County Library Proposal Turned Down By Voters

Dulles Office Says U.S. Is Alert To Duty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Defense Department, apparently seeking to keep the Red Chinese guessing, said cryptically today it is "alert" to its responsibilities in the area of Quemoy Island and has "certain fleet units" at sea. Quemoy has been under bombardment by Chinese Communists for two days.

The remarks were made at a news conference held by Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred A. Seaton. But in response to further questions he said he was "not aware of any specific orders" to the U.S. 7th Fleet to go to the aid of Nationalist-held Quemoy, just off the Red mainland.

This left up in the air the big question:

Would the shelling of the island, which has resulted in the death of two U. S. officers, lead to a clash between Red forces and those of the United States?

The answer could depend in part on what further action the Reds take, if any, to follow up the bombardment. In some quarters, it was believed the gunfire was not a prelude to any outward thrust by the Communists but was designed primarily as a feeling out process and perhaps as an effort to sow disharmony in the Southeast Asia defense conference opening in Manila Monday.

President Eisenhower has warned that if the Reds tried to mount any attack on Formosa, big island stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, they would have to run over the 7th Fleet first.

But neither Eisenhower nor any other high official has stated just which of the smaller Nationalists islands in the general area of Formosa the United States would feel called upon to defend.

Secretary of State Dulles said on Aug. 24 that American forces would be justified in defending some of the islands between Formosa and the mainland.

But he said it would be up to military authorities to decide just which ones they would protect as part of the over-all strategy of upholding Chiang Kai-shek. Military authorities have never become specific.

Quemoy, which has been bombarded on two successive days, hugs the mainland closely and is 100 miles from Formosa. It is seven miles from Amoy, Red-held island city just off the mainland. Quemoy can be hit by artillery either from the mainland or Red islands.

Asst. Defense Secretary Seaton said in response to questions that "We are alert to our responsibilities in the area" and that "certain units of our fleet are at sea."

But in response to questions whether the 7th fleet has new orders to step in for the protection of the small islands, he said:

"I am not aware of any specific orders to that effect."

China Reds Continue To Bombard Quemoy

By FRED HAMPSON

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Sept. 5 (AP)—Guns on the Red mainland of China yesterday intermittently bombarded Quemoy Island where already their shells have killed two U. S. Army officers.

The attack on the Chinese Nationalist stronghold is being watched closely in Washington.

"We are alert to our responsibilities in the area," a Defense Department spokesman said.

The two Americans killed in a five-hour artillery attack on Quemoy Friday were members of the Military Assistance Advisory Group of Formosa. They were:

Lt. Col. Frank W. Lynn, Medical Corps, whose wife, Mrs. Eleaner Lynn, lives at Chicago.

Lt. Col. Alfred Mendendorp, infantry, whose father, Cornelis Mendendorp, lives at 117 Griggs St., S.W., Grand Rapids, Mich.

The two officers were on a training and inspection mission to Quemoy, seven miles off the Red-held mainland, across the Formosa Strait from Formosa.

In Washington, Fred A. Seaton, assistant secretary of the Defense Department, told a news conference the "department is alert to our responsibilities" in the Quemoy region. He added that "certain units of our fleet are at sea."

The U. S. 7th Fleet is in Formosa Straight under orders to protect Formosa, the seat of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government, from Communist invasion. Seaton said, however, he was not aware of any "specific orders" to the fleet to protect any other Nationalist islands.

Seaton told reporters the U. S. government is watching the Quemoy situation "but we have no idea on the extent to which it might go or where it stops."

A Chinese Nationalist army spokesman said the Communists probably would soon attempt an invasion of Quemoy. Lt. Gen. Chang Yi-ting, head of the Defense Ministry's political section, however, said there is no concrete evidence of a Red invasion buildup. He added:

"We are prepared for anything."

The U. S. officers were killed by a shell which hit a bunker where they had taken refuge.

(Asst. Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton said in Washington:

("At the time of the shelling, a small number of U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group to Formosa were on a normal training and inspection mission to Quemoy." He said Chinese Nationalist troops stationed on Quemoy "are American trained and equipped under the provisions of the mutual defense assistance program."

(Seaton said no further details on the death of the two officers were available at this time.)

U. S. Rep. Joseph H. Holt (R-Calif) told reporters in Hong Kong yesterday he was under bombardment on Quemoy for 20 minutes and his plane took off for Formosa amid exploding shells.

Some passengers on the plane said they observed antiaircraft bursts after the plane was in the air.

The Defense Ministry said yesterday's sporadic shelling of Quemoy was at no time as severe as the Friday bombardment, in which about 5,000 shells were fired.

A communique described the inhabitants of Quemoy as "calm."

AMERICAN WORKERS TO CELEBRATE LABOR DAY

By The Associated Press

American workers and their families throughout the 48 states took their last fling at a long summer weekend today before settling down for another long haul in the factory, store, office, mine or classroom.

Generally fair weather over much of the country favored excursions to beaches and picnic areas and brought crowds to sports events.

Drivers of the family cars hit the highways with words of caution dinned into their ears from all sides and with this plea from President Eisenhower:

"Let's fool the experts. Let's all be alive next Tuesday."

The National Safety Council estimated that 390 persons will be killed in traffic accidents over the three-day weekend. An Associated Press survey showed 346 lives lost in motor mishaps over a nonholiday weekend, Aug. 20-23.

Michigan, which led the nation in fatal traffic accidents over the July 4 weekend, proclaimed a state of emergency and called out the National Guard to help patrol highways and guard danger spots.

Eisenhower said in a Labor Day message:

"On this day all Americans once again give thanks that we live in a country which upholds the high belief that every citizen should have the right to seek freely the works he wants to do . . .

"A slave state may force its masses to brutish, endless toil. But it never can produce that deep and tremendous surge of might which comes to a nation when each man knows that he is . . . a free man . . . "

The President planned to spend the holiday with Mrs. Eisenhower at the home of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, in Denver.

Monday he will make a five-minute informal talk over television and radio in connection with an 11 a.m. (EST) ceremony breaking ground for the first atomic power plant to be built for peaceful purposes.

Eisenhower will wave a radioactive wand to start the groundbreaking 1,200 miles away, at Shipping Port, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

Labor Day statements were issued by union, business and other leaders. Many of them compared the lot of the free workers in America with laborers in Communist-ruled countries and deplored the threat of Red aggression.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said: "American workers on the whole are better off materially than any other workers in the world."

Some top union leaders, including Presidents George Meany of the AFL. Walter Reuther of the Clo, and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, criticized Eisenhower administration actions on the economic front.

Officers Keep Tight Vigil To Halt Looting

BOSTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Police redoubled efforts today to prevent looting of hurricane-wracked coastal communities as the Labor Day weekend brought an influx of visitors into resort areas.

Orders to shoot any persons refusing to halt in the storm-damaged sections of Kingston, R.I., were given to police of that town.

Massachusetts state police sent scores of detectives and plainclothes men into coastal towns to watch for thieves pilfering from the wreckage of peoples homes, boats and stores.

Meanwhile, public officials strove to total up the loss accurately, but some sources said it will be weeks before the final total is known.

Two big insurance organizations, the New England Fire Insurance Rating Assn. and Mutual Fire Insurance Assn. of New England, estimated that claims on insured buildings will amount to 100 million dollars.

But they said that not all claims have been made, nor does that figure cover losses to public buildings, streets, and the like.

Nor does it include thousands of automobiles which were damaged in the storm, nor the thousands of yachts and commercial vessels which were wrecked or damaged.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Dennis J. Roberts estimated the total loss in his state would exceed 200 million dollars.

There was no statewide official estimate in Massachusetts, but scattered reports indicated the loss was heavy.

In the Salem area, the loss in boats alone was estimated at five million dollars.

The town of Mattapoisett estimated its losses to property at more than a million—a fifth of the total town valuation. The loss was even heavier in other summer resort towns of the Cape Cod area.

New Bedford reported an estimate of 50 million dollars damage in that city and surrounding towns alone. But, city officials said, the figure is strictly a guess.

In Long Island, N.Y., which was the first area damaged by hurricane Carol, the loss was estimated at five million dollars.

Connecticut's losses were estimated at "many millions" but but there was no official estimate of how great the loss was.

There were estimates, but no definite figures, of losses of 10 million dollars in Maine, and several million in New Hampshire.

REDS SAY FORMOSA PLANES MAKE RAID

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP) — Red China reported tonight four Nationalist China fighter planes made a bombing raid today on Amoy, near the Nationalists Quemoy Island outpost on the China coast, and lost one plane to Communist antiaircraft fire.

Another of the planes, identified as F47s, was reported damaged by Communist ack-ack.

The report in a Peiping broadcast heard here said fighters dropped two bombs at 7:45 a.m. on Amoy, a Communist port 125 miles across the Formosa Strait from Formosa but only a few miles from Nationalist Quemoy.

The radio said one plane hit by ack-ack at Amoy fell into the sea. It made no mention of bomb damage on Amoy.

Final Count Lists 48-Vote Margin

Scurry County voters Saturday turned down a proposal to establish a free public library here.

The complete, unofficial returns showed that 621 votes were cast against the proposal, while 573 favored it.

The election actually was an opinion poll. The referendum was called after petitions circulated by the Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee were presented to the commissioners court.

Only five of the county's 20 voting boxes, including three of four in Snyder voted in favor of the library.

Rural boxes which favored the proposal were Ennis Creek, with an eight to five count, and Lloyd Mountain, which had six votes for and three votes against.

One Snyder box, No. 1 in the northeast area of the city, voted against the proposal, 108 to 73.

The voters were asked to decide whether the commissioners court should set aside from the general tax fund or permanent improvement fund not more than 10 cents for every $1 county tax rate annually for maintenance and improvements for a county library, and whether warrants not to exceed $150,000 should be issued to finance construction of a library building.

"We are grateful for the good turnout at the polls Saturday," said the Rev. Ronald Hubbard, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Civic Affairs Committee. "We asked the voters to decide and they did. Although I have no apology to make for supporting the proposal, I certainly bear no ill will toward those who opposed it. It was simply a democratic process and the people have made their wishes known."

CAPTAIN SETS SPEED RECORD

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 4 (AP)—A 30-year-old Air Force captain, who was shot down on his 30th mission in World War II, today set a new Bendix Trophy record of 616.208 m.p.h. in the jet race from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to the National Aircraft Show here.

Capt. Edward W. Kenny of Van Dyke, Mich., in a new Republic F84f Thunderstreak, averaged more than 12½ m.p.h. faster than last year's record. He covered the 1,900 miles in 3 hours, 1 minute and 56 seconds, nearly four minutes less than last year's record.

Maj. William T. Whisner Jr. won the trophy here in 1953 with an average speed of 603.547 m.p.h., in 3 hours, 5 minutes and 45 seconds.

All the Bendix pilots today flew Thunderstreaks. Last year Maj. Whisner flew a North American F86F Sabrejet.

Capt. Kenny was one of 10 Air Force pilots who started the race, taking off from Edwards AFB at 10 minute intervals beginning at 8 a.m., (EST).

Capt. Kenny made two three-minute refueling stops, at La Junta, Colo., and Olathe, Kan.

On arrival here he credited his victory to the crew chief and mechanic who helped refuel his aircraft and plan his flight, and to the fact that he flew without external fuel tanks, as did some of the other pilots.

He said he flew at three altitudes in three stages of his flight, 38,000 feet from takeoff to La Junta, 20,000 feet from La Junta to Olathe, and 28,000 feet to Vandalia. He said at one point he hit a maximum speed of 645 m.p.h. He crossed the home pylon at nearby Vandalia Airport with 20 gallons of fuel left in his tanks.

He said the best leg of his trip was from La Junta to Olathe flying at lower altitudes so that he could pull a higher indicator speed with wind resistance.

Kenny said at La Junta he thought for a moment he would have to pull out of the race. There he saw a small plane cutting diagnolly across the field as he was landing and had to hit his brakes so hard they smoked.

Maj. Harry K. Evans, of Heaters W. Va., stationed with the Tactical Air Command at Langley AFB, near Hampton, Va., was second with a time of 3 hours, 4 minutes and 38.6 seconds and an average speed of 607.164 m.p.h. Third was Maj. Robert L. Stephens of Gilmer, Tex., of the Air Research and Development Command, Wright-Patterson AFB, Dayton. He marked up an average speed of 606.846 m.p.h. Maj. Stephens, the only other pilot to make two refueling stops besides Capt. Kenny, made the trip in 3 hours, 4 minutes and 44.4 seconds.

Eight pilots finished the race. Capt. Jesse E. Green of Leavenworth, Kan., representing the Air Proving Grounds Command, lost his hydraulic system and had to drop out at Lambert Field, St. Louis. Lt. Col. Thomas D. Robertson, of St. Paul, Minn., of the Tactical Air Command blew out a tire at a refueling stop.

Another Bank Merger Is Set

DALLAS, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Republic Bank of Dallas, which already claimed the title of Southwest's largest, announced plans today to merge with National City Bank of Dallas.

The merger, with the new bank to continue to be known as Republic National and Fred F. Florence continuing as president, has been approved by directors of both banks, it was announced today. Stockholders and the comptroller of the currency also must approve the move.

Florence also disclosed plans for a 10 million dollar increase in the bank's capital structure, bringing capital funds to 68 million. The First National Bank of Dallas, which earlier this year merged with Dallas National, is second in the Southwest in capital funds at 50 million dollars.

First National still leads the merged Republic National in deposits and resources.

Florence said the bank will occupy its new building here before Dec. 1. R. R. Gilbert, now board chairman of National City, will become vice-chairman of the board of the merged bank. Dewitt T. Ray, National City president, will become a senior vice president.

Rubber Plant Strike Settled

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4 (AP)—A three-week strike of 25,000 Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. workers was settled tonight with a new contract granting the 6½-cent pay increase pattern set in the rubber industry.

A joint statement by the company and union said the settlement provides "a new working agreement," in addition to the pay increase.

Terms of the working agreement were not disclosed and a Firestone official said there would be no additional details tonight.

Firestone has plants in Akron, Los Angeles, Noblesville, and New Castle, Ind.; Fall River, Mass.; Memphis, Des Moines and Pottstown, Pa.

The strike started Aug. 12.

Huge Truck Overturns Here Saturday Night

An International truck and semi-trailer loaded with a large Hough Payloader, dirt loading machine, overturned last night just outside the city limit on the Lamesa highway.

A witness said no one was injured. The truck was one of Frank Montgomery, local dirt contracting firm. The dual wheels and axle of the trailer were torn loose, and the dirt machine was heavily damaged.

Child Is Shot To Death Near Ira Saturday

A nine-year-old boy was shot to death near Ira shortly after noon yesterday. He was Charles Dean Loper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willaim R. Loper who live on a farm about two miles from Ira.

Details of the shooting were not revealed by several persons who attempted to learn of the incident, but all reported that the shooting was apparently accidental and occurred while the boy and his brother, about 11 years old, played with a .22-caliber rifle.

Howard Gibbons, deputy sheriff, said the boy was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital in a private car and was pronounced dead there by Dr. John O. Broaddus, who was quoted as saying that the bullet passed through the child's heart and lodged in his back.

Two other deputies and the sheriff, Homer Whisnand, said they knew none of the details.

W. C. Davidson, justice of peace, said later last night that he had tried to learn details of the incident and was withholding a coroner's verdict until more information could be obtained.

Bell Funeral Home reported that the funeral service had been tentatively set for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Place of the service was not determined, but burial was to be at the Rose Hill Cemetery at Merkel.

The funeral home listed survivors in addition to the parents as three sisters and five brothers; Mrs. Wanda June Merritt, Sherry Kay Loper, 17; Barbara Loper, five; Jessie Joel Loper, William Robert (Bob) Loper, 20; William R. Loper, Jr., 25; Horace (Lonnie) Loper, 23; and Elvin Myrel Loper, 11.

The boy was born Nov. 28, 1944.

Holiday Death Count Begins

By The Associated Press

Seventy-two persons were killed in traffic accidents on the nation's highways during the first 26 hours of the long Labor Day weekend. The total death list, from 6 p.m. Friday through 8 p.m. Saturday was 87, including 8 drownings and 7 deaths from miscellaneous causes.

The National Safety Council found the relatively low traffic toll encouraging.

Commented President Ned H. Dearborn:

"If this low death rate is maintained, the toll will be considerably below our estimate of 390 for the three-day weekend. And we will be delighted if it is."

Dearborn commented that the traffic toll in the early stages was similar to the tallies in the corresponding period of this year's Independence Day holiday. The three-day traffic toll then was 348.

Bill Planned To Require Designation Of Party

HILLSBORO Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—State Rep. Jim Carmichall said today he will introduce in the next Legislature a measure requiring voters to designate party preference when filing for a poll tax.

Carmichall said his proposed amendment to the Texas Election Code will prohibit a voter from participating in the primary of any other political party.

The legislator recalled Republican National Committeeman Jack Porter's recent claim that GOP voters, participating in the second Democratic primary, provided Gov. Shivers with his victory margin.

"Things are getting in a sad shape in Texas when a member of a minority party can justly brag about his party determining the nomination of the gubernatorial candidate of the Democratic party," said Carmichall.

Reports Reds Fired In June

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP)—The father of one of the two American army officers killed on Quemoy Island said today his son wrote last June that Chinese Reds were then firing on the island.

He also said his son told him the Reds had offered a $10,000 reward for the "capture" of any American officer in the area.

Cornelius Medendorp, father of Lt. Col. Alfred Medendorp, one of the two Americans who were killed, made the statements in an interview at his home here.

