Wells High In Ten Counties

IN RUN-OFF

Deskins Wells, above, of Wellington, and Eugene Worley of Shamrock will oppose each other in the second primary for the place of Congressman from the 18th Texas District.

With a vote which amazed keen political observers as well as the staunchest of supporters, Deskins Wells of Collingsworth County led the field of 12 candidates seeking the place of Congressman from the 18th Texas district in the Democratic primary election Saturday, July 27. He carried his county by the largest margin of any candidate in the race.

Deskins Wells carried 10 of the 28 counties in the district, and was either first or second in all except two counties. Both of these latter had two or more candidates of their own in the Congressional race, and in each Deck Wells received the greatest number of votes of any outside candidate.

His main strength came from the agricultural communities. With the exception of his home county where he received over 81 per cent of the total vote, Deck Wells showed uniform strength in every county over the district.

Leading his nearest opponent by approximately 6,000 votes, unofficial tabulations from the 28 counties which make up this district Tuesday night set Deck Wells' total at 15,373. Approximately 59,000 votes were cast in the race. Second was Eugene Worley of Shamrock, who polled 9,386 votes, nosing out E. T. (Dusty) Miller of Amarillo, who receiveed 8,482 votes. Worley will meet Wells in the run-off election on August 24.

Of the other nine candidates in the race, Allen Harp received 4,903 votes, Lewis Goodrich 4,134; Lewis Fields 3,728; Tom Ellzey 3,384; R. V. Converse 2,506; Henry Bishop 2,777; James O. Cade 1,407; Lee McConnell 1,373; and Dennis Zimmerman 1,348.

Deck Wells received Saturday night's returns in the office of The Wellington Leader—the paper which he has edited for 15 years. With him were members of his family, the Leader staff, and loyal friends who have worked so earnestly in his behalf. Some of these friends stayed for the entire evening. Others came from time to time to learn the progress of the race.

Congratulations from all sections of the Panhandle began pouring in early Saturday night, as his strength became apparent in every county.

Of the total of 3,036 votes cast in Collingsworth County, Deck Wells received 2374.

The count of the other candidates, in the order named on the ballot was: Fields, 27; Worley, 242; Goodrich, 65; Harp, 59; Bishop, 12; Ellzey, 59; Converse, 31; Miller, 83; Cade, 30; McConnell, 6; and Zimmerman 4.

County Farmers Dust Cotton With Sulphur

A number of Collingsworth County farmers are dusting their cotton with sulphur, using dusting machines, with favorable results, announced W. K. Cottingame, county agent, this week. Some of the farmers are buying machines and dusting their neighbor's cotton also.

Seventeen thousand pounds of sulphur for dusting have been sold in the county in the last three weeks, and several dusting machines have been purchased.

Curtis Chandler, who has been dusting for himself and for others in the Swearingen community, said, "I can tell the difference in the number of squares the dusted cotton is putting on as compared with what the cotton was putting on before it was dusted, and as compared with the cotton of neighbors who did not dust."

Among the Collingsworth County farmers who have dusted cotton are Wallace Sisemore, John W. Messer, Palo Cummings, Bert Weaver, Peck White, Mr. Carraway, Walter Starr, Curtis Chandler, Paul Starr, Hugh Painter, F. O. Masten, Ernest Wood, Otis Wood, Jim Wood, and Woody Wood.

AUSTIN.—During the 1940-41 school year the National Youth Administration Student Work Program will enable approximately 23,000 needy Texas young people 16 to 24 years of age, inclusive, to stay in school, according to J. C. Kellam, State NYA Administrator.

Kellam said the NYA Student Work Program will be carried on in much the same manner and with approximately the same amount of funds as it was last year.

"Boys and girls who desire assistance through this phase of the NYA Program," the State Youth Administrator said, "should apply to the head of the school or college they wish to attend. Work that will be useful to both the student and to the institution will be provided on projects designed and supervised by officials of the schools. NEW PLANE DETECTOR

Designed to give defending forces warning of approaching enemy airplanes, a highly secret detecting apparatus has beeen perfected by the United States Army according to meager information given to Congressional committees by General Marshall, chief of staff, recently.

