Aged Millionaire Oil Man Is Freed In Supreme Court

Verdict Reached On First Ballot; Spectators In Courtroom Cheer After Announcement Is Made

Happiness Voiced

Name Of Defendant Cleared For First Time In Seven Years Following Alleged "Loan" to Albert B. Fall

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Edward L. Doheny was acquitted today in District of Columbia Supreme Court of having bribed Albert B. Fall for the Elk Hills oil lease.

The verdict came on the first ballot.

The 73-year-old multi-millionaire stood still, staring ahead, awaiting announcement of the verdict by the jury foreman, Chelsey H. Ray.

Spectators Cheer

With the words "not guilty," some of the spectators who crowded the courtroom cheered, to be silenced immediately by bailiffs.

Doheny still stood, but tears were rushing down his wrinkled cheeks. For minutes they came but he did not sob.

For seven years his name had been clouded, but for the second time a jury had held him an honest man. His first acquittal was on a charge of having conspired with Fall for the Elk Hills lease. The former secretary of interior also was adjudged not guilty of that charge, but only five months ago was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Doheny.

Mrs. Doheny pushed her way to the side of her husband after hearing the verdict today, and clasped him in her arms while she wept.

Forgery Charges Face Woman, Son In Investigation

Victim Of Alleged Plot To Burn Girl Locked In Upstairs Courthouse Room; Sticks With Story

FAIRFIELD, March 22.—While Miss Wilma Jones, 23, who claimed some one attempted to burn her to death Wednesday night, was locked in an upstairs room of the courthouse, forgery charges were filed today against Mrs. Sarah Jane Dodd, 50, and her son, Tommie, 30, at whose home in Buffalo, Miss Jones stayed.

The charges were preferred in connection with alleged forgery of a $250 check on G. S. Moore, Oakwood business man. A like charge already had been placed against Miss Jones, who admitted signing the check. Moore was charged with arson after the fire Wednesday night.

Although officers sought verification of their belief that blackmail played a part, Miss Jones had not changed her story—that someone entered her hotel room, bound and gagged her and fired the mattress of her bed, and that she saved herself by rolling off the bed and bumping her head against the wall to attract attention.

The state contended that Mrs. Dodd shared the proceeds from the check, and that Tommie Dodd planned the transaction. A number of persons were questioned today including Mrs. Wilburn Jones, the girl's sister-in-law.

Flying School Is Proposed In City

Officials Of Texas Flying Service Studying Lubbock's Possibilities For Air Mail Line

G. B. Smith, operations manager of the Texas Flying Service, Fort Worth, and P. J. Omo, secretary and treasurer of the company, arrived in Lubbock yesterday preparatory to investigations of this city as a possible point for location of a flying school and possible stopping point in a mail line from points north to a point on the T & P railroad.

Consideration is being given the establishment of an air line from a point on the south of Lubbock to Amarillo and possibly on to Denver and the Texas Flying Service has been in the forefront in getting such a line established.

With Seth Barwise as president of the company, officials are seriously considering the establishment of a branch school in this city and in the event they can obtain cooperation of city officials have promised that such a unit will be promoted.

"We are not primarily seeking a profit from this venture," stated Mr Smith last night. "Our main idea, and that of Mr. Barwise is to promote the interests of aviation. If we can do this for Lubbock, help in anyway in getting the proposed airport for this city established and on a paying basis, then we will be satisfied."

In the event that such a school

Prohibition Problem As Issue In Coming Elections Proposed

Drys, Wets Express Views on Results Of Hearings

By CECIL B. DICKSON, Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—A move by opponents of prohibition to force it as an issue in the coming congressional elections was proposed today by Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, as drys and wets expressed divergent views on possible results of hearings before the house judiciary committee.

The wets declared they were convinced the hearings had proved the dry law had broken down and that the only question was a remedy. The drys contended their testimony showed the country had prospered under the 18th amendment and the hearings resulted in a stimulation of their activities for its continuance.

Wets Get Rebuttal

G. S. Jameson, clerk of the judiciary committee, announced the wets had appeared before the group for 29 hours and 30 minutes in seven days, while the drys had testified for 29 hours and 8 minutes. The drys are to have Wednesday in which to end their argument and the wets are to have an opportunity to offer rebuttal testimony only on matters presented by the drys.

In a letter to Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, La Guardia said the dry challenge before the committee that the majority of the members of congress were dry must be accepted by the wets at the coming election.