Col. Medendorp, 47, decorated veteran of World War II, was killed in the Red artillery attack on Quemoy last Friday.

The elder Medendorp said his son wrote in letters to him in June that "the Communists are shooting at us."

Farm Income Higher

AUSTIN, Sept. 4 (AP)—Texas farm cash income from January through July this year improved 1 per cent over the same period a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today. Income for the period totalled $798,100,000 this year, $67,320 more than the 1953 figure.

Unbalanced Policy Charged By Demos

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Democrats accused the Republican administration today of following an unbalanced policy toward communism under which "the drift toward general war goes forward remorselessly."

The Democratic National Committee released advance copies of an article which will appear in the October issue of its magazine Democratic Digest. It said:

"The administration should stop basing its policy decisions primarily on what will be politically palatable to the Old Guard faction of the Republican party.

"A faction which was defeated and discredited at the last Republican National Convention now obstructs, distracts, and misdirects the U. S. government through its ability to bully the administration."

The article recalled the Truman administration idea for "containment of communism" and said that now the Republican administration "has been gearing its decisions to a new and extremely risky form of containment.'" It continued:

"Before 1953, the American program was steadily to build up military power at home and among our allies, while other measures were being taken to increase the West's economic, social, political and diplomatic strength. The objective, of course, was a position of 'total strength.'

"But beginning with 1953, there was all along the line a deliberate slowdown in the build-up, both military and economic.

"Heavy cuts in Army, Navy, and Air Force were put into effect. Foreign economic aid was curtailed, the mutual security program was emasculated, Point Four was buried and technical assistance de-emphasized.

"Yet, strangely, major emphasis was placed on threats of military force, while outlays for the military establishment were reduced on a major scale. 'Bluffers' containment,' so to speak, was substituted for real containment.

"The drift toward general war goes forward remorselessly under the administration's unbalanced containment policy. Qualified observers are agreed that two steps are immediately necessary:

"1. Reverse the trend toward military retrenchment. Muffle the tough talk, and instead put the energy behind tough measures for the build-up of balanced military strength.

"2. Revive free-world economic cooperation. Let America release its tremendous industrial potential in a war against world hunger, a war in which the Communists cannot begin to compete."

State Is Due Fair Weather

By The Associated Press

A beautiful Labor Day weekend appeared in store for Texas.

No rain was reported Saturday, and skies were mostly clear.

Presido had the high, 101 degrees. The temperature got down to 55 at Mt. Pleasant for the low morning reading. Marfa had the low maximum, 86.

Drought burned on. Gov. Shivers recommended four more counties for drought disaster relief—Childress, Fisher, Morris and Stonewall. The Commodity Stabilization Service in Dallas said it has shipped the first cars of grain sorghum and oats to the direst areas.

There appeared little chance of any effective rain over the weekend. Some showers were in prospect along the coast and west of the Pecos Valley, but they were expected to be local and scattered.

Adenauer Says His Country Would Curtail Armed Forces

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany, Sept. 4 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer tonight pledged that, even after obtaining full sovereignty, West Germany would voluntarily limit her armed forces.

In a broadcast over all West German radio networks, the 78-year-old Chancellor said:

"The Federal Republic will be ready to impose on itself, even when in possession of full sovereignty, those restrictions on its armament which the continuation of the European policy requires."

Adenauer rejected the idea of an early conference of the United States, Britain, France and Russia over Germany.

The question of Germany and European security will have to be solved by such a Big Four conference one day, he said, but the Socialist opposition demand for an early meeting "is in no way compatible with German interests."

He was discussing consequences of the French Parliament's vote last Monday killing the six-nation European Defense Community treaty, under which West German troops would have been enrolled in a unified army.

He recalled that the Bonn government this week demanded that the Allies give West Germany full sovereignty and the right to make, without discrimination, a contribution to Western defense.

But he emphasized that did not mean a change in his government's policy of promoting European unity.

"The Federal Republic will always be ready to integate her national armed forces in a European army, just as are Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and—we hope—France," he said.

Adenauer made a considerable effort to heal the breach between France and West Germany over the collapse of EDC.

He said his government's decision to negotiate with the United States and Britain had been criticized by the German Socialist opposition as an attempt to snub or isolate France.

"That is, of course, nonsense," he said. "No responsible German politician would think of isolation or brushing off of France. I am deeply convinced that an understanding between France and Germany is the absolutely necessary foundation of every European policy."

He said that negotiations with the United States and Britain for German independence had begun "in a hearty atmosphere full of mutual confidence."

"In my opinion, further negotiations with France will follow," he said.

"The situation arising from the decision of the French National Assembly must be regarded with all gravity, with great caution and with great reserve," Adenauer said. "It seems illogical that in the long run it should be possible for the destiny of Europe to be influenced and even be decided by 100 (Communist) members of the Assembly who cast their votes as ordered by Moscow."

Adenauer quoted the statement of U. S. Secretary of State Dulles that it was impossible to deny the Federal Republic the right of individual and collective defense. The right of self-defense, Adenauer said, is a necessary foundation of a democratic state.

Summing up, he said it was necessary that Europe unite, that West Germany—and all of Germany after reunification — remain bound to the free West and that, in the interest of peace in Europe and the world, Germany makes, without discrimination, her contribution to defense.

The British Foreign Office announced in London today that Adenauer has received a message of "sympathy and encouragement" from Prime Minister Churchill in the EDC crisis.

A spokesman said the British high commissioner in Germany, Sir Frederick Hoyer-Millar, delivered the message to Adenauer Thursday and discussed with him Churchill's proposal for an eight-power Western conference in London.

President Makes Bird's-Eye Survey Of Reclamation Jobs

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER, Sept. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower soared 1,500 miles through Rocky Mountain skies today for a bird's - eye look at vast reclamation projects. He touched down at three cities in Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska for chummy chats with farmers, ranchers businessmen and politicians.

He told an applauding crowd of more than 3,500 at Grand Junction, Colo., airport: "Let's not make Washington the master of any free American's in the development of the West's gigantic projects.

Casper, Wyo., airport welcomers heard the President tell them: "What is good for agriculture interests is good for all of us." Civil Defense Director Stanley Edward estimated 4,000 persons were there for the President's half-hour visit.

The president swung back to his vacation headquarters at Denver after the third stop at McCook, Neb., where he was welcomed by a crowd estimated by state police at 3,000. He told the Nebraska group that the American people "ought to be slapping us down in Washington if the federal government gets too domineering."

Eisenhower told the McCook audience he gets no greater inspiration than when he gets out to meet the people of America. The inspiration comes, he added, from meeting Americans "who are paying the taxes." The President said the purpose of his trip was to "get a little practical education."

The first leg of the 9½-hour flight included a close look—from 2,000 feet—at the site north of Colorado Springs where the Air Force will build its 125-million-dollar academy. The plane continued on southward to Pueblo, Colo., where it turned westward to go over the Rockies.

This gave the President a look at the site of parts of the proposed 175-million-dollar Frying Pan-Arkansas project. A bill authorizing that work was passed by the Senate in the 83rd Congress but died in the House. The Frying Pan project would deliver water from western Colorado to the drought-plagued eastern sections.

Colorado Republican candidates and one Democratic aspirant—Rep. Wayne Aspinall—were at the Grand Junction airport to meet the President. He chatted briefly with Donald G. Brotzman, 32-year-old Republican opposing Democrat Ed C. Johnson, who is retiring after three terms in the Senate to seek the Colorado governorship again. Aspinall represents in Congress the western Colorado district including Grand Junction.

Rep. J. Edgar Chenowth Republican seeking re-election, was also there. He represents the southern Colorado district that would benefit from the Frying Pan project. The President was introduced by Gov. Dan Thornton, a Republican who declined to seek re-election.

Leaving Grand Junction for Wyoming, the presidential plane traveled north and swung over the Dinosaur National Monument, an isolated area on the Colorado-Utah border. Proposals to build a dam on the Green River at Echo Park in the monument area have touched off a nationwide controversy. Conservationists argue the dam, a key unit in the billion-dollar Colorado River storage project, would flood a wilderness area that should be preserved.

Ike Finishes Signing Bills

DENVER, Sept. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower has finished action on legislation passed by Congress this year by signing four bills, two of them aimed at combatting communism.

The summer White House announced today the President had signed the $2,781,499,816 foreign aid appropriations measure to bolster free nations in their battle against a threat of Communist aggression, and the final bill in the administration's "package" subversion control program.

This bill removes the right of citizenship from persons convicted of advocating the forceful overthrow of the government.

Two other bills were also signed and three others pocket vetoed, completing action on the 513 measures Eisenhower brought from Washington when he came to Colorado for his vacation Aug. 21. They raise to 488 the number of bills and 25 killed by pocket veto.

The foreign aid appropriation actually provides $5,243,575,795 by making available nearly 3 billion dollars in new money and nearly 2½ billion in funds voted in previous year.

Of the grand total, $4,315,212,729 is set aside for international military aid, including 700 million dollars for defense of Southeast Asia. Another 740 millions goes to Point Four Technical assistance to underdeveloped areas and miscellaneous foreign programs make up the remainder.

Also signed by the chief executive was a bill relaxing present restrictions on the immigration of persons convicted of a misdemeanor. It provides that a person convicted of a misdemeanor and jailed for not more than six months or fined not more than $500, or both, may not be excluded for that reason alone.

The fourth measure approved by the President is to facilitate private financing of merchant marine ship construction. The three bills he pocket vetoed were of secondary importance.

French General Is Released By Reds

By FORREST EDWARDS

HANOI, Indochina, Sept. 4 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, underweight and leaning on a cane, returned to freedom today after nearly four months in the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh.

The commander of the fallen Indochina fortress of Dien Bien Phu was visibly worn, but would not be put on a stretcher. He described himself as "not completely well," adding that he was hard to kill and would be in good health in a few days.

His first request was for French fried potatoes and a diet different from his prison fare consisting mainly of rice.

De Castries was brought to Hanoi from the exchange site at Viet Tri, where the Vietminh freed him last night. Gen. Rene Cogny, comander of the withdrawing French forces in North Indochina, whisked De Castries off in his staff car to the villa he occupied before he went to Dien Bien Phu last December as commander of that ill-fated outpost.

De Castries disclosed he was taken to a face-to-face meeting with Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the Vietminh commander in chief, several days after the fortress fell. He gave no details of the meeting.

De Castries said he was kept under constant guard of four men and in virtual isolation throughout his imprisonment. For the first four days, he added, he went without water. He is expected to be taken to Paris and a reunion with his wife within a few days.

Mrs. Jacqueline de Castries, blonde second wife of the 52-year-old career cavalry officer, said in Paris she "will take care of him like a child and he will forget these terrible months. I am so happy that I can't find the words to express it."

She received the news of her husband's release in her small apartment. "I could not sleep a minute afterward," she said. "I was too upset. I could not realize that it was true, and I wanted so much to know how he looks."

De Castries spoke only briefly to French correspondents here. Asked how he had been treated, he complained that Vietminh authorities insisted on keeping him apart from his staff officers, refusing him permission to see or talk with them throughout his imprisonment.

He looked thin and tired. Men who knew him before Dien Bien Phu said he was at least 20 pounds underweight, appeared several years older and had grayed considerably.

De Castries said he had been told that one of his officers died only three days ago. Until the death is confirmed and next of kin notified, French censors prohibit use of the name or rank.

The French News Agency reported De Castries emphasized to cameramen who cornered him after his release that the white flag of surrender had never been lifted at Dien Bien Phu.

As the highest ranking officer captured by the Vietminh during the Indochina war, De Castries won world attention. He was taken prisoner when the encircled garrison fell last May 7 after three months of siege.

Rescue Youth Second Time

HOUSTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—A youth was rescued from a ledge near the roof of an eight-story building last night after a former rodeo performer dropped a lasso around his neck.

Alvin Eugene Griffin, 19, spent about 45 minutes on the ledge, 200 feet above the ground. It was the same ledge from which Griffin was rescued April 24 when a priest offered him a cigarette.

After the April 24 event, Griffin's mother, Mrs. Katheleen Griffin, said her son had made five previous attempts at suicide. She said he was released from the Army last November on a medical discharge.

Griffin spent last night in the city jail but was released to his mother late this morning.

Police estimated 3,000 persons gathered at the intersection of Main and Capitol streets, in the heart of downtown Houston, to witness last night's rescue.

The former rodeo performer was J. M. Wren of Houston. District Fire Chief T. Raney said Wren approached him on the roof of the Kress Bldg., mentioned that he was once a rodeo performer and suggested lassoing the youth.

Wren missed on the first try and Griffin grabbed the rope and swung back and forth on the ledge. While the youth held the first rope, Wren threw a second lasso around his neck.

Chess Players Elect

FORT WORTH, Sept. 4 (AP)—W. H. James of Leroy was elected president of the Texas Chess Assn. today. Homer H. Hyde of Waco was named secretary-treasurer. The group selected Waco as the site for the 1955 Southwestern Open Chess Tournament. Some 100 players from eight states are competing for the southwestern championship in a tournament here.

TULSA, Sept. 4 (AP)—J. B. Smith, vice president of Sunray Oil Corp., has been elected president of the newly formed Valley States Oils, Inc., it was announced today.

GOP Expects Big Session

HOUSTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Texas Republicans are expecting their largest state convention Sept. 14 in Fort Worth.

Democrats will hold their state convention at the same time in Mineral Wells.

Republicans will meet at Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium. Three thousand delegates and alternates are expected, state GOP headquarters in Houston said.

The Republican State Executive Committee meets Sept. 13 to name temporary officers, prepare the temporary roll for the convention and hear any contests between county delegations. Headquarters said there had been no report of any contesting delegations.

Republican nominees for state office are on the convention program. They are Carlos G. Watson, Brownsville, for U. S. senator; Tod R. Adams, Crockett attorney, for governor; Thomas Nolan, San Antonio, for congressman-at-large, and Harry W. Linderman, Houston, for commissioner of agriculture.

In addition, Republican candidates for Congress are expected. They are Leroy (Pete) Lamaster of Perryton in the Panhandle; Bruce Alger of Dallas, William B. Butler of Houston and Dewitt C. Dewitt of Yorktown.

Timber Being Grown Rapidly

DIBOLL, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—Southern yellow pine timber, the basic construction wood of Texas, is being grown much faster than it is being cut in the state, a survey showed today.

The Texas Lumber Manufacturers' Assn. conducted the survey.

"Our survey of East Texas' vast piney woods shows growth of timber now exceeds removal by more than 33 per cent," said Clyde Thompson, Diboll, president.

Nearly 2,300 Texas lumber mills and factories are producing timber products valued at 550 million dollars, the survey said.

Other findings:

Automatic manufacturing methods—improved machinery drying kilns and methods of testing moisture control of wood—are increasing.

Texas leads the nation in scientifically operated tree farms, with 570 such farms in East Texas covering 3,366,375 acres.

Sixty per cent of timber cut in East Texas goes into lumber, 17 per cent into pulpwood and the rest for a variety of purposes.

Sawtimber in Texas is growing at a rate of 1,660,000,000 board feet per year, with 75 per cent of it southern yellow pine.

Austin Man To Head 36th Division Group

AUSTIN, Sept. 4 (AP)—Harry Kelton of Austin was elected president of the 36th Division Assn. today, the second of a three-day homecoming attended by 500 members and families.

Parks Bowden of Austin was chosen secretary.

Six vice presidents elected are: Thomas Day, San Antonio, 141st infantry; William Cheshire, Amarillo, 142nd Infantry; Marvin McCoy, Austin, 143rd Infantry; Gaston Howard, Longview, 144th Infantry; Ross Ayers, Lubbock, division artillery; and William Green, Houston, special troops.

Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney, commander, said the 36th Division "is now at its highest peacetime strength with 9,200 enlistments." He reported it more highly trained than ever before except in wartime.

GANG WEAPONS

Lieut. Richard D. Whitley of the Los Angeles, Calif., police juvenile bureau and former commander of the gang detail established in 1948, examines some weapons found on gang members in a recent raid. Lt. Whitley says there is no evidence of any national organization of pachucos or juvenile gangs believed to be the case by civil and military authorities who have discovered similar tattoo marks on youths throughout the country. On the contrary, these youthful gangs are confined to tight neighborhood boundaries, he says.

Believes Spy Count Framed

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 4 (AP)—The leader of Australia's opposition Labor party declared today a feminine French diplomat arrested on the basis of testimony in the Petrov spy inquiry may have been framed.

Dr. Herbert Evatt, who was foreign minister when his party was in power, said in a statement the charges against Mrs. Rose-Marie Ollier, 45, may well turn out to have been "deliberately falsified and fabricated to injure her and her friends."

The statement, addressed to French Ambassador Louis Roche, said Mrs. Ollier finds herself "defamed throughout the world as a spy apparently on the say-so of two paid informers. Surely this is worse than McCarthyism."

He referred to Vladimir Petrov, the former Soviet Embassy official who says he headed a widespread espionage ring in Australia, and to Petrov's wife, Evdokia, both of whom have obtained asylum here.

Petrov told a royal commission on espionage that Mrs. Ollier gave him vital information on shipments of Australian war materiel to Indochina while she was vice consul and second secretary of the French Embassy. Petrov said he relayed the information to Moscow.

Bond Issue Okayed

BOWIE, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—City voters today approved $1,750,000 in revenue bonds for a new lake by a vote of 838 to 6. The 20,000-acre foot lake six miles south of here on Big Sandy will be used to supply water for this North Central Texas town.

