Florida Clears Her Decks To Battle Storm

Tropical Hurricane Thunders Through Bahamas And Heads Straight For Mainland

(By The Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 19.—Storm-wise southeastern Florida "cleared decks" tonight to withstand a tropical hurricane thundering through the Bahamas and threatening to strike the mainland in 24 to 30 hours.

At 3 p. m. weather bureau advisory said the storm was centered at 1 p. m., 530 miles east southeast of Miami, moving west northwestward about 20 miles an hour.

Full-Blown Hurricane

Meteorologist Gordon E. Dunn said the disturbance was a "full-blown hurricane" with winds of 75 miles or more at its center and gales (50 m.p.h.) over a wide area.

He said it was impossible to say where the center would strike but it probably would be somewhere between Palm Beach and the string of keys off the southernmost tip of the peninsula.

One ship, which said it rode out the storm in West Indian waters last night, reported the disturbance covered an area 240 miles wide.

Barometer Drops Low

The vessel's master said the barometer dropped to 27.85 inches. About 30 inches is normal in this part of the world.

While northeast storm warnings flew all along the coast from Jacksonville to Key West—about 500 miles—landsmen and seamen worked swiftly to minimize the menace of the winds and storm tides. Hurricane warnings were expected to go up tonight.

A state-wide emergency relief organization and the Red Cross augmented the efforts of private residents to prepare for any eventuality.

Precautions Are Taken

Shipping took to cover. Waterfront property was battened down. Public buildings were made ready to serve as shelters. Business and residential property was boarded up to protect it against high winds, flying debris and heavy rains.

The coast guard sent two radio trucks to Lake Worth, Fla., to aid relief organizations with emergency communications should wire facilities be disrupted.

Borah Roars His Indignation

France Is Told To Mind Her Own Business

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A roar of indignation came from Senator Borah, aging "lion of Idaho," when he heard today that Leon Blum, ex-premier of France, had suggested that President Roosevelt use his prestige to help solve the European tangle.

"What such suggestions really mean," he told reporters, "is that the United States involve itself in European controversies and furnish the money and men which may be necessary in case of war.

"It would have been more in harmony with that national honor so often exemplified in French history, had Mr. Blum given his attention to the fact that France has a solemn treaty with Czechoslovakia to come to her rescue and, instead of advising the United States as to her duty, had advised his own people to courageously stand by their treaty.

"France was most instrumental of all nations in creating the little democracy of Czechoslovakia. She later gave her a solemn promise to come to her rescue in case of trouble. That would seem to be the matter to which the ex-premier should give his attntion in this critical hour of Czechoslokavia's life.

Just One Name—War

"The people of this country may now look forward to a deluge of propaganda seeking to involve the United States in these controversies, all in the name of peace. They call it peace to get us in. But after we get in, it is war."

Borah prefaced his remarks by saying that the apparent consent of Britain and France to dismember Czechoslovakia—"extraordinary as this may seem"—was not this country's affair.

It was said at the state department, meantime, that the United States government was not profering advice to any government regarding the European crisis.

U. S. Is Keeping Aloof

This tended to encourage the impression that the administration was keeping aloof from the controversy—an impression conveyed previously by President Roosevelt's recent statement at a press conference that interpretations that this country was linked morally with other powers in a "stop Hitler" movement were 100 per cent wrong.

The opinion was expressed by Senator Nye (R-ND), a member of the senate committee which investigated American munitions business

Men Who Learned That World Conflict Was Not A "War To End All Wars" Demanding Powerful Armed Peace For Uncle Sam

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—The men who helped to win the World war 20 years ago only to find out later that it did not prove to be a "war to end all wars," roared today for a powerful armed peace and neutrality that will keep the United States out of war.

The 20th annual convention of the American Legion, its greatest gathering, had for a keynoter United States Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. He talked of neutrality, national defense and communism.

He gave the Legionnaires a command to move. It was: "The command is forward—forward, not for world democracy, but for peace and democracy at home here in America."

National Commander Daniel J. Doherty reported that today there are 972,933 members of the Legion. He pointed to the Legion's Americanism commission activities as "of greater importance now than at any time in the history of the Legion."

Mrs. Malcolm Douglas, of Seattle, national president of the women's auxiliary, reported that 465,000 women members are backing the Legion's goal for preservation of America's peace.

"Before worrying about the fate of democracy in other parts of the world, let us first safeguard democracy here at home," she told the cheering delegates.

The four-day convention was

Shutdowns In Texas Fields To Be Continued Through Oct. 23; Allowables Set

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 19—The railroad commission today ordered Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of Texas oil fields continued through October 23.

The fields will not be shut down on the last Saturday and Sunday, in October because the commission announced it wanted only four such closings in the month.

Allowable Is Cut

Considering the shutdowns, the commission estimated the basic daily allowable for October would be 1,275,122 barrels, which compared with 1,240,953 for the period Sept. 1 to Sept. 17.

The basic allowable was 83,878 barrels below the estimate by the federal bureau of mines of Texas' share of the national market demand for October.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, said the commission acted "in order to balance supply with demand."

No Revival In Demand

"The latest figures on consumption fail to reveal any revival in the demand for oil," he said. "As a matter of fact, for the week ending Sept. 10, approximately 350,000 barrels of gasoline and 1,500,000 barrels of fuel oil were added to storage."

The Rodessa field, as in previous similar orders, was exempted from the closings because of its tri-state character. The commission announced other customary exceptions because of physical and other special conditions would be continued.

The Yates field in West Texas was granted an increase of 7,500

Road Projects Being Sought

Among the many pleas for highway projects which reached the ears of the Texas Highway commission Monday at a public hearing for county delegations were several for roads on the South Plains, according to an Associated Press report from Austin.

Spokesmen for the South Plains area sought two new state roads and several minor improvements.

Location Survey Asked

Representatives of Bailey, Lamb, Floyd and Hale counties asked a location survey for a proposed road from Plainview to Tahoka via Idalou and Slaton, providing a cut-off around Lubbock for north-south travel and serving a large cotton producing area.

They also asked designation of an east-west artery from Floydada to Bailey county, about 100 miles and connecting with New Mexico roads on the west.

Surfacing United States Highway 84 through Littlefield was asked.

Paving Being Sought

Floyd and Briscoe counties pleaded for paving of a secondary road beginning about 14 miles north of Floydada continuing toward Silverton to supplement a current WPA project on the route which soon will expire.

The South Plains projects, along with the others, were taken under advisement. Some of the many proposed projects may be acted on in executive sessions beginning today when officials will open bids on projects costing $1,000,000, but others will require surveys and recommendations of engineers before a decision will be reached, the Associated Press said.

Criminal Cases Receive Action

Five pleas of guilty were heard by Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court and a jury Monday at the opening of a week of criminal hearings by that court.

John Hartnett, charged by indictment with driving when intoxicated, pleaded guilty before a jury and received the minimum penalty of a fine of $50 and court costs, a jail sentence of five days, and his drivers' license was suspended six months.

Is Given Two Years

Frank Martinez, about 25, Mexican charged with burglary of a railroad car at night, was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary by a jury after he entered a plea of guilty.

Gene Robertson, about 28, of Lubbock pleaded guilty before the court of attempting to burglarize a building occupied by Bob Austin and Jim Barrow Aug. 14. Judge Pitts took the case under advisement and said he would pronounce sentence today.

To Be Sentenced Today

Lynn Strickel, indicted for theft of an automobile from Hub Jones Wednesday, entered a plea of guilty before the court. His sentence also will be pronounced today, it was indicated officially.

On a plea of guilty of forgery and passing, Walton Neal was assessed a four-year suspended sentence. He forged the name of J. R. Williams to a $20 check and passed it to C.

New Enrollment Records Being Set In State

Students Pouring In To All Schools; First Day Total For Tech Set At 1,837

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

EVERY time a student signed an enrollment card at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college Monday, a new registration record was set.

It was that way all over the state, where new high numbers of students were flocking in by train, bus and jallopy to enroll in scores of colleges and universities.

Advice Is Poured Out

The new freshmen were pouring in, and deans and presidents were pouring out advice. Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton Agricultural college at Stephenville suggested to homesick freshmen co-eds they forget the boy back home and find a new sweetie among the 800 eligible campus cadets.

"There are two boys here," he advised, "to every girl."

Historic Baylor university at Waco expected 2,500 students, the largest number in its 94 years. Dormitories were bulging and residences near the campus were hastily converted into boarding quarters. The figure does not include the enrollment at the university's branches in Dallas.

Rooms In Demand Here

Rooms were in demand at Lubbock, where Texas Technological college had an indicated enrollment of 3,500, slightly more than 10 per cent ahead of the figure for the last fall term.

Officials of Southern Methodist university at Dallas expected a new record when registration is complete this week. They eased their predictions on advance reservations for dormitory space. At College Station, the figure was 5,436 through Saturday and students were still coming in. First semester total last year was 4,926.

At Fort Worth, Texas Christian university had signed up 900 at midmorning, 10 per cent ahead of last year, for both day and evening college students when classes start Thursday night. Texas Wesleyan college had 550 Monday morning 150 more than at the same time in 1937.

No Exact Figures

The registrar at Rice institute, Houston, said he had no exact total, but that about 1,300 had registered. The school can only accommodate about that number, and the usual freshman class of 400 was admitted.

University of Texas officials expected enrollment to be more than 11,000, about 10 per cent above the first semester last year, and Hardin-Simmons university at Abilene expected an approximate increase of 12 per cent.

Texas Tech Officials Begin To Wonder Where It Will Lead

After assisting 1,837 students in registering, officials of Texas Technological college left the gymnasium Monday afternoon wondering what the second official registration day would prove—or disprove.

Thompson Again To Head Commission

AUSTIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson again became chairman today of the state railroad commission, the body that regulates the oil industry in Texas.

C. V. Terrell, defeated for re-election by G. M. Jerry Sadler in the Democratic primary August 27, announced at a statewide oil and gas proration hearing he was relinquishing the commission chairmanship to Thompson because of "urgent calls."

Emergency Levees Are Thrown Up Along Rivers On Border

PRESIDIO, Sept. 19. (AP)—Farmers threw up emergency levees along the Rio Grande and Rio Concho today against the imminent threat of floods caused by heavy rains near here and in Mexico.

For the third time this season the border river was near flood stage at this north end of the Big Bend area. The Concho joins the Rio Grande here and itself was bankful. The extra levees were designed to strengthen permanent earthworks along the two rivers.

Beer And Wine Sale Permits In Dallas Being Cancelled

AUSTIN, Sept. 19. (AP)—Bert Ford, state liquor control administrator, said tonight that beer and wine sale permits of the Black Cat and Calico Cat at Dallas had been cancelled.

He said the Estelle-Thomas establishment, also at Dallas, was given a choice of accepting two weeks suspension of license, a $50 fine and costs, or a cancellation. Allegations were made that there had been disorderly conduct in the three places.

Third Goodwill Trip To Advertise Annual Fair Will Take Boosters To New Mexico

LUBBOCK'S goodwill trippers today again will invite West Texans and New Mexicans to the Panhandle-South Plains fair next week, this time visiting a dozen towns on a 223-mile trip.

Clad in the official cowboy regalia of 10-gallon hats, boots and loud shirts, the emissaries of goodwill will present programs at the towns and their schools and will distribute souvenirs and other advertising material publicizing the fair and Lubbock businesses.

The trip is the third of a series of four, and the last one will be conducted Thursday.

Party Purge Faces Final Test Today

(By The Associated Press)

THE Democrats of a section of New York City will decide Tuesday the outcome of the last of President Roosevelt's announced efforts to rid congress of Democrats whom he calls conservatives.

