Hundreds of mourners salute patrolman

By ED TODD
R-T Staff Writer

McCAMEY — The tune, mournfully, was filling the big room, as if it were an ominous dark gray fog slowing slipping into a quiet and defenseless valley.

Silence.

You could hear the unsung words: "On a hill far away stood an old rugged cross . . . ."

Sadness and an underlying anger that was without vent clung to the wings of the old tune, that old song. The unanswered hovered in the still, afternoon air.

Why? Why death? Why this way? Why?

The time was not yet ready to probe. The black-veiled music offered a ray of hope — hope for tomorrow. For now.

The tune, like the unseen and uncertain fog, lingered on.

Meanwhile, a lissome young woman, a blonde, standing against the southward sanctuary wall, collapsed.

She had fainted. She made faint sounds. Perhaps the swooning was prompted by the unfamiliar warmth of the hundreds of mourners, who were quietly and reverently seated in pews and chairs.

Others were standing, inside and out. If they talked at all, and they did, they murmured and whispered about Sammy. He was a big man, yes, and in stature, too. He was good man, a kindhearted and firm fellow.

Of the 1,000 or more who came to mourn his passing, at least 400 to 500 were clad in dress uniforms. Just like Sammy. He was ready for that mighty inspection. The last one.

The fair young lady who had limply fell returned. This time, she was seated.

Soon, the music faded. And there was a preacher standing before a coffin draped with the Texas flag. Two young troopers, donned in Texas Department of Public Safety dress uniforms, were standing watch, like heralding angels, at either end of the funeral bier.

And the fog, that misty, cloudy mass, was beginning to lift.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not . . .," uttered the preacher, the Rev. Leonard Lee, from the altar at the First Baptist Church. His church. Sammy's church. Your church, perhaps. The Lord's sanctuary, so deemed man.

He completed his deliberative recitation of Psalm 23.

And then he asked the unanswered.

"Why?" you ask. Frankly, I don't know why. But this I do know: There's a lot of rottenness in this old world.

"Sammy gave his life, literally, to improve it. A very thankless task is his," the preacher said.

Sammy Charles Long, age 39, didn't exactly "give" his life in the name of decency. It was taken, destroyed, cast aside, shot away. Eleven times, they say, he was shot. First with "that man's" pistol. Then with Sammy's own firearm. He was shot dead. First in the chest. Then, as he lay quickly dying, he was shot again and again in the back.

Point blank.

Sammy, kindhearted Sammy, would have fitted, impressively so, the towering, unshaken image of the old-guard Texas Ranger.

But he was just as impressive as the 18-year veteran DPS trooper, or, if you like, highway patrolman, that he was.

Sammy, alone in his patrol car, had whipped his unit around and had given high-speed chase to a motorist driving a pickup truck.

Another speedster on an otherwise quiet Sunday afternoon. It was almost dusk.

The young driver, about 20 or so, of that barreling pickup truck wasn't "just another" breaker of the laws of the highways.

He proved that. He was more than militant and hostile and all fired up or shook up over something. He was a killer.

The pickup stopped along side of the road. So did Sammy's unit. About five miles east of Rankin on U.S. 67.

Sammy got out of unit, walked over to the cab of the pickup, and was shot

Bush to leave CIA post Jan. 20

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush, who took over the embattled Central Intelligence Agency less than a year ago, announced today he will quit as head of the spy agency on inauguration day.

The onetime congressman, top-level diplomat and head of the Republican party said he would stay at the CIA until Jan. 20, and pledged "continuing full assistance" to President-elect Jimmy Carter during the transition between administrations.

James Rattray, deputy to an assistant director at the agency, said Bush has given no indication of his future plans.

Bush's announcement was issued by a CIA spokesman. The announcement said Bush "would not remain as director after Jan. 20, 1977."

It said: "Mr. Bush informed President Ford and President-elect Carter of his decision."

Bush briefed Carter for nearly six hours last Friday at the president-elect's home in Plains, Ga., on the highly secret methods the CIA uses to gather intelligence around the world.

Bush told reporters in Plains that he had visited Ford before flying to Georgia and was told to give Carter full access to any information he might desire.

While he was in Plains, Bush refused to discuss his own future and declined to say whether the possibility of remaining in his job had been raised during session with Carter.

Carter has given no indication of whom he might appoint to replace Bush.

Bush took over as head of the CIA last Jan. 30 and immediately was confronted with the job of restoring public confidence in the agency, which had been the target of investigations into improper activities. "No politics, no policy bias, will color the collective judgment of the CIA," he declared at his swearing-in ceremony.

City to fight CAB ruling

By DEBBIE PIERCE

The City of Midland will go through the federal courts in an attempt to get a reversal of a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling dismissing the city's application for expanded air service to the east without a hearing.

City Attorney Joe Nuessle recommended the city go through the courts, noting that the city deserved its chance to be heard in court. He also noted that, in January, a "substantial" change in the makeup of the CAB is expected to occur, and Midland should have its case on the board's docket before then.

Nuessle also said Bob Beckman, Midland and Odessa's legal counselor in Washington, D.C., told him of the projected CAB change and suggested early action by Midland.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. questioned why, if a change in the CAB's make-up is forthcoming, the city should not just run its entire application back through the board.

Nuessle said there could be rules on refiling applications and noted the city was running out of time to act at all. He said the city must pursue its application if it intends to secure another major air carrier at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Council agreed to proceed through federal court with its application and instructed Nuessle to contact Odessa City Attorney Larry Sinclair to bring Odessa into the case.

Churches offering variety of services

By ROGER SOUTHALL

The true meaning of Thanksgiving — the giving of thanks to the Almighty for the abundant blessings of life in America — will be emphasized in the city tonight and Thursday.

The national day of gratitude will be marked at special services in numerous Midland churches, while various other congregations in the city will offer their prayers of praise and gratitude during regular mid-week services tonight.

Among the special events is the union Thanksgiving service scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today in Memorial Christian Church, Andrews Highway at West Cuthbert Street. The ecumenical service is sponsored annually by the Midland Association of Churches.

Dr. Charles E. Lutrick, pastor of Midland's First United Methodist Church, will be the featured speaker at the service. His message is titled "Thanksgiving Recycled." Other participants will be Mrs. M. D. Abel, current president of the Midland Association of Churches; the Rev. Jerry Richards, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Bob Stalcup, pastor of Christ Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Bob Chandler, associate minister of First Christian Church. Special music will be provided by a youth handbell ensemble under direction of Debbie Pope, choir director for the host church.

The offering at tonight's union service will be divided between Casa de Amigos, Midland's non-denominational Christian social service center, and CROP, the world hunger appeal of Church World Service.

The congregation of Midland's Hope Lutheran Church, 1003 North A St., has planned a special service of thanks for 6:30 p.m. today. The vesper service will be highlighted with a sermonette titled "God's Odds," by the Rev. Elmer Burrall, pastor. The event will be open to the public.

Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church, Garden Lane at Tyler Street, will have a mass at 6 p.m. today, followed by Thangiving Day masses at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

St. Ann's Catholic Church, North M and West Illinois Streets, will have masses at 8 and 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

A special Thanksgiving Day service at Grace Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, will begin at 8:30 a.m. The Rev. Donald Hafemann, pastor, will deliver a sermon titled "Thanksgiving Must Not Be A Show — But Our Thanks Must Show." Special music will be provided by the children's, junior and adult choirs of the church, and by a brass ensemble. A presentation of food items to go to the Teen Challenge outreach of Midland will be a special feature of the service.

The Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan St., will hold its traditional Thanksgiving Day service beginning at 10 a.m. The Rev. Charles Meyer, associate pastor, will be the liturgist and the Rev. David Herman, pastor, will deliver a sermon titled "Move To Be Thankful." The church choir will sing "Come Ye Thankful People," with organ accompaniment by Mary Ann Stice.

St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton St., will hold a Thanksgiving morning Eucharist service, beginning at 10.

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois St., has scheduled a service of communion, also beginning at 10 a.m.

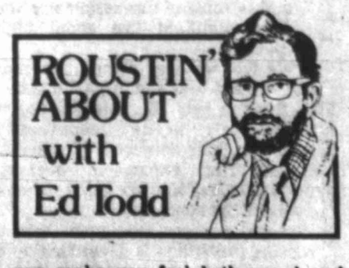
Thanks for football ...and what else??



Well, folks, let's not despair; there's something in the air besides the chill. Nor let us humbly give way to such dismal thoughts as flat footballs, stoney gridirons, near beer, soggy bread or a blackout.

Tomorrow, as we all know, is the incomparable day of the year: Football Day, 1976. It, as a matter of natural course, has outshadowed and kicked out that other once big send-off that fell about this time of the year.

Yes, Thanksgiving, well, what the heck, is passe. It's gone the way of the powder-puff derby, which never was a mighty game anyway; of the kerosene lamp, which never did put out a lot of light; of the Sunday afternoon stroll, which never did excite the masses.

Thanksgiving? (Old man Scrooge, on another day, would blare out, "Bah, humbug!" or something equally as uplifting. Joy.) Forget it. It's our tendency, you know.

And thanks for what?

For living. Who hasn't? It's such an ordinary, common thing. A mere existence, huh?

For the memories. Maybe. If you don't scrounge up or stumble across the bad ones. It's tempting.

For the loopholes. Yes, if you made or otherwise got ahold of enough money to make threading the tax needle worth your while.

War. Ah, the glory of death, of dying, of lingering, of ruins and destruction. With war, assuming you're on the winning side and the battle's not on your homeland, comes unparalleled prosperity. The cosmetics — the medals, devices, ribbons, fanfare and tombstones — can make you feel both proud and deeply grieved.

Peace. Now, that takes an inventive mind and an industrious soul to overcome. Mankind cannot be content for too long; it's not his way.

The joke. That's a laugh. (If the timing's right.)

Friends. They come and go.

Football. Thanks for the entertainment, the letdown, the thrill, the anguish.

Giving. Give enough and you'll be poor.

Nonsense. Giving is living.

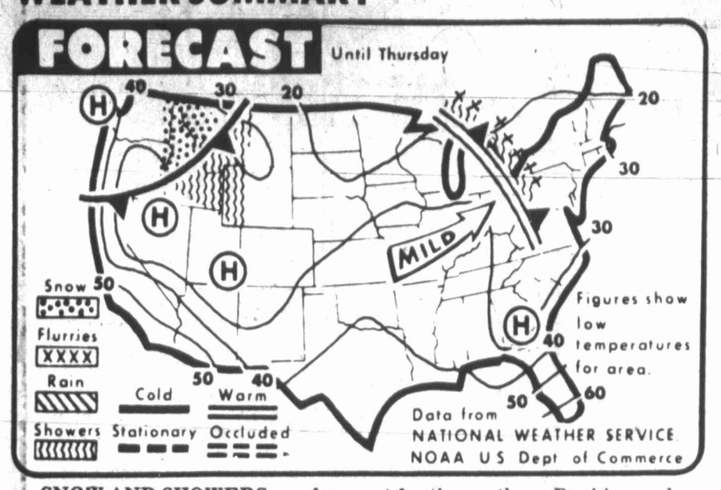
And if you're really living, and not just dragging along in life's quagmire, you'll be giving and giving of that all-important quality: the love in yourself.

No. Thanksgiving is not out of date. It may be overlooked or forgotten sometimes. And it may be old-fashioned. But so is that caring intangible force called "love."

And that, if not ignored or shunned, is more than enough to give thanks for.

If you've got some of that rare and genuine love to share, give thanks. Someone will. Don't despair.

WEATHER SUMMARY



SNOW AND SHOWERS are forecast for the northern Rockies and adjacent Plains. Snow flurries or showers are expected to continue along the Great Lakes. Temperatures are expected to be cool in the West, mild over the Plains and cool on the Atlantic Coast.

City to appeal CAB ruling in court

session at lunch, councilmen met with representatives of Continental Airlines to receive more information on Continental's application before the CAB for a route realignment.

Thomas G. Currigan, Continental's vice president for civic and environmental affairs, said the application which seeks to provide nonstop authority from Midland to 11 major cities would be beneficial to the city if future economic conditions made those flights feasible.

Currigan said the application lists Chicago, Kansas City, Miami, Phoenix, Portland, Ore., San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle, Tucson, Wichita, Kan., and New Orleans as the cities Continental proposes to serve from Midland Air Terminal.

Council agreed to support Continental's route realignment request over the opposition of councilman Mark Martin, who said he didn't feel he knew enough about the request. Councilman Charles Tighe also expressed confusion about the request, noting he didn't see any indications Midland would receive any additional air service from any airline unless the economic conditions were feasible.

Councilman Carroll Thomas said the city's approval or disapproval would have little effect on Continental's request, but approval would help public relations between the city and the airline.

In other action during a relatively short session, council:

— Approved authorizing the mayor to execute an application for a maximum $50,000 grant from the Texas Aeronautics Commission for help in the city's runway extension project at Air Terminal;

— Agreed to offer for sale a tract of land in the Industrial Park zone at Air Terminal, as requested by Ralph Viney and Jack Mogle;

— Approved a request by Magnatex Corp. for special building permits for three townhouses under construction and four already built in a recently-annexed area north of the city;

— Postponed discussion on the possible re-timing of traffic signals within the city, as requested by councilman Martin Neill, due to Neill's absence;

— Instructed the city legal department to work out an agreement with the City Federation of Black Women's Clubs regarding their request to lease and remodel the old Washington Youth Center building;

— Recessed until 2 p.m. Dec. 16 action on a request by James T. Crume for a zone change from single-family to planned district in the 3200 block of West Wadley Avenue, so more information on the site plan could be submitted;

— Approved on second and final reading an ordinance providing for "No Parking" on streets throughout the city with continuous left-turn lanes and on streets abutting the Municipal Service Center compound;

— Approved on first reading a request by Greg Pulliam for a zone change from parking district to planned district at 2600 W. Michigan Ave.;

— Approved on first reading a request by Samuel H. Rodriquez for a specific use permit for a child care center at 401 W. Nobles Ave.;

— Approved on first reading a request by George Berry for a zone change from single-family district to office district on three lots in the 400 and 500 blocks of West Louisiana Avenue;

— Approved on first reading the rezoning of two tracts of land along South Big Spring Street between Florida Avenue and Marlin Street, with one tract going from local retail to another classificaiton of local retail in the 900 block of South Big Spring Street and the other tract going from single-family and local retail to commercial in that area;

— Approved on second and final reading a zone change request initiated by the city Planning and Zoning Commission from multiple family to local retail in the 600 block of Kent Street;

— Approved on second and final reading a request by Wayne Mathews for a zone change from multiple family to local retail on 4.04 acres in the 3100 block of West Wall Street;

— Approved the vacating and abandoning of an alley in the Westcliff Addition adjacent to the Ortloff property on Andrews Highway;

— Approved a request by the Fraternal Order of Eagles to hold a circus March 13, 1977, in Cub Stadium, provided the club cleans up the area before and after its proposed circus;

— Authorized the refund of $107.78 in overpaid taxes;

— Authorized the correction by $1,469.16 to the 1975 and prior years' tax rolls.

— Awarded a contract for $5,176.50 to Kaufman Inc. of San Antonio for blazers and slacks for the plainclothes officers of the police department;

— Agreed to authorize the advertisement for bids for uniforms, shirts and slacks for the fire department, and for one utility tractor with loader for the Municipal Garage.

— Authorized a change order to the Halff Park swimming pool renovation.

— Approved on second and final reading an ordinance initiating additional units to the assessment paving program, and,

Held an executive session to discuss two matters of possible litigation, but took no action on either matter.

Mourners salute trooper

in the chest with a .32-caliber bullet.

He staggered away, groping for his own holstered pistol . . . and for his life.

The wounded trooper fell. And the aggressor, apparently seething with a complusion to kill and kill again his stalked prey, followed the dying man. He fired repeatedly, with his own handgun, into the trooper's back.

Cops die hard, don't they, "Superman"?

The "crazed" aggressor, making sure of his kill, picked up the trooper's powerful .357 magnum revolver and, again, repeatedly fired into Sammy's still body, his 6-foot-4 frame.

Destroyer? Cop-hater? Loather of mankind? Maybe, just maybe, he despised himself. And of what that fellow in the gray uniform represented.

Within split seconds, the nameless cop-killer himself was dying. His mortal being was getting riddled and torn apart by 6mm bullets fired from a scope-fitted deer rifle.

For Sammy's sake, and that of his family and friends and other mourners, the reports from that rifle came all too late.

By happenstance, a San Angelo man and his son, returning home from a deer hunt in New Mexico, had stopped at a roadside rest area about 100 to 150 yards from where the patrol car and the pickup truck had stopped. He did what he could.

Sammy was dead. And the militant man of prey was rapidly dying.

So, Sammy "gave" his life. And the taker of his life's blood may very well turn out to be a young fellow suspected of pulling off a robbery in Tucson, Ariz. That pickup he was speedily driving turned out to be reported stolen in California.

What Sammy didn't know killed him.

"Why?" you ask the preacher. He, too, seeks answers, the answer.

"God didn't make this world rotten," he clearly said. ". . . Man did."

"Moral pollution," he expounded, "is far worse than physical pollution."

The preacher, again, turned to Psalm 23. Life's spectrum is reflected therein, he said. Love. Hate. Concern and care. Discouragement and dispair. Trust and truth.

"I don't know why," he said. "God knows why, and He cares . . . . His love is even more than enough; I recommend it."