Building Figures Dip

AUSTIN, Sept. 4 (AP)—The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said today value of building permits issued in Texas dropped 8 per cent below June. The normal seasonal decline is about 2 per cent for the period.

Sees Censure Report Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said today he thought a special Senate committee weighing censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) could draft a report "within a fairly short time" after it completes its hearings.

One of the six members of the bipartisan committee, Stennis told newsmen he was sure there would be "no holding back of the report" once all the evidence is in hand.

The sooner the committee finishes a report, the greater the chance that the Senate will be called before the Nov. 2 congressional elections to act on a resolution introduced by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) to condemn McCarthy's conduct as tending to bring the Senate into disrepute.

While none of the committee members would set any date when he felt a report might be ready, one who was unwilling to be quoted by name said he hoped the job could be completed by Sept. 20.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), the committee chairman, met with two other members of the group during the day to consider whether additional charges against McCarthy should be taken up at the hearings.

Afterward, however, Watkins declined any comment. The hearings are to resume next Tuesday morning after the Labor Day weekend.

Lillian Huntley Sigourney who published 57 books between 1815 and 1866, was the first U.S. woman author to be rated in the best seller class.

Desegregation Rule Is Opening Classrooms

ATLANTA, Sept. 4 (AP)—Although the final decree still is months away, the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing public school segregation already has opened the same classroom doors to some white and Negro children in at least nine areas where racial separation has been practiced.

Ten of the Southern states continued to guard jealously their traditional patterns as September brought the first new school terms since the court said that to separate pupils "solely on the basis of race" violates the Constitution.

And there was evidence that the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, which pushed the lawsuits leading to the antisegregation ruling, is preparing to carry its fight to the last strongholds of segregation as the court makes it final ruling.

In handing down its decision, the Supreme Court only held broadly that public school segregation is illegal. It invited attorneys general of affected states to appear in October and discuss the final decree which will lay down rules for implementing the decision.

An Associated Press survey today showed that in Missouri, Maryland, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Washington, D. C., Arkansas, Kansas, New Mexico and North Carolina integration is underway.

It ranges from a few Negroes attending white Catholic schools in North Carolina and one high school in Arkansas to complete desegregation in New Mexico.

Headed by Georgia, whose fiery Gov. Herman Talmadge has announced determination to resist the court decision if the state has to stand alone, 10 states are holding out. The others are Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

Nowhere is there any consistent pattern either to integration or resistance. Nor does there seem to be any uniformity in NAACP strategy.

In North Carolina, for instance, a few Negroes are attending Catholic schools in Raleigh and Charlotte without incident. But no Negroes have been admitted to white schools and no application for admission of Negroes to white schools has been reported.

Generally, Arkansas also is maintaining status quo on segregation. But in Fayetteville in northwest Arkansas, where the Negro population is small, six to 10 Negro students are to enter the Fayetteville high school when it opens Sept. 13. The city, site of the University of Arkansas, has no Negro high school and the Negro students have been going to Fort Smith, 60 miles away.

In line with the "Atlanta declaration" of the NAACP, petitions have been filed with several Arkansas school boards asking admission of Negroes to white schools. But Mrs. L. C. Bates, NAACP president, says the organization is not planning to attempt to register Negroes in any white schools at this time.

West Virginia schools began opening Sept. 1, but most will open next week. The pattern there generally has been adoption of integration in the northern counties where the Negro population is small and maintaining segregation in the southern counties.

Negro and white children will begin attending seven Baltimore elementary schools next week, but schools in Maryland counties will not be integrated until the Supreme Court hands down its final decision.

Washington, D. C., rules require old students to return to schools they attended last year. But new students will be accepted in schools of their residential zone regardless of race. Supt. Hobard M. Corning appealed to principals and officials for cooperation in the integration operation.

New Mexico has been quietly eliminating segregated schools for about five years, at the rate of one or two towns a year. The last holdouts, Artesia, Carlsbad, Clovis, Hobbs, Las Cruces and Roswell now are all nonsegregated to make New Mexico what the NAACP calls "one of the first desegregated states in the nation."

A threatened tempest over desegregation in Hobbs failed to materialize and integration was accomplished without incident.

Integration will come first in Missouri high schools because most elementary school teachers' contracts were signed before the Supreme Court ruling. The State Department of Education reports there have been no incidents.

Because of an unusual and complex financing of Negro schools, Atty. Gen. Mac Q. Williamson says it will be at least another year before segregation can be eliminated in Oklahoma public schools.

But the state Catholic education system announced last week that segregation would be eliminated in its 80 Oklahoma schools. However, in at least two cities, McAlester and Okmulgee, Catholic schools have not followed the announcement. But overcrowded conditions were blamed at one. There were no incidents as about a dozen Negroes enrolled at the Oklahoma City Catholic high school.

Like some other Southern states, Georgia's constitution requires separate schools for the white and Negro races. In addition the appropriation bill through which the state supplies about 90 per cent of the cost of operating Georgia schools, denies funds to any school permitting mixed classes.

Gov. Talmadge and eight of the nine candidates to succeed him are pledged to maintain segregation by one means or another. Talmadge also sponsored a constitutional amendment, which will be voted on in November, which would permit operation of private schools, if necessary, to maintain segregation.

Some Georgia schools already have opened but most begin their terms next week. There have been no reports of attempts by Negros to register in white schools.

Mississippi schools begin opening next week and no incidents have been reported during registration. The State Legislature will meet in special session Sept. 7 to consider a proposed constitutional amendment which would permit the Legislature to abolish public schools as a last resort to maintain segregated schools.

In Louisiana, where the Legislature recently adopted a proposed constitutional amendment and two acts intended to preserve segrega-

[illegible] panied by an attorney, attempted to register at a white Baton Rouge elementary school. They were refused. School officials indicated the incident may be the basis for a test case.

NAACP officials said that petitions requesting desegregation have been filed with school boards in 14 parishes (counties) and with the State Board of Education. They said there has been no action as yet on any of the petitions.

Louisiana schools begin opening next week.

A group of Negro students also attempted to register at a Montgomery, Ala., white school and were turned down.

The Alabama State Board of Education adopted a resolution to continue segregated schools for another year. State Supt. W. J. Terry declined to comment on the Montgomery incident.

Kentucky plans to operate during the 1954-55 school year with the traditional pattern of segregation and Wendell P. Butler, superintendent of public instruction, says he knows of no plans for any integration this year. Kentucky leaders are awaiting the final court decision and apparently plan to comply with the ruling.

Kentucky schools began opening last week.

Under a directive of Gov. Thomas B. Stanley, Virginia public schools, opening next week, will continue the traditional segregation policy.

Beyond petitioning local boards for integration, Tennessee NAACP leaders say they plan no other immediate action. A spokesman said they are "well pleased" with informal talks with Davidson County officials.

Florida schools began opening Aug. 23 and will continue opening through Sept. 9. State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey said his office has received no reports of Negroes attempting to enter white schools and no incidents.

Texas is maintaining segregation in public grade schools and Gov. Allan Shivers said in his recent hot campaign for renomination that segregation would continue "as long as I am governor."

The Texas Education Agency said after the Supreme Court decision that it would abide by the ruling, but later said it would take at least a year for Texas too comply.

A number of Negroes have been admitted to Texas colleges and universities, both private and tax supported. In the case of tax supported schools, Negroes are admitted when courses needed for degrees are not available at the state's two Negro institutions of higher learning.

Rayburn Due To Speak

Half Interest In Battenfield Hospital Sold

Dr. John Y. Battenfield, sole owner of Battenfield Hospital-Clinic since April, 1952, has announced the sale of half interest to Dr. Wilton N. Jones, staff physician at the hospital.

Battenfield purchased the hospital from Dr. W. R. Newton, now of Cameron. Newton had bought it in 1950 from Dr. C. R. Cockrell, who is presently practicing in Snyder.

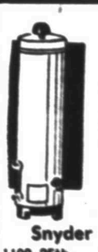

Jones has been a member of the staff at the hospital since June, 1953. He came here after relief from active reserve duty at Camp Polk, La. He had served in the Army as an infantry officer during World War II and was a medical officer during a two-year active duty tour later. He is a graduate of the medical school at the University of Oklahoma.

Battenfield came here after being physician in charge for the International Bechtel Co. in Saudi Arabia. During World War II, he served as a surgeon for a parachute infantry unit in Panama, Africa, and Europe. After the war, he did medical work for Firestone Plantations Co. in Liberia, and then he went to Guam, where he was director of medical services for the Guam government in Agana, the Guam capital. He is a graduate of the same medical school from which Jones graduated, and he did post graduate work at Johns-Hopkins University and the U.S. Army school of tropical medicine.

Battenfield said the organization will continue with the same staff. The name has been changed to Battenfield-Jones Hospital-Clinic.

Fur dealers say that rabbit fur has practically disappeared from the American market because of new labeling regulations which prevent dealers and customers from calling rabbit fur by some other name.

Tigers Show Some Potential, But Need Added Experience

Coach John Conley has plenty of rough edges to smooth out on the Snyder Tiger football squad during the next few weeks in practice and non-district games, but the picture does not look especially unfavorable for the future.

The Tigers Friday night played a full scrimmage with the Colorado City Wolves. In the regular four quarters, the Wolves beat Snyder 21-6. The two teams returned to the field to play another half, with C-City coming out ahead a bare 7-6 in that length of time.

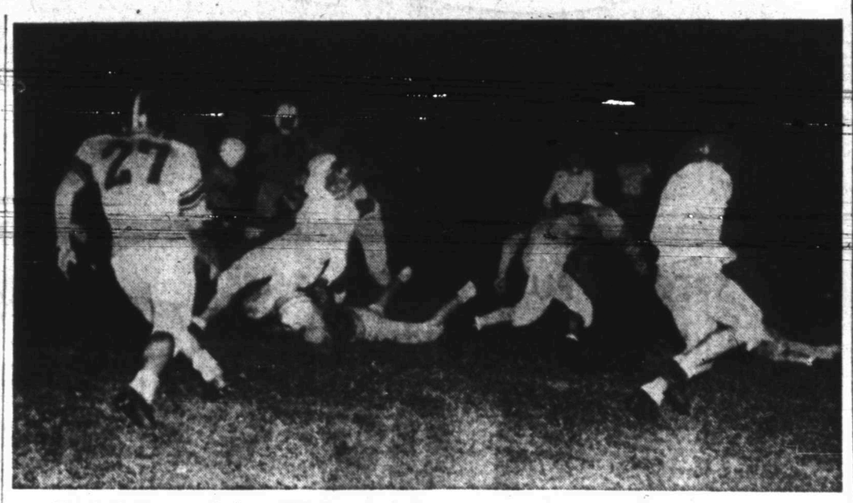

There are several things to be considered. Probably there will be dozens of different opinions heard for the next few days from some 2,000 persons who watched the scrimmage. For one thing, Coach Dillard Adair brought a team including 17 returning lettermen to Snyder. That team, although it is in a classification just lower than that of Snyder, is highly favored to win its district. Also, many of the Tigers who may be regular before the season is over are inexperienced. C-City has had three more two-a-day workout days than has Snyder.

The public Friday night got a chance to see some of this year's "discoveries" on the Tiger team. One of them is Carl McDaniel, who appears to be a prospect for one of the top defensive players of the season. Another is Jimmy Bennett, who is a top candidate for the right halfback spot and who last night showed up well. Neither had been playing previously for the Tigers. There were numerous others who had shown up as good prospects when they were playing with the freshman and B teams, many of them proving themselves able Friday night.

On the surface, the team may not look in good shape to the average observer. Many improvements can be made in a short time, however.

Here is a rundown of the game by quarters, with Snyder and Colorado City alternating quarters on the offense:

First quarter — Snyder on offensive, gained 93 yards rushing, lost 16, made seven first downs. Scored once, with Joe Baxter, left halfback, going around left end five yards. Extra point attempt by Steve Blair failed. One fumble by Jack Spikes recovered by Bernie Hagins. Hagins tried three passes one to Don McNew incomplete, two to Alan Snead, one of which was complete for 17 yards. Line showed

The football season is here. This is a scene from Friday night's Snyder-Colorado City scrimmage. Next Friday night, the Snyder team will be in Ysleta for its first season game. Here, C-City's Bud Windham is being grabbed by Snyder's Jack Spikes in one play of the Friday night scrimmage. (Lee Watson photograph)

most offensive strength from center to right, with Frankie Minton at center, Blair at guard, Doug James at tackle, and McNew at end. The team made 25 yards in six plays through the middle, 27 yards in five plays across right tackle, 10 yards in one play over right guard, 20 yards in three plays around left end, and lost 13 in one play at right end. Individual rushing included 23 yards in five plays by Bennett, most of them through the right side; nine yards in seven plays by Baxter, dividing evenly between right and left sides; 24 yards in four plays by Spikes throgh center and right; 14 yards in three plays by Gerald Crawford through center and left; and five yards on one sneak through center by Hagins. Doug James led offensive blocking from tackle position. First team played all this quarter.

Second quarter — Colorado City on offensive, gained 201 yards, lost 21, made five first downs, fumbled and recovered once. Fullback Bud Windham made most of gain, followed by halfback Harris Gainey. Windham scored twice, once going 46 yards across right tackle, and once 26 yards around left end on reverse. Quarterback Billy Williams scored on one-yard plunge after Windham set up with 59-yard run over right tackle. Frank Mackey made all extra points on kicks. Williams tried five passes, completing one to Gainey for 23 yards, a screen pass to the left, and one to end Don Flippin for 12 yards. One was intercepted by Snead. The team made 113 yards in three plays over right tackle, 21 yards in four plays through center, 27 yards in two plays (including reverse) around left end, 18 yards in two plays over right guard, and seven yards in six plays around right end. Snyder defensive players ranked in this order in that quarter: Blair, McNew, and James; Berry, Spikes, and Baxter, George Herring, Minton, Eddie Joyce, and Hagins.

Third quarter — Snyder on offense, second team playing. Powell Berry quarterbacked this period in place of Hagins. No score made by Snyder, but team made three first downs. It gained a net of 45 yards on the ground, with Tommy Pritchard leading, Bobby Pollard next, followed by Bill Fowler, Claude Stroud, McDaniel, Crawford, and Berry. Berry tried five passes, completing one to end Don Savage for 12 yards. One was intercepted by Mackey and run back eight yards.

Fourth quarter — Colorado City on offensive. Netted 52 yards in 12 plays. Leading Snyder defense, in this order: John Partain; Crawford, Stroud, and Fowler; Hagins and Gary Hill.

Extra first quarter — Snyder on offensive, with first team mixed with second team. (this team, with a scattering of players from first and second strings, showed up as well as the regular first team in the first quarter). Gained 143 yards, made nine first downs. One score by Spikes on 16-yard run over right guard. Extra point try by Blair bad. Blair was chief blocker, at one time blocking off two opponents at one time. He was followed by McNew, Minton, and Snead on blocking. Hagins tried two passes, completing none. He gained 19 yards in three plays on the ground through center and right side, Bennett 22 yards on four plays, mostly center and right; Baxter 62 yards in eight carries, mixing left, center and right, making a 44-yard run around right end; Spikes 60 yards in eight tries mostly to the left, and Crawford four yards in two plays, both across right side.

Extra second quarter — C-City on offense, making 123 yards and five first downs. Scored once when Windham went around left end for 10 yards. Williams completed one pass, the only one tried, to end Joe Howell for 28 yards. Leading Snyder defense; McDaniel first; Snead, Spikes, and Baxter; Parker, Minton, Pollard, Herring, Wayne Shuffield, and Partain.

Braves Nudge Redlegs, 5-4

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 (AP)—Catcher Del Crandall homered twice today and his second broke up an 11-inning game and gave the hopeful Milwaukee Braves a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. The decision moved the third-place Braves to within 1½ games of the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Crandall's booming bat, which has knocked 19 homers this season, tied up last night's game which the Braves went on to win in 12 innings, 3-2.

His first homer this afternoon sent the Braves into a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning.

The high tension among players, who brawled on the field last night, was crackling again this afternoon but did not explode. However, in the ninth, Plate Umpire Bill Stewart told pitcher Lew Burdette to leave the field because of his harsh heckling from the bench. Then Manager Charley Grimm protested and he, too, was ejected. George Metkovich, riding the Brave bench, started riding the umpire's decision and he also was shown the exit.

Before the contest, League President Warren Giles warned he would not tolerate a repeat of last night's free-for-all, which started when Jim Greengrass slid into Johnny Logan at second. He said he would reserve his decision in the matter until he received the reports of the umpires.

When Bud Hall, Midland, Tex., outfielder hit [illegible] home run this season he drove in three runs. Midland fans passed the hat and Hall got $93.15.

