an authentic period style.

But not only is it a delightful place for leisurely hours, but an important asset from an architectural standpoint, adding an effect of spaciousness to the entire home and the entire interior contribute to the roomy impression.

HOW TO GET TO "JUST HOME" Go west to College Avenue, then south on College to 22nd St. Turn left on 22nd. "Just" HOME is the third brick home on the right. 2421 22nd Street.

As we step into the large living room which is on the west side of the house, we are immediately impressed by the softness and fineness of the floor, covering which admirably blends with the coloring of the woodwork and walls. Before the fire sits a softly comfortable davenport, behind it a table and lamp and in one corner a powerful eight-tube radio housed in a highboy cabinet of walnut and maple and connected to an aerial built into the house.

Back of the living room is the dining room, entered from the living room through double French doors. A fine Wilton rug with beautiful sharp designs covers the hardwood floor. The room is furnished with legged extendable table and buffet. Over the buffet hangs a graceful landscape mirror of pleasing design.

Back of the dining room, we find the breakfast room decorated in blue with a colorful little five-piece oak breakfast room set.

In the back of the house on the west side is situated the kitchen connecting with the break-

The idea in mind in furnishing this home has been to bring you face to face with the Personality of Montgomery Ward & Company and to show you what the largest mercantile concern of its kind in the world can bring to your door.

Furniture from the largest and best known factories in the world, rugs from the looms of the greatest rug mills in the country, hand-woven tapestries in perfect taste, a kitchen stove made in our own foundry, everything has been blended into one harmonious whole.

"Just HOME" is not a home to inspect with hope and wonder and to turn from with a sigh. "Just HOME" is a home designed to fill the needs and not empty the pocketbook of the average Lubbock family. It contains fine furniture but not the finest. Modern but not too modern, colorful but not too colorful. Really, it is what YOU want in the way of a home at a price that YOU can afford to pay.

fast room and immediately behind it. The Windsor Gas Range finished in green and brown exactly matches woodwork and paper. It is placed under a built-in hood which will conduct away the fumes from the cooking. In the back wall the sink and drain boards are built; and on each side commodious cabinets which are an integral part of the house contain an assortment of Old Holland colored enamel ware and other cooking utensils. The kitchen gives onto a service porch where we find the refrigerator.

The east side of the house is taken up with three bedrooms, each finished in a different color. Each bedroom has a separate entrance. The bath is conveniently located for use by occupants of all rooms.

The house is for sale furnished or unfurnished. Easy payments may be arranged on nearly every item. There will be hosts at the house all day Sunday and most of the following week. We cordially invite you to visit us.

"Just Home" is located on 2421-22nd Street.

FORCUPINE IS FOUND NEAR MEADOO

George Crum reported to the Review office Thursday that Norman Etheridge had found a porcupine on his place near Meadoo.

His dog, encountered the porcupine and in the shuffle his dog received several quills in his body that required a pair of pliers to pull them out. A porcupine in this country is something unusual, and this one is perhaps the first one found in this section of the county.

The animal is of a greyish color, the same type that is found in the Northeast part of the United States and Canada.

ROTARY CLUB MEETS

Miss Lorene Parker, piano teacher of the Crosbyton schools, favored the Rotary club Tuesday with a piano selection, which was enjoyed by the club members. An interesting talk was made by Judge John Buck on the subject, "The Courts of Justice." We are dealing, said the speaker, with something close to our hearts, something more significant and important than the average person would think. We have heard the words of justice criticized, he said, but perhaps by those who do not understand. But for the churches and the courts of justice, any locality would be a poor place to live, said the speaker.

Former Becton Girl On Ocean Voyage

Mr. And Mrs. Fred Vessey Write To Old Home Folks About Their Journey

Touring the old world in an extensive pleasure excursion, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vessey, in a letter to Mrs. Vessey's mother, Mrs. W. W. Ferguson, of Becton, recount many interesting experiences.

"Mrs. Vessey will be remembered by many friends in and around Lubbock as Sibel Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ferguson, of Becton. Mr. and Mrs. Vessey now make their home in Toledo, O., where Mr. Vessey has been employed as mechanical engineer for the Willis-Overland Corporation for the past three years.

Leaving Toledo September 18, the voyagers, together with their young son, sailed from Quebec on the 28th. Written the latter part of September, the latter contains a daily recount of the happenings on the voyage, leaving the three at Liverpool.

The letter follows:

"Aboard Royal Mail Steamer Duchess of Athol-Canadian Pacific Line.

"Dear Home Folks:

"Left Toledo September 18, for Montreal, Canada. We spent one day sight seeing there. A lovely city of stone buildings. Seventy-five per cent of the population is French Catholics.

"We went on board R. M. S. Duchess of Athol September 21, on which date we should have sailed, but we did not leave until Saturday morning, September 22, at 6 a. m. We are having lovely weather, so cool that we need our coats on. First day of sailing was pleasant. We were able to see land on either side.

"They Reach Quebec.

"We finally reached Quebec on September 23. The tender coming out to our ship with passengers and mail. After a little delay we again started on our journey. We are still in sight of land, which looks very desolate from the ship. The ship is plowing along about 20 miles an hour. We are feeling fine and have not been sea sick yet. We received all the latest news today by wireless. For two days and nights we were traveling on the St. Lawrence river.

"September 23, 8:30 p. m. A lovely sight on water is the moon shining on a calm sea. To our right the Northern Lights are beaming. This is a reflection from the ice field which is a beautiful sight. The sailors pointed out the stars by name and told us the ship could be piloted by aid of the North Star. We saw whales today, one of which was spouting water only 20 feet from our ship.

"Away on our left are numerous icebergs. Some look like carnival floats. The officer told us on the last trip over they passed icebergs over 20 miles in length.

"Pass Bremen's Island.

"Tuesday, September 24, the sun is shining lovely this morning. A calm sea, we are traveling along at high speed, making up for lost time. We have lost sight of land now. We passed the island where the airplane Bremen came down, desolate-looking piece of land does not look much for raising cotton or cattle, just a mass of rock.

"Now, about the steamer, it is a new one. This is its fourth trip across; it is a twin screw steamer, 21,000 tons, oil burner boilers, and turbine engines. Everything is modern just like a modern city hotel, beautiful nursery for children, all kinds of toys, a trained nurse in attendance. Sleeping cabins are lovely, everything on them that a modern hotel carries.

"We have a cooling air system blowing in which we can turn on or off, although we prefer it off in the cool climate. We are getting ruddy, complacent. The sea breeze brings nature's features of red cheeks and wavy hair without aid of cosmetics. Sibel is enjoying the voyage fine. She seems to be a very good sailor. The people on board are interested to hear about Texas and want to know if it is like the pictures they see of cowboys and six-shooters. We told them the people were civilized and behaved better than people in Northern cities where hold-ups are a common occurrence.

"Wind Blows Boat Down.

"Night on board. We attended a picture show in the dining room section, showing Canadian farm life, fishing on rivers and combs. It is now 10 p. m. The sea is calm, although a very strong head wind is blowing, slowing down the speed of the boat, today's journey being the slowest, making only 400 miles on account of wind and fog.

"We have an outside berth with port holes through which we can see the water. We have music on board each day.

"Wednesday morning, September 25. Had breakfast at 8:00. The sea is rather choppy and cool, but the sun is shining. We have had a delightful voyage so far. The steamer, Montreal, passed us this morning bound for Montreal, Canada, with passengers from the Old World to the new.

"Meals are served as follows: breakfast 8 a. m.; light lunch of beef, tea and coffee, 11 a. m.; lunch 1 p. m.; afternoon tea at 4 p. m.; supper 6:30 p. m.

"Friday morning, September 26. A concert is being given tonight in the Lounge in behalf of sailors' charities; a very nice program is being prepared. Evening, attended concert, singing old Scotch ballads, violin solos; dancing, and everybody joining in chorus, having a very enjoyable time, just like one large family.

"Pass Another Steamer.

