Veteran honored

Ira Ott, the only known living World War I veteran in Deaf Smith County, shows the commemorative medal he received in honor of the 75th anniversary of the war. The medallion was provided to all World War I veterans to recognize those who served in the "War to End All Wars."

WWI vet gets medal for war anniversary

Three-quarters of a century after his military service ended, Ira Ott of Hereford has finally received his first individual medal of World War I.

Ott, 98, is the only known living World War I veteran in Deaf Smith County.

He received a commemorative medal recognizing the 75th anniversary of the "War To End All Wars" recently.

The medallion was a gift to all surviving World War I veterans from the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation, a private, not-for-profit foundation located in Chicago.

The medallion was patterned after the World War I Victory Medal. It features a laurel wreath encircled by a band inscribed "75th Anniversary of World War I" at the bottom.

On the reverse is a branch of oak, plus the inscriptions "They came on the Wings of Eagles" -- from the World War I American Memorial Monument at St. Nazaire, France -- and "A Grateful Nation Remembers" and the dates 1918-1993.

Ott said the medal was the first individual medal he received, although he received a company medal from the French government after the war.

Ott, who still lives at home with his wife, Pet, of 62 years, still remembers his war service with a clarity that belies the years.

"I joined the Army in August 1917 -- I ate Thanksgiving dinner in England in 1917, I ate Christmas dinner in France in 1917. That's how much training I got," he said with a laugh.

Ott was a maintenance crewman for a new type of warfare -- aerial.

"I thought I joined the Air Service. It was the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps," he said. The Air Service had not yet been formed.

When it was, Ott was transferred there and served the rest of the war with this precursor to the Air Force.

After a 16-day boat trip across the Atlantic Ocean, then the journey to France, Ott was assigned to the French Army and the Lafayette Espadrille.

Although Ott did not see active combat duty, he said he did not escape the war entirely..

Serving with the DAN -- the Detached Army of the North -- he spent time in Dunkirk, which was known as "The City of the Terrible Night" because it was bombed more than 600 times.

The war ended for Ott in the Argon Forest, where he was "bogged down in the mud and couldn't move."

Following the war, Ott's military service was extended for his to participate in the post-war Victory Loan Tour, to raise money through bond sales.

His section toured 33 cities in 12 western states in 33 days, traveling from town to town by train, unloading the planes from the baggage cars and attaching the wings.

"It would have been suicide to fly from one place to another," he said, because most cities did not have airstrips in those days. Besides, the planes could only go about 200 miles before refueling.

Ott said crowds at many stops along the tour numbered around 10,000 people, and noted that "a lot of people never saw an airplane" before that time.

Confirmation that Ott is the final survivor of his company came last Christmas when he sent a card to the other last member and heard back that the man had died.

Hospital board okays purchase of equipment

Directors of Deaf Smith County Hospital District, in regular session Tuesday night, approved the purchase of a cardiac monitor at a cost of $24,000 for the Medical-Surgical unit at Hereford Regional Medical Center.

Directors also agreed to purchase a nuclear medicine scan in a joint venture with High Plains Baptist Hospital. Cost is estimated at $187,000.

In other action Tuesday night, the board approved the appointment of Father Darryl Birkenfeld as a community representative on the Rural Health Clinic Board. Directors Scott Turner and Mal Manchee were appointed by board chairman John Perrin to a committee on evaluation of the administrator and board.

Dr. Jesse Perales, chief of staff, presented the customary medical staff report; Nancy Griego gave the quality management report, administrator Ron Rives outlined the operations report, and Paul Fowler, chief financial officer, presented the financial report.

Total inpatient days at the hospital for October was 420, compared to 3275 a year ago. Average daily census was 13.5, compared to 12.1 a year ago. Increases were reflected in outpatient visits, radiology procedures, respiratory therapy treatments, home health visits and ambulance runs.

Total operating revenue for the hospital was $647,518 in October, while operating expenses were $774,428. A net loss of $126,911 was reflected in operations. Non-operating revenue, primarily ad valorem taxes, totalled $707,300, leaving a $580,389 total of revenue over expenses.

The EMS report showed 145 ambulance runs last month, with 119 being transports. Billing for EMS was $51,698 for the month. Home health visits totalled 1,337 and billing amounted to $114,563.

All directors were present for the meeting--John Perrin, Scott Turner, Mal Manchee, Merle Clark, Paul Abalos, Jo Beth Shackelford and Boyd Foster.

19 military-style weapons named in bill

Crime No. 1 concern; Senate eyes gun ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - With many voters ranking crime the nation's top problem, the Senate is set to approve a ban on 19 types of military-style assault weapons as it inches toward final passage of a $22 billion anti-crime bill.

The Senate resumes work on the measure just two days after a Washington Post-ABC News poll focused on the fear of crime - with 21 percent of respondents identifying it as the most important problem, well ahead of unemployment and health care.

The assault gun amendment of Sen. Dianne Feinstein is tough, but not a blanket ban. While prohibiting 19 specified semiautomatic weapons, it would protect 650 named guns used by hunters and sportsmen.

The former San Francisco mayor's proposal won a crucial test vote last week when the Senate voted 51-49 against a motion to kill it.

In an emotional debate, the California Democrat solemnly reminded colleagues that she became mayor after her predecessor, George Moscone, was assassinated.

The senator recalled that she learned how to shoot because of terrorist threats.

The entire crime bill could receive a final vote today and head for a conference with the House - which has approved a scaled-down version.

The Senate measure's key component would authorize $8.9 billion to hire 100,000 new police officers over five-years. New prisons would be built. Financing would come from reductions in federal employment during 1994-98.

NAFTA appears headed for close House triumph

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton's full-court press for votes gives him and his free-trade allies the upper hand as the House prepares for a showdown vote this evening on the North American Free Trade Agreement.

In a remarkable reversal, supporters of the pact, who once trailed badly, moved into a commanding lead in the last few days, according to an Associated Press survey of lawmakers' publicly declared positions.

The AP count showed 209 House members supporting the pact and eight others likely to do so. Declared opponents numbered 183, with 14 leaning against.

The White House and its allies need 218 votes for passage.

On an issue that defied party lines, Republicans were behind the pact by a nearly 3-1 margin; three Democrats in five were against.

That left 20 lawmakers undecided about the pact that would eliminate tariffs and other trade barriers on everything from automobile parts to ziti ingredients between the United States, Canada and Mexico over 15 years.

"We can compete and win," Clinton told governors attending a NAFTA pep rally at the White House on Tuesday.

The president was talking up American workers and companies facing new international challenges, but he could just as well have been describing his own vote-getting prowess.

As momentum shifted toward the agreement, droves of lawmakers flocked aboard like a crowd of commuters leaping onto a departing train. Twenty-four of them came out for NAFTA on Tuesday alone - including seven who had previously said they probably would vote to kill the compact.

Among the converts were several lawmakers from Florida, who earlier were concerned that NAFTA would let Mexican citrus products, tomatoes and vegetables flood the U.S. market and batter Florida growers. Some changed their minds after studying side deals aimed at easing the impact of the Mexican farm products.

"Florida farmers will be treated fairly under NAFTA," said Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., who switched from an opponent to a supporter of the agreement.

The shifts were the product of dozens of phone calls and meetings by Clinton himself and countless others by his Cabinet and chief aides. Side agreements were cut to soften the competitive blows to wheat, textiles and apparel, all aimed at securing an agreement that has gained enormous political importance for the president.

Approval would set the stage for likely Senate passage next week. But the deal-making in the House was not going down well with NAFTA critics, including some from Clinton's own Democratic Party.

Opponent Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, acknowledged that some lawmakers were apparently getting administration pledges for projects overseen by an Appropriations Committee subcommittee he chairs.

"I wouldn't say it's my responsibility to fulfill their commitments," he said. "I'll say, 'You go down there and get it,'" he added, pointing toward the White House.

Billionaire Ross Perot, who has made a crusade of his opposition to the agreement, popped up outside the Capitol once again. He railed against "the biggest purchase of votes in our country's history."

He was joined by Rep. Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., another leading opponent, who produced a list of tradeoffs that he said totaled "billions of dollars in order to buy votes for the treaty."

Among the items listed was money for the Bay Area Rapid Transit train in the San Jose, Calif., district of Democratic Rep. Norman Mineta, a recently announced NAFTA supporter.

When asked about the charge, Mineta said, "Bull," and stalked into the House chamber, apparently looking for Solomon.

Arrowhead Mills plans expansion

Plans for an expansion by Arrowhead Mills in 1994 were announced here Tuesday when the Hereford Area Food Council held an informal meeting at Hereford Country Club.

