

BROWNFIELD IS EXPECTING A GREAT CROWD HERE MONDAY

Texans Bid Farewell To Old Arizona Folks

Old Arizona is a great scenery state, and a person could stay there much longer than we did, indeed for weeks and months and not see half that is to be seen. We imagine that its state history reads like a romance, as it has been controlled first by Spaniards, and second by Mexico, and thirdly by the U. S. A. Indeed, one should read the history of that state in order to find the meaning of so many names that one does not know unless he has studied Spanish.

We hated to leave the Arizona kin, but Texas was calling us to come back and go to work, as our funds were badly dropping. So after informal farewells, with the promise that we would see each other about July 1st, when the Smiths come to Texas on their annual visit. Back through Phoenix, we left 180 that would carry us back through the mountains at Miami and Globe, and Mesa, we turned southeast toward Tucson. While in most of the communities except the larger towns and irrigated sections the protestant religion seems to predominate, at Mesa and thereabouts, the Mormons seem to have the go, while in the small villages, one encounters lots of Catholics, and there is a Catholic church and graveyard in many villages where there doesn't seem to be any protestants.

Just before one gets to Florence, where the state penitentiary is located, one turns south through Coolidge where a big irrigation project has been opened since the Coolidge dam was finished. But just before one gets to Coolidge, they pass the Casa Grande. Delving into our very best Spanish, we find that means in old U. S. terms, simply grand house, or mansion. Just whose mansion this was, unless some Grande's gubernatorial mansion, we know not, but Arizona has made a national monument and park out of the old ruins and surrounding terrain. Being off the road somewhat, and our time limited, we did not drive in, and perhaps failed to learn what it was all about.

We arrived at Tucson about one in the afternoon, but this was caused by a runout of gas on the desert somewhere between Picacho and Marana. Letha, assisted by the other front seat driver started Elmer in a walk for gas—how many miles away, we know not—for stopping someone out there to beg, borrow or steal is out of the question. They shoot by you like two guns, as Andy would put it. After he had hotfooted it some two miles, a druggist who owns a chain of stores in that section passed the car stalled and later found Elmer peddling down the pike, and stopped to ask him if that was his car back a piece. Being told "yeah" he picked Elmer up and carried him to the first filling plant some three miles further on. The station man brought Elmer and the gas back.

Tucson is one of the largest and most modern cities in the state, having some 32,000 people. Instead of going by Douglas, way down on the border, we decided to try our luck over 80, which is just an improved road most of the way and paved occasionally. This road leaves the main paved road at Benson, and is known as the Benson-Wilcox cutoff, and it does save lots of mileage. There is nothing of interest on this stretch of road. You may think from the names that you will run into a sizeable town after a bit, to be disappointed at the largest having only a few hundred. The two highways converge at Steins, just after reentering New Mexico. Lordsburg was reached again about 5:30, and from there through Deming and on to Las Cruces, was the only backtracking we done going and coming. Deming was reached about dark, and we tied up for supper. After a very refreshing meal, we decided to drive the 65 miles on to Las Cruces, a very beautiful little city, in order to be as near to old Texas as possible.

While making this drive after dark, we came near to having the only holdup on the entire route. We were clipping along around forty, and all at once a flash light was swung back and forth across the road. Elmer remarked that it looked like a holdup and began to slow. Leatha advised speeding up and driving through them. Personally, we had no advice to offer about how to drive on this occasion, but by this time we were close enough to notice that they were highway patrolmen, who had stopped to render aid to a truck that was in trouble. We could have hugged the guys, although there was probably less than $25 on the crowd. They merely wanted to tell Elmer that he had a bad light and to get it fixed when we got to Las Cruces.

We found a very nice and new camp on the west side of the city, with mighty good mattresses, and run by a kind old couple from Texas. They ruffled up plenty covers, and we were soon in the land of dreams after driving nearly 500 miles again that day. The finishing touches will be given this episode next week. All are invited back.

Fashions of 1934 With Styles, Comedy and Romance

One of the most colorful pictures to come from Hollywood in many a day is promised by the management with the showing of the First National production, "Fashions of 1934," with William Powell in the stellar role at the Rialto next Sunday.

The picture is said to combine hilarious comedy with glamorous romance and a mammoth spectacle, the latter staged by Busby Berkeley, the musical comedy director whose flair for the unique and bizarre is exemplified in the beautiful specialty numbers in "Footlight Parade," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "42nd Street" and other pictures.

The prize number in "Fashions of 1934" is a most unusual spectacle in which 200 beautiful girls, do a fan dance in rhythm to music furnished by a harp orchestra.

One featured calculated to appeal especially to women is a gorgeous fashion show staged by Director William Dieterle. In the luxurious setting of a fashionable and exclusive Paris modiste shop, more than a score of girls display the very latest 1934 styles in women's evening gowns and wraps, sports suits, negligees and lingerie.

These are but some of the special numbers seen in a picture that is basically comedy drama in which William Powell as a high pressure promoter, corners the Paris fashion market and sets himself up as the king of fashions.

Bette Davis plays opposite Powell as his co-conspirator and vies for his love with Verree Teasdale, who is seen in the character of an American show girl masquerading as a Russian Grand Duchess.

With two such comedians as Frank McHugh and Hugh Herbert teamed up, the fun promises to be irresistible. As the somewhat flirtatious aide of Powell, McHugh manages to get into romantic entanglements that are comical enough to stir the risibilities of a deacon.

Smokey Taylor Expanding Beer Business

Smokey Taylor, local Budweiser beer distributor, has recently purchased a large enclosed truck, which he had painted a bright red, and decorated with the crest and name of that famous beer. He recently received a full car of this beer, and has a large territory in which to distribute.

About once a week he loads this big truck and goes to Midland, Odessa and other points south, which are in his distributing territory, as well as Seagraves, which recently legalized beer. He usually comes in with an empty truck.

Mr. Taylor informed us that this distribution business was adding considerable to his income, and that Brownfield was his home, and almost all this traditional money was spent here.

Visitors Day in Local Schools Today (Fri.)

Supt. P. F. Lawlis was in to see us Wednesday morning and stated that Friday, May 4th (today) would be visitors day in the Brownfield public schools. He stated that the notice should have been put in last week. All friend and patrons of the schools are cordially invited to visit the rooms and inspect the work that is being carried on.

We are also pleased to announce, that according to Mr. Lawlis, all teachers have been re-elected for another year, at a meeting of the board on April 23. At this time we do not know whether all will accept or not.

In this connection, we wish to state that a letter has been received by R. A. Simms, president of the board of trustees, from the State School Supervisor, complimenting the Brownfield high school on its equipment and work, and especially the teachers for the work they have done. On account of an eight month term last year, our affiliation was temporarily suspended, but Mr. Simms believes it will be fully restored this year.

Chas. Moore Gets Both Jaws Broken

While building a house on the old Windham ranch last Saturday, Charley Moore, local carpenter fell from the roof, with the result that both lower jaws were broken. It seems that his chin hit a 2X4 on the ground. Likely his arms broke his fall enough to keep him from having a more serious accident, a broken neck, perhaps.

He was immediately rushed home and put under the care of a physician, and at the time we go to press, Charley is resting as well as could be expected. We hope that in the next few weeks he will be up and around.

A New Grocery Store Opens in Brownfield

Mr. H. L. Bryant, who for the past few years has lived in California, has opened a new grocery on the west side of the square in the Randal building. His wife is the daughter of a Terry county citizen living in the Johnson community.

Mr. Bryant has a new, clean stock of fresh nationally advertised groceries, both staple and fancy, and we ask that you call and inspect his stock and prices.

Welcome to Brownfield.

Baccalaureate Sermon On Sunday May 13th

According to Paul F. Lawlis, Superintendent of the local schools, the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class will be given in the High School auditorium on May 13th.

Reverend Hays, from Tahoka, has been selected by the class to deliver the sermon.

A program for the occasion will appear in this paper next week.

W. M. Hill was in from the Seud-day community, Tuesday.

New Industry Starts That's Badly Needed

Mr. C. McWilliams, formerly of Orange, Calif., came here about six weeks ago and started an upholstery business in the west half of the building with the Sanitary Bakery, and just east of the Miller Service Station on west Main. Mr. McWilliams has a fine recommendation from his former employer, who is said to be one of the largest upholsters on the Pacific coast.

Mr. McWilliams can take your old furniture that the upholstering has worn threadbare, and reupholster it and make it like new, using new materials, samples of which he has, and using the latest methods of putting it on. Also, he can take your old car that has frayed and frazzled upholstery, both on the sides and the seats, and turn out a job that looks like a new car.

This is an industry that has been needed here for some time, and we hope the people of this section give him sufficient work to keep him here. His prices are reasonable. He has been doing considerable work since he came here, and tells us that his business is constantly picking up.

Car Wrecked Badly Last Wed. Night

A car driven by Mr. Gaston, a local gin employee, and another man whose name we failed to learn, hit the concrete guards on Lubbock Ave., in front of the Sig. Lane home last Wednesday night, and tore the car almost to shreds. Several that viewed the wreck said it was one of the worst they ever saw. Both men were hurt some, but the one whose name we did not get, the worst. He is under a physician's care.

Several have told us that these stobs are hard to see at night, and especially if you are meeting another car with glaring headlights. Grover McMakin, who drives the Brownfield-Lubbock bus is authority for the statement that every one of these stobs between here and Lubbock have been hit by some car. It is believed the highway department placed them to close to the road.