They will choose between Rep. John J. O'Connor, whom Mr. Roosevelt has denounced as "one of the most effective obstructionists" in the house, and James H. Fay, New Dealer backed personally by the chief executive.

Hope For Better Fortune

Although the president was beaten in similar fights recently in the Democratic senatorial primaries of South Carolina, Georgia and Maryland, Mr. Roosevelt's aides indicated they were hopeful of better fortune in New York.

Because of its national aspects, the O'Connor-Fay contest overshadowed other primary elections today throughout the remainder of New York and in three other states—New Jersey, Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

In New Jersey Race

In New Jersey, former Senator W. Warren Barbour was seeking the Republican senatorial nomination against C. Dan Coskey and George O. Pullen. William H. Ely was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The Massachusetts primaries presented spirited contests for the gubernatorial nominations of both parties. Governor Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, was opposed by former Governor James M. Curley, Francis E. Kelly and Richard M. Russell. Leverett Saltonstall, Frederick Butler, William McMasters and Richard D. Whitcomb contested for the Republican nomination.

Six For Republican

In Wisconsin, Senator F. Ryan Duffy was unopposed for renomination on the Democratic ticket. Six men ran for the Republican senatorial nomination, and two for the progressive. Governor Philip F. LaFollette, seeking renomination by the progressive party, was opposed by Glenn Turner, a former socialist. Attempting to cement opposition to

Britain Wants Quick Action

Little Nation Feels That No Assurance Has Been Offered Promises Will Be Kept

(By The Associated Press)

CZECHOSLOVAKIA, playing for time, was reported Tuesday to have found unacceptable the Anglo-French dismemberment plan for settling the Sudeten crisis, but willing to use it as a basis for further negotiations.

That the London proposals to cede her Sudeten area to Germany were unacceptable was indicated by the authoritative newspaper Lidova Noviny, whose diplomatic editor, Hubert Ripka, often reflects the foreign office viewpoint.

Want Promises Kept

"If the guarantees of borders made us 20 years ago are invalid today what assurance have we that promises made now will be kept in the future?" the newspaper asked.

The Czechoslovakia government studied "with all earnestness that the situation demands" the British-French plan for appeasing Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler by surrendering to him Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

The plan was agreed upon early Monday in London and approved yesterday by both the British and French cabinets — all apparently without consultation with Prague—and then sent to Prague today with the suggestion it be accepted as the way to keep Europe at peace.

Britain Embarrassed

Britain was growing embarrassed today by Czechoslovakia's failure to agree promptly to French-British proposals.

It was freely reported in London that Adolf Hitler has asked Prime Minister Chamberlain to meet the German demands by Wednesday.

Unless Czechoslovakia agrees soon to accept the plan calling for outright cession of Sudetenland and a seven-power guarantee of her new frontiers, however, Chamberlain may have to postpone his trip to Godesberg. The trip, it was semi-officially announced in Berlin, was planned for Wednesday.

Rural Electric Lines Assured By Allocation

Allotment of $144,000 to the South Plains Electric Cooperative association at Lubbock for 155 miles of line serving 454 customers in Crosby, Lubbock, Hale, Hockley and Lynn counties has been made by the Rural Electrification administration at Washington, said the Associated Press Monday.

Chas. C. Fagg, project superintendent for the cooperative, in Lubbock said Lynn county, however, would not be served by the Lubbock cooperative, inasmuch as a separate setup had been formed for Lynn, Terry and Garza counties. A contingent allotment of $300,000 has been made.

Hundreds Are Served

Lubbock is served by 137 miles of line energized Aug. 5, so far as the first section was concerned, or Aug. 26 for the entire network centering around Lubbock. Three hundred ten customers out of a possible prospective list of 450 are being served.

In conjunction with the Washington announcement of the new allotment, the REA announced loans for 810 miles of line in Texas, to serve 2,251 customers.

The Cooke County Electric Cooperative association at Muenster, was awarded $178,000 for 201 miles of line serving 587 customers in Cooke, Denton and Montague counties.

Other projects for which allotments were made included $147,

Noted Actress Death Victim

(By The Associated Press)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 19.—Pauline Frederick, famous star of the stage and silent pictures, died at her home today, apparently from an asthma and heart attack. She was 53 years old.

Miss Frederick was first stricken last Friday and had been under the care of a nurse and Dr. J. J. Kirchoff. The physician and Mrs. George Pettingill, the actress' aunt, were at her bedside.

Girl With Topaz Eyes

Miss Frederick was known on the stage as "the girl with the topaz eyes."

Her private life was not so happy nor successful. She had five marriage ventures, all of them ending in divorce or the death of spouse.

Miss Frederick was born Pauline Libbey in Boston, Mass., Aug. 12, 1885.

Outstanding Dramas

Among her outstanding stage dramas were:

"Joseph and his Brothers," "Innocent," "Samson" and "When Knights Were Bold."

When talking pictures came in, she was signed by Warner brothers for "On Trial," "Evidence" and "The Sacred Flame." She played in "Social Register" for Columbia in 1934 and "My Marriage" for Twentieth-Century Fox in 1935.

LOOKING BACKWARD

THIRTEEN years is a long time. People and customs change. Colleges grow. Time does something that can't be undone.

We were thinking of that today. It's been thirteen years since we wended our way out to the end of Broadway to cast our lot with that band of young people, mainly from the South Plains who were to enroll in Texas Technological college for the first time.

The first Saturday in October the football team, known as the Matadors, played their first football game in history, with McMurry Indians. It was a scoreless tie although Archibald kicked a goal one split second after the timekeeper's whistle. As great a howl arose over the decision as several years before over the famous Dempsey-Tunney count. Later a game was scheduled for the college campus where a fence was strung around.

Seats were not available although cars were allowed to park. As W. L. Stangel, chairman of the committee on athletics, pointed out "As a usual thing seats are in the way at a football game."

AH, THOSE PLAYERS!

THOSE were the days Kern Aldridge, Hurley Carpenter, Vaughn Corley, C. W. Ratliff, Russell Denison, Bruce Reed and Weldon and Gaylord Hankins were on the team. E. Y. Freeland was coach.

E. L. Dohoney was registrar and reported an enrollment of 86 after the first check-up with the promise of 800 students by the end of the week. One article said "in the home economics department, where the ladies are taught the arts and sciences of real homemaking, there is an enrollment of 67, 52 being freshmen and 15 with advanced standing."

CO-EDS' COSTUMES

THE co-eds were wearing their hair shingled or "feather-edged." Short capes and small, cage-like hats were in vogue. The favorite costume was the "tubular silhouette in wrap-frocks." Extreme high heels in patent leather pumps were worn, making the walking from building to building anything but a comfortable hike.

The first convocation was held in front of the administration building on October 1 and a pep rally followed that night in the administration building.

The Press club was organized shortly after the college opened, with sponsorship of the college yearbook, then unnamed, and of the Toreador, weekly newspaper, its main function.

There was no dramatic society at the college but students were urged to support the Little Theater organization in town.

LEARNED OF TECH

DR. PAUL W. HORN managed in that year to direct the college in making a world record in scholastic showing. Tech's publicity spread throughout the nation.

Miss Elizabeth West even then dreamed of a library building; there were no gymnasium, no dormitories and science building. But Lubbock was proud of the infant prodigy.

When adding nuts to conserves slice or cut them into pieces of uniform size so they will be distributed evenly through the mixture. Nuts do not need much cooking, so don't add them until about ten minutes before the conserves are to be taken from the fire.

Month's Building Figure Is Now Beyond Half Million

Past the half-million dollar mark went the building permit total in Lubbock for the month of September with issuance Monday of 10 licenses preparatory to expenditures of more than $18,000.

Specifically, the day's total of $18,125 pushed the figure for September to $513,333.50. The 1938 aggregate rested at $2,301,067.93.

Largest of Monday's permits went to Hemphill-Wells, owner, and J. B. Maxey, contractor, to repair and alter front of building at 1212 Avenue J at a cost of $12,500.

One other permit was for more than $1,000 and it was issued to T. W. Peeks, owner, and Otis Rich contractor, for construction of a one-story frame and siding residence and garage detached at 1723 Twenty-fourth street at a cost of $3,000.

Small hot rice croquettes served with hot tomato sauce make a very satisfying main course for luncheon or supper. The combination is also tasty for Sunday morning "brunch."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP
If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.
BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.
So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.
You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Mother's Standby in Treating
CHILDREN'S COLDS

FOR RELIEVING discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Its poultice-vapor action relieves local congestion and helps the youngster relax into restful sleep.
FOR COUGHING and irritated throat due to colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue. It melts, bathes the throat with comforting medication. Also massage on throat and chest.
FOR HEAD-COLD "sniffles" and misery, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air-passages.

Lost Battalion Trying To Find Itself; Survivors Of Unit To Be Rounded Up

Officers Want To Know What Has Happened To Heroes Of Battle

By LORIMER HEYWOOD
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—This month—20 years after the remnants of the Lost Battalion were rescued—they're going to take a roll call of survivors. If they can find them all.

On the evening of October 2, 1918, 600 men slid and pushed through the Argonne forest into a five-day hell. When it was over, 107 of them sprawled dead among the tree stumps; 190 were so battered they couldn't get up. The 194 who could walk were mustered for a roll call, the only one ever taken of the "lost battalion."

MAJOR GEORGE G. McMURTRY
On Trail of Lost Battalion

It Wasn't Lost

Today the Lost Battalion still is lost because, in the first place, it never was a battalion at all; it was parts of four. So there never was a roster. When the battalion finally was relieved in the Argonne, the wounded were distributed to many hospitals, those who could still fight were scattered to many other outfits. After the war, the men went their separate ways to homes all over the United States. Some never knew they had been in Major Charles Whittlesey's valiant band.

So, in New York, on September 25 and 26, Major George G. McMurtry, ranking surviving officer of the unit, will gather all the survivors he can find when the 77th Division, of which the battalion technically was a part, holds its reunion there.

In Los Angeles, when the American Legion convenes from September 19 to 24, Col. Nelson Holderman, another of the officers, will round up as many as he can in the west.

Against Better Judgment

The Battalion stepped onto its page in America's volume of hero stories when the Meuse-Argonne offensive by 1,200,000 doughboys was under way. The Germans were making a last-ditch stand.

The Argonne forest was a tangle of obstructions in itself. But it was full of intrenched Germans, too. Whittlesey's command was part of the 308th Regiment, which had orders to take that forest. The regiment advanced against the better judgment of most of its officers. It was low on ammunition and rations; its ranks had been cut.

The only group that was able to penetrate the German lines in the whole advance was Whittlesey's command. And when it stopped to get its breath it found itself in a pocket between four hills—with Germans firing at them from every hill.

They were cut off from their division. They had no food. When they tried to get drinking water from the brook in the bottom of the pocket, they were picked off. The ground was rocky; it was hard to bury the dead. The three medicos soon ran out of supplies. Bandages were stripped from the dead and used over again.

Runners tried to get through to bring help. They failed time and again. It wasn't a lost battalion. They knew too well where they were. It was what the Germans called it, the Amerikanernest—the Beleaguered Battalion.

Raked By Own Shells

The artillery got a bright idea. They'd help Whittlesey by firing over the heads of his men and wiping out some of the Germans. But the terrible gunfire was miscalculated. The shells burst in the midst of the men they were to protect.

American planes flew up to drop food. But always it fell amongst the Germans.

The men had given up trying to bury their fallen comrades. It was their fifth day of lingering death. Pulling a trigger was an effort. Whittlesey and his three remaining officers—four had been killed, nine wounded—were racking their brains a hundredth time to find some way out.