Giants Crush Dodger Clan In 13-4 Rout

By HAROLD CLAASEN

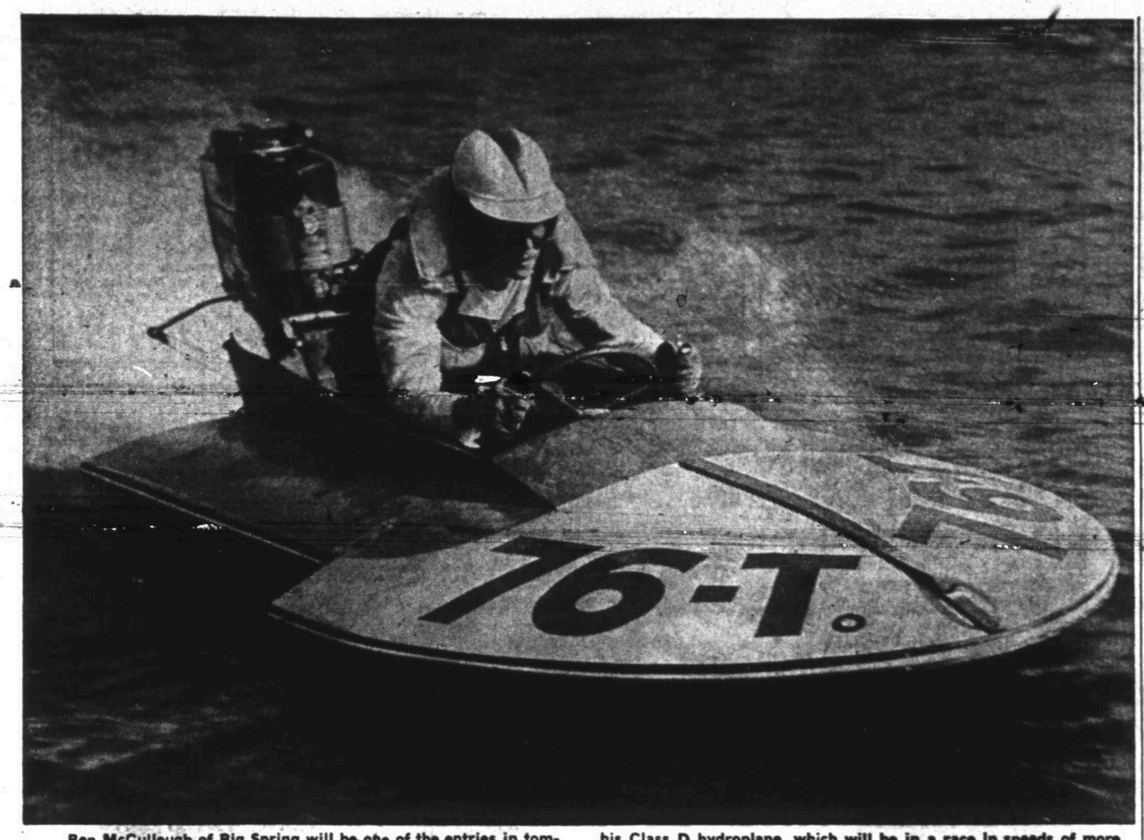

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP) — A towering home run by Hank Thompson with the bases loaded in the seventh inning sent the league-leading New York Giants surging to the second straight victory over Brooklyn today 13-4. The game shoved the Dodgers five full games behind the leaders.

The teams meet again tomorrow in the third and final game of their crucial series. The Giants have 22 games left to play and the Dodgers, defending champions, 20. Any combination of 17 Giant victories or Brooklyn defeats will send the New Yorkers into the 1954 World Series.

It was a tense, 4-3 struggle until the Giants erupted for seven runs in the seventh with Thompson, who had been plunked on the arm by a Carl Erskine pitch in his previous turn at bat, deciding the issue.

Roby Eleven Trips Hobbs By 6-0 Score

The Roby Lions Friday night opened their 1954 grid season by shutting out Hobbs 6-0 in the Lion stadium.

The Roby team scored when the first quarter was only four minutes old, and the game stayed that way until the clock ran out.

The first time the Lions got the ball, they started a drive that lasted 65 yards into the end zone. The last seven yards were made by quarterback Freddie Stuart, who went through the middle for the score. John Cundiff tried but failed to make the extra point.

Roby also showed strenth in its defense when the Panthers moved down to the Lions two-yard line and still failed to score. That was when only three minutes were left in the game. Hobbs did not get near at any other time in the game.

Roby made 12 first downs to Hobbs' six, gained 144 yards in scrimmage to Hobbs' 63, and completed seven out of 15 passes for 53 yards. Ten attempts netted two pass completions for Hobbs, that gaining 36 yards.

Elsewhere in this area, Rochester downed Loraine 19-7, with Billy Joe Hollingsworth tallying all three touchdowns for the winners, those all scored in the last quarter. He ran across the one extra point. Loraine got ahead in the third quarter when Roy. Johnson raced 32 yards for the TD. He ran the extra point over. Rochester moved out from behind to win the game. Rochester got 12 first downs, Loraine 11.

Post blanked Roscoe 7-0 in a Friday night game at Post, with Tommy Murray scoring on a quarterback sneak after Mack Terry had made a 35-yard punt return to put the ball in scoring distance.

Littlefield fell to Clovis, N.M., 18-7, with Milton Vaughn carrying most of the backfield load for Littlefield. Vaughn gained 142 yards rushing, or more than half his team's 215 yards. He scored the only touchdown and kicked the extra point, in addition to receiving the only pass the team completed. Littlefield scored soon after Clovis had grabbed a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. Clovis, however, came back for TDs in each of the third and fourth periods.

Slaton moved over Amherst 20-12 in its first game of the season, with fullback Martin Hardwick leading the offense for the losers.

Athletics Take Win

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4 (AP) — Outfielder Joe Taylor's looping single to left field scored Gus Zernial from second with the winning run today as the Philadelphia Athletics edged the Boston Red Sox 4-3 before 2,120 paying fans at Connie Mack Stadium.

The two top prospects for the center position on the Snyder Tiger football squad are Wayne Shuffield, left, and Frankie Minton. Minton, formerly a tackle, is now leading competition for the spot. The Tigers open their schedule Friday night in Ysleta.

Two Candidates For Tiger Center Post

Two boys head up the list of centers for the 1954 Snyder Tigers, but one of those may be switched, and two more now on the B team have possibilities of moving up to the A squad.

Since brawn has a lot to do with who gets the center spot on the team, especially in the split-T offense used by the Tigers, Frankie Minton, 230-pound bruiser who has lettered two years as a tackle on the varsity team, is the top contender. Or at least Minton was at last report. Minton is a senior.

Coach John Conley only recently put Minton in that spot, and he was not sure he would keep him there. Minton and Douglas James traded places, with James moving out to Minton's tackle position.

As center, if Minton remains one, he will be right ahead of 140-pound quarterback Bernie Hagins. Minton, or any other center who is in front of Hagins, will be useful in clearing the way. Hagins, then, might be able to see how to pass, or he might have time to play the ball as planned. As far as Minton is concerned, the quarterback will have that time.

"The only difference in this and tackle," Minton said, "is that you have to get the ball to the quarterback." The new center, who says he likes the position, still has to fend off opposing players across the line of scrimmage, just as he did when a tackle. In the past two years he has done very well in that assignment.

In addition to serving as center, or tackle, Minton sometimes kicks extra points. Last year he attempted only one, and that one was good. He is also one of the team's kickoff men, along with Jack Spikes. Steve Blair and Minton will both try on extra points this year.

If Minton is switched back to tackle, James will probably move back to center. He holds two varsity letters. Minton, before lettering for the varsity team, had one year with the B team and two in junior high play. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Minton, 1111 Thirty-first Street.

Following Minton for the center spot is Wayne Shuffield, 165-pound senior. He was also switched to center. He holds one reserve letter with the varsity as an end. He also has a B team letter and one year of junior high experience. Shuffield, also a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shuffield, 312 Thirty-fifth Street.

Two centers now on the B team who have possibilities of moving up are Robert James and Joe Reaves. James is a junior, Reaves a sophomore.

John and Ellen Tworzydlo won a husband-wife bowling tournament in Detroit. They spent their $1,000 prize money as first payment on a new house.

Standardized Production Is Discussed By Texaco Foreman

Standardized production methods employed by the Texas Co. were discussed by P. A. Malone, production foreman for the company, at the Scurry County Oil & Gas Association dinner Thursday.

Texaco opened a new producing area in the West Texas-New Mexico district in the latter part of 1949 and 1950, Malone said. Development of the new field has permitted the installation of equipment in accordance with the company's standardization program begun in 1948. At the present time there are 241 producing wells in Texaco's Snyder area, not including 32 additional wells which were absorbed by a unit program in the Diamond M and Kelley-Snyder field.

Of the 241 wells, 210 are producing from the Canyon reef, Malone stated. The remainder produce from the Cisco and Fuller sands, the Strawn lime, San Andres and Mississippian. Producing depths range from 2,400 feet to 8,235 feet. Eighty-nine of the wells are produced by artificial lift, 17 are gas injection wells, and the remainder are flowing. There are 40 tank batteries in the area.

Monghly production ranges from 365,000 to 400,000 barrels per month at the present time, Malone continued, depending on the number of producing days. The maximum production of 532,000 barrels was reached in December, 1952. The present daily allowable is 22,542 barrels.

Drilling on the Texaco holdings progressed rapidly during the early part of the boom, Malone recalled. During the early part of this period there were as many as 26 rigs running at one time. A well was completed on the average of every 36 hours, and four contract connection gangs were used to install storage facilities, lay flow lines and provide water for drilling operations.

In describing Texaco's standardized production methods, Malone first described the well head equipment on flowing wells. On all the Canyon reef wells, this equipment consists of a Cameron Iron Works series 600-4000 pound test with a 2000 pound working pressure Christmas tree. A caliche fill is placed around the well head.

Two types of pumping units; the Parkersburg 84-G320 and Lufkin TC-OAL-54C, are used on the Canyon reef and Strawn wells, which may be considered typical installations of this type, Malone said. A standard plan for cellar, mast block, floor and walkway is followed for the installation. Well head equipment consists of a one and one-quarter-inch by 16-foot polish rod, two-inch by one and one-quarter Skinner cross-twin Type X stuffing boxes, pumping tee, and adapter flange. A Cameron Adjustable choke is installed in the flow line and pumping tee. The cellar connections include a connection from the casing valve to the flow line and a connection for the well sounder equipment. The cost of these installations is approximately $15,000.

All wells in the Snyder area are connected to the manifold system at the battery by two-inch flow lines, Malone continued. From three to six 500-barrel tanks are installed at each battery, depending on the number of wells producing into the battery. It is estimated that the complete cost of a battery installation in the Snyder area is about $18,000 to $19,000 for a six-tank installation.

Ten major advantages to standardization were listed by Malone. These included the saving in time when ordering materials through the use of a master list of equipment which must be on hand for any installation in the field; the saving in time and money because of the familiarity of installation crews with equipment and procedure; the ease with which equipment may be transferred from one location to another; the ease in maintenance because of the thorough knowledge the workman can acquire in constant contact with the same set-up; the decreased warehouse stock necessitated; the saving in purchasing the equipment in large quantities; the use of proper equipment in installation, and the ease of inventory at the lease.

Disadvantages of standardization seen by Malone included the difficulty in adopting new equipment and methods as they are developed. It is necessary that changes be incorporated in the program as they develop, he pointed out. Furthermore, if experience proves that a bad selection of equipment has been made it is important that a change be made at once rather than waiting until all the installations must be changed, Malone concluded.

Scurry Test Sets Casing

Taylor Oil & Gas Co. and G. L. Rowsey No. 3-A Winston Brothers, Central Scurry County tester, is preparing to set five and one-half-inch casing for tests in the lower Pennsylvanian. The tests will be through perforations.

The project was drillstem tested from 7,500-562 feet with the tool open one hour. Recovery was 150 feet of oil and gas-cut drilling mud and 550 feet of oil and gas-cut sulphur water. Total depth is now 7,562 feet.

The No. 3-A Winston Brothers is about two and one-half miles southwest of Snyder and in section 11, tract 68, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

Completion Rate In State Shows Decline

AUSTIN, Sept. 4 (AP) — Oil well completions skidded downward this week, totaling 161, compared with 309 the previous week.

The Railroad Commission reported the total of new oil wells for the year stood at 8,181 compared with 6,977 a year ago.

Completion of 27 gas wells raised that total to 856 for this year against 607 for the same period in 1953.

There were 112 dry holes.

Wildcatters accounted for 3 of the 161 new oil wells, no gas wells and 70 dry holes.

The total average calendar day allowable as the September production schedule went into effect was 2,837,770 barrels per day as of today, up 77,707 barrels daily from a week ago.

ENTERING TANK RANCH

Willie Johnson, shown above as he pushes open the gate to a tank battery north of Snyder, is the subject of a feature article in the current issue of the Texaco Star. Johnson, a gauger for the Texas-New Mexico Pipeline Co., is described as a "hard-riding modern cowboy," who makes his rounds in a pickup. Included in his district is the Fuller ranch, where Texaco has 222 producing wells. On a typical day, Johnson covers about 75 miles. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and their son Kenneth, two, live in the Texas-New Mexico camp on the Clairemont road.

DRILLING REPORT

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 3-B Dan Gibson, North Scurry County test, was preparing to acidize perforations for testing at last report.

The project was drilled to a total depth of 7,207 feet and apparently had no shows on a drillstem test there. It was plugged back to 7,187 feet before casing was set. Perforations were made at 7,054-075 feet, 7,105-132 feet, 7,156-164 feet and 7,170-174 feet.

Texas Pacific No. 1 Simpson on the north side of the Southeast Luther Siluro - Devonian field of North Howard County, is preparing to run a potential test for completion.

The well flowed 195 barrels of oil with no water in 21 hours on a 9/64th-inch choke. Flowing tubing pressure was 1,130 pounds. The production is through perforations at 8,823-928 feet.

Allison & Prestridge No. 1 H. D. Ohlenbusch, Fisher County wildcat four miles south of the Claytonville multipay field, is drilling in lime and shale below 5,052 feet.

In Nolan County, Union Oil No. 1 Hanks is drilling in lime and shale below 4,151 feet.

C. L. McMahon, Inc., No. 1-A A. S. Hendry, Northeast Coke County offset to the recently completed No. 1 Hendry, is drilling in lime and shale below 5,486 feet.

Addison Warner No. 1 Spaulding No. 1 B. F. Spradling, Northeast Kent County wildcat two and one-half miles southeast of Girard, is drilling in shale below 6,613 feet.

Indian hostilities which led to Custer's last stand in 1876 resulted in part from Indian protests at movements of whites into the Black Hills in one of the last big gold rushes.

Wildcat Is Spotted In North Fisher County

J. J. Lynn of Abilene has spotted a 6,350-foot Ellenburger wildcat 14 miles west of Hamlin in North Fisher County.

The prospector will be the No. 1 Mrs. W. I. Martin. Drillsite is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 121-1-H&TC. It is also approximately 14 miles east and slightly north of Rotan. Operations are to begin at once.

New Location Slated In Diamond M Field

Kemper Kimberlin of Midland has filed application to drill the No. 1 H. H. Eiland and others in the Diamond M-Canyon field of Scurry County.

Location has been made 467 feet from north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 176-97-H&TC, about seven and one-half miles southwest of Snyder. Contract depth is 6,800 feet.

Panel Plans Study Of Oil Shale Plant

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP) — A committee has been formed within the National Petroleum Council (NPC) to weigh the future of the Rifle, Colo., oil shale plant, established by the government to experiment in synthetic production of petroleum products, including gasoline.

Chairman Walter S. Hallanan of the council, a government advisory group, named the committee in response to a request of Felix E. Wormser, assistant secretary of the interior. Wormser, whose job deals with mineral resources, asked the council for advice on whether the government should continue to operate the plant.

Hallanan selected B.A. Hardy of Shreveport, La., former president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA), to head the committee. Its membership includes representatives of both major and independent oil and gas companies.

After a survey of operations of the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines, which has been running the Rifle plant, a government committee recently recommended:

That experimental work done solely by the bureau on production of oil products from shale at Rifle "should cease and no further work be done" with a new report there unless there is a substantial contribution by industry under a cooperative agreement. This committee said:

"If industry feels that no further experimental work is necessary, then the facilities will have served the purpose for which they were developed and constructed, and disposition should be made in accordance with established procedures."

Wormser told the NPC it would be of "great assistance" to the secretary of the interior if the NPC would give him the benefit of its advice "as to the action we should take in the light of the committee's recommendation."

Hallanam asked the NPC committee to make its study as soon as possible, saying he understood the secretary would like to have the NPC recommendations in time for consideration in preparing early next month his department's budget estimates for the 1955-56 fiscal year.

Russell Brown, general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Assn. and a member of the committee, declined to express any view concerning the Rifle plant itself.

But he told a reporter that the policy of the independents generally is that the government has a function to perform in such experiments as have been conducted at the Rifle plant, and that when that stage is completed, industry should take over.

Industry is helped by knowing what is involved in the experiments, he said. He added that when oil shale could be used economically, it would be a source of energy of which the nation should be proud.

Meanwhile, Brown said in a report to W. M. Vaughey, IPAA president, that domestic oil producers are maintaining their activities "in spite of the difficulties resulting from excessive supply."

"The effect of the cut-backs on their market has become steadily more trying," he wrote. "The need to maintain drilling, the finding of new wells and the keeping up of employment are all a part of the effort to maintain the industry's full defense capabilities."

He said approximately one-fourth of the oil industry's producing capacity now is shut in and that in some areas production is allowed only 15 to 16 days out of each 30-day month although the industry still maintains full operating crews.

Russia Expected To Submit 'Plan' Soon

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Russia is expected to make a new move soon to promote its all-European "security" plan, taking advantage of Allied confusion resulting from the defeat of the European Defense Community.

Officials agreed today that the stage is almost ideally set for a fresh Soviet maneuver. However, they expressed hope that a pending American - British - French note to Moscow on the Soviet proposition may blunt whatever thrust the Reds have in mind.

The basic aim of Moscow strategy has been to defeat the EDC, to paralyze or destroy the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to isolate the United States from its European allies and in the condition of weakness thus created to extend Communist power through Germany and France.

