House Panel Poised To Take Up Tax Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators faced today the unenviable word, taxation.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee scheduled a session to consider a $30 million "package" tax proposal.

A Senate committee gets on Tuesday an appropriations bill expected to exceed $3 billion, which means more revenue will be needed.

Rep. Ben Atwell, chairman of the House committee, said he will gather the 21 committee members as soon as he can Monday to kick out the tax bill.

Atwell, Gov. John Connally, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, Speaker Byron Tunnel, and State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert met Thursday to decide which tax bill will be offered.

Rascally, the package proposal will raise the sales tax in several areas to bring in $18.6 million. The corporation franchise tax extension for one year will add another $11 million.

The sales tax changes proposed would knock out the $10 clothing exemption, change the tax on cars from 1.5 per cent to 2 per cent, but put it on the trading floor.

Atwell said the controller has indicated the present sales tax will bring in $13.5 million during the next two fiscal years than previously estimated.

The $30 million tax package and the $13.5 million additional revenue will finance Connally's spending recommendations.

Estimates are that Connally's spending requests will exceed current revenue income by about $42 million.

The sales tax revision carries some tax breaks. Newspaper carriers, now charged with collecting the tax on home delivered papers, would be exempted.

Vending machine operators, who now pay the tax on gross receipts of money taken in, would be exempted. Alcoholic beverages sold with meals, which are presently taxed, would be exempted.

Wife, 4 Others Slain By Worker

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — An electronics worker burst into his estranged wife's home early today and killed her, their son and three members of her family.

Then he drove to a church, handed two pistols to a clergyman and waited for police.

Charles Hansen, 32, appeared dazed and said he couldn't remember the shootings.

All of the victims were killed in their beds in two adjoining homes in nearby Mount Vernon. All apparently had been asleep.

They were his wife Delores, 26; their son, Arthur, 4; Mrs. Hansen's father and mother, Jack Canosa, 72, a retired construction worker, and his wife, Mary, 63, and a son James Canosa, 17.

Two other sons of the Canosas were wounded. Robert, 15, and Frank, 22, Robert was shot in the head and his condition was critical. His brother was wounded in the hand.

Police Sgt. Robert Hahn, summoned to the homes, met Frank Canosa, running down the street.

"There's a madman in the house," Canosa shouted. "Stop him!"

Hahn approached the homes as Hansen ran out and drove away.

A short while later, Hansen stopped at the Trinity Episcopal church in New Rochelle where an early Mass was in progress.

"I killed somebody," he told the Rev. Mr. Davis. Then he took out two pistols and handed them to the priest.

Westchester County Dist. Atty. Leonard Rubinfeld said the shooting spree stemmed from marital difficulties. The Hansens had been separated since 1960.

"His wife wanted a divorce and he didn't want to give her one," Rubinfeld said. "He hadn't supported his wife or child. Apparently he had a good deal of hatred for the family."

"He came in shooting," Hansen said to the two homes from the Bronx where he had been living. Police said he fired with a .38-caliber pistol, carried a .22-caliber pistol also but did not use it.

Police who arrested Hansen at the church, charged him with homicide.

Police said he had an arrest record that extended back to 1948.

Liberal Victory Forecast In Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Fine weather across Canada promised a record vote today in a national election which most analysts expect will make Lester B. Pearson, 65, the nation's prime minister.

"I think the tide has turned," the Liberal party leader said as he ended a campaign tour of more than 20,000 miles and returned to his Ottawa home to await tonight's tabulation of votes.

Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, home in Saskatchewan after a "Give 'em Hell" tour that ran 26,000 miles, expressed confidence, too. But qualified observers, after soundings in all 10 provinces, concluded that only a major upset could save Diefenbaker's Conservative party from a drubbing.

Diefenbaker, 67, became prime minister in 1957, ending 22 years of Liberal rule. In 1958 he scored the greatest victory in Canadian history, but since then his popularity has been slipping. An indecisive election last June left the Conservatives in a minority in the House of Commons, and that led to today's election.

Among those anticipating a Pearson victory, the major question was whether the Liberals could win as many as 133 of the 363 House of Commons seats and thus have clear sailing as the majority party. Many forecasts centered on estimates of 110-125 Liberal seats. The Liberals then would need support from other parties in order to govern.

Diefenbaker, under similar circumstances, had 116 seats from last June until his government was overturned in February on a vote of no-confidence triggered by a dispute over whether Canada should have nuclear weapons.