About then the Germans sent a message by a member of the battalion who had been captured. We appeal to your "human sentiments," said the foe who had been trying to annihilate them, to surrender now and save the rest of the men.

'Go To Hell'

Whittlesey is reputed to have answered, "Go to hell."

Well, according to the first comprehensive account of that heroic siege, the recently published "The Lost Battalion," by Thomas M. Johnson and Fletcher Pratt, New England-born Whittlesey said never a word. But he and his men acted as though they meant, "Go to hell."

When the next German attack came over every man who could move was up and at them. The Germans soon fell back. Then, when all seemed hopeless, their comrades broke through to the rescue. The main German line had been smashed, the allies were pushing forward in the drive that ended the war.

Those of the 600 who were still alive and could fight went on with the advancing line. The wounded went back to the hospitals. Where did they go from there, those who survived?

That's what Major McMurtry and Colonel Holderman hope to find out this month.

Conference Between Farmers And Credit Man Is Slated

Conference between a committee of farmers and a representative of the Commodity Credit corporation will be held Monday in regard to cotton stored in a warehouse at Jayton.

Information was said to have been received that the representative would be here that day at the office of Congressman George Mahon in the federal building.

Mahon said that the information will be relayed to Joe Rose, Dickens farmer, who is chairman of the farmers' committee. He and the congressman probably will confer regarding the meeting later this week.

The conference will concern cotton declared by CCC representatives to have been found to be below standard after loans had been advanced on it. Owners of the cotton have been advised that their notes for which the cotton was given as security have been called. Approximately 32,000 bales are affected.

Expectation is that the special CCC representative's conferences will be limited to members of the farmers' committee so as to prevent an unwieldly session.

Eradication Contest Is Being Launched

Roosevelt high school Future Farmers of America have initiated a pest eradication contest that will have an expected list of 60 boys participating.

War has been declared on rabbits, English sparrows, rats, mice, ground squirrels and prairie dogs, which are defined as pests that destroy great portions of crops each year.

In the future, a definite price will be on heads of the pests. A rabbit will be worth 20 points, a prairie dog 30, a ground squirrel 15, rats 10, mice 5 and sparrows 10.

The student who kills the greatest number of the pests and shows their tails or their ears will be awarded a .22 calibre rifle or the equivalent in cost provided the money is applied on a trip of the group next summer to Yellowstone national park.

Roy Monk is vocational agriculture teacher. He said this would be the third year the project would be employed at the school and that farmers and stockmen had expressed appreciation in the past for work accomplished.

Evidence of how the boys are taking to the campaign, 1265 points had been listed Monday for rat killing, one day after the war had been declared.

High School Junior Dies Of Injuries In Car Mishap

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 19. (AP)—Miss Loretta Myers, 17, a junior student in Valley View high school, died in a hospital here last night of injuries received in an automobile accident. Two other girls were critically injured in the wreck.

They were Edna Myers, sister of the dead girl, and Geraldine Crider. The accident was attributed to a tire blow out.

Exhibit Plans Are Arranged

Fourteen of 21 competitors have been assigned subjects to be illustrated in exhibits in the vocational agriculture department of the Panhandle-South Plains fair starting Monday, according to announcement Monday.

O. T. Ryan, assistant professor of agriculture at Texas Technological college, is department superintendent.

21 Entries: 21 Prizes

The fact that there are only 21 entries to compete for the 21 prizes posted in the department, officials explained, indicates that the winning of an award will be a cinch. That, however, is not quite the case. If, in the opinion of judges, an exhibit does not merit a prize, it will not be given. However, where effort is shown, that rule will not be invoked, officials said.

Deadline for the filing of entries in the department will be 6 p. m. Sunday. They must be in place by 9 a. m. on the opening day and remain in place until 8 p. m. on closing day. They will not be identified as to localities until after the judging has been completed.

Assignments Listed

Schools to which subjects have been assigned were announced by Ryan as follows:

Spur, feeding beef steers; Lorenzo, managing laying hens; Floydada, feeding hogs; Meadow, feeding home grown feed; Crosbyton, trench silos; Cooper, terracing; Wilson, pasture improvement for cheaper feeder; Ropesville, farm shop; Whitharral, contouring or strip cropping; Frenship, managing sow and litter; New Deal, electric fencing; Roosevelt, broiler production; Idalou, pasture contouring; and Plainview, live at home program.

Schools to which subjects are to be assigned are Littlefield, Spring Lake, Tahoka, Seagraves, Fluvanna, Lubbock and Abernathy.

Cash prizes offered in the department aggregate $320, including a first of $30, a second of $25, two of $20, 11 of $15 each, and six of $10 each.

Saving For Lubbock County Is Seen Under Proposal

Lubbock county would save $3,915 annually if a proposal of county judges and commissioners, who met at Big Spring last week, is made into law.

That amount would be increased if two distinct employes' salaries were hiked.

Under the proposal, the state would pay from its general revenues the salaries of court reporters.

Lubbock county pays Grady West, reporter for the 99th judicial district which embraces Lubbock county alone, $225 monthly, or $2,700 annually. As a part of the 72nd judicial district, the county pays $101.25 monthly to Charlie Smith, or $1,215 annually, the three other counties of the district supplementing his salary.

Lubbock pays the reporters from the jury fund, but it is optional with the county commissioners court whether they pay from that or the general fund.

All commissioners, B. O. McWhorter, Ben Mansker, Barrett Penney and T. L. Holt; County Judge J. J. Dillard; Joe Y. Boyd, county auditor, and Joe Wilson, secretary of city-county welfare work, attended. Boyd was the only county auditor at the session, said commissioners.

Abilene, San Angelo and Breckenridge made futile bids for the association's meeting next year, which will be in Lubbock.

There was unanimous vote for having the state pay the court reporters, just as it does a district clerk, said members of the Lubbock court.

Crosby Fair Is Opening Today

CROSBYTON, Sept. 19.—Several thousand persons are expected to begin attendance Tuesday of the three-day Crosby County fair, to last through Thursday, said Frank E. White.

The secretary of the Crosbyton chamber of commerce said the fair would be the first of its kind since 1926.

Directors of the fair association have arranged a long premium list for exhibitors. A large number of community exhibits have been promised, as well as individual ones.

Four-H club exhibits, FFA exhibits, home economic exhibits and home demonstration exhibits, will feature the affair.

Howe Directs Club Activities

County Agent Ralph Howe is in charge of 4-H club entries; R. C. Mitchell, vocational agriculture teacher in charge of the swine and poultry divisions.

Robertson, Lorenzo, Fairview and Owens will enter the 4-H club groups; Ralls, Crosbyton and Lorenzo the FFA contests.

Cash Prizes Offered

In the swine division there will be junior female, senior female, and sow and litter groups. First prize in each class is $4, with three other money payments. Grand champion female will receive $5.

Sow and litter division has $5, $3 and $2 prizes on Poland China, Hampshire and Duroc Jersey winners.

Doc, I bought these teeth at a bargain but I want you to put them in!

IMAGINE the amazement of your dentist if you went to him with a set of "store teeth" you purchased at a bargain and asked him to fit them in your mouth.

Your dentist knows that your health, comfort and well-being depend upon his ability to select teeth which will exactly meet your individual requirements—perfect matching of the teeth to assure a natural appearance and expert fitting to afford satisfactory service for many years.

Neither good teeth nor good plumbing can be purchased economically "over the counter". Plumbing fixtures too, must be of assured quality, carefully selected to meet your requirements, harmoniously matched to enhance the appearance of your home and installed by experienced hands to assure health protection, satisfactory service and real economy.

Good plumbing is vital to the health of your family for it means the delivery of pure water and the safe removal of dangerous waste matter. It can mean much more than the good health of your family alone, because water contamination can endanger the health of an entire community. Good plumbing is so vital that you should be sure that your present plumbing is good.

Entrust your plumbing only to Master Plumbers. They have the knowledge, skill and experience necessary to assure safe, healthful, economical plumbing. Buy your fixtures from them. Place upon them the entire responsibility, as you would upon your dentist.

Your Master Plumber can recommend the "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures best suited for your requirements, help you plan a new bathroom, powder room or kitchen, and arrange the financing on low F.H.A. terms. And remember, "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures, sold through Master Plumbers, cost no more than others.

CAR DESIGN SLATED FOR MAJOR SHIFT IN '39?

Noted Designer Declares End of Current Style Cycle is Now Overdue

BY JOEL BARBER

Five years ago two radically different schools of automobile design met head-on in the market. The public evinced momentary interest and curiosity in the blunt-end school of streamlining, then swung over and approved the flying-wedge type of design.

The style cycle set in motion by this choice now appears to be nearing completion. Indeed, the question really is, if its end is not overdue, for while major style shifts cost hugely to accomplish, they cost far less than not to sell cars in satisfactory volume.

Which car ushers in the distinctive design that is to prevail during the next style cycle is of course enormously important, since to that car will accrue the advantages of setting the pattern for years to come. It is perhaps too early to forecast, but my advices from Michigan convince me that Buick, pioneer member of the General Motors family, will in 1939 be styleblazer of the new automobile mode.

Centenary To Play Tech Here On Dec. 3; Westerners Prep For Abilene Game

ontract For 3 ears Signed y Colleges

he Texas Tech gridders won't be ging up their cleats and storing ir suits in mothballs on Thanks- ing night this year.

o, they'll keep 'em out for one re week—at least—because they ve a little job to do on December that may leave their suits and oes to be collected by the rag- d junkman.

The Gentlemen from Centenary e coming to Tech Stadium for a of a post-season game on Dec. according to announcement from ech's athletic department yester- ay.

Return Here In 1940

A. 1938 engagement between the ents and the Red Raiders had been anging fire for several months. oach Curtis Parker of Centenary lmost verified the arrangement hen he attended the coaching hool here last month. Contracts ad not been signed, however, and ech officials withheld final an- ouncement until everything was wn in black and white.

Tech and Centenary have signed three-year contract, the Gents o play here on Dec. 3 this year, ech to play at Shreveport in 1939, nd the Gents to return here in 940.

The Raiders invaded Shreveport st year and took a 7-2 decision af- r a rough and tumble contest.

Gay, But Wyoming First

scienceCowboys of University of is an g are enroute to Lubbock, fresh left Laramie yesterday, stand make three stops enroute to ice, winding up Friday at Ama- o and coming in here to engage the Raiders on Saturday night.

Indications are the game will be a considerably stronger test for the Red Raiders than Montana State of- fered last Saturday night. The en- tire lineup for Wyoming is compar- ed of lettermen, several of whom are seniors. Eighteen lettermen are on the varsity squad.

Tickets Start Moving

There was a lot of pepper and noise from grandstand and field last night as students, who started resigter- ing yesterday, turned out to greet the team. Following introductions, the varsity regulars went on defense against the squadsmen who did not play Saturday night. The reserves disported themselves in pleasing fashion against the Raider regulars.

Tickets for Saturday night's game started moving yesterday as fans, taking the hint from last Satur- day night's crowd of 7,000, rushed the downtown agencies to make res- ervations. Tickets may be purchased at Hilton Hotel lobby, Lubbock ho- tel drugstore, Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers, Mark Halsey Drug No. 2 and Tech Drug, the latter two on College Avenue.

Kopecky, Stratton Return To Local Mat This Week

There's quite an interesting main event scheduled for Sled Allen's Auditorium Wednesday night, but the supporting card probably will attract the big share of spectators.