Big Rabbit Drive Tuesday Netted 1352

C. Sears was in early Wednesday morning and stated the rabbit drive in the Johnson community Tuesday netted the hunters 1352 all told. The drive started at the Gore farm, and went northward, taking on a fine dinner at the farm of H. L. Lee, and wound up at George Lassiter's on the Rambo farm.

Another big drive is to be staged today in the Hunter community, we understand. Dinner will be served at the Lee Lyon farm. A few more of these drives will greatly lessen the tribe of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rabbit in Terry county.

Travis Bynum has moved to the old Bynum farm northeast of the city about 2 miles, and Sam Chambliss went to the farm Travis worked last year on the Tahoka road.

Rev. Ed Tharp reports no luck on his fishing trip to Two Draw lake at Post, Tuesday.

The Old South the First to Recover

According to a map published this month by Nations Business, almost the entire old south, with the exception of central and east Tennessee, and lower Georgia and parts of Florida, are in the white spot. In fact, the white spot starts in about Weatherford, and extends to the gulf, and to the Atlantic east. One of the next largest spots is found on the south Plains of Texas. The evidence that the south is recovering first is borne out by Cecil Smith and others who recently returned from Detroit via Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas. They say that conditions are good back there, and farmers and business men are optimistic.

We believe it was back in 1917-18 that lots of people said that it would take west Texas five, and some people put it ten years to recover from the devastating drought of those years. Not only had we a drought on, but a devastating war as well. But prices soared in 1919, the war was ended, and there never was an era of building activity in west Texas, and especially on the Plains, as there was then for several years. The thing that mostly keeps down development now, is the fact that people are still scared. They are afraid to make any improvements, or buy anything new, thinking that we might drift back to early 1933 conditions. But people are going to forget 1933 some time and go to building and buying again, not recklessly perhaps, but for legitimate needs.

The worst hit part of the country yet is perhaps the fruit sections of Arizona and southern California. They have not felt the paternalistic help of Uncle Sam, in the way of loan, plow up and rent acreage. The fruit and vegetable men of those states have had to plow their own furrows, and therefore, they have not felt the return of prosperity like the cotton, wheat, corn, cattle, and hog sections of our nation. But as soon as the rest of the nation does recover, Arizona and California will follow quickly.

Two Dogs Attack a Local Girl Monday

Two vicious dogs attacked Miss Geneva Thompson, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Thompson, Monday morning as she started to school, according to City Marshal E. Brown, tearing the bottom of her skirt to shreds, and biting her twice on the thigh. It is not thought the dogs had hydrophobia, but just mean, as they had been molesting children who passed there of late. They are part bulldog.

Mr. Brown stated that the owners would either kill the dogs or keep them tied. This is a good idea, as two dogs that run together could easily kill a child before help could reach them, and no citizen wants to keep a dog that is a menace to the little folks of the town. The best thing would be to kill them, and you will have no further dread that they will attack some one else.

By the way, Mr. Brown informed us that he was disposing of a lot of stray dogs by the six pistol route.

Attends Convention—Loses His Suit Case

Rev. J. A. Gibson was in this week and informed us that he attended the convention of B. M. A. Baptists at Lubbock Central church, beginning last Friday and going over Sunday night. Had a great convention he said, and he was called to hold a meeting for one of the Lubbock churches the last of this month.

But all was not so pleasant to Rev. Gibson. On Friday night a thief took his suit case with his best suit, shirts and books. He recovered one pair of pants at a second hand Jew store and has, the Lubbock officers on the trail of the thieves. A preacher or editor can ill afford the loss of clothes these days.

Otis Carter, editor of the Seagraves News was up this week and informed us that he was having the News printed by contract at the office of the Lamesa Reporter.

The Tokio Rabbit Drive a Big Success

Well folks, we don't have to tell those present that the 'rabbit drive' at Tokio Thursday the 26th was a howling success, for everyone surely enjoyed themselves. We had about 60 guns and all the available figures we have show 972 rabbits, and report from two or three drives we failed to get. Conservatives estimate the total at 1050.

The sandstorm at 4 p. m. caused us to miss some of our best hunting ground, the J. A. Rushing and adjoining section. Our only regrets are that we didn't get a 2 inch rain instead of sand, and Homer Winston and "Big" Smith 2 miles from their cars. Old Homer had quite a race after his hat. We hope he has caught his breath.

The ladies did their share and all report a big time. Several candidates were present. Others who couldn't come sent help for the drive. The following business firms helped by donation: S. E. Maroney (Tokio) coffee, sausage, cheese, pork and beans; Brownfield: Help Your Self grocery, coffee; Murphy Bros., sugar; Bon Ton Bakery, wholesale price on bread; Cave's Variety on paper plates; Hudgens & Knight on shells; Brownfield Hardware on shells and also loaned the cups for the coffee. Several of our friends brought cakes, pies, etc. from town and other communities. C. Sears is sure some consumer as well as a booster for singings and rabbit drives.

The people of our community join in a hearty thanks for your help in checking this destructive pest. Maybe we can have beans and water-melons now. If the showers come and we believe they will in due time.

P. S. Loyd McClish was out too. Ask any of the bunch if they think McClish got any kick out of the drive.

Yours truly,
—Rabbit Scalper.

Local Woman Elected District PTA Officer

Mrs. L. M. Wingerd, member of the board of managers, Mrs. S. H. Holgate, Terry County Council and Mrs. J. E. Shelton, delegate from the local association, attended the 14th district conference of Parents and Teachers at Snyder, April 27th and 28th. They were accompanied by Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Burleson of Meadow. Mrs. Burleson was a county delegate and Mrs. Nelson a delegate from the Meadow association.

Mrs. Wingerd who has served four years as a member of the board of managers, was elected first vice president of the 14th district at the conference. Meadow association received honorable mention for their excellent report. They also received two first prizes and one second prize for posters.

The delegates report a very enjoyable trip.

Trades Day is With Us Once Again

Unless there is a general rain between now and Monday, we look for one of the largest crowds here in the history of Tradesday, and many of the merchants will be ready for you with specials, and this includes dry goods, groceries, drugs and hardware.

Bring in that old plug of yours and trade for a better nag. They will be here from the sandhills of the west to the blue weeds on the east.

Brownfield is expecting you and yours Monday.

Fine Rain Falls Here Wednesday Night

The government gauge here showed that the fine rain that fell Wednesday night amounted to 81 hundredths of an inch, which will put a fair season in the ground with what has already fallen.

Farmers can now begin their spring planting operations, if the fall was sufficient over the county. Some hail accompanied the rain here, but not enough to do serious damage.

Two Cases For Believe It Or Not in Terry

C. B. Blevins, who lives six miles south of town, was in Monday and informed us that he had quite a curiosity at his house, and a real oddity. He has an old mamma cat at his house that is as black as ebony, except one spot under the throat about the size of the ball of your little finger. Recently she gave birth to three kittens as white as the driven snow, not a black speck on any of them.

We have seen black cats have spotted kittens, or white cats have a bunch of general mixtures, but this is the first instance in which we have ever heard of pure white kittens from a black mamma cat. Mr. Blevins intends to have the cats photographed and send it to Mr. Ripley for his Believe It or Not Column.

Another incidence happened this past week on the Bradford farm some six miles out. They had been building fence, according to our informant, and had left the wire stretchers laying on the ground near the fence, and when they returned, every link in the chain had apparently been cut into and welded together again as strong as you please. We suggested that lightning might have done it. But the gentleman said that it was as clear a day as we have had recently, and he did not think it possible that it thundered and lightened.

It is just another one of those unsolvable mysteries that happens apparently naturally, but we are inclined to think that a great many bolts of electricity hit that chain from some place. The chain will be brought to town in a few days, he said.

American Legion to Form New 19th Dist.

Lubbock, April.—Five hundred legionnaires and auxiliary members are expected here May 19 and 20 for the organization convention of the newly created 19th congressional district, local legionnaires estimate.

In addition to a complete fun and fellowship program, a complete set of officers will be elected to handle the affairs of the new district.

Large delegations are expected from 26 new legion posts in the new district to take part in the voting on the various officials. Keen competition is likewise expected for the next meeting of the convention.

Starting with registration May 19, a fun program will be started in the afternoon with a free theatre party to all delegates. A dance will be held on the evening of May 19 and a luncheon will be given for the visitors May 20.

State Commander Van Perkins, State Adjutant George Hughes, and other ranking officials of the state organization will be here for the convention.

Chevrolet Production And Sales Better

A total of 62,388 units were delivered by Chevrolet dealers during the first twenty days of April, according to W. E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company. Sales for the year through this period total 235,332 units as compared to 154,526 units in the same period of 1933, making the period 152 per cent of the corresponding period in 1933.

Sales reported for the twenty days of April are more than 180 per cent of the corresponding 1933 April figure of 34,354 units.

Retail deliveries of commercial cars and trucks continue to gain; 16,224 trucks were delivered during the April period, which triples the 1933 figure of 5,304 units for the same period. Sales in the commercial field have shown steady increases, Mr. Holler pointed out, and at the close of this April period had reached a record figure of 73,619 units for 1934.

Jack Bryan was in last week and said he was fixing to make a trip east, but where, he failed to state point blank.

DIABETES SHOULD NOT KILL PEOPLE

Diabetics should not die, and yet they do and more of them most every year, stated Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, while speaking of the disease that is known as diabetes. The reason for most of these deaths is that the patient has not studied his disease.