Canada has acquired Bomarc nuclear missiles in cooperation with the United States and at one time planned to equip them with U.S. nuclear warheads. A U.S. State Department report that Canada was dragging its heels split the cabinet and set off the debate that defeated Diefenbaker in Parliament.

This became the prime issue in the election campaign. Pearson said Canada must honor its commitment. Diefenbaker called the anti-nuclear missiles out of date and cited a statement by Robert S. McNamara, U.S. secretary of defense, that the very least they would be used to draw an atomic line from the targets. Diefenbaker spoke of Canada as being "a burnt sacrifice" under those circumstances.

Pearson said such talk gave comfort to the Communists.

Underlying all this was the perennial question of U.S.-Canadian relations. Diefenbaker said he wanted to see Canada "a power, not a puppet." Pearson said his opponent was "trusting the eagle's tail feathers."

Two last-minute rumors were expected to have little effect. One concerned an alleged State Department working party of 100 said to refer slightly to Diefenbaker. And Vancouver newspaper reported that U.S. Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth had written a letter warning Pearson's stand on nuclear weapons.

The report said Diefenbaker had a copy of such a letter, but he declined comment and denied of its existence came from other quarters.

Economic questions, perhaps, meant more to the average voter than the nuclear question. While the nation as a whole is prospering, much of this is due to U.S. investment. Canada has been suffering trade deficits and a loss of 12 in the working force is jobless.

In the light of the Diefenbaker government's rate of progress on problems like these, many of his best friends have turned against him.

An editorial today in the Toronto Globe and Mail, formerly a Conservative stronghold, said:

"Mr. Diefenbaker has destroyed the Conservative party. For dedicated Conservatives to persist in supporting this destroyer of the Conservative party is not loyalty. It is the opposite."

In last June's election the Liberals, doubling the strong they made in 1958, won 100 seats. The Conservatives slipped from 208 to 116.

The major surprise last June was the showing of the Social Credit party. This rightist party, called by foes the "funny money

Rusk Accuses Laos Reds Of Obstructive Tactics

Meets French Chief Today

By PATRICK MCULTY

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk accused pro-Communist forces in Laos today of obstructive tactics and warned that tension is rising in the Asian kingdom.

As fighting erupted between neutralist and pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops, Rusk called on the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to be vigilant.

Rusk told a meeting of SEATO ministers that "a tragic and deplorable series of developments has increased tensions in the 'Plaine des Jarres' of east-central Laos. It is there that the Pathet Lao has forced a withdrawal of neutralist forces under Gen. Kong Le."

Laos is not a member of SEATO but it is part of an area the SEATO powers are pledged to protect from Communist aggression.

Later today Rusk will meet with French President Charles de Gaulle, possibly to try to win acceptance of a U.S. plan to limit clashes between forces of the Pathet Lao and South Vietnamese troops.

Rusk came here for the ministerial council of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. The French leader has opposed the idea, but his foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, asked Rusk Sunday for further clarification. This led to speculation that de Gaulle may be reviving his stand.

Oscar Race Is Tight

BY JAMES BAYON

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They had the Oscars tonight, and the 25th annual Academy Awards look closer than a National League pennant race.

For instance, each nominee for best actress is strong enough to win. There can be no upset among Betty Davis ("Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?"), Lee Remick ("Days of Wine and Roses"), Katherine Hepburn ("Long Day's Journey Into Night"), Anne Bancroft ("The Miracle Worker") and Geraldine Page ("Sweet Bird of Youth").

Sentiment for Miss Davis to be crown the first three-time star winner gives her a slight edge.

The race is just as tight among the men. Greg Peck, Jack Lemmon and Burt Lancaster are battling the wire neck and neck. Marcello Mastroianni and Burt Lancaster are not far behind.

Peck and O'Toole have the backing of nominated pictures. "Kill a Mockingbird" and "Lawrence of Arabia." Lemmon's "Days of Wine and Roses," Mastroianni's "Diva," Katherine Hepburn's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" and Anne Bancroft's "The Miracle Worker" are going it on their own.

There's a lot of talk, as always, for a landslide for best picture as has happened in recent years.

with "West Side Story." "Ben-Hur" and "Giant."

"Lawrence of Arabia," with 10 nominations, is the favorite of the syndicate school, but "Mockingbird," a solid-done piece of Americana, is pressing at the finish. The other movies nominated are "The Longest Day," one of the best war movies ever made; "Mutiny on the Bounty," a sea classic and "The Music Man," a thoroughly enjoyed movie.

