County Farmers Eligible for Disaster Loans

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers or agriculture operators are available through county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), Raymond Hodges, FmHA county supervisor, said today.

County Judge Zook Thomas also said he has been notified by Robert A. Lunsford, state coordinator for the Division of Emergency Management, Texas Department of Public Safety, that Collingsworth is one of the counties designated to receive emergency disaster loans.

These loans are available as a result of the adverse weather conditions sustained by farmers in the period of January 1, 1982 through Dec. 31, 1982.

Hodges asked that those who need farm credit as a result of drought, wind, hail and flooding make their needs known at the Farmers Home Administration office at 904 West Avenue in Wellington.

Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by Farmers Home until October 20, 1983 for physical and production losses.

FmHA loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installation, equipment, or buildings, (including homes) lost through this disaster. Funds may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on current real estate and chattel debts.

"Funds can be used for essential operating and living costs," Hodges said.

Applicants that certify that other credit is not available may receive loans covering actual losses at an interest rate of eight percent and are scheduled for repayment as rapidly as feasible consistent with the applicant's ability to pay. Applicants who certify that other credit is available may also receive these loans at a higher interest rate.

To be eligible for an emergency loan, an applicant must have suffered losses from the disaster.

The new bridge will be 40 feet wide and the bridge area leading to it will be raised 11 feet. A climbing lane will be put in on both hills at Elm Creek.

Other specifications call for the purchase of additional right of way in order to provide safety clearance for structures and the road bed slope. The existing drainage structures will be widened and the base strengthened. Shoulders will be paved and new surfacing is called for, according to Lewis H. White, district engineer, Childress.

then give its approval to proceed with right-of-way purchases.

This will complete the widening program for Highway US 83 which has been under way across Collingsworth County for a number of years.

Final engineering must be submitted.

Asked when the contract should be let, McLain said that if everything went as scheduled, this would probably be in July, and work should start in 30 to 60 days, or around September 1. "We are working that schedule," he said.

court Tuesday, Jan. 11, to determine if there were any preliminary problems that need to be cleared. None were voiced, said County Judge Zook Thomas.

Public notices are being published, and any citizen who objects to any part of the proposal may request that a public hearing be held covering social, economic, and environmental effects of the proposed design for the 4.7 mile road, said Judge Thomas.

Feb. 19 is the last day that a written request for a formal hearing can be made to the Highway Department.

If no request is received, the Wellington office will notify the Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Austin, which will

U.S. 83 Completion Due In Summer

Preliminary work is under way which will lead to the widening of Highway US 83 from the Wheeler County line, south for 4.7 miles, which is tentatively scheduled for construction some time in the late summer of 1983.

Maps of the part of Highway US 83 for which improvement is due are available for inspection in both the county judge office and the Wellington office of the highway department.

Both the Commissioners Court and the Wellington office of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation are involved at the present stage.

An informal hearing was held by the commissioners

Heifer High At Ft. Worth

A Limousine heifer, exhibited by Patricia Fourmentin, placed third in the light weight class at the Ft. Worth Exposition and Fat Stock Show Saturday, Jan. 29.

The calf was also a winner in the Collingsworth Junior Livestock show a week earlier.

The Ft. Worth judging was held Saturday.

Patricia returned home with the steer Sunday.

A Collingsworth 4-H Club member, Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fourmentin.

She will exhibit in the Houston Livestock Show which opens the last of this month.

Mr. Fourmentin was with his daughter in Ft. Worth.

Organ Memorial Planned

As a memorial to the late Mrs. George Scott, her family has given a substantial sum of money to The Church of the Nazarene, to be used to fill some need of her church.

Joining Mr. Scott in presenting the gift were their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley of Childress and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pedigo of Amarillo, along with their grandchildren.

Since the gift has become known, a number of friends have asked to add donations to it and this has been approved.

Mrs. Scott's family and the Rev. Don Bland, pastor, have decided on the purchase of an organ for the church and friends wishing to contribute to the memorial fund may do so.

The present organ is worn out, Rev. Bland, said, and repairs would be excessive.

He is now working with Bill Tarpley of Allen Organ Company, which builds organs for churches and other purposes.

The model being considered is computerized, with sound printed on chips permanently. "It is as close to the actual sound of pipe organs as is possible," he said.

Tarpley grew up in the Lillie community and is a great grandson of Dr. J.W. Peeples. His mother taught music here for a number of years.

Rev. Bland said that donations to the fund are tax deductible, but they should be by check made payable to the Church of the Nazarene. Donors are asked to list the purpose of the check on its face.

These may be mailed to the church at Box No. 432, or given to Nancy Harris, church treasurer, at the ASCS office.