"We passed the steamer, Megantic, also bound for Liverpool. This boat left Montreal one day ahead of us. We have a rough sea tonight, the water is over our port holes and our boat is pitching a great deal. Tonight we will be rocked to sleep.

"Friday morning, September 26. We are in the Irish sea, and it is very rough. Most all passengers were sick last night or this morning. We will sight land about noon today, the Irish coast. We arrive in Liverpool late tonight. We will not land until Saturday morning. Everyone seems anxious to get ashore to meet friends and relatives.

"A large number of dishes were broken last night due to roughness on sea. This morning quite a few are getting sick again. The water coming over deck.

"Land is Sighted.

"Afternoon. We sight land on either side of ship. Ireland is on our right. We can see through our field glasses, farm houses, stone walls dividing fields, farm houses all white washed, looks pretty.

"We arrived at Liverpool all right. We landed at Liverpool docks at 8 a. m., had our baggage inspected by custom officers then left for the depot. We left the depot at 11:35 for home and our friends. We find people looking happy.

"We have seen some beautiful scenery. The town of Bingley is situated in a valley surrounded by hills and mountains. A river flows through the town with beautiful water falls.

"We will close this letter with kindest regards to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vessey and Son.

Progressiveness Of Women In New Hope Community Indicated; History Of Home Demonstration Club Given

Thirty Four Homes Given Financial Assistance In Poultry Raising Through Club Program

A history of the New Hope Home Demonstration club, which was first organized in 1912, was given during the last week by Mrs. J. N. Townsend, indicates the progressiveness of the women in the organization and the benefits that families of these women are deriving from their activities.

Organized by Six Women This club was formed on December 22, 1912, with six members. Each year the club became affiliated with the County Federation and has assisted in activities of this organization. An ice cream supper was given in June, netting $1.85, and $32.50 of the net proceeds was used in purchasing a canner and sealer which have been in almost constant use by the members since that time.

Seven programs have been given by the club, two of which were in connection with informal receptions honoring girls in the community who won state recognition. This was Miss Virginia Mathis, winner of the state championship in declamation, and Miss Elouise Wilke, winner of three trophies offered to club girls by the extension service. Last spring the club members observed Arbor Day and planted trees on the school grounds of the community. A large number of members, with Miss Hall as sponsor, built an appreciation quilt for Mrs. J. N. Townsend.

The New Hope exhibit at the South Plains Fair won third place and the New Hope club scored highest in a contest between the clubs sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, winning the prize of $25. Produce Many Foods Among the achievements of these club women are those in canning. They have canned 327 quarts of jelly, jam and preserves, 566 quarts of pickles and relishes, 1,408 quarts of vegetables and 460 quarts of fruit. Two thousand standard brood chickens were raised and 4,700 sold and used were valued at $1,223, while 6,271 dozen eggs, valued at $1,234, were produced.

Sippel, president, presided over a recent meeting of the executive committee at which time its organization was completed by the election of Mrs. Sippel as president, Mrs. Sippel as chairman of the department of public welfare, who will represent the eight department chairmen in the executive body. At this meeting practically all appointments were made.

The rebuilding and enrichment of the American community will be spotlighted during this administration and this activity will be handled in the department of public welfare. Parent Night School Will Observe Special Occasion Tuesday

by Olive Roberts Barton

It is almost impossible for mothers of boys to keep from worrying when fall comes along and the inevitable football teams organize. The first frosty air seems to reek of picknicks nowdays for the average boy, he is 8 or 10. Nutting parties and "cooning" are no longer the autumn pastimes they used to be. There are anxious moments when mothers first observe the symptoms of football fever, and they begin to look anxiously to their supplies of arnica, bandage-rolls, adhesive plaster and other first-aid equipment. It is the best they can do, for most of them have discovered the futility of protest.

The affinity of a boy for a football is as natural as the day. But when any human being develops such an obsession as the small, medium, or big boy does for a football, there is usually a reason. There is a decided reason in football.

Team spirit is one of the finest influences on character that can be found. It is a group spirit—team spirit, if you will. It is a group spirit, necessarily, because it is in the air just now, but because so many mothers are beginning to worry about their boys getting hurt.

True, every year brings its crop of sprains, breaks and even more serious casualties, but I would venture to suggest that the average boy is safer on a football field than he is in an automobile nowadays. I mean safer from really serious accidents. The question of football versus lessons is different. Each family must decide that for itself, or rather for its young Orange.

Laura Cauble, Arch Enemy Of City Smoke, Hunts For Peace In The Sun

Industrial cities all over the country know Laura Cauble and her effective methods of combating smoke, costly menace to public health and clean lines.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD NKA Service Writer NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Laura C. Cauble might be called America's foremost smoke-eater. She is not a fire-fighter, however, but an avowed enemy of smoke. She is a sunshine crusader, out to eliminate smoke from America's cities. Her slogan is "A place in the sun for everyone."

From the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to Mexico industrial cities know this energetic, silver-haired, blue-eyed, motherly looking scientist who appears unexpectedly, sets up her little smoke-measuring machine and in short order tells city councilors, doctors and others just how much dirt, grit and poisonous gases go up their noses and down their throats daily in the smoky air they breathe.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Aubrey Klein, Formerly Of Lubbock, Weds In Ariz.

Word has been received here of the recent marriage of Aubrey Klein, formerly of Lubbock, and Miss Cathie Jean Holmes, at Phoenix, Ariz. Mr. Klein is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hickson of this city, and his father, L. W. Klein, was formerly with a railroad company in Lubbock.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Klein have been residents of Phoenix in recent years but Mrs. Klein has been a student at the University of Arizona, at Phoenix for the past two years. The young couple is honeymooning in Colorado at the present time.

Prepare your beauty for the indoor season... If you are a beauty-wise modern, you need not regret those gay, imprudent hours in the sun, since Helena Rubinstein has created special preparations which supplement Nature in restoring the delicacy and natural tone of the skin.

How to Achieve Beauty

GOOD GROOMING OF HANDS AND FEET When I talk of the urgent need for regular care of your hands, I am speaking of a very reasonable thing. This is the time of the year when the beauty of white, well kept hands is all too frequently sacrificed to the uncertainties of weather.

Lulu Hunt Peters

Remember that the chief enemies of the beauty of your hands are too much water, too much exposure to wind, insufficient care, a cheerful unconcern of these all important beauty aids such as bleaching, lotions, creams and softening balms, will result in roughened and reddened skin and hands, aged long before their time.

Remember that not one work should pass without your either having or giving yourself a complete manicure. Foot grooming is also a very important and much neglected part of beauty cultivation. The posture league recognizes three types of feet: The inflamed, when more of the foot surface lies inside of the line than outside; the outflared, when more of the surface lies outside of the line; and the straight, where the ball of the foot lies equally outside of a given line.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Manous, who were married in Littlefield last Sunday at the home of Rev. Roy A. Kemp, are to live in Lubbock. Before her marriage Mrs. Manous was Miss Alma Busher and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Busher of Littlefield.

Alton Packard will appear in a musical and cartoon comedy review at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock as the first number on the public school lyceum course for this year. His comedies are said to include such subjects as "Vanity Fair," "Uncle Sam's Folk," "Funny People" and "Facts."

Mr. Packard was formerly exclusively a newspaper cartoonist and still continues to contribute to periodicals. He began giving "chalk talks" years ago and has developed this form of entertainment into musical cartoons and comedies which are described as "something wholly unique and without parallel in the history of the stage and platform."

Two other lyceum numbers are to be presented this year. One will be the Schubert Male Quartet, which appears here on November 16, and the play "Apprentice," which is to be staged on December 15.

Fewer numbers have been arranged for this year than in usual, but the performances are expected to be of a higher class, according to Mrs. F. W. Camp, The Parent-Teacher association of the city sponsor these productions.