The preacher talked about Sammy, a man he loved. He was born at Santa Anna on March 18, 1937, and grew up at Cross Plains. His wife is Martha, and his son is Tracy, age 13. Sammy was stationed at McCamey 18 years ago, not long after he got out of the DPS academy.

The preacher has known Sammy seven years.

"Sammy was my brother in Christ," he said. "A member of this church, an active member of this church."

The preacher prayed: "Lord, give us the strength we don't have but you do."

And the music, like that descending cloud, began. And the unsung words flowed from the organ: "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there . . . ."

The preacher spoke again:

"Sammy Long is a special kind of guy; I liked him. That didn't make him special. But everybody liked him, and that made him special."

The preacher was impressed by Sammy:

"Sammy didn't always agree with me, and I didn't always agree with him. But I didn't find him disagreeable . . . . He must have been special."

Youngsters, too, found Sammy agreeable, friendly, amicable, understanding, helpful, firm and strong. ". . . Sammy loved kids."

Sammy, like Adam and all those that followed, didn't turn out to be the ideal man. Nevertheless, "Sammy was special to God. Some of us are more special than others."

He was a church-going man.

"Where you ever got the idea that the church is some kind of sanctuary for the saints, I don't know. None of us is perfect," preached the preacher.

He said Sammy, as a youth, was "saved" at Cross Plains.

"It didn't make him perfect then," the preacher said, "but, boy, did it make a difference!"

"Special, man? I'd say Sammy was special. Special. Amen."

The preacher was nearing the close of his eulogy. He picked up the theme, the "why" of Sammy's death: the evil world. And he offered hope.

"God sent His Son into this old, rotten, stinking world . . . to save you . . . ."

Uniformed law-enforcement officers filed from the church. They joined other lawmen standing in columns at the outside.

Several hundred of federal, state, county and city law enforcement officers and officials were there.

Among their numbers were Col. Wilson E. Speir of Austin, the DPS director, and DPS Commissioner William B. Blakemore II of Midland.

Lawmen from El Paso to Galveston were here to pay tribute to Sammy Long. Scores of DPS troopers and other officers. Texas Rangers. U.S. Border Patrolmen. U.S. Customs agents. Chiefs of police and policemen. Sheriffs, their deputies and constables. And probably some undercover agents from various fronts.

Leading the funeral procession down the road to the burial grounds were two uniformed motorcycle policemen from the Dallas Police Department.

It was an impressive farewell for an impressive man and DPS trooper.

"Sammy gave his life, literally, to improve it (the world)," the preacher had said. "A very thankless task is his."

The sad, mourning faces and the tears, all about, said otherwise. Sammy.

Investigators seeking information on slayer

McCAMEY — Investigators are still trying to learn the identity today of the gunman who slew Texas Department of Safety trooper Sammy Long Sunday and was, in turn, killed by a San Angelo deer hunter during a rescue attempt.

Long, 39, and the father of one son, was shot to death Sunday near Rankin on U.S. 67 afer he chased down a pickup with California license plates that had been reported as stolen.

Upton County Dist. Atty. Aubrey Edwards said a deer hunter returning from an outing in New Mexico told police he was passed several times by the pickup and witnessed the shooting.

Edwards said the hunter, whom he would identify only as a San Angelo resident and member of the National Rifle Association, stopped his car in time to see the pickup driver stand over Long and pump several bullets into him.

"He leaned over the hood of his car, braced himself and took dead aim," said Edwards, adding that after talking with police the hunter requested his name not be made public.

"We're not trying to cover up anything," said Edwards, "but I talked with Col. (Wilson) Spier of the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers today and we are all in agreement that until the identity of the gunman is confirmed, we will abide by the man's wishes for his own protection."

Edwards said until the identity of the gunman is confirmed, the possibility exists that the man might have "friends" who would seek revenge on the hunter and his family.

"This guy didn't have any identification. No social security card. Nothing," said Edwards. The Texas Rangers told me today his fingerprints are similar to 10,000 others. It'll just be a weeding out process. The pathologist estimated he was about 29."

The attorney said he has been beseiged by reporters since the shooting wanting to know the hunter's identity and whether any action will be taken to try and corroborate the eyewitness' account of the two shootings.

"I talked to a reporter in New York and he asked if any action was being planned against the hunter," said Edwards. "I told him, hell no. I thought he ought to be commended. The reporter said he had ever heard of such a thing and I told him, maybe not in New York but in West Texas you would."

He added: "All the people in West Texas are grateful. If he had just gotten there an instant sooner, he might have stopped it."

Parents tell trustees proposals for schools

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The need to maintain two equal high schools, needs for additional school zone signs and crossing guards and emphasis on basic reading and math skills were among the concerns expressed Tuesday night at two community meetings to help set goals for the school district.

A combined total of about 35 persons attended the two meetings, at Crockett and Houston elementary schools, to tell school board members and administrators what they want from the school system.

The meetings were the first of a series of five meetings on three nights scheduled by school trustees to find out what community concerns are.

At the Crockett meeting, parents said they wanted an expanded vocational program.

Hortensia Robledo said she favored extension of the bilingual program through sixth grade with attention given to maintaining proficiency in Spanish.

Another topic of discussion was the need to maintain two equal high schools.

"We feel we need some additional land around Midland High," trustee Ed Runyan said. He said the board "desperately needs" community input on the subject of possible Midland High expansion "because you're the ones who are going to have to vote on the bond issue."

Several persons said more school crossing protection is needed on both Lamesa Road and Fairgrounds Road.

Another area of concern was pupil-teacher ratios. Those attending agreed that smaller classes would be desirable for the district.

At the meeting at Houston, teacher evaluation, particularly during the first three years a teacher is in the school district, was discussed.

Equal athletic facilties for boys and girls also was discussed, as was the need to maintain two equal high schools.

Emphasis on basic skills was discussed at both meetings, with several persons saying that basic reading and math skills should be stressed.

Runyan, who moderated the Crockett meeting, said he wished the attendance had been larger but was pleased with the meeting. "I learned a lot," he said.

"We had a very positive meeting. There was a lot of positive comment," trustee Johnny Warren said of the Houston meeting.

Warren and Runyan both said the information from the meetings will be used in formulating the list of goals for the district.

Three other meetings are seheduled. A meeting at Fannin Elementary School for the Fannin, Emerson and Rusk attendance areas will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The final two meetings will be at 7 p.m. Dec. 2. One will be at Long Elementary School for the Long, Bonham, Jones, Henderson and Burnet attendance areas and the other at South Elementary School for the South, Washington and Travis attendance areas.

Businesses, activities halt for Thanksgiving

While some businesses in Midland will be taking an extended vacation over the Thanksgiving holidays, others will receive just the traditional turkey-day itself off from work.

The U.S. Postal Service will operate on a holiday schedule Thursday only in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

No residential or business delivery will be provided. However, the Postal Service will maintain normal holiday service to lockboxes, plus provide special delivery service as usual.

Other businesses closed only on Thursday include the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Texas Department of Public Welfare, the Texas Railroad Commission offices, most other state agencies, the Internal Revenue Service and all four of Midland's banks.

Those employes receiving Thursday and Friday off from work this week include those at the Midland City Hall, the Midland County Courthouse and the city's three savings and loan associations.

School students, too, will receive an extra-long weekend, as no classes will be held Thursday or Friday of this week. Midland Independent School District offices also will be closed on those two days.

Midland College will close at 5 p.m. Wednesday and reopen at 8 p.m. Monday. Evening classes on Wednesday and Thursday will not be held.

The Reporter-Telegram will publish only one edition Thanksgiving Day, with the business office and other departments closing at noon.

Worshipers set celebrations

Midland's First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1001 W. Tennessee St., will include scriptural readings and testimonials. First Reader of the congregation, Florence Shade, and Second Reader, Catherine Lundy, will conduct the special service. The congregational soloist, John Palmer, will offer "Sing Unto the Lord" by MacDermid, and organist Alice Hughes will present special music. The service will be open to all interested persons.

U.S. vote at U.N.

United States support in the Security Council of the United Nations for a resolution criticizing certain Israeli policies in the occupied Arab territories has incurred the displeasure of Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and other Israelis.

But the U.S. succeeded in toning down earlier anti-Israeli drafts before joining in the unanimous vote for the resolution. The vote showed U.S. concern for a peaceful settlement of the Mideast war which flared in 1948, when the Israelis proclaimed the state of Israel and Arab armies invaded on the next day. Since then there has been an uneasy truce, supervised periodically by the United Nations and broken by episodes of combat.

There must be a general peace settlement which recognizes the right of existence of the state of Israel. It must be guaranteed by the U.N. and the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

The U.S. government is not selling Israel out but only seeking to support moderate trends among the Arabs and set the stage for an agreement in which both sides recognize the just claims of the other side.

Only if the Arabs recognize the right of Israel to exist within its own borders can such an agreement be reached.

Then Israel can be protected by international guarantees, as it never has been throughout its 28-year history as an independent State. If Israel continues to exist on its right to expropriate Arab lands in order to obtain "secure borders," no peace is possible in the Middle East.

This is a matter which both sides in this unfortunate situation must take to heart in determining whether peace or continuing conflict will be the order in the Mideast.

Compute, enter total

The warning comes again from the head man of the Internal Revenue Service himself: completing the new tax return "could be more difficult" than in past years.

Taxpayers struggling with their form 1040s last year found confirmation of a similar prediction by IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander. And last year, as he will this year, the commissioner made his words of caution part of the tax form package.

But the taxpayers who finance the spiraling federal budget won't be able to profit from Alexander's words of wisdom until mid-January. Mailing of the forms has been delayed for two weeks, at least, by late passage of the reforms hailed by congressional tax-writing committees as simplifying the taxpaying process.

Alexander's concern is prompted by the increasing dependence in the returns upon the taxpayers' own computations instead of the familiar standardized tables. He says the amount of arithmetic reguired will result in more mathematical errors than ever before.

The agony of the annual tax-paying chore, it seems, is only compounded by the recurring drive in Congress for reform, which has created a patchwork system beyond the comprehension even of the tax experts.

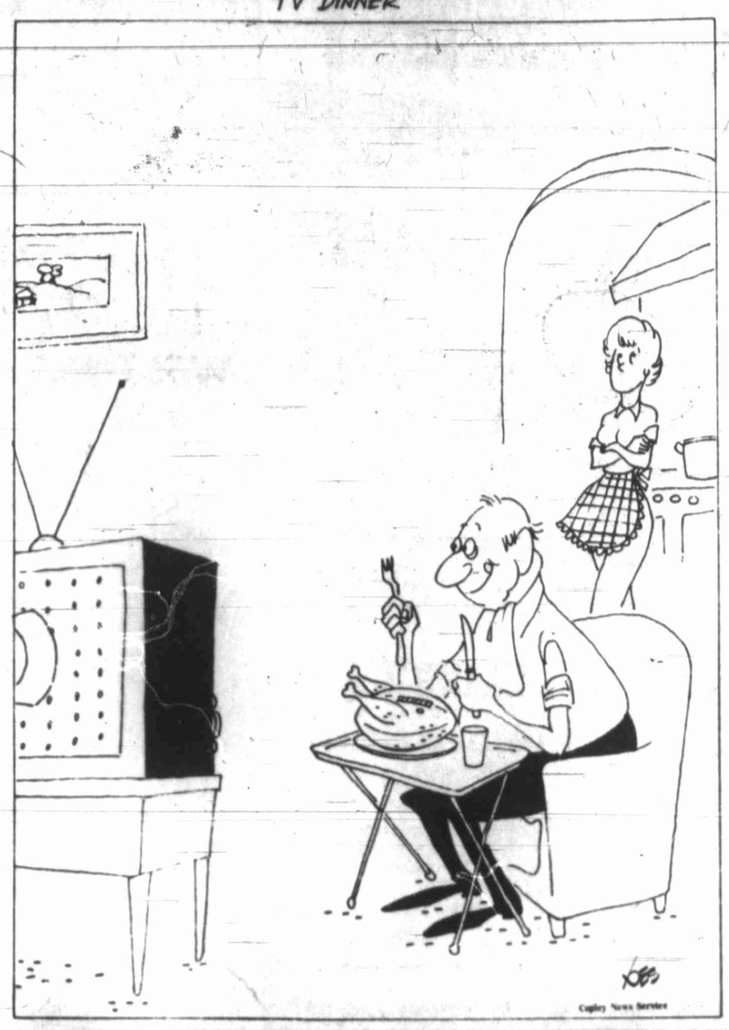
Real state aid!

Much has been said about how our tax and welfare laws can discourage people from getting married. Some new ground may have been broken in Flint, Mich., where welfare officials actually urged a pair of newlyweds, Dale and Louise Schnebelt, to get a divorce.

It's an odd case, to be sure. Mrs. Schnebelt is a registered nurse, staying home to take care of her husband who was paralyzed in an accident. The state ruled that the couple could not collect $270 a month in disability benefits unless someone other than a member of the family was taking care of Mr. Schnebelt. If he would divorce his wife, and hire her as a nurse, everything would be okay.

The impact of government welfare policies on American family life was an issue in the recent campaign. With cases like that of the Schnebelts turning up, the only question when it comes to reform is deciding where to begin.

TV DINNER



A CHANGING WORLD:

Jimmy Carter will grow in presidency

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

Some Republicans and independents are despairing over the election of Jimmy Carter to the presidency. They see nothing but disaster in White House takeover of any or all of Carter's three main constituencies: the labor unions, the Southerners and the blacks.

These fearful election losers should relax. History is mostly on the side of optimism. To put it simply, a new man does not change the presidency. The presidency changes the man. The lone modern-day exception to this truth was Richard Nixon and he was dealt with effectively.

The fact that Carter started out as the champion of the little man, then switched to the pocketbooks of George Meany and Leonard Woodcock, does not really matter. On entering the Oval Office the very first time he cannot help but be jolted into the reality that his is an awesome responsibility — to all Americans and to all the people of the free world.

This sudden shock cannot help but make him cast aside his pre-election rhetoric, his ugly hints about President Ford having been too close to the Nixon conspiracies and the other reckless charges that propelled him into the White House. He also will find that catering to the power-hungry demands of Meany, Woodcock and other union bosses does not coincide with his responsibilities to the broader spectrum of the American people.

Thus, he will change. He will change for no other reason than that he is a very ambitious man and one of his primary ambitions will be to get reelected in 1980 with a convincing mandate that is missing in the narrow victory forged by Southerners, blacks and labor unions.

Carter will change, too, for more profound reasons — good reasons. His on-the-job training in the presidency will be the same as that endured by most first-term presidents and, because basically he is a man of some talent and perception, he will grow in the job, he will mature and he will see the need to cast aside the ultra-liberal clique he embraced as the campaign wore on.

William MacDonald, Brown University history professor and a biographer of George Washington, noted that the father of our country before the Revolution, "showed no marked indications of what is usually considered to be greatness."

"As in the case of Lincoln, he was educated into greatness by the increasing weight of his responsibilities and the manner in which he met them."

Not even Miss Lillian, Carter's devoted mother, expects her son to be a Washington or a Lincoln but there are other more leveling examples of what the presidency does to the man — rather than vice versa.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt died in April, 1945, there was national fear and despair because that haberdashery failure, Harry Truman, inherited the job. Truman grew in stature overnight and over the years became a great president.

Despite his role as a national hero, there were fears that Dwight Eisenhower would be too "military." He was directly the opposite — a man of peace and brilliance.

John F. Kennedy was not in office long enough to establish a positive record but on his death despair again gripped the nation over the prospect of a Lyndon B. Johnson presidency. Johnson did fail on the Vietnam issue but the surprise was that, even as a Southerner, he achieved more for minorities and for social justice than any president before him.

So it can be with Jimmy Carter. The most dangerous trap facing him is any tendency toward a Nixon-like greed for personal power. Avoiding that, he is sure to break out of his narrow campaign support base and become a president who will at least adequately satisfy the needs of an era that neither is one of war nor full peace, one that neither is one of full prosperity nor economic stagnation.

Those fearful of the future should relax — the future may be brighter than you think.

WASHINGTON MERRY—GO—ROUND

The hard-nosed Marine general

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Hard-working, hard-nosed Lt. Gen. T. H. Miller, a model Marine officer from his close-cropped hair to his brass buttons, doesn't believe in coddling his troops.

For example, the idea of a Marine sampling marijuana, which Miller regards as the weed of the long-haired set, is enough to bring fire to his face. He would drum the offender out of the corps and chew out any officer who showed leniency.

Indeed, Miller wrote at least 16 letters to officers on discharge boards, scolding them for their leniency. This sort of intervention in legal proceedings is strictly prohibited by both military law and Marine Corps regulations.

It happened a couple of years ago when Miller was the convening authority of the administrative discharge boards at Cherry Point, N.C. He had his own ideas about justice, and he made sure the military "jurors" under him knew what his ideas were.

The story is told in documents that were never intended to be released to the public. After analyzing the documents and soliciting appraisals from two experts in military law, we have concluded that Miller committed serious improprieties.

To take a typical letter, Miller wrote sternly to an officer who served as a juror: "Your recent participation as senior member of the Administrative Discharge Board...was recently reviewed by me...

"I am taking this opportunity to inquire why you believe that a person convicted of possession of marijuana should be retained in the Marine Corps...

"It appears very obvious to me that possession of marijuana is not an honorable pursuit and one not easily confused with what Marines and the general public have come to expect of Marines who receive discharges under honorable conditions."

