Utility Crews Rush To Keep Up With Fast-Growing Town

By Gardner Collins
Brand Staff Reporter
Hereford's building boom is continuing at a fast pace with new homes going up in what were recently pastures, grain sorghum and wheat fields.

With the boom, new streets and alleys are having to be cut. New utility mains and lines are being put in.

As construction permits shot past the $2,000,000 mark during this summer to insure adequate pressure in that area during the winter," he commented.

He pointed out that as the city continues its rapid growth the work load is getting heavier.

In spite of predictions saying that the building boom would taper off, building permits indicated that building is continuing at as fast a pace as ever.

During the past month permits for new construction have made 1963 second only to 1962 as far as total amount of construction is concerned.

City water department crews have been "snowed under" with requests for service.

As an example of the fast pace of growth, Southwestern Public Service Company reports 100 new customers during the past month.

Southwestern Bell Telephone during the same period reported installation of 35 new stations in the city.

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. had had to make 20 new connections in Hereford in the past month.

With the building of new homes in the city, according to Mexican Electric SWPS manager, new lines and distribution facilities have had to be constructed within Hereford.

Of course, the outcome of the additional growth is the addition of a new line crew and a new crew of maintenance help to handle the growth, he commented.

James pointed out that lines in the city have been extended approximately three miles. This includes the building of new eight alleys located between 1st and 2nd.

We are keeping up with the demand and are building to meet the needs of additional service, he said. We will have facilities up for what people are asking for.

Frank Hammons, line chief for Southwestern Bell Telephone in Berger, commented Friday that the company has moved four additional people temporarily into the city to help handle the calls for additional service.

As a general rule, he commented, he is not behind in the installation of new lines. He pointed out that the installation of 35 new stations was quite an increase with the majority being residential telephone lines.

Buddie V. Evans, foreman of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., stated that the company was "in good shape" as far as customers and new connections were concerned.

He pointed out that the firm was able to get ahead of construction and has laid new mains in areas now being developed.

A new high pressure line was laid from the east side of Hereford to the northwest section this summer to insure adequate pressure in that area during the winter," he commented.

A Few Chilling Thoughts On How Best To Get, Stay Cool

By H. A. Tuck
Brand News Editor
With dry, after endless days in the upper 90s and humidity to match, Hereford residents have turned to many devices in search of personal comfort.

One school of thought, usually favored most by young girls with trim figures and boys with bulging muscles, is to wear shorts and other brief attire.

Some carry this a step farther and spend all possible moments immersed in water.

Another group, which might be called the Bedouins, is sold on the idea of covering up all skin area. The group is recognized by its long headscarves and long sleeves.

Still another group, by far in the majority, leans toward short sleeved shirts and blouses with more traditional leg covering, depending upon the woman's gender.

All conditioned clothes and businesses are the rule. Some have evaporative units, while others enjoy the refrigerated type of cooling. The latter are more preferred, particularly during the muggy weather when the evaporative units just stir up the air, but don't really cool much.

Even chairs have gone the air conditioning route, which is fine in some respects. However, it has taken away one of the memories of childhood. In summer, church pews were equipped with fans. These usually contained a religious picture on one side and several advertising messages on the other. And many a child learned or improved his reading skills from this source. And even the preschoolers got some advantages from the churchpew fans, for they pacified themselves by rowing on the soft, wooden handles of the more pliable cardboard fan.

Babies are much the same, some have evaporative coolers while the more modern ones depend upon the refrigerated model. And, too, indeed, is the

Three-Car Wreck Almost Serious

A three-car wreck at the entrance of A&P vegetable shed was only a minor collision with no injuries and relatively light damage by a narrow margin of only a foot in two either way, according to a Texas Highway patrolman.

The wreck occurred about 7:35 a.m. Friday as Vitoriano Valdez, 21, 241 Ave. K, turned into the vegetable shed drive cutting diagonally across the eastbound traffic lane.

As she turned an eastbound 1963 model sedan driven by Jonathan Showe, 18, Pittsburg, Pa., topped the hill and started down.

Showe swerved his automobile, hitting the Valdez automobile in the right rear with the rear end of his vehicle. The Showe sedan then crossed into the westbound lane and was hit by a pickup driven by Lloyd H. Lookingbill, 65, 115 Ave. J.

Lookingbill, according to the patrolman, had seen the first collision and was attempting to show his truck in time to avoid hitting the out-of-control automobile. He had almost stopped when the sedan flashed in front of him.

The car continued out of control, going off the west side of the road into a bar ditch, narrowly missing a tree and came to rest at a fence right side up, some 50 feet from the point of impact.

Miss Valdez was taken for treatment to a local hospital. Damages to all three vehicles totaled $600.

Classes Begin On August 29

For the convenience of residents who will be taking their vacations this month, the Hereford Independent School District releases the following announcement of its first few days of activity.

Teachers will report on Aug. 26 and 27 for meetings with school administrators and pre-school workshops. Enrollment for all grades will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 28.

Classes will begin on Thursday, Aug. 29. Classes will be dismissed on Monday, Sept. 2, in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

Two Arraigned For Burglary: $5,000 Bonds Set

Bonds on two Latin Americans charged with burglary were set at $5,000 each as they were arraigned Thursday before Justice of the Peace C. B. Miles.

Charges of burglary have been filed against Thomas T. Gonzalez, 27, 125 Jackson, and Albert Rodriguez, 17, of Hereford. Both were arrested by police officers while on patrol.

With the arrest of Rodriguez a series of seven burglaries which have occurred during the last several months were cleared as the youth signed a statement admitting the alleged break-ins.

In his statement, Rodriguez is reported to have cleared a day-light burglary at Askew Dry Cleaners and nighttime break-ins at Hereford Bakery, a freight company, Vaughn Laundry, Orsborn Chevrolet, Stephens-Hudson Motor Co., J. K. Baker Potato Shed and Hereford Farm Supply.

Rodriguez was arrested by a police patrolman who spotted the youth in front of the farm supply firm. A search of the youth turned up a large amount of change, tool box, key, tape measure and a small tool.

Officers, checking the firm discovered it had been burglarized with entry gained through a rear door. This is one of the alleged burglaries Rodriguez is reported to have admitted.

The second man arraigned on burglary charges, Gonzalez, was arrested here Sunday on Stephens-Hudson's car lot.

Officers arresting the man charged with burglary were stated that he entered three automobiles on the lot before they made the arrest.

As the officers searched the man they found articles on him similar to those later reported taken from Pitman Grain Co. over the weekend.

Final Swimming Classes Begin Monday Morning

According to Mrs. Bruce Miller, chairman of the American Red Cross Water Safety Program, the third session of children's classes will start on Monday, August 12. They will continue through Friday, August 23. At the present time, these classes are already filled with the overflow from the second session of swimming lessons held in July.

Children who are already registered are asked to report to the pool between 10 and 11 a.m. on Monday, August 5, for classification and payment of dues.

If there are any cancellations in the classes, there will be a registration held on Tuesday, Aug. 6, between 10 and 11 a.m.

Mrs. Miller also stated that there is a need for more instructors and any interested person is asked to contact her at EM4-2554 or Mrs. Peggy Nanninga at EM4-1885.

ONE OF THE FEW hay fields in the south-west ward for electricity is evidence of the rapid growth of Hereford in the past seven months. With continued heavy construction, 1963 is far as the record is concerned, is second only to 1962 when a new all-time high was set. Construction permits so far total $2,390,030. With the construction in residential areas utility crews are busy providing the additional service demanded. (Staff Photo)

ARMY NURSING CAREER ENDS

Alma Paetzold Will Travel For Fun, Instead Of Duty

By Sara Gillentine
Brand Staff Reporter
Alma Paetzold spent most of her 22 years in the Army traveling, from one military post to another, plus trips during leaves to other places. But Major Paetzold, a native of Hereford now, has retired.

What are her plans? She is getting ready to leave in January for a trip around the world.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Paetzold of Hereford is the youngest of nine of the seven in which she was stationed during her career as a member of the United States Army Nurse Corps. These countries include Australia, the East Indies, India, the Philippines, Japan, Germany and Hawaii.

Miss Paetzold started her career in the Army in 1941 at Fort Bliss, Texas. Prior to that she had been staff nurse at Lead Smith County Hospital. Her first Army duty was at the William Beaumont Hospital in Fort Bliss during World War II. She was stationed in many different places.

She has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal for a achievement against enemy ground forces in the Pacific, and has received three battle stars which are given to personnel who serve in battle areas. The Bronze Star was given to Alma Paetzold for bravery under enemy fire while she was in the Philippine Islands.

During the ten years I was abroad, Miss Paetzold commented, I was very fortunate to be able to make several trips to different countries during my leaves. The trip that most stands out in my mind is the trip that I made to the Holy Land. While I was there, there was still fighting between the Arabs and the Jews, and there were many places that I was not allowed to go.

"After I served in the Pacific for four years, I was transferred to Hawaii. Just three days before I transferred from Tokyo, the nurses' quarters I was living in burned down and I lost all the clothes which were not packed to be shipped.

It was a very fortunate that I brought my own clothes with me. I was able to get them shipped to me in Hawaii. I was very fortunate that I was able to get them shipped to me in Hawaii. I was very fortunate that I was able to get them shipped to me in Hawaii.

Around Town

BY H. A. TUCK
Crash, early in August and already football season is encroaching on baseball. The Pro College All-Star game was Friday night with the Collegeans winning 20-17 in a thriller. And the high schools and colleges around here are beginning to eye their prospects and beat the drums for the coming season.

When the Hereford squad held its meeting last Wednesday night, much of the time was devoted to fitting of mouthpieces. Under a mandatory rule of the University Interscholastic League, all Texas football players will have to wear the mouth protectors this year. We think it's a good rule. These mouthpieces are kinda like car seat belts — you may not need them but once, but in that instance there is absolutely no substitute. And we know a lot of men today who wouldn't be wearing bridges and false teeth if such a rule had been in effect when they were playing football. Of course, like seat belts, they won't prevent all injuries, but

Housewife Stars in Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE: You may never have heard of Mme. Pung Peng Cheng, but she's typical of the women emerging as leaders in the developing countries of Asia. And when you read about this dynamic little housewife, you're not likely to forget her.

that it has the look of a hapless home movie that was put together by a local cine club on weekends and holidays."

