Reagan stands tough in face of rough going

By The Associated Press

President Reagan, deriding "those Chicken Littles who proclaim the sky is falling," is standing firm behind his economic program, despite new signs Friday that the economy might be dipping into a recession.

The government disclosed Friday that U.S. economic activity continued to slide modestly during the third quarter, the latest indication that the economy is in an official recession.

Also Friday, the stock market closed out its worst week of the year as the Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.90 to 836.19 — a 16-month low.

Reagan, meanwhile, repeated pledges that he will seek a $42.5 billion deficit for 1982, a balanced budget by 1984 and increased defense spending. He acknowledged the battle of the budget will be difficult for himself, the Congress and the American people.

"I am not about to stop this long crusade," Reagan told the National Federation of Republican Women in Denver. "Let me say we did not sweat and bleed to get the economic package passed only to abandon it when the going gets a little tough."

Commerce Department sources said a very preliminary estimate of economic activity during the July-September period showed a slim decline at an annual rate of 0.5 percent.

At the same time, the department issued a revised report confirming that economic activity declined during the second quarter of 1981. But the revision showed a smaller decline than reported last month.

A second revision of the figures for the April-June quarter showed that real output declined at a 1.6 percent annual rate. Earlier estimates put the decline at 2.4 percent and 1.9 percent.

During the first quarter of 1981, the economy boomed at an unusually high annual rate of 8.6 percent.

Many economists define an "official" recession as two consecutive quarters of declining economic activity. However, government economists said Friday it still is too early to make a formal judgment on whether the economy is in a recession.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes, accompanying Reagan to Denver for the speech, told reporters aboard Air Force One that Friday's economic news "was not unexpected. It was predicted."

Recessions normally are marked by business declines in numerous industries and a significant increase in unemployment.

So far this year, most of the declines have been limited to a few sectors most sensitive to high interest rates, such as housing and construction. Unemployment is at 7.2 percent.

Economic activity is determined by measuring changes in the gross national product — which is a measure of all good and services exchanged in the economy — after adjustments for inflation.

Commerce also reported Friday that corporate profits declined during the second quarter, but not as much as initially thought.

After-tax profits fell at an annual rate of 9.8 percent during the quarter, the department said. Last month's estimate put the decline at 11.3 percent. Corporate profits rose 3 percent during the first quarter.

In other economic news:

—Amoco Oil Co., the nation's third-largest gasoline marketer, raised its wholesale prices as much as a penny a gallon, while Exxon U.S.A., the second largest, lowered its prices by a similar amount. The price changes are expected to be passed along to consumers at the retail level, analysts said.

—American Motors Corp. announced it is raising the prices of its 1982 cars and Jeeps an average 3.8 percent from comparable 1981 models. The price increase, which amounts to about $332 per car, is the smallest yet announced by the domestic automakers.

Capital bound — but not by plane

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traveling by car, van, bus and train — but not by plane — organized labor and its allies are massing in Washington on Saturday to protest the policies of a president who won't be around to see the Solidarity Day demonstration.

The Reagan administration denounced the affair in advance as partisan, unwarranted and ill-conceived.

The AFL-CIO, which is sponsoring the demonstration, estimated 100,000 will take part. But the United States Park Service thought the number too conservative and predicted Friday there will be twice as many marchers.

Although Labor Day parades attract large numbers of marchers, either figure would make it the largest protest ever staged by labor. Saul Miller of the AFL-CIO said never before had so many demonstrated in Washington against a legislative program.

Solidarity Day is the first major public demonstration against Reagan, the only president of a labor union to become president of the United States. Reagan planned to spend the weekend in his mountaintop hideaway at Camp David, Md.

Although the White House has been silent about the affair, a statement issued on behalf of Labor Secretary Ray Donovan denied the administration is insensitive to American workers.

"This administration is committed to providing those things which are most important to all Americans: a steady job, a decent wage and a secure future," said special assistant Earl G. Cox. "We want to work closely with the leaders of organized labor but we can't do that when they put on their partisan political hat and set out to oppose our programs indiscriminately."

The bulk of the demonstrators come from eastern states because union members, showing support for striking air traffic controllers who were fired by Reagan, are refusing to fly.

One of the featured speakers will be Steven Wallaert, head of a Norfolk, Va. local of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, whose arrest in chains was featured on national television and in newspapers across the country.

AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland decided months ago that a mass rally was needed to denounce Reagan's economic and social policies.

Gerald Ford feels Grand Rapids museum 'made of love'

By BRIAN TUCKER
Associated Press Writer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford basked in the praise of more than 250,000 hometown friends, political pals and world leaders Friday as he opened his $7 million museum on the banks of the Grand River.

Ford said that next to marrying his wife, Betty, the dedication of the three-sided chrome, glass and steel museum was the highlight of his life.

"This building is made of steel and concrete, but this moment is made of love," Ford told the crowd outside the museum.

Ronald Reagan, the 40th president, hailed Ford, the 38th president, as the healer of a country wounded by the Watergate scandal.

"Gerald Ford healed America because he so thoroughly understood America," Reagan said.

As police sharpshooters looked on from the museum roof, Reagan called his fellow Republican "a good president who led us well, a good man who sought to serve others."

"Gerald Ford healed America because he understood the adventure of America: her way of governing, her people, and the source of her strength as a nation," Reagan said.

"Gerald Ford woke us from that nightmare" of Watergate, Reagan said. "And during our Bicentennial, he reminded the American people of the collective wisdom of their ways and the remarkable achievements of their past."

In his remarks, Ford recounted past visits with the foreign leaders who traveled to Grand Rapids for the dedication. He talked of the gifts from Mexican President Jose Lopez-Portillo that are on exhibit inside and of his historic trip to Japan, the first by an American president.

Speaking of Canada, Ford said, "I regret that I was never able to visit the country of Prime Minister (Pierre) Trudeau, but I remember skiing with him at Vail and showing him the superb upside-down landing techniques I learned so well in the Laurentians 40 years ago."

Also present were Vice President George Bush, Japanese Foreign Minister Sunao Sonoda and Valery Giscard d'Estaing, the former president of France.

Before the ceremony, the Fords escorted Reagan and his wife, Nancy, on a 20-minute museum tour. As they posed for photographers under a stone sculpture of the presidential seal, a reporter asked, "Mr. President, what were your impressions?"

"I'm overwhelmed," Ford replied before realizing the question was meant for Reagan.

"Whoops, I'm sorry," Ford said quickly.

At one point, Ford and Reagan paused briefly at a videotape narrative of Ford's unsuccessful 1976 presidential campaign. Moments before Jimmy Carter's inauguration address appeared on the tape, the two men turned away to examine a Bicentennial exhibition that included U.S. flags made of popsicle sticks.

"Here is the Declaration of Independence in noodles," Ford pointed out to Reagan.

Thousands of people jammed downtown streets Friday morning for a parade featuring many of the entertainers who performed in a Thursday night taping of a Bob Hope television show. Mrs. Ford was parade grand marshal.

Police Sgt. Dennis Cook said people were lined up "10 to 12 deep" by 9 a.m. "This is a good crowd," he said. "People just want to touch the stars."

Half a dozen demonstrators at the dedication carried signs protesting Reagan's economic policies.

It was no circuit-breaking conspiracy

By RICHARD ORR
Staff Writer

It wasn't a conspiracy with Orwellian overtones that prevented hundreds of Midland residents from taking advantage of a special cable TV offer last weekend. Instead, say Southwestern Bell officials, it was merely a case of jammed phone circuits.

As part of a nationwide promotion, cable TV viewers were invited to call a toll-free 800 number and receive free gifts if they could answer questions about various programs shown last weekend on Spotlight, a 24-hour movie channel.

A clock would appear periodically on the screen and participants were given one minute to call the number. But many would-be callers picked up their phones only to find they couldn't get a dial tone. After the minute was up, the phones would work again.

"It happened to many, many people I know who have cable TV," said a westside woman, who suspected the TV cable company of some sort of phone gimmickry to keep from having to shell out prizes ranging from T-shirts to a color TV set.

"I don't know why they should have that kind of control over our phones," she added.

A random check by The Reporter-Telegram disclosed that several persons had the same problem and also thought their phones were somehow being manipulated by the cable company — probably in collusion with the phone company.

The 800 number was linked to phone banks in Tulsa, Okla., according to Tall City TV Cable Co. General Manager Tom Mixon.

Mixon said he received a complaint on the matter Wednesday: "But it was like being told about UFOs. It seemed far-fetched. I don't see how someone in Tulsa could kill phones here — or would want to."

A call to Southwestern Bell cleared up the mystery and laid the conspiracy theory to rest. According to company spokesman Clay Cody, Bell's equipment is designed to deny a dial tone any time phone circuits get overloaded with calls.

"Ninety-nine percent of the time you get a dial tone within three seconds," he said. "But we're absolutely unable to serve all customers at once. If (the phones) all go off hook at one time, you'll automatically not get a dial tone. The same thing happened when John Kennedy was killed. It was pure central office overload."

Cody likened the situation to a four-lane freeway that's jammed at rush hour but empty at two in the morning. To build a 20-lane road that would remain vacant much of the time wouldn't be practical.

Meanwhile, Mixon said Friday at least three Midlanders did win T-shirts and indicated he was pleased with the response to the promotion.

Clements reverses position on aliens

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements emerged from a one-hour meeting with Attorney General William French Smith Friday and said he no longer objects to President Reagan's proposal for granting amnesty and legalization to Mexican workers who have crossed illegally into Texas.

His previous outbursts against the program were because he misunderstood a key element of the plan. The misunderstanding became quickly obvious and was hastily cleared up in their meeting, the governor added.

"I'm encouraged we can reach a mutually acceptable and supportable accommodation," Clements told newsmen outside Smith's office.

Government officials had said when the program goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1982, that up to 50,000 Mexicans would be allowed into Texas each year to work on a temporary basis.

Another part of the program provides for allowing all illegal aliens now in Texas, for whatever reason as long as they were in the state before Jan. 1, 1980, to surface and become legal.

Clements had protested that Texas had far more than 50,000 illegal Mexican aliens and that legalizing that many wouldn't touch the problem. After meeting with Smith on Friday, the governor said he became aware his conception was wrong.

"There has been a great misunderstanding on the 50,000 figure, and I want to clear it up. The 50,000 figure in the guest worker program envisions 50,000 aliens not now in the United States being issued guest worker visas," Clements said.

"The 50,000 has no relation to those already in the United States. Those in the United States already, whatever the number may be — and there's been a wide discrepancy on the figure — they will surface, come out from cover and be identified. They would not be illegal any more and, through some type of paper given them, they would be legal."

Under the proposals being studied, an alien could gain permanent status by living and working in Texas for 10 years and then meeting an additional 5-year residence requirement on a flexible basis.

The aliens being given legal status would, perhaps, be allowed to move back and forth between Texas and Mexico each year for some period of time not yet determined, Clements said, with time spent in Texas counting toward the time they would be required to accumulate.

The idea of renewable temporary work visas "is new to me, and not the way I understood it before," Clements said.

"I am certainly pleased with the result of our discussion. It's a constructive step forward. We will no longer have this subculture of people who are illegal," the governor added.

He called the meeting a good one, involving an open exchange of ideas.

"There was an agreement by all that exchanges will continue, that the next move in sequence is to start drafting legislation. Hearings are already underway on the illegal alien issue," Clements said.

The Justice Department has intervened in a suit involving the condition of Texas prisons, but Clements said that did not come up in the meeting.

"That's before the Fifth Court of Appeals, and it's my understanding that will be decided shortly," he said.

The government recently announced it would step out of suits concerning bilingual education in Texas.

"I told him I totally agreed with his position and that pushing such an issue downstream to Texas is exactly the way he should have handled it," the governor said about his conversation with Smith on that topic.

Clements left after about five minutes of questions, after which an assistant attorney general, David D. Hiller, told newsmen the differences between Clements and Smith quickly melted away.

"We put the governor's understanding on one side and the president's on the other side to see where any overlap lay," Hiller said.

"We were all pleased to discover our positions were much closer than it had appeared. There was a general misunderstanding about the mechanics of the program. Having that cleared up, we think everything will run smoothly now," Hiller added.

"But we aren't attributing the misunderstanding just to the governor's staff. Maybe we didn't make it as clear as we should have."

Nominees urges Senate to approve AWACS sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five nominees for U.S. ambassador posts in Arab countries urged the Senate on Friday to approve President Reagan's $8.5 billion sale of AWACS radar warning planes and other arms to Saudi Arabia.

"There is an amazing congruence of interests between Riyadh and Washington," Richard Murphy, the designated new envoy to Saudi Arabia, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Joseph V. Reed, a Chase Manhattan banker who is headed for Morocco, said he believes Reagan "should be able to conduct his foreign policy straightforwardly and without veto or intervention from exterior forces."

After the hearing, Reed said he meant other countries. The reference presumably was to Israel, which opposes the sale of the five AWACS planes to the Saudis as a threat to its own security.

The three other nominees backing the sale were Michael H. Newlin, ambassador to Algeria; Robert Paganelli, ambassador to Syria, and David E. Zweifel, ambassador to North Yemen.

Their confirmation by the committee and then the full Senate seems assured.

Meanwhile, a senior administration official told reporters that selling the arms to Saudi Arabia would give the Untited States access to airstrips, equipment, spare parts and repair yards useful in a military emergency.

The official, who barred use of his name, said a veto "would badly undercut, if not destroy, the capability of the United States to work for the protection of the Persian Gulf and to work with moderate Arab governments."

He said Israel could be "reasonably concerned" about the other key part of the deal — enhancing the range and firepower of the 62 F16jets the United States is selling the Saudis. But the AWACS planes really pose no danger to Israel, he maintained.

All five ambassador nominees were picked for their posts by Reagan. Their support for the sale, which faces a close vote nexr month in the Senate, was prompted by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., and challenged by Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn.

"I don't think this country can continue to arm that area in such a profligate way as to increase tensions in the area," Boschwitz said.

Murphy, a veteran specialist in Arab affairs, said the arms deal is "a considered response by the United States to the needs of a friend."

He said a Congressional veto could cause the "unraveling" of U.S. relations with Saudi Arabia and other Arab countries.

Newlin said Saudi Arabia "has been helpful in the peace process" and Paganelli said the outcome in Congress tests "the credibility of the United States as an impartial interlocutor in the Arab-Israeli dispute."

Newlin said "a negative decision will confirm the view we cannot play an impartial role."

Meanwhile Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and one of 50 supporters of a resolution opposing the sale, met with Saudi Prince Bandar Bin Sultan.

"I did not come to win or lose," the prince told reporters. "I came just to explain to the senator some of our positions, and I think he was kind enough to give us a fair hearing."

Pressler said he remains opposed to the sale, but said he thinks that in view of the opposition to it the administration might be willing to work out a compromise.

He said he might support a compromise such as a lease arrangement that provides for greater U.S. control on the use of the planes and the sharing of the information they gathered.

Asked if the Saudis could accept such a compromise, the prince said, "That is for the president of the United States to discuss with his Senate."

In another development, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, a member of the defense appropriations subcommittee, said he would support the sale "because it is in the best interests of the United States, which should be the guiding principle in any foreign policy decision."

Economic activity continues to slide

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. economic activity continued to slide modestly during the third quarter, the government disclosed Friday. The report raised the prospect that the economy may be dipping into its eighth recession since World War II.

Commerce Department sources said a very preliminary estimate of economic activity during the July-September period showed a slim decline at an annual rate of 0.5 percent.

At the same time, the department issued a revised report confirming that economic activity declined during the second quarter of 1981. But the revision showed a smaller decline than reported last month.

A second revision of the figures for the April-June quarter showed that real output declined at a 1.6 percent annual rate.

In August, the department estimated the economy declined at a 2.4 percent annual rate. The month before, it put the decline at 1.9 percent.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes, accompanying President Reagan to Denver for a presidential speech, told reporters aboard Air Force One that the economic news Friday "was not unexpected. It was predicted."

Economic activity is determined by measuring changes in the gross national product after adjustments for inflation.