Regardless of party affiliation, the New Yorker wrote, the association should demand that every candidate for a seat in congress declare his

Lubbock Woman Fined In Assault

Mrs. F. E. Barron Is Found Guilty Of Assault Of 16 Year Old Mexican Girl; Adopted 7 Years Ago

Mrs. F. E. Barron, charged with aggravated assault in connection with an alleged attack upon Tita (Mary) Licon, 16-year-old Mexican girl, was found guilty and assessed a fine of $200 and court costs Saturday afternoon in Lubbock county court.

Tita was adopted by Mrs. Barron about seven years ago. Taken from a defenseless mother, a widow, when she was a small child, the little girl was brought to this city by a band of itinerant Mexicans. At that time she was an untidy and scantily dressed little girl and could not speak English.

Mrs. Barron adopted her. In an American home she has lost most of the prepossessing impressions of a foreign nationality and she has learned English in the Mexican school of this city.

It was brought out in the testimony yesterday afternoon that Tita's guardian punished her "because she had been out late with a young man."

The girl left the home and obtained work in a downtown coffee shop. She is now supporting herself.

Governor Dan Moody has promised that he would not use the right of veto on appropriations of $17,500 for Texas Technological college summer session expense, according to Senator Pink L. Parrish, who arrived home in Lubbock last night.

"The $17,500 appropriation," declared Senator Parrish, "is only half of the amount sought by the college, but all other educational institutions of the state also had appropriations cut in half. Yes, the Governor promised me, just before I left Austin, that he would not veto Tech's appropriation."

Mrs. Parrish accompanied the Senator home.

When asked whether or not he is to run for governor, Senator Parrish said:

"I don't know anything about that."

Officers And Rum Runners In Clash

Bullets Whiz Across Border In Fifteenth Skirmish Of Year; One Mexican Is Wounded In Fight

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, March 22. (AP)—Bullets whizzed across the Mexican border last night in the 15th skirmish of the year between Mexican rum runners and United States border patrolmen. Today the federal officers discovered that they had wounded a member of the gang which was attempting to run its contraband into Texas.

The patrolmen today returned to the scene of the gun fight, west of El Paso, where they were forced to shoot their way out of ambush, and took possession of whiskey valued at $400 which was abandoned by the smugglers. They also found evidence indicating that at least one of the rum runners had been wounded.

When two border patrolmen last night ordered the smugglers to halt, they replied with a rapid succession of shots. The odds were against the officers, only two being on guard on the line in the sand hills while at least six rum runners carrying liquor on their backs, fired upon them. Other members of the gang were believed concealed in an arroya.

Despite the odds, the patrolmen with gunfire forced the smugglers to cover and the contraband was abandoned in their flight.

Drops of blood found today at places in the position known to have been occupied by the smugglers were taken by the officers as clear indication that at least one of the rum runners had been hit.

"The national prohibition amendment should be repealed or amended. The time has come for action by the American people. The dismal farce of prohibition as it now exists should be terminated.

"The Volstead law should be repealed or modified by congress. I shall stand squarely for such action."

Funeral Rites For Henson Are Said As Two Men Are Held In Garza Jail, Charged With Violation Of Dry Law

Dan Sanders, And Son-In-Law, Tommy Rose, In Cells As Bond For Each Is Set At $1,000; Events Move With Rapidity As Grand Jury Investigates Man's Death

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

POST, Garza County, March 22.—Events moved swiftly here today in the investigation which followed the sudden death in Post Thursday night of J. T. Henson, 60-year-old resident of this city whose dead body was found by two companions at the conclusion of an auto ride.

First, it was established that Henson, long-time Garza county resident, did not die of a broken neck as first believed. Heart-failure, X-ray pictures and a thorough examination of the body showed, brought the man's demise.

Drinking Is Claimed

Grand jury investigation of the case, headed by Foreman J. M. Boren, pioneer ranchman, brought out that Henson and his two companions of Thursday night, Walker Julian, 28, and W. S. Sawyer, 35, millworkers, were drinking prior to Henson's death. The latter two, who climbed from the front seat of a light touring car at the conclusion of the auto ride to find Henson dead in the car's tonneau, attested to that fact and, Garza county authorities announced, divulged the source of their liquor purchase.

Immediately following the questioning of Julian and Sawyer the grand jury returned two indictments charging sale of intoxicants and naming as defendants Dan Sanders, about 50, and his son-in-law, Tommy Rose, about 25. The latter two, farmers who reside near here, were placed in the Garza county jail late Friday with bond for each set at $1,000. At midnight Saturday neither had arranged bail.