Perhaps mindful that military jurors are supposed to be independent, the general explained unconvincingly that he was writing "not to influence your future action but to point out what I believe to be an error in judgment on your part."

The effect, of course, was to influence the military jurors whom Miller said he wasn't trying to influence. If their rulings displeased the general, quite clearly, they risked losing promotions and hurting their careers.

Miller's intervention came to the attention of Marine Corps headquarters, which assigned Gen. Louis H. Wilson, Jr., to investigate. The discharge board officers, at the risk of offending the big brass, generally agreed that Miller's letters were improper attempts to influence their decisions. Here are a few samplings from their confidential statements:

— "To my mind," declared one juror, "the general (Miller) was trying to influence the board to be very harsh in dealing with Marines involved with drugs."

— "I can see," stated another, "...that such a letter could have a very different effect on an officer concerned with his military career."

— "I can recall three instances when the board was deciding a verdict," reported another officer, "the senior members reminded us that if we voted in favor of the accused, the general might become upset."

— Still another officer recalled a conversation with a fellow juror. "After receiving a critical letter from the general," the juror said he "would be more careful" in the future.

— The record shows that Miller apparently committed another impropriety by asking discharge board officers whether they considered the pre-military service conduct of the defendant. It is against the law for a person to receive a less-than-honorable discharge on the basis of pre-service conduct.

The case against Miller appeared to be solid. Indeed, the investigating Gen. Wilson acknowledged that most of Miller's letters were perceived by the military jurors as attempts to influence their actions.

Nevertheless, Wilson solemnly concluded that his fellow general had no intent to influence the jurors' decisions. Not even Miller's suggestion that board members take pre-service conduct into consideration had been prejudicial, Wilson found. He therefore recommended that no action be taken against Miller.

This was a bit too much for Wilson's superior, Gen. R. E. Cushman Jr., then the Marine Corps commandant, who gave Miller an administrative slap on the wrist.

Then the whole affair, apparently, was forgotten. Miller was given another star. He is now a three-star general in command of Marine Corps aviation. And the accomodating Wilson has replaced Cushman as the new Marine Corps commandant.

WATCH ON WASTE — The taxpayers could save "hundreds of millions of dollars" if the Health, Education and Welfare Dept. would get around to reducing health care costs.

In 1972, Congress passed a law authorizing the department to develop new ways of reducing these costs. The top officials have taken four years and have spent millions of dollars. Yet not one of the experiments has been completed.

INSIDE REPORT:

White House action reflects tone of lameduck politics

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — In the gloom of the lameduck White House late last Wednesday afternoon, it was announced in a whisper that President Ford was making a nomination for ambassador that reflects the tone of politics prevailing there throughout this election year.

A presidential spokesman announced, accompanied by no press release and followed by scarcely any attention, the nomination of Jack B. Olson, Wisconsin Dells, Wis., businessman, as U.S. ambassador to the Bahamas. Since the Senate had refused to confirm an earlier nomination of Olson, this was a "recess" — between sessions of Congress — nomination permitting Olson temporarily to assume office without Senate confirmation. But since President-elect Carter obviously wants his own man in Nassau, Olson's first diplomatic service will last only a few months.

Then why name him? "Because it will give the guy a few months' golf in the Caribbean at the right time of year and the title of 'ambassador' for the rest of his life," one Senator told us. What's more, it repays a debt owed for crucial support of Mr. Ford for the Republican presidential nomination by Olson, a prominent Wisconsin Republican. In the eyes of presidential aides, this justified booting out the popular, effective ambassador now in Nassau and making the Bahamians think the U.S. regards their country as a vacation reward for political service.

Olson's nomination has generated so much attention because the man he is succeeding, Ambassador Seymour Weiss, is a respected career public servant and courageous critic of East-West detente. For daring to speak up against Secretary of State Henry Kissinger during staff meetings, he was bounced as head of the State Department's bureau of political-military affairs in July 1974 and sent off to Nassau.

With hard-liner Weiss out of phase with the soft-lining State Department bureaucracy, he seemed ideal to make way for Olson. A Wisconsin resort owner and former lieutenant governor, Olson was instrumental in lining up Wisconsin primary election support for Mr. Ford. He wanted a diplomatic post and was promised it, typical of how the Ford White House has functioned.

But hard-line friends of Weiss caused trouble, persuading conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina to block Olson's confirmation in late September. Even when Republican Senate leaders leaned on him to yield the last night of the session, the tenacious Helms would not budge.

The White House denies that Olson pressed the President to fulfill his promises with a recess appointment. Nevertheless, Mr. Ford's determination to put Olson in Nassau after the election was irresistible. With Weiss still on the job and a new President elected, State Department officials — including Dr. Kissinger — were not enthusiastic. It did not matter. The nomination was made Nov. 17 without courtesy notification to Helms or any other Senator.

Helms is not happy, and neither is the Bahamian government. Although Olson wants to be sworn in promptly and immediately leave for Nassau, the Bahamians may delay acceptance of his papers until Jan. 21. That would raise questions about the status of a document signed by Gerald R. Ford, by then just another private citizen.

TAX CUT OR NOT?

President-elect Carter heard calls for caution rather than action on a quick tax cut to stimulate the economy when he conferred with key Democratic members of Congress in Lovejoy, Ga.

Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, repeated in private his public calls to go slow on tax cuts — a position quickly seconded by Rep. George Mahon of Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Chairmen of the Senate and House Budget Committees, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and Rep. Brock Adams of Washington, told Carter the new budget year beginning Oct. 1 gives him more time to act.

In return, the President-elect showed no taste for confrontation with Congress. Asserting that what the economy shows now may not be the case in January, he indicated he is keeping his options open.

KEEPING 'MAC' OUT

Oil industry operatives and other lobbyists are maneuvering to block liberal Sen. Charles (Mac) Mathias of Maryland from becoming the top Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee, which next year considers legislation to break up giant oil corporations.

Mathias, rated by the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) as 83 per cent liberal, is scheduled to replace retired conservative Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska as leader of the committee's Republicans. But lobbyists are pleading with Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who has a zero ADA rating, to assert seniority over Mathias by giving up the senior Republican position on the Armed Services Committee. A reserve Army Major General, Thurmond dearly loves Armed Services but is expected to yield his post there to keep out Mathias at Judiciary.

Mark Russell says

With the announcement that they have a $15 million surplus, the Postal Service tells us they won't be raising their rates — and an entire nation sheds tears of gratitude.

•

Since it announced its surplus, the Postal Service has become the most unpopular kid on the block. The Secretary of the Treasury dashed off a curt note to them saying, "Thanks for lousing it up for the rest of us."

•

The government is not used to surpluses and feels uncomfortable with one. A spokesman said, "A balanced budget is one thing, but a surplus upsets the computer."

•

In order to bring the Postal Service back to a comfortable deficit, let's all send them a thank-you note — with no stamp.

Plan to make these low cholesterol holiday treats

Copley News Service

High blood pressure, elevated cholesterol and smoking are recognized as being the three major risk factors in heart disease and they are compounded by overweight, diabetes and stress.

Although cholesterol is not the only risk factor associated with a high incidence of coronary heart disease, there is little question that it has a stronger, more positive association with the development of premature coronary disease than stress.

The evidence is based on a vast number of population studies. Since the 1940s, numerous studies have shown that populations consuming diets high in saturated fats and cholesterol have a high blood cholesterol level and a high mortality from premature coronary heart disease.

The studies also show that there is no cholesterol safety cutoff point: the relationship between cholesterol levels and the extent of artery disease is continuous. With increasing cholesterol concentrations, risk is increased.

There is encouraging evidence that cholesterol-reducing diets can help.

Why not remember that holidays need not mean too much high-cholesterol food in order to enjoy them? Start planning the low-cholesterol way. Put one of these breads in your freezer to get a head start on the holiday spirit.

CRANBERRY NUT LOAF

2 cups flour
2 tsps. baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 egg
One-fourth cup polyunsaturated oil
One-fourth cup orange juice
One-fourth cup water
1 cup uncooked cranberries (chopped)
One-half cup chopped walnuts

Sift flour with baking powder and sugar into a bowl. Beat egg slightly, then combine with oil, orange juice and water. Pour liquid into the dry ingredients and stir only until well mixed. Quickly stir in the cranberries and walnuts. Turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one hour or until golden brown.

Makes one loaf or 20 slices.

Variations: Add some grated orange peel. These fruit breads keep a surprising length of time if well wrapped with aluminum foil or with a small clean dish towel dampened with sherry.

DATE RAISIN NUT LOAF

1 cup raisins
1 cup pitted dates, cut in small pieces
One-half cup polyunsatured margarine
One and one-half cups boiling water
One-half cup sugar
One-half cup brown sugar
1 tsp. baking soda
2 cups flour
2 tsps. baking powder
One-half cup chopped walnuts
1 tsp. vanilla

Place raisins, dates and margarine in a mixing bowl; pour boiling water over and stir. Add sugar and soda, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Sift flour, measure, then sift with baking powder. Add to raisin mixture; stir until well mixed. Add the walnuts and vanilla. Turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Bake covered for 15 to 20 minutes, then remove cover and finish baking. The bread is more moist that way. Makes one loaf or 20 slices.

DEAR ABBY

Her husband 'stinky' misbehavior upsetting

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband has spent 26 years in the Army where he learned cleanliness, yet he won't bathe or use deodorants on weekends for me. He's immaculate through the week for his job, and he even comes home smelling sweet! But he stinks all weekend! Drinks all weekend! Resents everything I say! He's typical Scorpio—negative and ready to fight!

What's your prognosis?—M. T.

DEAR M. T.: With your Scorpio on weekend rampages, you should worry less about my prognosis than your own proboscis. If your old soldier continues his course of smelly misbehavior, I'd courtmartial him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who knocks herself out helping others, but never seems to have time to do her own housework or look after her own family.

She will leave her own four school-age children to shift for themselves while she looks after the neighbor's kids whose mother is sick. She's always working for church rummage sales or P.T.A. suppers. She's even done laundry for her friends and neighbors, but her own house is a mess.

Last Sunday she cooked a chicken dinner for a motherless family across town while her own family ate egg salad sandwiches.

How do you set a big-hearted person like that straight without hurting her feelings?—CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHIC: You may not be able to "set her straight," but you can try to understand her. I don't mean to put down your "big-hearted" friend, but her kind of generosity is often misguided.

She knocks herself out for friends and neighbors because she hungers for the praise, thanks and reputation for helping others. If her own family is neglected, it doesn't bother her. A truly generous person gives her best to her family first, and if there's any time and energy to spare, she extends it to others.

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and in the seventh grade. They divided the whole seventh grade into several different classes, and they put me in the class with all the dummies and the talkers. I am a hard worker, I enjoy competition and I like to get good grades.

I can't stand it! I am going up a wall! The kids in my class are so dumb that if I mention a word with more than six letters in it they look at me like I'm a freak.

Can you give me some advice before I go crazy?— —UPSET IN INDIANA

DEAR UPSET: Ask your teacher to put you into a class where you will have more of a challenge.

Bride-elect entertained

Julie Boner, bride-elect of James Thompson, was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Martin Neill, 2208 Cuthbert St.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Roy Stanley, Mrs. Wesley McAlpine, Mrs. Carl Norton, Mrs. R. V. Shoemaker and Mrs. Jack Little.

Miss Boner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Boner of 2717 Delano St., and Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson of Gustine, plan to be married Jan. 15 in Gustine's First Baptist Church.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of blue and white were used in the centerpiece and table decorations. Corsages were presented the honoree and her mother. A hostess gift also was given Miss Boner.

Out-of-city guests included the bride-elect's aunt, Helen Boner of Kansas City, Kan.

Carter expected to name conservative to OMB post

Bert Lance

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — President-elect Jimmy Carter plans to appoint Thomas Bertram (Bert) Lance, 45, an Atlanta banker and fiscal conservative, to the Cabinet-level post of director of the Office of Management and Budget, the Los Angeles Times learned Tuesday.

Lance, a long-time Carter friend and political ally, will play a key role in the new President's economic programs and his plans for government reorganization. He probably will also continue to serve as a political adviser to Carter.

The appointment of Lance, whose record shows he believes strongly in a balanced budget and is wary of huge government spending programs, should be reassuring to the nation's business community.

Since Carter's election, Lance has been kept busy assuring business interests that the former Georgia governor is a fiscal conservative who would not risk feeding inflation with big spending programs.

Lance, who declined to comment on his impending appointment, told The Times in a recent interview he had been telling businessmen "that Jimmy is a fiscal conservative who ran his own business and the state government on that basis."

He also has stressed that he believes the new administration can meet Carter's goal of a balanced budget by 1980 and, at the same time, initiate new spending programs to solve some of the nation's social and economic problems.

"When I've been asked how this can be done," Lance said, "I've said you can do it by setting priorities and looking at the programs you already have to see which ones have to be kept."

He said, "It's certainly possible to do good things and solve problems and operate on a balanced budget."

The budget director has long been one of the most powerful officials in the government, and the power has increased since the Nixon Administration reorganized the Bureau of the Budget, added management responsibilities and changing the name of the office.

As OMB director, Lance would be responsible for pulling together several options for presidential decisions on spending recommendations, program by program and department by department.

The director also identifies areas where savings can be made and has authority to force departments to define their spending goals.

Since reorganization, the director has been charged with making sure that the President's programs are being carried out.

During the height of the Nixon administration, the OMB was one of Nixon's most potent weapons in making the bureaucracy responsive to presidential directives and programs. But as the Presidency itself began to weaken in the wake of Watergate, OMB's power and influence deteriorated.

Under Lance, a forceful administrator who will have ready access to Carter, the OMB can be expected to regain its power.

Lance is highly respected by mutual friends of Carter, including Jody Powell, the president-elect's press secretary, and Charles Kirbo, who is expected to be a key presidential adviser.

Rabin warns Syria to keep troops away from border

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has warned Syria again that his government will not tolerate Syrian troops on Israel's northern doorstep.

"Israel will not be reconciled to the presence of the Syrian army in southern Lebanon," Rabin declared Tuesday night after Israeli and U.S. officials conferred here and in Washington on the situation along the Israeli-Lebanese border.

Commanders of the Syrian peacekeeping force that has occupied most of Lebanon were reported undecided whether to risk a confrontation with the Israelis by sending their forces south to snuff out the last fighting in the 19-month-old Lebanese civil war.

Rabin in a speech also reiterated his government's determination to prevent a revival of Palestinian guerrilla activity along the border.

"What steps to take and when is Israel's business, and we will decide according to our own needs," Rabin said. He added that Syria has been told what actions Israel would consider provocative.

The prime minister said the Syrian advance into most of Lebanon has made "Israel's strategic situation more comfortable," presumably because the Syrians are expected to keep a close rein on the Palestinians. A senior diplomat said Israel might also acquiesce in Syrian occupation of some parts of southern Lebanon if Syria guaranteed to keep the Palestinians under control there.

Israel reinforced its troops at the northern frontier after Israeli soldiers exchanged fire with gunmen across the border last Saturday and an Israeli border town was bombarded by rockets on Sunday.

Associated Press correspondent Alex Efty reported Tuesday from the Lebanese border town of Bint Jbeil that Syrian troops were keeping well north of the so-called "red line" set by Israel as the acceptable southern limit for the Syrian advance. Israeli officials have not defined the line publicly, but it is believed to be the Litani river, 20 miles north of the border.

Efty said the area around Bint Jbeil is the only southern territory still held by the Palestinians and leftist Lebanese Moslems. Lebanese Christian militiamen have occupied the rest, helped by Israeli supplies and artillery support.

The Israeli cabinet met Tuesday to discuss the Lebanese situation; Rabin conferred with U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon, and Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz conferred with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in Washington.

State Department officials in Washington said they did not believe there was any immediate threat to Israel and do not share Israel's misgivings about Syria's intentions.

Negotiations may progress for Rhodesian black rule

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Negotiations to establish black rule in Rhodesia may move forward today following a British proposal to make March 1, 1978, the firm target date for the transfer of power in the African country.

A spokesman for black leader Joshua Nkomo said the new plan seemed to meet "to a large extent" the demand by Nkomo and his ally, guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe, that Britain set a definite date for the end of the transition from the present rule by the white minority to full control by the black majority.

"There seems to be satisfaction in our camp," he said.

There was no immediate comment from the other two black leaders at the Geneva conference, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole. But they have been anxious to drop the dispute over a deadline and get on to negotiations on the composition of the transition government.

There was also no reaction from the white Rhodesian delegation. Prime Minister Ian Smith at the start of the conference on Oct. 28 insisted on the two-year transition period proposed to him by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last summer. But there have been indications the whites would agree to a shorter period.

In Washington, Rhodesian sources say Rhodesia's white minority government is building three strategically placed airfields capable of handling transport planes.

Death stays refused

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Robert Excel White and James Owen Livingston have moved one step closer to the electric chair with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals' refusal to stay their Dec. 10 execution date.

After the court's ruling Tuesday, White's lawyer, J.E. Abernathy, said he plans to file an application with the U.S. Supreme Court asking that the execution date be delayed so he can present his case before that court.

"To say the least, I was suprised by the this," Abernathy said of the appellate ruling.

Despite White's request that he be executed on the "earliest possible" date, Abernathy said an appeal to Gov. Dolph Briscoe to stay the execution would be used "as a last resort."

