Clinton chooses handful for summit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Coveted invitations are going out to more than 200 Americans who made the hush-hush guest list for Bill Clinton's economic conference. Those who made the cut are only too happy to spill the beans.

The roster has more than doubled from the 100 participants first expected for the president-elect's gathering next week in Little Rock, Ark. Still, it has been pared back sharply from the thousands of would-be participants under consideration.

"Dear (so-and-so)," the invitations begin. "This conference is part of an ongoing process of soliciting information and ideas from a cross-section of America's leaders from the public and private sectors. As a participant, your expertise is needed."

The roster for the Monday-Tuesday gathering - trumpeted on letterhead as "The Economic Conference of the President-Elect and the Vice President-Elect" - was so closely held that transition aides were forbidden to leave their offices with it in hand. But word spread quickly once the invitations went out by fax this week.

Elena Hanggi, a past president of the ACORN community activist group in Little Rock, said she was thrilled that a "sort of average person" such as herself was being included along with corporate bigwigs.

Her message for Clinton: "Rebuilding has to start in the inner cities where there are so many problems."

Lenore Miller, president of the 140,000-member Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union in New York City, said she hoped to have a chance to tell the president-elect, "Don't compromise. Workers are hurting very badly."

Aides have said Clinton hopes to use the conference to help put "meat on the bones" of the economic proposals he laid out during his presidential campaign.

Clinton is inviting participants to submit written thoughts on "the best ways to deal with both the short-term and structural economic issues facing our nation."

One non-participant, economist and vice president Bob Dieli of Northern Trust Co. in Chicago, said the invitation list for the conference might be the biggest news to emerge from the event.

"I don't think we'll necessarily get the blueprint of Clinton's final economic plan," he said. "But this may be something that tells us something about who is indeed carrying clout these days. Who sits where and who speaks first will be important."

After a Sunday night reception, the conference begins Monday morning with an opening session on the state of the economy, followed by seven "working sessions" on different aspects of economic growth - all of them televised live. The moderators: Clinton and Vice President-elect Al Gore.

CLINTON

President-elect wants pledge from nominees

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - President-elect Clinton is approaching his first Cabinet appointments with pledges from Congress to swiftly confirm nominees and act equally fast on an agenda Clinton promises will include serious deficit reduction.

Clinton returned to Little Rock early today after a courting Democrats on Capitol Hill on Tuesday, and was said by aides to be nearing a handful or more major appointments.

First, Clinton's transition office planned to release today details of the ethics guidelines that will apply to major Clinton appointees. The highlights: a five-year ban on lobbying agencies related to their government work and a lifetime prohibition against working as lobbyists for foreign governments.

The initial appointments are set for Thursday, with transition and Democratic sources saying Clinton plans to name Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as treasury secretary and New York investment banker Roger Altman as deputy secretary.

Aides painted those choices as signals to Congress and Wall Street that Clinton is serious about economic reforms and deficit reduction, themes Clinton sounded Tuesday after a day of private meetings with the congressional committee chairmen who will consider Clinton's programs.

"There must be a very strong multiyear deficit reduction plan submitted at the same time I submit this coming year's budget," Clinton said. "That's what I am going to do."

In addition to the treasury tandem, Clinton is also ready to name other senior economic advisers as well as several additional Cabinet members, advisers said. After the major economic posts, it was not clear how the announcements would unfold.

Clinton plans to resign as Arkansas governor Saturday so Lt. Gov. Jim Guy Tucker can be sworn in and preside over a special state legislative session.

With Bentsen as treasury secretary and California Rep. Leon Panetta said to be Clinton's choice to head the Office of Management and Budget, the president-elect is turning to two respected Capitol Hill veterans to push his economic plan.

Bentsen is a middle-of-the-road-to-conservative Democrat, well liked on Capitol Hill and Wall Street and with proven legislative skills. Bentsen is interested in tax policy, particularly as it affects corporate America, and he has pushed for better health care for children. And like Clinton, he favors a middle-class tax cut.

Picking Panetta would give Clinton a well respected budget expert on Capitol Hill who has made deficit reduction a priority. Panetta has urged Clinton to go even further than his campaign pledge to halve federal red ink within four years.

Congress is scheduled to convene after Clinton's Jan. 20 inauguration, but Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell said committee hearings on Clinton nominees would be held before then, "so that we can proceed promptly to confirm nominations where possible."

Marines land on beach, gangs clear the streets

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) - A U.S. Marine landing force, on a mission of mercy to a starving land, quickly took control today of key points in Mogadishu, where the streets were suddenly free of the terror of mobile gangs.

Just hours after the Marines hit the beaches, giant Air Force transports and a food-relief flight were touching down at the crippled city's airport.

The Marines and Navy commandos, sweeping in before dawn by sea and air, met no reported resistance.

Instead, thousands of Somalis, some in rags, flocked to the shoreline to gaze in awe at a superpower's might - and to shake its helping hand.

The youthful gunmen who long terrorized Mogadishu apparently had melted away into the city's ruins or into the countryside.

But word of new unrest came from the southern Somali port of Kismayo, where a night of looting and shooting forced the U.N. World Food Program to evacuate 13 foreign aid workers by air.

In Mogadishu, the Marines swiftly secured the airport and seaport, gateways for the planned effort to re-establish a food pipeline to the hundreds of thousands threatened by famine in this war-torn nation.

Under U.N. sponsorship, the Americans will guard aid deliveries that have been hostage to thousands of armed extortionists, some loyal to rebel factions, some simply free-lance thieves.

The Marines, an 1,800-man vanguard of more than 30,000 U.S. and other troops arriving in the coming days, also moved out from the airport and set up three checkpoints on the road into the city.

Ordinary Somalis greeted the friendly invaders, crowding rooftops and hillsides to watch the helicopters, hovercraft and other military behemoths crisscross their beaches and roadways. Some rushed up to the young Americans and shook their hands.

Abdul Mohamed Arale had waited for the Marines for three days at the airport, in pinstripe suit and polka-dot tie.

"I just want to meet the Americans and welcome them," the former Somali Airlines employee said. "I would like to show my respect."

France said the first 150 of 2,000 French troops committed to the operation flew to Somalia today from the neighboring African nation of Djibouti. Smaller contingents have been promised by Turkey, Egypt, Mauritania, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Canada and Italy.

In Washington, President Bush was briefed by Gen. Colin Powell, joint chiefs chairman, soon after the commandos landed in Mogadishu. A White House statement said the president was "pleased by the success of the initial landing phase."

Bush has suggested that Jan. 20 - when President-elect Clinton takes office - would be a good deadline for a major withdrawal of U.S. forces. But Clinton says he recognizes that no "artificial deadline" can be set.

Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney said today that the American troops could not possibly finish their job by Jan. 20.

"I think that's completely unrealistic, but the notion that we could begin the drawdown of U.S. forces by Inauguration Day I think is not out of the realm of possibility," he told The Associated Press.

