Chicago Crippled By Flood; 9 Dead

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—A record 24-hour downpour left Chicago swamped today with mounting damage estimated in the millions of dollars.

Hardest hit by the torrential rains were the city's subways, telephone systems, gas and power companies.

At least nine were dead as a result of the storm in Chicago, and another storm death was reported in nearby Will County.

In Chicago, two persons drowned, three others were electrocuted and four suffered heart attacks, three while battling floods in their homes.

Utility company losses ran into the millions of dollars. Losses to business could not be estimated.

At least 30,000 telephones were knocked out by the 6¼-inch rainfall last night and early today.

Underneath downtown Chicago, sweating sandbag crews fought to keep water from pouring over major links in one of the city's main sources of transportation, the subway. One large segment of the tubes already was inundated with 6 to 8 feet of water from the gushing runoffs.

One of those killed by the storm was an infant girl.

A 7-months-old girl, Atella Toney, drowned when she rolled out of her bed into a foot of water in the bedroom of the family's basement apartment.

Although the forecast for more rain failed to materialize Saturday afternoon, water running off the embankment of the recently completed Congress street expressway poured into the Jackson Boulevard station of the Logan Square subway.

By mid day water reached the top of the tube in the station at Congress and LaSalle streets and service was cut from the loop turnaround to Logan Square.

Workmen used sandbags and kept three pumps working full blast to keep the runoff out of the north-south State street subway.

C. J. Buck, a power engineer for the Chicago Transit Authority, said workmen and pumps were "keeping ahead of the water" and expressed confidence the State street subway would continue operations.

A torrential downpour that started during a tornado alert dumped 6.24 inches on the city in 24 hours. Most rain fell in the six-hour period between 7 p.m. Friday and 1 a.m. Saturday. The old record of 6.19 inches was set in the 24-hour period, Aug. 3 and 4, 1885.

By mid day Saturday, some major highways leading north from Chicago still were closed and barricaded.

The chief threat seemed to be danger of fires starting from shorted electrical installations or possible gas explosions where flood waters have extinguished pilot lights.

The storm halted all air travel at bustling Midway Airport—the nation's busiest—knocked out an estimated 32,600 telephones and 15,000 to 20,000 street lights, stranded hundreds of motorists, turned whole neighborhoods into lakes and created emergency conditions in hospitals.

Some 50,000 homes were without electrical service at one time or another during the storm. A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co said restoration of service cost the utility about $350,000.

As an aftermath of the storm, seven feet of water poured into the basement of a building at Midway Airport engulfing a transformer that supplies power for half the field.

Hundreds of stranded air travelers and airline employes were evacuated from a waiting room above when smoke and steam hissed from the basement.

Firemen were ordered to stay clear of the building until the Commonwealth Edison Co., could cut off power.

Fire Chief Frank Hasnerl said 3,000 volts of electricity were "running wild" in the basement of the Braniff and Capital Airlines waiting room from "three hot cables."

Patients were evacuated from suburban Ingalls Memorial Hospital in Harvey, south of Chicago, when flood waters knocked out boiler and kitchen service. The seriously ill patients were ordered removed by ambulance to St. Francis Hospital in nearby Blue Island.

Chicago's Loop business district might have suffered disastrous flooding but engineers unplugged the Chicago River at opposite ends—at Lake Michigan and suburban Lockport. The opening of locks permitted a rapid reverse flow runoff into the lake and a normal direction runoff at Lockport south of the city.

Based on the number of distress calls received, the Chicago Motor Club likened the rain storm to a midwinter blizzard.

PARADE WEDNESDAY

Float Entries Coming In

Four floats had been entered by this weekend in competition which will be held in the opening day parade Wednesday of the 21st annual Scurry County Roedeo.

Floats entered in the parade so far are by Desk & Derrick Club, Toasmasters Club, Gay 20s, and Lucky 13 Sports Club.

Prizes of $100, $65, and $35 are being offered for the top three floats in the parade by the Scurry County Rodeo Association and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Organizations which desire to enter floats may do so by calling the Chamber of Commerce.

Carl Herod, parade marshal, said businesses are invited to enter commercial floats. Commercial floats, however, cannot compete for prizes, and they need not call in entries.

The parade, which will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday, will start from the vacant lot just west of the City Bus Terminal.

Sheriff's posses and other riding groups from various points in West Texas have also been invited to ride in the parade. Trophy awards will be given the top groups.

Also, the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse will be host to the other riding groups at a barbecue set for 4 to 8 p.m. Wednesday in Towle Memorial Park. The public here is urged to attend the barbecue. Tickets, which will be $1, are on sale at Health Locker Plant and Dad & Lad.

The rodeo will open at 8 p.m. Wednesday, and performances will be at the same time each night through Saturday.

Entries are expected to be coming in by tomorrow at the rodeo association headquarters at Harrell's Feed Store, 1921 Twenty-fifth Street.

Announcing for the rodeo will be done by Buck Jackson of Pecos, well-known in rodeo circles. A specialty act will be The Flying Matadors, trampoline artists from Texas Tech who performed here last year. Stock for the show will be furnished by Goat Mayo of [illegible]. Handling the show will be officers and directors of the rodeo association. J. N. Eicke is president, Garrett Harrell vice-president, J. V. Robinson, secretary-treasurer, and Fickas Bell, Earl Abercrombie, Jess Everett, and Martin Parks directors.

Also scheduled for each night, beginning at 9, is the dance in the rodeo pavilion. Playing will be Tommy Hancock and the Roadside Playboys of Lubbock, television and radio entertainers.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce [illegible] is sponsoring a beard-growing contest and promoting Western Week here beginning tomorrow, will begin tomorrow having drawings. A pair of $30 boots will be given away each of the next four days in drawings. Each person who purchases a $1 shave permit or $1 beard permit, on sale by the Jaycees, will have tickets in the drawing.

On Wednesday afternoon, just before the parade, the Jaycees will have the beard judging, picking three first places — longest, most artistic, and ugliest beards. Each first place winner will receive a pair of $30 boots. The beard judging, open to all who have beards, will be held on the courthouse square.

Beginning tomorrow, the Jaycees will begin making checks around the business area to make sure everyone has a beard or a shave permit. Penalty for not having one of the two will be a chaining to a hitching post.

Plan To Cut Air Service Here Revised

Continental Air Lines has decided to withdraw its request to suspend service to Snyder and three other West Texas cities, Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson advised The Daily News by letter Saturday.

Burleson, who said he was one of those who protested the application to the Civil Aeronautics Board, said he understood that Continental was withdrawing its request, without prejudicing its position, pending a CAB investigation of the need of the area for local air transportation.

The congressman said the air line had indicated that it planned to relase a statement on withdrawing its application to suspend service here on Monday.

Burleson said he registered a protest to the CAB on Continental's application, and requested permission for the towns involved to file formal statements.

West Texas cities involved in the application to suspend service, which was filed with the CAB last April 22, are Snyder, Sweetwater, Breckenridge, Mineral Wells and Plainview.

"Continental says that it realizes the granting of its request would deprive these five cities of air transportation service, and that they are willing to continue service until the board investigates the need of the area for local air transportation," Burleson said.

Snyder, through the Chamber of Commerce, with other cities directly and indirectly involved, protested the application to suspend service immediately after it was filed.

Subsequently, there were rumors that the CAB planned some sort of regional hearing later this year on air service for the entire Southwestern region of the country. Several air lines have applicatins in for additions to present routes, some of them over territory in the Snyder area.

Although there was no definite word, it was generally believed locally that Continental planned to hold up its application to suspend service in the West Texas cities until the CAB can take a close look at the over-all air service route problem in the Southwest.

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

While traveling over a substantial portion of Texas recently, we fell to observing post office buildings in various cities and towns. Based on our casual observation, Snyder, just as we suspected, must take a back seat on post office facilities to most other towns, regardless of size.

Particularly impressive was a "spanking new" brick structure in a quiet little town which had a population of 1,100 in 1950 and from all appearances would not exceed that figure by much today.

* * *

On the same subject, perhaps you noticed a story out of Washington the other day about a prospective change in procedure for building new post office buildings. The word is that the lease-purchase plan will be abandoned and the government will resume a program of building its own post offices, just as it did in 1948. Snyder should try to get its bid in early, if this plan materializes and any funds are actually made available for such construction.

* * *

Well, at least we don't have a water problem. In fact, most Texas cities and towns have ample water supplies following the heavy spring rains. However, we notice that Post, our neighbor to the north, may be on the verge of a water problem if the current hot, dry spell continues. They get their water from wells, and their sources of supply and distribution system have been hard pressed to keep abreast of demands for lawn irragation, etc.

You can't beat a water source that is visible, a la Lake J. B. Thomas.

A "daily reader" has forwarded an anonymously authored communique on the subject of ladies wearing shorts. There is no indication of the sex of the author, either, but here is what "it" had to say: "I have a question I'd like settled. What are the women of Snyder trying to prove? That each can wear their shorts 'shorter'? They are leaving very little to the imagination now. And getting out in the sun and parching themselves until they look like baked mackerel. Don't they know that will dry up the natural oil in their skin and make them have wrinkles? Now don't get me wrong; a natural olive skin is beautiful and some shorts are O. K., but seems both are getting out of hand. Am I right?"

We questioned a few men on the subject, and all the them pleaded the fifth amendment.

RESCUE THWARTED

Raft Floats In Gulf Of Mexico

GALVESTON, July 13 (AP) — A Californian whose aim appeared incredibly poor was floating in the Gulf of Mexico on a life raft today, vowing he was trying to reach Brownsville, Tex.

The Coast Guard said he was considerably off course. If he follows his present route he'll end up in the South Atlantic.

The sailor identified himself as Michel Golden of Los Angeles.

Coast Guard Cmdr. T. F. Knoll said Golden claimed he needed no help and the New Orleans district office told the Galveston officers to leave him alone.

"We haven't been able to determine what he's trying to accomplish," said Knoll.

Golden told intended rescuers he was determined to sail and float the 300 miles to Brownsville.

He started Thursday from West Beach in Galveston and by this afternoon had progressed 6 to 8 miles.

Golden had 18 gallons of water aboard and 16 or 17 cans of food.

He was equipped with a compass, oars and a homemade sail. He is alone on the six-man rubber raft.

Coast Guard attention turned to the raft after rescuing three Houston men whose fishing skiff sank early this morning.

Rescued from a perch on the North Jetty rock were J. W. Pullum, and two kinsmen. Roling and Howell Pullum.

No-Pay Session Is Proposed By Ratliff

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP)—Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford proposed today a no-pay special session if one is needed to pass a more rigid lobby control law as Gov. Price Daniel suggested.

Ratliff's idea that lawmaker's forego their $25 a day salaries came amid mounting opposition, apathy, or a chilly attitude toward a [illegible] by many lawmakers.

Speaker Waggoner Carr has said he did not favor a special session if its expenses would require new taxes, and he was fearful it would.

At Lubbock today Carr said Ratliff's idea "might be a good way to go about finding out what the members think."

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey at San Augustine said he would be willing to submit Ratliff's idea to the membership "and abide by their decision."

Daniel has suggested a special session in October to write a tougher law regulating lobbyists and lobbying, and to work on his plan for a statewide watchdog commission to keep its eye on conduct of officials on all levels of government.

The regular legislature adjourned without final action on either point. The governor considered these vital in view of recent charges of official wrongdoing in connection with the veterans' land and insurance scandals and charges of improper influencing of the Legislature touched off by the naturopathy bribery case.

Ratliff suggested that if a special session on lobby controls is necessary, the Legislative Council should prepare a bill for simultaneous introduction in both houses. They would resolve themselves into a committee of the whole—The entire membership of each house—to consider the bills, saving time by avoiding "repetitious floor debate."

"By such actions a satisfactory lobby control bill could be finally passed and sent to the governor within three to six days and the Legislature could adjourn immediately," Ratliff suggested.

Band For Parade To Be Assembled

A band is to be assembled by Melvin Montgomery, high school band director, for the rodeo parade, which will be held here Wednesday afternoon, Montgomery said.

The band director said that all students who were members of the high school band last year and any who were in junior high last year but will be in the high school band this fall are urged to help in forming the parade band.

The band will assemble at the high school at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday to run through music and establish the marching form before the assembly downtown.

Those who can participate have been asked to call 3-6303 before Tuesday, Montgomery said, so an estimate can be made of the number who will be marching.

All students in the marching band will receive free tickets good for any night at the rodeo.

Montgomery said that students who play school instruments may check them out Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday. Music to be used can also be checked out any of those days.

Showers Cool North Texas

By The Associated Press

Isolated thundershowers cooled off North Texas points along the Red River Valley Saturday while most other parts of Texas sweltered in the heat.

Paris had .98 of an inch of rain, .91 of which fell in about 45 minutes. Grant, Okla., five miles north of the Red River, had 2.50 inches.

Some 2½ inches also were reported at Faught Community, 7 miles north of Paris, and Linden Community got 1.30.

Traces fell at Dallas and Fort Worth while Alpine in Far West Texas had .04.

Presidio's 107 degrees was the maximum temperature in the state Saturday and Corpus Christi was the low point with 90.

Abilene had 100, Amarillo 96, Lubbock 96, Wichita Falls 102, Dallas 100, Waco 100, Austin 98, San Antonio 98, Brownsville 92, Houston 91 and Lufkin 97.

Accused Pair Put On Board

STANTON, July 13 (AP)—Farm and ranch stockholders of the Midland Production Credit Assn. today gave a vote of confidence to two West Texas ranchmen mentioned in a Senate drought feed probe by naming them to their board of directors.

Stockholders from a 12-county area unanimously re-elected Ed Guy Branch to a new three-year term on the board and elected Walton Poage associate director for a one-year term. Both are of Rankin, Tex.

Branch and Poage were named in Washington Monday in a Senate subcommittee investigation of the drought feed program. A Dallas auditor charged that they received feed program benefits to which they were not entitled.

Both men denied the charge. As members of the MPCA directorate, they will help handle farm and ranch operating loans.

End Seen For Gas War In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, July 13 (AP)—San Antonio's gasoline price war is expected to end early next week.

The first break in the three-weeks-old war has come with an independent who was selling regular for 18.9 cents a gallon raising his price to 20.9 cents.

The independent, operator of three service stations, sent prices spiralling downward throughout the city a week ago when he dropped his price to the 18.9 level.

Seek Agreement On Cotton Legislation

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Cotton area congressmen, some growers and cotton industry representatives, will meet here Tuesday night to try to agree on Legislation which all can endorse.

Many different bills, with varying approaches to the cotton problem, have been introduced in Congress this year.

Rep. Poage (D-Tex) said he hoped that after the after the Tuesday meeting a new bill could be written which would include the best parts of the various proposals.

Jayne's Ambition: Beauty Everywhere

DALLAS, July 13 (AP)—If she wants to be happy, a woman must try, Jayne Mansfield believes, to be a "love goddess."

"Everyone should try to be the best — the best lawyer, the best woman should be as femminine as she can. The best woman, I do. I am," she said here today in an interview.

Jayne came home to Dallas and Texas to christen Temco's new jet trainer Monday at the Grand Prairie Plant.

She loves Dallas, she said, because, "everything happened to me here. I'm glad I grew up in Dallas. I want to visit all my old schools—University Park Elementary School, Highland Park Junior and Senior High Schools and SMU."

It was in Dallas, she recalled, that she developed the determination to be a Hollywood star. She studied acting at Southern Methodist University and with three private teachers, including Baruch Lumet.

"I was a brunette then, and covered up. Men whistled at me, but that's all.

"I decided my body was an asset, and I'd use it."

Since then, her meteoric rise has been charted by thousands of cheesecake photographs concentrating on that asset. She figures she's been photographed more than anybody, including Marilyn Monroe.

Although success came to her as "the girl with the 44-inch bust," Jayne believes a beautiful woman must be beautiful everywhere, from any angle.

I'd like for my little toe to become so famous I had to hide it."

So on this trip she's emphasising a new beauty spot — the small of her back. When she arrived yesterday at Carter Field she wore a sheath dress with an open back. Today in her hotel suite she wore a bare midriff lounging suit.

It was white lace over "nude" colored material, she said.

Jayne changed into two different Bikini bathing suits for the photographer. Neither hid her back either.

OIL ROUNDUP

Gas Bill's Close Vote Nothing New

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, July 13 (AP) — The history of natural gas legislation includes many battles and close votes.

