Texan Surrenders

WASHINGTON (AP)-A Texas escapee surrendered to the FBI in Washington today, accompanied by the 9-year-old daughter who earlier had spent her savings to ask President Carter for help to free her mother.

A spokesman for the FBI said Patricia Gale Boake surrendered about 11 a.m. at FBI headquarters, accompanied by three of her daughters. One of them was Sandy Chandler, who in early June made the fruitless trek to the White House.

Two weeks after Sandy attempted to see the President, Mrs. Boake escaped from the Federal Correctional Institution, a minimum security facility in Fort Worth, Tex.

The FBI spokesman said Mrs. Boake called earlier and told agents to expect her.

House Stolen

SPRAGUE RIVER , Ore. (AP)-Donald and Alice Humphrey of Richmond, Calif., reported "stolen properties" this week to the Klamath County sheriff.

The Humphreys, who returned to their vacation home site near Sprague River after a two-year absence, found that thieves had made off with the entire house, an outhouse, a deck for tents and an animal pen.

The couple said the 12-by-16-foot vacation home had an upstairs sleeping loft, gas refrigerator, bathtub, table and two benches plus the 12-by-12-foot tent deck and a calf pen.

Prison Fire Probed

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)-A five-man board of inquiry from the U.S. Bureau of Prisons was to convene today to investigate the fire that killed five inmates and injured 71 persons at the federal prison here. The injured suffered burns or smoke in halation in the flames, thick smoke and toxic fumes that swept the overcrowded cellblock dormitory Thursday. Authorities said the fire was caused by arson, but had no suspects in custody and did not know of any motive.

Prices Drop, Jobless Rate Up

Economy News Good, Bad

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Wholesale prices fell six-tenths of one precent in June, the biggest drop in nearly four years, the government reported today. But the good news was offset by a rise in the unemployment rate from 6.9 per cent to 7.1 per cent.

A big drop in farm prices led the price decline last month, an indication of an easing of inflationary pressures at the wholesale level.

Wholesale prices generally presage prices consumer pay and the effects of last month's decline could first show up at supermarket counters following several months of rapidly rising food prices.

The increase in the jobless rate was the first in four months, as the number of Americans without jobs in June rose by 210,000 to 7 million. Most of the increase occurred among adult women, whose jobless rate rose from 6.6 to 7.2 per cent.

The price news was certain to cheer the Carter administration, which has been deeply worried over price reports in previous months that showed inflation increasing at a 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter.

However, the turnaround in the unemployment rate could be a distrubing sign for the long run.

Administration officials have cautioned that unemployment might increase in some months but are predicting the jobless rate will decline to about 6.5 per cent by the year's end.

Not all of the job report was bad. Employment continued to increase last month, rising by 270,000 to a total of 90.7 million. Employment grew by 2.9 million over the past eight months as the economy continued to expand.

However, there was also a large gain in the size of the labor force last month, which rose by 480,000 to 97.6 million. The labor force includes those at work and those looking for work.

Since more people went looking for jobs than found work last month, the unemployment increased.

Arguments Slow School 'Homework'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)-Arguments between backers of two opposing plans to solve Texas' public school financing problems slowed progress today of public hearings on the crucial issue.

One bill, backed by Speaker Bill Clayton, was called the "tax relief bill," while the other, backed largely by a group of House liberals was labeled the "equalization bill."

"Your bill compounds the inequities that exist today in property taxation of rural lands and in city properties," said Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, a sponsor of the Clayton bill HB 1, to Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, an author of the "equalization bill" HB3.

"We don't have enough money in the state to close all the inequities," said Coleman. "No district gets any less than last year. That's the reason some rich districts get help. We tried to answer the call by the State Board of Education for a bill to 'close the gap' in equalization and we came as close as we could."

"Looks to me like what you did was reduce the amount of money that local districts have to raise but you added that same amount to equalization," said Rep. Charles Evans, D-Hurst. "This is like robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Meanwhile, Gov. Dolph Briscoe was expected to say today what other subjects, if any, may be discussed in the special legislative session opening at 10 a.m. Monday.

So far, Briscoe has named public school financing as the No. 1 task of the session, but has indicated he might open it also to repeal of utility sales taxes and possibly other issues.

In a long session Thursday, the House Committee on Public Education, which can act only in an advisory position until Monday, was told by Speaker Bill Clayton that he hoped to have a bill up for debate by the middle of next week.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

"Price of stamps wouldn't go up as fast and as often if the Postmaster General had to face the public across the post office window."

Thus, Marj Carpenter of the Big Spring Daily Herald quoted Frank Hardesty, the Big Spring Postmaster, in a recent issue of the Herald.

"The postmasters are against this (the price hike). We have to try to explain to people why the stamp keeps going up and up," Hardesty declared.

Very few things have gone up as much as the postage stamp. Some of us can remember when a two-cent stamp was sufficient to mail a letter. So, a 16-cent stamp would mean that first class letter rates have gone up 800 per cent. Of course back in those two-cent-stamp days, the Post Office Department, as it was called then, concentrated on moving the mail more than it did in breaking even.

Lynn Brisendine of the Brownfield News dug up these laws that you may not be acquainted with.

It is illegal to hunt or shoot camels in Arizona. And in Compton, Calif., dancing cheek to cheek is prohibited, while beanshooters are prohibited by law in Arkansas.

In Vermont, it is illegal to whistle under water.

In Cleveland, it is unlawful for more than two people to drink out of the same whiskey bottle.

As for Madison, Iowa, the law requires firemen to practice for 15 minutes before attending a fire.

It is against the law in Pueblo, Colo., to raise or to permit a dandelion to grow within the city limits.

The law in Denver says it is illegal to shoot jackrabbits from the rear window of a streetcar. Wonder how people there survived the Hoover administration.

Gina Willman Crowned Farm Bureau Queen Here

Gina Willman was crowned the Farm Bureau Queen in the annual Scurry County Farm Bureau Contest held Thursday night at the Scurry County Coliseum.

The comely 5-foot-4, 110-pound girl is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tilbert Willman of Inadale. She is a junior at Roscoe High School. Miss Willman was chosen queen from a field of five contestants.

Also vying for the queen's title were Pam Burrus, Tori Dennis, Cathy Hess, and Alice Hollis. Miss Hollis was named first runnerup in the queen's contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.B. Hollis of Snyder and a 1976 graduate of Snyder High School.

Farm Bureau Queen for 1977-78, Miss Willman will receive a $300 scholarship to further her education.

Emcee of the ceremonies last night was Hal Kemp, executive assistant of KTXS television station in Abilene. Aproximately 820 persons attended the Scurry County Farm Bureau's annual barbecue and queen's contest.

Selecting the queen last night were judges Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts of Abilene and Greg Nix of Lubbock.

Members of the contest committee were Mrs. C.D. Gray Jr., Mrs. Morris Light, Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Emmitt Hataway, and Mrs. Don Franklin.

Last year's winner of the queen's title was Belinda Bridges.

Soviet Ships Are Heading West

WASHINGTON (AP)-Four Soviet ships being tracked in the Gulf of Mexico by an American destroyer are heading west again after returning to the area around Havana, the Pentagon said today.

The ships, including a guided missile cruiser, two destroyers and a support ship, have been in the Gulf since July 2 following a stop in Cuba. They are being observed by the U.S. destroyer Bigelow.

The ships returned to the Havana area Thursday after a counterclockwise sweep through the Gulf, the Pentagon said. The ships had steamed north along Florida's west coast and then headed west to a point south of New Orleans.

The closest point of approach to the United States while in the Gulf of Mexico was a point about 50 nautical miles off Apalachicola, Fla. and 30-60 miles off Mississippi Delta.

The Pentagon said a Soviet ship group has paid at least an annual visit to Cuba in recent years.

Water District Has Big June

Spurred by the second largest June on record, the Colorado River Municipal Water District appears on its way to a big production year.

The 2,122,897,906 gallons metered to customers in June was not far behind the record of 2,409,049,000 gallons for June 1974. The all-time peak was 2,588,299,414 gallons in July 1974.

Through June the district had sold 9,668,770,206 gallons, about a billion gallons less than the 10,715,872,000 gallons metered in the first half of 1974. However, in 1974 San Angelo took 550,250,000 gallons during the first half and 958,155,000 gallons all year; this year San Angelo is unlikely to take water since its own lake supplies are in good shape.