Panther Joe Kopecky, the East Texas cotton picker, is back in the circuit and will strut his stuff against the wild man of the league, Butcherboy Jack Hagen of Shreve- port. Kopecky has done a lot of resting this summer, although wrestling enough to keep in shape, and his return heralds an autumn of grappling that ought to start the crowds coming back to the Audi- torium.

Another old timer, but not an old man, comes back this week. He is Walter Stratton, the Ohio strong boy who ruled the local roost for months. He fights Gus Johnson in the curtain raiser.

George Hartay and Sheik Mar Allah are down for main event hon- ors this week.

Wyoming, With Plenty Of Reserve Power, Due To Be Tougher, Says Expert

(By C. L. (POSS) PARSONS)
(Denver Post Sports Editor)

LARAMIE, Wyo., Sept. 17—Lack of reserves, the bugaboo of past Wyom- ing university football teams, appears remedied this season. Coach "Dutch" Witte has a squad of thirty-nine candidates working out twice daily and better replacements are in the offing. The Cowboy head man faces a problem at end because five sophomores, who were counted upon at this position, failed to return to school. The 1938 squad contains eighteen lettermen.

COACH WITTE

Last season the Cowboys offered stiff oppo- sition to leading opponents, but only for a half, as the team faded in the later stages of the game due to lack of able replacements. Denver led Wyoming, 7-6, at half time. The Cowboys were tied with Utah Aggies, 7-7, at the rest peri- od. The Wyoming-Brigham Young tilt was a scoreless tie at half time. The Cowboys lost out in all three games, but only after the start- ing regulars had shot their bolt.

Coach Witte is confident his team will be improved over 1937, when the Cowboys won two games and lost four. He said Thursday: "Con- sidering the spirit and hustle my boys are show- ing, if we never win a game this year I feel the fine attitude will offset the losses. Our team will show an improvement over 1937. We will have more replacements in the backfield than in the past. If the sophomores come thru the line reserves will be better. The Big Seven race looks like Denver university is a standout, with Colorado, Brigham Young and Utah not far behind."

The Cowboy squad will leave here next Monday night for its opening game with Texas Tech at Lubbock on the night of Sept. 24. Practices will be held en route at Pueblo, Ra- ton and Amarillo.

Barney Dyke, regular tackle; Fred Hladky, who started about half the games at tackle; Norman Bassford, regular end; Bill Corrigan, regular halfback, and Mike Sedar, sub quar- terback, were lost thru graduation. Other men who failed to return be- cause of illness, finances and so forth, were Raymond Beach, sopho- more guard; Duane Christofferson, sophomore end; Ed Harrison, half- back, junior squad member; Joe Jeleca, 185-pound sophomore end; Ken King, 195-pound junior end; Sam McCleneghan, junior halfback; Virgil Thorpe, sophomore end; Hugh Trollope, a squad halfback; Charles Young, junior center; Frank Parker, sophomore tackle. George Clark, promising end, who is a junior col- lege transfer, was called home Wed- nesday and it isn't known whether he will return.

Dale Scholz, two-year letter man at tackle, reported for the first time Thursday and he will have to hustle to get in condition for the opening game.

Line average, 185; backfield average, 177; team average, 182.

The above lineup has plenty of experience as every man is a letter man and seven of the men have lettered two years.

used a single wingback and short- punt formations. Coach Witte plans to use a double wingback later in the season.

The forward passing department is well taken care of with Winterhol- ler, Farris and Ball all showing ex- cellent form. Dorrington, a left- footed kicker, Dickson, Hamby and Ball are handling the punting. Mon- cini and Ball are kicking off. Dor- rington, Hamby and Winterholler are practicing conversions.

The Cowboys showed a lot of en- thusiasm in their Thursday after- noon scrimmage. The backfield has good reserves. If Coach Witte can develop some end replacements his line appears much stronger than usual. The Cowboys are evenly bal- anced on offense and defense. It is my opinion that Denver university and Utah university, which both play the Cowboys here this fall, are in for very tough assignments. Un- less the Pioneers and Utes are at top form Wyoming has the stuff to spring a surprise.

All Conference End?

John Winterholler should be one of the best tailbacks in the Big Sev- en. He appears set for a great sea- son. Jack Farris also looked good in Thursday's scrimmage. Kenneth Sturman should bid for all confer- ence honors at an end berth.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—The Yan- kees fell apart today. The team that won its third straight American League pennant yesterday lost to the St. Louis Browns, 13 to 1, with three second string hurlers failing to stem the seventh place club's attack.

The game was the season's final between the two clubs. The Yanks won 15, the Browns seven in the year's play. The victory gave the Browns a sweep in the final three- game series.

Pie Traynor Squirms As Rain Falls

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19. —Pie Traynor, the Captain Kidd of the Pittsburgh Pirates, squirmed in a hotel room today and stared glumly at a rain torrent.

He was nervous as a canary con- fronted by two cats—the cats being the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds. If someone had sneaked up behind him and said "boo"—or rather, "Cubs"—he might have jumped out a window.

With Chicago only 3 1-2 games behind the Pirates' fidgety heels and Cincinnati five games in arrears, Manager Traynor nursed a critical case of jitters, complicated by bad weather grouch. He was pale, drawn and red-eyed, but he was a plucky patient.

"We're on top and they gotta knock us out," said Pie in a voice that shook like an earthquake of minor intensity.

Dreads Brooklyns

The rain washed out Pittsburgh's chance to try to perform mayhem on the last place Phillies. That upset Traynor until he learned that it also washed out the Cubs-Dodgers and Cincinnati-Boston games. But Pie wasn't any too chirpy about tomor- row's scheduled encounter with Brooklyn.

"The second division clubs have played their best ball against us in the last month and a half and they haven't made a mistake yet," he gloomed.

Then Pie gazed at a cloud splash- ing against the window and saw a silver lining.

"But the Dodgers are the only second divisioners ahead, and we play our best ball against the top clubs," he said. "Recently I've been getting the best pitching that I got all year."

Nervous?

"Not particularly," shrugged Pie, twisting around to see if anyone was hiding in closets. "The team that's top is always high strung."

Lubbock Pitchers Showed Way In West Texas-New Mexico Campaign

Superior pitching, as well as long distance and consistent hitting, was the difference between the pennant winning Hubbers and the rest of the league during the 1938 West Texas-New Mexico loop season, the final statistics on pitchers giving Lubbock the first four places for twirlers working 50 or more innings. A pitcher is said to have served a year's time when he has pitched 50 innings.

Gramly Shows Up

Tommy Fleming, righthander who came to Lubbock late, pitched 72 innings in 8 games, winning 5 and losing 1, final averages announced by the league statistician reveal. Ralph Marshall, who came here with Fleming, also worked 8 games, won 5, was charged with 2 losses. Following him, and first among pit- chers working 100 innings or more, is Charley Bryan, with 11 wins and 5 losses, followed by Marvin Gram- ly, who pitched in 30 games, fin- ishing 203 innings, to win 15 games and lose 7.

Lefty Blanchard pitched 207 inn- ings in 27 games, won 17 and lost 9. Had he not missed a full month, he probably would have been the second pitcher in the league to win 20 games. There was only one 20- game winner, Lefty Nelson of Clo- vis. Lefty Scott of Hobbs won 19 before leaving the club nearly a month before the season ended.

Following are the pitching aver- ages for league hurlers who won as many as one game during the sea- son. About 42 pitchers were listed who did not turn in a victory. The statistics give number of games in which the pitcher worked, innings pitched, earned runs, bases on balls allowed, number of strikeouts, num- ber of games won and lost, and per- centage:

Beaumont Blanks Santone 6-0 To Square Play-Off

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Sept. 19—Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe pitched master- ful ball this afternoon and Beau- mont evened the final playoff se- ies with San Antonio, 6 to 0. The former American League star gave up only four hits and two of these were quite scratchy. The Exporters collected eight hits off three San Antonio pitchers, and half that number were doubles.

The teams departed tonight for San Antonio, each with one vic- tory. Games will be played in the Alamo City Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights with the re- mainder to be played here if the pennant has not been decided by that time. Ed Selway, who won two games for Beaumont in the Tulsa playoff, will be opposed to- morrow night by Harry Kimberlin.

Mako, Fabyan Offer Biggest Surprises

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 19. (AP)—Barring early-round defeats of Bobby Riggs and Helen Jacobs, the chief surprises of the men's and women's national singles champion- ships have been furnished by Gene Mako and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fab- yan.

Idle again today when rain caus- ed a third successive postpone- ment, Mako and Mrs. Fabyan— weather permitting—will compete tomorrow in two of the three re- maining semi-final matches. The weather bureau predicted continued showers.

Although both are among the nation's first tens, neither Mako nor Mrs. Fabyan was expeced to survive this long in the competi- tion from most of the world's best racquet-wielders. Their specialty is doubles.

Mako matched with two-fisted John Bromwich of Australia, fills the bracket Riggs was expected to occupy.

Page And Traung Tie For Women's Medal

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—Two stars from the South and West Coast, battling gamely against rain, cold and high winds which had most of the field groggy, divided medalist honors today in the qua- lifying round of the 42nd Nation- al women's golf championship.

Playing water-soaked Westmore- land course like the defending champion she is, Mrs. Estelle Law- son Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., turned in a card of 41-39—80, one over par.

A few minutes later Dorothy Traung of San Francisco sloshed off the 18th green with an identi- cal total, built on nines of 40-40, to share the role of pace-maker into tomorrow's match play com- petition.

Those two remarkable perform- ances blazed brightly through the remainder of a dark, dreary day which saw a score of highly re- garded contestants put to rout by elusive par and the elements.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

DALLAS, Sept. 19. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Phinney today announced the birth of a daughter, Louise Snow Phinney II. Mrs. Phinney is chief clerk of the Texas house of representatives.

Eagles Provide One Of Year's Features Here

The Lubbock Westerners, minus the services of their star center, Paul Sparkman, were back on the job yesterday—the job of preparing against Friday night's invasion of the Abilene High school Eagles. The game will be played at Tech Sta- dium.

The game is considered by coaches and close fans as one of the high- lights of Lubbock's home football season, ranking in No. 2 place, for color and action, it should surpass any home game on the Westerners' schedule except the Thanksgiving clash with Amarillo High.

Three Tie Games

Last three clashes between the Eagles and the Westerners have re- sulted in tie games, and in their last half dozen games, each side has scored 25 points. All of the Lub- bock-Abilene conflicts have been thrillers, and this week's encounter should be no exception.

The Eagles, playing under wraps, swamped the Moran, Class B, team last week, 42 to 0, while the Wes- terners were taking a hard 7-6 game from North Side at Fort Worth.

Always a strong passing team, the Eagles are expected to give the Westerners considerable trouble in this department of play. Lubbock's pass defense did not look so good against the North Siders, although the Chapman team did stop the Steer running attack. A lot of pass defense drill is on the local pro- gram this week.

Sparkman, plucky center who sus- tained a broken leg in the Fort Worth game, is being replaced by Wayne Pipes, 180-pound redhead who had been considered a guard or tackle replacement. Pipes is look- ing good at his new job, rapidly acquiring ability to pass the ball.

Eyston To Try For New Racing Peak

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 19. (AP)—Fired by a se- cret ambition to hold every world land speed record at one time, Cap- tain George E. T. Eyston, quiet re- tired British army officer, rushed plans today for another lightning- like ride across this lake bed, Wed- nesday.

Behind the graying captain's de- sire to hoist his own unprecedented mark of 357.5 miles per hour for the measured mile and to test further numerous changes in his car, are these reasons:

He hopes to lift the record to a point—possibly 365 m. p. h.—where none can touch it for at least one year.

