FDR Warns U. S. Against Dictatorship

Britain And France Give 'Open Fire' Order

Fleets Of Major Powers Ready For 'Pirates'

Airplanes And Surface Craft Which Attack Ships Included In Order; Spain Patrols Ends

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY,
Associated Press Staff Writer

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—Britain and France tonight gave their growing Mediterranean fleets orders to "open fire immediately" on airplanes and surface craft as well as submarines which attack merchant vessels.

Their extension of the "anti-piracy" campaign—previously limited to undersea marauders—was based on a new accord of Nyon signed today by the nine powers which framed the original pact against submarine piracy a week ago.

Give Sweeping Orders

The two major Nyon powers gave their naval commanders—soon to have at their disposal some 150 warships—sweeping orders to combat the "pirates." But some of the lesser nations signed the new accord a little timorously, with an anxious eye at Italy—which remained aloof, insisting it must be given equality with Britain and France in the patrol against the mysterious attacks which have grown out of the Spanish civil war.

Representatives of Balkan states expressed apprehension over Premier Mussolini's eventual reaction to the refusal of France, Britain and other powers to grant Italy parity in the patrol.

ESCORTING TWO SUBMARINES

MALTA, Sept. 17. (AP)—British naval sources reported today sighting two submarines fifty miles from this British island naval base, both flying insurgent Spanish colors and both escorted by Italian and German destroyers.

These sources said the submarines were escorted respectively by two German and two Italian destroyers, the whole convoy moving toward the insurgent-held Spanish island of Mallorca in the western Mediterranean.

A party of British marines, it was learned authoritatively, is scheduled to embark aboard British ships for Mallorca tomorrow.

Non-Intervention Patrol Of Spanish Coast Abandoned

LONDON, Sept. 17. (AP)—Great Britain and France abandoned the ineffectual non-intervention patrol of Spain today to concentrate all their available naval strength on the "more urgent" task of ridding the Mediterranean of "piracy," the mysterious attacks on merchant shipping that have grown out of the Spanish civil war.

Simultaneously the Nyon powers in a meeting at Geneva climaxed a week of swift diplomacy by broadening their nine-nation accord to

Work On Pipeline In Gaines Is Resumed

The Humble oil company has resumed work on construction of a pipeline from the Wasson oil area in northwestern Gaines county to its Hobbs, N. M., station, and company officials said they expected the line would be carried north to the Bennett pool in Yoakum county, according to an Associated Press report late Friday.

The Continental Oil company, however, according to the report, has announced its intention of dropping the plan to build a pipeline from the Wasson area to connect with the Humble system in northern Andrews county.

It previously had been announced that the company was contemplating such a construction.

Oilmen interpreted the move as indicating the beginning of large scale drilling and producing in Gaines, Yoakum, Hockley, and Cochran counties.

Schacht's Reign As Financial Genius Of Nazi Appears Over

BERLIN, Sept. 17. (AP)—The oft-repeated reports that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's reign as financial genius of the Nazi regime was ended tonight appeared to have been fulfilled.

The minister of economics was in Italy on "a private trip" and it was disclosed he had not set foot in his offices at the ministry for weeks. Business men inquiring at government offices were told frankly that Dr. Schacht "no longer has any influence."

Old Traditions Of West Are Given Another Blow

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 17. (AP)—The picturesque old West, swiftly fading under the onslaught of modernism, saw another of its characteristics given what may be a death blow today.

Lean, leathery Sheriff Ed Echols called out his posse.

Instead of saddling their horses, buckling on spurs and strapping six-shooters to their hips, the possemen polished their goggles, warmed up airplane motors and took to the air.

It was just another incident to make old-timers wince—like prospectors traveling in automobiles and cattle rustlers sneaking over the ranges in motor trucks.

Tammany Left Gasping After Gotham Vote

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Tammany's old guard was left gasping tonight under an avalanche of votes that pushed both major parties behind pro-Roosevelt candidates for the November mayoralty election.

TWO FOR JIMMY WALKER

er of the president, was renominated by a wide margin in Yesterday's primary election over Senator Royal S. Copeland, Tammany Democrat who sought the backing of both parties on the strength of his anti-New Deal stand in Washington.

Overwhelmed By Mahoney

In the Democratic primary, Senator Copeland was overwhelmed by the pro-Roosevelt candidate, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who rolled up a plurality of almost two to one.

Copeland accepted defeat and announced he would not run on an independent ticket.

A striking feature of the election was the Democratic write-in vote for Mayor La Guardia, who conducted what virtually amounted to a sit-down campaign while the two other candidates were slamming away at each other in the bitterest primary seen here in years.

Nearly Two To One

With all but 50 of the 3,797 precincts acounted for, the vote stood:

Mahoney, 412,887
Copeland, 240,886.
La Guardia, 56,099.

The write-in movement, precipitated during the closing hours of the campaign, was credited largely to the American Labor party, a new factor in the New York political scene which has named La Guardia as its candidate in the general election.

Republican Vote Light

In the Republican primary the vote was, with 46 districts missing:

LaGuardia, 79,862.
Copeland, 46,560.

Mayor La Guardia, harassed by a threatened subway strike, dropped his air of seeming indifference

Storms Shows Little Movement In Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. (AP)—The tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico, centered about 200 or 250 miles south of the central Louisiana coast, was reported tonight to have shown little definite movement since mid-afternoon.

Craft throughout the area, including more than 300 vessels of coastal fishing fleets, has been warned to seek shelter by coast guard cutters and planes.

The Bar Pilots' station at Port Eads reported tonight intermittent rain squalls with shifting winds blowing at approximately ten miles an hour. The barometer there also was reported falling slowly.

The Grand Isle coast guard station reported light rains in that vicinity with a three mile per hour wind.

The coast guard air base at Biloxi, Miss., sent out three airplanes to drop warnings to the fishermen, many of whom had returned to Biloxi late today while some sought other ports. The shrimping season is now at its height and boats are scattered all along the coast.

Increasing winds were forecast tonight for the coast of Mississippi, Alabama and Florida with occasional squalls in Texas and Louisiana.

GOP Chairman Enters Dispute Over Black

Hamilton Says 'Inconceivable' That FDR Would Knowingly Appoint Klansman

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican national committee said tonight it was "inconceivable" that President Roosevelt "would knowingly have appointed a Klansman to the Supreme court."

Entering the controversy over the alleged Ku Klux Klan connections of Associate Justice Hugo M. Black, he said in a formal statement that "All must hope that Mr. Roosevelt will be successful in finding a solution of this difficult problem compatible at once with the dignity of the supreme court and of his own high office."

Matter Of Regret

"It is a matter of regret to Republicans no less than Democrats that the president should have remained in ignorance of the evidence regarding the affiliations of Mr. Justice Black," he said.

Meanwhile, the justice department revealed that the government has already paid Black twelve days salary, $666.66, as a member of the court, although he has yet to sit upon that tribunal.

The American Liberty league, virtually dormant since the election of last November, returned to the political wars with a statement contending that President Roosevelt must have known of Black's alleged Ku Klux Klan, connections when he appointed him.

Bankhead Issues Statement

At the same time, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) issued a statement in Jasper, Ala., denying he assured his senate colleagues, prior to the vote on conformation, that Black was not a member of the Klan.

A fourth development was the receipt of a letter at the Supreme court from Patrick Henry Kelly, a Boston attorney, asking that a committee of lawyers be appointed to determine Black's eligibility, quite aside from the Klan dispute.

From Senator Connally (D-Tex.) came a statement that the furore about Black is largely politics. He said an attempt is being made to embarrass President Roosevelt and added: "I am wholly out of sympathy with such effort."

Black's pay check for August was mailed as a matter of routine, it was said. Each of the nine justices receives his $20,000 annual salary in monthly installments of $1,666.66. In many cases the check is sent to a justice's bank for deposit and the justice never sees it.

Annual Banquet Of Bar Tonight

From as far north as Oklahoma and as far south as the Texas and Pacific railroad attorneys are expected to arrive today for the annual banquet of Lubbock County Bar association at the Lubbock hotel at 7:30 o'clock tonight, said J. I. Kilpatrick, chairman of the banquet committee.

A number of them are expected by noon so that they may attend the Texas Technological college-Arizona State Teachers football game this afternoon.

While no definite indication has been given as to the probable number in attendance, he added, preparations will be made to entertain approximately 200 persons at the banquet, including attorneys from practically every community in the Plains region.

All Expected To Attend

Kilpatrick explained also that no personal invitations have been sent to Lubbock attorneys, they are expected to attend and to bring their wives. Some of the local lawyers, he said, have asked why they have not received invitations.

No last minute changes have been

Participation Of Counties In Relief Of Future Advocated

AUSTIN, Sept. 17. (AP)—Participation by the counties in costs of future relief programs was advocated today by Adam Johnson, director of the state relief organization, in testimony before the senate efficiency and economy committee today.

Johnson expressed the opinion cost of relief work for which the state voted $20,000,000 in bonds several years ago was greater than it should have been because the counties did not share in the expense.

"In the future, perhaps 25 per cent of the cost should be borne by the counties," he said. "The case load grew because counties were interested in getting the money and in placing persons on the rolls."

As Coach Chapman would say, where are the blockers in this picture? It's a scene snapped last night at Tech Stadium when the Lubbock High Westerners battered Cisco's Loboes, 40 to 0. SHANGHAI FACES NEW PERILS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18. (Saturday) (AP) Two Japanese superdreadnaughts appeared off the mouth of the Yangtze river near Shanghai today, Chinese officers said, while Japan's sea and land forces prepared for wider offensive action.