Meanwhile funeral rites for Henson were held in Post on Saturday, interment following in the local cemetery. He is survived by two grown children, Elmer Henson and Mrs. Monroe Leverett, both residents of Post.

Rose Arrested Before

Sanders, officials here said, has lived here for several years and has never run afoul of court charges before. Rose, however, was arrested about a week ago and charged with prohibition law violation.

The case is attracting wide attention here. When Julian and Sawyer discovered Henson dead Thursday night they immediately reported the case to Sheriff W. F. Cato, who with a local physician, made the first investigation. Both men testified during the grand jury's deliberation.

If You Believe in Signs—the South Plains Will Have Average Crop in '30

IF you believe in signs—particularly weather signs—draw a sigh of relief. The good year 1930 will see the South Plains producing "an average" crop of cotton and grain, at least in the opinion of J. I. Wilborn, Garza county pioneer, who has built a reputation as a crop-year forecaster in his section of the state.

For nearly a half century Mr. Wilborn has been a citizen of what is now Garza county, residing 10 miles southwest of Post. Back in the early days he learned from an Indian neighbor that "the direction of the wind at sunrise on the morning of each March 22 indicates the type of crop year approaching" and if you'll take the counsel of W. O. Stevens, local banker, Mr. Wilborn never fails to "call the turn."

Tests Wind Direction

Saturday morning, as is his yearly custom, Mr. Wilborn was on hand to greet the sun and test the wind's direction. Saturday morning the wind blew from the northwest, which according to the pioneer's statement to Ira Lee Duckworth,

THIRTY-EIGHT years after his death, memorial services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Lubbock cemetery for Henry Jenkins, Cochran county cowboy, who was the first person buried in the local cemetery, and who was buried without funeral rites.

An inscribed monument, donated by the South Plains Monument company, was placed over the grave of Jenkins Saturday afternoon by J. D. Caldwell, pioneer citizen of Lubbock, who attended the bedside of the cowboy when he died here at the Nicolette, now the Broadway hotel, March 10, 1892.

A choir will be formed of volunteers from religious groups.

Mr. Caldwell is in charge of arrangements and with him at the cemetery will be several veteran citizens who lived in Lubbock at the time Jenkins died.

The cowboy was brought to this city after he had contracted pneumonia. Dr. J. W. Carter, of Emma, Crosby county, was the nearest physician, and he attended the patient shortly before he died.

No Embalmer Then.

There was no embalmer on the South Plains at that time. Jenkins' parents lived at Rhome, Wise county, and due to absence of communication and transportation lines Lubbock

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Just a short time ago there was a conspiracy among the fashion writers of the world to deny the curve a place in the feminine figure.

Today, thanks to a more naturalistic vogue, curves have returned and this time to stay, I most sincerely hope.

But to strike that happy medium of restrained curves, curves that are only a little more than soft, gracious, feminine lines—that is quite a problem. A problem that any woman who takes her appearance seriously must gravely consider.

Let us take the style first and work inward toward its foundation—the figure; model nineteen hundred and thirty—we find first of all very frilly, feminine necklines and in perfect sequence, a demand, no less, for a softly rounded throat. As most women have a tendency to scrawny necks and hollows in the throat, let me take a moment to advise you here of a very effective way to correct this condition. Cut a strip of muslin, or a double thickness of cheesecloth, wide enough to cover the neck from the chinline down to the little hollow at its base. Soak it in either warm olive oil or heated extract—the former is effective, but somewhat less pleasant to use—and bind the cloth lightly around your throat. Be sure it is not at all tight. Leave on overnight. In the morning, give five minutes to neck and throat exercises, first filming the area with a good, rich tissue cream.

Now to go back to our costume curves. High waists call attention to two points of the figure—the bust, first, which should be small and firm and round; and the waist next, which, while it need not be corseted, should be trim and agile. Next we come to the hips, where the lines are accentuated by the circular flares which can either minimize a great many faults or call attention to them. Lastly, longer hemlines call even greater attention to the ankles than the frankly short skirts did.

There is no way out of it, if your figure is less, or more than it should be, your most urgent need right now is a series of exercises that will not only regulate your weight, but develop firm curves. Diet alone will not do it, although it has its place, certainly, in every exercise routine.