Safeguarded as carefully as the new Air Corps bomb sight, the plane detector has been developed during the last two years, and actual field tests are said to have been satisfactory and very gratifying to the experts.

The new device will pierce fog and darkness to pick up an approaching enemy plane in time to give fighters a chance to get into the air to meet it. The present plan is to install 40 of these detectors, at an estimated cost of $54,700 each, at strategic points on our coasts. Provision would also be made by setting up other stations where needed on short notice.

In asking Congress for an appropriation to build these detectors, General George V. Strong of the Army war plans division declared them to be "apparently far in advance of any similar equipment available to any of the belligerents abroad."

It is said that the use of these detectors would give defenders of our coasts at least 15 minutes notice of the approach of the fastest enemy attack planes.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

Great strides are being made in the development of synthetic rubber to take the place of the natural product which is not produced in the United States. This country uses in peace time about 600,000 tons of crude rubber, about 98 per cent of which is imported from the Far East.

If present sources of supply should be cut off through falling into the hands of an enemy nation, the production of synthetic rubber would become a matter of vital importance. It is fortunate, therefore, that American manufacturers are now able to produce the new substitutes, although it would take some time to develop plants to meet the country's needs.

Owing to the sensational progress which has been made in research and actual production in the last two or three years by the rubber industry of the United States, it is believed that through a capital investment of between 100 and 200 million dollars enough synthetic rubber could be obtained by mass production methods to prevent a rubber famine.

The price of the artificial product is now three or more times as high as natural rubber, but this will be largely overcome if mass production is really attained. Germany is said to be using synthetic rubber tires on about 40 per cent of all vehicles, and there now seems no reason why the United States can not do the same, if necessary.

FIRST BATTLE FLAG

The question of when and where the American flag with stars and stripes was first carried in battle has been the subject of much controversy among historians ever since the Revolution. In fact, in spite of the Betty Ross tradition, the origin of the first flag is uncertain.

It is a matter of history that the flag of 13 stars and 13 stripes was adopted by congress on June 14, 1777, but the exact date on which the first flag was made is unknown.

As to the flag's first display in battle, there have been conflicting claims. Until recently it was generally supposed that this occurred at Fort Schuyler, N. Y., on August 3, 1777, when that post was beseiged by the British. The flag used on that occasion was said to have been made from a blue jacket and a soldier's wife's red petticoat, with stars cut from a white shirt.

War Department officials who have recently made researches with a view to clearing up the matter now declare that the evidence favors Cochs Bridge, Del., as the place where the first battle flag with stars and stripes was unfurled. This was during a skirmish which preceded the battle of Brandywine, and occurred on September 3, 1777.

MONEY REWARDS

The fact that the greatest money rewards do not go to those who perform the highest service to mankind is too well known to need restatement, but a few cases illustrating that fact, recently compiled by an anonymous writer, are interesting.

His list begins with a horse, Seabiscuit, winner of $437,730 in five years, or an average of $87,546 a year.

Babe Ruth, the baseball slugger, earned more than a million dollars during his 21 years as a player.

