

Court Justice Denton Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — State Supreme Court Associate Justice James G. Denton, who recently won a hard-fought campaign for renomination to a third term, died of a heart attack suffered while playing golf.

Denton, 64, first elected to the state high court in 1970, died Thursday. In the May 1 primary, he defeated State District Court Judge Bill Kilgarlin of Houston for the Democratic nomination, and faced no Republican opposition in the general election.

Denton died at Southeast Baptist Hospital in San Antonio, according to Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill.

"It sounded as if it were congestive heart failure. As I understand it, they tried to put in a pacemaker to get it (the heart) steady," Greenhill said. "He was unstable and didn't get as far as the cardiac unit because they couldn't get him stabilized."

"The information we have is that Judge Charlie Barrow drove Mrs. Denton over this morning as soon as we could find her. Apparently, Judge Denton died just before Mrs. Denton and Charlie got there."

Greenhill said he thinks Denton will be remembered "as one of our really great judges. He didn't do a lot of talking, but when he did, he expressed himself clearly and firmly."

Greenhill said funeral arrangements were pending at Hytlin-Manor Funeral Home in Austin.

A native of Bonham, Denton graduated from Texas Tech University in 1938, and received his law degree from the University of Texas School of Law. He got his law license on Dec. 6, 1941, and entered the Navy in 1942.

Denton served on mine sweepers in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans during the war, and was discharged in February 1946. He returned to Lubbock and opened a

House Finally Passes Budget

By JAY PERKINS Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has finally passed a budget but it will be months before the nation knows whether this battle royal has been much ado about nothing — or for something.

Republicans, predictably, hailed passage of their plan as the start of a new era of lower deficits and lower interest rates. But Democrats were pessimistic as to whether the savings called for by the blueprint could be implemented — and whether passage of the budget would have any impact on interest rates.

And the two sides differed over what impact passage of the GOP-sponsored plan, with a projected deficit of $99.3 billion, would have on the upcoming congressional elections in November. The Republican plan contains cuts in social programs such as welfare, Medicaid, Medicare, food stamps and nutrition — and Democrats quickly served notice that in November's elections, they were going after moderate Republicans who voted for the cuts.

"We ... will keep them under a microscope," said an aide to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.

Acceptance of the Republican plan, which had President Reagan's backing, came on a 219-206 vote after the House heeded Reagan's trans-Atlantic plea to "bury" a rival Democratic proposal. The House rejected the Democratic plan on a 225-202 vote and then, in the key vote, gave tentative approval to the Republican version

Ants Invade Hospitals

DALLAS (AP) — Patients in some Texas hospitals are exposed to a risk of disease from ants that have invaded surgery rooms and intensive care units, infesting burns and open wounds, researchers say.

Texas A&M University scientists, in a study released Thursday, said about a fourth of the 57 hospitals surveyed were infested with tiny Pharaoh ants.

"They have been found in all parts of the hospitals," said Harry Howell, entomology research associate. "There doesn't seem to be any area immune to infestations. In some hospitals, we found them in surgery rooms. At Brooke Army Medical Center, we found the whole hospital was infested."

Entomologists in the A&M Urban Integrated Pest Management Project said staphylococcus and other pathogenic organisms posing a "significant risk" to debilitated patients have been found on the ants.

Howell said 65 percent of hospitals within a triangle formed by Dallas, Houston and San Antonio were infested. Researchers have not determined why the ants are more prevalent in that area.

Other than Brooke in San Antonio, Howell said he could not identify other infested hospitals because the Texas Hospital Association, which cooperated in the study, requested anonymity for its members.

The survey, which began last April, turned up ants in intravenous tubes and glucose solutions. Howell said three ants were recovered from an opening in a patient's neck.

"The most common thing like that was where you had a large open wound like a burn," Howell said. "The ants come to feed on the burn site and on the burn ointments."

Some hospital officials mailed samples of their ants to

Mexicans Down U.S. Aircraft

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Mexican authorities said a private plane suspected of carrying contraband was shot down in Mexico by rifle fire after its pilot tried desperately to elude two chase planes with evasive maneuvers.

Customs Cmdr. Genaro Guerra-Dena of Monterrey, Mexico said the twin-engine Beechcraft 18 was downed Tuesday night about 100 miles south of the border on a beach near Las Vaquitas Island.

The pilot, identified as Dewie J. Sandlin, who listed his address as Brownsville, was arrested on the beach, but a passenger — possibly armed with an automatic weapon — escaped after the crash landing, Guerra told the Corpus Christi Caller.

Guerra said Sandlin suffered only a minor cut on his

Economists Predict Price Rise

By SALLY JACOBSEN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices, which rose slightly in April after dropping earlier in the year, will likely increase in the months ahead as food and energy costs climb, economists say. Nevertheless, the economists are predicting that any jump in wholesale prices will be modest. "There really has been a downward shift" in the rate of inflation, private economist Thomas Thomson said in advance of today's release of May figures on the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods. Thomson, chief economist for San Francisco's Crocker National Bank, and other analysts were forecasting a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent increase in the May Producer Price Index. That translates roughly into a 5 percent gain on an annual basis.

"That is still a very reasonable rate of inflation," said James E. Annable, economist at the First National Bank of Chicago.

"It's still in the encouraging zone," said Thomson.

In April, the Producer Price Index rose a tiny 0.1 percent after falling 0.1 percent in both February and March, the Labor Department reported. The twin drops in the measure were the first since the back-to-back declines in January and February of 1976.

The easing of inflation at the wholesale level, which ran at 11.5 percent in 1980 and 7 percent last year, has been largely attributed to the stubborn recession and the worldwide oil glut. Some economists are predicting wholesale inflation will go up as little as 4.5 percent this year.

The oil surplus has been diminishing in the past few months, however, as oil stocks tighten up, according to analysts. As a result, economists predict energy prices will turn around and start rising in the months ahead.

"The rate of decrease in prices of petroleum products slowed significantly in May," said Donald Ratajczak, economic forecaster at Georgia State University.

Added Annable: "Declines in energy prices were insufficient to offset increases in food and capital equipment prices" last month. Capital equipment costs are for machinery and transportation equipment used by business.

Price changes that show up in the Producer Price Index are a good barometer of how food, energy and other commodity prices will move at the retail level, as measured by the Consumer Price Index. The CPI, though, checks costs for a broader range of

Says Invasion Complete

Israel Orders Ceasefire

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli forces in Lebanon stopped shooting at noon today, 6 a.m. EDT, following a government decision to order a cease-fire, the military command said.

Israeli ordered the truce claiming its invasion army had "completed its mission in its entirety."

In Damascus, Syrian President Hafez Assad was quoted by the official SANA news agency as saying his nation accepted a cease-fire, provided Israeli troops withdrew completely from Lebanon. The Israeli communique made no reference to withdrawal.

There was no immediate comment on the truce call from Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in bomb-ravaged Beirut.

White House spokesman David Gergen, traveling with President Reagan in Berlin, said the cease-fire was "a significant step but clearly it is not all we sought. We continue to seek a withdrawal."

Israel's truce announcement came one day after President Reagan messaged Prime Minister Menachem Begin insisting on an immediate cessation of hostilities.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said in Bonn that Reagan had sent the message after receiving a note from Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev expressing deep concern about the widening conflict. The Soviet Union is Syria's main ally and weapons supplier.

Meridor read the announcement 75 minutes before the cease-fire deadline.