Japanese said fresh army units had been landed near the Yangtze's mouth, but would not say where. Neutral military observers believed the Japanese were trying to place an expedition in Pootung, the area just across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai. Such an extension of land operations would bring new perils to Shanghai's 3,500,000 inhabitants.

The Japanese drive, launched with the crossing of the Yunging river 30 miles south of Peiping Tuesday, gained added momentum and advanced 12 miles in the last 24 hours. Beyond the Yungting the river Chuma was crossed by pontoons by moonlight last night to bring the Japanese within sight of Chochow's walls.

Part of the force continued down the railway toward the main Chinese base in this area, Paotingfu, 80 miles from Peiping.

Wide Breach Is Battered In Government Lines In Spain

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 17. (AP)—Spanish insurgent troops and artillery battered a wide breach today in government lines south of Gijon, last government stronghold on the northeastern Spanish coast.

The insurgents reached a point 45 miles from the city. Insurgent General Miguel Aranda announced his troops were approaching Mount Pajares, the 4,200 foot peak called the "southern key to Asturias."

Shells burst over government positions on the mountain. Insurgent commanders declared its fall was imminent.

Traveling Salesman Drowned When Thrown From Motorboat

WACO, Sept. 17. (AP) — James E. Bauer, 53, traveling salesman, was drowned tonight in Lake Waco when he was thrown from a boat making a turn. Bauer and John R. Milam, Wacoan, were testing the boat for speed. Milam swam to shore.

Firemen and police volunteers were dragging the lake for Bauer's body.

PARIS, Sept. 17. (AP)—A secret military society, the "Hooded Ones", was investigated today on the possibility it plotted to overthrow the government.

Legion Cut-Ups In Arms Over Police Ruling

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—Fun-makers in the ranks of American Legionnaires, pouring into New York for the opening of the national convention on Monday, were up in arms today over Police Commissioner Lewis E. Valentine's edict calling on them to lay down arms.

The police commissioner, with an apprehensive ear out for anti-noise ordinances, drew fire from the one-time warriors by ordering the confiscation of all small cannon.

"No cannons!" exploded Ralph Brosman, of post 14, St. Petersburg, Fla. "What do they expect us to do—bring our knitting needles?

High officers of the legion, however, were almost unanimous in favor of the order.

Tech Enrollment Nearing 3,100

Registration figures at Texas Technological college, after tabulations late Friday night, approached the 3,100-mark, announced Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president.

Specifically, the figure had climbed to 3,084, Dr. Knapp said, with 1,902 boys and 1,182 girls. That is about the usual proportion, it was pointed out.

With Friday afternoon closing the fourth day of registration, the figure showed an 18 per cent increase over the figure of 2,605 registered in the first four days of the 1936 fall semester, officials said. After the first four days of registration last year, 90 students were enrolled. With a similar registration this year, the figure is expected to surpass the 3,100-mark today.

Dr. Knapp explained that all of the 3,084 persons who had begun enrollment at the college, the entire number had not paid all fees as yet. However, that number late Friday had secured registration cards and had prepared schedules.

Failure Of Japanese Liner To Arrive On Time Creates Stir

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17. (AP)—Failure of the Kobe-Shanghai express liner Nagasaki Maru to arrive here today stirred apprehension in Japanese naval and commercial circles.

Although there was no evidence the liner had been attacked by Chinese airmen, it was recalled that they had threatened reprisals against Japanese shipping.

The Nagasaki Maru reportedly carried numerous foreigners, including some Americans.

COMMISSION POSSIBILITY

AUSTIN, Sept. 17. (AP)—A state commission to promulgate safety rules for construction of public buildings appeared a possibility today. Rep. R. M. Leath of Henderson, chairman, said a joint legislative committee likely would make such a recommendation at the special session beginning Sept. 27.

Boy Is Charged With 3 Deaths

(By The Associated Press)

BRADY, Sept. 17.—Stanley Anderson, 18, was charged with murder today after an automobile accident that claimed the lives of three persons and injured three more.

The specific complaint against young Anderson, son of a Whiteland community farmer, charged "murder by killing persons while driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

Dead in the accident are Mrs. Dolores Garza of San Antonio; her son, Bernard, 10, and Dolores Garza, a daughter.

Injured are: Marcia Garza, 17; Manuel Garza, 45, father, and Anacleto Escalera, nephew of Garza. Two boys and two girls also in the Garza party escaped injury.

The group, en route to West Texas cotton fields, had stopped to repair a deflated tire when they were struck by another automobile.

Levelland Dedicates Its New Stadium

(Special To The Avalanche)

LEVELLAND, Sept. 17.—Approximately 1,000 persons attended the formal dedication here tonight of Levelland's new $14,000 stadium.

Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court was the principal speaker on a program broadcast over a public address system and under direction of Tom V. Watson, secretary-manager of the Hockley County Chamber of Commerce.

B. F. Minor, Hockley county superintendent of schools, paid tribute to those persons instrumental in obtaining the project and introduced a number of prominent visitors.

Capacity of the stadium, constructed of lumber on the west side of the playing field, is 1,250 persons. It is situated south of the school building and is adjacent to the "bowl-shaped" field. It is a part of a civic center which includes the city park, high school, and fair grounds.

The Hockley county project, a Works Progress administration structure, is project number 1,505.

United States Sticks To Partial Embargo Despite China Protest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (AP) — The United States stuck tonight to its partial embargo on war implements for China and Japan despite a fervent protest from China.

Showing unmistakable signs of an emotional upset, Chinese Ambassador C. T. Wang, called on Secretary of State Hull to declare that the embargo was a blow to his country.

The Chinese view is that the United States action is damaging to China and indirectly beneficial to Japan, because the latter country is in a better position to make its own weapons.

Replying to the ambassador, Hull merely declared that the president's action in clamping on the export restrictions was a government order which spoke for itself.

President Renews Fight For Court 'Rejuvenation'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — President Roosevelt renewed his fight for a "rejuvenated" Supreme court tonight with a warning that unless social reform is assured the nation is threatened by dictatorship.

Commemorating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, he urged that America pledge its "fealty to the constitution itself and not to its misinterpreters."

A responsive but shivering audience of thousands, gathered in the open air beneath the Washington monument, heard the chief executive return to the battle in which he suffered his most severe defeat little more than a month ago.

The scars that remained from that battle were not forgotten by his listeners and there was speculation whether the Democrats who opposed him would be subject to reprisals. Scarcely forty minutes before he spoke the White House disclosed that next week the president will leave on a western trip that will take him across the states of several senators who led the opposition to his court bill.

Those who listened tonight for a reference to the current agitation over the alleged Ku Klux Klan affiliation of Mr. Roosevelt's only nominee to the Supreme court were disappointed. But the address was studded with assurances that the reform the president seeks can be achieved without loss of individual liberty.

Acres of people stretched before the president as he spoke from a tiny rostrum in the pit of a natural amphitheater known as the Sylvan theater. The moon shone down brightly while a chill autumn breeze swept across the throng.

Crowd 50,000 To 75,000

Like many others here, Mr. Roosevelt wore a light top coat. Members of the cabinet and friends clustered behind him. Estimates of the crowd varied from 50,000 to 75,000.

"Only by raising the living standard of the masses," Mr. Roosevelt said, "can we ensure against internal doubt as to the worthiness of our democracy and dissipate the illusion that the necessary price of efficiency is dictatorship with its attendant spirit of aggression." He added:

"That is why I have been saying for months that there is a crisis in American affairs which demands action now—a crisis particularly dangerous because its external and internal difficulties reinforce each other.

Paints Broad Picture

"Purposely, I paint a broad picture. For only if the problem is seen in perspective can we see its solution in perspective.

"I am not a pessimist. I believe that Democratic government in this country can do all the things which common sense people, seeing the picture as a whole, have the right to expect. I believe that these things can be done under the Constitution, without the surrender of a single one of the civil and religious liberties it was intended to safeguard."

But, he continued, while the framers of the Constitution produced a "layman's document" for 150 years "we have had an unending struggle between those who would preserve this original broad concept of the Constitution as a layman's instrument of government and those who would shrivel the Constitution into a lawyer's contract."

Each Effort Tagged Thusly

Throughout the history of the country each effort at social reform had been called unconstitutional by its enemies, he said. The protective tariff, the Louisiana purchase, the Missouri compromise, methods of financing the Civil war, and regulation of railroad rates, he cited as instances.

Striking at the lawyers committee of the American Liberty League, he said:

"Less than two years ago 58 of the highest priced lawyers in the land gave the nation (without cost to the nation) a solemn and formal opinion that the Wagner Labor relations act was unconstitutional. And in a few months, first a national election and later the Supreme court overruled them.

He Overruled Himself

"For twenty years, the odd man on the Supreme court refused to admit that state minimum wage laws for women were constitutional. A few months ago, after my message to congress on the rejuvenation of the judiciary, the odd man admitted that the court had been wrong—for all those 20 years — and overruled himself."

He said the rank and file could take comfort in the fact that every effort to make a "lawyer's contract" of the Constitution had "ultimately" failed. And, quickly, he added:

"But that word ultimately covers a terrible cost."

The cost he said had been a civil war, twenty years of taxing those least able to support the government, twenty years of exploiting women's labor.

Cost 20 Years Already

"It has cost twenty years already —and no one knows how many more are to come—to obtain a constitutional interpretation that will let the nation regulate the shipment in interstate commerce of goods sweated from the labor of little children," he continued.