In June municipal deliveries amounted to 1,537,612,500, up 48 million gallons, or 3.23 per cent, over June a year ago. This was remarkable because all cities (except for a small amount to Robert Lee) were off, due to timely showers, but for Odessa, which had a whopping gain. Industrial and oil company use was 585,205,406 gallons, down 3.6 million gallons because SACROC unit was off for five days.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Thursday, 95 degrees; low, 69 degrees, reading at 7 a.m. today, 71 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1977 to date, 12.21.

no room for error

To the surprise of many well-informed observers President Carter announced June 30 Administration rejection of the $24.8 billion B1 bomber program in favor of a less costly arsenal of cruise missiles. But controversy surrounding this plane as key weapon in the country's defense system will continue for a time at least.

The House earlier included funds for continuing construction of B1s through fiscal '79. The Senate had indicated similar feeling but may back down in the face of the President's decision. Most observers believe the B1 is dead for the time being, perhaps permanently. Research and development are to continue but once commitment is made to a different program it will not be easy to resume creation of a B1 fleet of the size recommended by the Pentagon.

Laymen, of course, have little information concerning the two systems. It is to be hoped we never find out whether a sophisticated system of manned vehicles like the B1, or an automated system of delivering large numbers of missiles on enemy targets, is an adequate defense.

Very disturbing to all who are interested primarily in being sure the United States doesn't settle for second place in military capability, and have remained out of the controversy involving a choice between different weapon systems, is the emphasis placed by President Carter on the factor of cost.

Urgency of the need for bringing national finances under control as quickly as possibly is beyond dispute. If we don't reach this goal, or at least bring it within the area of reasonable expectation, during the tenure of the present Administration debate over weapon systems or their cost may be too late to have real significance. Fiscal strength is as vital to national survival as military strength.

But to take the risk of relinquishing top position in military capability in order to save money is a gamble we can't afford to make. We can do without some of the frills of the Great Society, the New Deal, Fair Deal or reaching the goal of banishing man's inhumanity to man from the world, or whatever social ideal we choose to place first.

But we can't do without a national defense adequate for any emergency. Regrettable as it may be from an ideal point of view this must be number one among all national objectives. It is to be hoped a mistake hasn't been made. But there are doubts.

new type of rights

It might be an exaggeration for one to say in connection with a decision of the U.S. Supreme Court announced Monday that now he has seen everything and nothing that can happen in the future will come as a suprise. But until something else develops in the seemingly endless effort of the nation's judiciary to remove from our society the slightest indication of racial bias, the ruling referred to will qualify as the ultimate in uniqueness.

Action was in refusing to review a lower court's unprecedented ruling in a California case that white workers may under Civil Rights Act of 1964, sue employers for discriminating against blacks because alleged bias deprives white workers of inter-racial associations. The ruling had the effect of approving the lower court ruling. So it is now the law of the land that a white worker may take legal action against his employer if he feels he is being robbed of a desirable cultural experience if compelled to work alongside only white workers.

The late Chief Justice Earl Warren no doubt would be sorry he didn't think of that.

"First, everyone turn and shake hands with the person behind him."

WASHINGTON-(NEA)-After a decade of nationwide handwringing over desecration of the environment, senseless waste of limited energy reserves and depletion of valuable natural resources, there finally is some good news to report.

It comes from the aluminum industry, which has established a little noticed but highly successful reclamation and recycling program that already is producing an ecological and economic bonanza.

According to the Aluminum Association, the industry last year recovered more than 4.8 billion used beer and soft drink cans-a figure which represents at least 25 per cent of the entire 1976 output.

Moreover, the success of the program during the past 10 years indicates that the industry may soon be able to recover and recycle 50 to 60 per cent of its annual can production. In California and Texas, the reclamation rate already has reached 40 per cent.

That's more than just a trade association claim. Even the environmentalists who have been most critical of waste and inefficiency in the packaging industry now acknowledge that the aluminum manufacturers have attained a significant level of resource recycling.

"The economics of recycling aluminum do seem to be somewhat promising," one tough-minded environmentalist admits. "We still think that the refillable bottle makes better overall sense, but the aluminum people have made more progress than expected."

One particularly significant aspect of the program is that it relies heavily on citizens to gather and bring to collection centers the empty cans as well as lawn furniture frames, house siding, pots and pans, pie plates and other aluminum products.

Housewives, schoolchildren, civic clubs, church groups and other participants are paid 17 cents a pound. Last year, about $35 million was paid out by the nation's three principal aluminum producers-Aluminum Company of America, Reynolds Metals and Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical.

The growth of the reclamation program has been truly phenomenal. The first recycling center was opened by Reynolds in early 1967 at a Miami, Fla. location. Five years later there were 675 locations in 31 states.

Today there are more than 2,200 reclamation points scattered throughout all 50 states, ranging from beer distributors' warehouses to shopping center parking lots. The number of cans recovered has soared at a similar rate.

Last year, 213 million pounds of aluminum were reclaimed by the industry-enough to produce the aluminum components for about 2.1 million passenger cars or to provide storm windows for almost 1.5 million homes.

Environmental experts point out that the program isn't motivated exclusively by the industry's altruistic concern over unsightly litter or squandered natural resources.

"They're doing it for economic reasons, not to clean up the roadside," says Marchant Wentworth of the Environmental Action Foundation. "First, aluminum is lightweight, so cheap transportation back to the mill is feasible."

"Even more important," he says "it takes 20 times as much energy to make aluminum from scratch than by reprocessing waste products - so the industry saves a lot of money even after buying back its used cans."

The production of aluminum from raw materials does indeed require vast amounts of energy, most of it electricity. Industry officials acknowledge that they can recycle the metal back into ingot form using only 5 per cent of the energy necessary to process bauxite ore.

The apparent key to the program's popularity is money-millions of dollars saved by the aluminum companies and millions more earned by citizen can collectors. The lesson is obvious: Other environmental and energy conservation schemes probably won't succeed without similar economic incentives.

book attacks samuelson

NEW YORK (AP)—Marc Linder, 31, is a rather slight, quiet young intellectual with gentle mannerisms for whom no mountain is too high a challenge.

He has written a book. It is call "Anti-Samuelson," a title with heretical connotations.

Anti-Samuelson is a two-volume work that attacks the scholarship and conclusions of Paul Samuelson, towering authority, Nobel laureate, author of the most popular introductory economic text of all time, called simply, "Economics.'

Samuelson, says Linder, who throughout nearly 900 pages refers to the noted economist as S, has many weaknesses including distortion and exaggeration.

S's views, according to the book's jacket, "have led to disastrous misconceptions."

Students will welcome his critique of Samuelson, Linder hopes, and he hopes also that the book will have a big general sale. "It should have appeal to anyone who took Economics 101," he said.

Samuelson says he has received but has not read Anti-Samuelson. "I have no informed opinion," he said. "I receive various criticisms, praise and lukewarm praise, and I'm able to respond only to a small fraction."

He did say that in his opinion he is not guilty of poor scholarship, as Linder suggests. But, he added, "This doesn't mean that there is not room for discussion. This is a free country where discussion and debate can take place."

Linder, who holds a doctorate in political science from Princeton, who has taught in Denmark and who is now preparing to teach at the National Autonomous University of Mexico, said he chose to challenge Samuelson's book because it is the biggest.

"Anyone after World War Two has been influenced by it," he said. For many students the Samuelson text is the only economics they ever studied, and it still is extraordinarily popular more than 20 years after its first edition.

About the writing of his own text, Linder said "I spent three solid years, seven days a week, 14 hours a day, nothing else. Fifteen hundred single-spaced typed pages. And I had to do a lot of background reading too."

The result is something of an annotation of S's Economics. "I supply the impirical data," he said, "And then lead the student to the theory," a good deal of which conflicts with Samuelson's basic approach.

Linder has a very specific point of view, one that isn't mentioned on the jacket or identified in the catalogue of the publisher, Urizen Books. "My theories are more Marxist than the theories Samuelson is representative of," he said.

What is wrong with Samuelson's work?

"His impirical information distorts certain aspects of the economy. He has many weak spots. In respect to Keynesian thesis of savings and investments. And business cycles. His theoretical arguments and realities conflict."

Specifically? "For example," answers Linder, "Samuelson supplies a chart that indicates income distribution and tries to suggest that it is more egalitarian in recent years. Then, in a tiny note, he adds: 'Distances exaggerated for emphasis."

In contrast, he says, "The data I provide indicate there have been no increases in the share of the lower 10 per cent of low income people in the post-war period."