'83 Farm Program Meeting Thursday

A community-wide meeting for farmers, business people and all others interested will be held Thursday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the large auditorium of Bura Handley Community Center.

The meeting is being called by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), and the purpose is to explain the PIK (Payment in Kind) farm program and answer questions concerning it.

"We urge everyone to attend. We may not know all the answers, but we will get you an answer if we don't know," declared Bob Weatherly, county executive director.

Here to help conduct the meeting will be Johnny Fowler of Jayton, district ASCS director for the 12 Eastern Panhandle counties.

"This is an opportunity for the farmers and business people to discuss everything they want to discuss. We will tell you all we know about PIK and you can ask all the questions you want to ask. We will stay as long as you want to stay," declared Weatherly.

Not all the information concerning the new PIK program has been received here, Weatherly said, but he added that he will keep farmers advised as the information comes in.

Sign-up is already under way for the 1983 PIK program. This is a one-year program that will end at the close of this year, but it can be extended to the 1984 year if this is needed.

The last day for sign-up will be March 11.

The three objectives of the program are:

1. Reduce production.
2. Reduce surplus stocks.
3. Avoid increased budget outlays.

Weatherly listed the four options of this year's program, pointing out that it is a voluntary program.

1. Participation only in the regular farm program.

2. Participation in the regular program plus the 10-30 percent PIK.

3. Retiring the entire base acreage if the farmer's whole base bid is accepted.

4. Not participate at all in any of these.

"When you sign up in the PIK you will contract with the government to receive a percentage of the yield of your commodity base that you would have produced on PIK acres. This will be 80% on cotton, corn, and grain sorghum and 95% on wheat.

A grower may retire any amount from 10 to 30% after signing up in the regular program.

The whole-base bid will be explained Thursday evening. Under this option, the grower can submit a whole base bid in which he offers his entire base at a specified percentage of the yield not to exceed the 95% on wheat and 80% on cotton and grain sorghum. These sealed bids for the whole farm contracts will be opened in public on March 19. Bids will be accepted starting with the low bid first and working upward.

In no case will the amount of acres diverted exceed 50% of the base for each commodity in the county. Acceptance of whole base bids will cease when this limit is reached. Weatherly said that tenants will be protected as a contract will not be accepted by the county ASCS committee if a tenant must be removed from the farm because of the PIK program.

Conservation use acres will be discussed as they relate to the PIK program as will the role of CCC storage payments.

Because this 1983 farm program is so radically different from those in the past, Weatherly strongly urges Collingsworth County cotton, wheat and grain sorghum farmers to be present at the meeting.

Immunization Clinic Set

An immunization clinic offering vaccines that give protection against several childhood diseases are scheduled for Monday, Feb. 14, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. at the Community Action.

This is located at 612 West Avenue.

Protection is against polio, diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis) measles, rubella and mumps.

There will be no charge.

Basketball Reset for Saturday

The Wellington-Shamrock basketball games scheduled to be played Tuesday night, Feb. 1, were postponed due to the weather. They have been rescheduled for Saturday, Feb. 5, to begin at 4 p.m. These will be at Shamrock and include both Varsity and JV games.

On Friday night, Feb. 4, Wellington teams will travel to Memphis. On Tuesday, Wellington will host Clarendon teams. This will take District 2-AA to the final game of the 1983 season, when Wellington will play at Panhandle.

That game will begin at either 6 or 6:30 p.m. and there will be no JV games that night.

Boys coach Gano Wilson expects another hard game Friday night.

"We have played Memphis three times and they have beat us soundly all three times. They sure have a good squad, he said.

Memphis has both height and speed, and Wilson calls them "double tough." Of the Rockets, he says:

"We're improving. We get more team work out of them all the time, they probably have a little better defense and they are scoring more. Overall, they are just playing better ball," said Wilson.

Wellington boys were tied for third place in the district with a 2-3 record at the first half. "We are 1-0 for the second half, Wilson said.

Memphis girls may be less of a problem than the Cyclone, believes girls coach Dale Morris.

"Memphis has a real big team. Early in the year they played good basketball, but during the first half of district they did not win a game, so they've been down. But they are capable of playing good basketball," Morris said.

Wellington teams had a strong winning streak during the last week, winning 6 of the 8 games played Tuesday, Jan. 25 against Panhandle and Friday, Jan. 28 against Quanah.

All games were in the Skyrocket Gym.

Skyrocket varsity boys defeated Panhandle 53-45, but the Rockettes lost 58-47 after leading during the first half.

Wellington Junior varsity boys lost to Panhandle 41-31, but the JV girls were victorious, 43-40.