Two consecutive quarters of declining economic activity would constitute an "official" recession under a general rule that had been used by most economists. However, that rule was broken last year and government economists said Friday that it was still too early to make a formal judgment on whether the economy could be classified currently as in a recession.

"We do not have enough evidence to make a judgement," said Theodore Torda, acting chief economist for the Commerce Department.

Torda said economists must wait at least a month, when the government is to make its first official estimate for economic activity during the third quarter.

Government economists cautioned that the 0.5 percent decline disclosed Friday is a very rough, imprecise and unofficial estimate that easily can be revised to show an increase when the first official figures are released.

Torda said that even if the official figures showed a 0.5 percent decline, that might not be a large enough fall to classify the economy as being in a recession.

The official arbiter of recessions is the National Bureau of Economic Research, a private economic panel based in Cambridge, Mass.

Last year, the bureau broke the two-consecutive-quarter rule by declaring the nation's seventh post-war recession on the basis of a decline in a single quarter — the second quarter.

Although economic activity started rebounding in the third quarter of 1980, the decline in the April-June period was so steep and broad, that the bureau decided a recession had occurred.

Economic activity declined at a record annual rate of 9.9 percent during the spring quarter of 1980.

During the first quarter of 1981, the economy boomed at an unusually high annual rate of 8.6 percent.

Recessions normally are marked by business declines in numerous industries and a significant increase in unemployment.

So far this year, however, most of the declines have been limited to a few sectors most sensitive to high interest rates, such as housing and construction. Unemployment, meanwhile, is currently 7.2 percent, about where it has been for more than a year.

Robert Dederick, an assistant commerce secretary, said economic activity in the third quarter was running "flat to slightly down."

Most of the strength is in consumer durable goods, particularly rebate-induced new domestic car sales; consumer services, and defense purchases.

The most weakeness is occurring in housing, exports, non-defense federal purchases and cutbacks in state and local government construction and employment.

Commerce also reported Friday that corporate profits declined during the second quarter, but not as much as initially thought.

Midland's sales tax share larger than Odessa figure

Midland has won out over Odessa when it comes to the amount of sales tax refunded to the two cities, based on the amount of sales in the respective towns. The figures were released this week by State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

For September, Midland's payment will be $808,977.00. This is almost double the payment for the same time last year of $313,362.00. And for the year to date, Midland's payments have totaled $6,568,554.02. This is a 49.17 percent increase over last year's figure of $4,401,972.02.

Meanwhile, Odessa fell behind the Tall City on its September payment by receiving $595,458.84. In September 1980, Odessa was on top with $319,644.66. Payments for the year to date also put Odessa in second place with $6,430,707.33. Last year the total of $4,944,245.92 was above that of Midland. For the year so far, Odessa's rebates are up 30.06 percent over that of last year.

The optional one cent city sales tax is collected by merchants and businesses along with the 4 percent state sales tax and returned each month by the comptroller to the city in which it is collected.

Leading the procession down Founder's Mall during his inauguration as president of Baylor University Friday in Herbert Hal Reynolds.

Baylor University president inaugurated

WACO, Texas (AP) — Herbert Reynolds was inaugurated as Baylor University's 11th president Friday and promised the 2,200 people attending the ceremony that the school would continue to remain true to its Christian heritage during his tenure.

Reynolds, 51, assumed the duties of the office June 1 after Abner McCall announced his retirement after 20 years as the university president. McCall will serve as Baylor's chancellor.

W. Dewey Presley, chairman of the Baylor board of trustees who presided at the inauguration, said Vice President George Bush had sent his congratulations.

Distinguished Alumnus Leon Jaworski, former Watergate special prosecutor, called Reynolds a "worthy successor" to McCall.

Jaworski noted that during McCall's term as president, Baylor's enrollment almost doubled, the campus grew in size from 50 acres to 300 and capital assets increased from $36 million to $180 million.

"Throughout our 136 years, Baylor has remained true to its Christian heritage while seeking enlightened educational goals," said Reynolds. "During my tenure as president, I pledge that we will continue to remain true to that heritage... We will place a very high priority on the compensation and professional development of our people.

"It is not unrealistic but rather necessary for us to set as our goal a $250 million endowment by the end of this decade or at least early in the 1990s," Reynolds added.

Reynolds formerly served as executive vice president and chief operating officer of the university.

A native of Frankston, Texas, he was graduated from Trinity University with a bachelor of science and served four years with the Air Force. He went on to earn a master's degree in psychology from Baylor, where he became a teaching fellow while earning his Ph.D.

In 1968, he was invited to return to Baylor as senior vice president and tenured professor of psychology. He was elected chief operating officer in 1978.

'Blood and Money' house to go on selling block

HOUSTON (AP) — The white, wood-frame mansion that served as the backdrop for one of Texas' most celebrated murders and the best-selling novel, "Blood and Money," is being put on the selling block.

The asking price for the two-story house, which is expected to go on the real estate market next month, will be about $1.75 million, the Houston Post reported.

It became part of an estate squabble between oil baron Ash Robinson and Robert Hill, the only child of the late Dr. John Hill and Joan Robinson Hill.

Mrs. Hill, a champion horsewoman, died in 1969 of a mysterious illness. Her husband, a prominent Houston plastic surgeon, was accused in her murder but he was gunned down before his trial in 1972 by an unknown assailant. Robinson was accused of masterminding his son-in-law's murder.

In 1977, a state court jury ruled that Robinson was not involved in his son-in-law's bizarre death. Less than a year later, a probate court jury rebutted claims by Hill that his mother's will was forged and found that Robinson was the rightful heir to her estate.

The scars of the two highly-publicized court battles left Robinson and his only grandchild estranged.

But Hill, 21, says the animosity diminished during six visits to Robinson's Florida home in the past 15 months, where he frequently looked at "thousands" of pictures of his mother.

"Our relationships have improved a great deal, but I would hope people would understand that these are relationships I want to keep private," Hill told the Houston Post in a telephone interview from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he attends college.

"The important thing is we're working together to sell the house. There are not two sides pitted against each other," he said.

Hill said he and Robinson agreed last month to sell the mansion, which includes a second-floor music room considered one of the most acoustically-advanced facilities in the country.

"I just can't afford to keep it up," Hill said. "I don't have the kind of money to live in the thing for the rest of my life. Owning a big house is a big reponsibility, particularly for someone as inexperienced as I am."

He also said his stepmother, Connie Hill, plans to be married Saturday. "Mother (Connie) could no longer take care of the place. It's up to me. I have the reins. But I'm in school and it's not easy for me to take care of it either."

Robinson, who sold his home just a few blocks from the Hill mansion a few years ago, and his grandson have devised a formula to split the profits from the sale.

Half will placed in a trust fund set up by the young man's father and administered by the First City National Bank of Houston until Hill is 33. The other half goes to Mrs. Hill's estate, which was left to Robinson.

Robinson, reached at his Pensacola, Fla., home, said he did not know the details surrounding the sale but added, "Whatever he says, I'll vouch for."

Two Medicaid plans presented

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A consultant presented the State Board of Human Resources two alternatives Friday for operating Texas' $400 million-a-year Medicaid system but said H. Ross Perot might be the only bidder if one of them is chosen.

Touche Ross & Co. said the current system, in which the state pays insurance premiums to Perot for medical care of 700,000 needy Texans, should be scrapped.

The board is expected to decide Sept. 24 how Medicaid should be operated, then call for competitive bids.

It commissioned the Touche Ross study after deciding last year against giving the 1981-85 contract to either Perot or his lone competitor, Bradford National Corp. of New York City.

Robert Campbell, a partner in Touche Ross' office here, also disclosed that the U.S. Health Care Financing Administration has threatened to veto continuation of the present Texas method of Medicaid operation.

Medicaid is jointly financed by state and federal funds. Since the late 1960s, Texas has used an insurance mechanism with a large risk reserve that both covers unexpected losses and provides money for the contractor to invest.

National Heritage Insurance Co., a subsidiary of Perot's Electronic Data Systems, has held the contract since 1977.

"The administration's budget reduction initiatives have raised serious questions over the current structure in Texas which allows over $160 million in federal and state funds not currently needed to pay claims to be held and invested by the contractor. The Health Care Financing Administration regional office plans to recommend disapproval of the current or any alternative structure which would allow such large fund balances to build up," Campbell said.

Campbell laid out two options:

— A "quota share" insurance system under which the Medicaid contractor would pay no more than 10 percent of any excess of claims over premiums. The state would absorb the rest of the loss. By the same token, the contractor could keep 10 percent of any excess of premiums over claims. The contractor's maximum gain or loss would be limited, however, to 0.9 percent of premiums, or $4.8 million in 1983.

Six named Merit semifinalists

Three Midland High School students and three from Lee High School have been named by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as semifinalists in the competition for some 5,000 National Merit Scholarships to be offered in 1982.

Semifinalists named in each state represent the top half of one percent of the state's high school senior class. In addition to being honored publicly, semifinalists are identified to colleges and universities in an effort to increase the educational opportunities for these exceptional students.

Semifinalists from Midland High are Ted Francis Bernard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Joseph Bernard of 2004 W. Missouri; Paul Andrew Kowert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Boone Kowert of 3209 North I; and Laura Diane Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Eakin Wolf of 2209 Seaboard.

Lee High semifinalists are Wallace Van Gravitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Van Gravitt of 2808 Auburn; Rodney Earl Mack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Don Mack of 2605 Camarie; and Christina Louise Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray G. Ewing of 3329 W. Wadley, #69.

To qualify as a finalist, the semifinalists must be fully endorsed and recommended for scholarships by their principals, sumbit records that demonstrate high academic standing, substantiate high qualifying test scores with equivalent scores on another examination and supply a self-description of their activities and extracurricular accomplishments.

About 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to advance to finalist standing. All Merit Scholars are chosen from a group of 13,500 finalists.

Over 1,500 of the awards in 1982 will be nonrenewable National Merit $1,000 Scholarships for which all finalists compete. As in the naming of semifinalists, one-time "National" awards are allocated on a state representational basis. A selection committee of experienced college admissions officers and secondary school counselors convene to choose the winners.

The selection process is a subjective one, and National Merit $1,000 Scholarship winners represent the finalists in each state who are judged by the committee to have the best combination of abilities, accomplishments and personal qualities important for success during and after college.

About two-thirds of the $1,000 awards will be underwritten by grants from corporate and business sponsors that regularly finance four-year scholarships. NMSC's own funds will support the remainder.

About 3,500 renewable scholarships, most of which are worth between $1,000 and $8,000 over four years of undergraduate study, will be awarded in 1982. Of these, some 1,500 will be financed by about 420 corporations, company foundations and business organizations that designate the four-year Merit Scholarships they support for children of company employees, for finalists from particular geographic areas or for those planning careers a sponsor wishes to encourage.

Additionally, more than 2,000 four-year awards will be underwritten by 180 colleges and universities for finalists who will attend the sponsoring institutions.

In the 26 competitions between 1956 and 1981, over 68,000 students have won Merit Scholarships valued at about $192 million. Twenty-two classes of Merit Scholars have completed their undergraduate study, and 17,500 Merit Scholarship recipients are currently enrolled in over 700 of the nation's higher education institutes.

Oswald exhumation delayed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for Marina Oswald Porter agreed Friday not to disturb the grave of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald until Wednesday, when a judge said he would rule on a request to block the proposed exhumation.

State District Judge James E. Wright was asked Friday by attorneys for Oswald's brother, Robert, to temporarily delay Mrs. Porter's plan to take her slain husband's remains from a Fort Worth cemetery.

Wright said he was uncertain of the case law in the exhumation dispute.

Craig Fowler, an attorney for Robert Oswald, asked Wright on Friday to prohibit Mrs. Oswald from exhuming her husband's remains and asked for a rehearing of the decision in another, related case that was overturned by the Texas 2nd Court of Appeals.

Vet treats pets with skin problems

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Pat Breen is on the road again, treating patients with problems that often stump others in the profession.

His itinerary reads like an airline travel schedule, and at each stop there's always a waiting list at the clinic.

Breen is an animal dermatolgist — one of five in public practice in the United States.

"Animals are just like people," said Breen. "They may be allergic to milk, eggs and other foods. They develop rashes, may have a hormone deficiency or lose their hair. It's my job to get them under control."

The demand for his skills takes him to Louisville, Lexington, Indianapolis and Cleveland on a regular basis.

"When the veterinarian gets a tough case, he usually asks me to take a look," said Breen. After he arrives, Breen talks with the pet's owner, examines the dog, cat or horse, and then makes his diagnosis.

"You do your best because pets are important to a lot of folks. Sometimes closer than relatives," said Breen, who also teaches at the University of Cincinnati Medical School and is a consultant to Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Not long ago he was called to zoos where a baby chimpanzee and a polar bear were on the sick list.

"The chimp's skin was irritated. He resembled a baby with a diaper rash. And that's what it was. He was sensitive to the compound they were using to wash out his diapers."

The bear gave Breen a few anxious moments. "The handlers had placed him in a squeeze cage to keep him from moving around while I took a biopsy. But it was still frightening to hear him snarling at me."

The bear's problem was falling hair. "His diet had been changed and he was suffering from a vitamin A shortage."

Breen is currently doing research on insects whose sting can prove fatal.

"We're using dogs because they can be killed by a sting as easily as a man or woman. If the serum and treatment studies are successful, we're hoping the results can help in the experiments on man himself."

Breen, who is 41, was educated at Ohio State University and the University of Pennsylvania. He began practice as a veterinarian in his hometown, Cincinnati, where he still has an office. But he later specialized in dermatology at the request of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

"The association asked eight vets to specialize, and I was one of them," said Breen. "Only five of us are working in the public sectors."

Beware of the lion

Spike, a 3-year-old lion, guards the vacant farm house owned by Fred Wroblewski neat Little Chicago, Minn. Wroblewski says he acquired Spike because he got tired of vandalism at the farm house. But his neighbor thinks the 300 to 500 pound lion is more of a menance than he wants to put up with.

Organic farms offer room and board

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — In the Midwest, where chemicals helped make corn the king, it isn't easy to track down an organic farm.

But organic farms do exist amid the rolling fields of Iowa and the flat, rich acres of Indiana.

It is also difficult for organic farmers to find workers they can afford.

But such people also exist, and a young botanist named Mark Boudreau has founded an organization to bring the two together. It's called Sativa, a botanical term meaning "cultivated" or "sown."

"The situation is room and board in exchange for work on the farm," said Boudreau. "The length of stay can range from a weekend to an entire summer — whatever the worker and the grower want."

BOUDREAU, A recent graduate of the University of Illinois, had worked on organic farms in Britain while studying there. When he returned to the United States in 1979, he patterned Sativa after a group that arranged his farm jobs in Britain.

"It's very difficult to find experience," Boudreau said. "If you're interested in organic agriculture, it's even difficult to get a formal education in it." Organic farmers eschew the use of chemical pesticides and artificial fertilizers.

Sativa has placed about 300 workers on 50 organic farms in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Missouri and Minnesota. Farm owners and workers pay $8 a year for the service.

"The idea is to immerse the workers in the environment of an organic farm and have them become part of the family," said Boudreau, who also runs an organic gardening program for the city of Urbana.

The organic farms range from tiny vegetable and berry patches to large cash grain operations. Workers might be asked to plant and harvest, feed or milk animals, scoop manure, repair buildings and equipment, clear land, cook and can fruit and vegetables or sell produce at local markets.

LIVING CONDITIONS at the 13 Illinois organic farms differ.

One near Anna advertises "no hot water or indoor toilet." Another at Rushville encourages "natural medicinal practices, alternatives to present-day birth experiences, child raising and education." One at Freeport promises a "large brick house with adequate space for workers," and another at Cobden encourages workers to "bring musical instruments" and pledges to "help workers start slow process of searching for land in area."

Some farmers are vegetarians; others discourage the use of alcohol and tobacco; many welcome handicapped workers or those with children.

Unlike the highly specialized farms typical of the Cornbelt, organic farms are diversified. Farmers usually produce fruit, vegetables and grain, and raise meat or dairy animals. Some have bees for honey and maple trees for syrup.