White just followed suit. Pastels are the public colors of a civilized world, but as fancy tones were the colors of aristocracy, America's education in the nuances of color shows in American homes and the costumes of American women. Color is important today in practically everything Americans eat, wear, ride in, work with and play with. The color of articles manufactured have color problems. Our cards, stationery shades and nomenclature.

Romanticism in Colors. Every color must have a name that means something. Mrs. Burke Smith. The new "Merry Bells" for instance. In the same blue that Claude Monet used in his murals. All of the 70 autumn shades have equally romantic nomenclature. The 24 new evening shades are dedicated to France which is having its one-hundredth anniversary of Romanticism.

"The return of clothes to femininity coincides with the romantic trend of color this fall," Mrs. Burke pointed out. "You see our color association works hand in hand with all branches of industry and with styles. The color of a war baby, it naturally inspired an appreciation of co-operation."

Forty-two played. Misses A. W. Evans and R. H. Moore entertained the Merry Bells club yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Evans, 2307 Tenth street, having as their guests Misses James C. E. Roberts, J. C. Hargrave, J. C. Street, F. W. Brown, E. Carter, Carwood Boxler of Abilene, D. N. Leaverton, H. O. Young, F. D. Chipley, Sam T. Davis, V. F. Pookin, Cullen Duggs, W. C. Rylander, R. C. Rodgers, Fred Spitzer, R. T. Campbell, W. R. Spitzer, John Moore, C. B. Rowell and E. F. Norwood.

Living and Loving

WHAT TO DO WHEN FRIEND WIFE REFUSES TO TALK TO A FELLOW?

What is a poor fellow to do when friend wife is interested only in her work and baby and ignores him? The wisecracker will, of course, tell him to be thankful for most women talk too much. But that doesn't help him at all. For he loves his wife and is lonely for the companionship she denies him. Here is his letter:

Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a married man and wish to ask a little of your advice. I am very fond of my wife, but it surely looks to me as if she does not care for me. I have been married for two years and have a son two months old. My wife will never talk to me. All she thinks about is work. Even when I talk to her, most of the time she isn't paying any attention. I have been extra good to her to try to bring her to me, but it has done no good and I get very lonesome sitting around the house with no one to talk to. Can you tell me what I can do to make her at least friendly toward me? Doesn't it look to you as though she is not in love? I was in hopes she would change some time, but I have given up.

LONESOME HUSBAND? It very often happens that when a woman has a baby to care for she seems to lose her love for her husband. The baby is so small and helpless, and so dear that it seems to occupy her whole time and attention. Can you be patient a while longer? Get a hobby of your own such as a stamp or coin collecting. Go out with your men friends once in a while and try to get her to go out once in a while, while you stay with the baby. As the baby grows older she will feel the need of you more and will, I hope, show you that she still loves you. There is a portion of Louisa M. Alcott's pretty story of "Little Women," in which the author tells how the married man who is neglected by his wife after the twins were born, and how she was brought to a realization of it and reformed. You might get it at the library and give it to your wife to read, as a gentle hint.

Broiled Foods Are Most Healthful, Says Cooking Expert Coming Soon

Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, author of "Food A Nation's Builder," will be the featured speaker at the upcoming luncheon at the Uptown Dance Palace, starting Monday, October 29, and continuing through Friday, each afternoon at 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

Too few women know to what wonderful use the broiler found in every home range may be put. Most often one of the first solid foods allowed by a Christian is a convalescent who has been forced to a liquid diet is a small amount of broiled steak. This would certainly indicate the desirability of broiling many foods rather than sauteing or frying.

Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, the author of this interesting statement, is to deliver a series of five fascinating lectures on the art of cooking under the auspices of the Avalanche-Journal at Uptown Dance Palace, starting Monday, October 29, and continuing through Friday, each afternoon at 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

It may interest many women to know that broiled meats are preferred to small children in hospitals because of the banana's food value and its easy digestibility when broiled," says Mrs. Dougan.

These are but two examples of many startling facts that will be brought out by Mrs. Dougan's demonstration lectures. Women readers of this paper are in line for the very latest discoveries in preparing foods for all purposes.

New ways to cook, new and scientific knowledge of food values combined with modern equipment is rapidly placing the home-maker in her proper category—that of food technician. To learn many of these basic facts of home economics as well as to be taught by Mrs. Dougan is both the privilege and duty of every woman in Lubbock.

"Food A Nation's Builder" is a book that determines what a nation is. Food is the human sustenance. It has moulded the destiny of nations. It has made history. It may not appear to be a romantic subject but it's total absence is tragic. Well prepared it is blessing. Indifferently cooked it is the forerunner of much unhappiness.

Food being so vital to all human existence, and correctly cooked such a promoter of happiness everybody in Lubbock will be present at all five classes of the Avalanche-Journal cooking school to learn the many new ways to prepare appetizing meals.

Mrs. Dougan will demonstrate the preparation of salads, the selection and cooking of meats, the latest discoveries in baking, broiling and frying. In fact every phrase of the culinary art will be analyzed and demonstrated.

It is all free and none can afford to miss these instructive and entertaining lecture demonstrations.

Miss Lulu Mae Cravens is spending this week-end in Dallas.

Radio, New Political Ally, Carries Campaign Burden

Brings Candidate To The Voter In Homes Of Nation

Radio Spreads Blanket Of Oratory That Snuffs Out Biggest Rallies Of Old Bygone Days

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Radio new to the game is carrying the burden of the 1926 political campaign. It has spread a blanket of oratory over the country that has snuffed out most of the redfire processions and rallies of the days of the past. It has brought the candidate to the voter in his home.

Nominations for almost every office from the president down are finding place in the air lanes through which they are seeking the good will of the ballot marker. National committees, state committees, county committees and even city organizations are sending out their voices over nearly every station in the country.

Coast to coast bookups for the presidential campaigns are becoming so commonplace that the once-awed listener takes them as a matter of course. Several nights a week the big parties place their leaders before the microphones in an eastern city and make their voices available to almost every set owner in the country. Other bookups, not so extensive include morning broadcasts intended to interest women.

Entertainment has not been forgotten, for not all of the political broadcasts are made up entirely of speech making. Stars of the stage have been called upon to give the listeners the variety they demand. Orchestras also appear in the programs.

The dial manipulator does not need to be an expert to find one of these political programs, as almost any place he turns during an evening he will find some one extolling the merits of a candidate. Even programs hitherto considered standbys have given way to this greatest of campaigns via the ether lanes.

Suddenly the radio bureau manager decides that he needs a certain hour on a certain night already occupied by some sponsor who has made regular appearances at that time for weeks and months. Eleventh hour negotiations are started. Another political broadcast is on the air.

WIRE GOVERNOR

Indians Express Thanks For His Attitude

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—A telegram to Governor of a candidate of the Tambo Pueblo in Northern New Mexico was made public today at democratic national headquarters.

"We know President Lincoln and we understand you have the same things in mind that he had when he promised that our lands would not be taken away from us and that our freedom would be preserved," the telegram said. "There have been so many presidents, but this is the first time since President Lincoln that we have heard of one who has said 'We thank you'."

SEEK DEBT PACT

New Agreement Is Sought By Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20 (AP)—Universal today said it had been learned that negotiations for a new debt agreement had been resumed and that minister of finance De Cea was holding a series of conferences with representatives of the international bankers.

The newspaper said Mexico was demanding a reduction of the total debt, sixty years for its amortization and an agreement based on the country's capacity to pay.

Amateur Radio Men Praised For Flood Work

Amateur radio men to the aid of Florida when the recent hurricane swept in from the sea. In the upper photograph are Ralph Hollis in the background, and Forrest Dana, seated at their transmitter, temporarily set up in the city hall at Palm Beach. They sent the first message of the storm to the outside. Below are John Griffin (left) and H. Fred Frick, whose Tampa station was used as a relay point.

PALM BEACH Fla., Oct. 20 (AP)—The 40 metre men of Florida proved their mettle during the tropical hurricane which cost more than 2,000 lives and millions of dollars in property damage.