There was nothing new about the 15-13 vote by which the current Harris Bill squeezed by the House Commerce Committee this week.

The Harris Bill, like President Truman's 1950 veto of the Kerr Bill killed by President Truman in 1950 also had narrow escapes, particularly in the house.

The new bill, with only lukewarm support from many oilmen who were the strongest backers faces possibly the toughest fight of three measures.

The bill would free natural gas producers from utility type regulation by the Federal Power Commission. The old Harris Bill, as was the case with the Kerr bill, would have freed producers of federal controls.

Texas independent operators agreed to back the current legislation but have said they would review their position if several proposed amendments are not accepted. The House Committee did not adopt the amendments.

The threat of a filibuster that plagued the two vetoed bills have not developed, that such a battle might be revived if House and Senate votes are delayed until 1958, an election year.

A house vote this year is very possible but the Senate is not expected to be in a mood for further vacation delays once it ends the current civil rights debate.

BANKERS PROMOTED—Melvin Boothe, left above, and Herman Bond, were promoted to be assistant cashiers of the West Texas State Bank last week. The promotions were announced Saturday. Boothe has been employed by the bank since April 1, 1957, and Bond has been with the bank about one year.

Missile Projects Take Huge Cuts

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — About a billion dollars worth of research work in missiles, aircraft and other weapons has been scrapped during the last year as the Defense Department sifted out competitive designs or canceled projects for budgetary reasons.

This figure, based on official and unofficial estimates, does not include other projects dropped during the last decade of intensive development efforts by the military.

Latest and biggest of the discontinued projects is the Navaho long range guided missile. That was one of the first great missile projects, started in 1946. An unofficial estimate today was that about 700 million dollars has been put into the Navaho project the past 11 years.

Next largest of recent cancelled programs has been the C132 transport plane. The Air Force has estimated 70 million dollars was spent in designing and building special engines, landing gear, ground handling equipment and a full-scale wooden "mock-up" of the big transport.

Within the past year the Air Force also has announced abandonment of two other aircraft projects, a long-range, supersonic fighter-interceptor and a new tactical bomber. The unofficial estimate for spending on the design study for the interceptor is about six million dollars, for the tactical bomber about 15 to 18 million dollars. Neither of these projects was carried into the actual construction of hardware or mock-up stages, being limited to feasibility and design studies.

The Navy also has canceled or curtailed two aircraft developmental programs within recent weeks—an improved long-range radar warning aircraft and a new jet-powered, carrier-based attack plane. Navy officials were unable to estimate today the outlay for these projects.

An Army spokesman said there has been no major cancellations in its research and development program up to now, although there have been some "refinements" in contracts.

However, the Army is facing the distinct possibility of a major cancellation—in its Jupiter Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile project.

Johnson Is 'Walking On Eggs'

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—That man who appears to be walking on eggs in the Senate's controversy over civil rights is Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Johnson's efforts are being directed primarily toward keeping Democratic members from flaring into open warfare with each other over the touchiest political issue of the times.

If he can, the Texas senator wants to avoid a split that might endanger Democratic chances of retaining control of Congress in next year's elections.

As a senator from one of the states that made up the Confederacy, Johnson is popularly supposed to be opposed to Senate passage of any civil rights bill.

But Texas has changed since Civil War days. Although he lives in a community which is strongly segregationist, Johnson is aware that a lot of people in Texas seem willing to accept school integration. Whether he can afford politically to vote for a watered down version of a civil rights measure remains to be seen.

No matter what reasonableness he may display, Johnson's moves as Democratic leader are being watched closely by both the Dixie Democrats and their Northern colleagues who class themselves as liberals.

By long, painstaking efforts Johnson seems to have impressed on Democrats in both wings that they have nothing to gain by attacking each other publicly. They have been exceedingly polite, as demonstrated by the flowery tribute paid by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) the other day.

Douglas, a supporter of the House-approved bill the Senate is expected to agree to take up next week, and Stennis are poles apart on the civil rights issue. But Douglas made a point of praising Stennis' integrity and his gentlemanliness.

The biggest part of Johnson's job has been to soothe the Southerners as much as possible and get them to agree not to burst out into filibustering speeches against the motion of Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, to bring the House bill actually before the Senate.

The Democratic leader has had to use all of his persuasive powers to keep the impatient Knowland from trying to force the Senate into around-the-clock sessions, which could only have angered the Southerners into retaliatory delaying tactics.

While he has dealt with Knowland, Johnson has not passed up the opportunity to needle the Republicans politically.

Johnson insists there was no political design behind his move to make the Senate's "unfinished business", a bill authorizing New York State to build a 600 million dollar power plant at Niagara Falls.

Sens. Ives and Javits, New York Republicans, helped along by Dixie members' fear they would lose if they fought to the last ditch in this preliminary skirmish.

But when they vote to displace it with the civil rights measure as the business before the Senate, they will be in the position of approving an indefinite delay in the consideration of the Niagara legislation.

Johnson's success in bringing Southern Democrats around to the point of agreeing to let the civil rights bill go to the Senate without a filibuster obviously was rights measure, said there would be "dire" consequences unless the Niagara bill is passed promptly.

Russell Moves To Relax Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) moved in the Senate today to pull some of the enforcement teeth of the civil rights bill. Supporters tried to rally their forces to oppose compromises.

With the Senate debating for the sixth day a motion to take up a bill he has labelled "vicious", Russell offered three amendments.

The principal one would strike out Part III of the bill as passed by the House. That section authorizes the attorney general to bring civil injunction suits to prevent infringement or threatened infringement of civil rights in general. Violators of injunctions issued by federal judges could be fined or jailed by the judges without jury trial.

Russell has contended this portion of the bill is aimed at enforcing the Supreme Court's school desegregation order and at forcing integration in public places in the South. He has said it reaffirms presidential authority to use troops to enforce civil rights.

Russell also moved to make the appointment of a staff director of the proposed civil rights commission subject to Senate confirmation.

JUST A JOB

Steer Wrestling Dangerous

Falling from the saddle of a galloping horse to the sharp, pointed horns of a snuffy, 900 pound steer impresses most people as a hazardous way of making a living. But to the rodeo contestants who specialize in steer wrestling, it's just another job.

The steer wrestler prepares for his work as carefully — and as matter of factly — as a banker studies a possible investment. In both cases it's largely a question of making the right decision at the right time.

Practice is essential to this event and some bulldogging experts even improve their practice sessions by studying movies of other steer wrestling greats, carefully noting flaws in timing and tricks of balance.

Time is a basic factor in the event. With a slip or trip costing valuable seconds, a cowboy must make a good start out of the chute, whether the local rules require starts behind the barrier or lap and tap.

Steers are given a pre-determined head start in most large arenas. A scoreline is marked several feet in front of the chute, and one of the flagmen stands next to this line, with a line to a spring latch holding a rope across the box where the contestant waits. When the steer dashes across the scoreline, the flagman drops his flag, simultaneously pulling the rope barrier from in front of the bulldogger, and the race is on.

But if the overanxious bulldogger beaks the barrier, starting before his signal, a ten-second pentaly is added to his time. Conversely, if he waits too long, the steer gains yardage and more seconds are lost.

Once out of the chute, the steer takes off tearing at top speed down the arena, the cowboy's horse dodges and hedges with the steer, no two of which react in the same way. Another cowboy rides as a hazer on the other side of the steer, to keep the steer running straight. The steer might "set up" —stop just as the wrestler lunges from his saddle—and the cowboy takes a big grab at the air and a big bite of dust.

Once a cowboy gets a firm grip on the head of the critter, he must bring him to a complete stop by throwing his boot heels into the dirt ahead of the steer. He'll be dragged along helplessly if his feet get behind him.

As soon as the steer falls on its side with all four legs free and the feet and head pointing in the same direction, time is up. The flagman, mounted nearby, drops his flag and the timer's watch is stopped. But if the steer falls with its legs under it or spread eagled — a "dog fall" —the cowboy usually has to let him up and start over. If the steer gets loose, the dogger may take no more than one step to recapture it.

A steer can't be thrown by accident. "Houlihanning" — jumping on the head of the steer so it's knocked off its feet—is taboo. If this happens, the dogger must let him up and they're off again. "Pegging"—driving a horn into the ground to gain leverage is also outlawed.

Steer wrestling is a man-sized job, regardless of how scientifically it is approached. Out of the saddle at a full gallop and onto the horns of an unruly pack of muscle and bone will never be safe or easy.

OWNER OF CAFE INSURES MUSTACHE

SAN DIEGO (AP) —Restaurant owner George Pernicano says he is insuring his mustache, measuring 15 inches from tip to tip, with Lloyds of London for $50,000.

He said he was prompted by the furor over orders by the city's police and fire chiefs that mustaches must go from their departments. He professed, with tongue in cheek, that he feared the ban might somehow spread.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mares. The father, General manager of the Monsanto plant at Texas City at the time of a 1947 waterfront disaster there, now is managing director of Petro-Tex Chemical Corp. of Houston.

Critically Injured

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—An attractive young brunette from Chicago was critically injured today when she plunged naked from a 24th floor window of the Savoy-Plaza Hotel and landed on a 22nd floor setback. She told hospital aides she was Caroline Gleason, 24. She suffered a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Girard expressed the hope that he will be acquitted at the forthcoming trial. District Judge Juzo Kawachi, who will preside, has promised a "fair and fast" trial.

Twin Hostesses Cause Confusion

DALLAS, July 13 (AP) — Twin airline hostesses who alternate on flights told today of how "our passengers get mixed up."

They are Faye and Raye Wilson, 23, of Duncanville.

One flies from Dallas to Midland while the other takes the Houston flight on Continental Air Lines. Next day they trade schedules.

"Passengers never can understand why we have ask their names all over again," Raye laughed.

Another confusing period was when Raye was on a flight from El Paso to Odessa which interchanged with an Odessa-Dallas flight hostessed by Faye.

They caused confusion among fans and referees when they played basketball at Wayland College at Plainview.

The only time anyone ever successfully told them apart was during a childhood period when Raye hit Faye on the forehead with a doll.

"But two weeks later Raye got hit by a two-by-four at school—she says—and had an identical scar in the same place," Faye said.

Both are 5 feet, 7¾ and have identical weights and measurements.

"We even wear the same shoes and ring sizes," Faye said.

They hope to be assigned to the same flight.

"Our passengers will really think they're getting whiz-bang service then," they said.

Aly Takes Throne With Wink

By STANLEY JOHNSON

GENEVA, July 13 —A handsome 6-foot Harvard senior mounted a white satin throne today and with a grin and wink began his rule as spiritual leader of 20 million Ismaili Moslems.

On the spacious lawn of a villa overlooking Lake Constance the new Aga Khan IV, dressed in a blue flannel suit bought in the United States, received the first homage of kneeling religious followers.

Word arrived from Karachi, an important Ismaili center, that Ismailis everywhere would accept the will of the Aga Khan III in naming Prince Karim, his 20-year-old grandson, as his spiritual successor.

It had been expected that Prince Aly Khan, father of Karim, would inherit the spiritual throne. But Mrs. Germaine Vuillier, director of the Aga Khan's beloved and valuable racing stables, said the Aga Khan had personally asked Aly to bypass the Ismaili leadership in order to see that the stables keep operating.

Mrs. Vuillier said the Aga Khan told his son it would be impossible for one man to handle the jobs of watching after the stables and safeguarding the welfare of the Ismailis.

"Therefore he asked Aly to sacrice the position of Imam (spiritual leader) and run the stables," she declared. "Aly is one of the greatest horse experts."

Neither Aly nor his brother, Prince Sadruddin, were present for the ceremonies on the lawn. They were in downtown hotels with their fiancees. Sadruddin is planning to wed London model Nina Dyer, and Aly a Paris model, Bettina.

But later the new Aga Khan joined his father at the hotel suite they both share. Karim rushed up to Aly, threw his arms around him and kissed him fondly.

"My religious responsibilities begin as of today," the new Aga Khan declared. But during the ceremonies he was unable to contain an occasional grin and an almost imperceptible wink at newsmen he knew in the crowd.

Needy Citizens Will Get Help

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP) —Texas takes another broad step Monday for its needy citizens.

Welfare offices will begin taking applications for payments to the totally and permanently disabled 18 to 65 years old.

Up to three million dollars in state money will be added to federal funds the next two years to help take care of complete and permanent invalids whose relatives cannot support them.

"We have no idea how many such persons there are in Texas," said John Winters, commissioner of public welfare.

If Texas follows the statistical trend of the 42 other states which already have disabled assistance programs, there may be more than 16,500 complete invalids in the state—about 3½ per 1,000 population.

How many of these will want state and federal aid and how many will finally qualify for payments are question marks.

"One of our men made some guesses," Winters said. "He guessed we might receive 20,000 applications this first year, of which 8,000 might qualify for payments. He guessed there might be 15,000 applications the second year with 6,000 qualifying."

Winters and his executive assistant, Weldon Watson, say there have been an unusual number of inquiries about the payments. They expect thousands of applications the next few weeks.

There will be no payments made until September, when the appropriation made by the recent Legislature is available.

The Welfare Department hopes to make the disabled assistance payments about the same as the present $45 monthly average for old age assistance and the $49 average for assistance to the blind. State law will limit maximum payments to $58 monthly, as it is now in some old age assistance cases.

Actually the state will pay less than half of the total monthly payments with the rest coming from money made available by the federal Social Security Act. The entire plan was approved by Texas voters Nov. 13.

As in the case of old age assistance, the federal government pays $24 of the first $30 of each monthly grant. The rest of the monthly check is paid 50-50 by state and federal funds.

Winters estimates that if the disabled assistance payments are to be kept in line with old age and blind assistance checks, the total disabled role must be limited to 10,000 to 12,000 the next two years.

"Some people may get mad because they don't qualify but we have to do the best we can with the money we have," he said. "We have to be sure that the persons in worst need are cared for first."

The disabled assistance law covers persons either totally and permanently invalided by physical or mental causes. However, most payments likely will be made to those physically disabled since there are state institutions already provided for those mentally disabled.

Khrushchev Wants His Bread With Butter Spread On It

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 13 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev recommended today that Marxism-Leninism be spread with butter to make it "even more tasty" to the world.

The Soviet Communist party boss spoke to a mass meeting, made up largely of miners and steelworkers, in Moravska Ostrava, a Czechoslovak coal-steel center near the Polish frontier. The address was broadcast by the Czechoslovak radio.

Reminding the audience that "I am an old miner myself," Khushchev appeared to refer to the ousted Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich in a sarcastic observation:

"We have among us some Marxist scholars, real bookworms, who regard as prosaic the task we have set for ourselves, including the aim of catching up with the United States in the production of meat and milk.

"Now I ask you, would it be bad for us if we spread our Marx-Leninist' teachings with a piece of butter? I say that with a good bread spread like that, Marx-Leninism would be even more tasty. And with good housing, with a better and more abundant life, with good schools we will win all the peoples for socialism and communism. That will spread and deepen the ideas of Marx-Leninism in the minds of the people."

Frequently interrupted by laughter and applause, he said:

"Now there are richer countries in the world than we Socialist—Communist — countries. That is they are richer than we today—but they won't be tomorrow. Why? I'll tell you. Just as one cannot delay a birth when the time comes so it is impossible to prevent the succession and replacement of capitalism by socialism."

Speaking of Soviet Russia's development he said:

"We have become the No. 2 industrial power of the world. United States ranks ahead of us and we are not going to let the United States outstrip us. We are going to surpass the United States."

While Khrushchev visited Mosavska-Ostrava, Premier Nikolai Bulganin, his traveling companion, inspected Brno, the industrial capital of Moravia. He addressed workers at the Jan Sverna engineering works.

The Moscow radio quoted Bulganin as saying, "The foreign policy of the the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia is directed at easing world tension and averting a new world war."

History Of Gas Measure Is Turbulent

HOUSTON, July 13 (AP) — The history of natural gas legislation includes many battles and close votes.

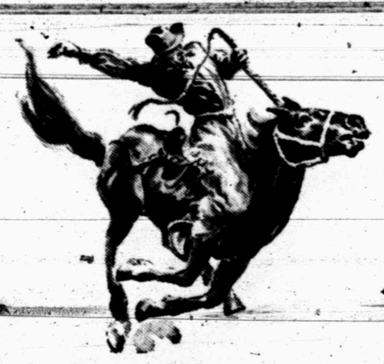

There was nothing new about the 15-13 vote by which the current Harris Bill squeezed by the House Commerce Committee this week.