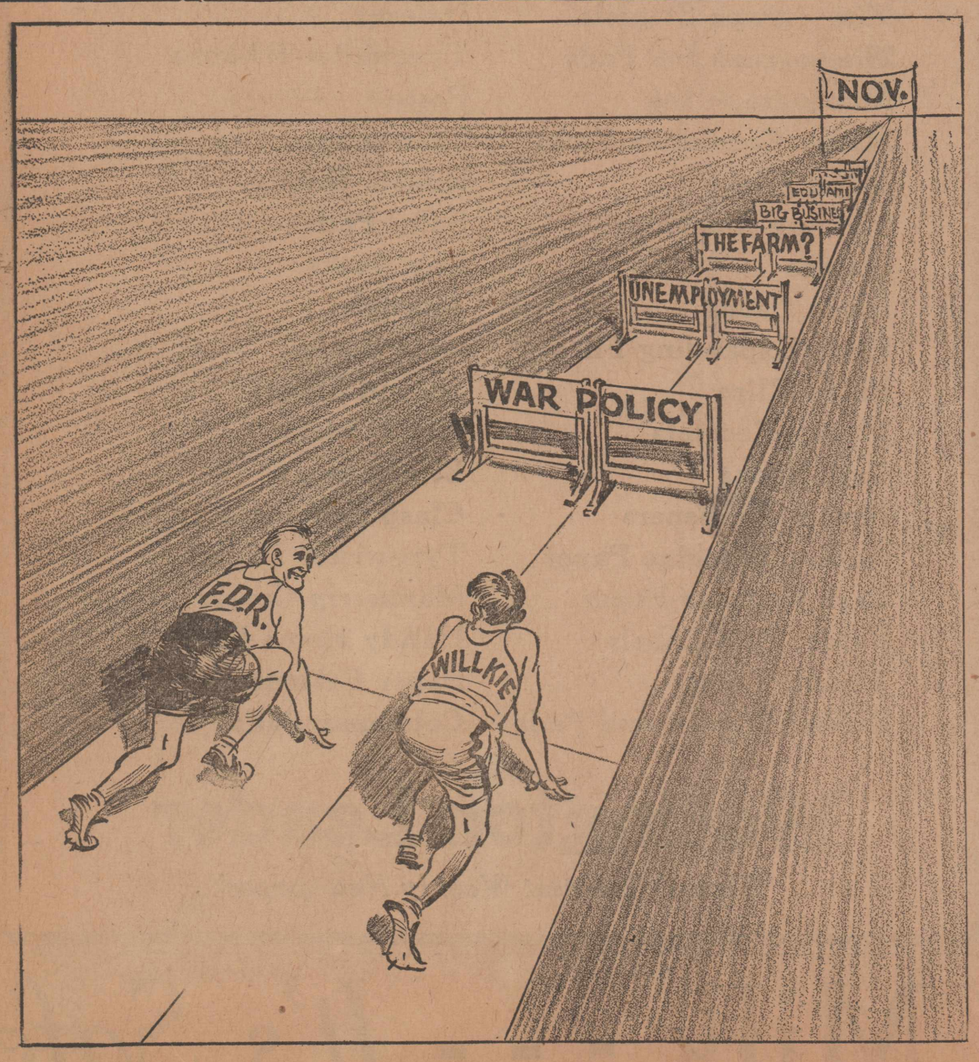

Joe Louis has pulled down more than a million by mauling his opponents into insensibility or other stages of quietus in the last three years.

Greta Garbo, a Swedish girl who found it hard to learn English or to smile, has earned some $4,600,000 in less than 15 years.

The person selected to illustrate the other side of the picture is Dr. Harry Steenbock, Wisconsin-born professor of biochemistry, whose researches with vitamin D and ultra-violet rays have saved thousands of children from the crippling effects of rickets, and will benefit millions yet unborn.

During the 32 years since his graduation from college it is estimated that Dr. Steenbock has earned an average of about $5,000 a year.

Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance

(Editor's Note: The following is one of a series of articles prepared by Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo Social Security Board field office).

WHAT OLD-AGE INSURANCE MEANS TO YOUNG WORKERS

Twenty-five out of every one hundred persons who applied for social-security account numbers last year were boys and girls under the age of 19. More than 2½ million workers under age 25 applied for social-security account numbers in 1938. Over half of these were men. Few of them perhaps realized that a social-security account means future protection for their families as well as for themselves. Under the amended Social Security Act the old-age and supervisors insurance program provides supplemental monthly benefits for the aged wives and minor children of annuiants, and for the survivors of insured workers who die.