He expects to recoup the fortune —reputedly $250,000—spent winning, then defending, the title.

He yearns for the endurance speed records now held by Utah's Abe Jenkins.

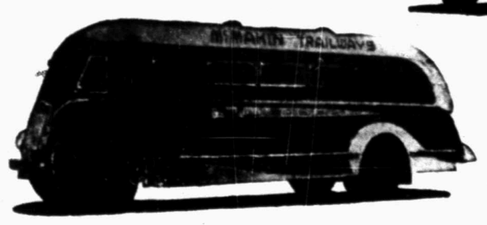

With Fur Broker John Cobb of London, measured mile king for a day whose 350.2 m. p. h. mark fell before Eyston's streaking Thunder- bolt, out of the picture for at least one year, Eyston's sole challenger is Jenkins.

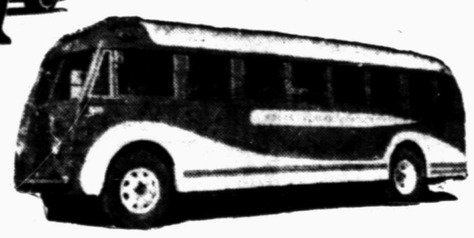

Reports from ten maple sugar producing states show that 5,000 fewer trees were tapped this year than last year, but that 37,000 pounds more sugar was produced.

Hull Remaining Calm In Crisis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. (AP)—One of the calmest—and busiest—men in the government during these days of crisis in Europe is Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

He is working seven days a week, but his manner remains that of a quiet Tennessee judge.

Right now he says virtually nothing for publication, although his press conferences are drawing larger attendance than ordinarily.

Stand By And Observe

Secretary Hull has indicated that with Great Britain "carrying the ball" in negotiations in Europe, his wisest course is to stand by and observe rather than step forward and act.

Yet probably no other secretary of state not directly concerned in the Czechoslovakian crisis is so intimately informed of what is happening, for American diplomats abroad are taken into the confidence of Europe's leaders.

Hull knew about the intended flight of Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain to see Adolf Hitler before the news was made public in London. Chamberlain himself gave the information to Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy in London, and Kennedy relayed it to Hull.

The simple life Hull leads has varied little during the present crisis, discounting the additional work he has been called on to perform.

SENS TRAMPLE TIGERS

DETROIT, Sept. 19. (AP)—The Washington Senators gained a split in their final series of the year with the Detroit Tigers by scoring a 12 to 2 victory today behind the five hit pitching of Pete Appleton.

Hank Greenberg, Tiger first sacker, was held to a single in three official times at bat, thereby failing to improve his chances of equalling Babe Ruth's home run record of 60. Greenberg has 53 four base blows and the Tigers have 13 games left to play.

You Must Be Funny Or Lose Your Job If You're Clown

Here is Paul Jung, one of the stars of the 70 clowns who will appear here Wednesday with the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto combined circus.

How would you like to be marooned in the middle of an eight acre field with orders to be funny or else?

That is something like the dilemma in which the 70 clowns of the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto Combined Circus, coming to Lubbock Wednesday, are placed in the vast oval of the world's largest big top.

The unusual situation comes about through the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto organization being augmented by Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey new features. The transfer of circus attractions brought to clown alley many "joeys" of international reputation.

Many of the clowns with the Big Show come from European circuses and music halls, from small circuses in this country and from what is left of American vaudeville, and they know what they are up against in the Big Show performances. They adjust their walkarounds and skits to the enlarged arena, aided by the kindly advice of the seasoned stars among the Merry Andrews.

With the famous giant gorilla, Gargantua the Great, Bring 'Em Back Alive Frank Buck together with 450 circus champions of the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto Combined Circus will give performances at 2 and 8 p. m., the doors opening one hour earlier.

Two Transients Being Sought In Robbery And Slaying

BEAUMONT, Sept. 19. (AP)—Two transients were sought today in connection with the slaying and robbery of Edgar Relson, 69, at his two-room home near Cleveland, Liberty county yesterday.

Sheriff Pat Lowe said Relson was shot with his own shotgun and clubbed over the head. His money, $22, realized from the sale of his household goods, was missing.

Lowe said two discharged soldiers were the suspects.

All dockets except the appearance docket were called by Judge J. J. Dillard at the opening of the regular September term of county court at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The appearance docket will be called at 10 o'clock this morning. A petit jury was dismissed for the week and non-jury civil matters will be heard by Judge Dillard this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stipes have moved to Lubbock from Tipton, Okla., and are making their home at 1918 Sixth street. He is interested in farming property at Tipton and Levelland and is bookkeeper for the McDonald gin in Levelland.

Mrs. Floe Swenson returned last week-end from Mineral Wells where she had gone with her mother, Mrs. W. D. Benson of 1710-A Avenue K. Mrs. Benson will remain in Mineral Wells about two weeks.

A man who Monday night had not been reported arrested was charged in the county court of Judge J. J. Dillard with making an aggravated assault Friday on a minor. It was alleged the defendant struck the boy with a golf club. The boy swore to the complaint which had been prepared by Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney.

Condition of Mrs. Mamie Breedlove of Lubbock was described as vastly improved by authorities at Plains hospital Monday night. She is the mother of Clent Breedlove, manager of the Municipal airport. Mrs. Breedlove developed pneumonia after undergoing surgery recently.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. J. W. Horton, sr., of Santa Paula, Calif., had not been completed Monday night, although rites probably will be read today or Wednesday, according to Sanders Funeral home. She died at the home of a son, O. H. Horton of 1412 Avenue E, Saturday night.

An auxiliary staircase will be completed this week at the court house, where remodeling work is in progress, according to members of the commissioners court. Elevator shaft has been opened onto the roof so that machinery for operating the elevator, in progress of fabrication, may be installed. Work is to be completed "in 30 days from Tuesday," it was explained Monday night.

A South Plains cheese plant Monday was charged with selling to an El Paso concern six cheeses which analyzed only 46.75 per cent fat on moisture free basis in an information filed in the northern federal district court here. Pure food and drug laws require that the fat test 50 per cent. The petition, filed by the government with Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. deputy district clerk, set out two men identified with the South Plains company are amenable to prosecution, individually, and subject to fine. It was further set out the cheeses had been sold by the El Paso concern to a Las Cruces grocery.

Normal recovery possibly will allow Mrs. A. H. Leidigh, wife of the dean of agriculture at Texas Technological college, to return to her 2101 Seventeenth street residence this week, it was said Monday at West Texas hospital. Fire Marshals Gather Today

All was announced in readiness for the 11th regional meeting of city fire marshals here today with the Lubbock fire department as host.

Fire marshals from 41 towns, as well as city officials, fire chiefs, and firemen are expected to attend the session which will be opened at 9 o'clock this morning. The program is designed to facilitate cooperation of all concerned in keeping down fire loss.

Hall To Be Here

Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner who will be here, said the purpose of the meeting "is to raise the standard of the office commensurate with the importance attached to the fire marshal's duties and powers. This is being accomplished by the holding of these periodic re, onal meetings where fire marshals may be instructed as to their duties and how better to perform them."

At the meeting here there will be explained: the fire marshal ordinances, inspections as a fire prevention measure, fire hazards and how to get them corrected or removed, the investigation of an incendiary fire, how city officials can cooperate with the fire marshal in the performance of his duties, what an efficient fire marshal is worth to a community, and other subjects pertaining to fires, their control, and prevention.

The session will be concluded about 4 o'clock this afternoon. The fire prevention committee of the chamber of commerce here, of which J. E. Maisen is chairman, will assist in the program.

The session here is expected to attract representatives from Amherst, Aspermont, Anton, Big Spring, Brownfield, Colorado, Crosbyton, Floydada, Hermleigh, Hale Center, Idalou, Jayton, Lorenzo, Levelland, Littlefield, Lamesa, Lockney, Odessa, O'Donnell, Olton, Muleshoe, Midland, Plainview, Post, Paducah, Roaring Springs, Roby, Rotan, Ralls, Roscoe, Sweetwater, Spur, Snyder, Slaton, Seagraves, Stanton, Sudan, Seminole, Tahoka, and Turkey.

Bond Issue Details To Be Worked Out

Details of the bond issues approved by vote of Lubbock citizens Sept. 2 will be worked out at an informal meeting of the city commission planned within two or three weeks, city officials said Monday.

Among the matters to be discussed will be the setting of interest rates, the maturity dates of the bonds, how they are to be sold and when work can be started on projects for which they were issued.

Aggregate Is $750,000

Aggregate amounts of the bond issue will be $750,000, including $50,000 for a new fire station, $150,000 for street improvement, $300,000 for a storm sewer, and $25,000 for a sewage disposal plant.

They are 20-year serial bonds to pay a maximum of not more than 4 per cent interest per annum.

Belief at the city hall is, however, that the interest rate will be set at not more than 3 per cent with the reasonable expectation even then they may bring a bonus.

If the usual plan is followed, they will be made to mature in such manner that the aggregate of principal and interest payments will be in approximately even amounts over the 20 years.

To Sell As Needed

It is the avowed intent of the city commission to sell the bonds only as they are needed. Thus it is ... in the range of possibility, ... explained, that some may neve... placed on the market. That, ... ever, is not a probability.

When the first batch may be ... fered depends upon a number ... circumstances. In the case of t... storm sewer and the fire station, ... action can be taken until engine... ing and architectural work now ... progress has been completed. D... lay is desired on those projects a... until definite word is received ... to whether grants for which ... city has made application have ... acted upon by the Public W... administration.

May Live To Regret Action

A bromide due veneration because of its antiquity concerns a husband who preferred a vacation in the mountains while his wife favored the seashore. The husband's later explanation was that they compromised, and went to the seashore.

The episode is somewhat analogous to the negotiations recently in which Britain and France on the one hand and Germany on the other have been engaged in an effort to avert war over the Czechoslovakian issue. In this instance, Britain and France seem to have compromised by giving their benediction to all that Germany wants in the Czech republic. The two nations thus have followed their traditional policy of utmost generosity in disposing of the other fellow's belongings as long as it costs them nothing.

It is too early to say whether the Czechs will submit without resistance to the fate thus decreed for her by the nations which brought her into existence 20 years ago for wholly selfish reasons, and which repeatedly since have pledged their aid should the new government be imperiled by aggressors. So far as Czechoslovakia is concerned, Britain and France have proved themselves fully as destructive as declared enemies could have been. To the world, France and Britain demonstrated that their pledge is sacred to them only when it suits their welfare and convenience.

While there still remains the possibility that Czechs may attempt a suicidal resistance, the probability is that British and French acquiescence to German demands has postponed the outbreak of general European war. Perhaps circumstances may justify the course thus followed, extreme though that course may be. Perhaps time may give Adolf Hitler enough rope to hang himself.

But if the latest measure serves merely to delay the opening of an even worse war than now would be possible, Britain and France will have sacrificed their own principles and another people wholly to no purpose. The prediction seems justified at this time that the two nations may live to regret the course they have chosen.

If there was any justification whatsoever for the assumption that Hitler may now be satisfied then a sacrifice of Czechoslovakia might not seem so utterly futile. But the entire Czech republic represents only a tiny segment of the German territorial expansion to which Hitler avowedly is dedicated. He has shouted to the world that German destiny includes the whole of the Danube river valley and then into the Russian Ukraine. The Ukraine alone comprises an area of approximately 450,000 square miles, more than twice that of present Germany, including Austria.

The questions now seem to be: Will Hitler be satisfied if his demands are met; or will the passage of time see him presenting other demands so fantastic that war cannot be avoided?