In the Quanah game Friday night, Skyrocketes were victors 64-49, and the Rockettes 46-41.

Wellington JV boys took their game 61-57, and the JV girls won 43-41.

Kent Hance of Lubbock, United States Representative from the 19th Congressional District, will be the banquet speaker for the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce, according to Tommy Hudson, president.

Date of the banquet will be Saturday, February 26, in Bura Handley Community Center.

Banquet tickets will go on sale shortly and can be obtained from members of the chamber board of directors, along with a number of the members.

Hance was one of Hudson's instructors in Texas Tech University.

Area Group Sees El Greco Exhibit in Dallas

Three Wellington couples were among the group of Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle students of Dord Fitz who were in Dallas this weekend to see the exhibit of paintings by the artist best known to the world as El Greco--The Greek.

The exhibit will remain until February 6, in the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts at Fair Park.

Those going from Wellington were Mr. and Mrs. John Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman.

A high point of the trip was their meeting Former President Jimmy Carter and Mrs. Carter at the museum. They were in Dallas in relation to the establishment of the Carter Museum in Georgia.

Besides the El Greco exhibit, the 50 Panhandle-Oklahoma artists saw the inaugural performance of the Dallas Ballet at the newly renovated and refurbished Majestic Theatre.

On the following day, Saturday, they visited the Kimbell Museum and the Amon Carter Museum in Ft. Worth.

Back in Dallas Saturday evening, they saw former

New York Jets back, turned actor, Joe Nameth in the Rainmaker at Ganny's Dinner Theatre.

After a Sunday morning brunch in the Venetian room of the Fairmont hotel for most, the group returned home.

Those going on this trip were from Amarillo, Stratford, Spearman, Gruver, and Wellington in Texas; Hollis, Shattuck, Woodward and Beaver in Oklahoma and Liberal and Hugoton, Kansas.

El Greco, born in Crete and educated in Greece, lived in Venice and Rome as a young man, where he knew many of the great Renaissance painters.

He then went to Toledo, Spain, where he spent the remainder of his life.

He developed the expressionist style of painting. Many of his are religious in nature, and characterized by the elongated bodies, more especially the faces, by which many lay people recognized his work. His use of light characterizes his paintings to a degree that they are almost luminous.

The exhibit seen in Dallas was put together by the Toledo Museum of Art in Toledo, Ohio and the paintings were gathered from throughout the world.

It was shown in only four museums in the world, the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., Toldeo Museum of Art, Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, and at a museum

When the exhibit is taken down Sunday, it will be returned to Toledo, Ohio and the individual paintings will be returned to their home museums. The ballet performance at the Majestic Theatre was a high point in Dallas' 1982-83 arts season.

The theatre has been restored to much of its original beauty.

The Ballet was in its first performance under Flemming Flindt its new artistic director.

He came to Dallas from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he was one of Europe's most respected performing artists and then artistic director of the Royal Danish Ballet. His wife Vivi Flindt, is one of Denmark's most popular dancers and was honored by the queen of Denmark with the Order of Dannenborg. In Dallas she is chairman of the faculty of the Dallas Ballet Academy, the official school of the Dallas Ballet.

Included in the program Friday night was the spectacular "Texas on Its Toes."

We started this game real cold, couldn't get anything to go in the first half, and shot only 15%.

We came back out in the third quarter and shot a little better, shooting 30%, and that pulled the game up to within 11 points of Quanah. In the fourth quarter we hit 50% of our shots. We also hit 12 out of 15 free throws that last quarter. I felt like all through the game, even when we were away behind, the girls were hustling hard and that hustle paid off in the fourth quarter. In 1983, the Texas Farm Bureau is 50 years old. From its humble beginnings back in the midst of the Great Depression, the TFB has grown into the largest state Farm Bureau in the nation—more than 300,000 member families.

A special Farm Bureau week is being observed statewide February 7-12, 1983, to commemorate the TFB Golden Anniversary year.

As a farmer or rancher, here's why you should join this growing outfit:

•Speak with an organized voice. Only the strongly organized can be effective with local, state, and national governments. Alone, you are weak. Allied with more than 3.2 million families nationwide, your voice is magnified.

•Improve net farm income. Become active in one of the 11 organized commodity divisions to help solve production, marketing and regulatory problems.

•Help preserve our system of government. Farm Bureau offers citizenship training for our youth and educational programs for young farmers and ranchers.

•Save through economic services. Members enjoy numerous benefits that are available only through group association—including insurance, tires, batteries and tillage tools.