"We know it takes time to adjust government to the needs of society. But modern history proves that reforms too long delayed or denied have jeopardized peace, undermined dmocracy and swept away civil and religious liberties.

"Yes, time more than ever before is vital in statesmanship and in

Arguments Over Court Revived By Speeches

(By The Associated Press)

Constitution day observance revived again the arguments which swirled for months about President Roosevelt's Supreme court proposal.

Opponents hailed the defeat of the plan to put new justices on the high tribunal; supporters argued the court had forgotten the precepts of the founding fathers.

Ickes Attacks Court

One of the sharpest attacks on the court came from Secretary Ickes who told a Pittsburgh audience it had become a "super-government."

Praising what he called the attempt of the president to "make the judicial branch of our government cooperate as the Constitution intended that it should cooperate," Ickes said:

"Nowhere in the Constitution do I find that . . . there was any purpose to lodge in a small group of men selected for life, and therefore beyond the reach of the people, the power to function as a super-legislature. And yet during the course of the years this is precisely what has happened."

"Saved Soul Of Republic"

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said the defeat of the Supreme court proposal "not only saved this constitutional anniversary from becoming a hollow mockery but also it saved the soul of the republic." He spoke at Detroit.

Secretary Wallace, speaking in Washington, said trouble always had followed any narrow approach to national problems which departed from the broad spirit of the founding fathers and added:

"When a Supreme court, not responsible to the people, invalidates an act of congress on the grounds of policy, there can easily be serious trouble unless the court is animated by the most sincere desire continually to reformulate in line with

FDR To Make Jaunt Through Northwest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (AP) — President Roosevelt announced tonight that he would leave Hyde Park the middle of next week for a trip to the West coast.

The White House announced that the president would leave Washington tomorrow night for Hyde Park and start the transcontinental trip Wednesday night, returning to the capital probably early in October.

No formal speeches have been arranged for the trip but the president will stop at Yellowstone park and inspect a number of the larger government projects, including the Bonneville, Fort Peck and Grand Coulee dams.

Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany the president on the trip and they will visit their daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, in Seattle.

Eighty Representatives Register At P-TA School Of Instruction Friday

The Women's Angle
by Thyrsa Tarvin

EACH week-end until after Thanksgiving a steady stream of cars will pour down the national highways from north, east, south and west, bearing cheerful fans heading for stadia where amidst a fanfare of flags, drinks, cigarettes, music, lights and yells there will be staged conflicts between high school or college teams that will supplant front page news, the h. c. of l. and wars in the East.

The football season really begins in late summer, when the preliminary round-up is begun at our institutions of learning from San Diego to Portland, Maine or Seattle, Wash., to Tampa, Fla. The sheep are weeded from the goats and the slender men who have nothing to recommend them are segregated from the gridiron heroes and sent back to the class room. In after life they may split the atom, invent a new airplane, or compose a deathless symphony, but they will never appear on the news reels of America or in the sports columns of the daily newspapers.

WE don't know how many are in our legion but beyond a few fundamentals our knowledge of football is limited to a pitiful degree. Why certain players do this and others do that is more than our finite mind can grasp. In a torpid daze we sit through the games, either in the flesh or at the movies where are wedged between the news reel, Mickey Mouse and the feature picture scenes of games in slow motion, in close-up or in rain and snow.

Names and faces printed over and over in the papers and on the screen become as familiar to us as those of our friends. At home and at work we hear plays repeated and discussed until our confusion mounts and we are as far behind as we were at the beginning of the game. We talk, eat and breathe football for three months and while, we can't explain the plays, we like the game, we like the coaches and, for our part, have waited impatiently for this week-end, which formally begins another season of the second favorite American game. Vive la custom!

THE EYES HAVE IT

EVEN at 18, beauty isn't accidental, according to Alice Emerick of Fort Worth, who won second place Sunday in the famous Atlantic City beauty contest. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, has brown hair and a light olive skin. She has a nice figure acquired by riding horseback, swimming and dancing but she has spent a great deal of time on making the most of her face.

A photographer gave Miss Emerick her first clue as to what was wrong with her makeup. He said her lipstick was too bright for her rouge and her rouge was too dark for her powder. What did she do? She began to choose her makeup by the color of her eyes which are greenish-gray. It worked wonders all right. According to the judges she was an eyeful.

Pete Cawthon Speaker Friday At American Business Club

"Football dope," was dished out to American Business club members Friday noon by P. W. (Pete) Cawthon, head coach of the Texas Red Raiders in his annual "classification" talk before that club. He spoke at the luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

President M. M. Ewing named Bert Pinson as club representative at a meeting Saturday noon in an inter-club meeting to dicuss boys work in Lubbock.

Cawthon praised the club for its backing of the school, saying "I like to come here because you have contributed to the department that I represent." He said the club's road signs giving the home football schedules were being copied by other schools.

"Football does arouse an enthusiasm, in spite of the fact that there are a few things that we don't like," he said, adding that few sports were as popular, both with the public and the participants. "It's almost impossible for a boy whose papa has money to play football," he said.

Cawthon discussed the team's opponents for most of the season, particularly the home games.

Tech Opens Grid Season At 2:30 Today; Westerners Turn Back Cisco, 40-0

Arizona Eleven To Kick-Off With Raiders

They're off!

And it's more than a warm-up race, ladies and gents. In fact, it may turn out to be a real hoss race down the stretch.

The collegiate football season opens in Lubbock and on the South Plains this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, central standard time, at the Tech Stadium. The 1937 Border conference race swings into action at the same time, because Texas Tech is playing Arizona State of Flagstaff at that hour.

Coach Garrett Arbelbide, student of the Howard Jones system in force at Southern California, and his Lumberjacks from the other side of Arizona reached Lubbock late last night.

Reports from the Lumberjack camp indicate deep melancholy. Coach Arbelbide has expressed a wholesome fear of the Red Raiders, probably for the benefit of his team and its followers. Texas Tech mentors, on the other hand, doubt seriously if this fear is justified. Pessimism rules at the Tech roost, too, although Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith, for a change, do not concede defeat.

Variety From The First

But it'll be a ball game, with a lot of the trimmings. If the Red Raider regulars get along fairly well, you may look for a lot of experimenting on the part of Tech coaches, who have had little chance to experiment with the present setup. This being the case, you may not look for an awful lot of scoring, unless the Flagstaff team does it, because Tech no doubt will be quite content to win the game, if it can.

You'll see a variety of plays, considerable razzle-dazzle on the part of the red-clad gridders. They'll pass the ball, carry and kick the ball, run wide and close, in tricky formations and from various positions. Passing the ball will be big Allen "Applehead" Plummer and Ed Smith, halfback and quarterback respectively for the "first" team, and running with it will be Elmer Tarbox and Charley Calhoun, with Calhoun doing the bulk of the kicking. Smith and Plummer will do their share of ball toting, too— in fact, you just can't tell who's going to do what until the ball is snapped.

The line Coach Smith has picked out to run with Smith, Plummer, Calhoun and Tarbox consists of Captain Red Ramsey and Sophomore Truman Bostick at ends, Sophomore Bill Davis and Abe Murphy at tackles, Line Captain Lou Jones and frisky Pete Owens at guards, and Frank Guzick at center.

A glance at the display to the right will show the reserves, any or all of whom may break into the game and show stuff that will put them in the upper ranks before the game is over.

Jacks List 13 Lettermen

The Flagstaff lineup and reserves also are shown, and if you can't pronounce the names just remember the numbers. Reports have it that you'll probably be seeing a lot of a couple of backs, Dutch Salzbrenner and Al Dushek, known around Flagstaff as the "touchdown twins," from Chicago. Then there's Chief Chapman, a burly Indian named on the starting lineup who is supposed to be quite a wow. He's a letterman, one of thirteen returning for 1937 service. The others are Joe Tissaw, Milt Berg, Jake Jacobsmeyer, Al Schans and Royce Matthews, all of Flagstaff; Karl Neilsen of Salina, Utah; Tony Ljubicich and John Pavlich, Miami; Ephrain Moreno from Morenci, and Ned Rogers from Jerome.

If you have purchased a book of tickets, for the season, you get in tonight's game at a bargain price, otherwise the cost is $1.65, including tax.

Smith Stars As Silverton Tramples Roaring Springs

SILVERTON, Sept. 17. (Special)—V. Smith was the big gun here this afternoon as Silverton ran roughshod over Roaring Springs to win, 39 to 0. Smith scored four touchdowns on runs ranging from 26 to 40 yards.

J. B. Smith made the longest run of the game to score Silverton's second marker in the initial period when he raced around left end and down the field for 65 yards. Shaffer took the ball over for the final counter in the fourth quarter.

Silverton gained a total of 521 yards from scrimmage. The locals had 20 first downs, Roaring Springs 4.

SEARCH FOR YACHT

BOSTON, Sept. 17. (AP)—Anxious eyes on the bridges of a dozen vessels tonight scanned the rolling North Atlantic in a constantly widening search for the big British racing sloop Endeavor I which was parted from its convoy in a gale last Monday night.

Four coast guard cutters, with their prows pointed northward toward Nova Scotia searched hundreds of square miles of lonely ocean far off the New England coast.

Hubbers Drill For Sunday Game With Forsan Outfit

The Hubbers were rolicking over the ball yard yesterday, recalled by Manager Jack Thompson after the sudden scheduling of a "post season" game for tomorrow afternoon with the bowed but unbloody Conoco Oilers of Forsan.