Told of this, Samuelson responded: "Any person who is informed on the subject of equality of income knows it is extremely complicated." At a recent conference of 100 economists, he said, various interpretations of the evidence were made.

"Anyone conversant with the subject will think, looking at my discussion, that the author knows the subject. There is no sloppy scholarship." He said he didn't hear Linder's name mentioned at the conference.

Still, he offered encouragement to the younger professor. If Linder has information he will be listened to; if he becomes an authority he will be listened to, said S of L.

"If Linder has good points they'll make their way into the literature," he continued, concluding his remarks with a phrase about who's meaning he has had significant personal experience.

"Many are called and few are chosen," he said.

JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Thanks to some dedicated effort by the July 4th Committee headed by Roy Kidd, the most successful celebration in Snyder is now history.

As expected, about 20,000 residents and visitors took part in our four-day extravaganza, highlighted by the largest fireworks display in West Texas. While tabulations have yet to be finalized, it looks as though the Chamber won't be facing the $2,000 deficit it did following the 1976 event.

"THANKS"

In putting together an event of this nature, hundreds of hours must be spent in preparation, planning and running the myriad events recently concluded. The Chamber membership and community should give the following their sincere thanks for donating the time, energy and money needed to put the celebration together.

These include Jack McGlaun, tennis tournament, opening ceremonies, bingo, raffle and fireworks; Bill Boles, tennis; Ronnie Fitzgerald, country music jamboree and fiddlers' contest; Ernie Sears, arts and crafts; Milton Stephens, tractor pull; LaVerne Lee, art show; Bill Zimmerman, parade; Wayne York, truck rodeo; Dr. James Tully and Bentley Baize, prizes; Ray Engelhardt, ticket sales; Joy McGlaun, art show; and especially to Roy Kidd for putting everything together.

Special thanks goes to Southern Electric, the Snyder Police and Fire Departments, Jimmie Dyess and the Towle Park crew, Snyder Merchants, local service clubs, Scurry County Rodeo Association, First United Methodist and First Baptist Churches, County Commissioner Charles Yoast and the hundreds of others who made the celebration successful.

WINNERS

Congratulations also go to Don Stacy who won the $500 grand prize. Don has set up his savings account at the West Texas State Bank. Well over a hundred other prizes were also given away thanks to the local merchants. If you have won a prize but have yet to pick it up, please come by the Chamber Office as soon as possible.

Please remember to patronize those local firms who took part in sponsoring the festivities. They care about and promote the "Better Life" in Snyder.

Activities now heighten on preparing for the AJRA National Finals to be held in Scurry County Coliseum August 8-13 for the top rodeo performers in the organization. Upwards to $100,000 in prizes and prize money will be offered to successful competitors this year.

Remember, with these competitors come thousands of friends and relatives to watch. These people will spend well over a million dollars during their stay and should be treated with a great deal of kindness during their stay if we want them to return. Let your progressive spirit and community pride rub off!!!

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

I want to express my appreciation to the Snyder merchants for their fine gift donations for our Fourth of July Celebration and for the courtesy and kindness shown to my co-chairman, Jim Tully of Western Texas College, when he called on them.

Dr. Tully did all of the hard work in getting these items together. I regret very much that I was unable to be with him and have the opportunity to visit with them as I have done for many years. They have always been so kind to me and the Chamber of Commerce in helping to put on this fine celebration. This could not have been successful without their help.

The unlucky expert had cornered us again. This time his complaint was partly against us.

"You tell me I bid notrump more than I should. If I had just bid three notrump over three diamonds I would have wrapped up game and rubber. As it was I watched my partner throw the whole kit and kiboodle out the window."

Actually, South was the victim of some high-grade defense. East won the first trick with his king of hearts. After looking over dummy carefully, he saw that his only chance to defeat four spades was to collect two trump tricks. He didn't know where they were coming from, but he gave it the old college try by cashing his ace and leading a low heart back.

South was in dummy and promptly led a trump. East played low and at this point South made the one play to lose the hand. He stuck in the 10. West took his jack and led the fourth heart. East ruffed with the king and West's nine became the setting trick.

South's correct play was the ace to be followed by a lead to dummy and a second trump toward his hand. But the queen play would also have worked and saved our unfortunate friend.

Baileys Honored On Anniversary

The children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bailey hosted a reception of their parents 25th wedding anniversary July 3rd, in the garden of their home, 3603 40th Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were married July 4, 1952 in Big Spring. Rev. Marvin Fisher of Wesley Methodist performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey had the pleasure of Rev. and Mrs. Fisher being at their celebration.

The register table was set up in the gazebo. The table was covered with a lace cloth and held a decoupaged invitation, silver book, and a blue pin. Pat Dennis registered guests.

The anniversary table was covered with a white sheer long cloth with lace overlay. The four tiered, white cake with blue roses and silver leaves atop a flowing fountain centered the table. The fountain flowed blue water and a spring bouquet circled the fountain. The cake was decorated by the couple's daughter, Sue Harper. Blue sherbet punch and coffee was served using crystal and silver appointments. Janette Payne and Jane Lawler served.

Roy's table was covered with a blue and white checked, long cloth with lace overlay. The table was centered with a bouquet of blue and white daisies. His cake was made in the design of a glass truck signifying his type of business. Mr. Bailey has been in the glass business for 28 years. Coffee and German chocolate cake was served. The cake was decorated by their daughter, Nancy Olson. Gayle Wittie and Virginia Patterson served.

Margaret's Pendant Sells For $17,000

LONDON (AP)-A London jeweler paid $10,000 more than the auctioneers expected for an emerald pendant owned by Princess Margaret, Queen Elizabeth's sister.

Jeweler Laurence Graff got the pendant for 10,000 pounds $17,000 - at an auction at Sotheby's Thursday and said he was prepared to pay a lot more.

The auction house estimated the jewel, which included a gold chain, a ruby and some pearls, would bring between 3,000 and 4,000 pounds $5,100 to $6,800. A spokesman said the royalty ownership of the pendant caused the higher than expected sale price.

Tanana Shows Contrast To New York's Hunter

By The Associated Press

Frank Tanana acted like Little Boy Blue.

Tanana, the spirited, young California left-hander, was uncharacteristically downcast after his worst pitching performance of the season Thursday night as the Angels were beaten by the Minnesota Twins 8-6.

After being battered out in the fourth inning, his earliest knockout in 20 starts this season, Tanana waved and made an uncomplimentary gesture to the Minnesota crowd amidst a chorus of boos.

"I happen to like Tanana personally and as a player, but I hate to see him or anyone of that caliber, act like a little boy," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch.

Meanwhile, New York's Catfish Hunter did what he is capable of doing. The Yankees right-hander pitched a four-hitter for his best showing of the season as New York pounded Cleveland 8-2 for its 13th straight triumph over the Indians in two seasons.

"Tanana wasn't himself," Minnesota's Butch Wynegar said after collecting three hits and driving in three runs.

Tanana was shelled for eight hits and five runs in 3 2-3 innings. The loss dropped the record of the AL's winningest pitcher - and probably starter in the All-Star Game - to 12-6.

Meanwhile, Hunter's complete game effort was only his fourth in 11 starts and raised his record to 5-3.

New York outfielder Lou Piniella blasted a two-run homer for the Yanks, Paul Blair rapped a two-run triple and Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 2

Carlton Fisk drove in three runs with his 16th homer of the season and a sacrifice fly and Jim Rice collected three hits, including his 20th homer, as Boston completed a three-game sweep over Toronto. Fisk homered off loser Jesse Jefferson, 5-8, after Rice doubled off the centerfield wall in the seventh.

Red Sox' relief ace Bill Campbell pitched three scoreless innings for his 16th save, preserving the victory for Bob Stanley, 5-3.

Palmer Takes Third Round British Lead

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—Arnold Palmer, 47-year-old veteran who has won this tournament twice, fired a 67 that included a back nine of five-under-par 30, and took the early clubhouse lead today in the third round of the British Open golf tournament.

After his three-under-par round today, Palmer stood at 213, three over for the tournament. After making the turn at 37, two over, Palmer birdied Nos. 11, 13, 15, 17 and 18 without a bogey.

Palmer's early lead was bound to vanish, however, with the second-round leaders starting late in the pack.

Three of the overnight leaders birdied the first hole.

Jack Nicklaus, who began the third round at 138, one shot behind leader Roger Maltbie, birdied the 355-yard, par-four first hole when he hit a pitching wedge to within five feet of the pin and holed his putt. Nicklaus was three under at that point.

