MURDER TRIAL JURY TO HEAR WIDOW

Duckett Expected To Waive Hearing On Dundee Slaying

BANK SUSPECT MAY BE HELD WITHOUT BOND

Allred Believes Hearing At Archer City Will Be Postponed

PLANS CHANGED

Habeas Corpus Hearing To Be Given Youth Monday, Court Decides

A preliminary hearing for George Duckett on charges of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles McDaniel in Dundee last Wednesday, set for Wednesday afternoon in Archer City, probably will be waived, it was learned Tuesday.

Ben Allred, district attorney, announced Tuesday that in all probability the preliminary hearing would be set aside and Duckett held over without bond for hearing on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge E. G. Thornton in Archer City Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. Allred was unable to get in touch with H. V. Pearston, county judge of Archer county, before whom the preliminary hearing is set, Tuesday afternoon. He was confident, however, that the hearing would be waived.

An abrupt change in plans was necessitated Tuesday when attorneys for Duckett filed application with Judge Pearston for a preliminary hearing. The application was granted. When Judge E. G. Thornton of 30th district court was advised of the conflict, he reset the hearing on a habeas corpus for Monday afternoon. He previously had arranged to hold the hearing Wednesday afternoon.

Duckett was charged with murder in Archer City in a complaint filed by Ed Goodwin, Archer county sheriff, Friday afternoon, a few hours after Duckett had been arrested at the home of his father in Newcastle. Mr. McDaniel, Dundee merchant, cattleman and former peace officer, was fatally wounded when he frustrated the attempt of a lone bandit to rob the First State Bank of Dundee at noon Wednesday.

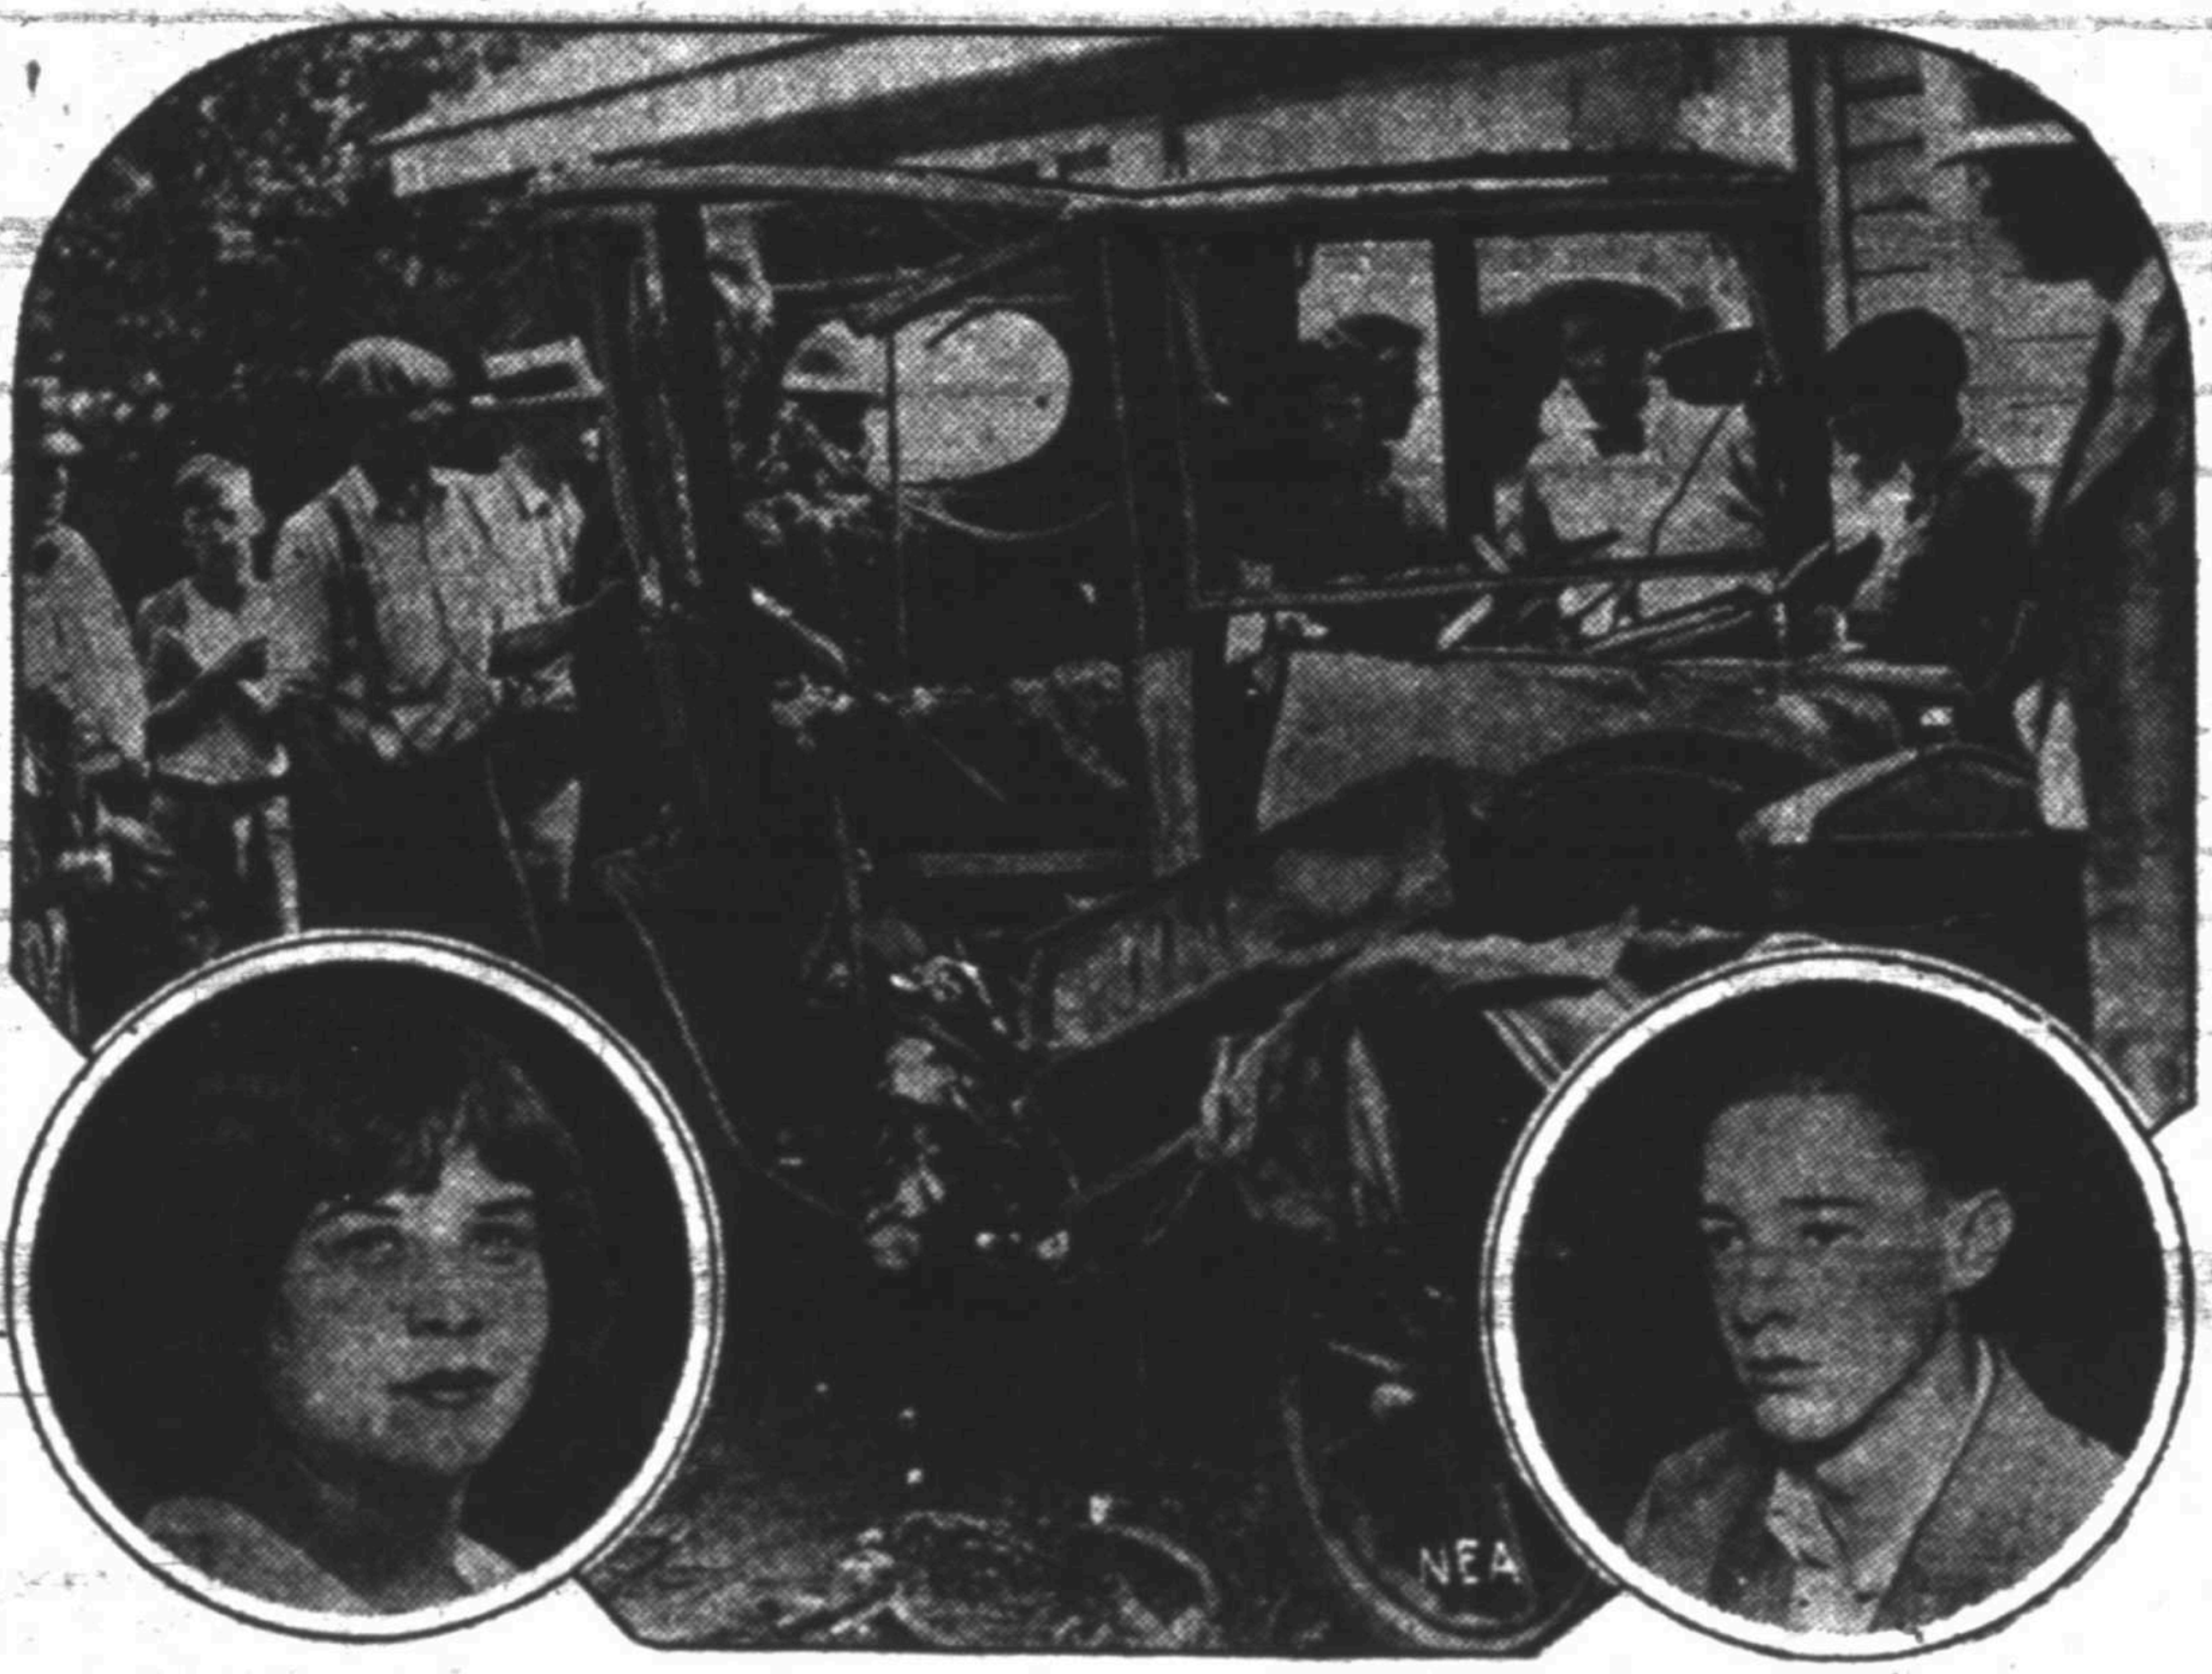
Husband Slain by Bomb in Automobile



When Vernon Plager stepped on the starter of his automobile in Rockford, Ill., he was blown 20 feet into the air by a bomb that had been connected to the starter. With his dying words he accused Paul Reed, lower right, who previously had eloped with Mrs. Plager, lower left. Plager had taken back his wife after the elopement. Reed was arrested in Oregon, Ill., brought back to Rockford and charged with murder. The wreck of the automobile is pictured above.

NEW AIR TRAIL OVER OCEAN

Rockford, Ill., Flier May Hop Off Today

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 24. (UP) A huge blue and yellow monoplane, bought by the residents of a small midwestern city and christened, in a burst of civic pride, the Greater Rockford, was made ready tonight for a transatlantic flight that is really different.

At dawn—unless the weather unexpectedly changes—Bert R. J. Hassell, the pilot, will point its nose toward Canada. In a few days, if the venture succeeds, he will bring it to earth again at Stockholm, Wweden.

The flight, it is claimed by Hassell and his backers, will demonstrate the safest and most practical air route between the United States and Europe.

By circling over the far northern wastelands of Canada and making a single stop at Mt. Evans, Greenland, Hassell expects to avoid the long water jumps which have imperilled previous transatlantic air ventures. That course, he claimed, was far more feasible than the one from Newfoundland to England or the Azores.

Announcement of the proposed departure was made after receipt of word today that the landing field at Mt. Evans was in satisfactory condition. Hassell expected to receive weather reports from there tonight from Prof. W. H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan-Greenland expedition.

Arrangements have been made with the Lufthansa air lines of Germany to fuel the plane at Mt. Evans for the second and final leg of the flight. If the landing field there is too small for the plane to rise with its heavy load of fuel, Hassell has arranged to use a field at Reykjavik, Iceland.

Youth Accused In Bombing Admits Taking Dynamite

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 24. (AP)—Under a charge of first degree murder and without bond, Paul Reed, 24, a draughtsman, was bound over to the October county grand jury today when given a preliminary hearing in police court for the slaying of Vernon Plager, radio expert, blown up in his automobile last week.

Previous to his arraignment Reed confessed stealing the dynamite that was found last night in his former rooming house, but maintained he did not use it for bombing Plager's automobile, insisting he had taken it to blast out a spring at a lake where he was going on a fishing trip.

All but one stick of dynamite was found in Reed's rooming house. He said the missing stick had been broke and he threw it into the river. It was a dynamite bomb that blew up Plager's car, experts determined.

Mrs. Iva Plager, widow of the radio man, with whom Reed had had a clandestine affair, was released today after having been held for questioning since the bombing.