White, who admitted publicly he has led a life of violence and crime, said in a recent interview, that "if any man deserves to die, I do for the crimes I've committed."

He asked also that his execution be televised. Television cameras were allowed in the courtroom when his execution date was set.

Killer would seek death, lawyer says

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The latest lawyer fired by Gary Gilmore says the condemned killer, who hasn't eaten since Friday, told him he would seek death even if he were set free or allowed to live with his girl friend in prison.

"I said, 'What if you were set free, would you want to live?'" attorney Dennis Boaz said of a conversation with Gilmore at the Utah State Prison on Tuesday.

"He said, 'I want to leave this planet, I want to be free of this planet,'" Boaz said.

Boaz said Gilmore was "very irritable and getting weaker" from the effects of a hunger strike he began when officials refused to let him telephone his girl friend, Nicole Barrett. She was confined to a mental institution after they took sleeping pills in a suicide plot.

A spokesman at the prison said Gilmore turned down all three meals Tuesday, but took water and coffee with sugar. He said the convict lost nearly 10 of his 175 pounds.

"We talked again today about his desire to be executed," Boaz said. "And I said, 'Look, if there was some way ...there was some kind of moderate security prison, where you and Nicole could be together, would you want to live?' He said, 'No, I have nothing to live for.'"

Boaz on Tuesday became the fourth lawyer the 35-year-old Gilmore has dismissed since telling a judge he wants to die before a firing squad for slaying a motel clerk during a robbery.

Two other lawyers were fired for seeking to stay the execution and appeal Gilmore's firstdegree murder conviction. Boaz said lawyer Tom Jones also "is out of it now" and Gilmore is "by himself."

But Gilmore's uncle, Vern DAmico of Provo, said another lawyer soon will represent his nephew, whose sentence comes up for review by the state pardons board next Tuesday. The review was ordered by Gov. Calvin Rampton, who stayed the execution.

Meantime, Robert Van Sciver, a lawyer representing other Death Row inmates, said appeals trying to stop Gilmore's execution will be filed immediately if a new date with the firing squad is set.

Jury to listen to bank officials

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP) — Starr County residents with accounts at the defunct First State Bank and Trust Co. can't "buy gasoline, groceries or pay their bills", since the State Banking Commission closed the Rio Grande City bank Monday.

Today, the twelve Starr County citizens who are members of the grand jury begin listening to bank officials explain why their bank was closed.

Clinton Manges, the wealthy South Texas rancher-banker who owns the beleaguered bank, and deputy state banking commissioner Daniel A. Flynn were two of the six persons subpoenaed before a special session of the grand jury, The Associated Press learned.

The grand jury, which has looked into the activities of the bank after it announced its withdrawal from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), wasn't scheduled to meet again until Dec. 7.

The surprise subpoenas were issued to banking officials late Tuesday, sources said.

The bank was closed Monday by order of the State Banking Commission for "its inability to meet the demands of its depositors and creditors."

Flynn and a team of state bank examiners plus FDIC representatives continued meeting Tuesday with bank officials behind the locked doors of the only bank in Starr County.

Pete Diaz, owner of a Rio Grande Valley supermarket chain, said Tuesday he and eight other local businessmen were attempting to purchase the bank.

"We feel the community should get the bank," he said. "The people here won't trust any outsiders anymore.

"We will either buy the bank stock from the Harlingen bank or wait until the FDIC takes it over," added Diaz.

The Duval County-based Manges secured a $400,000 loan from the Harlingen National Bank with 96 per cent of the stock in his Rio Grande City bank. The Harlingen bank filed suit against Manges last Tuesday claiming the loan was overdue and asking a restraining order placed on Manges to keep him from manipulating the bank stock offered as collateral.

During a Monday hearing concerning the restraining order in 197th District Court in Brownsville.

Suspicious character may be disease cause

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A delegate to last summer's state American Legion convention here says he believes a "glassy-eyed" madman may have known about the mysterious Legionnaires' disease before it struck.

George Chiavetta, a Lauton, Pa., legionnaire, testified Tuesday at the start of a two-day hearing by the House Subcommittee on Consumer Protection, chaired by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.

Chiavetta said his theory was based on a remark made by a "glassy-eyed man in a royal blue suit" who was mingling with delegates at the state convention.

What caught his attention, Chiavetta said, was the man's remark that "It's too late. You won't be saved. The legionnaires are doomed."

In other testimony, Dr. Leonard Bachman, Pennsylvania's health secretary, said investigators were no closer than ever to finding the cause of the disease, which killed 29 persons and made 151 others sick before running its course.

Bachman defended the state Health Department, saying it acted responsibly, but that much work remained to be done.

Murphy has criticized health agencies for what he has called inept handling of the investigation in the early stages of the outbreak. He said as the hearing opened that federal investigators wasted precious time assuming swine flu was the culprit. He said informed scientific opinion now leans toward poisons or industrial toxins.

Dr. F. William Sunderman, director of the Institute for Clinical Science here, said nickel carbonyl, a clear, odorless liquid that he said resembled "gin or vodka" could easily have been sneaked into the hotel where the legionnaires were meeting. He said the disease's symptoms resembled those reported by industrial workers overexposed to the substance.

Chiavetta said he saw the man in the royal blue suit, described as from 5-foot-10 to 6 feet tall, mingling with delegates on three occasions, the last time about 10 p.m. the night before the convention ended.

"I told my wife that the man might be some sort of a nut or something," he said. "He looked glassy-eyed and his face was flushed. There was an object in his right inside breast pocket that resembled a leather tobacco pouch.

"A string or a tube appeared to be attached to his tie which was all twisted up, and that was connected to something in his right hand, like a piece of literature."

Chiavetta said a Dauphin County detective relayed his story to the Pennsylvania Department of Health. Four other members of his Legion post saw the man also, he testified.

Bells says it doesn't have edge

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. official says that the company's local network and local switching system is the only area of service in which it does not face competition.

Bell Vice-president Doyle Rogers Tuesday rebutted testimony by opponents of Bell's request for a $298 million rate increase that his company is a monopoly.

Atomic fuel factory to cost $540 million

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — An independent contractor has told the federal government it will cost the United States a staggering $540 million to abandon an obsolete atomic fuel reprocessing factory nearBuffalo, N.Y.

The factory is operated by a subsidiary of Getty Oil Corp., Nuclear Fuel Services Corp., on land owned by the state of New York, neither of which plan to extend their contract when it expires in 1980. The factory has not reprocessed any spent atomic fuel in more than four years and will probably have to be closed down and abandoned when the contract with Nuclear Fuel Services and the state expires.

When that happens, the Battelle Pacific Northwest Laboratory has told the Energy Research and Development Administration, the toxic liquid atomic wastes kept in storage tanks at the factory will have to be solidified into a cement or glass form and shipped to a permanent repository for atomic wastes.

Battelle has said that this means a factory to solidify the liquid wastes will have to be built alongside the fuel reprocessing plant, which is located at West Valley, N.Y. The cost of building this facility, operating it and shipping the solid wastes is estimated at $540 million.

This figure raises the question of how much it might cost to build nuclear fuel reprocessing plants elsewhere in the United States. One estimate is that at least 10 of these plants will be needed to handle the wastes pouring out of U.S. atomic power plants in 10 to 20 years from now.

All of these plants will need facilities to convert liquid wastes to solids, which will then have to be carted to permanent repositories. A reprocessing plant at Barnwell, S.C., has already cost $250 million, without any allowance for converting liquids to solids.

A double-walled storage tank at the West Valley plant contains 600,000 gallons of what nuclear fuels experts call "high level" radioactive wastes. These are strontium, cesium, barium, cobalt and whatever plutonium the plant did not extract from the spent fuel when it was reprocessed.

So hot are these wastes that their temperature has stayed steady at 195 degrees since they were placed in the storage tank 10 years ago. The storage tank is cooled by water pumped through pipes built between the walls of the tank.

A second tank at West Valley holds 12,000 ta;of thorium acids, wastes of the reprocessing that long ago extracted usable uranium and plutonium from the spent uranium fuel shipped to the factory. About two-thirds of the fuel shipped to West Valley and reprocessed there came from the U.S. government's weapons factory that produced plutonium from fissioning uranium at Hanford, Wash.

Deep test set in Lea

W. A. Moncrief Jr. of Midland will drill a 14,000-foot wildcat in Lea County, N.M., eight miles northeast of Maljamar. It is No. 1 State.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 26-16s-33e, ¾ mile southwest of a Pennsylvanian oil discovery.

Carter Foundation Production Co., operating from Kermit, Tex., intends to reenter and deepen to around 7,320 feet at No. 5 Elliott, for completion attempt as a location northeast extension to Siluro-Devonian production in the McCormick, South field of Lea.

Originally drilled to 6,400 feet, it spots 330 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of section 22-22s-37e, four miles southwest of Eunice.

G.E. Failing dies at Enid

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Services will be held Friday afternoon for George E. Failing, developer of the Failing portable oil drilling rig. He died Tuesday after a short illness. He was 87.

From the time he built his first portable drilling rig in 1930 until he sold the company in 1953 for a reported $2½ million dollars, his firm produced more than 700 portable rigs, some 400 of them for the Army during World War II to drill water wells in combat zones.

The company still operates here under his name.

Failing was born in 1889 in Mendota, Ill., son of a Burlington Ralilrod worker. He moved to Tulsa in 1906 and went to work for the Tulsa World.

He met and in 1909 married Kathryn Steinberger, daughter of an oil man with a string of 17 cable tool rigs. Failing went into the oil field equipment business and worked in the oil business in various areas of Oklahoma, including Tulsa, Cleveland and Yale.

In 1917 he moved to the Garber oil boom in the Enid area, where he opened the Garber Tool & Supply Co. to service the rigs working in the Garber field.

It was during that time he developed the idea of a portable drilling rig built on the back of a truck. His first rig in 1930 used a 1927 Ford truck.

Survivors include one son, Jay Failing of Enid; a daughter, Betty Fitzgerald of Enid; 17 grandchildren, 32 greatgrandchildren and one greatgreat-grandchild.

One son died in 1950, another son died in 1974 and his wife died in 1973.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the HenningerAllen Funeral Home with burial at Memorial Park Cemetery.

Long tours completed

Two employes of Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S. have completed 30 years of service for the firm. Both live in the Odessa area.

D. A. Copeland is material supervisor for the Odessa area. Copeland was originally employed by Warren Petroleum Corp. and served in a number of job assignments. He transferred to Gulf in 1958 as a clerk. He has had tours of assignments in Iran and Nigeria.

D. Reynolds began his employment with Gulf in 1946 in Odessa. He has served as a connection man, roustabout, lease pumper in addition to presently being lease operator in the Goldsmith area.

WT fields confirmed

The King Mountain, North field of Upton County gained a second current Bend oiler with completion of Gulf Oil Corp. No. 11-M McElroy Ranch Co., 14½ miles north of McCamey.

The well gauged a 24-hour flowing potential of 296 barrels of 43-gravity oil and nine barrels of water, through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,774-9,831 feet. The section had been acidized with 9,000 gallons.

It is 990 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 142, block E, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Amoco Production Co. completed its No. 1-A W. E. Cowden as a second current well in the Addis (Strawn) field of Ector, five miles west of Odessa.

It pumped 78 barrels of 40.7-gravity oil and two-tenths of a barrel of water in 24 hours on potential test taken through perforations at 9,155-9,167 feet. It has been acidized with 1,000 gallons.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 41, block 43, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Record reported

Tipperary Corp. of Midland achieved record operating revenues and income in 1976. The revenues were $27,778,000 and income was $5,286,000 or $1.22 per share.

Tipperary's 79 per cent increase in 1976 operating earnings was due primarily to the increased oil and gas production resulting from the company's oil and gas exploration and development program.

Fiscal 1977's record oil and gas drilling budget of $13,000,000 includes the continued development of West Colorado natural gas reserves plus the expansion of proven oil reserves in South Texas.

The balance of the company's 1977 budget will be invested in its wildcat drilling program which includes several current and projects.

Amoco sets offset try

Amoco Production Co. will drill No. 19 American Warehouse, a location north offset to the two-well Siluro-Devonian area of the Cedar Lake field of Gaines County, 12 miles southeast of Loop.

Location is 2,090 feet from north and 1,880 feet from east lines of section 5, block H, D&WRR survey. Planned depth is 12,700 feet.

Test sites reported

TEC Corp. of Evansville, Ind., has staked sites for two gas ventures in Kimble County.

No. 1 Sadie Hudson, a 2,100-foot try, spots 11 miles northwest of Junction and 1¾ mile northwest of the Bolt, Northeast (Strawn) gas field.

Drillsite is 1,150 feet south of the southwest corner of section 21, BS&F survey, abstract 70, thence 600 feet west to location in Kimble CSL survey 751.

No. 1 Margaret Willis is slated as a 1,500-foot wildcat, 17 miles north of Junction and six miles north of the Bolt, Northeast pool.

Location is 3,190 feet from north and 550 feet from west lines of section 25, TW&NG survey, abstract 626.

OPEC ministers fail to agree on increase

KUWAIT (AP) — Ten Arab oil ministers meeting here have been unable so far to agree on what increase in the price of crude oil the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries should set when it meets Dec. 15.

Iraq's oil minister said his government demands a 25 per cent boost in the present base price of $11.51 per barrel. Saudi Arabia, the world's largest exporter, has not made its position public but is thought to want the increase held to about eight per cent for fear of further damaging the world economy.

The oil minister of Qatar, Abdulaziz bin Khalifa al-Thani, said his country would support an increase of 10-15 per cent. Many observers expect the hike to be in this range.

Iran, the second largest oil exporter, is not attending the meeting because it is not an Arab nation.

The Iraqi oil minister, Tayih Abdul-Karim, told reporters: "Oil prices should be adjusted to inflation. The OPEC must increase oil prices by at least 25 per cent."

But Mana Saeed Oteiba, oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, recommended a "judicious attitude ...so that we don't push the U.S. into supporting our enemy (Israel).

"We should not hit the new American leader Carter with a hard line on oil prices," he said. "If we do, we would be doing exactly what the Zionists would like us to do."

Carter's oil adviser, James Akins, the former U.S. ambassador to Saudi Arabia, is on a tour of Arab governments for the president-elect and arrived in Kuwait Tuesday. He told Radio Kuwait Carter considers that the Middle East situation and the oil problem "have reached a perilous stage," the government station reported.

In Washington, Carter told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he believes a large rise in oil prices would be a serious blow to the United States and to the developing nations.

Atlantic Richfield Co. buys London Observer

By BERNARD D. NOSSITER
The Washington Post

LONDON — In a deal believed unprecedented in the annals of journalism, an American oil company has reached across the ocean to buy The Observer, one of Britain's most distinguished newspapers.

The new owner is Atlantic Richfield and the purchase was made in a matter of days by the firm's president, Robert O. Anderson of Roswell, N.M.

Anderson's associates say he is buying the Sunday newspaper primarily to preserve its literate, liberal and independent character, and is not seeking a profitable asset for his company's growing domain. The Observer has been losing money for several years.

The 59-year-old oil man and rancher is described by aides as a humanist with a deep concern for the communications field. For the last 10 years, he has been chairman of the Aspen Institute, a Colorado think tank on social issues.

Anderson learned less than two weeks ago that The Observer was on the block, and that the David Astor family which owns it could no longer afford to subsidize the losses. He made his decision to buy in less than a week.

How much the Astor family trust will receive in the sale has not been disclosed. One source close to the deal said it involved "several million pounds," but this may be a conservative estimate.

Until Tuesday, Observer staffers had feared that Astor would sell out to one of two tabloid press lords. The leading bidder was Rupert Murdoch, the Australian who last week bought The New York Post, and saved the dying Sun here by filling it with nudity and sensationalism. His closest competitor was Ver Harmsworth, head of a newspaper chian that features The Mail, a tightly edited tabloid with a decided right-wing flavor. Although both are financially able, neither suited the taste or temperament of the Observer staff.

It is unclear how the staff will react to ownership by an absentee American oil tycoon, although one senior member predicted they would be "overjoyed." A formal announcement of the sale is not due until Wednesday and Observer reporters could digest only rumor Tuesday night.

Anderson, it was learned, plans two striking innovations for his new acquisition. He will set up what is called a "working board" to inject fresh ideas on the business side and turn the paper's losses — if all goes well — into profits.

In addition, Anderson will set up an "independent advisory council" of prominent editors and leading personalities drawn from the United States and abroad. This body is expected to enlarge the paper's international influence and could make editorial suggestions.

Despite its brilliant criticism of the arts and a tradition of fine writing, the Observer has been a steady loser in recent years. Last year's deficit has been estimated at $1 million to $2 million after a slash that cut the payroll by one quarter.

The paper has said it expects only a modest deficit this year. But its circulation has been slipping, falling to 667,897 through September or more than 90,000 below a year ago.

The Observer, Britain's oldest Sunday paper, began publishing in 1791 with quotations from Samuel Johnson. In its early years, it was notorious for its reports of sensational trials.

Astor's grandfather, an American who became a British viscount, bought the paper in 1911. It was just beginning its great ascent under the editorship of J.L. Garvin. By the time David Astor took over after World War II, the paper had gathered a remarkable group of refugee writers.

George Orwell wrote for The Observer. So did Isaac Deutscher, the historian.