After handing the Oil Belt team a 7 to 3 licking two weeks ago, the Hubbers thought they were through with the Forsans for the season, but the Forsans had other ideas. They want to "get even" and they are coming over tomorrow for that purpose.

Lefty Beard, who pitched four innings of shutout ball against the Hubbers, probably will start—and finish—for the Forsan crew Sunday. Against two others pitchers, right-handers, the Hubbers had a nice time at bat, and scored seven runs. But after the fourth inning they could do nothing against Beard.

Lubbock's sophomore southpaw, Jerry Blanchard, will be toiling again for the Hubbers, who should be at full strength. Alex Blair, hard-hitting, nifty-fielding catcher who performed like a star for the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs this season, has been invited to join the Hubbers in the capacity of catcher tomorrow. His presence lends much to the offensive and defensive strength of any club.

The game starts at 3 o'clock, and the rules haven't been changed since the last game.

Spur Wins Second Game Of Season, Trounce Rotan

SPUR, Sept. 17. (Special)—The Spur High school Bulldogs made it two straight for the current football season by swamping Rotan here Friday night, 50 to 0.

J. B. Haralson brought the stands to their feet in the fourth quarter with a 65-yard sprint for a touchdown. E. Garner was outstanding in the Bulldog offense, scoring four touchdowns. Haralson scored twice and converted 2 times from placement, R. Bingham and Hahn counted once each.

Rotan's machine was completely stopped by the tight Spur defense. They gained but 36 yards from scrimmage, but added 39 on four completed passes. Spur piled up 386 yards on running plays.

A. Smith, half, and Moody, wingman, were standouts for Rotan. Capt. Wilhoit and Bumpus, Bulldog pivot man, were bulwarks in their team's defense.

Sam Snead Takes 2 Stroke Lead For Western Open

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17. (AP)—"Slammin' Sam" Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., ignored a cold heavy wind today to blast out a par-shattering 68 to gain a two stroke edge over the field at the end of the first round of the 37th annual Western Open golf championship.

Snead played the route over the Canterbury course like a golfing machine. He lost no strokes to old man par on any hole, and clipped a stroke off on four of them.

On the heels of the long driving and sure putting mountaineer were Dick Metz of Chicago, making his first big league start since being seriously injured last spring in an auto accident, and Jimmy Thomson, the siege gun from Shawnee-on-Delaware, who fashioned subpar 70's in spite of the adverse weather conditions.

Some of the stones in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington weigh more than 23 tons each.

Rugged Line Play Provides Webster And Paxton With Plenty Of Room To Run

By COLLIER FARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

Well, Weldon Chapman never did say that he wouldn't have a frisky, fighting, hustling ball club this season. All he said was that he didn't have a BIG team, nor such a hot bunch of second stringers.

But the Westerners looked pretty big to the Cisco Loboes last night, the second as well as the first stringers, and they looked kinda large to about 3,000 Lubbock partisans who saw them kick off the football lid at Tech Stadium. And they ran up a rather big score, too —40 points to nary a one.

Cisco, beginning the season under a brand new coach, looked big enough to give the 156 1-2 pound Westerners plenty of trouble just before the kick-off. But the Big Dam Loboes started shrinking right away, especially after Walter Jumbo Webster, weight 168 1-2, tore off around right end and almost bashed in the shrubbery behind the goal posts before he could slow down after his 45-yard sprint. It was the third play after the kick-off.

Linemen Go To Town

Shortly thereafter, little Coulson Paxton weight 132, trickled through the Cisco line, lightly sidestepped a couple of line backers and dashed 55 yards to pay dirt. The score was 14 to 0—Captain Babe Ritchie and Bill Sessums had converted after the touches—and the game wasn't 5 minutes old.

For a spell then the Westerners settled down to play defensive football, and they did a heap of that. During the game, Cisco gained a total of 37 yards, running and passing. The Loboes were thrown for losses totaling 50 yards. A primary mathematician can figure out Cisco's net yardage for the evening. The Westerners, in case someone should ask you, played a fine game of "line" football last night. The backs had only to run when called upon, because the openings were there for them. On defense, the Lubbock forward wall, against Cisco's rushes, was like that immovable object you hear about. In this department the linemen, led by Herb Leaverton at center and closely followed by Sanders at guard, Ritchie and Ford at tackles, had the help of capable line backers, Paxton and Webster shining on defense as on offense.

Loboes Keep Scrapping

Cisco, downtrodden from the first, was whipped down by a superior team that left little opportunity for what stars Cisco might possess to get going. Fans saw a lot of struggling by Quarterback Steyer and Halfback Yarbrough, mainstays in the Lobo backfield. They saw Stewart, Cisco center, play a whale of a game; Burnsides, a guard, and Pollard, a tackle, the latter giving Lubbock a safety, did their darnedest for the Loboes, but they were bucking a club that wouldn't go down.

For Cisco, let it be said that the Loboes never gave up the fight. They were going hard at the finish, 40 points behind. Quoting Coach Chapman, who used to watch his own Cisco Loboes turn in heavy-sided scores against Oil Belt opposition "Cisco has a very commendable team, considering that it, too, is lacking in weight and experience, but considering mostly that its coach is new. Petty was not there for spring training, and has had little opportunity to whip the boys into shape."

But to get on with the game.

Paxton, just to show his first run was no fluke, stayed in the ball game, and after Webster had made two runs for 20 yards, Coulson "snuck off" tackle again and was away, 41 yards for the third touch.

Paxton Off Again

Coach Chapman sent in his reserve crew, eleven new faces, then, and it was a defensive battle, with the second stringers holding the Ciscos close and with little Melvin Cooksey tearing off nice gains, dividing ball carrying time with Dutchy Cawthon, who quarterbacked the outfit and did some nice work. The score rested at 20-0 at halftime.

The regulars started the second half, and Paxton still thought he was in a district track meet. This time he ran 63 yards over the goal line, but Headlinesman Ed McKeever had caught a Westerner offside, and the play was called back. Webster punted then, just for the fun of it, and it was killed on the Cisco 7, a 56-yard boot. Steyer, trying to carry the ball, fumbled near the goal line. It rolled back of the line, and Pollard, Cisco tackle, covered it for a safety.

In the same period, the Westerners drove 50 yards for a touchdown, Webster plunghing for the points. Later they drove 36 yards, Webster scoring from the 8.

Just to show he was still fresh as a colt, Webster sprinted 51 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth period, after which the second team went in and played ball with Cisco. When the gong sounded, the second stringers, led by Cawthon and Cooksey, had driven 30 yards without a break, and were nearing the Cisco goal line.

That Tax Burden You Carry

WORKING on the theory that what you don't see won't hurt you, the succession of federal administrations have succeeded, since the war, in building up one of the most amazing systems of invisible taxes possible to conceive of.

The result is that federal tax collectors—forgetting all about those in school districts, cities and counties—manage to gouge the daylights out of "the little fellow" without ever drawing a word of protest.

Indeed, "the little fellow" seems to like it. One of his favorite diversions is to compare his lot with that of his opposite number in Great Britain, where federal taxes are as visible as glaring billboards around a beauty spot. He looks over the figures and discovers that the Briton has to start paying an income tax as soon as his earnings amount to $750 a year—which takes in practically everybody. The American doesn't start until his income reaches $1000; if he is married, he can earn as much as $2500 before he has to lay anything on the line.

So, looking at the figures, the American pities the poor Briton as one who is taxed within an inch of his life, and thanks his God that in this country it is the rich man who pays the taxes.

Which is precisely where the American fools himself.

JOHN T. Flynn, the widely known economist, points out that an ordinary American with an income of $4,000 per year will pay approximately $28 in income taxes after he has made the proper deductions. An American with an income of half that size may pay no income at all—but if he buys, for instance, one package of cigarets a day he pays a tax of $21.90 a year to Washington and if he lives in Texas he pays an additional $10.95 to the state!

The $28 income tax may cause the citizen to kick like a steer. The almost equally heavy tax he pays for the privilege of smoking cigarets causes no kick at all, because he doesn't realize that he is paying it. It is invisible, and therefore painless.

If these hidden cigaret taxes were the only ones, it wouldn't be so bad. But they are just a small part of the picture. For the plain fact is that 70 per cent of the federal taxes collected in this country are of the invisible variety. There are gasoline taxes, cosmetics taxes, taxes of innumerable kinds on retail sales, double hidden taxes deriving from the tariff—until, according to the best figures available to The Morning Avalanche, a wage earner who makes $1,000 per year has to pay $123 in taxes now and heaven alone knows how much he will be paying if the present spending policies of President Roosevelt and his wild-eyed young smarts continue.

TRY to collect that $123 from the wage earner as a direct tax and he will howl to high heaven. Collect it indirectly and he never sees it—and, consequently, never utters a peep.

We need a day-by-day educational program about these taxes of ours. The ordinary citizen is paying for today's spending program, and paying right through the nose. If he once realized the fact, he would begin to apply pressure that would cut the spending program down to a reasonable size.

With Our Contemporaries

"It seems to us that a man ought to have a right to stand out in the rain if he wants to," says Jimmie Rankin in the Ralls Banner. "Sure, but he oughtn't to ask for the marines to be turned out to rescue him if he gets wet."

"Rust spots are beginning to show on the bright tin shield of love when the young husband reads his morning paper with sufficient intensity as to allow his coffee to become lukewarm," Douglas Meador opines in the Matador Tribune.