The Harris Bill that President Eisenhower vetoed last year and the Kerr Bill killed by President Truman in 1950 also had narrow escapes, particularly in the House.

The new bill, with only lukewarm support from many oilmen who were the strongest backers of the Eisenhower-vetoed bill, faces possibly the toughest fight of three measures.

The bill would free natural gas producers from utility type regulation by the Federal Power Commission. The old Harris Bill, as was the case with the Kerr bill, would have freed producers of federal controls.

Texas independent operators agreed to back the current legislation but have said they would review their position if several proposed amendments are not accepted. The House Committee did not adopt the amendments.

Soil Conservation Practices Varied

Conservation is a thing of varied practices, and there are many things in the way of conservation happening around this area now.

Included are these, according to Soil Conservation Service technicians:

Cooperators of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District who have been spraying blue panic grass with 2-4-D to kill out weeds include Jack Martin, Fluvanna, 70 Hermleigh, 70 acres, and Frank Strom, 830 acres. Several others plan to spray their perennial grasses in the near future.

Hubert Walker, who lives in Borden County, is using peas as a soil building crop in rotation. He has 60 acres of the summer legume planted two cotton, blank row, and two peas and blank.

J. W. Floyd of Lloyd Mountain was busy mowing seven acres of weeping love grass to cut down on weed competition for moisture. He planted the grass in May.

Vernon Stipes, west of Snyder, has about 40 acres of Chinese red cowpeas interplanted with sorghum to be used for soil building.

Walter Stirl, south of Hermleigh, has about 17 acres of guar which he planted for soil building purposes. He plans to plow the guar into the soil to increase the organic matter content.

Arthur Lee Pieper in the same area has 100 acres of whipporwill and Chinese red cowpeas planted for soil building.

The Schattel brothers in the Hermleigh area have 800 acres of wheat stubble plowed into the soil for mulch.

Herman Hundsnurcher now has 95 acres of perennial grass growing off well on the 300 acres he cultivates. He has 60 acres of blue panic, 25 acres of sideoats grama, and 10 acres of King Ranch bluestem. He said his cotton is doing best on the land where he had winter peas in the winter of 1955-56.

State Forest Fires Held To Record Low

COLLEGE STATION, July 13 (AP)—Heavy rains this spring have held Texas forests fires to a record low.

Dr. A. D. Folweiler, director of the Texas Forest Service, said today only 382 such fires burned between Jan. 1 and June 30. They fired timber on 5,143 acres of privately owned land.

In the first half of 1956 there were 1,757 forest fires in the state on 39248 acres.

Germans To Train

BONN, July 13 (AP)—West Germany's new navy is sending 12 officers and 28 men to the U. S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean for training in operation of destroyers.

Returning To Normal

CAIRO (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India said today British-Egyptian relations are "progressively returning to normal" in the framework of a general lessening of international tensions.

BABY WHOOPERS BIG BIRDS NOW—The pair of rare whooping cranes hatched at New Orleans' Audubon Park zoo less than two months ago stand nearly as tall as parents Crip, second from right, and Josephine as they stroll around in their pen. Baby at right is three day older than the other. Previously, another whooper born in captivity lived only 45 days. Zoo officials are now confident these two new members of the rare species will grow to maturity.

Good General Rain Is Needed In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, July 13 (AP)—Texas needs a good general rain for crops and ranges, the Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"High temperature and wind have dried the surface, creating a critical period for most crops which are late but now are off to a good start, and for ranges which have been lush so far this year, except in some of West Texas," Director G. G. Gibson said.

Cotton and grain sorghum is in all stages, ranging from peak harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the Coastal Bend area planted and up in the South Plains.

Livestock is in generally good condition, but screwworm damage still is a major problem. Hay baling is at a peak. Seasonal truck crop harvest continues in East Texas. The wheat harvest is complete in the panhandle.

West of the Pecos ranges remain in critical condition and stockmen continue feeding their herds. All ranges and dryland crops are making good progress. Livestock parasites continue bad. Lamb marketing continues and calves are being contracted by buyers.

All cotton and grain sorghum is up in the South Plains and making rapid progress although extremely late. There is a light investation of fleahoppers and thrips on cotton. Stockwater is adequate, but ranges are beginning to burn.

In the Amarillo area the wheat harvest is complete. Farmers are busy with other crops and need a general rain.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley cotton harvest and the Coastal Bend area grain sorghum harvest are at their peaks and pastures and growing crops in South Texas are in a serious need of moisture. Cotton insect damage is serious. Sorghum yields are good.

Surface moisture is scarce in northeast Texas on upland fields. Corn, sorghum and cotton still are making good growth with very little insect damage. Hay is plentiful, stockwater adequate and cattle are gaining weight. The peach harvest is bringing good prices.

Deep East Texas is getting dry on top. Irrigation has begun on river bottomland, flooded a few weeks ago. Young crops need rain, but old cotton and corn are in good condition. Pastures are in good condition.

The Central Texas cotton crop is making good growth. Fleahoppers and thrips are troublesome. Early corn and grain sorghum are maturing. Late planted crops need rain. Pastures also are feeling the lack of moisture. Livestock are in good condition. The peanut crop is planted and up.

Many crops and pastures are suffering for rain in North Texas, but some crops continue to grow. Ranges are extremely weedy but livestock is in good condition.

The Rolling Plains cotton and grain sorghum crops are growing but cutworms, webworms, aphids, thrips and cabbage loopers are causing damage. The small grain harvest is complete with wheat yields of 12-15 bushels an acre.

The Edwards Plateau must have rain soon if grain sorghum yields are to be high. Young crops need rain as surface moisture is being depleted rapidly by hot, dry winds. Livestock is doing well and prices are holding up. Screwworms are bad. The pecan outlook is spotted.

Crop prospects in the South Central Texas are reported good. Rain is needed. Heavy insect damage is reported on cotton.

Along the Gulf Coast area it has been extremely hot and rain is needed, but crops still are making good growth. Crops are late and there is some insect damage to cotton.

Saddle Bronc Riding Is Big Challenge To Rodeo Cowboys

"There never was a horse that couldn't be rode and there never was a cowboy that couldn't be throwed."

Thus, in the hallowed idiom of the sport, the cowboy sums up the challenge of saddle bronc riding, the contest of man versus beast that has become the accepted trademark of both rodeo and the American West.

Eight odd years ago, when bronc riding was considered more a business than a sport, knowing how to hang onto a saddled outlaw was a necessary cowboy skill. Breaking wild or untamed horses to the saddle was something just about every hand had to be able to do.

But in these days of mechanization and jeeps, when horses are kept mostly for show or racing, bronc riding is a full fledged sport, complete with a bookful of rules and a trunkful of traditions. Somehow, both seem to favor the horse.

Whenever bronc riders reminisce about the greats of a past era, you'll hear them talk about Steamboat, Five Minutes to Midnight, and of a more recent time, Miss Klamath, a mean mare that dusted every champion who tried her before she died last year.

But the greatest of them all was a little black bronc named Midnigth who started out as the saddle horse of a Canadian School marm. One day, the story goes, the then gentle horse shied at a tumble weed and pitched her mistress in the ditch, an outlaw from that moment on.

In better than a dozen years of bucking off the best riders in the business, Midnight's record was unmarried: nobody ever made a qualified ride on her.

When you know the rules that restrict the saddle bronc rider in a modern rodeo, you begin to wonder why more horses haven't equalled the record of Miss Klamath and Midnight. The deck seems stacked against the rider.

He can either bring his own or borrow a saddle but it must conform to definite specifications set by the Rodeo Cowboys' Association that rule out high pommels or cantles or any "freck" riggings that make it easier to ride.

For eight to ten seconds (according to local rules) he must not only hold his seat on the hurricane deck but do his best to spur the bronc from shoulder to flank. He has a course, braided rope rein to hand on to, which he can't wrap around his rein hand or even touch with his free hand.

Unless he spurs the bronc over the point of the shoulders on the first jump out of the chute, he's disqualified. He earns a gooseegg in the judges' books, too, if he touches any part of the saddle, the rein or the horse with his free hand, or if he loses stirrup during the ride.

'Deep Freeze Harry' Is Still Mad

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Five years ago Harry Vaughan dazzled White House visitors with gold braid and a broad field of "fruit salad" campaign ribbons on his hefty chest.

In those days he was known as a brash, uninhibited, fast-talking quipster—some called him "court jester" to Harry Truman — and the most controversial military aide in the history of American presidents.

"Deep-Freeze Harry," Washington columnists dubbed Vaughan, referring to his role as a major target in the Senate investigation during the Truman adminstration.

Today Maj. Gen. Harry Hawkins Vaughan, ret., is a quiet, soft-spoken church elder who likes to spend his days in old clothes puttering around the garden of his half-acre home in Fairfax County, Va.

Even now the 63-year-old general makes little pretense at hiding his bitterness over the criticism that swirled around his head through most of his seven years in the White House.

"It was pretty rough," he said in an interview. "I guess Dean Acheson, former secretary of state, has been called an S.O.B. in more dialects than I have, but he's the only one I can think of.

"Still, as Harry Truman used to say, if you can't stand the heat you shouldn't be in the kitchen. And we had plenty of heat at the White House in my day."

Vaughan was particularly irked by what he called "lies" about his drinking habits. He said he didn't even like the stuff.

"It's a funny thing. If you played poker and drank bourbon with Truman you were a hoodlum. Today if you play bridge and drink scotch with President Eisenhower you're a gentleman."

Vaughan said he had often been depicted as a raconteur of off-color jokes, but he insisted the humor that tickled Truman was clean and spontaneous.

In 1945, soon after Vaughan entered the executive mansion with Truman, a friend since World War I days, he addressed a women's church auxiliary in Alexandria, Va. In his free-wheeling style Vaughan described Winston Churchill as "a garrulous old gentleman who never says less than 20 words where 10 will do."

The remark touched off a lively squall. Vaughan explained he thought his talk was off the record, but administration officials winced.

From then on, he kept finding himself in hot water.

In 1949, a Senate subcommittee called the general on the carpet in its probe of favors to "five per centers"—the nickname given to agents who wangled government contracts for a fee, usually 5 per cent.

Witnesses pointed the finger at Vaughan as being mixed up in a wide range of transactions.

His old friend John Maragon, later sentenced to 8 to 24 months in jail for perjury, disclosed that Vaughan had received seven home freezers from a Chicago perfume manufacturer who wanted favors from the government.

On the witness stand, Vaughan admitted getting the freezers—one of which went to Truman's home in Independence, Mo.—but denied any wrongdoing.

The freezer furor had scarcely ebbed before Sen. Kem (R-Mo) got his dander up over a letter Vaughan had written to Federal Judge George H. Moore in St. Louis. The letter concerned a leniency plea for an automobile dealer convicted of evading $139,336 in federal income taxes.

A White House statement said Vaughan had merely passed on the plea. Kem demanded an investigation, but it never came off.

How does it feel to be out of the limelight? "I'm delighted," he said. "I'd like to have been out of the White House long before I left, but Harry Truman seemed to think I was doing a worthwhile job.

"For that reason, I'd go through it all again—if I had to."

Now living on his $9,000-a-year Army pay as a retired major general, Vaughan resides in a comfortable but far from pretentious gray fieldstone house on a hill overlooking the Potomac River, about three miles south of Alexandria, Va.

Among cherished mementoes of Vaughan's White House years is a worn grain-leather covered pocket Bible. Inside is inscribed:

"To Harry H. Vaughan, friend, comrade, adviser, military aide; read it, act on it and you'll be, as you always have, fundamentally right. Harry S. Truman. May 15, '45."

State Guard Is Reviewed By Governor

NORTH FT. HOOD, July 13 (AP)—Price Daniel reviewed today for the first time as governor the 36th Texas National Guard Division, marching in parade midway in its two weeks of training.

It was the biggest peacetime review the division had ever held. Nearly 10,000 Guardsmen were in the parade.

The T-patchers, commanded by Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney of Dallas, paid a special tribute also to Lt. Gen. Ernest Thompson of Amarillo, who retired as commander of the Texas National Guard after 40 years. He was promoted to brevet general.

Hundreds braved the scorching heat to attend the parade. Later they joined in the reunions throughout the camp.

In the reviewing party were Lt. Gen. Jon Collier, 4th Army commander; Maj. Gen. William Chavsez; Maj. Gen. K. L. Berry, adjutant general of Texas; Thompson, Maj. Gen. W. N. Gilmore, 3rd Corps commander, and Brig. Gen. James Taylor of Kerens, 36th Division artillery commander.

The Eisenhower Trophy, awarded to the outstanding unit during its armory inspection, was presented to Ambulance Co., 111th Medical Battalion, Whitney.

The Governor's Trophy, for exceptional accomplishments in training during 1956, went to Co. B, 736th ordinance Battalion, Austin.

Commendations for disaster relief participation went to units of the 142nd Infantry, commanded by Col. Everett Simpson of Amarillo.

Special recognition went to Co. E, and its commander, Capt. Woodrow Paige of Borger, for performance during the March 1957 snowstorms in Hutchinson and Ochiltree counties.

Other units of the regiment participated in snow storm relief at Amarillo, Canyon, Tulia and Borger, and flood relief at Brownwood, Abilene and San Angelo.

The T-patchers will be back in camp tomorrow, and early Monday will be on bivouac in the field for a combat exercise and troop maneuver.

Dulles Tour Of Europe Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A proposal that Secretary of State Dulles make a personal tour of Communist-dominated Eastern Europe in search of a more durable peace was advanced today by Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.).

Mansfield, who is assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, included his suggestion in a globe-ranging 12,000-word speech that touched off a lively foreign policy discussion on the Senate floor. Debate on civil rights legislation, for which the Saturday session was convened, was temporarily sidetracked.

Mansfield criticized Eisenhower administration policy as based on a "fear-laden inflation of the Soviet threat" which he said can "only lead to a fruitless search for absolute security." He said the country ought to be "big enough and confident enough" to initiate a positive policy for peace.

For one thing, he suggested mutual advantages might result if the United States expands its trade with other contacts with Eastern European nations as the occasion presents itself."

His criticism of the administration brought several Republicans to their feet in defense of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles. Democrats rallied behind Mansfield.

As for the world situation in general, Mansfield declared that "this so-called peace is not peace at all" but a "desperate struggle by fingertips to survival."

"It is," he said, "a tortured dance of diplomacy on the edge of the abyss."

Sen. Thye (R-Minn) said that despite any criticisms by Mansfield or others, there is peace throughout the world and no American soldier is spilling his blood on any battlefield in the fifth year of the Eisenhower administration."

Coverage Of News In Red China Studied

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The State Department announced today it is inviting five leaders of newspaper, news magazine and radio-television organizations to a meeting with secretary Dulles next Thursday to discuss the dispatch of American newsmen to Red China.

The disclosure, together with information from official sources, indicated Dulles has substantially decided on a formula to permit a limited number of newsmen to enter Red China.

The United States has no diplomatic relations with Communist China and for years has maintained a policy of economic, cultural and diplomatic boycott. However, news officials have protested that barring reporters from the area denied the American people information on conditions inside Red China which should be made available to them.

The State Department said Asst. Secretary Andrew Berding, chief of public relations, also will attend the Thursday meeting.

Invited to the session, the department press office said, are:

Robert Hurligh, president of the American Assn. of Radio and Television Correspondents; William Dwight, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn.; Henry Luce, president of Time, Inc.; Jenkin Lloyd Jones, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and Theodore Koop, president of Radio-Television News Directors Assn.

First Job Of Frontier Cowboy Was To Tame Its Wild Horses

Before the American cowboy could tame the west, he had to tame it's wild horses. Whether raised on ranches or gathered in herds from the open ranges, the horse was the only means of transportation along the vast reaches of the half continent.

In the old days bronc busting proficient hands travelled from outfit to outfit breaking horses for so much a head. But just about every cowpuncher had to be able to sit a bucket since many horses never "broke out" completely.

Because of this skill, bucking contests became a natural part of the early-day cowboy recreation. Although over the years, the event has been restricted by rules, the principle is the same in today's arena as it was the first time a cowboy bet his skill against his money; it's a test of manpower against animal cunning.