"There is a greater tendency for a closed system on an organic farm," Boudreau said. "You grow the grain and feed it to the livestock and keep the manure on the land."

BOUDREAU SAID a common misconception is that organic farmers can't earn enough to make a living because of their relatively low crop yields. He said that even with yields slightly lower, organic farmers save money by not buying expensive fertilizer and chemicals.

He said many of them also save money by using alternative energy sources such as wind, solar, alcohol or methane.

Just as the farms vary widely, so do the people who want to work on them, Boudreau said: "There are some who just want a cheap way to get out of the city and into the country. But a lot of our members are thinking about getting their own land and raising food, so they want the practical experience."

Even for someone with a casual interest, working on an organic farm can be interesting and educational, said Boudreau.

"PEOPLE LEARN to can on one of these farms and they can use that skill in their kitchens in the suburbs."

Boudreau said organic farming offers better health by avoiding contact with chemicals. He said it also helps the environment and preserves its most valuable asset, the soil.

Plowing grass and manure back into the earth provides natural fertilizer and maintains the structure of the soil so it holds more water, does not pack into hard clumps and is not easily washed or blown away.

Common farming practice returns nothing natural to the soil and eventually will spoil it, he said.

Organic farming "restores the soil — it is a system that can last indefinitely," Boudreau said.

Deputies comb hills as nuclear protest continues

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies roamed the hills Friday to sweep out remnants of an anti-nuclear demonstration at the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant, bringing a four-day arrest total to 1,010.

Those arrested Friday included rock star Jackson Browne, who with 36 others was arrested Friday morning at the plant's main gate.

Besides the few hundred people trying to set up a blockade to prevent workers from entering the Pacific Gas and Electric plant property, 800 "support" people are at or near the site, said Mark Evanoff of the Abalone Alliance, the umbrella group sponsoring the protest.

He and others from the alliance predicted the protest would revive this weekend, when more people would be free to attend.

"They're coming in pretty steadily," said Mary Moore of the alliance.

Deputies fanned out through the rugged hills and made dozens of arrests throughout the day, both on PG&E property and adjacent land. Eighteen were arrested after walking up from the beach where rubber rafts had landed them. The owner of the land told authorities to arrest any trespassers, said Lt. Fred Stiesberg of the California Highway Patrol.

Browne, who has written and recorded such hits as "The Pretender," "Take It Easy" and "Doctor My Eyes," was the first celebrity to be arrested in the protest. Actor Robert Blake took part in a sea landing near the Pacific Gas & Electric plant Tuesday, but was not arrested.

"I hope they don't break my hands," Browne said as he was led away in plastic handcuffs. Demonstrators contend rough arrests have caused two broken wrists, but San Luis Obispo County Sheriff's Sgt. Leon Cole said Friday he knew of only one injury — a broken arm sustained by a woman Thursday. He said he didn't know how the injury occurred.

Cole said reports of police roughness on Thursday were exaggerated from "a couple of isolated incidents."

"We're dealing with a lot of police from a lot of jurisdictions," he said. "They're human beings and they're all different."

Friday's arrests were noticeably gentler than Thursday's, in which California Highway Patrol officers and sheriff's deputies were seen forcibly restraining demonstrators and using batons to break up groups blocking traffic at the main gate.

After Browne's arrest Friday, police cordoned off the approximately 20 remaining demonstrators and allowed busloads of workers and about a dozen cars to move past.

The blockade, which began Tuesday, was the culmination of two years of planning. Protest leaders maintain that nuclear power is unsafe, particularly at Diablo Canyon, which is near an offshore earthquake fault.

Plant manager Robert Thornberry said the blockade had no effect on the $2.3 billion facility, which has yet to begin operation. The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission votes Monday on licensing it.

WHY FALL IS THE BEST TIME TO PLANT TREES, SHRUBS AND BULBS.
It's always better to plant outdoor trees, shrubs and bulbs during the fall when they are dormant. These plants, when dormant, will channel all their energies toward establishing root growth that will greatly benefit their ability to gather nutrients in the spring and become greener, healthier plants. You'll also find a much greater selection of these plants in the fall. For spring shade and landscaping beauty, plant your trees, shrubs and bulbs in the fall!

Tina Zielinski, a student at Pulaski's Glenbrook School in Wisconsin, tosses some bottle caps collected by students over the past two years. The collection was the idea of a junior high math teacher to show what a million of anything looked like.

Textile mills have energy potential

WEST WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — They were founded on money from the slave trade.

They lured so many French-Canadians to western Rhode Island that one area was called "le Manitoba."

They were ruthlessly undercut by Southern communities offering cheap labor, raw materials, and favorable tax rates, touching off an exodus of New England industry to the Sunbelt.

And now they're one of Rhode Island's biggest assets as the region looks for its own energy sources to end dependence on foreign oil and energy resources from the South and West.

They are the state's textile and industrial mills — dormant for decades but soon to provide thousands of kilowatt hours of hydroelectric power.

When Natco Products Corp. moved into the Arctic Mill along the Pawtuxet River in 1965, officials ignored the two large, dusty generators in the basement of the 11-story building.

"Hydropower was one of the nuisances of the building," Natco president Robert Galkin recalls.

Now Galkin says having the mill's hydropower facilities is "like having a coal mine in your backyard," and he expects to sell millions of dollars of electricity to Naragansett Electric when the Arctic and Centerville mills are re-activated within two years.

Sawmills and other small factories were already in place on Rhode Island's rivers in the 1700s. But businessmen realized that there was greater potential for wealth if America could develop a cotton-spinning machine similar to one patented by Richard Awkwright in England.

Soon textile mills were founded up and down the Pawtuxet River, including a large stone mill built by Rufus Wakefield in 1834 that was later named Arctic because of the site's coldness.

Mill owners needed families with women and children to spin the wool and cotton, so they built towns with company-run farms and stores.

By the 1840s the industry needed cheaper sources of labor to expand its market to the masses of poor people. Mill owners began to recruit a small number of immigrants from Ireland and other impoverished countries.

MORE

In Rhode Island, the flood of immigrants didn't hit until the 1850s, when droughts and famines up north sent French-Canadians, including some entire communities, south in droves.

Technological changes were also taking place. The water that once turned giant belts to run the spinning wheels now fueled electric generators.

By the 1870s, Arctic had been bought by the cotton giant B.B. & R. Knight, which would eventually become Fruit of the Loom. Knight ran the firm profitably until the 1920s.

By World War I, Southern communities began to publicize their closeness to the farmlands where the cotton was grown and their cheaper, non-unionized labor.

Edward Leanues, who confers here with his daughter, Linda Lawrence, Friday recalled watching his wife die at a Taunton, Mass., hospital. He was the first witness in a Falls River murder trail of one of three nurses accused of murder in the death.

Man recalls wife's death in murder trial of nurse

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP)— Edward Leanues, his voice breaking with emotion, told a jury Friday that he watched his cancer-stricken wife die after three nurses came into her room carrying a syringe.

"I just sat there and her breaths were getting further and further apart, then she stopped breathing," Leanues told a hushed courtroom in the first day of testimony in the murder trial of nurse Anne Capute.

"I noticed her eyes were half open," Leanues said. "I waited for the next breath but it never came."

Mrs. Capute, a 44-year-old licensed practical nurse, is charged with killing Norma C. Leanues with an overdose of morphine while the cancer patient was in post-operative care at the Morton Hospital in Taunton.

During Friday's testimony Mrs. Capute, the mother of seven, remained impassive, taking occasional notes on the proceedings.

Leanues, the first witness in the case, said his wife had a cancerous tumor removed from her spine. He recalled weeping openly as his wife cried out in pain.

But he denied defense claims that that he had tearfully asked Mrs. Capute to give his wife some relief from the pain, or that his wife was screaming in agony shortly before her death.

Bristol County District Attorney Ronald Pina told the jury Thursday that Mrs. Leanues, 51, could have been treated for the cancer and lived for several years.

The prosecutor said he will prove that Mrs. Capute ignored doctors' orders and her patient's symptoms and steadily increased injections of morphine sulphate until the patient died.

Man killed trying to rescue daughter

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A prominent businessman was shot to death Friday when he went to the rescue of his daughter, whose date was struggling with a would-be rapist just two blocks from a police station.

Peter Sawicki, 43, a land developer who lives in the affluent Ottawa Hills neighborhood, was gunned down when he reached the scene and joined the struggle minutes before police arrived.

His daughter's companion, Todd Sabo, 21, of Maumee was in critical condition with bullet wounds in the neck and right shoulder. The assailant fled.

Leslie Sawicki, 20, and Sabo were in the young man's van parked just outside Ottawa Hills city limits in western Toledo about 12:30 a.m. when they were confronted by a man with a gun, police said.

The assailant forced Sabo out of the van and tied his arms and legs. He then forced Miss Sawicki to the rear of the van and threatened to rape her, police said.

Sabo managed to get free and began fighting with the man. As they struggled, Miss Sawicki ran to a nearby apartment building owned by her father, head of the Peter Sawicki Co. She pounded on several doors until an unidentified tenant on the second floor allowed her to use the telephone.

Miss Sawicki called her father, then the Ottawa Hills police. The suburban officers notified Toledo police that a rape was in progress. Ottawa Hills police said Miss Sawicki called again minutes later, telling them her father and Sabo had been shot.

Toledo police said Sawicki, who lived about a half-mile away, had reached the scene before officers arrived and begun struggling with the assailant. The man fired several shots, hitting Sawicki in the throat and wounding Sabo, police said.

Miss Sawicki said she watched from the apartment building as the assailant ran to an auto and fled.

That information also was relayed to Toledo police. Ottawa Hills did not send a patrol car.

"We have a mutual aid pact with Toledo and the surrounding departments," said Ottawa Hills Police Chief Joseph Eich. "If they request assistance, then we respond. "They did not request our assistance. We did not respond."

Suspects still in Montana jail

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Two people accused of slashing the throats of three Korean women, leaving two dead and one critically wounded, remained in a Montana jail Friday after surrendering to authorities.

A peace justice set bond at $250,000 for Paul Kuck, 22, and Gertrude Small Virts, 20, Thursday night on two counts of murder and one count of attempted murder each.

A third suspect named in Texas warrants, Cindy May, remained at large.

The pair walked into the Big Horn County Sheriff's Department Thursday afternoon and told officers they were being sought in connection with the Texas slayings, said Sheriff Walt Rider.

Rider said the suspects have indicated they will fight extradition to Texas.

"They did not want to talk to us and we did not pursue it," Rider said.

Rider said Kuck is a former resident of Hardin, the seat of Big Horn County, and that Ms. Virts lives in Billings, Mont., about 50 miles to the west.

The three women were shot and stabbed Saturday afternoon at the Osaka Health Spa, just outside Corpus Christi's city limits. Nueces County Sheriff Solomon Ortiz said from $5,000 to $10,000 was taken in the incident, which apparently occurred when the spa was closed.

Boy's condition 'satisfactory'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Doctors at Santa Rosa Hospital Friday listed in satisfactory condition a 10-year-old boy who was accidentally shot in the face by his brother.

Laredo authorities said that Jimmy Viera was injured when his 11-year-old brother pointed a .38-caliber pistol at him and it discharged.

The bullet struck young Viera above the left eye and he underwent surgery late Thursday for the gunshot wound after being transferred here from a Laredo hospital.

Laredo police said the two brothers found the pistol in a drawer of their home and that Johnny Viera loaded one bullet into the gun and clicked the trigger twice before striking the live round.

The older brother phoned nearby relatives, who called an ambulance to the scene. The boys' parents, Johnny and Rosalinda Viera, were not at home at the time of the accident.

More slain in Houston during month of August

HOUSTON (AP) — More people were murdered in Houston during August — 80 — than in any previous month, and police officials predict the 1981 total will exceed that of any previous year.

"It's kind of frightening, really," said Capt. B.F. Adams of the Houston Police Department's Homicide Division.

The 80 murders exceeded by 15 the previous monthly record, set in November 1979.

Police have recorded 494 homicides reported this year, up from 463 during the same period in 1980. The number of homicides may reach 700 this year, Adams said, compared to the record of 664 in 1979.

"Let's face it — if we had a good explanation, someone could work on the problem," Adams said. "It's just human factor involved and each one is different."

Houston, the country's fifth-largest city with a population of 1.6 million, had the highest rate of murders per capita of any of the nation's five largest cities in 1980 with 40 slayings per 100,000 inhabitants.

The Newspaper BIBLE

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN WRONGED?

How is it that when you have something against another Christian, you "go to law" and ask a heathen court to decide the matter instead of taking it to other Christians to decide which of you is right? Don't you know that some day we Christians are going to judge and govern the world? So why can't you decide even these little things among yourselves? Don't you realize that we Christians will judge and reward the very angels in heaven? So you should be able to decide your problems down here on earth easily enough. Why then go to outside judges who are not even Christians? I am trying to make you ashamed. Isn't there anyone in all the church who is wise enough to decide these arguments? But, instead, one Christian sues another and accuses his Christian brother in front of unbelievers.

To have such lawsuits at all is a real defeat for you as Christians. Why not just accept mistreatment and leave it at that? It would be far more honoring to the Lord to let yourselves be cheated. But, instead, you yourselves are the ones who do wrong, cheating others, even your own brothers. (I Cor. 6:1-8)

"When you are reviled and persecuted and lied about because you are my followers - wonderful! Be happy about it! Be very glad! for a tremendous reward awaits you up in heaven. And remember, the ancient prophets were persecuted." (Matthew 5:11-12)

Falwell counters Goldwater's assessment of 'New Right'

By LARRY JERDEN
Dallas Times Herald

DALLAS — Television preacher Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, this week countered Sen. Barry Goldwater's criticism of the "New Right," saying "it is apparent that the senator has decided never again to run for public office."

Falwell called the Arizona senator's remarks Tuesday a "vicious" attack on "the Roman Catholic Church, Protestants and millions of other Americans."

Ed McAteer, whose Washington-based Religious Roundtable sponsored an anti-abortion Rally for Life in Dallas Sept. 3, said the senator was "grinding his own ax," adding that "he never said those things when he was running for office."

"Goldwater is a has-been," McAteer declared.

The Rev. W.A. Criswell, pastor of Dallas' First Baptist Church, said he felt Goldwater was "partly right and partly wrong" in his criticisms — right in attacking the "infallible" attitude of some religious leaders and wrong in saying religious individuals should stay out of the political arena.

Goldwater, who delivered his speech on the Senate floor after releasing it to reporters Tuesday, said he was "sick and tired of political preachers...telling me...that if I want to be a moral person, I must believe in A, B or C."

The conservative senator added that he was "even more angry as a legislator who must endure the threats of every religious group who thinks it has some God-granted right to control my vote on every roll call in the Senate."

Falwell, in a prepared, three-page response released by his Lynchburg, Va., office, answered Goldwater's charges point by point, concluding with the veiled threat that those who put the senator in office would not vote for him again.

"These people whom he is attacking so unfairly are the people who have elected him," Falwell declared. "In the very recent campaign in Arizona, which he barely won, these narrow-minded, bigoted religious people who attend church and say prayers made the difference."

Goldwater said in his speech that while he was "pleased" with the conservative swing of recent years, he objected "to certain groups jumping on the pendulum and then claiming that they caused it to swing in the first place."

Falwell, describing himself as a "strong supporter" of the Republican senator, questioned the fairness of Goldwater's criticism, calling it a "complete misunderstanding of the Constitution."

"The liberal agenda in the pulpit and in the streets is long and well-known," Falwell said, "from the Vietnam anti-war demonstrations to civil rights, to busing, to unilateral disarmament, to El Salvador.

"Political pronouncements gush from the National and World Council of Churches, without inhibition and without even the suggestion from Sen. Goldwater that they have overstepped their constitutional limitations."

McAteer said the problem is not that religion is getting into politics, but that politics is getting into religion.

"Abortion is not a political issue, it is a religious issue," he said. "The problem over abortion has grown from 1973, when the politicians got involved in a religious matter. Since then, we've slaughtered millions of innocent babies."