Mark Hayes, 139 after two rounds, sank a birdie putt from 15 feet on the first hole to go two under.

George Burns, at even-par 140 after two rounds, had a string of birdie-bogey-birdie-birdie on the first four holes to go two under for the tournament. Hubert Green-going into the third round at 138-took a horrendous triple-bogey seven at No. 1 and went one-over.

Lee Trevino, also at 138, parred the first hole, as did Maltbie.

Gaylord Burrows, an Englishman playing out of the United States, went to even par with a birdie at the second hole, a 428-yard par-four.

John O'Leary of Ireland was among the early finishers and stood at 215, five over par.

Schmidt Packs 3-Run Homer

By The Associated Press

Red-hot Philadelphia Phillies' slugger Mike Schmidt smashed a three-run homer, leading a 6-4 victory over the New York Mets, and afterwards confessed, "I'm having more fun now than I've ever had in baseball."

Schmidt socked his homer in the third inning, and Greg Luzinski's single and an error produced the winning runs in the fourth for Philadelphia.

Garry Maddox opened the Phillies' third with a single and took third on Larry Bowa's double. Schmidt then hit his 25th homer of the season, giving the Phillies a 3-0 lead against Nino Espinosa, 4-7.

Cubs 2, Cardinals 0

Rick Reuschel recorded his 12th victory and Larry Biittner smacked his second homer in as many games as Chicago defeated St. Louis. Staked to a first-inning unearned run, Reuschel, who has lost twice, struggled all the way, allowing nine hits, and retired the side in order only twice. The shutout ran his streak of score less innings to 16 2-3.

Giants 5, Padres 2

Rookie left-hander Bob Knepper teamed with Randy Moffitt on a five-hitter as San Francisco snapped an eight-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Knepper, 2-3, had a one-hit shutout until Gene Tenace's double, Bill Almon's single and Mike Champion's double-play grounder produced San Diego's run in the fifth. He allowed five hits through eight innings. Moffitt pitched the ninth.

The Giants, going without an error for the first time in 14 games, got a two-run single from Gray Thomasson.

Dodgers 7, Astros 4

Dusty Baker belted a two-run homer to cap a five-run first inning, leading Los Angeles over Houston. Doug Rau, 9-1, earned his fourth straight victory, but was tagged for 13 hits, including two home runs, in 7 2-3 innings.

In Joe Paterno's first eleven years as head football coach at Penn State, the Nittany Lions played in nine major bowl games.

Why Is Mystery

Kids On Track Ignore Whistle

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (AP)-It's a sight dreaded by every train engineer-kids on the tracks, heads down.

Larry Van Daele was pulling his 15-car freight toward its home yard after a daily run to Los Angeles harbor Thursday when he spotted four children, hand in hand, idly stepping from tie to tie, a Union pacific spokesman said.

Slowly, they came toward him.

He sounded his diesel's shrill whistle. But they kept coming.

He sounded the whistle again and threw on the emergency brake.

The train slowed, but only gradually.

Brakeman Maurice Bieu leaped from the train, running and waving at the kids. The railroad said the freight was traveling at less than the 20 m.p.h. train yard speed limit.

"But the four of them, they were looking directly down at the ties," said Dieu.

He said he climbed onto the platform in front of the engine.

"I thought, well, maybe my voice might carry...I have no idea why they didn't hear the whistle."

Three of the children were killed on the rails as the train ground to a stop. The fourth was critically injured.

No one knows why they didn't move.

"The brakeman got out and waved and hollered and everything else," said Union Pacific spokesman John Forbes. "Have you ever heard a diesel whistle? It turns you blue."

But Van Daele "was pushing a thousand tons.. He tried, but trains don't stop like automobiles," Forbes said.

"Before we identified them, we thought they might be handicapped," Forbes said of the children. "we thought they might be deaf."

Amanda Lack, 7; her 6-year-old brother Jason, 6; and Julie Kline, 10, were killed. Julie's 8-year-old sister Holly was listed in "extremely critical" condition at St. Francis Hospital after undergoing emergency surgery.

On their way home from a morning in the park on a hot summer day, they had decided to stop at the trainyard in this largely industrial suburb.

"There are kids all over. Forbes said Van Daele "saw their faces and he just couldn't understand why they didn't move. That engineer is damn near in shock."

"Their eyes were on the track bed," Forbes said. "It seems impossible. Just impossible."

Sister Wants To See Billy

FORT WORTH (AP)-Ruth Carter Stapleton shares a secret with a lot of people planning to attend a "Carter country" celebration here today: She wants to see Billy too.

"I'm not coming for the beer bust," she said Thursday. "It's a good chance to see Billy...He's my favorite brother."

Mrs. Stapleton, whose other famous brother is President of the United States, will join brother Billy in activities benefitting the Lillian Gordy Carter Foundation for Student Nurses in Fort Worth.

A widely traveled evangelist who now makes her home in North Carolina, Mrs. Stapleton said the Fort Worth appearance will be her first at a "secular" event.

"But I believe in the project, the scholarship fund, and in the artists," she said. Artist Phillip Sage's series of "Carter country" etchings, which depict scenes in Plains, Ga., and members of the Carter family, will be auctioned at the event.

Mrs. Stapleton arrived in Fort Worth for the activities a day early, just in time to answer a barrage of questions about Carters who have captured America's fancy-Billy again, not Jimmy or even Amy. Sipping iced tea, she talked for a moment about her brother's image.

"When I say nice things about him, Billy asks me to keep my mouth shut," she said, laughing, but she added she does not believe one brother is exploiting the success of another.

In the days after Jimmy Carter became President, she said, "people were taking advantage of Billy.. rather than Billy exploiting Jimmy."

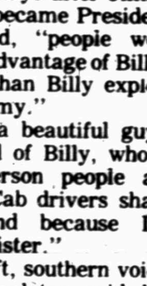

"He's a beautiful guy," she said of Billy, who is "the person people ask about. Cab drivers shake my hand because I'm Billy's sister."

In a soft, southern voice, Mrs. Stapleton said her own life has not changed that much since Jimmy Carter's election. Crowds at her evengelical meetings are larger, she said, "but my life has the same message...I have the same friends."

Sevens Reign Thursday

NEW YORK (AP)—Any way you look at it, a seven is a VII is a 7. Take Thursday for instance. It was July 7, or 7-7-77. At 777 Seventh Ave., at the Lucky 7 Depot, they had a party.

There were 77 invited guests, who brought at least 77 friends; seven door prizes, including a subscription to Seven Days Magazine and seven copies of a Farrah Fawcett-Majors recording; seven games of change; a "Dance of the Seven Veils" as performed by Farouska; and an art exhibit from a group called Seven Loaves.

In between munching on the seven different foods, including cheesecake from a famous Seventh Avenue delicatessen, guests sipped on Seven and Seven drinks.

Sunny Rosenberg was there with her seven Tarot card secrets; Lucy Re arrived for her rendition of "Seven Sing-Alongs."

The sevent - sevenish for event took place in a room at the Hotel Taft usually reserved for cocktail parties. Organizer Norma A. Lee, a public relations consultant, said she organized the party for clients and friends.

"This is the luckiest day of the century," she shouted as the disco music moved one of the partygoers to parade around the dance floor with a gigantic red seven made of cardboard.

Pony players weren't in seventh heaven out at Belmont, however. The seventh race was won by Charming Story, the No. 6 pony. The No. 7 horse never stood a change - it was a six-race field.

And out on Long Island came the story from Central Suffolk Hospital that a baby boy was born at 7:07 a.m. Scott Michael Zaykowski weighed in at seven pounds, seven ounces.

Asked if the mother was "in her seventh month," hospital official Lois Pike said: "No, and she wasn't 77 years old either."

And upstate at Monticello, the seventh horse came home a winner in the seventh race at Monticello Raceway. Dash O'Brien returned $3.80 as the morning-line favorite Thursday night.

3 Sentences Are Assessed

Three sentences were assessed this morning in county court following the entry of three guilty pleas.

Manuel Medrano was fined $50 and sentenced to serve 72 hours in the county jail following a guilty plea he entered to a charge of driving while his license was suspended. Medrano had been arrested June 14 by officers of the city police department.

Pleading guilty to a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana and receiving a $200 fine and 180 days probation was Michael Jay Hair. Hair had been arrested June 9 by city police.

Steven Day Dabney pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail term, probated for six months. The incident of driving while intoxicated is alleged to have occurred July 1 when he was arrested by Snyder Police officers.

