

THE JUNCTION EAGLE

Volume 47 Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Thursday, August 14, 1930 Number 18

JUNCTION PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OPEN 1930 SESSION WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3rd

Varied Program At Gillespie Co. Fair Aug. 22-24

In this week's issue of the Eagle will be found the announcement of the Gillespie County Fair Association at Fredericksburg with an invitation to visit its forty-fifth annual fair to be held on August 22-23-24. This is unquestionably the oldest county fair in Texas, the association having held forty-five successive annual fairs.

This year the association offers a varied program of entertainment with good fast running horse races daily in which a purse of $1500 is offered for competition. Ball games will be of special interest to the visitors as the strong Fredericksburg Giants will play teams of the Hill Country League each day. The first day the Giants will play the leaders in the league, the Llano Granitemen; the second day the Comfort Bronchos and the third day, Sunday, the Kerrville Tourists. This last game will be of special interest since it will count in the league contest. Besides the ball games and races other free attractions are offered with dances at night, while the Roay Gray Amusement Company will furnish carnival attractions both day and night.

The first day of the Gillespie County Fair is noted for its wonderful exhibitions of livestock, agriculture and the various departments in the ladies classes and according to those in charge these promise to compare favorably with any ever exhibited there.

Elder J. S. Newman Will Resign Here

It is with regret that the Eagle learns that Elder J. S. Newman is planning to give up his work as pastor of the Junction Church of Christ at the close of the year after a successful pastorate of four years. He has done a great work in Junction. During his pastorate one of the best and most beautiful church buildings in the state has been erected and dedicated to the service of God. He is an affable gentleman, a valuable citizen and an excellent preacher. He takes an active interest in the social, civic and religious interests of the community. Not only his congregation, but the entire city will miss Brother Newman and his good family when they are gone.

In a conversation with Brother Newman, the Eagle learns that he is interested in the Magic Valley of Texas and may move to that section. However, plans are not perfected as to what he will do and the citizenship of Junction is hoping that he will yet decide to remain here. He is popular with the entire citizenship of this community and is always in demand on social and civic occasions as well as religious.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Heyman are slowly recovering from their auto wreck three weeks ago. Both are able to look after their business, but it will be some time before they fully recover from their injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Joseph and Mrs. R. Barnes left today for a vacation trip to Corpus Christi. Philip plans to play with the Mermaids on the beach and forget the cares of business for a few days.

E. E. Bolt Dies In San Antonio August Eighth

Mr. E. E. Bolt, a citizen of Kimble County for more than forty years, died in a San Antonio Hospital August 8. The body was brought to Junction and buried Saturday afternoon in Junction Cemetery, the Rev. G. W. Crofoot, pastor of the Junction Presbyterian Church, officiating. It was a beautiful service and the floral offering profuse. Mr. Bolt has been in ill health many months and has spent a great deal of time in San Antonio hospitals during the past year.

Mr. E. E. Bolt was born in England September 8, 1866. He came to America in 1889, when a young man. He was married first in 1890, but his wife lived only about one year. He was married the second time to Miss Lottie Tisdale on September 20, 1893. To this union four children were born—two sons and two daughters. One son, Horace, died in 1918, but the wife and three children, W. E. Bolt, Mrs. Mary Ella Owens and Mrs. Josie Maddux, survive him, all of whom were with him during his last hours.

Mr. Bolt was a member of the Episcopal Church, but as there is no resident pastor the service was conducted by the Rev. G. W. Crofoot. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. before coming to America, but did not affiliate with the lodge in America. He was a director and stockholder in the Junction State Bank and Junction Cattle Loan Company. He owned large ranching interests and was recognized as one of Kimble County's best and most successful business men. He was quiet and unassuming and had many friends in Kimble and adjoining counties.

The following served as pall bearers: Active—W. P. Riley, J. R. Martin, A. L. Mudge, J. F. P. J. N. Hodges, C. T. Holkamp, Chris Schraub and W. R. McKee.

Honorary—G. K. Gordon, A. H. Murchison, E. Hokekamp, S. A. Griffith, F. H. Watson, O. D. Nance, Robt. Spiller, W. A. Bannowsky, D. T. Whittle, Fred S. Hall, Emil A. Loeffler, F. L. Wilson, H. E. Wilson, J. A. Browning and Henry Murr.

Among the out-of-town people attending the funeral were Mrs. W. S. Boswell, Paint Rock, Mrs. J. E. Tisdale, V. G. Tisdale, Joe Tisdale and R. A. Tisdale, Edna McKawett, R. A. Tisdale, Edna McKawett, Tuscola, Mrs. Vesta Hughes, Mertzon, and others whose names we were unable to obtain.

Grand Jury Begins Its Labors Monday

The 112th district court was convened at ten o'clock Monday morning by Judge Joe G. Montague and the grand jury was sworn in and charged. The charge was not long but admonished them to look into any violations of law being brought to their attention. The Judge charged them especially to look into prohibition violations and stressed the importance of secrecy in their work.

The following constitute the grand jury: A. L. Mudge, foreman, J. O. Wright, W. L. Amaon, L. W. Grobe, H. P. Rankin, A. H. Wendel, O. W. Keese, Ray Holland, J. M. Livingston, Joe Gardner, Rex Lavelle and W. E. Allen.

The following bailiffs were sworn in: T. A. Brooks, door; Frank Smith, walking and John Allen riding.

At the Sunday morning service Mr. Pearl France was ordained and installed as an elder in the Presbyterian Church here. Mr. France was elected some time ago. Messrs Sam P. Woodward and I. W. Myers are also elders in the local Presbyterian Church.

Hill Country Firemen's Association Holds Successful Meet Here Tuesday

Voters Out of County on Aug. 23rd May Vote

Another primary election will be held on August 23, and some will be absent from the county on that day and will want to vote. Absentee voting should not be resorted to except in unavoidable cases. On July 26 some who took advantage of the absentee voting were in Junction on the day of the election. There are two classes of absentee voting, and any qualified voter who expects to be out of the county on the election day may vote by observing the following:

Not more than ten nor less than three days prior to August 23, go in person before the County Clerk and exhibit your poll tax receipt or exemption certificate. If not personally known to the clerk, you must be identified.

