Directors Of Chamber Support City Sales Tax

In a called meeting Friday afternoon the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors voted unanimously to actively endorse a city sales tax here.

Seven directors present, a quorum, voted "yes" on a motion for the strong campaign to spur voters' approval of the proposed tax.

Citizens of Colorado City will cast ballots for or against the one percent city sales tax Friday, December 15.

Chamber of Commerce President Frank Deregibus said Saturday, "We were not meeting to decide if our town is in for a tax. We are in for a tax raise, that's certain. We were there to decide what kind of a tax increase the Chamber favors."

Deregibus then pointed out that City Council has the power to raise ad valorem taxes in any Council meeting.

"That current rate of $1.65 per $100 evaluation could be jumped to $1.85. Limit is $2.50 per $100," he added, "and it's either higher property taxes or a small city sales tax."

Before the seven directors voted support for a city sales tax, an invited guest, Mayor John Chinn, reviewed reasons for the city's calling a sales tax election.

Main point Dr. Chinn discussed was immediate need for more revenue for city maintenance and improvement.

He again cited, as he did in a previous meeting Tuesday night for civic leaders, the 1968-69 fiscal year budget expected to top the 1966-67 fiscal budget because of higher operation costs and city pay scale.

The mayor told Chamber directors that city revenue from several key sources has been drastically reduced.

He then noted the loss of tax income from the now publicly owned Root Memorial Hospital; the now-closed and tax delinquent five-story Baker Hotel in Colorado City; loss of parking meter revenue since removal of the meters; and the reduction by a sizeable figure of city tax revenue from the old Max Berman Department Store, now the Fair Store.

Directors, after a question and answer period, then went on record as being for a one percent city sales tax.

Voting "Aye," in the 100 percent vote by the quorum, were Eddie Piland, Sam L. Majors, Jr., Trevelyn Kelley, Jimmy Harrison, Truman Bodine, A. C. Benson and Deregibus. Sefton Pickens, Chamber manager, and Mayor Chinn were also present but had no voting voice at the meet.

Plans for the Chamber's support the sales tax campaign include the mailing of a letter from the Chamber to every citizen on the rolls of city water department service. The letter will explain and endorse the proposed tax and will be financed by Chamber funds.

The Chamber will also seek chances to send speakers to every meeting of clubs civic groups, and organizations in town between now and the election date.

All members of City Council and a number of Chamber directors will be available, Deregibus said, for tax talks before any group.

Business & Professional Women's Club will hear a speaker on the subject Tuesday night, as will Mitchell County Federation of Women's Club, Tuesday afternoon.

Other organizations wanting to hear reasons for the tax and reasons for the Chamber's stand on the matter, may call the Chamber office and schedule a tax talk, said the Chamber manager Pickens.

510 Students Visit Mobile Cancer Unit

Student body at Colorado High School, all 510 of them visited the mobile unit of American Cancer Society on campus Wednesday, announced Earl Cook, education chairman of Mitchell County Cancer unit.

"The Cancer Fighter," presented a two-minute slide called "To Smoke or Not to Smoke," directed to non-smoking youth.

Relationship between cigaret smoking and lung cancer was stressed by the continuous tape transcription and a series of color reproductions made by a pathologist to show cancer cells in various stages of growth.

Monday, said Cook, the mobile exhibit van will be at Loraine High School all day.

Tuesday, the same unit will visit students at Westbrook High School.

"To Smoke or Not to Smoke," is part of the educational campaign against smoking, believed by American Cancer Society scientists to be one of America's most critical health hazards.

County Projected Yields For '68 Cotton Approved

Rolling Plains Cotton Growers has announced that 1968 county projected yields for cotton have been approved.

In a telephone conversation with the Cotton Division of USDA in Washington, D. C., Charles Bragg of RPCG was informed that official cotton yields were approved by Secretary Freeman and sent to the Federal Register for publication Friday.

Texas ASC State office was notified by wire and each ASCS county committee has been furnished official county yields.

Mitchell County, said Eddie Braswell, office manager of the ASCS, was "very lucky" in the figure for the county projected yield for payments in 1968.

The projected 1968 yield per acre was set at 412 lbs., as compared to the projected 1967 yield figure of 353 lbs. of cotton per acre.

"We were lucky because the 1968 projected yield was based on crops for 1965 and 1966, two very good years for our county — probably the best two years running we've had since the program started," said Braswell.

This county's yield was second highest in the 32-county Rolling Plains area with Scurry County's 449 lbs. as compared to the 1967 figure of 386, the highest jump. Fisher County with 407 for 1968 is the only other projected yield topping the 400 lbs. mark.