Burglary Evidence 'Dug Up' By Police

With pick and shovel in hand, police officers literally dug up some evidence early this morning, possibly unravelling a nearly two-month old burglary. The evidence was found along a dry creek bed about eight miles southwest of Snyder.

Two suspects, aged 25 and 27, respectively, have been taken into custody in connection with the May 17 burglary of the Kwik Grocery Store and this morning's alleged burglary of the Pioneer Oil Co.

Police Lt. Lonnie Payne reported that the buried evidence found this morning consisted of boxes and display cases used to package some of the estimated $600 worth of merchandise taken in the convenience store burglary.

The suspects were apprehended about 1 a.m. today as they were seen leaving the scene of the burglary of the Pioneer Oil Co. Reportedly taken from the oil company were a dozen packages of cigarettes, Payne said.

A questioning of the suspects, Payne continued, revealed their alleged involvement in the May 17 convenience store burglary. The suspects were booked at the police station on two burglary counts each.

Late this morning, the suspects were transferred to the courthouse for the setting of bonds.

In other activities, four minor traffic accidents were investigated by city policemen.

The first mishap occurred in the parking lot of the Montgomery Ward store and occurred about 1:17 p.m. Thursday. Involved in the mishap were a parked 1975 Thunderbird owned by Benjamin Orosco and a 1975 Dodge driven by Kelly Elrod.

The intersection of 37th St. and College Ave. was the scene of a minor two-car collision yesterday about 3:36 p.m. The mishap involved a 1976 Chevrolet pickup driven by Julia Romero Rodriquez and a 1977 Chevrolet driven by David Alan Rice.

At 9:25 p.m. a minor traffic accident was reported in the 4100 block of College Ave. A 1967 Oldsmobile driven by Carolyn Jean Russell was in collision with a 1969 Volkswagen driven by Mary Lavender Bruns.

Also reported yesterday was a minor accident involving a 1971 Opel owned by Dixie Robinson and a 1973 Pontiac driven by Bobby Kincheloe Sealy. The mishap is reported to have occurred in the 2700 block of Ave. X.

Separated Siamese Twins Desperately Ill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Siamese twins joined at the torso since birth remain desperately ill after an operation that followed a "tough ethical decision" to try to save both infants, rather than sacrifice one.

"We decided the chances of both surviving were very small, but the chances of one surviving reasonable," said Dr. Judson G. Randolph, who supervised the operation that separated the two-month-old girls on June 23.

"If we had chosen to save one child, it would have been a relatively simple operation because there would have been plenty of tissue and plenty of skin," Randolph said Thursday after hospital officials released word of the operation.

The girls' mother asked that the family remain anonymous.

"One was not healthier than the other," Randolph said. "It is our judgment that separation, even at a greater risk, was kinder."

Now, even though he is caring for two very sick infants, Randolph said he "wouldn't go back" on "the tough ethical decision" he made with other physicians, clergymen, the family and others at Children's Hospital.

The girls, flown from Italy for the 10-hour operation, "laughed, smiled and cried independently" when they arrived, he said.

Before separation, the twins had two hearts, two sets of lungs, two stomachs, four arms, two heads and separate spines, Randolph said. Their intestinal tracts were intertwined, their diaphragm and liver were joined and they had two legs.

"We don't know whether they will live. They're still desperately ill," he said.

Randolph said if the twins survive, corrective surgery may be possible later to allow each to be outfitted with an artificial leg.

Randolph said his main concern is the "gaping wounds" in each child's torso that are covered with plastic. "They are still an indefinite way away from being healed," he said, adding the risk of infection was large.

Skin grafts could be made from other parts of the body and skin around the wounds could be stretched to cover part of the exposed areas later, he said.

The infants have been in the hospital's intensive care section since the operation.

Randolph said the operation raised several ethical questions for the doctors and clergy, including whether a major medical risk should be taken with healthy two-month old babies.

"We were concerned that leaving them together would have an enormous psychological impact," he said. "We felt that it would be cruel and unusual for these children to remain together."

He said the idea of saving only one child was discarded "because we felt we had two little baby girls and couldn't decide that one would survive and one wouldn't."

All the physicians, nurses and other medical personnel donated their time, said hospital spokesman Harold Kranz. Trans World Airlines gave the parents, the infants, and another family member free transportation from Italy after the Civil Aeronautics Board allowed the airline to waive its ticket fees.

The hospital is picking up the bill, estimated already to be $59,000, for the operation and the babies' stay there.

Solar Home Draws Public

ARLINGTON (AP)-The use of solar energy for home heating and cooling has apparently aroused the curiosity of quite a few folks in North Texas, and Steve Green says unexpected visitors are common at the experimental house he rents here.

Green, his wife and two children pay what he describes as "minimal rent" to live in the $100,000 solar-assisted home constructed near the University of Texas at Arlington.

"It's an experience. People are fascinated with this place. They just come in an look around, thinking it's a public place," Green said.

Dr. T.J. Lawley, director of the project, says the visits by the curious point out the great interest by the public in the use of solar energy.

"The general public is drawn because there's been so much publicity about solar energy. They're out looking for ways to keep from paying those high electricity bills," Lawley said.

Another home owner who uses solar energy to air-condition his home says that on sunny days, the hotter it is outside, the cooler it gets inside.

"The hotter it is outside the better because you get more energy," said Leonard Goggins, a consultant for Texas Solatron Inc., a distributor for the firm that put 24 solar panels on the roof of his garage at Justin, a Dallas suburb.

On the first day the system was put into use, the mercury climbed to 92 outside, but his home stayed 10 degrees cooler, Goggins said.

The airline maintenance foreman said that the difference between his systems is the lack of a back-up boiler for cloudy days.

The boiler uses butane of natural gas to heat water that would normally be heated by the sun's rays for use in heating or cooling.

The heating system has been in use since last January in Goggins' home. Goggins said the solar system has reduced his cooling costs by up to 90 per cent.

Installation of a heating and cooling system would cost the owner of an average-sized home about $18,000 to $20,000, Goggins said, noting that $2,000 would be returned in a federal tax credit.

So installation of a solar system such as Goggin's would cost about five times more than a conventional system, but Goggins said it would pay for itself in 10 years through utilities savings.

Miss Smith Is Double Winner

FORT WORTH (AP)-Miss Haltom-Richland area, Lori Ann Smith, led the swimsuit competition Thursday evening in the second round of preliminaries in the Miss Texas pageant here.

Miss Smith, 20, had won the preliminary talent competition the night before. She will be a junior at Southern Methodist University this fall.

Miss East Texas, Marta Christine Szaran, won Thursday's preliminary talent competition at the Tarrant County Convention Center theatre by playing "Rhapsody in C Major" on the piano. The 20-year-old has studied piano for 12 years and will soon graudate from Texas Christian University.

The women will again divide into three preliminary groups tonight to compete in swimsuit, talent and evening gown categories. Each woman will compete in a category she has not yet participated in during the previous two nights.

The results of the evening gown competition are not announced because pageant officials said they do not want the women imitating the winners.

A fourth category is a five minute judge's interview that is closed to the public.

The ten women with the highest point total after tonight's competition will go to the finals Saturday night.

Miss Texas will represent the state at the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City in September.

Stan Kenton Leaves Hospital

READING, PA. (AP)-Bandleader Stan Kenton was released from a hospital here after a six-week recuperation from brain surgery.

Kenton, 65, had been at Reading Hospital where he underwent surgery to remove a blood clot from his brain.

The surgery was the result of a fall the musician suffered in a garage at a Reading motel May 22.

Mine Blast Blamed On Safety Violation

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

ST. CHARLES, Va. (AP)—An explosion that killed four coal miners in this southwestern Virginia community was caused by methane gas concentrations above federal limits, authorities said early today.

"If you had an explosion there would have to have been a safety violation," said Frank Mann, supervisor of mining engineering for the Virginia district of the Federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration.

Mann made the comment shortly after the four miners were brought out of the P&P Coal Co. pit around 2 a.m.

The victims' widows stood around the mine entrance as the bodies were brought to the surface.

Janie Perkins of Jonesville, whose 31-year-old husband Bill was one of those killed, wept loudly during the 10 minutes it took rescuers to cover the charred bodies and transfer them from mine cars to ambulances.

The other victims were identified as Harold Johnson, 33, and Harold Wells, 40, both of St. Charles, and Danny Tester, 29, of Woodway.

Authorities said the four men died almost immediately from heat shock and carbon monoxide poisoning after the explosion racked the mine shortly after 10 a.m. Thursday.