CANDIDATES IN FINAL TALKS

Rain Fails to Daunt Office Seekers

With little mud slinging the Wichita county, precinct and district candidates of group No. 1 for office concluded their campaign speeches Tuesday night at Bellevue park through an almost steady drizzle of rain before about 200 voters.

Robert K. Crain, candidate for county attorney, denied that he had been slinging mud and stated that before he had made public a statement about Wayne Somerville's administration and record that he had gone to him and submitted his figures asking that Somerville correct any errors. Mr. Crain declared that he had received no answer from Somerville and that if his record would not bear investigation, that the people should know about it.

Refutes Statement

Somerville, who is also a candidate for county attorney, declared that Crain had taken figures from the administrations of county attorneys before he went into office. He said that he had performed every duty delegated him by the commissioners court and that he had not lost one of those cases.

R. J. Long, candidate for representative of district 111, declared that his platform was his two opponents and common sense. He went further to say that when it came to common sense that F. G. Swanson had none. He said that his other opponent, Dr. Joseph Graves, would not be able to act as the watch dog of the treasury as he had remarked that he would do.

Graves said that he would not make any promises about what he would do, but that he would try to protect the people's interest rather than his own and that he would do his part in stopping leakages in the state treasury.

F. G. Swanson, another candidate for representative, said that each of his opponents thought they were the more able to hold the of-

Letter Written as 'Friend to Friend' Bash Declares in Answer to 'Ad'

"I wrote as a friend to a friend and not as a pastor to his people."

This was the answer of Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, to an advertisement appearing in Tuesday's Times which reproduced a copy of a form letter purported to have been written by him to members of the First Christian church here. The letter solicited support of members of the First Christian church for candidates to office who are of that church if these candidates appealed to recipients of the letter as "qualified for the office."

In an open letter to The Record News Tuesday, Dr. Bash declared that the First Christian church was not responsible for the letter, but that it was purely a personal matter. The letter in question, he writes, was not sent to the membership of the First Christian church as a whole but to about 50 of Dr. Bash's friends, "some of whom are not members of my congregation."

Dr. Bash's letter follows:

Dear Editor:

Both the facts and the motive involved in my sending out a letter calling attention to certain candi-

CHRIS GREENE SPEED QUEEN OF OHIO RIVER

Packet Takes Coveted Title From Betsy Ann In Thrilling Race

VETERANS THRILLED

Old Steamboat Days Are Revived as Ships Belch Smoke

NEW RICHMOND, Ohio, July 24. (AP)—The steel river packet Chris Greene tonight assumed the title of speed queen of the Ohio river and invested itself with a share in its rich tradition and racing lore by making the wooden, battered Betsy Ann eat its smoke in a 20-mile race up the river from Cincinnati.

Her whistles screaming, her hull trembling from the task and her twin funnels belching smoke and flames, the newer, finer, and larger boat loomed through the twilight a winner by a two lengths after two hours and 25 minutes of excitement such as the old river had not seen for years.

Old Times Recalled

The scene took the old time river men back 50 years to the old racing heydey of the middlewest on the Ohio and Mississippi, to the day when the Robert E. Lee set the record for the run from New Orleans to St. Louis and beat the Natchez by six hours, a day when a conscientious riverman would stand squarely before the smokestack and part his hair in the middle to trim ship while a big stake race was on.

The boats left the Central bridge at the foot of Broadway street in Cincinnati at 5:06 p. m. Crowds lined the river front and every bridge across the stream as they got under way with the Betsy Ann on her rival's starboard. Hundreds of launches, motorboats and small river craft set their sirens screaming as they started up the stream swollen by recent rains.

Greene In Command

Captain Chris Greene commanded his own boat and took an early lead which he increased to two lengths at Coney Island Amusement park, the half way point, and to 800 feet at New Palestine, but Captain Charles Ellsworth cut that down to two lengths again three miles from the finish.

Thousands of spectators lined the banks all the way cheering the racers and faster smaller craft pursued them all the way with a din of whistles. Airplanes soared overhead and then returned to Cincinnati flying fields for more loads of passengers. The calliope on the steamship Island Queen started to play "Old River Man" and "Mississippi Mud."

"Here They Come!"

Spectators hastened to the finish line, their automobiles thronging the roads into Richmond as the cry of "Here they come!" went up. With their boilers straining until it seemed they must burst and the signal set at full speed ahead, the two boats went over the finish line and the Chris Greene barely got there first.

The race was engendered by a boast of Captain Green that his boat could beat the Betsy Ann "any time" after reading press reports of a victory of the Betsy Ann over his boat last week.

Gem Fortune Seized After Sale By Housekeeper

Fifth Avenue Dealer Loses $101,000 in Purchase of Jewels Maid Bought On Employer's Credit

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—Jewels valued at almost half a million dollars were seized by the sheriff from a Fifth avenue jeweler today on the ground he had obtained them, apparently in perfect good faith, from a housekeeper who authorities said had run wild on her employer's credit.

Mrs. Maria J. Leslie, it was said at the sheriff's office after the seizure, was for a long time housekeeper to Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson of Baltimore, wealthy society family whose name is familiar to the public as manufacturers of Bromo Selzer, and had authority to make purchases for them. This spring the Emersons went to Europe and Mrs. Leslie, officials said, "started in to buy $1,000,000 worth of jewels."

Gems Bring $10,000

She obtained from Wanamaker stores here and in Philadelphia jewels priced at $460,000 on the strength of her former Emerson authorization and disposed of them to Harry Winston, a Fifth avenue jeweler, on the story, Winston said, that she was selling the jewels for Mrs. Emerson who had certain obligations she must meet at once. Winston said he paid $101,000 for the jewels.

The Wanamaker stores, becoming suspicious, cabled the Emersons in Europe and were informed that Mrs. Leslie no longer had any right to make purchases for them. An investigation was then made by Noel C. Scaffa, private detective for the company insuring the jewelry, and a ruse was evolved for recovery of the gems.

Exchange Agreed

Wanamaker representatives called on attorneys for Winston and offered checks totaling $113,000, representing what the jeweler had paid and a profit, for return of the jewels. An exchange of jewels and check was agreed upon and Winston produced the gems in his store. Then a deputy sheriff produced a writ of replevin and seized the jewels, the Wanamaker representatives retaining the checks.

It was announced that no action had been taken against Mrs. Leslie, who was said to be in a Connecticut sanitarium.

RAINS COVER WICHITA AREA

Slight Damage Results From Downpour

Rainfall totaling 1.84 inches, which covered the Wichita Falls area Tuesday morning was part of a general precipitation over adjoining cities in northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma, according to reports from local train dispatchers. No rains of a serious nature were reported.

Reports to the Fort Worth and Denver train dispatcher said that rather heavy rains had fallen in all towns along the road from Wichita Falls to Childress.

A half-inch rain fell early Tuesday morning between here and Seymour, reports from the Wichita Valley dispatcher said. Light showers along the Valley road between Seymour and Stamford, and between Stamford and Spur, with a heavier fall at Anson, were also reported.

Late in the morning a hard downpour occurred between here and Frederick, Okla., the Katy dispatcher said. A half-inch rain fell between Altus and Elk City earlier in the day.

Crop damage figured a little in reports received from sections visited by the rain.

The precipitation recommenced here about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, a slow, steady downfall pouring from the skies for about an hour. Predictions were for more rain during the night.

Wilbarger Fields Flooded

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 24.—A torrential rain in the northern part of Wilbarger county about noon today left much of the farm land of that section inundated, while creeks and rivers were overflowed by the deluge. The precipitation varied from one to five inches.

The downpour fell in little more than an hour. Fields were still too inaccessible to determine the damage late this afternoon. Farmers of the section were of the opinion that the cotton was too far advanced to be materially damaged by the rain.

Fargo and Doans communities, the former about 10 miles north, and the latter about 20 miles north, were the hardest hit. They report rains of about five inches. The Sherwood community lake, where a four-inch rain fell, was overflowed and the sudden rise threatened to break the dam.

LOVER TELLS OF PLANS TO KILL HUSBAND

Defense to Attempt Proof Woman Implicated In 'Blackmail'

DEATH DEMANDED

Blacksmith Says He Was Asked Several Times To Kill Man

BASTROP, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Mrs. Rosie Waybourne, widow of W. W. Wayboure will go on the stand tomorrow morning to defend herself against charges that she hired a Mexican to slay her husband.

The story of how a year's planning to put Wayborne, Smithville railroad man, out of the way resulted in his death at the hands of a hired Mexican, was told for the state on the witness stand Tuesday by Hugo Middleton, blacksmith, and lover of the 48-year-old widow.

Her attorneys are expected to attempt to prove she was implicated in the murder because of her refusal to promise Middleton secrecy as to alleged circumstances in the poisoning of his father. In defense cross examination of Middleton, he was asked whether he had confessed to Mrs. Waybourne that he poisoned his father and whether he had not attempted to bribe her to secrecy.

He answered in the negative.

Death Sought

District Attorney Harris and Special Prosecutor Jesse Owens of Crowell said they would demand the death penalty in the case.

Court recessed early. Defense counsel told the court Mrs. Waybourne was "sick and unable to testify at present."

Defense witnesses interrogated Tuesday afternoon testified that she was not in a drunken condition as she returned to Smithville on the day she found her husband slain. Several were called to substantiate the fact of her presence in Austin on the previous night.

Woman Sobs

Mrs. Wayborne gave way to mournful sobbing as she looked over her lawyer's shoulders and saw the two-page written statement introduced by the state as having been made by Middleton.

Middleton, also indicted for murder, said he hired Joe Morales, a Mexican, now missing, for $250 to kill Waybourne the night of last March 10. He said Mrs. Waybourne gave him the key to the room Waybourne was to sleep in that night and that he gave it to the Mexican along with some liquor. Mrs. Waybourne made her second trip to Austin to clear the way for a killing, the blacksmith testified. He said she returned the next afternoon, got from him the key which had been left by the gate and asked whether anything had "happened at the house" across the street from Middleton's shop. He told of replying that he did not know.

Waybourne's body was found that Sunday afternoon, his head lacerated by a dozen blows.

Middleton denied under cross examination having poisoned his own

LAMONT, Okla., July 24. (AP)—Two men who robbed the First State bank of Lamont today, kidnapping the cashier, Harry Mathias, tonight apparently had made good their escape, with loot estimated at $1200 to $1500. Mathias was released soon after the robbery.

WAR VET WAS SHERMAN AIDE

Last Staff Officer Feted On 90th Birthday

LOS ANGELES, July 24. (UP)—A white haired man, the only survivor of the staff of General Sherman in the civil war, today was happy with the memory of honors that came to him on his 90th birthday.

He is Major S. H. M. Byers, who was captured by the confederates at Chattanooga and who wrote the words to "Sherman's March to the Sea" during 15 months he spent in Columbia prison.

Major Byers was 90 years old yesterday. Last night a banquet was tendered him by his friends. Scores of telegrams and cards of congratulation came to the veteran during the day and his home was filled with flowers.

According to war department record, Byers is the last of the aides who followed the famous Sherman. He has in his possession a picture of General Grant, given by that leader to General Sherman and given to Major Byers by Sherman.

Discusses Wars

Although he believes the civil war solved the question of slavery, Major Byers does not feel that warfare, as a rule, settles anything.

"I am hardly qualified to talk about it—but the world war—what did it settle?" asked the veteran.

The horrors of modern battle, with airplanes, gas, super explosives and other dreadful weapons, may do more than anything else to persuade nations to keep off the battle fields, according to the major.

"I know how terrible war is," said Major Byers, "and I hope there won't be any more. However, as long as human temperament is what it is, and people become angry and fight individually, they will fight collectively, I guess."

Wrote Verse

In addition to "Sherman's March to the Sea," which was set to music by Lieutenant J. O. Rockwell and smuggled from the prison to the union forces to become a celebrated battle song during the latter days of the war, Major Byers wrote other songs and also verse.

He set the "Song of Iowa" to the tune of "My Maryland" while living in Des Moines. Many of his published verses have been set to music.

For 20 years Major Byers was in the diplomatic service in Italy and Switzerland.

He came to southern California 12 years ago.

Woman Senate Candidate and Her Flivver Cover State in Campaign

DALLAS, July 24. (UP)—Over the hills and plains of Texas this week, an auburn haired, mild-mannered woman, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, is driving her flivver at top speed to complete her campaign for the U. S. senate.

The small car has carried Mrs. Cunningham more than 12,000 miles over Texas already in her campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The campaign ends this Saturday when the Democratic state primary will be held.

Handsome and soft spoken, Mrs. Cunningham draws good crowds to her political rallies. Her campaign platform expresses her views on all subjects and she is ready to explain her views on subjects of interest to voters who attend her meetings.

The country's only woman candidate for the senate this year admits she is in a hard race. There are three other candidates seeking to displace Senator Earle B. Mayfield, and Mayfield himself is a candidate for re-election. Congressman Tom Connally and Thomas L. Blanton are waging vigorous campaigns for the nomination, which means election in Texas. Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion, also is a candidate.

Certain of Victory

"The car is standing the pace mighty well," Mrs. Cunningham replied when asked how she was standing the strain of campaigning the vast expanse of Texas. "I'm enjoying the campaign immensely. People are so courteous and I feel sure I will be in the run-off primary in August."

Mrs. Cunningham first took up politics when she attended the national Democratic convention in 1916. She is 46 and has hazel brown eyes to match her unbobbed auburn tresses. Although born in Texas, she clips off her words in non-Southern style and talks with machine gun rapidity.

"I am a candidate, not to be the only woman seeking a senate seat this year, but because I believe I can make a good senator," she said. "I fail to see any difference between the feminine point of view and that of the male.

"Women have been voting against men since we have had suffrage. I'm giving them a chance to vote for somebody."

Disproving the theory that women do all the talking, Mrs. Cunningham has limited all her campaign speeches to 45 minutes. After each speech she offers her listeners opportunity to question her regarding her stand on any public question. After this has been done she climbs under the wheel of her small sedan and speeds on to the city of her next speech.

The flight will be backed by the Flint Chamber of Commerce.

BANK SHOOTER BELIEVED HELD

Suspect in Mexican Murder For Reward Captured

STANTON, Texas, July 24. (INS)—Confidence that the man under arrest at Modesto, Calif., is C. C. Baze, under indictment here for the murder of two Mexicans in front of the Home National bank, was expressed here today by Sheriff D. Y. Saddler. The sheriff said that the description given him by California authorities of the man in custody tallies exactly with that of Baze. Definite identification, Saddler said, will not be established until he received photographs of the suspect, which are now en route from California.

Baze and Lee Smith were indicted for killing Hilario Nunez and Norberto Diaz in front of the Home National bank. A third Mexican, Victor Ramos, escaped death in the fusillade of bullets and told officers that Baze and Smith "planted" them in front of the bank, ostensibly for the purpose of charging them with bank robbery and collecting the reward money offered by the Texas Bankers association for "dead bank bandits."

Baze escaped from the Midland county jail March 15. Smith is now awaiting the outcome of his appeal from a 99-year sentence in connection with the double murder.

COUNCIL ADDS VOTING BOX

Five Polling Places For Bond Election

There will be five voting boxes at the $250,000 city bond election Aug. 28 instead of four, according to a decision of the city council in special meeting Monday afternoon.

This change was made when it was decided that with four boxes there would be too great a number of possible voters for the Buchanan street box.

The new box will be at the Alamo school house. Those living west of Brook avenue from the Wichita Valley railway track on the south to the Wichita river on the north, and those living west of Harrison street from the city limits on the south and the Wichita river on the north and Filmore street on the west, will vote at the Alamo box.

The judge of the Alamo box will be J. W. Gray. Lee Terry, O. S. Carpenter and J. O. Fisher are the clerks.

The Buchanan street fire station box boundaries now include all voters south of the Wichita river, west of the center of Filmore street to the city limits in the south and the west.

Judges and clerks of the Buchanan box and all other box judges, clerks and boundaries remain the same as announced in the Tuesday morning Record News.