They weren't four faders, but amateur radio operators who went to their posts hour after hour gathering and disseminating information for waiting multitudes—speeding through the air messengers of death or salvation to relatives of those in the stricken area and sending descriptive news of the disaster.

"GET 'EM! GET 'EM! THIS IS 4FAC at Palm Beach, Fla. Urgent! Urgent! Urgent!"

This urgent radio call as appearing as an SOS sped over the ether on the morning of September 15. It was the first word sent from here after the W. J. C. station here had been wrecked by the storm. Other amateur operators strained ears to headphones to catch the frantic message which followed.

Seated beside their wireless radio set on the second floor of the city hall was the young man who had been operating the station. He was surrounded by a group of men who were helping him. They were all looking at the radio set with interest.

Hollis, 22 years old, a city fireman. He began radio work in the Navy in 1924. Dana, 25, is a civil engineer. He doesn't recall when he first took up radio work, but he says he has been interested a number of years.

At Tampa H. Fred Frick, 31, operating station 4BN, and John Griffin, 30, who talks to Fort Myers, Jacksonville and Orlando and turned over to newspapers important facts about the area and storm damage. Frick's station is located in a corner of his den at his home. He built it himself and obtained his amateur license when he was only 13 years old.

Frick and Griffin copied the first call for help from the Red Cross sent from Palm Beach. They relayed also a complete survey of the storm area of the Florida east coast prepared by T. R. Gill, Associated Press staff writer, who nearly lost his life when a roof fell across his automobile while he was gathering information.

Meanwhile William Moore, engineer at broadcast station WDAE, Robert B. Lum, station manager, and two technical men at the station had been on duty 72 hours sending out storm warnings and other information.

Benjamin Geckwith, an automobile dealer at Tampa, and an amateur radio operator of station 4PAC, relayed hundreds of messages which were broadcast as far away as Kansas City.

"When the batteries at Hollis' station 4FAC at Palm Beach began to give way, Beckwith picked up the SOS for more power and his wife made a dash across the state in an automobile to carry the needed supplies. This trip took 12 hours over a road partly covered by water and partly washed out in many places.

Smaller Radios On Six Channels

Special Wave Bands Are Reserve For Small, Or Community Stations By Revised Allocation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Radio listeners will find most of their favorite small, or community, stations on one of another of six channels allotted by the Federal Radio Commission for low power transmission under the new allocation effective November 11.

Crowded on these six wave-lengths will be 233 "local service" stations with power ranging from 10 to 100 watts.

Fifty-one stations will operate on a frequency of 1200 kilocycles, or 249 meters, with 23 stations dividing time on the air. Forty-five stations will be on 1210 kilocycles, or 247.8 meters, with 25 dividing time; 51 stations on 1310 kilocycles, or 229.2 meters, with 25 dividing time; 39 stations on 1420 kilocycles, or 211.1 meters, with 12 dividing time; 39 stations on 1500 kilocycles, or 199.9 meters, with 22 dividing time.

Engineers and radio commission say they endeavored wherever feasible to assign the same wavelength stations which are 100 miles or more distant from each other. In localities where there are several small stations, division of time on the air will be required to prevent interference.

To minimize interference in towns where there is more than one station of any class—high power, regional or local—separation will be on a channel separated at least 50 kilocycles from every other station in the same city unless it is dividing time on the same channel.

On each of the six channels assigned to the low power stations there will be groups of stations located in all parts of the United States. On 1200 kilocycles, for example, there will be five New England stations, several in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky, five southern, 17 central and nine in the west stations.

SOME HAIR DYES CONTAIN DANGEROUS SUBSTANCES

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, Health and Beauty

HAIR is a valuable thing, dead or alive. It has been said that the average woman who loses her hair buys hair, whereas the average man buys hair tonic.

When the first woman looked into a mirror and decided that her appearance might be benefited by certain modifications, women have been tampering with their crowning glory all sorts of hair dyes, hair tonics and hair oils are on the market.

A few of these still contain substances dangerous to the general health, many of them merely something to pour on without any very specific virtues. It is difficult to get the action in the matter, because legislators refuse to take the subject seriously.

The manufacturers object to legal control because they believe that innovation will mean an expense of money for the consumer...

It is safe to say there is no substance known that will restore the original color to gray hair, regardless of what the hair may have been in the first place...

We think the matter of a town being for itself can be carried too far...

We think that China may be a back number, but we could take some lessons from her political machine...

We think there are a few successful business men who have never owned an Eversham pencil...

We think that the real ailment of the average American life is not great as many people seem to think...

We think this old election stuff should be looked into by the judicial departments of the United States...

We think some of us lose our heads and call our neighbors mischief-makers...

We think nearly all of us suffer more or less from out-of-tow-ness or some other mental trouble...

We think the matter of a town being for itself can be carried too far...

We think that China may be a back number, but we could take some lessons from her political machine...

We think there are a few successful business men who have never owned an Eversham pencil...

Looking Into Real Estate Purchase A Series of Articles Dealing With The Problems Surrounding Home-Ownng

This is the fourth of a series of articles prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be published weekly in this newspaper for the information of its readers on real estate matters.

THE FIRST MORTGAGE—ARTICLE B. Wives who like to sign legal documents had better consider well when it comes to signing the family mortgage for the signature of a wife on this instrument may give her or her dower rights should her husband default and the property come to foreclosure, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards in a bulletin released yesterday.

Real Estate is not under all circumstances readily convertible to cash. The practice of guaranteeing mortgages provides a means of quick conversion of such holdings to cash regardless of conditions whenever the borrower defaults. In other words, the holder of a mortgage can insure the ability of the borrower to pay. If the borrower cannot pay, the guarantee company does the paying.

Wife May Retain Dower. If a property owner defaults on a mortgage, his wife may retain her dower rights of one third interest in the property, if she has not signed the mortgage. When such a property is sold at foreclosure, the wife can collect her dower interest before the mortgagee can collect a payment of his loan.

It is not usual for first mortgages to be paid off in monthly installments. The interest is paid annually or semi-annually and the entire amount of the mortgage falls due on the date of maturity. If a mortgage is five years or more in length, the borrower can secure a loan at six percent or less, can be secured. The reader can see that considerable saving can be effected in interest payments if it is possible to take up the mortgage in a five year period instead of a fifteen year period.

On the other hand, however, it is better to have the mortgage made out for ten or fifteen years than it is likely that it will be paid off in less time, and this is a matter that the home owner or borrower should consider with care. If he undertakes a five year mortgage and cannot pay it off at maturity, he will have to pay re-financing costs in order to have the mortgage continued, and these costs may be heavy. He will have to pay for a new mortgage, and he will have to pay commission for the new loan and attorney's fees. All of these expenses can be avoided if the borrower can pay the mortgage as regulated.