Fourteen other miners who were working about 1,500 yards from the explosion escaped unharmed. The four victims had been sent into an abandoned section of the shaft to retrieve equipment.

Mann's comments reinforced United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller's charge that a violation of mine safety laws probably allowed the explosion.

Clyde Poe, a co-owner of the coal company, disputed Miller's claim.

"Mr. Arnold Miller has his ideas where he's at, but he's not on the scene," he said.

Ray Compton MESA district manager for Virginia, said officials do not know yet whether methane gas readings were taken before the men entered the abandoned mine section.

Mines are equipped with detectors to measure the tasteless, odorless, clear gas. Compton said such readings are required by law before workers are allowed in an area.

No Quotas Are Seen On Meat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Imports of meat subject to a 1964 quota law continue to run below a year ago and so far show no sign of triggering stiff restrictions on the amount that can enter the U.S. market.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, as required by the law, announced Thursday a new estimate of 1977 meat imports. He said that as of July 1 the amount of meat expected to enter the U.S. this calendar year is not enough to trigger quotas.

The imports are being controlled by so-called "voluntary restraint" agreements negotiated with the meat-producing countries. Under these, the countries agree to hold down meat shipments so that strict quotas can be avoided.

Under the 1977 agreements, a total of 1.272 billion pounds of quota-type meat can be shipped to the United States by 15 eligible countries. The meat covered by the law is mostly beef, but includes fresh, chilled or frozen veal, mutton and goat meat.

A formula in the law permits up to about 1.282 billion pounds to be imported this year. If at any time in his quarterly estimates Bergland determines that 1977 imports will exceed that amount, the law provides that strict quotas be imposed for the remainder of the year.

Through May, the most recent month tabulated, about 503.7 million pounds of quota-type meat was imported, down 9.5 per cent from more than 556.4 million pounds in the first five months of 1976.

Australia, the largest supplier, shipped 220.7 million pounds during January-May, a drop of 20 per cent from 276 million pounds in the same five months of last year.

New Zealand, with shipments of 102.4 million pounds, was down 10 per cent from 114.7 million a year earlier.

Meat imports from Canada, however, rose to 46.6 million pounds, a gain of almost 39 per cent from 33.6 million pounds in the first five months of 1976, according to government inspection reports.

Costa Rica showed an increase to 43.1 million pounds, a gain of nearly 17 per cent from 36.9 million pounds a year ago.

Processed meat such as canned corned beef is not included in the quota law and is not subject to import quantity restrictions.

The imports of quota-type meat represent about 7 per cent of U.S. production and are adjusted annually in the formula to reflect changes in domestic output.

Drought Is So Severe

State Of Emergency Declared In Virginia

By The Associated Press

The drought in Virginia has become so severe that Gov. Mills Godwin has declared a state of emergency and there appears to be no immediate letup from the heat scorching the rest of the country also.

Mills said Thursday that he was asking Pres. Carter for a disaster area designation initially for 14 counties, mostly in the west-central and northern parts of the state, but as many as 42 of the state's 95 counties may eventually be involved.

Meanwhile, temperatures soared to record highs around the Southeast Thursday - including a sizzling 105 degrees in Birmingham, Ala. - and more of the same was expected today.

Other cities with record highs for the day included Raleigh, N.C., 100; Wilmington, N.C., 102; Richmond, Va., 103; and Roanoke, Va., 100.

Severe thunderstorms continued early this morning from the central Plains across the Ohio valley into the northern and mid-Atlantic states and over southern Florida.

Six tornadoes were reported in Colorado and one each in Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida. The Florida twister was near Zephyr Hills and damaged buildings and blew down trees.

In Ohio, thunderstorm winds took the roof off a building in Kent and trees were blown down in Cleveland, Van Wert, Andover and Orwell.

Temperatures early this morning were generally in the 70s and low 80s from the southern Plains to the middle and south Atlantic coast.

Early morning temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 95 at Luke Air Force Base near Phoenix to 45 in Houlton, Maine.

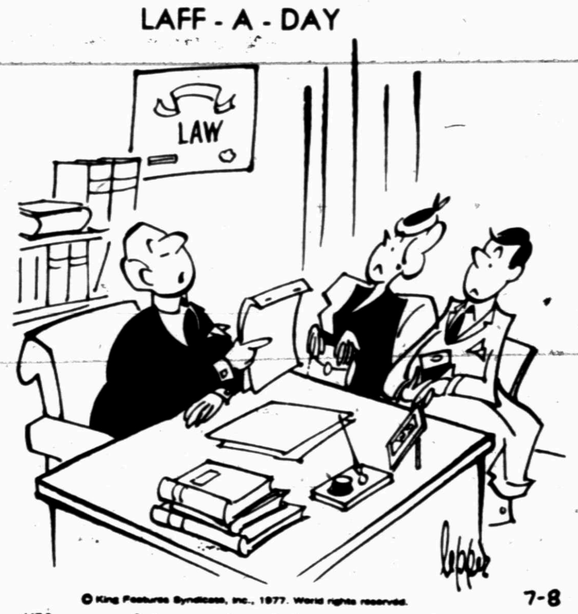

Here are some early morning 3 a.m. EDT temperatures and conditions from around the nation: Eastern U.S.: Atlanta 80 hazy; Boston not available; Chicago 73 partly cloudy; Cincinnati 79 partly cloudy; Cleveland 71 cloudy; Detroit 72 cloudy; Indianapolis 71 thunderstorm; Louisville 81 hazy; Miami 82 clear; Nashville 79 hazy; New Orleans 81 clear; New York 68 hazy; Philadelphia 73 hazy; Pittsburgh 66 hazy; Washington 79 cloudy.

Western U.S.: Anchorage 81 clear; Denver 64 partly cloudy; Des Moines 79 cloudy; Fort Worth 83 clear; Kansas City 72 cloudy; Los Angeles 61 clear; Mpls-St. Paul 74 partly cloudy; Phoenix 97 clear; St. Louis 83 clear; Salt Lake City not available; San Diego 66 clear; San Francisco 54 clear; Seattle 64 partly cloudy.

Japanese Party Faces Setback

TOKYO (AP)-The conservative party which has governed Japan for 29 years is facing the possibility of its second election setback in seven months.

Opinion polls indicate the election on Sunday to fill half the seats in the upper house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament, may leave Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda's Liberal Democratic party five seats short of a majority.

The polls predict the Socialists, the biggest opposition party, and the Communists will also lose ground while the Buddhist Komeito Clean Government and Democratic Socialist parties will pick up seats.

Shaken by the Lockheed payoff scandal and growing public distaste for their close ties with big business, the Liberal-Democrats lost their majority in the lower house in the election last December. They maintained control of the government by persuading eight independents to join them.

The Lockheed scandal became almost a nonissue in the current lackluster, three-week campaign as candidates on all sides either played it down or avoided it entirely. But other polls showed that 70 per cent of those questioned believe the whole story has not come out yet.

Nation's Crime Rate Drops 9%

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's crime rate dropped 9 per cent in the first three months of this year over 1976, the largest quarterly reduction in the 19 years the FBI has issued crime reports, the agency said today.

The report listed a bitterly cold winter and heavy snow as possible reasons for the decrease.

Although there were reductions in five of the seven major crime categories, the number of rapes increased 5 per cent and aggravated assults were up 1 per cent, the FBI said in its Uniform Crime Reports.

The statistics are based on the number of crimes reported to nearly 9,000 state and local law enforcement agencies. Besides rape and assault, the report covers murder, robbery, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft.

The sharpest decline was for larceny, 11 per cent. The report showed an 8 per cent decrease for robbery, 7 per cent for burglary, 5 per cent for murder and 4 per cent for motor vehicle theft.

The statistics showed an over-all decrease in the crime rate in cities, suburbs and rural areas alike, although the decline was slightly less in rural areas.

Geographically, the reduction ranged from 16 per cent in north-central states to 3 per cent in the West.

The FBI noted that the sharpest drops occurred early in the period and said, "The harsh winter could have been a major factor in the declining number of reported crimes."

According to that theory, the snow and cold weather could have discouraged criminals from venturing out. One FBI official said, "The mugger apparently wasn't leaving the house."

The over-all 9 per cent decline seemed to bear out a trend toward a stabilizing or decreasing national crime rate, at least for those offenses reported to police. Other studies have shown, however, that many crimes go unreported.

The FBI's statistics for all of 1976 showed no increase from the previous year and a 6 per cent decrease for the last three months of 1976 compared with the same period a year earlier.

