New Clinic Wing Is Opening Monday

The Schleicher County Hospital District is announcing the opening of the new clinic Monday, Oct. 12. The clinic will be closed Oct. 8 and 9 for moving.

Patients needing medical care while the clinic is closed will be seen through the emergency room at the medical center.

Among the many much needed improvements in the center's new addition is a larger waiting room and examining rooms for three physicians.

The nursing home has a new recreation room for patients and the hospital auxiliary has new cabinets to display their homemade items in their gift area.

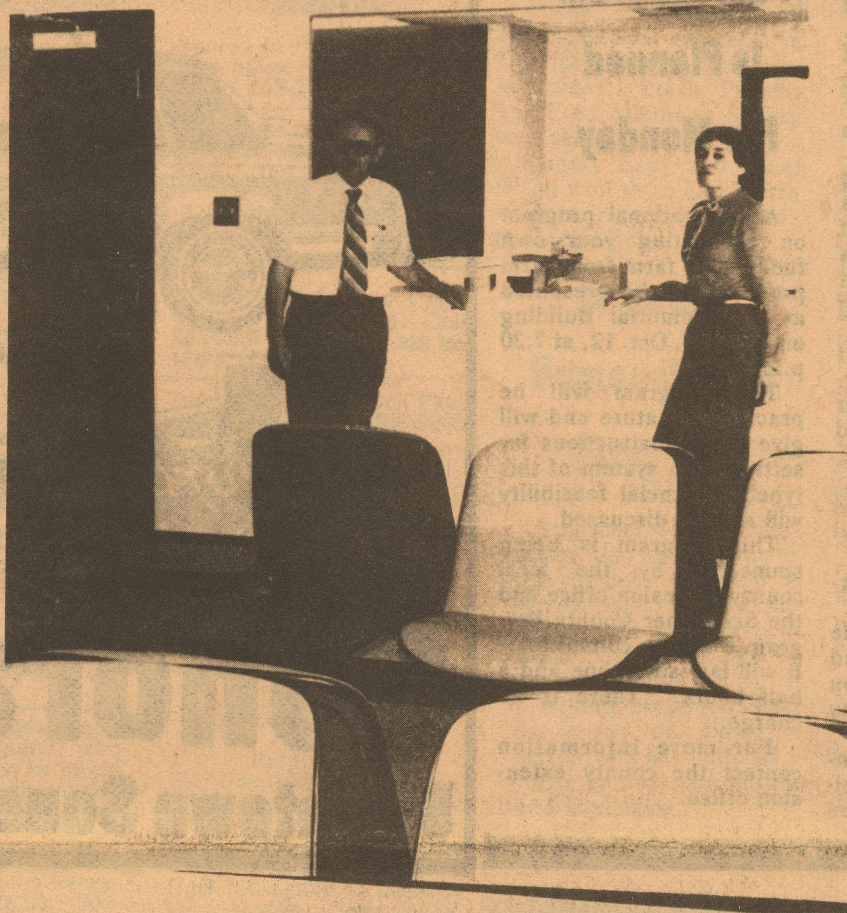

The old clinic will be utilized for a badly needed storage space.

Stated a member of the hospital board, "I think the hospital will now be much more serviceable to the community and the public will be pleased with it."

At this time, the medical center and Dr. J.B. Brame clinic telephone numbers will be separate. The hospital and nursing home numbers will remain the same, 853-2507. Dr. Brame's clinic number will be 353-2355 during regular office hours.

The public can now park in the front of the facility to enter the hospital nursing home or the clinic. Board members and hospital officials express their apologies for the inconvenience patients and visitors have had to endure during the construction period.

A formal opening will be announced later this month.

Ranchers See Results of Prescribed Burning

The pros and cons of prescribed burning and cell grazing were weighed during a range tour conducted by the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District last Thursday.

A large group of ranchers visited the Patton Enochs ranch west of Eldorado, the Jim Hardy ranch south of the city and two cell grazing areas on the Circle T Ranch south east of the city.

Jake Spencer of the A & M Extension Service; Jerry Swift, county extension agent and Fred Stumberg, manager of the SWCD showed the group a good result at the Enochs ranch where they burned about 400 acres of tobosa land on Feb. 25 to reduce mesquite and prickly pear.

Although there were areas where there was not enough grass to carry the fire, the burning did damage mesquite and pear growth and reduced the amount of weeds, especially beggar's lice.