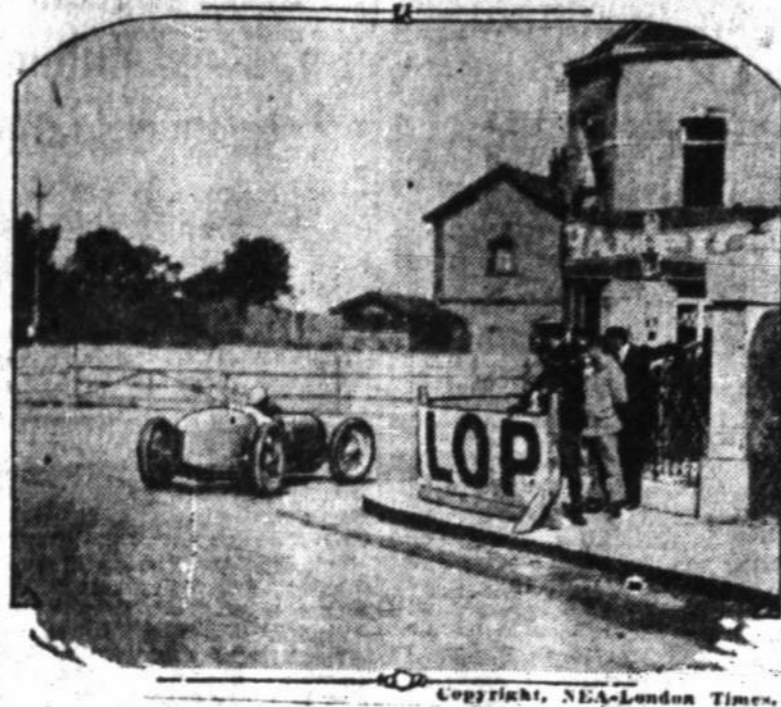

Must Record Mortgage. There is another essential procedure in handling mortgages of special interest to and often overlooked by the lender. So that a first mortgage may assume its rightful place in the order of liens which may exist against a piece of property, it is necessary for the mortgage to be recorded immediately upon its execution. Until it is officially filed for record in the county recorder's office, a mortgage may become subordinate to liens, and even to other mortgages, actually made subsequent to the first mortgage but filed for record prior to the filing of the mortgage made first. This means that if the mortgage is not filed at the proper time, a mechanic's lien, or a second or third mortgage may be placed on the property, and these, if properly filed for record, would be satisfied in case of foreclosure, before the first mortgage, even if all the other factors about this mortgage were right.

Sometimes a real estate deed is regarded as a mortgage and it would be well for the property owner to examine his deed, and see if this may be so. If the deed provides for payments to be made on an amount owing on the property, it is then considered by the courts as a mortgage and the seller of the property has all the privileges of a mortgage. There are many people who think they hold title to their property if they possess a deed to it but if this deed is conditioned upon certain payments to be made, it is a mortgage according to opinions rendered by the courts.

General Nathan William MacChesney, general counsel for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, writing on this subject in his authoritative treatise "The Principles of Real Estate Law" says: "Every deed conveying real estate which appears to have been intended only as a security in the nature of a mortgage, though it be an absolute conveyance in terms, is considered as a mortgage. A deed absolute in form will be regarded merely as mortgage if as its execution the parties enter into a separate written agreement for the conveyance of the property on the performance of certain conditions where it is clear from the agreement that the deed was intended to operate as a mortgage. Similarly, where the failure to phrase the instrument as a mortgage results from accident, mistake or fraud, or where one who has bought property with money borrowed from another agrees to give other by deed absolute on the understanding that it is to be held as security, the deed can operate only as a mortgage."

Mortgages Can Be Guaranteed. A mortgage has been given by a party in a process of guarantee. Various companies throughout the country now guarantee the payment of mortgage loans and PARIS.—The humorous side of political campaigning is fully appreciated by the voter of France, but when it comes to casting his ballot it takes more than silly promises to win support. Jacques Ducoudré will testify to the truth of that statement. He tried to "clown his way into the chamber of deputies as representative of the student district of Saint Michel and Jardin des Plantes here. He received the grand total of two votes, and the Latin quarter is wondering who cast the other one.

Here are some of the "planks" in Ducoudré's platform, which voters booted aside on election day. Prolongation of the Boulevard Champlain to the sea in both directions. Construction of a large canal to permit trans-Atlantic liners to sail to Paris. Fireworks twice a month for the district. Permission to hunt in the zoo once a week. Miss Margaret Everhart, who teaches in Littlefield, is spending the week-end here.

Coast-To-Coast Trip Now Available On Improved Federal Highway

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Out of the 3,947 miles of its length, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, there is a highway that has only 21 miles unimproved.

It is United States Route 30, a federal highway that runs from Atlantic City, across the northern part of the United States to Astoria on the Columbia river in Oregon, 10 or 15 miles from the Pacific.

The completion of this route, along what only a few years ago was an impassable jangle, is a remarkable achievement. A detailed description of the highway is furnished by the United States Bureau of Public Roads, in a report just issued.

Of the total of 3,947 miles, 1,467, or 44 per cent, is surfaced with brick, concrete or bituminous macadam. Slightly over 10 per cent, 365 miles, is surfaced with oiled gravel or macadam; 965 miles, or almost 29 per cent, with gravel, sand-clay and selected material; 529 miles, or 16 per cent, is of graded or drained earth, and only 21 miles are unimproved.

Millions From U. S. Fund. Half of its total length was improved with federal aid; adds the report. This cost more than $21,000,000, almost half of which came from federal funds.

This road follows the old Indian trails, traders' paths and colonial roads in the east and passes through Philadelphia, Gettysburg and Pittsburgh.

In the middle west it passes through the birthplaces, homes and final resting places of some of our noted statesmen and political leaders, traversing rich agricultural sections and important grain centers.

In Wisconsin, it is surface-treated generally the Old Oregon Trail, called the great medicine road of the whites by the Indians into Oregon, where it follows the beautiful Columbia river practically to the sea.

Best Roads in East. From Atlantic City to the Mississippi, a distance of 819 miles through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Route 30 is a paved highway of high and medium-type surfaces for the entire distance.

Classified as high-type surfaces are pavements of concrete, bituminous concrete, and brick. Bridges also come under this classification.

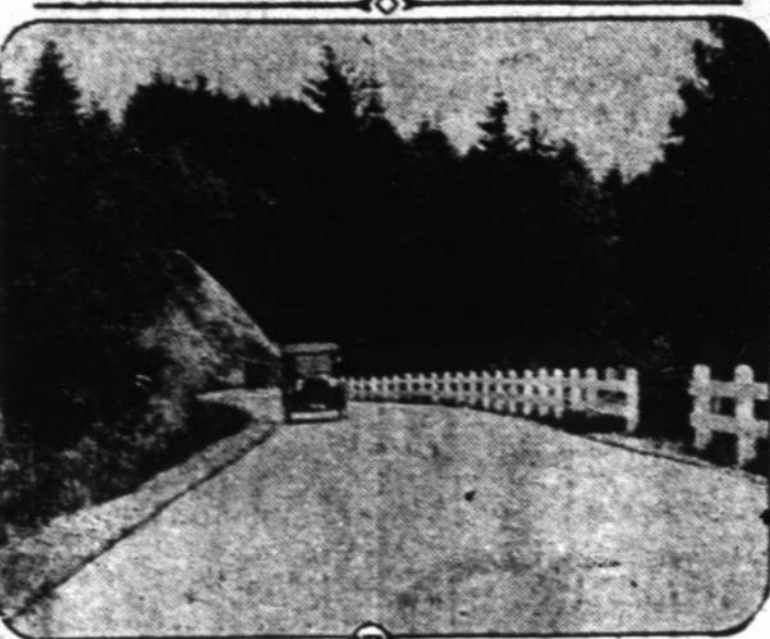

Intermediate types are water-bound macadam and bituminous macadam. Low-type construction is a graded and drained road, a sand-clay or gravel road.

Through Iowa, Route 30 is a concrete road to 201 miles, a gravel road for 91 miles, and graded and drained for 80 miles. In Nebraska, it is brick or concrete for 57 miles, gravel for 274 miles, graded and drained for 135 miles, and unimproved for 21 miles, the only unimproved stretch on the route.

In Wisconsin, it is surface-treated gravel for 22 miles, is gravel for 90 miles, is of selected material for 90 miles, and is graded and drained for 270 miles. In Idaho, it is of concrete and Warrenite for 31 miles, of gravel and sand-clay for 405 miles, and is graded and drained for 15 miles.

Through Oregon, Route 30 is a bituminous concrete road for 218 miles, and an oiled gravel or macadam road for 310 miles.

The Tale Of A Bump

HOW'S SHE HITTING?