The clerk will give you a ballot which you shall mark without assistance and return to him. The ballot will be sealed and voted for by the presiding judge on election day and your poll tax receipt returned for you to the County Clerk, where you may obtain it after election.

If you do not go before the County Clerk in person but are temporarily absent from the County of your residence, you may still vote by:

Going before a notary public at the point where you are not more than 20 nor less than 10 days before August 23, and delivering to him your poll tax receipt or exemption certificate, or making affidavit of its loss, and he will send such paper to the County Clerk.

If the County Clerk finds your name on the poll list, he will mail you a ballot which you will mark according to your vote and deliver to the notary public.

The notary public will mail same to the County Clerk and it will be voted in the usual way.

Revival Services Will Close Sunday

The revival services at the Baptist Church will continue until Sunday night and a cordial invitation is extended every one to attend during the last few days and hear the good singing and good preaching. Brother Strickland has had good song services and it is seldom that anyone has an opportunity to hear better preaching than Brother Marshall is doing.

Last Sunday was a great day. Large crowds were present at both services and people heard the Word and believed. Conventions, court and other things have kept many away from the services, but the preachers are anxious for the people to attend the services during the next few days.

All the churches of the city will hold their regular services at the 11 o'clock hour, but the only service in the evening will be at the Baptist Church, which everyone is urged to attend.

J. W. RAGLAND DIES

Mr. J. W. Ragland, who has been ill many months, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Annie Highsmith, at eight o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held at the Methodist Church here this afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Milton F. Hill and Rev. Virgil Davis. The body will be buried in the Junction Cemetery.

THANK YOU

Chief John Hankins and his more than thirty loyal fire boys thank the citizens of Junction for their hearty co-operation in making the third quarterly meeting of the Hill Country Firemen's Association held here Tuesday the decided success that it was. From the first announcement of the meeting coming here the people showed a great interest. Especially do they thank the Kimble County Chamber of Commerce for the banquet Tuesday evening. Kimble Courts for the courtesy shown in letting the association use their beautiful swimming pool, and all the good women who rendered many courtesies and kindnesses during the day. Your co-operation and assistance with the valuable work of the visitors made it "A Perfect Day."

August Term District Court Is In Session

Large crowds are in attendance at the August term of the 112th district court which was convened here Monday morning at ten o'clock by Judge Joe G. Montague. The forenoon was taken up in empanelling the grand jury and going over the docket.

Several non jury cases were disposed of Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, including some divorce cases. On Wednesday morning the State of Texas vs. S. H. McIntyre, charged with cattle theft was called and both sides reported ready for trial. The jury was selected Wednesday afternoon, but the death of the father of one of the jurors about eight o'clock halted the case. The juror was excused and early this morning the Court dismissed the jury and entered on the docket a mistrial and reset the case Friday morning, August 15.

Judge Montague is disposing of many cases and within the two weeks expects to clear the docket of all cases ready for trial. The McIntyre case and others were transferred here from Pecos County.

The grand jury completed its labors and made its report this morning. Five felonies and one misdemeanor were reported.

HAZELWOOD BROTHERS HAVE FINE GARDENS

Hazelwood Brothers have a good garden each year on their lot where they have their filling station. This year they are specializing in tomatoes and muskmelons. They have had melons this season weighing as much as nine and one-half pounds. They are getting several pounds of fine tomatoes each day and find a ready market for them at their store in connection with their filling station.

Their father is the principal gardener and is probably due more credit than the brothers. They have some fine fruit trees growing on their lots and last year put out two cypress trees that are growing fast.

The Eagle acknowledges the receipt of one of their fine muskmelons and thanks them for same. It was fine eating.

Mr. Roy Skaggs continues to improve slowly at his home from serious injuries received several weeks ago in an automobile wreck near Boerne. Mr. Carl Tibbitt is still in the hospital in San Antonio, but reports are that he will be able to turn home before many weeks.

San Angelo Is Awarded Next Quarterly Meeting

130 AT BANQUET

Bucket Water Fights
Heartily Enjoyed
By All

Early Tuesday morning firemen and members of their families began to arrive from Brady, Eden, Mason, Menard, San Angelo and Sonora and by ten o'clock 130 were present for the Hill Country Firemen's Association. The newly elected Mother, Mrs. W. P. Riley, Sponsor, Miss Blix Hankins, and Maids of Honor, Misses Vivian James and Mary Holbert, were at the station to assist in the registration of the visitors.

At ten o'clock all repaired to the Teken Theater where the business session was held with Chief John M. Hankins, president of the association, presiding. The program of procedure as outlined by the by-laws of the organization was followed in the business session, including the reports of regular and special committees and other routine business. San Angelo was selected as the place for the next quarterly meeting which will be held the second Tuesday in November. Miss Edna Parker, daughter of Chief John Parker of San Angelo, was elected sponsor of the Hill Country Association. After brief talks by Chiefs Parker, Hankins, Taylor and others, the business session adjourned and all went to Schreiner Park where the Junction Fire Department served a barbecue dinner. The local boys, with the assistance of their mothers,

Help Women Lay Pipe In Junction Cemetery

The Junction Cemetery Association is extending an appeal to everyone interested in the upkeep of the cemetery to assist in laying water pipe so that the lots may be properly watered. The women have had the pipe some time, but have not had funds to lay it.

A special appeal is made to those who are not able to give money to give a day's labor. Some may prefer to give money, and some may want to employ someone for a day to assist in laying the pipe. Anyone wanting to donate labor or give money will please get in touch with Mrs. T. B. Phillips.

The women of the cemetery association have done a good work and since it has been dry so long they desire to lay pipe so that the flowers and shrubbery may be watered. Labor and money is solicited and Mrs. T. B. Phillips will accept either.