Murray Believes His Deal Ethical

AUSTIN (AP) — Railroad Commissioner William Murray Jr. says he sees nothing wrong with his having a part in a $700,000 West Texas deal.

Murray, a former chairman of the state agency regulating oil and gas production in Texas, defended today his role in a deal that made several hundred dollars' net profit on the transaction.

Murray commented after the deal was published in a copyrighted story today concerning an oil lease in Throckmorton County, in North Central Texas, southwest of Wichita Falls.

The $700,000 year state official said the published figure of $200,000 as a gross profit to him does not represent actually what he made on the deal.

"We said for a price that I just about what it cost us to develop it," he said. "Actually, the thing ran the other way. I got what the crude ran for about 10 cents a barrel."

Murray said he realized a profit because he and three associates in development of the lease were very successful in drilling 25 to 30 wells with no dry holes.

Murray said he did not know the exact profit on the lease, but several thousand dollars, it was substantial.

"We made a nice profit because all these wells were drilled with very few dry holes," he said.

No Moisture In Prospect

By The Associated Press

South winds started, turning bitter air, tonight from the Gulf of Mexico again Monday and clouds thickened over South Central Texas and the north half of the state.

Weather Bureau observers warned no immediate prospects for further rain, however. A possibility of showers in the Panhandle by Tuesday was the only moisture mentioned in the forecasts.

Mid-month drouth was expected to continue.

New livestock forecasts promised results a few degrees above normal in all sections of the state and little or no moisture.

Attention was Sunday ranged from a hot 91 degrees at Preston in the West Texas Rice Bend down to 74 at Valhalla on the coast. Record 75 before dawn Monday varied from 81 at Lufkin to 77 at Brownsville and Corpus Christi.

There are 1,023 candidates for the 265 seats.

SHORT-CUT TO TYRANNY

Congress Remains Healthy, But Neglects Legislating

BY INEZ ROBB

In the nation's capital in recent weeks it has been only too apparent that there has been a great deal of moving—at the National Press Club bar over the changing status of Congress. Columnists whose theme song is "Backward, Turn Backward, O Time in Your Flight" are alarmed at Congress' current manifestations.

Without putting my foot on the brass rail, I sympathize with the gentlemen. There is a drastic and worrisome change in Congress, all right. But the change cannot be traced to dastardly foes of Congress who have mounted "the most vehement attack upon Congress as an institution since the first Roosevelt New Deal," as reported by that pundit of doom and gloom, William S. White.

Nor do I believe that the times are too tough or the nuclear age too technical for the average Congressional I. Q. I, cannot, string along with See Holmes Alexander, who sadly writes, "The aerodynamic complexities, as well as the economic extrapolations are just too overwhelming for Congressional comprehension."

Even without the press club bar to sustain me, my enduring faith in Congress has never faltered.

Granted, it is moving along strange paths now, but of its own free will. All Congress needs do, is take a hitch in its collective pants, get back on the old track and do its homework.

The present trouble with Congress, and self-made trouble at that, stems from the fact that since World War II the House and Senate have gradually been transforming themselves from legislative to investigative bodies. No one denies or would deny the right of Congress to investigate any facet of the national life. Its investigative privileges are among the nation's safeguards.

Nonetheless, the prime purpose of Congress is legislation, that is, the enactment of laws to protect and advance the interests of the nation and its people. The first of the original seven articles of the U. S. Constitution deals with legislative powers. It reads:

"All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

The Founding Fathers intended that Congress should legislate first and foremost. But this prime function is becoming secondary as Congressmen gunnash off in all directions. The current Congress is now in the fourth month of its stewardship, with little to show in the way of major legislation except the extension of the military draft. Cabell Phillips of the New York Times writes: "This Congress has made one of the poorest legislative records of the last dozen years. Most members of Congress concede that this year's is a deplorable record."

If it were not for the headlines made by the Senate in its investigation of the TEFX contracts, this nation would scarcely be conscious that Congress is in session. In the past, Congress has inquired into everything from racketeering to girls to strategic stockpiling. No matter how important these investigations may be, they don't leave Congressmen much time for their primary function, which is legislative.

The hit of the television camera and the newspaper headlines attendant upon a Congressional investigation have proved irresistible to members of the Senate and the House. Columnist Bascom Timmons recently wrote that the Senate alone plans 34 investigations this session!