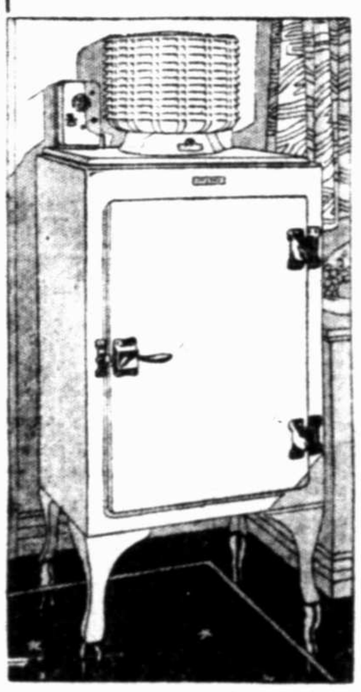
GENERAL-ELECTRIC
AS THE BEST AND LEAST EXPENSIVE
REFRIGERATOR
On The Market Today
For Her School of Home Economics



COME in and let us show you our variety of attractive models.

A cooking school that lasts three months. Think of it, and the exacting tests that must be made on all kitchen utensils and utilities. For this exacting test, General-Electric Refrigerators were selected. Why? Because General-Electric has stood the test of time, and is today recognized as the least expensive refrigeration on the market. General-Electric keeps food cooled to the right temperature, a temperature that guarantees proper preservation of food.

General-Electric Refrigerators also have that quality which appeals to the average housewife in beauty and convenience. Plenty of room, with no waste space. General-Electric refrigerators may be "built in," as in the Modern Kitchen, where the cooking school is to be conducted by Miss Galloway. These features make General-Electric acceptable for this most interesting cooking school.

Extra storage space, accessible freezing regulator, easy-cleaning features, low running cost, quiet operation—these advantages you will appreciate many times, when you are the owner of a General-Electric refrigerator! Come in, and let us tell you about our surprisingly easy terms.

The Most Inexpensive REFRIGERATOR You Can Buy

not 1 CENT FOR SERVICE

Near 500,000 now in use, and not a single cent has been paid for service.

Don't be mislead, should something go wrong with the motor, or any part, you will not be out the use of the refrigerator, as some would have you believe—while the old unit is being repaired. Our contract calls for a 30 minute time to replace a new unit. The old unit is never repaired and sent back, but the customer keeps the new unit. What could be better? Wouldn't you like to buy a car that way, or a suit, or anything else?

The pan that keeps vegetables fresh can be had at a very small charge. It fastens to the racks, and can be easily removed. Not an exclusive feature, but very little extra cost.

WEAREVER ALUMINUM
To Be Used In The Modern Kitchen

Wearever Aluminum—another standard quality product handled by Sherrod Bros.—was selected for use in this school. In deciding upon this feature of the school, it was necessary to select the best, for if the demonstrations are to be successful, the utensils must be as good the last day—three months from Tuesday—as they were the first day. Thus it was necessary to turn to Wearever Aluminum. See it on display here, and at this Cooking School.

Development Of Potash Deposits Of State Likely

Recent Discovery May Lead To Commercial Refining Of Deposits; Texas Man Makes Find

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 22.—Recent discovery of a method of refining West Texas potash ores had led to the advancement of a plan for extensive development of the potash deposits of Texas. The discovery was made by Dr. E. P. Schoch of the Bureau of Industrial chemistry at the University of Texas.

The discovery will make possible the production of potassium sulphate at a figure far below that at which European manufacturers, now the chief source of supply, can produce it, Dr. Schoch said. In the opinion of Dr. Schoch, no other section of the world will be able to compete with West Texas in the production of potassium sulphate.

Composed of Polyhalite

The deposits in West Texas, according to Dr. Schoch, are composed chiefly of polyhalite, a mineral made up of the sulphates of potassium, magnesium and calcium. The West Texas beds are composed almost entirely of this mineral and are free from chlorides.

The Texas potash deposits differ from the European beds in that the latter are composed of minerals which were formed by prior deposits of Polyhalite through a process of resolution and recrystalization. These beds contain chloride in preponderant amounts. Since the chlorides are readily soluble in water, the European manufacturers have used the solution method for obtaining their product.

Slightly Soluble

Polyhalite, however, is only slightly soluble and for a time this proved the one bar in its being refined on a commercial basis. The discovery of Dr. Schoch removes this obstacle and it was found through experimentation that concentrated solutions of potassium and magnesium sulphates could easily be obtained from polyhalite and the component parts of the mineral readily refined in commercial form.