One would prefer to look to the hopeful side; to believe that a road to enduring peace may have been opened by recent events. But, with the Hitler ambition being what it is, the best that can be said with assurance is that the inevitable seems only to have been delayed a little longer.

Needed And Desired End

REGARDLESS whether procedural changes which have been put into effect in federal courts accomplish their purpose of speeding and simplifying the processes of law, they aim toward a needed and desired end.

One needs no knowledge of the law to realize that the efficiency of courts of the land are hampered in their workings by red tape. Any casual observer knows that the proposition often confronting a judge is not merely one of right or wrong. Too frequently it is a question of whether vital evidence fits the exacting niceties of law and procedure.

The procedural changes in federal court may not prove a cure for all deficiencies. But at least it is an effort to correct existing faults. It is a start in the right direction which state courts, where the situation is far worse than in federal courts, might do well to emulate.

The One-Minute Sermon

Be merciful, O Lord, unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, and lay not innocent blood unto thy people of Israel's charge. And the blood shall be forgiven them.

So shalt thou put away the quill of innocent blood from among you, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the Lord.—Deuteronomy 21, 8 and 9.

MONTE HILL—rich racing devotee. He also wanted Linda.

Yesterday: Linda buys full interest in the Pompey colt and then goes to the Downs to see her uncle put the horse into action. He tells her she is just in time to see Tom Cartwright.

CHAPTER XIV

A tubby little fellow of middling years came around the corner. Smiling Tom Cartwright. A good jockey in youth, he was now one of America's shrewd trainers, campaigning a stable for a millionaire who insisted on having stake winners in his barn. He had won two Derbies for his owner, now he was planning, half a year ahead, to win a third.

"Evening, folks," he said, stopping at the tack room door. "This the young owner?" He touched a broad-brimmed hat. "Glad to know you, Miss. I've got news. Talkin' colt tonight—"

"What's this?" Linda looked from Smiling Tom to Uncle Sandy.

"Tom, here, is tryin' to take a option on Golden Toy," Sandy Gordon explained. "He knows a colt that wins the Jockey Club Stakes in the fall is a sure Derby winner next spring—"

"Not always, Sandy," Cartwright shook his smiling face.

"Huh! There was Reigh Count, Clyde Van Dusen, Twenty Grand—a passel of 'em. If the Toy wins Tom wants to buy him for a measley fifteen thousand—"

"Twelve, I said, Sandy. If he wins. Here's two hundred, option money." He held up the bills.

"Mr. Cartwright, you take an option on every good colt in the Stakes, don't you?" Linda asked. "Get a jump on other wealthy buyers, who haven't developed a good 2-year-old?"

"Now, ma'am," he turned to her. The eternal smile creased his wind-worn cheeks, but his gray eyes were gimlet-hard. "I sort of like the colt—"

"So do others." Linda was all business. "Uncle doesn't know it—I just got here a moment ago—but I have a flat offer of sixteen thousand, and a filly thrown in to boot, for Golden Toy. If he wins. Can you top that? If not, no use talking."

It was a lie, monstrous lie. No, Linda told herself, it was just horse-trading. Greek meeting Greek.

Smiling Tom lifted his hat, rubbed his bald pate, looked at Sandy Gordon. "And I thought I was a horse-trader, Sandy." He shook his head, but still smiled.

"Mr. Cartwright doesn't want to trade. I'll drive into town, give an option, Uncle—" With swift steps she reached her car. Jumped in. "See you tonight, Uncle Sandy." She threw on the selfstarter, stepped on the gas, started off.

"Heh!" Smiling Tom ran after her. She stopped. "Yes?"

"Wait a minute, Miss." Cartwright put a foot on the running-board. "Now, if you'll listen to reason—"

Ten minutes later Smiling Tom waddled off, an option in his pocket, calling for the purchase of the colt for $17,500—if he won the Jockey Club Stakes. No purchase if he was beaten a whisker; even, Linda had not two, but five hundred dollars option money.

"Here's fifty—expenses," Uncle Sandy. Remember, the owner holds the cash."

Uncle Sandy said nothing for a moment; but pocketed the money. Then, "Well, I'm darned!"

"Callie and I have taken a cottage, guess you'll prefer to sleep in the tack room, eat in one of the track kitchens?"

He would; racing was the breath of life to him. Never mind dainty rooms and fancy meals—

"An' Norman, he sleeps in the feed room. We're fixed up great."

"Fine! Be seeing you every day." As she drove off, Callie sitting beside her, Norman crept from behind the stables—

By 8 o'clock Callie had the furnished cottage in order. Linda's typewriter keys were clacking when someone knocked on the door. Who was that? If it was a garrulous neighbor—

"Bruce!" she exclaimed, as she threw the door back. "How'd you find me?"

"I see Mr. Sandy every day or so. Here—take a look." He gave her a manila envelope. "Open—read." She glanced from the envelope to Bruce. This was a different Bruce, a more determined Bruce than she had ever known. "All right—sit down."

She opened the envelope. Drew out galley-proofs of a short story. Bruce said: "Sold that last month—wanted to surprise you, so didn't mention it."

Linda's eyes swept through the lines. She looked up. "You rascal! You've put Uncle Sandy in this, he's the whole show!"

Bruce grinned. "No, just a composite of the Uncle Sandys in the Blue Grass. About time for a new character in light fiction, like Ephraim Tutt, or Tugboat Annie, or old Judge Priest—only different." He sobered. "They want more."

"Bruce, this is great! Sell it yourself?"

He shook his head. "Remember my agents—those two young women in New York?" She nodded. "Best in the business. They've been fooling with me—oh, for years." It was true, Linda recalled. "Haven't made a nickel on me. Don't see why they haven't thrown me over. So—being a bit ashamed, I went to work."

He got up, took the proofs from her. "Got to go—correct these tonight. Map out another one. Be seeing you." He smiled—and was out the door without another word. Linda stood still a moment. Heard his footsteps die out. A catch came in her throat—

She shook her head. "None o' that, m'girl," she told herself grimly; sat down at the typewriter again, began pounding the keys.

Four days later Uncle Sandy asked, "Read the entries this morning?"

No, she hadn't. She, too, was busy writing. The old horseman sniffed. "And you the owner! Golden Toy—I dropped him into a condition race this afternoon. Six furlongs."

"Why — why didn't you tell me you were going to? I thought you had decided to hold him back for the Stakes?"

"He needs educatin'; you be in the paddock at 4 o'clock."

And at 4 o'clock Norman led the blanketed colt into the enclosure. The saddle bell rang; valets trooped in with their jockeys' tack. Norman brought the colt up; Uncle Sandy skillfully saddled him. Then jockeys—the sun flashing on their silks—came down the tanbark path. Said the trainer: "I got Marder ridin'—best boy there be for handlin' a green 2-year-old."

A jockey in the scarlet jacket, purple cross sashes and sleeves of the Gordon colors stopped at their stall. He had the build of a stripling, the face of a matured man. "Listen to me, Marder," Uncle Sandy was giving last-minute instruction; "this here colt has early foot—and he's a stayer. Get out in front—push him—make every post a winnin' one. Understand?"

Marder, who had ridden a thousand horses to victory, nodded; said nothing. Chewed gum as if unconcerned. The bugle sounded the call to the post. The jockey grasped the reins with one hand, his saddle with the other. "Up you go!" Uncle Sandy threw him up. The horses paraded out.

Linda, her nerves a-jangle, went with Uncle Sandy into the infield, to watch the race closely. "If there ain't no post delay—" the trainer muttered. Then—

The shout went up from the stands as the field shot out from the starting-gate. "Durn if he didn't get out in front," Uncle Sandy said, as a great golden animal, ridden by a jockey in scarlet and purple, streaked ahead of the pack. "He's opened daylight—yes, sir, we got a right good colt," Uncle Sandy spoke judicially. "Now they comin' to the turn—he's opening up more daylight—"

"Whoa, there!" the trainer shouted excitedly. His trained eyes saw it first. Now Linda saw—and her heart seemed to stop. Golden Toy was running wide coming into the stretch—running to the outside fence — Marder was fighting him—

"Oh, shucks!" Uncle Sandy exclaimed. "Come on—race is over for us." But it wasn't—quite. The colt lost a half dozen lengths on the run-out; but Marder, speeding him along the tow-path by the outer rail, managed to finish third.

The disappointed crowd—Golden Toy had been heavily played—hissed and booed as Marder rode back to weight out. Uncle Sandy took Linda's arm. "Don't worry, honey—the crowd's always a fool," he said.

Marder slid from the colt, parked the saddle off, weighed out, then came to Uncle Sandy as a disgruntled Norman blanketed the colt and led him away.

"What happened, son?" Uncle Sandy asked.

Marder took a deep breath. Said: "Awful sorry, boss—but I couldn't help it. We was three-quarters around the turn—I was holding him steady, then, like a flash o' lightnin', he shot to the rail."

Uncle Sandy nodded. Repeated the track's oldest phrase. "Better luck next time." Then, "I want you for the Stakes, son. We'll break him of that." The trainer started back to the stable, to cool out the colt. Linda went through the gate onto the clubhouse lawn. And almost ran into Monte Hill's arms.

"Linda! I just shipped in from New York! Been looking for you; then I saw the Toy entered. Knew I'd find you at the finish. Come on—I've got something important to tell you."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

OUR ablest military experts have informed President Roosevelt that Herr Hitler can mobilize a far more powerful fighting machine than the Kaiser called to arms in 1914. The general staff's confidential memo summarizes the European situation as follows:

Neither France nor Russia, though fully mobilized, can prevent Der Fuehrer from conquering Czechoslovakia in a short, swift thrust—probably more speedily than Wilhelm swept through Belgium. French troops cannot break through the 30-mile-deep Siegfried line and battle their way across southern Germany in time to save the Czechs. Even with permission to move its armies across Rumania, Russia cannot reach the scene of battle through narrow, mountainous roads vulnerable to air attack. No railroads connect the Soviet and Rumania; supplies would have to be hauled by trucks.

Once having seized Czechoslovakia, Hitler's forces would retreat behind Germany's border battlements and dare the world to attack. Fighting defensively, it is calculated that the Reich could withstand storming and starvation for an indefinite period. Dazzling new weapons—modern fortifications—a self-sufficient internal economy make it impossible to draw a current parallel from 1914 operations. The nations will be living—and dying—in an unknown world of warfare.

ANXIETY: Military and naval advices from abroad do not bear out the diplomatic suspicion that Italy and Japan would run out on their German playmate if he precipitated a showdown between the democracies and the dictators. On the contrary, their role might prove decisive on a world battlefield.

Mussolini could—and probably would—keep hundreds of thousands of polius from the front lines by advancing on the Alps and the Pyrenees. The Mediterranean would become only a small lake in which his subs and planes would have an overwhelming advantage over both the French and British fleets. It is probable that the allies, after futile efforts to bomb Italian cities, would withdraw entirely from those dangerous waters. Italian pressure might force the Little Entente to remain neutral or side with the central powers.

Fighting a purely land war with Russia, Japan's navy would immediately blockade Britain's Pacific ports. With the Mediterranean in hostile hands, the British Empire would be split in two, and war supplies would have to be shipped around Africa. England, militarily, would become only a tiny island remote from the battleground. These considerations explain why Whitehall—the Quai d'Orsay—and Washington—are so anxious to settle the Sudeten question bloodlessly.

SHIFT: Though an armistice has been declared by President Roosevelt and the Supreme Court, the private war between the executive and the judiciary still simmers.