Frank Ford, chairman of the board at Arrowhead, announced the company was looking at some expansion plans next year. He said company officials Boyd Foster and Pete Holcombe will be announcing specifics of the plans later.

The food council, an informal organization of food producers and supporters, was formed to promote expansion of local companies and to solicit other companies who produce value-added agricultural products.

Representatives from several local food processing firms, cattle feeders, banks, the hospital, and the chamber of commerce attended the noon meeting. Several gave reports on new business activity, economic conditions and employment totals.

Ford also introduced three representatives of an investment group from California who are considering joining Arrowhead Mills in a project. Eighteen persons attended the meeting.

If the shoe fits ...

Mike Hatley, left, president of the board of the United Way of Deaf Smith County, presents the Golden Slipper Award to Mark Nicklaus, chairman of the F.I.R.E. Division. Nicklaus was honored for ending the United Way campaign with the most money raised toward his goal. His division raised 98 percent of its goal of $16,894.

United Way ends campaign, but work continues on drive

The 1993 United Way of Deaf Smith County fundraising drive officially ended on Tuesday, well short of the $150,000 goal, but with organizers looking optimistically toward the future.

At the final report luncheon, United Way board president Mike Hatley said the official drive may be over, but work has not ended for United Way volunteers.

"We don't want to write off our campaign as not making our goal yet," Hatley said, adding that pledge cards that are still out will be worked by volunteers.

He asked division chairs with volunteers who did not finish their work to contact the office and have new volunteers assigned to work the cards.

As of Tuesday, the group had raised $102,678.95, which is 69 percent of the goal.

Hatley said campaign chairman Wes Klett -- who was not at Tuesday's meeting -- had decided against holding a blitz day to complete the work, because there was not enough time to organize one properly.

Hatley said the nearly $103,000 raised was collected from "about 30 percent of our cards," adding that "we really think there are cards out there that need to be worked."

Hatley also said this year's showing, while off the pace of the goal, showed positive results for the future.

"We've learned a lot," he said, adding that, "I think we are better situated to do our job in the future than we ever were."

Next year's training and volunteers will be better than in 1993, he said, and workers will have better information at hand before starting the campaign.

Mark Nicklaus, chairman of the F.I.R.E. Division, won the final prize of the campaign, a gold shoe found by Klett during his care walk in September.

The Golden Slipper Award was in recognition of Nicklaus' division reaching 98 percent of its goal, the highest of any division.

The following are division and campaign totals as of Tuesday from the United Way drive. Shown is the division, its goal, amount collected and percent of goal:

-- Senior Citizens, $11,233, $6,882, 62 percent.
-- Agriculture, $4,635, $2,870, 62 percent.
-- Business and Industry, $21,229, $6,886, 33 percent.
-- Commerce, $10,680, $5,597, 53 percent.
-- F.I.R.E., $16,894, $16,541.75, 98 percent.

-- Corporate Gifts, $5,837, $2,404.30, 42 percent.
-- Professionals, $23,409, $12,634.38, 54 percent.
-- Public/Federal/State, $20,345, $17,696.87, 87 percent.
-- Pacesetters, $8,216, $6,195.40, 76 percent.
-- Advanced Gifts, $27,522, $16,924, 62 percent.
-- Care walk, servant sale, golf tournament, $8,047.25, no goal set.

Senate vote improves House chances

Bill makes federal crime of abortion clinic interference

WASHINGTON (AP) - The overwhelming vote in the Senate to make blockades of abortion clinics a federal crime should improve the bill's chances of winning House approval without major changes, supporters say.

"It's a tremendous message. I think they'll match us," Sen. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., said after the Senate voted Tuesday evening, 69-30, to give the Justice Department new powers to stop abortion clinic blockades and go after violent protesters.

The House is scheduled to debate a similar bill Thursday. Supporters are confident of passage but are worried about amendments by anti-abortion lawmakers that could weaken the measure.

The House is considered more conservative on abortion issues. Still, Democrats in both chambers hope to work out any difference between the two bills and send legislation to President Clinton before Congress recesses for the year at Thanksgiving.

The bill would take effect with Clinton's signature. Supporters hope to get it in place before the holidays, typically a period of increased violence at clinics, and before the January anniversary of Roe vs. Wade, the Supreme Court ruling spelling out a constitutional right to abortion.

In the Senate, supporters picked up backing from many anti-abortion lawmakers who agreed to join the call for an end to a growing wave of clinic violence. A Florida abortion doctor was shot to death earlier this year.

The Senate repeatedly turned back efforts by some anti-abortion lawmakers to soften penalties and change the bill.

Critics said the legislation is an affront to free-speech rights and that it singles out anti-abortion demonstrators for punishment. Gay rights activists do not have any special laws aimed against them, Republicans noted.

"Talk about double standards," said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who complained that liberal causes are always treated differently by Congress.

"Is this the most deliberative body in the world, or is it merely a politically correct outfit that's more interested in the next election than the next generation?" he said.

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the bill's chief sponsor, said the legislation does nothing to stop peaceful protests. Distributing leaflets, carrying placards and "sidewalk counseling" where protesters provide information would still be legal.

"The only people who have to worry about this bill are those that believe in violence and those that are obstructing the entrances to clinics," Kennedy said.

Sen. Bob Smith, R-N.H., complained the bill provides the same punishment for someone who uses force as for someone peacefully blocking an entrance. Both would be felonies punishable by up to three years in prison for a repeat offense.

Smith compared abortion protests to the civil rights demonstrations of the 1960s led by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

"Heroes yesterday; felons today," Smith said. "What's the difference? The difference is what you're protesting against."

Kennedy and other abortion rights advocates said it is an insult to have King's name raised during the abortion clinic debate. Repeatedly trying to obstruct access to a clinic - and therefore interfere with a woman's constitutional right to abortion - should not be trivialized, Kennedy said.

History fair preparations

Students in the Community Christian School fifth and sixth grades display their projects that will be shown off during a History and Literary Fair, to be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the school, 1508 Whittier. The fair is open to the public and includes all students in kindergarten through high school. Shown with their projects are, from left, Trae Blain, sixth grade, whose project was on the Ziggurat of the Chaldees; Amy Chadwick, sixth grade, pottery and jewelry; Christie Bustamante, fifth grade, hieroglyphic; Erin Louder, fifth grade, working oil lamp; Abigail Wilks, fifth grade, working oil lamp; Paul Clark, sixth, Stepe Pyramid; Brendon Edwards, fifth, bedouin tent; and Shyra Smith, bedouin tent.

HBA starts new award in Hereford

The Hereford Beautification Alliance has initiated a new award to acknowledge individuals and businesses "who exhibit a strong sustained commitment to the appearance of their neighborhood and community."

Called the KUB(Keeping Us Beautiful) Award, the alliance will send letters of commendation to those who are selected by the HBA board and other individuals in the community.

Property will be judged for neatness, for having no weeds or junk, house and trim painted, lawn mowed, no junk cars parked on premises, and flowers(in season) and shrubs.

HBA plans to announce about 10 winners every two weeks. The first list to receive notification of the KUB Award were: Martha Rodriguez, 512 Irving; Patty Ginevueve, 701 Irving; Alfredo Garcia, 717 Irving; Delmo Williams, 900 Irving; R.C. Bain, 902 Irving; Tom Lange, 1522 Irving; David Castillo, 1604 Irving; Zelma Stewart, 707 Blevins; Deaf Smith Electric Co-Op, E. Hwy. 60; Rivera Produce, 1410 W. Hwy. 60; and First United Methodist Church, 501 N. Main.

HBA is composed of individuals, businesses, elected officials and civic clubs working together to make Hereford a better place to live. The alliance's main areas of concern are beautification, cleanup, public awareness, education, recycling and conservation.

20-mile blockade to be permanent fixture

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The controversial 400-agent blockade along a 20-mile stretch of the Mexican border will become a permanent fixture, the El Paso Border Patrol chief told the Austin American-Statesman.

"Operation Hold the Line," began about two months ago, but Chief Silvestre Reye hadn't confirmed its permanence until a Monday night interview with the Statesman.

Reyes has posted about 130 officers on each eight-hour shift along the U.S.-Mexico border from the El Paso suburb of Fabens to Sunland Park, N.M., forming a dragnet to keep illegal immigrants out.

In the past, the agents spent much of their time chasing illegal immigrants after they had crossed the border, then returning them to Mexico.

Most of the agents are stationed in vehicles, some as close as 50 yards apart in downtown El Paso.