Begin's government declared that "any attempt by the Syrians to try again to bring into Lebanese territory ground-to-air missiles in the place of those destroyed by our pilots will be blocked without delay and with all the measures at the disposal of the air force."

Wednesday, the Israeli air force claimed it destroyed the batteries of Soviet-made SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley during massive air battles that knocked 22 Syrian warplanes out of the sky.

Thursday the Israelis again attacked the missile sites in eastern Lebanon, saying the Syrians rolled two replacement batteries across the nearby Syrian border into Lebanon.

U.S. presidential envoy

Philip C. Habib was expected to meet Begin soon. For the last two days, Habib has been in Damascus conferring with Syrian Hafez Assad about terms for a cease-fire.

The Cabinet statement declared that the Israeli army had "completed its mission in its entirety."

Israel launched the invasion on Sunday with the declared aim of driving Palestinian guerrillas 25 miles back from northern Israel and out of artillery range of Israeli settlements.

Benavides Gets Life Sentence

A Hereford man convicted of aggravated robbery was given a life sentence under the state habitual criminal indictment late Wednesday.

Joe Garcia Benavides, charged with the holdup of a convenience store here in December 1981, was found to have two prior convictions. The jury deliberated about 25 minutes on the guilt charge and about 45 minutes on the sentencing.

Benavides will remain in the Deaf Smith County jail awaiting trial on an escape charge. He and his alleged partner in the holdup, Virgil Lucero, face charges on escaping from the county jail in late April.

Two Injured In Accident

A man in serious condition with head injuries and a pregnant teenager were put under medical observation today following a car and motorcycle crash at 9:42 a.m., according to hospital and city police authorities.

The motorcycle driver, Gary Lee Bartels, 26, 902 East Sixteenth, was transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo after stabilization and suture treatment at Deaf Smith General. He suffered skull fracture in addition to laceration on the head and face.

Gloria Avile, 17, 403 Bradley, in here last trimester of a pregnancy, is under observation and will be admitted if labor begins. She was a passenger in the car driven by Antonia Garcia, 36, 403 Bradley. Other passengers in the car were Rachel Reyes, 403 Bradley, Ophelia Garcia, 307 Lake, and an unnamed male in his 20s.

According to Patrolman David Wagner the motorcycle was southbound on U.S. 385 when it collided with the car, westbound on Fifteenth Street. Wagner said the accident is under further investigation. However, he noted that he was in the vicinity of the crash and a sudden downpour of rain had limited vision in that area of town.

Reagan Challenges Soviets To New Peace Initiative

BERLIN (AP) — President Reagan, winding up his 10-day European odyssey, visited the stark Berlin Wall today, challenged the Soviet Union to a new peace initiative, and scorned communist regimes for being "scared to death" of freedom.

Wearing a heavy bullet-proof vest, Reagan stood at the white-painted line separating West Berlin from the communist East at Checkpoint Charlie for about five minutes, and said: "It's as ugly as the idea behind it."

Asked if the divided city would ever be united again, he replied, "Yes," and returned to an armored limousine ringed by more than a dozen Secret Service bodyguards.

Later, as the president delivered a televised speech in the safety of a tightly guarded palace, riot police battled hundreds of leftist-led protesters with tear gas and nightsticks four miles away.

From this divided city, where he spent 3½ hours under an extraordinary security guard, the president returned to Bonn briefly to bid farewell to his West German hosts before departing on Air Force One for the eight-hour flight back to Washington.

Thus ended Reagan's first visit to Europe as president, a 10,689-mile tour that took him to Versailles, France, for a two-day economic summit, to Rome for an audience with Pope John Paul II, to England for a two-day visit and to West Germany for a NATO summit meeting, and today's brief appearance at the Berlin Wall.

Accompanied by his wife Nancy, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., the president posed for photographs and waved to some Berliners leaning out of windows in a slum building nearby. A banner hanging from one wall read, "Thanks to the USA, Welcome Mr. President."

On the East Berlin side, armed guards glumly watched the president from towers.

Months of Work Pay Off For Nigerian Student

HOUSTON (AP) — Months of roaming a neighborhood where he was robbed and shot nearly a year ago have finally paid off for Alli Adelkun. Police apprehended his accused attacker, Margarito Zamarripa, because of the detective work. And Wednesday, Zamarripa was convicted, fined $1,000 and sentenced to 40 years in prison for the crime. Zamarripa assaulted Adelkun, a 21-year-old Texas Southern University student from Nigeria, last August as he worked the night shift at a service station. Adelkun said he was on his knees pleading for his life when Zamarripa shot him. The bullet lodged in Adelkun's neck. Upset that police reported no leads in the case, Adelkun began spending part of each weekday roaming an apartment complex where he had seen the robber flee. Four months later he spotted Zamarripa at the apartments and flagged down a patrolling police officer, who arrested the accused assailant.

Police Chief Criticized For Allowing Klan March

SEABROOK, Texas (AP) — Another 50 police officers have been enlisted to protect the peace of this coastal community during a Ku Klux Klan march Saturday. Police Chief Bill Kerber said Thursday the additional officers, recruited from neighboring communities, would be stationed at 25 intersections along the KKK parade route. But Kerber said he does not anticipate any violence.

The police chief has been criticized for granting the parade permit, but Kerber insisted he had no reason to deny the request. "There are constitutional rights involved here," Kerber said. "I didn't allow them to have this demonstration, the Constitution allowed them." Klansmen organized the march in memory of Billy Joe Aplin, a Seadrift, Texas, shrimp, who a Vietnamese fisherman killed in self defense three years ago. The slaying touched off a dispute between American fishermen and the refugees over shrimping rights in Galveston Bay. The KKK and the American Fishermen's Association say the Vietnamese have been fishing at night and have patrolled the Gulf waters to try to photograph the illegal activity.

Man Killed In Gunfight Battle Sought Help

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — A man who was shot to death following a gun battle with police was scheduled to see a psychiatrist the day he was killed, according to his girlfriend. Richard Cobb, 28, was killed Thursday as he ran naked in his yard, firing shots at a pickup truck. Cobb shot and wounded officer Pat McElhanny, who was listed in stable condition following surgery on a shoulder wound, officials said. Cobb's girlfriend, Nancy Gargan, said her boyfriend had agreed to visit a local mental health clinic the day of the shooting. Though she said she was "surprised" by the shooting, Gargan told officials Cobb had been behaving irrationally the week before the incident. Capt. Charlie Campbell said officers were called to a house because a nude man was in the yard blasting a pickup truck with a shotgun about 3:30 a.m. The man reportedly shot at the patrol car as it pulled up. When McElhanny left the car, he was hit in the right arm and shoulder by a shot from a .12-gauge shotgun. McElhanny was rushed to the hospital where doctors performed emergency surgery to save his arm.

Eleven Injured In Dallas Hospital Fire

DALLAS (AP) — Sparks from a cutting torch ignited a basement fire at Parkland Memorial Hospital which spewed thick, black smoke through the laundry room causing 11 injuries and some $200,000 in damages, authorities said. "It was mostly a lot of black smoke," fire department spokeswoman J.J. Howe said Thursday. "No fire or smoke went into the main hospital." The three-alarm fire, confined to the boiler room and a laundry in the basement, was reported at 9:24 a.m. and was extinguished by 10:20 a.m., she said. Although patients were not evacuated from their rooms, some patients were included in the evacuation of about 500 employees and visitors from the basement, ground floor and first floor, said hospital spokesman Greg Graze said. Those floors have no patient rooms. Carlos Ellis, a receiving dock worker, said he was leaving a restroom when he saw people running down a hallway to the emergency room. "I saw everybody boogieing out and didn't know what the deal was," Ellis said. "Then I saw my supervisor and he said 'You need to leave the building; we've got a fire.'" As a precaution, Parkland closed its emergency room for almost an hour and diverted incoming patients to other hospitals. The fire knocked out the hospital's normal power supply for 50 minutes, Graze said. The hospital switched to its auxiliary power during that time. Ambulances were diverted to other facilities because of traffic congestion.