Bareback bronc riding, usually the first contest event on a professional rodeo program, is the wilder of rodeo's two bronc riding events. Unrestricted by even so much as a halter, the bareback horse had his rider at a disadvantage the moment the chute gate flies open.

The only equipment used in the event is a surcingle with a simple leather handhold on top. There is no saddle to help the cowboy keep his seat nor stirrups to absorb part of the shock of the bucks. And the rider has no rein to help him control the horse.

To qualify the contestant must "mark him out," spurring over the point of the horse's shoulders as the bronc's feet hit the ground on the first jump out of the chute. Two cowboys judges follow closely every movement of the ride from opposite sides of the horse.

They score the ride on the basis of from one to twenty points, depending largely on how he spurs, and the horse from 65 to 85 points on how well he bucks. To qualify the rider must hang on for eight seconds.

Riding with rowels on his spurs that are too sharp in the opinion of the judges, touching the horse with his free hand or a rigging that comes off without breaking will earn the cowboy a "goose egg" (zero) on the judges books and will cost him his entry fee.

Loses Friend, Gets Money

CAPE ELIZABETH, Maine (AP)—Miss Marion E. Casey, retired schoolteacher with a $100-a-month pension, lives comfortably in this ocean-side suburb of Portland.

At 66, Miss Casey has gray hair combed back into a bun, a pleasant face, keen eyes, and a fresh, tanned appearance from working in the garden.

She is to receive nearly a million dollars from the estate of the late Rev. Michael J. Kenely, Roman Catholic priest. His bequest to her of $1,200,000 will be reduced to around $700,000 by taxes, financial experts said.

Father Kenely died last October at the age of 73. Several nieces and nephews objected to his will, but they have withdrawn their protest.

His fortune was made in the stock market.

Someone referred to her "good fortune" in inheriting the money, but she said "It's not good fortune to lose a friend."

She said she plans no drastic changes in her way of life.

Socialite Is Nabbed

MINEOLA, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Young socialite Billy Hitchcock, son of the late polo star and flier Tommy Hitchcock, was under arrest today on a charge of giving police a phony story about threats on his life and a $100,000 extortion demand.

Nassau County police said they spent a hectic month, with as many as nine officers working on the case, before concluding that the 18-year-old boy was stringing them along. They said he refused to explain his actions.

The young...r was placed under arrest at his home in Old Westbury, Long Island, yesterday and later was booked on a charge of impeding an officer. He entered a plea of innocent. The charge, a misdemeanor, carries a maximum one year jail term.

Heat Prostration

HOUSTON, July 13 (AP) — Heat prostration was blamed for the death yesterday of Vigo Wallin, 36, Finnish seaman. Wallin collapsed in the engine room of the freighter Brattinsborg at Port Houston. His temperature was 111 when he collapsed. A high of 98 degrees was recorded yesterday.

RETURNS FROM RED CHINA—Donald J. Blackwood, former Air Force sergeant from Cincinnati, stands with his Korean wife and their 10-month-old son in Hong Kong after being expelled from Communist China. The trio vanished from Portugese Macao on April 28 and returned on a British owned ferryboat. Blackwood said he wanted to see the Chinese people and their country at first hand, but the Red Chinese authorities virtually restricted him to one floor of a hotel in Canton, except for the last three days of his stay, when he was taken on a limited tour.

Russia Has Formula For Warming Arctic

OTTAWA, July 13 (AP)—The Soviet News Bulletin put out by the Russian Embassy here says the Canadian arctic could be warmed up by 25 to 30 degrees for 35 billion dollars.

The Soviet formula: Dam up the Bering Strait, pump cold arctic water into the Pacific, and let warm Atlantic water flow through the arctic.

A Canadian arctic expert's verdict: "Crazy."

Texas Jailbreakers Receive Sentences

DOVER, Tenn., July 13 (AP)—Five young Texas jailbreakers got prison terms up to 30 years yesterday for armed robbery of a motel-grill.

Robert Riviera, 22, of Temple, Bobby Moore, 20, of Austin; and James Long, 21; received two two consecutive sentences of 15 years each. Karl Lautenschlager, 20, and Kenneth Ward, 19, were sentenced to two consecutive terms of 10 years each.

The five escaped jail in Georgetown, Tex., in December.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN

'Train Of Tomorrow' Stalled

By WILLIAM FERRIS

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—It begins to look as if the "Train of Tomorrow" will not get here until the next day. Or maybe not until many a long day after that.

"The Train of Tomorrow," in case you've forgotten, is that sleek, low-cost, modern, speedy job which will lure passengers back to the railroads and profits back to the railroad passenger service, maybe.

Lightweight trains are being tested by several railroads. They were introduced last year with much fanfare — a little too much fanfare in the opinion of one builder.

Some of the reaction has not been favorable: A cynical breed of passengers has dubbed the lightweights "the Tin Fish" or "the Elvis Presley" because of their rock 'n' roll motion.

Many of the rails insist, however, that the results, both from the standpoint of passenger reaction and operating efficiency, have been very satisfactory. But there's one significant fact: no railroad has ordered another lightweight this year.

And there's another fact: the lightweights as originally conceived — coach trains without warm meals or tavern cars—have undergone a transformation. They aren't what they started out to be.

One of the most vocal exponents of the lightweights was Robert R. Young, chairman of the New York Central. The Central put two lightweights in service last year — the famed Train X of Young's dreams and an Aerotrain, manufactured by the Electro-Motive Division of General Motors.

The Aerotrain was used between Chicago and Detroit. When the Central's lease ran out, the train went back to GM. Train X, built by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co., is running as Xplorer between Cleveland and Cincinnati.

According to the Central, the response of passengers to the Xplorer has been excellent. But the train has been dandied up a bit from what it was initially.

One car was converted to a bar car. At the start passengers could only get sandwiches. Now they are served warm meals cooked before the train starts.

Stables Go To Aly Khan

GENEVA (AP) — The director of the late Aga Khan's stables said today Prince Aly Khan has inherited them and, at his father's request, sacrificed the leadership of 20 million Ismlaii Moslems to manage them.

Mrs. Germaine Vuillier, who managed the Aga's vast racing interests, said the stables and the breeding farms with their stock, were worth "hundreds of millions of pounds."

"The Aga asked Aly to keep them running," she said in an interview. "He told his son no one man could do both. Therefore he asked Aly to sacrifice the position of Imam (spiritual leader of the Ismaili Moslems) and run the stables."

Confidence Votes Cast

SHERMAN, July 13 (AP) —City Manager Robert Brown and Tax Assessor-Collector Thomas Landrum had votes of confidence today from the city's four city councilmen.

In a signed statement the councilmen said they knew of no facts to warrant the dismissal of either.

Mayor Vernon Tuck charged in a Sherman Democrat ad that both should be discharged because of brought on by the city-school board of equalization.

Councilmen C. W. Scheurer, L. M. Wright, Frank Westbrook and Levis Hall Jr. said the mayor had not talked to them about discharging either official.

Their statement said that "had such a proposal been presented to the council together with specific and logical reasons in support of his position, the council would have carried out its duty in giving calm and fair deliberation the matter."

In Your Home Stores
You're the Boss

you're just gravy

YOU rank FIRST around here . . . your wants and needs are the blueprint for your home business men when making all of their plans . . . YOUR wishes rule their decisions on the kind, quality and prices of the goods and services they offer.

Because YOU are the day-to-day customer who keeps this town's economy going . . . the one who MUST be pleased and satisfied.

The MORE you trade with your home merchants, the better they can tell what YOU like and need . . . and the better able they will be to offer WHAT YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT IT.

ON THE OTHER HAND . . . in other towns . . . you are NOT one of the folks the business people in those towns are most interested in serving.

True, they like to see you coming . . . because none of the profit made off you has to be spent helping to run YOUR school, pay YOUR preacher, or contribute to the support of YOUR community.

Which makes your business real gravy to them . . . but you are still the customer most likely to get the chipped dish . . . not because maybe you live too far away to bring it back . . . but because the BEST is for their regular customers who keep the ball bouncing for them.

Steer Wrestling Not Native Skill

Steer wrestling, or bulldogging as the cowboys call it, is one of the most exciting contests in rodeo today—and one of the few events which doesn't have its beginning out on the open range of the Old West.

Steer wrestling isn't a ranch or range skill for if a working cowboy wants a critter downed he spins his lariat and does it in a way much more prosaic—and kinder—than wrestling it do....

Bulldogging got its start because a Texas cowhand and a balky steer got togehter fifty years ago. The steer wouldn't head for the corral and Bill Pickett finally lost his temper.

Pickett jumped from his saddle to the steer's horns and twisted its neck until it flopped on its side.

That's the first known case of bulldogging—and it got that name because there were some who, in telling of Pickett's charge, said he bit the tender lower lip of the steer while subduing it, much as a bulldog grabs the lip of an attacking bull.

That's why it became known as bulldogging. As it developed into a rodeo contest event—with none of the cowboys biting the steers—the name was changed to steer wrestling.

Texas Girl Will Spark Fund Appeal

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—A red-haired little Texas girl, who the doctors say can't live, will reinforce an appeal for funds this fall by the Muscula. D. trophy Associations of America, Inc.

It picked pretty Deborah Dixon, 5, of Arlington, Tex., today as the child who will personify the campaign.

Green-eyed Debbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy James Dixon, has spent all but the first 14 months of her life in a wheel chair. Not until last year was her ailment finally diagnosed as muscular dystrophy.

The Arlington youngster was chosen in competition with other patients to symbolize more than 200,000 stricken with the disease. In its March for Muscular Dystrophy in November the MDAA seeks funds for more research and patient services. Muscular dystrophy is a crippling malady for which neither cause nor cure are known.

Her parents said Deborah was a healthy, normal child until she seemed to lose strength at 14 months, becoming unable to walk or grip things. Two other Dixon children, Patricia, 7, and Stephen, 2, are not afflicted.

Area Teachers Are Enrolled At Tech

Several persons from the Snyder area are among the 453 teachers and school administrators who enrolled in Texas Tech for the first term of the summer session.

Those from Snyder in summer school at Tech are William R. McMullen, Diroes U. Watts, Thomas Eugene Williams.

Others from the area include James Charles Chorn, Helen Louise Curda, Loye Yvorne Hollis, Mrs. Clara E. James and George Rice, all of Gail; Albert Bayer, Fluvanna, and Mrs. Fay L. Trantham of Ira.

Boats Are Seized

OTARU, Japan, July 13 (AP)—Japanese maritime safety headquarters reports Soviet patrols seized 56 Japanese fishing boats with 572 crewmen in northern waters from January to June. Of these 31 boats and 509 men were released; 25 vessels and 63 men still held.

Former Gambler Fined

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury has convicted former gambler Mickey Cohen of obstructing traffic. He was fined $11.

CREW OF GROUNDED SHIP SWIM TO SHORE—Carl Glerum, left, of Honolulu, owner of a 72-foot trawler which went aground in a fog off the coast of Palos Verdes, Calif., struggles to reach shore after despairing of refloating the craft. Waiting at right for an air mattress containing the ship's papers is a member of the crew, Sylvio Martin, of Santa Barbara, who swam ashore earlier with two other crewmen.

He Has Big Face-Lifting Job

RAPID CITY, S.D., July 13 (AP)—As a beautician of sorts, Glenn T. Jones has probably the world's biggest face-lifting job every year.

Applying his own brand of skin cream, Jones has stuck his feet in the eyes of four of the nation's most famous faces.

The nimble footed Park Service maintenance man has the job of giving yearly "facials" to the huge, stony figures of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt on Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota's Black Hills.

Jones' job is to keep the famous granite memorial in repair-to keep the massive faces looking like a smooth, white, sculptured monument for the million tourists who view it every year from the other side of a valley.

His task takes on impressive proportions. So huge is the Shrine of Democracy that Jones could take a short stroll on Roosevelt's mustache, stretch out for a nap on Jefferson's eyelid or play a precarious game of shuffleboard atop Washington's powdered wig.

To war such faces, a man would have to stand 465 feet tall.

South Dakota's variable weather plays havoc with the 60-foot faces that were carved in the side of Mt. Rushmore two decades ago by sculptor Gutzon Borglum.

Moisture freezes in cracks on the great countenances, opening fissures in the granite and paving the way for greater damage and erosion.

Heading a five-man crew that surveys Rushmore every spring, Jones holds the lone classification in the Park Service of "maintenance man — buildings, utilities — and sculptor."

He is one of the original rock drillers employed when Borglum undertook the Herculean task of turning a mountain into a statue. The work was finished seven months after Borglum's death in 1941.

Rev. Ost May Have The Biggest Parish

NEW YORK (AP)—When it comes to serving a sizable parish, the Rev. Dr. Warren Ost may well have the world's largest. He's executive director of the National Council of Churches Christian Ministry in the National Parks.

Reverend Ost oversees his parish, containing a million acres in 24 national parks and monuments, by jeep, plane, and horseback. Some 120 college and seminary students are conducting religious services for the park visitors.

AFTER SHADY PAST

Phenix City Is Quiet Now

PHENIX CITY, Ala., July 13 (AP)—After 122 years as a den of cutthroats, prostitutes and gamblers, Phenix City is as quiet and respectable as a prayer meeting.

Three years ago this town of 28,000 across the Chattahoochee River from Columbus, Ga., appeared completely rotten. Its infamy was spread around the world.

There was nothing in the line of vice Phenix City didn't peddle. You could go to Phenix City and it—and it was easy to find.

Gambling joints lined the main drag and ringed the city. Dames were available by the dozens—and they weren't exactly ladies.

You could go to cock fights, view bedraggled stripteasers, get your head bashed or be rolled for your money by B-girls. Nobody seemed to care.

On payday for the 50,000 soldiers stationed at nearby Ft. Benning, Ga., Phenix City was about as wild and wide open as any of the fabled gold rush boom towns.

Sex for sale reached the point where houses of prostitution became portable. Canvas-covered pickup trucks were directed to customers by two-way radio.

Until three years ago this had been the story of Phenix City practically from the day it came into being in 1832 as a refuge for renegades who fled the United States to the territory of the Creek Indians.

On June 18, 1954, came the big blowup. Crippled, 60-year-old Albert L. Patterson, newly nominated as Alabama's attorney general, was fatally shot. He had pledged a cleanup of Phenix City.

For Alabama, which long had winked at Phenix City's vice, the shooting of Patterson was the last straw. The governor at that time, Gordon Persons, sent National Guardsmen and state police into the town.

They shunted local law enforcement officials aside and clamped on a lid that hasn't come off to this day.

Before the cleanup was over 749 people had been indicted on charges ranging from prostitution and gambling to murder. Literally hundreds of people went to jail.

A deputy sheriff, Albert Fuller, was jailed for life after conviction on a murder charge in Patterson's death. Atty. Gen. Silas Garrett III was indicted along with Fuller. He is in a Texas psychiatric hospital and has never been brought to trial.

Cynics predicted that as soon as the heat was off, Phenix City would revert to its sinful ways. It hasn't.

Trust Funds Are Set Up

DENISON, July 13 (AP)—The $200,000 estate of W. J. Godwin, president of the Security National Bank of Whitesboro, has been left in charity trust funds. These were created for the Buckner Orphans Home of Dallas, the Texas Missions Home for Girls in Bexar County, and for religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational purposes to be determined by the trustees.

Godwin died July 2. He also left 35 per cent of half of the community property to Carl Bryan of Whitesboro, a close friend and business associate who succeeded him as president of the bank, plus $4,000 a year for 10 years to his mother, Mrs. J. A. Godwin.

The will said Godwin's widow, Mrs. Janie Godwin, is amply provided for through her half of the community property.

In Good Condition

KENORA, Ont., July 13 (AP)—Bus driver Mac MacLean hooked a spirited prize while fishing in the Lake of the Woods. He hauled in a bottle of rye three quarters full, hooked by the cork, and found contents in good condition.

Snyder Junior Nine Gets Tourney Title

SAN ANTONIO, July 13 (Spl.) — A team of Scurry County Boys Club baseballers today took the championship of the junior division of an invitational tournament here.

The Snyder team won in a field of eight teams. In the championship game, the Snyder lads downed Fort Worth Boys Club 9-0, in a one-hitter. They had beaten Panther Boys Club of Fort Worth 8-1 ... the 2 round and Dallas Boys Club 7-2 in the semi-finals.