The paper's problems, apart from rising costs and unproductive mechanical labor, stem from aggressive competition. The Sunday Times, bristling with well-reported exposes and background articles, has won twice the Observer circulation. And the more staid, conservative Sunday Telegraph has caught and passed the Observer in sales.

Oil strike potentials

Marshall R. Young Oil Co. of Fort Worth has completed No. 1 Roland F. Ray as a Cisco sand oil strike in Fisher County, 2½ miles north of Roby.

The 24-hour pumping potential was for 78 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 29 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measuring 710-1. Completion was effected through perforations at 3,803-3,808 feet, after the pay had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid and fractured with 1,500 gallons and 1,000 pounds of sand.

Top of pay was picked at 3,803 feet, under ground elevation of 1,910 feet. It was drilled to 3,808 feet, and 4½-inch casing was set on bottom.

Wellsite is 1,667 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 9, Bastrop CSL survey 313.

Amerada Petroleum Corp., operating from Dallas, was making production tests in an unidentified pay section at No. 1 Toler, Fisher wildcat, two miles northwest of Hamlin and ⅝ mile southwest of the Keeler-Wimberly, North (Swastika) field.

It swabbed oil at the daily rate of 220 barrels for an unreported time, through perforations at 4,468-4,496 feet.

It is 2,173 feet from south and 1,787 feet from east lines of section 188, block 1, BBB&C survey.

Explorers, stepouts staked in Eddy areas

Eddy County, N.M., drew sites for exploratory tests and field stepouts.

Texas Oil & Gas Corp., operating from Midland, plans to drill No. 1 Huber-Federal, a 10,300-foot Morrow project, 21 miles northwest of White City.

It spots 1,087 feet from north and 2,280 feet from east lines of section 27-23s-22e, nine miles southwest of the Robinia Draw field and 11 miles northwest of the Crooked Creek field, both of which produce from the Morrow.

McClellan Oil Corp., Roswell, staked site for a 2,000-foot cable tool Grayburg venture, 12 miles northwest of Loco Hills. It is No. 1-JL Federal.

It spots ½ mile south of a Grayburg gas discovery, 990 feet from north and 1,750 feet from east lines of section 14-16s-28e.

The shut-in discovery, Dalport Oil Corp, No. 1 Rodman-Federal, finaled Sept. 23, 1973, for 22,780 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 1,821-1,827 feet.

Continental Oil Co. has staked site for No. 8 James Ranch, a 14,625-foot Morrow project, ⅝ mile northeast of Atoka production and ⅞ mile northwest of Morrow production in the Los Medanos field.

It is located 18 miles northeast of Loving, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 31-22s-31e.

Bass Enterprises Production Co., Midland, intends to drill two offsets to production in the two-well Parallel (Delaware) oil field, about 22 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

Both are slated for a bottom depth of 6,000 feet, and are in section 27-20s-31e.

No. 3 Rodke-Federal, one location west of production, is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of the section.

No. 42 Big Eddy Unit is 1,980 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of the section, ⅝ mile southeast of production.

Eddy draws site, well

A wildcat site has been scheduled in Eddy County, N.M., and four-point tests have been reported for an extender.

Morris R. Antweil, Artesia, has staked site for No. 1 Valle Feliz, as an 11,400-foot Morrow wildcat, ⅞ mile southeast of the Happy Valley (Morrow) gas field and 1¼ mile northwest of an undesignated Morrow discovery.

Drillsite is 1,455 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 2-22s-26e, ½ mile west of Carlsbad. Operator was building location and preparing to move in a rig.

The recent strike, Antweil No. 1 Mesa Grande, finaled in September, for 3.441 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 11,107-11,246 feet.

Antweil was calculating absolute, open flow at No. 1 Macho Norte, ¼ mile north of its No. 1 Mesa Macho, midway between two Morrow gas areas in Eddy.

The following four-point gauges were reported, flowing through perforations at 11,242-11,250 feet: on a 1/-inch choke, 3.11 million cubic feet per day; on a 5-16-inch choke, 4.9 million cubic feet; on a ⅜-inch choke, 6.1 million; and on a ½-inch choke, 7.5 million cubic feet per day. Times of the tests were not reported.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 24-20s-27e, seven miles north of Carlsbad.

Pecos gets wildcat try

A wildcat has been scheduled in Pecos County, and Sterling fields gained an outpost site and an extension.

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc., Midland, will drill No. 1 Millard, a 1,700-foot exploratory test in Pecos, nine miles south of Iraan.

It is 467 feet from south and 7,450 feet from west lines of section 47, block I, I&GN survey (J. M. Swisher survey 47, abstract 4919), 2¾ miles south of the Millard (Soma sand) field.

Marathon Oil Co. has staked site for a one-mile southwest outpost to the Conger (Canyon) gas field of Sterling. It is No. 1-28 R. T. Foster Jr.

Location is 990 feet from north and east lines of section 28, block 31, T-5-S, T&P survey, 12 miles southwest of Sterling City. Planned depth is 8,000 feet.

Magnatex Corp., Oil Division, operating from Midland, completed its No. 1-48 Brice as a ⅛-mile northwest extension to upper Cisco gas production in the Credo, East field of Sterling.

It had a calculated, absolute open flow of 1.210 million cubic feet of gas per day, producing through perforations at 7,280-7,416 feet. The pay had been acidized with 800 gallons and fractured with 118 barrels of fluid, plus 22,500 pounds of sand.

Wellsite is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 48, block 2, M&TC survey, 17 miles northwest of Sterling City.

Ace mediator bids to end bureaucratic nightmare

By BILL RICHARDS
The Washington Post

SEATTLE — For the last 16 years Interstate 90 has been a thorn in nearly everybody's side around here.

Weary commuters have endured bottlenecks where the highway narrows from six lanes to four before it crosses Lake Washington from Seattle's booming east side suburbs.

Impatient state highway officials have watched the cost of widening the 6.5-mile corridor across the lake escalate to nearly $800 million — an increase of more than $100,000 a day.

Environmentalists and mass-transit advocates have filed suits and paraded to hearings to block plans to widen the highway to as many as 16 lanes.

It was a familiar bureaucratic nightmare that appealed to no one — except Gerald W. Cormick.

"It was exactly the kind of problem we wanted to get our hands on," said Cormick, a 34-year-old former labor mediator who heads the Office of Environmental Mediation at the University of Washington in Seattle.

With a two-year, $190,000 grant from the Ford and Rockefeller foundations, Cormick's fledging project is one of two groups in the nation seeking to bring order to the burgeoning number of environmental disputes clogging courts and fraying tempers nearly everywhere these days.

Cormick, as associate research professor in environmental studies at the University of Washington, had the first successful formal mediation of an environmental dispute this year.

The 17-year-old dispute over a flood-control project on Washington's Snoqualmie River pitted farmers, State and federal officials, land-use planners, citizens groups and environmentalists against each other and revolved around construction of a dam on a scenic portion of the river.

Cormick mediated a resolution — to build the dam, but in a different place on the river — that took 19 months to hammer out and involved 50 agencies and interested groups. "We pared it down to 12 signers to the final agreement and got everyone else who could blow it out of the water to sign written endorsements," said Cormick. "It was so broad that the governor couldn't look bad endorsing it."

Both sides said mediation had helped settle the dispute. "In this particular situation it's hard to imagine how else we could have bridged the gap," said Edward Delanty, an environmentalist active in opposing the dam. Scott Wallace, a dairy farmer active in pro-dam groups, said, "We never would have made it," without Cormick.

Mediating environmental clashes is a new science that Cormick and federal and state officials here and in Washington, D.C., acknowledge is tricky at best and can be counter-productive at worst.

Cormick has received 16 requests from public and private groups in the last year to enter environmental disputes around the country. "We turned all of them down but the I-90 situation and two others we plan to get into soon," he said. The rest, said Cormick, may be ready for mediation in the future but are not at this time.

"Most environmental disputes take a while before they can be mediated," he said. "You have to have clear leadership and a total impasse with both sides polarized. You'd be amazed how many of the disputes we've studied where they haven't even defined what the problem is."

One side's burning issue may be another side's sideline problem.

— and a third side may not be interested in that aspect of the situation at all, he said.

In the Snoqualmie River dispute, some groups saw the issue as one of land-use planning with a new dam bringing in too many new settlers along the river. Others opposed dams on general principle, while still others were worried that without the dam their farmland would someday wash away.

Cormick, who has mediated labor disputes in Canada, New York City, and New Jersey, uses basic labor mediation principles. Both sides sit down and over a period of time they work to find a common ground and explore solutions with the mediator acting as a catalyst.

But the similarities end there. "In labor disputes you don't end up arguing principles and values but these are essential parts of many environmental arguments," he said. "You just can't solve the problem with a simple cost-benefit analysis."

Cormick and his two associates spend as much as 60 per cent of their time "educating" principals in an environmental dispute on the procedures involved. "In labor disputes you deal with pros, and everyone knows what he's doing," said the mediator. "Environmental groups are usually made up of white, middle-class professionals, but they're basically constructed along social rather than bargaining lines."

Cormick's group rejects certain kinds of environmental disputes outright because, he said, they can't be solved by mediation.

Nuclear plant sitings, disputes over health problems in polluted areas — "These sorts of things aren't open to mediation," said William Koch, a former union official who works with Cormick.

"These are basic value situations that just can't be mediated," Koch said. "I see the most application of our services in disputes involving allocation of resources."

THE INTERIOR of the Howard Hughes Flying Boat is described as still in "mint condition" when this picture was made at its Long Beach, Calif., hangar in October. The huge wooden airplane, flown only once, by Hughes himself, was designed to carry hundreds of soldiers during World War II but never was used. The Navy may now use it for experimentation.

Gonzalez more than observer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry D. Gonzalez was on the scene 13 years ago when John F. Kennedy was murdered. Now it's his job to investigate the assassination.

Gonzalez was a second-term Democrat from San Antonio, Tex., riding in the motorcade through Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, when he heard the shots that killed President Kennedy. Later, he was in the midst of the nightmare scene at Parkland Hospital where doctors tried to savé Kennedy's life. And Gonzalez tried to comfort Jacqueline Kennedy.

Ever since, Gonzalez has written, he has asked questions about Kennedy's death — "why he died, who killed him and what directions had the bullets come from."

It was the revelation of government misdeeds in Watergate, he wrote, that made him decide that the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald was the sole assassin should be re-examined.

In February 1975 he introduced a resolution to establish a committee to investigate the assassinations of Kennedy and others.

The resolution languished until last September when the House leadership, responding to pressure from the congressional black caucus for a renewed probe into the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King, allowed it to come to the floor for a vote.

Gonzalez, 60, now is a 15-year veteran in Congress and is the second ranking Democrat on the House assassination committee. He is expected to become chairman of the investigating panel when the new Congress convenes in January.

Although careful not to endorse any of the popular conspiracy theories surrounding the assassination, Gonzalez has helped publicize one theory that government investigators and many independent researchers agree is without substance.

In May 1975, he wrote an introduction to a book called "Coup d'Etat in America." The book presents a circumstantial case that the CIA was involved in Kennedy's murder. The Rockefeller Commission found that theory to be without basis in fact and even longstanding critics of the Warren Commission have agreed it is far-fetched.

Gonzalez stated in the foreword that he has no way of knowing if the allegations in the book are true. But the book's cover, with its subtitle, "The CIA and the Assassination of John F. Kennedy," bears Gonzalez' name, giving an initial impression that a member of Congress endorsed its findings.

Exactly how much control Gonzalez will have over the House investigations remains to be seen.

Chief Counsel Richard A. Sprague says he has been freed to go where the facts take him.

Increased income to give Texas profitable tax windfall

AUSTIN (AP) — Increased state income brought about largely by price inflation in taxable consumer goods, oil and natural gas will give Texas a tax windfall of approximately $2.9 billion, Comptroller Bob Bullock estimates.

Bullock said Tuesday that $2.9 billion would be the amount left over if the legislature funded state government for the next two years at existing levels. The money could not be called surplus unless a two-year budged was written keeping appropriations at current levels.

Bullock announced his new estimate — $300 million higher than the $2.6 billion windfall he has been predicting since April — at a pre-session conference for legislators.

"The bad news is that the state revenue boom can't last forever," he said.

Bullock said the $2.9 billion would include a $949.4 million treasury surplus at the close of this fiscal year.

At the same prelegislative conference, House Speaker Bill Clayton said the top duty of the 1977 Legislature will be to keep the extra revenue from melting away.

"Because of the importance to the state of that projected $3 billion balance, and because of the great problem of letting it slip right through our fingers, I hold it to be the No. 1 priority item of the session," Clayton said.

"Like a pat of soft butter being spread across hot bread, this money is likely to be soaked up completely unless we institute measures to prevent that occurrence."

If the windfall is spent entirely, it would mean the cost of government will increase 31 per cent over the 1975-77 biennium, he said.

Clayton said it is essential that spending for highways and public schools increase, but he added that "the transfusion of more and more taxpayer money into building a bigger and bigger government has got to be halted."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, said a special commission on government economy, which he chairs, has come up with 114 recommendations for the legislature. He said these include better accounting procedures, higher yields on idle state funds that are invested and greater budgetary controls for the governor.

Use right trumps in ruffing losers

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We all learned in our cradles to ruff our losers with dummy's trumps. It's only when we got out into a cold and cruel world that we learned to ruff with the right trumps.

Opening lead — ◇ K

West took two diamonds and shifted to the singleton heart. Declarer took the ace of hearts and the top clubs and ruffed a club with dummy's low trump.

This is a general principle of ruffing: use the low trumps early, when there is very little danger of an overruff.

Now South had to get back to his hand to lead his last club. Declarer led a heart from dummy and wisely ruffed with the ace of trumps — disregarding the general principle just stated.

South could lead his last club and ruff with dummy's eight. The defenders would sooner of later get the king of trumps, but nothing else.

LOW RUFF LOSES

South loses his game contract if he ruffs dummy's heart with any trump but the ace. West overruffs and returns a trump. This takes the last trump out of dummy, and South must lose a club trick.

Oddly enough, West can defeat the contract by switching to a low trump at the third trick. South wins, cashes the top clubs and ruffs a club in dummy. When South tries to get back by ruffing a heart, West overruffs with the unguarded king of spades and cashes the queen of clubs.

Braniff settles suit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Braniff Airways has agreed to a $1.3 million settlement resulting from an employment discrimination suit filed by 10 black Braniff workers in 1973.

The settlement was approved Tuesday by U.S. District Court Judge D.W. Suttle. It calls for back pay and damages to to be paid to some 586 Braniff workers with damages and back pay allotements ranging as high as $40,000 for individuals.

As part of the settlement, Braniff agreed to hire additional blacks to raise its percentage in such work classifications as aircraft mechanic and customer service agent.

The company and two unions, the International Association of Machinists and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, also agreed to changes in seniority and transfer practices.

Objections to the settlement were raised by some Mexican-American emloyes who claimed the suit dealt only with blacks. But Judge Suttle said the settlement does not exclude a suit by Mexican-American workers.

TOUGH DEFENSE is shown by Robert E. Lee Rebels during Class AAAA bi-district playoff battle in Abilene's P.E. Shotwell Stadium last weekend. James Lundy grabs Euless Trinity quarterback John Whitley (12) for no gain as teammate Jeff Degenfelder (67) is ready to assist if needed. Lee won, 17-0 and faces Arlington Sam Houston at 2 p.m. Saturday in the regional playoffs in San Angelo Stadium.

Rutgers has things to prove on tube

By The Associated Press

Rutgers Coach Frank Burns didn't get the bowl bid he wanted for the Scarlet Knights, who try to stretch the nation's longest winning streak in major college football to 18 in a game regionally televised Thursday night.

"We would have liked to play a major school in a bowl game and show our ability," said Burns, who believes his club has not received the national recognition it deserves

Rutgers, rated 17th in the nation, puts its streak on the line against Colgate, 8-1 after losing its last game to Army. The game will be played in the new Giants Stadium, located in East Rutherford, N.J.

Burns' team decided to reject an offer to play in the Independence Bowl after officials of the Peach and Tangerine Bowl Games selected other teams.

"They decided to be satisfied with an undefeated campaign and look forward to enjoying free time for the holidays," explained Burns. "They've earned the rest...but, it won't be an enjoyable rest if we don't finish with a win and we'll have to work for it."

Also scheduled on regional telecasts are the Southwest Conference game between Texas and 11th-rated Texas A&M, and a Southern Conference showdown between Appalachian State and East Carolina.

Thursday's action starts a heavy weekend of college football on television. Friday afternoon eighth-rated Oklahoma and Nebraska, No. 10, and Oklahoma, bound for the Fiesta Bowl, battle for a share of the Big Eight championship with Nebraska going to the Orange Bowl if it wins and the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl if it loses.

Top-rated Pittsburgh puts Heisman Trophy hopeful Tony Dorsett on display against Penn State, No. 16, at night.

Both games will be shown nationally, as will Saturday's traditional Army-Navy game. The University of Southern California, rated No. 3 in this week's AP poll, against Notre Dame, rated No. 13, will be shown on a regional basis.

In other Saturday games involving rated teams, Liberty Bowl bound No. 18 Alabama plays Auburn in a Southeastern Conference game at Birmingham, No. 14 Oklahoma State is at El Paso, Tex., Georgia Tech visits No. 4 Georgia, No. 9 Texas Tech has a Southwestern Conference date with Arkansas, and No. 7 Houston is at Rice with the host role in the Cotton Bowl on the line.