A banker led a young boy into the vault of his bank one day. The walls were lined with rolls of coins and stacks of bills of every denomination. "Take one of anything you want, son," the banker is supposed to have said. After a pause, the lad chose a roll of brand new pennies and walked out glowing with pleasure. Fifty pennies satisfied him completely!

Every day God gives us is like a divine bank vault stacked on all sides with great riches of every description. "Take one of anything your heart desires," says the Creator. Most men pause, and then pick up some worthless trifle and walk away. "I chose to lose my temper today and tell off my boss." "I chose to lie to myself today about the kind of man I really am." "I chose to distort the truth today and thus to do real harm to a man I know." "I got up this morning cursing the fact I had another day to drag myself through." "I awakened this morning and told myself again that nobody loved me, and that God either didn't know or didn't care."

Well, we all make bad deals once in awhile. But the smartest fellow among us walks into God's vault every morning saying, "This is a day the Lord has made. I will rejoice and be glad in it," (Psalms 118:24) and helps himself to happiness unlimited!

ABC Is On Top Last Week

NEW YORK (AP)-ABC edged out NBC to finish with the highest average for national prime-time programs last week, despite NBC's showing of "Terraces," the top-rated television show.

Movies- 11 of them, including "Terraces"-represented an uncommon 17 per cent of the 64 shows rated by A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week that ended July 3. According to figures made available Wednesday, three other movies were in the top 20 shows.

ABC, which had nearly half of the top 20 shows, won the week with a meager summertime rating of 13, which represents a 9.2 million households. NBC ended a string of wins with a 12.9, or 9.1 million, and CBS had a 12.4, or 8.8 million.

The last show was an episode of ABC's "Nancy Drew," which drew viewers in five million homes.

The top shows, in order, were:

"Terraces," a 22.4 rating, or 15.9 million households; "Charlie's Angels," ABC, 21.7, or 15.4 million; "Laverne & Shirley," ABC, 20.7 of 14.7 million; "Love Boat II," ABC's Tuesday movie, 20 or 14.2 million; "Happy Days," ABC, 19.7, or 14 million; "Barnaby Jones," CBS, 17.7, or 12.6 million; "Maude," CBS, 17.6, or 12.5 million; "What's Happening;" ABC, 16.9, or 12 million; "Shields & Yarnell," 16.7, or 11.9 million, and "Quincy," NBC, and "Barney Miller," ABC, each 16.6, or 11.8 million.

"Fish," ABC; "A Touch of Class," NBC's Thursday movie; "A Warm December," CBS's Wednesday morning; "M.A.S.H.," CBS, and "All's Fair," CBS, tied in 15th place.

Ship Fire Out Of Control

FREEPORT (AP)-Coast Guardsmen reported a 135-foot seismograph ship was burning out of control today in the Gulf of Mexico about 20 miles south of Freeport.

They said the fire broke out about 6 p.m. Thursday in the vessel, the Midnight Sun, and its 20 crewmen were evacuated without harm and brought to this city on the Middle Texas Coast. Members of the crew were taken off late Thursday night.

The Coast Guard cutter Point Monroe was standing by Petty Officer Jeff Hughse said the crew expected to go back aboard after the diesel fuel on the ship burned out.

Hughse said a major problem for Coast Guardsmen was to keep shrimp boats and other craft clear of fouling about two miles of sensing cable extended into the Gulf from the Midnight Sun.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Aneurysm was removed

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had open heart surgery seven years ago and had a large aneurysm removed from his heart. Since then a pacemaker was put in. Doctors have him taking Lasix, Aldactone and other heart medicines.

He gets so weak he can hardly get around. He can have no salt at all. He is in the hospital more than out. The fluid builds up so fast. Is it possible for a heart patient to be on too much fluid medicine? He is 69 and I am worried sick about him. Please tell me what you think about his condition.

DEAR READER — Your husband has had seven years of life he probably would not have had if it were not for the remarkable advances in heart surgery. An aneurysm of the heart itself is an area where the heart muscle has been so badly damaged that it stops functioning. The large scarred area literally bulges out into a large sac-like compartment on the side of the heart. This non-functioning sac of scar tissue makes it difficult for the rest of the heart muscle to contract normally.

Not too many years ago there was little that could be done about this and the patient either died from heart failure or the sac area finally ruptured causing sudden death. Then surgeons discovered that they could simply cut the sac right out of the wall of the heart chamber. Once it was removed it was easier for the remaining heart muscle to contract and relax normally to restore more normal heart function.

Obviously patients who have this problem usually have quite a bit of damage to the heart muscle — usually from old heart attacks. That underlying condition is probably the reason your husband has had to have a pacemaker installed.

The damaged heart muscle, from long standing heart disease in your husband's case, is so weak that he has heart failure, meaning his heart can't pump forcefully enough to manage his circulation. That causes the accumulation of fluid you have described.

The powerful new medicines available enable doctors to remove salt and water that has accumulated in the body. You can do this to the point of having a very dehydrated patient — sort of "instant man" these medicines are so effective. Doctors check the chemical balance of the body — including various salts, to avoid overdoing it. So yes, you can take too much but by using the tests available to them doctors are usually able to avoid this. Your husband's problem is simply getting all that excess fluid and salt out of his body without causing any complications.

His weakness is related to his poor circulation, and his inability to properly oxygenate his tissues. The fluid accumulation in the lungs is responsible for his need to sit up to breathe and is part of the weak heart condition. Such cases are difficult to manage and it sounds like your husband is fortunate to have a medical team able to cope with his problem.

Readers who want information on what to do to save a victim of a heart attack with a stopped heart can send for The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life: Heart and Lung Arrest. If you know how you may be able to save a loved one's life. Send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 9, 1977

Put less emphasis this coming year on groups that are purely social and more on organizations that could benefit your career. Valuable contacts will be made if you do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best to shore up bonds with old friends today rather than cater to those you've recently met. Feelings will be hurt if you show a preference. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Underestimating your competition could lead to your downfall today. You'll perform better by not considering yourself the front runner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be wary of what you sign today. Legal documents should be read carefully and thoroughly understood.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're not on your toes today you might be drawn into a situation that you won't inaugurate, yet still be held responsible for its costs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Independence is an admirable quality if not carried to extremes. Subdue self-interests today where team effort is required.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are times to experiment with innovations and short cuts with work, but not today. Labor saving devices could backfire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend in your tight-knit circle is a bit touchy today and has to be treated tactfully. It's a pal you've had problems with before.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Family problems should be kept within the family today. Bringing in outsiders will be asking for grief.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Just because someone is knowledgeable in a specific area doesn't mean this person is an expert in others. Treat advice given you objectively.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unexpected expenses today could throw your budget out of kilter. The fault will lie with a free-wheeling associate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you're not one who is rushed into hasty decisions. However, this characteristic could desert you today and cause you regrets later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be helpful today, but also be aware of the weight of the burdens you elect to assume. Your strength has its limits.

Discuss Improved Government

Alternative Politicians In National Conference

By
JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer

DENVER (AP)—It is something like Pogo's plaintive cry from the Okefenokee Swamp: "We have met the enemy, and he is us."

A meeting of self-styled "alternative" politicians is beginning with sparse reminiscing about the old days of civil rights and anti-war organizations, and a heavy dose of talk on how to improve state and local government.

Regis Groff, assistant minority leader of the Colorado Senate, said in a welcoming speech Thursday night, "We are riding high, broadening our base. But we're staying within the mainstream and offering a very different direction about where the stream goes."

The 400 persons at the National Conference of Alternative State and Local Public Policies have more than passing interest in the nuts and bolts of government. Many have been elected or appointed to office.

The founders of the conference include several of the superstars of the political movement that sprang from the civil rights and anti-war organizations that evolved from the New Left.

They include former Colorado State Treasurer Sam Brown, now ACTION director; Madison, Wis., Mayor Paul Soglin; Austin, Tex., Mayor Jeff Friedman; and Berkeley, Calif., City Council member Loni Hancock.

"A lot of us have done our fair share of protesting incompetence," said a Connecticut official. "Now the shoe is on the other foot and it's important that people like us do our homework."

The conference provides a loose affiliation for mayors, state legislators, city council members and other locally elected officials. Virtually unknown outside their own areas, they hope to find innovative approaches to solving governmental problems.

"The idea is to exchange information about state or local affairs, to discuss what's been tried and what hasn't, what works and what doesn't," said Soglin.