Nor is the tremendous publicity value of an investigation fully realized by Congressmen, but investigations also enable members to meet so many interesting people, such as Frank Costello and gun molls. Any honest man will admit that such activities are a lot more exciting than wrestling with a tax bill.

However, Congress is neither on its last legs, as Alexander fears, nor intellectually inadequate to deal with the complexities of modern life. Nor is it about to be derailed by a some powerful, unidentified force, as White suggests. On the contrary, Congress is full of health and beans. It just needs to put first things first once more.

Columnist Digs Into Mail Again

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you are sick fewer than 16 days a year, you're healthier than the average American.

Do you snore habitually? Some 22 million Americans do, although 24 million of them probably deny it.

Tip to housewives: When you wish to reheat meat-cooked rare, cover it with leaves of lettuce to avoid getting it too well done.

Modern health measures are making motherhood much safer. In 1925 the death toll during pregnancy and childbirth was 65 of every 10,000 mothers. Now it's less than five per 10,000.

Christopher Columbus was 29 miles an hour on his first trip to America.

Other quotable notables: "It is indeed desirable to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestors."—Plutarch.

History lesson: It isn't true that the White House is a haven for intellectual inferiority. At least 11 U. S. presidents were members of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor fraternity.

Go West, young lady. If you're looking for a rich husband, we are informed one out of every thousand persons in Casper, Wyo., is a millionaire—or was.

Those good old days? Ohio spent $2 a year on each of its public school pupils back in 1833.

Prosperity note: Businessmen who expect to hire a college engineering graduate from the Class of 1963 can probably get him for a $600-a-month offer—if the fringe benefits also tempt him.

Life is getting easier all the time. You can now buy an electric carving knife for only $27.98.

Fast talk: The French are reported to be among the fastest speakers in the world, averaging a reported 350 syllables a minute. American men speak about 105, American women 175.

Keep your child on his feet. The famous heart doctor, Paul Dudley White, in advocating the benefits of exercise, warns that hardening of the arteries begins in boys as early as the age of 12. Maybe this will help you feel bigger. Approximately 99 per cent of all living things are smaller and weaker than man.

The perils of authorship: Honore de Balzac, the French novelist, died exhausted at 51. It was estimated he consumed 50,000 cups of coffee while turning out 350 books.

Five Die In Auto Crash

LUBBOCK (AP)—A head-on collision killed five men between Lubbock and Littlefield, on the South Plains of West Texas, late Sunday night.

Two other men suffered broken arms and a third required first aid after the crash, which involved a passenger car and a pickup truck.

The accident occurred 20 miles northwest of here on U. S. Highway 80 at a spot 12 miles south-east of the village of Roundup.

State highway patrolman Paul Kuykendall said the pickup truck veered across the center to the opposite side of the road.

Mortuary attendants identified those killed in the pickup as Neal Bean, 55, and Connie Rudd, 40, both farmers from Sudan, also near Lubbock. A companion was injured.

Kuykendall reported the car carried five Negro men. Those driving the car were: James D. Becker, Henderson Pearson, 18, and James Wheeler, 17, all of Anton, likewise in the vicinity.

Junior Editors Quiz on UTENSILS

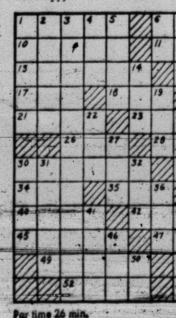

ANSWER: Our big picture takes us back to the American colonial days, before stoves came into use. Cooking was done over a wood fire in a big fireplace which was the main feature of every kitchen. It must have been a cozy place on a cold winter day. Grandma, in our picture, is baking bread in the "Dutch oven," a separate dome-shaped opening built into the chimney in which a small fire could be made and the coals pushed aside to let bread and pies cook. Betty has raked some coals from the fire and is stirring something savory which is cooking in—you've guessed it—a spider. Notice the legs it's standing on? Compare with the real spider in upper left. The resemblance isn't too close, but you can see the general idea of something standing on legs looking like a spider. Spiders were generally flat-bottomed frying pans but there were several other cooking utensils used in the open fireplace days which had legs, such as the round bottom saucepan. The legs kept the pan away from the heat to allow slower cooking. The trivet was a three-legged stand used to rest kettles or pots so their contents could be kept warm.

FOR YOU TO DO: Be sure to do some outdoor cooking over a fire when the weather's right. A small fire is best; use stones built up on both sides to rest your pots and pans on. You can make something smell good, too!