Last Monday the French Assembly killed off the EDC under which West Germany would have been rearmed, with its forces becoming part of a six-nation defense system. Although American leaders are confident that ways will be found to give West Germany sovereignty and organize a German army in a year or so it is now clear that the EDC defeat dealt a staggering blow to the unity of the Western powers.

The formerly close cooperation of the United States, Britain and France, which have formed the hard core of resistance to Red aggression, was badly damaged in midsummer by the United States split with Britain and France over the Indochina peace negotiations at Geneva. In addition there is a steadily widening rift between Washington and London over the whole question of relations with the Communist bloc and particularly with Red China.

The decision of British Foreign Secretary Eden not to go to the Manila conference on Southeast Asian security, opening tomorrow, was made against the urgings of Secretary of State Dulles, who is attending, and was a disappointment to the State Department.

Now both Washington and London give every evidence of being full of worry and distress about the future attitude and policies of France. Dulles has announced a reappraisal of American policies toward Europe. London is maneuvering to stave off French demands that Britain assume new responsibilities in Europe.

So little forethought had been given in any of the capitals to the failure of EDC in the French Assembly that there is even great and persistent confusion over what mechanical step to take next. Almost a week of diplomatic conversations has failed to resolve differences between America's proposal for a NATO council meeting, and Britain's proposal for an eight-power meeting.

Germany has raised its demands for unconditional sovereignty to a point which any French government may find extremely difficult to accept.

—From 1950 to 1954, about three million new homes were built in the United States.

Debate On Iran Oil Effect Still Going

By MAX SKELTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Debate continues as to the possible effect resumption of oil production in Iran will have on domestic output.

The Shah of Iran this week approved an agreement authorizing eight foreign companies to operate the Middle East country's nationalized oil industry. Remaining hurdles appear to be only formalities. Final approval may come next week.

United States producers, already facing a problem of oversupply, have no reason to fear Iranian production for at least several months. It will take time to restore efficiency to facilities that have been idle since Iran's nationalization program forced out Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. in March, 1951.

Iranian production in 1951 approached 700,000 barrels a day. The eight - company agreement calls for a minimum output of 300,000 barrels daily the first year.

The primary concern centers on fear of a flood of world oil by the time the Iranian facilities are restored to peak production.

Many domestic operators are optimistic in that the eight firms involved in the joint agreement include five United States companies. The optimism centers on knowledge that the five United States firms are well aware of the fight independent operators are waging for curtailment of foreign oil imports.

Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of Texas' oil and gas regulatory commission, is among those who believes Iran can rejoin the world's oil producing countries without disrupting United States operations.

In a World Oil Magazine interview this week Thompson expressed belief the five companies will want to preserve good will at home and protect the domestic producing industry.

The companies in the consortium, he explained, also have holdings in other Middle East countries and will be in position to reduce this production in proportion to output in Iran.

The Oil and Gas Journal two weeks ago predicted any shipments of Iranian oil to the United States, at least during the next year, probably will be at the expense of other Middle East countries.

For importing companies to do otherwise, the Journal said, would be "highly dangerous politically."

The consortium companies include Gulf Oil Corp., Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), Standard Oil Co. of California, the Texas Co., Anglo-Iranian, Compagnie Francaise de Petroles and Royal Dutch Shell.

In addition to restoring operations, the companies will buy the Iranian oil and place it on the world market. Part of the new agreement provides for compensation for investments Anglo-Iranian tion. Anglo-Iranian will hold a 40 made in Iran prior to nationaliza- per cent interest in the consortium.

Middle East production, with the return of Iran, should reach 3,000,000 barrels a day before many months. The Oil and Gas Journal has estimated the area's May output at 2,766,000 barrels daily, compared to 2,523,700 a year earlier.

Aid Promised To Philippines

By ROBERT EUNSON

MANILA, Sunday, Sept. 5 (AP) — The United States has promised the Philippines substantial aid in building up their armed forces and quick help in case of attack.

"I wish to state in the most emphatic terms that the United States will honor fully its commitments under the mutual defense treaty. If the Philippines were attacked, the United States would act immediately."

The Filipinos appeared highly pleased with Dulles' statement. After the meeting of Dulles and Carlos P. Garcia, Philippine vice president and foreign minister, and their aides, one of the Filipinos was asked if there was anything they wanted from the United States and didn't get. He merely shook his head and smiled broadly.

A joint communique said:

"The Philippine government presented specific proposals for the strengthening of its armed forces for external defense, including a plan to reorganize its army on a four-division basis.

"The United States concurred in the necessity for this objective. Secretary Dulles stated the United States would furnish the major portion of the military material requirements for such an expansion of the army and would search for means to assist the Philippines toward meeting the foreign exchange and other burdens occasioned there."

Yesterday's meeting between Dulles and Garcia was preliminary to an eight-nation Southeast Asia security conference which opens here tomorrow.

New Plastics Can Remake Old Kitchens Into Beauty Places

By The Associated Press

If you are bored with your old kitchen cupboards and can't afford to buy new ones right now, you can dress them up with laminated plastic sheeting available in wood-grained patterns — oak, pine, mahogany, maple.

Your home handyman may find this high pressure laminate in 4 x 8 foot sizes at building supply dealers. If it is to work properly old cabinets must be of smooth construction, and at least three-fourths of an inch in thickness. Or it can be used on new cabinets of inexpensive plywood.

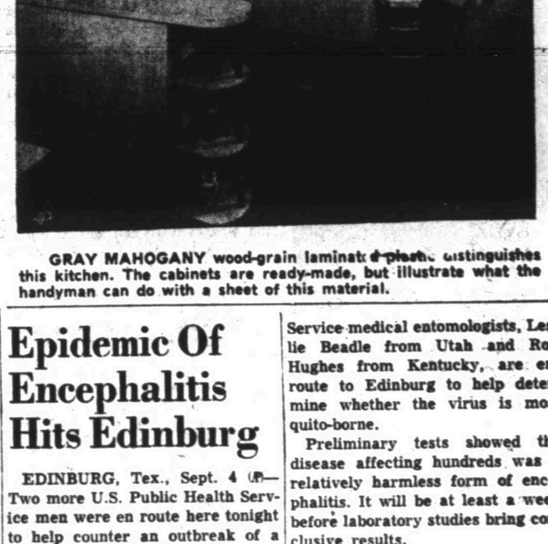

The handyman will need an 11-point hand saw for straight sawing, a scroll saw for cutting curves, a fine file, a block plane, and a kitchen rolling pin. Materials include the laminate, adhesive and heavy wrapping paper.

The wrapping paper serves as a pattern. It is cut to the exact dimensions of the counter tops. It is kept between the cemented surface and the laminate until the laminated cover is ready to be put in place. This separation gives you the opportunity to size up the project before the laminate touches the cement, and becomes immovable.

The laminate is cut about a sixteenth of an inch larger than the pattern all around. This surface may be planed off later when the laminate is cemented. The edge is then beveled with the file to improve its appearance and make it perfectly smooth. The rolling pin applies pressure when the top is cemented down.

Many new homes have cabinets of this type. The cabinets are also available ready-made in department stores. Usually the interiors of these cabinets are enameled in a color to harmonize with the wood grains of the outside.

These laminates are said not to need waxing or polishing. Their surface is said to be proof against ordinary household stains — alcohol, acids, bleaches, ink, etc. They are supposed to be highly resistant to cigarette burns and boiling water.

GRAY MAHOGANY wood-grain laminate plastic distinguishes this kitchen. The cabinets are ready-made, but illustrate what the handyman can do with a sheet of this material.

Personnel Clerk Will Face Court-Martial

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 4 (AP)—A personnel clerk at Randolph Air Force Base here will be court-martialed on charges he took money to keep another airman's name off an overseas shipping order.

Maj. Gen. Charles Born, commander of crew training at Randolph, said today the charges have been placed against S-Sgt. Joe, D. Graalum of Valley City, N.D. No trial date was set.

It would take the work of a million men to repair the damage done in the United States by insects.

Epidemic Of Encephalitis Hits Edinburg

EDINBURG, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—Two more U.S. Public Health Service men were en route here tonight to help counter an outbreak of a mild form of sleeping sickness. A mosquito - killing drive will be launched Tuesday.

Dr. Charles Miller, head of the Hidalgo County health unit, said 120 more blood specimens were sent today to the State Health Department in Austin for analysis.

Miller said the outbreak is throughout the county, and not concentrated in Edinburg, and is apparently a very mild form of encephalitis, a brain cell-destroying disease. He said extreme fatigue has been the principal symptom so far.

The health officer said up to 600 persons may or may not be infected and that only laboratory tests of blood samples will determine how widespread the infection has become. He and State Health Officer Henry Holle said tests also are being made to learn whether two deaths here resulted from encephalitis.

"Wonderful cooperation" has followed appeals to the county's citizens to clean up trash, debris and other mosquito - breeding spots, Miller said. He said all doctors in the county also were cooperating.

Miller said two Public Health Service medical entomologists, Leslie Beadle from Utah and Roy Hughes from Kentucky, are enroute to Edinburg to help determine whether the virus is mosquito-borne.

Preliminary tests showed the disease affecting hundreds was a relatively harmless form of encephalitis. It will be at least a week before laboratory studies bring conclusive results.

"If it turns out, as we expect and hope, that this is a mild and relatively harmless type of encephalitis," said Miller, "it will be a great relief to us here because we thought at first it was polio."

The two diseases have similar symptons—severe headache, fever of 102 or more, stiff neck, and varying degrees of drowsiness or even coma. Encephalitis virus attacks the brain while polio affects the spinal cord.

A 1952 outbreak of sleeping sickness in California resulted in 27 deaths among more than 700 cases reported. St. Louis had outbreaks in 1933 and 1937.

Those with the disease here were reported to be very sick for four to six days and then affected by extreme fatigue several days more.

Rain Plagues Europe Crops

By EDWIN SHANKE

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Europe's farmers are racing against the worst summer weather in decades to save their crops. Everywhere the cry is—

"Give us sunshine. More rain will be disastrous."

Grains were ripening slowly because of the late spring and the wet, cool summer. Many areas reported harvesting set back as much as three weeks.

Nowhere was a bumper crop foreseen. West German experts predicted the worst harvest in 30 years. In thickly populated Italy the harvest was described as poor. In Denmark, land of farms, farmers were prepared to take sharp loss in the pocketbook. Austria expected a 20 per cent drop in wheat, oats and rye compared with last year.

Areas which expect fair yields reported the wet summer had affected the quality of the crops.

There was no concrete information on harvest prospects behind the Iron Curtain, but the July floods were known to have caused havoc among farmers in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Romania. Floods in several southern districts of East Germany destroyed part of the harvest there and later rainfall did further damage but its extent has not been disclosed.

Old-Car Bugs Have Fast Growing Cult

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP) — Be kind and patient if you run across a man who:

Thinks we haven't heard the last of steam-driven automobiles.

Explains in detail why a big, long-stroke, four-cylinder motor has it all over modern, short-stroke, multicylinder jobs.

Sneers at the most expensive, two-color hard-top convertibles found on a car dealer's floor.

He's just another old-car bug, one of a fast-growing cult now 15,000 or more strong, who lives in a little dream world governed by the conviction that nothing important and certainly nothing good has happened to automobiles since 1918.

Regard for a moment a typical old-car lover, Henry Austin Clark Jr. of Southampton, N.Y., executive in a sugar company who with his 1916 Pierce is a member of the United States team attending the Anglo-American Vintage Car Rally in Britain this month.

Clark, by all standards, was normal, high-spirited youth a few years back, attending college. For all he knew, a Daimler was a breed of dog.

In 1937, however, he purchased Emaline, a 1915 Model T Ford, for $45, restored it to running order and used it primarily to take Smith College girls for rides. Emaline, still impeccably maintained, today is painted red and in use as the official car of the chief of the Sandy Hollow Fire Department. Meanwhile, Clark has acquired an additional 249 vintage vehicles.

What happens when a man's hobby outgrows his garage space? He starts a museum — and Clark now is proprietor of two. The museums, of course, just give him an excuse for acquiring other old cars which catch his fancy.

Clark is an exceptional collector who has had more money to spend than the average old-car fancier. This is fortunate, for Clark estimates that among the 15,000 collectors there are some 10,000 collector's items — and the woods have been pretty well combed.

Roughly speaking, the old-car fanciers classify as antiques those automobiles manufactured up to the end of World War I.

Where do you find cars? Everywhere, says Clark.

"You prowl through junk yards," he said. "You watch auctions and take a look if it's an estate being broken up. The best hunting grounds are areas in which there was considerable wealth between 1900 and 1917 — places where people had plenty of space in which to store a car and weren't pressed to get rid of it."

New ASC Officials Named For County

Newly-elected officials of the Scurry County Agriculture and Stabilization service have been announced by H. G. Burchett, ASC office manager.

Committeemen for the four communities in Scurry County were elected by ballot vote, which was open to all farmers in the county. Chairmen of these committees served as delegates to a county convention, which chose county committeemen.

The county committee administers the ASC conservation and price support programs here. The new group is scheduled to meet for the first time Tuesday to consider routine business.

Judson McGaha of the Knapp community is chairman of the county committee, succeeding Glenn Tate. Vice-chairman is J. C. Massingill, route 2, who replaces Charlie Bley. Billy Joe Clifton of Hermleigh is the regular member, succeeding Audry Head. Alternate members of the committee are Charlie Eastman of Arah route and Fowler Mathis of Fluvanna. They replace Milton Winter and Henry Layne.

Community committees are:

Community A, northwest Scurry — Everett Clarkson, Arah route, chairman; Buford Browning, Fluvanna, vice-chairman; Welch Scrivner, Dermott, regular member; Raymond House, Clairemont route, first alternate; Bob Warren, Fluvanna, second alternate.

Community B, northeast Scurry — I. B. Roberson, route 2, chairman; Travis Rhodes, route 2, vice-chairman; F. L. Eicke, route 2, regular member; H. W. Shepherd, Hermleigh, first alternate; J. T. Trice, Hermleigh, second alternate.

Community C, southwest Scurry — J. W. Kimbrell, route 1, chairman; Perry Echols, Ira, vice-chairman; Lee Holliday, Ira, regular member; Orville Taylor, route 1, first alternate; Buford Sterling, route 1, second alternate.

Community D, southeast Scurry — Arthur Pieper, Hermleigh, chairman; Ben Harless, Hermleigh, vice-chairman; J. H. Myers, route 2, regular member; Foster Watson, Hermleigh, first alternate; Fred Glass, Pyron, second alternate.

FARM AND RANCH

Guar beans are shown to be acceptable as a protein supplement for wintering calves on grass, according to a preliminary report by E. H. McIlvain of the Southern Great Plains field station at Woodward, Okla.

McIlvain fed 10 head of weaner steer calves a daily ration of rolled guar beans in direct comparison to other lots fed cottonseed and soybean pellets. All the calves were wintered on open range and dry grass at Woodward.

At the beginning of the test, all calves were weighed and graded by a committee of animal husbandmen so that each lot contained a uniform number and kind of animals.

MADE MORE GAIN

At the end of 158 days, the group of calves fed on guar had averaged 135 pounds gain, while those fed cottonseed pellets gained 117 pounds and the ones fed soybean pellets 123 pounds.

The guar-fed steers showed more bloom throughout the winter. The steers were rotated between similar pastures at 15-day intervals to reduce all variables to a minimum except the supplemental feed under study.

The guar beans were rolled by a custom feed mill to about the same degree of coarseness as rolled milo. The steers appeared slightly reluctant at first to eat the beans, so about one-third pound of 41 per cent cottonseed meal per steer was mixed with the guar for about two weeks and then withdrawn.

ATE IT UP

After that time the steers ate the guar beans without hesitation.

On April 20, all of the steers involved in the study were placed together in one pasture for summer grazing without supplement, except salt, so McIlvain could determine the effect of winter treatment on summer gains. The yearlong data will be reported by McIlvain in October.

Dr. Horace J. Harper, agriculture director of the Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation, Inc., of Ardmore, Okla., also is conducting studies to determine if guar can be successfully grown, ensiled, and fed with sorghum forage.

NEW PRACTICE

The agriculture conservation program administered through the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office here has been amended to include winter cover crops on land to be diverted from all crops in 1955. Federal cost sharing in the program runs from $5 to $7 on 100 pounds of Australian winter peas, Dixie Wonder peas, vetch, and clover.

Shivers Gain Credited To Heavier Vote

By GARTH JONES

DALLAS, Sept. 4 (AP)—A final report from the Texas Election Bureau shows 109,599 more Texans voted in the second Democratic primary Aug. 28 than in the July 24 primary.

From that increase in voting power came most of Gov. Shivers' margin, 91,609 votes, over Ralph Yarborough. The July margin was about 23,000 votes.

Both candidates apparently split fairly evenly the approximately 36,000 votes cast for two other candidates in the July primary.

"Apparently Shivers got his big increase from the new voters and the split," said Robert L. Johnson, TEB head. "I doubt if many who voted in both primaries switched from one man to the other. Texas voters just don't switch candidates between primaries."

In the bureau's final tabulation, released today, Shivers got 773,923 votes or 53.14 per cent and Yarborough 682,315. Shivers carried 156 counties while Yarborough carried 98. In July Shivers carried 134 counties, Yarborough 118 and two counties were tied.

The 30 counties that switched to Shivers included Hartley and Parker that were tied in July, in West and Central Texas.