Enochs commented that the burning resulted in a better quality grass and higher amount of phosphorus and protein.

At the Hardy Ranch, the group looked at 150 acres of mixed tobosa land that had a large amount of pear and mesquite. Burned on March 10, the burned area showed a small amount of topkill and mesquite and pear. Hardy said he felt he needed to followup with a burn to kill remaining pear and clean debris. He added that some of the area had been chained after the fire.

Swift explained that grass on the ranch was not high enough to carry a fire and do a lot of damage to mesquite and pear. They also told the group how the fire escaped their crew and advised using fire lanes on all sides of burning area when doing prescribed burning.

Spencer told the group "we are still learning a lot about prescribed burning and would not advise it for everyone. There are several precautions to take with it and many pros and cons."

The group then visited the two grazing cells on the Thompson T Ranch where the ranch is divided into pie-shaped areas around one central watering area. Ranch manager Jim Holley explained that they rotate cattle every two or three days and therefore the grass has a 48-52 day rest between grazings.

Holley praised the program, which first began in South Africa, saying that grass was better and work was cut to a minimum. He added that the cows had adjusted to the system and automatically went to the next grazing area.

After the tour, the group returned to the Memorial Building and enjoyed a barbecue supper.

After the tour, about 43 persons attended a barbecue and director's election for zone three of the SWCD. Charles Ray Pfluger was elected to fill the director's position, replacing Jimmy O'Harrow who retired from his position this year.

Pfluger and his wife, Pat, live on their ranch three miles northeast of Huddale. They recently moved to this area from Rocksprings and have ranching interests in the Huddale area.

Homecoming Week Will Be a Busy One

Next week is homecoming at Eldorado High School and it will be a busy one for EHS students.

Special events have been planned for each day, including: Monday, Green Day; Tuesday, Car Day (all cars are to be painted); Wednesday, Clash Day; Thursday, Hat Day (assembly will be at 1:30 p.m. in auditorium to announce winners); and Friday is Sign Day.

At 2:45 p.m. Friday, all students will be dismissed from class and march to Main Street for the big pep rally.

Friday night, the Eagles will meet Ozona and during halftime, the Homecoming queen will be crowned. Following the game, there will be the annual homecoming dance.

Ambulance Personnel Have Advice In Case of Any Emergency

You never know when and where an accident will happen. But if it happens to you, members of the Schleicher County Emergency Service have a few words of advice.

First of all, calmly tell the hospital or ambulance personnel who is calling and exactly where the victim is. Give an exact address and the cross street or where the accident is. Also give your phone number in case you must be called back for more information.

Secondly, give the name, age and sex of the injured party. Although callers cannot reliably diagnose the problem, tell hospital personnel what the illness or injuries appear to be. Tell the persons' medical history (such as heart disease, diabetes, etc.).

Teach your children how to use the telephone in emergency situations. Have emergency numbers posted by the telephone. Have the children talk calmly (not screaming) to the operator or hospital personnel. Give their name, address, town and telephone number. Teach them not to hang up the phone. In case the address cannot be found, the call can be traced within minutes if the line is still open.

If adults and children will know these things, ambulance personnel can react to emergency calls much faster and more efficiently.

If adults and children keep these things in mind, members of the emergency service can react to emergency calls much faster and more effectively.