Under the 1968 program, participating farmers will earn payments of 12.24 cents per pound times the farm yield in additional price support for cooperating in the program. Producers who divert acreage from the farm allotment will be paid 10.76 cents per pound for the first 5 per cent of the allotment and 6 cents per pound for acreage diverted, up to an additional 30 per cent of the farm allotment.

In the 32 counties making up the Rolling Plains area, 12 counties received increases over the 1967 yields, 19 counties were reduced slightly, and the Wichita County yield remained unchanged. Bragg, executive vice president of the RPCG, explained that the drop in yields in the 19 counties was caused by extremely low yields in these counties in 1966.

"When 1968 projections were computed," he said, "actual production from 1966 was substituted for the 5-year moving acreage. Production

GUIDELINES FOR AREA RESOURCES

Local Farm Leaders At Meet Study Rolling Plains Economics

A group of 10 Mitchell County men returned home Tuesday from Rotan excited about the possibilities of doubling farm and ranch income within the county.

The 10 agricultural leaders kick off the brand new scores of other area leaders kick off the band new and massive Rolling Plains Economic Program (RPEP).

Goal of the broadly based program is the same for the other 27 counties comprising the Texas Rolling Plains as it is for Mitchell County: to double, within the foreseeable future, farm and ranch income.

RPEP sets forth the means and ways for taking advantage of the possibilities which exist for increasing the annual area agricultural income from about $220 million to more than $400 million.

Initiated in September 1966 by officials in the College of Agriculture at Texas A&M University (at the request of and in cooperation with area leaders) the written Rolling Plains Economic Program is a 200-page document prepared by Norman Brints of Vernon, area specialist in farm management with the A&M Agricultural Extension Service.

A similar meeting for other area counties was held Monday at Abilene. Sessions Nov. 28 at Seymour and Nov. 29 at Paducah will conclude the kick-off phases of RPEP. Meetings are scheduled later, on the county level.

Among the several speakers at Rotan was John E. Hutchison of College Station director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Your approach on an area basis in trying to increase agricultural income is sound because it provides those guidelines for achieving the potential of the entire Rolling Plains, guidelines which, by the way, can be followed by all organizations, agencies, groups and individuals within the framework of their operation," he said.

"Your area approach also has the effect of coordinating the efforts of everyone who is supporting those objectives which have been established by the people themselves," Hutchison added.

Persons from Mitchell County at the kick-off were the following:

Eddie Braswell, ASCS; John Russell, FHA; Allan Sheppard, SCS; R. B. Bager PP production Credit; Dub Waldrop, Spade Ranch; Jimmy Henderson; Elmer Martin, County Judge; Tommy Marricle Farm Bureau Agent; Travis Branch; Bobby Lemons, and Miss Janice Miller, County Agents.

Programs similar in design and purpose to RPEP have been under way several years in other areas of the state: the Blackland Income Growth (BIG) program, the Build East Texas (BET) program, the Panhandle Economic Program (PEP).

In the area where BIG is now in its sixth year, farm income in 18 selected counties last year was up $53.9 million from that of 1965. In Collin County alone, farm income in 1961 was $18 million. BIG is much credited for the $25 million income there last year.

First draft of the written Rolling Plains Economic Program (500 pages) was presented last July to a committee representing the 28 counties involved. Its approval at that time was unanimous.

Those at the July meeting represented the 28 individual county program building committees and the government, agribusinesses, education and industry in the counties.

The meeting in Rotan was the second of four in the area during which leaders from various counties other than Mitchell County made plans for presenting RPEP to their fellow citizens.

In his briefing, Brints told the county representa

Bi-district game Saturday night played in Wolf Stadium here with Crane facing Stamford wound up with a score of 7-6 in favor of Crane.

Local football fans, backers of the Stamford and Crane teams, and a crowd of sports enthusiasts from over the area made the game a standout event.

Until fourth quarter with a little more than 6 minutes to play it was Stamford Bulldogs all the way. Bulldogs controlled the ball and the action, managed 180 yards on the ground to only 6? yards rushing for Crane. A long bomb washed Stamford out.

Dazzling pass from Crane halfback Kenny Smith to Tony Jones was deciding factor. In a spectacular play their one coup of the night, Jones outran Stamford defense for 85 yards and the winning touchdown. With 6:35 minutes to go, the pass and foot-race blasted Stamford's hopes and did away with the Bulldog 6 point lead

Smith kicked the extra point for Crane.

An intercepted pass on the 38 set up Stamford's TD in second quarter, about five minutes away from halftime.