Acid poisoning—diabetic coma—has been the diabetic's greatest danger, but with the use of insulin it should now no longer occur. Coma comes because patients overeat and break their diet, and thus neglect to keep their urines free from sugar. Coma comes during acute infections, whether general, like pneumonia, tonsillitis, grip, or during local infections such as carbuncles and abscesses.

Another diabetic danger is gangrene which most commonly attacks the feet and often begins with injuries to the toes which become sore, because they cut or bruised particularly when they were not clean. Diabetes is becoming more frequent because it is a disease chiefly of middle life and old age and today people are refusing to die young and so are living to die old. If one does not die of tuberculosis or diphtheria, it leaves more to die of diabetes and cancer, and hence the mortality from these diseases is rising. It is not contagious, it can be controlled by diet and insulin along with common sense and exercise, and if you have it you know you are in good company because so many famous people have had it too.

But if you don't want it, you stand a good chance of escaping it if in middle life you keep your weight at what the insurance companies with their weight tables and life tables have shown to be the best for longevity, namely a few pounds below the standard weight for age and height—in other words above forty years of age be thin rather than fat.

BROADCASTING—SHOULD GOVERNMENT CONTROL IT?

Should there be government control of radio broadcasting, as in England, or should it be a private enterprise, as in the United States? Both sides of this question are presented in the current Rotarian Magazine.

The income of the British Broadcasting Company, it is noted, is derived mainly from license revenue, every owner of a receiving set paying a fee of $2.50 per annum, while in America the income of broadcasting stations is derived from advertising.

Commander Stephen King-Hall, British author whose voice is frequently heard over the British Broadcasting Company network, points out that the British listener is very well satisfied. He sees the wireless business as a personal and intimate matter. He listens to programs in his own home, and likes to feel the thing belongs to him and not to a lot of firms whose advertisements already fill half the newspapers.

"With us in England," Commander King-Hall writes, "the B. B. C. is rapidly qualifying for admission to our list of national institutions. I imagine that in the United States the radio ranks in people's minds with the theater business, the films, and the press, and if such were the case in Great Britain, then you would find people quite ready to discuss whether better news, better variety, and better music could be obtained from a commercialized service. But such a question does not arise in British minds."

On the other hand, Earl Reeves, who upholds the American system in this exchange of opinion, believes that advertiser-sponsored programs make for better radio entertainment than does government-controlled broadcasting.

"Surveys show," says Mr. Reeves, "that governmental broadcasting takes two forms: first, it may become the adjunct to the propaganda department of the dominant party, a situation that exists now in a few countries; or second, it becomes in its spoken program, wan and color-

More Money and Smaller Classes Needed

(Editor's Note:—This is the second of a series of articles released by the Research Department of the Texas State Teachers Association, Dr. Lewis B. Cooper, Director. The series will appear regularly in the weekly edition of this paper.)

Classroom teachers find that smaller classes and more money is necessary to meet new professional requirements. They challenge the Committee on Classified and Accredited High Schools to reinstate former instructional standards. Dr. Lewis B. Cooper, who made the investigation at the request of Mr. J. O. Loftin, president of the State Teachers Association, found that four-fifths of the teachers affected were teaching in the elementary schools where salaries are generally lower than in high schools.

Regardless of criticisms of work of the Committee the data show that 89 per cent of the representatives of classroom teacher organizations and 90 per cent of the superintendents reporting approved the December ruling of the Committee. Twenty six per cent of the teachers in a group of cities with more than 100,000 population indicate they will be unable to meet the new requirements because of lack of funds, while combined data of all other city schools reveal that only 2.5 per cent of the teachers claim they will be financially unable to comply with the requirements of the accrediting committee.

Although data indicate a rather general approval of higher professional standards for teachers, many teachers may find it difficult to make progress toward the new requirements under present conditions.

Rev. J. B. Vinson states that he has another meeting to hold, and then he will take a long vacation in southwest Texas.

less, avoiding current or controversial issues, permitting a minimum, even, of political discussion as in England. In either event, the entertainment program is handed down by bureaucratic officials, in its content being what a centralized governmental bureaucracy thinks should be good for the public and useful to itself.

VOTERS FOR ISSUANCE OF CONSTRUCTION BONDS

WILSON, April 28.—Voters of Wilson school district today favored issuance of $12,000 in bonds for construction of a combined auditorium and gymnasium.

The vote was 110 for and 47 against the issue. Application is being made to Public Works administration for $4,000 to be used in the project.

THAT recently anthropologists of the Canadian Government unearthed in British Columbia what is believed to be the last Indian tomb of its kind that will ever be discovered? It is the work of some member of the Musqueams tribe of which only fifty members remain. Elaborately carved, the relic takes the form of a wooden sepulchre mounted on a boat-like platform about eight feet long. The carving, which is shown above, was made from a solid piece of cedar about eighteen inches thick and three feet square, and was probably hewn out with an adze. Only one other example of this type of tomb is known. It is in the Government Museum at Ottawa where the new discovery has also been placed.

ORIGIN OF TERM "COCKTAIL"

A GROUP of prominent liquor men were gathered together during the cocktail hour in one of New York's leading hotels the other afternoon. A reporter asked if any one there could tell him the origin of the term "cocktail."

Mr. Horace V. Myers, known the world over as the "Jamaica Rum King", (head of the house of Fred L. Myers & Son, Kingston, Jamaica, distributors of the well-known "Planters' Punch" and other brands), called attention to the fact that the answer to this question had recently appeared in an English magazine. He told the story as follows:

During the American War of Independence the tavern of a certain American cavalry troop was run by a young widow popularly known as Betsy Flanagan.

In 1779 she accompanied her troop to more substantial winter quarters at Four Corners, close to New York. Here she opened up an extremely efficient tavern that soon became the favorite haunt of the American and French of Betsy's fame for cleanliness and comfort soon spread through all the armies, and all who sought refuge there spent many a pleasant hour at cards and drinking of the wonderful sparkling liquor concocted by Mrs. Betsy Flanagan.

The officers lost no time in proclaiming the marvelous bracing virtues of her mixtures far and wide. In fact, the drinks soon became known as Betsy's "bracers." It was of course only natural that eager inquiries for the recipe of the sparkling bracers should become persistent. But Betsy Flanagan was a woman who could keep a secret.

Close to the tavern an Englishman possessed a snug little country estate. He was well known as an out-and-out Loyalist, an inveterate enemy of the independence movement. It was a regular custom of Betsy's, whenever the atmosphere of the tavern was overflowing with the spirit of cheerfulness, boastfully to promise her uniformed guests a delicious but stolen dish of roast fowl, prepared from the finest roosters of the English gentleman's celebrated poultry coop. The officers would, of course, continue to remind Betsy of her voracious promise every time they met.

So one evening Betsy invited them to a dinner of roasted fowl. She decorated each bottle and jar in the tavern with the beautiful tall feathers of the roasted roosters to celebrate her daring victory. Thus it happened that a certain guest at that dinner, craving for a drop of bracer, called for "a glass of those cocktails."

"We are drinking the beverage that offers the palate the same charming sensation as the cock's tall feathers offer the eye," cried another officer, whereupon one of the French officers retorted, "Long live the cocktail!"

This is how the home-made concoction was christened with a new name. Who ever dreamt that it would spread to the four corners of the earth? The name is just as popular in Germany as in all the English-speaking countries.

The rum which Washington obtained by trading in a recalcitrant slave and the rum which Betsy Flanagan used for a famous party doubtless came from the same source from which the famous Myers' Jamaica Rum comes today.

Gomez Gossip

The Baptist Sunday School was well attended last Sunday. Mr. J. W. Waddell is a new member.

A large crowd attended singing at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon. There were quite a number of people from other communities.

Remember singing next Sunday night.

Mrs. Roe of Hamlin is here visiting her daughter and son, Mrs. J. D. Lee and Mr. Roe.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McNeil and children visited in the Garrison home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Robb and son visited in the Adams home in the Harmony community Sunday.

Mrs. S. A. Cobb and children returned home Sunday from Anton where they have been visiting relatives.

Misses Berwyne Bass, Rena, Nellie and Dollie McLeroy took dinner in the E. F. Drury home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hunter visited in the L. L. Cope home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Nellie McLeroy entertained her second and third grade pupils at the home of her parents Monday.

Mr. Ruben Bingham is visiting his sister of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. McLeroy visited his parents Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jewel Graves Smith was operated on for appendicitis at the Lubbock Sanitarium last Saturday. She is reported to be doing nicely.

A large delegation of Seagraves and Seminole people were here last Saturday taking the examination for postmaster at those places. The examination was held in the high school building.

Mrs. F. D. Stark and niece, Mrs. Johnnie Heath of Seminole, visited their sister and aunt, Mrs. Ola Tinkler, last week. Mrs. Stark took the postal examination for Seminole postoffice, which was held here.

The County Council will meet at the Weillman school house tonight, May 4th at 8 o'clock. Those interested in schools are invited.

The Spring Demand is Greatest Ever, Frigidaire Reports; Plant Working Three Shifts.

SHOPPER'S ERA ANTICIPATED WITH NEW MODELS THAT PROVIDE CONVENIENCE, FEATURES AND LIFETIME SERVICE

The greatest spring sales volume ever enjoyed by Hudgens & Knight, local retailers for Frigidaire, the General Motors' built electric refrigerator, has been registered in the last thirty days as a result of the way in which the Frigidaire '34 has struck public fancy. It was announced today.