Rose Bowl-bound Michigan, No. 2, has completed its regular season schedule, as has Cotton Bowl bound Maryland, No. 5; Liberty Bowl bound UCLA, No. 6; and Orange Bowl bound Ohio State, No. 12.

Colorado and Oklahoma State, which share the No. 14 spot in this week's poll, have earned a share of the Big Eight title and completed their regular season. However, Colorado has more than a passing interest in the outcome of the Nebraska-Oklahoma game. If Oklahoma wins, the Buffaloes go to the Orange Bowl. If Nebraska wins Colorado's season is over since every available bowl spot was filled Tuesday when Tulsa accepted an invitation to the Independence Bowl.

Mississippi State and North Carolina, which share the No. 19 spot, have also finished their regular season.

Rebels to topple Sam Houston

By BOB DILLON

Saturday's regional playoff game with the Arlington Sam Houston Texans in San Angelo, most likely will be the toughest test for the Robert E. Lee Rebels since the Odessa Permian game.

Lee faces a team that is used to being in the playoffs, one that won't have the playoff jitters like Euless Trinity did in Abilene last weekend.

It should be a very physcial contest with the winner advancing into the quarterfinals against either Lubbock Monterey or El Paso Coronado.

Before taking a look at the eight Class AAAA regional playoff battles this weekend, this corner hit 14 of 16 playoff tilts last week, missing the Monterey-Amarillo and Longview-Sherman games.

So on the season, the record is 354 games correct and 56 incorrect for a percentage of 86.3 over a 12-week period.

LEE'S REBELS played well and could have beaten Trinity more than it did last week in the bi-district round. Maybe Coach Jim Acree's crew saved up more of its offense for the Texans. It should be a low-scoring game this time around since both teams have solid defenses. Haltom did manage to score 21 points in a 27-21 loss in mid-season. Going with Lee to post 16-10 win to move into the quarterfinal round...

LUBBOCK MONTEREY had trouble with Midland High, winning 17-13, but the Plainsmen do play good, solid defense and have some size to go with that unit. Saw El Paso Coronado play Permian in the Panther's season opener and the Border City team is very physical, but going with Monterey to take a 20-13 victory to become Lee's next playoff opponent...

SHERMAN KNOCKED off a very stout Longview team last week, 10-3 and the Bearcats have another stiff test in unbeaten Temple Saturday afternoon in Texas Stadium. This one rates as a toss-up, but will go with Temple to post 28-22 victory...

OTHER PICKS in the Class AAAA playoffs include: Highland Park to defeat Dallas White, 22-16, Saturday night in the Cotton Bowl; Spring Branch Memorial to upset the No. 1-ranked Houston Kashmere team, 14-10, Friday night in the Astrodome; Port Neches-Groves to move another step in the playoffs with a 26-16 triumph over Galveston Ball in the Astrodome Saturday night; Brazoswood over Corpus Christi Miller in Freeport Saturday afternoon, 20-7 and San Antonio Churchill to roll past San Antonio Holmes, 33-13, Friday night in San Antonio.

DON'T FORGET the big Tall City Invitational Basketball Tournament in the Lee Gymnasium Friday and Saturday.

Rebel Coach Paul Stueckler works hard to get good teams to come to the Tall City and his Rebels are 3-0 going into the meet which has always-strong El Paso Austin and El Paso Burges entered.

In fact, Burges beat Lee in the finals of the tourney last year. Other teams besides Lee, Burges and Austin are Midland High, Del Rio, El Paso Parkland, Amarillo Tascosa and Paris, coached by former MMS JV coach Mike Long.

Chicago Cubs fire Marshall as skipper

CHICAGO (AP) — Herman Franks will be named field manager of the Chicago Cubs and Bob Kennedy will become director of baseball operations for the team, it was reported today.

Both appointments, as well as the firing of Manager Jim Marshall, were expected to be confirmed later today, the Chicago Tribune and the Chicago SunTimes said, in what was billed as a "major news conference."

Marshall piloted the Cubs to a fourth-place finish in the National League East this year.

Kennedy, 56, served as a Cubs head coach in 1965, the final year of the club's no-manager experiment. He reportedly will be named vice president in charge of baseball operations and would replace General Manager E.R. "Salty" Saltwell, who was expected to remain with the Cubs in another capacity.

Franks, 63, managed the San Francisco Giants from 1965-1968 and was a Cubs coach under Leo Durocher in 1970. He would become the oldest manager in major league baseball.

John Holland, executive vice president of the Cubs, scheduled a news conference today at Marshall, 44, became manager on July 25, 1974, succeeding Whitey Lockman, who went to a front office job. The Cubs finished last in their division that year and fifth in 1975.

Offense coming to life

Midland Lee's offense has really come to life in the past three games with quarterback Brad Wright at the helm.

Last week in the bi-district game with Euless Trinity, the Rebs had a total output of 400 yards with a balanced attack both on the ground and through the airways.

Slotback Robert Ochsner continues to be the top pass receiver in 11 games. The 162-pound senior has latched on to 24 passes for 356 yards and two touchdowns. That's an average of more than 24 yards a catch.

While Ochsner has been Wright's favorite target, junior Jerry Moore's toe has been allimportant thus far. He has 22 extra points and three field goals and to go along with that, has a touchdown for 39 points to trail fullback Brian Crowell who leads the Lee scoring parade with 56 points.

Crowell is also the leading rusher with 638 yards in 105 carries for an average of 7.1 yards per carry. Next comes tailback Clyde Gary with 446 yards in 73 carries for a 6.2 average.

Wright is throwing the ball well, thank-you and set a school record with five TD passes against Abilene three weeks ago in that impressive 42-13 rout of the Eagles. Wright has connected on 42 of 80 passes for 653 yards and eight TDs. He has had four passes intercepted.

Backup signal-caller, David Hobbs, throws well too. He has hit 25 of 49 aerials for 473 yards and four touchdowns.

Besides Ochsner, spilt end John Lowery and tight end Eric Stewart have impressive credentials. Lowery has caught 12 passes for 270 yards and one TD while Stewart has been on the receiving end of 17 passes for 254 yards and four scores.

Lee in preparations for Texans Saturday

By BOB DILLON

The ticket line gets longer and the Robert E. Lee Booster Club meetings larger.

A big crowd was on hand Tuesday night to view the film of the Rebels' smashing 17-0 victory over Euless Trinity in the Class AAAA bi-district football playoffs.

Eager fans gobbled up tickets for this week's game which is in San Angelo Stadium when the Rebels face the Arlington Sam Houston Texans in regional play.

Lee Coach Jim Acree was highly-pleased with the outcome of last Saturday's game with the Trojans in Abilene and pointed out that Sam Houston is a "Very, very agressive outfit."

"They (Sam Houston) come to play and are a good, agressive team that likes to hit. They brag on their agressiveness," said Acree.

The Texans run almost the same offense that Lee uses, and they run out of the Houston Veer. "The quarterback and tailback are the key to their offense," added Acree.

The Maroon Platoon worked out in sweat clothes and the only big injuries were bumps and bruises from the Trinity game.

"We plan to stay in sweat clothes a lot this week since we need to rest and get the team up for the Sam Houston game Saturday," quipped Acree. Acree had nothing but praise for his defensive unit.

Tickets are a sale today to season holders at both Lee and Midland High with the public getting a crack at the tickets after 1 p.m. today at the Memorial Stadium ticket window. Advance tickets are $2.50 and $1.50, but will all be $3 at the gate Saturday in San Angelo. The stadium there seats more than 16,000 fans.

Acree also praised quarterback Brad Wright and liked the way Clyde Gary started running again.

Game films proved the official to miss call on Wright's 45-yard TD pass to Robert Ochsner. It was called back when official said that Wright had crossed the line of scrimmage, but the films proved otherwise.

Lee's defense was great in the goal line stand that turned the Trojans away in the final period of play.

Midland seeking crown in district x-country

SAN ANGELO-The Midland High cross-country team began their quest for a state title this morning here at San Angelo's Santa Fe Park, as the Bulldogs joined the other seven 5-4A schools in the District cross-country meet.

Varsity competition got underway at 11, with contingents from Lee, Abilene, Cooper, Odessa, Permian, Big Spring, and host San Angelo tackling the unenviable task of trying to dethrone Coach Ed Nixon's Pack harriers, who captured the title a year ago.

Judging from last weekend's results of the meet held at Midland College, which featured six of the eight district entries, the Bulldogs should have been heavy favorites. Five of Nixon's runners finished in the top seven at that meet, at a repeat this morning was very likely.

Holding the key to Midland's high hopes is sophomore Robert Wilson, a running wonder who has more records on the charts than Chicago and Elton John combined.

His six firsts and six course records this year are ancient news already, and today he takes the first step in a headline-making plan that could very well end at the state championships in three weeks.

Joining Wilson on the dynamic Bulldog list of harriers are Jeff Adkins, Pat and Paul Darden, Chuck Stump, Tom Hunter, and Harold Stewart.

Coach Sam Volpe's Lee team captured honors at a meet here three weeks ago, but Midland was missing from the list of Rebel opposition. In a head-to-head face off last weekend, Lee finished a distant second to the Pack, but still could give the Tall City a one-two sweep this morning.

Running for the Maroon Platoon will be Charles Hamilton, Steve Hooper, Ricky Parsons, George Pickens, Greg Weeks, David Skinner, and Brian Smith.

Lee will also have Allan Jones running in the junior varsity competition, while Bob Glenn and Matt Morrison compete under the Bulldog banner.

Bulldogs captured win over Pecos by 70-64

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

If absolute, unadulterated chaos is your bag, and you were missing from the hearty throng of three hundred at the Midland High gym Tuesday night. . . . eat your hearts out.

In a basketball game that had poor Dr. Naismith turning over in his grave, the Bulldogs, under first year coach Don Humphrey, managed somehow to come away with a 70-64 win over Pecos, in a "game" marred by 57 turnovers—32 of them on the Pack.

In between mistakes, five Midland cagers hit in double figures, headed by all-district postman Craig Dunn's 16. The others were Terry Rogers, 14; Kiffy Hickey, 13; Steve Brittain, 12; and John Magness, 10.

The win puts the Pack's season record at 1-2, going into this weekend's Tall City Tournament at Lee.

It started out like just another run-of-the-mill high school basketball game, as Midland broke out in front early, leading at the conclusion of the first quarter, 16-12. Brittain and Rogers were the motivators of the Pack scoring machine in the first eight minutes of play, with both connecting for six points.

Phillip Ward, the fine Bulldog wingman, saw his first action of the young campaign in the second quarter, and the gridder-turned-basketball player teamed up with Dunn, to give Midland a seemingly comfortable 36-23 advantage.

Enough of this boredom already. By the opening minutes of the second half, both teams were ready for Act 1, Scene 1 of "I Don't Want It, You Can Have It."

Not wanting to peak too early, Midland only threw away the ball on occasion, but on enough occasions to allow Pecos to narrow the gap to 51-48.

Pecos got their cue to join in on the antics as the fourth quarter got underway, and the spectators' heads were doing their own version of the tennis bob—back and forth, and back and forth, and. . .

The Eagles' hot-shooting guard, Bobby Riggins began to find the range from just inside the gym doors, and with 7:02 left in the play, or I mean game, Pecos took the lead for the first time since the opening minutes, 54-53.

Five minutes and eight turnovers later, the Pack jumped back into the lead for good, when Hickey put through a follow-up shot to make it 63-61.

Both teams tried to end the game with a degree of order, but a habit like that is hard to break. Pecos blew two opportunities to stay within reach of the Bulldogs, and Brittain's two free throws with 1:29 left, brought down the curtain.

The Bullpup cagers won their game in just a might bit saner fashion, ousting the Baby Eagles, 76-43. Walter Bryson was high for Midland with 23, and Milton Sanders contributed 10.

Crane notches victory over Reagan by 47-46

BIG LAKE — The Crane Golden Cranes failed to get anyone in double figures here Tuesday night, but still managed to win their season basketball opener with a 47-46 win over the Reagan County Owls.

Crane is 1-0 and Reagan is now 1-1. James Fort and Rick Cadena led Crane with eight points while Reagan County's Mitch Kizer led all scorers with 19 points. Jennings Teel also had 11 points.

In the girls game, Reagan County managed a 54-49 victory. Dorothy Watson had 21 points for Reagan County while Byrd had 27 for the losers. Crane won the boys JV game, 60-38, while Reagan County won the girls game, 44-38.

Class B Greenwood dropped a 51-50 decision to AA Coahoma Tuesday. Ken Kelso led the Bulldogs with 18 points and Russell Brooks hit for 12 as the Rangers fell to 5-2.

Greenwood won the girls outing, 44-34, with Cindy Brewer hitting 24 points and Russan Ratliff 13. In junior high action, Greenwood captured a 61-24 win in the boys game and Greenwood won the girls outing, 30-26. Both teams are 2-0 in District 11-B.

The Rankin girls ran to a 101-35 victory over Grandfalls with Pruitt hitting 24 and Plagens 22. Batchlor had 20 points. Rankin won the junior varsity outing, 96-21.

Buena Vista roughed up McCamey, 52-44, Tuesday in another cage battle. Rusty Field scored 26 points for the winners while Sammy Carrasco led McCamey with 16 points.

Kramer named to team

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Kramer of Rice, the nation's leading passer, and three premier running backs were named today to the 1976 AllAmerica Team selected by the 2,100 members of the American Football Coaches Association.

Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett, who led the balloting, Ricky Bell of Southern Cal and Michigan fullback Rob Lytle were in the offensive backfield along with Kramer. Dorsett, college football's all-time leading rusher and holder of numerous NCAA records, and Bell were the only repeaters from last year's team.

For the first time in six years, a kicker was added to the squad. Arkansas' Steve Little, who boomed a 61-yard field goal against Tulsa this year, is the first kicker named since Bill McClard, also of Arkansas, was named to the 1970 squad.

Three colleges had two players each on the team. Notre Dame was represented by tight end Ken MacAfee and defensive end Ross Browner, Ohio State was represented by offensive guard Chris Ward and defensive end Bob Brudzinski, and Pitt was honored with the selection of Dorsett and middle guard Al Romano.

MacAfee, Ward, Little and Browner are all juniors, while the remaining members of the squad are seniors.

Also named to the offensive team were split end Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Warren Bryant of Kentucky and Mike Vaughan of Oklahoma, guard Joel Parrish of Georgia and center Derrel Gofourth of Oklahoma State.

Trevino recovering

HOUSTON (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino was reported resting comfortably at a Houston hospital today following successful surgery for a ruptured disc.

A doctor told Trevino's El Paso office surgeons were extremely pleased with the surgery which performed Tuesday.

The name of the hospital was not disclosed but his El Paso office it will be disclosed later.

Morgan honored as MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Second baseman Joe Morgan of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds today became only the second man in National League history to win Most Valuable Player honors two consecutive seasons.

Ernie Banks, former Chicago Cubs shortstop, was named MVP in 1958 and 1959.

In the American League, consecutive winners included Jimmy Foxx, 1932-33; Hal Newhouser, 1944-45; Yogi Berra, 1954-55; Mickey Mantle, 1956-57, and Roger Maris, 1960-61.

Morgan, who won convincingly over Greg Luzinski in 1975, was an equally impressive winner over his Cincinnati teammate George Foster this year in the balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. The 5-foot-7, 165pound infielder collected 19 first-place votes from the 24man committee. The other five voters placed him second.

"It's a real honor. I think of it as being unique," Morgan said when informed of his award. "Ernie Banks was the only other guy to win it two years in a row, but he did it on a team that finished in ninth and 10th place. Nowadays, if a team finished last you wouldn't win the MVP.

"Ernie was one of a kind and I think maybe this award is the same thing."

What first-place votes Morgan did not get went to Foster, who finished second ahead. Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt was third. The first three were the only players named on all 24 ballots.

First-place votes counted 14 points, second place nine points, third place eight points, etc.

Morgan finished with a total of 311 points. Foster garnered 221 and Schmidt 179.

The Reds placed three players in the top four, as third baseman Pete Rose finished fourth with 131 points. Cincinnati's Ken Griffey was tied for eighth. Philadelphia had three players in the first 10, with Garry Maddox fifth and Greg Luzinski tied for eighth.

Cy Young winner Randy Jones of San Diego was the only pitcher in the top 10, finishing 10th.

Morgan finished fifth in the batting race with a .320 average. He had 111 runs batted in, 10 less than Foster, the league leader. Morgan also hit 27 home runs and stole 60 bases despite an injury-plagued season.

Cincinnati players have been named the National League MVP five of the last seven years. Johnny Bench and Morgan each have won the honor twice and Rose once. Interrupting the Reds' string were Joe Torre of St. Louis in 1971 and Steve Garvey of Los Angeles in 1974.

Dierker is traded to St. Louis Cards

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Larry Dierker, a fixture in the Houston Astros' starting rotation since his days as a fuzzycheeked teenager, has fallen victim to the Astros' youth movement.

Dierker was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday for catcher Joe Ferguson, who will be expected to give the Astros much-needed catching help and added power in the lineup.

Dierker, who pitched his first career no-hitter last season and compiled a 13-14 record, became expendable to Astros following the outstanding performances of a corps of young pitching prospects.

"The one regret I have is that we will be losing the services of Larry Dierker," Astros General Manager Tal Smith said. "But we have seven pitchers now who are potential starters next season and we felt we had to make a move."