Bulldog quarterback Bobby Anderson pulled the trick with a pass to Gary Spitzer in the end zone. Danny Harvey's kick for extra point was wide.

Stamford	0	6	0	0	6
Crane	0	0	0	7	7

Stamford — Spitzer 8 pass from Anderson (kick failed)
Crane — Jones 85 pass from Smith (Smith kick)

COMMUNITY SERMON

Thank God For God Thanksgiving Topic

About 200 Colorado City citizens attended community-wide religious services in First Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening.

Sponsored by the Mitchell County Ministerial Alliance, the town church meeting featured music by the Colorado High School choir, directed by Curtis Baker.

Message of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Weems S. Dykes, pastor of First Christian Church.

Rev. Dykes took as his sermon title, "Thank God for God." During his introductory remarks he read a poem by that title, written by the late Joyce Kilmer.

Scripture text for the Thanksgiving message was Psalm 103:1-12. From the text, Rev. Dykes described the character of the God worshiped by the Psalmist, beginning with "He forgiveth all thine iniquities," and including the passage "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him."

At another point Rev. Dykes said, "God must look down on us and say 'How long, oh man, how long?' Though some people may believe that God is dead, I say, thank God for God!"

"Always, and again I say always, let us remember that God has not failed man, but rather, man has failed God," he said.

Climaxing his address he again quoted from the Bible and asked the congregation "Who besides God can be God? At this Thanksgiving I urge us all to be thankful and Thank God for God!"

from the 1961 crop was dropped from the formula. "Since 1961 was generally a good crop year in this area, the 5-year average production was reduced, next year's projected yields were reduced in proportion.

"Farmers are beginning to realize that production must be increased so that a good projected yield can be maintained," said Bragg. "The government payment derived from this yield constitutes about 1/3 of the income of the cotton farmer. Those farmers who planted their cotton and failed to use good cultural practices, insect control or fertilization programs, are now paying the consequences," he emphasized.

"Farmers who have tried to maintain both production and quality are being rewarded. Some area farmers are reporting that they have sold cotton for as much as 40c a pound. Even good short staple is bringing 150 to 400 points above the loan. Most forecasters speculate that the price will go even higher. The need for good quality cotton has never been greater," continued Bragg.

"We urge every cotton farmer in the Rolling Plains to evaluate his own operation to see how he can better himself and the cotton industry by raising the cotton demand by mills."

Mitchell County farm yield figures will be mailed to individual farmers Friday, Dec. 1, by the ASCS office, said Braswell, Friday.

lists that "The economic growth of agriculture in your Rolling Plains depends on the efficient use which you make of agricultural resources and the very speed with which new and improved technology is adopted."

Brints emphasized that "The greatest return on investment goes to those who change first. And, agriculture in the Rolling Plains is indeed changing. Farms are larger, but fewer. Require ments per farm in both areas of capital and management are increasing.

"If the agricultural industry in the Rolling Plains is to grow, every (with emphasis) effort must point toward conservation and the efficient use of all resources in the area.

"This Rolling Plains Economic Program and the guidelines therein can well be the beginning of a renewed effort to adopt the advanced technology in production, in marketing, in conservation, in profession management."

The potential increase of more than $200 million annually — where will it come from for the farmers and ranchers in Mitchell as well as in the other 27 counties?

In his report Tuesday, Brints defined the sources of the potential increase as follows:

Increased use of the rainfall on cultivated acres for crop and livestock production thru reducing runoff, evaporation, undesirable plants $25 million.

Timely and accurate application of the irrigation water on 130,000 acres: $1.5 million.

Expanded use of latest technology in brush control and deferred grazing, in beef production: $10 million.

Adoption of the best-known production techniques for increasing crop yields, improving crop quality, reducing crop costs: $30 million.

Integrated organization of farms and ranches for the maximum use of land, labor, capital and management: $7 million.

Increased processing and manufacturing of those agricultural products in the 28 counties: $120 million.

Effective planning of estates and management of the income tax: $7 million.

Development of commercial outdoor recreation such as hunting, fishing and camping: $3 million.

Increased production of cattle, swine and sheep on the crop farms: $6 million.

At the meeting, representatives of various public agencies and organizations described the contributions which each can make to help farmers and ranchers implement RPEP.

In addition to the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station, other agencies represented were the Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Texas Education Agency.

TESCO Taking Part In Big Construction

A power plant capable of producing more than one million kilowatts is being planned for construction in Freestone County to feed electricity into the 345,000 volt "backbone" transmissions lines of Texas Electric Service Company, Dallas Power and Light Company, and Texas Power and Light Company, it was announced Tuesday.