WEATHER REPORT

Junction has experienced another week of dry weather. Sunday afternoon showers fell in some parts of the county, but it gave very little relief. A general rain is needed over a large territory to give relief. The daily press indicates that the drought is nation-wide with a few exceptions. Arizona and Utah have reported torrential rains recently. Virginia has also reported good rains. Farming and ranching interests are suffering nearly everywhere. Kimble County has the advantage of many sections in that it has an abundance of water for live stock.

C. H. Johnston Is Victim of Tragic Death

From the Kerrville Mountain Sun we take the following account of the tragic death of Charlie Johnston, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Murr, which occurred at his home in Kerrville Saturday morning, August 1, 1930. Charlie was well known here and has many relatives and friends who mourn his untimely death.

A pall of sorrow enveloped the entire city Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock when it was announced that Charlie H. Johnston, 37, one of Kerrville's most popular young business men, had succumbed to an accidental pistol bullet wound inflicted at his residence, 909 Water Street, several hours earlier.

Hundreds of close friends were bewildered by the shocking news that likeable, jovial Charlie Johnston had been the victim of a tragic death.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. C. E. Wheat, commissioner of the Methodist Kerrville Assembly, were held Monday afternoon from the family residence. The last rites at the grave in Glen Rest Cemetery were held under auspices of Kerrville Lodge No. 697, A. F. & A. M., and under the direction of Kerrville Funeral Parlor.

Following impressive services at the home, one of the largest funeral corteges Kerrville has ever witnessed followed the remains to the city of the dead, where a great portion of the community as well as scores of out-of-town visitors shared in the poignant grief of the family circle and paid final tribute to a friend.

Upon the mound and overflowing around it was left a floral display seldom equalled in the city, ranging from gorgeous wreaths of the affluent to the humble bouquets of those in meager circumstances, testifying to the universal esteem in which Charlie Johnston was held.

Active pall bearers were L. D. Garrett, A. C. Schreiner, Jr., L. L. Rawson, Raymond A. Franklin and Jesse Stallings, and J. D. Motley of Ballinger.

Honorary pall bearers were Dan Auld, Carl Peterson, J. L. Pampell, E. W. Speckels, E. C. Fisk, A. C. Schreiner, Emmett Henke, Glenn Brooks, W. B. Brown, E. M. Wright, L. A. Schreiner, Henry Memschel, Sid Peterson, Lee Mason, Scott Schreiner, Charlie Peterson, Dr. J. E. McDonald, Dr. E. E. Palmer, Ally Beitel, H. H. Kuhlmann, S. Eastland and Walter Holkamp.

The shot which brought a promising life to an untimely end was fired shortly after 9 o'clock at the victim's home. Charlie Johnston returned home from town, entered his room whistling and gave his wife a cheerful greeting. He then walked into the bathroom, leaving the door open. A moment later, after hearing a shot fired, Mrs. Johnston rushed into the bathroom and found her husband lying wounded upon the floor. "I thought the safety was on," the injured man gasped.

Surgeons were hurriedly summoned and an examination revealed that a .32-calibre automatic pistol bullet had entered the left side two inches below the heart, penetrating the body. After dressing the wound physicians expressed the belief that the injury was not a critical one. Johnston rapidly rallied from the shock, but suddenly expired at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

Charlie Johnston was born in Junction on February 21, 1893, and moved to Kerrville with his parents in 1907. After attending Tivy High School, he entered the business field here and for 15 years was associated with the H. Noll Company, mercantile establishment, of which he was treasurer for many years. For the past two years he had operated the Kerrville Cleaning Company and Johnston's Cash-and-Carry Tailor Shop. He served for six years as a member of the City Commission, voluntarily retiring in 1928. Only a week before his tragic death, he announced as a candidate for County Treasurer of Kerr County.

In 1912 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Noll, who survives him. He is also survived by a son, Charles Johnston, Jr., wives and sisters, served a dinner that pleased all present.

Beginning at 1:20 the various races furnished fun and amusement to all spectators and much valuable practice to the members of the various departments. Brady, Eden, Mason, Menard, San Angelo and Junction had teams in all the contests. Menard won the pumper race in 48 seconds; Junction was second with 50½ seconds; San Angelo with 52½ seconds won third place. Other teams made the following time: Brady 57; Eden 58½; Mason 57½. In the hose truck races, Junction made the best time, winning in 51.25 seconds; Brady came second with 57 seconds while San Angelo won third place in 62½ seconds. Other records were made as follows: Menard 66; Eden 67½; Mason 70.

The most interesting of all the races was the bucket water fight. Eden, Brady and Junction qualified for the finals. Brady eliminated Eden, and Junction won in the final game against Brady. After the scheduled teams had finished Mr. Chambers of Brady challenged any one man and was accepted by Mr. Klett of Menard, who easily trimmed Mr. Chambers.

Next on the program was a swimming party at the beautiful Kimble Courts Pool which was enjoyed by more than fifty swimmers. The clear, sparkling water was a delight to all the visitors.

At 7:30 p. m. the Kimble County Chamber of Commerce with the Junction Cemetery Association in charge, served approximately 130 people at the Schreiner Park. This was followed by a program with Judge J. B. Randolph as master of ceremonies. Brief talks were made by 16, who at the time of the tragedy was attending a football coaching school in Bloomington, Illinois. Advised of his father's death, the son and his friend, Burton Brown, immediately came to Dallas by train and flew from that city to Kerrville in an airplane, arriving at Louis Schreiner Airport at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

made by several chiefs and the program was concluded by a good address by Mr. Sanders of the State Fire Insurance Commission. Judge Randolph paid a deserved tribute to Chief John Hankins, his loyal men and the boys of the Hill Country association. Mr. Sanders gave some figures showing the heavy loss to the property owners of Junction on account of our bad fire record in the past. The Eagle hopes in a later issue to show what the bad record has cost Junction during the past three years. The extra penalty during these three years has been more than all our present equipment has cost. If our good record of the past two years continues, we shall begin soon to save this money. Proper equipment saves any town many times the cost of the equipment.

After the program at the park those interested went to the skating rink where a dance had been planned. This closed a perfect day for the Hill Country Firemen's Association.