In the senior division, the Snyder sehior team lost to a San Antonio Boys Club nine 12-6 in the semi-finals after downing Panther Boys Club of Fort Worth 4-3 in the first round.

Charles Gladson was winner in the junior championship game. He allowed no hits in four and one-third innings. He left the game with a hurting arm at that time, and Jerry Guthrie finished, giving up only one hit.

Guthrie opened scoring for the team in the third inning when he hit a grand slam homerun. In the fifth, the Snyder fifth run came when Bubba Fleming stole home. In the sixth, Howard Davis was singled home by Keith Moreland, Moreland by Kennth Roach, Roach by Pat LaFountain, and LaFountain by Fleming to complete the scoring.

Included in Snyder's 14 hits in the game were two doubles hit by Gladson. The Fort Worth pitcher hurled all three games for his team for 40 strikeouts and was named outstanding pitcher of the tourney.

In the semi-final junior game, Bubba Fleming went all the way and was winner. He gave up five hits in the game, while the Snyder team got 10 hits off the Dallas hurler, including two homeruns by Fleming and two by LaFountain. There was also a triple by Jerry Guthrie and doubles by Howard Davis and David Kee.

In their opening game, Snyder juniors had no trouble in downing the Panther squad. Charles Gladson was winning pitcher and gave up only one hit. He was relieved in the fourth by Fleming, who allowed three hits.

Snyder's seven hits included a homerun by David Kee. Fort Worth's only score came in the top of the sixth inning. Snyder scored in each of five innings.

In the senior semi-final game, Larry Patterson went all seven innings for the Snyder team. Snyder led in that game until the fourth inning, when San Antonio sailed ahead.

Tommy Minton started the scoring for Snyder in the game, slamming a homerun with one on base in the first. Snyder got seven hits in the game.

In their first game, the Snyder seniors had to go into an extra inning to defeat the Panther Boys Club team 4-3.

Franklin Moore scored on an error to get the winning run for the Snyder team in that game. The Fort Worth team had started out ahead in that game with a run in the first. Snyder got two runs in the fourth when Roland Key singled to score Tommy Minton and Bill Dubose. Fort Worth tied it up in the bottom of that inning with a run.

Each team scored once in the sixth. Snyder's score came on fielder's choice, with Bill Dubose crossing the plate.

John Weaver was winning hurler in that game. He allowed only two hits and walked only three while fanning 13 in the game. Snyder got four hits.

SPORTS

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

(Ed. Note—Taking over for vacationing Buck Francis today is Malen Stevenson, local gracer, ardent sports fan and former mayor).

There is a new television program each Friday night called "Great Moments in Sports" . . . showing such great moments as Bobby Thomson's home run against Brooklyn a few years back to give the Giants the pennant—the races of Whitlaway, and other outstanding events. If we were to send out a questionnaire listing Snyder's great moments in sports for this past school year, I'd be willing to venture that many of the questionnaires would list the same....who can forget Joe Reaves' pressure field goal to beat Sweetwater? The triple that Milton Ham hit to help beat Pecos? The running of Tommy Prichard in the Lamesa football game? Bud Morgan's great race in the low hurdles in Austin? And the sad great moment when Mr. Thigpen of Graham calmly kicked the extra point to kick us out of the high school football championship?

Yes, to anyone who loves sports, the great moments are all around us . . they are made and rememberd at each athletic contest.

A Few Words About The Horned Frogs

My friends would hate me if they thought I could write this column without putting in a few good words for TCU. It would be just like eating only two meals a day...and it wouldn't be in good form if I forgot to mention two of our favorites—Jack Spikes and Milton Ham. It just so happens (at this opportune time, of course) that a publication from he Alumni Association at TCU was placed in the mails last week. And of course a good portion of it was devoted to next year's Horn Frog football team.

Of major interest was this paragraph concerning the team:

"At the halfbacks, Coach Abe Martin and Backfield Coach Walter Roach are well stocked. Due to get starting calls are the flashy Shofner, dependable performer for the past two seasons at left half; and the giant Jack Spikes at right half. Spikes, at 6-2 and 200, is the largest halfback Martin has coached, and the talented youngster has the promise of being tops before the 1957 warfare is finished."

All of us here in Snyder who have seen Jack play, will certainly agree with what Freshman Coach Fred Taylor of TCU said only recently here in Snyder, that Jack Spikes will be one of TCU's all time greats....and we are on, and will stay on, that bandwagon.

Plenty Of Stars Produced In Snyder

The high school all-star game in Dallas is rapidlyapproaching, and this year again we have another fine athlete from Snyder participating. We're all the way with likeable, confident Milton Ham... and I think it is a lead pipe cinch that we'll be hearing great things from this boy before his college days are over.

And let's not forget Wiley Denson, Powell Berry, Joe Reaves, Tommy Prichard and others who have earned themselves athletic scholarships to large and outstanding schools. It really creates interest in all types of sports for those of us here in Snyder when our boys are playing....and the main thing, getting a good education from their sports ability. This is a big dream for a number of us; to help some of these outstanding youngsters secure a college education that will help them later in this competitive world. That, to me, is a great moment in sports.

Schedule In Pony Changed

The Pony League schedule for the final week of play has been revised, Forrest Beavers announced Saturday.

The Pony Leaguers, who suspended operations during the last two playing dates of the past week, will wind up their regular season operations next Friday. Playoffs will follow the regular season activity.

Monday night, the Phillies will meet the Hermleigh Cardinals in the first game beginning at 7 p.m., while the Tigers and the Dodgers will tangle in the second game.

On Thursday night, the Tigers will meet the Yankees in the first game, and the Phillies and the Red Sox will battle in the second game.

On Friday, the final night of play in the regular season, the Red Sox will meet the Dodgers in the first game, and the Tigers will challenge the Phillies in the second game.

ABE MARTIN SAYS

Spikes Expected To Be Among TCU Starters

FORT WORTH, July 13 (AP) — TCU's football team is thin in experience and sophomores will do a lot of the playing but Coach Abe Martin says "I believe we'll have a fine team."

Martin in 1954 started out with something of the same type squad. The Frogs had a very good season considering, losing six games by the grand total of 38 points.

Martin broke in a fine sophomore crew that year, lettering 18 of them. They included Jim Swink, Chuck Curtis and Norman Hamilton, who became top players.

This time Martin comes up with another star-spangled sophomore group. One of them, big Jack Spikes of Snyder, is expected to be a starter.

Only 16 lettermen are at TCU this year. The Frogs are two deep at ends, guards, centers and left halfback.

Three regulars are back from the team that won the Southwest Conference championship in 1955 and was second last year, defeating Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl. John Nikkel returns at left end, Jim Ozee at center and Buddy Dike at fullback.

The team is expected to have a fine running attack. Lack of an established passer will hurt the offensive threat. The line will be big and strong but minus overall experience.

Besides Spikes, Martin is high on these other sophomores: Donald Floyd of Midlothian at tackle, Arvie Martin of Pleasant Grove at center, Jimmy Gilmore of Ennis at end, Marvin Lasater of San Angelo at halfback and Jack Sledge of New London at quarterback.

With Curtis, the passer and ball-handler gone, the quarterback job will go to Dick Finney, a senior who lettered two years. He will be backed by junior Hunter Enis, the best passer on the squad; Sledge and John Bonnet, sophomore from Corpus Christi.

Nikkel and letterman Chico Mendoza will be the starting ends with lettermen Kenneth Miller and Joe Robb at the tackles. Guards will be lettermen John Groom and Jerry Holland or Jerry Salley, Walker and sophomore Martin at with lettermen Ozee and Dale Walker and sophmore Martin at center.

Dike, a fine runner and a strong linebacker, heads the backfield. Letterman Jimmy Shofner and Spikes will be at halfback.

The defense is expected to be fair with lack of experience hurting the team in the early games. TCU lost one player through grades and that will hurt the team. He was Young Sheffield, a mountainous tackle.

Tigers, Buffaloes Win In Farm Games

The Tigers of the National League and the Buffalos of the American League came up victors in two Little League Farm League games played in Towle Park Friday night.

Games were also played last night, Blue Devils vs. Eagles and Cardinals vs. Cubs.

The Farm Leagues are playing on the regular Little League field to complete their schedules, which end next Saturday night.

The Tigers edged a little closer to first place by downing the Dodgers 17-3 in a four-inning game Friday. They now hold a 5-3 record, while the first place Cards were leading before last night with 6-1.

Jerry Owens hurled the Friday night win for the Tigers, allowing six hits and three walks while striking out three. Loser Albert Williams went three innings for five hits, 12 free passes, and five strikouts. His relief, Tim Atwood, gave up one hit and three walks and fanned two in one inning.

The Tigers opened a run spree in the first inning, getting four runs on two hits and several walks. From that time on it was their game, despite the fact that the Dodgers worked hard in the hit department. T—Dodgers, Albert Williams and Bill Gordon, got doubles, with Gordon scoring one on his hit.

Extra base hits included two doubles by Gary Burgeon, who accounted for three Buffalo runs, one triple by David McKinley to score three runners, and a double by Dan McCowan. The Sports had no extra base hits.

Pitching the win was Don McCowan, who gave up only one hit. He walked seven and struck out three. Loser was Pete Rios, who went two and two-thirds innings for 11 hits, five walks, and three strikeouts. His relief, Larry Lewis, in one-third inning allowed no hits, no walks, and struck out none.

Indians Rip Orioles 5-2

CLEVELAND, July 13 (AP) — Cleveland southpaw Don Mossi weakened in the eighth today but claimed his seventh win, a 5-2 victory over Baltimore, thanks to home runs by Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris.

Mossi had allowed only two hits —both singles—until the eighth when he gave up a walk and three singles. But Cal McLish and Ray Narleski held the rally to a pair of runs, and Cleveland led 3-2. In the bottom of the eighth Colavito's single was followed by Maris' 10th homer of the season, to pad the Tribe margin.

Stobbs Takes 13th Setback As Sox Win

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, bolstered by some fine relief pitching by Bob Keegan, today defeated the Washington Senators and their hard luck southpaw, Chuck Stobbs, 7-4.

It was the 13th defeat for Stobbs and it came on the 13th day of the month.

Keegan came into the game with two on and two out in the third inning after starter Jack Harshman was troubled by a callous on the forefinger of his pitching hand. The veteran right hander gave up only two hits the rest of the way, including Herb Plews' first homer of the season.

The Sox, who collected 11 hits off three Washington pitchers, jumped off to a two-run lead in the first inning. Luis Aparicio walked, and Nellie Fox singled, both advancing on an infield out. Plews made a fine stop of Jim Landis' single back of third as Aparicio scored but then cut loose with a wild throw on which Fox raced home.

Athletics Finally Decision Yankees

KANSAS CITY, July 13 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics finally won from the New York Yankees today, 6-4, after a 13-game drought, and shortened the league-leaders' margin over the second-place Chicago White Sox to three games.

Hector Lopez, who extended his consecutive game hitting streak to 19, drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh and the second tally crossed on a pinch single by Irv Noren.

Tom Sturdivant, the Yankee starter who had a 5-0 record against Kansas City this season, was defending a 4-4 tie at the start of the seventh. He walked Billy Hunter and Glenn Cox with one away and was replaced by Al Cicotte.

Cicotte walked Joe DeMaestri to fill the bases. Lopez flied to Hank Bauer in right and Hunter came home after the catch.

Noren batted for Gus Zernial and singled to left, scoring Cox from second. DeMaestri was tagged out in a rundown to end the inning.

Dave Lean of Michigan State won the Big Ten title at 440 yards indoors and 880 yards outdoors.

Locals Place High In Junior Olympics

ABILENE, July 13 (Spl.)—Snyder area boys took three first places in the senior division of the Abilene Junior Olympics meet here tonight, and had several firsts Friday in the junior division.

Taking firsts were Bud Morgan with a time of 20.5 in the 180-yard low hurdles, Morris Light of Hermleigh two firsts, one with a time of 15.0 in the 120-yard high hurdles and the other with a distance of five feet, 11 inches in the running high jump. All are senior boys.

Other places in the senior division:

Senior boys — Snyder second in the 880-yard relay, Rex Wilson second in the high hurdles, Morgan fourth in the running broad jump, Wilson second in the running high jump.

Junior boys — Stuart Long fourth in the 50-yard dash, Bobby Brown second in the running high jump, Snyder fourth in the 220-yard relay.

A number of junior teamsters qualified for the Southern meet at Odessa by taking top places at the Abilene meet.

Two Snyder boys took top honors in the midget division by taking two first places each, and each had another place other than the firsts. They were Jerry Beard, who was a member of the winning 200-yard shuttle relay team and won the standing broad jump, as well as placing second in the 50-yard dash, and Benny Minor, who was also a member of the winning relay team, placed first in the 50, and was fourth in the broad jump.

In the girls junior division, Sandra Autry had two first places in the broad jump and 75-yard dash, and was a member of a third place 220-yard relay team. Joyce Yoast, in the midget division, had three second places.

A highlight of the meet was the competition of 6-year-old Jody Williamson of Snyder, who did a standing broad jump of four feet, seven and one-half inches. He was competing against boys up to 11 years old, who were jumping in the class of between six and seven feet.

Snyder's places in the junior meet:

Midget boys — Snyder first in the 200-yeard shuttle relay with a team of Jerry Beard, Drew Bullard, Jerry Wyatt, and Benny Minor, time 27.9. Also a Snyder team took third with a team of Bubba Myers, Rob Hall, Jay Williamson, and Craig Stokes. In the 50-yard dash, Benny Minor was winner with a time of 6.8, with Jerry Beard second with 6.9. Beard won the broad jump with six feet, 10½ inches, while Craig Stokes was second and Minor fourth. Rob Hall was fourth in the softball throw.

Midget girls — Snyder second in the 200-yard shuttle relay with a team of Sandra Brenner, Carol Young, Jane Boren, and Joyce Joast. Joyce Yoast took second in the standing broad jump with six feet, 11 inches and second in the 50-yard dash with a time of seven seconds.

Junior girls — Snyder third in 220-yard relay with Sharon Wattner, Donna Overby, Sheryl Craven, and Sandra Autry, also fourth with a team of Deborah Short, Susan Richardson, Nan Hill, and Jane Williamson. Donna Overby was fourth in the 50-yard dash. Sandra Autry took first in the standing broad jump with seven feet, three inches, and first in the 75-yard dash with a time of 9.9.

Pancho Says Kramer Trying To Be 'Czar'

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Professional tennis kingfish Pancho Gonzales today accused his boss, Jack Kramer, of trying to become a "czar" of the game.

Far from pacified over a $1,000 boost in his cut of the Tournament of Champions which opened at the staid West Side Tennis Club, Big Pancho arrived on the scene just three hours before Tony Trabert and Ken Rosewall crossed rackets in the first match.

Trabert turned back Rosewall, 6-4, 14-12, 6-4 in a match delayed more than two hours by rain. The Frank Sedgman-Lew Hoad match was put off until tomorrow. Trabert thus automatically went into first place with a 1-0 record. Only about 1,500 spectators showed up in the wretched weather.

In addition to the Hoad-Sedgman match, Kramer will pair Pancho Segura and Rosewall and Gonzales and Trabert in singles tomorrow. The doubles will pair Hoad and Gonzales and Segura and Dinny Pails.

"Let Kramer dictate to the players all he wants to," stormed Gonzales, "but he's not going to dictate to me. He would do a lot better if he treated the players differently.

"I'm not trying to battle with anyone, including Kramer. It's just a question of getting what I want. He is offering me the same percentage for our tour with Lew Hoad starting in January as he gave me in our last tour with Ken Rosewall. And he makes like he's doing me a favor. How do you like that?"

Gonzales said that as far as he was concerned, he had no contract with Kramer.

Sun Ties For 1st Half Title

Sun downed Hermleigh 4-0 last night in the City League to gain a tie with Snyder Furniture for the first half title.

The Sun team, by winning the Saturday night game, tied Snyder Furniture for first place in the first half of the league's schedule. Each team has a 7-3 record.

The two teams will meet at 2:30 p.m. today to decide the first half title.

Don Ballard pitched a two-hitter against Hermleigh in last night's affair, while Sun got seven hits off Berman Corbell and Grady Gafford. Corbell went three and two-thirds innings, Gafford the rest of the way.