The three companies are joining in the project because it offers them a unique opportunity to develop a major source of economical power for their systems, according to Burl B. Hulsey Jr., president and general manager of Texas Electric Service Company.

The new plant, which will burn lignite for boiler fuel, is to be located about eight miles northeast of Fairfield where there are extensive deposits of lignite, Hulsey pointed out.

"Analysis of growth trends, and system loads anticipated in the future show that the three companies will be able to realize significant operating efficiencies by sharing the power output of this large, lignite-fueled plant," Hulsey said.

"Our participation in this project is just one phase of our planning and building for the future, and is another effort on our part to offset the many rising costs of providing service to our customers.

"At present Texas Electric Service Company is constructing a 250,000 kilowatt generating addition to the company's power plant near Graham, with completion scheduled by the end of 1968. We also are planning a major addition to another one of our present plants for completion in 1972," Hulsey said.

He pointed out that these two new units, like all others in the Texas Electric Service Company system, will use natural gas for boiler fuel, and that natural gas will continue to be the principal fuel used by the system.

The plant in Freestone County is to have two generating units, the first being scheduled for operation prior to the summer loads of 1972, and the second one a year later.

1949 Club Women Study Americanism

"What has Happened to Americanism," was topic of program Monday for members of the 1949 Study Club.

Mrs. Robert Shamburger was leader for the study conducted in the home of Mrs. Dell Riley.

Program was begun with members giving their definition of Americanism and then reading the meaning from Webster's dictionary.

Mrs. Shamburger pointed out that Americanism began with the Mayflower and the persons who were willing to give up all, including their lives, to create an environment in which an individual's rights, privileges and human dignity could grow.

She directed a discussion of war, racial injustice, riots draft card burning and the death of President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Shamburger led the discussion from the point of view that each one is guilty, prejudiced and at fault because of our impersonal attitudes, — our not wanting to be involved on a human level with our fellow man.

During the business session reports were made about the "packages for overseas" project last month.

Mrs. Tharon Henderson, chairman, reported on the project for the month of December which will be helping a needy family at Christmas time.

Club members voted to subscribe to Texas Club Woman magazine.

Attending were Mrs. Howard Bynum, Mrs. Bob Chalker, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Bill Holbert, Mrs. Trevlyn Kelley, Mrs. Arlene Morris, Mrs. Truman Nix, Mrs. Wiley.

TENTATIVE DATE SET

Zeta Delta Clubs Plans "Breakfast With Santa"

Plans for the "Breakfast with Santa" were begun Tuesday by Zeta Delta Study Club members.

The breakfast, open to all children, has tentatively been set for Dec. 16 in Medallion Room of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative.

Polaroid pictures of the children with Santa will be available for purchase during the fete.

Named to the breakfast committee during a meeting of the club in the home of Mrs. Don Fite were Mrs. Dennis Wright, chairman; Mrs. Eddie Braswell, Mrs. Fite and Mrs. Randy Hicks.

Complete plans will be announced at a later date according to the club reporter.

Miss Maynette Davis, was entered by the club as a candidate for the Mesquite District Federation scholarship.

Mrs. Dennis Wright presented the program, "Improving Colorado City."

Mrs. Wright reported that Colorado City has been on a decline for the past 10 years.

"Part of this is due to Interstate 20 by-passing the city," she explained, "but it's due mainly to the attitude of local businessmen and citizens".

She continued, "Our town has many things to be very proud of . . . the little theater organization, numerous churches and extraordinary library, free parks, local airport and the Fourth of July "Fly-in."

Among suggestions Mrs. Wright named for improving the city were cleaning up entrance ways into the city, cleaning up vacant lots and buildings, effective landscaping, establishing public tennis courts, golfing facilities and more modernistic playground equipment in Ruddick Park.

"One big thing that can be done," the speaker said, "is to trade with our local merchants."

She suggested that if brands and items needed are not available, ask local merchants to stock the merchandise therefore, helping the public and the merchant.

Mrs. Wright concluded by explaining that community improvement is a complex problem.

"To solve a complex problem is to break it down into a simple step by step method and recognizing it," she said, "Then do something to improve it."

Mrs. Dale Geiger was a guest for the afternoon meet.

Members attending were Mrs. Hubert Bassinger, Mrs. Rodney James, Mrs. Bobby Nobles, Mrs. Jackie Corbell, Mrs. Dave Sanders Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Braswell, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Fite.

PARODIES are not as popular as they used to be. Remember vaudeville days? The old lyceum program?

How many of the ridiculous parodies you heard then can you recall now? A parody, as you know, is a "take-off" on well-known musical lyrics.