The three counties that switched to Yarborough were Upton in West Texas, Frio in Southwest Texas and Houston in East Texas.

A rundown of the switch to Shivers by sections looked like this:

In West Texas: Brown, Coke, Eastland, Fisher, Irion, Jones and Scurry.

In Central Texas: Burnet, Brazos, Lee, Mills, Waller and Williamson.

In Northwest Texas: Baylor, Throckmorton and Young.

In the Panhandle: Potter, Dallam and Carson.

In South Texas: Jim Hogg and San Patricio.

In the South Plains: Bailey and Lynn.

Others switching included Lamar and Gregg in East Texas and Jefferson in Southeast Texas.

An issue in the race was the support of South Texas political boss George Parr. Each said the other had Parr's backing and each denied it. At one time Parr was called the political power throughout the 79th judicial district of Duval, Starr, Brooks and Jim Wells counties. In recent years, his opponents say, his influence is felt mostly in Duval County.

In both primaries each candidate carried the same two counties of the 79th district. Shivers polled more votes in Jim Wells and Starr and Yarborough more in Duval and Brooks.

KR Bluestem Carries Title Of 'Mr. Big'

By SAM WHITLOW
Written for The Associated Press

HILLSBORO, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—King Ranch bluestem grass is "Mr. Big" in this Hillsboro region where the Navarro-Hill and Nolan-Aquilla Soil Conservation Districts meet.

Robert McCulloch, work unit conservationist, says the sturdy KR bluestem "has whipped Johnson grass in waterways and meadows where the grasses have not been grazed."

KR bluestem is an all-purpose grass for this region. It grows well on blackland, and on sandy land has performed better than weeping lovegrass. The KR is used for erosion control and is the best waterway plant for the area. It also affords grazing, hay, seed crops, and can be used in combination with winter clovers to afford grazing in the cooler months.

"We have also found KR bluestem can be used in a rotation plan," McCulloch said. After a few years of KR bluestem, the land can be broken and planted to such crops as cotton or corn for a year or two. When this is done, the land usually needs some nitrogen fertilizer to help hasten the decay of the "turned under" crops, and to give the following crops a quick start.

E. L. Edens, near Hillsboro, planted KR bluestem in 1949. He cut cotton stalks following cotton harvest, and planted the KR bluestem right down the rows.

He later added fertilizer and button clover to the land. From such early starts, KR bluestem has made fine headway in this region, despite a feeling in recent years that it might have been overstressed.

Farmers trying KR bluestem for the first time want to know if it will stand heavy grazing. McCulloch said it could be grazed as heavily as any other tall grasses, possibly heavier, but that continued overgrazing would ruin a stand of the grass.

"Where the grass is not overgrazed, we are finding that it works very well into our pasture feeding of cattle in this area," McCulloch explained.

Because of continued dry years, hay has become more important in livestock feeding operations. A considerable amount of KR bluestem has been harvested for hay for this purpose.

The remainder represents the prize money and entry fees of the rodeo.

Farmer Coop Gets Laborers

The Farmers Cooperative Labor Association here is now ready to procure workers for cotton pulling, according to C. H. Stahl, an official of the organization.

Stahl said membership fee in the association is now $1. The co-op's office is in the Snyder Cooperative Gin office on Thirty-seventh Street.

The co-op has asked interested farmers to contact the association at the office and sign necessary papers so workers can be made readily available when they are needed. "We can procure workers for farmers no matter what county they live in," Stahl said.

Stahl, R. A. Hardee, J. B. Turner, J. C. Sterling, and Frank A. Wilson are directors. Robert H. Poteet is manager. The organization at last report had 63 members.

Old FBI Agents Just Keep On Providing Valuable Services

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—People who have occasion to come in contact with the alert, clean-cut young men who do much of the Justice Department's investigative work sometimes ask: "What happens to old FBI agents?"

The answer at FBI headquarters is this:

"The majority keeps right on, with increasing value to the government, perhaps seen less often by the general public, but still active on tough cases, applying long experience to new situations, acting as mentors to the younger crop of agents and continuously passing on to the new men an invaluable know-how that could not be bought anywhere, at any price."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover calls the old hands "the foundation of this organization." Over the years, he has saluted again and again the 20, 25 and 30-year men on his staff for making a contribution to FBI "without which it could never have succeeded."

Because the screening is tough and Hoover's standards of performance are tougher, the FBI is sometimes called the government agency "hardest to get into, easiest to get out of."

Actually, the bureau's annual personnel turnover is traditionally the smallest in the government. In recent months, the turnover for all government agencies has been just under 2 per cent, for the FBI as a whole 1.3 per cent, with the turnover in special agents described as "very much smaller than that." For the same period, the turnover in private industry ran around 3.7 per cent.

Among those who retire or quit, the choice of subsequent occupation is as diverse as the human animal itself. Many former special agents go into private law practice, or accounting, or become private investigators for big corporations or congressional committees. Some go to important executive jobs in industry. In recent years, a half dozen agents have given up sleuthing to become ministers of the gospel.

The bureau's payroll, however, shows 3,629 persons who have had 10 years or more of FBI service, 753 with 15 years or more.

And the FBI "points with pride" to a considerable "elite" group whose service ranges from 30 to 43 years.

James G. Findlay, 72, oldest FBI agent in years and in service, marked his 43rd anniversary with the bureau this week, still on active duty in the Los Angeles office. He joined when the bureau, created by Atty.-Gen. Charles J. Bonaparte in [illegible] fancy, and his service record notes that since then he has not been off duty for illness even one day.

This tenure tops that of J. Edgar Hoover who, at 59, has had 37 years in government, the last 33 with FBI.

Findlay has had a hand in some of the bureau's most famous cases. He is credited with helping to kill off the so-called "Roasting Ear Rebellion" which grew out of seditious propaganda spread among selective service registrants in World War I.

In 1920, he personally conducted the investigation which led to the final fixing of the boundary between Texas and Oklahoma. He was in on the investigations of the Standard Oil Elk Hill Naval Oil Reservation case which resulted in recovery of the reservation and a payment of nine million dollars to the government by the company. He was there when Enrique Estrada was frustrated in an attempt to organize, on U.S. soil, a war against the Mexican government.

His investigative experience ranges from bank robbery to subversion.

The hiring age for special agents ranges from 25 to 41. If younger faces appear to predominate among FBI men observed in the field, it is largely due to the fact that the bureau, with a total personnel of 2,210 at the beginning of World War II, is now an organization of just a little short of 15,000, counting all hands.

In the recruitment and training of this large force, the old agents have provided the cadre around which the organization has been built.

Here are some of the "oldsters" regarded as "the foundation of this organization":

Joseph P. Mac Farland, 54, stationed at Seattle, Wash., who will observe a 30th service anniversary next month. A specialist in internal security cases, he is widely known in the force for his training of new men.

Louis D. Wine, 61, a 30-year man, now senior resident agent at San Jose, Calif. He figured in the Weyerhaeuser kidnapping case, and holds a sheaf of commendations from top government officials.

Bliss Morton, 70, and 37 years with the FBI, currently assigned at Indianapolis. He was a terror to the underworld in the gangster era of the 1930's.

Glenn A. Paulson, 60, an agent 28 years, who drew a Hoover salute for helping to break "The Duquesne case," involving a German spy ring operating in this country before U.S. entry into World War II.

William C. Ryan, 50, assigned to Washington, D. C., as supervisor of younger agents. He has had 31 years with the FBI, starting as a messenger and becoming an agent 22 years ago. His work on the Bremer, Mattson and Weyerhauser kidnappings during the '30s made him an expert in this field.

John V. Murphy, 59, with the service 30 years, and now assigned at Houston, Texas. He was in on several major kidnap cases and helped to solve a notorious Osage Indian murder case in the early 1920's.

John E. Seykora, 60, with 29 years service, now stationed in New York, who figured in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping case in 1932.

William E. Miller, 57, now assigned at Phoenix, Ariz. Thirty years an agent, he was the principal investigator in numerous cases involving offenses committed on Indian reservations in the West.

John J. Keating, 61, and 32 years in service, who helped to bring to justice the Roger Touhy gang in the early thirties.

Albert D. Mehegan, 58, an agent for 32 years, now assigned to Chicago. An expert in thefts from interstate shipments.

"Pasha," the world's largest performing lioness in Capt. Joseph Howarth's den of trained lions and tigers, takes a bow, perhaps to remind local circusgoers that the all new 1954 Gil G. Gray Shrine circus will make its bow in Snyder Wednesday, with afternoon and night performances at the rodeo grounds.

Couple Buys Jewelry Store

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Erwin have announced their purchase of the Dyer Jewelry Store, located on the north side of the square in Snyder.

Erwin, who is a native of Snyder, has been employed at Forrest Builders Supply for the past seven years. He is a veteran of World War II, serving three years in the U.S. Army.

Mrs. Erwin, who was reared in Snyder, has been employed for the past nine years at the Snyder National Bank. She will assist her husband in active operation of the jewelry store.

Erwin said he planned to continue the same lines of merchandise carried by the store in the past, and that new lines will be added in the near future. The front of the building is scheduled to be remodelled, and upon completion a formal opening event will be held.

Move Being Planned

DALLAS, Sept. 4 (AP)—Patrick D. Doyle, Houston, executive director of the Insurance Policyholders Assn., said today the IPA was considering plans to move the state headquarters from Dallas to Austin within the next month. A branch office would be kept in Dallas.

1,000 Freshmen Due

WACO, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—More than a thousand freshmen are expected for the opening of Baylor University on Sept. 10. Other students will come on Sept. 13. University officials predicted an increased enrollment of about 2 per cent.

Superintendent Quits

ANDREWS, Tex., Sept. 4 (AP)—Thomas D. Hamilton Sr., superintendent of the Andrews School System, resigned this week to enter private business. A successor has not been named.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 5, No. 109 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1954 SECTION B

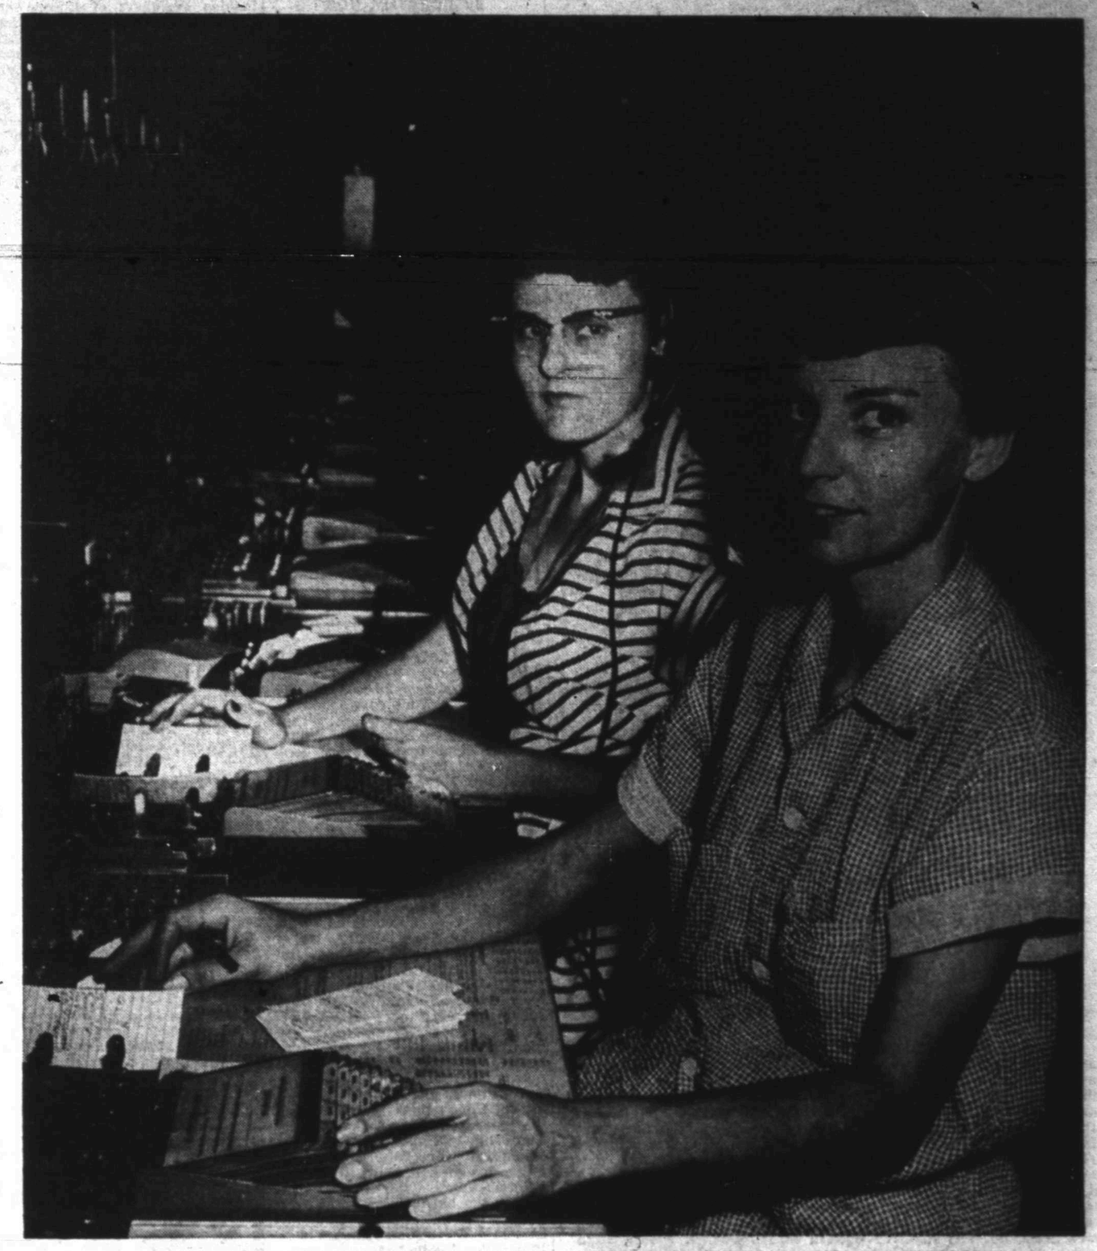

Another of the many persons who put in their work "day" in the dark hours is Allen Owens, police dispatcher, shown above at the microphone of the two-way police radio. For many night workers the hours from 2 o'clock to about 5 o'clock are the longest, slowest hours, but that is not true for the police radio operator because most of the state department of public safety radio traffic is handled between those hours to leave the daylight hours open for more urgent messages. The Snyder police radio is a link in the state relay chain.

J. R. Selman, night operator of a Snyder service station, is shown filling the gasoline tank of a car owned by Clayton Hunter, left, Lamesa. Selman has worked every night except two for the past four years. He worked on the day side for two days. "It's too hot to work in the daytime after working so long during the cool night time," Selman said.

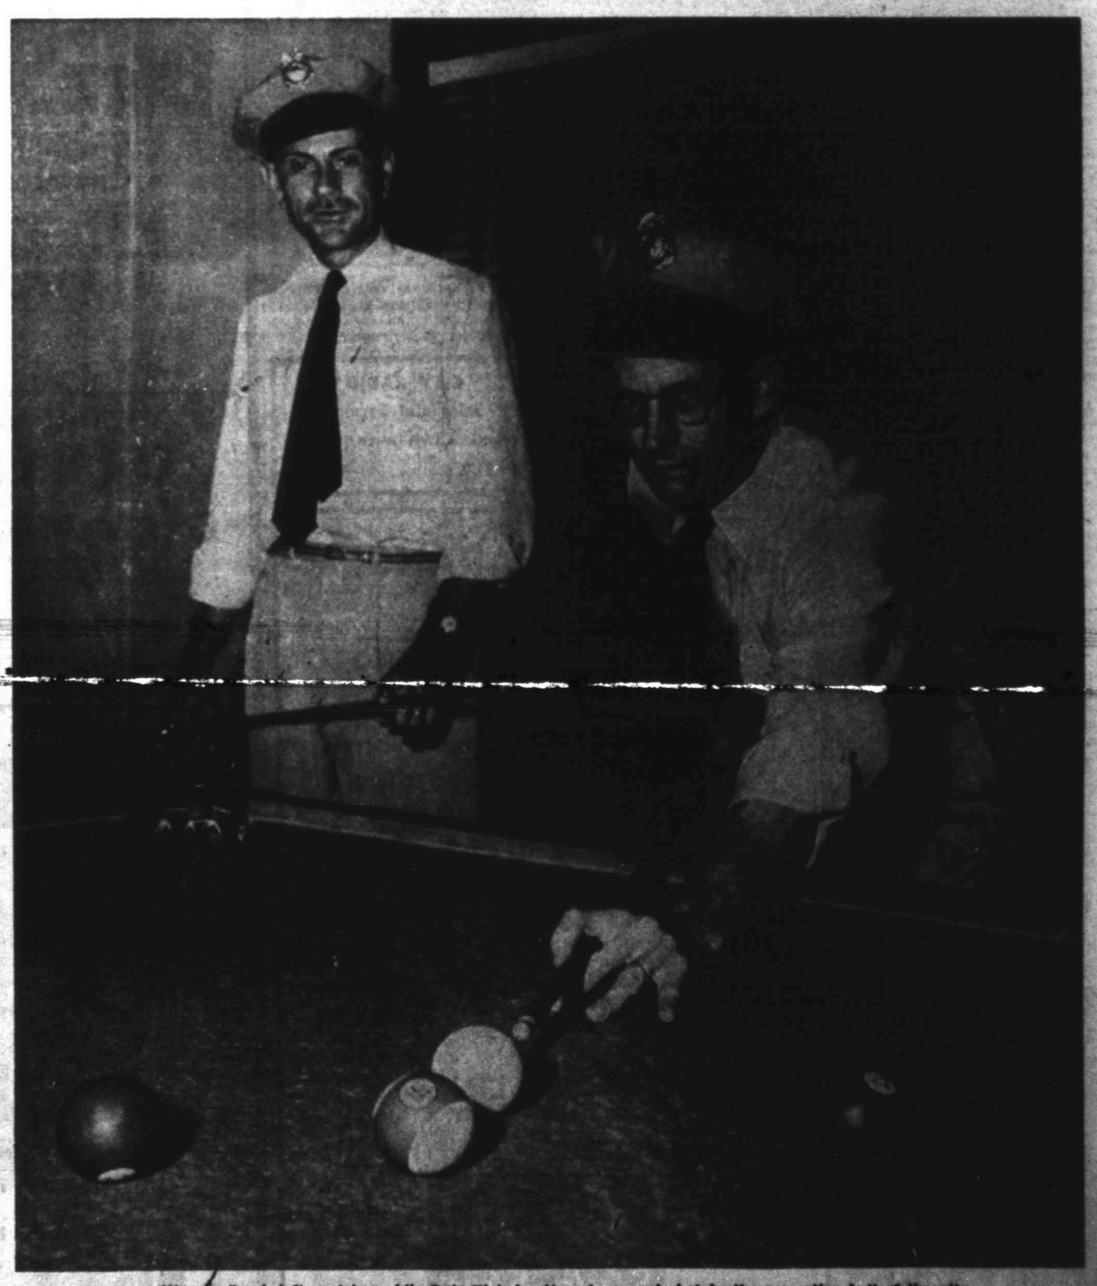

Serving coffee to each other is the way two night cafe operators above keep awake during the yawn hours. "Hardest part of the night is from 2:30 o'clock until 4:30 because there are fewer customers at that time" Olan Brown, 323 Twenty-fifth Street, night manager of the cafe, says. The waitress shown serving coffee to him is Mrs. Doris Maines, 2410 Avenue X.