The Astros, who went into last season as the worst team in baseball with pitching their weakest position. They emerged in third place in the National League Western Division with pitching one of their strong points.

Lone Star holding drills

DALLAS (AP) — After a oneyear ban, the Lone Star Conference has reinstated football spring training for the loop's eight universities, it was announced Tuesday.

Spring training was eliminated in 1975 as an economy measure, but a review of the decision prompted reconsideration.

Markets mixed today

NEW YORK (AP —The stock market was mixed today, settling down as the Thanksgiving holiday approached.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off .58 at 948.72, while gainers ran ahead of losers by about a 7-6 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers found little inclination toward much buying or selling with traders expecting little action for the rest of the week. The markets will be closed Thursday, and postThanksgiving Friday are normally very quiet on Wall Street.

American Broadcasting topped the active list, up ¾ at 38. The stock fell 2⅝ Tuesday after the Justice Department urged the Federal Communications Commission to investigate whether the major television networks should be allowed to keep the stations they own and operate.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .05 to 54.74. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .02 a100.06.

Volume on the Big Board tapered off to 7.60 million shares over the first two hours, against 8.28 million in the comparable period on Tuesday.

Atlantic Richfield, which agreed to buy The Observer, a British Sunday newspr, picked up ⅝ to 57¾ in active trading.

People's Yellow Pages making Ma Bell's look pale

By DAVID JOHNSTON
The Los Angeles Times

SAN FRANCISCO — From Boston to Honolulu you can let your fingers do the walking through the counter-culture community in the People's Yellow Pages.

Across the land, ad hoc community groups are putting out guides to the alternative community, directories that are quite unlike the hefty, and profitable, yellow pages Ma Bell produces — but often much more interesting.

Where else but the People's Yellow Pages, San Francisco edition, could one learn about a garage that lets customers learn to fix their own cars by working alongside a mechanic, or a restaurant that serves each table only once per night?

THE STANDARD PHONE directory listings seem almost dull compared with such offbeat Michigan firms as Gimmie Shelter Geodesics and Red Octopus Contracting, two of the businesses found in the Lansing Area People's Pages.

And the art in the People's Yellow Pages is usually that, art, not commercial sketches done to sell a product or service.

PEOPLE'S YELLOW PAGES are often showcases for local artists and poets. The names, phone numbers and critiques of various firms and associations frequently are interspersed with fanciful sketches, snatches of poetry and tidbits of wisdom from the likes of T.S. Eliot, Bertrand Russell, Lewis Carroll, Anais Nin and other counter-culture heroes.

People's Yellow Pages are one response to the frustrations felt by many who are trying to cope with an increasingly complex society. They represent a mass of knowledge on where to get the services, products and affiliations one needs.

Although many of these alternative guides use the same name, the various People's Yellow Pages have no affiliation with one another. The idea often spreads the way many ideas do in the counter-culture — by word of mouth.

The Hawaii edition, for example, was started by a volunteer who had seen the San Francisco edition and wanted to learn about alternative life-styles on the islands.

Although Yellow Pages is a term used by the Bell Telephone System, it has no proprietary interest in the phrase and apparently has never objected to the guides being called the People's Yellow Pages.

The idea of community guides is not new. Chambers of commerce have been putting directories of local entertainment and businesses in motel rooms for years, and many newspapers print supplements that neatly package information about a community.

MAJOR MOVING and transfer companies give customers booklets with such useful data as the telephone numbers of utility companies in the town where the customer is relocating.

But People's Yellow Pages grew out of the alternative life-styles adopted by many people, especially young people, in recent years.

In a way People's Yellow Pages are a contradiction of the unstructured life-styles both of those who produce and those who read them. They institutionalize the counter-culture grapevine.

"Many of the people in the alternative community are mobile individuals or entrepreneurs," observed Taylor Pancoast, an organizer with the Lansing (Mich.) Area People's Pages.

Referring to the data in the 24-page book, which sells for $1, Pancoast said "this kind of information is hard to get — in fact, it is usually passed only by word of mouth."

JAN ZOBEL, WHO has worked on all four editions of the 193-page San Francisco People's Yellow Pages, one of the most complete and most interesting, said she got the idea for the directory while leading alternative job discussions.

"I realized I was carrying around all these resources in my head that really interested people and that they needed," she said.

The first San Francisco edition in 1971 had 64 pages and all 10,000 copies sold out quickly at $1 each.

Its popularity led to later, expanded People's Yellow Pages with many new entries.

Ms. Zobel said listings are free and the women's collective which publishes the San Francisco People's Yellow Pages, maintains sole control over who gets in.

"You won't find a Sears store in our book," said Mary Donnis, a recent addition to the San Francisco collective.

BUT READERS WILL find editorial comments on the firms and groups listed that are never found in regular telephone book Yellow Pages advertising.

For example, the listing for the Good Karma Cafe in San Francisco says:

"This is a vegetarian restaurant. They're into gourmet grains and vegies, fresh baked bread and deserts. Pleasant atmosphere, live music, people's prices."

The San Francisco Medical Society listing says "this group is only useful if you can afford to go to a private doctor or have Medi-Cal. In that case, give them a call and they will provide you with the names of qualified doctors that treat your ailment. You will then set up the usual doctor-patient relationship by calling the doctor."

LIKE MOST PEOPLE'S Yellow Pages, the one in San Francisco belies its name. It is printed on light brown newsprint.

Although these are mostly guides to alternative businesses and groups, many People's Yellow Pages are popular with anyone trying to stretch a dollar or find unusual firms and groups.

The People's Yellow Pages in Kansas City, Mo., is intended "primarily to help low-income and middle-income people stretch their dollars and obtain humanizing services, said Jan Perroni, who worked on the book.

The Lawrence, Kan., People's Yellow Pages is a bi-annual guide to student hang-outs and campus activities published by the Kansas University Information Center, a 24-hour referral service.

The People's Yellow Pages of Hawaii is "a general guide to just about everything," said Sam Cox of the American Friends Service Committee, which sponsored the book. "We list a free dental clinic here, but not dentists in business for themselves," Cox said.

LATELY FEMINIST guides using the Yellow Pages name have begun to appear in communities as divergent as Berkeley and Phoenix.

Katherine H. Ryan, co-editor of the Phoenix Women's Yellow pages, said that guide "is intended to help women who want to go into business, but have a hard time because many people won't go to them because they are women."

Most People's Yellow Pages are ad hoc efforts interested less in making money than serving the community. The Kansas City People's Yellow Pages describes itself as an "anti-profit" enterprise.

This is in contrast to the organized sales effort made by telephone companies for their classified directories. Last year Pacific Telephone did so well that its Yellow Pages earned an after-tax profit of $32.6 million.

Midland seeking crown in district x-country

SAN ANGELO-The Midland High cross-country team began their quest for a state title this morning here at San Angelo's Santa Fe Park, as the Bulldogs joined the other seven 5-4A schools in the District cross-country meet.

Varsity competition got underway at 11, with contingents from Lee, Abilene, Cooper, Odessa, Permian, Big Spring, and host San Angelo tackling the unenviable task of trying to dethrone Coach Ed Nixon's Pack harriers, who captured the title a year ago.

Judging from last weekend's results of the meet held at Midland College, which featured six of the eight district entries, the Bulldogs should have been heavy favorites. Five of Nixon's runners finished in the top seven at that meet, at a repeat this morning was very likely.

Holding the key to Midland's high hopes is sophomore Robert Wilson, a running wonder who has more records on the charts than Chicago and Elton John combined.

His six firsts and six course records this year are ancient news already, and today he takes the first step in a headline-making plan that could very well end at the state championships in three weeks.

Joining Wilson on the dynamic Bulldog list of harriers are Jeff Adkins, Pat and Paul Darden, Chuck Stump, Tom Hunter, and Harold Stewart.

Coach Sam Volpe's Lee team captured honors at a meet here three weeks ago, but Midland was missing from the list of Rebel opposition. In a head-to-head face off last weekend, Lee finished a distant second to the Pack, but still could give the Tall City a one-two sweep this morning.

Running for the Maroon Platoon will be Charles Hamilton, Steve Hooper, Ricky Parsons, George Pickens, Greg Weeks, David Skinner, and Brian Smith.

Lee will also have Allan Jones running in the junior varsity competition, while Bob Glenn and Matt Morrison compete under the Bulldog banner.

Bulldogs captured win over Pecos by 70-64

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

If absolute, unadulterated chaos is your bag, and you were missing from the hearty throng of three hundred at the Midland High gym Tuesday night. . . . eat your hearts out.

In a basketball game that had poor Dr. Naismith turning over in his grave, the Bulldogs, under first year coach Don Humphrey, managed somehow to come away with a 70-64 win over Pecos, in a "game" marred by 57 turnovers—32 of them on the Pack.

In between mistakes, five Midland cagers hit in double figures, headed by all-district postman Craig Dunn's 16. The others were Terry Rogers, 14; Kiffy Hickey, 13; Steve Brittain, 12; and John Magness, 10.

The win puts the Pack's season record at 1-2, going into this weekend's Tall City Tournament at Lee.

It started out like just another run-of-the-mill high school basketball game, as Midland broke out in front early, leading at the conclusion of the first quarter, 16-12. Brittain and Rogers were the motivators of the Pack scoring machine in the first eight minutes of play, with both connecting for six points.

Phillip Ward, the fine Bulldog wingman, saw his first action of the young campaign in the second quarter, and the gridder-turned-basketball player teamed up with Dunn, to give Midland a seemingly comfortable 36-23 advantage.

Enough of this boredom already. By the opening minutes of the second half, both teams were ready for Act 1, Scene 1 of "I Don't Want It, You Can Have It."

Not wanting to peak too early, Midland only threw away the ball on occasion, but on enough occasions to allow Pecos to narrow the gap to 51-48.

Pecos got their cue to join in on the antics as the fourth quarter got underway, and the spectators' heads were doing their own version of the tennis bob—back and forth, and back and forth, and. . .

The Eagles' hot-shooting guard, Bobby Riggins began to find the range from just inside the gym doors, and with 7:02 left in the play, or I mean game, Pecos took the lead for the first time since the opening minutes, 54-53.

Five minutes and eight turnovers later, the Pack jumped back into the lead for good, when Hickey put through a follow-up shot to make it 63-61.

Both teams tried to end the game with a degree of order, but a habit like that is hard to break. Pecos blew two opportunities to stay within reach of the Bulldogs, and Brittain's two free throws with 1:29 left, brought down the curtain.

The Bullpup cagers won their game in just a might bit saner fashion, ousting the Baby Eagles, 76-43. Walter Bryson was high for Midland with 23, and Milton Sanders contributed 10.

Crane notches victory over Reagan by 47-46

BIG LAKE — The Crane Golden Cranes failed to get anyone in double figures here Tuesday night, but still managed to win their season basketball opener with a 47-46 win over the Reagan County Owls.

Crane is 1-0 and Reagan is now 1-1. James Fort and Rick Cadena led Crane with eight points while Reagan County's Mitch Kizer led all scorers with 19 points. Jennings Teel also had 11 points.

In the girls game, Reagan County managed a 54-49 victory. Dorothy Watson had 21 points for Reagan County while Byrd had 27 for the losers. Crane won the boys JV game, 60-38, while Reagan County won the girls game, 44-38.

Class B Greenwood dropped a 51-50 decision to AA Coahoma Tuesday. Ken Kelso led the Bulldogs with 18 points and Russell Brooks hit for 12 as the Rangers fell to 5-2.

Greenwood won the girls outing, 44-34, with Cindy Brewer hitting 24 points and Russan Ratliff 13. In junior high action, Greenwood captured a 61-24 win in the boys game and Greenwood won the girls outing, 30-26. Both teams are 2-0 in District 11-B.

The Rankin girls ran to a 101-35 victory over Grandfalls with Pruitt hitting 24 and Plagens 22. Batchlor had 20 points. Rankin won the junior varsity outing, 96-21.

Buena Vista roughed up McCamey, 52-44, Tuesday in another cage battle. Rusty Field scored 26 points for the winners while Sammy Carrasco led McCamey with 16 points.

Morgan honored as MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Second baseman Joe Morgan of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds today became only the second man in National League history to win Most Valuable Player honors two consecutive seasons.

Ernie Banks, former Chicago Cubs shortstop, was named MVP in 1958 and 1959.

In the American League, consecutive winners included Jimmy Foxx, 1932-33; Hal Newhouser, 1944-45; Yogi Berra, 1954-55; Mickey Mantle, 1956-57, and Roger Maris, 1960-61.

Morgan, who won convincingly over Greg Luzinski in 1975, was an equally impressive winner over his Cincinnati teammate George Foster this year in the balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. The 5-foot-7, 165pound infielder collected 19 first-place votes from the 24man committee. The other five voters placed him second.

"It's a real honor. I think of it as being unique," Morgan said when informed of his award. "Ernie Banks was the only other guy to win it two years in a row, but he did it on a team that finished in ninth and 10th place. Nowadays, if a team finished last you wouldn't win the MVP.

"Ernie was one of a kind and I think maybe this award is the same thing."

What first-place votes Morgan did not get went to Foster, who finished second ahead. Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt was third. The first three were the only players named on all 24 ballots.

First-place votes counted 14 points, second place nine points, third place eight points, etc.

Morgan finished with a total of 311 points. Foster garnered 221 and Schmidt 179.

The Reds placed three players in the top four, as third baseman Pete Rose finished fourth with 131 points. Cincinnati's Ken Griffey was tied for eighth. Philadelphia had three players in the first 10, with Garry Maddox fifth and Greg Luzinski tied for eighth.

Cy Young winner Randy Jones of San Diego was the only pitcher in the top 10, finishing 10th.

Morgan finished fifth in the batting race with a .320 average. He had 111 runs batted in, 10 less than Foster, the league leader. Morgan also hit 27 home runs and stole 60 bases despite an injury-plagued season.

Cincinnati players have been named the National League MVP five of the last seven years. Johnny Bench and Morgan each have won the honor twice and Rose once. Interrupting the Reds' string were Joe Torre of St. Louis in 1971 and Steve Garvey of Los Angeles in 1974.

Kramer named to team

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Kramer of Rice, the nation's leading passer, and three premier running backs were named today to the 1976 AllAmerica Team selected by the 2,100 members of the American Football Coaches Association.

Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett, who led the balloting, Ricky Bell of Southern Cal and Michigan fullback Rob Lytle were in the offensive backfield along with Kramer. Dorsett, college football's all-time leading rusher and holder of numerous NCAA records, and Bell were the only repeaters from last year's team.

For the first time in six years, a kicker was added to the squad. Arkansas' Steve Little, who boomed a 61-yard field goal against Tulsa this year, is the first kicker named since Bill McClard, also of Arkansas, was named to the 1970 squad.

Three colleges had two players each on the team. Notre Dame was represented by tight end Ken MacAfee and defensive end Ross Browner, Ohio State was represented by offensive guard Chris Ward and defensive end Bob Brudzinski, and Pitt was honored with the selection of Dorsett and middle guard Al Romano.

MacAfee, Ward, Little and Browner are all juniors, while the remaining members of the squad are seniors.

Also named to the offensive team were split end Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Warren Bryant of Kentucky and Mike Vaughan of Oklahoma, guard Joel Parrish of Georgia and center Derrel Gofourth of Oklahoma State.

Trevino recovering

HOUSTON (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino was reported resting comfortably at a Houston hospital today following successful surgery for a ruptured disc.

A doctor told Trevino's El Paso office surgeons were extremely pleased with the surgery which performed Tuesday.

The name of the hospital was not disclosed but his El Paso office it will be disclosed later.

Dierker is traded to St. Louis Cards

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Larry Dierker, a fixture in the Houston Astros' starting rotation since his days as a fuzzycheeked teenager, has fallen victim to the Astros' youth movement.

Dierker was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday for catcher Joe Ferguson, who will be expected to give the Astros much-needed catching help and added power in the lineup.

Dierker, who pitched his first career no-hitter last season and compiled a 13-14 record, became expendable to Astros following the outstanding performances of a corps of young pitching prospects.

"The one regret I have is that we will be losing the services of Larry Dierker," Astros General Manager Tal Smith said. "But we have seven pitchers now who are potential starters next season and we felt we had to make a move."

The Astros, who went into last season as the worst team in baseball with pitching their weakest position. They emerged in third place in the National League Western Division with pitching one of their strong points.

Lone Star holding drills

DALLAS (AP) — After a oneyear ban, the Lone Star Conference has reinstated football spring training for the loop's eight universities, it was announced Tuesday.

Spring training was eliminated in 1975 as an economy measure, but a review of the decision prompted reconsideration.

Markets mixed today

NEW YORK (AP —The stock market was mixed today, settling down as the Thanksgiving holiday approached.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off .58 at 948.72, while gainers ran ahead of losers by about a 7-6 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers found little inclination toward much buying or selling with traders expecting little action for the rest of the week. The markets will be closed Thursday, and postThanksgiving Friday are normally very quiet on Wall Street.

American Broadcasting topped the active list, up ¾ at 38. The stock fell 2⅝ Tuesday after the Justice Department urged the Federal Communications Commission to investigate whether the major television networks should be allowed to keep the stations they own and operate.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .05 to 54.74. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .02 a100.06.

Volume on the Big Board tapered off to 7.60 million shares over the first two hours, against 8.28 million in the comparable period on Tuesday.

Atlantic Richfield, which agreed to buy The Observer, a British Sunday newspr, picked up ⅝ to 57¾ in active trading.