Argentina Repelled British

By The Associated Press

Argentina said today that its outgunned garrison at Stanley beat back repeated British Harrier bombing raids, killed at least three commandos in a skirmish and took one prisoner. The Joint Chiefs of Staff report on the previous day's military activity around the besieged Falkland Islands capital came as Pope John Paul II journeyed to Argentina to plea for peace in the South Atlantic. It is his first visit to the heavily Roman Catholic nation.

Britain asked the Red Cross on Thursday to evacuate 250 civilians in Stanley and said it was determined to oust the Argentines despite devastating attacks on British warships earlier in the week. One British newspaper reported 70 British troops killed in those raids. John Paul, who visited Britain two weeks ago, said before he left Rome that he hoped for "a just and lasting peace" in the Falklands conflict. But Vatican officials have described his visit as purely pastoral and ruled out any mediation effort by the pontiff during his 30-hour stay. Church bells rang out Thursday in Buenos Aires to honor 700 Argentines killed since the fighting broke out 10 weeks ago, and Argentina celebrated its resolve to hold the islands by proclaiming a "Day of National Sovereignty."

"Be strong! Don't back down! Long live Argentina!" people shouted as President Gen. Leopoldo F. Galtieri appeared in Plaza de Mayo, the main square in front of Government House, for a brief military ceremony. "England already has suffered tremendous losses and will suffer more," said Argentine Navy Capt. Adolfo Arduino. "We are going to win... This is our most glorious hour."

But Britain declared it would take the Falkland Islands capital although it suffered shattering air attacks on its landing craft Tuesday. British forces, now believed to number 9,000, have been steadily closing in on the estimated 7,000 Argentines hemmed in at Stanley.

Britain has repeatedly called on the Argentines to surrender but Argentina has refused.

British Defense Secretary

John Nott told the House of Commons that the air strikes, which damaged four ships and killed at least six men, had not hurt Britain's plans to recapture Stanley.

In Buenos Aires, a communique issued early today by the Joint Chiefs of Staff said British Harrier fighter-bombers attacked the capital twice on Thursday and were repelled both times before they caused any damage or casualties. The communique said Argentine aircraft raided British positions and the results of the attacks were being evaluated.

About 1,000 people lived in Stanley before Argentina invaded April 2. Most reportedly took shelter inland away from the fighting.

Clements Optimistic About Settlement

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements is optimistic about prison-suit settlement talks set for later this month, but two of the parties invited to the session say they know nothing about the meeting.

Clements said Thursday his optimism is based, in part, on the U.S. Justice Department's willingness to agree with the state that inmates are not entitled to private cells in Texas' overcrowded prisons.

However, Texas Attorney General Mark White, Clements' Democratic opponent for re-election, later pulled out trial records showing Assistant U.S. Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds argued to a federal appeals court in favor of single-celling. Also Thursday, Clements said White's advice against negotiating a settlement in the case delayed a possible end to the lawsuit and cost the state over $1 million in fees for outside lawyers. He said negotiations could have started sooner, if not for White.

largely to the stubborn recession and the worldwide oil glut. The surplus of oil, though, has been diminishing in recent months, a development likely to lead to higher energy prices in the months ahead, analysts say. Indeed, energy prices, which fell 5.2 percent in April, were off only 3.1 percent last month. Gasoline prices were off 5.9 percent, less than the 7.2 percent in April. So far this year, energy prices altogether have fallen at an annual rate of 27.5 percent. May's energy price drops balanced out an overall food price increase of 0.7 percent, less than half of the 1.6 percent of April and below the predictions of several private economists. Today's report said that for the 12 months ending in May, wholesale prices overall rose 3 percent. Some economists are predicting that, for all of 1982, the rate of inflation will be as low as 4.5 percent. The index had risen 0.1 percent in April after declining 0.1 percent in March and 0.3 percent in February, a calculation revised today from the 0.1 percent reported earlier. The measure last fell for two months running in January and February 1976.

Patrolman Writes 687 Citations In 2 Months

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Traffic tickets issued by a single sheriff's deputy brought $15,000 in fines into Walker County the last two months. County commissioners are so impressed they're hiring another officer and are buying another patrol car. Walker County deputy Jim Blannar patrolled Interstate 45, which passes through Huntsville, with a new radar gun and wrote a total of 687 traffic citations in April and May. Motorists have already paid $15,000 in fines, at about $30 per ticket, and there are still some outstanding fines to be paid, officials said. Blannar said all the tickets were issued to motorists traveling at 70 mph or faster. "It's not as if we're writing tickets for 56 miles per hour," said the deputy. "Why waste my time writing tickets for the 60s and lower 70s when the real danger is the folks going 80 and 90?" Blannar said traffic on the busy interstate, the major highway connecting Houston and Dallas, moves at 65 to 95 mph.

Birdcages Reported Stolen

The Consumer Price Index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent in April after a 0.3 percent fall in March, which was the first drop since April 1965 and the sharpest decline since 1953. Inflation at the retail level was up 8.9 percent last year.

lower lip. The aircraft was carrying contraband cargo of television sets, cassette recorders and other appliances valued at more than $40,000, customs officials said. The United States does not restrict export of electrical appliances, but Mexico taxes such imports, which are worth up to twice their U.S. cost when smuggled across the border, Guerra said. Agents confiscated a 9mm pistol after the plane was shot down, said Guerra. It was believed the escaped passenger was carrying a machine gun, and .223-caliber ammunition clips were found in the wreckage, he said. After being requested by a hand-held sign to make radio contact with a Mexican air patrol plane that intercepted the Beechcraft, Guerra said the plane "changed course immediately and began evasive actions," said Guerra. The pilot was an expert and almost escaped, dropping his plane from 7,500 feet to 300 feet while customs officials chased in a single-engine Cessna and twin-engine Piper Aztec, Guerra said. "He flew up and down and from side to side... anything to avoid being a target," said Guerra. Guerra said the plane was finally shot down after rifle fire damaged one engine. Sandlin, 28, was jailed in Reynosa and charged with transporting contraband and avoiding arrest, authorities said. They said Sandlin listed a Brownsville, Texas, post office box on the aircraft registration, but a family friend told the newspaper that Sandlin lives in Seattle. Customs agents made the arrest after landing on the beach. Guerra said the customs planes were stuck in the mud but not severely damaged. James Cox, an Federal Aviation Administration duty officer, said Sandlin told the FAA that he would fly from Brownsville to Nuevo Laredo. After departure, the pilot radioed that he was changing course, Cox said.

researchers for analysis. "I would think that from some of the things we observe from the ants, that they have potentially more of a health hazard than cockroaches," Howell said. "We perceive them to be a problem in all health institutions," he said. But Texas Hospital Association spokesman Dr. Karl Shaner disputed the results of the ongoing study, and contended only inconclusive evidence was produced by the limited sample of hospitals. "My concern is that any inference that large numbers of hospitals have this problem and that it is highly contagious is premature," Shaner, THA vice president of research and development, said.