Young workers under age 25 have received credit on the records of the Social Security Board for more than 8¼ billion dollars, since this insurance program first went into operation on January 1, 1937.

Each worker in employment covered by the old-age and survivors insurance system must have a social-security account, in which his wages are recorded by the Social Security Board. That is why it is important that every worker have only one acaccount number and that he tell it to each employer he has. The employer must know the account number so that he may report the worker's wages correctly to the Government.

The amount of the monthly check which a retired wage earner will receive will be figured on the basis of the wage credits in his social-security account. The benefits payable to a worker's dependents or survivors are also determined by his wage record, since these benefits are directly related to the amount of benefit due the wage earner.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

J. C. Wadsworth, 78, of Burlington, Vt., recently ran this ad in the local newspaper: "Mr. J. C. Wadsworth wishes to say the report he is dead and buried is absolutely false."

William O'Neill of Council Bluff, Ia., owns the city's most expensive dog house. It cost $100, is eight by ten feet in size, and has a concrete floor, asbestos shingled roof and sidewalls insulation.

A group of volunteer firemen in Marysville, Mich., disappointed by the lack of fires in town, organized an arson ring so that they could collect $3 fees for answering alarms.

Because of the steep grade on Bank Street in New Milford, Conn., officials of the town are considering the installation of hitching posts to keep parked vehicles from rolling away.

An odd combination of names was found in three men fined in one day for speeding in St. Louis. They were Alex Staid, George Faster and John C. Slowe.

After boasting that he had climbed many high structures without an accident, Alex Hassen, a steeplejack of Hyattsville, Md., fell eight feet from a shed he was painting, breaking an arm and a leg.

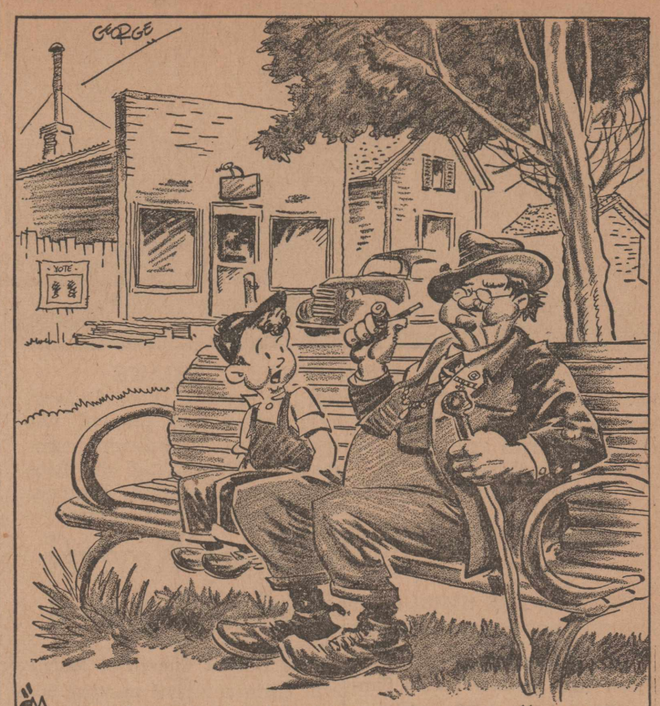

Poultrymen of Burbank, Calif., have protested against airplanes flying in their vicinty, saying their hens are frightened and refuse to lay.

To the bride of every couple he marries, Mayor James A. West of Paulsboro, N. Y., gives an oak rolling pin.

Elmer Frank, director of a choral society in Sandusky, O., made a survey which, he says, proves that only "three persons in a hundred know the second verse of the Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Martha Neil of Memphis owns a Bible printed by the Cambridge University Press in 1675.

Appearance, Reality Contrasted

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 4.

Text: Psalm 1; Matthew 7:24-27.

An extension of the last lesson on Weighing Consequences, or a sort of commentary upon it, is seen in the lesson of The Two Ways.