People's Yellow Pages making Ma Bell's look pale

By DAVID JOHNSTON
The Los Angeles Times

SAN FRANCISCO — From Boston to Honolulu you can let your fingers do the walking through the counter-culture community in the People's Yellow Pages.

Across the land, ad hoc community groups are putting out guides to the alternative community, directories that are quite unlike the hefty, and profitable, yellow pages Ma Bell produces — but often much more interesting.

Where else but the People's Yellow Pages, San Francisco edition, could one learn about a garage that lets customers learn to fix their own cars by working alongside a mechanic, or a restaurant that serves each table only once per night?

THE STANDARD PHONE directory listings seem almost dull compared with such offbeat Michigan firms as Gimmie Shelter Geodesics and Red Octopus Contracting, two of the businesses found in the Lansing Area People's Pages.

And the art in the People's Yellow Pages is usually that, art, not commercial sketches done to sell a product or service.

PEOPLE'S YELLOW PAGES are often showcases for local artists and poets. The names, phone numbers and critiques of various firms and associations frequently are interspersed with fanciful sketches, snatches of poetry and tidbits of wisdom from the likes of T.S. Eliot, Bertrand Russell, Lewis Carroll, Anais Nin and other counter-culture heroes.

People's Yellow Pages are one response to the frustrations felt by many who are trying to cope with an increasingly complex society. They represent a mass of knowledge on where to get the services, products and affiliations one needs.

Although many of these alternative guides use the same name, the various People's Yellow Pages have no affiliation with one another. The idea often spreads the way many ideas do in the counter-culture — by word of mouth.

The Hawaii edition, for example, was started by a volunteer who had seen the San Francisco edition and wanted to learn about alternative life-styles on the islands.

Although Yellow Pages is a term used by the Bell Telephone System, it has no proprietary interest in the phrase and apparently has never objected to the guides being called the People's Yellow Pages.

The idea of community guides is not new. Chambers of commerce have been putting directories of local entertainment and businesses in motel rooms for years, and many newspapers print supplements that neatly package information about a community.

MAJOR MOVING and transfer companies give customers booklets with such useful data as the telephone numbers of utility companies in the town where the customer is relocating.

But People's Yellow Pages grew out of the alternative life-styles adopted by many people, especially young people, in recent years.

In a way People's Yellow Pages are a contradiction of the unstructured life-styles both of those who produce and those who read them. They institutionalize the counter-culture grapevine.

"Many of the people in the alternative community are mobile individuals or entrepreneurs," observed Taylor Pancoast, an organizer with the Lansing (Mich.) Area People's Pages.

Referring to the data in the 24-page book, which sells for $1, Pancoast said "this kind of information is hard to get — in fact, it is usually passed only by word of mouth."

JAN ZOBEL, WHO has worked on all four editions of the 193-page San Francisco People's Yellow Pages, one of the most complete and most interesting, said she got the idea for the directory while leading alternative job discussions.

"I realized I was carrying around all these resources in my head that really interested people and that they needed," she said.

The first San Francisco edition in 1971 had 64 pages and all 10,000 copies sold out quickly at $1 each.

Its popularity led to later, expanded People's Yellow Pages with many new entries.

Ms. Zobel said listings are free and the women's collective which publishes the San Francisco People's Yellow Pages, maintains sole control over who gets in.

"You won't find a Sears store in our book," said Mary Donnis, a recent addition to the San Francisco collective.

BUT READERS WILL find editorial comments on the firms and groups listed that are never found in regular telephone book Yellow Pages advertising.

For example, the listing for the Good Karma Cafe in San Francisco says:

"This is a vegetarian restaurant. They're into gourmet grains and vegies, fresh baked bread and deserts. Pleasant atmosphere, live music, people's prices."

The San Francisco Medical Society listing says "this group is only useful if you can afford to go to a private doctor or have Medi-Cal. In that case, give them a call and they will provide you with the names of qualified doctors that treat your ailment. You will then set up the usual doctor-patient relationship by calling the doctor."

LIKE MOST PEOPLE'S Yellow Pages, the one in San Francisco belies its name. It is printed on light brown newsprint.

Although these are mostly guides to alternative businesses and groups, many People's Yellow Pages are popular with anyone trying to stretch a dollar or find unusual firms and groups.

The People's Yellow Pages in Kansas City, Mo., is intended "primarily to help low-income and middle-income people stretch their dollars and obtain humanizing services, said Jan Perroni, who worked on the book.

The Lawrence, Kan., People's Yellow Pages is a bi-annual guide to student hang-outs and campus activities published by the Kansas University Information Center, a 24-hour referral service.

The People's Yellow Pages of Hawaii is "a general guide to just about everything," said Sam Cox of the American Friends Service Committee, which sponsored the book. "We list a free dental clinic here, but not dentists in business for themselves," Cox said.

LATELY FEMINIST guides using the Yellow Pages name have begun to appear in communities as divergent as Berkeley and Phoenix.

Katherine H. Ryan, co-editor of the Phoenix Women's Yellow pages, said that guide "is intended to help women who want to go into business, but have a hard time because many people won't go to them because they are women."

Most People's Yellow Pages are ad hoc efforts interested less in making money than serving the community. The Kansas City People's Yellow Pages describes itself as an "anti-profit" enterprise.

This is in contrast to the organized sales effort made by telephone companies for their classified directories. Last year Pacific Telephone did so well that its Yellow Pages earned an after-tax profit of $32.6 million.

MOVING DAY came to Greenwood Elementary School Tuesday. These elementary students move their desks and supplies from the old school to temporary buildings which will house some of the elementary classes while a new elementary school is being built. Other classes will move to the high school building. Helping with the move are, from left, Robert Coffee, Danny McAfee, Abby Ledford and Wesley Wallach. Demolition of the old school to make room for the new begins Monday.

Girls' athletics needs facilities

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Girls athletics — and the need for more gymnasium facilities as the girls' program grows — was the topic of lengthy discussion at the Midland school board meeting Tuesday.

Athletic director Sam Cox said there will be a shortage of gymnasium space at both high schools next year when the varsity girls basketball program begins.

Each high school presently has a spectator gym, formerly called the boys gym, and a tile-floor gym, formerly called the girls gym. The tile-floor gym is not suitable for practice, Cox said.

Under federal Title IX regulations, girls must be given equal access to practice facilities, he said. "We could use an extra gym at both schools," Cox said. If new gyms are not possible, resurfacing the tile-floor gyms with a tartan-like surface would be "the next best thing," he said. Schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey said resurfacing each gym floor would cost more than $20,000. Building a new gym would require a bond issue, Mailey said. In addition to boys and girls basketball teams, the girls volleyball team also requires gym space at the first of the year, Cox said. Physical education classes meet each day and also could use more space, he said. Cox said the Midland school system has always been "an initiator and a leader" in girls athletics. He pointed out that the school system was a leader in instituting girls volleyball, tennis, golf and swimming. A track program for girls was begun last spring.

Cox said the district's criteria for establishing programs is on the basis of need and interest.

"We need to add these programs but facilities provide a financial problem and the programs themselves provide a financial problem. We hate to add programs without the facilities," Cox said, because that would "in effect build up one program and tear down another."

Bob Paxton, a member of the Midland Parks and Recreation Committee who is active in the city's Miss Softball America program, urged the board to consider instituting a girls softball program in the public schools.

He said participation and parental interest in softball is higher than for any other sport for girls except swimming.

The Miss Softball America program does not reach all of the students who would be interested because of transportation, financial or summer scheduling difficulties, he said.

He noted the sport is sanctioned by the University Interscholastic League and is now a college sport. Some colleges will be giving softball scholarships, he said.

At the present time there is no softball competition in this UIL district.

"I think we need to study it very carefully as we go if it is determined that along is desirable," Mailey said.

The board members also heard a report from Lois Rogge, coordinator of Title I programs, on the progress made in the Title I and State Compensatory Education programs. Both programs are designed to provide remedial help in reading or math for students behind grade level in the elementary and junior high schools.

Whether or not a school is eligible for the programs is determined by the number of students from low income families attending the school.

The board also heard and accepted a report from the school district's independent auditors, Peat Marwick, Mitchell and Co.

The auditors made some recommendations on internal accounting procedures for the district, including the maintenance of a duplicate set of records in case the original set is destroyed.

Mailey said the school district will attempt to work with the city and college to establish such an arrangement. The three bodies share a joint tax office.

In an executive session, the trustees discussed a real estate matter. School board president Joe Dominey said the discussion centered on "long-range planning," including possible acquisition of new property and sale of property owned by the school district.

The trustees set Dec. 21 as the date for the board's only meeting in December.

The board awarded contracts on the following:

— Purchase of a nine-passenger 1977 station wagon, with sale price of two used station wagons applied to the cost of the new vehicle, for a total cost of $9,951.76.

— Purchase of two 1977 pickup trucks, ½-ton rating, for a total cost of $7,985 from Huckabay Chevrolet. Also bidding were Nickel Chrysler-Plymouth at $8,384 and Rogers Ford at $8,664.

— Purchase of a 1977 ¾-ton delivery van for $4,212 from Huckabay Chevrolet. Also bidding were Nickel Chrylsler-Plymouth for $4,571 and Rogers Ford for $4,597.

— Sale of a 1964 van to Nickel Chrysler-Plymouth for $475.

— Purchase of a radio antenna to be used in a two-way communication system to be installed in school district vehicles. (Mailey said a recommendation on the kind of radio aystem and the extent of its use will be made at a later date.) The contract went to General Electric Co. of Lubbock for $328. Also bidding was Permian Electronic for $359.

— An antenna tower from Permian Electronic for $301. Also bidding was General Electirc of Lubbock at $412.

— A guy wire, 3/16 inch, at $28.80 from Permian Electronic. General Electric of Lubbock alao bid, at $178.

— Sale of 10 used school buses. Eight were sold to Nickel Chrysler-Plymouth at $300 each. One was sold to West Wall Motors for $310 and the other to Clarence Brown of San Angelo for $400. The newest of the buses was a 1960 model.

The trustees also heard attendance reports from three football games. Ticket sales at the Lee High School-Permian High School game Oct. 29 totaled $16,729, with attendance of 8,672.

At the Lee Migh School-Abilene Migh School football game, attendance was 4,555 and total receipts $8,150.

A total of 6,773 tickets were sold for the Midland High game with total receipts of $10,818.

Citizens voice disease concern

By The Associated Press

Some state health officials today reported an increase in public concern over swine flu following the first confirmed case of the virus since the nationwide vaccine program began. But reaction was more likely to be a phone call than an inoculation.

Few of the health officials reported rushes at their swine flu clinics, and some that did said cold weather was probably the reason — it's too early to judge the effect of the Missouri case, they said.

All said they had plenty of flu vaccine on hand should further information about the Missouri case produce long lines at clinics.

Scale models now on exhibit

Models of the downtown exhibition center and of improvements at Midland Regional Air Terminal, as proposed in a Dec. 14 bond election, may be viewed by the public at the city's various financial institutions until the bond election date.

The exhibition center model is on display in the lobby of Commercial Bank and Trust, while the airport improvements model is being displayed in the lobby of Midland National Bank.

Both models will remain at those locations until Tuesday, when the exhibition center will be moved to the Midland National Bank lobby and the airport improvements model will be moved to the lobby of The First National Bank.

Anyone seeking additional information on either bond proposal may contact the Midland Chamber of Commerce at 683-3381.

Registration set for pre-school

Registration is open now for the third session of the pre-school classes sponsored by the Midland Parks and Recreation Department.

Classes will begin at 8:30 a.m. Monday and run through Dec. 23, with sessions resuming from Jan. 10 through 13.

Registration also will take place on the first day of classes, due to the Thanksgiving holidays. A fee of $10 will be charged for the first five weeks' session.

Classes will be from 8:30 to 10 a.m. and from 10:15 to 11 a.m. each day from Monday through Thursday.

Anyone seeking additional information may contact the parks office at 683-4281.

Greenwood trustees sell food locker

Greenwood school trustees sold a used food storage locker to Bob Evans for $400 Tuesday night.

The locker is in the old elementary school building which will be demolished to make room for a new one.

School superintendent Mel Williams said four of the five temporary buildings needed during construction have arrived and the other may arrive this afternoon.

The trustees also transferred $1,200 from the local maintenance fund to the lunchroom fund and $2,000 from the local maintenance fund to the activity fund.

Frost precedes fair weather

Many Permian Basin residents may have found their windshields caked with ice as Tuesday's overnight low dipped down to 32 degrees.

Temperatures are expected to rise up to the high 60s and possibly tip over to the 70s today, says the weatherman at the Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The low tonight is not expected to be quite as cool, with the overnight low expected to go down to only 40 degrees.

Motel, home hit during burglaries

Thieves took a television, blanket and pillows totaling $350 from the Westwind Motel, 3808 W. Wall Ave., sometime Tuesday, police said.

In another burglary occuring Tuesday afternoon, Carrie Ellen Cadd of 510 S. Calhoon St. reported the theft of $200 worth of goods between 1:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Taken were a television set, a sound cabinet, and speakers. Entry was gained through a back door.

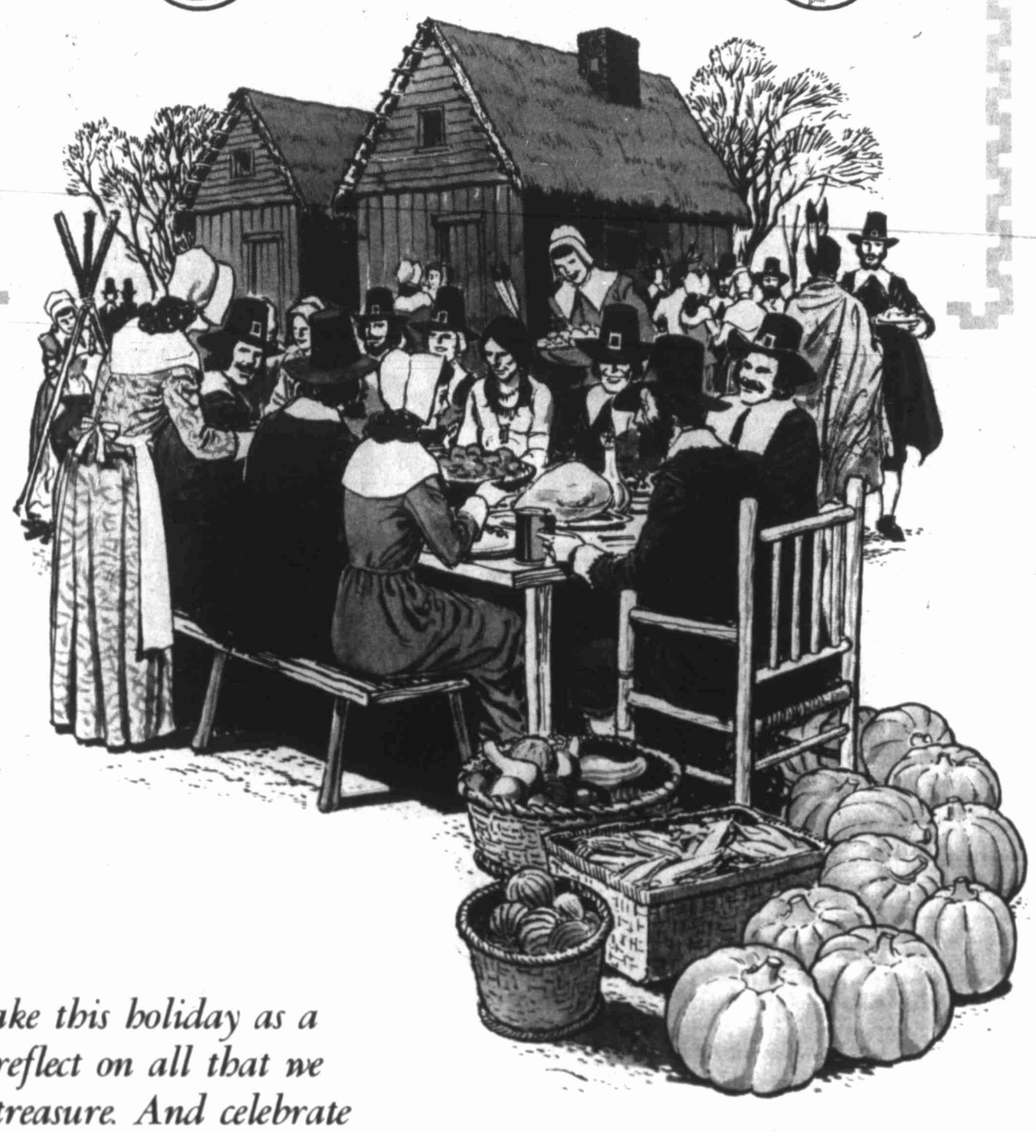
Thanksgiving

...A Time For Us To Count Our Blessings



We have much to be thankful for in this great land of ours. For we live in a nation of abundance and opportunity, health and prosperity. Where freedom is our birthright... and brotherhood our life spirit.

This spirit of brotherhood is one that our forefathers exemplified on the first Thanksgiving. And from it we have established a lasting sense of loyalty, compassion and respect for one another. For this, we are truly fortunate.

Let's take this holiday as a time to reflect on all that we have to treasure. And celebrate Thanksgiving in the true tradition of peace, unity and love.

The following firms invite you to join them in giving thanks for all we have in America...