Arrests of illegal immigrants are down by 85 percent from last year in some areas, he said. Petty crimes and car thefts also have been reduced drastically.

"It's pretty hard to argue with success," Reyes said. He said the blockade has the backing of Attorney General Janet Reno and Doris Meissner, the incoming Immigration and Naturalization Commissioner.

But immigrant rights groups say the blockade is hurting relations with Mexico. They also say it's fostering racism and that many impoverished Mexicans who cross over usually take menial jobs most Americans don't want.

Hundreds of immigrants used to work every day as low-paid laborers in El Paso, but most have been kept out by the blockade. And many well-to-do Mexicans who cross the Rio Grande with short-term visas have complained about increased scrutiny and unfriendly treatment by immigration authorities.

Free movie Thursday at library

The public is invited to view the movie, "Light in the Forest," at 7 p.m. Thursday at Deaf Smith County Library. There is no admission charge.

The family film night will feature the adventures of a colonial American boy raised by Delaware Indians.

The movie will be shown in the basement of the library.

Popcorn will be for sale.

HHS teacher gives recent club program

Joe D. Rogers, who teaches history at Hereford High School, presented a program to Veleda Study Club members when the group met recently in the home of Frances Crume.

Rogers told of his travels to various historical locations and explained that his four-year-old daughter colors pictures and keeps a journal of family trips. Rogers, who also keeps a journal, shared pictures of his travels and told members he especially enjoys visiting museums.

Members in attendance included Marcella Bradly, Frances Crume, Mary Dziuk, Ruth Fish, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutto, Betty Olson, Joyce Ritter, Betty Roberts, Clovis Seago, Norma Walden, DeAun Sisson and Margaret Zinser.

Club members discuss next council meeting

Sirloin Stockade was the site of the recent meeting for members of the North Hereford Extension Homemakers Club with Edith Higgins presiding.

Marcella Hoffman gave a reading entitled "Moving Mountains."

During the business meeting, the group discussed the council meeting Nov. 22 with members serving as hostesses.

Martha Lueb served as hostess to Higgins, Hoffman, Evelyn Crawford and Edna Schulte. Herbert Higgins was welcomed as a guest.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Lee Harvey Oswald's widow, Marina Porter, made a rare public appearance to try to clear her late husband's name.

During a three-day conference at Harvard on President Kennedy's assassination, Porter said her husband was set up and the government is hiding the truth.

"This country and the world cannot afford to ignore, to sweep under the rug, what happened," she told an audience Saturday.

A TV show about her life story, "Fatal Deception: Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald," was scheduled to air tonight on NBC. The 30th anniversary of the assassination is next Monday.

Porter, remarried and living in Dallas, said still-classified government documents hold the key to solving the case. But she sidestepped questions from the audience about her views on who she thinks killed Kennedy.

The Russian native met Oswald in 1959.

"Dino-party" planned at library

Children from K-5 through the sixth grade are invited to a "dino-party" from 4-5 p.m. Thursday in the basement of Deaf Smith County Library. The party is being held in conjunction with National Children's Book Week currently being observed. "Be A Readerasaurus" is the theme for the week and dinosaurs are the theme for the party. Preparing for the "dino-party" are Annie Brown, at left, and Rebecca Walls.

Chamber Singers to present concert Sunday

The Christmas concert for the Hereford Chamber Singers will be presented in conjunction with the Festival of Choirs at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21. There is no charge for admission.

Numbers to be presented will be both sacred and secular and will include favorites such as "I'll Be Home for Christmas," "Rockin' Around the Christmas," "Away in a Manger," and "A Rhapsody of Christmas," a medley of familiar carols.

New board members and officers for this choir of select voices were elected in their recent annual meeting. Bobby Boyd was chosen to serve as president and Jerry Jansa was elected vice president and is also the director for this fall season. Dee Anne Trotter is the piano accompanist and is a second year board member. Amy Gililland was chosen secretary and Jayne Euler was selected as treasurer. Other board members are Suzan Schriber and Lanny Cook.

This fall marks the 20th anniversary for the group to sing together for their own enjoyment, for the pleasure of their listeners, and for promoting, "Human Relations Through Music."

Since its organization in 1974, the Hereford Chamber Singers is composed of members from all walks of life, has toured Romania and Australia, and has been featured at the Texas Choral Directors Association annual meeting in San Antonio on two different occasions.

Charter members continuing to sing with the group include Boyd, Bill Devers, Trow Mims, Duffy McBrayer, Joe Flood, Susan Shaw, Linda Gilbert, and Bera Boyd. New members joining the group this fall are Gayle Binder, Jeanie Conway and Betty Wolle, altoes; Margaret Williams and Virginia Wood, sopranos; and Joe Wood, tenor.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Pass the turkey, John-Boy. Hand over the potatoes, Jim-Bob. More stuffing, Erin?

The Waltons, television's wholesome and large Depression-era family, are back for a Thanksgiving special in their first major reunion since the popular series went off the air in 1981.

"It's so eerie to be here," Richard Thomas, who played big brother John-Boy, said at the Warner Bros. lot in Burbank, Calif., where the reunion show was shot.

"I was anxious on the plane because I didn't know how I'd feel, whether I'd be comfortable or whether I'd feel like I could go home again," he told TV Guide in the Nov. 20 issue.

But Thomas said he and David Harper, who played his brother Jim-Bob, seemed to pick up where they left off years ago.

"A Walton Thanksgiving Reunion" airs Sunday at 9 p.m. EST on CBS.

Only Will Geer, who played Grandpa Zeb Walton and died in 1978, will be missing from the reunion supper table at Waltons' Mountain.

Hereford Medical Center headquarters for Smokeout

Hereford Regional Medical Center is headquarters again this year for the Great American Smokeout, Thursday, according to Nicky Walser, president of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

From 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., smokers who come to the Hereford Regional Medical Center will be given information, healthy snacks, and encouragement to help them make it through the day, Walser said. During the Smokeout, smokers can take home several informational brochures and enjoy healthy snacks.

"We'll even trade the smoker a nice, shiny red apple for their cigarettes," Elizabeth Fowler, director of HRMC Guest Services said.

"The Smokeout is a good-natured effort by the Cancer Society to encourage smokers to give up their cigarettes for one day," Fowler said. "If smokers see they can quit for 24 hours, they may quit forever."

Tobacco use is the single greatest cause of premature death in the United States, and lung cancer is the number one cause of death from cancer, according to the American Cancer Society. The Society estimates there will be over 160,000 new cases of lung cancer this year. It estimates that tobacco use will cause over 400,000 deaths this year alone.

Hereford Regional Medical Center and the American Cancer Society, Hereford Chapter, urges all the residents of Hereford and the area to join the Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout Thursday.

The Smokeout, celebrated each year on the third Thursday of November, is in its 17th year.

Non-smokers are urged to adopt smokers during the Smokeout, giving them gum, healthy snacks and encouragement during the day.

According to the ACS, more than 18 million smokers participated in 1990. About half stayed off cigarettes for the full 24 hours and almost five million were not smoking 1-3 days later.

To quite permanently, smokers need support from family, friends and co-workers. The America Cancer Society offers the following tips for staying off cigarettes during the Smokeout:

-Throw out all cigarettes. Clean out all ashtrays in your office, home and carry and put them away. Discard matches; give your lighters to someone to hide.

-Keep busy. Hold a pencil or pen. Chew on carrot sticks or a sucker.

-Change habits connected with smoking. Leave the dinner table soon after eating to avoid the desire to light up. When answering the phone, reach for gum rather than a cigarette.

Smokers who want to quit can also call the American Cancer Society's toll-free information line, 1-800-ACS-2345 to receive 31 days of tips.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Henry Winkler's "The Fonz," who lived above the Cunningham's garage in television's long-running "Happy Days," has moved up to better digs.

Way up.

Winkler, 48, now a director and producer, has bought producer Lee Rich's Bel-Air home. The four-bedroom, 9,000-square-foot home sold for $3.4 million, the Los Angeles Times reported Sunday.

Meanwhile, Winkler sold his five-bedroom, Toluca Lake home to actor Andy Garcia for about $2.26 million.

Actress Marlee Matlin was married at the former Winkler house in September.

Hereford girls' hoops team debuts with win over Brownfield; boys fall

The Hereford girls' basketball team opened the season with a 52-30 win Tuesday, while the boys' team fell 57-54. Both met Brownfield's teams at South Plains College in Levelland.

"We really played defense well last night," girls' coach Eddie Fortenberry said. "I told the kids we're going to struggle on offense until we get used to shooting the ball.