He also said the survey represents only 10 percent of Texas' 590 hospitals. But Howell said that infestations have worried many hospital administrators. "The biggest problem was at Brooke," he said, "where they had burn patients whose wounds were infested and ants in cribs in the nursery." A&M researchers are now trying to determine whether there is a link between the ants and hospital-acquired infections. "I could certainly see them as a mechanical vector," said Bobby L. Davis, chief of the Texas Department of Health's vector control branch. "Ants that crawl through filth and then across an open wound could bring anything they came through into you." Davis, who also cooperated in the study, said any insect infestations in surgical or treatment areas of hospitals should not be tolerated. But project director Dr. Theodore Gronovsky said hospital personnel frequently overlooked infestations of the ants. Pharaoh ants in Europe were discovered to be carriers of pathogenic bacteria and were also linked with the spread of swine pneumonia in a veterinary research facility. "The fact that we find the bugs with the ants may be circumstantial evidence," said Dr. David McMurray, a professor of microbiology and immunology. "The real link has yet to be proven." Microbiologists in the A&M College of Medicine are trying to develop chemical baits to control the ants. "For the debilitated patient, they pose a significant risk," McMurray said.

by a 220-207 vote. Reagan, in Bonn, Germany, hailed the victory in a congratulatory call to House Minority Leader Robert Michel of Illinois. "We pulled it off," Michel told the president. House Republican Whip Trent Lott of Mississippi told Reagan "Sorry it took us so long to get it right," a reference to the House's rejection two weeks ago of eight rival budget plans and of the earlier collapse of talks between Reagan and congressional Democrats. The victory in some ways was a repeat of last year's budget battle between Reagan and the Democratic-controlled House. Once again, Republicans won by picking up the support of conservative Democrats. But unlike last year, Reagan played only a bit part in this drama. This was the Michel-Lott show — and Reagan, in Germany, made only a few phone calls — no more than half a dozen, Michel said. Members on both sides said the need to do something was far more important a consideration than whether they supported either plan. The House-passed budget now goes to a conference with the Senate, which earlier passed a blueprint calling for a $115.9 billion deficit. It will be up to those negotiators to fashion a compromise that can gain final congressional approval. And then the real problems start. This battle was over a blueprint that sets spending targets. House and Senate committees must make the actual cuts. Already some say the task will be difficult. Republican leader Michel, asked about it, simply shrugged his shoulders and said, "We'll try."

Denton is survived by his wife, the former Virginia Kiddy, and five children.

Put Wishes In Writing

Dear Ann Landers: A very dear friend was buried yesterday. He knew he had a terminal illness and asked his wife in my presence to promise there would be no casket and no funeral service. He told her he wanted to be cremated. Period. I drove her home from the hospital that night, and she said she didn't think she could "do things that way," but agreed because she didn't want to upset him.

We sat in front of her home and talked a while. I tried to make her understand that she had a moral obligation to keep her promise. I explained that her husband was a very proud man, and if he didn't want his friends to see his ravished remains, she should respect his wishes. She told me, in a polite way, to mind my own business.

The evening before the funeral my dear friend was laid out for viewing. I heard people hasp as they looked into the open casket. I was furious with his wife for what I considered the ultimate betrayal.

How can I make sure the same thing doesn't happen to me?—The Last Double Cross

Dear D.C.: Put your wishes in writing. Give them to your next of kin, with a copy to your physician, your clergyman, your lawyer and your best friend. That should do it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you because I know you have a large readership and I want as many people as possible to see this letter. It has to do with the deterioration of quality I see all around me.

Last month I caught two errors on my bank statement, three mistakes on my insurance forms (one made by the insurance company, two by the doctor's office), an error on my water bill, two errors on a listing that involved my car (made by the Department of Transportation).

The quality of service in almost every area is becoming positively shabby. Example: I telephone the post office to ask about a mailing requirement and am put on hold for 10 minutes. (This is after getting a busy signal for seven minutes before I get a line.) After the 10 minute wait I am cut off—never did get the information I was seeking.

I receive an airline ticket with a wrong date, and the flight number is goofed up. I have to stand in line at the airport for 20 minutes to get it straightened around. This morning a button came off a new suit the first time I wore it and the door on my 1982 car wouldn't open from the inside.

Don't people care about quality anymore? Where is pride in workmanship? Am I paranoid or is this happening to other people, too? Please reply.—Had It In The Nation's Capital

Dear Had It: Who hasn't? Your complaints are some of the less serious ones I have heard. The mistakes physicians and dentists make are hair-raising, not to mention lawyers, auto mechanics, builders, plumbers and electricians. It you find an excellent seamstress, cabinet-maker or watchmaker, the chances are that they have been working for 35 to 40 years—or they came from another country.

This is not to say there are NO people around who take pride in their work. But whenever I run into a craftsman who is exceptionally good, I am thrilled. Can it be that too many things are being done by machines, and people don't care anymore? I hope not, but that's the way it's beginning to look.

UPSIDE DOWN...OR RIGHT SIDE UP?

Paul and Silas traveled through the cities of Amphipolis and Apollonia and came to Thessalonica, where there was a Jewish synagogue. As was Paul's custom, he went there to preach, and for three Sabbaths in a row he opened the Scriptures to the people, explaining the prophecies about the sufferings of the Messiah and His coming back to life, and proving that Jesus is the Messiah.

Some who listened were persuaded and became converts -- including a large number of godly Greek men, and also many important women of the city. But the Jewish leaders were jealous and incited some worthless fellows from the streets to form a mob and start a riot. They attacked the home of Jason, planning to take Paul and Silas to the City Council for punishment. Not finding them there, they dragged out Jason and some of the other believers, and took them before the Council instead.

"Paul and Silas have turned the rest of the world upside down, and now they are here disturbing our city," they shouted, "and Jason has let them into his home. They are all guilty of treason, for they claim another king, Jesus, instead of Caesar."

The people of the city, as well as the judges, were concerned at these reports and let them go only after they had posted bail. That night the Christians hurried Paul and Silas to Berea, and, as usual, they went to the synagogue to preach. But the people of Berea were more open minded than those in Thessalonica, and gladly listened to the message. They searched the Scriptures day by day to check up on Paul and Silas' statements to see if they were really so. As a result, many of them believed, including several prominent Greek women and many men also.

Witness Watches In Horror As Driver Runs Into Fire

HOUSTON (AP) — Percy Green looked toward the freeway just in time to see a chilling scene unfold — the grinding collision, the tanker truck overturn and its driver run burning from its cab.

Green said he'll never forget what he saw next. "After the crash, he jumped out of the truck and ran. He was just on a fire a little bit then — but he turned and ran back," the witness said.

The truck driver, Mark Hawkins, burned to death and two passengers in a car were injured Thursday in the fiery collision at the intersection of Loop 610 and Market Street on the city's far east side.

Green said no one knew why the trucker, who had apparently reached safety, turned back.

"When he got to the truck it exploded a second and third time and he was dead then for sure," said Green, who lives in a house near the freeway. "It's something I won't forget. He could have made it, but he ran back to the truck."

Hawkins' body, engulfed in flames, could not be removed from the wreckage for more than an hour after the collision while firemen fought to bring the raging flames under control.

Several residents evacuated homes adjacent to the freeway, fearing further explosions.