CHARTER PRESENTATION

Mrs. B.B. Martin of Dodson, left, and Mrs. Monty Mitchell of Quail hold the charter to the Sabine Pass chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, presented by Mrs. E.F. McEntire, the immediate past Texas Department, president. Mrs. Mitchell is chapter president; Mrs. Martin is the registrar.

Sabine Pass UDC Receives Charter From Past President January 26

"You're my pet," Mrs. E.F. McEntire, state president of Texas Divisions, United Daughters of the Confederacy, told members of the new Wellington chapter as she prepared to present its charter Wednesday, January 26, at a luncheon in the Heritage Room.

Mrs. McEntire has worked with the Sabine Pass chapter through its organizational period. She had twice planned to come to Wellington to present the charter, but each trip had to be cancelled. Everyone considered this third attempt a good omen.

Mrs. McEntire presented the charter to the chapter president, Mrs. Monty Mitchell of Quail, as Mrs. B.B. Martin, of Dodson looked on. She was instrumental in organizing this chapter.

Mrs. McEntire believes that the United Daughters of the Confederacy carries on the traditions of the South's lovely women. A long-time UDC member, Mrs. McEntire helped to organize two chapters in her home town, Waco.

During her tenure as president of the Texas Division, she organized 11 new chapters. Wellington is one of these. Altogether, she has organized 17 new chapters.

She held both chapter and district 7 offices before becoming Texas Division Register and then the president. Her term in that office was completed only a few weeks ago and she is now chaplain of the Texas Division.

Mrs. McEntire has written the historical program which will be given on the division and general (national) level during the next two years.

A woman with 25 direct and collateral Confederate ancestors, Mrs. McEntire is interested in other patriotic organizations, holding membership in Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of the Republic of Texas, Colonial Dames, and several others.

At Wednesday's meeting, luncheon tables were decorated with United States, Texas and Confederate flags. Place favors were needlepoint book markers made by chapter members carrying out the UDC theme.

Miss Maudie Coffee gave the invocation, and following the luncheon members participated in a workshop led by Mrs. McEntire.

The chapter has two new members, Mrs. Lynvel Black and Mrs. M.W. Paschall. Anyone having proof of an ancestor serving as a Confederate soldier during the war between the states is welcome to join the UDC chapter.

Members presented at the luncheon and workshop were Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. John Holton, Mrs. Melvin Kiker, Mrs. E.F. Bartlett, Mrs. James R. Ross, Mrs. John Carson, Mrs. Russell Hill, Mrs. Herbert Duncan, Mrs. Roland Mayhugh, Mrs. Jackie Clinkscales, Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. V.K. Orr, Jr., Mrs. Black, Mrs. Lowell Wells, Miss Hattie D. Wells, Miss Coffee, Mrs. C.R. DeArmond, Mrs. J.A. Graham, and these guests, Mrs. Lon Kiker, Miss Virginia Robey and Mr. and Mrs. E.F. McEntire of Waco.

Surprise Shower Given for Mrs. Danny Watts, Daughter

Members of Quail Homemakers Club honored Mrs. Danny Watts and her baby daughter, Tasa Ann, with a surprise shower following the regular meeting of the club Monday, January 24.

Gifts were presented, then refreshments were served by Mrs. Jerry Barton and Mrs. Ben Carson.

During the club hour, Mrs. Cary Don Neeley and Mrs. Delbert White presented a program on machine embroidery and monogramming.

Those attending were Mrs. Harold Caldwell, Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Oran Sain, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Watts and Tasa Ann, Mrs. Neeley,

Mrs. Randall Hodges Introduced at Coffee

A coffee honoring Mrs. Randall Hodges was given Saturday morning by Mrs. Raymond Hodges in her home.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Hodges and presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. John Bryan, Amarillo.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with an ecru lace cloth and rose-pink underlay. The centerpiece was an arrangement of rose-mauve silk flowers.

Coffee and tea were poured from a silver and crystal service by Mrs. David Hodges, Amarillo, sister-in-law of the bride and groom. Punch was served from a crystal bowl by Mrs. Mark Howard, Lubbock, sister of the groom. Other appointments were of crystal and silver.

Approximately 55 guests called between 10 and 11:30 a.m.

Mr., Mrs. Claude Groves Honored At 50th Anniversary Reception

A reception held in the Heritage Room Sunday, January 23 honored Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groves, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Forty years of this has been in Wellington.

Hosts were their three children, Barton Groves and his wife, Marilyn of Amarillo; Joline Wilson and her husband, Bill and David Groves and his wife, Carla of Stone Mountain, Georgia. The latter couple could not attend, as they became parents of twin sons only a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Wilson received the guests and presented them to her parents, and to Mr. and Mrs. Barton Groves.