"They grasped a lot of things that we'd just worked on," he said. "We drew up a full-court press before the game, and they picked it up pretty quick."

Hereford took a 10-4 lead after one quarter, extended that to 24-8 at the half and cruised home.

Stephanie Wilcox led the team with 14 points, and Tarabeth Holmes added 11. Fortenberry said Hereford had an outstanding rebounding effort, led by Heather Hodges with 12 and Mindy Davis with 10.

He also praised the play of point guard Brittney Binder, who had six assists, eight points and eight steals. Hereford had only 14 turnovers, which Fortenberry said wasn't bad, especially for a first outing with young players.

The Brownfield boys used a 20-12 spurt in the second quarter to take a 29-23 halftime lead, then held off the Herd down the stretch.

Benton Buckley led the Herd with 18 points.

Hereford boys' coach Randy Dean was unavailable for comment.

Kosar may start for Cowboys

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Bernie Kosar could be making his first start in blue and white this Sunday.

Kosar, who played in Cleveland until he was cut on Monday of last week, came off the bench Sunday to lead the Dallas Cowboys to a 20-15 victory over the Phoenix Cardinals.

Kosar will make his first start for the Cowboys if Troy Aikman's hamstring injury doesn't get 100 percent well for the game against the Falcons, coach Jimmy Johnson said on Tuesday.

Kosar replaced Jason Garrett and hit 13 of 21 passes for 199 yards and a touchdown against Phoenix.

"In all probability, Bernie will start Sunday. Troy is jogging and will work this week. If he can work out without aggravating the injury, then Troy would be the starter," Johnson said.

"Bernie will get the majority of snaps in practice. It wouldn't be necessary for Troy to get as much work. We'll probably know later in the week about Troy's status."

The Cowboys listed Aikman, who pulled a left hamstring in the third quarter of a 31-9 victory over the New York Giants, as questionable.

"We want to be conservative with Troy's injury," Johnson said. "We want to make sure he is 100 per cent healthy. We don't want to aggravate the situation. I want to see him to be able to change direction when he runs."

Johnson made another change at Valley Ranch on Tuesday after elevating Kosar over Garrett as Aikman's No. 1 backup.

He released seven-year veteran backup fullback Tommie Agee to make room for an undisclosed roster move.

"It was difficult to release a player I have a tremendous amount of respect and affection for," Johnson said. "Tommie was very well liked. He perhaps could be re-signed, but we had to do something to help with our injuries."

The Cowboys lost special teams star Joe Fishback with a knee injury and have a number of injuries in the defensive line, particularly Charles Haley, who has a bad back and played only a limited amount of time against the Cardinals.

Leon Lett has a leg injury. Also, kick return specialist and wide receiver Kevin Williams is doubtful against Atlanta with hip and knee injuries.

"We're more banged up for this game than for any game this season," Johnson said. "We have a lot of players who are not 100 percent but will play."

Middle linebacker Ken Norton is still hampered by a torn right bicep muscle, and wide receiver Michael Irvin received treatment for an injured left ankle.

Johnson called Atlanta a "dangerous" team.

"Atlanta is a tough team to play at home in the dome. It could give Bernie a little trouble playing in a loud place," Johnson said.

"He's still trying to learn all of our plays. He used a wristband last week because he didn't have enough time to get our signals down. We'll be signaling from the sideline this week."

While Aikman was trying acupuncture and anything he can to get back in the lineup this week, his agent, Leigh Steinberg, completed a preliminary round of talks with Dallas owner Jerry Jones to get the quarterback's contract extended beyondthe 1995 season.

"No timetable has been set," Steinberg said.

Jones, who was in Chicago for an NFL owners meeting, has said he would like to get something done before the salary cap kicks in on Jan. 2.

"I plan on Troy playing for the Cowboys through his career," Jones said.

Johnson said he would like to see something happen soon.

"I'll be glad to see it get done," Johnson said. "But it's not like the Emmitt Smith situation. Troy is here. Emmitt wasn't."

Baylor's Strait earns SWC honors

WACO, Texas (AP) - Robert Strait had to pay the price for a rules violation. Then he made the Rice Owls pay on Saturday.

Strait, the buffalo-sized, 244-pound senior fullback from Cuero, tied a Baylor school record with four touchdown runs as the Bears beat the Owls 38-14 to keep bowl hopes alive.

His performance earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week honor.

Antonio Shorter, who had two sacks, eight tackles and a fumble recovery in Texas A&M's 42-7 victory over Louisville, was named The AP's SWC Defensive Player of the Week.

Strait, who missed a curfew during Baylor's off week and was suspended for the Georgia Tech game, said: "If you break a rule, you have to pay the price. I took it like a man. Coach (Chuck) Reedy told me how I handled it would determine how long my suspension was. I took it as a learning experience and went from there."

Strait's four touchdown tied the record set by Wesley Bradshaw in 1922 against Arkansas and tied by Cleve Franklin in 1976 against Illinois.

He scored on four short runs but had four catches for 63 yards. Strait rushed 12 times for 35 yards.

"I wanted to get passes, too," Strait said. "I can catch the ball."

Shorter, a junior, is second on the A&M team with 59 tackles. He has 8 1/2 sacks.

Defense sparks Rockets, Knicks, Sonics to wins

By The Associated Press

Defense is keeping New York, Seattle and Houston undefeated this season.

All three teams kept their perfect records Tuesday night, allowing an average of 89.3 points in the process.

The Rockets, who got 20 points, 19 rebounds and six blocked shots from Hakeem Olajuwon despite his 8-for-26 shooting, beat New Jersey 90-84 for their seventh straight win.

Houston has not allowed 100 points this season and surrendered just 13 in the fourth quarter against the Nets after giving up 11 in the final period to Philadelphia on Monday.

Meanwhile, the Knicks survived a subpar performance by Patrick Ewing to match Houston at 7-0 with a 103-90 victory at Dallas.

Seattle improved to 6-0 by defeating Chicago 95-94.

Down 84-78 with 4:56 to go, New Jersey tied Houston with a 6-0 run, the tying points coming on a layup by Kenny Anderson, who had 24 points, 12 assists and a career-high 13 rebounds.

But Olajuwon followed with free throws with 1:31 left, putting Houston ahead to stay.

New Jersey got just eight points from leading scorer Derrick Coleman on 2-for-13 shooting. "They made me debate which way I was going," Coleman, who was averaging 26 points, said of Houston's defense.

Knicks 103, Mavericks 90

John Starks scored five consecutive points during a 14-2 first-quarter run that put New York in control against Dallas. The spurt turned a 13-11 deficit into a 25-15 lead.

Starks led the Knicks with 18 points, while Charles Oakley had 16 points and 11 rebounds. Ewing, hampered by a sprained neck, grabbed 12 rebounds, but was held to seven points.

SuperSonics 95, Bulls 94

Ricky Pierce scored 19 points, and his two free throws with 2:55 left capped a decisive 8-0 run for Seattle.

Toni Kukoc, who scored 20 points on 9-for-12 shooting for Chicago, made a 3-pointer with 1:47 remaining, closing the Bulls to 95-94, but a last-second 3-point attempt by B.J. Armstrong hit the front of the rim and bounced off.

Lakers 116, Clippers 114, 2OT

Elden Campbell, in his first game of the season, missed his first nine shots before making the game-winner at the buzzer.

Anthony Peeler, Doug Christie and Vlade Divac each scored 23 points for the Lakers. Divac also had a career-high 24 rebounds before fouling out in the second overtime.

Campbell, who started the season on the injured list with a sprained left ankle, replaced Divac and hit the game-winner on a turn-around jumper from the baseline.

Suns 116, Warriors 104

Charles Barkley had 36 points and 12 rebounds to lead visiting Phoenix.

Latrell Sprewell had 23 points, Billy Owens 22 and rookie Chris Webber a season-high 21 for the Warriors.

Cavaliers 101, Trail Blazers 96

Gerald Wilkins scored four of his 23 points in the final two minutes as visiting Cleveland snapped a seven-game losing streak against Portland.

Timberwolves 102, Bucks 98

Christian Laettner scored 13 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter as Minnesota got its first victory in six games this season, winning at Milwaukee.

Magic 114, Jazz 96

Dennis Scott hit three of his five 3-pointers during a 22-1 fourth-quarter spurt. Scott Skiles led Orlando with 25 points and 13 assists, while Shaquille O'Neal finished with 23 points and Scott 19.

Hornets 102, Pacers 93

Alonzo Mourning scored 21 points and Dell Curry 19 after hitting three 3-pointers in a fourth-quarter flurry for Charlotte.