The potash thus refined is in the form of potassium sulphate and is free from chlorides. Dr. Schoch pointed out that potassium sulphate is preferrable to potassium chloride for the most purposes since it does not attract moisture; it is more easily stored and handled than the chloride and can be used for all crops as fertilizer.

With potassium sulphate being imported into the United States at the rate of 180,000 tons per year at a price of $46.15 per ton the development of the West Texas deposits will mean much to the country at large, it is said.

The deposits in Texas were discovered by Dr. J. A. Udden, director of the bureau of economic geology in the University of Texas.

Young Frenchman Labors Much To Become Aviator

DALLAS, March 22. (AP)—Juan Grools 22-year-old French youth who worked and saved for four years that he might come to the United States and become an aviator, is nearing the realization of his dream.

Grools will be graduated from the Dallas aviation school within a few weeks and he is expected to pass the examination for a transport license. He already has had several hours of solo flying.

Although he has worked in Berlin and all over the United States, Grools has not seen enough of the world. He hopes to get a job with the French postal air lines in South America or find a place in some of the French colonies.

Taking Spanish

In preparation for the South American post which he hopes to fill, Grools is taking a self-study course in Spanish. He already speaks French, English and German.

The young Frenchman had to wait two years before he could come to this country because of the immigration quota regulations. During that time he worked in Paris and Berlin as a bank clerk, chauffeur, taxi driver, and at various odd jobs.

When he came to this country Grools still did not have enough money to learn flying. "I got a job with a German selling fancy embroidery throughout the country," he said. "He wouldn't have hired me if he had known I was from France but I convinced him I was French Swiss." Grools finally saved about $1,200 and came to Dallas.

Moral: Get Thrown In The City Jail!

Prisoners In County Bastile 'Cuss The Food', But The Municipal 'Guests' Never Make A Serious 'Kick'

ARE PRISONERS satisfied with the food they receive while in jail?

"Yes," says J. T. Inmon, desk sergeant and police judge at the city jail, and "no," says Jailor Will Earnest of the county bastile.

"Prisoners would complain if they were in Heaven," says Mr. Earnest. "I have not heard a complaint from a prisoner here about food during the four years I have had charge of feeding them," Mr. Inmon says. Therefore, take your choice.

What Is The Difference?

What makes the difference? Are city prisoners better fed than county prisoners? Such is not likely the case, for 75 cents each day is allowed for the feeding of those in the city, while only 70 cents per day is allowed for the feeding of those in the city jail. Perhaps this is the explanation: people are put in the city jails for finable offenses only, such as traffic violation, gambling, drunkenness, or vagrancy, and, as a rule, are kept there only a day or so until money can be raised for their fines. Their minds are occupied with methods of raising money, and, since they are fed only one or two meals and these are better than they likely would have at home, there are no complaints. On the other hand, those in the county jail are kept there for a longer period of time, have time to brood over their troubles, and consequently have a tendency to complain about everything meals included.

"We sometimes vary our meals to please the prisoners," said Mr. Earnest. "If a request for some special food is practical, we get that food."

Two Feedings A Day

Meals are served prisoners in the county jail twice each day, according to Mr. Earnest. Breakfast, which is served between 8 and 9:30 o'clock includes oatmeal or other cereal, biscuits, bacon, syrup, and coffee.

In the afternoon meal, which is served at 3:30 o'clock, there is more variety. Cornbread is always served, and a typical meal includes beans, either sweet or Irish potatoes, macaroni and tomatoes, stewed fruit, coffee and sometimes pie. All of the food is prepared at the jail, and an average of about 25 prisoners are served each day, Mr. Ernest said.

The jailer reported that prisoners here never go on hunger strikes.

City Fare Given

Similar food is served at the city jail. The following were given by Police Chief John Lemond as typical menus: breakfast, which is served at 9 o'clock, bacon, eggs, biscuits, butter, fruit, and coffee. evening meal: served at 5:30 o'clock vegetable soup, roast beef, potatoes, cabbage, beans, and bread. The food is prepared at a near-by hotel.

"We sometimes go a week with no one in jail," said Chief Lemond, "and 18 is the largest number we have ever had."

For more than a year, Mr. Inmon has kept a complete report of the number of meals served in the city jail. Fifty-four meals had been served so far this month including Thursday, he reported. Sixty meals, he said, were served in January, 1929; 89 in February; 118 in March; 37 in April; 72 in May; 38 in June; 115 in July; 74 in August; 72 in September; 120 in October; 177 in November; 170 in December; 95 in January, 1930, and 118 in February.