The great poem that opens the Book of Psalms contrasts the two ways—the way of wisdom and goodness, and the way of foolishness and evil. The poem describes the godly man, blessed in his ways and deeds, and the ungodly man, so different in his choice and in his end.

Along with these are placed the words of Jesus from the Sermon on the Mount, in which He drew the same contrast, emphasized by the description of the one man building his house upon the rock and the other man building his house upon the sands.

Here we have emphasized that contrast between appearance and reality which was a dominant note of the preceding lesson. The house built upon the sands, to all appearances, is as fine as the house on the rock. If rains never descended and floods never came, it might be as fitting for habitation. But it is the rains and the floods that constitute the real testing and that demonstrate the importance of foundations. So it is in human life and conduct. There can be no true or great living that is not strongly and firmly built.

The observant reader of the Psalms many note a seeming discrepancy in the description of evil man, between this passage and that in Psalm 37:35, where the writer speaks of having seen the wicked "in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree."

It is the figure of the tree, planted by the rivers of water and flourishing, that the writer here applies to the good man. The discrepancy, however, is more apparent than real, for when the writer in the 37th Psalms speaks of the wicked as spreading himself "like a green bay tree," he proceeds immediately to point out that this flourishing is in appearance only—that, even though he seemed to have all the appearance of prosperity and the glory of the green bay tree, "he passed away, and lo, he was not." He emphasizes in fact the same contrast that is stressed in this first Psalm. He says, "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace," whereas, in contrast, the end of the transgressors is destruction.

These lessons have a peculiar appropriateness at the present hour, when brute force and evil seem to be on top in the world, and men of peace and meekness and goodness seem to be marked for destruction. One cannot think lightly of the world tragedy that has taken so many innocent victims, but it is a good time to look deeply into the Scriptures and it is a good time to consider the lessons of history.

Is there not some hope and optimism for the future in the fact that the two things which have most persistently survived in history, despite the repeated efforts of successive generations to destroy them, are the Bible and the Jewish people, through whom this great book of life and destiny has come to the world?

Date Extended For Free Classing Of Cotton In State

Extension of the time limit up to which applications for free classification of 1940 cotton may be filed by organizing improvement groups was announced today by the Agricultural Marketing Service. Delayed planting in many areas and general lateness of the season account for the extension.

Groups eligible for this service in Collingsworth County are the one variety cotton groups at Abra, Dodson, Swearingen, and Dozier.

Applications may be filed with the Agricultural Marketing Service to August 15 for groups in all of Texas except the high plains and to August 25 for groups in the high plains in Oklahoma.

It is expected that, if a Government loan is announced, the classification memorandum furnished to members of groups qualifying for the free classing service will be accepted for loan purposes and members will not have to pay an additional fee for classification. Instructions for making application and forms for applying can be obtained from the County Agent or from the Agricultural Marketing Service at P. O. Box 1369, Dallas; P. O. Box 1140, Austin, and Room 509 U. S. Court House, El Paso, Texas.

Home Demonstration CLUB NEWS

The Extension Service Mattress Campaign which is being waged in Collingsworth County to reduce the surplus of cotton now on the market and to give every farm family, who can qualify, a good, comfortable bed, is being met with much success. A mattress demonstration was given on Friday, March 15 at the Legion Hall in Wellington by Miss Rose Erisman, County Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Doris Leggitt, District Home Demonstration Agent. There were 59 community chairmen and committeemen present, representing twelve communities in the county. Up-to-date there have been 278 applications turned in to the Home Demonstration Agent's office, which shows that the farm people in Collingsworth County are mattress conscious, and they do have a spirit of cooperation toward their county and community. This program has a three-fold purpose; first, to increase the price of cotton by decreasing the surplus, second, to give every low-income farm family an opportunity to provide good mattresses for more healthful sleeping, and third, to promote an educational program through which rural people learn to construct mattresses on the farm and how to care for them after construction. In order to set up a community center for making these mattresses the community is responsible for equipment and supplies needed for making mattresses in addition to cotton and ticking, which is furnished by the Extension Service. These supplies are as follows:

EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES NEEDED FOR MATTRESS MAKING

In Addition to Cotton and Ticking, Which Is Furnished.