Hawks 118, Kings 95

Atlanta returned home after losing four straight road games and won behind Dominique Wilkins' 26 points in 26 minutes.

Spurs 86, Nuggets 74

David Robinson and Dale Ellis each scored 17 points and Dennis Rodman grabbed 23 rebounds at Denver.

Pistons' Thomas, Laimbeer scuffle

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) - Isiah Thomas lost his cool again, and this time it will keep him out of the lineup for at least a month.

Thomas, one of the NBA's most tempermental players, broke his right hand when he punched teammate Bill Laimbeer in the back of the head during practice Tuesday.

He will be sidelined four to six weeks, said Dr. Ed Burke, who treated the injury.

The broken shooting hand was placed in a cast but won't require surgery. Neither player will be disciplined, The Oakland Press reported today.

Thomas broke a rib when he was elbowed by Laimbeer during a preseason practice Oct. 30. Witnesses said Thomas became angered Tuesday after absorbing another elbow from Laimbeer.

Neither Thomas nor Laimbeer - who along with Joe Dumars are the only remaining members of the Pistons' NBA championship teams of 1989 and 1990 - would comment.

Thomas and Laimbeer had to be separated after the 6-foot-11, 260-pound center elbowed the 6-foot-1, 185-pound guard. Laimbeer had turned away when Thomas punched him in the head, the Press said.

Coach Don Chaney restrained Laimbeer, who yelled at Thomas, "That's just basketball."

"I don't need to take that (expletive)," Thomas shouted back.

"Just leave the floor," Laimbeer replied. "Leave the floor."

Chaney spoke briefly to the team and then called off the rest of practice.

"It was an emotional situation and we regret it happened," the first-year coach said afterward. "We had a long flight and a really tough practice. Everyone's tired. Isiah took a hard hit and he just reacted. It was emotion."

Thomas is averaging 15.5 points and 10.3 assists this season, which began with two victories but was followed by four straight road losses going into tonight's home game against the Orlando Magic.

"I'm sorry Isiah is not going to be playing," Magic guard Scott Skiles said from Orlando. "But in my opinion he couldn't have picked a better guy to punch."

Preseason NIT basketball tourney tips off today

By The Associated Press

Two teams will take the floor at the Charlotte Coliseum in 138 days to decide the national champion of college basketball.

Day One of the countdown is tonight with four opening-round games in the Preseason NIT.

There isn't a team out there considered any better to get the season going than No. 1 North Carolina, which opens defense of its national championship at home against Western Kentucky.

But don't think for a second that this early-season tournament is a cakewalk for the Tar Heels. There are three other teams in the field from the preseason Top Ten - No. 6 California, No. 9 Kansas and No. 10 Minnesota - and two others in the poll - No. 19 Cincinnati and No. 22 Massachusetts.

In addition to Western Kentucky-North Carolina tonight, Butler is at Cincinnati, Western Michigan is at Kansas and Santa Clara is at California.

The first round concludes Thursday night with Cleveland State at Massachusetts, Towson State at St. John's, Rice at Minnesota and Alabama State at Georgia.

The second round is Friday and Saturday at campus sites, while the semifinals are next Wednesday night at New York's Madison Square Garden with the championship game two days later.

North Carolina coach Dean Smith enters the season needing 26 victories to reach 800. He'll go after the first of those with a starting lineup of Eric Montross, Kevin Salvadori - a pair of 7-footers - Derrick Phelps, Donald Williams and Brian Reese. Reese has been slowed the first two weeks of practice by a sprained ankle. If Reese can't play, it appears heralded freshman Jerry Stackhouse will start.

It was announced Tuesday that senior forward Pat Sullivan will redshirt this season.

"We looked at the situation and Jerry Stackhouse has played very well in preseason, not that Stackhouse would have beaten Sullivan out, but we were bunched there at the forward spot," Smith said.

As familiar as Smith is with his four returning starters, Cincinnati coach Bob Huggins is looking to start the season with all new faces.

"We've lost five starters, our top six guys, and I'm really concerned that after about the first two weeks of the season, we may lose the rest of our alumni, too," Huggins said. "We're not very good."

Starting three freshmen is a matter of perception.

"There's been a lot said about Cincinnati starting three freshmen, but those three are unbelievably good players," Butler coach Barry Collier said. "As importantly, they're the type of players that Cincinnati has been successful with since Bob Huggins has been there."

The freshman starters are 6-8 center Dontonio Wingfield and guards Damon Flint and Marko Wright. Six of the 12 Bearcats are first-year freshmen.

Tar Heels top AP basketball poll

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

North Carolina will open defense of the national championship as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press' preseason college basketball poll.

The Tar Heels received 61 of 65 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters Saturday for their fourth No. 1 ranking in the 13 preseason polls conducted.

Kentucky, which was listed No. 1 on three ballots, was second, followed by Arkansas and Duke, last year's preseason No. 1, giving the Atlantic Coast Conference and Southeastern Conference the top four teams.

Michigan, the championship game loser the last two years, was fifth, followed in the Top Ten by California, Louisville, Temple, Kansas and Minnesota.

No team has ever been a unanimous preseason No. 1, and the three first-place votes for Kentucky and one for Kansas kept the Tar Heels from doing it. They also were preseason No. 1 for 1981-82, the first season such a poll was taken, and again before 1983-84 and 1986-87.

Duke and UNLV have taken the preseason honors twice each. UNLV in 1990-91 and Duke the next season are the only preseason No. 1s to hold the top spot through the final poll.

Three preseason No. 1s have gone on to win the national title: North Carolina in 1982, UNLV in 1990 and Duke in 1992.

"Seldom does a team finish No. 1 who starts there," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said. "We hope we can be one of a select few to accomplish such an unbelievable goal."

North Carolina has four starters back from last season's 34-4 team that gave Smith his second national title and has added yet another stellar recruiting class.

Kentucky, which lost to Michigan in the Final Four, lost Jamal Mashburn to the NBA, but still figures to win its division in the SEC, as does Arkansas.

Kansas was the other team in the Final Four last season, and the Jayhawks still made the Top Ten despite losing four starters.

Oklahoma State led the Second Ten and was followed by Indiana, the No. 1 team in last season's final poll, UCLA, Georgia Tech, Georgetown, Virginia, Illinois, Arizona, Cincinnati and Syracuse.

Purdue led the final five and was followed by Massachusetts, Vanderbilt, George Washington and Florida State.

All but two of the ranked teams - Louisville of the Metro and Cincinnati of the Great Midwest - come from seven conferences, with the ACC and Big Ten leading with five schools each.

North Carolina opens the season Wednesday night at home against Western Kentucky in the Preseason NIT, with California, Kansas, Minnesota, Cincinnati and Massachusetts also in the 16-team field.

Johnny VanderMeer pitched back-to-back no-hit games for Cincinnati in 1938, setting a record.

The repertoire of beluga whales includes chirps, croaks, burps, grunts, squeaks, moos, mews, screams and yaps.

Sunburned whales, their skin beginning to peel, suffer additional torments from gulls, which land on their backs and lift up sheets of peeling skin or gouge into deeper layers underneath.

Dolls ready for new homes

These two hand-crafted porcelain dolls will be given away during the Annual Festival of Trees planned Thursday through Sunday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Tickets are priced at $2.50 and each ticket holder has two chances to win a doll. Tickets can be purchased at the center or by calling 364-0471. Displaying the dolls are, from left, Rosalee McGowen, Margie Daniels and Jolene Bledsoe.

NEW YORK (AP) - Creating images and the spirit of Christmas was no small feat for Tim Burton, who grew up in sunny, warm Burbank, Calif.

"There's no weather or seasonal stimulus. You looked to the holidays to give you a sense of ritual," Burton, the creator of Disney's hit fantasy "The Nightmare Before Christmas," told People magazine in its Nov. 22 edition.

When growing up, he said he'd get into the mood by watching old Christmas TV movies and staring at Christmas tinsel and tree decorations in stores.

"Kind of sad, really, the way they experience the seasons in California," he said. "A little scary."

"The Nightmare" is a twisted Christmas carol about a ghoul who tries to fill in for Santa Claus. The story is told through the painstaking process of stop-action animation with puppets.

Burton, 34, also directed the hits "Beetlejuice," "Edward Scissorhands," and the two "Batman" movies.

Hot air ballooning subject of program

Paul Coneway presented a program on hot air ballooning for members of Calliopian Study Club during a meeting held Nov. 11 in the home of Irene and Paul Coneway. Co-hostess for the evening was Claudia McBrayer.