She's Not Bothered

The criticism doesn't disturb Mme. Pung Peng Cheng. She has already accomplished her objective — putting this little Southeast Asia nation on the cinematic map.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — In her sarong-like sampot and bright flowered blouse, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng, plump, dimpled and 43, looks about as little like a movie star as you could find.

Yet she's made it — in her first and only picture. And she's one of the few who can say — in either the jungles of Hollywood or Cambodia: "I did it for the good of my country."

The movie, now on a run in United States art houses, is a Franco-Italian production called "Your Shadow is Mine."

Filmed among the famed ruins of Angkor Wat in the Cambodian jungles, it has been praised for its photography and panned for a few dozen other reasons. Or as one New York critic put it:

"Indeed, it is so amateurish — so crudely directed and played —

When not performing among the ruins, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is a member of the National Assembly. She was the first woman member when elected five years ago, and is one of only two in the Assembly today.

"When women were given the right to vote in 1958, I ran because I decided they should have a woman representing them in the Assembly," she explains.

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is a good sample of the women emerging as leaders in developing Asia. Packing more power than their U.S. counterparts, they pull along their retiring sisters who often clamor for women's rights — then aren't certain how to exercise them.

How did she land in a motion picture?

"I was at a reception," she says, "when the producer of the film approached me and said I would be the perfect type to be cast as the mother, Mate.

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng

"I explained that I had never had any acting experience. But he said it wasn't necessary. They did give me a screen test. I was still reluctant. But I was told it was a motion picture which would show the world Cambodia and it was my duty to perform in it.

"It wasn't very pleasant working in the jungle under those hot lights."

It's Missouri-Size

It was the kind of situation that could crop up in Cambodia. The size of Missouri, it has 5.7 million people and perhaps the most unpronounceable capital city in the world — Phnom Penh (phonetically, P-nom Pen).

It suffers from national paranoia about the imagined aggressive intentions of its Communist-threatened neighbors Thailand and South Viet Nam, brought on by a history of invasions by both countries. Cambodia sought French protection from its neighbors in the 1860s. It ended only with the close of the Indochina War in 1954.

The nation has one-man rule in popular Prince Sihanouk. A Fiorello LaGuardia type, he toes a neutralist line in foreign affairs and a hard line against any internal Communist threat, borrowing time for his country to develop.

Women's Rights Primary It is also a country where, when you call for a taxi, a man pedals up in a bicycle-propelled sedan chair. And its postal system can speed an airmail letter to Saigon, a 40-minute plane ride away, in about a month.

In this setting, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng pursues her modest goal — promoting women's rights. She sipped a soft drink beside her swimming pool recently and told a visitor:

"There is a lot to be done. Matrimonial laws and the laws of inheritance and property rights still are very much in the husband's favor. Women have never really had any property of their own.

"We're writing a law to remedy that. We need to do more for the poor and for the education of children.

"But what we really must have — and we don't need laws for that — is more women going to work.

"So much is needed in our country. Everyone must work. Husbands don't always understand. They want their wives to stay at home."

Husband Agrees?

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng's husband, who is director general of the education ministry, agrees — and disagrees. "I don't object to my wife's activities. But our two daughters are grown. And we have only two children. Most Cambodians have large families. Who's to take care of the children?"

Their elder daughter, Pung Chhiv Hieng, 20, a slim girl with hip-length dark hair, feels the pressures, too. A pre-med student, she says:

"The old women don't approve. They say it isn't right for a young woman to be going to school with all those young men. But the boys accept me."

She is training to be a gynecologist because, she says, "too many women in Cambodia die because they are too shy to see a male doctor."

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng's husbands are clamoring most for legislation to end polygamy. "They want these rights immediately," she says. "They don't understand that sometimes it takes time."

She doesn't add that a possible barrier to its immediate passage is Prince Sihanouk who has several wives himself, as permitted by the country's predominant Buddhist faith.

"It's primarily a complaint of women in the city, where husbands have enough money to afford more than one wife," says Mme. Pung Peng Cheng. The problem doesn't exist in the vil-

Studied To Teach

Besides, she objects to trying to legislate morality like the controversial Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu of South Viet Nam. Wrinkling her nose in disapproval, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng says:

"She is too rigid. Cambodians are more easy-going."

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is, born in a southern province, she studied in Phnom Penh and Saigon to become a primary school teacher. While teaching, she met her husband, also an instructor. They were married in 1939. Before entering politics, she was principal of an elementary school. They have two daughters, Pung Chhiv Kek and Pung Chhiv Hieng, 16.

The family lives in a well-to-do section of Phnom Penh in a house with one of Cambodia's few back yard swimming pools.

After entering the assembly, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng started a column for women in a local newspaper. She abandoned it after a year "because it took up too much time."

She also helped organize the International Women's Club in Phnom Penh, made up of wives of foreigners attached to mis-

Their Job: Selling a Block

TORONTO (AP) — The ultimate in specialization has been reached by Ruth Schmeizer and Dina Ferrar, partners in a real estate firm.

They concentrate all their efforts on a single block-long stretch of Toronto real estate, one of the most valuable in Canada.

In three years they have sold many properties at more than $5,000 a foot frontage and have rented dozens of business premises at healthy prices.

The area in which they specialize is in the heart of the city, a district dotted with prestige shops.

BITE PUT ON

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An accident reported by the 121st Tactical Fighter Group sounds more like the cavalry than a jet fighter outfit.

James C. Davis, an airman second class in the Air National Guard outfit, was the victim. While on active duty for training at Lockbourne Air Force Base, he was bitten by a horse at the base riding stables.

ONE ARRIVAL ON TIME

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Before his fourth child was born, R.E. Lynch began figuring how long it would take to get from his home to the hospital.

He made a number of practice runs and trimmed the time to 12 minutes.

Came the big day and the couple drove to the hospital in the anticipated time. Then Lynch sat and waited six hours until his son, Timothy, was born.

Ferrar, a Romanian-born widow who fled her homeland and came to Canada in 1952, concedes that one goal is to make money.

But they add that an important reason for the decision to specialize in this area is that it remains them of the intimate and exclusive shopping districts characteristic of fashionable boulevards in European cities.

DRAMA FOR CITY DIVISIONS

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dramatic decals are used on many of the city's vehicles to illustrate their assignment.

Cleveland uses St. George slaying a dragon for the sewage disposal division, the Norse god Thor for the light and power branch, and a "big hand" for the water department, for example.

Law director Bronis J. Klementowicz ruled recently that such vehicles do not also have to be lettered with the city's name, remarking: "We don't want to make the city cars look like billboards."

THE LIGHTS MUST KEEP BURNING

NEW YORK (AP) — As the oldest theater electrician on Broadway, William Miller has learned to be philosophical about outdoor work the year around.

Miller, who is 77, has to keep tabs on all the big signs outside the Majestic Theater, and, as he puts it, "every day a bulb burns out."

The chore during summer he notes "is nice, but the pigeons annoy you. In the winter it gets so cold, your hands freeze on the pliers." Miller has no intention of retiring, however.

STAYED AT DRAWING
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Even working over a drawing board can be hazardous, Bill Keller of North American Aviation's Columbus Division has learned.

A power mower hurled a rock through a window of Keller's department. After crashing through the glass, the rock traveled 120 feet across the room, struck Keller's head and went 20 feet farther before disintegrating against a wall. Keller required some clamps and a bandage, but stayed on the job.

DID IT HURT, HURT?
JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Harold Hurt caught a whopper while out fishing near here but he wasn't happy about it. What troubled the 20-year-old fisherman was that the whopper he caught was him.
A fishing hook was removed from Hurt's upper lip at the Memorial Hospital emergency room.

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The four members of Greenville's Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard can wear their World War II uniforms in parades again. But it took some doing.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Transylvania College students will have a midweek holiday, beginning with the 1964 fall term.

President Irvin Lunger said this would result from a change in the academic program under which the average student would carry four 4-hour courses instead of three 5-hour courses each quarter. Students this could work off all required courses their first two years.

Keep Youngsters Busy in Car Around...

NEW YORK (AP) - Are you putting off a vacation trip because you don't feel up to tackling the road with a car full of youngsters? You're right that restless, bored children have a special talent for ruining travel.

But if you put a little effort and ingenuity into planning, the car trip can be downright enjoyable.

What you do is give the children - especially if they're between 5 and 10 - an opportunity to be creative. That's the advice of Mrs. Mildred Rabinow of the Child Study Association of America, a non-profit organization that for 75 years has devoted itself to building sound parent-child relationships.

First, Mrs. Rabinow recommends, "make the youngsters as comfortable as possible. Take along cans of soft drinks and snacks in case the children get hungry - as they always do when there is no convenient place to stop. There's nothing as irritable as a hungry child - or adult, for that matter."

Keep 'Em Busy

"Next, plan to keep the children occupied. A bored child," Mrs. Rabinow points out, "whines and complains, making life miserable for everybody. You don't have to spend a small fortune on toys to keep your children entertained. A good way to help them be creative is to have them make toys out of the empty soft drink cans. They'll have fun making them and playing with them. And if there's a sudden stop, the cans are safe and won't break."

Here's how you do it. Take along some colorful paper, cellophane tape, crayons and some animal shaped balloons. The children can have their choice of making cats, rabbits, squirrels or any animal they fancy.

A large poster board, to put across the youngsters' laps, is an inexpensive and ideal table for the children to use. A shoe box is handy to store crayons and tapes.

Active Play Needed

"It's also a good idea to include some type of activity that everyone can participate in during the trip.