Slaton Is Host To County Meet This Week

IN THE REALM OF SPORT
WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Within another week Texas Tech's athletic headquarters will be bustling with activity as Pete W. Cawthon, new director of athletics and head football coach, comes to initiate spring football training for the Matadors.

Cawthon is due to arrive here April 1 to start his work at the head of the badly battered athletic department of the Matador institution. The former Kangaroo mentor of Austin college is facing a man-sized job in rebuilding Tech athletics and placing the school's teams on a paying basis. His past work and general manner indicates he is the man for the job. Cawthon has great ambitions for Tech and if even half his plans are carried out, the institution is in for better days.

Known throughout the state as a driver and a hard worker, Cawthon will find a sympathetic fandom here to watch his progress with the Matadors. Due to the showing of the Tech football teams of the past two seasons, the followers of the colleges are convinced that only driving tactics such as Cawthon employs will lead the Crimson forces out of the wilderness. He will find likewise a student body that is crying for a winning football aggregation upon which they can pin its hopes.

Old members of the Tech football squad are unanimous in their opinion that the 1930 eleven will "show 'em something." From Captain-elect Jack Durham on down the line, the gridsters are anxiously awaiting the arrival of their new leader, firm in their belief that a turning point in the history of the school's athletics is just around the corner. Strange as it may seem to the average reader, the football candidates welcome the promise of plenty of hard work. This, they realize, is the only sure means of developing a winning gridiron combination.

Cawthon writes that he has lined up a number of promising athletes to wear the Tech Scarlet and Black. During the past football season, he has traveled throughout the length and breadth of the state as an official and the search for material has been uppermost in his mind. Many of these will accompany Cawthon to Lubbock but none will be eligible for the 1930 campaign.

We are informed by a reliable source that Raymond (Whacker) Barton, the red-thatched Westerner tackle of recent years, will be on hand for the 1930 Texas Tech football campaign. Whacker made the grade on the Texas university freshman eleven last fall, but now plans to return to Lubbock to spend the remainder of his college days. Pete Cawthon is responsible for bringing Barton back to his home town, thanks to three years of play under Henry Frnka, a staunch admirer of the new Tech director.

Although considered light for the heavy tackle duty, Whacker was voted all-district tackle on two different occasions and was respected throughout district one as a worthy foe. He is certain to make a strong bid for a regular berth on the Matador eleven.

Phil Scott says that he plans to stay in the United States. Maybe he's got a job lined up endorsing mattresses.

Perhaps the most interesting development to be expected from the Lubbock-Lamesa dual track meet on Tech Field Tuesday afternoon will be the showing of the Westerner middle distance men. Coach Lowrey has been driving his quarter and half milers at a fast gait during the past week in an effort to find capable performers in these events. Indications are that his efforts will be rewarded after the showing made by a pair of huskies during the past few days. Will Ed Watson now looks like the team's best bet in the 440 and Carroll McCaslin has shown lots of stuff in the half. Ovid Brock has likewise been stepping the 880 with a strong stride.

Negotiations are under way to stage a triangular meet here next Friday between Lubbock, Plainview and Amarillo. Plainview officials have already answered Lowrey's proposal of the event and the Bulldogs are strong for the idea. No word has been received from the Sandstorm stronghold. The Lubbock track mentor hopes to make the triangular event an annual affair, alternating the scene of the meet each year between the three cities.

Cheering scribes are already calling Donie Bush, Chisox chief, a miracle man. But until the season starts and the Pale Hose patrol gets going, he'll have to remain a miracle man without a miracle.

City To Welcome County Athletes For Annual Event

Tigers Favored To Capture Track And Field Title; L. T. Green Is Director General Of Meet

SLATON, March 22.—When the annual Lubbock county track meet opens here next Friday, March 28, the city will be thrown wide open to the visiting athletes from the rural, Class C, B and A schools of the county, it was announced here Saturday by Supt. L. T. Green, director general of the county division of the Interscholastic league.

Local school officials, assisted by the Slaton chamber of commerce, plan to furnish entertainment for the entire group of visitors that come here for the annual event.

All entries for the meet must be in the hands of the county director general by Tuesday, it has been announced. Medals will be offered for first, second and third place winners in all events. A trophy is to be awarded the all-around county champion. No admission fees for athletes or admission charge for spectators will be made, since the local chamber of commerce and board of city development have agreed to look after all expenses.