Irene Coneway noted that her husband has been involved with ballooning since 1973, starting in Albuquerque, N.M. He is the second oldest balloonist in the United States.

Paul Coneway explained the types of licenses needed for pilots and the number of hours experience that is required to qualify for each type of license. He also told of the criteria to be met to keep a license current.

He stated, "Balloons are regulated by the FAA as aircraft and they are subject to FAA regulations." He further explained how a balloon is inflated and what makes it fly; the controls that are placed in the basket which are used by the pilot to fly; and what equipment is needed for the crew. He also shared some personal experiences and had a display of some of his jackets from rallies he has attended.

At the conclusion of the program, Paul presented each member of the club with a lapel pin made in the design of his first balloon.

President Audine Dettman called the meeting to order and presided over a brief business meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Sealed bid party attended by La Madre Mia Study Club

A sealed bid party was attended by members of the La Madre Mia Study Club Nov. 11 at the Hereford State Bank. Proceeds from the party will be used for various club projects.

Serving as hostess was Carolyn Baxter and Bettye Owen was co-hostess.

During the brief business meeting conducted by Francyne Bromlow, a letter was read from Big Brothers/Big Sisters and members decided to make a donation to the Kevin Henson Medical Fund.

Members noted a change in the club's calendar. The next meeting will be held Dec. 9 in the home of Kay Hall.

Members present were Carolyn Baxter, Ruth Black, Francyne Bromlow, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpton, Kay Hall, Mary Herring, Betty Lady, Barbara Manning, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Tricia Sims, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Mary Beth White and Judy Williams.

Hints from Heloise

Q. My daughter will be having eye surgery soon and we have been told that we can't wash her hair for two weeks afterwards.

Isn't there a quick-fix solution for dirty hair? — Kathy Lewis, San Antonio, Texas

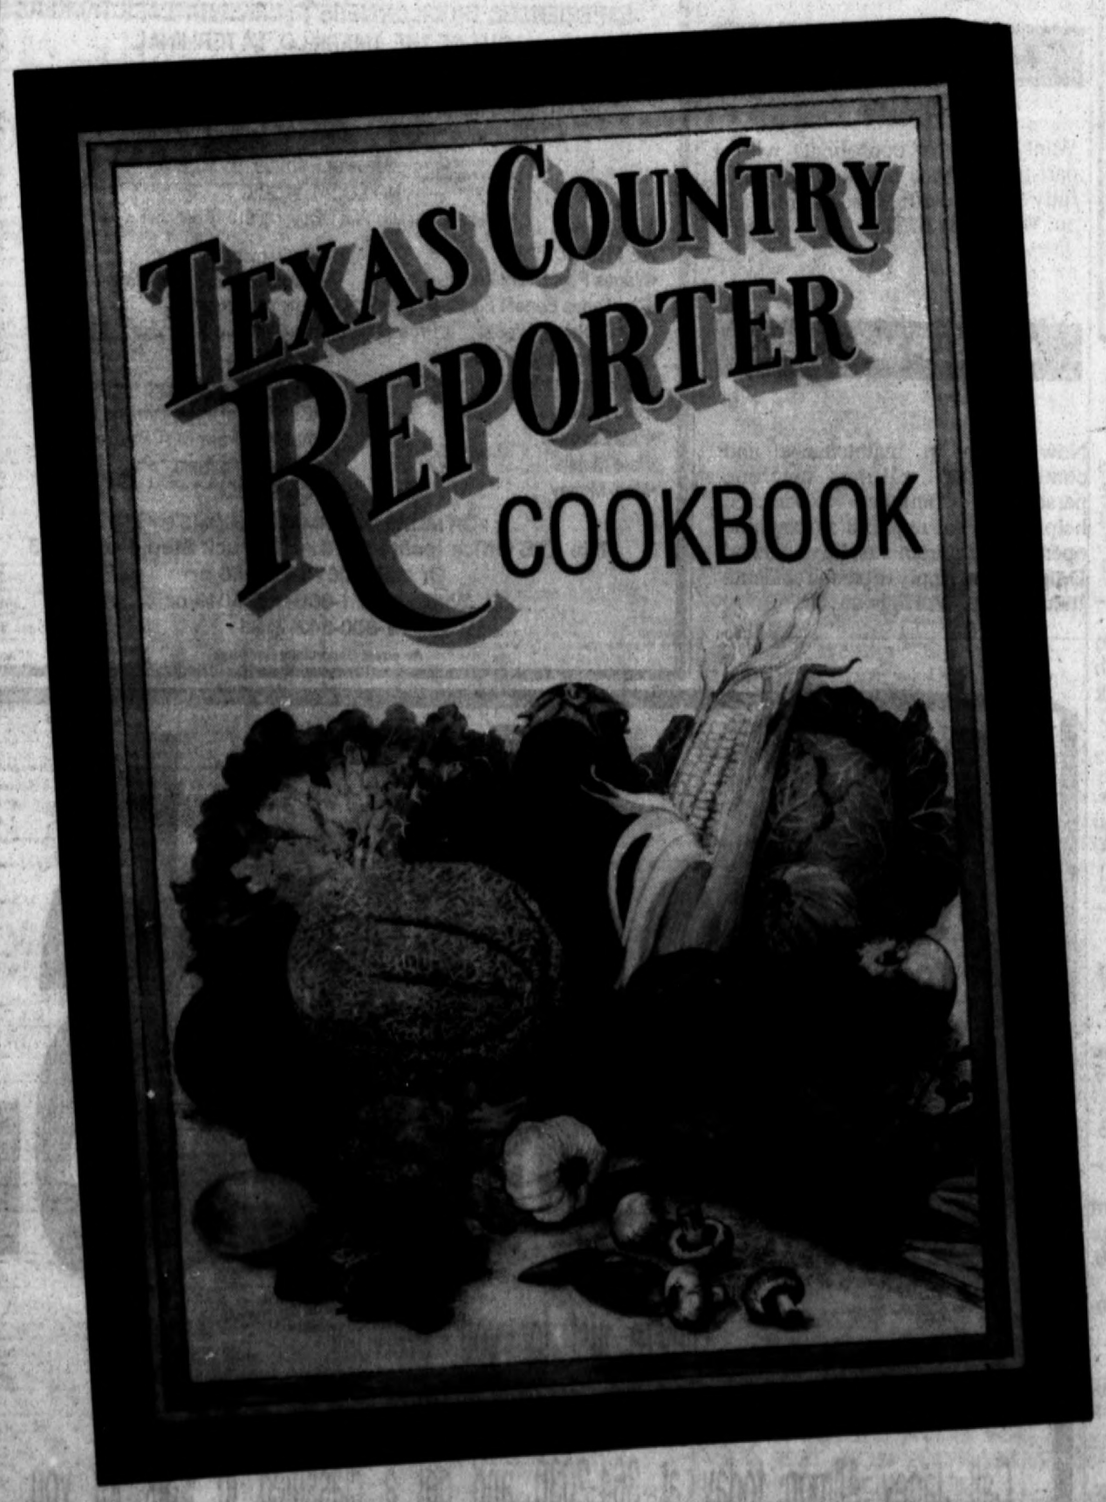

A. Yes, there is and it's as close as your pantry. You can use cornstarch as a quick-fix solution.

Other readers have written to say they use baby powder as a dry shampoo when necessary. Just sprinkle a little on the scalp, rub in with fingertips and brush out well.

Either one will help while your daughter cannot shampoo her hair. Just remember, these will make darker hair seem lighter until it is washed out! — Heloise

LEGAL NOTICES

ORDINANCE NO. 1310
AN ORDINANCE ADOPTING AND ENACTING A NEW CODE FOR THE CITY OF HEREFORD PROVIDING FOR THE REPEAL OF CERTAIN ORDINANCES NOT INCLUDED THEREIN; PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF; PROVIDING FOR THE MANNER OF AMENDING SUCH CODE; AND PROVIDING WHEN SUCH CODE AND THIS ORDINANCE SHALL BECOME EFFECTIVE.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE City Commission of the City of Hereford, Texas:

SECTION 1. The Code entitled "Code of Ordinances, City of Hereford, Texas" published by Municipal Code Corporation consisting of Chapters 1 through 110, each inclusive, is adopted.

Section 2. All ordinances of a general and permanent nature enacted on or before June 7, 1993, and not included in the Code or recognized and continued in force by reference therein, are repealed.

Section 3. The repeal provided for in section 2 hereof shall not be construed to revive any ordinance or part thereof that has been repealed by a subsequent ordinance that is repealed by this ordinance.