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
Preparation for winter means as much overhauling of the working parts of the automobiles as does the preliminary work for a touring season at the beginning of the year. In fact, there is need for much more careful overhauling now because of the hard grind through which the car will be put over the cold months. Winter time means an excessive

Oldsmobile Head Gives Solutions Of Safety Puzzle

Vibrationless, and Noiseless Motors Will Help To Reduce Accidents, Motor Chief Says

"Keep your eyes to the front and your mind on driving." That is 99 per cent of the solution of motor vehicle accidents, according to John G. Wood, chief engineer of Oldsmobile.
"If every person driving an automobile concentrated mind and attention on what they were doing an automobile accident would be a rarity," said Mr. Wood. "It would eliminate carelessness, which is the most prolific cause of accidents. If two drivers, approaching each other, were attending to their business of driving they would be little danger of a collision."
"In recent years automotive engineers have recognized this fact

out, the old strainers, that catch the dirt of summer touring taken out and new attachments installed. After this the fuel line may be blown out. This is done by unscrewing the union near the carburetor, applying the end of the air pump hose to the line and operating the pump handle a few times.

With these parts cleaned out, the engine itself may be tightened up a bit and the spark plugs cleaned. Tightening of the engine means installing oversize rings, if the pistons are loose, or replacing the old pistons with new oversize pistons, if the looseness is acute. This will prevent the draining of unburned fuel into the crankcase.

But there should be no unburned fuel, if the spark plugs are installed properly and are in good condition. The valves too, should be ground to fit their seats, so that there is no leak through them. These precautions will assure complete combustion and so prevent oil dilution.

Oil dilution is common in winter because the carburetor has to be adjusted for a much richer mixture than is needed in summer and because the choke is used more often. If, however, the choke is used too much even in winter, there is the liability of flooding the cylinders, when the utmost precautions could not prevent the seepage of this over-rich fuel into the crankcase. Driving in cold weather, therefore, requires much greater ingenuity than does summer driving.

This new type with its attractive color combinations offers an all year sport model that promises to be a leader in the new Victory Six line. There is no advance in price, and production has been scheduled to make immediate deliveries.
In body design, the models afford roominess to comfortably seat four passengers, and provide an inside compartment for luggage or parcels. Interior finish is designed to harmonize with the exterior colors.
The first color combination shipped was black and opal cream, the hood and cow of the car along with the moldings and upper structure being of a sparkling black. The belt panels and body are finished in opal cream—a rich shade at present popular on sports models of the highest priced cars. Other attractive colors available, include brown and blue lacquers and the black and red combination.

Mechanically the car is powered with the Victory Six engine that holds the owner-driven record of 78 hours and 13 minutes from Los Angeles to New York. Acceleration

Vibrationless, and Noiseless Motors Will Help To Reduce Accidents, Motor Chief Says

"Keep your eyes to the front and your mind on driving." That is 99 per cent of the solution of motor vehicle accidents, according to John G. Wood, chief engineer of Oldsmobile.
"If every person driving an automobile concentrated mind and attention on what they were doing an automobile accident would be a rarity," said Mr. Wood. "It would eliminate carelessness, which is the most prolific cause of accidents. If two drivers, approaching each other, were attending to their business of driving they would be little danger of a collision."

out, the old strainers, that catch the dirt of summer touring taken out and new attachments installed. After this the fuel line may be blown out. This is done by unscrewing the union near the carburetor, applying the end of the air pump hose to the line and operating the pump handle a few times.

With these parts cleaned out, the engine itself may be tightened up a bit and the spark plugs cleaned. Tightening of the engine means installing oversize rings, if the pistons are loose, or replacing the old pistons with new oversize pistons, if the looseness is acute. This will prevent the draining of unburned fuel into the crankcase.

But there should be no unburned fuel, if the spark plugs are installed properly and are in good condition. The valves too, should be ground to fit their seats, so that there is no leak through them. These precautions will assure complete combustion and so prevent oil dilution.

Oil dilution is common in winter because the carburetor has to be adjusted for a much richer mixture than is needed in summer and because the choke is used more often. If, however, the choke is used too much even in winter, there is the liability of flooding the cylinders, when the utmost precautions could not prevent the seepage of this over-rich fuel into the crankcase. Driving in cold weather, therefore, requires much greater ingenuity than does summer driving.

Continue Fight On 'Short Sales' Of Motor Fuels

Twenty Million Was Lost Last Year Through The Careless Sales Methods, Survey Says

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—On the heels of its recent declaration that motorists lose a minimum of $20,000,000 a year through "short sales" of motor fuel, the American Automobile Association pointed out today that only eight states and the District of Columbia provide adequate enforcement machinery for protecting the motorists.

Considering that the car owners spent $2,350,000,000 for fuel in 1927, it is nothing short of a deplorable situation that so few states have made provision to check the sales of 37,000 small gas stations and of 604,000 pumps that were operating last year, Thos. P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., declared.

His continued survey of conditions throughout the country and the analysis by our Research Department discloses that no commodity such widespread use has been as widely handled as motor fuel from a standpoint of laws and regulations to protect the car owners. In at least a quarter of the states the weights and measures laws now in effect are highly inadequate.

Mr. Henry announced that a bulletin had been dispatched to 1,000 motor clubs, affiliated with the A. A. A., urging on them the importance of the immediate launching of a program to check the large losses suffered by the motorists over a long period of years.

Following are the principal recommendations of the national motoring body:

First, immediate adoption of new legislation weights and measures by the states where the existing law is inadequate.

Second, the setting up of state and local enforcement organizations with a personnel able to administer the law.

Third, sufficient appropriations by the legislature to enable these organizations to operate efficiently for 365 days a year.

The eight states in which gasoline stations are subjected to a periodic check of gas sales are: California, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Ohio.

States having adequate laws, but which are without sufficient appropriations are: Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Illinois, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

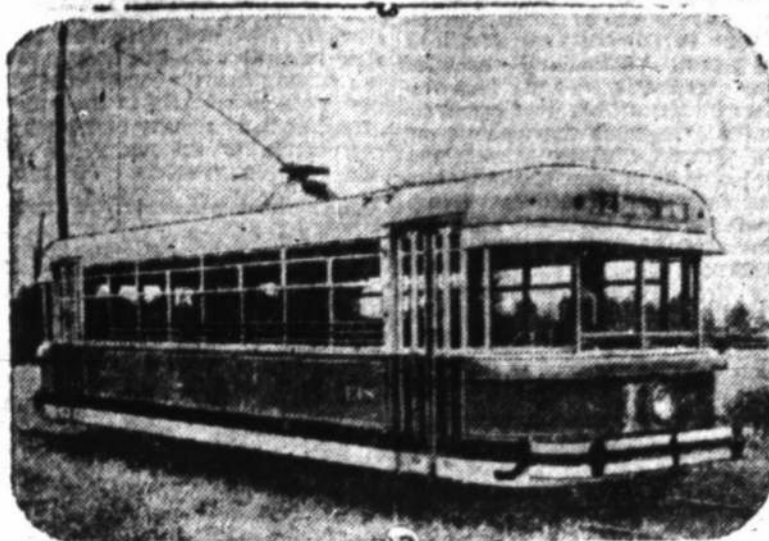

States in need of both adequate laws and enforcement organizations are: Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico and North Dakota.

The A. A. A. president expressed confidence that the National Conference on Weights and Measures, the United States Bureau of Standards, as well as responsible companies and station owners, will lend maximum cooperation in a determined drive to rid the highways of dishonest operators and pilfering pump attendants.

Popular features of the first All-American Six will be combined in this latest offering, with a host of refinements in performance and body design that will make the car an outstanding attraction on the highways and boulevards of America.

Street Car Takes A Few Tips From The Automobile

By NEA Service. HOUSTON, Oct. 20.—An automobile street car is the novelty in street railway transportation just introduced in this city. It is the new Birney street car, so named after its inventor, C. O. Birney of St. Louis, just brought here after a showing at the American Electric Railway association convention in Cleveland.

The new "automotive" street car designed by C. O. Birney

The only reason why this novelty in transportation is still called a street car is because it runs along a track and gets its electric power from an overhead wire. Otherwise it is mostly automobile.

For instance, instead of being driven direct through a propeller shaft, universal joint and differential, there is a 50 horsepower motor for each set of wheels.