New nonsensical words set to familiar tunes. First one from early childhood was "Nero, my dog has fleas," sung to the melody of a hymn used then for funeral music.

How many did you hear, back-when, to the tune of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean?"

Can remember two, offhand. One went, "My Barney lies over the ocean, my Barney lies over the sea. My Barney lies over the ocean, the same way that he lied to me." That was a World War I production.

Another heard in the old Majestic Circuit at Houston, sang out 'My Bonnie and I kept a boarder to help meet expenses you see. The boarder was young and goodlooking . . . Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!"

THEN there were the parodies sung to the tune "Old Oaken Bucket." "The old family toothbrush, the old family toothbrush, etc, that hung at the sink.

"First it was father's, then it was mother's, then it was brother's and now it is mine!"

That one went particularly well for young quartets trying to startle germ-conscious parents.

EVER have fun with the tune to "I Want a girl, just like the girl who married dear old Dad?"

That one went "I want a beer just like the beer that stewed my dear old dad" and on and on and on.

Glow Worm brought out the wag in somebody who thought up "Down by the seashore glimmer, glimmer, I saw a mermaid shimmer, shimmer."

What Boy Scout has not delighted in shocking his family with words sung to the tune of "Battle Hymn of Republic," the parody that goes "I wear my pink pajamas in the summer when it's hot, I wore my flannel nightie in the winter when it's not?"

CAN NOT recall much of it, but do still remember how it was that Daddy, a parody composer in his own right, once made up words to fit the music of "I Wanta Be Down South in Dixie."

He sang it long and lustily to Mother who never has forgotten it altogether, either.

"I'm on the verge, I'm on the verge, I'm on the verge of prostration. I gotta have, I gotta have, I gotta have an operation . . . All the ladies, they've done had one, I may just die if I can't have one.

PARODIES have just gone completely out of style. Like parasols . . . licorice . . . watch fobs . . . the feather boa . . . books by Harold Bell Wright and Jean Stratton Porter . . . and vaudeville.

There must be a reason. It probably is not due to the fact that the current young generation has acquired a new dignity and no longer cares to indulge in annoying their elders.

It may be due to the new sound in music. The new beat. How could anybody, young or old, come up with a parody fitting the new sound of "Baby, Baby, All Night Long . . . Those Funny, Forgotten, Familiar Feelings . . . or Something Stupid?"

It simply isn't necessary for anybody anywhere to try to make the new music sound funnier than it sounds already.

They flew down from Washington D. C. for Thanksgiving in Loraine as passengers on the plane of President Johnson and his party.

JIM KELLEY family had as Thanksgiving season guests Pat's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kindla, of Bishop, Texas.

Thanksgiving dinner party for the family included Jim, Pat, their sons and daughters, Deborah, Frank, Mike, Wendy, Mark, and Diane . . . Pat's parents . . . and Jim's mother Mable (Mrs. Frank H.) Kelley.

RUTH LATHAM (Mrs. Louis) joined her son Louis Jr. and his family from Hobbs, New Mexico, for a Thanksgiving trip to the Austin home of the Latham daughter, Mary Ann, her husband Tom Bradfield, and their three attractive daughters.

Elfie Majors (Mrs. Oscar) spent Thanksgiving Day as guests in home of her son Dr. Marvin Majors of Abilene.

After that Mrs. Majors and her sister-in-law Edna (Mrs. Sam) Goldman of Sweetwater went to Dallas for a family wedding.

Mrs. Goldman's granddaughter Patti Perkins, American Airline hostess, was married Saturday night in First Methodist Church at Dallas to Charles Goodbrad. Patti is daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Roland Perkins of Fall Church Va. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Ethelbert.

County Agent Cites Hazard For Grazing

The season when prussic acid poisoning becomes a hazard to livestock is here, reports County Agent Bobby Lemons.

Danger of livestock losses is greatest where frosts have occurred during the past several days. Prussic acid poisoning occurs when certain plants are grazed immediately after they have been damaged by frost explains the county agent.

Sorghum species, including Johnsongrass, sudangrass, and the grain sorghums, can become the source of poisoning. Cattle are the most susceptible although other domestic animals can be affected.

The poisoning is rapid acting and signs of illness may start within a few minutes after the animal has eaten the plant. Death may occur within 15 minutes or an animal may live for several hours. Most common symptoms of poisoning are salivation, labored breathing and bloat. Affected animals should be removed from the pasture or field and treated immediately by a veterinarian if possible.

Sorghum species, warns Lemons, should not be grazed after frost until they have dried out and have been tested for the presence of the acid.