"If the chamber of commerce wants to do a good job that will not be forgotten by most Sudanites, let the organization name a secret committee to investigate every peddler who comes to town," Forrest Weimhold suggests in the Sudan News.

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.—St. Matthew, V, 43 through 45.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

BUDDHA WALK

Siddhartha Gautama, afterward called Budha, or "The Enlightened," was the son of the Sakya clan ruler who lived in Southern Nepal. He enjoyed every luxury, he was protected from all harm and evil, sorrow and pain, and it was not until he reached the age of 29 that he became aware of mankind's troubles. Then it was that he decided upon his great renunciation.

He spent years wandering about trying to attain his soul's salvation. He fasted, prayed, mortified the flesh in every way, went through struggle and temptation, until at last at Bodh Gaya he received the enlightenment, sitting six whole years under the Bho tree. Today the Bho tree is the holiest of all earthly objects to millions of Buddha's followers, and by its side they have built the Great Temple of Maha Bodhi, in front of which runs "Buddha's Promenade." Here the Blessed One spent seven whole days and nights walking up and down in deep meditation after having obtained enlightenment and the bliss of Nirvana, and his footprints turned to stone.

Murder On The Bluff... By Esther Tyler

SYNOPSIS: The mysterious shooting to death of Jude Blinshop, my old flame, opens our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. After a series of strange attacks, we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder and then nearly drugged to death with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears. Cook gets "doped to the gills," and we find proof that William the chauffeur is an exconvict. Mike and Gay Palmer, his fiancee, are with Aunt Martha when I go searching alone and fall noisily in the Skipper's room.

Chapter 39

The Letters Vanish

In the darkness I struggled to my knees, listening to rapid feet coming through the bathroom from M. Farrington's room. I was discovered, but I didn't care. Rocking back and forth on my knees, I waited for the light to come through that door and disclose the body of Cook. I almost thought that I could see it in front of me without the light.

The door came open with a bang. Michael stood on the threshold, a heavy silver box raised in his hand as a weapon. At the sight of me, his mouth dropped open. Slowly, fascinated, I swung my eyes down in the path of light streaming through the bathroom door. They encountered an ordinary rag rug, one end of which had been kicked up in the air—in all probability by my own foot. The other end was held firmly to the floor by a leg of the Skipper's bed. Of bodies— or traces of them—there was not a sign.

"What are you doing now?" said Michael blankly.

"I was becoming aware of a banged elbow and a barked shin, and I was also conscious of the picture I cut there on my hands and knees.

"Playing potsy!" I said. "Any suggestions?"

He stepped over to a stand and switched on a light.

"Are you hurt?" he inquired without too much interest.

I got clumsily to my feet. "I'll barely live."

Michael surveyed me thoughtfully. "Suppose we go into the other room?" he said.

I went. The indignity of my position momentarily seemed more important to me than the mysterious disappearance of Cook. M. Farrington was sitting in a chair, clad in one of her ternal lavender wrappers, sharp eyes on my face. Gay sprawled on the bed, cocked up on one elbow, her attitude thoroughly alert.

I addressed myself to Gay, the least disconcerting of my audience. "Where's Annie?" I said.

But M. Farrington was not to be ignored. "Annie," she declaimed, "is still looking for the glasses which are over there on the dressing table. Would you mind telling us what you were doing?"

"Someone got to William's room before I did," I said, not pausing to ask whether or not they had told her the whole story. But M. Farrington had been missing no tricks.

"How do you know? Were the letters gone?"

The letters! "No". I said quickly, "Mike has them, haven't you, Mike?"

Michael's hands flew to his pockets and on through his vest and trouser pockets.

"Gay has them," he said.

Three pairs of eyes swung to Gay's face. It was blank.

"But I haven't. You have them yourself, Mike. You took them from Jimmie."

There was silence.

"Michael," said M. Farrington crisply, "search the hall. You may have dropped them in your excitement."

It was a forlorn hope, but it was the only one. Mike went on the gallop. M. Farrington took command of the situation.

A Little Eavesdropping

"Now, James, you have not explained what you were doing in Barbara's room. Don't look so vague."

I tried to do as I was told. As calmly as I could, I told her what I had discovered. Gay gasped once and, when I came to the episode of the rug, giggled nervously. But M. Farrington's gimlet eyes never left my face.

"Why didn't you go down to the kitchen?" she snapped before I had drawn a breath on my last period.

"I couldn't hear her. You can always hear Cook, and—"

"Humph!" said M. Farrington cryptically just as Mike came through the door.

His face told the story long before his tongue could.

"Didn't find a thing."

"I guess it's time we looked at that kitchen," I said.

M. Farrington's smile was sardonic. "Are you quite sure, James?" I was.

The smaller corridor was still in semi-darkness. I listened outside of Higgins' door for the faint sound of his breathing. Cook's door was still closed, but I was taking no chances. I pushed it open and satisfied myself that she had not returned to her room. Then, feeling my way carefully, I started down the back stairs.

The mumble of voices was lower and more indistinct. I could no longer distinguish one from the other, let alone any of the words. Slowly I crept down until the turn of the landing brought me within full view of the kitchen, where I halted, open-mouthed.

William stood at the end of the kitchen table, leaning over talking excitedly to Annie, who was sitting beside him. Beyond them in a capacious rocking chair, her eyes glittering and her large hands clenched tightly in her lap, sat Cook. She was not talking, but she was listening spellbound to the other two.

"Is it proof enough?" I was obliged to exert every ounce of balance I could command to avoid falling over the banisters in my eagerness to hear Annie's whisper. "If we was to fall through with this, he could make it awful hot for us. There ain't many jobs, Bill. You'd oughta know that."

William brought his fist down on the table expressively but without sound. "The guys like us is the ones that'll get blamed. It took me three years to learn that. And here's another thing. We got enough evidence on Higgins to send him to the chair tomorrow!"

At this moment I leaned too heavily upon the railing. It wasn't a very loud squeak, but William spun around. I tried to flatten myself against the wall, but I had been discovered.

I stuck my hands into my porkets and ambled down the stairs.

"What I'd like to know, William," I said, "is what you just said. Something about evidence against Higgins, wasn't it?"

With a ridiculous pretense of calm, I seated myself on the table, my back to the massive figure of Cook. "If you'll take my tip, William, you'll get the whole story off your chest. What do you know about Higgins?"

He was gripping the table as if he meant to smash it to pieces.

"What makes you think I know anything?"

"You do." I strove to keep my voice level. "You're full of surprises. What, for example, do you know about Higgins that would send him to the chair?"

I pitied the fellow. His eyes were bloodshot and his face was drawn. "You can't prove I said nothing. You can't prove nothing. I ain't going to talk."

I took a long shot in the dark. "As a matter of fact, William," I said. "I can prove several interesting things about you. And it so happens that my evidence is very fine evidence indeed. And it won't do you any good to dispose of me in order to get hold of it."

Cook, I really believe, would have throttled me at that point, if William's arm had no sent her hurtling back into her chair. He drew a long breath.

"All right," he said faintly. "What are you going to do?"

I shoved a chair at him with my foot. "Sit down," I said, "and tell me about it. It's all bound to come out anyway."

He sat heavily. Annie was beginning to cry.

"I been three years in the pen." His voice was slow and dazed. "I was driving for the Blinshops and a ring was pinched. They pinned it on me. The old man felt sorry for me and got me a job here with Miss Barbara. I ain't done a thing — but it's gonna look bad." He was mumbling as if in his sleep, and his voice was weary, hopeless and sick.

"Did anyone but Miss Barbara know about this—anyone in the house, I mean?"

He shook his head drearily. "Miss Judith knew."

Jude! It was going to look bad! And yet, if the Skipper had known all about his record, he would have had no reason for—I leaned toward him.

"You know better than I do that you're in a tight spot. Your only way out is to find the guilty man."

Cook's roar this time brought me to my feet.

"Damn you!" she bellowed. "Damn you for a lying devil! Leave him alone!"

"Suppose you finish the story, William," I said.

His blazing eyes snapped from Cook's face to mine. For an instant I thought I would be obliged to fight my way out, but only for an instant. William's eyes fell and he

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Roosevelt has swept two cabinet members into virtual retirement in his anxiety to place the naval and military establishments on a war-readiness basis.

His neglect of Messrs. Woodring and Swanson evokes frequent comment in high-up circles. They are hardly more than figureheads at a moment when crises are falling around their official heads like shrapnel. F. D. R. rarely sees them except around the cabinet table, and there were no meetings for many weeks. He deals almost exclusively with Chief of Staff Craig and Chief of Operations Leahy when he moves soldiers or ships to meet an emergency.

Mr. Woodring will probably quit within a few months, with a diplomatic post or the Philippine governor benefaship as a graceful exit. Louis Johnson, now assistant secretary, is expected to be a more potent chief. An early departure is also scheduled for the elderly Secretary of the Navy—rated as "gaga" by most naval officers. Behind the reorganization lies Mr. Roosevelt's determination not to repeat the 1914-1917 mistake, when our obvious weakness on land and sea tempted both belligerents to flout our rights.

SERIOUS: Associate Justice Black has frequently been questioned—and joshed—by colleagues about his alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan in its palmy days. He has never denied it publicly, dismissing the query with a snappy "No comment" even after his nomination to the Supreme court bench.

Once, pressed for a direct answer, he replied by enumerating the number of close friends he had among the Klan's proscribed groups. He also asserted that his public record reveals him as a consistent opponent of laws or regulations designed to abridge religious liberty. Oddly enough, his closest companion during New Deal combats (and also his booster for his present honor) was Brain Truster "Tommie" Corcoran of the Irish blue eyes.