Since March 21, when the 1934 line of Frigidaire electric refrigerators was introduced nationally in more than 6,000 retail stores, C. L. Hudgens head of the local dealership, said, the demand has been so great that Frigidaire's great manufacturing operation in Dayton, O., the largest refrigerator plant in the world, has gone on a three shift basis to guarantee the quality and lifetime performance that makes it possible for Frigidaire to say "a million more persons are users of Frigidaire than of any other make of electric refrigerator."

"Our organization anticipated the shoppers' era into which the nation has gone and directed its research engineers to provide in the Frigidaire '34 the quality, convenience, features and lifetime service modern housewives demand," Mr. Hudgens said. "With fifteen models ranging in price from $122.50 to $650.00 delivered and installed in any home in my territory, Frigidaire literally is to the refrigeration industry what General Motors is to the automotive industry, for we have a household refrigerator to meet every purse and purpose, whether the purse is that of the small wage earner or that of the banker."

"Here in Brownfield our April sales volume was 300% compared with our business in April, 1933. This tremendous increase is the result of the extraordinarily fine product we have this year and the splendid upturn in business locally, which has brought larger payrolls, increased incomes and freer spending. "From reports turned in by our salesmen, we know 1934 will be the biggest year we ever have enjoyed and our optimism is shared by officials of Frigidaire, who stated late in April that the company is well on its way to establish an all time record for the refrigeration industry."

Air Express Booms

Express shipments by airplane from Texas have more than doubled since the Federal Government cancelled the air mail contracts. The illustration shows packages being loaded on a United Air Line plane at Love Field, Dallas. Some things shipped by air are foodstuffs, oil and cotton samples, machinery parts, Mexican jumping beans, valuable papers, bonds, contracts, reports and cancelled checks. (Texas News Photos.)

An item in the Big Spring News last week tells us that a porcupine was killed in that vicinity, and was thought to be the first in this section of the state to be killed. This is a mistake. One was killed at a farm house near Brownfield some fifteen years ago, and the mounted animal is now on exhibition in a local lumber office.

All over the world, and in many sections of the United States, police and soldiers were in readiness for May Day riots Tuesday. But in most sections of good old Texas, and especially the western portion, there was no trouble anticipated. This is because west Texas particularly, is inhabited by native white, American stock, who have not been infused with the ideas of Europeans, such as bolsheviks, Fascism, Hitlerism, etc.
Indeed, the average west Texan cannot understand why they have to wait till May Day to riot, and if so, why don't they order out a Texas
Ranger to put 'em down.

If we had three imagines coming, we would use every one of them in imagining that District Attorney Nelson will make it warm for drunken drivers from this on. He has every reason to do so. A drunken driver tore his car up, killed a fellow traveler and friend that was riding with Nelson, and badly wounded the district attorney himself. If a man must get soaked enough to make an ass of himself, he should go home, if he has one, or out in the middle of a pasture and sweat it out by himself. His friends should never allow him to get his hands on a steering wheel. Booze and gas act like TNT.

While Charley Guy of the Lubbock
Journal had rather write something about an expedition to Mexico, or about that famous girl that lives out on Broadway, once in awhile he sits down to his old Oliver and brings to light a real editorial. Recently he had one that was a masterpiece. In that editorial, Charley tells it that the banker, baker and candlestick maker are NOT the citizens of the town that leaves an impression on the visitor, but the girl behind the cigar case, the clerk in the hotel office, the boy behind the cold drink stand, or the fellow at the gas filling station.
The tourist or conventionist does not perhaps come in contact with the banker or the leading merchant, or maybe the editor or lawyer, but he does meet the waitresses, the garage man, and he forms his opinion of the entire town and community by the service and courtesy rendered him by these people. Frankly, we believe that it was the Hello Girl more than any one else that started the idea of rendering efficient service plus courtesy, and gradually this spread to other establishments. Thirty years ago, who ever heard of any one thanking anyone else for the privilege of serving them. But this old world could get on with a lot more courtesy than it even has now.

The Reporter was informed this week of the death of J. C. Draper at his home near Brownfield on April 13th. Mr. Draper was once a resident of the Pinkerton community and will be remembered by many of the citizens of this section. He was a brother of the late Frank Draper of Haskell and M. A. Draper of O'Brien.
Mrs. Frank Draper and son, Frank, of Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. M. A.
Draper and daughter of O'Brien attended the funeral, burial being at Brownfield.—Rochester Reporter.

I heard some one criticizing the peace officers the other day for not taking charge of certain fellows who are habitually drunk and raising a rough house. The trouble, I think, is the fact that the peace officers do not get the cooperation that they should in meeting out the proper punishment for such characters. Help the officers and they will more than likely make things different around the old town.—Wink Times.

The great trouble with a lot of officers is that they wait too much for "cooperation." When the people elect a city marshal, it shows that they think he is the man to handle the "rough stuff" cases, or they would have elected some other man.
Brownfield has a city marshal that does not wait a minute to see who is cooperating with him when a fellow gets drunk and makes an ass of himself. Gene Brown just gets him by the arm and leads him to jail, and that ends the matter generally, if a fellow has any care for himself or family.

No one cares for clouds just for the comfort of knowing they have a silver lining.

A great many are not unselfish enough to marry; but they never think of that.

No single weapon of war but has a hundredfold increased in range and precision.

E. R. Woolridge is constructing a new stairway up to the Masonic lodge.

An efficient executive may not run for public office because he knows reason to do so. A drunken driver
tore his car up, killed a fellow traveler and friend that was riding with
Nelson, and badly wounded the dis-

Simmons University
Gets a $250,000 Gift

ABILENE, April 28.—Simmons university's permanent endowment fund has been increased by a quarter-million dollars, result of the largest single gift ever made to the institution, announced today.

The givers are Burk Burnett's famare, in the sunset of their lives, endowing churches, colleges, orphan homes and public schools out of their

Besides Simmons, principal beneficiaries of the Hardins' philanthropies to date have been Abilene Christian college, Baylor university, Baylor college at Belton, Buckner orphans home, and churches and schools of

Japan's Name Changed
Officially to Nippon

Tokyo, April 28.—After all these centuries this island empire has weary of hearing itself called "Japan" by the rest of the world.

That name was born of an Italian's mispronunciation of the Chinese rendering of two ideographs by which islands and mainland alike designate the "Land of the Rising Sun."

Henceforth, by official fiat, the name of the empire is Nippon.

Savants Favor Change
Long agitation for the change finally reached an apex in parliament when both major parties of the house of representatives adopted resolutions favoring it. Thereupon it was referred to "the committee for investigation of the national language" which functions in the ministry of education.

The savants brought in an unanimous verdict for "Nippon."

An order for its adoption then was sent to all branches of the government, particularly to the foreign ministry where use of the English "Japan" or French "Japon" has been customary in correspondence with occidental governments.

"Nippon is the way the Japanese —pardon, Nipponese—pronounce 2 ideographs meaning "sun" and "origin." A free translation is "Born of the Sun," or, by only a slight translation, "Land of the Rising Sun."

Plants Become Feverish Plants as well as humans and animals, become feverish when they are ill. It has been discovered by doctors that leaves of sick plants take on about three added degrees of temperature, Fahrenheit. Again as in humans and animals, the fever is merely the symptoms of infection, the real plant disease being something else.

First City Fire Department Rome was the first city to have an organized fire department. At one time, in ancient days, that town had 7,000 city firemen. They had wooden hand pumps that worked like syringes.
Cisterns provided the water, which was carried to the fire in vases or urns.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

Gomez Dots: Jim Parks had made a trip to Parker county. Ros Kensie and wife were leaving for Erath county to make their home. Rev. Hill had married Mon Yates and Della Ware the Sunday before. Ernest Broughton fell off a donkey and fractured his wrist. School was closing that week. Rev. Jameson had just closed a meeting for the Lamesa Methodists. Guy Taylor had moved to the Blankenship place. C.S. Copeland was moving back to the farm. Geo. Bragg had moved to Yoakum county. Cattle were dying some from eating shinnery.

Pride News: Planting was the order of the day. J.K. Epperson took Warren Spry to Big Spring to take the train to Portland, Ore. C.H. Martin had been to Gaines county to look after his cattle he had bought from Will Trimble. Grass was good and livestock looking fine.

In a baseball game here, Tahoka defeated Brownfield 9 to 5. G.A. Whitley had used some of his court money to renew. J.E. Woodward was in from the ranch. J.T. May was planting his "bottom" field in cotton.

Bob Majors, Tahoka furniture man, was over. S.L. Hunter was in looking for hands to help plant his crop. A prize bunch of Hereford cattle belonging to the Slaughters, passed through. Clay Hughes had accepted a position on the Johnnie Slaughter ranch. Tubbs Bros. of Lubbock, had taken over the Brownfield-Lubbock auto route. J.W. Welch had moved to the Horace Randal place to farm it. W.E. Cherry of Harris passed through headed for Fort Worth. W.H. Gist was in and reported both corn and cotton up. C.H. Earnest of Colorado, was here attending court. The JAL outfit passed through carrying a herd up the trail. H.H. Timmons, of Meadow section, was down attending court. J.W. French of south Terry was on the grand jury. Horace Randal had moved to his place just over in Lynn county.