The ordinance as originally passed called for the bonds to be sold on a basis of not more than 4½ per cent. The statute says the ordinance must state the rate of interest to be paid on the bonds so it was set at 4½ per cent. This probably will mean the bonds will be sold at a premium instead of at par as might be the case if the exact rate was left open for dealing with bond houses.

Methodist Pastor Ousts W. C. T. U.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 24 (AP)—The Rev. A. J. Gearheard, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church here, refused to permit a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union chapter in his church on the ground that it dealt with politics and today the chapter decided to meet in the Baptist temple.

Mrs. J. Walter Barnes was to tell the W. C. T. U. members about the "dry" conference she attended last week at Asheville, N. C. The Rev. Gearheard told the president of the chapter that he could not open his church for political discussions.

"It is not so important to know who is president as to know who is Christ crucified," the minister said.

ESTATES SELL FOR $1,258,950

Creditors' Committee Takes Refining Assets

Estates of W. M. Priddy, N. B. Chenault, P. P. Langford and W. W. Silk, former directors of the American Refining company were sold for $1,258,950 at public auction from the Wichita county courthouse Tuesday morning.

The aggregate amount of sales approximates $4,000,000. A creditors' committee was purchaser in every instance.

Receivers of the properties announced that the sales would not be completed until confirmation was made by Judge William H. Atwell in Dallas. The bids received probably will be recommended to the judge for acceptance within a short time, it was announced.

The individual properties sold Tuesday at the following prices, W. M. Priddy, $375,000; N. B. Chenault, $535,000; P. P. Langford, $347,000, and W. W. Silk, $1450.

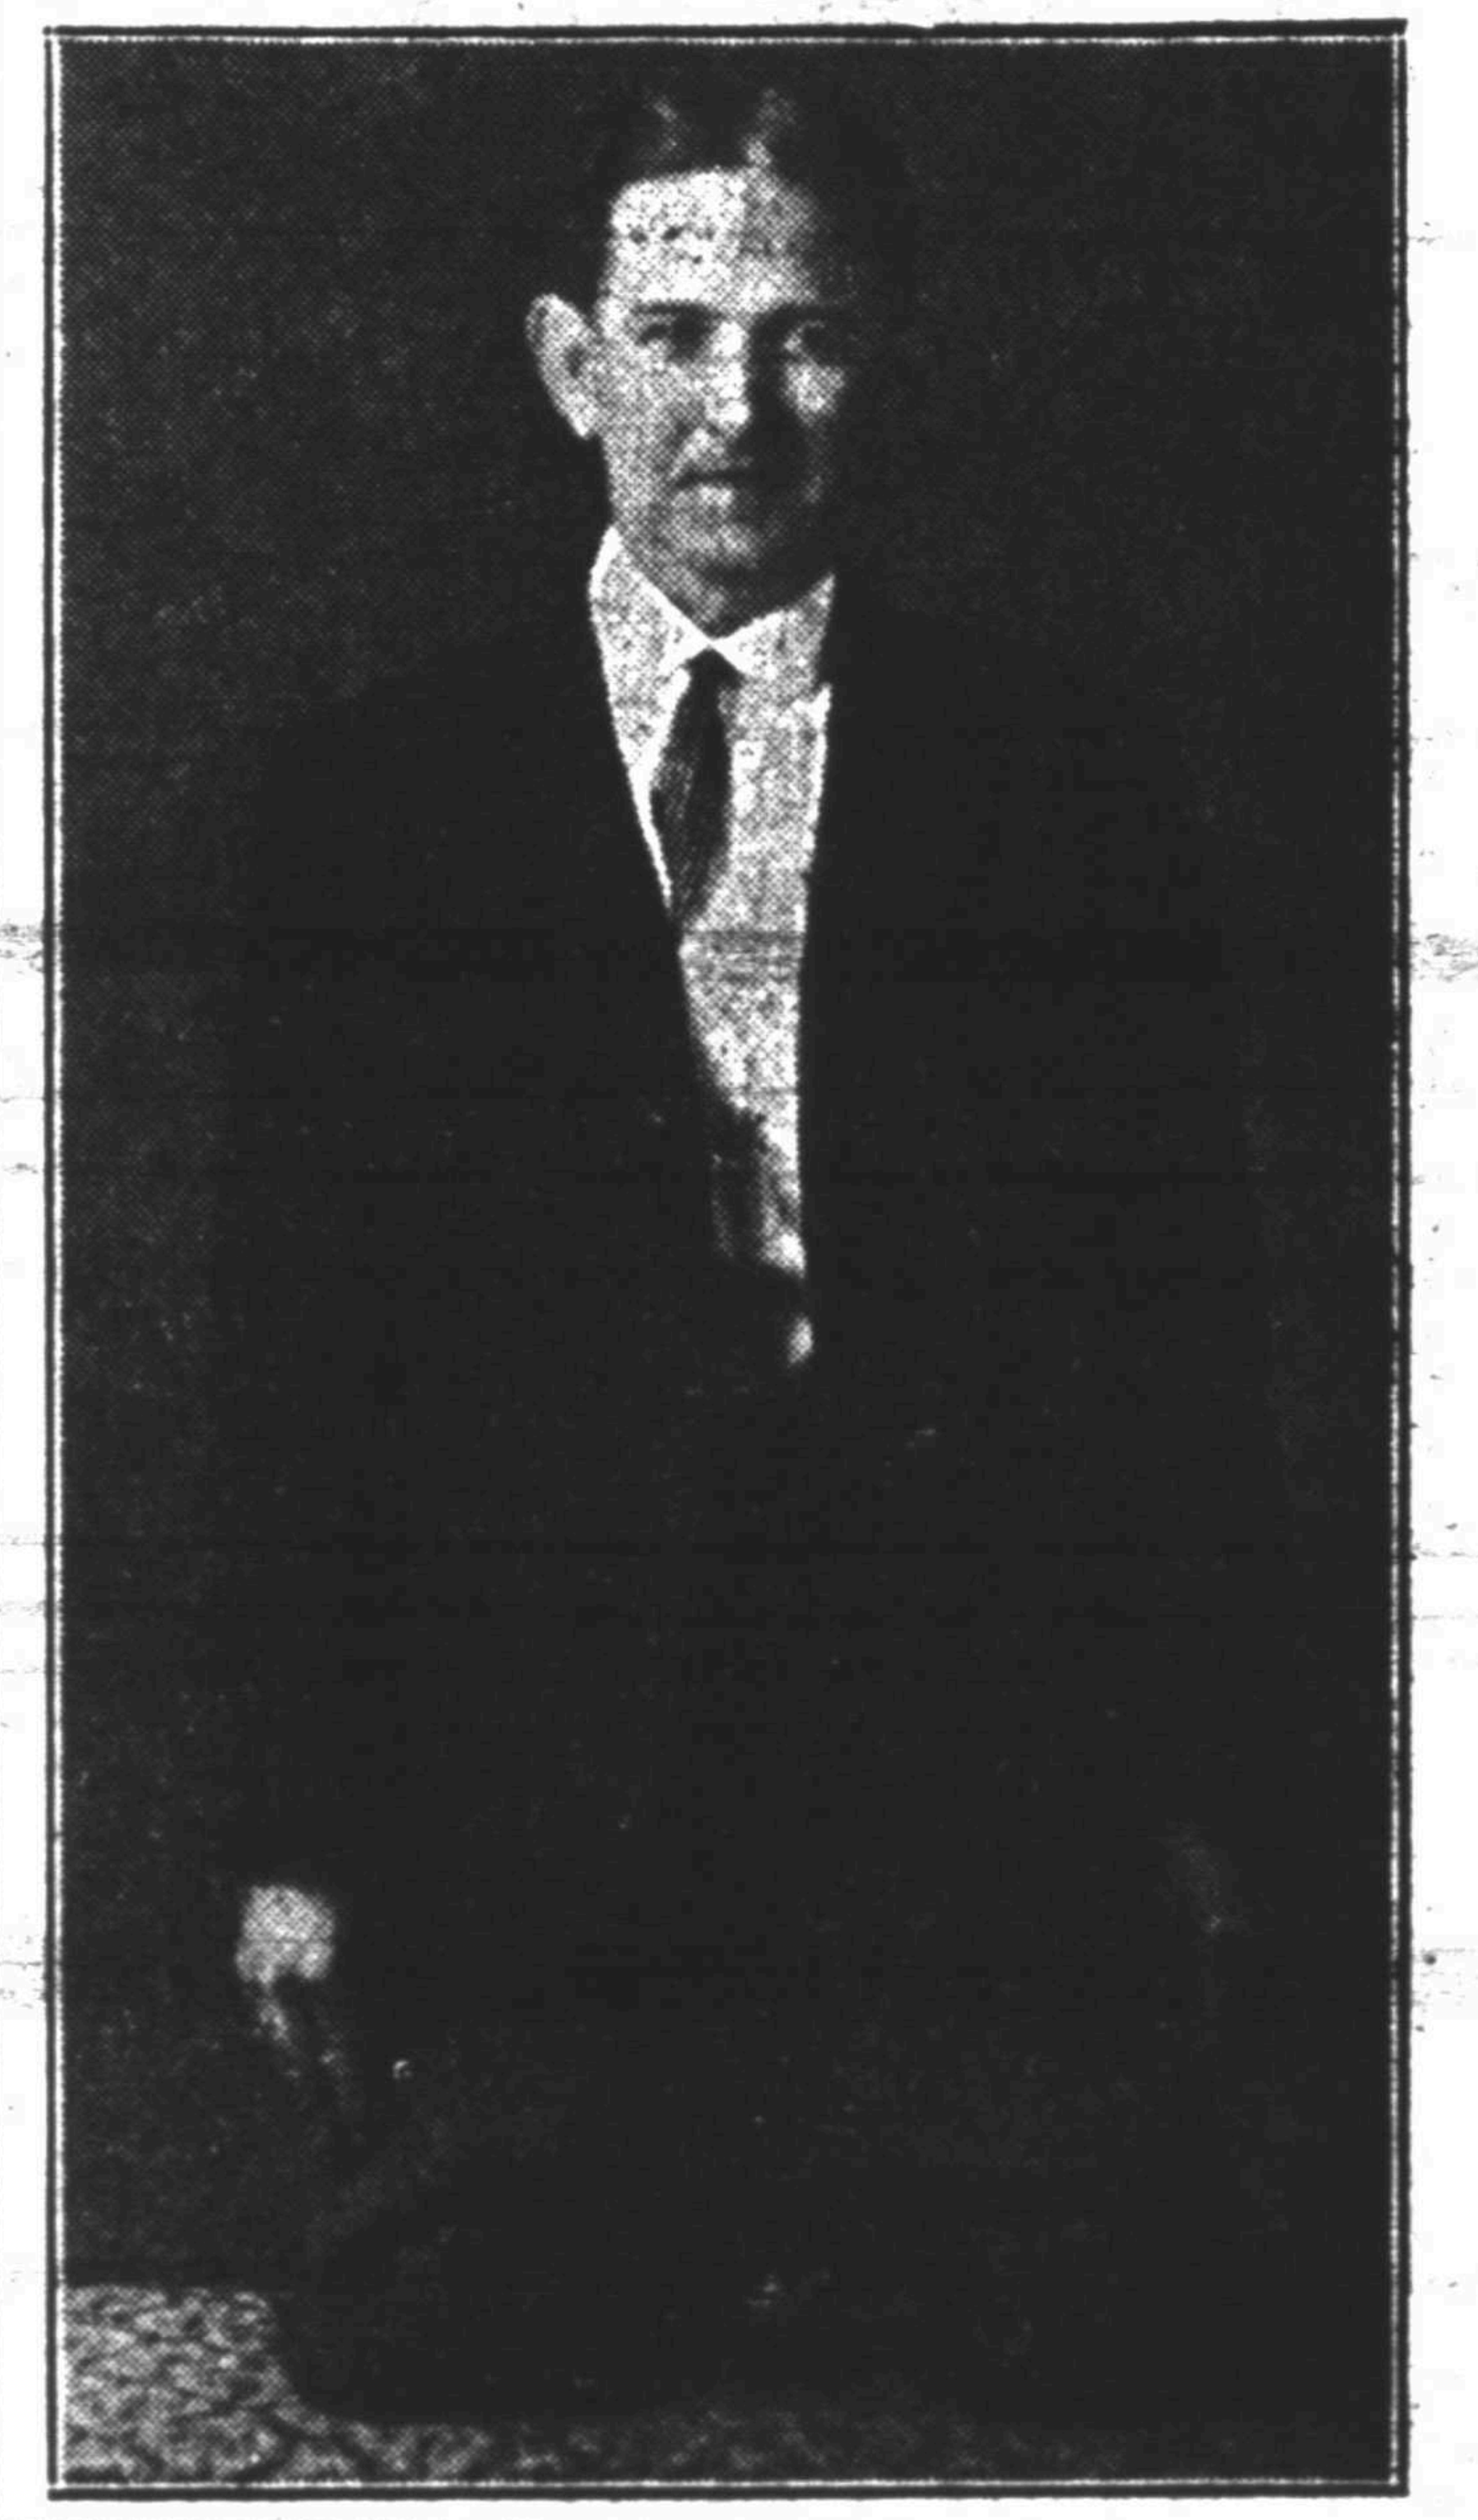
Treasurer McHam Asks Friends For Support in Coming Primary



Tom W. McHam, a likeness of whom appears here, has filled the office of county treasurer of Wichita county for a number of years with the very highest degree of efficiency.

A recent audit of county affairs over a period of ten years showed his records balanced to a penny. This is an unusual record.

Tom McHam is an unusual official. Physical deformity rendered him a life-long cripple, but as the Lord "tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," he climbs into the chair at his desk with optimism in his soul and cheerful greetings to those who call in his office, and gets pleasure from living in the big books that record accurately under his guiding hand the receipts and expenditures of Wichita county.

Mr. McHam says he will try to get around as best he can to see the voters, but asks that his friends remember him.

PERSONALITY is visible even after life has departed. Dame Ellen Terry, last of the great Victorian actresses, was carried from the village church in Littelhythe, England, through an archway improvised from the ray racks, pitchforks and shepherd's crooks of the villages whom she knew in her girlhood days. They wore bright garb and carried gaily colored sunshades in accordance with the wishes of the great actress.

Dame Ellen Terry had tasted the heights and the extent of ostentation, and simplicity was her wish at the end.

And so life goes, we can usually tell by the pomp or simplicity of the last rites what the personality of the deceased has been.

To the close of the life of one of the greatest newspaper men of America was written these words, at the request of the great editor himself: "Thirty (the end) has been written to the life of———."

THE cashier of a local bank remarked to this column that he appreciated the passage written herein recently about noise amidst which a news "gang" works. He said he supposed a news office and a bank are somewhat alike.

And they are somewhat different, too. I can name a commodity that infests a bank that we newspaper workers see very little of. And it isn't holidays, and goodness knows we see few of those. And again, nobody but a banker would ever have enough leisure time to read this column.

Woman Who Takes Hubby's Love For Granted Turns Out a Sure Loser

The Middle-Aged Wife Who Has Always Taken Her Husband for Granted May at Last Find Herself Bereft of Love, Property and Her Self-Respect

I have received the following letter from a woman:

"Intuitively," she writes, "I have sensed for some time that my husband has ceased to love me, althoug he treats me with the utmost consideration. The other night when I felt that I had control of my emotions I asked him to tell me the truth about how he felt toward me. I told him that I didn't want kindness or sympathy for an answer. I wanted nothing but the truth.

"He answered that it was only by vague memories of our early married life that he was able in any way to link his life with mine, and he added: 'Here we are, two healthy middle-aged persons in the prime of life who are strangers to each other, who have no interests in common, who will probably have many years to live, bound to each other in a sort of living death.' Then he went on to say that he had met no other woman who appealed to him, but that if he ever did come to love another woman he would hate me if I refused to give him his freedom so that the remainder of his life might be happy.