Falwell took issue with Goldwater's comparing the New Right with strife in Northern Ireland and Lebanon, saying those are fundamentally political, not religious, conflicts.

Sisters' lifestyle both old and new

By CYNTHIA BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

CASTLETON-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — The Sisters of the Resurrection are a common sight, walking along the main street of this small, upstate village in their A-line habits.

Pedestrians comment on the changes in their clothing, but few venture up to the sisters' hillside home to see how time has altered ancient practices.

Jogging is in among the sisters, while skiing is out. G-rated movies are fine, R-rated movies are not. Tennis is acceptable if you can play in a habit, but surfing is not appropriate. A drink is OK on special occasions, but smoking is a no-no.

Sister Valerie, adviser to the novices and junior sisters in the Mount St. Joseph Provincialate, says the order is squarely in the middle of current Catholic practices.

Prayers are conducted in English and sisters wear habits — unlike certain more liberal orders — but favor the modified A-line styles featuring mid-length gowns and veils that allow hair to show.

Shoes remain the sturdy, walking types. When swimming, the sisters wear bathing suits.

"Not the bikini types," Sister Valerie hastens to explain. "One-piece types. Modest ones."

She sees the simplicity of the garb as one of the attractions to young people, dissatisfied with a throwaway society, who want to enter the order.

"Materialism has turned our thoughts outward, rather than inward," she says. "But people are beginning to realize there is more to life."

Denise, a postulant, became interested in the order in seventh grade at a Catholic school. She entered as an aspirant at age 14 and lived in the provincial while attending public high school in Castleton.

Her father was the only member of her family who was upset with her decision, she says.

"He thought daddy's little girl was wasting her time and talents. I thought of that too," she said. "I thought of my friends who are getting married, the amusement parks I won't be going to, the dates I won't have. But I never doubted what I wanted to do."

Junior professed Sister Linda Ann used to walk the street looking at houses, thinking, "This could have been mine. But then I would ask myself if that is what I really wanted. And the answer is no."

"Sacrifice is the key word in our lives but I can't say I've been deprived," said Sister Valerie. "I look at the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience as an entryway to greater freedom — as a way to become me."

JIMMY MANOO evangelist, gospel recording artist, husband father, and a dynamic man of God. After his mother fled from the south for fear of her life and after many brutal beatings from Jimmy's father; their home became San Francisco, California. It was there Jimmy saw a different way of life and began to strive to overcome the oppression of his childhood. It wasn't fun until he excelled as a musician and formed his own group. His workhid his way up the ladder of success. The price of fame took its toll his life-the drugs, immorality and craze for fame led him on a down hill road. On his deathbed, after an overdose, he cried out to God his mother had told him about as a child. Jimmy has been a christian for eight years and is founder of Good News Outreach. He is in full time service for the Lord jesus Christ.

JUDY MANOO'S life began with an unhappy childhood, being brought up in an ungodly home. It was these childhood experiences that molded Judy into a bitter and cold person. At age nineteen she became a prostitute and spent thirteen years as an experienced call girl in San Francisco. Judy learned well the path of the devil which leads to emptiness and destruction. Then, eight years ago in Honolulu, Hawaii, Judy's life took a dramatic turn for the better when she met Jesus Christ for the first time in her life.

A Polish airliner carrying 49 people sits on the runway at Berlin's Templehof Airport Friday after it was forced to land by hijackers believed at the time to be carrying bombs.

Polish students hijack airliner to West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Twelve students armed with knives and broken bottles hijacked a Polish airliner Friday and forced it to land in West Berlin where they sought political asylum along with six Polish and two Hungarian passengers, police said.

U.S. officials said the twin-turboprop LOT Polish Airlines plane, with 45 passengers and four crewmembers, landed at Tempelhof airfield, used by the American military, at 12:33 p.m. (6:33 a.m. EDT), and departed for Warsaw 10 hours later.

Authorities said the hijackers — nine men and three women, some of them teen-agers — surrendered without resistance and were turned over to West Berlin police. A police spokesman said they would probably be arraigned before a magistrate Saturday.

Police said among the passengers who remained in West Berlin was a 4-year-old Polish child. They did not elaborate. None of those seeking asylum were available for interviews.

The plane departed with 29 people aboard, four of whom were the old crew, and a new crew LOT sent here to fly the plane back, police said.

Three Swedish and one American passenger, Josephine Sevada of St. Cloud, Minn., also decided not to return to Poland, officers said.

U.S. officials first reported the hijackers carried bombs made of bottles stuffed with rags and filled with gasoline, but police later said the hijackers had only knives and broken bottles.

No injuries were reported. In Poland the official news agency PAP said the hijackers threatened to kill a stewardess if the plane did not abort its scheduled Warsaw landing and fly to West Berlin. The flight had originated in the southern Polish city of Katowice.

The identities of the hijackers were not immediately disclosed here or in Poland but West Berlin police said they ranged in age from 17 to 22 years.

U.S. Army Capt. Brian McConnell, spokesman for U.S. forces in Berlin, said: "All are Polish, all are students, they all apparently knew each other."

The dozen hijackers constituted the largest group of air pirates ever involved in a single incident of a Polish airliner hijacking.

Witnesses said three Soviet-built MiG jets followed the twin-engine AN-24 plane to West Berlin airspace but withdrew when a pair of U.S. helicopters appeared. The two choppers escorted the plane to its landing at Tempelhof.

A spokesman for U.S. Army forces in Europe said the helicopters were ferrying personnel to the field and were not dispatched because of the MiGs.

The hijacking was the third this year from Poland to West Berlin; there have been two other attempts this year which were foiled by the airplanes' crews, according to Polish news accounts at the time.

PAP said Polish military officials in Berlin were demanding the latest hijackers be extradited.

Reporters were prohibited by the U.S. Air Force from entering the airfield, which is not open to civilian air traffic. Military spokesmen had no further comment on the incident, saying it was in the hands of the West Berlin authorities.

In past incidents, U.S. and West Berlin officials have refused to send the hijackers back to Poland and have usually prosecuted them for endangering air transport, a felony.

Crack-down on union ordered

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Kremlin told Poland's Communist leaders to crack down immediately on the independent union Solidarity and broadcast the message to the Soviet people Friday.

There was speculation among Western diplomats in Moscow that Soviet troops might intervene, and the Reagan administration accused the Soviets of trying to "intimidate the Polish people."

Solidarity had no immediate reaction to the Soviet statement.

"We expect that the Polish United Workers (Communist) Party leadership and the Polish government immediately take determined and radical steps in order to cut short the malicious and anti-Soviet propaganda and actions hostile towards the Soviet Union," the official PAP news agency quoted the Soviet statement as saying.

The Soviet news agency Tass used the words "prompt and resolute" to describe the prescribed measures. Soviet television viewers were told Friday night that "anti-Sovietism" is rampant in Poland and Moscow expects a crackdown on hostile actions by Solidarity.

The broadcast was the first disclosure to a mass Soviet audience about the tough new warning on Poland. The Soviet news program also showed films of a worker rally at a Soviet machinery factory unanimously approving a separate letter of warning to Polish workers.

"We are profoundly indignant over the fact that the nationalistic rabble, direct minions of imperialism, and all sorts of scum for whom nothing is sacred are committing acts of sacrilege at the graves of Soviet people who gave up their lives to save mankind from the fascist plague and brought freedom to the Polish people," the letter from the Soviet workers said.

Boris Aristov, the Soviet ambassador to Poland, handed the official Soviet statement to Polish Communist leader Stanislaw Kania and Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski, apparently late last week.

But it was splashed across the front pages of Poland's newspapers Friday, and broadcast in part over national radio. The message was the toughest Kremlin warning delivered to Poland's leaders during the past year of labor upheaval and Solidarity's existence. It's tone was sharper than a Soviet letter of June 5 which openly criticized Kania and Jaruzelski.

A Western diplomat in Moscow, outlining a "worst-case" scenario leading to direct Soviet military intervention in Poland, said: "The Soviet statement might be a prelude to a declaration of a state of emergency in Poland, which might well lead to widespread disorders, followed by an official Polish request for Soviet help."

The State Department in Washington said the Kremlin was trying to "intimidate the Polish people." It said the statement "constitutes interference in Poland's internal affairs" and "only serves to exacerbate the present situation.

"The United States cannot accept the assertion that the Soviet Union has the right to dictate the policies of the Polish government," State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said.

Some union sources in Warsaw speculated the statement might portend a crackdown on "extremists" or be aimed at forcing postponement of Solidarity's second congress meeting scheduled to being next Friday.

The statement said the union's first congress session last week had "become in effect a permanent tribune from which slanders and insults (are) sounded against our state."

It said the union's message to other workers supporting free union activities elsewhere in the Soviet bloc was "revolting provocation."

The statement also rebuked Poland's leaders, saying the Soviets could not understand "why the Polish official authorities have not taken any resolute steps so far to cut short the hostile campaign against the USSR.

French chamber votes to abolish guillotine

PARIS (AP) — France's Socialist-dominated Chamber of Deputies voted by a 3-1 majority Friday to abolish the death penalty, ending 192 years of the guillotine that has lopped off an estimated 4,600 heads.

The bill, approved on a 363-117 vote in the Socialist-dominated house, now goes to the French Senate, which has no power to reject legislation and can at best only delay final passage.

Public opinion polls show about two-thirds of the population supports the death penalty but President Francois Mitterrand, who swept into office this spring on a leftward-turning tide by voters, had promised not to allow any executions during his administration and to work to do away with capital punishment.

His administration argued it did not deter terrorists, gangsters or public enemies and those executed were usually small-time criminals and mentally deranged offenders.

"Tomorrow, thanks to you, the guillotine's place will be in a museum," Justice Minister Robert Badinter said in leading the government's argument before Parliament Thursday. The debate was nationally televised.

Badinter said the government within two years will submit a wholesale revision of the penal code. One of the arguments against the bill was that there was no companion legislation on punishment.

The vote in effect saves the heads of the six men now under death sentence in French prisons and commutes their terms to life imprisonment. There has not been an execution since 1977.

With the massive majority held by the Socialists and their Communist allies in the Chamber of Deputies, there was never any doubt that the measure would be passed. But the bill also won the support of several opposition conservatives, whose parties allowed them to vote their consciences on the sensitive issue.

The guillotine takes its name from Dr. Joseph Ignace Guillotin, a member of the post-revolutionary National Assembly who recommended a beheading machine as an inexpensive and painless means of execution.

Many deaths, bomb damage reported in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — At least 10 people were shot to death in San Salvador in a 24-hour period, and nine bombs set off by leftist guerrillas caused heavy property damage, a police spokesman said Friday.

Army patrols, meanwhile, pressed on with a 15-day sweep through Usulutan province about 75 miles southeast of the capital in search of guerrilla hideouts.

An unidentified officer in the field said 87 guerrillas and four soldiers were killed in attacks on three rebel camps. The army chief of staff, Col. Rafael Flores Lima, had said earlier between 50 and 70 guerrillas were killed but gave no figures on army casualties.

The San Salvador police spokesman, who asked anonymity for security reasons, said more than 10 bodies were found lying in streets in different sections of the city.

He said some appeared to have been killed in gunfights between security patrols and leftist guerrillas, and others apparently were slain "execution style" by gunmen during the nightly 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew.

One bomb blast destroyed an office building belonging to the National Private Enterprise Association, the country's largest business management group. Another destroyed an automobile and damaged the entrance to another office building.

Seven other explosions caused heavy damage to office buildings, shops and three stores that sold automobile parts, police said.

SWC favored in seven games

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference, off to one of its best starts since the 1960s, is favored in seven of nine non-conference football games Saturday.

The Rice Owls were 14-point underdogs to Missouri on the road and the Houston Cougars were a field goal underdog to the tough Miami Hurricanes, also an away game.

The No. 6 ranked Texas Longhorns were a 25-point choice over North Texas in Memorial Stadium; Arkansas was a 26-point favorite over Big 10 foe Northwestern; Texas A&M was a field goal selection over Boston College away; Southern Methodist was a two-touchdown pick over Grambling in Texas Stadium; Texas Tech was a one-point nod over New Mexico in Jones Stadium; Texas Christian was a 21-point pick over Texas-Arlington in Amon Carter Stadium; and Baylor was a 17-point favorite over Louisiana Tech at Shreveport.

The Houston-Miami matchup was the class of the card.

"Last year our players thought Miami had the best football players we played against," said Houston Coach Bill Yeoman. "They beat Florida so they are just as good this year as we thought.

(See SWC Thumbnails, 7B)

"We will have to get 100 per cent better if we want to play with Miami."

He added "Miami has never been lacking for football players. They are a very, very physical team. It's just hard playing Miami. Every game is a real thumper."

The Grambling-SMU game is a unique matchup, the first between the two schools.

Eddie Robinson, the fourth winningest coach in the history of college football, will take his Louisiana Tigers on the field againt an SWC team for the first time.

Grambling is the defending Black National Collegiate champions. They went 10-1 last year to win the Southwestern Athletic Conference title, losing to Boise State in the NCAA Division 1-AA playoffs.

Both SMU and Grambling are unbeaten.

"I'm worried how we are going to block all those big guys on the line of scrimmage," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer. "And wingback Trumaine Johnson is the best back I've seen since Earl Campbell."

Grambling has such big defensive linemen as 6-8 Robert Smith and 320-pound, 6-11 James Polk.

The Grambling publicity department calls the Grambling defensive front "The Trees of Terror."

Should the SWC maintain its current pace of .667 against outside schools it would match the best won-loss record for the league since 1963 when it went 18-6

Lee buries Plainview, 33-7, for third straight

Plainview's Tim Coleman (34) is rocked by Midland Lee linebacker Terry Thompson Friday at Memorial Stadium in a game the Rebels romped to a 33-7 victory.

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

After just 19 points in Midland Lee's first two football games this year, there were those beginning to wonder if the Rebels had any offensive punch to go with its "Jaws of Death" defense, but those fears may have been silenced at Memorial Stadium Friday night as Lee took a convincing 33-7 victory over the previously unbeaten Plainview Bulldogs.

And the best part of the explosion was that it came against a very good football team. In fact, Plainview did not look like a 33-7 loser in this one. They were able to move the ball against Lee better than any team this year and the Bulldogs did end the Rebs' shutout string at two with a second quarter touchdown. The way Plainview moved the ball against Lee early in the game, it is a wonder they didn't score more.

But coach Spike Dykes probably had a good night of sleep Friday as quarterback Bart Ryan appears ready now to take control of the Rebel offense. The senior finally showed his stuff after two games of experience and completed five of nine passes (one was dropped) for 97 yards, including a 53-yard bomb to speedy Luther Johnson.

The aerial display was awesome from a Rebel fan standpoint because 97 yards in the air by a Lee team is like a trip to the moon. The lack of a passing game last year may have been the real downfall of last year's 6-3-1 squad. Ryan looked poised and confident against Plainview and was on the money most of the time. He even proved that he can scramble when rushed when he gained 23 yards on one effort out of the pocket.

Ryan also showed he can hit the open man. He tossed completions to four different receivers on his five completions. Kenneth Hardison caught two of Ryan's passes for 22 yards.

Lee dazed the Plainview squad on the first play from scrimmage when defensive end Alan Kyle recovered a Steve George fumble at the Plainview 15. Burly Calvin Riggs, who had only 43 yards rushing on 11 carries, pushed it in from six yards out three plays later. Van Gravitt kicked the first of three extra points to give Lee a 7-0 lead with 10:13 still left in the first period.

But Plainview was still dominating action early. They had a 12 play drive that ended in a punt after big defensive plays by Gravitt, Riggs and Eric Cooper. Then Plainview took advantage of a 21-yard punt by Ryan to drive 44 yards to tie the game. Fullback Tim Coleman, who led all rushers with 127 yards on 28 carries, led the drive with runs of 10, nine, 11, seven and the final four for the score.

But Ryan would have none of that and he came back with a 53-yard strike to Johnson. Johnson caught the ball in the middle of the field and used his speed to gain access to the end zone for a 14-7 Rebel lead.