Mr. Carlos Taylor is back at his place with the Philip Joseph Store after a pleasant vacation trip last week to Del Rio, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. Some of his friends report that he picked some cotton while in Neufaces County, but the editor of this paper does not believe it.

Mr. A. J. Bierschwaile and family of Sterling City were business visitors in Junction and Kimble County this week.

Loftin Little had as his guest last week J. E. Rutledge of San Antonio.

LONDON LOCALS

We had the pleasure of inspecting the J. R. Smith Home Canning Plant. Mr. and Mrs. Smith raised a garden on their back lot and they have canned beans, corn and tomatoes of their own raising. They have bought fruit and they have various kinds of canned fruit, jam and jellies. It is no mystery why some people get along well during hard times while others have to struggle to survive. There is a small percent of the people who look ahead and save all they make, preserve all their products and when they have their own needs sufficed they gather and sell the remainder, just as J. R. Smith and his family are doing now by putting fresh tomatoes on the local market daily, while others are discussing hard times and "cussing" Hoover because they are not kept in financial buoyancy without effort on their part.

Miss Eunice Brewer, one of London's charming young girls, left last week for Arizona where she goes to spend an indefinite time with relatives. We will all miss Eunice.

Mr. C. E. Lambert buys a fine milk cow. She has a record of 6 gallons of milk and 2 pounds of butter per day. This is the kind of stock to have; they always bring a fancy price when sold and do not eat any more grass than a common cow.

Mr. Howard Kothmann informs us he has bought 15 head of registered cows for his ranch. Howard figures that a scrub is as expensive to keep as a thoroughbred, and more expensive to market—that is, they bring a much less price.

Joe Hardesty was in from the farm Thursday of last week. Joe was purchasing a shear for sulky plow for the purpose of following a plot of Bermuda grass, hoping to destroy the roots, thereby getting rid of the grass.

Mr. and Mrs. Nuhra Hamilton of Greenville were visiting relatives here last week. Mrs. Hamilton is granddaughter of Dr. France and sister of Mrs. Tom Amberson.

Mr. G. W. Burdett of Mount Sharp, Texas, was here last week. He was wanting to let a lease on grass land. He had about decided to buy sheep and stock it himself as sheep were quoted so cheap here.

Mr. Chas. Wertenbach and family visited at Eden Saturday night and Sunday. Mr. Wertenbach has a sister living there.

Our town has moved up to the Hub today, Tuesday. Court is in session and just a few like myself and editor Swinney are left. The court always want men who know something and that is why the editor and myself are left off the court list.

Mrs. G. Lewis has returned from a five-week's visit with her son and daughter. She reports a good time.

Little Mabel Lu Ellebracht was a real pleasant caller Monday evening. This little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ellebracht. She left her parents to do the shopping while she came to talk to the writer. And a real pleasant time we spent. We discussed her two dolls—big Rosemary and little Rosemary. Also we discussed her father and mother. Interesting? Yes, indeed. Again I say, I have real pity for the man or woman who does not love little children. Surely there is something radically wrong with them. They are living far beneath God's purpose, besides they lose so much real pleasure and the truest friendship of all.

The annual family reunion of Aunt Zade Pearl's family took place Monday and Tuesday of this week. They meet each year on the beautiful Llano and spend two days together. There were about 45 of them in camp this summer and a real pleasant time was enjoyed.

We received a good shower of rain Sunday evening which was appreciated by all who were in the small territory covered.

The meeting closed at Saline Sunday night. Much interest was manifested and the labor was crowned with the baptism of a number Sunday evening. This was an old time shouting Methodist revival, the kind we need more of. Our great trouble these days is we keep our religion on ice too much. You need to get humble before God and lay all formality aside if you expect to reach out and bring in the world.

The Christian Church will begin a meeting at the Community Hall Saturday night. Let everyone attend. It doesn't matter whether you believe just like they do or not, you can receive great benefit by attending their services.

Joy Bath Takes Out CORNS New English Way

Now you can dance to your heart's content, run and walk and have good feet free from corns, callouses and hard skin. The soreness, aching and burning quits with one exhilarating Radox Bath—3 or 4 baths, as many nights in succession and you lift out corns roots and all.

No more foot agony—instead strong, vigorous feet that will never go back on you. Heyman Drug Store sells Radox—so do all leading druggists.

Mrs. Walker Ragsdale of Rocksprings has returned to her home after a pleasant visit here with her mother and sister, Mrs. T. B. Phillips and Miss Mary Phillips.

Lose Fat Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears, you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energy. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (last 4 weeks) at the Heyman Drug Store or any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

Little Gems

Work today like you are going to live forever, and live today like you are going to die tomorrow.

Not what you do, but how you do it, is the test of your capacity.—Robert Browning.

A certain amount of opposition is a great help to a man; kites rise against and not with the wind.—Thomas Carlyle.

When you play, play hard; when you work, don't play at all.—Theodore Roosevelt.

He who has conferred a kindness should be silent; he who has received one should speak of it.—Seneca.

Worry not over the future, the present is all thou hast. The future will soon be the present, and the present will soon be the past.

The world is looking for the man who can do something, not for the man who can "explain" why he didn't do it.—La Roche Foucauld.

I do the best that I know, the very best I can; and I mean to keep right on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.—Abraham Lincoln.

Do every job so that you are glad to say, "That's a piece of my work."

BOWERS-BIERSCHWALE

Lofton Bowers and Miss Reba Nell Bierschwale delightfully surprised their many friends by slipping away to Junction last Tuesday evening to be married. The ceremony was performed by the Baptist minister at Junction at the Baptist parsonage.

The wedding came as a culmination to a happy romance and the young couple are receiving the congratulations of a host of friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bierschwale of this city and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bowers, also of Harper. Both young people deserve life's richest blessings and it is the wish of their friends that they will find life one long holiday of happiness.—Harper Herald.