Molotov Once The Top Banana

By INEZ ROBB

If, in the tradition of the condemned, the events of his life are marshaling in the mind's eye of Vyacheslav M. Molotov, he must count among his most glorious moments his two sojourns in San Francisco.

Newsmen who attended the formative meeting of the United Nations there in the bright spring of 1945 and the U. N.'s 10th anniversary meeting there in '55 remember Molotov as top banana on both occasions as far as the general public was concerned.

Molotov headed the Russian delegation each time, first under Stalin and then under Khrushchev. Wherever he appeared in '45 and again in '55, he was virtually mobbed by men, women and children curious to see what a real, live Russian commissar looks like.

If on either occasion Molotov or his advisers interpeted the mobs that greeted him every place as indications of 1) Molotov's personal popularity or 2) American sympathy with communism, they couldn't have been farther off the beam.

People came from miles around to see him and held up their children for a glimpse of him just as they flock to see a two-headed calf at the county fair. Or for the same reason that they will mob the first passengers of a flying saucer from outer space.

In the past few days I have been going over the notes I took during those two U. N. gatherings in San Francisco. During Molotov's first experience in a rough-and-tumble American-style press conference in '45 the Old Bolshevik handled himself superbly, even with a soupcon of humor.

He answered tough questions on the Polish issue with aplomb, but he ended the conference abruptly and stalked off the rostrum when he interpreted a question, asked by a Broadway columnist, as making fun of him, V. M. Molotov. The offensive question was, "Is vodka pronounced 'vodka' or 'wodka'."

He abruptly ended a tour of the great shipyards near San Francisco that were pouring out Liberty ships when, in answer to Molotov's question, a shipyard worker told the then Russian Foreign Minister that he earned $87.50.

"A month," Molotov said.

"Oh, no, sir, a week," said the worker.

Molotov, obviously furious, turned in his tracks, got in his car and headed back to San Francisco. No one could figure out whether Molotov thought the man was lying and pulling the Molotov leg or whether the Communist couldn't endure the stark disparity between wages in the so-called Workers' Paradise and in the United States.

In '45 his tough bodyguards were nicknamed the Molotov Meatballs, a unique group of thugs to friendly, curious Americans. I hated one who ruined a pair of pumps bought with my last shoe coupon (shades of World War II!). When I accidently encountered Molotov in an empty corridor of the Hotel St. Francis, the bodyguard—before I could step aside—hit me in the stomach with his elbow, pinned me against the wall and planted a huge foot on my new shoes.

In '55, both Molotov and the Meatballs seemed a trifle more mellow toward the crowds that gathered to stare at a real live commissar.

Well, he is no longer a commissar. And as for being live, only time will tell. But I'd give a nickel to know if he ever thinks nostalgically of the days when he was top banana in San Francisco.

150 FOR BAND CLASSES

About 150 high school and junior high students have registered for summer band classes, which will start Monday at the high school.

The summer band school, which covers all instruments and from beginners to advanced students, will last four weeks.

Melvin Montgomery, high school band director, said the classes are for students from the seventh grade up and are free.

Montgomery said students can still enroll if they were unable to do so Friday.

Classes will be held weekly from Monday through Thursday.

Oldtimers Recall First Bulldogger

While the written record is loudly silent on the point, the best evidence to be obtained from checking the recollections of the old timers is that a half-drunk cowboy from Arizona, one Lon Seeley, was the first white-skinned man to bulldog a steer for exhibition purposes.

However, he wasn't the first man to actually bulldog. That distinction goes to a South Texas Negro cowhand named Bill Pickett. This sensational steer wrestler, who was later taken to South America on a rodeo, roping and bulldogging tour by Ira J. Driver of Big Spring, the famous Clay McGonigal of Midland, and others, more than 45 years ago, was the first man to sink his teeth into a steer's lower lip in bringing the animal under control.

As the story goes, one day while Pickett was working on a South Texas ranch and trying to corral a recalcitrant steer with the steer turning and whirling and charging Pickett's horse in an effort to break back to the wild bunch, the colored cowboy became angry, leaped from his saddle and grabbed the steer to the ground by holding the horns and twisting the steer's lower lip, just as a bulldog would have done it, hence the name, and held on, also like a bulldog, until the steer went down.

Pickett's fame spread across the cow country and in time he was hired for a small fee to bulldog steers in rodeo exhibitions. He polished the stunt up until he was jumping from the back of a fast-moving horse to the head of a fast-running steer.

As tradition and hearsay has it Seeley tanked up on firewater and gave it a whirl. His perofrmance was perfect and thus he became the first Anglo bulldogger in American rodeo history.

Eisenhower Family Has A Big Day

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 13 (AP)—This was a big day for the Eisenhower family at the Gettysburg Country Club golf course.

The President—taking a weekend breather from the annual Civil Defense Operation Alert—showed up at the course a bit after 9 a.m. today and played 18 holes in muggy weather.

He was accompanied by two of his four small grandchildren, David, 9, and Barbara Anne Eisenhower, 8.

Each of the youngsters got a golf lesson from the club pro, Dick Sleichter, while their grandfather played the first nine. They toured the second nine with him.

David, obviously enjoying himself, chauffered the President in a baby blue electric golf cart. Barbara Anne, her blonde hair in a pony tail, hitched a ride on the rear of the cart.

Barbara Anne is just starting to take up golf, but it looked today as though her grandfather already had given her some pointers.

Thompson Made 4-Star General

NORTH FORT HOOD, July 3 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, who has served state military circles for 40 years, today became a four star general on his retirement from the Texas National Guard.

Thompson was one of the main figures today as the 36th National Guard Division held its annual Governor's Day parade with high ranking officers of the National Guard and the regular Army and Gov. Price Daniel attending.

Thompson was 65 last March 24, and earlier gave his age as the reason for retirement.

He was a lieutenant general in the Guard when he retired.

The order of his retirement was read at the parade, then the order promoting him to four stars with the title of brevet (honorary) general.

The orders were from the adjutant general of Texas, Maj. Gen. K. L. Berry, by order of the governor.

They were read by Col. Thomas S. Bishop, Austin, 36th Division chief of staff.

After the parade Gen. Thompson and Gov. Daniel were guests of Gen. Carl L. Finney, commander of the 36th Division, at a luncheon.

Thompson, former mayor of Amarillo, has been a member of the state Railroad Commission 25 years and is an international authority on oil and gas conservation.

During World War I he was in command of a machine gun battalion of the 90th Division and received a battlefield promotion to lieutenant colonel to become the youngest such ranking officer in the American Expeditionary Forces of World War I.

He joined the Texas National Guard June 15, 1923. In 1940 he entered federal service commanding the 111th Quartermaster Regiment which he had organized. In July 1941, he was made commander of the 141st Infantry Regiment of the 36th Division. In November, 1941, he went on inactive duty but was recalled in 1945 as special assistant and advisor on fuels and oils to the Secretary of War.

Follwing the reorganization of the Texas National Guard after World War I, Thompson was named commanding general on May 11, 1949, with the rank of lieutenant general.

Totals Announced On Methodist Race Fund

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Offerings for 1957 Race Relations Day in Methodist churches reached $345,525, officials announced.

The sum was little more than half the goal of $600,000, but still it represents the largest contribution in the history of the program. The money will go to the 12 Negro colleges related to the Methodist Church.

TOO HOT

Green Snaps Back

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Sen. Theodore Francis Green, 89-year-old believer in the strenuous life, snapped back fast today from a collapse attributed to "a very mild case of heat exhaustion."

The Rhode Island Democrat, oldest man ever to serve in Congress, hiked 3½ miles yesterday through steamy midsummer Washington.

Last night he lost consciousness briefly at a reception at the Pakistan Embassy. Though he recovered quickly, he was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Today the hospital announced it was mild heat exhaustion and his condition was now "excellent." It said he would stay in the hospital three or four days for his annual checkup.

In a way, the civil rights fight in the Senate might have been responsible for Green's hospitalization.

"He's been crabbing all week that the long hours the Senate is in session on civil rights are keeping him from the gym," an aide said.

To compensate, Green yesterday not only sauntered 2½ miles, as usual, from his bachelor quarters in the University Club up the hill to the Capitol. He walked another mile in 92-degree evening heat from his apartment to the Pakistan Embassy.

There was a time when the trim little man engaged in mountain climbing and a bit of wrestling. He gave up tennis only recently, not because he's too old but because of lack of time.

But he ordinarily gets to the Senate gym about three times a week for an hour's swim, often followed by a vigorous rubdown.

Golf is out for Green. He calls it an old man's game.

A few skeptics—notably cab drivers—say Green's long walks are more the product of frugality than a desire for exercise. But his intimates disagree.

Green is a millionaire lawyer-financier and was an ardent New Dealer.

Court Reversals Are Rapped

BY ED OVERHOLSER

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals, a criminal's last chance in Texas courts, tossed out 92 cases during its 1956-57 term just ended.

Many reversals came in cases where there was apparently no doubt—at least to jurors—about the guilt of the accused man. Technicalities and legal loopholes led to the reversal.

Such actions have brought some sharp comment from laymen, lawyers and prosecutors. One member of the three-man appellate court spoke out at the recent State Bar meeting.

Appellate judges who base reversals on such technical points as flaws in indictments have often defended their actions by asserting that law is law and that prosecutors ought to be sure their indictments are in order, and trial judges certain their conduct of a case is airtight, before they yell "technicality."

Court of Criminal Appeals judges often disagree. Dissents are routine in any appellate court, but they do not often reflect the sharp differences of opinion that crop out in some of those coming from Texas' Criminal Appeals bench.

Judge K. K. Woodley of the court made this recent comment:

"I am concerned about our court as a court, and of the unsettled state of the law. I am concerned about the free and frequent attacks upon our court and its opinions. I am greatly concerned because of the source and the severity of some of these criticisms and censures."

One of the most celebrated reversals was the perjury conviction of Leslie Lowry for alleged false statements made in affidavit form to the State Insurance Board for securing a permit to do business for the Texas Fire Insurance Co. of Beaumont.

A seven-year conviction was thrown out when the state failed to prove that Lowry took an oath before a notary public on the affidavit. Without the oath, the court took the position that Lowry legally could send in false statements.

The 10-year sentence against B. R. Sheffield, associate of Bascom Giles in a veterans' land scandal deal, was junked by the court on three grounds, one including the spelling of McCulloch County. Another reason was that the state failed to prove that a notary public was a notary public and because the trial judge warned that separation of the jury while deliberating might cause the verdict to be reversed.

Several Duval County cases have gone out the window. These include:

D. C. Chapa, former assessor-collector for the Benavides School district. The reversal came because the lower court's overruled a motion by Chapa for severance. Chapa wanted Oscar Carrillo Sr., secretary of the board and indicted on similar mishandling charges, tried first and the appellate court declared Carrillo had agreed.

Former Dist. Atty. Raeburn Norris of Alice, given five years on charges of misapplying $5,000 in Duval County funds to pay off a personal note, on grounds of insufficient evidence.

B. F. Donald Jr. The court said he could not be tried on conspiring to misapply $1,000 in the school district's fund because the statute of limitations had expired.

Two years ago, the court threw out 104 Duval County indictments because a member of the grand jury had not paid a poll tax.

Woodley quoted these excerpts leveled at the majority opinion by the dissenting judges:

"I cannot help but wonder if we have not gotten to the point, in this state, where the trial of a criminal case has become a battle between opposing counsel over legal technicalities or purely procedural matters rather than a proceeding to determine if one accused of crime is guilty of the crime charged and has been accorded a trial in accordance with law."

"It is directly contrary to the prior decisions of this court."

Here are reasons from several cases reversed this year by the court:

The date "before, or about" is indefinite.

Complaints alleged offense was committed Aug. 26 while information alleged date was Aug. 27.

Defendant's footprints leading to and from the place where liquor was hidden from view was insufficient evidence. "Identity of accused may not be established by tracks alone."

Evidence was insufficient to disprove defendant's statement that marijuana found in her home was there without her knowledge.

No proof that appellant had knowledge of the wine in the car he was driving.

Microscopic particles of marijuana found in the pocket of accused is insufficient evidence.

A knife blade three fourths of an inch long is not a deadly weapon and is insufficient to sustain conviction.

Refusal of accused in a drunk while driving case to take blood test is not admissible.

No proof that assault made by throwing rocks was made with premeditated design.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 13 (AP) — Fritzel, the dachshund who wandered away from his Wichita Falls, Tex., owners Wednesday, was flown to Texas today to rejoin them.

BEING STRANDED in a strange town was quite an experience for Mrs. Edith Westphall and her 17-months-old son, Bradley, but they soon found that they were no longer strangers here as dozens of individuals and organizations came to her aid. She left Snyder late in the week for her home in Australia. (Lee Watson photograph)

AFTER BEING ABANDONED

Australian Woman Aided Here

An Australian woman was safely on her way home late in the week after an experience which will probably be unequaled for her the rest of her life.

She is Edith Westphall, 21, who was abandoned by her husband, an American citizen, in Snyder several days ago. With her was her 17-months-old son, Bradley.

During her plight, dozens of Snyder residents, including many civic and church organizations, came to her aid.

* * *

Mrs. Westphall showed up in the office of County Attorney George Killam about three weeks ago. She and the child had not had anything to eat in two meals at the time. Her husband had been gone for a day. She told Killam that her husband had beaten her while they were in New Mexico, and later, while they were in a motel here, he left with their car, which contained all their belongs, including her passport, money, and all the clothing for her and the child.

Rapidly various organizations and individuals began to work for Mrs. Westphall.

Mrs. Westphall's problems had been complicated by the fact that she was in the U. S. on a visa and had not begun the process of becomign a citizen. Since she was here on a visa, she could not legally be employed, although she was well-experienced as a medical assistant and as a bookkeeper.

Also to complicate matters, the child came down with a virus infection and was placed in Cogdell Memorial Hospital for about a week.

Mrs. Westphall had married the Oklahoma man in April, 1955, in Australia. They lived in Australia until last December.

When they came to the U. S., she said, her husband told her she would need only a visa, that they would work. He is an oilfield worker. When they arrived in Snyder, they were on their way to Oklahoma and had been in Hobbs, N. M., where he had been working.

* * *

In addition to helping Mrs. Westphall with food, lodging, and clothing, Snyderites worked with her to get her a new passport and to get back to Australia by way of Hawaii in Australia also helped by furnishing the plane ticket from the U.S.

* * *

Mrs. Westphall was to leave San Francisco late in the week to fly back to Australia by way of Wawai Canton, and Fiji.

which were included in those helping Mrs. Westphall, praised Snyder residents and organizations so numerous they could not be named, for their help with the woman.

Passage Of Aid Bill Predicted

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Democratic and Republican floor managers joined today in predicting House passage without major change of the foreign aid bill approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Reps. Carnahan (D-Mo) and Vorys (R-Ohio), senior committee members charged with piloting the bill to passage, gave their opinions in interviews as the House prepared to take up the $3,242,333,000 measure Monday.

But opponents figured they have a good chance of tacking on an amendment to end foreign trials of GIs, which President Eisenhower strongly opposes, and perhaps of knocking out the long-term economic development loan fund Eisenhower fought for.

The bill as it now stands is already 622 million dollars below what Eisenhower requested for the new fiscal year and 375 millions less than the Senate voted. But administration supporters figure this is the best they can get in the House, and they'll be satisfied if they can pull the never politically-popular measure through without further big dents in it. A final vote is expected about Thursday.

The floor managers agreed that as always, there will be moves to cut out funds they feel can beat off any money-slashing attempts.

A tougher fight seemed to be shaping up over a proposed amendment aimed at ending foreign jurisdiction over offenses committed by American servicemen abroad. Sentiment for this has been strengthened by the turning over of Army Specialist 3.C. William S. Girard for Japanese trial for the shooting of a Japanese woman scavenger on an Army firing range.

A major tussle loomed also over the three-year loan fund which Eisenhower says is needed for sound long-range administering of loans for projects in foreign countries. The committee bill approves 500 million dollars a year for three years.

IN RODEO

Riders Carry Charms

It may be a silver dollar in their levis. It may be a beat up old hat, for rodeo cowboys have their pet good luck charms and superstitions, too.

For instance, some of the shun the color yellow. They would not be caught in anything that color. Any shape, form or fashion of it is excluded from their wardrobe.

Don't wish a cowboy luck as he gets astride a demoniacal bronc—he may think it's bad luck.