FOR QUIET RIDING

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - City utilities director C. Howard Johnson Jr., who says "the world we live in is noisy enough," has taken steps to tune out portable radios on city buses.

Signs have appeared in the Columbus Transit Co.'s 267 buses, requesting passengers not to play portables.

"I think most people will cooperate," Johnson says.

If the request approach doesn't work, Johnson adds, it will be made a flat rule, and violators could be fined.

Here's a "can-cat" that's guaranteed to provide lots of fun. The youngsters cover the sides of an empty soft drink can with gay paper, securing it with tape. Then they blow up a balloon shaped like a pussy cat and knot it.

They attach it to the top of the can with double-faced tape. Now they draw a vest on the can and color it. A bow-tie can be made from different color paper and attached.

For extra touches, the child may either add real buttons to the vest or draw them.

A tail for the pussy cat is certainly a necessity, so the child should tear off a strip of paper, roll it around a crayon and hold it for a few moments, so it will curl. Then one end of it is taped to the can. If a squirrel with curly hair is on the agenda, the curls are made the same way as the tail.

ing the trip. A singing session is a good way to release some of the children's pent up energies," Mrs. Rabinow says, "and then even Dad can join in with-out distracting him from his driving. So bring along a song book and put it to good use."

Don't forget that children need active play too, Mrs. Rabinow cautions. Pack a jump rope and a soft ball that the youngsters can use when you stop for a while during the day. A little forethought, a lot of patience and enthusiasm and you're off to a wonderful vacation - for everyone.

YANITY, YANITY...

VIENNA (AP) - Feel like knocking 10 years off your age? Well, just don't change your passport birthday.

A 58-year-old woman from Voersdorf near here was sentenced to a suspended four-week jail term for making herself 10 years younger on her passport. The judge called it "forgery of an official document."

The judge said three more women will soon face his court on the same charge.

EASY WAY UP

AOSTA, Italy (AP) - They're making it easy now to get to the top of 15,781-foot Mont Blanc, highest peak in the Alps. There is a landing field for helicopters 1,300 feet from the top. From there guides lead tourists up relatively easy, snow covered slopes to reach the summit in a two-hour walk.

MAYBE PONTOONS?

VERONA, Italy (AP) - The bulletin board outside the quartermaster's office at the Southern European Task Force Headquarters of the United States Army here carried a list of available shoes in off sizes.

But what irked Capt. Charles L. Naegel was when some joker phoned to ask whether the size 12 triple E's came with or without oars.

BACKSEAT TOY...Can-cat traveling youngsters can make out of soft drink can, toy-balloon, gay paper and tape.

BOOKS DIDN'T BALANCE

BLUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) - The McKenzie School Board ordered an audit of the school's student body fund after questions were raised about the possibility of an unauthorized deficit.

The auditor's report showed that there was $70 more money in the fund than was in the books.

Thoughts...

And between store and home, there are usually air-conditioned cars. Nowadays, even the combines can be equipped with air-conditioning. The day probably is coming when farm labor won't consent to work unless the combine or tractor is enclosed and air-conditioned.

Modern shopping centers are even alleviating one of America's more distressing problems: How to get from air-conditioned car to air-conditioned store without getting hot? They solve it by means of a mall, which is nothing more than an enclosed hallway between stores. And, naturally, it's air-conditioned for customer comfort.

But even these measures are nothing more than stop-gaps for a temporary situation. Latin-American countries have attacked the problem of staying cool in a different manner. They stop all their activities in the heat of the afternoon and simply sleep until later in the day, when they resume their trade and business activities.

However, such is not likely to be the case in this country of hustle and bustle (and speaking of bustles, wouldn't they be hot in weather like this?), so about all we can do is grin and bear it, smugly thinking how much nicer it is here than in a place like Houston or Presidio or Yuma.

In the meantime, does anyone know where there's a job opening in an ice plant?

Paetzold...

While there, she was awarded a certificate of achievement which read in part, "She rapidly developed good rapport with her associates. A number of her suggestions have been implemented with considerable savings of time, effort and finances. Her insight, industry, cordiality and devotion to duty have contributed immeasurably to the function of efficiency of the urology service. She has held the respect and admiration of patients and staff members."

While stationed in Hawaii, she served as supervisor of an entire wing of the hospital.

Utility...

(Continued from page 1) struction is concerned. It is reported that permits issued by the city for July totaled $447,100 bringing the year's total to $2,309,030.

Record total building permits was set in 1962 with 2.69 million in construction reported.

Yet, as construction continues to boom, some are still predicting that construction will begin tapering off. But, with the present figures, a new record will be set.

Carrots...

Both crops showed signs of damage from late-spring thunderstorms which dumped heavy rains and hail over broad sections of the county.

Planting has also been completed on a fourth vegetable crop - lettuce - and harvesting is expected to begin here in October.

Elmer Patterson, recently retired postal employee. Seldom has retirement looked so inviting as it did at that moment. But appearances are deceiving and we know for a fact that Elmer probably is busier now than he ever has been. The only difference is that he can pick when he wants to work and when he wants to loaf.

Folks up in Channing who have been planning the Matador Cowboy Reunion on Aug. 17 have some real unusual events lined up. The day will start normally enough with a parade. But that will be followed by a "tracto-drag race", a "man and horse race" and a "terrapien race".

At noon, there will be a free barbecue and a meeting of the Matador Cowboy Reunion Association. Then, for members of the association, there will be old men's tie-down roping and old men's heading and heeling. Open events will include junior and senior girls' barrel racing and open heading and heeling. The day will wind up with a street dance. Sounds like a real interesting day.

Regular Hereford City Commission meeting is slated for 7:30 Monday.

And a special meeting of the Deaf Smith County Commission is slated for Wednesday in order to do more budget work and clear up some routine matters before the regular meeting on Aug. 12.

All summer I've waited for Bill Michael, assistant high school principal, to come in and tell me about all the fish he caught this summer in Mexico. I finally cornered him downtown Saturday and he confessed that the expedition (five Jeep-lads) caught only 75 pounds of fish on the Gulf northeast of Acapulco. Besides that, he said that the area was pretty well guarded by big, black wolves who prowled around their camp at night. But, like all good fishermen, he's optimistic and already looking forward to another try next summer.

Gracious, it's bad enough when hopped-up cars do their stuff. But can you imagine tractors souped to the gills Churning up and down the roads and hills?

Princess Faces Common Problems

By DORIS KLEIN

TOKYO (AP) — "I don't care if she is Princess Suga," said the assistant manager of the Imperial Hotel. "We don't serve tea on the mezzanine."

Eighteen years ago that slight to the Emperor's daughter might have been grounds for execution.

Instead, Princess Suga, a trim suburban matron in a bright orange dress, shrugged, smiled, went thirsty and talked about arranged marriages.

She's Dream Girl

If times have changed radically in post-war Japan, few symbolize it more than Japan's answer to Princess Margaret.

At 24 Suga, who like Margaret married a commoner, is a chatty young woman who describes herself as "no different than any other housewife."

Japan's newspapers and magazines think otherwise. The cause his children rank beneath him.

Eight days after her 21st birthday, Suga married Hisamasa Shimazu, a bespectacled $50-a-month bank clerk.

They moved into a little $11,000 Western-style cottage in the suburbs.

Like Arranged Marriages With marriage, Suga shucked the shelter of a platoon of servants. She learned to drive, to polish her own floors and to cook.

"Western and Chinese dishes. Japanese dishes are too hard to prepare."

She even went to work for a while, as panelist on a Japanese record program.

Paradoxically, she's a partner in an arranged marriage, and she's all for it.

"If your mind is clouded by all those romantic notions before you marry," she explains, "you could easily make a mistake and select a person who is unsuitable."

Before World War II, young ladies when they married usually found a book stuck into their trousseau. The 200-year-old volume was called "Onna Daigaku," or "Greater Learning for Women."

It spelled out Japan's estimate of a woman's place, unchanged from feudal times. She had Three Obediences, said the book, to her father before marriage, to her husband when married and to her son when widowed.

A man could divorce his wife for any one of seven reasons, including if she talked too much.

For royal kids it was sometimes tougher.

With 2,600 years of unbroken rule behind them the world's oldest royal family had some definite ideas on bringing up children.

One of them: children must live separately from their Imperial parents almost from birth.

She One of Six "When I was a child, I lived in a separate apartment in the palace not far from my parents," Suga recalls. "But I was only permitted to see them by appointment."

"Then, when I went to kindergarten, I lived in a separate building altogether on the palace grounds, with my own staff."

Suga was next to the youngest of the six royal children.

"As I grew older, I would hear from my friends how they lived, how they stayed with their families. Then I realized that we lived differently from other people."

When the war ended, Suga was in kindergarten and changes were sweeping Japan.

Although the Emperor was retained, the peerage was abolished.

Guards Always Waiting — In 1948, the civil code was amended to give women equal rights with men.

Suga went to high school. But while the other girls were free to play after school, palace guards were always waiting to take Suga home.

Although only one of her older sisters had attended a girls' junior college, Suga decided to go to Gakushuin University in Tokyo, which she admits she chose for its coeducational aspects.

He Passes Test Three years after entering Gakushuin, she was introduced to Shimazu. It was arranged by their families.

Shimazu was a descendant of an old feudal family and son of the late grand master of ceremonies of the Imperial Palace.

"We met several times and he passed the test with flying colors," says Suga.

"There were a few things he had to be like — nothing unusual but like height. He had to be at least a little taller than I."

"And I wanted him to be a white collar man. Rather than an artist or something like that. Artists work at home. And I don't think that makes for a good marriage.

"We're very happy. Maybe I couldn't say those things if it had started out as a romantic attachment. Romance often clouds good judgment."

No Privacy After her marriage, Suga and her husband had had trouble maintaining their privacy.

"There seems to be an endless stream of visitors," she told a newsmagazine.

Curiosity-seekers would shinny up a lamppost to peer into their home until police put a stop to it.

As it does with most couples, the baby has cut down on the Shimazus' social life.