BUSINESS and INDUSTRIAL NEWS

8 THE SNYDER (TEXAS) DAILY NEWS, MONDAY, April 8, 1953

Boren & West Has Complete Coverage

There is a peculiar business, said John Boren, manager of the Boren and West Insurance Agency. "When a person comes in and buys what we have to sell, he gets a piece of paper, and the confidence that we'll do what we say we'll do. Our most important asset is the trust of our customers."

It is apparent that the agency has been able to get and to keep the confidence of their customers since, while the agency was only founded in 1955, it has become one of the leading insurance agencies in Snyder.

Boren and West has founded by John Boren and Max West. Management of the firm has been the responsibility of Boren since that time.

The agency offers a full line of insurance coverages. Through the Boren and West Agency, a person may insure his car, his home, his home, including mortgage insurance, and even his life.

The life and health insurance offered by Boren and West is normally written through The Travelers Insurance Company, one of the world's great insurance companies. As a matter of fact, virtually every insurance company represented by Boren and West is a well established insurance company which has been operating for 75 to 100 years.

Aethia is another well-known company represented by Boren and West.

The companies represented by Boren and West permit checks for small claims to be issued by the local agent. This means that in many cases settlements can be made almost "on-the-spot."

This Boren points out, is just one of the advantages of dealing with a local agent. Insurance with out-of-town agents may or may not be just as good, he said.

"But the fact remains," Boren said, "that we are here to back up tomorrow what we say today."

The convenience of having a local agent is also pointed up by the fact that he is here to explain any questions which might arise.

A new type of coverage being offered by Boren and West is a package policy for farm and ranch operators. The policy is similar to the "homeowner's" policy which has been available to urban areas for some time, but just now is being made available to "rural" areas.

The policy is an "all-risk" policy which covers the house, its furnishings, all liability, including the farm animals and livestock, and life, whether that life occurs as the home or away from the home. In fact, the farm and ranch package policy is so complete it even provides for rent payments if the occupant has to find other quarters while damage to the home is being repaired.

Bonds too, can be furnished by the Boren and West Insurance Agency. The firm has the authority to issue most types of bonds right there in the office without going through the home office for approval. This too is an

New Area Is Now Open in Bassridge

The recently completed paving project in the Bassridge Addition has opened up a whole new area for home construction.

The new area, known as Bassridge West, lies just to the west of the Bassridge Addition. Already in the area are two completed homes, three under construction, and construction on two more which have been sold, will start very shortly.

Prentiss Bass, developer of the addition, said that the homes in Bassridge West "would be somewhat smaller" than those in the original addition, and would be priced from $12,500 to $17,500. Prices, of course, will vary considerably depending upon the different options which a person might want, such as a patio, fireplace, or built-in.

One of the most popular features of the Bassridge Addition will be carried over into the new addition. That is the instance of the developer that there will be no "look-alikes." Each house will be different enough from its neighbor that the "development" look or the "row" look will be avoided.

True, several of the same type of house, such as contemporary or colonial, might be built together, but there will always be enough variation in the material to avoid that "same" look. All houses in the addition will be built of brick, stone, or a combination of the two.

Also each house will have at least three bedrooms and one and one-half baths.

Individuality in design, and in equipment, in size, and even in the shape and size of the lot, are important in making a house "right" for its occupants. No two families' needs are just the same, and that's why so many turn to the Bassridge additions for a custom type house that can be tailored to fit their every need.

The best part is, that a house, tailored to their needs, will cost no more than a house that is something less than what they need. For example, the family which needs a four-bedroom home can find that plan in Bassridge without having the very expensive home which is usually the only type of four-bedroom house available.

If none of the plans available are satisfactory, it is a simple matter to work out plans which are satisfactory.

The Holiday Homes which are being built in the Bassridge Addition are not only designed right—they're built right. Bass invites the inspection of the houses which are under construction at any phase of their construction. The material, and workmanship can be judged better then than after the house is finished.

Such things as the price construction of the roof—the most modern type of construction—can be seen only before the house is finished. This is the roof construction that permits the changing of walls any time in the future without worry of construction problems.

From every aspect — construction, location, floor plans, size—there is a Holiday Home in the Bassridge Addition, or the new Bassridge West Addition, to fit the needs of almost every prospective home buyer. Inspection of the fast-growing residential area in Snyder is invited. Bassridge and Bassridge West lie just south of Towle Park in South Snyder.