MOGFORD-McHAN

Miss Ruby McHan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McHan, of Brownwood and Mrs. Fritz W. Mogford, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mogford, of the Long Mountain community were married at the home of the bride's parents Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. E. F. Morrison of Cisco, brother-in-law of the bride, read the wedding ceremony.

Both young people are known in this county, the bridegroom in particular, being the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Mogford. He is a graduate of Texas A. & M. College and for the last few years has been in the ranching business.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony the couple left for about two weeks' trip to Denver, Colorado, and will return by way of Carlsbad, Cañon. They will make their home at Long Mountain.—Mason Co. News.

SNAKES WITH FEET

The largest serpents in the world actually have footlike claws which assist them in pulling their heavy bodies along the ground and to climb trees. The boa constrictor probably is the best known of all the reptiles, or rather snakes, that have feet. These projections are found on its body just about where the feet of a lizard are placed. The boa constrictor lives principally in trees, and its hind feet enable it to climb among the branches. Being a water serpent, the anaconda is not furnished with these claws, although it is much larger than the boa. However, the python has them, and it is a toss-up between it and the anaconda as to which is actually the largest snake in the world. Both of them have attained lengths of thirty, but so far neither has been found to be longer than the other.

Other snakes which have claws to assist them in climbing trees are the rock snake of India, the carpet and diamond snakes of Australia, and the yellow snake of the West Indies.

—T. Benjamin Faucett.

Romance Week at Cool
Arcadia in Kerrville

Western drama was just one location after another for William Haines when he filmed his newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all talking comedy, "Way Out West," which will open Friday and Saturday, August 15 and 16 at the Cool Arcadia Theater in Kerrville. Much of it was filmed on the famous Fort Tejon cattle ranch, and the rest in the ancient Hopi pueblos near Gallup, New Mexico. Haines plays a circus Barker who becomes a cowboy in the new picture which Fred Niblo directed. Lella Hymms is the heroine, and Cliff Edwards, Polly Moran, Francis K. Bushman, Jr., Buddy Roosevelt and others are in the cast. There is also a Mack Sennett talking comedy entitled "Honey-moon Zeppelin."

"Romance," which will open Sunday and Monday at the Cool Arcadia in Kerrville, is Greta Garbo's second all talking picture, an adoption of the famous stage play in which Doris Keane starred for six years. Clarence Brown directed it for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the script by Bess Meredyth and Edwin Justus Mayer. Lewis Stone and Gavin Gordon head the supporting cast which includes Florence Lake, Mathilde Comont, Henry Armetta, Clara Blandick, Elliott Nugent and Countess de Ligny. The picturization of the Edward Sheldon play has a background of 1865 and the quaint settings and costumes add color to the romantic story. Other talking units is a Silly Symphony named "Artie Antics" and "Rubeville," a Pathe Talking Comedy.

Tuesday and Wednesday brings "Women Everywhere," a Fox Movietone Musical Romance with J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay to the Cool Arcadia at Kerrville. Murray takes the part of a rollicking sea captain who turns gun runner. The adventure moves later to Morocco and the Foreign Legion. Fifi Dorsay plays the part of a dance in a cafe in Morocco. Added to the feature is "Go Easy Doctor," a Pathe Talking Comedy.

To end up Romance Week at the Cool Arcadia, Kerrville, is "Border Romance," with Armida, Don Terry and Marjorie Kane. The picture is a Tiffany all talking outdoor drama with music and plays Thursday only. Added is Lloyd Hamilton, the goofy guy, in "Good Morning Sheriff."

It's always cool as a cave in the Arcadia, Kerrville. 18c

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

A young woman who knows only that her name is "Eve" finds herself standing on a Fifth Avenue corner. She has no idea how she came there or even what city it is. There is nothing about her with which to identify herself. While a policeman is talking to her a young man, Eric Hamilton, comes. Seeing that she is in trouble he tells her he has seen her at the hotel where they are both stopping. He takes her to the hotel where they find that she has registered in French as "Miss Eve Nobody of Nowhere." Hamilton volunteers to call in his friend Dr. Carrington, a specialist in nervous troubles. Eve, terrified, eludes the doctor and through a French porter in the hotel, who says he never saw her in France but does not remember her name, she finds a cheap apartment in an obscure part of town. In the next apartment lives Jay Daverport, a cabaret dancer with a weak heart. She is friendly and generous to him and "Jake," and takes her place until she is better. Her job at Jake's is to enter at the tables and to dance with them. The other girls there are crude but kindly and Eve finds it work and as difficult as she has expected. She is known there as "Miss Benson." She meets a young man named Hunt, who frankly tells her that she doesn't belong there.

Eve does not like the atmosphere of Jake's but she does not know how to do anything else, or think she doesn't, so when Jay is able to get back to work she accepts the offer of a temporary job at Jake's. One evening when she is talking to the friendly young man named Hunt one of the other girls tells her there's a man from the West whom Jake wants her to entertain. The man from the West is a total stranger to Eve, so far as she can recall, but the stranger says and talks as if they were intimate friends. His manner suggests that he has some claim upon her, and Eve is terrified. Her instinct is to find Eric Hamilton, the one friendly figure in her new life. She escapes from Jake's by a back way and hurries to the hotel where Hamilton lives.

Hamilton shows her an advertisement which has been appearing in several papers, describing Eve and asking for information about her. It does not give her name, however. She immediately connects this with the man from the West whom she met at Jake's, and decides to adopt the disguise. She buys some different clothes and has her hair dyed.

New Gals With the Story

"Dearie, you could go to the minister's funeral in them," the clerk earnestly assured her. They parted with the impression in both young hearts that they could have loved each other if life had not held so many other interests.

It was pleasant to be clad in her own garments now, though she had to carry Margaret's outfit in a box, as well as her own additional purchases, packed in the new suitcase.

Last of all she visited the ship's beauty parlor. "Dye my hair black," she said.

The subsequent effect was not bad, but she surveyed it with more approval than it warranted. It not only changed her greatly, but it crystallized in her mind a half-formed plan to abandon the farm hibernation she had considered, and to remain in the city and get some work.