"I asked him what I had done that had killed his love for me, and he replied:

"'You have not given me any companionship. With all your leisure and a complete freedom from the hardships of life you have done nothing toward self-improvement. You have remained static, and therefore become uninteresting.'

"I reminded him that I had been faithful and had never tarnished his name. He laughed and shrugged his shoulders and said:

"'So has my Airedale been faithful and never tarnished my name, but I have a right to expect something more from my wife than from my dog.'

"I spoke bitterly of the 'other woman' in the matrimonial triangle, and he said:

"'She never comes in except where the wife fails,' and that he had respect for the woman who could lift a man up from a miserable marriage and make him happy.

"I said: 'A woman who will take another woman's husband away from her is a thief.'

"He replied: 'A wife who will deliberately use her preferred legal rights to keep a man bound to her when he wants to be free is a criminal when she takes his peace of mind, his money and property, and keeps him imprisoned like a convict.'

"I said: 'What about the wife's unhappiness when he husband leaves her?'

"He replied: 'How can a man make a woman happy if he doesn't love her, and especially if he has come to hate her? Doesn't the wife only make them both unhappy by holding him? And if the husband has learned to love some one else, doesn't the wife just merely make all three miserable by insisting upon her rights?'

"I said: 'What about the duty a man should feel toward his wife?'

"He replied: 'A duty that drags a man or woman's soul to the depths of misery is a crime against God and a sin against the individual. The performence of one's duty is only conducive to human welfare when it is constructive and uplifting and brings peace and happiness instead of misery and hatred.'

"And there we are. My husband is tired of me. Bored with me. I no longer interest him or appeal to hom in any way. He has made me feel that I have accepted his support, my pretty home and car, my liberal checking account and the dignity of his professional and social standing without giving anything back, yet I have only done what hundreds of other women in my position do and who are also 'static' and who likewise feel that they have lost or are in danger of losing their husbands.

"What are we to do? We do not want to step down and out and hand the men we still love divorces with our best wishes for their future happiness with some other woman. Neither will our pride suffer the humiliation of living on with men who are tired of us and who wish to be rid of us. So what to do?"

There is no other tragedy that occurs so often and that fills the world with so much heart-break as that of the middle-age wife who still loves the husband who has grown tired of her, and what she should do in her sad case is a problem that only Almighty wisdom can solve.

As I see it, the best thing she can do in the circumstances is to go away from her husband if possible and give absence a chance to do its healing work.

For many men think that they have ceased to love their wives just because they are fed up on them. They have lost interest in their wives because they see them every day. They yawn in their faces because they have heard everything they know a thousand times. They want to get away from home because they are so accustomed to home comforts that they no longer notice them.

If the wife had the courage to say to such a husband: "All right, I am no slave-driver. I will not hold any man who wants to be free of me. I will go away for a year, and if at the end of that time you still want a divorce, you shall have it; but let's first find out where we really stand. Let's try the absence cure before we make a final decision," the chances are, nine out of ten, that before the time was up husband would be sending out an SOS call for her.

In the first place the knowledge that he was virtually free would take away that galling, bound feeling that is the real curse of matrimony. He would miss home and home comforts. He would find that being "static" isn't the worst fault that a woman can have, and that if his Maria wasn't a very brilliant conversationalist, she was, at least, restful to a man who after a hard day's work in an office wasn't so keen himself to spend the evening in intellectual converse. And, above all, he would find that woman who are soul mates and who are all-in-all to a man are about as rare and as hard to find as Kohinoors.

But losing a husband is like losing your pearls. Occasionally you get them back. Generally you don't. And the wise wife is the one who never takes a chance on it. She realizes that an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure, and so she studies and reads and keeps herself interesting to her husband. She plays with him. She feeds him and makes him comfortable. She jollies him along and keeps him eating out of her hand from the altar to the grave.

And she never has to get her husband back, because she never loses him.

DISCARDS SHOES

Barefoot Autoist Draws Crowd's Wonder On Scott Avenue

Wearing no shoes or socks, but otherwise well dressed, a man who appeared on Scott avenue Tuesday at noon, attracted no little amusement and speculation among lunch-hour crowds.

He waited at the City National corner for the green light, crossed Eighth and entered the Kemp hotel.

It was explained that the man's car got stuck in the mud and that in extricating it, he got his shoes and socks wet and muddy. He decided that it was better to remove them than to catch cold wearing them. When he got his car started again and came to town, there was no parking place near the hotel, and he had to drive down Scott nearly to Ninth and then walk back in his bare feet.

The crowd that saw him didn't understand all that, and wondered.

Local Pastor Attempts to Put Over Members of His Church

The Following Is a Letter Written by Rev. Floyd A. Bash, Pastor of First Christian Church, to Members of His Church

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
FLOYD ALLAN BASH, Pastor
Tenth and Travis Streets
WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS
"The City That Faith Built"

JULY 18, 1928.

Dear Friend and Brother:

When James A. Garfield, the Christian, was President of the United States, he always attended and was a leader in Vermont Avenue Christian Church. This great man brought new esteem to his church. When places of distinction are opened to men it reflects honor upon their home and church.

Lest you forget, let me remind you of the approaching Primary. The names of some First Church men will appear on the ballot. They are:

John B. Rhea, for District Attorney.
M. A. Bundy, for County Commissioner.
Wm. E. Davenport, for County Attorney.
J. D. Parnell, for Lieutenant Governor.
C. B. McConnell, for Justice of the Peace.
Burl Bryant, for County School Superintendent.

Other things being equal, I think it is good "Church sense" and common sense to work and vote for those who are working to build up the same things you love and sacrifice for. Not one of these men knows I am writing you and no one suggested the idea. I am responsible for suggesting that each one of us consider these men and if they appeal to us as qualified for the office, that we wholeheartedly speak a good word for them to our friends. I do not seek to direct your vote but to stimulate action.

Please note the fact that John B. Rhea, while he is now on the high road to a splendid recovery, had to go to the hospital in the midst of the campaign, undergoing a major operation. A true friend is a friend in time of need. Let us not permit our friends to be forgotten while we join in arguments about Smith and Hoover. Talk, work and vote.

If this letter suits you, tell others. If it displeases you, kindly tell me, not others.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) FLOYD A. BASH.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—Greenwich Village is not particularly wicked—or more so than any other section of New York. It is mildly naughty in spots, but the revelry of the village always has been exaggerated and overemphasized. The village is, as a matter of fact, a very homelike, domestically inclined community, richly supplied with dogs of every breed and with babies of every breed, for the matter of that. It has rather more than its share of churches, and these churches, be it noted, are well filled on Sundays—which is more, perhaps, than can be said for the churches in some other parts of the city.

All of this being so, one wonders why those brisk proselyters the Salvation Army crusaders devote so much of their time to the village. Morning and evening, early and late you hear their drums banging, their bugles blaring and their earnest voices exhorting.

On Saturday afternoons the Army gets ready for its extensive Sunday meetings. There is a certain technic used by these people in their descent upon the old village. On these Saturday afternoons there comes a big vanguard of skirmishers, who deploy through the streets, seeking out the tea rooms, cabarets and dancing places and giving the somewhat astonished merrymakers a taste of religion.

Sometimes before they know it the boys and girls who have been footing it to the jazzy strains of a negro orchestra find themselves all tangled up in a prayer meeting. The guests are urged to take part in the big Sunday meetings, but the Salvation Army workers don't stop with the guests alone. They try to get waiters, kitchen help, cashiers and even the proprietors. They have a pretty hard time, usually, getting the proprietors interested in prayer meetings and religious rallies.

One rainy day last week two girls, obviously high school students, boarded a train bound for the suburbs. As the train was quite empty, they easily secured seats, and taking out French grammars, began to study.

Their attention was soon distracted, however, by a very good-looking young man, who boarded the train. Soon they began to amuse themselves by making comments in French upon his person and his clothing. Finally one said quite loudly, "His clothing is simply awful—but isn't he handsome?" Her companion replied. "Yes, indeed—and aren't his eyes wonderful?"

At last the young man, blushing violently, and evidently unable to suffer in silence any longer, turned to them and said politely, in French also, "I'm very glad you consider me handsome. I'll endeavor to follow your suggestion concerning my clothing."

The other passengers in the car did not understand this rapid French conversation but the blushing girls left the train very hastily at the next station.

She was a rather stout and decidedly bespangled dowager, and she flounced up the aisle of the 5.29 at Grand Central one afternoon recently in her best high-hat manner. You could see from her every gesture that she regarded the great commuting army, with whom she was about to travel, as mere hoi polloi. Gingerly she drew a ticket from her silver purse and tucked it in the top of the seat ahead before starting on her novel.

As the car began to fill, she managed to keep a seat to herself by glaring haughtily at all who approached, and it was this same icy stare, which she turned on the conductor when he asked for her ticket.

"I placed it where you could have taken it without disturbing me," she chided testily. "What's that you have in your hand there now?"

"A weighing machine card, giving your weight, madam," he replied, while from her fellow travelers came just the suggestion of a snicker.

ABE MARTIN

Th' way so many shiftless, good fer nothin' people are sittin' t' th' front is enough t' discourage thrift an' industry. It is claimed that only one out o' 125,000 people read a party platform, an' he's not afraid o' law enforcement.

Masters of Freedom

A WEEKLY magazine the other day was discussing the new talking-movie scheme. In the course of its discussion there was one highly significant remark.

"Of course," the article said, "since it is a mechanical process, it will be brought to perfection in the near future."

That represents a new viewpoint—a viewpoint that, more and more, is becoming characteristic of this age. "Since it is a mechanical process, it will be brought to perfection in the near future."

Mankind, in other words, has reached the point where it does not believe that anything in the material, physical world is impossible. All of the bonds of time and space that hampered our forefathers are to fall away. The world is to contract to a walnut shell. The poorest shall be lord of the universe. Lightning shall be chained, seas shall be dried up, the desert shall blossom like the rose; music shall be seized from the empty air, man's vision shall pierce clouds and dissolve mountains, silent machines shall do all the drudgery and we will inherit a new freedom, great and everlasting.

It must be that we are getting pretty close to the millennium.

Possibly. Yet there are one or two other fields in which there is still room for improvement.

We have demonstrated that we can make many inventions. There is not much left for us to know in the realm of physics. Now it is time for us to start making progress in other spheres; spheres in which mechanical ingenuity will do us no good.

Make a practice of studying your daily paper. Read, carefully, all the accounts of humanity's stupidities, villainies, weaknesses, hatreds and prejudices. Digest them, even though they are not pleasant reading. Then you will understand some of the things that are yet to be done.

It is fine to be free from the old material bonds that fettered all former generations. But it will be better yet to be free from spiritual bondage. Ignorance, superstition and hatred are worse masters than the ones our new inventions have overcome. The man whose mind is not free is eternally a slave, even though he can master the earth and air.

The Use of Television

WITHIN a few years, according to present indications, the process of television will be perfected for every-day use. Then we shall be able to sit in our homes, twirl a few knobs on our radio cabinets and see events taking place hundreds or thousands of miles off. The ordinary bounds of time and space will be completely overcome.

We are fairly well used to radio and its marvels by this time, and miracles are our daily fare. Probably we shall take television as a matter of course; in a few years, it may be, we shall fuss and fume whenever a passing thunderstorm or other atmospheric disturbance renders the images on our screens a little less than perfectly distinct.

Yet the whole thing out to excite our wonder, at that. The simple fact is that mankind, at last, is freeing itself from the domination of the universe and asserting its mastery over its material surroundings. We are doing the impossible; the future, in its possibilities, is more glittering than anyone in history ever dreamed.

There is only one disturbing factor. This miracle of television, demonstrating the kingship of man's mind, will be used largely so that we can see prize fights, baseball games and political rallies—just as the radio is used to send the tin-panny strains of "Mississippi Mud," "That's My Weakness Now" and the like, and just as the movies give us "Silk Legs" and "Flames of Passion."

We have developed our scientific and mechanical devices a little bit faster than we have developed ourselves. Our hands are better than our heads. The big job that we ought to tackle next is to bring ourselves up to the level of our inventions.

Television will be a fine thing, just as the radio and the movies are fine things. But if its chief use is to enable us to see prize fights and bathing girl reviews without stirring out of our homes, we won't be much better off than we are now.

Our scientists and inventors are placing great tools in our hands; tools with which, if we will, we can make simply unbelievable strides along the road of progress. But we must learn how to use them. The next great advance must come in the realm of ideas.

Party Solidarity

ALVIN MOODY of Houston, who was a member of the Democratic state executive committee, is one of those who are opposing Governor Smith, head of the Democratic ticket in the coming election. State Chairman Wilcox called for the resignation of the Houston man and he has resigned.

It appears to this newspaper that Mr. Wilcox was right in asking the resignation from the state committee of a man who was fighting the head of the Democratic ticket, and that Mr. Moody did the proper thing in resigning.

Certainly the party organization which is to conduct the fight in Texas could not hope to make an effective fight with its own members opposing the head of the ticket. It would be a house divided against itself which we are told in the scriptures must fall.

And certainly no one ought to want to continue in an organization whose candidate he was opposing.

This applies not only to state committees but county committees as well. We believe it the duty of county chairmen to call for the resignation of members of county committees who do not propose to support the ticket. We believe that all such members will want to resign.

Party solidarity rests upon the allegiance of its members. The candidates themselves owe allegiance to the party and its nominees. We don't see how candidates can in good conscience ask for nomination when they do not intend to support the ticket on which they ask nomination.

CITIZENS' DUTY POINTED OUT

"We are never in any danger in this country, because of our differences; our dangers lie in our indifferences."

Judge Frederick E. Crane of the Court of Appeals of New York thus issued a challenge in an address before 5,000 new American citizens on the night of the Fourth.

Governor Alfred E. Smith spoke words of truth when he said upon the same occasion: "The man who goes off to a picnic on election day, uses it as a sort of a week-end for entertainment, can't be said to have very much interest in this country, because after all, all the officers, large and small, come up from the people. Government cannot be handed down from the top. It has got to originate with the people themselves."

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

What Has Happened

Virginia Brewster, after losing both father and wealth, consents to make her home with Clarissa Dean and her father. Dean plots to separate her from her fiance, Nathaniel Dann, but fails and later is forced to pay blackmail to a Mrs. Farley or face a scandal. Clarissa becomes jealous of her and Virginia resolves to leave, but Dean insists that she marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging deal. Recklessly, she promises to earn enough to repay him in one year—or marry him.

Virginia leaves but has to pawn a ring to tide over until she can find a position. She goes to Niel's studio but her joy at seeing him is clouded because she dare not reveal her promise to Dean, and also because of the familiarity with which his model, Chiri, treats Niel.

She seeks work through an agency but without success. One evening she finds orchids at her hotel from Dean and wonders how he learned her address. Coming home from dining out with Niel one night, Virginia notices a man whom she has suspected of shadowing her for several days.

A call from the agency brings hope, but when she goes there she is advised to accept help from friends or marry. Virginia believes that Dean has bribed the agency not to help her get work. She goes to other agencies but word leaks out to the papers that the "Brewster girl" is job-seeking and she is besieged by reporters.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXX

Virginia recognized the man instantly. It was the same figure she had seen step hastily back into the shadows when she and Nathaniel were taking a taxicab from the Russian restaurant, and now she knew where she had first seen him.

He was the man on the bus. The man whose behavior had puzzled her. She remembered how silently he had come down the steps in her wake on that occasion, how he had slipped quickly away when she had chanced to turn and find him directly behind her.

And now here he was. Virginia was certain he had not been invited. "He's spying on me," she told herself furiously, back in her room. Her fury was not for the man who had shadowed her, however. It burned hot against the person she believed had employed him.

"So that's how he knew where to send the orchids!" she cried, thinking of Frederick Dean. "And he was the one who went to Mrs. Phelps. I am sure of it."