Plainview again came back to the Rebel 31, but Tim Murray stopped Coleman short of a first down on a fourth down try to keep Plainview off the board again. Again Ryan answered the challenge by moving the Rebs 74 yards for a score with 40 seconds left in the half. Ryan hit Kenneth Hardison for eight yards and then scampered 23 on his ad lib. Riggs had a 10-yard run and Troy Barber, playing tailback for the first time this year, got the final 12 for a 21-7 lead at the half.

Barber, who led Lee rushers for the second time this year with 44 yards on nine carries, busted the second half kickoff back for 85 yards with pure speed. It was the second long distance run of the year for Barber, who had a 66-yard game winner against Killeen.

Riggs, who played perhaps his best defensive game, recovered a fumble at the Plainview 13 and reserve quarterback Chris Parker scored from 13 yards out on the next play to end the scoring. Gravitt missed an extra point try after Barber's run, but a bad snap foiled the last point after try.

Lane Marks also got his first interception of the year in the fourth quarter to go with the fumble recoveries by Kyle and Riggs.

Despite the 127 yards rushing by Coleman, Plainview managed only 148 yards net rushing and 35 more passing. Lee rushed for 155 yards to go with Ryan's 97 passing. Still, Plainview led in first downs by a 15-12 margin.

The Rebels are now 3-0 on the year with two weeks to prepare for Odessa High in the District 5-5A opener. And now with what appears to be a legitimate passing attack on hand, defenses are going to have much more trouble containing the "Thunder and Lightning" attack of Lee. Lee's running backs have both power and speed. Now if Lee can throw also, that leaves a lot of question marks for the opponents. The Rebs may have come of age Friday night.

Little Extra propels Monterey past 'dogs

By ROBERT BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

LUBBOCK—The Monterey Plainsmen came up with that little bit extra Friday night when they needed it and the result was a 24-20 victory over the Midland Bulldogs at Lowery Field.

Trailing 14-10 at half, Monterey fought back to take the lead in the third quarter on a three yard touchdown run by Vance Singleton to cap a 60-yard drive in seven plays. Stewart Brann kicked the point for a 17-14 lead that was never headed.

Midland looked like it was going to strike back immediately following the score when, on third and 14, quarterback Allen Chick hit tight end Wally Kleine on 53-yard pass to the Monterey 23. The Plainsmen defense dug in and, on a fourth and 13, caught Chick trying to pass and sacked him for a five-yard loss.

With 3:14 left in the game, the Plainsmen scored the touchdown that almost guaranteed victory. On third and one on the 46, Singleton broke free for his second touchdown run of the game. With Brann's extra point, Monterey held a commanding 24-14 lead.

MIDLAND pulled to within four points with 45 seconds remaining in the game when a determined Wesley Williams scored from three yards out on a fourth down. The PAT pass fell incomplete.

In that final drive, nine plays covering 64 yards, Williams was the key figure. He carried the ball six times for 41 yards and the score.

The desperation onside kick following the touchdown was recovered by Monterey and they ran the clock down by simply falling on the ball.

The Bulldogs opened the game's scoring in the second quarter when Ricky Madrid capped a 10-play 72-yard drive with a five-yard scoring run. Joe Goebel kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

That touchdown was Madrid's second trip to the goal line in the game. On Midland's first possession in the first quarter on a Monterey fumble following a kickoff, Madrid broke free from 28 yards out on fourth and seven for a touchdown, but a penalty brought the ball back to the 38, forcing the Bulldogs to punt.

Monterey didn't wait long to neutralize the Bulldog touchdown. On the ensuing kickoff Jay Douglas picked up his own fumble on the nine and raced 91 yards for a touchdown. Brann's kicked tied the score.

THE BULLDOGS added a second touchdown in the first half when Madrid broke free once again, this time 62 yards down the right sideline for the score. With Goebel's extra point, the Bulldogs held a 14-7 lead.

Just before the half came to a close, Monterey added a 32-yard field goal by Brann. Brann then squibbed his kickoff to the 50 and the Plainsmen recovered. With one second in the half, quarterback Darron White put a Hail Mary pass that was intercepted by Brant Moffitt, who ran it back to midfield before being hauled down.

In the running department, Midland covered 249 yards on 56 carries and added 69 on three completions in five attempts by Chick. His primary receiver was Kleine with two catches for 65 yards. Backup quarterback Mark Page failed to complete a pass in three attempts.

WILLIAMS and Madrid led the rusher with 89 and 86 yards, respectively, while John Hibbitts added another 57.

For Monterey, Singleton had 92 of the Plainsmen's 213 yards and Rock Rickle had 71. White completed 3 for 20 yards and one interception.

Bulldog coach Pat Culpepper was displeased with his team's performance in the second half, saying, "We got out toughed. They sucked it up and beat our butt. Everybody in Lubbock should be proud of Coach Jim Odom's Monterey team. Monterey played an outstanding game. Tonight was a tribute to them and their great coach and coaching staff. I don't think they have a runner below 5.0 in the 40 and they still ran back a 91 yard kick and a long touchdown against our defense.

Midland Lee's Bart Ryan (15) breaks for a 23-yard gain in the first half against Plainview to help set up a Rebel score. Plainview's Biff Billingsley (13) and Quennoth Dunlap (11) come in to halt the run, but Lee won 33-7 to remain unbeaten.

Cooper bows to Longview

LONGVIEW — Longview scored a fourth quarter touchdown here Friday night to seal a 21-13 victory over the Abilene High Eagles in a non-conference football game.

Longview, holding onto a narrow 14-13 lead in the fourth period, got a 23-yard run from Fred Hunter for the insurance. The loss dropped Abilene High to a 1-2 mark for the year.

Hunter carried 22 times for 115 yards to lead the victory.

Longview and AHS traded first quarter touchdowns with Longview hitting first with a 44-yard pass from Kenny Frazier to Donnie Centers. AHS' David Flores scored on a 17-yard run to tie the score, but Longview's Hunter scored from 1-yard out in the second period for a 14-7 lead.

In the fourth period, the Eagles' Jimmy Loza blocked a punt attempt in the end zone, but a pass attempt for two points fell short and Longview drove the ball for the insurance touchdown.

Tech can expect another air attack

Jerry Moore's debut at Texas Tech last weekend wasn't all he had hoped, perhaps the understatement of the year in view of Colorado's worse-than-it-looks 45-27 destruction of the favored Red Raiders.

Still, the news wasn't all bad. The weekend came and went and no one accused Jerry of aiding and abetting the enemy.

You'll remember a year ago, Jerry and Iowa coach Hayden Fry were engaged in a long range shouting match after Nebraska whipped the Hawkeyes unmercifully. Hayden suspected Moore had perhaps tipped the Cornhusker coaching staff to some of the Hawkeyes pet plays. Moore denied it and declared his longtime friendship with Hayden as extinct as the dinosaur.

This year Iowa upset Nebraska, 10-7, so Hayden was happy. Jerry, meanwhile, might have come home from Boulder wishing he could throw some stones at a sabeteur.

But this is a different weekend, a different opponent and, Moore hopes, a different outcome. In view of the destruction wrought by Colorado's aerial theatrics, Tech can expect more of the same tonight in Lubbock's Jones Stadium when New Mexico and quarterback Robin Gabriel, whose dad's was named Roman, comes a throwin'.

The Lobos live and die by the pass. This season it has been mostly die. But the Raiders' secondary proved vulnerable last week without departed All-America Ted Watts, but surely they've plugged up the leaks by now....Tech 35, New Mexico 21.

Elsewhere in the SWC...

Texas A&M 17, Boston College 14—First, Berkeley and now Newton, Mass., join corps and see the U.S.

SMU 21, Grambling 14—Grambling's first venture into the big time.

Dabbling with point spreads....

Notre Dame plus 2 1/2 over Michigan—It should be a spellbinder.

Indiana plus 17 1/2 over USC—Down deep we don't believe it, but last week we took a beating giving points on college games.

Georgia minus 1 1/2 over Clemson—Poor Georgia. No. 1 last year. Still untested this year, but rank no better than No. 4 this year. Come to think of it, poor Clemson.

Michigan State plus 20 over Ohio State—Spartans beat Northwestern last week by one. They must've been looking forward to Buckeyes.

UCLA minus 9 1/2 over Wisconsin—In direct defiance of last week's results.

Alabama minus 13 over Kentucky—After Georgia Tech, this has got to be a week for satisfaction.

Houston plus 3 1/2 over Miami—We like points.

Rankin, McCamey battle to 0-0 tie

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

MCCAMEY — McCamey fumbled away five scoring opportunities inside Rankin's 20-yard line, but the Badger defense held the high-octane Red Devil offense in check as the two Upton County foes battled to a scoreless tie here Friday night. It was the first tie in the series since the two battled to a 0-0 tie in 1970.

Disappointed McCamey mentor Larry Nabors said, "We lost the game by poor coaching. Any time you get inside a state-ranked team's 20-yard line and fumbled five times something is wrong. It showed a lack of concentration that the coaches missed Monday through Thursday. But we will work on it and will be ready for Seagraves next week."

Rankin's Dwayne Turner stated, "We played good defense but I thought our offense could move the ball better than we did. I'm disappointed in that. I really thought it would be a high scoring game.

"McCamey has a good football team and they just beat us in basic football tonight. They blocked us down, especially on their option plays. Their lead blockers on those plays just wiped us out. This is the best line I've seen at McCamey in four or five years."

McCamey's first scoring opportunity came midway through the first quarter. Robert Arana went around right end and Terry Turner saved a TD when he dragged him to the turf at the 15-yard line after a 46-yard dash. On the next play, Donald Mann was hit hard on the 15 and coughed the ball up.

After Jerry Stacy recovered a Dennis Black bobble on his own 38, the Badgers moved to the Red Devil 18. Facing second and eight, sophomore Robert Day got the call. Day struggled to the 14 where he was hit and the ball squirted loose. Jesse Hernandez was there to recover the ball and thwart another McCamey drive.

The Badger defense held and forced Turner to punt from the 17. Turner, whose punting got Rankin out of trouble all night, boomed a 42-yard punt to the McCamey 44.

McCamey moved smartly down field as David Acosta broke free for 20 yards and Arana followed with a 10-yard dash to the Red Devil 26. Just when Badger followers will sensing a touchdown, Arana was pounded at the line of scrimmage and Robert Jeannotted pounced on the loose pigskin.

Orange followers were to suffer one more heartbreak in the first half. McCamey tried a flea-flicker play on their own 25. Stacy spotted Tony Velasquez open by five yards on the Rankin 40. He let fly and hit Velasque with a perfect spiral, but he let the ball dribble through his arms for an incompleted pass.

Late in the third stanza, Clay Lindsey tiptoeed down the near sidelines on a 47-yard punt return to put the Badgers in business on Rankin's 12. Three plays later, Arana lost the handle to the pigskin as he struggled at the 3-yard line. Chug Browning was there to fall on the ball for Rankin as the Red Devils escaped another bullet.

Following Browning's fumble recovery, Rankin got its offense untracked and marched to McCamey's 15 withh 9:01 left in the game. At the 15, Rankin was whistled for illegal procedure that moved the ball back to the 20. Black was stopped cold at the line of scrimmage by Donald Mann to bring up a third and 15. Rankin was hit with another procedure call to make it third and 20 and when Lindsey picked off a Bo Rose pass at the 12-yard line, it ended Rankin's most serious drive of the night.

On the next series, Stacy galloped for 20 yards on two carries and a face mask foul helped the Badgers move to Rankin's 19 before disaster struck again. Stacy's pitch to Mann hit him in the shoulder pads and Danny Mitchum fell on the loose pigskin to muzzle the Badger's final chance to score with 1:30 left on the stadium clock.

Nabors stated, "Nobody has bragging rights in Upton County this year. I guess we'll just have to share them."

Rankin's "Dashing Duo" of Black and Turner were held to 129 yards — by far the lowest total turned in by the pair this season. Black rushed for 86 yards in 29 carries while Turner could net only 43 on eight attempts.

"We had many opportunities to win," continued Culpepper. "That kick return was a great stimulus for them. I thought Wesley Williams played well on that last drive. But I was disappointed in the defense in that we couldn't keep them out of the end zone in the fourth quarter. They couldn't come up with 12 minutes of play when we needed it."

Brownwood nips Bobcats, 15-10

BROWNWOOD — The Brownwood Lions struck for a fourth quarter touchdown pass play of 44 yards here Friday night to dump the San Angelo Bobcats from the list of the unbeatens with a come-from-behind 15-10 victory.

The AAAA Lions trailed by 10-0 at the half, but Tabor cranked up the throwing arm and hit Jesse Smith for a 36-yard pass and hit Jimmy Morris for the two-pointer to cut the margin to 10-8. Then Tabor hit Smith again for 44 yards in the fourth period. San Angelo is now 2-1 on the year, the same as Brownwood.

Rutgers kicks Virginia

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — With 3:02 remaining, Alex Falcinelli booted a 37-yard field goal, lifting Rutgers Scarlet Knights to a 3-0 college football victory over the University of Virginia at Giants Stadium Friday.

The field goal, which capped a frustrating 15-play drive, culminated a game rife with fumbles and record-breaking interceptions by both teams.

The first three periods were scoreless, with both sides making far too many mistakes to mount a serious offensive challenge.

In the first half, Rutgers had three fumbles, while quarterback Ralph Leek threw three interceptions. Virginia quarterback Todd Kirtley was saddled with two interceptions.

The eight interceptions in the game broke a Giants Stadium record, set in the first Garden State Bowl, held in 1978, when Arizona State defeated Rutgers, 34-18.

Packers' Starr refuses to tell

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packer Coach Bart Starr refused to either confirm or deny a report Friday that Packer wide receiver Aundra Thompson was involved in the deal under which Green Bay would obtain All-Pro wide receiver John Jefferson from the San Diego Chargers.

"I'm not going to discuss any players because they are still members of my team," he said.

The Milwaukee Journal quoted someome described as a highly placed source with one of the teams as saying that Thompson, and a first and second round draft choice would go to the Chargers. The newspaper said that it was believed that at least the first round choice would be in the 1982 NFL draft.

But Starr said details would not be officially disclosed until Bob Harlan, corporate assistant to the president of the Packers, and Howard Slusher, Jefferson's agent, agreed on a revised contract for Jefferson. Harlan and Slusher are scheduled to meet Saturday at Anaheim, Calif., where the Packers are to play the Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

Slusher indicated there was a good chance an agreement could be reached Saturday. Harlan said he was optimistic that something could be worked out soon, but did not know whether it would be Saturday.

Jefferson said he had been working out but was not quite ready to play.

"I'm in pretty good shape and it won't take me long. I'm anxious to get going," he said. "Very anxious. I've watched the Packers and they're building. And I honestly feel that we can win the division title this year.

Slusher said the Packers could put Jefferson on an NFL exemption list after he was signed, and he could practice with them for two weeks before Green Bay had to drop another player from the roster.

Harlan said he had called Slusher about five weeks ago to initiate discussions

"We discussed ballpark figures, and I got a good idea of what John wanted to improve his contract," he said.

Talks with the Chargers reportedly did not begin in earnest until the regular season began, and San Diego was also reporteyzg be talking to Chicago, Dallas and the New York Giants.

Jefferson, who led the NFL in touchdown receptions last seasoon with 13 and was the first player in league history to gain 1,000 yards receiving in each of his first three seasons, has been a holdout this season with the Chargers, demanding that his contract be renegotiated.

The trade was announced Thursday afternoon shortly after Jefferson and Slusher held a news conference in San Diego and said Jefferson would never play for the Chargers again and wanted to be traded. Jefferson said he believed it was the news conference which convinced the Chargers to make the deal.

"I was prepared to sit out," he said. "The Chargers wouldn't even talk to Howard....They knew I wasn't playing for them anymore, so it put enough pressure on them that they had to do something.

Six Indy winners set for Michigan 150 race

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — A field that includes six winners of the Indianapolis 500 is set to qualify Saturday for a 150-mile Indy-car race Sunday at Michigan International Speedway.