Tables or scaffolds, 60 inches by 83 inches, height 30 inches.

A table may be built or it may be made by using saw horses and 12-inch boards. Usually 12-inch boards are about 11 inches in actual measurement, therefore, an inch or a little more may be left between each board in order that the table may measure 60 inches wide.

The number of tables needed will depend on the number of mattresses which will be under construction at one time. A separate table will be needed in connection with the construction of ticks and it would be advisable for this table to be the same as the others, then it may be used for mattress making if necessary.

Additional tables will be needed for cotton and supplies.

A sewing machine.

Twelve mattress roll needles—7 inch 12 gauge needles. These may be purchased from Home Demonstration Agent for 12c each.

One spool of Thompson's Superior Tufting Twine—regular. This may be purchased from Home Demonstration Agent. Two to 3 pounds, approximately 75c per pound.

Plenty of brown paper, clean canvas or sheets, to lay cotton out on.

Scales which will weigh at least 24 pounds, 50 pounds if possible.

Two yard-sticks.

Two tape measures.

Scissors.

Straight pins.

Safety pins.

White sewing thread No. 20.

Needles—large enough to carry No. 20 thread—round eye.

Thimbles.

Steel file for sharpening mattress roll needles.

Razor blades for ripping.

Beeswax.

Four broom handles to use in beating.

Eight wooden ice pick handles to be used in pushing large needles through the ticking—the picks may be removed from ordinary ice picks.

Whisk broom.

Dust cloth.

Paper towels.

Soap.

First aid kit containing at least adhesive tape, absorbent cotton, bandages and bottle of disinfectant.

Mrs. John Riddle, formerly Miss Juliette Aaron of this county, left Wednesday for her home in Ontario, Calif., after a ten days' visit here with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hufstedler left Monday for Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Hufstedler plan to return to Wellington within a few days.

Celebration Saturday Is For 71st Anniversary And 94th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Brooks, who were married on July 27, 1869, celebrated their seventy-first wedding anniversary last Saturday. Mr. Brooks celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday at this time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have been outstanding in church, civic and social activities in Wellington. They moved here in 1910.

Of married life, Mr. Brooks made the following comments several years ago. "I have always been known as a good trader, but about the best trade I ever made was when I married my wife. I say without hesitation that she is the youngest looking woman in Texas for her age. We can both remember when we made fires with a flint and spunk, used candles, slept on beds which had one leg, cooked over a fireplace, worked oxen to the plows. The women wore hoops and bustles, and houses were built without a single nail."

Attending the celebration this year were two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, and also two daughters. They are: Grady Brooks of Olton, Twiggs Brooks of Estelline, Mrs. T. M. Lane of Memphis, and Mrs. Mellie Foster, who lives in Wellington. The Messrs. Brooks were accompanied by their wives. Also attending was Miss Donnitta Blain, a great granddaughter of the couple.