She was glad that she had not attempted to find a position under an assumed name. If Frederick Dean had set himself to hound her, or interfere, he could have made it very unpleasant for her in that case. As it was she had an answer. She was fighting, face to the world, and she vowed silently that never, no matter what the outcome, should Frederick Dean hear her whimper.

Later she was to be even better pleased because the newspaper stories brought her many opportunities that otherwise would not have come to her.

First of all, old friends came forth with offers of a home, and Virginia found great difficulty in refusing them. One by one they ceased to importune her as her "perfectly insane" firmness made itself felt and they were thus compelled to take her seriously.

Then the offers of positions of all kinds began to pour in on her and Virginia soon learned how valuable her name was. She could sell it for large sums if she wished, and in regard to one or two proposals she wondered if she should not accept.

But a consultation with Mr. Gardiner put an end to her interest in these. He warned her that unscrupulous persons could make dishonest use of the prestige that attached to the name. Virginia, in fear of this, promptly turned down all offers to pay for the use of the Brewster name.

But the estate was still unsettled and investigation had shown that most of the offers of employment that were made to her were figments of some imaginative person's brain or else they required experience such as she did not possess.

Some of them she might have been tempted to take had they come to Viola Browne, but she felt encouraged to wait just a little longer and see if something more to her liking would not turn up. She had gone through the storm, squirmed under the spotlight, and if anything good could come from it Virginia felt entitled to hold back for it. She was pretty sure of getting a job now, and although she was still living on the money she had raised at "Uncle Simon's," and her personal belongings were gradually disappearing from her room, she had received an unexpected boon as a result of the attentions of the press.

She had gone to the hotel manager and explained that she must have a cheaper room or leave the hotel. Her circumstances were fairly well known to the world at large by this time and Virginia had no need to keep up a false appearance.

The manager very genially assured her that he could not afford to lose her patronage and Virginia was told that if she would stay and pay for her room she might appear as often as she liked in the dining room as a guest of the management.

Naturally Virginia was inclined to refuse, but when it was explained to her that the hotel would consider itself well repaid she consented to think it over. She had been adamant in turning down all offers that smacked of charity but this was a business proposition. And while it did not please her to think of adorning the public dining room as an object of curiosity, it helped her morale to know that she had, even if not by her own efforts, earned her board.

Still she insisted upon a cheaper room and got one without a private bath. Now if she got so low in funds she had to accept the freedom of the dining room at least it would not be because of extravagant room rent, she prided herself as she packed her things for the transfer.

When it was made and she was settled in the cramped new quarters she realized that, for the first time in many days, there was a lull in her affairs.

It gave her time to think of Oliver and wonder if he had any news for her. Miss Evans had telephoned several times to say he wanted to see her, but Virginia had questioned her sufficiently to make sure that it was not important and had not gone down. Now she decided to finish up the day with a visit to Wall street.

Oliver professed great surprise at seeing her and chided her with neglecting him. "But I've been faithful just the same," he rattled on, disarmingly, seeking to cover up his eagerness. He hoped she would not see how glad he was that she had come in.

"Have you made any headway?" she questioned without attempting to dissemble her true interest.

"Lots. You'll be rich in a few months, Virginia."

Virginia drew in her breath slowly and her eyes lighted up like stars. "I'll never be able to thank you," she breathed intensely.

"Nothing to that," he assured her. "But if you want to do something for a real blue guy come out to dinner with me tonight."

"Oh. I'm sorry," Virginia cried with genuine regret. "I always have dinner with Niel—Mr. Dann."

"Your boy friend, huh? Well, it was you who talked gratitude, you know. I never think about the damned thing."

Virginia glanced at him keenly. He did look awfully depressed and tired.

"Isn't Jeanie back from Aiken yet?" she asked sympathetically.

Oliver nodded glumly. "Back and off to the Riviera. Long Island next. That's my season."

Virginia bit her lip in distress. She smarted a little under the thought that he deemed her insincere in her protestation of gratitude. Perhaps she ought to dine with him . . . surely Nathaniel would understand!

She forgot that she hadn't told Nathaniel anything about Oliver—afraid of his love-inspired questioning.

"I'll telephone Niel," she said impulsively. Oliver found a polite excuse to leave the office while she made the call.

Nathaniel rebelled against breaking their standing dinner engagement, but Virginia explained that she wanted to spend the evening with a friend who really needed her companionship.

"Well, don't I need it?" Nathaniel grumbled.

"Are you going to be in your studio?" Virginia came back, meaning to say she would drop in some time after dinner if he were.

But Nathaniel was disgruntled. "I don't know," he said shortly and Virginia's temper flared up a bit too. A very little, but enough to check her promise to pay him a visit.

"Chiri's spilling a spaghetti feed," he went on. "If you're throwing me down I'll go over there." He did not mean it as a threat; rather a plain statement of intention such as he might have made to anyone. To Virginia, however, it seemed that he was holding Chiri's invitation over her head as the price of her final decision.

Two bright red spots glowed in her cheeks and quick, angry tears stung her eyes. Had he chosen to name Chiri purposely? Did he guess that she verged on jealousy of the girl? Virginia had no time then to decide whether it was Chiri's invitation or Chiri herself that he was using to bargain with her. Well, if he hoped to fan her jealousy, she would give him no satisfaction.

"Then I'll see you tomorrow," she said pleasantly. "Have a good time." She banged the receiver on the hook with an emphasis that belied the sweet tones of her voice.

When Oliver came back she was powdering her nose with vigorous rapidity. There were no signs, beyond the dash of fire in her eyes, that she was disturbed.

That dinner with Oliver was the only one Virginia had had since she left Deans that was perfect in every respect so far as food and service were concerned. But it seemed that the black cloud of trouble that had settled over her would not lift long enough to permit her to enjoy it.

The entire evening was clouded with remorse over her hasty words with Nathaniel when he mentioned Chiri. She knew, now that she was calmer, that he could not have been capable of tormenting her with anything calculated to arouse her jealousy even if he possessed her secret. Virginia rebuked herself harshly for having imputed such a contemptible design to him.

But in coming to this view and exonerating Nathaniel of one fault she still charged him with another. He had shown her that if she chose to dine with someone else he would go out and enjoy himself just the same, she believed. Her pride rebelled at the thought that he would try to pique her into doing as he wished. "He ought to know that I'd be with him if I could always do as I like," she thought vexedly.

"What's the matter?" Oliver asked, leaning forward; "not worrying about that hundred thousand, are you Virginia? You needn't you know. It will be easy for you."

JUNGLE FEAR SAVES COUPLE

Pygmies Attempt To Rcast Missionaries

DUBLIN, July 24. (US)—Divine intervention saved a British missionary, his Irish wife and their daughter from being roasted alive by pygmy cannibals in Africa, according to word received here from Johannesburg.

The missionary, Alfred Phillips, recently returned to Johannesburg after two years in the jungle of the Belgian congo.

They sailed up the Aruwimi river, and met an extraordinary race of pygmies—quaint little people who hopped from tree to tree like monkeys.

Mr. Phillips converted the pygmies' leader to Christianity.

Traveling back to civilization the party entered the Mongoli tribe, 300 miles south of the Ulue river.

Bring Bad Luck

This tribe believed that their white visitors brought them ill-luck, and they decided to sacrifice Miss Phillips alive as an offering to their gods.

But though they surrounded the missionaries' hut all night, they never entered it.

In the morning the tribesmen came to the missionary and asked: "Who is the great white man who guards you at night? Three times we tried to enter your hut last night, but a great white man prevented us, and we became afraid."

"They searched that hut for the second white man," said Mr. Phillips, "and convinced themselves that he was not there, but they were absolutely positive that throughout the watches of the night he guard the entrance to our hut."

Carnegie Medal Sought For Austin Negro Cook

Rollins already has been presented with a gold watch from officers. Schmidt, carrying a leaking bucket of gasoline, broke into a run when the leak was ignited from a burning patch of grass and his clothes were fired. Rollins caught him and threw him down, smothering the flames.

Schmidt is in the Fort Sam Houston base hospital.

AMY EARHART PILOTS TRAIN

Woman Flyer Feels "At Home" in Engine Cab

PITTSBURGH, July 24. (INS)—Amelia Earhart, who didn't get to handle the "joy-stick" on the Friendship's transatlantic flight, today took the throttle of the big locomotive which pulled out of the Pennsylvania station here carrying her and her companions to New York after a two-hour visit to Pittsburgh.

Clad in brown overalls and jauntily wearing an engineer's cap, America's queen of the air scrambled into the engine cab amidst the cheers of the thousands of her admirers who gathered on the station platform.

Taking her place at the cab window alongside of Engineman John C. Sloan of Wilkinsburg and Fireman Herman Weller of Pittsburgh, Miss Earhart smiled one of her infectious smiles and waved her farewell to Pittsburgh.

"Now I feel at home," the air heroine told Sloan and Weller. "Grime, grease and soot don't bother me."

With that, she pushed the throttle and the giant locomotive glided out of the station.

Miss Earhart's permit to ride in the engine cab read: "Allow Miss Earhart to ride engine to Greensburg, or as far as she desires."

The rest of the girl flier's party, including Lou Gordon and Wilmer Stultz, rode in one of the coaches of the train.

PROPOSE NEW ROAD METHODS

Regional C-C's Seek To Abolish Bond Issues

AUSTIN, Texas, July 24 (AP)—A policy that would eliminate the practice of counties and districts helping build state highways through them with local bond issues and local funds, was adopted by representatives of three regional chambers of commerce of Texas here.

Taxes on fuels and lubricants used in motor vehicles, and registration fees, "equitably adjusted as to tonnage and use," were recommended as the sole revenue for construction and maintenance of state highways.

The conferees recommended that this policy be made retroactive by providing that the state pay interest and maturities of such portion of county and road district bond proceeds as has been invested in constructing highways incorporated into the state system.

Favor Return of Fees

A policy of giving all registration fees to the county to be used first for retirement of local bonds used in building parts of state highways with the remainder going to county road purposes, also was favored by the conferees.

Further recommendation was made the state constitution be amended to give the state "wider latitude" in use of highway revenues by declaring gasoline and fuels a constitutional revenue, authorizing the legislature to provide for a larger allotment of such revenue for highway purposes. Schools get one-fourth of the gasoline tax now.

The conferees also favored amendment of the constitution to "empower the legislature to authorize obligations to be incurred within definite limits to meet increasing traffic requirements or emergency construction needs." The $350,000,000 state-wide bond issue proposed by Chairman R. S. Sterling of the State Highway commission was not mentioned by name in the written policy adopted, but it was discussed.

To Report Policies

Representatives of the South, East and West Texas chambers of commerce will report back to them for consideration, the policies adopted here.

Before the contemplated legislative program based on the recommendations is adopted, however, the conferees expect to meet with members of the highway commission and its engineering staff.

A draft of recommendations was prepared by a committee composed of a representative from each regional chamber—Clarence Ousley, Dallas, for East Texas, J. P. Williams, Mineral Wells, for West Texas, and State Representative Leonard Tillotson of Sealy, for South Texas.

This committee was appointed by the main body, composed of 18, which was organized with the election of President John D. Middleton of the East Texas chamber, as chairman, A. M. Bourland, president of the West Texas chamber, as vice-chairman, and Ray Leema, general manager of the South Texas chamber, as secretary.

In none of the statutory enactments deemed essential to effect the purposes discussed would there be any disturbance of the present status of the gasoline tax as an occupation tax, with part of the proceeds going to the available school fund, the conferees decided.

Lucky Lindy Flew to Paris Broke; Now Earns $200,000 in Six Months

WASHINGTON, July 24. (UP)—Charles A. Lindbergh earned more than $204,000 during the last half of 1927, according to a reliable report as to his income tax payment to the government.

Reliable information places his federal tax payment this year at slightly more than $30,000. Joseph McCoy, treasury actuary, by a lightning calculation figured that Lindbergh's minimum earning must have been $204,000.

Which recalls to mind that Lindbergh landed in Paris with his entire savings invested in the airplane which carried him over the Atlantic.

Considering the actual cash did not start to multiply as the result of his Paris flight until the middle of the year, Lindbergh's greatest earnings for 1927 came during the last six months.

Prize Money

Lindbergh, being single and with no one being dependent upon him, would have few deductions to reduce his income payments. The $204,000 for six months, therefore, would come closer to his actual earnings than any guesses made by adding possible monetary acquisitions incidental to his flight.

Lindbergh's sources of income have been varied. The Orteig prize for the first flight between New York and Paris paid him a flat $25,000.

His tour of every state in the union for the Guggenheim foundation is said to have brought him $300 a day. This tour was made in the interest of aviation and is said to have created more favorable reaction than anything in aviation history.

Book Royalties

Royalties on his book "We" have run into the thousands of dollars. The actual figures are a secret between Lindbergh and the publishers.

His syndicate newspaper articles on his Paris flight and on his good will tour of Latin America are said to have netted him a goodly sum as he was paid more for them perhaps than any other writer.

According to the most accurate information, Lindbergh was not paid for his good will flight to Mexico, Central America and the West Indies. His expenses, of course, were all cared for but there was no actual outlay of cash by any person or organization for the trip.

The $204,000 for six months was nothing compared to what Lindbergh might have earned had he cared to forsake flying for the movies or the stage. A million was said to have been offered him for a movie contract and a lesser, but still impressive, sum for vaudeville appearances.

STATE SUMMER SCHOOLS BROKE

Credit To Be Used During Month of August

AUSTIN, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Sorely beset by lack of summer school funds, state teachers colleges will run on credit during the month of August, hoping to cover the expense with deficiency appropriations from the next legislature, the state board of control was informed by A. B. Mayhew, member of the board of regents.

Budget estimates of three of the eight colleges for the 1929-30 biennium were submitted Monday to the control board, which is preparing a budget for the 41st legislature.

Anxious to avert a repetition of the present shortage of summer school funds, which was blamed partly on the Pollard school fee limitation bill enacted by the 40th legislature, the colleges are asking a total of about $400,000 a year for the next biennium to run their summer sessions.

Building programs involving a total cost of about $2,000,000 are provided in the college estimates made to the control board.

Presidents and secretaries of the East, South and West Texas Chambers of Commerce appeared before the board and urged that the teachers colleges be amply provided for the next biennium.

Appropriations for summer schools were reduced to nearly half by the 40th legislature on the assumption that fees collected from students would provide necessary funds. The legislature also passed Senator Tom Pollard's bill to limit fees to $30. Provisions of the bill affected teachers colleges as well as the University of Texas, where the bill primarily aimed to correct conditions. This left the summer schools short of funds.

A. W. Birdwell, president of the Stephen F. Austin college at Nacogdoches, one of the three heard Monday, declared that the colleges would have to get ample appropriations, or that the Pollard fee law would have to be repealed or amended.

CORNER TENTH & SCOTT

"Now! I am right—"

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

"FORTUNATELY, I found myself in time. I was going down! down! down! I didn't want to eat; there was no desire for it. My muscles were getting flabby—I tired easily. Many a morning I would get up after a sleepless night feeling that I could hardly pull through the day. I was also troubled with those annoying so-called skin troubles. Then, one day a friend urged me to give S.S.S. a trial. Before finishing the first bottle, I could see I was improving. That was only a few weeks ago. Today I feel more like myself than I have in years."

Loss of appetite is only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that nourish and sustain the body.

When you get your red blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

SPUDDERS LOSE BUT HOLD GROUND WITH BUFFS AND STEERS

BEARS SNATCH OPENER BY 5-4

Late Rallies by Galloway's Men Fall Short

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 24.—A new factor has entered into the Texas league race. The San Antonio Bears defeated the Spudders today and the race for the second half championship now looms as a four-cornered affair.