Back in her hotel rooms once more, she looked at her wrist-watch. Quarter-past four. In less than two hours Hamilton would be calling for her. She wondered what he would think of the dyed hair, and immediately realized exactly what he would think of it. He would not like it. She would put on her hat to avoid giving him too sudden a shock.

There was a tap on the door and she hastened to open it. Almost before she could do so, it was flung open and Hamilton hurried into the room.

"Don't be worried," he said, trying to speak naturally, and even producing a fair imitation of his characteristic smile. "He's down there."

"He? Who?"

But she knew.

"The man you spoke of last night. At least, I'm pretty sure he's the same man. He fits the description, and he's asking at the desk for Miss Benson. He described you to a dot, and Robinson immediately made the bright suggestion that it might be Miss Parsons. Fortunately I was passing the desk and heard him, so I didn't stop for the elevator, but sprinted up the staircase to warn you."

She caught up her coat and hurried into the bedroom for the suitcase she had not yet unpacked.

"Let's go," she called back as she hurriedly added to it the garments of the night before. "We can slip out the back way."

The room telephone tinkled, but she was already in the hall, almost running. He took the suitcase and kept close by her side, walking with long strides. His manner was normal now, and he spoke so casually that her nerves relaxed.

"Better go down the back steps," he advised, as she turned toward the service elevator.

"Of course, I didn't think

He led the way and she followed him.

Hamilton picked up a taxicab. "Up into Central Park," he told the driver. "Make good time and keep going till I tell you to stop." As the cab started he turned to his silent companion and was shocked by her pallor.

"There's nothing to worry about now," he hastily reminded her. She broke out with a desperation that horrified him:

"Perhaps not . . . till the next time! But I can't keep up this sort of thing—running from place to place, hiding . . . or trying to hide . . . as if I were a criminal. I can't endure it any longer."

"Of course you can't . . . and you're not going to." He spoke soothingly, as he would to a child. "As soon as we get to the park I'll tell you how we can avoid any more running and hiding. But just now I want you to relax. There's absolutely nothing to be worried about, and there isn't going to be any more worry for you in the future."

She sighed, plainly unconvinced; but the quiet assurance of his manner had its usual effect, and he was relieved to see her look of high nervous tension give way to one that merely expressed utter hopelessness. Both were silent while the cab made its swift way up Fifth Avenue. When it entered the park Hamilton gave the driver another order.

"There's a quiet little corner up at the northern end, where we can talk," he explained to Eve. "I've gone there several times lately to think things out."

When they reached the quiet corner he paid and dismissed the chauffeur, while Eve glanced around without interest. She had, indeed, a look that alarmed him—something of the look of an exhausted swimmer, ready to go down.

He led her to a bench and sat down beside her.

"I expected something like this, Eve," he began casually. It was the third time he had used the name, but neither of them was conscious of this. "I don't know why I expected it," he went on, "but I did. Perhaps I had what's called a 'hunch.' Perhaps I merely reasoned that your large friend's next move would be to get professional help and track you. Anyway, I was sure something was coming and I got ready for it. That's why I told you there would be no more of it. There won't be, if you will trust me and do what I suggest."

She replied only with a gesture, but it was a gesture expressing such despair that it made his throat ache. She merely raised her right hand, which lay in her lap, and dropped it again as if the effort had been too much for her; but there was eloquence in the simple action. It implied that she had come to the end of things. He had to wait a moment before he could go on.

"I'll put my plan before you," he said at last, "and I want you to hear it all before you speak. You can't continue like this. You see that yourself, clearly enough. The time has come when you must give someone else the right to protect you. So I want you to go through a marriage ceremony with me, Eve, and I want you to do it right now."

"Of course it will be only a matter of form," he hurried on. "That goes without saying. But it will give me the legal right to stand between you and the world. You can drop your troubles on my shoulders and forget them; and if any large stranger comes looking for you, he'll find me ready to tell him where he gets off. By meeting him, too, I may find out who you are and all about you; and eventually, as soon as you're willing to, we'll get into touch with your family, or with your friends if you have no family."

She seemed stunned, and he was not surprised. But she asked a question that made his eyes twinkle. She was actually considering his suggestion!

"Would such a marriage be legal? We don't even know my name."

"Probably it wouldn't be legal in your present condition. But it doesn't matter whether it's legal or not, since it's merely a bluff for present use. The persistent gentleman who is dogging you won't know it isn't legal, any more than he knows of the other complication. I will make him, or anyone else who is interested in you, deal with me as your husband, until you meet someone in whom you have more faith. When you are yourself again, and all this trouble is past, I shall ask you to really marry me, and if you consent we'll have another ceremony. If you don't, we can have this little bond nullified very easily, as a simple matter of expediency in the unusual conditions existing when it was made. And all my life, even if I never see you again," he ended simply, "I shall be happy because I was able to be of use to you."

He stopped now, so definitely that she knew he was waiting for an answer; but she merely repeated that tragic little gesture of her ungloved hand. He took the hand and held it. "I know all about you," she murmured.

"Of course you do. I saw to it that you knew all about me, for I was sure something like this would come up."

He thought he was following the workings of her mind, but her next remark surprised him. "You don't know anything at all about me. Why!" she broke out, "I may be a criminal . . . an adventures! I may be anything! It will be taking advantage of my one friend. It may put you into a position that is simply horrible."

"See here," he said, "I won't have a moment of peace till I've safeguarded you. Let's stop talking and go and be married."

To his incredulous delight she rose as if the matter were settled.

"But I've warned you," she reminded him as they walked to the nearest roadway.

"And I think," she added, "I shall despise myself for letting you do this."

They followed the roadway walking several minutes before they found an empty cab to take them to the marriage license bureau. There, after the perfunctory details were over, Eric asked Eve:

"Which shall it be—the justice or the clergyman? As it's only an affair of form, I suppose it doesn't matter, though I think the clergyman would be better for our purpose."

"I think so too," she agreed, almost inaudibly. After that she did not speak until they reached the East Side of the license bureau.