Looting of food shipments and interference by rebel leaders had paralyzed the relief effort. Meanwhile, some 300,000 Somalis died of starvation, disease and warfare, by U.N. estimate.

The opening moves of Operation Restore Hope appeared to go off like clockwork. More pictures were taken than prisoners.

(See SOMALIA, Page 12)

Cheney: operation's smooth

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney said today the landing of American troops in Somalia was going "very well, very smoothly," and suggested that the withdrawal could begin by Inauguration Day.

"We're very pleased with the results" of the first hours of Operation Restore Hope, during which U.S. Marines quickly and without resistance secured the airport and seaport of the Somali capital of Mogadishu, Cheney said in interviews with television networks and The Associated Press.

"All the reports we've been getting are that everything has gone very well, very smoothly," Cheney said this morning. "There haven't been any problems."

At the White House, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said President Bush called Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, this morning for a briefing.

According to Fitzwater, Powell told the president that everything was "on track, on schedule and going as planned."

Cheney said there was no chance of having all U.S. forces out of Somalia by the time President Bush leaves office Jan. 20. But he said the initial landings in the starving East African nation were a success.

"Based on the experience we've seen so far, I don't think it's unrealistic for us to expect once we get our people into the country, begin to get the U.N. peacekeepers going in ... that by the end of January we can have begun turning over authority to the peacekeepers."

Cheney added: "We will not be completely out by any means. I think that's completely unrealistic, but the notion that we could begin the drawdown of U.S. forces by Inauguration Day I think is not out of the realm of possibility."

CSF helps with needs of families in Hereford

The concerns of needy families struggling with health problems become especially poignant during the holidays because they can so limit the joy of the season when they go unmet.

A number of local families are asking for help with medical bills from Hereford's holiday charity Christmas Stocking Fund this Yule season.

One case in point involves a husband and wife who have both been unable to work - he because of sickness and she because of injuries sustained in an accident.

Because their medical bills are pressing and their income quite limited, these parents have no funds available to provide anything to brighten their children's Christmas.

These parents are asking the CSF for help in the form of clothing for their children, ages 3, 7 and 9.

Contributions to the stocking fund help this local charity to extend the hand of holiday cheer to Deaf Smith County's less fortunate by allowing those who enjoy an abundance of material things to share with those in need.

CSF is administered by a committee of anonymous volunteers who represent a broad cross-section of the community. These volunteers review and screen the applicants who seek assistance. CSF oversees the expenditure of donated funds, directing it toward such forms of assistance as food, clothing vouchers, and help with utility and medical expenses.

You can help CSF by taking a contribution to The Hereford Brand offices at 313 Lee, or by mailing it to CSF, in care of Box 673, Hereford. The newspaper publishes a list of contributors, and anonymous gifts, and a running total of the fund. Contributions will be accepted through the New Year holiday.

Names okay on petitions for election

More than enough names have been verified on petitions calling for a wet-dry election, and County Clerk David Ruland expects to present the certified list to Deaf Smith County Commissioners next Monday.

Ruland said his office had verified 1,456 names by Monday. More were added Monday and Tuesday. A total of 1,441 names are required from the voter list.

After commissioners receive the certified petitions, they must call an election in "not less than 20 nor more than 30 days." Ruland said he would recommend the 30-day period in order to give plenty of time for election preparations. Early voting could start before Christmas and the election could follow about Jan. 12.

Ruland said his office will continue to verify names on the petitions, but he feels the required number of names - even if duplications are found - will be more than enough to call for an election.

WASHINGTON - Poverty and the ills it produces are keeping many black women from marriage, researchers say. The government says one black woman in four reaches the age of 40 without ever having married.

Letters needed by Brand

The Hereford Brand is now accepting letters to Santa for inclusion in the Christmas Greeting edition on Dec. 20.

Letters should be brought to the Brand no later than 5 p.m. Friday for the special edition of the Sunday Brand. Teachers are also encouraged to have their students write letters to Santa, or essays about the Christmas season. The letters and essays may be placed in the special box in the Brand office entrance at 313 N. Lee, or may be sent to the Brand at PO Box 673. Letters will, of course, be forwarded to Santa.

The Hereford Brand is also asking for readers to submit essays of 200 words or less on "My Favorite Holiday Memory." The Brand will print as many essays as possible in the Christmas Greeting edition on Dec. 20 and others during the week before Christmas. The deadline for the essays is Friday, and will be printed on a first-come, first-served, space-available basis. Essays should be legibly printed or typed, and may be mailed to the Brand at PO Box 673 or dropped by the office at 313 N. Lee.

Crimestoppers offers reward

Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers is offering a reward of up to $500 for information leading to an arrest and indictment in the Crime of the Week.

Hereford police are investigating a burglary which occurred on Oct. 10-11. Over $2,000 worth of items were taken, including a wooden entertainment center, CD player, 25-inch television, VCR and electric typewriter.

If you have information about this or any other crime, call the Clue Line at 364-2583. If your information leads to an arrest and indictment in the case, you will receive a reward of up to $500.

Four arrested Tuesday

Four persons were arrested Tuesday, including a man, 21, on a Randall County warrants; a man, 68, for shoplifting in the 400 block of E. Seventh; a woman, 40, on a Moore County warrant for issuance of a bad check; and a woman, 40, for theft by check.

Reports in the city on Tuesday included criminal trespass in the 500 block of N. Main; theft of a coat reported by a woman in the 200 block of Catalpa; theft of $400-$500 from a house in the 200 block of Ave. I; domestic disturbance in the 100 block of Ave. I; and pigs in front of a house in the 400 block of Long. The owner of the pigs was found and the pigs were penned.

Police issued three tickets Tuesday and investigated a minor wreck.

Schoolchildren ill from untreated milk

CHICAGO (AP) - Hundreds of schoolchildren across the country have fallen ill with diarrhea after drinking raw, unpasteurized milk during field trips to dairy farms, a study has found.

People aren't aware of the dangers of drinking unpasteurized milk despite increasing public education efforts, study co-author Michael T. Osterholm, a Minnesota epidemiologist, said Tuesday from Minneapolis.

Milk that has not been pasteurized - heated to kill bacteria - may carry several kinds of germs that can make people sick.

The study by researchers from the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Minnesota Department of Health was prompted by a 1981 outbreak of campylobacter among children who visited a Minnesota dairy farm.

From 1981 through 1990, researchers found that 458 children got sick in 20 outbreaks traced to campylobacter in raw milk in 11 states.

Fifteen outbreaks, or 75 percent, occurred after school field trips to dairy farms at which children consumed raw milk, researchers said.

Children typically got sick three days after drinking the milk and stayed sick for about four days. Their illnesses included diarrhea, abdominal cramps, fever, headache and vomiting.

Far more cases probably occurred than were found because many never are reported, researchers said.

Most states ban sales of raw milk, and five years ago the Food and Drug Administration prohibited interstate shipments of raw milk packaged for consumer use.