Just let a rodeo announcer mention the word "champion" before a bronc rider comes out. It's a foregone conclusion that ride will be hitting the ground hard—nothing like a "champion."

Brand new bucking reins are shunned.

New clothes occupy the same status.

Spurs are often a rodeo performer's good luck charm.

ON HOUSING BILL:

Builders Are Cautious Here

Builders and realtors here are cautiously optimistic since President Eisenhower signed a new housing bill Friday, but apparently nobody is expecting any building boom on the strength of the new measure.

The bill will lower the down payment requirements on FHA-insured [illegible] that the government will sort of keep the brakes on.

"It is too early to determine what the effects of the new bill will be," said Donald R. Scott, president of the Snyder Real State Board. "However, nobody is expecting any runaway affair."

Based on the information he had on the bill, which he said came chiefly from press reports, Scott said it appeared doubtful that the new program would improve the "tight money" situation which builders have been facing.

"When you increase the size of the loan and reduce the down payment, investors usually are cautious," he explained.

The bill also increased the capital stock of the Federal National Mortgage Assn. by $65-million and provides $900-million in Treasury "backstop" money for FNMA. This may eventually have some "lossening" effect, Scott said, since FNMA, or "Fanny Mae" as it is called in the trade, by purchase of secondary mortgages, can provide funds to lending agencies when private sources are unavailable.

However, Scott said that he understood that the amounts available in any area would be determined by regional FHA offices, and there are indications that they will move cautiously.

The bill lowers down payment requirements on FHA homes from five per cent to three per cent for the first $10,000 of appraised value, and sets 15 per cent of the appraised value for the portion from $10,000 to $16,000. The old law requires five per cent of the first $9,000 and 25 per cent for all above that figure.

DEJECTED BANK ROBBER—Dan Moody Jones, 27, a New Orleans auto salesman, sits handcuffed in a Houston, Texas jail after robbing a local bank. Jones, in Houston only one day, held up a downtown bank of $1,785 with a top pistol. He was followed by bank employees in a chase through the city streets and finally captured in the basement of a store.

PAYS TOP MONEY

Skill Is Needed In Calf Roping

The diversity of cowboy skills is brought clearly into focus in calf roping, since 1921 one of the five standard events at rodeos everywhere.

In the span of 15 seconds or less, you'll see a demonstration of horse training and riding, the flash of a lariat from the roper's skilled hands. There is courage and skill as the cowboy ropes and ties a kicking calf. Above all, there is the display of man and horse working as a team.

Roping in rodeos dates back to the 1860's. Today the calf roping even accounts for the greatest number of contestants in rodeo and pays out the biggest amount of prize money, due to the high number of entry fees added to the purses.

The official rules of the Rodeo Cowboy's Association, Inc., give these guides for teh calfrnipog these guides for the calf roping event:

Calves are given a head start determined by the size of the arena. Officials for this event are a scoreline judge, a field judge and two timers.

When the calf is out of the chute and has crossed the scoreline, the scoreline judge drops his flag to signal starting of time. He pulls the rop barrier from in front of the box where the roper waits.

If the contestant leaves the box before the calf crosses the scoreline, he breaks the barrier. A 10-second penalty is added to his time.

The quarter horse closes on the calf as quickly as possible. The roper usually lets fly from about 12 feet away. He may catch the calf anyway—by the feet, around the head of body—just as long as the loop is out of his hand when it catches and holds until the roper reaches the calf.

The highly trained roping horse teams with the rider beautifully in this event. As the rope settles on the calf, the cowboy throws away the slack and swings his weight into the left stirrup. The horse stops and takes all the slack out of the rope. The rider dismounts and runs down the rope. He pulls out his short pigging string and, after tossing the calf on its back, gathers three feet and ties them with two quick wraps and a half hitch. The field judge rides over to ascertain if the tie is secure. Only then is the time for that contestant recorded.

Much of the work that goes to make a great calf roper is spent long before the chute opens and the calf streaks across the arena. That was spent in training the roping horse.

These quarterhorses have a quick burst of starting speed. They are intelligent as they are fast and they are trained to follow the calf through every maneuver while holding a position just behind it and a little to one side so the roper will have the best chance to cut loose.

They stop on a dime and brake with all four feet as the cowboy jumps from the saddle and streaks along the taut rope to reach the calf. They are trained to back slightly, facing the roped calf, keeping the rope taut but never dragging the calf.

The roper may use two loops if he is carrying them made up when he enters the arena. If he misses with both loops, he must retire from the arena with no time.

Since this is a timed event, it is not at all unusual for several hundred dollars to ride on the saving of a split second. Without a top quarterhorse, the best calf roper would be only half a team.

Drivers License At 75 To Be Difficult

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Renewing a driver's license in the District of Columbia is going to get tougher if you are still driving at 75.

To get a permit renewed at that age will mean an extensive examination, an eye test, a written test on rules of the road and a doctor's certificate that you are physically able to drive.

Rev. Oelke To Conduct

The Rev. Otto K. Oelke of the Salem Lutheran Church at Brenham will conduct the worship service at 10:45 a.m. today at Grace Lutheran Church, meeting at the est Elementary School.

Rev. Oelke is filling the pulpit for the Rev. Walter Lentz, pastor, who is on his wedding trip.

Rev. Oelke is pastor of one of the oldest Lutheran churches in Texas, its having celebrated its centinnial last year. The church has about 700 members.

Rev. Oelke is also director of the Area Kiwanis Boys Camp, which meets each August in LaGrange.

Explorer Scouts To Leave For Philmont

Six Explorer Scouts and one Explorer advisor from Snyder are to leave early tomorrow for Philmont Scout Ranch in northern New Mex-

Those in the group are Raymond Hicks, George Holder, Darvin Baze, Lynn Mayo, David Smith, and Johnny Proctor. Prentice Smith, advisor, will act as leader for a group of about 21 boys from the Fuffalo Trail Council.

The group will leave here at 6 a.m. tomorrow, picking up boys at Big Spring, Midland, and Andrews before going to New Mexico.

They will be gone two weeks.

Arabs Hurl New Blast At Israel

CAIRO, July 13 (AP)—The Arabs gave the Aqaba Gulf problem a new diplomatic twist this week.

In press comment and speeches, Arab leaders challenged not only Israel's right to send ships into the gulf, an outlet to the Red sea, but also Israel's right to maihtain the port of Eilat on the gulf.

Cairo headlines screamed: "Eilat is illegal."

The Arab argument is that Israeli forces occupied the southern Negeb to the gulf in 1948 in violation of U. N. orders and the Israelis still have no right to be there.

Egyptians are reported drawing up a memorandum, in consultation with other Arab nations, on what they call the illegality of Eilat, the boom town of 2,000 population which the Israelis expect to reach 5,000 by the yearend.

The Israelis look to Eilat to become a center for the handling of bulk cargoes—such as grain, phosphates and potash and oil—now that U. N. troops guard the gulf's mouth. Tiran Strait, once commanded by Egyptian guns.

Eilat is virtually surrounded by Arab territory. Israel holds only a six-mile stretch of the gulf's shoreline. Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan control the rest.

The new twist gave fresh impetus to the Arab cry that Aqaba is a purely Arab gulf and only Arab ships have rights there.

MRS. EDDIE DON FLOYD
. . .nee Miss Martha Priddy

Miss Martha Ann Priddy Is Wed In Candlelight Ceremony

A candlelight ceremony was the scene for the wedding of Miss Martha Priddy and Eddie Don Floyd in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Priddy, Santa Anna, Tex.; at 8 o'clock last Tuesday night.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Floyd of Snyder.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Paul N. Vercher of Fort Worth. Don Floyd, cousin of the groom, served as best man.

Candles were lighted by Johnny Floyd, brother of the groom. Mrs. Arthur Turner presented prenupital music and also played the traditional wedding march. The Rev. Billy McClellan, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Rochelle, read the vows for the double ring ceremony.

The matron of honor was attired in a waltz length gown of petal pink embroidered organdy, fashioned with a scalloped hemline and matching cummerbund ending in a bustle bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a carpet length gown of diamond white French lace and tulle. The sculptured bodice was designed with long tapered sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. Her veil of illusion was attached to a crown encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried gardenias with a shower of feathered carnations on a satin ocvered Bible.

At the reception Mrs. Bill Boatenhamer, Mrs. Don Floyd of Snyder and Miss Patricia Davis assisted in the dining room. Mrs. Billy Nabors of Temple was at the register.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado the bride wore a Navy suit with Navy and white accessories. Following the trip the couple will reside in Snyder.

Only members of the immediate family attended.

Build The Fire Early In Cooking Outdoors

Check-ups for the chef. Build your fire early enough so that it will have burned down to coals by the time you are ready to cook the meal. Keep the fire near the front of the grill for cooking meat. There will be enough heat at the back for making coffee, warming the buns, and other hot foods.

Parfaits and mousses usually have the same base — whipped heavy cream.

Wheat prophets in this part of the world are faring badly this season. A month ago, 40 to 50 carloads was the estimated total for shipments. Last week, the average estimate jumped to 75 to 85 cars. Now comes evidence that at least 100 carloads probably will be shipped, in addition to thousands of bushels that are begin held with the hope that the price may take a jump soon.

Circus Party To Be Held In Capital

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Some of the doggiest citizens in town are bankers for a "Big Top" benefit their prominent owners are organizing.

There's Breathless Monroney and her sister, Banjo, white west highland terriers, owned by Oklahoma's Sen. Mike Monroney and his wife. Mrs. Monroney is treasurer for the July fund-raiser, a buffet supper followed by Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Cozy and Nosy, Labrador retrievers, are also assisting their mistress, Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson, wife of the deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force. Mrs. Thompson took over as chairman of the benefit committee when Mrs. David K. E. Bruce left for Bonn with her husband, new U. S. ambassador to Germany.

The four-legged notables were guests along with their mistresses at a planning picnic at the country place of columnist and Mrs. Drew Pearson, whose elegant black French poodle, Roberta, and friendly hound dog, Linda, also were in the receiving line. Among other doggy guests was Oscar Ryan, long-hair dachshund, who came with his chic owner, Mrs. St. George Ryan, daughter of Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY).

The circus party is the latest of a number of money-raising shindigs given by the group of laymen and doctors dedicated to the "Welfare of Animals Used for Research in Drugs and Surgery" and known as WARDS. Formed as a pilot project about three years ago, the group already has raised $20,000 through benefits and private donations. This matched with federal funds, will be used to make model quarters at the Georgetown University Medical School for dogs used in research. Forty inside kennels will connect with large outside runs, giving dogs access at all times to fresh air and exercise.

"The condition of the laboratory kennels can make the difference between failure and success in many research programs," says Mrs. Thompson. "Dogs and laboratory animals enact a key role in the drama of cancer research and other medical experiments. A healthy dog is a vital link in any research system."

Cuban Takes Theme From U. S. Beauty

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Estevez, the young Cuban designer who has skyrocketed to a top place in the American couture, believes in the long-stemmed American Beauty, and takes her as the theme of his fall and winter collection, shown today to the visiting fashion press.

American Beauty roses bloom throughout the collection, ranging from one perfect rose as an accent to a simple dinner dress to a whole riot of blossoms on a cut-velvet evening gown.

Next to roses, hemlines are the Estevez enthusiasm this fall, and they are infinitely varied to give seductive impact to a glimpse of a well-turned knee, revealed in an evening gown sweeping the floor in back, cut daringly high in front. With these up-in-front hemlines, Estevez models wear dyed-to-match shoes and stockings, emphasizing the one-color look so prominent in fall fashions.

Another variation of the hemline is seen in short evening gowns with floor-length side panels, and by set-in godets giving a rippling back effect on cocktail dresses.

There are side-wrapped skirts with dipped back and cut-away front hemlines, in tailored wool daytime dresses and suits, as well as in satin cocktail gowns.

Estevez also is interested in daring necklines, and slashes them to the waist; front or back, in after-dark dresses. When the slash is in front the dress has a built-in bra. Some dresses have nude midriffs accented by king-size buckles. Others have deep cowl-back necklines.

The Estevez uneven hemlines seem to presage a return of shorter skirts, for this Latin designer believes pretty girls should show their legs.

MRS. DONALD RAY BURNS

IN DOUBLERING RITES

Miss Dixie Lee Kimmel Wed In Union

A double-ring ceremony last night united Miss Dixie Lee Kimmel and Donald Ray Burns in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kimmel, route 1, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burns, 2504 Avenue X.

The ceremony was held in the Union Baptist Church with the Rev. Roy O. Womble officiating, at 8:30 o'clock last night.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidosa, N. M., the couple will make their home in Lovington, N.M., where he is employed by Warren Petroleum Corp.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by LaNelle Woodson, a cousin, as maid of honor, Sue Ann Cooper, Greenville, Tex., and Patsy Ann James, Snyder, bridesmaids.

Flower girl was Nancy Womble of Snyder, and the ring bearer was Tommy Kimmel, a brother, of Snyder.

Wayne Glass, Snyder, was the groom's best man, and other ushers and groomsmen were F. C. Burns and Joe Burns, brothers of the groom, Wayland Glass and Bobby Glass.

Traditional wedding music was given by Carolyn Cox, pianist, and Ray Hardin, soloist. Wedding selections were "Always," and "Whether Thou Goest."

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the wedding ceremony.

An original wedding gown of billowing yards of white nylon tulle and imported chantilly lace over net and taffeta was worn by the bride. It was designed with a sweetheart neckline. The lace bodice fitted to points in the front and back and closing below the waist line with tiny covered buttons. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands fastened with tiny covered buttons. From this stemmed a full magnificent skirt designed of tulle with a shaped boutfant hipline encircled with an overlay of Chantilly and a panel of lace ran the length of the fullskirt.

Garlands of Chantilly were appliqued around the skirt which terminated in a chapel length train.

The bride wore a silver sixpence in her shoe, given to her by an uncle, Fred Woodson of Abilene.

She carried a crescent arm boquet of pink and white rosebuds.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids dresses were identical pastel orchid brocade, fashioned with portrait neckline, fitted bodice and full waltz length skirts. The headdresses were summer hats of orchid nylon tulle designed with a halo of tiny lily-of-the-valley. They carried arm boquets of white estereid daises with orchid ribbon streamers.

The flower girl wore a chrystalette over taffeta of the same shade of orchid. She wore a bonnet of orchid tulle circled with tiny flowers, and carried a white basket filled with white rose petals.

The church was decorated with candelabra entwined with lemon leaves and lighted white tapers formed an arch. Baskets of gladiolas and candleabra holding white tapers flanked the altar pews which were marked with white satin bows and candles.

For the reception the table was laid with white lace over pink and was centered with white esteried daises and white tapers. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with tiny pink roses and topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Miss Billie Marie Stipe registered guest. Mrs. Bobby Kimmel presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Billy Kimmel served cake. Both are sisters-in-law of the bride. Assisting were Mrs. J. E. Woodson, Mrs. Jack Ramsey and Mrs. Dee Myers.

The mother of the bride chose a sheath dress of blue lace over taffeta with black accesories. The mother of the groom also chose a dress of blue lace with white accesories.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a pink linen fitted suit with white accesories and a corsage of white roses.

Removing Wood From Door To Get It In Working Order Is 'Last Resort'

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When a door refuses to open and close preperly, the first thing nearly every home owner does is run for a plane, a file or sandpaper.

Actually, removing any wood from a door to get it back into working order should be a last-resort operation. Most of the time, the sticking or binding is caused by one or more loose hinges.

The hinges should be checked by opening and closing the door at varying degrees of speed, observing whether there is any hinge movement. This will have to be done carefully, since the hinges, at first glance, may appear to be solidly attached to the door and the jamb. But often it takes only the tiniest fraction of an inch movement — as little as a 32nd of an inch — to throw the door out of line.

Screwdriver Test

If no hinge movement is noticed, use a screwdriver to test whether every screw in each hinge is tightened securely. If a screw goes in all the way, yet does not seem to be gripping firmly, it means that the screw hole has become enlarged. A temporary cure is to use a slightly larger screw yet one which fits into the opening in the hinge. The better way to handle this problem is to remove all the screws from that particular hinge and fill the holes with wood putty, plastic wood or a wooden plug. When the filler has hardened (not necessary if a plug is used), the hinge and screws are replaced in their original positions.