The wheels themselves aren't directly connected to the semi-floating axle, but are driven through knuckle joints, just as are automobile wheels. Thus the wheels may turn on the tracks without requiring movement of the entire axle and eliminating the grinding noises we get from the present street cars.

Wheels Blended by Rubber Roller bearings on each axle assembly during the coming months," he said.

"The new car represents the cumulative experience of more than twenty years of successful automobile building on the part of the Oakland Motor Car company, plus the vast facilities of General Motors.

"Into its development have gone the pooled resources, creative ingenuity and experimental facilities of Oakland and General Motors engineers. General Motors Research Laboratories, General Motors Proving Grounds, and craftsmen of the Fisher Body organization.

"Particular interest attaches to the new All-American because of the record of the Oakland company for having introduced into the automotive field more new features than any other manufacturer.

Among the Oakland-pioneered advances are four-wheel brakes, Duo finish, the harmonic balancer, the G-M-R cylinder head, foot-controlled head lights, oil filter, air cleaner and fuel pump.

sure quiet operation and this is further brought out by means of rubber strips between the flange and core of each wheel. Thus quiet and ease of riding are maintained.

Rubber insulation is also applied between the car body and driving units.

The steel beams on which the body rests are built like an automotive chassis. The axles are under-slung and parallel with the body, just as in automobiles, takes care of the internal expanding type and there is an emergency cable brake, with a lever at the motorist's seat, just like the cable emergency levers on certain types of automobiles.

Adopts Stream Lines, Too. The car itself is low hunk and stream lined. It has bumpers in front and rear, and stop lights in back. There is a sun visor in front, and the glass in the car is of the shatter-proof type. Even the bell has been discarded for a horn.

Inside the car is built for the comfort of the passengers, with separate soft seats for each rider and the motorist's seat sunk into a well, to afford clear vision over his head.

Another feature of this car is that it can accelerate from a standing start to 20 miles an hour in five seconds, keeping up with auto traffic.

The two motors are Westinghouse designed 50-horsepower units, providing two and a half horsepower for each seated passenger, which is much more than necessary.

Fruit gains may be removed by sponging with lemon juice and then washing with hot water. If lemon is not available borax will be found just as effective.

Marmon Director Advocates Model Traffic Statute

Says Accidents Would Be Eliminated Through The Adoption Of Uniform Auto Rules

One of the most important steps toward highway safety and uniformity in traffic laws will be taken in the opinion of H. H. Brooks, general sales director of the Marmon Motor Car company, by the adoption in every American city of the model municipal traffic ordinance as drawn up by the Hoover conference of 1927 and revised after a year's work, by a committee of specialists representing the various interests concerned.

"This proposed ordinance," said the Marmon sales chief, "has been prepared with a view to strict impartiality, and it favors neither motorist, pedestrian nor passenger in a common carrier. The man on foot, the man driving a horse, pushing a cart or riding a bicycle, the truck driver, the driver of a motor car, the taxicab chauffeur, the passenger on a bus or street car all have certain rights on a public highway, and this measure, so far as is humanly possible, seems to have reconciled these various interests.

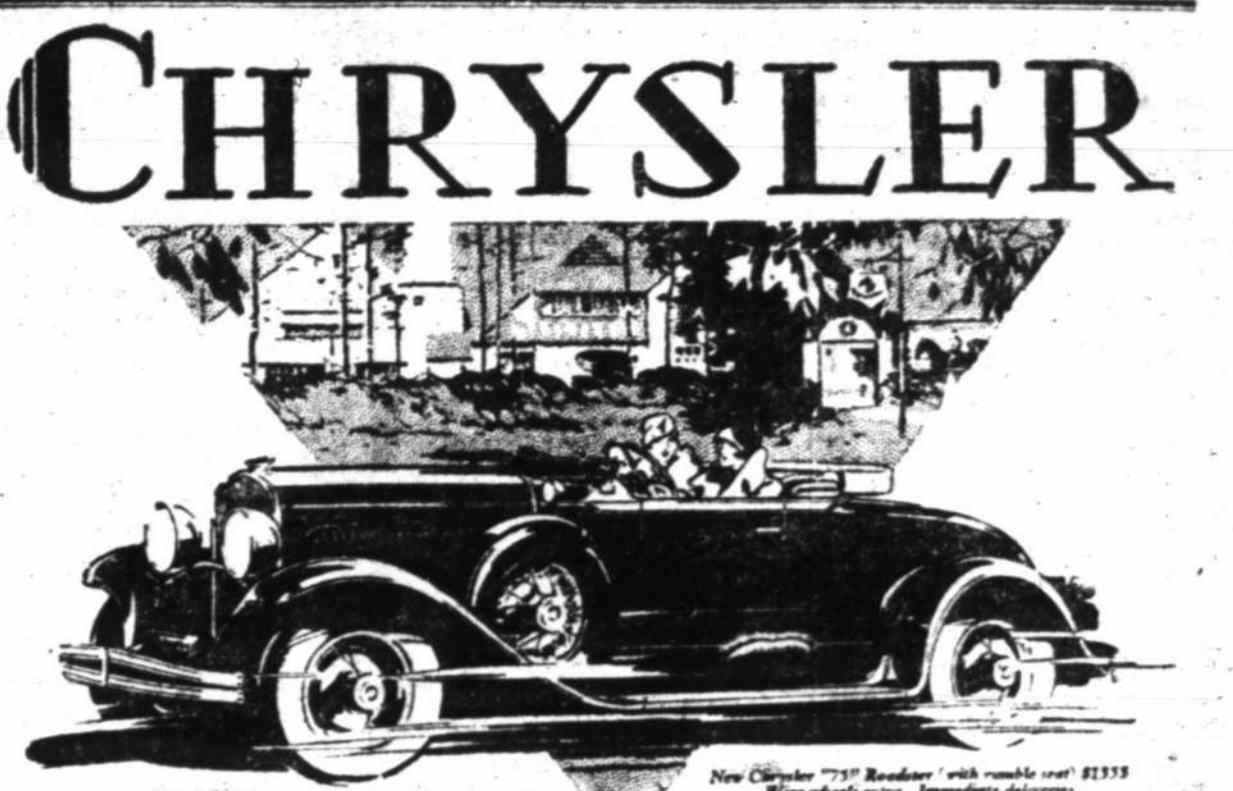

"Adoption of the measure should go far not only toward preventing accidents, but toward doing away with confusion and ameliorating present unsatisfactory traffic conditions.

It speaks well of the proposed ordinance that it has the endorsement of such bodies as the American Motorists Association, the National Safety Council, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, the United States Chamber of Commerce, as well as automobile clubs throughout the country, bus and taxicab owners, and electric and steam railway companies.

New Chrysler "75" Roadster with rumble seat $2135. Five wheels extra. Immediate delivery.

Chrysler's only real competition — is Chrysler

THE first Chrysler established a margin of superiority over all other cars in style, performance and value that has been maintained ever since. The true competition Chrysler has to face therefore is with Chrysler—to make sure that each succeeding Chrysler is better than the Chryslers that have gone before. Public demand for the newest Chryslers today tells how well Chrysler has succeeded. Chrysler's largest production is just now beginning to satisfy that demand. The public is delighted with the new style that re-styles all motor cars—new slender-profile radiator, arched-windows and the graceful sweep of the new "air-wing" fenders—avoidance everywhere of the bulky and cumbersome. And with Chrysler's smooth performance, riding luxury and safety—"Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, using any gasoline; internal-expanding hydraulic 4-wheel brakes, efficient in any weather; and hydraulic shock absorbers. Other cars seek to compare themselves with Chrysler in style, performance and value which really do not compare with Chrysler at all. Chrysler's only real competitor is—Chrysler.

Approach Of Winter Brings Warning From A. A. A., Urging Car Owners To Prevent Loss By Broken Radiators

Millions Of Dollars Lost Annually To Motorists By Freezing Of Water System In Automobiles

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—With Jack Frost already stretching his chilly fingers into various sections of his domain, the American Automobile Association today warned car owners to take immediate steps to protect their automobiles against damage due to freezing.