California had the highest number of outbreaks, with four, followed by Idaho, with three. Two top dairy states, Wisconsin and New York, reported none.

Governor returns contribution to bidder

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards has returned a Houston man's $35,000 campaign contribution because of "allegations surrounding it," a spokesman says.

The donor, George Speer, subsequently served as the middle man on a $91,000 contract that the governor's office approved to a New York firm without competitive bids and outside regular procedures, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

The newspaper said Richard Moya, a key aide to the governor, steered state business to Speer.

State housing officials, who are appointed by Richards, said they found no illegality.

"We found nothing requiring any further action," Paul Rodriguez, chairman of the Texas Housing and Community Affairs Board, told the Austin American-Statesman.

But the governor's press secretary, Bill Cryer, says that because of the controversy, Richards returned the $35,000, plus interest.

News digest

TORONTO - Two Mounties patrolling the frozen St. Lawrence River spotted a snowmobile dragging a sled across the ice and sped their own machine toward it. The suspect cut his tow rope and raced away. He left behind 25 cases of cigarettes, another drop in the overflowing bucket of contraband tobacco pouring into Canada from the United States.

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon was tickled pink at the prospect of worldwide news coverage of its mercy mission to Somalia, but military officers' glee evaporated in a flash when TV lights clicked on to record the first troops hitting the beach.

Elks Lodge helps CSF project

Hereford Elks Lodge gave a big boost to the Christmas Stocking Fund this past week. Pruda Fults, representing the Lady Elks, presented a check for $200, and Bruce Johnson, Hereford Elks member, gave a check for $250. Speedy Nieman accepted the donations on behalf of CSF. The Hereford Brand serves as a clearing house for contributions to the holiday charity, which is administered by an anonymous volunteer committee.

B-1 reported problems before crash

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - The crew of a B-1B bomber had reported the plane was experiencing problems with the autopilot system minutes before it crashed into a mountain cliff in West Texas, a leading aviation magazine has reported.

The Abilene Reporter-News reported Tuesday that Aviation News and World Report based a story in its Monday edition on information from a man identified only as "Steven A. Douglass, a Texas-based radio hobbyist who monitors military aircraft transmissions."

The magazine said radio calls from PYOTE 69, the call sign of the bomber that crashed, said there was no indication that the problem was serious enough to abort the planned mission.

Dyess officials have said the crew was conducting routine, low-level navigational training when the plane crashed in to Sierra Vieja mountains south of Valentine, Texas, about 11 p.m. on Nov. 30. The plane carried no live munitions, the Air Force said.

Douglass, who could not be located by the newspaper on Tuesday, recorded the last few exchanges between PYOTE 69 and the Dyess AFB command post, according to the magazine.

At one point, a PYOTE 69 crew member said, "Got uh ... auto pilot ... porpoises, and the ... navigator's true airspeed indicator is inop," the article said.

About 10 minutes later, the PYOTE 69 crewmember requested, "We'd ... like to have electricians meet us at the parking spot if they could," the article said.

That was the final transmission Douglass heard from the aircraft, the magazine reported.

"Electricians" is Air Force slang for electrical maintenance personnel, according to a former B-1B aircraft commander who asked not to be identified. "Inop" is short for "inoperative," he said.

"Parking spot" referred to Dyess.

Asked the meaning of "porpoises," the source said, "In that context, it means that when the autopilot is engaged, the aircraft does not hold a steady altitude, but moves up and down like a porpoise swimming through the water."

The source said the obvious corrective measure would be to disengage the autopilot and fly the plane manually. But if visibility did not permit, as it probably would not in a low-level mission at night, the prudent action would be to fly by instrument flight rules, carefully staying on the prescribed course. These rules would dictate the safe altitude for clearing any obstacle on the course, the source said.

The source cautioned against leaping to the conclusion a faulty autopilot caused the crash, based on one radio transmission that may or may not be accurate.

"Anything is possible," he said.

The Air Force told next of kin that the four crewmen were killed instantly in the crash, probably before they even recognized the danger or attempted to eject from the plane.

Killed in the crash were Maj. Zenon C. Goc, 34; 1st Lt. Paul S. Ziemba, 24; Capt. Scot D. Genal, 32; and 1st Lt. Timothy A. Cookson, 24.

Now, she said, she feels hurt by the way she was treated. "My private life was taken away from me," Ms. Grandjean said.

There were duties other than the TV broadcasts involved in being the lotto hostess, such as attending lottery functions, she said. "I was going to be more like a spokesperson," she said.

Now, she said, she feels hurt by the way she was treated. "My private life was taken away from me," Ms. Grandjean said.

Witherspoon hosts club Christmas party

Depicting the holiday season, Elizabeth Witherspoon's home was gaily decorated for the Bay View Study Club's Christmas party and program held recently.

The residence was decorated in mauve and gold appointments including a lighted Christmas tree placed in the center of the study.

Margie Mims read the Christmas Story from Luke 2:1-19 and Dee Anne Trotter presented a program of musical selections including a modern rendition of "Go Tell It On the Mountain" and "Jingle Bells" arranged by Charles Lindberg that was both rhythmic and exciting.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with an antique Battenburg Irish lace cloth and centered with two pink crystal Torshibee lamps.

Refreshments included tea sandwiches, chicken and spinach pate, almond shortbread cookies, shrimp canapes, cucumber and watercress open-faced sandwiches, fruited custard tarts, pistachio cream cheese squares, chocolate pin-wheels, coffee and tea.

Shriners brighten Christmas

The sights and sounds of Christmas come to life in a dramatic way in Paulding, Georgia in November and December when more than a million visitors view what might be described as "The Christmas Scene of All Christmas Scenes," a unique display of lights and Christmas themes - and make a donation to a worthy cause at the same time.

It all takes place at the home of Charles Hardy where a group of his friends, all members of the Paulding County Shrine Club, take up donations during each of 4 nights. The entire amount is contributed to the Annual Shriners hospitals Crusade to help support 19 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children and three Shriners Burns Institutes throughout North America.

Those who come to view the Christmas Wonderland enjoy a marvelous display of lights - and get the chance to light up the lives of some very special children.

Hints for heart healthy Christmas holiday eating

Holidays - a time for celebrating and feasting with family and friends. Yet heart healthy eating needn't be an impossible task. With a few smart substitutions, you can cut fat, not favorites, for satisfying holiday dining.

To reduce your risk of heart disease, the American Heart Association recommends that fat represent 30 percent or less of your daily intake of calories. Saturated fats which can raise blood cholesterol levels, should be limited to about one third of your total fat intake - or less than ten percent of total calories.

When it comes to healthy eating, balance, variety and moderation are key words to live by. Just follow these tips and you won't need to say goodbye to the foods you love.

1. Eat a variety of fiber-rich foods everyday. When the hors d'oeuvre tray comes out, fill up on fresh vegetables. The USDA's Dietary Guidelines suggest that active women, teens and most men should eat three to five servings of vegetables per day.