"We don't go to the movies as much as we used to. And I try to do all the house hold work and my own personal things before my husband comes home," she says.

There are still semi-official chores for the princess.

"We don't have time as much time as sons of our friends. There are certain places we must go. If we're invited to a flower display or an art exhibit, we must keep the appointment. If I were not a princess, perhaps I could say I was too tired to go."

JAFFA, Israel (AP) — The port of Jaffa, a suburb of Tel-Aviv, is one of the oldest ports in the world and reputedly was the seaport from which the Biblical Jonah set sail.

BY H. A. TUCK

John O'Hara is one of America's best-known authors. His latest book, about number 20, is a good story, but perhaps a bit raw for most tastes.

Elizabeth Appleton is both the name of the novel and of its principal character. As Elizabeth Webster, she was 21 years old when she met and married John Appleton in 1931. Until that time she had been a part of the fashionable society of Southampton and New York and had departed only once from her parents' strict and strictly conventional pattern of suitable behavior.

But life as the wife of a history professor in a small Pennsylvania college town was Sunday, July 28, J. H. Fish's brother-in-law, Luther Warren, died in Milburn Okla. He was the father of Lankford Warren of Hereford. Funeral services for him were held Tuesday, July 30, in Milburn. Mr. Warren was 72.

STEEL TIES, TOO

NEW YORK (AP) — Pakistan is building a railroad that has steel ties as well as steel rails. Called sleepers, the steel ties are being made here. They will meet the demands of the wider track gauge in Pakistan — 66 inches instead of 56 1/2 — and last a long time under severe weather and service conditions, according to Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

much different. Of course, she wasn't handicapped by her aristocratic appearance, her lovely manners or the fact that she was believed to have inherited money from her father.

Since her childhood, however, she had been impressed by only two varieties of celebrity: the men and women of the stage and motion pictures... and male tennis players. With this type of background, she wasn't at all prepared to share her husband's intellectual enthusiasms or to cherish his friends.

By 1940, Elizabeth Appleton was the mother of two children and had firmly established herself as the hard-working, devoted wife of John Appleton. She was a handsome woman of 30 who was quite content to live in the shadow of her husband. At least, that was the public image and one that she had been striving to build.

But the crux of the story is far beneath these conventional appearances. For Elizabeth Appleton had deliberately, and joyfully, found herself a lover: a moderately well-to-do bachelor who did absolutely nothing except indulge in sports, appear at the Country Club and at the Elks Club.

After the war, John Appleton became dean of men at the college, which was both his alma mater and the school where his father had taught. To all casual observers, he was the logical successor to the retiring president. He had the right background, the stability, the record.

But behind the scenes were some who felt that John Appleton didn't have all the qualities they wanted.

O'Hara, although a bit descriptive in places, is a master story-teller, and his story of Elizabeth Appleton is no exception.

In bowling, the distance between the foul line and the headpin is 60 feet.

Dutchman Is Nurse to Jailed Nazis

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — Jan Boon once ran for his life because the Nazis wanted to beat him to death. Today he works in Spandau War Crimes Prison, looking after the comfort of the last three top Nazis still behind bars.

Boon, a Dutchman, is a male nurse. His patients are Rudolf Hess, Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer.

Hess, 69, was deputy fuhrer of the Nazi Party and is serving a life term. Von Schirach, 56, former Reich youth leader, and Speer, 58, ex-minister for munition and armament, both serve 20-year sentences.

Boon, who comes from Schiedam near Rotterdam, sees the prisoners every day but he is not permitted to discuss their daily routine, their behavior or anything else that goes on behind the 15-foot-high walls of the ancient prison.

"I am sworn to secrecy," he said somewhat regretfully in an interview.

Boon often talks at great length with the three Nazis. "When they come to me with ailments, they sit and talk. They tell me of their problems and their troubles."

"I suppose I know more about them than the prison officials know and I wish sometimes I could talk about it," said the 51-year-old Dutchman.

Boon spends an average of eight hours a day at the prison. "But I am always on call. If I visit some friends, I always have to make sure I am near a telephone."

Does he get called to the prison at night? "Sure," said Boon, "if one of them has a bellyache I have to go in."

Besides taking care of the Nazis' minor aches and pains,

JAN BOON of Schiedam near Rotterdam, Holland, drives out of the Spandau War Crimes Prison in Berlin, where he works as the nurse of Rudolf Hess, Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer, the last three of Hitler's top lieutenants still behind bars.

Boon also cuts their hair.

Brought to Berlin: Boon was brought to Berlin as a slave laborer in 1940 after the Nazis overran the Netherlands.

In 1942, he met his wife, Anni, whose first husband had been executed by the Nazis a year before for political crimes.

"Because I was a foreigner, the Germans gave us a hard time. 'That was a terrible time... the worst time of my life,' Boon recalls.

The Dutchman told how once he neglected to salute the Nazi flags of a column of Hitler youths Marching through a Berlin street.

"I just didn't pay any attention and suddenly I heard yells like 'beat him to death' and when I looked around a mob of people were running after me."

"I ran for my life into a S-Bahn (elevated railway) station and managed to jump on a train which was just pulling out and that saved me," Boon said. This was in 1943. Even now, 20 years later, fearful excitement crept into the man's voice as he told the story.

When the war ended, Boon was working in a Berlin hospital as a surgery assistant. He had been a fireman in The Netherlands and had some first aid training. Because of the shortage of doctors in war-time Germany, Boon was trained to administer anesthetics.

"I did 2,000 of them and never had an accident," he said proudly.

He was to have been repatriated to his homeland but he elected to stay in war-ravaged Berlin. "There was a shortage of trained personnel but a doctor begged me to stay. And I couldn't leave the sick who needed help."

No Germans Work There: The first of the top war criminals were brought to Spandau in 1946 and the Allies asked Boon to work in the prison. Regulations prohibit any German from working inside the huge, red brick building.

In 1956, Boon quit his job at the prison and bought a small tobacco and liquor store in Spandau.

HOME PRO Sound Swing Should Come First Even with the Average Golfer

(This is another in the weekly series of golf lessons by club pros.)
By MANUEL de la TORRE
Pro, Milwaukee Country Club
Written for AP Newsfeatures

The average golfer's biggest problem is the lack of a definite concept on what he's trying to do. Too often the average golfer will attempt to do anything that is suggested without understanding whether a suggestion is sound.

In order to become a better golfer, a person first must correct a faulty tendency or trend. The best way to start is with a golf pro who is trained to detect faults in a swing quickly.

It does not do a person any good to work on driving or putting if the swing in general has bad tendencies. If there is no concept, there can't be a good swing. A golfer must have concept and a sound movement in his swing.

The greatest tendency of 90 per cent of beginners and 50 per cent of the average every day players is to try and raise the ball in flight. This virtually forces the player to open the face of the club—and the club is not doing the job for which it was designed.

Opening the face of the club by the average golfer produces (1) high, very short shots, (2) a great deal of topping, and (3) a lot of slicing. Once a golfer learns

"I liked this but after two years the Allies came to me and asked me to come back. I was flattered and accepted. My wife is running the store alone now."

The big four powers — the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and France — take monthly turns in guarding the prison.

Working for four different bosses can be difficult and you really have to be a diplomat to get along.

"The most important rule I have made for myself is never to discuss politics with the guards of the various nations because if you do there is sure to be troubles," Boon remarked.

He explained that the treatment of the prisoners varies with whichever nation is guarding them.

"It seems to me that the various nations treat the prisoners exactly the way they would treat prisoners in their own country," Boon said. "The treatment is never bad but it is different."

Doctors taking care of the prisoners change with the guards. Is there any difference in treatment by the doctors of the four nations? "Please do not misunderstand me, but I can not talk about that."

How does Boon feel nursing the men who were responsible for his ill treatment during World War II? Does he carry a grudge against them? Does he hate them? "I am not a man who hates," Boon says simply.

His trend, he can correct his high, short shots, topping and slicing. This is particularly applicable to short chip shots with 7, 8 and 9 irons.

After a sound swing is developed a golfer then may work on refinement of other points of the game. However, an individual should spend the rest of his life perfecting what he has found necessary to hit good shots. Too many persons have ideas which prevent smooth and continuous motion in the direction of the target.

Attempting to carry out suggestions which are not sound can lead to trouble for the average golfer after his original faults have been determined. In order to be a good golfer, a person must be able to hit the ball straight and in the air. And that takes a sound swing.

CHIEFEST DOWAGER OF THEM ALL...Actress Margaret Rutherford and husband John Bull took her 14 years to catch.

She's Mrs. John Bull

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — To all of England 71-year-old character actress Margaret Rutherford personifies Mrs. John Bull.

A caricaturist could not have been more imaginative than nature was in creating the snow-haired woman who has come to epitomize the indomitable dowagers of Great Britain.

Cushioned comfortably in sagging flesh is an impertinent nose and a determined chin. Eyes, wary, amused, or withering, pivot in fat pouches; and layers of chins rest on a hulking body of indeterminate shape.

"I'm proud of being Mrs. Bull," she declares, (for the formidable woman seldom simply "says" something, she makes statements.) Miss Rutherford considers the demands of a loving public and a curious press a price not at all too high to pay for the honor.

She Appreciates Him

Yet she is even more proud to be Mrs. Stringer Davis. It took her 14 years to catch her actor-producer husband but she has had no trouble at all hanging onto him for the last 18.

"I wouldn't be anywhere without him. He is necessary to my every step. I am an old woman, you know, and I am very appreciative that he doesn't go running off after more desirable women."

At this point ruddy, silver-haired Mr. Davis chivalrously intercedes. "To me nobody is more desirable."

Visiting here briefly on their way back to Britain after the review of their latest movie, "Mouse on the Moon," at Cape Canaveral, the couple twinkles merrily at one another, each interrupts with corrections about details, while nostalgically recalling their courtship.

She Used Padding

Miss Rutherford was 41 and "slim as a reed" when she arrived at Oxford Repertory theatre, in 1930 with a trunkload of authentic old costumes and some Salome padding to fill her out.