The result of today's play made the race tighter than ever, with all three leaders losing. The Buffs, deadlocked with the Spudders, failed to gain in taking a defeat from the lowly Shreveport Sports. And Dallas is still two games behind the leaders as a result of its loss to the also lowly Beaumont Exporters. San Antonio is now only two and a half games behind the Spudders and the Buffs.

Late rallies by the Spudders almost tied or won today. Almost. They scored a run in the seventh to make the count 4-2 for the Bears. Then Galloway's men tallied twice in the eighth to even the count, but the Bears came right back in their half and registered the winning marker.

Eldred Hits Hard

Brick Eldred was a most important factor in the attack. The stocky right fielder smote a home run and triple and scored twice. Pete Lapan also banged a homer, in addition to a single. Benton and Jenkins were other Spudders to make two hits each of their nine.

Herbie Cobb yielded 10 blows and most of them were at opportune moments. Cox stopped the Spudders in the eighth and is credited with the victory.

The fielding of Turgeon, Fitzgerald and Flaskamper were other features today.

San Antonio scored in the first inning. Flaskamper tripled to center and tallied on Boggess' fly to Eldred.

Bears Score Two

The Bears added two more in the fourth. Nason walked after one was out. Meyers struck out. Najo singled to left, Nason going to third. Najo went to second on a wild pitch. Schuman singled to left, Nason and Najo scoring.

Their fourth marker was scored by Gibson's men in the fifth. Boggess strolled. Mulvey singled to right, Boggess going to third. Boggess scored while Roetz was throwing out Grimes at first.

The Spudders' offensive swung into action in the sixth, when Eldred hit a home run over the left field wall and they scored again in the seventh when Lapan hit a home run over the left field barrier.

Spudders Tie Count

Wichita Falls tied the score in the eighth with a brace of markers. Turgeon singled to left and stole second. Fitzgerald grounded to Grimes, unassisted, Turgeon speeding to third. Eldred tripled to right, scoring Turgeon. Jenkins singled to left, sending home Eldred. Cox relieved Schuman and caused Roetz to hit into a double play. He turned back the Spuds in order in the ninth.

The Bears won in the eighth. Nason doubled to left. Cobb threw late to third on Meyers' bunt. Najo fouled to Jenkins and Nason scored.

Champion And Challenger Confident And In Perfect Condition For Battle

Tunney Confident in Wire To Record News Sports Editor

Gene Telegraphs Larry Dailey He's in Best Condition of Career

Gene Tunney, an intimate friend of Larry Dailey, yesterday telegraphed the sports editor of The Record News an expression of confidence for his fight tomorrow night with Tom Heeney. The above picture of Tunney and Dailey was taken when the then challenger was training for his first fight with Jack Dempsey. Larry is the little fellow wearing the inevitable cap.

Gene Tunney is ready for the greatest fight of his career. The champion is confident of defeating Tom Heeney tomorrow night and sees an excellent chance of landing a knockout punch.

This information is contained in a telegram from Tunney from his training camp at Speculator, N. Y., to Larry Dailey, sports editor of The Record News, and an intimate friend of the champion.

Jimmy Bronson, Tunney's chief second, also sends an expression of confidence in the wire to Dailey. It is signed "Steve, Jimmy and Gene," the Steve being Steve Hannagan, Tunney's "good will" contact man and like Gene and Bronson, a close personal friend of The Record News' sports editor.

The telegram follows:

"Larry Dailey
"Record News,
"Wichita Falls, Texas.

"I feel in better condition for the coming contest than for either of my fights with Jack Dempsey. With the event being held in New York, I have had an opportunity to train here in the mountains and condition myself to my own complete satisfaction.

"My hands are stronger than they have been in years and this in view of the fact that I am confident that I am punching harder than I have in years—since I began professional boxing when my hands were not strong enough to withstand the power of my punches.

"I am not overconfident, but I believe I will win and I agree with my camp members that if I can land a solid punch against the contender—punches such as I have shown in training, that a knockout is likely.

"I will do my best."

Bronson says: "There is no doubt in my mind but that Tunney will win the Heeney battle by a knockout. The champion is in the best condition of his career and throwing punches with the force of a blacksmith wielding a sledge. It should be an exciting affair.

"Regards,
"Steve, Jimmy and Gene."

Slowness of Clients in Buying Tickets Alarms Mister Rickard

Tex Lays Public Indifference to Tunney, Though It Seems Only Reflection of Trend of Times

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 24.—As the battle of phonus bolionous approaches, my operatives bring me reports that Herr Rickard is bearing down on his supplications to the little gods of pugilistic chance that they smile on Thomas Heeney, the old Rock of Down Under, next Thursday night.

Every time Mons. Rickard peers into his till, my operatives state, he utters a low moan of mortal agony and increases his offerings to the gods aforesaid, vowing to them by the bend in the great horn spoon that if they'll only give him one crack at the clients next year with Thomas Heeney and Jake Demaki he'll never ask them for another thing.

The thought that he may have to contend with Mister Tunney again in 1929 makes Senor Rickard slightly ill. The light ahead for him is the possibility of a victory by the Rock of Down Under, for though Mister Tunney is one of his numerous articulations has said that the million dollar gate is a thing of the past, M. Rickard is willing to lay him plenty of 9 to that it isn't, except possibly for Mister Tunney.

The clients may ease the aching heart of the great entrepreneur by a last minute rush upon the gates of the Yankee stadium, and I hope and trust they do, for Colonel Rickard, in despondency, is not a happy picture. If the clients fail him, I move you, Mister Chairman, that a committee be appointed to follow Judge Rickard wherever he goes, and shoo him in another direction any time he seems disposed to head for the river.

One of Mister Tunney's equerries remarked not long since that Mister Tunney's following is the kind that buys $40 tickets without making any noise about it.

George L. Rickard will subscribe to this assertion. They have been so noiseless to date that he cannot even hear those 40's dropping into his cash boxes. But perhaps Mister Tunney's rubber-tired following is using very soft paper money.

However, I do not think Mister Tunney is altogether to blame for the apparent lack of interest in the impending exposition of the sour science by himself and Thomas Heeney. If the gate receipts fall short of a million, in my opinion, it will merely reflect a condition that prevails all over the country.

The pendulum that swung upward to the $2,500,000 gate at Chicago is but swinging back, what goes up must come down. And the clients haven't got as many spare $40's as they had a couple of years back. I believe that this is the true explanation of any shortage in the impending gate, if shortage there chances to be, rather than any particular lack of color or popular appeal to Mister Tunney and his accomplice, Thomas Heeney, the Rock of Down Under.

I think Mister Tunney and his old amigo, Jake Demaki, would have pulled in all of the $1,500,000 that Rickard has arranged for at the Yankee stadium if only on the strength of the seventh round in Chicago. But without Jake in there milling around on his dinky legs I think that $750,000 would be a full strength gate for Mister Tunney and anyone else.

Leo Baldwin And Local Girl Wed

ABILENE, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Announcement was made here today of the marriage Saturday night at Anson of Leo Baldwin, University of Texas athlete, and Miss Pansy Belle Stansbury of Wichita Falls.

Leo Baldwin, formerly of Wichita Falls, was a member of the Longhorn football squad of the University of Texas in 1925 and again in 1927, playing a half most of the time. He lettered with the team both years. Injuries kept him out of the game during 1926.

He also was out for the Longhorn track team and was Southwestern conference champion on the shot put in 1926.

With three letters in conference activities Baldwin bids fair to win the coveted distinction of becoming a four-letter man, an honor that the University of Texas has accorded no other athlete during the school's history.

Leo has lettered in basketball, football and track.

Miss Stansbury lives at 6 North Euel avenue.

Twilight Title Series Date Set

The championship of the Twilight baseball league will be decided in a three-game series Saturday and Sunday between Texas Electrics and Panhandle Longhorns.

The first game will be played Saturday while a double header, starting at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, will complete the series. Spudder park will be used if it can be secured for the final games of the Twilight league season, it was said Tuesday by the managers of the Twilight clubs.

Climbing from third place in the first half race the Longhorns fought their way to the league for the first half championship after the Electrics had held the lead from the opening game of the series.

Leading the league all the way during the second half the Electrics cinched the second half championship and the right to play the Longhorns for the Twilight flag Sunday by defeating the fast James creamery team, 3 to 2, in the last scheduled game of the season.

The champions of the Twilight loop will participate in the state amateur baseball tournament in the latter part of August.

Mat-Ring Show Set for Tonight

The wrestling and boxing card scheduled for last night in Spudder park by Alec Ross was postponed until Wednesday night.

Change of dates in the show resulted in the inability of Jack Matlock, who was carded for a 10-round bout with Battling Potts, to make his appearance.

Instead of the Matlock-Potts scrap, Ross has carded two other bouts for Wednesday night.

The additional bouts are K. O. Shorty vs. Tom Scott, six rounds, and Kid Williams vs. Johnny King, four rounds. All of the participants are rated as top notchers and fast steppers in a mitt-slinging contest.

The main event of the evening will be a mat encounter between Joe Parelli and Joe Kopecky. They will wrestle a finish match under New York commission rules, which means every man for himself.

Johnny Owens will meet Walter Jernigan in a four-round bout and Ross is endeavoring to schedule another glove-pushing contest between two fast boys.

All tickets bought by the fans for Tuesday night will be good for Wednesday night, Ross announced Tuesday night.

Compston Leads Hagen By 1 Up at 36 Holes

WAYLAND, Mass., July 24. (UP) Archie Compston, famous English golfer, emerged victor from the first 36 holes of a 72-hole match with Walter Hagen at the Sandy Burr course here today with a narrow margin of 1 up.

Hagen, after losing the first 18-hole morning round 3 up, came back brilliantly in the afternoon, finishing the first nine holes with 3 up on the Englishman. Compston succeeded in knocking only one from Hagen's lead in the final nine holes of the day's play, Hagen finishing with 2 up for the afternoon round.

Tunney Picked to Win Decision And Knockout Victory Probable

Gene Outclasses Heeney and Only Uncertainty of Fight Is Mental Attitude, Larry Dailey Writes

(Editor's Note—In the following story, Larry Dailey, sports editor of The Record News, forecasts tomorrow night's fight. Dailey for 10 years has been a sports writer and critic. He has "covered" in his newspaper career several championship fights and is an intimate friend of practically all the notables of boxing, including Gene Tunney. Dailey last year, while sports editor of the Tulsa, Okla., Evening World, picked Tunney to win the decision over Jack Dempsey, a correct forecast.)

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Gene Tunney will defeat Tom Heeney.

Like some of the other experts I might qualify that statement with a flock of "ifs" and "maybes." But I wont. The only "if" that enters into my calculation of the fight concerns whether Tunney wins by the decision or a knockout.

Should the fight go the limit of 15 rounds I don't think there is a question but that Tunney will win the decision. But it won't go 15 rounds. Tunney will win by a knockout, probably within 10 rounds; perhaps by five. Possibly even sooner.

You will observe that I don't think much of Heeney's chances.

Outside of durability the Solid Rock from Down Under does not match Tunney as a fighter. In boxing skill, ring generalship and punching power Tunney is superior to Heeney. How then, may Tom be accorded better than an outside chance to win?

Gene Is Durable

The boys have been writing pieces from Heeney's camp at Fair Haven about Tom's ruggedness, until it seems that he is invulnerable to a knockout punch. That is so much bunk. A sock to the button, which in the quaint parlance of pugilism, is the chin, and a few stiff punches to the body will send Heeney or any man, no matter how tough, to the canvas. And a sufficient number of such wallops will keep Tom there.

There is no question of Heeney's endurance, or his gameness. But while they have been stressing that point, they have overlooked Tunney's own ruggedness. How many men have weathered an attack from Jack Dempsey such as Tunney withstood last year at Chicago and came back to win? None but a fighter of tremendous stamina and fighting heart could have assimilated that terrific bombardment from Dempsey's fists, and survive to win. True, Tunney was given the benefit of a long count on that occasion. But that doesn't detract from the fact that he got up, clear-headed and in superb condition, and in closing rounds retaliated with a savage attack on Dempsey.

Heeney is a strong chap, who gained marvelous power in a blacksmith shop. But Tunney too, has mighty strength.

Tunney has never dissipated. He has lived far more cleanly than the average man. Abstemious living, with liquor, tobacco and late hours unknown to him; constant training, abiding for months in the woods, has made Tunney a marvel of physical perfection.

Gene Marvelous Boxer

It was the superb boxing skill and craft that carried Tunney to the championship of the world, and it was those qualities that helped him retain the crown against Dempsey. With the possible exception of Jim Corbett, Gene is the greatest boxer in the history of the heavyweights.

A lightning-like left jab and a ripping right, perfect coordination, has made Tunney's "one-two" punch famous. Gene is not a "knockerout." In fact, in early years of his career he was a light hitter and was known as the "powder puff puncher." But that studious application which has made him champion enabled Gene to toughen his hands. He spent hours punching a bag. He studied how to hit, and where. Until now Tunney is a dangerous puncher, if not a "killer." He knocked out Tommy Gibbons and Georges Carpentier. He floored Dempsey last year at Chicago; had Jack in a bad way at the bell.

Heeney's record is unimpressive. Indeed, after scanning the list of his fights in recent years one almost wonders how Tom ever came to be chosen as the challenger.

Heeney fought two fights this year. He battled 10 rounds to a draw with Jack Sharkey and won a 15-round decision over Jack Delaney in his last mill. Delaney a light heavyweight of rather fragile makeup, was knocked out a few months ago by Sharkey in the first round.

Beaten By Paolino

In 1927 Tom beat Johnny Risko by a close decision; stopped Jim Maloney in one round, fought a 15-round draw with Paolino Uzcudun, won on a foul from Bud Gorman in three rounds; beat Jack DeMave in 10 rounds and lost to Uzcudun in 10 rounds.

Heeney has never been knocked out, it is true. But on the other mitt, Gene never has been stopped.

Tom's admirers are making much of the fact that Heeney has engaged in several 15-round battles (the distance tomorrow night) in the last two years while Tunney hasn't fought over that route since he shellaced Jeff Smith late in 1924. But that doesn't indicate Gene can't go 15 rounds. In fact, in both his fights with Dempsey he was strong at the finish while Jack was weary. And the fact that Heeney went 15 rounds with some of his foes doesn't necessarily indicate Tom's one of those chaps they can't knock out. Indeed, it was as much, or more the lack of class in his opponents, as his own ruggedness.

There is no question, it is reiterated, that as viewed from their physical capabilities and records that Tunney far outclasses Heeney. Their mental attitude must be considered. That is something that can't be judged. And it is all-important.

Tunney Is Ready

There have been champions who entered the ring, undertrained and underestimating their adversaries, who were whipped. As Willard by Dempsey. But that, as the crooked turfman said when he painted a black nag white, is a horse of another color. Tunney, unless I am greatly mistaken in the man, is not the type to be beaten by himself. He has, from all reports from Speculator, trained hard. Experts who have watched his work agree he is boxing and hitting at his best. He is confident, of course. But Tunney's confidence is that of the trained athlete, who knows his capabilities and condition.

Heeney is a stolid chap, who is said to view this affair as merely "just a fight," and only part of the day's work. It does not follow that such an attitude is in his favor. Practically all of our greatest fighters have been men of highly nervous temperament, who were greatly keyed-up prior to battle. Dempsey was one. Tunney is, to a lesser degree, high strung before a fight, though he masks his nervousness under a veneer of poise.

If Heeney were a younger man and Tunney a fading veteran, Tom would be given an excellent chance to win. But here are two men, in the prime of their athletic proficiency, one with undoubtedly greater talents than the other.

Except for that always-existing chance held for an outsider, and for that unknown element—the mental attitude—Tunney looms as a certain victor.

And were I a betting man, even in the face of those uncertainties, I'd wager a week's pay that Tunney wins—and by a knockout.

Well, there you are.

HEENEY PLANS KNOCKOUT WIN

Tom Rests in Privacy After Last Workout

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 24. (AP) Tom Heeney today wound up training for his battle with Gene Tunney heavyweight champion, next Thursday night, expressing supreme confidence of winning.