Last spring Federal Judge Patrick Stone severely criticized the government's conduct of the oil conspiracy cases at Madison, dismissed some indictments and accepted nolo contendere pleas from others—with the attorney general's acquiescence. Then he slapped the nominal fine of $60,000 on the offending corporations, drawing from Assistant A. G. Thurman Arnold a wail that the penalty was not commensurate with the offense. The author of "The Folklore of Capitalism" demanded revision of the law to prevent a repetition of this slap on the wrist. (The government had estimated triple damages at $210,000,000 in the event of conviction.)

Mr. Stone will try no more oil cases—which suits the D. of J. But in his place Circuit Judge Evans has named Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill. Mr. Lindley was appointed to the bench by Warren G. Harding. He is a Republican and a member of the Union League Club, which F.D.R. has frequently satirized as the night club of economic royalists.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

SECOND thoughts on the Hines mistrial by New York insiders lead to the conclusion that perhaps District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey deliberately lost a battle to win a war. Comment runs that he had certainly had enough experience with Justice Ferdinand Pecora's critical attitude towards him to realize the risk he was running in asking the fateful "prejudicial" question about Hines and the poultry racket.

Dewey assuredly felt that the cards were stacked against him in Pecora's court. He may have figured that he had nothing to lose—and possibly a good deal to gain—by virtually challenging Pecora to declare a mistrial. Now he can start again from scratch with a new judge as well as a new jury—and maybe a newly drafted indictment, although the D. A. still insists for publication that he will stick to the same one.

Moreover, Justice Pecora's ruling shows signs of boomeranging on himself and the Democratic party. He is being widely and vigorously censured for putting the taxpayers to the expense of another trial because of a "legal quibble". A large segment of the New York public suspects political favoritism. It begins to appear that Dewey's "boner" wasn't so dumb after all.

FIRMER: A personal political angle may also have entered Dewey's calculations. Sources in a position to know say that the District Attorney is privately not at all keen about running for governor of New York this year. He has political ambitions, but advisers he trusts have told him he can serve them best in the long run by sticking to law enforcement knitting for the present. He is young enough so that he can afford to be patient.

This mistrial gives him a swell excuse to turn down the governorship bid without offending the G.O.P. chiefs who have wanted to draft him. Plainly he must see the Hines case through to the finish. He can point out that he has to devote all his energies to that and therefore could not possibly campaign for office at the same time.

Then, if he does convict the Tammany boss later, he will stand on much firmer ground for political advancement than he would have this year. Meanwhile the political ramifications of the mistrial have state Republican leaders running around in a daze.

INFLOW: Part of the recent gold influx to the United States represents frightened European capital seeking safety. But not all of it traces to private sources by a long shot. The British and French governments—especially the former—have been hastily but quietly increasing their reserve in this country for the purchase of war materials.

These foreign funds, both governmental and private, are so far being kept almost entirely in cash. Only a small proportion of them has gone into American securities or even into speculative commodities. Maximum liquidity is desired as long as war is an imminent menace.

If the European tension should ease in the next few months, it is logical to expect that part of the cash inflow will seek employment in American markets. This would strengthen the latter temporarily, but would also increase the ultimate risk of chaotic liquidation in the event of war.

POWER: Although they contend that there is ample electric power available for the nation's normal needs, private utility chiefs agree off-the-record that existing facilities might be inadequate in an emergency. Private plant construction has been virtually at a standstill for seven years.

It is conceded therefore that the inquiry into this subject sponsored by President Roosevelt makes sense. Even his bitterest enemies in the utility field absolve him of intent to make propaganda at their expense this time, although he undoubtedly expects the survey to justify the government power projects in the Tennessee Valley and the Far West.

As this column has noted, most members of the committee named to conduct the study are factually rather than politically minded. It is rated quite possible that their report will mention the greater vulnerability or large government hydro-electric plants to attack—or sabotage—as compared to the steam plants of privte utilities. That would be an ironic twist.

Side Glances---By George Clark

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Sept. 19. (AP) — Winging into his native state as plain Douglas Corrigan, the famed "wrong-way" trans - Atlantic flier left the Texas capitol as "Colonel" Corrigan.

Gov. James V. Allred, lauding the modest youngster in a flaming green shirt as an example of young men "true to the ideals and traditions of Texas," commissioned the aviator as a lieutenant-colonel on the chief executive's staff.

Thus Corrigan rightfully can be addressed as "colonel," a designation similar to the rank given his admired predecessor, Charles Lindbergh.

"Got It On Backwards?"

Besides the commission, the governor honored the distinguished flier with a present reserved for famous visitors to the Lone Star state—a 10-gallon Texas cowboy hat.

Corrigan's quip, on trying on the hat, brought a laugh from assembled thousands. Said he:

"Have I got it on backwards?"

TWO factors in Corrigan's personality probably account for much of his popularity with all who meet him or have occasion to associate with him.

They are his utter willingness to accomodate and his spontaneous Irish wit.

Eager to comply with everyone's wishes, the diminutive flier signed several hundred autographs during his three-hour stay in the capital city, being waylaid almost everywhere between appointments by signature hunters.

His two speeches while in Austin were replete with homely blarney of a type which only a speaker so gifted could "put over." When repeated by others, his jokes are somewhat flat and much of the charm of his remarks is lost.

There is naivete in the manner in which he depreciates his courageous flight to Ireland and his inelequent but effective good humor defies description.

Pooh-Poohs Tribute

Pooh-poohing Governor Allred's tribute to his bravery, Corrigan replied simply:

"Well, I thought I was going to California. I knew there was solid land beneath the clouds I was flying over. It was only when I saw all that water on my boat trip back that I really got scared."

HE said there were two reasons why he had no radio in the plane which has been referred to by others as a "crate" since it is of the same vintage as that used by Lindbergh.

"First," he said, "I couldn't afford one because I had only enough money for gas and oil and, second, when you have a radio and you hear there's bad weather ahead, you start to worry. If you don't have one, you don't know about the bad weather and you don't have to worry. So, you go on flying and enjoy it."

The governor complimented Corrigan because this intrepid aviator had turned down many "big money" offers to make his flight to cities and towns "because the people want to see him and he wants to see the people."

"Shucks," he said, "I really don't care for night clubs or stage appearances and what would I do with the money, anyway? Nobody will let me pay for a thing since I landed in Ireland."

Then he added, slyly:

"What I'm wondering is how long is this going to last?"

Referring to the governor's comparing him to Columbus, Corrigan countered:

"Well, Columbus started for India and landed in America. Maybe his compass was off, too."

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 32 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The Zambeh spy led Balzo and his warriors unerringly to the region where Tarzan's safari was advancing slowly. Suddenly the keen-eyed Balzo himself, peering down from a hillside, beheld his prospective captives marching along a winding trail in the valley below.

Screened by the forest, Balzo and a few picked warriors slipped down to judge the strength of their victims. Balzo grinned when he saw that the porters and gun-bearers were coast blacks, whose fighting instincts had been dulled by contact with civilization.

Wishing to conserve the strength of his friends for more strenuous marches ahead, Tarzan commanded the safari to halt for a long mid-day rest. He advised them to relax. "There is no danger now," he said; "the savages would not dare attack us in broad daylight."

But Tarzan did not reckon with Balzo's twisted superstitions. Since Tarzan was a demon, the savage war chief reasoned, it would be better to capture him now. Anyone knew that darkness gave double strength to demons. So, Balzo concluded, now was the time to attack!

LEADERS SHOW GAINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Cautious optimism over the outlook for European peace led Wall street traders to bid stocks up today for gains running from 1 to 3 points or more in many leaders.

Quotations were boosted with little buying effort with proceedings at a jog-trot all day after a brief opening flurry in which blocks of several thousand shares in some leaders changed hands. Turnover was 825,400 shares, compared with 671,680 shares Friday.

Despite rising prices for equities, commodities appeared to attract most attention of traders as they readjusted their speculative views in the light of Franco-British consent to the partition of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

Steels, non-ferrous metals, automotive issues, chemicals, farm equipment and a wide variety of miscellaneous industrials were bought lightly at sharply rising prices.

The metal issues found their best following after domestic producers of copper, lead and zinc all lifted prices for their metals to around the best levels of 1938.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.1 points to 45.6 with the 30 industrials in the compilation adding 1.3 points at 67.9. The rails were up .8 and the utilities .9.

The bond market generally followed stocks higher with speculative loans up 1 to 3 points in some cases.

On top for gains of 1 to as much as 4 points were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Electric Auto Lite, Sears Roebuck, Philip Morris, U. S. Gypsum, Crane Co., Westinghouse, Santa Fe, American Telephone, J. C. Penney, Du Pont, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case and Union Carbon. In the metal division American Smelting ran up more than 2 and International Nickel nearly as much, while ahead around a point or more were Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro De Pasco.

GIVEN LIFE TERM

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 19 (AP)—On a plea of guilty to the murder of his mother, Mrs. Helen Bourland, March 19, Robert Toscano, 33-year-old painter, this afternoon was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The market opened 6 to 9 points net higher and sold up to net gains of 12 to 15 points on Wall street, foreign and trade buying promoted partly by reports France and England had given in to Chancellor Hitler's demands upon Czechoslovakia.

Irvin Is To Speak To Teachers Today

W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock's public schools, will address the members of the school faculties at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the auditorium of the Senior High school to introduce the general plan for the use of visual aids in schools.

Parents and patrons of the school are invited to attend the meeting if they are interested in this new work, Irvin said.

"School journeys, museums, still pictures of all types, and graphic materials are forms of visual aids which we hope to use to keep a well-balanced program," Irvin said.

This is the first year the schools have been equipped for moving pictures. A new machine is in the Senior High auditorium, a gift of the Mothers' club and the student council, and will enable students to have permanent equipment for visual aid. The Board of Education has a portable machine which may be used in other schools.

The committee in charge of visual education includes Miss Dorothy Lomax, chairman; Miss Agnes True, Mrs. Guy L. Trow, Miss Mary Meador, Miss Stella Thurman, Mrs. J. T. Trigg, Mrs. George Duval, H. C. Bowlin, Carroll Thompson, and R. W. Matthews, along with a teacher from each school in the city.

000 for 187 miles and 504 customers in Ellis, Hill, Johnston and McLennan counties and $236,000 for 287 miles and 706 customers in Hidalgo, Willacy and Cameron counties.

Application for the $144,000 allotment made to the Lubbock cooperative was submitted Aug. 30 in Washington, said Fagg. History of the cooperative here dates to March of 1936.

At that time, a temporary committee representative of those who were interested in bringing of power and light to the rural areas met. Application for the first allotment, of $100,000, was made in early 1937 and a federal committee recommended that the allotment be made as a loan in November.

Work Started In May

Bids were opened in January of 1938, after first mortgages and the lines and other facilities, and notes had been executed and after surveys and easements had been taken. Construction was begun May 16.

Selection of a contractor probably will be made on the newest project after a few weeks of preliminaries, said Fagg.

"Mortgages and notes will be drawn, the liability to be borne strictly by physical properties of the association. No individual in the cooperative will be liable except for payment of his monthly power and light bill."

Officers Of Group

W. M. Ross is president of the cooperative, C. Z. Fine vice president, A. B. Allen, secretary-treasurer, and C. E. Lilley, L. E. Countess, S. S. Allcorn and M. H. Vardeman directors.

When the work is completed on the extension of the project Lubbock county will be served by an irradiated system that will serve almost the entire county, said Fagg.

"And lateral lines can be constructed to serve most of the rest," he said.

Czechs Balk

approval by their cabinets yesterday of the formula reached early yesterday, formally called on Czechoslovakia to make the necessary sacrifices to appease Hitler.