"I felt sorry for her," remembers Davis, who was then doubling as director and leading man. "I thought she went a bit too far, and her dresses were funny. But it was not until much later when we had moved to a dingy theater with several ghosts and a dreadful smell, I remember, that my hopes came to fruition and she became her own sweet self."

Even so, he did not consider surrendering his bachelorhood until the war. "Those six years in service were the loneliest in my life," Meanwhile, Miss Rutherford's theatrical star, despite its late start in life had begun to soar.

Is He Hen-Pecked?

At any rate, shortly before World War II was over, Lieutenant Stringer spent a day of his leave talking the actress into marrying him and another at the War Ministry seeking a way to do it. Now they are so inseparable that he often finishes the thoughts she has begun to express.

Because "Mrs. John Bull's" theatrical roles are always strong-minded ones, a journalist asked Davis if he were hen-pecked. "And I went along with the little joke," he laughs. But it is obvious that he is the Mr. John Bull at home.

Yes, the actress believes in ghosts. "Doesn't everybody?" She felt the leg of one once in a dressing room closet. Still she merely goes along with theatrical superstitions such as whistling in the dressing room or quoting Macbeth there in order not to upset the others.

There are frustrations in the life of the couple; bad service in American restaurants, lack of swimming pools in New York City; not enough fresh air. (They like to have the windows open while the air conditioning is going.) But life generally is very good.

Mrs. Culver Makes New Home Among Her Family Possessions

One of Hereford's newest residents is Mrs. Edna Culver, who has lived at King's Manor for about three months. She has brought with her to her new home her memories and her memorabilia, as do all residents of the retirement home.

Mrs. Culver's room is furnished with many examples of her needlework—quilting, crochet, and embroidery—and a dresser and washstand which belonged to her mother when she was a bride in 1889. Of black walnut with marble tops, these pieces show that they have been cherished through the years.

Occupying the most prominent place on the dresser and in Mrs. Culver's memories is the railroad lantern the late Mr. J. D. Culver was carrying when she first saw him. She remembers that he was carrying the lantern, which has since been electrically wired, in one hand and a piece of pie in the other.

Born in 1892, Mrs. Culver lived all her life until 1954 in Mt. Carmel, Ill. Her father, George W. Atkinson, was an engineer and her husband a conductor with the New York Central Railroad. She was an only child and her husband was an orphan.

Mrs. Culver's son, Miles, is band director at El Paso Urban High School. For several years he has taught at Eastern New Mexico State University in Portales in the summers. His wife is a music teacher at the Biggs Air Base.

When her husband died in 1954, Mrs. Culver moved to Alamogordo, N. M., where her son was then teaching. She remained there until her doctor advised her that it was unwise for her to continue to live alone.

A very quiet and reserved person, Mrs. Culver was never active in organizations because she wanted to be at home with her husband when he was there. She was a member of Eastern Star, but mostly she confined her activities to her home and her needlework. She prefers to observe the activities at King's Manor as she becomes accustomed to her new home.

MRS. EDNA CULVER, who has been living at King's Manor for about three months, shows a visitor the lantern which the man who was to become her husband was carrying when she met him. She brought with her to her new home the marble-topped dresser and washstand which belonged to her mother when she was a bride in 1889. Many examples of Mrs. Culver's needle-work decorate the room. Vows Exchanged In Frio Baptist Church

Frio Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ramona June Hall and Darrell Bedford Culp on Friday evening, July 26. The Rev. G. W. Fine, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hall, Star Route, Hereford, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Culp, Route 1, Hereford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white suit trimmed with white fur. Her accessories were white and blue. For the traditional accessories, she carried a white handkerchief belonging to the groom's grandmother and wore new blue jewelry and a white bracelet belonging to the groom's mother.

The pianist, Mrs. G. W. Fine, accompanied Miss Roxylene Fine as she sang "Because."

A navy blue sheath dress with beige accessories were worn by the bride's mother. The groom's mother chose a navy blue sheath dress with white accessories.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church's fellowship hall. Mrs. Mike Bradford and Mrs. Bill Paetzold, sisters of the groom, and Miss Reba Hall, the bride's sister, served the refreshments from the table centered with the bride's bouquet. The immediate families of the couple were the only guests.

Following their wedding trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado, the couple are residing at 623 Irving Street.

Jobey Claborn, Bride Will Attend Southwestern State

Miss Janet Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Buckley, Friona, became the bride of Jobey Doll Claborn on Saturday evening, July 27, in Friona Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Claborn, Friona, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West, Hereford.

The double ring vows were read by M. B. McKinney, minister of the Dimmitt Church of Christ, before an archway of greenery interspersed with white satin bows.

Traditional wedding marches were played by Miss Iva Ben Parr at the organ. She also accompanied Miss Carolyn Herring, soloist, who sang several selections.

Miss Kay Burleson was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Lowry, Detroit Mich., Miss Carol Ray, Miss Mikie Welch, and Miss Kay Struve. The bride's cousin, Miss S.eri Wright, Dimmitt, was flower girl.

The father of the groom was best man and groomsmen were Don Davis, Colony, Okla., Joe Reeve, Joe Ayers, and Ranza B. Boggess. Ushers were Larry Buckley, brother of the bride, Johnny Claborn, brother of the groom, John Walker, Clinton, Okla., and Eddie Bradshaw. Candlelighters were brothers of the bride and groom, Steve Buckley and Jackie Claborn. Darrel Buckley, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Buckley gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a formal gown of Alencon lace and silk organza. The fitted bodice of lace was designed with long sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. The silk organza back of the skirt fell into a train accented with a bustle and appliqued with lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Following a reception in Fellowship Hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado. Both Mr. and Mrs. Claborn are graduates of Friona High School. They plan to enroll at Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., this fall. He will be a junior pre-medical student and she will be a freshman.

OFF THE Shelf

BY H. A. TUCK

Not since we read of the adventures of Richard Halliburton have we been so thrilled by a true story of exploration and adventure as The Lost World of Quintana Roo by Michel Peissel. The book is from the new non-fiction releases at Deaf Smith County library.

Peissel was a young Frenchman, not quite 21 years old, with an international background who had finished his training with a New York band and was waiting to enter graduate school when he made a trip to Mexico. A chance meeting led him to the remote Yucatan peninsula.

He became stranded on the coast of Quintana Roo, in eastern Yucatan, abandoned by the boatmen who had been engaged to take him southward. Not realizing what obstacles he would have to overcome, or the absolute foolhardiness of his plan, he decided to continue his journey on foot.

It more than 250 miles and the maps were at least 50 years out of date, showing roads and towns where none existed.

But weeks later, Michel Peissel completed the long and unprecedented journey through dense jungle, mangrove swamps and along desolate beaches. This is probably the most savage coast of Central America, a coast which more than 500 years ago was the site of flourishing cities and ports of the ancient Mayan civilization.

His trek was an adventure not only in survival but also in exploration and discovery. In the course of his lonely and hazardous trip through the bandit-haunted jungles, he was to come upon many sites of ruined pyramids, temples, oratories and other archaeological remains of the vanished Mayans. These treasures had lain hidden for centuries under the thick jungle vegetation.

Vividly and with good humor, Peissel tells the story of his adventures on this daring one-man expedition. He was ill-equipped, wearing only sandals to protect his feet against rocks, roots, snakes, swamps and scorpions, and carrying a few possessions in a woven sack. He didn't even have that one essential of jungle travel—a machete. Only with difficulty could he find Indians to guide up on his way, and then only for short stretches.

Plagued by hunger and thirst, hunted by murderous outlaws, his route led through jungle so thick that the way had to be hacked out quite often.

It was an ordeal—but one that was to lead him to lost temples by the blue sea or buried in mysterious marshes and jungle, to lofty pyramids rising over the endless expanse of trees.

He visited a settlement of the Santa Cruz Indians, saw the marvelous ruined city of Chunchucmil. On his map, he marked the location of 16 previously-unseen ruins. Later checks revealed that 14 of these were previously unknown—a tremendous find for an amateur archaeologist.

Arriving in British Honduras amid a very wet and very British rainstorm, Michel was astounded to find himself in jail that night; seems that the paperwork of civilization encircled him.

In 1961, he returned to the coast of Quintana Roo accompanied by a young, and pretty, French journalist. The two were all that remained of what was to have been a full-scale expedition to review the ruins found earlier. Sandwiched between the two visits, Michel had even made a trip to the hidden valleys of Tibet, but found that they didn't have the appeal of the remote coast of Quintana Roo.

This is a gripping book, well-written and almost incredible. Armchair adventurers should enjoy almost every word of it.

Shades Of The Old West Viewed On City Streets

Hereford was a disgraceful sight Sunday morning. Nor did it look so good Friday morning and Saturday morning.

The appearance downtown all three mornings—but particularly on Sunday—was reminiscent of what Dodge City or Tascosa must have looked like the night after a trail herd arrived in town.

USDA Ought To Steer Clear Of The Cattlemen

Cattlemen—one of the last hold-outs from government controls—are about to become embroiled in another battle with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. At least, that's the forecast now.

The issue is concerned with a new USDA plan to put more farmers into the cattle business by forcing them to abandon wheat and grain sorghum acreage in favor of more grazing land.

Cattlemen take the stand that the government plans to help farmers get into the cattle business by turning their crop land into grazing pasture and then, presumably, helping them stock the grass with beef cattle. This would be done by an extension of a program of cropland adjustment already in operation.

That cattlemen contend that the farmers should get into the cattle business only if they want to do so and then at the farmers' expense, not with the help of the government.

We take our stand on this with the cowboy, who has faced down the government before and has asserted his independence in many ways. This country was first won and settled by the cattle raisers and he's done pretty well without any outside help or interference. We think the government ought to stay off the range and let the rancher take care of his own business.

On the other hand, if some farmers decide they want to be cattle producers, that's their business and power to them. But they should be allowed to decide for themselves and not be pushed into the business.