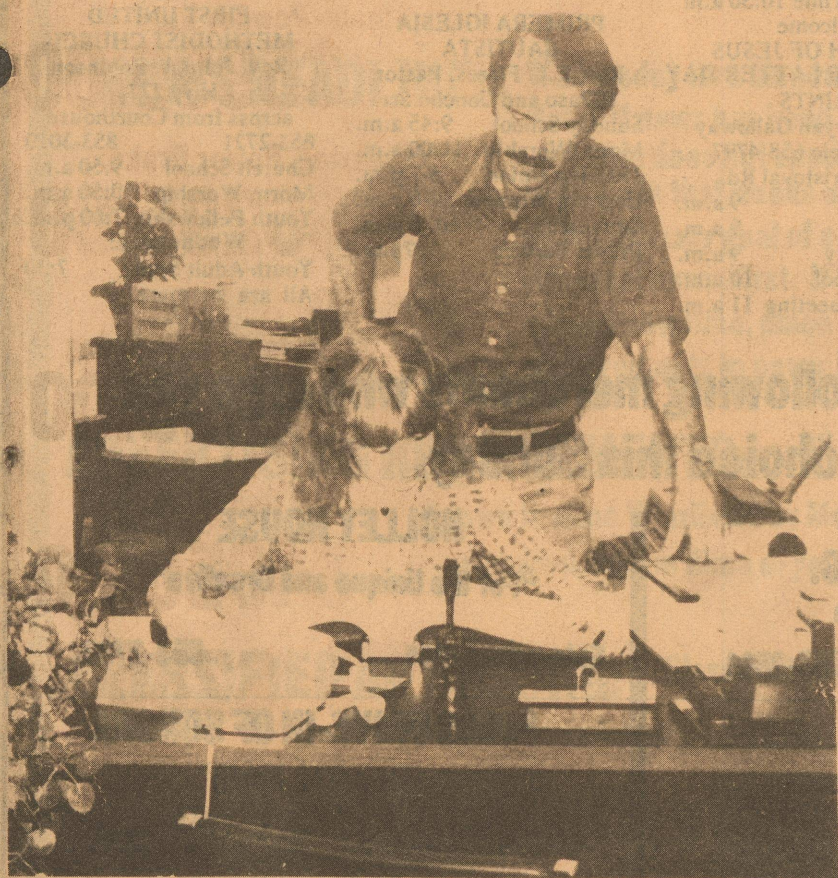

There are six qualified ECA's (emergency care attendants) connected with the Schleicher County service. John Callison, Vicki Duhon, Dale Lipsett, Domingo Pina, Buddy White and Gus Willeke.

Other volunteers are the Rev. Ron Sutton, Bill Gentry, Chuck Adams, Jim Squyres, Bob Lester, Delia Pina and Thomas Roach.

The service is strictly volunteer. It is supported by funds from the county, city and private individuals. At the present time, the service is in need of beepers for faster location of volunteers, uniforms and more volunteers.

CHECKING TAX ROLLS - Joy Henderson and Ray Lewis Ballew of the Schleicher County Tax Appraisal District check the new tax rolls for any discrepancies in their new offices, located in the old jail building on the courthouse square. When taxes become due this month, Ballew and Mrs. Henderson will be collecting school taxes. County and hospital taxes will be paid in the county collector's office in the courthouse and city taxes will be paid at City Hall.

Progress Edition Planned

As almost everyone knows, Schleicher County and the city of Eldorado are growing and progressing at a very fast rate. Therefore, the Schleicher County Leader will be publishing its first Progress Edition in next week's issue.

The special edition will include stories, pictures and advertisements telling the progress made by the city, county, hospital and especially businesses that have made considerable progress.

"This is our way of saluting the continued progress of the businesses in our community," said Leader editor Nell Edmiston.

Garden Check List For October

1. Don't forget to water the garden chrysanthemums. They need ample water during the flowering season. Try not to wet the flowers and foliage.
2. As danger of frost approaches, those plants you want to carry over the winter as houseplants should be prepared to bring indoors.
- a. Remove damaged foliage
- b. Shape by cutting back wayward growth
- c. Root prune and repot using a good potting soil
- d. Clean foliage with soft cloth or sponge and mild soapy water

- e. Spray thoroughly with an insecticide if there is evidence of insects or mites
3. Clean-up garden tools and equipment.
4. Plant spring flowering bulbs except for tulips. Keep tulips in refrigerator hydrator until November or early December.
5. Don't burn leaves but recycle by putting them in the compost pile.
6. Divide and replant crowded perennials including yarrow, candytuft, columbine, Shasta daisies, violets, gerberas, daylilies and perennial phlox.
7. Other perennials you may want to try include dianthus (pinks), Dusty Miller, Marguerites, penstemon, primrose, Foxglove and Sweet William. These can be ordered from many mail order catalogs if you can't find them in your local nursery or garden store.

8. Clean-up annual beds and vegetable garden. Diseased material should be hauled to the dump but most can be recycled.

9. Recent research suggests using flexible staking for young trees rather than rigid bracing. If the young trunk can sway or shake, it results in a stronger trunk.

10. After cool nights have caused your caladiums to go dormant, they can be dug, dried, cleaned up, packed in dry peat, vermiculite or perlite and stored at about 55 to 60 degrees until spring.

11. This is an excellent time to collect grass plumes, seed pods, pine cones and other interesting items for winter bouquets.