easuring Is Fastest In AAA History

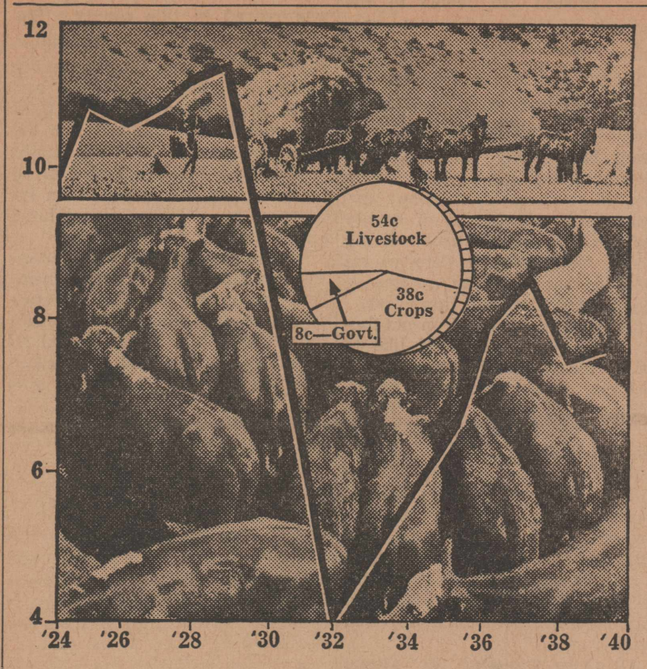

The fastest farm measuring ever done is in progress in the county now, according to C. V. Griffin, in charge of local AAA office. Out of farms, 1,227 had been measured by July 19, which is 68 per cent completely measured.

Mr. Griffin said, "We anticipate through measuring by 1940. After we get ...uring, we are going ...k on all cotton acreage ...out since the original measurements were made. This applies to cotton that did not reach the bolling stage."

Mr. Griffin also stated that cotton yields will be mailed back to the AAA office, probably next week, and that they will be mailed from there to the farmers immediately.

Parity applications will be worked up to be signed by producers and mailed to the state office.

Farmers' Income Shows Increase

Cash income from sale of products netted the American farmer $7,773,000,000 in 1939, an increase over 1938 but still below peak of 1929. Heavy line traces farm cash earnings since 1924 *in billions of dollars. Ronald Davis, accompanied by Alvin Adcock, Marshall Baxter, Alvin Roy and Melvin Kiker, made a trip to West Texas State College in Canyon, Tuesday, July 23.

While in Canyon, the group enjoyed a program at a Rotary luncheon as the guests of Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State College. They met many members of the college faculty at the luncheon.

The group went to Canyon to learn something about the curriculum of the school and its rating with other colleges, as well as the transferring of hours. Calvin, Marshall, Alvin and Melvin will attend West Texas State College this fall.

Marshall will major in agricultural education and minor in animal husbandry. Calvin will take courses pertaining to agriculture, and Melvin will enter the Department of Agriculture, where he will major in agricultural aducation. Alvin has not chosen a major yet.

"I would like to see all of my boys in the graduating class of 1940 go to college somewhere next year," Mr. Davis said.

Signing Of Parity Applications To Begin This Week

The signing of parity applications, which this year will bring Collingsworth County farmers more than $200,000, will begin this week, C. V. Griffin, who is in charge of the AAA work here, has announced. Although the exact date for the signing of the first applications has not been set, Mr. Griffin stated that all producers will be notified when their applications are ready to sign.

"The usual spirit of cooperation among the producers will be appreciated by the administration," Mr. Griffin said, but at the same time he urged that they not come to the office for this until they receive notice to do so. "Producers must have measurements on their farms approved before a parity application can be prepared and signed," he added.

Cotton parity yields for this county have been received and were mailed out Monday and Tuesday, July 29 and 30.

In connection with farm program work in this county, Mr. Griffin also announced that farm measuring in the county was approximately 85 per cent completed, and that calculations in the office were 50 per cent completed. Office calculations will not likely be completed before September, it was stated.

Mr. Griffin and Miss Merle Hays, marketing quota clerk for the county, attended a meeting in Vernon Friday and Saturday, July 26 and 27, at which time they were given instructions governing the marketing of cotton for 1940 under the marketing quotas and regulations.

"Regulations this year are more rigid than in previous years," he stated. A meeting of ginners and buyers will be held later at which time these regulations will be clarified.

W. T. Atkinson -

Campbell, Mary Louise Weaver, Beverly Ruth Davis, Netta Sue Davis, Peggy June Atkinson, Shirlene Atkinson, Sidney Gully, Wanda Sue Vaughn, Berdie Frances Weaver and Sonya Kay Atkinson.