2. With all of the tempting holiday snacks around, be on the lookout for "hidden" fat. Although you may not see it, fat is often added to crackers, cookies, and breads. Instead, consider low fat alternatives like popcorn, pretzels or rice cakes. Also watch out for salad dressing, which is the leading source of fat for women according to the American Dietetic Association.

3. For a delicious but healthy holiday dinner, choose lean cuts of meat. As a rule, cuts labeled "loin" or "round" are lowest in fat. Three-ounce cooked, trimmed servings of these cuts provide less than 200 calories, 8.5 grams total fat and 80 milligrams of cholesterol. health authorities recommend that healthy adults eat about six ounces of meat or other protein sources a day.

4. When creating that special meal, use low fat cooking and preparation methods like broiling, grilling and roasting (on a rack) or microwaving. Remove the skin from poultry. Trim all visible fat from meat before you cook it, and again before you eat. Don't fry or add fat when cooking and limit sodium. Skip heavy gravies and sauces.

5. During the holidays, a meal isn't complete without dessert. To satisfy your families sweet tooth serve low fat frozen desserts such as sherbet, sorbet, low fat or non-fat yogurt. Other dessert options include angel food cake with fresh fruit, gingersnaps or vanilla wafers.

6. Take this additional heart-wise advice: Concentrate on complex carbohydrates; they should make up 50-60% of your total calories. If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation - less than one ounce of pure alcohol in a single day. Get at least 30 minutes of exercise every other day and don't smoke.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held for Pam Harguess Saturday, Dec. 5, in the home of Betty Wilcox. The honoree and Mark Lytal plan to wed Jan. 23, 1993. Welcoming guests with Miss Harguess were the prospective bridegroom's mother, Martha Lytal, and the honoree's mother, Carol Harguess.

Pam Harguess feted with bridal shower

Pam Harguess, Jan. 23, 1993, bride-elect of Mark Lytal, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday, Dec. 5, in the home of Betty Wilcox, 105 Mimosa.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Carol Harguess, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Martha Lytal.

Jo Jo Lytal and Joni Hicks served an assortment of breads, sausage balls, cheese blintz, fresh fruit and dip, coffee and almond tea.

The refreshment table was covered with a red cloth and white lace overlay and was appointed with silver. The centerpiece was a Father Christmas tree top ornament dressed in white and gold and surrounded by greenery. The bride-elect was given the ornament as a gift.

Fabere cookware was presented to Miss Harguess by the hostesses: Sheri Kerr, Shirley Wilson, Linda Daniel, Cindy Sublett, Leota Kelso, Joyce Ward, Teresa Allen, Carolyn Fry, Linda Minchew, Jo Lee, Patty Atchley, Linda Hicks, Betty Wilcox, Bobbie Wilson and Sue Hollingsworth.

The game of badminton was originally called poona, but when it was brought from India to Britain in 1873, it was first played at a place called Badminton and took its name from that.

Arkansas school split teams for cash

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP) - A funny thing about the Arkansas Baptist basketball team playing two opponents in different states at the same time: The coach doesn't think it's so funny.

"We don't want to contribute to somebody's amusement. We're just trying to survive," said coach Arcell Marks, whose team - at least one of them - lost 95-68 Tuesday night here against Southwest Baptist University.

The tiny school from Little Rock was thrown into the national spotlight when it began losing games too quickly - two at a time.

On Saturday night, Arkansas Baptist lost to Prairie View A&M, which snapped the Texas school's 30-game losing streak, while also losing to Oklahoma City University, extending that school's winning streak to 63 games.

Further checking on Tuesday showed that Arkansas Baptist played two games on Nov. 20 - against Hendrix College in Conway, Ark., and against Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, Okla.

To hear Marks talk about it, his team is getting a bum rap.

"When you have one of these small programs, you have to do what you have to do to survive," Marks said. "We have to come to places like these where you know you don't have a chance to win to pick up a check to keep the program alive."

"It's a little, small Baptist college that doesn't really have enough money to have a basketball program. It's not a Duke or a UCLA."

Marks initially claimed he had no idea how his team managed to be at two places at once. In a post-game interview, however, he explained that he split his team on Nov. 20 because of a conflict in the schedule.

Marks said he took seven players to Oklahoma Baptist while assistant coach Stanza Montgomery took eight players to Hendrix College. Asked why three names appeared in both boxes that night, Marks said the numbers may have gotten mixed up because one squad wore road jerseys while the other wore the home colors.

Marks has fewer answers for Saturday night, when he coached in Prairie View while a man identifying himself as Bobby Carey coached a team billed as Arkansas Baptist at Oklahoma City. Four identical names appeared in the game boxes.

Carey is the school's former athletic director, who Marks said had been aware of the scheduling conflicts and "may have put a team together to play for us."

"I haven't talked to Coach Carey as of yet," Marks said. "I can't even say if that was him who was over there because I don't know. I'll wait until I speak with him."

Arkansas Baptist's current athletic director, George Biggs, on Tuesday said he was mystified by the simultaneous games. School president W.T. Keaton summoned Biggs, Marks, Carey and others to a meeting at 3 p.m. today to discuss the problem.

Money is another issue Keaton likely will raise - Arkansas Baptist was paid $1,200 for the game at Oklahoma City University and $1,250 for the game last month at Oklahoma Baptist. Arkansas Baptist has received no money from either of those games, Keaton said Tuesday.

Marks said he spent the $1,250 he received from Oklahoma Baptist on road expenses.

"We paid for hotel room, food, travel and rental of a van," he said. At one point between Oklahoma and Missouri-Rolla, "the van broke down and I had to pay to fix it."

Marks conceded the money should have gone to the school, "but we used it for expenses."

He said he couldn't speak about a $1,200 check reportedly given to Carey by OCU because he wasn't there. "I hope and pray that there are no sanctions that come down because of this because this is out of our control," Marks said. "I know we had an unusual situation and I'm sorry about that. We'll try not to have that again."

Arkansas Baptist College is affiliated with the National Small Colleges Athletic Association. Commissioner Gary Dallmann said Tuesday night that there is no rule against splitting squads. But Dallmann said he wanted to learn how the same players could be listed in boxes of different games on the same night.

"Something doesn't add up here," Dallmann said. "I would suppose if a violation occurred, it would be having these players illegally representing the institution."

He said the association has 30 members for schools with 1,000 students or less.

Jordan blames loss on refs

By The Associated Press

Michael Jordan smelled something, and it wasn't the scent of perfection coming from Dominique Wilkins' free throw shooting.

"Three terrible referees," Jordan said Tuesday night after the Atlanta Hawks hit 39 of 40 from the foul line, including an NBA-record 23 straight by Wilkins in a 123-114 victory. The Hawks are 2-0 against Chicago this year after dropping the previous eight to the Bulls. "You couldn't determine who the lead official was because they all stunk."

Chicago was 12 for 19 from the free throw line, a far cry from Atlanta's big numbers, which made the difference because the Bulls had eight more field goals.