W.B. Carson came in to renew. Mrs. Annie Strygley and daughter, Mrs. J.T. McClung, of Springtown, were here visiting their son and brother, W.G. Hardin and family. Lee Cowan and daughters, Misses Grace and Clare, were here from Hockley county attending court. Brock Gist, teacher, reported that the Meadow school term had closed. The cotton acreage for Terry county was estimated at around 2500 acres. G.E. Lockhart of Tahoka, was here attending court. Volume 1, No. 1, of the Yoakum County News, printed at Plains by Neil H. Bigger, former editor of the Herald, had reached us. All for this week.

County Agent's Notes

By R. C. Reed, County Agent

A government owned Percheron Stallion was delivered to Lee Lyon last week. This horse is black, four years of age, and weighs approximately 1700 pounds. He was purchased from a special fund obtained by taxing race horse wagering. This stallion is for public service and a fee of $5.00 will be charged.

All local guns are being thoroughly cleaned inside and out as an added protection from the spread of the Pink Boll Worm infestation. This is a government project and is being supervised by Mr. Walton of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This project is furnishing work for a good many people besides getting rid of a great many Pink Boll Worms.

Seventy-five Meadow High School boys met and discussed the organization of a 4-H Club and projects suitable for this work. It was decided to call a meeting of all boys interested in this work Tuesday night, May 8 to complete organization and the selection of officers.

Twenty boys of the Johnson school have expressed a desire to become 4-H Club members. The organization of this club will be completed at an early date.

Terry County dairy breeders took an unusual large number of places and money prizes at the Texas Panhandle Plains Dairy Show. Three breeders showed nine animals and placed eight of them. The breeders included the following: Sam White, R. H. Timmons and John Gayle.

The Lubbock Production Credit Association is sponsoring a meeting at the District Court Room at two o'clock Monday May 7 for the purpose of better acquainting the producers of the county with the details of production credit. The Association is composed of nine counties with headquarters at Lubbock. The Board of Directors is made up of one director from each county. Terry County's director is B. L. Thompson of Tokio. Sim O'Neal Secretary-Treasurer of the association will be the principal speaker using as his subject "The Benefits of a Production Loan."

A report from the eleven hundred cotton acreage reduction contracts has been received from the State Board. It will be necessary to deduct 11,000 acres of land from the five year average as stated in the producers' contracts. These contracts are in the process of being whittled at this time. Each producer will be mailed a card, if his contract has been changed, asking that he come in and approve of the change. If he does not approve of the change then he may withdraw his contract. It is hoped that the payments of these reduction contracts will begin to come in by June 1.

The W. M. U. women of Union are putting on a carnival at the Union school house Thursday night, May 10. There will be ice cream, cake, everything good to eat; side shows and various stunts. Everybody is invited from everywhere.

Sam Price was over from Tahoka this week with a load of products of the Tahoka bottling works.

Let's Make Our Town
Cleaner and Safer

Right now Spring is in the air, and nature, in her annual awakening, is doing her utmost to beautify this old world of ours. A little help on our part would not be amiss.

In the Winter many things are neglected. Vacant lots, yards and even streets become unsightly. Now is the time for a thorough spring cleaning, in the interest of better health, safety and improved appearance.

When a movement to clean-up, paint-up and beautify sweeps thru a community it, leaves in its wake a healthier, safer and more sanitary town than it found. From the angle of fire safety alone, it is worthwhile. In this connection it is interesting to note that the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported that during the year 1932, rubbish and litter caused a fire loss of almost $1,200,000 throughout the United States.

Brownfield has already put on one city-wide clean-up campaign this year but there is still room for improvement. Let's beautify our communities—and save that fire loss money this year.

Machine Gun Bought
For Lynn Sheriff

Sheriff B. L. Parker is now equipped to cope with any stray gangsters that may come his way on something like equal terms. He is armed with a machine gun. The commissioners court recently purchased this formidable weapon at a cost of $250.00 for the use of the sheriff, and it arrived Monday morning.

The gun has four clips each containing 20 shells and will shoot 20 times in rapid succession without a break. Since it requires only an instant to change clips, it will shoot eighty times with only three brief interruptions, before reloading becomes necessary. This is the same type of machine gun used by many gangsters.

The News man doesn't want to be close about when Parker begins to shoot. At least we are not going to rob any banks in this county.—Tahoka News.

German measles seem to be all the rage in the city.

RED GOOSE—THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

By Carlyle Emery

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls

The Sioux Indians never learned how they had been outwitted by a young Ojibwa boy, and after rewarding Bill and Bear Cat for the parts they played in rescuing Betty, Captain Roberts presented Red Eagle with many beads and with tobacco, and he gave Red Goose a handsome coat made of leather, gaily decorated with beads and fine trimmings. Now go on with the story.

Not long after the thrilling rescue of Betty from Twisted Nose and his Sioux warriors, Red Eagle decided to move the Ojibwa camp to another spot about three miles distant. It took quite some time to make the move, but finally nothing was left but the horses and colts which belonged to the tribe. "Red Goose," said Red Eagle, "you and Little Beaver stay here and watch horses until I return. Then all go to new camp."

"How many horses still here?" asked Red Goose. "Forty horses left you watch them. Red Eagle will return before the moon is high." With this parting command, the Ojibwa Chief disappeared in a cloud of dust, and before the two children knew it, the day passed and dusk began to settle down.

They were sitting down on the grass playing an Indian game when suddenly Little Beaver said: "Look! Red Goose, behind you! Indians come over hill—many, many Indians."

San Angelo Ready For WTCC Convention

SAN ANGELO.—The cities and towns of West Texas are getting ready to participate in all phases of the program of the sixteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in this city, May 14-16.

From the office of Convention Manager Maury Hopkins and the Board of City Development, requests have gone to the affiliated towns asking them to nominate their directors for election at the convention, to name a representative in Rainbow Round-up, to enter the My Home Town Speaking Contest, to enter the poster exhibit display contest, to submit resolutions and proposals for the consideration of the convention, and to organize their delegations to attend the various group conferences at the convention.

Reports have been coming back from the towns on these various activities, and as the time for the big meeting approaches, the reports are coming in more rapidly.

Sixty of the one hundred seventy-five affiliated cities have already reported on the nomination of their directors responsive to the call of H. O. Timmins of the convention Elections Committee. Timmins issued another reminder to the remaining towns Friday asking them to immediately nominate their directors and report upon the nominations to the convention headquarters.

A RAT STORY OF MAN'S FOODS

Today 500,000 farmers and their families are sitting down to dinner in Texas. The wholesome viands on most of their tables are rich in food values, fats, carbohydrates, proteins, and incidentally the necessary minerals and vitamins. The wise mother should know from experience the food on which her family thrives and only a calamity prevent their inclusion on her table. She probably does not know that vitamin A is the anti ophthalmic or anti infective vitamin and is necessary for a good appetite, health and vigor, prevents infections especially of the eyes and lungs, and is essential for normal reproduction and lactation; but she does know that spinach, mustard, carrots and tomatoes are good for the family and father knows that green grass is food for the chickens, cows and pigs. Mother knows the deep yellow yolks are in the best eggs and rich yellow butter is best; but that all of these ordinary supply vitamin A has not occurred to her.

She may not know that vitamin B protects the body from such nervous diseases as beri-beri or polyneuritis, but she knows that whole cereals, peas, wheat bran, rice bran and egg yolks are necessary for the health of her family and the fact that vitamin B is supplied by these is only of incidental importance to her.

That vitamin C is the anti scorbutic vitamin and protects the body from scurvy and keeps the bones and teeth in good condition, does not mean so much to her as being sure the family have plenty of oranges and lemons and plenty of other fruits and salads; but with these she unconsciously supplies the needed vitamin C.

If the children or the young animals have rickets or poor bone development she does not charge to lack of vitamin D, the anti rachitic vitamin, but the prudent, well informed mother hustles the sufferers into the sunshine and buys some salmon and feeds them yeast and cod liver oil until relief is noted.

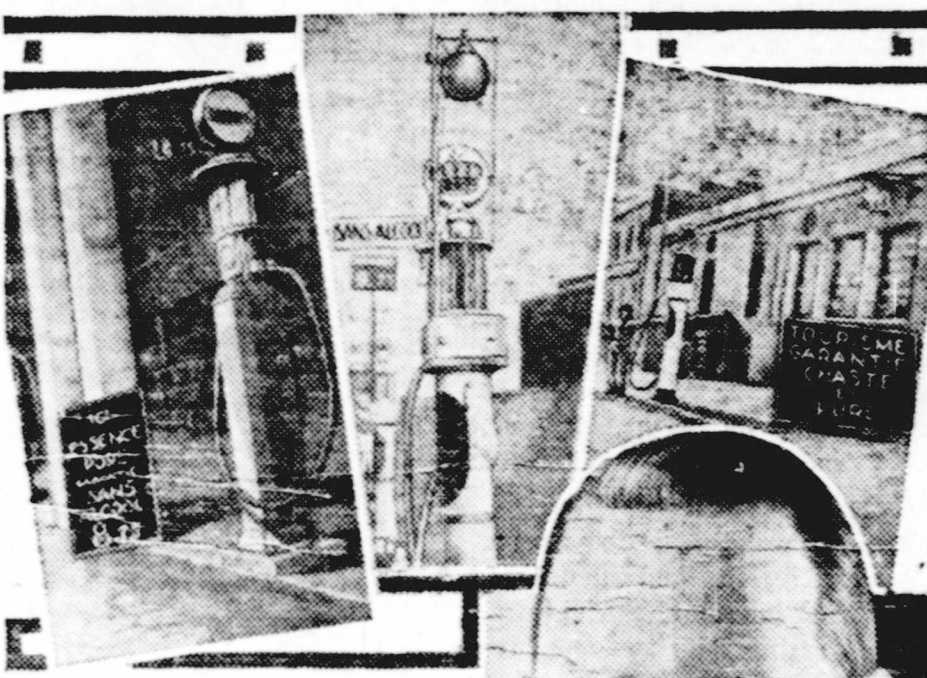

That barley, beans, corn, peas, rice and oats for the table and alfalfa added for the feedlot, supply the vitamin E that prevents sterility is interesting to her of course, but at any rate she knows that such items are desirable in the diet.