The government says this action is forthcoming because there is going to be a demand for 25 per cent more beef in the country by 1970. But I'll bet my last pair of beat-up cowboy boots that the rancher can take care of this demand. After all, if there is a demand and the price is good someone is always willing to take the gamble and supply the demand.

So we advocate that the USDA, already battered by the wheat producers, should stay out of the cow pastures or they might step into a smelly situation that would make their odor even worse.

Specifically, there were liquor bottles, beer bottles, soft drink bottles and beer cans scattered all over Third Street, up and down Sampson and on the adjoining parking lots. They were the residue of dances held three nights in the hotel ballroom as an unofficial part of the rodeo.

This is a situation that has occurred each year during the dances, but 1963 topped them all for sheer volume and coverage.

The city has an anti-littering ordinance and has enforced it with fines in the past on folks who forgot and tossed out a few empty beer cans. But that was puny besides the wholesale littering that took place last weekend.

Our policemen were out working those nights. Many people saw them directing traffic or patrolling the streets. And a couple of burglary suspects would vouch that the police were working. At least, the police caught them on the spot. The department just doesn't have enough manpower to take care of such a situation... and it shouldn't be necessary.

Of course, the sponsors of the dance can't spend all their time picking up after patrons, but they might help some with an occasional humorous announcement or a few softly-spoken suggestions.

Dances and drinking are here to stay and we think the dance might be all right... at least, we don't care to debate the question. But the problem is the revolting litter left behind. City officials try to keep the streets clean and neat-looking. But they are fighting a losing battle each July when uncaring persons throw cans and bottles all over the landscape.

A county judge here, on at least two occasions, sentenced persons who had thrown beer containers to go out and gather up a truck load of empties from bar ditches. Perhaps an example might be made here and let some thoughtless person pick up all the empties around the courthouse square, or off one of the parking lots along Third Street.

That might not break all the offenders, but it might help some. And one look is enough to convince any citizen that something needs to be straightened out.

Don't (Glub) Let Down Your (Help!) Guard (Gurgle)

We're now into the last month of summer, traditionally for fun in the sun and most particularly on and in the water.

And so far we have been extremely fortunate in that, to our knowledge, no one from Deaf Smith County has died or seriously been hurt in a water mishap. We first would like to congratulate our readers for their safety while swimming, boating and water-skiing.

But we also feel it necessary to issue our annual warning about the many dangers connected with the water sports. This is especially appropriate now as folks try to squeeze the last bit of fun into the few remaining days of summer.

A song currently popular harmonizes about "those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer." We think all of it is fine, except there really are too many who seem to go crazy with the heat and freedom when they get near the water.

To some, a powerful motorboat is nothing but a toy in which to run wild. And the driver does have a remarkable sense of power when he kicks the throttle wide open and scoots across the water, not having to watch for traffic lanes, cross-streets and traffic lights. And even the passengers might feel a false sense of security because they have a life jacket strapped around their middle.

But the water can be dangerous, especially to those who aren't on board a boat very often.

Boating, swimming and skiing are wonderful fun. But they can be mighty dangerous. So don't take any chances this month or any other month. We'd just as soon not have to write about the tragedy that could mar your summer outing.

Every Litter Bit Hurts

Revamping Of Coroner System Is Needed Now

Texas' outmoded laws for investigating the cause of death may be aiding the rising crime rate by putting the seal of approval on murder performed with finesse.

An appeal for the establishment of the medical examiner system for the entire state is urged by a Fort Worth pathologist, Dr. John J. Andujar, writing in the July issue of the Texas State Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Andujar decries the 75-year old system in which one of the functions of the justice of the peace is to investigate deaths without medical attendance.

In an earlier Journal article, the author pointed out that since no one can question that the heart stops beating in death, it is reasonably safe to indict every corpse as the victim of a heart attack.

The who-dun-it fan, even comic book addicts, are familiar with the modern techniques of ballistics, toxicology, spectroscopy, and microscopic pathology in solving crimes. Without these aids, Dr. Andujar stated, the justice of the peace often is stymied in his efforts to arrive at accurate death verdicts.

As a young physician, Dr. Andujar once accompanied a medical examiner to investigate a railroad track. All evidence seemed to indicate accidental death, but an autopsy revealed a small bullet hole in the badly mangled skull.

A decade ago, the Texas Legislature passed a permissive bill, authored by Sen. Bob Baker of Houston (then a member of the House), to allow counties with a population of 500,000 or more to organize adequate medical examiner systems. Subsequent bill decreased the required population bracket until now, counties of 120,000 or more on a vote of the Commissioner's Court, may institute a modern investigative system for deaths unattended by a physician.

Four Texas counties have a medical examiner system. They are Harris, Bexar, Dallas, and Wichita Falls.

Through the efforts of the Tarrant County Medical Society, the Tarrant County Crime Commission, federal and county bar associations, the Legislature approved last May an amended bill authorizing that "the commissioner's Court of any county having a population of more than 500,000 and not having a reputable medical school shall establish and maintain the office of Medical Examiner and in all counties having a population not less than 120,000, the Commissioner's Court of any county may establish and provide for the maintenance of the office of Medical Examiner..." The act is effective on Jan. 1, 1965.

Progressive justices of the peace themselves, the author wrote, have been in the vanguard of the fight for a medical examiner system in Texas.

"All thoughtful citizens of the state, however, recognize the need for replacement of the coroner system," Dr. Andujar stated, citing the current system as unfair to the JPs and inconsistent with their judicial functions.

The Texas Society of Pathologists has led the fight for a state-wide modern medical examiner to insure uniformity. Without a state-wide system, Texas, in effect, invites would-be murderers to operate across county lines, where the probability of discovery is little or none, the author has explained.

The cost of a state-wide medical examiner system, according to Dr. Andujar, would be a minute proportion of the millions spent annually in Texas for repression of crime.

Under the new law, seven of Texas' 254 counties are authorized to set up medical examiner systems through a vote of their respective Commissioners' Courts. The seven are El Paso, Hidalgo, Jefferson, Lubbock, McLennan, Nueces, and Travis counties. Total population of these counties, according to the 1960 federal census, is 1-1/2 million, or approximately 10 per cent of the entire state population.

The Legislature has opened the door. Now it is up to the people to decide if they want to continue an obsolete practice in the Jet Age.

SPADE SCHOOL BID LET

The Spade School Board negotiated with the low bidder on proposed school improvements Friday night, arriving at a contract total of about $166,000 for a new addition and remodeling. Bennett Construction Co. of Lubbock was low bidder on the building program recently, but the figure surpassed the bond election total of $180,000 approved by voters in April. A meeting was called with the low bidder and architects to negotiate a contract. Superintendent Joe Bailey reported that construction of the new addition is to begin immediately. It will include a new gymnasium and new science and agriculture rooms. Completion is scheduled for mid January. COUNTY WIDE NEWS (Littlefield)

CAR HITS COW; COW HITS TRAIL

Somewhere east of Muleshoe there's a cow that probably has a pretty sore hip. But, officers can't find her. The cow, whose name was not learned, was involved in a minor crash east of town recently. Ray Douglas Smith was reported to have run into the cow while driving two miles east of Muleshoe. He knocked the cow down but she got up and ran. Sheriff Dee Clements says so far as he knows she hasn't been seen since. "She's probably still running," the sheriff concluded. "Goodness knows where she went; we just haven't been able to find her." To say the least, she hasn't appeared on U. S. 84 since. Incidentally, Smith's car was damaged to the tune of $100. BAILEY COUNTY JOURNAL (Muleshoe)

SECOND ACCIDENTAL DEATH RECORDED

Friena recorded its second accidental death in an eight-day period this past Sunday with the drowning of two-year-old Pancho Lopez. The Lopez youngster drowned in a drainage ditch which carries runoff water from Friena Growers and Shippers to Frio Draw. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Lopez, missed the boy upon returning from Hereford late Sunday where they had been working. The toddler was found in about two feet of water. He was taken to Farmer County Community Hospital. The child was given artificial respiration, but attempts to revive him were unsuccessful and he was pronounced dead at 9:15 P.M. Officers said he apparently wandered away from his other brothers and sisters, and may have been in the ditch for as long as 45 minutes. THE FRIONA STAR

COMMISSION VOTES NEW WELL

Canyon City Commission Monday night authorized Joe Currie Drilling Company of Canyon to drill a water well at city expense on the Forrester Estate west of Canyon. Cost of the well is not to exceed $650, the commissioners stipulated. Commissioners also took action on several other proposals in a lengthy session. The city, in its contract with the Forrester Estate for water rights, is obligated to either solve any problems that should develop with the four existing Forrester wells in the area or to provide free water from city wells. One of the four windmills in the area recently quit producing. THE CANYON NEWS

TWO SAVED FROM CESSPOOL

Two small Latin-American children were saved from drowning Monday morning by an Amarillo school teacher who jumped into an open cesspool and dragged them to safety. Both boys were found unconscious having been in the waste-filled pit for several minutes. They were revived by artificial respiration. The near tragedy occurred about 9:30 a.m. adjacent to Marshall's Grocery on Highway 70. The boys were fished from the 15-foot deep pool by Ronnie Upton, a school teacher at Fannin Junior High in Amarillo. Upton was in Olton calling on grocery stores for a food firm. THE BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm gets bogged down in figures this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editor:

I'm always hearing people complain about the national debt and then they shake their heads and say, "I don't believe the Federal government will ever get out of debt."

What I'd like to know is, will anybody? What I mean is, I was reading a newspaper article last week and ran across some figures that gave me so much to think about I haven't been able to settle down to work since, and if I do work out of the slump, I'll hunt up some more.

According to them, since 1947 the Federal debt has increased by 17 per cent, while business firms increased their gross debt by 230 per cent, consumers by 390 per cent and local governments by 390 per cent.

As you can see by this, the Federal government is falling down on the job. What kind of leadership is it when Washington goes in debt only 17 per cent deeper while state and local governments are going in 330 per cent?