For the first time in history, Lubbock high school will not compete in the county meet. The Hub City has a scholastic enrollment that exceeds the maximum for schools competing in the first league meet of the season.

Tennis matches will open the athletic competition for the meet Friday morning. Finals in both boys and girls' net contests will be played Friday afternoon. Junior track and field events, including five events, will be run off Saturday morning at the high school grounds. Volley ball for senior girls and playground ball for junior girls and boys is likewise slated for Saturday forenoon.

The feature attraction of the meet will begin Saturday afternoon at 1:15 when the senior track and field meet starts. The 14 regulation events will be run off, both Class A and B, by 4 o'clock.

Although keen competition is expected from Idalou and other strong schools of the county, the Slaton Tigers reign as the favorites in the track and field division.

RAIN HALTS CONTEST

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 22.—A downpour of rain in the first half of the fifth inning stopped hostilities between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League today. The Dodgers were trailing 2 to 1 at the end of the fourth, but were in the midst of a rally, having scored 3 runs, when a halt was called.

Hardest Working Tech Gridster In Spring Camp To Get Trophy

These Rookies Shine in Camp

Two American league recruits whose work in training camp these days is being highly praised are Eric McNair, left, Athletics shortstop "apprentice," and Zeke Bonura, right, subbing at first base for Lou Fonseca, Cleveland batting star who has been ill.

Cawthon Will Give Action Statue Next Month

A handsome action trophy, depicting a football player carrying the pigskin, will be awarded the hardest working member of the Tech football squad during the spring football training period.

Pete W. Cawthon, recently elected director of Tech athletics and head football coach, has sent the statuette ahead to Captain-elect Jack Durham, who has placed the trophy on display at the college administration building.

Seen As Challenge

Coming as a distinct challenge from the hard-working new Matador commander, the award bears the inscription, "Tech's Hardest Worker—Spring, 30."

Coach Cawthon left Dallas Saturday for South Bend, Ind., where he will spend a full week in camp with the Notre Dame gridsters. He plans to arrive in Lubbock on April 1 for the opening of the Matador spring grid camp.

"I hope to get a few extra pointers from the Irish during their spring training session," Cawthon writes.

Will Attract Athletes

The former Austin college mentor has kept in close touch, with the athletic department of Tech during the past two months, making a close study of the needs of the Matadors. Although his assistants will not be known until the latter part of April, Cawthon will likely bring one of down-state colleagues here to aid with spring training work.

A number of promising athletes, some from central and east Texas, will accompany Cawthon here. Although these newcomers will not be eligible for the 1930 varsity eleven, several are expected to make valuable additions to the Matador squad on the following year.

Champions Play 39 Games

Weldon Mason Feels Head Injury

Moist Ball Delivery Past

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, March 22. (AP)—By the time they reach Chicago for the national high school basketball tournament, Coach Jimmy Kitts' Athens Hornets probably will have set a record for number of games played in a season. The national champions have played 39 times, going as far as Trindad, Col., for opposition, and have won all but six of their starts. One of their losses, however, happened to be the Denton Broncos in the state tournament, so they will not return to Chicago as Texas champions. In 39 bouts the Hornets scored 1,301 points to 783 for their opponents, an average of more than 33 points per game. Enroute to the scene of the big tournament the Hornets will play strong high school teams every night, making enough money in that way to pay their expenses.

Mason Feels Injury.

The play that saved a football game for Southern Methodist university last season might have injured the Mustangs chances for a conference title in 1930. Weldon Mason, stellar sophomore halfback, still is feeling the effects of a terrific blow on the head received against the Texas Longhorns. It was in the first play of the game, when Rees, Steer quarterback, broke loose with the kickoff and appeared headed for a touchdown. Mason, coming up from the side and behind, brought down Rees with a desperate tackle just before he reached the goal line. Although he completed the season and scored the touchdown that tied Texas Christian in the title game, Mason never fully recovered from the blow. He still visits the doctor frequently.

Moist Ball Fading.