Bobby Unser, Al Unser, Johnny Rutherford, Gordon Johncock, Mario Andretti and Rick Mears are among 32 drivers scheduled to qualify on the two-mile MIS oval for the $100,000 Championship Auto Racing Teams event.

The 75-lap race is the first part of a three-race program Sunday at MIS sponsored by The Detroit News.

The second event Sunday is a 100-kilometer Sports Car Club of America Super Vee race for small formula cars powered by Volkswagen engines.

The triple-header winds up with an American Speed Association 150-mile race for late model sportsmen's cars. It marks the first superspeedway appearance for the ASA cars.

Andretti is the defending champion in the Indy-car race, taking the pole position a year ago at 195.812 mph and then completing the 75 laps at 167.494 mph.

Rick Mears will be attempting to lock up his second CART national championship. Mears is the only multiple winner on the CART circuit this year, taking both ends of the Atlanta 125s and the California 500.

He leads Pancho Carter by a 218-147 margin in the CART points standings. Bill Alsup, with 126, is the only other driver with a mathematical chance at the title. A Mears victory, with Carter finishing no better than 10th, would give Mears the crown.

Sugar, Hit Man..mutual punishment brings mutual respect

By THOMAS BOSWELL
(c) 1981, The Washington Post

LAS VEGAS — In a dubious way, the love that grows between fighters in the ring is the best thing a brutal sport has to offer.

Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns began their evening of mutual punishment here Wednesday, one that ended with a battered and exhausted Leonard mounting an unanswered 20-punch assault for a technical knockout in the 14th round, with an ugly and shallow disrespect for each other that showed in every gesture and grimace.

Snarls, sneers, mockeries, hails of punches after the bell, hip wiggles, faked bolo punches, glove laces in the face, backhand punches — all the trappings of a bad club fight — marked the first five indecisive rounds of this world welterweight championship fight, with the biggest single-event gross in sports history ($35 million-$36 million). The next time Leonard steps into a ring, he expects it to be against Aaron Pryor, junior welterweight champion.

By the midst of the Leonard and Hearns hostilities, after the heart-testing sixth and seventh rounds, the mood between the two men changed to respect as they stared at each other quietly between rounds.

By the end, with Leonard's left eye swollen almost shut, with Hearns' cold eyes sinking as a drowsiness of left hooks crept upon him, their relationship had been transformed into an uneasy respect, not unlike that shared by Ali and Frazier.

As they passed at each round's end, each would pat the other softly on the stomach with the palm of the right glove. They had long since passed theatrics, passed the need to impress judges or con the foe. They were no longer those callow cash commodities: Sugar Man and Hit Man. They were elemental men, fierce friends with a serious question to settle.

It is a curiosity of man that he only gives his deepest respect after some sort of combat. Whether the struggle is physical, emotional, intellectual or whatever, we save our strongest ties for those with whom we have shared the hottest fires.

We all know how closely love and hate cohabit, but that doesn't mean we understand how one usurps the other's place. It is more than ironic, more than odd, that in boxing, the most horrible of our games, initial hate is almost always transformed into growing respect. Even pugilists, rearranging each other's features for chump change, have an indisputable dignity in their prime and, within their own hard fighting fraternity, often find a true, caring community.

Go to the smallest hole-in-the-wall gym — Hearns' Kronk in Detroit or Finley's in District of Columbia or Leonard's Palmer Park (Md.) — and something powerfully decent is growing in the midst of the poverty and suppressed violence. Out of man's worst, an ambiguous hint of man's best.

In its aftermath, this fight left that familar sense of richness and bizarre human elevation that follows a vicious evening.

"This fight will go down in history. It was a great fight. It had tides and those tides kept turning," said Emanuel Steward, the guru-manager of Hearns, who was touched with uncommon grace Thursday morning when he spoke.

College Football roundup

Irish get big test

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

In only the second week of the college football season, Bo Schembechler's Michigan Wolverines face a must-win situation. Playing top-ranked Notre Dame will add to that problem.

The Irish, coming off a convincing 27-9 victory over Louisiana State in Coach Gerry Faust's debut last week, invade Ann Arbor Saturday to meet Michigan, the preseason No. 1 pick but a shocking 21-14 loser to Wisconsin last week.

"I can't believe we're that bad a team, at least I hope not," Schembechler said. "I don't want to take anything away from Wisconsin. They beat us. But we had a poor performance last week. That's what makes it especially tough against Notre Dame."

Schembechler wasn't kidding about how poorly the now 11th-ranked Wolverines played. Wisconsin had 23 first downs compared to eight for Michigan and held a 439-229 edge in net yardage.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame was awesome in Faust's first game. They ripped off 376 yards in total offense, while holding LSU to 230.

But Faust was wary about the game that is expected to draw a sellout crowd of more than 105,000 and a national television audience (12:50 p.m., ABC-TV).

"When a loss occurs, the upset team is always better the next week," Faust said. "I think we're going to have to play errorless football to beat Michigan."

Or the Irish might get lucky — again. They beat Michigan 29-27 last season on a 51-yard, last-second field goal by Harry Oliver, while the year before, linebacker Bob Crable blocked a last-ditch Wolverine field goal, preserving a 12-10 Irish victory.

HOWEVER, FAUST feels the odds are in Michigan's favor this year.

"I wouldn't mind being in Bo's shoes this week. Michigan has a distinct advantage. They've been waiting for this game all year," Faust added.

Second-ranked Southern Cal, 1-0, also will appear in the Midwest Saturday to play Indiana's Hoosiers, 1-0. The Trojans crushed Tennessee 43-7 in their opener last week, while Indiana edged lightly regarded Northwestern 21-20.

Elsewhere in the Top 10, No.3 Oklahoma is idle; No.4 Georgia travels to Clemson; No.5 Penn State is idle; No.6 Texas hosts North Texas State; No.7 Pitt entertains Cincinnati; No.8 Ohio State hosts Michigan State; No.9 UCLA is at No.20 Wisconsin, and No.10 North Carolina plays Miami of Ohio at home.

Georgia and Herschel Walker put the nation's current longest winning streak (15) on the line against unbeaten Clemson. Both teams are 2-0, but Clemson is seeking revenge for a 20-16 loss to Georgia a year ago — a game the Tigers dominated statistically.

Texas, 1-0, is a whopping 25-point favorite in its game. Pitt, 1-0, is not expecting trouble from Cincinnati, a 52-0 loser to Penn State last week.

Ohio State should easily roll to its second straight win if the Buckeyes can stop Michigan State quarterback John Leister. UCLA, a 35-18 winner in its opener last week against Arizona, will have its hands full if Wisconsin turns in a performance similiar to the one it gave against Michigan.

Elsewhere this weekend, No.12 Alabama, stunned by Georgia Tech last week, looks to put Coach Bear Bryant back on the road to becoming the winningest coach in college football history when it travels to Kentucky, the Bear's alma mater. Bryant has 307 career victories, seven short of Amos Alonzo Stagg's mark. 'Bama is 1-1 this season.

ANOTHER UPSET victim last week, No.17 Nebraska hosts No.19 Florida State Seminoles, who are beginning a five week road trip which also includes stops at Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pitt and Louisiana State.

"It is here and I'm just dumb enough to be excited," said Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden. "I've known this has been coming for six years, and now I say, 'Let's get on with it and find out what sort of program we've got.'"

In other games, giant killer Georgia Tech visits Florida; Vanderbilt, which uset Maryland last week, takes on 14th-ranked Mississippi State; No.16 Miami of Florida hosts Houston; No.13 Brigham Young is at Texas-El Paso; Kansas State's at No.15 Washington, and Wichita State plays a night game agianst No.18 Arizona State.

In other notable games, it's VMI at Army; Eastern Kentucky at Navy; Wyoming at Air Force; Oregon State at LSU; West Virginia at Maryland; Iowa at Iowa State, and Grambling State at Southern Methodist.

Valentine saves one-stroke lead

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Tommy Valentine salvaged a roller-coaster round with a 10-foot eagle putt Friday to hold a 1-shot lead after 36 holes of the $350,000 LaJet Golf Classic.

The 31-year-old Valentine, a non-winner on the Tournament Players Association Tour, shot a 2-under-par 70 on the treacherous Fairways Oaks Golf Club course for an 8-under-par 136 total.

There was a logjam of shotmakers on Valentine's heals at 137, including Gil Morgan, Fuzzy Zoeller and Craig Stadler. Two shots behind was Hubie Green, who had a 70.

Morgan fired a 66 using just 22 putts, Zoeller posted 67, and Stadler shot 68 on a perfect scoring day with light winds, bright sunshine and temperatures in the 70s.

Andy North made a move with a 3-under-par 69 to move to within 3 shots of Valentine at 139.

"Everytime I did something good I got too greedy and did something bad," said Valentine, who had only eight pars.

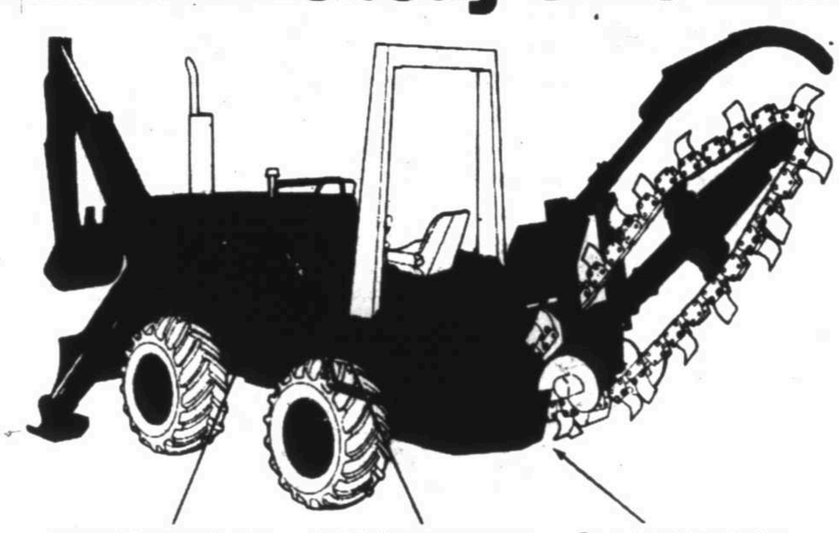
He double-bogeyed the 399-yard, par 4, No.13 when he missed the green with his second shot, chipped back, and three-putted.

The Georgian got it back by nailing a 3-wood just 10 feet from the hole on the 524-yard, par 5, No.14 to setup the eagle.

He had five birdies offset to some extent by three bogeys.

WANT TO TRENCH MORE EFFICIENTLY?

Nobody cuts it like Case!



Here's the first line of rugged underground machines that gives you everything you've always wanted in total hydrostatics for increased production.

Every Case DH-Series model has two separate closed-loop hydrostatic systems. With two hydrostatic pumps, you've always got "live hydraulics" to stay in control of the job...no matter the conditions. These pumps assure a constant supply of oil to attachments and ground drive. One hydrostatic pump powers the trencher or vibratory plow attachment; and an identical pump powers the 4-wheel hydrostatic ground drive. A third pump, which is a fixed-displacement pump, supplies power for backhoe, backfill blade and Hydra-Borer attachments.

The dual hydrostatic pumps, plus the fixed-displacement third pump, permit DH-Series units to plow or trench even in the toughest conditions. This unique system lets you mount attachments front or rear. And it provides more efficient utilization of horsepower. That means less fuel consumption...less maintenance...longer component life ... and more production. Now you can literally direct the power when and where it's needed most.

A separate hydrostatic pump supplies power for the trencher and vibratory plow attachments, assuring a constant flow of oil for infinitely variable digging chainline and plow vibration speeds.

An identical hydrostatic pump powers the 4-wheel hydrostatic ground drive. It permits infinite ground speed control to maximum, and provides a perfect match to almost any soil condition particularly important in trenching and site laying work.

This new hydrostatic trencher drive features its own hydraulic motor, gearbox, and a unique new flywheel device to boost torque make trenching smoother.

Stargell may put strikeout record out of reach

Los Angeles Times

It was the 12th inning of a tie game. Out of the dugout rumbled the familiar bulk of the most beloved figure ever to play the game, or at least since Babe Ruth, Wilver Dornell Stargell, everybody's grandpa, the kind of guy kids would climb on the knee of and tell him what they want for Christmas. In another era, he'd be driving steel and pulling locomotives off crushed workmen. Our own John Henry, dressed in black and gold, and wearing No. 8. The head of the family.

He stood there, pinwheeling the bat as though it were a sliver in his massive hands. Then, he drove a clean single to right. It moved the runner to third, from where he later scored the winning run. But, up in the pressbox, purists gnashed their teeth and slammed their pencils into counters. Why? Doesn't everybody love Willie Stargell? Isn't he the kind of man who would stand with tears in his eyes over a hospital bed and promise sick little boys he'd try to hit a home run for them?

Sure he is. Only, Willie Stargell isn't supposed to hit singles. It's the worst thing he can do. It's anti-history. You feel like shouting "No, no, Willie, not a single! Go foul, ball!"

YOU SEE, that was the 1,266th single Wilver had ever hit, his 2,212th hit of any kind. But, it could have been his 473rd homerun. And it could have been his 1,911th strikeout. We historians would opt for the strikeout.

You see, everytime Willie Stargell hits a homer, he climbs a notch. He's 15th on the all-time list. But, everytime he strikes out, he sets a record. Just like Pete Rose getting a hit. Wilver Stargell has a chance to become the first guy to rack up 2,000 strikeouts in a career. He could put that record up there where no one will ever get a shot at it. The strike might have ruined one of the grandest records in all baseball.

Babe Ruth never made 2,000 K's. He bottomed out at a lousy 1,360. That was good enough for his era. But 19 guys have rushed by him in the game of today. Stargell is making the world forget Babe Ruth. Stargell is making them forget Mickey Mantle (1,710 K's) or even Reggie Jackson (1,730 and climbing).

WILVER STARGELL should never hit a single. That's like Caruso singing "Melancholy Baby," Tracy playing the butler. Wilver Stargell is going into the Hall of Fame as a guy who hit 472 homers, scored 1,189 runs, drove in 1,519 runs, won the 1979 World Series. But, Wilver Stargell is also going in the Hall of Fame as the guy who made Babe Ruth, the most prodigious wind factory in his day, look like a contact hitter. Wilver Stargell is, simply, the most consistent misser of the ball in baseball history.

Oh, we may expect the old time purists, the custodians of Babe's legend, to look for loopholes. These are the guys who sniffed that Henry Aaron took Ruth's homer record away from him by playing in 700 more games and going to bat 1,000 more times. But the facts are, Stargell obliterated Ruth's record by playing in 250 FEWER games and going to bat 500 fewer times. No asterisks after Stargell's record. It's all his.

It's possible to kid with Willie Stargell over his sneak entrance to the Hall of Fame. One hopes it was also possible with the original Babe.

"It's not easy to set a mark like that," Wilver warned as he stood in the Pirate dugout the other night. "It takes concentration, dedication. You know, you come in this game, and, in your career, you're going to have to bat 10,000 times. Who says you're going to go 0-for-7,000? But you do. It's what you do with the 3,000 that counts."

To set the strikeout record, Stargell conceded, you have to be prepared to make certain sacrifices. Forinstance, unlike the rest of baseball, you have to be sure you're in the lineup every day J.R. Richard pitches. Feigning a bad back on that day is a no-no for strikeout artists.

THIS YEAR, Evans was leading the league for most of the pre-strike season. He was in the top 10 in batting, fourth in home runs and fifth in runs-batted-in. "The theory is to hit every ball up through the middle," he reveals. "I used to think you had to pull the ball. I even lead the league in walks, now, too. I can see when the pitch isn't a strike for a change."

But, why this should be due to Walt Hriniak, and not a book by Ty Cobb, a diagram by Rogers Hornsby or a study of films shot of Stan Musial, defies belief. Why should a banjo hitter be able to straighten out batting strokes where a Ted Williams a Babe Ruth, or even a Cobb or Hornsby couldn't? "Well," defends Evans, "I must say I never thought of it quite that way. It opens up a whole new vista for me. I mean, the next time my wife yells at me on the golf course, "How can you tell me how to hit a shot when you can't even get the ball in the air yourself?!" I will be able to tell her evenly, exactly! "That only proves I'm a great teacher!" I mean, didn't she ever hear of Charlie Lau? Walt Hriniak?