The politicos exhibit surprising toleration toward the charge that the young jurist once joined the hooded band—and never resigned. Most of them will sign up with any powerful or popular order in order to curry votes, and they suspect that Mr. Black may have taken the oath with his fingers crossed and his tongue in his cheek. But the allegation is damaging among numerous influential elements unless proved false. F. D. R.'s friends are deeply concerned at the disclosure, whether right or wrong.

ELEPHANT: The moneyed boys' doubt over the Republican party's future trends—liberal or conservative—has aggravated Chairman John Hamilton's difficulties in digging up funds to liquidate the remaining debt, which stands at $600,000 as against $900,000 last November.

In numerous states and cities, notably New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, the G. O. P has split into squabbling factions seeking control of the party machinery. These feuds generally involve liberals and old-fashioned diehard partisans. The former insist that the G. O. P. must proclaim its acceptance of many Roosevelt doctrines, and thus eliminate them as a source of political strife The oldsters maintain that these reforms represent only a passing fancy, and that the party should stand fast to its ancient faith.

With a few exceptions, the heaviest contributors are partial to the hold-back crowd, and will fill up the pot again if they are eventually victorious. They want no truck with the folk who would "drive the reactionaries out." And they'll hold onto their cash until they learn what kind of elephant they're paying for.

PREPARING: President Roosevelt has privately informed certain Congressional leaders that he will press for the reforms which House and Senate withheld at the last session. F. D. R. appears willing to chance the consequences which another battle may have on him—his administration—the party—the country.

House bosses understand that an extra session of Congress will be called for November 1, and asked to sit until time for the regular meeting early in January. The tentative calendar includes a comprehensive farm bill, a new wages-and-hours measure, possibly some amendments to the neutrality act, radical revision of the W. P. A. setup—and such international matters as may then be hot. Mr. Roosevelt will also make another drive for his government reorganization proposal.

An early cleanup of this program would permit the regular Congress to devote almost all its time to a sweeping tax revision bill, the normal appropriations and extension of expiring statutes. It might also produce an early adjournment, and a speedier outbreak of hostilities between the White House and party enemies on the 1938 political front. Some suspect F. D. R. wants the extra session so that he will have more time—and weapons—for the purge he is supposed to have in mind.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

FORMER President Herbert Hoover and National Republican Chairman John Hamilton may disagree about many things, but there is one question on which they are 100 per cent in accord. Each of them has emphasized to New York friends and consultants that in his opinion a national coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats would be a huge mistake from the G. O. P. viewpoint. Their argument is that the Republican party can best take advantage of the split in the enemy ranks by retaining its complete independence and driving ahead without entangling alliances or commitments.

Indiana is cited as a case in point. The much discussed plan to have the Republicans nominate Frederick Van Nuys as their candidate for Senator next year if his own party denied him renomination is deader than the dodo. National and state G. O. P. leaders refuse to see any point in picking a Democrat who voted for practically every New Deal measure except Supreme court reform when they figure they have a good chance to win with a candidate of their own, such as Congressman Charles A. Halleck.

These politicos dope it that if the Democrats do not renominate Van Nuys the latter's friends will be so furious they will either vote for the Republican candidate, whoever he may be, by way of reprisal, or run Van Nuys on an independent ticket, in which case the Republican should win anyhow.

SHOWDOWN: Even more significant is the backstage tug-of-war which is gradually developing on this issue between the political chiefs of the Republican party and the industrial and financial leaders who pay the freight.

It's an open secret that many wealthy contributors were displeased with the run they got for their money in 1936. They privately feel that the G. O. P. politicians blotched the job terribly. They have just one simple objective—to get rid of Roosevelt and all his works in 1940. They will get behind whoever gives promise of doing that—and they don't give a tinker's cuss whether it is the Republican party or somebody else, as long as the job gets done.

Business men of this type, realistic in their own fields, privately favor a coalition of all forces opposed to the New Deal. They figure that a united front offers the best hope of smothering the "Roosevelt menace." They aren't doing much about it yet because they feel it would be premature, but the situation is shaping towards a definite showdown between Republican "isolationists" and the practical men who put up the chips and are inclined to feel (despite the sad flop of the Liberty League) that they know more about politics than the politicians.

TEMPTING: An important reason for Japan's $800,000,000 excess of imports over exports—as against the normal $200,000,000—has been forward buying of needed materials by way of preparedness.

Cotton is a conspicuous exapmle. During June, July and August Japan imported twice as much cotton as usual. Now her cotton "reserve" has been built up to the point desired, and American farmers will find this export outlet largely shut off.

Soldiers May Get 'New Deal' In Field Clothing After Test

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 17. (AP) — The test of the proposed new infantry division now under way at Fort Sam Houston may produce more than a new "streamlined" division for Uncle Sam's army—it may bring a "new deal" in field clothing for soldiers.

Instead of the time-honored breeches worn with either wrap puttees, leggings or boots some of the troops in the test will be issued ordinary trousers withouts cuffs and canvas leggings for field service. The new combination provides roominess at the knees, a desirable feature.

The theory behind the proposed change is that "John Doughboy" will be a lot more comfortable dressed in trousers. Then, too, he will be able to get on the ground and up quicker if he is given plenty of room for his knees.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 60

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

With excited screams and gestures, Nkima led the Waziri warriors toward the village where he believed Tarzan was still a captive. The little monkey was unaware of Tarzan's escape, for he had fled in panic soon after the apeman had been made a prisoner.

Tarzan's stalwart Waziri presented a splendid picture of fierce, primitive fighting men as they coursed through the jungle; and when they burst into the clearing outside Udalo's village, the women fled in fright into the kraal, and the gates slammed shut.

Inside the palisade, Udalo and his warriors seized weapons and mounted the high platform that commanded the clearing. "Who are you; what do you want?" Udalo demanded. "We are Waziri," Muviro answered; "and we come to meet our chief, Tarzan of the Apes."

The brain of Gupingu, the witch doctor, whirled dizzy. He was convinced that Tarzan, whom he had helped to escape, had treacherously stolen his daughter Naika. Now he would find means of taking revenge on these warriors who were Tarzan's friends!

19—Livestock For Sale

We feel that our duty is to satisfy both buyer and consigner. To do this, we must get cattle in when the market is the hottest.

We expect to have the best sale Friday, we have had. Last Tuesday, due to wet weather, we had only 300 head; but not a hoof was passed out, which shows that our market was good.

An unusual amount of inquiries from out-of-town buyers are coming in concerning our Sale Friday. If you have cattle we can assure you a nice profit on all that you consign for Friday's sale.

We expect best heavy calves to bring from $8 up and good cows $7 up. Bring us your cattle. We can get them sold for as much or more than you expect.

More Exhibits To Be At Fair

With receipt Friday of the information that Maverick county in the Rio Grande valley will display its products at the Panhandle-South Plains fair here Sept. 27 to Oct. 2, all records for number of counties to enter exhibits were shattered, according to fair association officials.

Maverick was the thirteenth county to file applications for exhibition space. Largest number of county exhibits ever shown at previous fairs here was 12, officials said.

One Of Most Distant

Maverick county, it was added, also will have the distinction of being one of the most distant from Lubbock ever to have an exhibit at the fair here. Eagle Pass is the county seat.

The exhibit will be in charge of R. E. Prewitt, widely known former Panhandle and Plains swine breeder who moved to Maverick county about three years ago. Prewitt has been secretary of Panhandle Swine Breeders association for about 25 years retaining that position despite his removal from the area.

The Maverick display, he reported, will be different probably from any other shown, as it will include citrus fruits, dates and other semi-tropical crops.

Special Bus To Schools To Be Run Morning And Afternoon

A special bus, starting Monday morning, will make two trips each school day into outlying sections of Lubbock to accommodate school children, according to announcement Friday by Ray Farmer, manager of Lubbock City Bus company.

The bus will go south on College avenue to Thirty-sixth street, east on Thirty-sixth street one block, then back to Thirty-fourth street and on that street to Avenue H after which the children will be taken to their respective schools, according to the tentative schedule. Trips will be made in the morning and after school. Children going to Lubbock Senior High school, Junior High school, George M. Hunt school, and Central ward will be accommodated.

A special rate of 20 rides for 75 cents was announced. A ticket will furnish rides for two children for a school week, Farmer said.

Wall Street..

STOCKS DRIFT DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—With bids shy and the market exceptionally "thin," stocks drifted downward today for losses of 1 to 4 points.

Rallying rails of yesterday were in the forefront of the slip-up, with coppers, steels and specialties making little effort to resist.

Although the rail wage conference continued at Chicago, and Wall street still held the belief a compromise would be reached in the long run, doubts arose as to the likelihood of an immediate settlement and those who bought transportation stocks Thursday were quick to cash in profits. At the same time last week's freight loadings were off less than seasonally.

Dealings were slow throughout, with transfers totalling 814,050 shares against 892,280 in the preceding session. The Associated Press average of 60 issues dropped 1.3 points at 59.2, or .2 more than it regained the day before.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. (AP)—Lack of a dominating incentive kept cotton prices within a narrow range here today and closing prices were net unchanged to 3 points lower.

At one time prices on late positions reached new lows for the season but a subsequent small demand rallied the market a few points from the bottom.

Speculative interests continued to assume the role of bystanders because of the European and far eastern situation, while continued favorable weather in the belt was partially offset by reports of a storm brewing off the coast of Texas.