Police blocked off the freeway to keep motorists away from the heat and smoke, snarling rush-hour traffic for hours.

It was the second gasoline tanker explosion on a Houston freeway this year. On March 29, a police officer was struck and killed on the same freeway by a gravel truck slid into a gasoline tanker and caused a similar explosion.

Witnesses told police that a small car swerved in front of the truck, owned by Bay Oil Co.

Hector Luna, 31, Pasadena, driver of the car, told police he may have had a tire blow out. He said his car started swaying out of control. Two passengers in Luna's car, Isidoro Soriano and Rogelio Flores, were hospitalized with injuries.

Luna's car careened off the freeway and crashed into a chain link fence.

Green said after the crash, one passenger of the car ran back and tried to assist Hawkins.

"We had to hold him back to keep him away from the truck," Green said. "We hollered at him to stop but he kept going. The others told us to grab him because he didn't speak English."

Green said, however, it was already too late to help the truck driver.

Kirkpatrick Not Quitting Position

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick acknowledges her amateur standing as a diplomat and makes no secret of her yearning to return to the less abrasive life on a university campus.

But she insists she will not quit her post as America's U.N. representative despite her much publicized feuds with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and her opinion that the United Nations has been commandeered by Third World nations.

President Reagan, who appointed the relatively obscure Georgetown University political science professor, has let it be known through a spokesman that he retains confidence in her and has no plans to fire her despite her strong policy differences with Haig.

There have been repeated rumors in recent months that

Mrs. Kirkpatrick was on her way out because of policy and personality clashes with Haig, and the frustrations of representing a superpower in a world organization where a vocal Third World bloc holds the voting majority.

The latest flurry of rumors was prompted by a recent speech before the Heritage Foundation in which she complained of "our unhappy fall from influence to impotence" at the United Nations because "we simply have behaved like a bunch of amateurs."

She hastened to explain afterwards that she was not criticizing the Reagan administration's foreign policy, but was talking about U.S. performance at the United Nations in the last two decades and "about people like me."

Charles Yost, who served under President Nixon in 1969-71, was the only foreign service officer among the 16 U.S. representatives to the United Nations.

Her public self-criticism followed a deeply embarrassing American flip-flop in a Security Council vote last week on a resolution calling for a cease-fire in the Falkland Islands.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick blamed the mixup on a communications snafu. But Haig, who was at the Versailles summit of industrialized nations with President Reagan, created the impression that he and Mrs. Kirkpatrick were not on speaking terms.

A week earlier, Mrs. Kirkpatrick reportedly had an angry 45-minute telephone exchange with Haig during which she accused him of tilting U.S. policy too much toward Britain in the Falklands conflict and of losing sight of long-term American interests in Latin America.

However, Mrs. Kirkpatrick maintains that she continues to work with Haig, to whom she reports even though both have Cabinet-rank.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick has avoided fueling reports of a feud.

"It seems to me that everybody's version except mine is hitting the first-front section (of newspapers)," she said in an interview.

The average lightbulb doesn't hold a candle to the firefly. A good bulb converts only about 10 percent of its energy into light, wasting the rest as heat. A firefly operates its lamp without heat at better than 95 percent efficiency.

MAKING THE SALARY GRADE Prospects for the College Class of '82

The job outlook varies widely for this year's college graduates. Overall there are fewer openings, but for the specialties most in demand starting salaries are holding up. In its annual survey, the College Placement Council finds Class of '82 engineers have the best prospects — with petroleum and chemical majors at the top of the list. High salaries are indicated for two other survey categories, sciences and business.

Young Engineer Wanted To Play In Electronics

HOUSTON (AP) — Nolan Bushnell, a research engineer, decided at age 29 it was time to take computer games from the backrooms of electronic labs and put them on the market.

Bushnell founded a company known as Atari and developed the game, Pong. He tested the game as a coin-operated novelty in a bar. He returned the next day to find the coinbox overflowing.

At that point, Bushnell said, he knew he had a winner. Sales for Atari that first year, 1972, were $6 million. By 1976, the company was selling $50 million worth of electronic games. Bushnell then sold out to Warner Communications for $30 million cash plus stock and a seven-year employment contract.

Later, he bought from Warner an entertainment-restaurant concept called The Pizza Time Theater. The establishment combined pizza with video games and computer-driven puppets. It was considered a loser at the time, but now sales are nearing $100 million.

All of this success, said Bushnell, reinforces his belief that entrepreneurs need the freedom to put their ideas into reality.

Bushnell was in Houston to attend the National Computer Conference, a computer and electronics industry market show that ended Thursday.

"Rather than a corporate structure on top of individuals, those individuals should be served by the umbrella," said Bushnell.

He is following that philosophy with an organization he calls Catalyst Group, a company that concentrates on matching technology entrepreneurs with financial backers.

Bushnell said he spends his time "trying to make as many millionaires as possible."

"There are many people who should be entrepreneurs who aren't," he said.

Government interference is part of the problem, says Bushnell.

"Government is the biggest impediment to the future," he said. "Regulations tend to favor the status quo. When you upset the status quo, you obsolete an industry and that upsets people."

Border Patrol Without Unlimited Authority

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Border Patrol officers can question people about their citizenship as long as "the person stopped is free to walk away," a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton, in a ruling released Thursday, said Border Patrol officers can question a person believed to be an illegal alien about his citizenship.

But he said unless there is "reasonable suspicion that the person is illegally in the country" the individual must remain free to just walk away.

The ruling is a clarification of an earlier decision on a lawsuit filed against the Border Patrol by four Mexican-Americans in El Paso.

The four filed suit in March contending Border Patrol raids on area taverns in January had violated their rights.

In a temporary injunction handed down last month, Bunton ordered the Border Patrol to halt "warrantless, dragnet" raids in search of illegal aliens and ruled the Jan. 29 raids illegal because there was not reasonable suspicion that the bar patrons had violated the law.

Federal immigration legislation allows officers to question "any alien or person believed to be an alien" about his citizenship.

New Cash Crop In East Texas Woods

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) — The rich soil that made timber king in the East Texas piney woods is nurturing another lucrative cash crop — marijuana.

The weed springs up among pine saplings planted by paper companies. It snuggles next to watermelon and corn in local gardens. It flourishes in national forests and along river banks.

Law enforcement officials say that cultivation is too widespread and their manpower too thin to stop it.

"You could spend your whole life looking for it," says Sgt. Matt Wingo of the Brazoria County sheriff's department. "It would be a waste of the taxpayers' money. But I've done a fair amount of harvesting for people. I pull it up and leave a calling card."

The U.S. Forest Service reports that only $50,000 worth of marijuana was found in Texas national forests in 1981, but state law enforcement officials say that's only a fraction of what is there.

"We've got good, fertile soil, the climate is good and, face it, Texas is a big state," said Larry Todd, spokesman for the Department of Public Safety.

It is almost impossible to make a case against marijuana growers, officials say. Todd says he knows of no convictions under the state's tough drug distribution laws aimed at people cultivating a commercial amount of marijuana.

"You have to catch them in there working with the plants," said Rick Voelker, a Polk County deputy. "You can't make a case if someone is just driving away from the field."

His boss, Sheriff Ted Everitt, says it's rare that he even tries for felony charges.

"Basically, we go in and pull it up," said Polk County Sheriff Ted L. Everitt, whose officers last year raided a field of plants that filled 18 dump trucks. "We don't have the manpower to sit out there and wait for somebody."