She also provides plenty of yeast, liver, sweetbread, and lean meats, as well as milk, eggs, cheese, turnip greens and potatoes, and the fact that these supply vitamin G that prevents pellagra is only secondary importance to her.

Mothers know that an abundance of all sorts of wholesome foods will keep off ailments and keep the family strong and happy. She may not know that every day in the Experiment Station laboratory nearly four hundred rats, carefully bred for uniformity, are measuring the minutest degree the vitamin potency of the feeds and foodstuffs on which our people and our animals must subsist and that they are measuring the quantities of each various item of food needed to supply the body requirements, not only for maintenance but for proper growth and production and reproduction; but she knows that somebody has figured out some mighty good menus for the table and some mighty good rations for the feedlots and she is not to be prejudiced to use them for all things she desires the health and happiness of her family and the thrill of successful livestock production is pleasing to her.

Vitamin C is measured by feeding guinea pigs and other vitamins are measured by feeding rats. No other method so satisfactory is known for evaluating the vitamin potency of feeds and foodstuffs. From Bulletin 477, one learns that a human being needs at least 1000 units per day of vitamin A and that foods carrying this amount can be provided for one-half cent or less; that milk cows and hens require green feed in the regular ration in order to continue in good health and be able to produce milk and eggs of high vitamin A potency, and that hays and fodders and even sorghum silage do not supply enough vitamin A for cows to produce milk in normal amounts.

French Motorists Eschew Blended Fuels; Demand Straight Gasoline

President J. Borton Weeks, of American Motorists Association, shows photographs received from France depicting sale of gasoline guaranteed pure without alcohol, demanded by French motorists dissatisfied with alcohol-blend motor fuels.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Foreign motorists to use as fuel a blend of agricultural alcohol and gasoline, a so-called "farm relief" scheme now being promoted in the United States, apparently has been an unpopular measure in France. Motorists there have shown a preference for "straight gasoline" according to information received by J. Borton Weeks, president of the American Motorists Association.

The French, who recently demonstrated their dislike for high gasoline taxes by abandoning their cars in the streets, have used equally effective methods in opposing blended fuels. Their demands for straight gasoline forced filling stations to offer "essence pure garanti sans alcool," or "gasoline guaranteed pure without alcohol." "This plan to compel French motorists to use blended fuels," Mr. Weeks explained, "was supposed to help French farmers get rid of their surplus crops from which the alcohol is made, just as the promoters of a similar scheme in this country say they want to help American farmers. In both cases the 'farm relief' is questionable and entirely at the expense of the motorist. Blended fuels cost more, and in this country a large share of the additional cost would be paid by the farmer, the largest single consumer of gasoline.

"Some time ago our Association translated from the original French and published to letters relating the experience of motorists with blended fuels. They were written in answer to a questionnaire circulated by the French National Federation of Automobile, Bicycle, Aeronautical, and Related Trades. The letters indicated general dissatisfaction with the blends, not only because of operating difficulties, but also because of damage to motor parts and car finishes. The one noticeable advantage, reduced knocking, was offset by the many disadvantages.

"This Association is opposed to legislation compelling American motorists to use any one type of fuel. Such legislation, even were blended fuels superior, would be vicious, unjust, and an outright violation of American principles of government and business conduct."

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Moon have returned from Cisco, where they visited their daughter, who is very ill.

EX WALLER CANDIDATE FOR STATE TREASURER

Austin, Texas.—Rex Waller of Trinity County, candidate for State Treasurer, has opened headquarters in the Driskill Hotel here with Richard Hudson in charge of the office.

Mr. Waller is well known throughout the state, having been Assistant State Tax Commissioner during the administration of Gov. Pat Neff. He has served as Assistant Controller of Houston and as Comptroller of Westaco. He was also City Manager in the Tri-Cities, Goose Creek, Pelly, and Baytown.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Waller declared, "I am elected State Treasurer, I shall see that the State Treasury is not used as a dumping ground for worthless securities and that the taxpayers' money is not lost in defunct banks. I am as equally determined that there will be no job selling or job swapping in the State Treasury Department during my administration."

Mr. Waller, who is 33 years of age, is seeking an elective office for the first time. He was born in Houston County, and received his common school education in that county and Trinity County. He later attended Allen Academy, Tyler Commercial College, and the University of Texas. In 1923 he married Mary Louise Anderson at Weslaco, Texas, and they have a daughter three years of age.

Mr. Waller was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention in 1928, and served as secretary to the State Democratic Convention at Lubbock in 1932. He has been active among the Young Democrats of America having helped to organize them in four zones of Texas.

GULF WINS MORE "HILL TESTS" THAN 32 GASOLINES COMBINED

A BORROWED FORD tests 12 competing gasolines on Muldrough Hill, near West Point, Ky., to see which gas can pull the car and 3500-lb. load farthest up hill in high gear.

Will your car have more power on any one gasoline? HERE'S YOUR ANSWER...

Gulf tested a total of 33 gasolines on famous American hills—12 hills in localities from Massachusetts to Georgia—and here is what they found...

The power of different gasolines varies widely! And of all 33 gasolines, Gulf is uniformly best. 7 out of 12 times, it propelled a car and load up mountain grades farther than any other gasoline tested!

It won more hill tests than 32 other gasolines combined! Prove it! Drive into a Gulf station, fill up, and test the power of That Good Gulf for yourself!

HOW 33 GASOLINES RANKED (IN ALL TESTS TO DATE)

All gasolines tested, except a few "third grade" brands, sold for approximately the same price as That Good Gulf. Each brand is denoted by a letter.

there's more power in THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

—THE CUB'S DEN—

The material for the school paper this week was prepared by the members of the Junior class of '34. This class is a group that will try to do their best in everything they undertake. The present Junior class, will be the Seniors of '35 and we find among their dreams of the future a desire to publish their own school paper. This is a task that no other class of B. H. S. has attempted. We leave it to the readers of the "Cub's Den" to decide whether we are capable of undertaking this.

We believe that a high school as large as B. H. S. and one in which there is as much of interest taking place should be able to take this job and accomplish it in a pleasing and effective manner. The Senior class of '35 will be a group of students with working minds. We believe the Senior class should be the group to publish the school paper because of their superiority and ability. The Seniors should always take the lead in school activities. Last of all, we believe we are able to accomplish this task as we have had three years of experience in helping edit the school paper, and we are ready and willing to do our best.

THANKS

The Junior Class of '34 wishes to express their appreciation for the work done by Miss Winston and the Home Economics girls in preparing for the Junior-Senior banquet. We realize that if we had not had their help the banquet would not have been carried out in the manner that it was.

FAREWELL

The Junior Class, in bidding farewell to the Seniors of '34, wishes each of them success and happiness in the years to come. This is a sad occasion for us, for we have attended B. H. S. with you for three years which we have enjoyed immensely. We realize that it is left up to us to carry on next year as Seniors, and we also realize that it will be very difficult to fill the place and succeed as well as you have this year. You have spent this year studiously and are due a reward, for you have made the goal. As you leave to go out into the world may you always remember those you are leaving behind, and the school that is dear to us all.

A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF THE BANQUET

The Junior-Senior Banquet was a great success except for a few trifling accidents. The students and faculty had a wonderful time, and I'm sure they will admit it was the best they ever attended.

The accidents that occurred served to make the banquet more humorous. The most noted accident was when Mr. Wester was trying to confiscate a long stick of candy. Upon being opposed, he drew his arm back and in his haste he hit his tea glass—and that was the last of his tea. For the next five minutes the students could not distinguish the difference between his red cap and his face.

As usual Pete Owens had to be in the confusion. As he reached for a small unprotected girl's streamer, his sleeve encountered her ice cream and when he drew his hand back, half of his ice cream was gone.

J. B. Ford, our javelin thrower, tried to practice with an ice tea spoon tied to his streamer. He threw it over a decoration and as it came down hit a fellow classmate's head, bending the spoon and getting tea on the classmate.

Boy Tarpley also reached for a streamer. In his eagerness, his chair slipped and over Went Boy, streamer and all. The unusual fact was that Boy came up blushing.

JUST IMAGINE

The Junior class NOT making the best grades in B. H. S. B. H. S. without the Junior Class. Queenelle stepping out with a certain boy in B. H. S.

How it would be to step out in the hall and not see two or three Juniors. Jack D. Wester with a light olive complexion.

Margene with black hair. Mr. Ledbetter not bragging A. T. with short pants on. Irene tall and slim. The Juniors not knowing their geometry lesson. Kathy not speaking French.