Restraining order against NCAA extended to Jan.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A temporary restraining order against the NCAA was extended Friday until Jan. 4 after the University of Texas agreed to limit its civil suit only to UT-Austin concerning a television contract with NBC.

UT's original action, which brought on the Sept. 8 restraining order, asked that the NCAA be prohibited from punishing UT or any of the other 61 members of the College Football Association that signed the NBC TV contract.

"We agreed to the order today because we think the other schools will be covered by a federal court suit in Oklahoma and other suits," said L.O. Morgan, chairman of the UT athletics council for men. "After all, we are primarily interested in Texas."

Jim George, Austin attorney for the NCAA, said his client agreed to the extension of the order "because they were not going to do anything anyway before the Dec. 6 special NCAA convention ... the rules may well be changed after the December meeting."

Murcer's pinch single keys win

Yankees bop Red Sox, 6-4

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Murcer's two-out, pinch-hit single in the eighth inning knocked in the tie-breaking run Friday night as the New York Yankees snapped Boston's four-game winning streak with a 6-4 victory over the Red Sox.

The Yankees, held hitless for 5 1-3 innings by Boston starter Frank Tanana, rallied to go ahead 4-1 on consecutive homers by Dave Winfield and Lou Piniella in the sixth inning. But they had to strike back again after Boston tied the score on a throwing error by Willie Randolph and a two-run homer by Dwight Evans in the seventh.

Randolph led off the eighth against Boston reliever Bob Stanley, 9-7, by beating out a topper to the left of the mound. Randolph took second on Stanley's wild throw to first and moved to third on a sacrifice. After Winfield struck out, Randolph scored on Murcer's single to center.

Ron Davis, 3-4, replaced starter Rick Reuschel after Evans' two-out homer in the seventh and earned the victory as the Yankees won their ninth straight game in Boston since Sept.12,1979.

The Red Sox took a 1-0 lead on a walk and Jerry Remy's double in the third.

Dennis Werth, batting .096, started the sixth with a walk. One out later, Milbourne broke up Tanana's no-hitter with a single to center. Winfield followed with his 11th homer into the center field seats. Piniella then golfed a shot over the left field wall for his fifth homer.

After the Yankees went ahead in the eighth, Bob Watson hit his sixth homer in the ninth.

Velez triples as Jays win, 5-1

TORONTO (AP) — Otto Velez hit a two-run triple and four Toronto pitchers combined to limit California to six hits as the Blue Jays defeated the Angels 5-1 Friday night.

The loss was the fourth in a row for the Angels and their 12th in their last 13 games.

Velez broke open a 2-1 game with his triple in the seventh. Garth Iorg started the inning when he reached first on an error by third baesman Bert Campaneris and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Al Woods. One out later, John Mayberry was walked intentionally.

Velez then hit a sinking line drive off Mike Witt, 5-9, that fell in front of center fielder Juan Beniquez and scooted under his glove, allowing both Iorg and Mayberry to score. Velez then scored the fifth Toronto run on a single by Lloyd Moseby.

Dale Murray, 1-0, relieved starter Dave Stieb in the second inning and gained the victory with 12-3 innings of work. Stieb was hit in the pitching hand by a line drive off the bat of Daryl Sconiers.

Murray followed with a walk to Larry Harlow, and, after both runners moved up on a wild picth, Sconiers scored on a single by Beniquez.

Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Iorg walked, moved to second on a single by Woods and scored on a single by Jesse Barfield.

Toronto moved in front 2-1 in the third inning. John Mayberry led off with a double and moved to third on a wild pitch. After Velez reached first on an infield hit down the third base line, Mayberry scored on an RBI grounder by Moseby.

Brewers subdue Orioles, 5-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gorman Thomas and Ted Simmons drove in two runs apiece and Pete Vuckovich and Jamie Easterly combined to pitch a seven-hitter as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-1 Friday night.

Thomas rapped an RBI double to cap a two-run first inning against Mike Flanagan, 8-6, and hit his 20th homer off Sammy Stewart in the eighth.

Simmons singled to drive in a first-inning run off Flanagan, who was making his first start since suffering a pulled muscle in his forearm on Aug.23, and was credited with another RBI on a force-play grounder in the fifth.

Paul Molitor had three hits for Milwaukee, including two singles that launched rallies, and collected an RBI double in the second.

Vuckovich, 13-4, allowed five hits during his five-inning stint and tied Baltimore's Dennis Martinez for the most victories in the American League. Easterly gave up two hits over the final four innings to earn his fourth save.

Baltimore's only run came in the second inning when Eddie Murray tripled and scored on a groundout.

Tribe's Denny wins sixth in row

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bo Diaz homered and Alan Bannister scored three runs in support of John Denny's sixth straight victory, pacing the Cleveland Indians to an 8-4 triumph over the slumping Detroit Tigers Friday night.

The triumph snapped a five-game Cleveland losing streak and extended Detroit's skid to five games and knocked the Tigers out of first place in the American League East for the first time since Aug. 29. Milwaukee took over the lead by one-half game with a 5-1 triumph over Baltimore.

Denny, 9-4, allowed nine hits in eight innings, striking out four and walking three. Dan Schatzeder, 6-8, suffered the defeat for Detroit.

The Indians jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second, the first of four two-run innings for Cleveland, when Toby Harrah singled and came home as Diaz followed with his seventh homer.

Detroit scored a run in the third on Alan Trammell's sacrifice fly, but Cleveland built its advantage to 4-1 in the bottom half of the third when Jorge Orta tripled and scored on Andre Thornton's single.

The Indians added two runs again in the fifth on consecutive run-scoring singles by Von Hayes and Harrah.

The Tigers cut the deficit to 6-3 in the sixth on a run-scoring groundout by Champ Summers and an RBI single by Lance Parrish.

Hargrove and Hayes hit RBI singles for an 8-3 Cleveland advantage in the sixth.

Dan Spillner relieved Rick Waits, who started the ninth, and gained credit for his sixth save.

Engle's bat does in Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Dave Engle ripped a double and a home run, driving in four runs in his first two at-bats, and the Minnesota Twins coasted to a 6-3 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night.

The triumph was the ninth for the Twins in their last 10 games.

Engle started the scoring with a solo homer in the first inning off Texas starter Rick Honeycutt, 10-5, who gave up four hits and five runs in 1-23 innings. It was Engle's second homer of the year.

In the second, John Castino walked and Pete Mackanin singled before Mark Funderburk doubled Castino home. Then Gary Ward walked, loading the bases, and Engle chased Honeycutt with a three-run double.

The Twins aded a run in the seventh on singles by Mickey Hatcher, Kent Hrbek and Butch Wynegar.

Leon Roberts scored Texas' first run in the third when he bunted for a single and came home on a walk and two infield outs.

The Rangers added two runs in the seventh on a walk, Roberts' RBI double, a wild pitch by Twins reliever Doug Corbett and an infield out.

Pete Redfern, 6-8, was the winner, allowing three runs and three hits in six innings. Corbett earned his 14th save.

A's triumph

CHICAGO (AP) — Tony Armas hit a bases-loaded triple to highlight a six-run outburst in the third inning and Dwayne Murphy hit a grand-slam homer to give the Oakland A's a 10-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Armas' extra-base wallop gave him 68 RBI, tops in the American League.

Oakland right-hander Steve McCatty, 12-6, had to leave the game after 52-3 innings when he suffered a dizzy spell. McCatty has now beaten the White Sox five times in his career without a loss.

With one out in the Oakland third, Dave McKay singled to left and Rob Picciolo singled him to third. Rickey Henderson then beat out an infield hit, scoring McKay while Picciolo moved to third.

Floyd forges ahead on string of birdies

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Marlene Floyd, buoyed by a string of four birdies and the help of her father, fired a brilliant round of 6-under-par 66 Friday to take sole possession of the second-round lead in the Henredon Classic LPGA tournament.

Floyd, whose brother is PGA player Ray Floyd, has a two-day total of 137, 7 under par, on the 6,249-yard, par-72 Willow Creek Golf Course. Before her round Friday, she spent the morning practicing with her father, L.B., who is part-owner of a Fayetteville golf course.

STARTING THe day in a 13-way tie for second at 71, Floyd canned birdie putts at the third and fifth holes to go out in 34. From the fringe of the 13th green, Floyd rammed home a 22-foot putt for a birdie 3 to begin the string.

At 14, Floyd hit her fairway shot to within 4½ feet of the hole on the 371-yard, par-4 hole. At the par-4 15th hole, she canned a 45-foot chip shot, and at the par-3 16th hole she knocked in a 35-foot uphill putt to cap the string.

The streak would have reached five had she properly read a putt on the 17th green. But she left the opportunity just short and settled for par on that hole, as well as on the 18th hole.

FLOYD'S FINISH overshadowed a strong charge by JoAnne Carner, the LPGA's leading money winner. Overcoming a bogey on the opening hole, Carner canned six birdies to register a round of 68 and a two-day total of 140, 4 under par.

Tied with Carner at 140 is first-round leader Kathy McMullen, who shot a 71 after a first day 69.

Jan Stephenson, who might have been higher on the leader board had it not been for a horrible back nine on Thursday, recovered for a 69 on Friday to stand alone in fourth at 3-under-par 141.

Three players are tied at 2-under-par 142. Beth Daniel shot a 69 to go with her first-round 73, while Janet Alex improved on her even-par 72 from Thursday with a three-birdie, one-bogey round of 70.

Carter sparks Expos over Cubs

MONTREAL (AP) — Gary Carter drove in three runs with a pair of singles in support of Scott Sanderson's five-hitter and the Montreal Expos took advantage of four Chicago errors to trounce the Cubs 11-0 Friday night.

Sanderson, 9-6, struck out nine and walked three in gaining his first shutout of the season. He was able to coast after the Expos scored 11 runs in the first four innings.

Montreal took a 4-0 lead in the second as Warren Cromartie's single off starter Doug Bird, 4-4, knocked in one run and a throwing error by third baseman Steve Dillard on the play allowed another one to score. Bird retired the next batter and Andre Dawson was intentionally walked. Carter then stroked a two-run single.

Mets scatter Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubie Brooks smashed a two-run triple and a run-scoring single, sparking the New York Mets to an 8-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.

Ed Lynch, 4-3, gained his first victory in four starts against the Cardinals this year with relief help from Jesse Orosco, who posted his first save of the season.

Brooks' triple highlighted a four-run first inning and his RBI single came in another four-run outburst in the eighth.

Dave Kingman chased Cardinal starter Bob Shirley, 5-4, with a run-producing double in the first and Doug Flynn singled Kingman home for the final run of the inning.

Pirates beat Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch-hitter Mike Easler's two-out, ninth-inning double triggered a three-run rally that helped the Pittsburgh Pirates take a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

Tony Pena opened the ninth with a single off loser Ron Reed, 4-3, and took second on a sacrifice by Lee Lacy. After pinch-hitter Willie Stargell struck out, Easler doubled to score Pena.

Black power Grambling tries on SWC for size

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference has a schedule Saturday that is one of the fullest in its history, with all nine teams playing. The full slate also happened early in the 1977 and 1978 seasons.

The rundown on Saturday's warfare:

RICE (0-1) at MISSOURI (1-0), 1:30 p.m. — First meeting ever between schools. The Owls played tenacious defense in a 31-3 loss to Texas last week, but their offense was thwarted with only 109 yards by outstanding Texas defense. The Tigers got untracked in the second half of the opener to score a 24-10 victory over Army. Quarterback Mike Hyde led Mizzou to the comeback with two fourth-quarter touchdowns. The Rice running game is built around twin powerbacks Tim Sanders and Antonio Brinkley. The Owls are seeking their first victory vs. Big Eight schools after losing the first four, while Missouri has won 11, lost 22, tied one against SWC teams.

TEXAS A&M (1-0) at BOSTON COLLEGE (7-4 in '81), 5:10 p.m. — Neither team has won at home from the other. Boston first-year head coach Jack Bicknell inherits 41 lettermen from the team that closed '81 with five straight victories to rank as one of the East's potential standouts. Among the 22 starters are 20 who have won a total of 37 letters. The Aggies came back twice in the opener at Cal-Berkeley two weeks ago for a 29-28 victory, their 11th win in the last 12 openers and rank high in NCAA stats — tenth in rushing offense, fifth in rushing defense, tied for first in field goals. New Aggie quarterback starter Gary Kubiak paced the offense to No. 2 total offense ranking in SWC.

NORTH TEXAS STATE (0-1) at TEXAS (1-0), 7 p.m. — Longhorns rank sixth nationally following an opening 31-3 victory over Rice, also leads the nation in total defense and twelfth in total offense. Rick McIvor hit seven of 10 attempts, including 65-yard touchdown to former starting quarterback Donnie Little, and third-team halfback Johnny Walker gained 155 yards to rank tenth nationally in rushing. The Eagles to start freshman Shaw Thompson as offense has had troubles in losses to Kentucky (28-6) and SMU (34-7). Freshman Carlen Charleston leads the Eagles in rushing with 156 yards and 6.5 average. It's only the third meeting between teams, with Texas holding 2-0 lead in close games.

HOUSTON (1-0) at MIAMI (1-0), 6 p.m.— The Hurricanes meet first of two consecutive SWC teams, hosting Cougars then traveling to Austin next week for meeting with Longhorns. Houston beat New Mexico, 21-10, while Miami used Danny Miller's 55-yard field goal to edge Florida, 21-20. Miami defensive line manned by four seniors and a junior averaging 243.2 pounds, Cougars have three seniors, a junior and a soph averaging 237.6. Lonell Phea's five receptions vs. New Mexico ranks him second in SWC. Running back Eddie Wright is one of eight SWC rushers with 100-yard or more averages. It's the 13th meeting between schools with Houston leading 7-5.

NORTHWESTERN (0-1) vs/ ARKANSAS (1-0) at LITTLE ROCK, 7:30 p.m. — First meeting ever between the schools and only the fourth time Northwestern has met a SWC school. Arkansas needed Bruce Lahay's 46-yard fourth-quarter field goal to rub out Tulsa lead and go on to 14-10 win at Fayetteville Saturday. Northwestern failed on late two-point conversion try, losing 21-20 to Indiana at home. Arkansas is 14-1 at War Memorial Stadium under Lou Holtz and hasn't lost a Little Rock opener since 1973. First-year Northwestern coach Dennis Green hopes for improvement from team that's won three games in last five seasons and hasn't had winning season since second-place Big Ten finish in 1971. Razorbacks rolled up 360 yards total offense vs. Tulsa but only TD came off Thomas Brown's 41-yard halfback pass to Derek Holloway. Razorbacks allowed Tulsa only 167 yards.

BAYLOR (1-1) at LOUISIANA TECH (1-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — One of four SWC games Saturday matching teams that have never met before. Baylor successfully rebounded from 18-17 loss to Lamar by blitzing Bowling Green last week, 38-0. Louisiana Tech also followed with a win after a loss, beating East Tennessee State, 31-3, after an opening 17-10 loss to West Texas State. Bears showed six different scorers in win over Bowling Green. La. Tech running back Ronny Williams scored three TDs while the Tech defense allowed East Tennessee State to just 87 yards total. Baylor passing game due for test from Tech pass defense that ranks fifth nationally at 23.5 yards per game. Baylor now seventh in total offense.

UT ARLINGTON (1-1) at TCU (0-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — Mavericks came back from opening defeat last week. Frogs are hoping to do same. UTA followed 48-0 licking by SMU with 26-13 victory over New Mexico State, paced by first-half running of Randy Johnson and two fourth-quarter touchdowns by quarterback Scott Logan. UTA defense expected to challenge Frogs to run since NMSU hit ten of 13 and TCU leads SWC in passing. Frogs could prove equal to challenge after showing improved running game in 24-16 loss to Auburn two weeks ago. Quarterback Steve Stamp hit almost 65 per cent of his passes vs. Auburn for 210 yards to keep Frogs close all the way. Mavericks won last two meetings as TCU holds 5-2 series advantage.