Growing Lettuce

Lettuce is a top choice for Texas gardeners because it's easy to grow, it can be planted almost anywhere, and there are plenty of different varieties to choose from.

There are really three main types of lettuce -- head, leaf and romaine. If you really want to live up a salad bowl, plant some of all three at different times and stretch the harvest season throughout most of the year.

Lettuce plants fit almost anywhere, such as odd corners, along walks, in flower beds, window boxes and even in container gardens. Many gardeners have learned to interplant lettuce between other slower growing crops.

Seed lettuce for fall gardens through September. Later plantings can provide lettuce well into the fall and in many areas, right on through winter. Like many other leafy vegetables, young plants can be thinned out and thinnings either eaten or transplanted to another area in the garden.

Plant lettuce seed about one-fourth inch deep in rows 14 to 24 inches apart. Space head lettuce plants about 8 inches apart in the row and leaf and romaine types about 3 to 4 inches apart. When harvesting, either pull up the whole plant or pick and eat the outer leaves as they mature.

Lettuce does best on good, well-drained garden soil in a sunny location. We recommend a partially shaded area for early season planting when temperatures are still high.

While lettuce does not need heavy fertilization, it does respond to light sidedressings during the growing season. Generous and regular watering is essential for high quality, tasty garden lettuce.

Home-grown lettuce is a sure fire way to perk up tasty salads during the fall and winter months.

Fuel Program Is Planned For Monday

An educational program on producing your own fuel on the farm from farm products will be presented at the Memorial Building on Monday, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

This program will be practical in nature and will give actual instructions for setting up a system of this type. Financial feasibility will also be discussed.

This program is being sponsored by the local county extension office and the Schleicher County Program Building committee. It will last about one and a half hours. There is no charge.

For more information contact the county extension office.

Historical Society Looking for Caps

Members of the Schleicher County Historical Society are looking for donations of company caps for an oil display at the county museum. Plans for the display were made during a meeting of the group Monday afternoon.

Donations of any cap may be left with Bob Bradley or with Elizabeth Ballew.

Members reported they sold five history books since June.

Margaret Frost read a letter from the University of Texas at Arlington School of Architecture and Environmental Design students who want information on historic buildings such as the old jail, courthouse or bank.

Memorials to the museum this month were made for Tiny Godwin, Billie Porter, Mattie Royster, Richard Cheatham, Margaret Frost, president, presided; Ruth Baker read the secretary's report, and Mable Frietag gave the treasurer's report.

Attending the meeting were Ethel Etheredge, Frankie Williams, Ruth Baker, Ola Ruth Barbee and Josephine Hill.

matters dealing with the Postal Service, Department of Commerce, or Department of Housing and Urban Development to get in touch with him again because of recent fire damage to those files.

An early morning blaze September 14 gutted the Senator's West Texas office in Lubbock where such constituent inquiries are filed. Many correspondence files were destroyed by the fire, according to Tower's West Texas director Chris Steed.

"I am very concerned that Texans who have written me get a prompt response," Tower said. "While this unfortunate incident may result in some delays, we are working quickly to determine which citizen's inquiries are affected."

Tower's Lubbock staff works closely with Texas communities and their officials in obtaining federal block grants through various HUD programs. Constituent cases involving the Commerce Department and postal questions also are handled there.

"I receive about 5,000 letters each week and more than a third of these relate to problems or requests involving the federal government," Tower noted. "In order to answer them promptly, I rely on the staff in my four Texas offices (Austin, Dallas, Houston and Lubbock) who are expert at cutting red tape and speeding up action in the citizen's behalf."

Tower suggested that those citizens who believe their recent letter or case files may have been lost in the fire contact his Lubbock office director, Chris Steed, at the following temporary address: Federal Building, 1205 Texas Avenue, Room 124, Lubbock, Texas, 79401. The telephone number is 806 762-7533.

The West Texas office opened in June, 1980, serves citizens in the Panhandle, South Plains, Permian Basin, and El Paso areas.

Reports from Washington

Sandra Day O'Connor: Madame Justice

The Senate confirmation of Sandra Day O'Connor as a justice on the United States Supreme Court is a milestone in a process begun many decades ago in our nation's accepting the fact that all persons are created equal.

At 51, the former Arizona appeals court judge will be the youngest member of a court now dominated by men in their late 60s and early 70s, a court assembled by six different presidents.