But it was generally believed Chamberlain would not dare go to Godesberg and openly deal away Czechoslovakia territory without the Prague government's permission, even though Britain and France have reached an accord on the problem.

Should Chamberlain have to wait until President Eduard Benes convenes the Czechoslovak parliament it was feared Hitler might increase his demands in the meantime.

Czechs Are Bewildered

Czechoslovakia appeared to be bewildered. Paris reporting Prague would ask for a hearing before both France and Britain before giving her answer to their plan. Czechoslovakia wanted to present her side of the case.

The case therefore promised to be thrown back into the laps of the two western European democracies.

Geneva heard the Czechoslovakia government was asking Soviet Russia to bring pressure to bear on Britain and France to stop the two powers in their course of giving in to Germany at Czechoslovakia's expense.

Big Russia Is Silent

Big Russia was silent. The Moscow public had no indication whatever of what the Soviet bear would do. Her treaty of alliance with Czechoslovakia provides only that she shall aid Prague in the event France acts. If France does not move, Russia has no obligation to do so.

Italy, not directly involved in the grave negotiations, nevertheless kept her case before the world. Premier Benito Mussolini, who spoke only Sunday "to tell the world 'Italy's place is already chosen,'" prepared to talk again today to comment on the last-minute developments of the fast-moving diplomatic drama.

Ready To Aid Germany

The authoritative fascist editor Virginio Gayda, presumably filling in Il Duce's speech, wrote that "Italy is ready to take up arms at Germany's side if a mad conflagration should explode" over the Czechoslovak issue.

Poland also sent instructions to her ambassadors reportedly to set forth that a full solution in central Europe demanded return of Polish-populated areas in Czechoslovakia to Poland. It was announced Poland was increasing her troops along the Czechoslovak border where a mass meeting shouted, "we want to lick the Czechs."

It was reported the Hungarian regent would hurry to see Hitler to get his aid in settling Hungary's minority dispute with Czechoslovakia.

barrels daily to make an allowable of 28,597. It was one of the few changes ordered, most schedules being unchanged. Thompson said the Yates increase was due to the fact the field had been reduced so far waste was threatened.

Webster Field Boosted

The Webster field in the gulf coast district received a boost of 1,600 barrels for a new allowable of 5,681 barrels daily.

It was estimated the allowable of the big East Texas oil field would be 517,816 barrels on October 1, compared with 516,959 on Sept. 19 and 516,147 on Sept. 1. The factor on which its allowable is computed was not changed.

District allowables as of Sept. 1, Sept. 19 and October 1 were announced as follows:

East Texas 516,147, 516,959, and 517,816; Panhandle, including Moore county and Osborne area, 82,912, 83,292, and 83,292; North Texas, including Anderson-Kerr, Foard county, K. M. in the last World war, that if war broke out in Europe it would be necessary to strengthen the neutrality act.

Congress could do this by eliminating the element of discretion allowed the president as to when he should invoke the law, and by making the "cash and carry" provisions of the act mandatory in all cases of strife, Nye said.

Proclaim State Of War

As the neutrality act now stands, the president must proclaim that a state of war exists before the statute can be invoked. The administration has chosen to ignore the Sino-Japanese war as far as the neutrality act is concerned, on the grounds that there has been no formal declaration of war nor severance of diplomatic relations. Nye suggested that this discretionary power be eliminated.

Shipments of arms to belligerents would be banned if the present act were invoked, but the president still would have discretion as to enforcement of the "cash and carry" provisions by which belligerent nations would be required to pay cash for other commodities purchased in this country and to transport them to their shores themselves.

The American Red Cross sent five of its disaster relief workers from Washington to Miami.

The Works Progress administration and the Civilian Conservation corps directed evacuation of all men in exposed places including camps in the keys.

The advancing hurricane was the first serious storm threat to the Florida mainland since a small but severe September storm cut through the keys on Labor day in 1935. About 500 persons were killed including many World war veterans who were building the oversea highway from the Florida mainland to Key West.

New Enrollment Records In Texas Schools Being Set

issued Monday than in any other one day in history of the college.

Big Increase Indicated

Indications point to an enrollment exceeding by several hundred last fall semesters' total of 3,154.

Optimism over the final figure was mingled with anxiety as to the number of students the college could accommodate with its present housing and classroom facilities and number of faculty members. Space in the new library makes the classroom problem less serious than it was last fall.

A housing official remarked that sufficient housing facilities were available for 3,600 students.

Further Indications Today

Today will bring an indication of the final total, although several hundred students likely will register after today. Officials have pointed out that all previous indications cannot be taken at their face value.

Although the number of permits issued at the close of registration Monday exceeded the number at the end of the first day last year by 257, officials did not know what significance to attach to that fact since the order of registration by classifications was changed this year.

Freshmen Start Today

Freshmen and stragglers will register today. Only 1,039 must register for the total at the end of today to equal the total of 2,876 for the two official registration days last year.

It was reported at Lubbock sanitarium Monday night that 1,231 students had received physical examinations. Hundreds had been asked to return later.

Although junior, senior, graduate and sophomore students were to register Monday, dozens of sophomores looked askance at long registration lines and decided to return to enroll today.

Transcripts Are Filed

Prior to opening of registration, 1,692 transcripts of college and high school credits had been filed in the registrar's office. Registrar W. P. Clement pointed out, however, that many of those students might not register. Some filed transcripts when seeking National Youth administration student jobs.

More prospective students have been reported by business men to be seeking jobs than ever before, but many likely will not register unless they find employment.

Approximately one-third of the number of women students registering Monday reported they would be employed while attending college, said Mrs. R. M. Chitwood, assistant to the dean of women. About 4 of every 10 men students registering already had jobs, said Calvin Hazlewood, assistant in the dean of men's office in charge of employment.

Are More Experienced

Dean James M. Gordon, chairman of the executive committee, and Registrar Clement pointed out that upperclassmen are more experienced in registering and that possibly would account in part for the large number enrolled Monday.

Students were waiting to register Monday morning long before the doors to the gymnasium and registrar's office opened at 8 o'clock. More than 150 were waiting before the gymnasium at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Harry L. Kent, member of the executive committee, said a line made up of approximately 500 students extended from the registrar's office shortly after 8 o'clock. Those students were waiting to obtain admission cards after presentation of transcripts of credits, or to get grade books.

To Remain On Duty

All faculty members will remain on duty in the gymnasium through today. Registration will be conducted from 8 to 12 o'clock this morning and 1:30 to 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Classes will open Wednesday morning. A late registration fee will go into effect Saturday morning.

Many who began registering Monday will complete the procedure today. Registrationn procedure is ended by payment of fees.

ALMOST ELEVEN YEARS AGO THIS AD APPEARED IN THE LOCAL PRESS

the sign it introduced...

RETIRED NOW...WITH HONOR

after a record of very distinctive service

The large electric sign at the corner of our building is coming down— ! ! After serving faithfully and well for more than the period predicted, it now seems appropriate that it pass from "The Active List" in retirement, so from now on you will see it no more.

Many of you will join us in a feeling of regret in the passing of this, one of the pioneers of the "Bright Lights" off down town Lubbock. It has been a symbol for many phases of our presentations and it is with regret that we find it impossible to retain it in our modernizing program.

The decade of its service, has been, just as we predicted, most unusual with respect to the development of this city and section. During this time it has looked down upon periods of drouth and bumper crops, severe depression and unprecedented prosperity, Nation-wide bank closings and the return of confidence . . . but through all these cycles of "ups and downs" it has witnessed a constant forward movement for this city and section unheard of elsewhere in this land of ours.

So in parting with this faithful servant we pause a moment to look backward over the period of its service . . . When we do, we seem to see a pattern for the future. If we were erecting another sign today we would predict that it would witness eleven years of even greater development for this great section than that which has completely justified our prophecy of October 26th, 1927, almost eleven years ago.

Federal Courts To Be Speeded

Case No. 1 under the speeded-up civil procedure affecting the federal courts has been filed in the northern division at Lubbock, said Mrs. Olive Fluke, assistant United States district clerk.

Into the ash can have gone many anchors that slowed procedure in the past.

A Unified System

Now there is a unified system, under which rules for case in equity and at law in the states' federal courts and in the supreme court of the District of Columbia offer one form of civil action and procedure for both classes of cases, while maintaining inviolate the right of trial by jury in accordance with the seventh amendment of the constitution and without altering substantive rights.

Actually, the new rules went into effect Sept. 16, when 86 procedural changes were made to eliminate red tape and give impetus to adjudication of litigants' claims. There have been numerous abolitions of forms of action and procedural distinctions. All statutes using the words petition, bill of complaint, plea, demurrer and other such terminology, for instance, have taken a modified meaning under one rule, No. 7.

In one swoop, 150 years' civil procedure was changed by the supreme court in collaboration with the justice department.

Removal Order Obtained

As to the case filed in Lubbock, that of H. B. Blanton of Dickens county against an arms manufacturing company operating under the laws of Delaware, the defendant obtained a removal order from the state court of Judge Alton B. Chapman at Dickens, since damages of over $3,000—specifically $25,000—were asked and because parties to the suit were from different states.

Upon posting of bond, the defendant to the action filed the case in United States district court here, filed a demand for a trial by jury, made a motion of dismiss, asked a bill of particulars and made answers subject thereto.

It was set out in the original petition filed in the state court May 13, Blanton's left eye was damaged and that his right eye has suffered sympathetic injury as result of a 22 "short" cartridge's exploding after it had been ejected from a gun in a Dickens shooting gallery. He claimed permanent impairment of ability to earn his livelihood.

Under the changed setup, however, attorneys for parties in litigation are ordered to file answers back and forth to new allegations, which has the effect of "almost trying the case before it goes into the court room," said one federal official.

Attorneys for the arms manufacturing company, for instance, pleaded in asking for a bill of particulars set out that, in order to hurry the case to adjudication, they wanted more specific definition so as to prepare responsive pleadings before the case is tried.

Warning Tickets Are Placed On Illegally Parked Cars

Warning tickets were placed on 16 automobiles illegally parked on College avenue Saturday night at the Texas Technological college-Montana State football game, according to officials.

All defendants Monday morning appeared as they had been cited to do and warned that all parking on College avenue is a violation of state laws since it is a state highway.

Violators, in the future, will be prosecuted, according to state police.

Alaska, the word, comes from the Eskimo word meaning Great Country.

Traffic Lanes Are Scheduled

Schedule for a series of traffic lanes to educate motorists and to test automobiles and equipment in efforts to promote safety in this district of the Texas Highway patrol was announced Monday by Capt. W. W. Legge, commanding highway patrol officer of this area.

The automobiles will be tested "with every modern device" Capt. Legge said. Machines will be tested for light range and focus, defects in lights, muffler, windshield wipers and steering apparatus, wheel alignment, brakes, along with other mechanical parts of vehicles.

Three Sections In Each

Six specially trained state officers will accompany the safety lanes and local officers will work with state men. Each lane will be composed of three sections, making possible complete inspections in a few minutes.

The schedule: Plainview, Sept. 26 through 28; Paducah, Sept. 29 to Oct. 1; Lubbock, Oct. 3 to 8; Littlefield, Oct. 10 to 12; Brownfield, Oct. 13 to 15; Lamesa, Oct. 17 to 19; Tahoka, Oct. 20 to 22; Post, Oct. 24 to 26; Snyder, Oct. 27 to 29; Big Spring, Nov. 14 to 17; Midland, Nov. 18 t 22; and Odessa, Nov. 23 to 26.

The state board of agriculture estimates the population of Kansas at 1,805,454 persons, a decrease of 18,255 since 1937.