Interment was in the Quail cemetery with the Ellis Funeral Home of Wellington in charge.

A native of Gnatville, Cherokee County, Alabama, William Iradell Atkinson was born January 23, 1868, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Atkinson, who followed their son to Collingsworth County a few years after he came here. Both parents were natives of North Carolina. Mr. Atkinson spent his childhood in the vicinity of his birth, and when he was 22 years of age, he and a brother came to Collingsworth County, and were the the first persons to settle at the place which later became Quail. After spending the night of November 13 near the Childress-Collingsworth County line, he entered this county on the morning of November 14. All day he rode, and passed but a few houses and dugouts. That night he and his brother camped on the bank of Buck Creek, near where the school house now stands. The only sign of civilization here was a new but unoccupied dugout, which was later occupied by one of their brothers. On the morning of November 15, he rode on north and settled on the land where he made his home at the time of his death.

In 1891 he broke out land and planted a crop of cotton and feed. A fine crop of cotton grew that year, but it was not gathered since there was no gin near enough to haul the cotton to. During the summer of that year, while shocking wheat for W. I. Smith, four miles south of Wellington, he saw his first hail storm, that destroyed all crops in the vicinity. In November, he went to work at the brick kiln, on the east bank of Buck Creek, where bricks for the Collingsworth County courthouse were being baked. His job was tempering the mud and putting it into the mud mill. For this reason, he often told friends, he regretted seeing the old courthouse torn down.

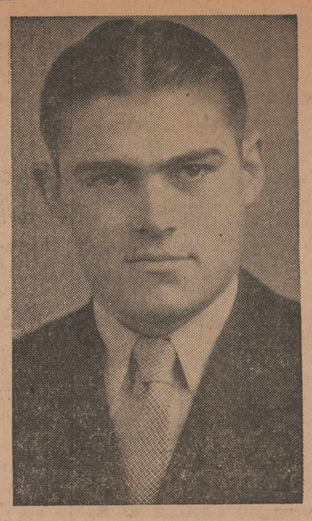

In 1892, he was elected Justice of Peace of Precinct 3 and served for six years. His first case, he used to recall, was between W. T. Huddleston and W. W. Swofford over a grain binder. In 1900 he was elected County Commissioner from that precinct and served eight years. He was again elected in 1916, and served until 1920. His first argument in this court was in favor of equalization of taxes, and although the measure was defeated at that time, it was passed the following year. He helped to lay out the first permanent road from Wellington to Memphis, and worked to help secure the Old Ozark Trail through this county.

He was one of the charter members of the Buck Creek Methodist Church, organized in 1890, which later became the Quail Methodist Church. He helped to build the first church building, serve as steward, church trustee, and district steward. Mr. Atkinson was also instrumental in securing the post office for Quail. He worked to secure schools in that section and served as school trustee "so many times I can't remember how long." At the time of his death he was a member of the board of trustees of the Quail Consolidated School District.

He also helped E. E. McCollister in the publication of the Collingsworth Echo, the second paper published in this county.

On January 26, 1908, Mr. Atkinson was married in Dalhart to Miss Elsie Viola Powell of Endee, New Mexico. To this union were born seven children, Miss Robena Atkinson of Quail, Granville Atkinson of Cortez, Colo., Howard Atkinson of Wellington, Mrs. Glennis Davis of Cortez, Colo., Mrs. Velma Wilson of Phoenix, Arizona, and Miss Vena Atkinson and W. I. Atkinson, jr., of Quail. In addition to these, Mr. Atkinson is survived by a sister and six brothers: Mrs. Willie Graham, Henry Atkinson, Alvin Atkinson, V. D. Atkinson, Jerry Atkinson, of this county, and Tom Atkinson of Phoenix, Arizona, and Edgar Atkinson, whose address is unknown.

In addition to these, hundreds of friends, both pioneers and later settlers mourn the passing of W. I. Atkinson.