In the end, the Senate vote came without real debate and the 99-0 approval made clear the prevailing sentiment. Thus, what began in July as one of the President's most controversial decisions ended on a note of harmony with the Congress and the American people.

Some suspense had remained about whether a few senators might cast negative votes but even that doubt was swept away by her sterling performance during Senate confirmation hearings.

The appointment of Mrs. O'Connor — Madame Justice, as she will be called in the nation's highest court — is an historic event. On the part of the President, it shows a flexibility and bigness that dashes the stereotype of the single-issue politics espoused by some. It also tells us he is a man of his word. Many presidents have had the opportunity to place a woman on the Supreme Court yet none did.

Her appointment should bother no one because we must make a distinction between the electoral process and the judicial process.

It is the ability to understand and apply the law that counts. Her competence in this respect is not questioned.

There are those who have demanded and will demand that Justice O'Connor decide cases to their liking, and that is not what our system is all about. A Supreme Court justice does not have to stand for this, or for that, or the other thing. These individuals dispense justice and provide for us those most cherished guarantees of our Constitution. Those who sit on the Supreme Court interpret the laws of our land and do leave their footprints on the sands of time long after the policies of presidents, senators and congressmen of a given era have passed from public memory.

In my judgment members of the federal bench should be strict constructionists of our laws and the Constitution. Their roles should be interpreting the law, being ever mindful that legislatures make laws.

Justice O'Connor is, according to her colleagues in the Arizona State Senate where she learned to make laws, a perfectionist rooted in the law. Her legislative background should instill in her the importance of interpreting not making law.

What of the woman herself?

Mrs. O'Connor has a reputation for treating the law in a businesslike way, not an ideology operating from a set point of view. Her former colleagues on the bench say she has good judicial temperament. She can be tough. Those who practiced in her court describe her as practical, conscientious, fair and open-minded.

President Reagan described her as possessing those unique qualities of temperament, fairness, intellectual capacity and devotion to the public good which have characterized the 101 "brethren" who have preceded her on the high court.

In the case of Sandra Day O'Connor, she really is a pillar of the community: a consistent, decent, hard-working lawmaker, politician, mother, wife, lawyer, public servant and judge.

1, for one, say welcome aboard and Godspeed!

Local Baptist Preacher Receives Doctorate

The pastor of the First Baptist Church of Eldorado, the Rev. Don Williford, has earned his doctorate of Philosophy in the New Testament from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

He has been pastor of First Baptist here for the past two years after serving at Hasse Baptist Church and as assistant pastor of Birdville Baptist Church in Fort Worth seven years. He received his bachelor of arts from Howard Payne University and his masters degree from Southwest Baptist Seminary.

He and his wife, Pam, have one daughter, Natalie.

Comptroller Makes Reminder

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday reminded Texans that sales tax is no longer due on any therapeutic device bought or rented by a person when it's prescribed by a doctor.

The change, authorized by the Legislature last spring, affects the buying or renting of oxygen equipment, devices which help reduce or eliminate pain and all therapeutic items obtained under a physician's prescription.

Bullock said the Legislature also broadened the motor vehicle tax exemption to include vehicles modified for orthopedically handicapped persons.

The exemption now applies to modified vehicles whose primary use is to transport an orthopedically handicapped person.

Ten EHS students and their two sponsors attended ASU Journalism Day last Thursday. Over 260 students from schools all over Texas also attended.

The day's program consisted of sessions concentrating on the different areas in newspaper and yearbook production.

As part of the interviewing session for the newspaper staffs, the students were able to interview the guest speaker, Ms. Mary Jane McKinney. Ms. McKinney is a former editor for Fortune magazine in New York and has been a consultant for the major television networks. She now has her own consulting firm in New York.

Helping with the day's activities were Newsfoto Publishing Company and the San Angelo Standard Times. Attending were Jennie Day, Beckie Simmons, Mike Wilks, Shelly Squyres, Linda Gentry, Diana Harris, Shanna Swift, Stephanie Thomas, Matthew Nixon and Eddie Montalvo. Wingspread adviser Pat Moore and Talon adviser Ruth Ane Callihan served as sponsors.

Spirit Club

By Greg Davidson
Providing help for the EHS cheerleaders this year is a group of lively young girls. The "Eagle Spirit Club" was formed to help the cheerleaders with skits in pep rallies, boost school spirit, help make refreshments, and help make signs for varsity athletics. The meetings are held early in the week so they can plan their activities.