Three men have been charged in a November raid which gathered more than a ton of marijuana from a 48-acre farm in Bastrop County — the biggest case in which felony charges have been filed. District Attorney Neil Pfeiffer said no trial date has been set.

East Texas cultivators can get away with making few visits to their fields, planting their seeds in wind rows and letting the rains and sunshine do the rest.

It's Nice Kid From Suburbs Versus Street-Wise Dropout

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Can a nice kid from suburban Long Island who loves children and dogs and who is always good to his mother whip a tough, street-wise school dropout who has spent most of his life battling social barriers and public indifference?

We should know some time around midnight.

That's when the curtain at gilded Caesar's Palace drops on one of the most intriguing heavyweight title fights in years.

Rangers Nix Robinson, Chiles Ready to 'Fill In'

By JOE STROOP AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — His eyes filled with tears and his voice breaking with emotion, Texas Rangers Manager Don Zimmer said he was surprised that his friend and boss, Eddie Robinson, had been fired.

"I thought it was me," Zimmer said, describing his first thoughts after hearing a change was being made. "I had a message to call ... and I said, 'That's it.'"

Robinson, 61, the team's general manager since September 1976, was dismissed Thursday as the Rangers' Executive Vice President for Baseball Operations.

"Eddie Robinson is leaving the Ranger organization, as of today," Ranger President and Board Chairman Eddie Chiles told a hastily assembled news conference. The Fort Worth oilman added that he would assume Robinson's general manager duties until a replacement is hired.

"As best I can I'll try to fill in until we fill the job," he said. "I'll be acting GM — I hope not too long but it may be to the end of the year."

"We have no one in mind, have not talked to anyone, have not even thought about it."

Robinson could not be reached at his home, office or club for comment. Chiles distributed a written statement from his former general manager, asking that reporters repeat the statement in its entirety or not at all.

It said: "I wish Eddie Chiles, Don Zimmer and the players every success for the remainder of this season and in future years. There are many good players on the team and they should do well. Eddie Chiles has my admiration. He is dedicated to putting a winning team in the Metroplex (Dallas-Fort Worth area). Eddie has been most understanding and supportive."

Chiles said he told Robinson of his decision earlier Thursday.

"We had a long conversation and worked this out this morning," Chiles said. "We have absolutely no other plans to make any other changes at the present time."

Chiles would not detail his reasons for dismissing Robinson. However, at the end of last season, Chiles said Robinson was being given absolute control of the team and would be held responsible for its performance.

"We're going to hold him totally responsible for what happens on the field," Chiles said at the time. This year the Rangers are off to their worst start ever, a won-lost record of 17-33. They are last in the American League in home runs and runs scored and their team batting average, .244, is near the bottom.

"We can't hit. We can't hit," Zimmer said. "That's not Eddie Robinson. That's not Don Zimmer. But that's why one of us got let out. I thought he did the best job he could. It's just baseball."

"Eddie Robinson was a friend — a personal friend," said Zimmer, who then began to cry.

"I don't feel good about it," Chiles said. "I'm disappointed when things like this happen. I would have preferred that we would have been in the lead and things had been rolling smoothly. But things just didn't happen that way so we're just making whatever changes we can ... to improve our winning percentage."

The remaining 2½ years of Robinson's contract will be honored, Chiles said.

After 14 years as a player, Robinson took his first front-office baseball job with Baltimore in 1958.

fell an ox with a six-inch left hook.

Also undefeated in a five-year pro career, he has kayoed 22 of his 25 opponents, eight in the first round, 10 others in four rounds of less.

He's always acts as if he's in a rush to keep an early date.

Surrounded by family, friends and supporters from middle class Huntington, N.Y., some 50 miles via expressway and the Long Island Railroad from Manhattan, he has been a mild-mannered, perfect gentleman all week, refusing to make waves.

"I don't like the word 'killer instinct,'" he says. "To me, boxing is a clean competition. I try to win as quickly as I can. I get no pleasure in beating up people."

At press conferences, he cuddles a fluffy elephant hand puppet, mimics his opponent and concludes by praising all of his camp aides by name and saying to the audience:

"I love you."

Holmes is the antithesis. Never as bombastic as Muhammad Ali, in whose shadow he labored for most of his career, he nevertheless has been outspoken, controversial and at times openly bitter.

He hasn't sought to hide that he thinks he has not been properly accepted and that the only reason his younger white opponent managed to gain a $10 million even-split of the purse was the color of his skin.

The fight has all the ingredients for a show business spectacular — youth against an age, white against black, supposedly soft suburban background against that of a disadvantaged black from a broken home.

The setting is bizarre — an outdoor ring surrounded by a luxurious gambling palace, beautiful women lolling in the sun with handkerchiefs for bathing suits, goddesses in brief gold and white togas wending through the crowds with drinks, the gaming tables humming from the action of the big spenders.

It's right out of Ancient Rome. Any minute, you expect the lions vs. the Christians.

We'll take Cooney in two.

'Won't Go Four If He Acts Foolish'

Holmes Predicts Win in Seven

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes defends his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship tonight against a younger, taller, heavier Gerry Cooney in the richest fight in ring history, an extravaganza to be staged in the parking lot at Caesars Palace.

Holmes, 32, weighed in at 212½ pounds Thursday, 13 lighter than the 25-year-old Cooney, who was 225½. The champion, at 6-foot-3, is also four inches shorter than the challenger. But the statistical edge hardly seemed to disturb Holmes on the eve of the fight, which will earn record purses of $10 million for both men.

"I'm sticking with my prediction of seven rounds," the champion said. "But if he acts foolish, he won't go four."

The two men weighed in separately, avoiding any confrontation. They have been kept apart for much of the last two weeks during training sessions because of incidents between members of their camps.

Cooney's people have harassed Holmes with taunts of "Tick ... tick ... tick," suggesting that time is running out on the 32-year-old champion. Holmes answered that at the weigh-in when he led his entourage in a chant, like a college cheerleader.

"What time is it?" he shouted at them.

"Holmes' Time!" they answered.

Both men carry impressive credentials into this fight which matches a master boxer against a powerful puncher in the classic stylist-sluggish showdown.

Holmes has ruled the WBC heavyweight division for the last four years, defending his title 11 times and ending 10 of those fights with knockouts.

Holmes by KO in 11th

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gerry Cooney, the challenger, says the pressure will be on Larry Holmes, the champion, when they battle in the desert heat tonight for the World Boxing Council heavyweight title.

Indeed, the pressure is on Holmes, who has spent a career proving himself over and over even though he has won all 39 of his fights, 29 by knockout.

But Holmes is a pressure performer. He reached back for something extra when it appeared he might lose the title to Mike Weaver. He got up from knockdowns by Earnie Shavers and Renaldo Snipes.

This ability plus his experience and boxing ability will hold him in good stead against an opponent, who at 6-foot-7 is four inches taller than Holmes and who at 25 is seven years younger.

Holmes has said that he is going to show the world that he is a young 32. What he must not be is a careless 32.

In some past fights, he has suffered losses of concentration. This could be disastrous against Cooney, who possesses a vicious left hook and has scored 22 knockouts in winning all of his 25 fights.

Holmes must also keep his cool, fighting a calculated fight.

Holmes must employ side-to-side and upper-body movement, make himself a moving target and not allow Cooney to get set. He also must keep Cooney off balance by firing his excellent left jab.