Section 4. Unless another penalty is expressly provided, every person convicted of a violation of any provision of the Code or any ordinance, rule or police regulation that governs fire safety, zoning or public health and sanitation, including dumping of refuse, shall be fined not more than $2,000.00; for all other violations, the maximum fine shall not exceed $500.00. Each act of violation and each day upon which any such violation shall occur shall constitute a separate offense. The penalty provided by this section, unless another penalty is expressly provided shall apply to the amendment of any Code section whether or not such penalty is reenacted in the amendatory ordinance. In addition to the penalty prescribed above, the City may pursue other remedies such as abatement of nuisances, injunctive relief, and revocation of licenses or permits.

Section 5. Additions or amendments to the Code when passed in the form as to indicate the intention of the City Commission to make the same a part of the Code shall be deemed to be incorporated in the Code, so that reference to the Code includes the additions and amendments.

Section 6. Ordinances adopted after June 7, 1993 that amend or refer to ordinances that have been codified in the Code, shall be construed as if they amend or refer to like provisions of the Code.

Section 7. This ordinance shall become effective from and after its passage and publication as provided by the City Charter.

Passed and adopted by the City Commission this 15th day of November, 1993.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married for three years to the most wonderful man. I would not trade him for anything. However, there's one thing about this guy that bothers me a lot, and I'm afraid to bring it up.

"Luke" owns a car. It's old, it's ugly, and it hasn't run in years. I'm sure that at one time it was pretty sensational, but it would take a lot of time and a ton of money to make it that way again. Before we were married, this car took up space in his parents' garage. We towed it to our first residence and then had it towed again to our present home, where it sits in the garage.

Ann, Luke hasn't worked on this car in years. Because of money constraints and the possibility of having children soon, I don't believe he will ever get this piece of junk running. Meanwhile, it takes up space that we could use. Luke's family and I have despaired of bringing up the subject without risking a big fight. He is very sensitive about it.

I know this car represents something important to my husband, but I wish it weren't such an albatross. How do I persuade him that it's time to let it go and move on?--Take My Car, Please!

DEAR T.M.C. Please: Accept the old Katrinka as a permanent albatroll. You don't have to feed it. Sounds as if your husband has an emotional attachment to the old rattletrap that defies logic.

Some differences between man and wife just aren't worth fighting about, and this is one of them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is about your response to "Loving But Not Able," the woman who was not interested in her husband sexually. Please don't suggest that she may have been sexually abused as a child.

It is good that she is seeking counseling. However, too many counselors are quick to blame a person's problems on childhood abuse. That alibi has begun to assume epidemic proportions, and I am sick of it.

My sister has literally torn our family apart with her unfounded accusations of sexual abuse. She decided to latch onto this as the reason for her teenage promiscuity and her failed marriages. She made her devastating accusations against our father publicly but privately has admitted that she doesn't really have any actual memory of these events. Her excuse is "They must have happened because my life is such a mess."

Please don't misunderstand, Ann. Those who have been abused as children -- sexually, physically or emotionally -- have my heartfelt sympathy, but too often childhood sexual abuse is used as an excuse for failure or inadequacy when no such thing took place.--Tulsa

DEAR TULSA: Thank you for putting a little light on a subject that has generated a lot of heat.

This sort of charge can be extremely damaging and should never be made unless there is a high degree of certainty. Thanks for saying so.

Gem of the Day: Those folks who seem to be so concerned about the high divorce rate apparently do not understand the law of supply and demand. There are more lawyers in this country than members of the clergy.

Revolutionary pact to create color-blind rule in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Negotiators today voted to transform the army and abolish "independent" black homelands, hours before F.W. de Klerk and Nelson Mandela were to sign a revolutionary pact to create a color-blind South Africa.

Working through the night, leaders of 21 political parties agreed on almost all major points of a new interim constitution that treats blacks and whites equally for the first time since Dutch merchants arrived in 1652.

The progress followed a four-hour meeting in Pretoria between de Klerk, now likely a lame-duck president, and African National Congress leader Mandela, the black former anti-apartheid political prisoner expected to take the country's helm after the first multiracial election April 27.

The package sets out an interim constitution and bill of rights, an electoral law, and legislation establishing independent broadcasting authorities, a 400-member national assembly, a 90-member senate, nine regions with their own legislatures and a multiparty Cabinet headed by a president and at least one vice president.

After its approval by multiparty negotiators, it will be sent to the last session of the all-white parliament for its rubber stamp on Monday.

Issues approved overnight included a plan to reform the army by integrating it with elements of black anti-apartheid forces, and setting out a two-tier police system, with police answerable to regional governors in addition to the national police.

The council also approved a resolution to reincorporate into South Africa four so-called "independent" black homelands, created in apartheid's vain attempt to permanently separate blacks and whites.

The states, whose sovereignty was recognized only by South Africa, are Venda, Ciskei, Transkei and Bophuthatswana.

"End of the beginning," The Star of Johannesburg trumpeted in a banner headline today.

"Today - precisely one year, 10 months and 28 days after formal talks began - South Africa's leaders are due to ratify a historic compromise pact, mapping out a path to a nonracial future," the paper said.

"A new country is being born," de Klerk said during a surprise visit Tuesday to the World Trade Center in Kempton Park, the scene of the harried talks.

Despite the signing ceremony today, government sources said the final charter could still be adjusted to satisfy the Freedom Alliance, a bloc of potentially dangerous conservative whites and blacks fearful of ANC dominance.

The alliance, which groups well-armed white, right-wing organizations and the powerful Zulu-based Inkatha Freedom Party, warned the government and ANC against finalizing any constitution without its consent.

Housing starts rise to highest level in 4 years

WASHINGTON (AP) - Housing starts rose 2.7 percent in October to the highest level in nearly four years, the government said today. They were up in the Midwest and South, but slipped in the Northeast and West.

The Commerce Department said construction of new homes and apartments totaled 1.40 million at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, up from a revised 1.36 million in September and the highest since a 1.44 million rate in February 1990. The September rate originally was estimated to be 1.35 million.

Starts so far this year are 4.9 percent above those of the first 10 months of 1993.

It was the latest in a number of recent reports suggesting the economy is picking up strength in the final months of 1993.

After growing at an anemic 1.4 percent rate in the first half of the year, the economy advanced at a 2.8 percent rate in the third quarter and many analysts believe it could surpass 4 percent in the fourth.

Many economists had expected starts to total about 1.37 million at an annual rate in October. They contended an improving economy and the lowest mortgage rates in more than two decades were boosting home sales and providing incentives for further construction.

Sales of new homes shot up 20.8 percent in September to the highest level in nearly seven years, although analysts do not believe that pace can be maintained.

QUESTION: Adam Holubec, a fourth grader in Canyon, asks, "How do bees know what to do if they do not talk?"

ANSWER: Honey bees do not use words to communicate as humans do, but they do have ways of letting each other know what's going on. Some of the communication is done by bodily movements, but most is done by a chemical, known as a pheromone, released by the queen or other bees.

Pheromone is used by many other insects and even higher animals. It is known as a chemical that influences the behavior of another member of the same species.

The queen releases a pheromone that tells the workers to keep feeding her laid eggs so that they will produce more workers. When he hive becomes overcrowded, she will then stop producing the chemical. Consequently, the workers will feed royal jelly to some of the eggs so that more queens will be produced. The old queen then can produce a swarming pheromone which causes most of the workers to leave with her to start a new home.

The worker bees also known from the pheromone odor which bees belong to their colony and which bees are from another colony. Workers will fight to the death to protect their colony. Of course, when a worker stings another bee or animal, the stinger is lost and she dies.

The queen secretes this chemical during her maiden flight so that she can attract a drone to mate with.

Besides pheromones, workers communicate by doing a dance. When they return from foraging for nectar and pollen, they do a circle dance to let the other workers know that the food supply is near the hive. If the new food supply if farther away, the returning bee will do a figure eight whaggle dance in the direction of the food supply. The number of turns in the dance indicates the distance of the food from the hive. Other workers can then follow her directions and seek out the nectar.

Dances also are performed by scout bees whenever the queen and workers swarm to find a new home. The scouts return from a search for a new hive and do a whaggle dance, showing the direction and distance of the proposed site. Other scouts then go to verify the suitability of the new location. If they concur, then all scouts do the dance and the swarm flies off to build its new nest.

Other insects use similar forms of communication. For example, when an ant dies, it releases a chemical that tells other ants to drag it out of the nest. If the chemical is accidentally painted on a live ant, other ants will drag it out of the nest too, even though it is struggling. If the painted and returns, it is drug out again, even through it is obviously not dead.