October contracts closed at 8.84, Dec. at 8.85, Jan. at 8.90, March at 8.96@8.97, May at 9.05 and July at 9.15. Spot sales totalled 11,459 bales and middling closed 3 points lower at 8.85.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—With southern hedge selling more liberal than trade demand, cotton experienced further slight losses today.

Dcember eased from 8.85@8.73 and closed at 8.74, with final prices 4 to 6 points net lower.

The market opened 1 point higher to 3 lower with favorable weather in the south and southern selling counterbalancing influences. Early declines were soon recovered on covering and local buying but when this demand failed to broaden all but the October delivery sold off into further new low ground for the movement. Closing prices were within a point or so of the lows.

Exports today 35,279 making a total of 526,661 for the season thus far. Port receipts 100,617; U. S. port stocks 1,982,898.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.70 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 9.44 cents a pound.

State health departments in several states now designate suitable areas as being free of pollen that causes hay fever.

Grains..

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 17. (AP)—Indications of possible quick ending of the market "corner" that has been disturbing the grain trade came late today with 5⅛ cents corn price tumble.

The sudden fall of corn values, however, betokening perhaps a break in the market deadlock or so-called "corner," took place only after September delivery of corn had shot skyward today 6¾ cents a bushel to fresh high price records for the season and to more than 50 cents above quotations on 1937 new crop corn.

Giving impetus to downward reactions from soaring prices was the circumstance that for the first time this month a small lot of corn, 2,000 bushels was tendered in settlement of uncompleted Chicago September contracts that this morning aggregated about 13,500,000 bushels with available supplies here far short of that amount. Helping to pull prices down was the fact that the first car of new corn to arrive in Chicago this season was received today and that further purchae of unexpectedly liberl quantitiee were being effected in all directions from points as much as a thousand miles distant.

At the close, Chicago corn futures, after a day of unusually wide fluctuations but on no great volume of trade, were varying from 2 cents lower to 3¼ cents higher compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. $1.12¼, Dec. 62⅞@63, May 63⅜. Wheat closed 1 cent to 1⅜ up, Sept. $1.03⅜, Dec. $1.04⅜@1.04½, May $1.06¾@1.06½, oats ⅛ advanced, Dec. 30⅜, and rye showing 1¼ to 1⅜ bulge, Dec. 79¼. Provisions results were unchanged to 30 cents dearer.

modern times the principles which guided the men who signed the constitution."

George Wharton Pepper, former Republican senator from Pennsylvania, told a Philadelphia observance the Constitution was the safeguard for minorities from executive tyranny.

He asserted the Supreme court was not nullifying the will of the government when it overruled an act of legislation. The court, he said, "is as much a part of the government as are congress and the president. The decision of the court is an act of government just as much as a statute itself."

government—in all three branches of it.

"We will no longer be permitted to sacrifice each generation in turn while the law catches up with life.

"We can no longer afford the luxury of twenty-year lags.

"You will find no justification in any of the language of the Constitution for delay in the reforms which the mass of the American people now demand.

"Yet nearly every attempt to meet these demands for social and economic betterment has been jeopardized or actually forbidden by those who have sought to read into the Constitution language which the framers refused to write into the Constitution.

Not License Masquerading

"No one cherishes more deeply than I the civil and religious liberties achieved by so much blood and anguish through the many centuries of Anglo-American history. But the Constitution guarantees liberty not license masquerading as liberty.

"Let me put the real situation in the simplest terms. The present government of the United States has never taken away and never will take away any liberty from any minority, unless it be a minority which so abuses its liberty as to do positive and definite harm to its neighbors constituting the majority. But the government of the United States refuses to forget that the bill of rights was put into the Constitution not only to protect minorities against intolerance of majorities but to protect majorities against the enthronement of minorities.

Tolerance Surest Protection

"Nothing would so surely destroy the substance of what the bill of rights protects than its preversion to prevent social progress. The surest protection of the individual and of minorities is that fundamental tolerance and feeling for fair play which the bill of rights assumes. But tolerance and fair play would disappear here as it has in some other lands if the great mass of people were denied confidence in their justice, their security and their self respect. Desperate people in other lands surrendered their liberties when freedom came merely to mean humiliation and starvation. The crisis of 1933 should make us understand that.

"On this solemn anniversary, I ask that the American people rejoice in the wisdom of their Constitution.

"I ask that they guarantee the effectiveness of each of its parts by living by the Constitution as a whole.

Ask That They Have Faith

"I ask that they have faith in its ultimate capacity to work out the problems of democracy, but that they justify that faith by making it work now rather than twenty years from now.

"I ask that they give their fealty to the Constitution itself and not to its misinterpreters.

"I ask that they axalt the glorious simplicity of its purposes rather than a century of complicated legalism.

"I ask that majorities and minorities subordinate intolerance and power alike to the common good of all.

Constitution Common Bond

"For us the Constitution is a common bond, without bitterness, for those who see America as Lincoln saw it 'the last, best hope of earth.'

"So we revere it—not because it is old but because it is ever new—not in the worship of its past alone, but in the faith of the living who keep it young now and in the years to come."

Tonight's speech was prefaced by a reference to foreign events as they affect America, in the course of which Mr. Roosevelt termed the dictatorships of Europe a threat to civilization.

When the Constitution was signed, he said, the new government was thousands of miles removed from the affairs of Europe, but today that situation has changed.

Quickly Affects Us

"Now what we do has enormous immediate effect not only among the nations of Europe but also among those of the Americas and the Far East, and what in any part of the world they do as surely and quickly affects us."

Our own generation has seen democracies replace monarchies and dictatorships replace democracies, he said, and from this has come a "challenge to the democratic form of government." The dictators, he added, "laugh at all constitutions" and predict that their own methods will be copied throughout the world.

"Both that attitude and that prediction are denied by those of us who still believe in Democracy—that is by the overwhelming majority of the nations of the world and by the overwhelming majority of the people of the world," he said.

Based On Two Reasons

"And the denial is based on two reasons eternally right.

"The first reason is that modern men and women will not tamely commit to one man or one group the permanent conduct of their government. Eventually they will insist not only on the right to choose who shall govern them but also upon the periodic reconsideration of that choice by the free exercise of the ballot.

"The second reason is that the state of world affairs brought about by those new forms of government threatens civilization. Armaments and deficits pile up together. Trade barriers multiply and merchant ships are threatened on the high seas. Fear spreads throughout the world—fear of aggression, fear of invasion, fear of revolution, fear of death.

"The people of America are rightly determined to keep that growing menace from our shores."

Approximately 3,000 School Children To Be Measured In Government Survey; Work To Start Monday With Tech Grad Directing

By EVA ROB WATKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

With anthropometers, protractor heads, sliding calipers, and doctor's Redskin pencils, approximately 3,000 Lubbock school children between the ages of 6 and 14 will be scientifically marked and measured within the next two months.

The project, sponsored by the United States department of agriculture's bureau of home economics, is the basis for a study of body measurements for the sizing of children's garments and patterns. Work on the project has begun in seven states. Dr. Jessie Whitacre, chief of the division of rural home research at the Texas Agricultural experiment station, College Station, is in charge of the work in Texas and she has two co-workers, Miss Laverne McWhirter of Lubbock and Miss Mary Bess Egan of Austin. Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the division of home economics at Tech, will assist in the work in an advisory capacity.

Take 36 Measurements

Children are first dressed in white jersey suits, of the bathing suit type. And Miss McWhirter stressed the fact that each child is given a clean jersey. He then stands on a levelling board, for fear the floor is not exactly level, and the measuring begins. Thirty-six body measurements are made and a data sheet filled out.

Far from the old business of "standing straight" while going through the ordeal of "taking a hem" or any of the other "tape measure" tactics, children bend elbows, stoop, and lean while these measurements are made. All kinds of "sights" are made with a protractor head to determine body slopes, and knitting needles are used to help measurements and markers sight from one red mark to the other. These marks are made with the doctors' Redskin. Later it is taken off with cold cream, and the cold cream is removed with alcohol. Children also are weighed.

Is Graduate Of Tech

Miss McWhirter, a graduate of Texas Technological college who was trained in Manhattan, Kas, by a government anthropometrist from Washington, for this project, came to Lubbock from Denton where she and Miss Egan took measurements on 800 children. Lubbock school system is second in the state to cooperate in the work. Miss Egan will begin work in Dallas schools, Sept. 27.

Eight NYA workers from Texas Technological college who were given special training in Dallas the past summer will assist Miss McWhirter. Work will not begin until Monday in elementary grades and junior High school, but several Lubbock children have been measured by the corps of workers, stationed until then at the home economics building at Texas Technological college. Dorothy Jean Weiss was the first child measured.

According to W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock schools, a file of the measurements will be kept and used in connection with a more complete physical examination later this year.

School Elections To Be Conducted Today

Preparations are complete for an election today in the elementary school districts of the Cooper Rural High school district, according to a statement Friday by Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county school superintendent.

Elections will be held at Slide, Barton, New Hope, and Union to determine: whether trustees of the Cooper Rural High school district will be given authority to transfer all elementary children to the Cooper high school building; and whether trustees will be given authority to tear down buildings and use materials in construction of a new elementary school building on the same campus with the Cooper Rural High school building.

A vote will not be necessary in Woodrow, since trustees already have authority for both measures, said Griggs.

The high school district already has obtained a Public Works administration grant of $36,900 for a new building and has voted a $40,000 bond issue for a new structure.