"I was never so confident of winning a fight as my championship shot against Tunney," he said. "If I am beaten I have no alibis to offer. I am in marvelous condition. You cannot make that too strong. I had never seen Tunney except to shake hands with him at Tex Rickard's dinner, but I have studied his style in motion pictures. My fights against Jack Delaney and Phil Scott have put me wise against Tunney's way of boxing.

"I have no plans to disclose right now because I'll make them as the fight progresses. All I want to do is to get the feel of Tunney in the ring. It will not take me long to learn how Tunney plans to fight. Perhaps in the first round I will know all that is to be known. Then I will go after him and I will do my share of fighting. He says he is going to knock me out. Maybe I will stop him. I am going in there to do my best."

After taking his last sock at the punching bag, Heeney stole away to remain in privacy until Thursday morning when he packs his bag and starts for New York to weigh in at Madison Square garden. His only companion tonight and tomorrow will be Hennessey, his trainer.

GENE FINISHES WORK WITH SPIRITED DRILL

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 24. (AP)—Radiating confidence and good nature, Gene Tunney today wound up his training course for the defense of his title against Tom Heeney Thursday night by going through a hard workout.

After the session, Jimmy Bronson, the champion's chief second, breathed a sigh of relief for Tunney had escaped without a mark. This is the first time that Gene has ever finished training for a major bout without suffering some annoying injury, generally in the last workout.

Two years ago when preparing to wrest the title away from Jack Dempsey, Tunney received a split lip in the last workout. At Lake Villa last year, Jackie Williams, a sparring partner, poked his thumb in Tunney's right eye, causing frightful pain, just a few hours before the second Dempsey bout.

Gene's Condition Perfect

Outside of two rope burns on his shoulders, Tunney is in perfect physical shape. Mentally he is the peak. So far he has not shown a trace of nervousness or ill temper, traits which most fighters are wont to display on the eve of the championship battles.

After Tunney had dressed for his final training ring performance this afternoon, he was surrounded by newspaper photographers who subjected him to a full hour of posing. Tunney was agreeable throughout.

When he finally entered the ring, after slugging the light and heavy punching bags for four rounds, he instructed Harold Mays, his favorite sparring partner, to "step on it."

Mays tried to obey instructions during their two-round bout. He started by rushing at Tunney but the champion side-stepped and landed his right.

For a round Tunney permitted Harold to be the aggressor and he made the Bayonne, N. J., boy appear like a clumsy amateur.

Right Hook Rocks Mays

Mays, who has assisted Heeney in most of his bouts in this country, was following the challenger's style and using all his tricks, none of which deceived the champion.

During the second round, Tunney smashed a right hook on Mays' jaw. The sting came through the 16-ounce training glove with force enough to rock Mays' head. Tunney then held Mays upright until his head cleared and let him off lightly for the rest of the bout.

The champion had just as easy a time when he took on Billy Vidabeck, the other sparring partner, in another two rounder. Tunney hit him hard and clean without extending himself, but once when he shot a right hook to Vidabeck's head.

CANDIDATES IN FINAL TALKS

Rain Fails to Daunt Office Seekers

office, but as one of them admitted that he was incompetent, it was because he thought so himself.

Nicholson Applauded

E. W. Nicholson drew bursts of applause and laughter when he declared that there was no reason why the voters should turn him out of the office and turn his opponents in when he had done every thing that they promised to do.

Other candidates who spoke were M. A. Bundy and J. L. Mears, candidates for commissioner of precinct No. 1; Mrs. W. W. Gardner and T. W. McHam, candidates for county treasurer; Burl Bryant, Clyde R. Wofford and J. A. Hood, candidates for county superintendent of schools; Mart Banta, Robert S. Dunaway, Everett Hughes and N. A. Moore, candidates for tax assessor; P. A. Martin and Harry Bunnenberg, candidates for judge of the 89th district court; W. E. Wilson and Bill Davenport, candidates for county attorney, and John P. Marrs and P. B. Curd, candidates for county judge.

Burk Hears Orators

BURKBURNETT, July 24.—Conduct of the 78th district court and the records made by the district attorney's office bore the brunt of oratorical bombardments staged here tonight by Wichita county political candidates.

Rain fell during the early part of the evening and slowed up the speaking schedule. This group of candidates is known as group two, and will make the last speeches of its campaign as a group at Bellevue park Wednesday night.

E. F. Fruechte, candidate for district attorney, speaking in the home town of Sam Spence, another candidate for the same office, said that Spence had been in the office of the district attorney for 14 months prior to his entering as first assistant district attorney.

"I was told when employed that the district attorney's office had to have someone in the office who would show a little speed," Mr. Fruechte said. He then discussed his record, the record of the office and his qualifications.

Mr. Spence replied by saying: "You have just listened to the greatest I and little we speech that was ever made. I have fought the battle for the nomination hard and clean, and I leave it to you folks, my fellow townsmen, to be the judges."

W. L. Scott, another candidate for the office said, in referring to Mr. Fruechte's speech that "I have not burned any rivers or eaten any mountains as has the first speaker." He then made his plea for office on his years of practicing law in the district and on the statement that the district attorney's office called for experience rather than the youth of the other candidates. Mrs. John B. Rhea, wife of the fourth candidate for the office, spoke for her husband, who is ill in the hospital.

H. F. Weldon and Ben P. Allred, candidates for the 78th district court judgeship, attacked the ability of the incumbent, Judge W. W. Cook. Both said that in Judge Cook's own home county of Montague the people who knew him best refused to elect him to a second term. They also attacked his record as judge of the 78th district court here.

Judge Cook defended his term in office and said that his cases by mutual consent were mainly civil cases, and that he was always able to give trial within 30 days to those in his court. George A. Smoot, the fourth candidate for the office, said little of his opponents or their records, and centered his talk on his platform of speedy trial at low cost and setting cases down in order.

Other candidates who spoke and the offices for which the are running are:

District clerk: Miss Eunice Jackson and Jesse S. Smith; representative, 112th district: A. V. Grant, E. Van Deventer and Cecil Storey; district attorney: E. F. Fruechte, Sam S. Spence, John B. Rhea and W. L. Scott; tax collector: Guy C. Raley and Arthur Howard; judge, county court-at-law: I. J. Vogel, R. D. Pittman and C. M. McFarland; judge, 78th district court: Ben P. Allred, H. F. Weldon, George A. Smoot and W. W. Cook; sheriff: W. G. Brailey, S. M. Spruelll and H. L. White.

NATURE'S TRICKS

Lightning Bolt Kills Five Cows in Stanton Pasture

Special to The Record News.

STANTON, Texas, July 24.—Another one of nature's miracles was played last night when a bolt of lightning struck and killed five Jersey milk cows on Lee Donaldson's place, 10 miles north of Stanton. Four of the cows were owned by Donaldson and the fifth one was owned by R. M. Davenport. The cows were said to be from 5 to 20 steps apart when they were killed. All five of these cows were purebred Jerseys of high producing quality.

U. S. TO RETURN 1350 MARINES

Third of Troops in Orient To Be Brought Home

WASHINGTON, July 24. (US)—The United States today ordered the transport Henderson, now at Tientsin, to bring back 1350 marines.

This is one-third of all the troops in China and practically all of those in north China, the scene of recent fighting.

The order was issued by President Coolidge after a conference by long distance telephone with Secretary Kellogg, who was brought into consultation before the final step was taken.

Early Recognition

The move was accepted in official and diplomatic quarters as the forerunner of early recognition of China.

Order for the evacuation of the troops came as a result of a recommendation forwarded to Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson by Admiral Mark L. Bristol, commander of the American fleet in Chinese waters.

This is the first wholesale removal of American forces since the beginning of China's wars to throw off foreign domination and is taken here as a sign that the American government is satisfied that the nationalist government which emerged in supreme control is able to maintain a stable government.

Old Treaties Brought Up

The first step in recognition, diplomatists say, is just in the offing and will in all probability come with the offer of the United States to consider a revision of China's so-called unequal treaties, dating as far back as 1844.

Little concern is felt in diplomatic circles here over Japan's recent attitude toward the Mukden government's control of Manchuria, since she has already offered to consider a revision of the "unequal" treaties, although she will not consider them abrogated.

Bash Answers Letter Critics

dates have been either misunderstood or misrepresented.

The letter was not sent out to my church membership as a whole but to a small list of about 50 of my friends, here and elsewhere, some of whom are not members of my congregation. Not having sufficient time to visit these friends I used the form letter to call their attention to the names of certain candidates. I suggested that if the candidates appealed to them as "qualified for the office" that they "speak a good word for them."

The letter was sent by me without the knowledge or consent of either the candidates or church. It is a personal matter. The church letter head was used because that happens to be my personal stationery. I wrote as a friend to a friend and not as a pastor to his people. I alone am responsible for the original of the letter that was used by others in a political ad in Tuesday's Daily Times. The letter plainly states: "I do not seek to direct your vote but to stimulate action." The indifference of many citizens toward the ballot is a source of real concern.

I regret that any candidate or friends of candidates should question my personal privilege in calling attention of my friends to any candidate whom I wished them to consider. I am sorry they call in question my privilege as an American citizen. If that letter was a blunder, it is mine, and First Christian church is not in any wise responsible for it. It is right that the public should know these facts.

Sincerely yours,
FLOYD A. BASH.

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By FLORA LE BRETON

Flora Le Breton, "London's most beautiful blonde," commenced her stage career at the age of 15 as a graduate of Sir Herbert Tree's Academy of Dramatic Art in London. Since then she has won the title of "the Mary Pickford of England."

Cast by Sir Gerald du Maurier in the stellar role of "London Pride," she went on to the musical stage under Andre Charlot, and was featured in five different Charlot Revues. Meantime the films began to occupy her time outside the theater. Inside of two seasons she had won her spurs as actress, film star, beauty and champion dancer.

Henry W. Savage later chose Flora Le Breton for the American production of "Lass O'Laughter." She is now being presented on Broadway in the principal feminine role of "Present Arms."

Scrutinize her favorite anecdote:

"One night in London," she told me, "an Irishman was celebrating something or the other. Tottering about in an alcoholic fog on his way home that night he reached London bridge. As he was crossing he saw the reflection of the moon on the water.

"He stopped and was gazing into the water when a policeman approached from the opposite direction. The Irishman, addressing the policeman, said:

"'What's the matter down there?'

"'Why?' replied the bobby, 'that's the moon.'

AL SETS TIME FOR ADDRESS

Candidate to Speak For Hour August 22

ALBANY, N. Y., July 24. (UP) From the east steps of the state capitol, Governor Smith will tell the country at twilight on Wednesday, August 22, just where he stands on campaign issues. Date for his notification at 7 p. m., eastern daylight time, was fixed today.

Around and below the Democratic presidential nominee, it is expected a crowd, perhaps numbering more than 100,000, will be massed. Through a radio network, embracing about 100 stations, his voice will be carried to the far corners of the nation and even across international boundaries. Uncertainty as to the exact time for the notification, which will come after those for Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis, the Republican standard bearers, ended when Smith himself announced difficulties in obtaining clear time for a nation-wide radio hook-up had been cleared away.

It is the governor's custom to give out news concerning his plans direct to newspaper men at a daily press conference. Today after the cigars had been passed, a reporter led off with the question which for days had brought a negative response: "Any notification plans yet?" "Yes," Smith replied, as from behind his desk he smiled and shifted his cigar. "It will be Wednesday, August 22, at 7 p. m."

Although he has not put his acceptance speech into writing Governor Smith figures that it will take him an hour to carry out his promise to treat adequately all campaign issues, including prohibition and farm relief. He calculated the notification committee will take about 15 minutes and that a like period will be required for "incidental business," making the entire time for the ceremony an hour and a half.

Jury to Hear Mrs. Waybourne

father last fall. He has been indicted in that connection. He told his story under promptings of District Attorney Merton Harris while Mrs. Waybourne wept. He told of having made premium payments on Waybourne's insurance policies with money brought him by Mrs. Waybourne and of taking out a $1,100 policy on Waybourne without the latter's knowledge. Waybourne's insurance totaled $12,000. Previous testimony was that Mrs. Waybourne had told friends she tolerated her husband only because he had an itinerant job and "was heavily insured."

Middleton's attempted recital of intimate relations with Mrs. Waybourne brought strenuous objections from the defense. He said they first considered having Waybourne killed where he worked with a bridge gang and having his body hidden in the woods or thrown on the railroad track.

The blacksmith, baldheaded and nervously fumbling a spectacle case, said Mrs. Waybourne tried "five or six times" to get him to put her husband out of the way, saying she did not love him and wanted to get rid of him.

"I refused and she asked me to get someone else to do away with him if I didn't," Middleton said.

He then told of getting in touch with the Mexican and offering him $300 to kill Waybourne. At Mrs. Waybourne's suggestion, the amount was reduced to $250 when payment was made and the Mexican told to "leave the country."

Three Attempts

The Mexican made three attempts at the killing, Middleton said. One time the Mexican robbed Waybourne but did not harm him. Another time, with Mrs. Waybourne absent to clear the way, Morales failed to "do the work." After telling of giving Mrs. Waybourne the key when she returned from Austin the Sunday afternoon the victim was found, Middleton said: "Thirty or forty minutes later she ran over to the shop calling me, and when I went over to the house I found Waybourne a corpse."

Here the blacksmith paused and took another cough drop, hesitating some time before continuing. He then told of remonstrating with the Mexican for disfiguring Waybourne so much.

"Joe said, 'Why I couldn't do any better; I went back the second time,'" Middleton testified.

Oil Found In Irion County

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, July 24.—Irion county was believed generally today to have its first oil producer through a small pumper in the making in Moore and Kenedy's No. 1 Tankersley as the result of its bailing 20 barrels of oil and a small amount of water in two hours and 15 minutes from pay sand at 1345-48 feet. Fluid stood 325 feet in the hole after bailing. Whether the water was bottom hole or was coming from around the pipe still was undetermined.

Newspapers Praised By Utility Leader

The press and its relation to public utilities was discussed by P. M. Cordell of the Texas Electric Service company at the Advertising club luncheon Tuesday noon.

"The newspaper is the most potent factor we have for creating public opinion," Mr. Cordell said. "The public utility and the public must have a complete understanding, and that is the reason that the public utilities endorse the press as the best medium of advertising."

A. E. Kelly, president of the club, announced that copies of the by-laws of the club will be distributed at the next luncheon. Committees also will be appointed at that time, he said.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Flatulence or Gas

Almost every patient is troubled with intestinal and stomach gas. Hundreds of people are dying each day from the mechanical effects of this gas pressing against their hearts and other vital organs. Many functional and chronic disorders are a result of the continual irritation from food fermentation.

There is a small amount of air or gas present in the alimentary tract at all times. It is the excessive amount which causes painful symptoms. Many pains in various parts of the body sometimes far removed from the digestive organs are only reflexes from intestinal pains from stretching by gas.

Many patients have the odd habit of unconsciously swallowing air with their food or at the same time that they imagine themselves belching. I have examined many patients under the x-ray who, not having any gas in their stomachs would begin belching. Immediately I could see them swallowing bubbles of air which soon filled their stomachs and caused unpleasant symptoms. This is simply a bad habit which must be corrected.

Any inflammation of the stomach or intestinal tract will produce gas even when one is not eating. Patients who correct their diet sometimes wonder why the gas does not immediately disappear, but it often continues to form until the inflammation has subsided and digestion takes place normally. Overeating, bad food combinations, eating too rapidly, eating when tired, drinking too much with meals, eating too often, using indigestible foods, and the use of foods which are gas-forming in themselves are also causes of this trouble.

After all these bad habits have been corrected, it sometimes takes several months to eliminate most of the gas-forming bacteria which are in the intestines for the purpose of breaking up food materials that have been used in excess or in bad combinations. One who lives on an ordinary diet may harbor millions of these harmless bacteria whose purpose is to bring about changes in food which would otherwise be poisonous.