The challenger punches hard enough to become champion. But Larry Holmes will rise to the occasion and stop Cooney in the 11th round.

Ward Tops Pole Benders

Hereford's Rita Ward nabbed the top time in pole bending at the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association finals in Amarillo Thursday night.

Miss Ward rode in 18.346 seconds for her win in the first go-round.

She also placed sixth in barrel racing with a time of 15.369.

Hereford's Steve McConnell came in third at 9.338 in steer wrestling.

Their teammates will get another chance in a second go-round at 8 p.m. in the Amarillo Fairgrounds Coliseum. Performances will continue Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m.

If the time is right, it's odds-on your watch won't be showing it.

He is 39-0 for his career and has scored 29 knockouts.

Cooney is also undefeated with 22 knockouts in 25 fights. Eight of his fights, including the last two, have ended in the first round.

Holmes is the boxer, an expert at setting up an opponent. He is considered to have one of the best left jabs in the business. "I got here boxing and I'm gonna leave here boxing," he has said.

Cooney's left hook has devastated many opponents. He scored awesome knockouts in his last three fights, destroying Ken Norton, Ron Lyle and Jimmy Young — three men who either held or fought for the heavyweight title — in four rounds or less.

For these reasons, the fight has captured the imagination of the boxing public. The fans' appetite for the match was increased even more by a two-month postponement forced by an injury to the challenger's left shoulder.

Cooney says he is healthy now and trainer Victor Valle thinks the delay may have helped his man develop his right hand and made him more of a two-fisted threat to Holmes.

With the excitement the match has created, promoter Don King said the gross could soar past the record $50 million figure which Holmes and Muhammad Ali set in the same parking lot stadium Oct. 2, 1980.

Hrbek Streak Intact; Twins Nip KC, 8-7

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

It was the fourth consecutive game in which Kent Hrbek has homered. For the Minnesota Twins rookie, it was by far the best. "It put us in the lead," Hrbek said of his first major league grand slam. "That's what's been missing. It was what we've been needing. Getting a home run's not much if it don't help any."

Hrbek's homer Thursday night was the big blow in Minnesota's 8-7 victory over the Kansas City Royals. That snapped the Twins' five-game losing streak and Kansas City's eight-game winning string.

The rookie left-hander considers himself a streak home run hitter. "I told Bruno (Tom Brunansky) that he would probably hit more home runs than I did because I'm a streak home run hitter," said the big rookie who is batting .335 with 15 homers, 45 runs batted and an American League-leading 127 total bases. "I always did well in doubleheaders. Sometimes I'd hit three or four."

"I don't know if it's the home-run swing or not. I don't think home runs. The ball just starts going out. I don't know what it is. It's a streaky thing."

In other AL games, Chicago nipped California 7-6, New York stopped Boston 5-3 and Milwaukee outlasted Baltimore 9-7.

Hrbek has now hit in his last 15 games. He had a 23-game streak earlier this season and has hit safely in 46 of the 49 games this season. His big homer came in the fifth inning with the Twins down 3-1. Reliever Mike Armstrong hit Brunansky with an 0-2 pitch, forcing in one run and bringing up Hrbek.

"The key to the inning is he got two strikes on Brunansky and hits him," said Royals Manager Dick Howser. "One guy's hitting .230 and the other guy's hitting a ton."

"All he can do is get better and that's hard to believe," winner Pete Redfern said of Hrbek. "Next week he'll run for mayor."

Brewers 9, Orioles 7
A two-run double in the eighth inning by Ben Oglivie gave Milwaukee its victory over Baltimore, snapping the Orioles' five-game winning streak despite Baltimore's 17-hit attack.

Oglivie's double off reliever Tim Stoddard made a winner out of reliever Rollie Fingers, 3-5, who pitched the final three innings.

Ken Singleton, Lenn Sakata, Rick Dempsey and Rich Dauer homered for Baltimore, while Don Money slammed a two-run homer for the Brewers.

White Sox 7, Angels 6
Steve Kemp slammed the first pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning into the left field stands to lift Chicago over California. It was Kemp's fourth homer of the season.

The Angels had tied the game 6-6 in the eighth on Reggie Jackson's RBI-single and Bobby Grich's run-scoring double.

Chicago starter Britt Burns, who wasn't involved in the decision, didn't allow the Angels a hit until Fred Lynn hit his third homer in the fifth inning.

Yankees 5, Red Sox 3
Left-hander Dave Righetti hurled hitless ball for 61-3 innings, then needed relief help from Goose Gossage as New York snapped a five-game losing streak by stopping Boston.

Righetti had his no-hit bid broken up with one out in the seventh when Glenn Hoffman singled to right-center.

Dave Winfield homered for the Yankees, who scored two runs in the seventh on a three-base error by Boston left fielder Jim Rice.

College Prospects Said Drug Users

By TOM CANAVAN Associated Press Writer

While officials and players disputed accusations that cocaine use permeates pro football, a new published report says some National Football League teams drafted college prospects this year who were known to have used illegal drugs.

Don Reese, the former defensive lineman who triggered the latest uproar by co-authoring a copyright article in which he said cocaine use can be found in quantity in the NFL, faces investigations in two states concerning the article, in Sports Illustrated.

Nine top college prospects were discovered to have traces of cocaine or other illegal drugs in their bloodstream during a tryout camp at Tampa, Fla., the Orlando Sentinel reported today. The paper said all nine were chosen in the NFL's draft last April and that one of the players was an early first-round choice.

The tryout camp was conducted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers under the auspices of the United Scouting Combine. It was attended by 150 college players and the information gathered was shared by the 16 NFL teams that form the combine.

As part of the tryout, the prospects were given exhaustive physical examinations. The urinalysis portion of the physical, according to the head coach and officials of three other teams affiliated with the combine, revealed traces of illegal drugs in nine players, the newspaper said.

"As bad as we hate to admit it, nine out of 150 is probably a pretty low percentage," said Harry Buffington, the head of United Combine. "I should be shocked if there was less than that out of the normal student population."

Meanwhile, officials in Florida and Louisiana said they would either investigate, or invite Reese to discuss his June 14 article in Sports Illustrated.

Local Gyms Open For Summer

The Hereford Independent School District will begin its summer recreation program for all local youth Monday, HHS girls basketball coach Larry Sowers has announced.

Sowers said that the La Plata gym will be open to girls from 5-8 p.m. each Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evening, while boys will find the high school gym open from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays.

Tourney Entries Due Today

Entries for the Hereford Partnership Golf Tournament to be held this weekend are due at the Pro Shop at the Pitman Municipal Golf Course this evening. Entry fee for the event, which will be played Saturday and Sunday, is $80 per team.

Also, the course will begin lessons for all Junior Players (Ages 8-17) Monday, to continue through Friday. Course pro Mike Horton and HHS golf coach James Salinas will be conducting the lessons.

The lessons are free of charge.

Gun Club To Shoot

The Hereford Gun Club will shoot at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the club range east of the airport. All shotguns are invited to attend for practice or to compete for prizes.

Curtis, Padres Blank Astros

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Left-hander John Curtis, a former history major at Clemson, isn't one to quibble over semantics.

The 34-year-old journeyman pitcher for the San Diego Padres says simply that the difference between being a loser and a winner is not a good fastball or a wicked curve — it's a matter of attitude.

"I have a feeling of gradual improvement, and it's more attitude than anything physical that I am doing," Curtis said after throwing a two-hit, 5-0 shutout against the Houston Astros Thursday afternoon.