Although Labor Day is traditionally a holiday for working people, the persons on this page may think that the holiday is improperly named, because they do their work at night. The telephone operators above work from 11 o'clock each night until 7 o'clock in the morning. They are Mrs. Don Mason, left, 3804 Noble Drive, and Miss Marie Zimmerman, 309 Twenty-fifth Street. Miss Zimmerman has worked the night shift at her request for the past four years.

WORK 'DAY' AFTER DARK

Warren Boyd, left, watches while Dale Blakely attempts a pool shot in the recreation hall of the city fire department. Both are full time firemen who are on duty 24 hours and off 24 hours. Pool and dominoes help make the long night hours pass faster, they say. The fireman's job at night is an easy one—until the fire alarm rings. (Lee Watson photographs)

american designer's pattern

The problem of bridging the gap between the end of summer and those days in fall when it is cool enough to shift to wool is one that arises each year. But here today is an ideal answer to that problem, designed by Tina Leser with all her imagination and alert eye for flattering detail. The collar, for instance, is shaped and darted in back to make it stand up to frame your face, and the front V serves to lengthen the neck and taper a squared jawline. The shirring about the bodice insertion flows into the sleeves. The gored skirt is smoothly flared in the back. A dress that will be perfect for afternoons and evenings all winter long. It is especially good made up in a stiffish fabric such as taffeta, faille, shantung or brocade. This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements. Please state waist, bust and hip measurements when ordering this pattern. Size 12 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. 1193, address SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC., P. O. Box 535, Dept. S-13, G. P. O., New York 1, N. Y. State Size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25 cents extra. New Pattern Booklet No. 11 available at 25 cents. Add 4 cents, for handling, if paid by check or money order.

Maternity Dress Brought Change To 'Convention'

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Today it's fashionable to have a baby and go on about your normal activities up to the moment of leaving for the hospital.

Fifty years ago things were different. Etiquette ruled that no lady appeared in public while in a "delicate condition," and the maternity dress was unknown. Most expectant mothers were sentenced to months of solitary confinement before the blessed event.

The woman largely responsible for changing the national attitude was a young widowed dressmaker named Mrs. Lane Bryant, who made the first maternity dress for one of her customers in 1904. Recently, top members of the fashion and retailing world gathered to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the maternity dress and the retailing chain built up by its creator.

Highlight of the event was a fashion show of maternity garments, ranging from slacks and play clothes to suits and evening gowns, created by some of the top fashion designers of Europe and America. These are clothes glorifying the waiting period cunningly devised to make the expectant mother a glamorous and graceful creature.

One American designer, the exclusive and expensive Charles James, was so captivated by a maternity suit he designed for the show he included the silhouette in his regular fall collection (for non-expectant customers) under the title, "The Maternity Look."

The saga of Mrs. Bryant's progress from her meager uptown New York flat to a skyscraper store on 5th Avenue and branch stores throughout the country is a typical American success story.

The impact of the maternity dress is changing the attitudes and activities of millions of women is even more than that. Today there are scores of successful manufacturers of maternity garments, but back in the early days of Mrs. Bryant's business career, newspapers refused to accept advertisements for such garments, holding that the subject of mothers-to-be was to scandalous for public print.

Hit Famine No Worry To Berlin

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Irving Berlin hasn't had a new hit song in 3½ years, but he isn't complaining.

Some songwriters are. They claim that their established talents are passed up by the record companies and disc jockeys in favor of unknown writers of novelty songs. The issue has even reached the courts. But Berlin is staying out of it.

"Sure, I haven't had a hit since I did 'Call Me Madam,'" said the veteran songsmith. "I put out a couple of songs that I thought were pretty good. One of them, 'For the Very First Time,' was recorded by Tony Martin, and I thought it was a good ballad. But it never got off the ground.

"For the past 3½ years, I have been living off my ASCAP fees (payment when a song is performed). They tell me there are more pianos being sold than ever before, but people don't buy sheet music. My music publishing firm doesn't make money.

"But I don't think you can knock the songs your hear today. I think songs like 'Tennessee Waltz' and "Godnight Irene' are as good as any you can find. Sure, there are a lot of crazy songs, but we had 'em in the old days to.

"I wrote things like 'Sadie Salome, Go Home' and 'When Yiddle Plays His Fiddle.' A guy comes along with a trick title like 'Yes, We Have No Bananas' and it's a hit. It's cute. Why knock it?"

Berlin will doubtless get back in the hit column this fall when his new film "White Christmas" is released. He has several new songs in the show. He believes three—"Count Your Blessings," "Love, You Didn't Do Right by Me," "The Best Things Happen While You're Dancing"—have hit possibilities.

"But how can you tell?" he sighed. "You never know what the public will go for. I had a song in 'Annie Get Your Gun' which was meant to be only an introduction to another song, 'You Can't Get a Man With a Gun.'

"I needed something for Frank Butler to sing to Annie Oakley, telling her the kind of a woman he wanted. I called it 'The Girl That I Marry.' Nothing much happened to it at first.

"Then Frank Sinatra did a record of it. Before anybody knew it, the record had sold a million copies and the song was a big hit."

Mix cream-style cottage cheese with chopped raisins, grated lemon rind, cinnamon and sugar; use as a filling for thin pancakes.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for Sept. 5, 1929.)

The Snyder public schools will open Monday morning. High school students are expected to register this Friday and Saturday. All freshmen, along with juniors and seniors, are to report Saturday morning.

Information has been received in Snyder explaining the new six-year-old ruling for the Independent School District and it is urged that all parents enter their children at once to avoid congestion.

Any child who becomes seven years of age before Sept. 1 may enter school free. Any child who becomes six years of age before Sept. 1 may enter school at the beginning of the term by paying tuition at the rate of two dollars per month until the child becomes seven.

The new law admitting six-year-old children to free school does not become effective until September, 1930.

* * *

According to advice from Mayor H. G. Towle and the city council, the naming and marking of Snyder streets was brought up by the city engineer at the last meeting. Bids will be advertised and quick action may now be expected on a project originally started here by the Business & Professional Women's Club. . .

The engineer has announced that all Snyder streets running east and west will be numbered until 33rd Street is reached at the southern corporation limits. Streets that run north and south will be named as avenues, starting at A and continuing through the alphabet, and, according to Mayor Towle, there are but 26 north and south streets, fully using up the complete letters of the alphabet. . .

W. W. Smith, the popular agent for the American Railway Express Co. here, had a narrow escape last week while on his vacation trip in Colorado, when he slipped and fell into a rushing torrent of ice cold water, was knocked unconscious and came near drowning in 25-foot water. . . After remaining in the hospital at Estes Park for two days, Mr. Smith was able to resume travel and his party arrived in Snyder Friday.

Birthdays are neighter strange nor infrequent, but the celebration of such occasions by the spreading of a feast and making merry is not quite so common. Such an affair, however, was the rich treat accorded Mrs. D. A. Jones the other day when sisters, sons and daughters (no doubt D. A., too) worked a ruse on the good lady of many summers (we have not been able to find out how many), got her away from home for the entire morning and then came in and took charge of the home, drew the spacious dining table to its full length and loaded it to capacity with good things to eat. Now think of the amazing surprise when the queen of that home returned at high noon and found her erstwhile locked residence wide open and literally huming with activity, laughter and merrymaking—all sorts of good wishes and congratulations ready to be heaped upon the rather bewildered recipient and the joyous "Come, for all things now are ready." This scribe is not able to further describe the occasion, but the reader will be able to imagine the rest. (From the Fluvanna News Notes by Jas. H. Tate)

Johnny Conley demonstrates his version of the proper way to throw a pass as his mother, Mrs. John Conley, looks on. The ball he is holding was presented to John Conley, head football coach, by the members of his 1953 championship team in Ellinwood, Kan. It has the autograph of each player and the 1953 schedule printed on it. Total amount of points scored by his team last year and, also, those of their opponents are printed at the bottom of the schedule. (Lee Watson photograph)

Mrs. Conley Prepares For Role As 'Football Widow'

By ANITA HALL

Mrs. JOHN CONLEY, 3725 Avondale, is resigned to the fact that she will not see much of her husband for the next few months. JOHN CONLEY, head football coach, will be spending most of his time with the Snyder Tigers. She knows that being a "football widow" part of the year is just part of being a coach's wife.

They met in ElDorado, Kan., her home town, and married after she had graduated from college.

Mr. and Mrs. Conley and five year old JOHNNY moved to Snyder in February but, due to a number of misfortunes, Mrs. Conley was forced to be away from here most of the time until June. They moved into their attractive new home on Avondale about August 1. Since then they have had a lot of company and have not had a chance to get completely settled.

She likes Snyder and commented on the friendliness of the people here. She also commented on the stinging scorpions. She had never seen one before moving to Texas and said, "I certainly believe that's one thing Texans grow bigger than anyone else."

She and Johnny go to football games when they are played in towns near their home but they will not make the trip to Ysleta. "It is just too far to take Johnny to that one," she said. Johnny has lived in a football atmosphere all of his life and, consequently, appears rather nonchalant about it. In Ellingood, Kan., where they lived prior to moving to Snyder, they lived close to the school's practice field. Johnny spent a lot of his time watching the various activities that were carried on there, especially when it was football. Right now he is more interested in his new venture. He will start going to school when kindergarten classes begin Tuesday.

Now that vacation time is over, Mrs. Conley plans to finish the task of arranging the furnishings in their new home to her liking and to get the feeling of being "settled down" in it and in Snyder.

Several Snyderites attended a barbecue given by R. E. SATTERWHITE Saturday night in Big Spring. They were Mrs. J. P. CROOK and daughters, WANDA SUE and LOUISE, 2808 Thirty-seventh Street, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. KING, Sun Oil Camp, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Here is another party dessert that uses canned pineapple. It is a version of the French Crepes Suzette. Thin pancakes are fried, one at a time, in a small skillet and then heated in a pineapple sauce. The sauce calls for a small can of pineapple and utilizes the syrup as well as the fruit.

CREPES ANANAS

2-3 cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
Dash of salt
2 eggs
2 egg yolks
1¼ cups milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Extra butter
Ananas sauce

Sift together flour, sugar and salt. Beat eggs and egg yolks together until thick and pale colored; beat in milk. Add egg mixture to sifted dry ingredients; beat until smooth; make sure there are no lumps. Stir in melted butter. Let stand about 2 hours. To make crepes, melt about ¼ teaspoon of butter in an 8-inch skillet so there is a good coating all over the pan. Heat skillet until very hot; pour in about two generous tablespoons of the batter; lift skillet from heat immediately and tilt to spread batter all over bottom of pan. When set and browned on underside, turn and brown other side. Turn out crepes onto board or tea towel; do not stack. Roll crepes and put in buttered suzette pan or on heatproof platter. Keep warm over an alchohol or canned-heat burner or in a warm oven. Serve with sliced pineapple heated in Ananas Sauce. Makes about 16 crepes.

ANANAS SAUCE

1 flat can sliced pineapple
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
grated rind of 1 orange
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Drain syrup from pineapple; add lemon juice, sugar, orange rind and butter to it. Cut pineapple slices in half and add to sauce. Heat. In serving, pour sauce around crepes and garnish with pineapple slices. Makes almost 2 cups — enough for 12 servings.

Even plain-steak addicts will like this steak sauce. It brings out good beef flavor instead of disguising it.

BROILED STEAK WITH CHINESE SAUCE

4 to 5 pounds sirloin steak
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon soy sauce
3 tablespoons strained lemon juice
1 clove garlic (crushed)

Melt butter and stir in salt, ginger, soy sauce, lemon juice and garlic. Start broiling steak; when it has broiled to one-half of the desired doneness on first side, brush well with sauce. Broil second side to desired doneness, brushing well with sauce in the middle of this broiling period. Heat remaining sauce and serve over thinly sliced steak. Makes 1-3 to ½ cup sauce, ample for 6 servings of steak.

Tennessee U. Veep Is Banquet Speaker

Andrew D. Holt, vice-president of the University of Tennessee, will be main speaker for the annual businessman-teacher appreciation banquet, which will be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night in the high school cafeteria.

The banquet, being held this year as the second annual affair, is sponsored by the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Jay Rogers is chairman of the committee.

Tickets to the banquet, which are $2 each, are selling at a fast pace at the chamber office. About 200 had been sold by yesterday. Rogers urged those planning to attend to get their tickets early. The chamber office will be closed tomorrow for Labor Day but will be open Tuesday.

Holt, a native of Tennessee, has been in education work for many years. He started as a rural elementary teacher, later served as a high school coach, worked up to professor of education at Memphis State College, became high school supervisor for the western part of Tennessee, served as executive director of the Tennessee Education Association and later as administrative assistant to the president of the University of Tennessee before becoming vice-president there.

A member of many professional organizations, Holt has served as president of the National Education Association and is now Tennessee director for that organization. He is a former member of the executive committee of the Southern States Work Conference of school administrative problems, has served as chairman of the U. S. delegation to the World Organization of the Teaching Profession at Berne, Switzerland and delegate to the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth. Last year, the first banquet of this type was held with about 450 persons attending. Ken McFarland, public relations executive for General Motors, came here to present a humorous talk.

Music for the Thursday night banquet will be provided by the high school music department.

Kent Dispute Due In Court

JAYTON — A court order to force Kent County commissioners to meet in Jayton will be sought by County Judge John Montgomery within a few days, according to a statement issued Friday.

Montgomery said he would have the county attorney, Dawson Bryant, file the petition in 39th District Court. The suit is to be styled as the State vs. Commissioners A. C. Cargile of Polar, Mark Cave of Clairemont and Jim Wyatt of Girard. It will ask, in addition to the meeting, that the commissioners designate a courthouse in Jayton.

Unofficial court meetings have been held in Clairemont during the last month with Cave, Cargile and Wyatt attending. The county judge and the fourth commissioner, R. R. Rodgers of Jayton, have been invited, Cave said, but they did not attend. They are also invited to a meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. September 13, he added.

Montomery said attempted compromises had failed and the court action seemed the only way to clear up the matter. Jayton was named the county seat in a county election which was disputed. There is now no question but that Jayton is the county seat. The three commissioners who refuse to meet in Jayton contend that the the commissioners court must first meet to designate the new county seat and no such meeting has been held.

Georgia To Select Talmadge Successor

ATLANTA, Sept. 4 (AP)—Georgia will vote on a successor to Gov. Herman Talmadge and nominate a U. S. senator and 10 representatives in a state Democratic primary election Wednesday.

U.S. Sen. Richard B. Russell and seven of the state's 10 congressmen have no opposition.

Democratic nomination virtually assures election in this one-party state.

Terms of all state officials are four years and only the governor is ineligible to succeed himself.

Except for segregation, the campaign has developed no issues of national interest. Since Georgia went safely Democratic in 1952, there has been no party loyalty question raised.

Eight men and one woman are locked in a bitter campaign for the nomination to succeed square-jawed, cigar-smoking Talmadge, the South's most outspoken foe of the U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down public school segregation.

Once again in this state of rural political domination, the race question has been made a major issue. And in the current campaign, the fires have been fanned by the stark reality of the ruling outlawing separation of races in schools.

Also, the pardon, liquor and highway scandals of past administrations, with which all major candidates have had some connection, have been thoroughly aired.

Only Mrs. Grace Wilkey Thomas, Atlanta lawyer, Sunday school teacher and grandmother, is campaigning on a platform that calls for compliance with the Supreme Court ruling. She is expected to poll only a scattered vote.