"We started out as a clearing house for information, but we end up lending one another more than that. We also offer support and it's just nice to know who we all are."

Workshops during the three-day conference reflect the issue-oriented approach, with sessions on such subjects as the use of federal manpower dollars, investment of public funds, tax enforcement strategies and the coal and water problems in the northern Great Plains.

Portales Stays Wet By 99 Votes

PORTALES (AP)—Liquor is still legal in Portales.

Residents of this Eastern New Mexico city of 11,000 went to the polls Thursday to choose between keeping legal liquor sales or prohibition, and the difference was 99 votes - 1,617 wet to 1,518 dry.

Portales has held five local option elections on the issue since prohibition was repealed. In April 1975, voters narrowly approved liquor sales, making them legal for the first time since 1917.

Sales in Portales became illegal in April 1917 under a state statute. Then came prohibition, followed by unsuccessful local option vote attempts in 1933, 1964 and 1973.

The city council voted again May 18 to put the issue on the ballot after a petition drive headed by a group called "All Portales People Enjoined Against Liquor, Inc.," gathered 1,318 valid signatures, 237 more than needed.

A total of 3,135 persons went to the polls Thursday - 57 per cent of the 5,535 registered to vote in the city. In the last election, an estimated 75 per cent went to the ballot boxes, and the margin was only 203 votes.

The proponents of stopping liquor sales in the city were hoping the summer election would swing the vote in their favor, since most of Eastern New Mexico University's students are not in school.

And it almost did. With three of the city's four boxes counted, those favoring liquor held a margin of about 200 votes.

The fourth box was the largest with more than 1,000 votes, and its result was expected to favor the dry contingent.

The vote in the fourth box went as expected - for the drys - but not by enough votes to swing the election.

Persons registered to vote at the time the election was called were allowed to turn in absentee ballots, and about 300 applications for the ballots were made. Earlier this week, 175 had been returned.

Contract talks are being held in Chicago.

Prince Charles Inducted As Chief

STAND OFF, Alberta (AP)-Prince Charles had his face painted and donned a headress as part of a solemn induction as a Kainai chief. The Blood Indian tribe also gave him a pinto horse, a hand-tooled saddle and a centuries old peace pipe.

The 28-year-old Prince of Wales was given the name Mekaisto, or Red Crow, on Thursday and welcomed into the fold at the Blood reservation.

Youth Confirms Abby's Statement

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked you if a 13-year-old boy could get a girl pregnant, and I'm glad you said yes because I am living proof of it.

Five months ago I got a 15-year-old girl pregnant. Her parents and mine raised a terrible fuss and sent threats back and forth. The girl finally got an abortion, and we aren't allowed to see each other again.

Might I add that my puberty started when I was 11.

THIRTEEN AND OLD ENOUGH

DEAR THIRTEEN: And might I add that you aren't the only 13-year-old boy who wrote to confirm that fact? I also heard from several girls stating that they had become pregnant at the age of 12. (Readers: If you find that shocking, consider this: In 1975, 12,642 babies were born in the U.S. to girls between the ages of 10 and 14.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a fourth grade teacher employed in a suburb of Minneapolis, Minn. During the past few years I have found that most of my students seem to appreciate physical contact.

In early December my building principal called me into his office and told me that a parent had called the superintendent and expressed concern that my actions were, if not morally improper, certainly "weird" and abnormal.

After my initial shock I asked who complained, and what specifically was the nature of their complaint. I never was told who, but I was told that each of the following actions was cause for alarm.

1. I had allowed some of my students to occasionally sit on my lap.
2. I had occasionally given a student a back rub.
3. I had occasionally given a student a hug.

For many months thereafter I have been continually impressed how a paranoid, bigoted, uniformed minority could make a life miserable and influence school politics.

I deeply regret that an all-too influential element of my community finds it impossible to accept a MALE teacher who is physically affectionate to his students but has no intention of sexual exploitation.

How can I possibly continue to meet the human needs of my students when I am expected to respond like a cold-blooded computer?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I fail to see what being male has to do with the criticism. I'm sure a female teacher would be criticized for giving her students back rubs, allowing them to sit on her lap and hugging them.

While your motives may have been beyond reproach, the kind of physical contact you engaged in might easily be mistaken for intimacy beyond acceptable limits. Kindergarten and possibly first graders, yes—but fourth graders, no.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Young May Be On Talk Show

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)-U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, noted for his controversial statements, may appear on a weekly half-hour talk show dealing with the United Nations or other foreign policy issues.

Producers David Garth and Arnold Michaelis have discussed the idea for the show with Young and others in the U.S. United Nations mission, a mission press officer said, and are now offering it to TV outlets. The last step would be clearance from the White House for Young's involvement.

Government To Sort Through Ford Papers

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)- Richard M. Nixon's paper legacy stands unrivaled, but it turns out that Gerald R. Ford and his aides were no slouches when it came to cranking out official documents.

The government is preparing to sort through some 20 million pages of papers Ford donated before leaving the White House. The documents cover Ford's 25 years in Congress, his tenure as vice president, and his 2½-year presidency.

Ford's White House years account for about 17.6 million pages of documents, which ultimately will be housed in a presidential library at the University of Michigan.

It will take a staff of 14 to sort and catalogue the Ford papers to prepare them for public use. Only documents that bear on national security or infringe on personal privacy are to be sealed.

Nixon's presidential papers run to 42 million pages, in addition to the 880 reels of tape that record some 5,000 hours of White House conversation. Nixon claims ownership, as have past presidents, but the Supreme Court has ruled that the government properly has custody and control of his documents and tapes.

The official documents include a broad assortment of papers, from various executive agencies, that make up the record of a presidency. Those records seem to be growing longer with each administration.

Nixon piled up presidential documents at a rate equal to more than 20,000 pages for each of his 2,027 days in the White House. And the Ford collection grew at almost that rate.

The rent is a bargain: $4.085 a year for the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. And Fidel Castro hasn't even been cashing the checks.

"At today's prices, this may well be the first instance in which the United States is a recipient, rather than a donor of foreign aid," said Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio.

The matter came up in the House when Whalen said that for the sake of consistency, Congress should stop paying the rent and the salaries of 149 Cubans who work on the base.

Whalen's sardonic reasoning was that the House has twice voted to prohibit aid or trade with Cuba, and should follow its own strictures in the case of Guantanamo. His "anti-hypcrisy amendment of 1977" got nowhere.

Ronald Reagan's political action organization has urged conservatives to turn up the pressure against legislation that would have the government finance House and Senate election campaigns, a major item on the administration's election law agenda.

Citizens for the Republic called for "a barrage of cards and letters" to Congress in opposition to the campaign finance bill.

At the same time, Reagan advised Republicans to support "a cluster of these volunteer organizations" like the one he launched with leftover presidential campaign funds.

He said that is the way to work effectively under the federal election laws, which limit to $5,000 the contribution such an organization can give to a congressional candidate.

If all the Republican volunteer groups merged, Reagan said, they would be limited to a single $5,000 contribution to each candidate, so they're better off divided.

Civilians have vacations, military men have furloughs, and senators have nonlegislative periods. They took a week off for the Independence Day nonlegislative period, which ends Monday, the same day the House ends its latest district work period.

It certainly sounded like a vacation.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd went home to West Virginia. "I am going to get reinvigorated, rejuvenated, get back to the iridescent sunsets and the iridescent hills and enjoy the pure water and clean air and the hospitality and good cooking for which West Virginia is known," he said.

36 Die In Train Wreck

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP)—At least 36 persons riding a Guadalajara-to-Nogales freight train illegally were killed Thursday when the train derailed, police reported.

The police said more bodies might be found in the wreckage.

The wreckage blocked the track, interrupting traffic on the Pacific Railroad line from Guadalajara to the Arizona border.

Virgilio Lagarde, assistant manager of the government-owned railroad, said the 60-car freight derailed due to a brake failure while crossing a bridge.

The Red Cross said the dead were crushed by the derailed cars.

Teachers Are In Workshop

PLAINVIEW-Two teachers from Western Texas College and one from Snyder High School have completed six weeks of summer school for vocational industrial teachers at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

Carlton F. Barber Jr. of Arlington will teach engineering technology at the college while Jerry Row of 3504 Irving will teach electronics. Teaching CVAE general mechanical repair at the high school will be Wayne Griffin.

Six college hours of credit was earned by the three teachers in courses which began on May 30 and ended July 1

Each vocational industrial education teacher is required to complete 12 hours of instruction before receiving a permanent vocational certificate from the Texas Education Agency.