Should all the screws be seated firmly, a shim may be the answer. A shim, in this case, is merely a piece of cardboard placed under the hinge leaf which is attached to the door jamb. If the door binds at the top, remove the screws from the top hinge leaf, place the cardboard under it and replace the screws. The screws thus will go through the cardboard before going into the wood. If the door binds at the bottom, use the shim under the bottom hinge leaf attached to the jamb. In either of these cases, a little experimenting may be necessary, such as a thicker piece of cardboard or two pieces of cardboard instead of one. Or you may find that the shim should be very small, just enough to fit under the edge of the hinge leaf without the screws going through the cardboard.

Hinges Outlast Doors

None of this will work if one or more of the hinges is defective. Usually, a hinge will last as long or longer than the door itself, but a replacement must be made when the hinge is cracked or bent. An excenllent way to avoid future strain on a door that is used often is to add a third hinge, midway between the other two. If the hinges are of the conventional butt type, the third hinge will have to be set into mortises in the door and the jamb just as the others are. You can do this without taking down the door, using a chisel and mallet to cut out the mortises. In purchasing a third hinge, get one of the same size and type as the top and bottom hinges.

When you are absolutely certain that loose hinges are not causing the trouble, then you will have to plane, file or sand the part of the door that is sticking. Do this a little at a time, since the tendency is to take off too much wood and leave an unsightly gap. And be sure that the area worked on is repainted or revarnished. One of the main causes of a warping door is that paint or varnish is not applied to the edges and ends. That's where the moisture takes its toll — and that's where the finishing material is most important.

Top Leader Is Crusader For Women

WASHINGTON — Alice K. Leopold, one of the top women in government, is eager to have "employers in general recognize that women with the same training and ability can do the same type of work as men."

Mrs. Leopold, assistant to the secretary of labor and chief of the Labor Department's Women's Bureau, says that one of her major concerns is recognition for women in high-level positions. She is planning a meeting this fall where executive men and women may discuss ways to help get this recognition in various fields as well as to encourage women to prepare themselves for such opportunities.

"It is a well known fact," Mrs. Leopole says, "that sometimes the high-level jobs are not given to women first, even where they are as gifted and able as the men being considered. Only 14 per cent of the more than 22,000,000 women who work are listed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as managers, officials and proprietors."

Mrs. Leopold, who was Connecticut's secretary of state before her appointment to the Labor Department in 1953 by President Eisenhower, is equally concerned with helping mature women get training and find jobs when they want to enter or re-enter the work force. The bureau has assisted several areas, the District of Columbia, Baltimore, and Springfield, Mass., in setting up centers for helping older women find earning opportunities.

Wife of a New York advertising executive, Joseph Leopold, and mother of two grown sons, John, a student at Dartmouth, and Lt. (j. g.) Robert K. Leopold, the handsome, women's bureau chief exemplified a successful combination of career and homemaking. Though her job requires a great deal of traveling, she manages to fly or take the train to her Weston, Conn., home for weekends, and she maintains an attractive apartment in the capital.

BREADED VEAL WITH FRESH TOMATOES

Ingredients: 8 thin slices (1 pound) boneless tender veal, 1 large egg, 5 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs, 5 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, salt, pepper, 3 tablespoons peanut o. 2 medium-sized tomatoes (peeled and diced), 2 tablespoons minced parsley, sugar, minced basil (fresh or dried).

Method: Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white. Mix bread crumbs, cheese and a dash of salt and pepper on a large flat plate on waxed paper. Heat oil in large skillet (10 to 12 inches) until very hot; dip a slice of veal in beaten egg, then in bread and cheese crumbs, so both sides of meat are coated. Cook 3 or 4 slices at a time in hot oil until browned on both sides and cooked through; this will take only a few minutes for each side. Keep first slices warm while others are being fried. Remove any very dark particles from drippings in skillet, add diced tomato with parsley, salt pepper, sugar and basil to taste. Stir well and cook until tomatoes soften. Top each veal slice with a little of the tomato mixture. Makes 4 servings.

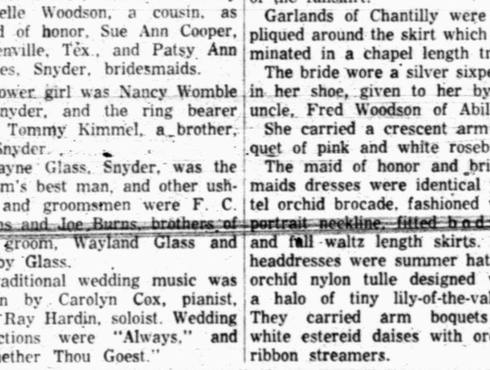

ENGAGED—Miss Patricia Ann Morrison, above, daughter of Mrs. Jane Morrison and the late Mr. Morrison of Chicago, Ill., will become the bride of Roland Robert Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Rodgers, Lamesa Highway, on Aug. 3. The wedding is set for 11 a.m. on that date in the Edgewater Presbyterian Church in Chicago. Mr. Rodgers is a 1953 graduate of Snyder High School, and is now employed as a draftsman for Sargent and Lundy, engineering firm in Chicago.

Worship Of Bosom Now On Way Out

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's longtime worship of the bosom is showing signs of a bust-up. And that's no pun.

One studio topper sums it up this way:

"Like every other cycle in this town, this one's on the way out. . . . "Sex appeal always has come from concealing, not revealing."

Oscar-winning designer Edith Head, whose job keeps her in touch with such trends of dress and undress, comments:

"Hollywood has too long been serving bosom on the half-shell. Even the men are tiring of it."

Miss Head and the Paramount publicity department recently were asked by producer Hal Wallis to come up with a new way to exploit French ballerina Liliane Montevecchi, who co-stars with Jerry Lewis in "Sad Sack."

Two years ago, the amply endowed Miss Montevecchi would have been given the cleavage buildup.

However, Miss Head designed a costume that features a dress slit on the side.

Since Miss Montevecchi does some strenuous dancing in "Sad Sack," Miss Head said the costume, which features as much of the actress' leg as the censors will alow, took more engineering skill than designing.

"The problems of stress and strain were basically the same as those used in building the Golden Gate Bridge," the designer quips.

James Cagney, making his debut as a director in "Short Cut To Hell," had to fill a role that would have cried — two years ago — for an Anita Ekberg or a Mansfield. Instead, Cagney chose Yvette Vickers, a tiny dancer.

Cagney said Yvette got the nod over the buxom blondes because she knew how to put sex appeal into her walk. She used no cleavage — she just walked.

At the first preview of the movie, the censors ordered a good chunk of her role deleted. It was just too sexy.

Salute To Negroes

NEW YORK (AP) — A musical cavalcade, "Happy Times" is being written as a prospective Broadway stage salute to the role of the American Negro in show business.

The work is being written by Noble Sissle, Eubie Blake, Flourney Miller, will span a half century and feature dance[illegible] from the cakewalk to rock 'n' roll.

TWO STARS among several in the new film, "Night Passage," are Dianne Foster and Dan Duryea. Others include James Stewart, Audie Murphy, and Elaine Stewart.

New TV Show Airs Problems Of Youths

NEW YORK (AP)—"Look Up and Live," the excellent CBS-TV public affairs program appearing Sunday mornings (10:30 a.m., EDT) is presenting a series, entitled "The Seeking Years", that explores the problems of young men and women on the threshold of maturity.

Last Sunday in "A Thing of Beauty" by Howard Rodman, three young broadway actresses—Diana Van der Vlis, Sarah Marshall and Bryarly Lee — played superbly the roles of three competitors in a college beauty contest launched by three boys. The girls ranged from the seemingly most beautiful to the seemingly least beautiful.

The excellent impression staging that marks "Look Up and Live" was ideally suited to thoughtfully playing on the ages-old idea of what constitutes beauty. While this little morality play naturally could not ignore the truth that beauty is of the mind or soul rather than the flesh, it avoided the old cliches far more ably than has many a publicized nighttime TV drama.

Next Sunday "The Seeking Years" will examine juvenile delinquency. The following two Sundays will deal with racial relations between teen-agers. It is with regret one hears that some southern television stations have refused to show the last two programs of the series.

Combining the finest artful qualities of the television medium with the sincerity that marks the devout and intelligent of all faiths, "The Seeking Years" brings to the home screen the essence of modern religious thought

Theater Tours For Visitors Are Back

NEW YORK (AP) — A court decision has put back in business travel services which arrange theatre-going tours for New York visitors.

The city licensing department, which controls sale of ducats to all Broadway shows, previously said tour agencies could not be okayed. The state supreme court ruled, however, that permits could be issued if proper controls are set up.

Theater tours have been a booming business for several years.

'Brothers' Arrive

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Brothers Karamazov," classic Russian novel best known recently because of Marilyn Monroe's yen to do a movie version, is to arrive on the off-Broadway stage this fall.

The version, entitled "The Trial of Dimitri Karamazov" has been done by Norman Rose.

Producers Cannot Predict Public Taste These Days

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Many of Hollywood's top producers admit they are baffled by public tastes.

"You just can't tell what they are going for these days," one of them said recently. "In the old days, when you had a good picture with star names and production value, you knew you were going to make money. Nowadays, even the good pictures can fall on their noses. You just can't tell."

Take "Spirit of St. Louis" as an example. Studios had been after Lindberg's story ever since he flew the Atlantic. Warners allowed six million dollars to be sunk in production and the presence of James Stewart was believed to be box office insurance.

It drew excellent reviews, but not enough business.

Warner Brothers faces a heavy loss. Pictures are supposed to earn double their shooting cost before they turn a profit. "Spirit of St. Louis" will fall far short of that.

Why?

Here's how one veteran star analyzed "Spirit:"

"They waited too long to make the picture. Your biggest market today is with the kids. A guy flying the Atlantic alone in a little putt-putt makes no impression on them. They know that jets can cross the ocean in a few hours today."

Among the biggest grossers of all time are such films as "The Robe," "The Ten Commandments," "Samson and Delilah," "Quo Vadis" and "David and Bathsheba."

But costumes and five-million-dollar budgets are no guarantee of success. "Helen of Troy" and "Alexander the Great," two expensive epics, failed with audiences.

One of the biggest hits of 1956, however, is "Gunfight At O.K. Corral."

One studio head commented on it to me:

"The picture is a collection of all the cliches in western pictures. The characters—Wyatt Earp and Doc Halliday—can be seen on television every night of the week. Yet it's a big hit. How do you figure it?"

You can't. You just go on making pictures and hope that somehow the great unknown — the movie audience—will be attracted to the theaters.

Angel Corporation Formed In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of private investors in stage productions has formed a corporation to give the public an opportunity to chance the Broadway sweepstakes.

The Theatrical Interests Plan Inc., registering with the Securities and Exchange Commission, plans to issue common stock to combine with private funds for overall capitalization of $880,000. TIP, its backers say, hopes to diversify investments in a number of shows, rather than backing a limited few.

Delight A Child With Paper Doll Apron, Peasant Dress

PAPER DOLL—Simple cutouts make this apron a conversation piece. Jumper, dress and apron are easy to make and fun to wear.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

SHE'LL LOOK like a little paper doll herself in a Tyrolean peasant dress and paper doll apron. This is one of the most popular styles in the home-sewing league, for the dainty embroidery, the gay trimmings, and the crisp little apron allow the seamstress to use her imagination to devise trimmings that are both appealing and practical.

The dress, made from a standard pattern, consists of a full-skirted jumper, beruffled blouse and apron. The inch rulers printed right on the pattern make alterations easy.

Trimmings are the most fun, and local sewing center experts have some tips on the subject. For the white bottom blouse with its stand-up collar and ruffled white eyelet jabot, use one of the new ruffled trimmings that needs no ironing. You can get the eyelet embroidery plain or already ruffled. If you get the flat kind, remember that the ruffler attachment for your sewing machine will ruffle and stitch in one operation.

The jumper, of black cotton printed in bright nosegays, is edged around the neck and armholes with pink baby rickrack. The skirt has an unusual trimming—jumbo rickrack in bright pink is ruched to make a trim that has depth, with two rows of baby rickrack on either side. The ruffler will gather the rickrack, or you can set your machine for a basting stitch, sew along the rickrack and gather it up before stitching it on.

The paper doll trim on the apron is fun for any little girl. Simple pink fabric cutouts make the dolls, and the skirts of each are edged in tiny rickrack. The dollheads are of cover-your-own buttons. Embroider the faces on circles of fabric and cover the buttons according to package directions. Then stitch rickrack along the tops of the heads to simulate curly hair.

This is the sort of trimming that is fun to make and fun to wear. With an outfit like this, a little girl will be the envy of her friends.

Picnic Touch For Burgers

Next time you serve one of the most popular of American foods—hamburgers—give them a fresh picnic touch. Put on the table a big bowl of crisp vegetable medley—celery, radishes, green onions, slim sticks of carrot and cucumber, buds of uncooked cauliflower, quarters of tomato. Present another big bowl of equally crisp, thin potato chips. These are all finger foods.

Season the meat nicely before cooking. For each pound use a teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and one of the following: ¼ teaspoon thyme; 1½ teaspoon prepared mustard; 1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce; ¼ teaspoon allspice; 1 teaspoon chili powder; or ½ teaspoon Angostura bitters.

As a dip for the vegetables, try mixing ½ cup of evaporated milk with 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Or thin mayonnaise with a little vinegar and season with a bit of crumbled basil or chopped fresh dill.

Cook a package of frozen green lima beans, drain and cool. Mix with thin celery slices and salad dressing. Serve on crisp greens.

MARRIED FRIDAY—Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Van Evans are on a wedding trip following their marriage here Friday afternoon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bunyon Evans, Fluvanna. The bride is the former Miss Patsy Ann Diggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Diggs, 301 Thirty-sixth Street. They were married by the Rev. John Reeves, pastor of the First Christian Church, in the pastor's home. (Lee Watson photograph)

A hearing will be given and held by and before the City Council of the City of Snyder, Texas, in the Council Chamber of the City Hall in the City of Snyder, Texas, on the 15th day of July, 1957, at 6:00 o'clock p.m., to the real and true owners, whether named or correctly named in the assessment proceedings or not, of all property abutting upon said streets and alleys within the limits to be improved, and to all lien holders or other persons owning or claiming any such abutting property, or any interest therein, and to all railways occupying any portion of said streets within any Improvement Unit as above defined, and to all others interested in any of the proceedings, contracts or matters and things herein mentioned, or incident or relating thereto or the contract for the construction of improvements herein referred to.

Young Set Will Dress Like Mother

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

SMALL SCHOLARS will to back to school in style this year, with planned wardrobes just like Mom's.

Helen Lee, a designer who started rescuing little girls from the dress doldrums when her own daughters were pigtail age, has come up with a new idea to solve mother's shopping problems and daughters' clothes problems this fall.

"I decided ti was high time the youngest set had a coordinated wardrobe," says she. "I remember how my children were always changing outfits a half dozen times trying to find things to go together, so now I have worked out a group of coats, hats, dresses and petticoats in coordinated colors, so that a little girl can have a complete wardrobe with everything matching or harmonizing."

Each group consists of a coat, hat and five dresses. There are even shoes to match, which Miss Lee also designed for Capezio. And there are special petticoats that go with each outfit. With a tailored little camel hair coat, for instance, the dresses are in various combinations of gold, beige and brown, and there is a petticoat trimmed with brown baby rickrack braid. Brown patent leather Mary Jane pumps with beige hands complete the picture.

Shish-Kabob Picnic

Did someone mention going on a shisk-kabob picnic? You will need skewers or long green twigs—green so that they won't burn. Dip skewers in salad oil or run them through a garlic clove to ease the job of slipping on the little chunks of meat and vegetables.

Guaranteed 30,000 Miles

We are now prepared to offer a written warranty for 30,000 miles or 30 months on every new Pontiac sold and serviced by us!

Pontiac's record of dependability and long life—consistantly giving up to and over 100,000 miles of service with no major maintainance—makes this offer possible. With todays prices you can't afford to buy a new car and then have to spend hundreds of dollars for major repairs after a few thousand miles of driving. With our 30,000 mile warranty, you can own and drive America's Number One Road Car with all it's beauty, performance and dependability and not have to worry about a large repair bill.

Don't settle for anything less. Come in now and investigate this wondeerful plan. Remember—5 out of 10 small cars wear a Pontiac price tag but give you none of Pontiac's advantages—So Don't Second Guess Yourself Out Of A Pontiac!