Jennifer Groves, the only granddaughter of Claude and Pauline Groves, registered the guests at a table covered with a gold cloth. A white bud vase held a bronze chrysanthemum and gold daisies.

The reception table, also covered in gold and with a white lace overlay, had as the centerpiece a fresh-cut arrangement of bronze and gold chrysanthemums, and gold daisies with touches of baby's breath.

Gold roses and turquoise flowers, a white wreath and golden "50" decorated the tiered wedding cake. Crystal appointments were used.

Mrs. Roy Stephens, served tea cake and Mrs. Kenny Barton poured. Both are nieces of Mrs. Groves. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Earl Wheatly, Mrs. Jamie Johnson, Mrs. O.V. Johnson, Mrs. Rufus Sweat, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Richard Nall.

Pictures had their place at the reception. An album traced the lives of the couple and their children from the early years of their marriage to the present. A wedding picture was the focal point of the gift table.

Preceding the reception Sunday, Mrs. Rufus Sweat and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson served a luncheon at the Groves home for approximately 30 friends and family members. Coming from out of town were brothers of the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barton, Jr. of Matador and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Groves of Pampa. Others from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Barton and Paka and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stephens with Amy and Tye, all of Matador;

Mr. and Mrs. Algine Groves of Quanah, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Scroggins of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Forace Evans of Wheeler, Mrs. Earl Wheatly of Hedley, Mrs. C.C. Jones, Mrs. Wade Barton and Mary Ellen Barton, all of Flomot.

Claude and Pauline Groves came to Wellington when he was transferred by the Texas Highway Department, as it was then known.

He had begun work for the department in 1930 and worked in Matador and surrounding towns until April 1943.

An engineering technician, the remainder of his career was out of this district office. He retired in 1972, after 41 years.

Mrs. Groves was born at Matador, the daughter of Alfred and Josephine Barton. Groves was born at Rule and his parents were N.M. and Maggie Groves.

Both Claude and Pauline Groves graduated from Matador High School and she attended Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

They are members of First Baptist Church, and for many years she played the violin and he the saxophone regularly for church services.

Besides their three children, Mr. and Mrs. Groves have 7 grandchildren: Curtis and Jennifer Groves of Amarillo; Woody Wilson of Wellington, Alfred, Michael, Jonathan and Jeffrey Groves of Stone Mountain, Ga.

Joe Mack Guest Speaker for B&PW Club January 25

In his discussion of "World of Work's Major Changes," Mack told the group there were three forces that have affected the world of work: economics, technology and the attitude of the work force.

There has been an agricultural revolution which took place about the 1860s, an industrial revolution which took about 300 years and now a technological evolution. He noted that changes brought about by the electronic computer in recent years.

JAN. 28, 1983

The House failed to suspend the Constitutional rules which means the first 30 days is reserved for the introduction of bills, the second 30 days is reserved for committees to hear these bills. Unless the Governor declares a bill an emergency, the bill cannot be debated on the floor for at least 60 days. This will mean very little will happen on the floor of the house for at least 60 days. Testimony in the Committees the second 30 days will be lively. Some of the issues: Horse Racing, De-Regulation of Trucking Industry, tinkering with the Homestead Law, Drunken Driving Legislation, Educational Issues and many others.

Ohio State Senator John Glenn spoke to the Legislature on January 26. He mentioned a lot of problems we have today on the Federal level but gave few solutions.

Governor Mark White spoke to a joint session of the House and Senate on January 27. Most of his talk was repeats of his stand on many of the issues raised during his campaign. Significant points included the fact the State was now in debt to the Federal government over $200 million and paying 10 percent interest on the unemployment compensation fund. The Texas Employment Commission estimates we could be over one billion in debt by the year's end if things do not improve. He is forming a committee to make recommendations on how this can be corrected. The Governor indicated he would play an active role in programs for agriculture -- few specifics were mentioned.

In closing, he mentioned the fact the state would have 21 percent more money or four billion dollars to carry out the many items in the State's Budget over the next two years. He said, "I see no reason for increasing taxes paid by the people of Texas."

The Senate has finished the debate on Governor Clements' appointments made after the November 3rd election. As you know, confirmation of these appointments are approved or rejected by the 31 State Senators.

As I understand it, outgoing Governors, prior to former Governor John Connally, did not make appointments after the November election. Governor Connally did and an Attorney General Opinion ruled this could be done and still be within the law. Since the Connally days, most governors have made these lame duck or midnight appointments.