NEW MEXICO (0-2) at TEXAS TECH (0-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — Both teams lost high-scoring games last week, Raiders by 45-27 to Colorado and Lobos by 49-42 to Nevada-Las Vegas after dropping close opening game to Houston, 21-10. Tech was burned by Colorado passing as Randy Essington hit 14 of 23 for 345 yards and three TDs to lead nation in passing efficiency. Lobo Quarterback Robin Gabriel kept team in game against Houston until Cougar drive late in game resulted in TD with no time left for 11-point margin. Gabriel has hit 32 passes for 460 yards, two touchdowns and only one interception. Tailback Anthony Hutchison was main offensive weapon in Raiders' debut under new head coach Jerry Moore, getting 130 yards in 19 cerries vs. Colorado to rank 22nd nationally. Lobo running game also looking up as Michael Johnson returns this week for first time since knee surgery last year. Tech holds 22-2-2 lead in series and has won last six meetings.

GRAMBLING STATE (2-0) at SMU (2-0), 7:30 p.m. CDT — A lot of angles to this one: meeting of undefeated teams, first start against an SWC team for perennial black power Grambling, 39-year Grambling head coach Eddie Robinson ranks fourth on all time collegiate win list with 293...SMU coach Ron Meyer hopes to claim his 27th win on strength of impressive defense and improving offense. Mustangs among nation's leaders in five categories: third in total defense (138.5 per game), eight in rushing offense (330.5) and scoring (41.0), sixth in scoring defense (3.5), twelfth in pass defense (62.0)...Mustang TBs rank among top 15 runners in country—Eric Dickerson 12th at 145 yards per game, Craig James 15th at 136.5...James also ninth in nation with five TDs in two games...Grambling QB Thomas (Skippy) Ezell was hitting 24 of 38 attempts last week.

Aaron says Int prexy got cold feet

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Hank Aaron, farm director of the Atlanta Braves, says he feels International League President Harold Cooper "got cold feet" when he declared the regular-season champion Columbus Clippers the winners of the rain-canceled final playoffs.

"At first he said we'd be co-champs. Then he said Columbus would be champs because they were up 2-1. That's not what we had in mind. It's not fair to these guys. It's a bad way to handle it," Aaron said Friday night after Cooper halted the playoffs.

Cooper had been contacted by officials of both the Clippers and the Richmond Braves, Atlanta's farm team, after Thursday night's fourth game was postponed by a torrential rain.

The officials suggested the playoffs, in which there had been 10 rainouts since the start of the semifinals, be ended so the parent clubs could call up needed players. The Clippers are a farm team of the New York Yankees.

Richmond officials were under the impression Cooper would declare the teams co-champions or say there was no champion.

But Cooper declared Columbus the champion because of the Clippers' 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. Columbus thus became the first team in IL history to win three straight pennants and playoff titles.

From his office in Grove City, Ohio, Cooper said, "I didn't want to make the decision, but I had to."

He said Aaron called Columbus General Manager George Sisler "and told him they wanted to cancel the playoffs. George agreed with him. I called (Richmond General Manager) Richard Andersen and he told me the field was unplayable for (Friday night).

Aaron told him "he felt the teams should be co-champions. He told me George Sisler agreed with that," Cooper said.

But he said he called Sisler "and he (Sisler) didn't make that statement to me. So, I decided Columbus would be the champion on the basis of their 2-1 lead in the series. There will be an asterisk in the record book to say they won an abbreviated series.

"No matter what decision I made, there would be disagreement. But that's my job. I thought the integrity of the game was at stake. I got the feeling that the players themselves didn't want to play any longer."

Andersen said: "I'm disappointed for the fans, the players and the league ... This thing just dragged on too long. I'm not sure I would have made a different decision than Cooper made, but, of course, we're disappointed in it from our end."

Five Richmond players — pitcher Bob Walk, outfielder Terry Harper, catcher Matt Sinatro, first baseman Ken Smith and shortstop Paul Runge — were summoned to join Atlanta in San Diego.

Hearns camp has no qualms about decision to end fight

"We have no qualms about the decision," said Steward, shocking the boxing world that cynically assumed that, since Hearns practically had the fight locked up on points if he had remained vertical for another 4 minutes 15 seconds, the loser's camp would scream robbery. "Tommy was hurt and in trouble. It was close enough to call either way. There's a fair chance he'd have survived the (14th) round. But maybe not.

"The fight changed in the sixth round," said Steward. "There was a flash exchange and both guys threw their best left hook at the same instant ... what we'd call two 'clean-up shots.' Leonard's landed, and with a lot of leverage.

"I never thought I'd see Tommy Hearns hurt, but he was. He was never really the same after that. ... Once a fighter has been hurt by a punch, he's very vulnerable to the same punch. ... If Hearns hadn't been in the best shape of his life, I don't think he could have stayed up after some of the shots he took. Even at the end, he wasn't tired. He was just hurt and never got over it.

" ... We saw a lot of strange things ... things we never thought we'd see: Hearns hurt and Leonard outboxed," concluded Steward. "From the eighth round through the 12th, Tommy boxed to pick up points and won every round. Leonard couldn't figure him out or land anything. But give Ray credit. In the last two rounds, he was exhausted and fighting from his heart."

THURSDAY, Leonard and Hearns, standing shoulder to shoulder, both in the camouflage of huge sunglasses, talked at length — seriously, then humorously, but like lifelong buddies. In a day, they had made that familiar transformation from cultivated dislike to admiration.

"I hit him with right hands, but not the real hard right hand. He kept slippin' 'em at the last instant," said Hearns. "He never caught my best."

"Jeeeeez," said Leonard, looking down and away into his coffee cup in a comedian's best gimme-a-break voice. Then Leonard, who has never been off his feet as a pro, gave his laugh, the nervous laugh of respect for Hearns' right hand. "Until we got in the ring, I didn't realize the sucker was so big," said Leonard. "He carries power in both hands."

Next, it was Hearns' time for that nervous, telltale laugh when the subject turned to Leonard's famed speed.

Asked why he hadn't seen the lightning score of punches that ended the fight, Hearns said, "I didn't say I couldn't see 'em. They weren't that fast. I said I couldn't do nothin' about avoidin' 'em. The man hit me some good shots at the end.

"But don't go sayin' I couldn't see 'em," said Hearns.

In the sixth and seventh — two of the best action rounds in a championship fight in years, better (and much cleaner) than the best rounds of Leonard-Duran I — both fighters saw to the bottom of each other.

"In the sixth, Tommy buckled, and I went in for the kill," said Leonard. "He proved to me he could take a punch, and that's what I thought this fight was all about. I've proved I can take it (against Duran), but Hearns never had. He took my best shot."

AFTER HEARNS survived his two-round test, after his head cleared and his legs regained their pedaling power, this fight reached its final plateau. A mutual touch of gloves after the eighth round, instead of the earlier cheap shots, was testimony that both men knew the evening would be long.

The eighth through 12th rounds were almost a long gasping pause for a final wind. Leonard faced the consternation of chasing a center-shot foe who, with his unheard-of reach and retreating jab, not only regained his strength, but progressively closed Leonard's eye.

At last, by the 13th, it was time for a settling. Hearns had regained his aggressiveness — perhaps a strategic mistake since that allowed Leonard to operate in his natural style as a counterpuncher.

Leonard created the final turning of the tide. He greeted Hearns' attack with a series of combinations of such wild, risk-everything speed that, suddenly, Hearns was retreating on all fronts, Leonard's head on his sternum.

THE FIRST time Hearns went down, it was a simple mauling push by Leonard. But it was a symbolic push, the same kind that Duran used to effect in intimidating Leonard in Montreal.

The next time Hearns met canvas, it was the real thing, no matter that referee Davey Pearl called it a push, too. It was a left hook from the balcony kind of push. Perhaps the man closest to the scene as Hearns tumbled through the tangled ropes was Joe Carnicelli of United Press International. "Hearns' head was practically in my lap and he was out cold," said Carnicelli. "The thing that saved him was all the time it took them to get him untangled."

Soon, Hearns was back on the same ropes, this time sitting on the bottom strand. And, this time, officially knocked down.

THE END was a question of time. Leonard, oblivious to the occasional right that found his left eye, swarmed with a speed no man should have in the 14th.

As Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns walked off the stage Thursday, not knowing when or if they would meet again in a ring, they did not shake hands. Instead, eyes slightly averted, they met in a hesitant half-embrace. Each gave gentle pats to the other's back.

They parted, for now, firmly entrenched at this hour as the greatest enemies, and friends, in sport.

Steelers get nod over NY Jets

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press

How long, Chuck Noll must be wondering, will the beat — and the beatings — go on?

It all ends Sunday.

But for the New England Patriots and Minnesota Vikings, there's more to come.

Noll's Pittsburgh Steelers may be in trouble, whether due to age or injuries. But they're still a "together" ballclub — which the New York Jets aren't. Just as they did a year ago, the Jets have quickly degenerated into a confused collection of finger-pointers.

The Pats may be an explosive team, but Dallas isn't the kind of team to give up a lot of points, either in a hurry or over the long haul. And the Vikings are reduced to using a rookie quarterback — ortmaybe an out-of-work journeyman — in place of their two injured veterans.

Last week's picks against the spread: 4-9. This week's, with home teams capitalized:

PITTSBURGH minus 6 over New York Jets: If Coach Walt Michaels decides to go with the bomb and stick with that strategy, the Jets might have a chance. But he won't.

Dallas minus 2 over NEW ENGLAND: The Cowboys will be delighted to get away from the incendiary heat of their hole-in-the-roof stadium and into a cool New England night.

Detroit minus 1½ over MIN-NESOTA: The only thing the Vikings have had going for them so far has been their passing game. Now that's up in the air. BEST BET.

LOS ANGELES minus 7 over Green Bay: Last weekend, the Packers' 17-0 lead dissolved into a 31-17 loss. This week they won't even get the lead to begin with.

Cleveland plus 1½ over CIN-CINNATI: The Bengals were lucky to beat the inept Jets. Brian Sipe will attack their secondary with a vengeance.

ST.LOUIS minus 3 over Washington: The Cardinals played Dallas tough last Sunday. The Redskins barely played at all.

New Orleans plus 3 over NEW YORK GIANTS: It wasn't the Giants' offense that was so good; Washington's offense was that bad. George Rogers fuels this UPSET SPE-CIAL.

Other games:

HOUSTON minus 2½ over Miami

San Francisco plus 9½ over ATLANTA

San Diego minus 3½ over KANSAS CITY

CHICAGO minus 3½ over Tampa Bay

DENVER minus 2½ over Baltimore

OAKLAND minus 8 over Seattle

Birds help handicapped

BALTIMORE (AP) — The National Fan Organization plans to take members of the local news media to the Baltimore Orioles game Monday in wheelchairs, so they can better understand the difficulties of the handicapped fan.

About 10 persons from area newspapers, radio and television stations will be picked up by ambulances and taken to the Orioles' game with Detroit, said Brian Thompson, the fan organization's executive director.

"They'll be going as handicapped fans," said Thompson. "There will be no special considerations."

"The minute they walk through their front doors they'll be handicapped,"

Palace denies report that Diana 'bored with her role'

LONDON (AP) — Buckingham Palace denied a newspaper report Friday that said Princess Diana was "bored with her role" as Prince Charles' wife after only seven weeks of marriage.

"Totally untrue," said Michael Shea, palace press secretary of the report in the Sun, a London tabloid owned by Australian newspaper magnate Rupert Murdoch.

The newspaper said it was standing by its report.

The Sun article said 20-year-old Diana was bored, losing weight and finding it "almost impossible to adapt herself to the day-to-day routine of a royal."

Quoting unidentified sources, it also said Diana was finding it difficult to treat "servants as servants" at the royal family's Balmoral residence in Scotland, where she has been living with her husband and his parents, Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip.

Although he denied the report, Shea said he would not bother to ask for a retraction.

"If I rang the Sun every time they ran a story like this, I would not have anything else to do," he said.

The Sun said Diana was "deeply unsettled" and had persuaded Charles to "take her away from it all" to a smaller home on Balmoral estate when the queen leaves for a trip to Australia next week.

An unidentified Palace spokeswoman told Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, that various members of the royal family are often housed in one of the estate's smaller buildings.

NYSE report

WEEKLY COMMODITY MARKET REVIEW

Commodity markets stabilized in the past week as interest rates declined and the U.S. dollar began to falter.

The weak dollar aided gold for most of the week until the U.S. government announced sales of silver from its stockpile starting in October. This announcement severly pressured silver prices and gold was negatively effected by the bearish sentiment in silver.

Sluggish demand for beef dominated as a market influence on cattle this week while the pork futures complex was erratic as traders evened positions going into the quarterly hog and pigs report.

Soybeans, corn and soybean products tend to decline when the threats of frost subsided and harvest weather improved. Wheat eased on signs of increasing Soviet impatience with Poland's inability to curb labor unrest.

Cotton futures continued to slide although some reports of unseasonally cool weather brought in some buying interest.

Hitching with the Union Jack

Nick Fletcher of Manchester, England grimaces as he is blown off balance by a passing truck as he tries to catch a ride outside Columbia, Mo. "You have no Bloody idea how tired your arm gets," said Fletcher. Fletcher was on his return leg home after hitch-hiking his way across the country. Fletcher said the flag was an attention getting gimmick designed to get more rides.

Medfly part of history

By Carol A. Crotta
Hearst Feature Service

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. – As if Dorothy Davies didn't have enough trouble with with medflies and malathion and insect inspectors at her home. Now she has a new plague: med-tourists.

Davies walked out to the end of her driveway recently and found a sign: "Historical Landmark No. 581. First medfly discovered in Southern California. (Group rates and tours available).

"Now here's the part that amused me," she laughs. "It said 'Admission: $2,' then that was crossed out and it was $3, then that was crossed out and it was $5. Well, that's the rate of inflation."

The first medfly was indeed found in Davies' back yard, but the sign was a simple prank, perpetrated by her 19-year-old grandson.

"It's the only bit of humor in this terrible situation," she said.

Goldwater speaks out against Moral Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a rule, conservatives argue that the government should stay out of the way of the American people and let them make their own decisions. But some of them take exception to the rule on what they see as issues of morality.

New Right conservatives want laws to promote family values and to ban abortion. On those and other social issues, they see a larger role for the government.

That has led them into alliance with politically oriented religious organizations — and to a schism with Sen. Barry Goldwater's brand of old-fashioned Republican conservatism.

"I'm frankly sick and tired of the political preachers across this country telling me as a citizen that if I want to be a moral person, I must believe in A, B, C, and D," Goldwater said. "Just who do they think they are? And from where do they presume to claim the right to dictate their moral beliefs to me?

"I am warning them today: I will fight them every step of the way if they try to dictate their moral convictions to all Americans in the name of 'conservatism.'"

Goldwater said he was talking about the Moral Majority, the anti-abortion March for Life "and other religious groups" that are regarded as part of the New Right and the New Conservatism.

"Well, I have spent quite a number of years carrying the flag of the 'Old Conservatism,'" said Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee. "And I can say with conviction that the religious issues of these groups have little or nothing to do with conservative or liberal politics."

It is a campaign Goldwater began after the Rev. Jerry Falwell and his Moral Majority tried to derail the Supreme Court nomination of Arizona Judge Sandra O'Connor on grounds she had cast state legislative votes favoring abortion.

About two weeks ago, he set his speechwriters to work on the subject again and came up with an address in which he accused "religious factions" of divisive, uncompromising and potentially dangerous behavior.

"The uncompromising position of these groups is a divisive element that could tear apart the very spirit of our representative system, if they gain sufficient strength," he said. "As it is, they are diverting us away from the vital issues that our government needs to address. ...

"Far too much of the time of members of Congress and officials in the executive branch is used up dealing with special interest groups on issues like abortion, school busing, ERA, prayer in the schools and pornorgraphy."