"The amazing thing was we weren't even trying to foul until the last two minutes," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "They match up real well against us. They're very aggressive when they come out and play us."

Especially Wilkins.

"Until I came into the locker room, I didn't really know that I shot that many free throws, but I'll take it," Wilkins said.

He'll also take the 42 points. He had 44 points in his last game.

"For all the doubters who didn't think I'd be back, I'm back," said Wilkins, who missed much of last season when he ruptured his right Achilles' tendon. "Oh, yes, I'm back."

Indiana's Detlef Schrempf also surpassed the previous record of 19 for 19, making 20 in a row before missing in the Pacers' 125-115 victory over Golden State.

In other games, it was Phoenix 105, New Jersey 100; Miami 126, Dallas 112; Portland 126, Milwaukee

97; Washington 114, Sacramento 106; Boston 117, Orlando 102; New York 100, Seattle 88; the Los Angeles Clippers 115, Cleveland 106; Houston 102, Minnesota 94; and San Antonio 121, Utah 103.

Rockets 102, Timberwolves 94

At Houston, Hakeem Olajuwon's 34 points and 13 rebounds sparked the Rockets. Otis Thorpe scored 21 points, Robert Horry 14 and Vernon Maxwell 13 for Houston.

Spurs 121, Jazz 103

Sean Elliott scored a season-high 32 points and the Spurs set a franchise record by hitting 10 3-pointers. The hosts were 10 of 19 from 3-point range, breaking the club record of nine set in 1970 against Indiana.

Heat 126, Mavericks 112

Visiting Miami broke a five-game slide, sinking Dallas to 1-13 with its 10th loss in a row. That matched the worst start in franchise history.

E. Kentucky scares Kentucky

By DICK BRINSTER

AP Sports Writer

He stood there speaking in volumes of pride.

"Of all the years I've coached in pro and college, this is the most proud I've been of a basketball team," he said. "Those kids really hung in tough. They deserved the victory tonight."

The speaker was coach Rick Pitino of Kentucky (3-0). But he wasn't heaping praise on his third-ranked Wildcats.

The object of his pride was Eastern Kentucky, which had just scored mighty UK before a late surge doused the dream.

It took a pair of 3-pointers by Jeff Brassow in the final 1:08 and a career-high 38 points and 19 rebounds from Jamal Mashburn to do it.

The stunned crowd at Rupp Arena went home a winner after all: Kentucky 82, Eastern Kentucky 73.

The outcome could have shocked many. Chris Brown, who led Eastern Kentucky (2-1) with 18 points, was not among them.

"All week, people have been asking me how much are you gonna lose by?" Brown said. "But, we came in here to win the game. We thought we could."

Elsewhere, it was No. 4 Indiana 75, Notre Dame 70; No. 8 Iowa 64, Northern Iowa 44; No. 11 Oklahoma 112, Idaho State 59; No. 14 Arizona 89, New Mexico 70, and No. 23 Massachusetts 70, Siena 58.

Cowboys can clinch division with win at RFK

IRVING (AP) - Jerry Jones hasn't owned the Dallas Cowboys for very long but he already knows what it means to beat the Washington Redskins in RFK Stadium. He says it's a barometer of how far a team has come.

"When we beat Washington last year in their home stadium to break a long winning streak, we knew we had arrived in the NFL," Jones said.

The Cowboys can clinch their first

NFC East division title in seven years on Sunday at RFK.

"The division title, everything takes a back seat when we play the Redskins," said Jones. "Just winning the game means everything. I can't think of a better feeling than walking out of that stadium a winner."

Dallas has played more games (65) against Washington than any other team in the club's 33-year history. The Cowboys are 16-17 in RFK Stadium and have won three of their last four games there, including a 24-21 win last year to smash the 'Skins 11-game winning streak.

Coach Jimmy Johnson's first and only victory in his rookie 1989 season was at RFK.

"There is just something about walking into the stadium that gets you pumped," said safety Bill Bates, currently on the injured reserve. "It's all there for you if you're a football player. There's grass, sometimes mud, a hostile crowd. It's the greatest atmosphere. It's going to kill me that I can't play."

Dallas is 36-27-2 against the Redskins and defeated the defending world champions 23-10 in the season opener in Texas Stadium.

The oddsmakers have made the Redskins a field goal favorite. Jones scoffed at them.

"I'd have to disagree we're the underdogs," Jones said. "We have a good track record in the stadium. We'll be good and loose going into that game. We beat 'em there last year and I can't think of a win that ever meant more to me. We beat a team that was perceived invincible. It showed we had finally arrived."

Washington coach Joe Gibbs, speaking by telephone, said he was amazed at how fast the Cowboys have come in such a short period of time.

"I admire what's been done because we did it and it was tough," Gibbs said. "I also admire how fast it was done. The Cowboys deserve credit. It was done in a very quick order as fast as I'm concerned."

attention to the 'Skins."

Johnson added "anytime you beat the 'Skins it's a remarkable accomplishment."

Johnson said the Cowboys have an eye on a bye in the playoffs.

"It would really help if we could get it," Johnson said. "Of course, the homefield advantage would be a big plus."

Wide receiver Michael Irvin said, "Can you think of a sweeter way to clinch the division? I can't."

Pardee: Oilers' parts working well

HOUSTON (AP) - Jack Pardee is satisfied his Houston Oilers cast of characters are starting to play their parts convincingly.

"We have a larger cast of players making plays," Pardee said Tuesday after reviewing Monday night's 24-7 victory over Chicago. "Curtis Duncan made some key catches (eight for 64 yards) and Cody (Carlson) really threw the ball well and Lorenzo (White) was running well."

Carlson completed 18 of 27 passes for 178 yards including a 6-yard touchdown to Webster Slaughter, set up by Ray Childress' recovery of Brad Muster's fumble.

Bubba McDowell had the key play of the game with a 26-yard interception return for a touchdown with 44 seconds left in the half that gave the Oilers a 10-0 lead.

"Everybody on defense was making plays," Pardee said. "When you have that big of a cast making plays, you've got a better chance to win."

"There's a bunch of us right there (at 8-5) but the key is we're starting to play better," Pardee said. "That gives us hope for the future. This will help only if we go and get after the Packers now."

It would be in true character for the Oilers to make an impressive run at the end of the season after they've blown their chances of defending their AFC Central Division title.

HERD

The Lady Whitefaces' record drops to 0-9, but Triana said they're improving.

"Defensively, we're coming along, though tonight wasn't a good indication of how we're doing defensively," he said. "Offensively, my philosophy is in and we're going to go with it. It's an offense the girls are comfortable with, and it's just a matter of time and repetition."

The girls host Lubbock High at 6:30 p.m. Friday in Whiteface Gymnasium. Only the varsity will play.

Both junior varsity teams played in Hereford Tuesday. The boys won 56-47, getting 14 points each from Jay Kendall and Jason Colston and 10 from Stacey Sanders.

The girls' JV lost 66-23. Beth Weatherly scored 12 points for Hereford.