The A. A. A. cited the experience tables of the United States Weather Bureau to show that, while freezing weather has already arrived in a few places the next two weeks is likely to see the temperature fall to 30 degrees or lower in the country as a whole, excepting the South.

"Millions Lost Yearly," states the warning, "are lost each year by American automobile owners through inadequate preparation of their cars for freezing weather. With over 22,000,000 cars in active operation in this country today and a majority of them located in states where freezing weather starts in earnest in October and continues for a period of several months, the factor of proper servicing of a car's cooling system is necessary to avoid costly damage incurred through the expansion stresses due to freezing of water systems. Motorists should make haste to provide their cars with home anti-freeze preparation to protect them before the first continued freeze arrives."

"The presence of a number of anti-freeze compounds on the market insures a sufficient supply of protection, but it should be understood that to derive the full benefit from any anti-freeze the cooling system of an automobile should be thoroughly cleaned with such a single solvent as washing soda, in order to remove rust and scale and that all parts should be tightened up, after such cleaning, to insure against leakage of the anti-freeze. If every car owner can protect against the triple threat of rust, scale and leakage, his winter motoring will be a great deal more pleasurable and his repair bill considerably lighter."

Further advice relative to anti-freeze solutions, their use and the necessary precautions against their use by the Bureau of Standards, which is cooperating with the A. A. A. in its effort to advise the motorists, says the Bureau:

In cold weather the radiator usually has an excess cooling capacity. This makes possible the successful use in winter of radiator liquids considerably more viscous than water. The use of radiator solutions whose boiling points are slightly above that of water, together with the intelligent use of radiator covers or shutters, should permit engine operating temperatures in winter equal to summer operating temperatures with as a result equal brake thermal efficiency and freedom from crank case oil dilution.

Must Avoid Waste.
In using radiator liquids other than water, their relative cost makes it important to avoid waste. If enough cold liquid is initially used to completely fill the cooling system, an appreciable quantity will be lost through the overflow pipe on account of the expansion of the liquid as it heats up. The level of the cold liquid should at least be 2 inches below the overflow to allow for thermal expansion. This precaution applies especially to the use of anti-freezing solutions of glycerine or glycol, where water only is added to make up for evaporation.

Plymouth Meets Increasing Favor

New Chrysler 4-Cylinder Product Seen As Powerful Factor In Field Of Low Priced Cars

A new and powerful factor in the field of low-price cars is seen by executives of the Chrysler Corporation. It is the Plymouth, introduced by Chrysler three months ago.

No less an authority than J. W. Frazer, Chrysler and Plymouth sales manager, makes the statement that the success of this car to date has far surpassed even the high expectations of its executives when the car was launched.

Created by the American public with an enthusiasm which immediately caused us to enlarge our productive facilities in an effort to meet its demand, the Plymouth's rapidly growing buying has necessitated further plant rearrangement and considerable enlargement of its production," he said in Detroit yesterday. "As quickly as we increase its production new buying sources arise."

Mr. Frazer attributes the phenomenal success the Plymouth is enjoying to five primary factors. These are its distinctive appearance, large size, remarkable performance capacity, the care with which it is built under the company's Standard Quality principle, and its extremely modest price.

"It is literally a car amply large to accommodate the adult passengers in comfort," he continues. "As such, our dealers tell us that the two and four door sedans, in particular, have been eagerly sought as the car for their families by parents of average means. The coupe is enjoying a tremendous sale to those whose business requires the use of a car to save time and money, and to feel that a car of modest price answers their purpose practically as well as one involving a larger outlay of funds. The roadster, likewise being heavily bought, is selling especially because of its passenger appearance, the fun and sport of its performance plus the roadster value, particularly among younger people."

loss. If, with one of these solutions, enough water were added each time to completely fill the system, the solution would gradually become more dilute due to successive losses by overflowing.

"Small leaks in the cooling system could be neglected in summer, assume more importance in winter, especially where glycerine or glycol anti-freezing solutions are used. Any leakage will require periodic additions of glycerine or glycol as well as water to keep the solution up to strength. There is no reason to believe that distilled glycerine (or glycol) causes leaks except insofar as its solvent action, tending to loosen scale, may uncover holes or cracks in the metal. The importance of flushing out the systems to remove loose rust and scale cannot be overstressed. Any radiator leaks should be repaired by soldering."

REMOVE THE SPLINTERS
LONDON—Street cars with splintered seats that jab one's legs are bad enough, but when the splinters and nail heads are so bad that they tear expensive silk hose, it's time to do something about it. British flappers have registered a blast of protest to omnibus and motor coach companies. But pending the time when the splinters will be removed, they are buying a "spare" stocking when they purchase a pair of hose, so that when they get a rip in one, the other does not have to be destroyed.

General Motors Sales Far Ahead

During the month of September General Motors dealers delivered to consumers 148,784 cars, according to an announcement from the office of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president. This compares with 132,506 for the corresponding month last year, a gain of 16,288 cars, or 12.2 per cent.

Two Convertible Models Featured In Chrysler '75'

New Car Combines Comfort Of Sedan With Dash And Freedom Of Specially Built Phaeton

Two new custom convertible-type body styles on its '75' chassis are announced by Chrysler as ready for Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle and Cadillac manufacturing divisions of General Motors.

display at many of its salesrooms throughout the country. They are the convertible sedan and convertible coupe; the former of five-passenger capacity, the latter with rumble seat, golf compartment and other features.

Both bodies are by Locke, specially built to Chrysler specifications. The sedan, particularly, contains many innovations and improvements in convertible type construction. At the same time, points out J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager, prices have been brought down to an exceptionally moderate figure. The sedan lists at $2950 and the coupe at $3696, each at Detroit.

Addition of these two new body styles broadens out the '75' line to eight body styles in a variety of color combinations, upholstery, body trim and other finish.

The convertible sedan combines the luxuriousness and comforts of a smart, distinctive sedan type body with the dash and freedom of a specially-built phaeton, giving the owner all the advantages of two distinct body styles on one chassis.

Mr. Frazer says. All pillars are specially designed, with the front four integral with the body. The top frame's heavily constructed side pieces clamp securely to the pillars, affording body rigidity and strength comparable to customary '75' sedan body construction. Rear pillars, top bows and side pieces fold back and fit into a hand tailored boot extending out over the back of the body in a streamline, providing an unusually compact and neat appearing assembly.

Front compartment windows may be lowered into the doors when conversion to the open type is desired. Those for the rear compartment either can be locked on the doors, effecting a barrier to the in-rush of side winds, or swung forward and locked to the back of the front seat to serve as a windshield for rear compartment passengers.

Many comforts and conveniences for driver and passengers have been included in the list of refinements and appointments. Upholstery is optional either in Bedford Cord or Colonial grain hand-buffed leather in tan color. Folding arm rest is fitted into the middle of the rear seat back. Non-shatterable windshield glass is standard. Doors are wide and swing full open when wanted.

We Apologize

We feel that we owe customers an apology due to a condition arising that we were unable to avoid, namely the disastrous fire which wrecked our warehouse a short time ago. This unfortunate circumstance greatly depleted our stocks in all stores operated under our name, and many of our patrons have been disappointed because of the fact that we were unable to show them the assortments that we exhibit under normal conditions.

LET A RIDE DECIDE

There's only one way to find out what this new Oldsmobile will do... drive it yourself!

Try it in traffic. Pull up abreast of the line at the spotlight and outprint the field. Seek a crowded boulevard. Oldsmobile's sparkling acceleration, finger-tip steering and positive-acting four-wheel brakes make you master of every situation. Take it out on the highway. Note how quickly the great new 55-h. p. engine responds to the throttle. Test its speed, its power, its amazing hill-climbing ability. Mark its smoothness and quietness at every speed.

Then make the same performance tests with any other car and compare results. If you let a ride decide, you're sure to choose an Oldsmobile.