The clergyman filled in the marriage certificate and offered it to Eve, who took it and held it vaguely, as if she did not know what to do with it.

"Put it in your handbag," Hamilton said, and she followed the suggestion as mechanically as she had followed all the others.

As they descended the steps leading to the street, Hamilton put the soft pedal on himself, with a firm foot. This was the big hour of his life. But it was not the big hour of the silent girl beside him, who still looked like one in a dream. He steadied his racing pulses, stopped a taxicab, and spoke his first words since the ceremony:

"It's a case of 'home, James,' isn't it? I mean," he added as he saw her inquiring look, "we'd better go right back to the Garland and meet what's there, hadn't we?"

Her silence seemed an acquiescence to the plan and he gave the cabman the direction. They entered the hotel lobby and a large man who had been seated in a lounging chair near the entrance, quietly smoking a cigar that looked as if it had been made especially for him, rose and came to meet them with an air of assurance.

Eve stopped, but Hamilton, with a murmured "One moment, please," swept her past the large man and into the elevator a few feet farther on.

"Go upstairs, dear," he quietly told her. He put her suitcase in the elevator, gave the starting signal to the operator, and, as the car began its ascent, turned back to the caller, whose look of assurance had given way to one of stunned surprise.

"My wife is very tired," Eric courteously explained. "She has been shopping all day, so I'm sure you will excuse her. Perhaps you will come in here," he went on, leading the way to the writing room, "and let me act for her in any matter that interests you."

"My name is Henderson," the stranger briefly announced: "Samuel Henderson; and I'm from Chicago."

Visiting Editor Writes Home About Changes In Kimble Co. Since 1917

(By Bruce W. McCarty)

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Englehard and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McCarty and children are at Bossman's V-H ranch, eight miles from Junction, on the South Llano. We arrived here Sunday afternoon, and after washing off the dust of a three-hundred mile drive—a great deal of which was over dusty limestone roads—we went out to look the situation over. And on the miniature golf course (here on the ranch) we found Mr. and Mrs. Justin Smith of Eagle Lake. They have been here since Thursday of last week. Justin says he has been doing some mighty hard fishing, but up to now, other than small perch, has landed only one two-pound yellow cat. He hasn't given up hopes, however, and spurred on through the arrival of reinforcements, he has gone at it with renewed energy.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon White and Simon, Jr., reached here Monday, having spent Sunday in San Antonio with relatives, so you see there is quite a party of Eagle Lake people here on the river.

The river is beautiful. The water is clear and cool and bathing is one of the chief pastimes at this little resort. The river is practically of rock bottom everywhere, and the bathing holes have water anywhere from baby bathing depth to forty feet.

There are numerous little cottages or cabins built along the river front and in the hills and every one of them is filled today.

With Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Everett, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Melton McCarty, Mrs. Donna McCallan, Mrs. D. M. Anderson (who at one time was Miss Helen Chew), Miss Martha Fitzgerald and

Miss Maurine Stroud (now Mrs. W. L. Peterson of Denison) and John Hunter, colored, as chief cook, the writer, with his wife, visited this Junction country in June, 1917. Junction then was a typical little inland West Texas town. It is still an inland town, as Kerrville is the nearest railroad point, but the building of modern highways—the Old Spanish Trail coming through this town—has converted it into a modern little city. There is not a single business building now standing in the town that was here during that 1917 visit. The town then, with its small frame wooden business houses, was built in a square around the court house. An entire new town has taken its place, and the new Junction, with modern business houses of brick and rock line both sides of the highway. Anyone in that memorable party of 1917 would never recognize the Junction of today.

The climate is high and dry here, and but for the refreshing shower that fell a few days before our arrival they haven't had any rain here in about a year. We haven't been here long enough yet to tell you much about the country.

We came dangerously near figuring in what might have proved a serious accident coming out. When within a few miles of San Antonio, Mr. Englehard's car took the ditch to avoid striking a car in front of him, caused by the stopping of a Mexican driving a one-horse wagon, and a fellow coming opposite direction and darting around the congestion at break-neck speed. The ditch was probably six feet deep and just wide enough to wedge the car. Practically all traffic on the highway stopped to render assistance, and after some little delay the car was again on the highway and we were on our way.

J. C. Wilson Reminiscences About Junction

The going of the Headlight editor, Mr. Bruce McCarty, and his family to Kimble County, on the South Llano, for their vacation, and the article found above, stirs memories in the mind of the editor pro tem. I first saw "Junction City," as it was then called, in the fall of 1886. My parents moved there from Blanco County, where we had lived in Goings Bend, on the Pedernales river, thirty-five miles west of Austin for thirteen years prior to moving west. The writer was a mere youth and drove a wagon drawn by a yoke of oxen. Somewhat different from mode of travel now, Junction was then—44 years ago—a real "wild west" village. Buffalo still roamed the western plains and men slaughtered them by the hundreds and saved nothing of their kill except the hides and tongues. I remember seeing wagons loaded with these returning from their hunt.

It was in Junction, in the old "clipper" office, I learned to "stick" type, and pull the lever of an old Washington hand press. My apprenticeship was under an old-time printer who ever and anon "looked on the wine when it was red." He was a good man otherwise, and many men in the West in those days drank to intoxication. I have heard the clatter of hoofs and the crack of pistols, as cowboys chased up and down the streets, and punctuated the night silence with yells. When the final Records are opened several tragedies will be found written on the pages of Junction history. I could recite some of the, giving names, but it is best "let the dead past bury its dead."

In 1891 I was licensed to preach in the old Methodist church in Junction, by Rev. Mark Black, presiding elder and John W. Sims, pastor. I joined the Conference in the fall of 1891, and for thirty-nine years have tried to do the work of a Methodist preacher. Much "water has run under the bridge" since I first saw Junction. The world has advanced in many ways, new inventions and discoveries have added to human comfort and happiness, but the principles of lasting value and worth remain unchanged thru the changing decades. The writer could let memories run off his pen point indefinitely, but the deists and closes with the wish that Mr. McCarty and family and others from Eagle Lake, who are now vacationing on the Llano, may have a pleasant outing and return invigorated in body, mind and spirit. —J. C. Wilson.