The club is sponsored by Mrs. Ruthie Chalmers and is under the direction of the cheerleaders. It consists of 25 spirited high school girls.

Recently, the girls have helped out by performing their own skit, making road signs for out of town game, making cookies for the football team and letting their spirit be known.

New Librarian Likes Job

By Victoria Powell
Found hidden in a back room of the library, Mrs. Melinda Crow took time to share some things about her life before coming to Eldorado.

Somewhat of a wanderer, Mrs. Crow has taught in many other places, from Great Falls, Montana to Big Lake, Texas. She has also lived in the Texas towns of Sam Marcos, Taylor and Freer. Her nomadic ways are due to the fact that she was following her husband who was a member of the Air Force.

Mrs. Crow was reared in Sinton, a small town near Corpus Christi. After graduating from high school there, she went to college at Southwest Texas State, where she majored in English and history. While there she served as a graduate assistant teaching freshman English.

The oldest of four, Mrs. Crow "grew up teaching" younger brothers and sisters and decided to stay with it. To some, being a librarian may not fit into the category of teaching, but Mrs. Crow feels that because she can still keep in touch with classes and help students while they are in the library, she is still an educator.

According to Mrs. Crow, the students at EHS and elsewhere in West Texas are much the same. She appreciates their friendliness and prefers this area to any in which she has taught.

Council Sale

Student Council officers and class representatives earned $1,094 with their recent jacket sale. These jackets are green with the double "E" emblem on the front and are either pile or flannel lined.

The council will use this money for homecoming activities and the annual convention in Austin. Another project being considered is the planting of trees on the far north end of the football field. A small amount of the money will be used to compile a scrapbook of council activities.

Ag Officers

The seventh period ag class elected officers Sept. 17. The large class is learning about skills in farming and ranching, including various kinds of woodworking.

Eagles Remain Winless After McCamey

The Eldorado Eagles remain winless this season after they were shut-out by the McCamey Badgers 35-0.

The Badgers started scoring midway through the first quarter when Jodee Stephens ran 41 yards for the tally. The PAT was good.

McCamey scored twice in the second quarter, first with fullback Donald Mann, and then with quarterback Jerry Stacy. Both PATS were good and the score was 21-0 at halftime.

In the third quarter Vance Tabb blocked an Eagle punt and ran it back 40 yards for the next Badger score.

The Badgers went on to score two more touchdowns to make the final score 35-0.

Tomorrow the Eagles will open up their district season with the Mason Punters, who are one of the district 2-9AA favorites.

Last week Mason edged Wall 20-18 with the running of Jeff Dutton and the passing of Mike Keller.

Also the JV and junior high teams will take on the other Mason teams in Eagle stadium. Action starts at 5 p.m.

Girls Are Ready For Speedball Play

The sixth grade girls are going to participate in the traditional speedball game on Thursday, Oct. 8. They will play during the half-time of the seventh grade boys football game at approximately 5:30 p.m. on Eagle Field.

Speedball combines the skills of soccer and basketball, with scoring elements of football. The green team will be composed of Sue Dean, Lupe Montalvo, Diana Vasquez, Sharlene Hill, Melanie Kring, Amy Kotsch, Nita Hale and Sherri Field.

The other team will be made up of Kelly Squyres, Staci Helmers, Stacy Lowe, Annette Barajas, Amy Turner, Jan Edmiston, Veronica Guzman and Lori Malowe.

Preparing Plants for Winter

Plants grown outdoors under bright lights conditions through the summer and fall will need proper conditioning before they survive in the home through the winter. Move them to gradually darker surroundings outside and begin withholding water. Condition the plants to get by with medium-dry soil. You can expect a certain amount of leaf droppage when plants are brought in. All plants should be inside before temperatures drop into the thirties. Follow the reverse pattern when taking plants back outside in the spring. Gradually condition them to warmer, brighter surroundings.

Watch Food Dollars
Summer gave us a bit of halt in rising food prices, with some items being less expensive than they were a year ago. The various economic indicators assure us that food prices, meat in particular, will continue to rise during the last part of 1981. Possibly at an uncomfortable rate. Economy is still the word of the day and extending meats and poultry, as well as other non-meat protein sources, is what many families must continue to do. Not that this is a bad thing, you understand. There's a great deal of good eating in these kinds of foods, as you'll see in the recipes which follow.