But the thing that fascinated me about the figures is the fact consumers have increased their debts by 390 per cent since 1947.

What I want to know is, how do they do it? Where are the stores? That's the trouble with an article like that, it leaves out the most important part—where can I find the stores that'll let me run my debts up 390 per cent?

As I understand the whole set of figures, everybody, from Washington to state and local governments to business firms to consumers, is anywhere from 17 per cent to 390 per cent deeper in debt now than he was 15 years ago, and what I want to know is, who's got all this money to lend?

This is what floors me about finances, but in the meantime if you find out the names of any store willing to let me bring my debts up to the national level of 390 per cent send me their names quick. It won't be any trouble to find out how much I'd have to buy to increase my debts of 15 years ago by 390 per cent. I know what my debts were 15 years ago; I ought to, I've still got 'em.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

HERE And THERE

with Mrs. Merila Kaul
"This is the highlight of our vacation," was the comment of Mrs. Victor Punzar and her children, Richard 12 and Lorraine age 9, who have been here in the home of her sister, Mrs. Bill Thompson. "And it's not just that we are enjoying the Thompson family, but there are so many interesting things to see around here," she continued.

The Punzars live in Euclid, Ohio, which is a suburb of Cleveland. For the children this is their first experience in farm and ranch life. They have seen pictures and studied about animals on the farm, but had never seen any real ones.

At the Merila Kaul farm they saw "real" cows, bulls, horses, sheep, lambs, pigs, and chickens. An attempt to catch a lamb for picture-taking was not solved until Merlin appeared and all the lambs and sheep ran to him expectantly. Young Richard found it hard to leave "Diamond," the quarter horse at the Kaul farm, after he found he could really ride on him — by himself — and even stayed PUT when Diamond trotted a little.

At the Bill Dameron Ranch they saw the steer which Larry Minks will show in the Kansas City Livestock Show.

At the Dale Kelly farm they watched them dig potatoes with the potato combine or harvester. They even picked up some potatoes after the harvester, took them home and had some "real good potato chips." They visited the site of the new sugar mill, saw sugar beets growing, watched the flame cultivator work, visited the sheds where carrots were being packed and potatoes were being processed. They got a real thrill out of last week's performances of the Rodeo — the first real one they had seen. Richard wore his cowboy hat, but would like to have some boots.

They have visited the Museum at Canyon and Palo Duro Canyon which "I like better than Grand Canyon," said Lorraine.

When they leave next week to return to the city, Richard hopes to have a collection of horned toads to take with him for a terrarium. He also wants to add some rattle snake rattles if he can find a donor.

Mrs. Bert Boomer was hostess at her home on Star Street at a "coffee" last Friday morning for the Children's Division of the First Methodist Church. Miss Naomi Hare, who has been teaching in Monterrey, Mexico, was a special guest and shared some of her experiences with the group. Jerry Franz, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, led the prayer which introduced the business meeting to conclude the program.

Those present included Miss Hare, the hostess Mrs. Boomer, Jerry Franz, and Mesdames J. O. Newall, S. L. Garrison, Hugh Clearman, Don Baugous, Pete Caviness, Claude McDougal, C. A. Smith, Ray Simpson, Jim Arney, Joe Hamilton, Don Johnson, David Hutchins, W. J. Messick, Earnest Langley, Wayne Edwards, and Miss Ona Hamner.

Mrs. Bert Boomer went to Clearendor the first of the week and got her mother, Mrs. Walter Taylor, who is spending the week here in the Boomer home. Last week end the Boomers went to Albuquerque, N. M., to visit their son Lynn and wife Kay. Lynn lives in Albuquerque and commutes to his farm 35 miles out in the Estancia valley. He was getting ready to cut his barley and says his crops are good in spite of the fact that they must water constantly. Lynn says the weathermen report the driest summer there since 1903. Wife Kay is attending school at the University in Albuquerque, majoring in elementary education. Lynn will enter the National Guard this fall and after six months active duty will be able to continue his farm work.

The Boomers report that daughter Margaret and her husband are now living in Houston where he is working with IBM.

Mrs. Howard Beasley turned home from Gonzales, Calif., Wednesday after spending two weeks there visiting members of her family.

Miss Paula Moore is attending school this summer at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, N. M.

Mrs. Claude Ola Brown Mrs. John Hicks, Mrs. Earl Head and Helen and the Marchman girls attended a pink and blue shower honoring Mrs. Claude Hicks at Adrian Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Claude Hicks is a daughter of Mrs. Head.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parsons and Doris went to Hale Center last Sunday to spend the day in the home of their son Lloyd. They brought Lloyd's two small sons, Nellie and Mac, back to Hereford with them as Lloyd is moving this week to Lubbock. He has been teaching at Hale Center but will teach public school music this fall at Maedgen School in Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Evans and son of Lubbock were also guests at Lloyd's home Sunday. She is a daughter of the Buck Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Parsons and LeAnn of Amarillo were guests Tuesday night of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parsons. They are moving to Dimmitt where Don will head the Southwestern Insurance Agency.

Rojean Block and her cousin, Jane Ann Finch, who has been visiting here the past week, took the train Wednesday evening to Amarillo. Rojean will visit in Jane Ann's home and also with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Finch. Jane Ann's father E. R. Finch, is a brother of Mrs. Ivan Block, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Finch are her parents.

Rick Punzar attended Scout Camp at Camp Don Harrington with his cousin, Kerry Thompson, last week. As badly as Rick wants some rattle snake rattles, he didn't do as one young scout who found a snake, picked it up by the back of the head and took it dangling back to camp to the scoutmaster to find out what kind it was. (Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of reports on the wanderings of Head-publisher Jimmie Gilentine and his son, Buzz. After many difficulties, they have reached their destination in Alaska. Their next problem will be in getting back home aboard their trusty van.

By Jimmie Gilentine
FAIRBANKS, ALASKA

What a town, what a town. A lot of neon, and more taverns than anywhere else in the world, population considered.

However, the people are nice indeed. We ran into a Houston lady who works at Safeway here, and dropped in on the Williams Drug Store to visit with George F. Williams, an old Hereford boy. George is 54 and has been operating the store in Fairbanks for 21 years. He says, now that his mother is dead, he has no ties in Hereford, other than his sister, Mary King, who still resides there. A lot of people will recall another sister, Edna Lee Collier, who worked at Hereford Motor Company when it was operated by Dudley Green and Archie Scott. Like most of the business people in these parts, George says he anticipates spending the rest of his days in Fairbanks. Due to our visit, he may renew his subscription to The Brand — although I gather he may have been just a little bit teed off with us somewhere along the way.

Vern Witherspoon and some of the other old-timers used to recall when Will Rogers used to work on the Williams Ranch. George, like a lot of other Alaskans, found the going pretty rough during the "depression" and drifted west. He got his pharmacy degree in the University of Colorado, then migrated on north. He spent considerable time in some of the Western sugar refinery towns, and is no little worried over the "awful smell" which he says will envelop Hereford, when our Holly plant gets going. I tried to tell him that new methods are supposed to have eliminated this — but he just kept shaking his head. Naturally, he was glad to see someone from home, and right off wanted to know about Martin and Jack Gilliland. He also asked about George Suggs, Roy Smith and the "Russell boys"; he said that he remembered L. B., who was quite a bit younger, but was more interested in Artie, and some of the older boys — who were pretty well before my day.

While waiting for George to return from lunch, we also visited for some time with Mrs. Williams, who is a former English teacher in Fairbanks High and still substitutes a lot, due to the acute shortage of teachers in these parts. She was most interested in the integration problem in Texas. To me, the Texas Panhandle and Alaskan integration problem is very much the same. No sweat on either front!

She agreed that Negroes in this section are thoroughly different from those in the South but, being from Minnesota, she has trouble in following the pattern. Like most of us, she figures that since they pay taxes and are subject to military draft, they deserve some consideration.

"I was telling a customer the other day that I am not prejudiced," said Mrs. Williams, "and that the Negro children in my classes get the same treatment and attention given other students. But the Negro woman was not convinced; she asked: 'What if your daughter married one of us?'"

"This is the point where I get confused," said Mrs. Williams. "When this question comes up, it always upsets my day."

She was also telling us about one of the earlier Fairbanks men, whose daughter wanted to serve watermelon at her birthday. It cost $200 to have the melon flown in from Idaho — but they had the melon at the party.

Somehow, the story sounded more like Texas than Alaska, and when you get down to brass tacks the two states do have a lot in common. Not only in size, but in containing some fabulously rich people.

I mentioned high prices before — and they are on every hand — especially eating places. In Fairbanks the going price on hamburgers (plain) is $1; this includes meat and a bun; "Deluxe Hamburgers" cost from $1.25 to $1.50, which means that you get some lettuce and a slice or two of tomato, also salad dressing, mustard or catsup. George says not to get "shook-up" over the high prices:

"You get used to them in no time — and never think anything of it," George declared.

Most people I know would have a hard time lasting so long but, as he pointed out, salaries are commensurate. Alaskans attribute everything to the freight problem, but food stores sell eggs for 85 cents a dozen and ham for less than $1-a-pound which to me, just does not qualify $2.75 and $3.50 for ham, eggs, toast and coffee.

Fairbanks has three radio stations and two TV channels. It has a daily newspaper and several weekly papers. George says that Mr. Jesson, 73-year-old publisher of Jesson's Weekly, is a real "dean" in these parts. The weekly circulates all over the North and you will run across copies almost everywhere in Alaska.

In Canada, radio is seemingly controlled by CBS under government direction, and feeds out "oodies and gobes of opera and "long-hair" music. In Alaska, it is just the opposite — catch-as-catch-can and no holds barred.

One of the most interesting places we have visited was the museum in the University of Alaska, located at College, Alaska, about 12 miles out from Fairbanks. They have on display the biggest bear ever killed in the North — and I'll tell you it is plenty big. They also have a giant albino moose, along with some pre-historic animals which make the modern version look like pygmies. The museum really is a "must" if you ever visit Fairbanks.