Regents terms for Texas A&M and University of Texas expire only 7 days before the outgoing governor leaves office. These regents serve for six years. Thus a defeated governor who was refuted at the polls in November can place people in position in government for a six-year span if confirmed by the Senate when they take office in January. In my opinion, whether the governor be a Democrat or Republican, his appointive powers should cease at the time of the November election unless the people gave their approval of his policies by re-electing him in November. This was the agreement that finally came out of this episode. Legislation will be introduced that would overturn the Attorney General Opinion which gave former Governor John Connally this lame duck right to appoint after November. This will curtail Governor Mark White's authority to appoint as a Lame Duck Governor. I plan to support this legislation.

LETTERS from the People

January 26, 1983

Dear Editor:

My son Leslie was injured in a car accident in Sept. 1981, and is paralyzed from the chest down. We were told that he would never be any better, and not to look for a cure because nothing could be done.

We no longer believe this is true because much has happened in spinal cord research in the past two years. Peripheral nerve grafts, electrical stimulation, anterior nerve decompression operations, and other techniques have given new hope to the half-million spinal cord injured in the U.S. The Spinal Cord Society sponsored a cure conference on June 11 and 12 in Minn. Eleven of the nations top researchers spoke on cure and alleviation of chronic spinal cord injuries.

Injury to the neck or back can cause life time paralysis to all parts of the body below the level of injury. How can you avoid this? You can not. Car and sports accidents, and even falls are creating a paralysis epidemic--a new injury every 30 minutes in the U.S. alone. Even if you are temporarily able bodied, the chances are 70% that you will be disabled before you die.

To leave the spinal cord injured in an age when science can reverse the paralysis is a crime, especially when we know it is not necessary, and when we realize that spinal cure is the key to some 35 million other severe neural maladies in the U.S., such as Stroke, Multiple sclerosis, and Palsy.

No researcher is shouting that he has found an instant cure for every spinal cord injury, but if you take the total of all the cure research, it seems as if they have found all the pieces of the puzzle. It is just a matter of putting the pieces together.

If you know someone that is injured, or someone that is interested, please contact me so I can send them information on current research and The Spinal Cord Society. The society is composed of the injured and their families, with its single goal aimed at the cure of spinal cord disorders. Help us to help you--you may be tomorrow's statistic.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Political smiles and handshakes were out front last week when two presidential hopefuls visited Texas looking for support.

Behind the scenes, Texas legislators went quietly about the business of getting through the winding battle over gubernatorial appointments.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale flew Thursday to San Antonio, meeting with South Texas business and political Democrats and picking up presidential endorsements, including that city's Mayor Henry Cisneros. One source who attended closed meetings reported Mondale had "locked up" the city's support. Others mentioned Cisneros as a vice presidential possibility.

Meanwhile, former astronaut Ohio Senator John Glenn paid his second visit to Texas in three weeks, addressing a joint session of the Legislature and showcasing the endorsement of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. Hobby's support helps Glenn in Houston, and, insiders say, boosts Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's chances for the vice president slot.

Glenn, who was the first American to orbit the Earth, told legislators "the full blown tragedy" of the U.S. economy was now the fault of Reaganomics.

"Down in Flames"

Texas Gov. Mark White remained neutral in the presidential sweepstakes, and also on the dispute in the Senate whether to confirm or "bust" Texas Supreme Court Justice Jack Pope.

Pope, a Democrat and highly respected jurist, was appointed by former Gov. Bill Clements shortly after Clements' defeat and over the objections of 14 senators. Those senators now want to "bust" Pope and let White pick his replacement, which many of them hope will be former Atty. Gen. John White.

Those senators wouldn't mind confirming Pope if he would publicly commit to retiring before his term ends in two years so that White may pick his successor.

The 69-year-old Pope, who retired once from his Associate Justice seat, refused to make deals. "Win or lose, the independence of the judiciary from politics needs to be re-established," he said.

"If I go out, I'm gonna go down in flames," Pope said.

Elected Utilities?

White said he will ask the Legislature to pass a law allowing Texans to elect members to the Public Utility Commission. He apparently will seek at-large elections or commission members who currently are appointed by him.

He also appointed an Austin lawyer, Rafael Quintanilla, as head of the Texas Department of Community Affairs. Quintanilla in 1978 took over Gov. Dolph Briscoe's troubled migrant affairs office, ironing out prior mismanagements and winning respect for his administrative skills.

The Attorney General

New Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox, never one to shy away from controversial issues, announced he will issue an opinion soon on whether three Tarrant County justices of the peace can legally refuse to perform interracial marriages.

Texas law at one time provided criminal penalties for interracial marriages, but a 1966 U.S. Supreme Court ruling struck down all such state laws.