It is well for one afflicted with flatulence to taboo all onions, garlic, chives, cabbage, turnips and condiments, and to select a suitable diet to which they will adhere strictly until they have overcome their trouble. Those who use restricted diets where a smaller amount of food is used will often be surprised to notice that they have more gas than they did before while eating carelessly. This is because the small amount of food does not entirely use up the digestive juice, and the result is that gas is formed when the excessive acid fluids of the stomach pour into the intestines and are neutralized by the alkaline intestinal juices.

Doctors should use the x-ray as an aid to the diagnosis of all digestive troubles, for which cases so examined they will usually discover a large pocket of gas, sometimes as big as a toy balloon, just underneath the heart. Sometimes this is not easily belched up, and one so afflicted will not realize that the condition exists.

Many women's disorders are aggravated or entirely caused by the distention of the intestines with poisonous gases which force the pelvic organs out of their normal position.

Most cases of flatulence can be benefited or cured by following the "Cleansing Diet" regime which I so frequently advocate. Those who are literally walking "gas factories" will do well to send for the special article I have prepared on this "Cleansing Diet."

Questions and Answers

Question—K. J. asks: "Is there any way of making a large nose small by operation? If so, is it dangerous, and where would you advise me to go for it, and what is the cost of such an operation?"

Answer: I would not advise anyone to try to reduce the size of his nose by an operation unless, perhaps he happens to be in the theatrical business. This operation is dangerous, and always very expensive if performed by a skilled plastic surgeon. You should be proud of your large nose, as physiognomists and phrenologists tell us it is a sign of great mental powers.

Question—J. D. writes: "I receive a great deal of help through your daily writings, and am wondering if you would advise eating dried figs, prunes, and fruit of that kind without being stewed?"

Answer: The died fruits you mention can be used without cooking and are even more wholesome when used in this manner. Some enjoy the flavor of the fruits when they are soaked over night in a small amount of water, and then eaten without being cooked.

Question—W. R. S. writes: "I am a little near-sighted and look very funny in glasses. Could my eyes be cured any other way besides wearing glasses?"

Answer: Near-sightedness can be helped to some degree by improving the general health, and by taking the eye exercises. These exercises will strengthen the muscles of the eyes sometimes enough so that you can go without glasses, even though your eye defect is not entirely corrected. It is advisable to wear glasses at least when reading, as long as the near-sightedness continues.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—Cotton felt the effects of a firmer technical position early today, but after selling up to 20.95 on covering, October declined to 20.67, or 10 points net lower, where it closed. The general market closed easy at net declines of 10 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 4.

July sold up to 20.70 and December to 20.76 during the forenoon, or about 15 to 18 points net higher, but buying was held in check by expectations of a favorable weekly report tomorrow.

Demand tapered off at the advance and prices made new lows for the day in the late trading, July selling off to 20.45, and December to 20.46, or about 25 to 30 points from the high level of the morning and 10 to 14 points net lower.

The detailed weather reports showed more rain than anticipated in the eastern belt, which attracted some bullish comment, but they also showed further rains in Texas and, on the whole, the weather news evidently made a favorable impression.

Private cables said liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in Liverpool and reported occasional cloth sales for India, but stocks of yarns were accumulating.

Port receipts today, 4,575 bales. U. S. port stocks, 678,135. Exports, 2,102, making 7,703,826 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 24. (AP)—There was a distinct lack of sustaining support in today's cotton market due probably to reluctance of traders to enter upon new commitments in advance of tomorrow's doubtful weekly weather and crop summary. An early advance was followed by a reaction which carried October contracts down from 20.34 to 20.08. The delivery closed one point off from the top. The general market closed easier at a net decline of 7 points.

The opening was easy in sympathy with relatively lower Liverpool cables. First trades showed losses of 4 to 6 points but early offerings were absorbed on trade buying and covering induced by the belief that the market was in an oversold condition, thus strengthening the technical position. Talk of the further spread of boll weevil and fears of too much rain in the belt helped the recovery, which carried December to 20.27, or 20 points over the opening figure and 16 points above the previous close.

Around mid-session the demand appeared to be supplied but prices displayed a lack of support. The subsequent reaction was aided materially by more favorable crop reports received from Oklahoma and Georgia, and a report showing no increase in weevil infestation in Mississippi. October sold down to 20.08 and December 20.02, new lows for the day and 25 to 26 points under the top.

The close was easier at or near the top with December at 20.04, or 7 points net down.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-34 Harvey-Snider building, received the following Tuesday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago connections, E. A. Pierce & Co.:

Cotton

NEW YORK, July 24.—The market has a good tone but is still rather narrow. Weather conditions continue mostly favorable. The manner in which contracts have been absorbed on the declines would indicate that the trade is willing to buy around 20½ cents for October. Expectations for an upward revision in private crop ideas is probably the bearish influence, we are of the opinion that the recent break has to a large extent discounted these possibilities and would rather follow the constructive side on the setbacks.

Stocks

NEW YORK, July 24.—Today's market was in many respects a duplication of yesterday's session. Call money renewed at 5½ and stayed there all day despite the fact that the banks called $10,000,000 loans around midday. On the report that Mr. Raskob had resigned as chairman of finance committee of General Motors traders offered General Motors for sale and for a few minutes the stock gave ground. This proved to be only a flurry and the selling was not extended. Some buying made its appearance in high grade rails which have been absolutely dead for days, and most of the activity in this direction was in the Western Grange roads which are expected to benefit from the anticipated large crop movement. Optimistic reports on the outlook for the steel industry in the second half of the year were circulated. Profit taking came into Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Warner Bros., whose advances lately have been especially pronounced, but as this selling made its appearance attention was diverted to American Can, it being plain that the outlook for this company was especially promising. One of the features of the day was the development of a heavy demand for National Cash Register, which succeeded bettering its previous high. Earnings of the company are running well ahead of last year and this is one of the industrials which is thought to be in line for a possible increase in dividends.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 24.—Failure of Liverpool to reflect in full our decline of yesterday resulted in a better tone to the early trade in wheat. An upturn of about 1½ from last night's finals materialized on scattered buying during the forepart of the day, but about mid-session renewed selling pressure developed and the market lost all of its early gains. Export business relatively light and estimated at 800,000. Liverpool closed 2⅝ to 3¼ lower. A rally during the closing hour carried the market above Monday's finish. Cash arrivals totaled 81 cars and trading basis was largely unchanged, with Monday.

Corn was a badly demoralized proposition during today's session very heavy selling pressure developed on the deferred ones, with September showing the biggest relative decline after breaking fully 4 cents at one time. New lows on the crop were made on September and December. Commission houses were on the selling side during the bulk of the day and the market broke through daily bids, sellers again being compelled to protect themselves on way down. A local professional was credited with being a heavy seller. Deliveries too averaged from unchanged to ½c lower.

July oats broke sharply despite the light receipts of only 9 cars. Deferred options, while easy, showed relative firmness in face of the break in corn. Cash market firm on choice and 1 to 2c lower on less desirable.

Rye was inclined to follow wheat. Nothing new in an export way.

Raskob's Resignation to Aid Demos Causes Slump in General Motors

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—Efforts to bring about a further recovery in prices in today's stock market met with only partial success. Several specialties were marked up to new highs and a few new leaders brought forward in the industrials, but several of the recent favorites yielded readily to selling pressure, making final quotations decidedly irregular. Trading showed a moderate expansion.

With the approach of the month-end, the credit situation again become an absorbing topic of speculative interest. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans but call money continued in rather plentiful supply at 5½ per cent. Wall street again heard predictions in responsible banking quarters of 6 and 7 per cent call money in the near future.

Several more semi-annual earnings reports appeared, most of them favorable. Pierce Arrow was a conspicuous exception, reporting a loss of $634,000 for the first six months of 1928 as against a loss of $783,000 in the full year of 1927.

General Motors ran into heavy selling on the announcement that John J. Raskob had resigned as chairman of the finance committee to give his full time to duties as chairman of the Democratic national committee. The stock sold down to 184⅝ and then rebounded to 185⅞, off 1½ net.

Revival of activity in American Can, which advanced 4 points to 88⅝, was based on reports of fresh accumulation of that issue by First National Bank interests.

Heavy selling of Kelvinator, presumably based on the recent publication of a poor earnings report, carried that issue down to a new low record at 7⅜, but it rebounded to 10, off 2 points net. American Telephone, National Radiator common and preferred, Ward Baking preferred and International Paper preferred also sank to new low levels.

Rails showed a firmer undertone. Several of the western rails attracted fresh buying on expectations of unusually heavy crop movements this fall.

Time money was back on a flat 6 per cent basis as against a rate of 5¾ to 6 earlier in the week. Prime commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Outside of the recovery in wheat, there was little speculative interest in the commodity markets. Cotton lost 50 to 75 cents a bale on selling inspired largely by unfavorable mill advices.

Foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 24. (AP)—(USDA)—Fed steers and yearling trade around the market circuit was marked by considerable uneveness. The general price tend on the lighter weight fed steers and yearlings was steady to higher, but weighty steers were draggy and weak to 25c lower. Feeder buyers continued to compete with packers on the better kind of western grassers. Common southwesterns ruled steady to weak. Omaha scored $16.75 on choice 908-pound yearlings, and paid $16.50 for 1,150-pound steers. Better kinds of western grass steers cashed at $12.50 to $14.25, while common to medium straight grassers sold from $9.50 to $12.25. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 32,800, as compared with 38,996 last Tuesday and 38,461 the same day a year ago.

A further curtailment in the week's hog receipts resulted in packers displaying more interest. Shippers, however, purchased the bulk of the better grades. Prices were generally steady to 15c higher, with the extreme top of $11.50 paid at St. Louis. Total supplies of around 60,500 were 18,400 short of last Tuesday and 29,000 less than the corresponding day last year.

A weak to lower undertone prevailed in the fat lambs market. Prices were steady to 25c lower, most points reporting losses of 10c to 25c. No material changes were effected on aged stock. Idaho lambs at Chicago topped at $15.25, while choice Colorados at Kansas City realized $15.00. Offerings around the loop were estimated at 44,650, against 51,848 a week ago and 45,354 a year ago.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—Wheat tended upward most of today while corn showed acute weakness. Big export sales of wheat were announced after the close. Heavy liquidation sales depressed corn, with September and December deliveries reaching a new low for the season.

Wheat closed firm at 1⅝c to 2⅝c advance, corn ⅛c to 2⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c decline.

It was estimated that export sales of North American wheat today amounted to 3,000,000 bushels, mainly Canadian wheat, but including some durum from the United States. Meanwhile, exports bids for domestic hard winter wheat at the gulf were said to be on the best relative basis of this season. The principal other strengthening influence was Liverpool's failure to reflect promptly yesterday's sharp American declines.

Corn weakness, which resulted in a transient downturn of nearly 5c a bushel for September contracts, was responsible for temporary declines in wheat. On the other hand, some wheat crop advices from Canada today were less rosy than those current yesterday. One Chicago expert telegraphed from Calgary that the wheat crop in southern Alberta seemed to be going backward.

At the finish corn, helped by wheat strength, showed a rally of more than 2¼c in some cases, as compared with the day's bottom level. Oats fluctuations were narrow.

Excellent consumer demand upheld provision, notwithstanding hog arrivals were larger than expected.

HIGH TEST OIL IN NEW STRIKE

Test Southeast of Small Oiler Proves Field

ABILENE, Texas, July 24.—With the hole at a total depth of 3,113 feet, Cranfill & Reynolds No. 1 Willingham, section 199, eastern Fisher county, is flowing in excess of 1,500 barrels of 38.1 gravity oil per day. The continuous flowing started late Monday after the well had been drilled four feet deeper from 3,109 feet where it had swabbed an average of 20 barrels for the past several days, from a pay topped at 3,095 feet, only four feet of which had any oil, from 3,099 to 3,109 being hard and having no saturation.

The flow started when the bit reached 3,112 feet, making 75 marrels during the first hour. In the next four hours 268 barrels were put into storage. The flow has not yet diminished. Considerable gas is accompanying the oil.

This well is half a mile southeast of the same owners' No. 1 Young, a 40-barrel pumper from the 3,100 foot pay. It encountered the pay several days ago, but its prospects did not arouse any enthusiasm until the deeper drilling came Monday. The bit is still in the soft lime and the well may be deepened in the next few days.

More excitement has been created by this well than from any other oil development in this area in almost two years. It is four miles east of Fisher county's first oil well, The Texas company's No. 1 Stephens, which is producing around 125 barrels a day after being on the pump for several months. Offsetting the Stephens to the south, Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Steele, completed about a month ago, is gauging approximately 500 barrels daily, both producing from a lime around 3,205-3,225 feet.

242 ABSENTEES CAST VOTES

Out-of-Town Voters Have One Day Left

With one more day for absentee voting in Wichita county 242 persons had cast their ballots for the July primary Tuesday night, according to Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk. Of the votes cast, 56 were mailed to the county clerk and the balance represented ballots marked in the office of the clerk.

Those planning to be absent from the city on Saturday must do their voting at the office of the county clerk Wednesday or lose their chance for suffrage in the first primary, Miss Hall said.

Mail votes on ballots sent out by the county clerk which are received by Thursday will be counted if they were mailed prior to Wednesday. Thursday afternoon the ballots received and those marked in the office will be sorted and mailed out to the various boxes where voters belong. Seventy persons asked the county clerk to mail them ballots. Of this number, 14 still are to be heard from, Miss Hall said.

Wofford Gives Basis of His Candidacy for Superintendent

Clyde R. Wofford, principal of Clara high school, Tuesday gave the basis of his candidacy for county superintendent.

Mr. Wofford is a native Texan and has resided in Wichita county for the past nine years. He was educated in the Teachers college at Denton, and Central State Teachers college of Oklahoma. In addition to this he has had 14 years actual teaching experience in the rural schools of Texas.

"I am a candidate," Mr. Wofford said, "Because I have been solicited to enter this race by a number of prominent rural school patrons. I am the choice of the rural people. They pay all the salary; the county superintendent serves them only, and their choice should be followed in this matter. The rural people ask the citizenship of Wichita Falls to help them elect me as their county superintendent.

"The rural schools have their peculiar problems—they are serious and can best be solved by one who has specialized in rural education. I ask the citizenship of Wichita Falls to be generous enough—fair enough with your rural neighbors—to elect a rural educator superintendent of rural schools."

J. A. HOOD

As a school man, a child's friendship means more to me than the preservation of some old irrational rule that has no meaning in life experience. If I'm elected county superintendent, children won't be made to do things in school that have no meaning or purpose.

DUNLOP'S
$195,000,000

"WHAT OF IT? . . . Dunlop's resources may be $195,000,000. Does that put any money in my pocket?"

Yes . . . In this way . . . Dunlop's investment is so great, it must be safeguarded. The only sure protection is to give you greater value than you can buy in any other tires.

Then, too . . . the nine mammoth plants . . . the far-flung rubber plantations . . . the great spinning mills . . . such resources enable Dunlop to build extra value into your tires.

The 40 years of experience helps too. But the biggest meaning to you of Dunlop's $195,000,000 is this: Dunlop could never have grown so great, if Dunlop tires had not only won, but held a vast army of users.

26 million Dunlop tires are now running. That bare fact is eloquent proof that you will profit by putting Dunlops on your car.

"DUNLOP CITY"

Throughout the world, the productive Dunlop Properties cover so vast an area that—if combined into one place—they would form a "Dunlop City" of over 100,000 acres.

Dunlop challenges the world for the title, "THE WORLD'S GREATEST TIRE." Buy one for your car, run it against any tire; keep track of the cost per mile, and then buy your future tires as the test shows you should. FOR ECONOMY'S SAKE YOU OWE YOURSELF THIS TEST.