"I was just a lull in our defense," Hereford coach Loy Triana said. "Our intensity dropped."

Hereford led 15-14 after the first quarter and stretched that to 21-16 early in the second, but Frenship came back slowly and took the lead on shot at the buzzer.

Stephanie Wilcox led Hereford with 12 points. Frenship's Summer Lewis, a big post player, led all scorers with 22.

In fact, Pardee thinks the Oilers are starting to play better as a team.

"This is the first time in quite a while that we really started to look like a team," Pardee said. "It wasn't feast or famine."

"The offense was moving the ball consistently and ended up with touchdowns at the end of the drives. The defense did a good job of getting some turnovers."

Carlson started his third straight game for the injured Warren Moon and the defense, improving in recent weeks, rattled Bears quarterbacks for five sacks and kept constant pressure on Peter Tom Willis.

The Oilers (8-5) will play Green Bay, their fourth NFC Central Division foe in five weeks, Sunday night in the Astrodome.

Their fans weren't ready to totally embrace the Oilers, even during Monday night's game.

Even with a 17-0 lead, they booed Pardee's decision to go for a field goal instead of a touchdown on fourth-and-1 at the Chicago 30-yard line. The play almost backfired when holder Greg Montgomery bobbled the snap for a 15-yard loss and Chicago drove to its only touchdown.

But Haywood Jeffries got them cheering again with a 45-yard catch that set up White's 1-yard touchdown to put the game away.

"They were within 17-7 and that was the most important play of the night in helping us get another touchdown," Carlson said.

Pressure hits golfers at PGA qualifying tourney

By JEFF RUDE

The Dallas Morning News
THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — These professional golfers have difficulty sleeping. They stare at breakfast rather than eat it. They fight with their wives. All of them choke. And sometimes they vomit, even on the first tee, in public.

Golf can be relaxing and fun, no? Perhaps, but not in the pressurized chamber known as the 108-hole PGA Tour Qualifying Tournament finals. Insiders call it the Q-School. It's not a school, though; it's a rack. Men are laid out and stretched to their limits. "It's the most grueling week, the most pressure pro golfers ever have to go through," said tour veteran Billy Ray Brown, the 1992 GTE Byron Nelson Classic champion.

Various pros refer to it as Hell Week. Mel Brooks might say it's fraught with High Anxiety. Stakes are so high that some players call it golf's fifth major championship. Others know it as the fall classic, and not because of autumn.

By any name, the event should be sponsored by, if not Gillette, then Hallmark Cards. Survive, you get a tour card. Fail, you receive sympathy or get-well cards or one headlined, In Memoriam.

"You feel like you're going to throw up every day," said Brandel Chamblee, including last week.

Every fall, several hundred starry-eyed pros attempt to grab the lucrative carrot that is the PGA Tour, whose purses now exceed $50 million. This year, a record 960 applicants tried. Some 186 made it past two qualifying stages to last week's finals at the Woodlands. On Thursday, after six 18-hole rounds, the low 40 scores plus ties earned the right to join about 150 other exempt players on the 1993 tour. The 43 who succeeded shot par (432) or better.

At other events they play for trophies and checks; here, they compete for livelihoods, with income not guaranteed even if they qualify. Jobs for next year, even careers, are on the line. Sports has nothing else like it. Maybe law does, with its bar exam.

"I hate this tournament," said former Houston star Tray Tyner, who failed last week for the fifth time in six years. "When I played in the U.S. Open, I wasn't nearly as nervous. In the Open, there's always next week."

Nor is Chris Patton, the 320-pound 1989 U.S. Amateur champion, enamored with Q-School. He calls it a joke. "If you don't play well for three weeks, you're gone, and you're destined to piddle-jumping like I've been doing and playing for survival money," said Patton, who has played tours in Asia, Australia and Canada.

There is a crude, figurative saying in golf for the player who stumbles in making double or triple bogeys: "He's throwing up on himself." At Q-School, that can take on a literal meaning, as new Carrollton resident J.C. Anderson witnessed.

In the first round of the finals two years ago, one player vomited on the first tee. "He lost his lunch right there," said Anderson, 30, who qualified for a second time out of seven tries when he tied for 20th Thursday. "This guy actually threw up on himself - and he had 108 holes to play. It was just nerves. He said he didn't feel good, and the next thing you knew he was on his hands and knees. I thought he was praying to the East."

Some do pray on the course. Qualifier Bill Murchison, an Orlando club pro since quitting the tour in 1984, sang gospel hymns during every round last week. One day it was "Blessed Be the Name of Jesus." Another day, "Grace and Peace."

Behavior varies in the battle against stress and nerves. Players repress, suppress, keep quiet, scream, joke. And they play safe, trying to limit risk and avoid disaster.

"The common problems are not sleeping and not eating breakfast and trouble getting along with spouses," said psychologist Deborah Graham, who works with several pros. "A lot of these players do a good job distracting themselves until they get to the first tee. Then some freeze up. And on the last few holes you can see them almost buckle and hold their breath."

Some hope superstition helps. Last week, Anderson ate at a Black-eyed Pea restaurant eight nights in a row. "I didn't even have to order," he said. "They just had my food ready."

Anderson uses humor, too, to calm himself. He was fine for five rounds, until a closing 75. "It was like somebody else was in my body," he said. "I was going to call for a priest. I needed an exorcism."

The sound of silence can be deafening. Fort Worth's Mark Brooks knows that. He got through Q-School in 1983-85 but lost his card each year. In trying to regain it in 1987, he was a few shots from the cutoff entering the final round. In the car en route to the course that day, nary a word was said.

Until Brooks started screaming. He screamed at his golf balls, telling them to go into the hole. Something worked. Brooks shot 67, qualified and was seen afterward wearing cool sunglasses and holding a Coors Light in each hand. Now he is a leading pro who has banked more than $2 million.

David Ogrin, an eccentric veteran who played at Texas A&M, has made noises himself. In the 1991 Q-School final round, all was quiet until a senior women's encounter group nearby started quacking like ducks. "We almost died laughing," said Ogrin, who regained his card then and last week. "The rest of the round we quacked if things got serious."

The woods, and water, are full of Q-School horror stories. Or, as Ogrin says, "There are more razor blades made every year."

Two-time U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange missed by a shot once after a 41 on his last nine. The flaky Mac O'Grady went through 17 Q-Schools before qualifying. Chris Tucker got through in 1991 on his 13th attempt. Rick Dalpos went to the finals 12 years in a row. Tour official Vaughn Moise of Kingwood went 0-for-12, at least. Keith Clearwater closed with an 81 once and missed by a stroke. One player qualified despite dunking three in the water and making 9 on the par-3 island hole at PGA West's Stadium Course in La Quinta, Calif.

In 1971, an obscure player, needing just a bogey on the par-4 finishing hole, played safe by hitting two 5-irons and a 9-iron to the green. But he three-putted and missed by one.