Mattox also said a Feb. 12 special election involving Democrat-turned-Republican Phil Gramm may be illegal because it does not give Democrats enough time to prepare. A lawsuit has been filed to delay the election, and Gov. White has been approached to change the election date set by former Gov. Clements before he left office last three weeks ago.

Any delay is believed to help leading Democrat contender Dan Kubiak and nine other challengers overtake Gramm.

The Senate

The Senate gave preliminary approval to legislation banning "lame duck" appointments, and is expected to send the measure to the House sometime this week.

The Senate also passed bills to force parents to put their small children in car safety seats and to let judges continue to lock up mental patients on an emergency basis.

The car seat bill provides a $50 ticket to parents who don't safety seat their children under age four. The ticket can be dismissed if parents buy a car seat within 10 days of violation.

The House

In the House, Speaker Gib Lewis of Fort Worth said he wants to avoid considering the controversial issue of congressional redistricting because it divides legislators.

But Lewis did support a plan to increase Texas automobile license fees by as much as $500 million a year for highways.

The plan would base the fees on a car's value, rather than its weight. That would mean a new $10,000 car weighing 4,000 pounds would jump fees from $25.50 to $156 a year.

A bizarre accident occurred last week when new Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga of Fort Worth filled in at the podium for his first time. The gavel head flew off its handle and hit Rep. Anita Hill, R-Garland, in the head.

Ironically, Mrs. Hill had just walked up to the podium to kid with Berlanga about a supposedly male chauvinist comment. As she walked away, the flying gavel caught her about 12 feet away. A stunned Berlanga was later kidded by legislators, especially Republicans who said they have "too few on the floor already."

Microcomputer for Farm/Home?

The Extension Services is sponsoring a program on use of computers in farming and ranching on Feb. 17, and as background material, Don Reeves and Nancy Bigby, extension agents are presenting this series of articles as background on computers for farm-home use.

We usually put a lot of thought into the purchase of a new family automobile, a new piece of farm equipment or into the decision to engage in a business partnership. Similarly, much thought and investigation should go into the purchase of a microcomputer system. Such a system can cost several thousands of dollars and has the potential to change your family and business activities.

What are your financial goals? Rank the purchase of a microcomputer with the other family priorities. What goals will be sacrificed and which ones will be obtained through this purchase. New technology will make a microcomputer an on-going expense for expansion, upgrading and software. Thoroughly review your entire operation and evaluate the effects of purchasing the microcomputer.

Consider the time cost. Learning to operate any microcomputer will be time consuming. While we complain about mistakes made by a computer, it really was not the computer's fault. We have to put the data or information into the computer in a specific order. Are you willing to take the time to learn how to use the computer to make it a useful financial investment?

Have you done your homework? Microcomputers and computer technology are complex. The satisfied computer consumer will learn the terminology and ask appropriate questions prior to making a purchase. In fact, buying backward—buying first and asking questions later is one of the most common mistakes made by computer consumers.

New dates of the All-Region Band and the rehearsals preceding it have been set, according to Frank Aue, director of Wellington School bands.

These will be held at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Rehearsals will be on Friday, Feb. 4, with the individual bands notified of the time.

The All-Region Band Concert, with musicians from approximately 20 schools participating, will begin at 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5.

High School bands will be presented in three divisions, with about 90 students in each: Classes 1A and 2A, Class 3A, and Classes 4A and 5A.

Wellington has the maximum number of students playing in the band, Aue said. These are Abel Villanueva, 6th chair tuba; Leslie Birkey, 3rd chair baritone; Toni Tramel, 1st chair French horn; Joe Roberts, 2nd chair mallet percussion; and Sylvia Saldana, Alternate Clarinet section.

New Trinity Study Planned

A new course in the Trinity Studies will begin Thursday, Feb. 17, accord-

It is a 10-weeks study. The class will meet each Thursday with identical sessions at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Anyone who is interested in the study is invited.

Most churches in the city have been represented in past classes.

REV. YIELDING—REV. VILLANUEVA—JAMES FIELDS

Trio on Crusade to Mexico

The Rev. Nat Villanueva, James Fields and the Rev. S.L. Yielding returned from a crusade in Mexico on January 11, after preaching and talking with people of the Pijijiapan area.

Rev. Yielding has given this account of the trip: "We left Amarillo on Dec. 30 for a crusade in Mexico, arriving in Mexico City about 1:30 p.m.

We found a great change in temperature. It had been very cold when we left Amarillo and it was summer and very warm when we arrived. We spent the night in Mexico City. This is a city of 15 million people.

On Friday, we flew to Tapachula where we stayed until Sunday afternoon, when we went to the Baptist Church of Pijijiapan. We spent a week going from house to house with a Mexican partner sharing Christ each day. At night we had worship services at the First Baptist Church.