It was the first shutout for Curtis since July 19, 1979, and his first complete game since Sept. 30, 1980. The 11-year veteran faced 28 batters — one over the minimum — and allowed just two Houston batters to reach first base. Neither one got any farther.

In the only other National League game Thursday, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-2.

"Today it was just a matter of discipline," Curtis said. "I kept the ball consistently at the knees and below." The result was 16 ground-ball outs by Houston as Curtis won his third consecutive decision in lifting his season mark to 5-4.

"In the past, when I would go out to pitch I would wonder how we were going to lose the game," said Curtis, who finished 1981 with a 2-6 record and 5.10 earned run average. "But now we know the kind of weapons we have on this club spell victory."

The Padres, winners of seven of their last nine games, handed left-hander Bob Knepper his seventh loss in nine decisions.

Rookie left fielder Alan Wiggins got Curtis the only run he needed when he singled in Luis Salazar after the Padres' third baseman doubled in the third inning. Wiggins also stole his 12th consecutive base and his 21st in 29 games, and made a fine running catch in the second inning, robbing the Astros' Alan Knicely of a possible extra-base hit.

Catcher Terry Kennedy hit a two-run double — his league-leading 17th two-base hit — in the fourth, and Sixto Lezcano got the first of two RBIs with a solo homer in the sixth.

The final Padre run came in the seventh when Garry Templeton walked, stole second and scored on a single by Lezcano.

Knicely and Ray Knight had the only hits off Curtis. Reds 3, Dodgers 2.

An eight-inning single by Eddie Milner scored Ron Oester to give Cincinnati its victory over Los Angeles and hand the Dodgers' their fourth straight loss.

Reliever Jim Kern, 1-3, earned the victory with Tom Hume getting his 11th save, while Fernando Valenzuela, 8-5, absorbed the loss after three straight victories.

Oester started the winning rally with a walk. After Dan Driessen walked, Milner delivered his game-winning hit.

Michael Conway, one of Ali's attorneys, said that Muhammad Ali Enterprises was paid only $6.8 million of the $8 million fight purse Ali was guaranteed by contractual agreement.

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Connors defeated Hank Pfister 7-6, 6-4, and moved into the quarterfinals of the $172,000 Stella Artois tennis tournament at the Queen's Club.

John McEnroe also advanced to the quarterfinals by beating John Sadri 6-3, 6-2.

Estacado Blown Away By El Campo, 8-3

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Houston Sharpstown and Fort Worth Southwest got there by different routes, but they were to tangle today for the state Class 5A baseball title.

The two 5A survivors will meet at 8 p.m. at Disch-Falk Field on the University of Texas campus, site of all five titles games to be decided today.

Sharpstown got shutout pitching from Greg (Pee Wee) Swindell in blanking Texarkana, 3-0, while Southwest reached the title game with some timely power hitting from David Krippel in a 3-2 victory over San Antonio Jefferson.

It was Swindell's third consecutive shutout game in playoff action and it was only the second shutout suffered by Texarkana in its past 139 games.

Speaking of his southpaw pitcher, Sharpstown coach Dick Janse said Swindell "was the whole story tonight."

"We were planning to throw him from the very beginning because we knew Texarkana had used as many as eight left-handed hitters in its starting lineup," Janse said.

Swindell, who struck out eight Tigers and allowed just eight hits, said, "I can't remember ever throwing three straight shutouts. I can't even remember throwing three shutouts in one year at any level."

Krippel's run-scoring triple in the sixth inning, his second of the game, drove home the winning run in Southwest's 3-2 victory over San Antonio Jefferson.

The sixth inning triple drove home Ted Trully from second base with the tie-breaking run.

Southwest grabbed the lead in the first inning when Robby Bolinger scored on an error and Krippel's first triple drove home pitcher Mike Reed.

Jefferson bounced back to tie the score at 2-2 in the fourth inning with four of their five hits. Reed only allowed one Mustang to reach base after the fourth inning as he improved his record to 15-2.

Southwest coach Tommy Ingram said his team didn't do anything different in the semifinal game.

"We've been doing the same thing that we have done in all the playoffs. We got good pitching, clutch hitting and didn't make any errors."

Krippel said a slight change in his batting stance may have helped him slam the two long-distance triples.

"I've had long hits before, but nothing like the ones tonight. I felt a little more confident at the plate," he said.

Palmer and Burton of Class A opened the long day of championship finals at 9 a.m. today.

Wayne Mathis pitched a three-hitter and struck out 11 to lead Palmer into the finals with a 4-1 victory over Krum Thursday. Palmer won the title in 1979 and has finished as runner-up the past two years.

Burton advanced to the final with an easy 18-5 victory over Prosper in the other Class A semifinal Thursday.

Southlake-Carroll and West Sabine were to tangle for the Class 2A title at 11 a.m.

Southlake-Carroll beat Riviera, 5-3, and West Sabine edged Pottsboro by an identical 5-3 margin Thursday.

Crockett and Midlothian were to play at 2 p.m. for the Class 3A trophy.

Crockett slipped past Wylie, 4-3, and Midlothian beat Kenedy, 7-4, in semifinal action Thursday.

El Campo and Weatherford will meet at 6 p.m. to decide the championship in Class 4A.

El Campo beat Lubbock Estacado, 8-3, and Weatherford defeated Austin Westlake, 5-3 in Thursday's semifinal games.

Lye, Floyd Lead Memphis Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mark Lye credits a bargain-counter putter for a share of the lead he took into today's second round of the Danny Thomas Memphis Classic golf tournament.

The 29-year-old Californian matched veteran Ray Floyd's 5-under-par 67. They were one stroke ahead of Mark McCumber.

"My old putter ... the head was black, turning to grey," Lye said. "Just like my putting."

After arriving in Memphis this week, Lye visited golfing equipment manager Bert Dargie.

"He had his old putter lying around. I just put it in my bag," Lye said.

"He gave me a deal — $24.95 — one time only, just for me."

The new putter — a half mallet — worked fine, said Lye. "I made some putts that were unbelievable."

Requiring just 25 strokes on the Bermuda greens, Lye one-putted 12 times.

McCumber, a fifth-year pro whose best finish this year has been a tie for 20th, appeared headed for the lead until he double-bogeyed the seventh hole, his 16th of the pleasant day, and finished at 68.

Gary Koch was alone in fourth place with a 69. Among those at 70 was Tom Kite and J.C. Snead. Dave Hill, the only four-time winner of the event, was at 71 while Lee Trevino, a three-time Memphis champion, was in a logjam at 72 over the 7,249-yard layout.

Defending Champion Jerry Pate had a disastrous day, finishing at 79.

Wayne Player, the son of 1974 champion Gary Player, had a 74.

FAITH MAKES GOOD NEIGHBORS OF GREAT NATIONS

The boundary line dividing two countries can become a barricade of mutual hostility; but in the case of Canada and the United States it has always served as a bridge of friendship between two peoples with such trust, respect and understanding as to make the celebration of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week quite unnecessary. Nowhere along the three thousand-mile borderline that spans our continent have security measures ever been needed, and the citizens on both sides may enter and leave each other's land whenever they wish. This is a fine example of the spirit of brotherhood that has been taught by every religious faith, in every land. Wherever you live, you will learn this by attending the Church of your choice.

A living proof to all the world of faith in brotherhood.

—Guy Willis Bisland

"Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."