Bob Tway won four tournaments in 1986, including the PGA, but he didn't survive Q-School until his fifth try, in 1984. When he missed by a shot in 1983 after a closing 80, his tearful wife, Tammy, moaned, "Oh, no, another year in Asia." When he finally did qualify, it was by just one stroke after a triple bogey-double bogey-bogey finish.

Tway isn't alone. Mark Calcavecchia, Paul Azinger, Mark McCumber, Ken Green, David Peoples and Brooks are among others who have worn out Q-Schools. And they did so without the safety net of the $5 million Nike Tour, which now fully exempts the top 70 who missed getting PGA Tour cards.

"The anxiety level gets so high you can just go crazy," said Don Reese. He knows too well. Reese failed at the finals Thursday for the sixth time in eight attempts. He bogeyed Nos. 5, 7 and 9 in a closing 74 and missed by two shots. One year at PGA West in La Quinta, Calif., he missed by a stroke after a 76 and drove "like a maniac" to Los Angeles. "There was a traffic jam, but I got on the side of the road and went by everybody."

Reese had company in misery Thursday.

Several collapsed in missing the 72-hole cut. Others went forward.

No one, though, shot upward like Skip Kendall. In his first Q-School, he opened with a 79 but rallied to tie for medalist honors at nine-under 423. Still, he walked away wobbly.

"I couldn't sleep last night - I woke up every hour - and I couldn't eat this morning," he said after the final round. "It's brutal. This is a miserable experience. I didn't think this would get to me, but it did."

"All those horror stories you hear - they're true."

So said the happy co-medalist.

The Wizard of Id

BEETLE BAILEY

By Mort Walker

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently read an article in our local paper describing the signs of breast cancer. Ann, please tell your readers not to depend on those signs alone.

I had none of the signs we are told to watch for--no lumps, no family history, no inverted nipples or anything else that might indicate breast cancer, but when I went in for a routine mammogram, small calcifications were found in my breast. A biopsy was done and then an immediate lumpectomy was performed because there was indeed a malignancy.

My cancer was in the milk ducts with a small area invading the lining of the walls. Because of this, I have since had to have what is called an auxiliary node dissection, which means they had to remove part of the lymph nodes under my arm on the side of the cancer. This is a precautionary measure to make sure that no cancer has invaded the lymph system. I will soon start radiation therapy to kill any wayward cells which may still be in my breast.

I have just returned from my oncologist, who told me that as of now there is no cancer in my body and I should live to a ripe old age. He said that I will not need chemotherapy and that I do not need to continue seeing him. I do need to continue with yearly mammograms for the rest of my life.

The main thing is to alert all women that they must not rely on danger signs alone. By the time they show up, cancer may be further along and require much more extensive treatment.--C.A. from Salem, Va.

DEAR VA.: Thank you for a letter that is sure to save lives.

And now a word to my female readers: Please, call your doctor and ask if you should make an appointment for a mammogram. There are many more "Va.'s" out there, only they don't know it yet.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is a complaint as well as a request. I am angry with women who drive down freeways and highways topless and/or bottomless. My husband is a truck driver, and he sees this sort of indecent exposure constantly.

Like all truckers, "Bill" watches the cars that go by to relieve the monotony of long hours on the road. Ann, is there anything that can be done legally to get these immoral women to stop?

How do I deal with my anger? It burns me that these tramps don't care that the men they are flashing might be married or committed to someone. Bill no longer will admit that he sees these lewd women. In fact, he is now lying to me when I ask, "Have you seen any of those tramps lately?" He'll say, "No," which I'm sure is not true. I'm having trouble controlling my emotions, Ann. Please help me.--Bad Road Burn in Visalia, Calif.

DEAR VISALIA: In some states, this could be considered "indecent exposure" or "lewd and lascivious behavior," but the trucker would have to report it and I doubt that many would.

Actually, the problem is with you. Why are you obsessing about something your husband attaches no importance to, and you can do nothing about? What a waste of energy!

Gem of the Day: It isn't the things that go in one ear and out the other that cause trouble. It's the things that go in one ear, get all mixed up, and then slip out the mouth.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Wyoming is nicknamed "The Equality State" because Wyoming women were the first in the nation to vote, hold public office and serve on juries.

Concerteers assist Hereford CCA

Members of the Concerteers are shown distributing programs to Hereford Community Concert Association members, Roberta Caviness and Elizabeth Cesar, at a recent concert. The next CCA concert, which is planned at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 14, in the Hereford High School auditorium, will feature The New Christy Minstrels. The musical group is celebrating its 30th anniversary with Barry McGuire.

CHICAGO (AP) - Pro basketball star Michael Jordan says his new baby girl is exactly what he wanted, since he already has two boys.

Jordan's wife, Juanita, gave birth to the couple's third child, Jasmine Mickael, early Monday. She weighed in at 9 pounds, 8 ounces.

"She's a huge girl," Jordan said Tuesday. "I have three beautiful kids. Those are my three trophies, and they're the most important thing to me."

Deadline nearing

Those wishing to contribute to Project Christmas Card, sponsored annually by members of the L'Allegra Study Club, must do so by Saturday in order for contributors' names to be placed on a full-page community Christmas greeting in the special holiday edition of The Hereford Brand, Dec. 20. Collection boxes have been placed at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, Gibson's, Inkahoots, Kid's Alley, The Atrium, Winn's, First National and Hereford State Banks, The Vogue, Gaston's, Thriftway, Touch of Class and the newspaper office. Proceeds from this year's project will be used for a gazebo to be placed on the grounds of Deaf Smith General Hospital for the enjoyment of the public. Checking donations at one of the Project Christmas Card stands are study club members, from left, Kitty Gault and Judy Detten.

Why choose an insurance agent who can't give you a choice?

Agents who work for one insurance company can only give you the policy their company happens to offer. If you want to be sure you have the best protection and price available you need a choice.

As an independent agency representing several companies, like the CNA Insurance Companies, we can show you a wide range of policies for your business, auto, home and life. And we'll use our years of experience to recommend those policies that provide the best protection and value for you.

Call us soon. You'll be making a smart choice.

Deterioration of a tiny circular area in the retina called the macula is the leading cause of blindness in people older than 50 in the Western world, notes National Geographic.

An ancient project came to its completion in September 1992 with the opening of the Rhine-Main-Danube Canal. As early as 793, Charlemagne ordered a canal dug between the Main and Danube rivers to create a waterway from the northwest to the southeast of Europe.

The term "Hallmark" originates from the practice of jewelers in Goldsmiths' Hall in London who put a seal on their gold and silver products to certify value.

It takes the average person six-tenths of a second to walk one pace.

College Donor
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Matthew Vassar, who founded Vassar College here, was born in England in 1792 and was brought to this country four years later.

Vassar was a successful and prosperous businessman. He owned a brewery and was part owner of a whaling fleet.

He became interested in higher education for women and in 1861 donated a large sum of money to found Vassar College. Before his death in 1868, Vassar had made gifts of over $800,000 to the liberal arts college.