WHO'S WHO IN THE JUNIOR CLASS

What is the best class in B. H. S.? What Junior boy and girl "have up a case?"

Who is making the best grades in the Junior class? Who is it that has worked so hard making the Junior class the best class in B. H. S.?

Who is the vice president of the Junior class? Who is the artist of the Junior class?

What Junior boy threw his spoon across the table at the Junior-Senior banquet?

Who are the basketball stars of the Junior class?

Who is the jelly-bean we see wearing a tam quite often?

Who is the bass singer of the Junior class?

What Junior girl do we see drive up in a big Dodge every morning?

Who are the silliest girls in the Junior class?

Who is the most handsome man in the Junior class?

What girl in the Junior class is "pretty but dumb?"

What declaimer is in the Junior class?

What girl in the Junior class always wears red?

Who is the girl in the Junior class who is always "happy-go-lucky" without a worry or a thought?

Who is the girl who was smart in Algebra II but dumb in Plane Geometry?

Who is that short girl and that tall girl we see quite often together?

TO AUSTIN

Mr. Ledbetter left Thursday morning for Austin where he will enter Earl Manning in track. Earl won this trip by out-distancing his rivals at the District Meet at Lubbock and at the Regional Meet at Canyon. Manning keeps well-conditioned and is in every way a man to bring joy to the heart of a coach. It is hoped that he will make a good showing this year at Austin.

He is only a Sophomore with two more years in High School. B. H. S. is looking to him for even better things in the future; the school believes in him as a model school citizen who is willing to pay the price to keep himself in good condition.

"THE WRECKER"

On Tuesday night, May 8, 1934, "The Wrecker," a comedy drama in three acts will be presented in the high school auditorium. The cast has been chosen from all four classes in high school. It is a school play given to further improve the library and is sponsored by the Dramatic Club.

The cast includes: Dick Halton, the district attorney —John McLeod Herbert Tyler, a college chum —Sam Chisholm Phil Johnson, a bond salesman —Clifton Jones Smith, a man servant —Logan Redford

Pauline Arnold, a gold digger —Esther Ruth Smith Louise Halton, Dick's wife —Ima George Warren Alice White, Halton's ward —Margene Griffin Sally, the Halton housekeeper —Yrma Sudderth

Islette, Pauline's maid —Kathy Hunter

It is the last school play of the year. The advertising committee is busy with plans to fill the auditorium to capacity. Tickets have been numbered and a sales committee of girls is working to sell one for each seat. A variety program is being planned for the intermission between acts. Everyone connected with the play is giving his best efforts to make it a program well worth the time and price of admission.

SENIOR PLAY

Tuesday night, April 24, 1934 at 8:00 o'clock the curtains were drawn in the high school auditorium to present one of the best Senior plays that has been presented in B. H. S. for a long time—"Youth Comes Tripping."

The Senior Class cleared $60.

The faculty, student body, and visitors who were present wish to compliment the Seniors and their sponsor in the success of their play. It is believed that there is some good material for true dramatics in the Senior Class of '34. Among the best characters were Dr. and Mrs. Skinner played by Woodrow Chambliss and Mary D. Thomas. The others of the cast were:

Bobby Dunn—R. L. Bandy Mr. Bryson—Boy Tarpley Speed Temple—Wilton Smith. Tom Kane—Kenneth Purtell Sheriff—Austin Green Betty Kane—Francis McPherson. Lillian Pagent—Martha McClish. Between Act I and II Esther Ruth Smith gave two readings—"Between the Lines" and "All Set for a Summer Trip." Musicians entertained before the play began and between Acts II and III.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatic Club of B. H. S. met in the English room Monday, April 30, for their regular club day. The program was made up of talks concerned with the end of school and an outlook for the school year of 1934-'35.

The following program was given: Yrma Sudderth—Six jokes.

Howard Boucher—"What Will Be come of the Senior Class of '34?"

Mr. Wester—"The Dramatic Club of '34-'35."

Roy Chambliss—"The Senior Class of '35."

Margene Griffin—"These Last Three Weeks of School in B. H. S."

PICTURE SELLING CAMPAIGN

In the picture sale that was held in B. H. S. there were $34.70 worth of pictures sold. The Freshmen bought $12.40, Sophomores $8.60, Juniors $6.30, and the Seniors $7.40. The school received 15% of this money which was $5.20. This money will be added to the library fund.

Several weeks ago a man representing the De Luxe Studio of Trinidad, Colo., came to the school and asked Mr. Lawlis for permission to take pictures. After much combing of hair and straightening of clothes, the pupils filed in for exposure, everyone hoping for the best.

In due time the pictures arrived, a great deal of excitement took place when they were passed out. Some pupils were pleased, and some were disappointed. There were a few that wouldn't show their pictures at all. Most of the pupils that bought pictures exchanged them with friends. Others however, were planning for spring gardens, museums of old relics, and similar commercial adventures. A few boys were known to whisper something about inspiration. It is not known why that word was mentioned.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

The Civics Club and the Science Club entertained the student body in chapel, Wednesday morning. Mrs. Roy Herod played several numbers on her accordion for the Civics Club. Several of the Science boys gave a talk on some of the items of current interest in the world of science.

Also there was a tug of war between six boys. The rope was charged with electricity, but before their testing time came the electricity had passed from the rope.

SENIOR CLASS OF 1934-'35

The class that will make up the Senior Class of '35 is indeed a great class. You ask us why we say this, so we will give you reasons.

First, we have from the time we were Freshmen led our school in scholarship. There has been a spirit of rivalry among the members which has led to competition and hard work. Second, it was an admitted fact by everyone that, when we were Freshmen, we were the greenest class ever to come to B. H. S. In our Sophomore year we received the reputation of being the most cheery class in school. In this past year as Juniors, we have become sort of reserved and non-active group but, we are still vitally interested in what happens.

Third, our class is made up of the greatest people in school. "Oh! Yeah!" say the Seniors and others, but it is true. For example: Irene Adams speaks as good if not better than any other girl in school. Wilma Frank Dunn is a Plane Geometry demon. Margene Griffin, whose flaming red hair adds a touch of color to our class, is unusual. Ruby Nell Smith is the author in our class. Queenelle Sawyer is that beloved debater and Garbo has nothing on her. Jocelyn Lambert's cartoons have won fame and recognition. Kathy Hunter is an English student of high degree. Ethel Pippin's laughter is the center of attraction in English class. Ima George Warren has nothing on Mae West. (Or maybe it's the other way.) Sallie Ruth Cox is the mystery lady. Lois White is French by birth but shows faint signs of English. Clyde Dallas is the left-handed demon whose ability is exceeded only by his personality. Logan Redford is now halfway to Hollywood. Roy Chambliss' greatest ambition is to be Logan's director, and his ability to stretch the truth is sufficient qualification. Truett Flache is our football captain and ladies' man. J. B. Ford is that unusual red-headed young fellow. Bill Savage has a voice which is exceeded only by his ability to win the ladies. Vernon Pharr's deep bass singing has and will continue to thrill the people.

This is a summary of our class, and with several additions, it will be great. Written by "One Who Knows."

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

On Friday evening, April 27, 1934, the Junior and Senior Banquet was held in the hall of the high school building.

When the long awaited hour had arrived the guests were told to wait in the Clothing Lab. From all the laughing, gazing, and gabbing it seemed as if everyone was having a grand time. It is likely they were thinking about the eats.

After everyone had arrived Queenelle Sawyer played the "Mess Call."

Tech Wins Dressed Steer Contest Again

Lubbock, Texas, April.—For the third consecutive year the Texas Technological College entrant has won first place at the dressed carcass contest held at the Southwestern Exposition at the Fat Stock Show in Ft. Worth, according to J. B. Davis, secretary-manager of the Stock Show.

"We not only had the highest dressing steer, but also the second highest," Prof. W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department, stated. "Last year we also had the same positions in the contest, and in 1932 placed first. All of these were won by Hereford steers except the second place of last year which was an Aberdeen-Angus."

The steer which won first place this year in the dressed carcass contest, "Sir Diamond 5th", held third place in the Junior Yearling Hereford Steer contest. It weighed 1,256 pounds on foot and yielded 70.4 per cent dressed, selling for $8.75 per cwt.

"Our Texas Baby", winner of second place, yielded 70.2 dressed, weighing 1,465 on foot, and selling for $9.00 per cwt.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Owing to a number of requests of late, the ministr is to preach next Sunday morning on "Women Teachers in the Church." Many good people are confused about when, where and how Christian women may teach. 10:00 A. M. there will be Bible study, and the church is anxious to teach the largest number possible. Come and bring a friend.

Owing to extreme hoarseness, the minister was not able to preach last Sunday night on the announced subject, "Heaven—What is it? Where is it? Who will go there?" This subject will be discussed Sunday 8:15 p. m. The public is cordially invited. Brethren in Christ, let's awake to full duty and privilege. Attend every service and put your whole life and influence into the Lord's great work.

O. M. Reynolds, Minister.

Everyone marched into the beautifully decorated hall to look for his place. Of course there was a hustle and stir in trying to find them. When everyone had found his place Mr. Wester gave the convocation. After the guests were seated the Glee Club sang a few selections dedicating them to various teachers. Everyone then sang the old familiar song "School Days." Roy Chambliss, president of the Junior class, and the live toastmaster, told a joke or two as a kind of "Hot Air Exhaust." Next was heard "Coals of Fire" by Logan Redford. Kenneth Purtell could not let Roy get by with anything so he got "Sweet Revenge." Irene Adams gave a reading entitled "Boys." Of course we could not leave out our friend Mrs. Herod, so we heard a number from her on her accordeon, "Pellets of Pan," they called it. To carry out the theme further, Bill Savage gave a reading, "In History Class." Queenelle Sawyer made a talk about the faculty "More Lies." Mr. Lawlis made a very interesting talk to "Stop That." Last but not least the Senior president, Woodrow Chambliss, better known as "Woodie" gave a farewell talk—a speech that we will never forget.