FESTIVE TURKEY RICE ENCHILADAS

1 1/3 cups water
1/2 cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked turkey, cut into julienne strips
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 can (4 ounces) chopped green chilies, drained
1/2 to 3/4 cup vegetable oil
12 corn tortillas, about 5 inches in diameter
2 cans (15 ounces each) tomato sauce
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon liquid red pepper sauce
sour cream

Bring water to a boil in small saucepan. Stir in rice and 1/2 teaspoon of the salt. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in turkey, 1 cup of the cheese, green chilies and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt. Let stand covered 5 minutes. To soften tortillas, heat 1/2 cup of the oil in 10-inch skillet. Place tortillas, one at a time, in hot oil; quickly turn to coat both sides and remove. Drain on paper toweling. Add more oil as needed. Spoon about 1/4 cup rice mixture down the center of each tortilla. Roll up tightly and place in a single layer seam-side down in a greased 9 x 13-inch baking pan. Combine tomato sauce and red pepper sauce; pour over tortillas. Sprinkle with remaining 1 cup cheese. Cover and refrigerate until ready to bake. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees F. until heated through, about 40 minutes. Serve with sour cream. Makes 6 servings (2 tortillas each).

For Two: Prepare as directed. Wrap and freeze 4 tortillas. Reheat covered in microwave over on FULL power 9 to 10 minutes.

MEXICAN RICE STEW

2 pounds beef chuck steak, cut into 1 x 1 1/4 x 1/2-inch strips
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onion
1 green pepper, chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (17 ounces) whole kernel corn
1 cup rice
2 small zucchini, sliced diagonally into 1/2-inch pieces

Dredge meat in combined flour, chili powder and salt. Heat oil in large skillet or Dutch oven. Add meat, onion, green pepper and garlic. Cook and stir over medium-high heat until meat browns. Drain and coarsely chop tomatoes; reserving liquid. Drain corn, reserving liquid. Combine liquids from tomatoes and corn and add enough water to make 2-1/2 cups. Add liquid and rice to meat mixture. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, corn and zucchini; cover and continue cooking 5 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

For Two: Prepare as directed. Place 3 cups stew in microwave container; cover and freeze. Remove from freezer and microwave covered on FULL power 11 to 12 minutes, stirring twice.

LAYERED PIZZARIA RICE CASSEROLE
1 can (16 ounces) stewed tomatoes
1 cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 package wieners or beef franks, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon oregano leaves
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese, or to taste

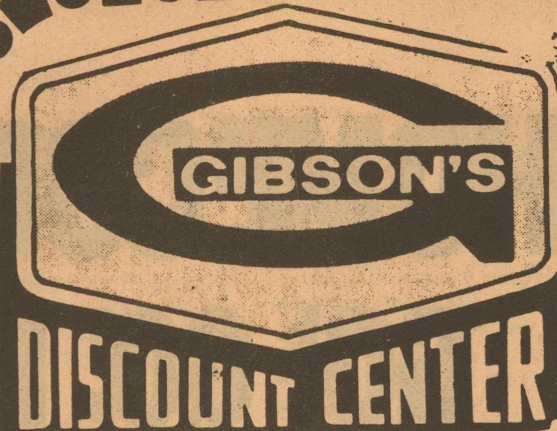

Drain tomatoes, reserving juice. Add water to juice to make 2-1/2 cups liquid. Bring to boil in saucepan. Stir in rice and salt. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Let stand covered until liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Stir in parmesan cheese. Spoon rice into greased 2-quart casserole; layer tomatoes over top and sprinkle with seasoned salt. Add wieners; sprinkle green peppers, oregano and mozzarella cheese over top. Bake, uncovered, 15 minutes at 450 degrees F. Makes 6 servings.

Duwain Sauer, Bill Watson

Spotlight On Business

It's ginning season and that means that cotton farmers will not rest until their crops are out. That also means that two other men will be busy until the end of the season, Duwain Sauer and Bill Watson. Sauer is the new manager for Schleicher County Cooperative gin which was formed last spring. He is a native of this area and is also a cotton farmer.

Watson was recently hired by the cooperative and will manage the gin during ginning season. He and his wife, Nell and son will be living in a trailer house located on the edge of the cotton gin yard. The gin has undergone several repairs prior to this season. It has been rewired and some of the motors have been switched out. After "all of the kinks were repaired" the gin produced its first bale of cotton last week, followed by over 200 bales by press time.