Though bees and other insects can communicate by doing dances and secreting chemicals, be it left to me to decide, I still prefer the spoken language we use. Learn it well, kids, because it is your best weapon for success.

Vocalist performs for DAR chapter

Excerpts of "Goodby, Ma. Goodby, Pa," "Over There," "Over Hill, Over Dale" and "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up in the Morning," songs of the World War I era, were sung by Ruth Fish as she began a program on the 75th anniversary of Armistice/Veterans Day for Los Ciboleros Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. The meeting was held Nov. 11 in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

Fish told of her father, Robert Holloway, singing these songs when she was a child and that he explained what the World War was--the only World War then.

Her father told of 1917 when he was 18 and had completed two years of college--a summer of harvesting wheat through Oklahoma and Kansas. Farming was regarded as being just as patriotic as being a soldier as it was feeding the world. His harvest wages were enough for a year in law school at Austin. When he arrived he was inducted into SATC, the Student Army Training Corps. Classes were canceled and regular "boot camp training" began. He was not able to join his unit when they were ordered to France because of influenza. With some difficulty a pass was issued so he might go home to recuperate. By the time the pass had expired, SATC had been deactivated. "The war to end all wars" had ended.

Mrs. Fish passed around the front page of the Dallas News dated Nov. 11, 1918, from her grandfather's scrapbook. She recalled Nov. 11 being called Armistice Day with parades and a school holiday.

The speaker explained that her grandfather, R.R. Holloway, had brought his family to Hereford in 1901. He came to work for G.R. Jowell selling XIT land to settlers. He served as county attorney while living here and was active in church and community affairs. His in-laws, the Clarks, established the Panhandle Christian College here in 1902.

His scrapbook is full of clippings about concerns of the era, poems he liked and a lot about the "Great War." Poems were read from the scrapbook by Mrs. Fish regarding the war including a poem generally known as "In Flanders Field" by Lt. Col. John McCrae.

Mrs. Fish concluded her program by stating, "Mankind is what it is, and we pray to God that the leadership of our country will not believe that there will never be another fight, or that putting all the countries of the world under one government might bring freedom or peace."

Opening the meeting, Regent Kathryn Ruga led the DAR Ritual assisted by Lois Gililland. Patricia Robinson led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America. Margaret Bell led the singing of "America" and Wanda Jones led the "American's Creed."

Vice Regent Helen Rose reviewed the President General's Message which encouraged members to place renewed emphasis on community involvement, quality education, renovation of Constitution Hall and strengthening the national society.

Charlotte Clark gave the National Defense report from the November National Defender entitled "We're All Americans; Let's Forget Hyphens" by Danny Hirt.

Argen Draper reported that Mayor Bob Josserand had proclaimed a special Veterans Day salute to World War I veterans at the request of Los Ciboleros Chapter.

Ruth Knox thanked members for bringing gifts and money for the VA Christmas gift shop.

Refreshments were served by Wanda Jones and Mary Williamson to Bell, Clark, Mildred Drake, Draper, Margaret Ann Durham, Fish, Gililland, Knox, Newsom, Robinson, Rose and Ruga.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 9 at the home of Juanita Brownd, 805 Baltimore.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: During a routine physical, my father's physician discovered an abdominal aortic aneurysm which was confirmed by ultrasound to be 3.5 cm. Dad is 82, active and in good health. His blood pressure is well controlled with medication. He takes no other medicines. Please tell me the risk of having surgery at this age as opposed to the risk of not having the surgery in percentages. How quickly will it increase in size?

DEAR READER: An aneurysm is a dilatation, in your dad's case of the large abdominal aorta. The wall of the aorta is weakened at that location and the blood pressure causes it to stretch. The weakness usually is caused by fatty-cholesterol deposits in the wall of the aorta that have damaged it. Those in the abdomen are the most common of the aortic aneurysms.

The danger is that the weakened aorta will rupture, causing massive and sudden hemorrhaging. Unfortunately, many of these are first discovered when they rupture. Your dad's doctor is to be congratulated on finding such a small aneurysm.

The risk of rupture increases with the size of the aneurysm. There is a general opinion that if the aneurysm is 5 cm in diameter, it should be removed — replaced with a graft. But even patients with smaller aneurysms are at increased risk. A study from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine reported that even in aneurysms less than 4 cm in diameter, 9.5 percent ruptured and caused death. A rupture occurred in 25.3 percent of the aneurysms between 5 and 6 cm.

The risk of death from surgery in the elderly to replace the aneurysm is between 2 and 5 percent. Of course, that depends a lot on the medical status of the patient, and how severely damaged the rest of the aorta is.

I'm sending you Special Issue 36-08, Obstructed Leg Arteries and Aortic Aneurysms, for more details. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/36-08, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

The only way to judge how quickly the aneurysm expands, if it does, is by regular ultrasound examinations. If it starts to show rapid enlargement, that would certainly be the time to consider surgery. Meanwhile, the best approach is to keep his blood pressure on the low normal side.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

Family Support Services to hold planning session

Family Support Services/Hereford will hold a strategic planning session for the upcoming year at 7 p.m. Thursday in the dining room of the Hereford Regional Medical Center.

The group, which represents a merger of Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence and Family Guidance Center, has had an active branch office in Hereford for over five years; the parent office is in Amarillo.

Family Support Services provides family counseling, shelter from domestic abuse and support following a rape. It has provided services to over 1,200 individuals and families in Hereford in the past year. The group has recently expanded to include more assistance to children, both through WHO (We Help Ourselves), a children's anti-victimization program and through special counseling to children who are going through divorce.

The organization requires both paid staff and local volunteers to meet the demands made upon it. "Working with this group has been a very worthwhile experience," Paige Arnold, a local volunteer, said. "The very term, 'family,' has changed so much through the years that the services are much more diversified that people might imagine. I know that my assistance at Family Support Services enables them to help many families work through a variety of problems."

The strategic planning session is necessary in order to set goals for this next year, according to Debra Moore, FSS director: "Sally Manning, executive director of the Panhandle Center for Non-Profits, will lead the session. We will discuss the special needs of the Hereford area and the services we need to focus on for the next year. We encourage everyone in the community who is interested in supporting this work to come to the session."

A United Way Agency, Family Support Services is a member agency of Family Services America and is accredited nationally by the Council on Accreditation Services for Families and Children.

Nominations are being accepted

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division is accepting nominations for Woman of the Year.

Anyone may submit a nomination for consideration. The submitter does not have to be a member of the Women's Division.

Nominations should be in writing giving qualifications and reasons why the person should be considered. The committee needs to be aware of as many accomplishments as possible. Letters do not have to be signed.

The Chamber of Commerce office will accept nominations until Dec. 17. For further information call 364-3333.

Despite governmental efforts to curb population growth, India is growing by 16 million people a year and will reach a billion by the year 2000.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Do you know of anything that will remove a cigarette-burn stain from white painted furniture? — Dorothy Kilgus, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A quick fix: Remove the black cigarette-burn mark with some extra-fine steel wool. Touch up the area with some matching paint and let dry. If the spot is lower than the remaining area, build it up with another coat of paint using a small brush.

If you want it to look like new, you will need to refinish the entire piece.

You will need to use a paint remover to remove all of the paint and the burn. There are many commercial products on the market that will make this an easier job.

If the burn is into the wood, it needs to be lightly sanded to remove it. Once all the paint is removed and burn mark is no longer visible, a polyurethane finish can be applied for a natural look or the piece can be repainted its original color. Good luck! — Heloise

PLASTIC MILK CAPS

Dear Heloise: Those little plastic milk caps sure make good covers for chair legs — quiet and they stop slippage. — Warren "Bud" Wiest, El Paso, Texas

WASHING MACHINE

Dear Heloise: One of your readers had trouble with a musty odor in her washing machine. You contacted a washing-machine manufacturers and they told you a remedy using chlorine bleach.

I was surprised they didn't say to always leave the lid up when the machine is not in use. This lets it dry out inside and keeps down odor as well as rust. — Louise Steger, Atlanta, Ga.

This is one I never thought about but sure is worth a try. Thank you for writing. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here is my favorite packing idea. I put out-of-season clothing in a tall plastic garbage can.

On top of the clothing I put a list of everything that is in there.

I also put several small pieces of cedar in a plastic margarine dish and make slits in the top of the container. I find this works just as well as mothballs and the odor is much more pleasant. — Ruth Glenn, Fredericksburg, Texas

Be sure the clothing is clean because mystery stains can appear later and can be so bothersome! For help with those pesky stains, I have compiled a pamphlet chock-full of quick stain-removal hints for clothing.