The eight men are pledged to preserve school segregation by one means or another. They are former Gov. M. E. Thompson, who twice unsuccessfully opposed Talmadge, Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin and House Speaker Fred Hand, Talmadge legislative lieutenants; Agriculture Commissioner Tom Linder, onetime protege of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge; State Rep. Charles Gowen, antiadministration leader in the Legislature; Ben Garland; Ed Barfield; and Arthur Neeson.

Talmadge, who also won two years of his father's unexpired term and is completing six years in office, has publicly taken no active part in the campaign. But his proposed constitutional amendment which would permit operation of private schools if necessary to maintain segregation has been an issue. And he has been credited as supporting Griffin.

Camp Life Works Wonders In Helping Handicapped Children

By BRYAN HAISLIP

BLOWING ROCK, N.C., Sept. 4 (AP)—Take a crippled child out of his normal routine—away from doctors, cold clinical attention and curious stares in the city—and give him a liberal dose of fresh air and sunshine.

Don't try to make him exercise weak muscles, or learn to do with one hand what other children do with two. Just turn him lose in the open with others in the same painful boat as he and let them have fun together.

Surprising things sometimes happen. Like one boy who came here on crutches. They were shipped home a week before he left.

"He didn't really need them to walk," a man who helped him said. "He used them a little for balance but more as a weapon." His belligerent attitude melted in the friendly outdoors and he was happy to abandon them.

There was a girl who had refused to go to school or play with normal children before she came here. But she learned children with worse handicaps than hers could play ball, ride horseback, and do almost anything they liked. Next year she was in school.

Those are just two of the small success stories of which Camp Sky Ranch is proud. For the camp directors feel those early small successes are often the most important, and they came with encouraging frequency when you set out with just one purpose: to give physically handicapped children a brief period of nothing but plain fun in the open air.

The idea of a camp run solely for crippled children came to its founder, former Winston-Salem bus driver Jack Sharp, after his spine was injured in an accident. Doctors told him he might have to face the rest of his life as a cripple.

Lying in bed thinking of the joys of camping in the mountains he might never again know, he realized the terrible sorrow young victims of polio must feel when summer comes and healthy children leave the hot city for vacations in the woods.

One of his visitors was Marvin Culbreth, a fellow bus driver whose younger brother was a polio victim. Sharp asked him:

"Where do crippled children go camping in the sumer?"

"They don't," Culbreth replied. "There's no place for them."

Sharp recovered from his injury but not from his idea. He tramped through the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains near here and found this valley. A brother-in-law helped him purchase 150 acres. Sharp sold his home in Winston-Salem and moved his wife and two children to Blowing Rock.

Culbreth gave up his job and joined the project. Cabins were built with timber from the site and the camp opened in 1948. The next year a small lake was added, and other buildings were constructed as the camp grew.

About 200 children came to Camp Sky Ranch this sumer during the eight weeks from June 20 to Aug. 14. One of them was Virginia Brinkley of Mt. Airy, N.C.

"If my doctor asks me if I want to come back next year, I'm going to say yes," Virginia says.

Her generously freckled face and eager curiosity are average for a little girl 7. Her right leg is different. Its brace and built-up shoe are heavy reminders of polio when she was 1.

Site Picked For New Dam

EL PASO, Sept. 4 (AP)—The International Boundary and Water Commission announced today it has chosen a tentative site for a great new dam on the Rio Grande near Del Rio, Tex.

Final decision on the exact site will await completion of geologic investigations, but unless the rock structure proves bad the commission will recommend a site just above Del Rio and slightly below the confluence of the Rio Grande and Devil's River.

The joint announcement on the dam project was made by Commissioner L. H. Hewitt for the United States and Commissioner David Herrera Jordan, from Mexico.

One of the principal advantages is that a dam in this section of the river will control floods of the magnitude of the disastrous flood of June and July of this year in the area, officials said.

Falcon Dam, about 75 miles below Laredo, was dedicated last October by President Eisenhower and President Ruis Cortines of Mexico. The commission declined to say how big the new dam will be or what it will cost, but to control floods like the recent Pecos River and Devil's River floods, it would have to be a huge structure.

The new dam will also generate electricity. It will be built under the International Water Treaty of 1944, and governed under the same setup as the Falcon Dam.

Textbook Hearings Slated This Week

Hearings will be held four days this week by the 15 members of the Texas public school textbook selection committee to help determine which text books of the more than 190 new ones will be recommended for adoption and use by Texas public schools.

Representatives of the 46 publishing firms which have submitted books to the committe for study will tour the state to meet with each member of the committee individually.

Frank Wilson, director of curriculum for the 8-school Snyder public school system, is one of the members of the state committee.

"Our schedule of hearings will allow each book company representative to discuss his books for 45 minutes with each member of the committee," Wilson said.

After the hearings the committee will hold a formal meeting in Austin Oct. 1 to make its recommendations to the Texas Department of Public Education.

All the members of the committee are professional schoolmen, either principals, superintendents, directors of curriculum or classroom teachers, Wilson said.

Of the books proposed for adoption, the committee will select five books in each area of study and will recommend all five books.

Reason for selecting five books, is so that different parts of the state may have textbooks best suited to the needs of the children in that particular area, Wilson said.

The state may refuse to purchase any books it chooses, but cannot purchase any books that have not been recomended by the committe.

Each of the 15 members of the textbook selection committee was permitted to have 25 professional advisors to help in studying the different books.

"I had 25 members of the teaching staff of the Snyder schools to help me make my selections, because I believe that Snyder's teachers are just as capable as those found anywhere," Wilson said.

Books being considered for selection cover all phases of public school education from the primary through the high school levels," Wilson said.

Wilson said that a comprehensive study of each book was made.

Some of the characteristics considered were physical makeup, print, illustrations, size, durability, attractiveness, timeliness of the illustrations, arrangement, scope, sequence of the material, reading level employed by the author, length of sentences, aids to instruction, visual education references, tables of contents, and suggested reference materials. Recency of information and illsutrations were also considered.

Texas Girl To Get Her Wish

ALBUQUERQUE, Sept. 4 (AP)—A fatherless 13-year-old Texas girl has set New Mexico's dress and handicraft industry on its ears. But she's going to get her wish to be the first in Celeste, Tex., with a full Southwestern outfit.

All finished and ready for mailing next week is a complete set of what the well-dressed Southwestern girl is wearing, even though local manufacturers had too stop production on a style show to answer the mailed plea of Frances Taylor of Celeste.

Two Albuquerque manufacturers stopped production of fiesta dresses, which they don't make in children's sizes, to prepare a beauty for Frances.

Indian artists have completed a silver and turquoise "squash blossom" necklace.

Other Indian workers at Taos, N.M., have completed smooth doeskin sandals to go with the dress.

And a Santa Fe firm put its Indian workers to designing a soft leather "devil chaser" belt, complete with dangling bells worn by Indians to keep evil spirits away.

Mrs. Irene Eichel, director of the New Mexico Crafts Assn., said Frances wrote asking for the outfit and that, after talking with her by 'phone, generous merchants volunteered to send her a complete outfit free.

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Lanham, 86, a resident of Fluvanna since 1892, were held yesterday afternoon in the Fluvanna Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Lanham died Thursday night in a Snyder hospital where she had been ill several days.

Survivors include three nieces and four nephews. Burial was in the Fluvanna cementery under the direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Man Charged Here With Carrying Illegal Knife

Earnest James, Snyder Negro man, was arrested Friday night by city police and a charge of carrying an illegal knife was filed against him in county court yesterday, Homer Whisnand, sheriff, said.

James was arrested late Friday night at a cafe which was the scene of a disturbance, city police who made the arrest said.

No bond had been set by early yesterday afternoon. James was being held in the county jail at that time.

DWI Charge Is Filed Following Collision

A charge of driving while intoxicated was filed yesterday morning against Perry D. Harris, about 50, who lives on west Thirty-fifth Street, following his arrest about 10:30 o'clock Friday night by city police at the police station.

Police said yesterday that Harris was arrested following a collision between a car driven by Harris and a parked city police patrol car. The cars were not damaged.

Harris was released about 11:00 o'clock yesterday morning under $1,000 bond set by Homer Whisnand, sheriff, in the absence of Edgar Taylor, county judge. No plea had been entered by the defendant in the case because county court was not in session, Whisnand said.

Checks Wrong Gauge

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — A youngster riding his bike past a clock-thermometer sign downtown, keeled over, bicycle and all, yelling "Wow, 140, how hot can it get!"

The youth had been looking at the wrong part of the sing — it was 1:40 p.m.

Council Meet Agenda Is Set

Bids on a new city street sweeper, and a request to institute parallel parking on the west side of the square are two of 20 items on a long agenda for consideration by the city council Tuesday night.

The meeting, regularly scheduled for the first Monday night of each month, will be held Tuesday night because tomorrow is the Labor Day holiday.

A letter from J. C. Roberts, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department, requesting that the city of Snyder pass an ordinance inaugurating parallel parking on the west side of the square will be presented to the council. The letter states that the one block of the west side of the square, which is also State highway 350, is the only Federal or State Highway in Snyder on which angle parking is still permitted.

An ordinance to establish 10-minute parking in front of the city hall and police station, another ordinance to prohibit parking adjacent to the east side of the newly installed pedestrian safety island at El Paso Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street in front of the West Elementary School, and an ordinance to control parking on city property west of the city hall are all scheduled for consideration by the council.

The council will also be asked to consider plans for channelization of traffic lanes at the intersection of the Clairemont road and the Lubbock Highway at Thirteenth Street in north Snyder. The plans have been submitted by the state highway department. The highway department has agreed to construct all islands for traffic channelization providing the city will install traffic signal lights for direction of traffic.

Unoccupied House Is Damaged By Fire Here

An unoccupied two-room house at Thirty-first Street and Avenue C was damaged by fire about 10:30 o'clock Friday night.

Ivan Gatlin, fire marshal, said that probably cause of the fire was a fire in dead weeds and grass around the house. The fire apparently began under the house and burned a hole in the floor then spread to other parts of the interior of the building.

Most of the fire damage was confined to the floor and interior walls were damaged by smoke, Gatlin said.

The house is owned by W. E. Clark, Jacksonville, Tex.

Road Development In Scurry County!

A major project in the development of this area has been the improvements of highways and farm to market roads.

Since 1950 over 200 miles of roads have been black topped throughout the county. Only a small portion of the city of Snyder was paved in 1950, but now practically the entire residential area is curbed and paved.

Snyder and Scurry County are proud of the improvements which have been made in highway and city street improvements.

Expect UN, Reds Both To Pay For Transport

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A government spokesman said today India expects the United Nations and Communist commands each to pay half the expenses involved in moving Indian troops to and from Korea for service with the armistice commission.

Parliament was told yesterday India spent $632,940 in moving troops and that they owed another $533,400 to Britain for charter ships.

Connecticut's violent death rate is an annual 44 per 100,000 compared to 58 per 100,000 for the nation.

Bevan's Talk Draws Attack

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Telegraph today criticized left wing Laborite Aneurin Bevan's speech to Japanese Socialists yesterday as "an oration of singular shallowness."

The conservative paper said it was to be expected that Bevan "should tell the Japanese that 'we in Britain have much to be ashamed of in our Imperial past' without adding that we have more of which to be proud."

"But the bland assurance to a people who have experienced atomic bombs that these were not 'a civilized way of arbitrating between nations' is surely beneath even Mr. Bevan's normal standard.

"The bombs have not been used in arbitration. Nor is it by arbitration that the Communist empires —omitted from mention by Mr. Bevan—have been and are being extended. The implication that atom or hydrogen bombs would in the future be used where arbitration offered an alternative solution is as mischievous as it is silly," the paper declared.

RESCUED JUST IN TIME

Farm Plan Greatest Error Of GOP Congress, Mahon Says

LUBBOCK, Sept. 4 — The "sliding scale" farm price support program probably is the greatest mistake of the recently concluded session of Congress, George H. Mahon, representative of the 19th District of Texas declared Saturday.

The world picture is far from bright, Magon observed, but the country should continue to support President Eisenhower in his foreign policy efforts.

"The communists continue to make gains at our expense," Mahon reminded. "The free world did not win in Korea and it lost in Indochina. The Geneva Conference was a sharp setback for us. In Europe the communists have been successful thus far in defeating the EDC, the defense program for Western Europe which we have sponsored.

"Knuckling under to our enemies has not been traditional with the United States. However, in fairness, America should not be called upon to shoulder the blame for the world's ills. Nor can we carry the whole military and economic load of the free world. We can be thankful that active warfare has been suspended throughout the world, but we must not be misled by it."

Mahon said the president had to make a choice in Korea, where America was directly engaged, and in Indochina, where it was indirectly engaged.

"He had to compromise with the communists or heavily involve American boys in further armed conflict, with consequent loss of life and great financial sacrifices to our people. He is a military man and widely experienced in foreign affairs and has had before him the best available facts. I hope he has made the right decisions," Mahon said.

On the home front, the West Texas Congressman reminded that government spending has continued at such a high level that Congress finally had to accede to the administration's request and raise the national debt limit. The recent Congress reduced the president's request for funds by two billion dollars, but the budget has not been balanced and, according to treasury estimates, the Federal Government will go in the red this year by four billion dollars — one-fourth greater than last year's deficit.

The fiscal year of greatest government spending since 1945 was the year ending June 30, 1953, which included six months under the former administration and six months under the present administration, Mahon explained. The next highest year of government spending was during the year ending June 30 this year. For the fiscal year ending next June 30 it is estimated there will be a three percent reduction over the previous year.

"But the picture is not all gloom and doom," Mahon emphasized. "We are not in a big shooting war and all Americans in official positions are earnestly seeking to avert such a war. Our nation is stronger militarily than at any previous period of our peacetime history."

Mahon said the Republicans appear to feel that the new flexible support farm program is their greatest accomplishment in two years.

"In my opinion it is their greatest mistake to date, and I vigorously opposed it, feeling that the 90 percent program was in the interest of both the farmer and the people generally."

Mahon predicted that the farmer will be hurt badly and there will be no corresponding benefit to the consumer and taxpayer and no solution to the problem of crop surplus. Moreover, he said, control of crop plantings will not be reduced.

"On the contrary, crop controls in 1955 probably will be more rigid than at any time in the last 20 years."

In the field of International affairs, Mahon said disappointment had followed disappointment.

"This is not said critically, but simply to put the picture in focus. Our country is tremendously strong and our possibilities are without limit. I think the president was quite right a few days ago in sounding a note of optimism and saying that the situation is by no means hopeless. While I do not always agree with the president, I know him well enough to know that he is doing his best to provide the country with able and honest leadership."

Enrollment In Schools Heavy

Total enrollment and attendance throughout the school system here reached a higher figure Friday than that of a year ago. An accurate figure was not readily determined, however, due to many known absences and late registrations.

The school system expects attendance and enrollment to reach a new high Tuesday. Friday was the first full day of school here this term, and no school will be held tomorrow, Labor Day. Due to the Labor Day weekend and also to the fact that Friday was the only full day of school last week, attendance was not indicative of the full enrollment.

The new enrollment is not expected to be unusually high but higher than before. The school system is planning a program for enlargement of facilities because of anticipated increases during the next four years.

At present all buildings except the new high school plant are overcrowded.

Market Rises After Setback

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—The stock market was battered down this week but rose to the challenge and recovered a major portion of its loss.

Brokers said both actions were technical. By that they mean no outside event influenced the market either to fall or to recover.

The stock market has been advancing steadily for nearly a year without a marked reaction.

Just two weeks ago it reached the highest mark since October, 1929, after a long seven-week advance. Then it toppled over slowly, gained speed, and smacked down hard early this week in one of the heaviest falls of the year. The bounce back was prompt and sustained but not especially vigorous.

The fall had been expected. It gathered momentum as everyone rushed to unload their holdings. The selling was clearly overdone, and that generated its own buying power.

In the first two days of the week, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks skidded down $3.30, one of the steepest drops of the year. In the following three days it regained $2.50 for a net loss of 80 cents at $131.40. That is $3.50 away from the peak of the year.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock exchange were:

Electric & Musical Industries up ⅛ at 3⅝ on 128,900 shares, Boeing off 2½ at 59½, Libby, McNeill & Libby up 1 at 13, Lockheed Aircraft up ½ at 41¾, and Decca Records up 1⅜ at 14.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Crist of Snyder, are the parents of a son born September 3 at 3:46 a.m. in Battenfield Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds, eight and one-half ounces and was named Tommy Harroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter L. Nelson of Snyder are the parents of a daughter, Trina Lucille, born August 28 in a Colorado City hospital.

Coronation Is Shown On Cathedral Window

CANTERBURY, England, Sept. 4 (AP)—Pomp and glitter of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II radiate from a 25-foot stained glass window installed in Canterbury cathedral. Besides crowns and jewels, the panels show Prince Charles and Princess Anne standing with the Queen and their father, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Former President Ulysses S. Grant and Gens. Winfield Scott, Phil Sheridan, William Tecumseh Sherman and George B. McClellan all served at Ft. Vancouver, Wash. at some time during their careers.

Amateur Help Asked

DURBAN, South Africa, Sept. 4 (AP)—Radio amateurs throughout the world have been asked to help scientists working at Rhodes University, Grahamstown, when they record an eclipse of the sun next Christmas day. The amateurs' part will be to tune in on a six-hour commentary of the event and send reports of the strength of the reception for the scientists' use.