All of the cotton farmers in the county joined together to form the cooperative.

The new cooperative was formed earlier this year with the following elected as directors: Earl Lloyd, Wayne Mikeska, Walter Powell, Jr. Hyman Sauer, Ello Wilde, Steve Williams and Clovis Olsak.

Duwain Sauer was hired to manage the cooperative. The cooperative is now a federal crop insurance agent.

The gin will also handle arsenic acids for sale and will take orders for other items framers may need.

Petro Show

Added To Joint Venture

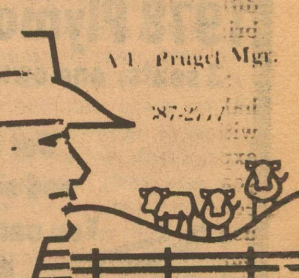

A new event has been the joint Venture for Crippled Children series of events this year: the International Petroleum Show for Public Education is scheduled for Nov. 6-8 in the Round Building of the West Texas Fairgrounds, Abilene.

The third annual Oilfield Equipment and Services Sale will be Nov. 10 in the Round Building.

There is a total of 8,464 acres of cotton planted in Schleicher County this year, but famers are beginning to see a problem with boll weevils which may draw cotton production down.

Long-term credit that's productive.

Block Outlines USDA Plan for 1982 Wheat Crop

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block Friday outlined the U.S. Department of Agriculture's reduced acreage and conservation plans for the 1982 wheat crop. Block said these decisions are contingent on the U.S. Congress passing a new farm bill which authorizes the actions.

Block said farmers who wish to become eligible for price support loans, target price protection and the farmer-owned reserve program must comply with all reduced-acreage requirements. "There will be no payments for reduced plantings," Block said.

Block also said that participating farmers must reduce their acreage of wheat planted for harvest by at 15 percent from their established wheat acreage base. The base will be the 1981 planted wheat acreage adjusted in cases where there is a regular crop rotation for wheat.

Secondly, farmers must devote to conservation uses an area equal to 17.65 percent of their 1982 wheat acreage planted for harvest (planted 1982 wheat acreage X 17.65 percent equals acreage devoted to conservation uses).

For example, Block added that a farmer with a 1981 planted acreage of 100 acres must plant no more than 85 acres of wheat for 1982 harvest to become eligible for the program. The 15 acres reduced (17.65 percent of 85 acres) must be devoted to a conservation use. If the farmer planted fewer than the allowed 85 of wheat acres, he or she would be permitted to devote fewer acres to a conservation use. For example, if this farmer planted only 50 acres of wheat, he or she could devote only 8.8 acres to conservation uses (17.65 percent of 50 acres).

The land taken from production and devoted to conservation uses must be eligible cropland, must be protected from wind and water erosion and may not be mechanically harvested. However, farmers will be permitted to graze this acreage except during the six principal growing months.

Farmers participating in the reduced acreage program on one farm must assure USDA that they are not exceeding the 1981 wheat base on any other farms they own or operate.

Farmers are not required to participate in the wheat program to qualify for program benefits on other crops grown on the farm.

WE ARE ENJOYING A WHOLE LOT OF A GOOD THING

For many years now, most of us have taken a plentiful supply of electricity for granted. We've found more and more uses for electricity in our homes. Ready kilowatt hours to go.

Electricity is Reliable
Electricity is Clean
Electricity is Efficient
Electricity is Quiet
Electricity is Flexible and
Electricity is Low in Price

Electricity is still all of these things—even low in price compared to other goods and services. But there's no escaping the fact that costs of supplying it are constantly going up and so is usage.

People in WTU territory are using more electricity than ever before (9,020 kilowatt-hours per residential customer in 1980, compared to 5,856 in 1970).

With the demand for its product steadily increasing, WTU can't stand still. It must grow, too.

The growth is carefully planned, with the customer's welfare foremost in mind. WTU is considering only the necessities. But to keep giving the kind of service you're used to, we're going to be involved in some costly updating of production, transmission and distribution facilities. And, of course, we must maintain a staff of people qualified to keep the system operating. You can depend on WTU to continue providing a reliable supply of electricity. But let's all realize what it takes to produce it, and use it wisely.

It's too good to take for granted.