The theme carried out through the banquet was "The Little Red Schoolhouse." Replica of one large schoolhouse was placed in the center of the table and two smaller ones at the ends. The favors were slates with the program on the inside. The hall was beautifully decorated with red and white paper hanging from the ceiling and walls. The school colors were carried out in the menu which consisted of fruit cocktail, creamed potatoes, green beans, chicken a la king, strawberry ice cream and cake.

From the reports of each person present it seems everyone had a grand time.

There were about seventy-five present, counting nineteen Juniors, about thirty-seven Seniors, the faculty and wives, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Herod, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cobb, and a former teacher of B. H. S., Miss Mary Perkins.

There are 2,300 daily newspapers in the United States.

Ferocious Piranhas Are Bulldog Fish of Amazon

Explorers annually bring back tales of the danger from the piranhas, and how a school of the fish will strip a man's meat from his bones in a remarkably short time if he falls into water infested by them.

These aquatic bulldogs have been introduced into aquaria as pets. The demand is not large because they will make short work of other tank-mates. As a rule they will not tolerate even each other in confined quarters and will fight like fiends until but one remains. However, this pugnacious attitude fascinates some aquarists. They like piranhas as some persons have a leaning toward tigers or rattlesnakes, says the New York Herald Tribune.

Twenty-nine species of piranhas have been classified from the Amazon drainage. Externally the various species are much alike except in size. Some species reach a length of 20 inches, but most of them averages about 6 or 8 inches in the adult stage. They are silvery, marked with touches of copper red.

In appearance the piranha shows his meanness. He has a stubby body and an underslung jaw set between two large eyes, which gives him a pugilistic cast. In their native habitat they are said not to travel in schools, but the scent of blood brings them on the run, and hundreds gather within a few minutes.

If a man falls into a stream where piranhas are numerous, the chances are 10 to 1 that he will be attacked within a short time. The fish, equipped with effective teeth, attack their victim by snapping small pieces. A single fish can only take a small bite, but a large school strips a man in 20 minutes.

Electricity Gone Astray Spoils Water in Pipes

Stray electricity from the house wiring system or some other source has been found to discolor and to change the taste of water delivered to the consumer, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Frequently, such a condition will prevail in the house piping, yet be absent in the water in the street main.

An investigation by a water company tends to show that alternating current may change the quality of water. It has been established that direct current disintegrates water mains. The wayward current arises from "promiscuous grounding." The primary function of the ground wire is safety. It is an avenue of escape for current diverted from its normal course by a leak or a defect in insulation. The simplest ground is the water pipe.

When the current, instead of dissipating itself harmlessly in the earth, continues its activity, the water and the pipe containing it are damaged. The stray current sometimes makes water blue, green or red and frequently creates disagreeable odors and metallic tastes suggestive of tin, lead or rust.

Ozone Protects Life

Our atmosphere, estimated to be about 500 miles deep, is made up of many elements. One of these, ozone, (a form of oxygen) has attracted a lot of attention. If all this element were collected and compressed together, according to the Smithsonian Institution, it would make a layer around the earth but one-eighth inch thick. Yet, it is very important to life. This ozone belt extending some 40 miles above the earth filters the violet rays of the sun and allows only those necessary to life to pass—the short ones. Most of the long rays (destructive to life) are retained outside this belt. Some do penetrate but their damage is quickly repaired by the short radiation.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Some Never Will Learn

A distinguished naturalist tells of the strangest of all animal and bird migrations. Every four or five years a large number of lemmings, a small rodent, an inhabitant of Norway, treks from north to south, the migration being caused by over-population. Arriving at the south, they plunge headlong, and without apparent rhyme or reason, into the North sea and are drowned in hundreds. Many centuries ago, this part of the North sea was dry land, and the rodents have not yet learned that it is sea.

The Solomons

The Solomons, 900 miles northeast of Australia, are among the most remote of the Pacific islands, yet, save for the Ladrone, and perhaps the Marshalls, they were the earliest found by Europeans. They were discovered, strangely, from Peru, where adventurers, thirsting for more gold, heard rumors of a continent close by to the west. Lost for 200 years, they were rediscovered in 1767.

How I Broke Into The Movies

Copyright by Hal C. Herman

BY WILLIAM BOYD

POSSIBLY I would never have faced a motion picture camera if I hadn't arrived in Orange, Calif., with only 35 cents to my name. My destination was San Diego, 100 miles away, but one can't travel even 100 miles on 35 cents.

My parents had died in my early teens, so I was obliged to shift for myself. For some undefinable reason I always had wanted to go to San Diego, and I left high school in Tulsa, Okla., with that idea.

My first job in Orange was quite a natural one for a hungry kid. It was as a grocery clerk. I was standing in front of a window filled with edibles, thinking how good any portion of the display would taste. The proprietor placed a card in the window. It announced the need of a clerk. I supplied the need.

While I was saving money to journey on to San Diego, I met some fellows working with a motion picture company on location near Orange. We struck up a friendship of sorts and they insisted I would screen well and should come to Hollywood. I was young and my ambitions easily diverted. Hollywood became my mecca instead of San Diego.

However, it was more than a year before I tried to make the grade in motion pictures. I had sense enough to know I probably would not set the world on fire overnight, so I determined to save enough money to keep me going for awhile if I could not find work.

I left the grocery store to become an automobile salesman. Then I found I could make more money and amass my reserve fund in less time if I discarded the white collar and put my muscles into action. I got a job as an oil driller. Then followed a period of extra work until the war broke out. I enlisted in June, 1917, but alas for any dreams I cherished of eventually wearing gold stars on my shoulders. I was discharged three months later for athletic heart, a souvenir of football I used to play in my high school days.

I then ran the post exchange at Marsh field, Riverside, Calif., for some time. I was a little older now, and upon returning to Hollywood renewed the trips to the studios. I had begun to regard the possibility of motion picture work very seriously, so I was delighted when, in 1919, I was lucky enough to catch the attention of Cecil B. De Mille, who gave me a bit in "Why Change Your Wife." Other minor roles in various pictures followed, and Mr. De Mille gave me small parts in several of his productions.

I was placed under contract with a featured role in "The Road to Yesterday." Then came my big chance in "The Volga Boatman." This picture was a milestone in my life in more ways than one, for it was during its making that I met and married Elinor Fair.

I like working in motion pictures, particularly when I play such roles as I had in "The Volga Boatman," "Jim, the Conqueror," "The Yankee Clipper" and "Dress Parade." Since becoming a Pathe star I have appeared in such screen hits as "Skyscraper," "The Leatherneck," "Two Arabian Knights," "Lady of the Pavements," "High Voltage" and "The Flying Fool."

My father was a civil engineer, and if my parents had lived and I had been able to attend college, I would more than likely have adopted the same profession. But things didn't work out that way. However, I always enjoy the up-and-down characterizations which remind me of my father and the plans for my own future which he and I so often discussed.

Spencer Tracy Starred in Many Broadway Successes

Spencer Tracy made his debut on Broadway in "Brend," which was followed by engagements in "Nigger Rich" and "The Last Mile." His excellent performance in the last production resulted in his receiving a contract from Fox films. He made his first picture appearance in "Up the River" in 1930. His more recent productions are: "She Wanted a Millionaire," "Sky Devils," "Disorderly Conduct," "Young America," "Society Girl," "Painted Woman," and "Me and My Gal."

New Bath House, Sand Beach For Two-Draw

Work on the new bath house at Two Draw Lake is well underway and the hauling of the sand for the seventy-five foot sand beach is near completion.

The new bath house will be located on the west side of the lake just north of the foot bridge and will be one of the most modern in West Texas. It will have ample locker room and showers and the floor will be of concrete, which insures cleaner and more sanitary quarters. The new basket system of caring for clothing and other articles belonging to swimmers will be installed.

The diving platform will be large and equipped with three diving boards of various heights that will appeal to swimmers. The bath house and sand beach is being rushed to completion in order to be ready for early swimmers.

Not only will the new bath house and beach make the lake a drawing card but the barbecue pits, new stationary tables and benches and new boats will add to the attractiveness of Two Draw as an outing center of Post and West Texas.—Post Dispatch.

AGED WOMAN PASSES

After a lingering illness of cancer of the face, at the age of 82, Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Young passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. I. H. White, Monday, 5:45 p. m.

Grandma Young came to Brownfield to make her home with her daughter three years ago last October. Most of her long life was spent in Howard county, Ark. In this county she was married to T. J. Young on June 20, 1867. To this union eleven children were born, seven of whom survive her, and the two daughters who live in Brownfield are Mrs. I. H. White and Mrs. J. S. Gibson.

Twenty-six years ago Grandma Young became a member of the church of Christ. Appropriate services were conducted by the minister, O. M. Reynolds, assisted by A. L. Burnett, at the local meeting house of the church of Christ Tuesday,

2:30 p. m., after which the body was interred in the local cemetery.