Everywhere you go folks, sooner or later, will tell you what a great future this country offers — and they are right. Despite present prices, everything is bound to go up as the population increases. Within 15 years there is no question but that real estate values will multiply many times. However, it is a young man's country. I took one look, and realized that I got here 30 years too late — and for more reasons than one.

Practically everyone seems to have the short "look", meaning a fast buck, and to heck with the future. However, Standard Oil, Safeway and some of the other chain operations are in the territory strong, and you can already begin to notice the effect. Fairbanks and Anchorage appear to be the two reasonably large towns, and the rest is made up of small stores, generally operated as family projects. Service is usually poor and prices are unreasonable, chiefly because they "have you over a barrel."

Airlines are one of the largest businesses in this territory, chiefly because they are the only way to get places. Apparently, they are well organized and they are efficiently operated. However, as one of the boys at the university pointed out:

"They are building roads like mad," and this includes every direction. They say you can drive into Nome by 1965, and they now have under construction a road from Fairbanks to Mount McKinley National Park.

More and more tourists are coming this way. Already they've set a new record in 1963. Statehood has made a lot of difference and, 50 years from now to you, it will not seem like the same place.

THREE DAY BOOTS
CANTON, Tex. (AP) — George Friday, 61, has been making hand-tooled cowboy boots for 34 years and estimates he has turned out about 15,000 pairs. Friday says a pair of custom-made boots takes about three days to complete. However, he isn't interested in making boots in the larger sizes and doesn't even have a last for a size 13.

UNIQUE SEMINARY
- WORTHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A unique institution, begun by a Prussian soldier-become-priest to educate priests for German-speaking Roman Catholics, is commemorating its 75th year. It's the Pontifical College Josephinum, the only seminary in the Western Hemisphere immediately subject to the Vatican. It was organized by Msgr. Joseph Jessing, a one-time Prussian army sergeant who became a priest after coming to the United States, and was established as a papal college by Rome in 1882.

IGNORANCE SCORED
NEW YORK (AP) — Church members often are poorly informed about Christian teachings, the Rev. James M. Dennis, Episcopal rector of the Church of St. Philip and St. James, New Hyde Park, N. Y., told a meeting of lay leaders. He said:

"Over the years we have seen the church allowing the educative process of her children to end with Sunday school, thereby ending up with a considerable mass of otherwise intelligent adults with the religious I.Q. of 12 year olds."
Use a fork when you stir the liquid into the dry ingredients for pie dough and mix lightly.

100 BOOKMOBILES
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky boasts of the largest state-owned fleet of bookmobiles in the nation.
The state has 100 bookmobiles, serving 101 of its 12 counties.

Clinton Coneway Attends Field Trip With ROTC

Midshipman Second Class Clinton J. Coneway, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Paul Coneway of 104 Rio Vista Dr., recently participated in a three-week aviation field trip at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Tex. Such trips are designed to give midshipmen a general picture of the Navy flight progress to aid them in selecting a career field from among aviation, surface or amphibious duties. The air station is one of the nation's largest and the home of the Naval Air Advanced Training Center. Over 75,000 Navy and Marine aviators have trained at Corpus Christi since the beginning of World War II.

Playing on the Hereford team are Greg Chisholm, Bobby Wilman, Russell Phillips, Tommy Pool, John Sparks, Danny Massey, Cliff Herring, Steven Lease, John Selver, Larry Thomas, Brent Caviness and Johnny Stagner and Ray Lease. The first team, either Hereford or Vega, to win two games out of three will be the league champion and will go on to play district games with surrounding leagues. VISIT TOWNSENDS Recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Townsend were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Montgomery, Carolyn and Sharon, and Mrs. T. P. Griffin, all of Blackwell. Have you read the Classifieds?

GERALD TOWNSEND After visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Townsend, 432 Avenue J, Sp-4 Gerald L. Townsend has returned to Fort Bragg, N. C. where he is with one of the four Mobil Typographic Units in the world. Townsend, a 1961 graduate of Hereford High School entered the Army in June, 1961, and received his basic training at Fort Hood. At Fort Belvoir, Va., he received training in lithography and recently completed a photographic school. His duties are printing, map making and reading, and processing. SWIMMING PARTY The First Christian Church of Hereford held a swimming party at the Hereford Municipal Swimming Pool on Wednesday, July 31, at 7:30 p.m. After swimming they had a picnic.

Be sure you spread coffee evenly in the basket or filter when you are making coffee. A little paprika added to cheese sauce gives pretty color. QUALITY NURSERY STOCK Armstrong 505 W. Park EM 4-1869

BONUS CAME IN HANDY HOUSTON — Jim Dickson, 25-year-old rookie pitcher with the Houston Colts, says he received $1,500 when he signed with the Pittsburgh organization several years ago. "It paid for two years of college," says Dickson, "and a six-year-old car."

KAWOLICS IS NAMED COACH MILWAUKEE — Eddie Kawolics, 55, has been named coach of the United States team for the world bowling tournament to be held in Mexico City, Nov. 3-10. Kawolics, a veteran of 31 American Bowling Congress tournaments, is ineligible to compete, however, because he is a professional bowler.

WON EIGHT STRAIGHT ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — When Johnny Sellers led the nation's jockeys in 1961 he equalled the American record of riding eight straight winners at the Atlantic City track. He won the last three races on Oct. 3, 1961 and the next day won with his first five mounts.

ONE WIN, ONE RECORD ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Tuscan Spy took only one race in 1962 but it put him in the record books. His only victory came at the track here when he tied the five and one-half furlong record over grass. The time was 1:03 1-5.

DEEP ROOTS PERSIST NEW YORK — The religious roots of the United States are "so deeply ingrained" that it is "doubtful if congressional or Supreme Court endorsements of a neutral or secular state" can change fundamental church-state attitudes in America, the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, dean of Boston College law school writes in a new book, "Religion, the Courts and Public Policy" (McGraw-Hill).

SLOWNESS INTIMIDATES BALTIMORE — Stu Miller, relief pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, likes to take his time between pitches because it intimidates the hitter. "In a jam situation I work slower," says Miller, "obtained from the Giants last winter. Any little extra time you take makes the batter that more anxious. There's nothing a pitcher likes better than a nervous hitter, particularly for my type of slow stuff. You get the batter over-striding and over-swinging."

NAMED TO HONOR ROLL Jimmy Conkwright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colby Conkwright, has been named to the dean's honor roll at Texas Tech in Lubbock. Conkwright will be a senior this fall in the School of Agriculture. He is majoring in animal husbandry.

FROM BRAWLEY PLANT

Superintendent Of Holly Plant Named

Appointment of George W. Cossairt, 45, as Plant Superintendent of Holly Sugar Corporation's Merrill E. Shoup Plant now under construction at Hereford was announced by President Dennis O'Rourke.

Cossairt is being transferred to Hereford from Brawley, Calif., where he has served as Superintendent of the company's Carlton Plant since Jan. 1, 1957.

The new operating chief at Hereford is a native of California, was educated in public schools there, attended Santa Ana Junior College and in 1941 received a B. E. degree in Chemical Engineering at University of Southern California.

Prior to completing his college work, Cossairt had worked part-time at Holly's sugar beet processing plant at Santa Ana, Calif., beginning in 1935. Following graduation from U. S. C., he entered the Army and served for three years as a First Sergeant, Chemical Warfare Service.

From the Army, Cossairt returned to Holly and worked at several assignments in the company's plants at Alvarado and Tracy, Calif., becoming Chief Chemist at the latter plant in 1949. From Tracy, he went to the Holly factory at Hamilton Francisco, at the offices of H. K. Ferguson Company, general contractor on the Hereford factory, working on design and engineering relative to installations which are to be included in the new facility.

The Texas mill is scheduled for completion in time to process the 1964 sugar beet crop produced on farms in West Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Cossairt and his wife, Eleanor, have two children, George Wayne, 20; and Elaine Louise, 13. The family will make their home at Hereford in the immediate future.

Cossairt is a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Society of Sugar Beet Technologists.

SERVICES ON MONDAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An unusual experiment in worship — services on Monday evening — is being tried by Holman Methodist Church here to reach people who can't or won't attend Sunday morning.

The Monday night worship so far had drawn from 17 to 100 worshippers, most of whom don't get to church on Sunday. "So long as the service is helpful to a single person, it will be continued," the pastor, Dr. L. L. White, said.

Bowling balls used by adults may weigh between 10 and 16 pounds.

VIVID ILLUSTRATION

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss (AP) — At the First Baptist Church here, the pastor, the Rev. Earl Kelly, was preaching about the second coming of Christ. "For as the lightning cometh out of the East . . ." he quoted Matthew 24:27, "so shall he coming of the Son of man be."

Just then a large light bulb fell from its socket in the 25-foot-high ceiling, and shattered on the floor in front of the pulpit. Pastor Kelly scarcely paused.

HUBBY WAS A BIG HELP — MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Ellen Chester telephoned her husband when she and their son, Danny, got locked in a downtown building, but he thought she was kidding. A doctor leaving his office finally freed mother and son.

ed. "His coming will be just as sudden, and unexpected."

NEW COVERED BRIDGE

HEREFORD, Md. (AP) — A covered wooden bridge has just been built a mile from here, across Gunpowder Falls on the Bunker Hill Rd.

It is the first covered wooden bridge built for public use in Maryland since the 1880s. But when the original covered bridge over Gunpowder Falls was destroyed by fire in 1961, the Baltimore County Historical Society urged that it be replaced in kind.

The new bridge has been treated with fire retardant and wood preservative. It is expected to surpass the 81-year life of the old bridge.

MERGER PLAN ADVANCES

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — The Consultation on Church Union, considering possible merger of six major denominations, is now ready to "tackle some of the thorniest problems that have kept them apart," says the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, chairman of the consultation and president of Princeton Seminary.

He said study groups have now been assigned to dig into two basic issues — the ministry and the sacraments — in advance of the consultation's next full meeting in April 1964.