Polls will be open from 7 o'clock this morning to 7 o'clock tonight, it was announced.

Pep Rally Held Friday Night

An estimated 2,000 students and visitors attended the first pep rally of the new term of Texas Technological college in the gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. The 45-minute program was broadcast over radio station KFYO.

James Forbis, head yell leader, and his assistant, Bill Bratton, were in charge of the rally. Red Raider Captain Red Ramsey and Lewis Jones, line captain of the football team, were introduced to new students and made short pep talks. A feature of the rally were the Saddle Tramps, men's yelling group. A warning had been issued earlier that "Fish stay away at their own risk."

Coaches, Officials Talk

Berl Huffman, freshman coach, and Dutchy Smith, line coach, spoke, a did Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president. Other speakers were Dr. W. A. Jackson, W. L. Stangel, and other members of the facutily.

Head Coach Pete Cawthon launched a special drive at the rally for the sale of student activity tickets, said Miss Maxine Fry, student president. A concentrated drive to sell as many as possible before the Tech-Arizona State game this afternoon.

According to Forbis, a campaign is under way to have yell books in the hands of students soon. This book will be the first of its kind to be printed by the college, he said.

Muster War-Time Strength

Clearly showing they intend to go ahead regardless of German and Italian diplomatic thunder, London and Paris mustered warplane and warship armadas in the Mediterranean of virtual wartime strength.

In the face of these sharp rebuffs, Premier Benito Mussolini was not expected to make any serious move until he could personally seek Chancellor Hitler's active support.

Informed British sources declared there was no concern that the Fascist leaders would take any startling action in their conference. These sources asserted Hitler was "not enthusiastic" about taking any firm stand and that Mussolini was powerless without him.

Break In Grain Market Is Seen After Nervousness Of Trading

CHICAGO, Sept. 17. (AP)—Opposing speculative groups struggling for dominance and profit in September corn had the Board of Trade's corn pit in turmoil today when prices gyrated wildly over a 7 1-4 cents range.

Although there were no positive indications that a supposed attempted "squeeze" would collapse, grain traders saw signs that a break in the market deadlock might be near. The nervousness of the market was one indication. Another was a last minute notice of intention to deliver 2,000 bushles of corn tomorrow—the first delivery on September contracts.

Rev. J. A. Brananan Re-Elected To Post

WHITHARRAL, Sept. 17. (Special)—Rev. J. A. Brananan, Baptist minister at Slaton, was re-elected as the association missionary of the Plains Baptist association which closed its meeting here this afternoon. The session closed with a report by Rev. J. W. Harper of Dallas, Baptist minister and state corresponding secretary of missions.

Rev. Harper's report dealt with state missions. Rev. W. B. Wages of the Morton Baptist church led a discussion on foreign missions and Rev. R. F. Pepper of Ralls reported on interstate missions. He was assisted by Rev. G. W. Simmons of Amarillo.

One of the highlights of the session was the temperance campaign led by Rev. J. P. Aslin of Lamesa. The entire organization renewed its drive against whisky and intoxicants, officials said.

Attendance at the session was the greatest in history, said Rev. Jeff D. Welch of Lubbock, who was reelected moderator at Thursday's session. Others reelected were Rev. B. J. Burroughs of Welch, Texas, vice moderator, Rev. James Vickery, jr., of Lubbock, clerk, and Rev. Pepper of Ralls, corresponding secretary.

It was decided the Central Baptist church of Lubbock would be host to the association, which covers all the territory from Amarillo to Big Spring, at next year's meeting.

Six new churches joined the association over the past year.

Vigorous Trade Pace Reported

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — Trade movements expanded beyond the usual fall proportions this week, Dun & Bradstreet said today in the weekly review of business.

"Consumers covered their deferred requirements so generously that retail distribution attained a vigorous momentum," the agency said. "Quick to respond to the faster rate of consumption, wholesale markets recovered rapidly, the size of reorders revealing the incompleteness of inventories in many stores.

"Except in those divisions affected by the customary between-season lag, industrial operations edged upward, with durable goods in the foreground."

The review estimated retail sales for the country as a whole at 4 to 10 per cent ahead of the preceding week and 8 to 20 per cent better than the like week a year ago.

In the major geographic areas the following percentage increases over a year ago were recorded: New England 5 to 15; East 9 to 21; Middle West 8 to 15; Northwest 18 to 25; South 10 to 16; Southwest 12 to 20, and Pacific coast 8 to 16.

City Commission In Meeting On Friday

A second special meeting of the City commission and the third at which an ordinance has been considered proposing to require licensing of automobile dealers adjourned without action Friday afternoon when delegations of dealers disagreed as to the necessity of such a measure.

Mayor Ross Edwards suggested that dealers attempt to agree among themselves on the ordinance they believe needed and then return with it to the City commission.

More than 35 automobile men were in the commission chamber at City hall Friday afternoon when the ordinance was read which proposed an annual license fee of $100 for dealers in new and used cars and of $50 for those dealing exclusively in either the new or the old.

For the most part they were in agreement as to the need of regulatory measures to safeguard Lubbock from a flood of automobiles of questionable title and quality offered by itinerant salesmen attempting to take advantage of flush harvest times. Commissioners were warned that the problem for Lubbock this year might be greater than ever before because many cities, including several on South Plains, have adopted similar ordinances which might tend to divert larger supplies here than in past years.

Hale County's Tax Rate Is 5 Cents Under Levy For 1936

HALE CENTER, Sept. 17. (Special)—Hale County's tax rate, set recently by the commissioner's court, is five cents under the 1936 rate. It is now 65 cents on the $100 valuation.

Tax rate was divided: 25 cents for the general fund, 20 cents for the road bond interest and sinking fund, and 20 cents for the court house and jail fund. Courthouse and jail levy has been increased from 15 to 20 cents so that five cents will be available, if needed, for construction of an agricultural building on the county's property adjacent to the courthouse.

Application is pending for a $15,000 public works grant to construct an agricultural building. Valuations in Hale county are $13,400,000.

Man Connected With Death Of Another Youngster Year Ago

LACONA, N. H., Sept. 17. (AP) — Howard Long, 32-year-old gasoline station operator charged with killing Mark Neville Jensen, 10, was connected today by his own statement, State's Attorney Thomas P. Cheney said, with the death of another youngster a year ago.

Cheney said that Long, convicted several times on morals charges in Massachusetts, had admitted that nine-year-old Armand Nadeau of Dover jumped to death from his car last November after he had made "improper advances."

Cheney said previously that Long had admitted killing the Jensen boy last Friday, a charge to which he pleaded innocent in court.

Airways Officials Hint At Sabotage

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 17. (AP) — Officials of Pan-American Airways hinted at a possible attempt at sabotage of its planes today when they revealed that a fluid used to increase the octane of gasoline was found defective after it had been placed in one of its planes.

They said a preliminary analysis revealed the fluid extremely high in acid content. The defective fluid was discovered by crew members shortly before the plane was to take off from Brownsville last Saturday.

The officials said seals on the fluid containers were found broken upon their arrival in Brownsville. A new motor was installed in the plane found with the defective fluid. Repairs also were made on the fuel systems of two other planes.

A further investigation was being made by the New York corporations which manufactured the fluid.

Month's Permits Top $100,000

A continued building splurge as reflected Friday at the office of D. J. Schlag, City building inspector, sent the two-day building permit total to nearly $60,000, the month's figure well beyond the $100,000-mark, and the year's total well on its way to a million dollars.

On the heels of permits Thursday authorizing construction, repairs, and remodeling estimated to cost $39,200, the largest of which was for a $30,000-business building, Friday's records showed five permits were issued, largest for a business building estimated to cost $11,000, the day's total being $19,806.

Month Fourth Of Year

The two-day boom shoved September into fourth place in comparison with records of other months this year and brought predictions that, with nearly half the month remaining its total might exceed those of all the preceding months of 1937.

Already the prediction that the month's figure would go well beyond the $100,000-mark has been fulfilled and with its fulfilling came other predictions from authorities that by Oct. 1 the year's total would fall short of the million-dollar mark by only a small figure or possibly would reach that mark.

Years Total $936,803

Specifically, September's figure was boosted to $110,698, according to figures released Friday at the building inspector's office. The year's total went to $936,803. The two-day total rested at $59,006, more than doubling the total for the first half of the month.

Totals for the months exceeding the September aggregate and which may be exceeded by the current month's final figure are: May, $159,988; June, $144,143; and April, $122,094.50.

Permits Friday were to: A. L. Harris, owner, and W. G. McMillan, contractor, to construct a one-story masonry business building at 1717 to 1723 Broadway, $11,000; George Carter, owner, and C. B. Harris, contractor, to construct a one-story frame residence and garage at 2705 Twenty-third street $4,206; Avalanche-Journal publications, owner, and McMillan, contractor, to build a frame warehouse at 1226 Avenue A, $3,500; Weaver Bros., owner, and G. H. Hughett, contractor, to repair first story of a business building at 1104 Broadway, $850; and Auto Confectionery, owner, and Maurice E. Malone, contractor, to erect neon metal sign at 1215 Main street, $250.

Highway Patrol To Regulate Parking Near Tech Stadium

No center parking on College avenue near the Tech athletic stadium will be allowed, said Capt. W. W. Legge, of the state highway patrol, Friday morning. "No parking" signs will be erected in the center of the street, to keep persons from parking there during games.

"It is just as easy, or easier, to park in the campus than in the center of the street," he pointed out. "Center parking is a traffic hazard. Parallel parking will be permitted."