When we arrived, the church had 45 members. Pijijiapan has a population of approximately 60,000. Only about two percent claim to be Christian.

Pijijiapan is located about 20 miles from the Pacific Ocean and at the foot of a mountain in the state of Chiapas.

We didn't see much farming, only a little corn. They do raise a lot of cattle, but their steaks are sure not like ours. Very tough. The rainy season had been over only a short time, so their grass was very good and the cattle were fat. The cowboys there only make about 90 cents a day (in United States money). There were many cowboys.

The average worker wage was only about $1.75 per day (American money.) The economy is in bad shape. Our hotel room for three of us was only $10 per day. Cola drinks were 10 cents and a good meal cost $1.50 to $1.75.

This crusade was directed by International Crusades of Dallas, all of which are Southern Baptist.

There were 130 people from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Missouri, plus 40 young people from our Baptist Academy at Harlingen. These young people rode a bus for 16 hours to Mexico to help us with interpreting and witnessing.

There were over 7,000 decisions for Christ reported in the 42 churches. We had 189 professions of faith and

New Range Grazing Systems in Use by SWCD

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, February 3, 1983

12

New concepts in range grazing systems are being put into use by ranchers throughout the Southwest. Some are only moderate departures from traditional methods, while others are radically different. All have the same objective: to increase the productivity of the ranch on a long-term, continuing basis.

"All of these grazing systems involve rotating cattle through several pastures during the year," says Tommy Powell, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Wellington, "but there are a great many different arrangements employed to do this. The objective is to give each pasture some rest from grazing during different seasons in a two to four-year period. This is most effectively done by having the pattern all planned out in sequence," Powell concludes.

Some methods use a single herd of cattle grazing only one pasture at a time, with all other pastures vacant of livestock. Other systems may have all pastures except one being grazed at any one time. In this case, the rest period is actually being rotated through the system instead of rotating the herd through the system.

Any number of pastures from two to twenty are used, depending upon the type of system being utilized. Sometimes ranches are refenced to get all pastures near the same size. Cattle are rotated on a reasonably equal schedule. Other systems use existing fences with pastures of different sizes, and the length of time a herd is in a pasture is adjusted to allow for the different pasture sizes.

Generally speaking, the more concentrated the number of cattle in the herd, the more rapidly the herd is rotated through the pastures to offset any negative effects of heavy concentrations on the grass.

One of the newest ideas is the so-called "cell" system, using as many as twenty pastures radiating out from a common water lot. One herd is rotated quickly through the system, with each pasture being grazed only a few days at a time.

"I saw one of these cell systems in operation on the Martinez Ranch south of McLean last fall," says Powell. "They were using one herd of 125 cows in sixteen pastures, with the herd moved to a fresh pasture every three days during the growing season. It is an interesting operation and appears to be working very well so far," Powell concludes.

The Martinez Ranch uses the new solar-powered high voltage electric fences to divide pastures, and has plans to incorporate a shinoak control program into the grazing system for further range improvement. Cost of fencing, water development, and installing the system was around $13.50 per acre.

"Each year it costs a little more to keep a cow," Powell says. "One way to help offset that is to improve the forage on a ranch so that the same acres will handle more cows. These planned grazing systems are aimed at doing just that - improving production while reducing overhead expense. They may not work for everyone, but many ranchers are making these systems pay off for them," Powell concludes.

The Soil Conservation Service personnel in Wellington would be happy to discuss the many different variations of planned grazing systems with interested ranchers.

Wind Damages Great Plains

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Wind damaged 550,000 acres of land in the Great Plains during the first two months of the 1982-83 blowing season, an increase of 42 percent over the same period a year earlier.

Damage in Texas amounts to 216,403 acres in 147 counties.

Despite the increase, Peter C. Myers, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, said the wind erosion damage figure is not abnormally high for this period. Last year, the wind damage during the first two months was very low. Nevertheless, there is concern in some areas about the large amount of land that is in condition to blow, Myers said.

In Oklahoma, many farmers didn't get their wheat planted due to lack of moisture last fall. And much of the wheat that was planted doesn't have enough growth yet to resist wind damage.

Myers also said excessive fall plowing in many areas removed the protective crop residue from the surface of the soil, leaving it more susceptible to wind damage.

Ninety-five percent of the land reported damaged during the first two months was cropland, 3 percent was rangeland and 2 percent was other land.

Each year, Soil Conservation Service technicians gather wind damage data during the seven-month blowing season from 541 counties in the 10 Great Plains States.

Reports are issued after the second, fourth and seventh month of the season -- November through May.