Junction Trade Notes

(By G. G. Co.)

Judge Marvin Simpson of Ft. Worth is completing a deer park on his 1000-acre holdings up Kyack Creek. The tract has been enclosed by a deer-high fence. . . Clayton Powell of Coleman, accompanied by Mrs. Powell, is enjoying a vacation at beautiful Kimble Courts in Junction. Incidentally, he is representing Martin Brick Company of Coleman, manufacturer of the finest brick in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Slaughter of Denton County are enjoying a summer vacation in Junction and on the classic Llano, as guests of their daughter, Mrs. E. R. Borden. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harrison were in Fredericksburg last week attending the Bode family reunion, which is an annual event participated in by members of that pioneer family. There were only 120 in attendance this year.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Ragland will move out to the ranch September 1st to remain for an indefinite time, perhaps until grass rises. . . Capt. and Mrs. H. W. Rieck will occupy their beautiful new ranch home on Maynard first of the month.

The extreme drought across the United States, characterized by the Dept. of Agriculture as the worst in 50 years, has not abated and the effects are felt here in advances in price of a number of field products. The corn crop is expected to be the smallest since 1901, it is stated. Price advances are noted on corn and meal and on futures of canned corn, can tomatoes and milk. The Weather Bureau doesn't seem to know anything about it, for certain, and the bureau might as well adjourn until the spell is over. . . Meanwhile, a good measure of congratulations is due Fire Chief John Hankins and his untiring co-workers of the department for their efficiency manifested on several occasions. Whether we know it or not, Junction's Volunteer Fire Dept. is one of the community's best assets and is giving to the community a volunteer service that would cost a lot of money if we had to pay for it.

ELECTRICITY SOLVES FARM HOME PROBLEMS

Mrs. R. M. Brown, rural home expert, in a recent address enumerated five farm home problems for which electricity furnishes a solution, mentioning these:

1. They shorten her hours of labor. The average work-day for farm women is 11.5 hours, and 87 per cent of farm women have no vacations at all. Electric lights alone will give her two days vacation a year as the result of time saved by not having to care for lamps. Laundry and other equipment can cut her work-day to 8 hours.

2. Electricity reduces the manual labor otherwise necessary and so increases her health and well-being.

3. Electric service gives the home more beauty and comfort by the use of electric lights, the radio and numerous other appliances.

4. Health is safeguarded by electric refrigerators and similar equipment, all of which bring the country family to the physical par of the city dweller.

5. Electric service enables the farm wife to make money. Many women are now operating hatcheries, poultry ranches and similar industries who could not do this otherwise.

REVERENCE FOR LAW

Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries, in colleges. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice.—Abraham Lincoln.

Humble Service Station Not a "Chain Store System"

In my effort to solicit trade for the Humble Service Station, which I am operating in Junction, I find a number of people of the opinion that this station is operated by the Humble Oil Co., and classed under the "Chain Store System." This is not correct, and for the information of the home trade and the traveling public, I wish to state that upon my return from school I leased this station which the Humble Oil Co. had just completed.

I am in this business at present because I like to live in Junction, among the friends of my boyhood.

We pay the same for gas and oils as privately owned stations and receive no commission from the sale of Humble products. We appreciate the home trade we have, and feel that we can render you the service you expect.

To those whom we have not had an opportunity of serving, we feel that if you will give us a trial, you will become our customer, because we serve you cheerfully and give you the best we have.

We thank you,
sincerely,
Humble Service Station,

JOHN E. DAVIS WILL STICK TO THE JOB

Members of the Legislature who have served with him during his 18 years as a member from Dallas County, testify to the fact that John E. Davis, who led in the first primary, can be depended on, if elected State Treasurer, to stay on the job and give his personal attention to his duties, for no member of the Legislature excels him in the matter of faithful attendance and tireless industry.

Attesting his standing at home, his own county of Dallas gave him 25,715 votes on July 26, to 1,922 for his present opponent.

Texas will have the only anti-mony smelter plant in the United States, located at Laredo and using Mexican and American ore.

Texas has approximately 14.3 per cent of the population of the sixteen Southern states, including District of Columbia.

Foreman of a road gang asked a new negro hand his name. "George Washington, sir," replied the new man.

"You're not the man that cut down the cherry tree, are you?" jokingly remarked the foreman. "No, sir. This is the first work I've done for a year."

ROGER BLAIN DIES

Mr. Roger Blain died in a Temple hospital on July 29, 1930, after an illness of several months. The body was brought to Junction and buried on July 30. The funeral was held at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. E. Bissett, the Rev. Milton F. Hill officiating.

Roger Blain was born in Gonzales on April 24, 1869. His boyhood was spent in that county until at the age of eighteen years he moved to San Angelo. A little later he went to Crockett County where he was employed on a ranch. He was energetic and industrious and soon became the owner of a ranch near Barnhart. For twenty-five years he lived on his ranch. He made frequent visits to Junction and had many friends here.

Last November he was taken ill and went to a San Antonio hospital where he stayed six weeks. He continued ill and about a week before his death he was taken to the Scott and White Sanatorium at Temple. A large crowd of friends from Tom Green and Crockett counties were present at the funeral services.

Surviving him are his brother, Woodie Blain of Barnhart, and two sisters, Mrs. E. A. Bissett of Junction and Mrs. Riley of New Mexico, and many other relatives.

Feed and Cattle

Recent rains have enlivened the country and prospects are good for more rain. A fair corn crop has been made and much hay has already been baled. The rains will cause much of the feed to put on a second crop. Everyone who has any kind of stubble land should put forth every effort to get a second crop of hay this fall.

Feed can be marketed for a good price when fed at home. A recent demonstration in Mitchell County when eight calves were fed shows that the farmer received full market value for his feed and also a profit of $45.50 on each calf. In addition to the value of the feed and profit on the calves, the land is enriched by feeding at home.

We believe in a policy of living at home and encourage the production of feed on the farms and ranches.