Di, Charles will separate

LONDON (AP) - Prince Charles and Princess Diana have agreed to separate but not to divorce, Prime Minister John Major said today, confirming years of speculation of a royal romance gone sour.

"This decision has been reached amicably and they will both continue to participate fully in the upbringing of their children," Major said, reading a statement issued by Buckingham Palace.

Because there will be no divorce, Major said Diana remained eligible to be crowned queen.

The couple will continue to appear together in public from time to time, Major added.

"The queen and the Duke of Edinburgh (Prince Philip), though saddened, understand and sympathize with the difficulties that have led to this decision. Her majesty and his royal highness particularly hope that the intrusions into the privacy of the prince and the princess may now cease," Major said, reading from the palace's announcement.

The same statement was read to the House of Lords by Lord Mackay, the Lord Chancellor.

The romance of the serious-minded prince and the bashful kindergarten teacher captured the world's attention, and their marriage at St. Paul's Cathedral on July 29, 1981 was a global television spectacular.

Diana bore two sons - William in 1982 and Henry in 1984 - and became the public's darling as she matured into a confident spokeswoman for compassionate causes.

Recent opinion polls found the public overwhelmingly sided with Diana in the couple's presumed marital problems.

Both Charles and Diana carried out separate public appearances today.

It was the most stunning announcement of what Queen Elizabeth II recently confessed was a horrible year. Her daughter Anne was divorced; her son Andrew separated from his wife Sarah, who later was photographed in a topless romp with her American "financial adviser."

The queen's home at Windsor Castle was devastated by fire Nov. 20. Amid a public uproar over paying for the repairs, the government announced Nov. 26 that the monarch had volunteered to pay taxes.

SOMALIA

But special U.S. envoy Robert Oakley said the next move, deeper into Somalia, could prove more troublesome. "When you get farther into the interior, you get people who want to make trouble," he said.

It remained unclear whether U.S. forces would aggressively try to disarm the Somalis, who have fought running clan battles for control of the country since toppling authoritarian President Mohamed Siad Barre in January 1991.

Many of the Somalis' weapons were shipped into the country by Washington when Siad Barre was a Cold War ally.

The point men of the American landing, staged from a three-ship Navy force offshore, were two dozen Navy frogmen and Marines who crawled up Green Beach, adjacent to the airport, just after midnight.

The commandos, faces smeared with black and green camouflage cream, found no opposition - only scores of waiting journalists.

CHENEY

Cheney would not give a timetable for when U.S. troops will move out of Mogadishu into the countryside, but said the military was prepared to meet any resistance it might meet outside the capital.

"We have all of the resources we need to do the job.... I don't anticipate we're going to run into anything we can't cope with," he said.

The Marines in Mogadishu are turning their attention to getting the seaside airport ready for a long stream of Air Force cargo flights.

C-141s and other transport planes will ferry tons of supplies to Somalia for the U.S. forces there, and commercial airliners chartered by the military will start bringing in 16,000 Marines from Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Once the Marines declare the airfield secure for operations, the Air Force will immediately bring in people and equipment, such as runway lighting and forklifts for cargo unloading, to get the airport ready for round-the-clock operations, said Lt. Col. Randy Morger, a spokesman for the Tanker Airlift Control Center at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. The base is coordinating transport flights to Somalia.

An international "air bridge" of 24 KC-135 tanker aircraft to refuel the planes flying from the United

The glare of television lights, spoiling the stealth of the advance team, led Pentagon officials to complain. But the TV networks pointed out that the Marines told them they could freely cover the beaches.

The main force rumbled up out of the Indian Ocean in camouflage-painted amphibious vehicles and over the dunes to the airport. Marines leaped out and took up positions at the control tower, and soon Navy transport helicopters were bringing in platoons of Marines.

A U.N. contingent of 500 Pakistani soldiers has been bottled up at the airport since September.

About the same time as the beach landings, other Marines clambered over shoreline rocks at Mogadishu's seaport. There, too, they encountered about 50 journalists, who were ordered to lie flat. The Marines, trying to get the reporters to back off, fired warning shots over their heads.

Mohamed Farrah Aidid, leader of the clan faction holding southern Mogadishu, said he had urged his followers to stay away from the airport and seaport. Scores of clansmen roared away from the airport Tuesday in advance of the American arrival.

States to Somalia is already in place, Morger said. A dozen KC-135s are at Lajes Field in the Azores and another dozen are at Moron Air Base, Spain, he said.

The Bush administration said it was pleased that the initial landing Tuesday of about 1,800 Marines in Mogadishu went smoothly and without armed resistance.

At the Pentagon, spokesman Pete Williams said the operation was unfolding as planned.

At a news conference in Washington before the Marines landed, President-elect Clinton indicated he saw no need to rush the Somalia mission to a conclusion.

"We believe that this mission has merit and that an artificial timetable cannot be imposed upon it," Clinton said. "I respect and appreciate President Bush's desire to see the ground forces out of there by some time in mid-January, and it may work out that that can be done."

The White House said forces from several countries were being integrated into the overall operation, which was formally authorized last week by the U.N. Security Council as a last-gasp attempt to feed hundreds of thousands of starving Somalis.

Armed bandits and looters, many of them teen-agers, have paralyzed international relief agencies' efforts to feed the hundreds of thousands of Many gunmen were reported heading to the southern Somali hinterland, where Aidid's forces hold sway and the famine is deepest.

The next U.S. objective is to secure the airport at Baidoa, a town 200 miles inland where aid officials say 70 people were killed in clan battles earlier this week.

Within several days, some 16,000 Marines from Camp Pendleton, Calif., are expected to arrive in Mogadishu. After that, 10,000 light infantrymen from the Army's 10th Mountain Division, based at Fort Drum, N.Y., are to fly to Baidoa.

France said the first 150 of 2,000 French troops committed to the operation would arrive later today. Other, smaller contingents have been promised by Turkey, Egypt, Mauritania, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Canada and Italy.

In Washington, President Bush was briefed by Gen. Colin Powell, joint chiefs chairman, soon after the commandos landed in Mogadishu. A White House statement said the president was "pleased by the success of the initial landing phase."

starving Somalis. Tons of donated food are already in Somalia but cannot be distributed because of the threat of violence.

Williams said some of the U.S. forces would drop leaflets and broadcast messages explaining why the Marines had intervened.

"The Americans are coming and they're here to help; they're here to feed," Williams said.

Williams said it had not been determined whether the U.S. forces would attempt to disarm the armed clans.

Once the Marines establish bases at Mogadishu and the inland town of Baidoa, they will be joined by about 10,000 soldiers from the Army's 10th Mountain Division, a light infantry unit based at Fort Drum, N.Y.

The Army forces are to join the Marines at Baidoa and then establish bases in other famine-ravaged parts of southern and central Somalia - specifically the outposts of Belet Wen, Oddur and Gailalassi, the Pentagon has said.

Operations later will expand into Kismayo, a port city in the extreme south, and Bardera.