The spitball pitcher fast is going the way of the dodo bird. Of nine saliva specialists certified when the Texas league banned the moist delivery, only two remain. They are Oscar Tuero, the Cuban veteran, who turned up at the Shreveport camp this spring determined to do a comeback, and Tom Estill, last year with Beaumont, who will splatter 'em across for the San Antonio Indians in the approaching campaign. Last survivors of a once feared tribe, it is doubtful that either will last the season as a starting flinger. Paul Wachtel, given his release by Houston, was expected to show up with some other club in the league this spring, but they say now that he has a good job in San Antonio and has quit the diamond for keeps. Other former spitters who have wandered on to other circuits or hung up their uniforms are Dana Fillingim, Stuart Jacobus, Slim Love, Snipe Conley, Hal Deviney and Ed. Hovlik.

Southwest Texas Teachers college at San Marcos does not believe in phantom coaches. O. W. Strahan, who learned his athletics at Drake university, has been tutoring the Bobcats for 11 seasons and shows no signs of weakening. He has held the same job longer than any coach in the Southwest.

Lamesa Trackmen Run Here Tuesday

Tornadoes Card Five Additional Meets For Season; Team Seeks Revenge On Tahoka Bulldogs

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, March 22.—Since baseball promises to be a flop as far as a season is concerned, the Lamesa high school athletic fans have doubled their interest in the activities of the Golden Tornado track team, which is now in the midst of a healthy season.

South Plains schools have been warned to watch out for the local squad of thinly-clads. Five tough matches are slated on the calendar for the Lamesans before they put their track shoes away in the moth balls. Lubbock will be host to the locals Tuesday, followed by a meet in Big Spring Friday. No date has been set for return engagements with the nearby towns who have already met with Lamesa, including Brownfield, Tahoka and O'Donnell.

Brownfield and O'Donnell both were defeated by lopsided scores, although Tahoka smeared it on Lamesa in an initial encounter. A. G. Bearden, track pilot, claims that his squad was not well seasoned when they ran up against Tahoka, but will pay the latter team back for their trouble at a later date.

Soph Track Candidates Must Come Through for Army to Maintain Pace

WEST POINT, N. Y. March 22.—To maintain his splendid record in dual and triangular track meet competition, marred by only one loss in five years, Leo Novak, coach of the Military Academy thinly-clads, is faced with the task of developing consistent point winners among the sophomores this spring. Nine Army stars were graduated from the team last June.

Included among the 100 candidates working out daily under Novak's direction are Luckst, captain and high jumper and hurdler; Greene, broad jump and hop, step and jump star; Piper, 400-meter low hurdles star, and Lermond, distance ace.

The football team of 1929 is well represented on the squad. Cagle is drilling with the shot; Hutchinson is pole vaulting and throwing the javelin; Messinger and Price work with the shot and discus; Spengler is training for the 440 and Crabb aspires to become a shot putter.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

BY ROY GROVE
Central Press Sports Writer.

Recovering from the sand trap seems to be the dread of all golfers. There has never been enough practice in that department to learn the shot. The professional golfer makes "sand trap practice" his business and after learning the shot, goes for the pin with little fear in his heart, consequently a low score.

The above illustration shows the "clean pitch" from the trap as executed by Bobby Jones. It was due to this shot that he was able to turn in the lowest score ever made in a qualifying round during the British Open three years ago. His second shots were invariably trapped.

Do not try to hit the ball, use the wrist to place the shot.

Constitution And By-Laws Adopted By Committee At Sweetwater Confab; Four Members To Insure Organization

Athletic Rules Similar To Southwest Conference Are Accepted At Meeting; Texas Tech, Canyon And School Of Mines Ready To Line Up

SWEETWATER, March 22. (A.P.)—A constitution and by-laws governing athletics, similar to the Southwest Conference rules, were adopted today by a committee of representatives from Simmons University of Abilene, Texas Technological College of Lubbock, The School of Mines of El Paso and West Texas Teachers College of Canyon. Copies will be mailed six colleges next week for ratification, the list including Sul Ross College, Alpine and the New Mexico Agricultural and Mechanical College, Las Cruces, N. M.

When four colleges have ratified the rules, the conference is to be formed. It is expected a meeting will be held here within two weeks to perfect permanent organization.

Others May Be Invited.

Other colleges may be invited to join the conference and all joining prior to Sept. 1, 1930, are to be known as charter members.

The eligibility rule for players is the same as that of the Southwest conference, with the special exception of the School of Mines at El Paso, where freshmen may play on the varsity squad until Sept. 1, 1932.

The meeting convened this morning and deliberated all day. Eleven representatives of the four colleges attended.

Seek Name for Conference.

Rules are to be prepared for a newspaper contest to select a name for the new conference, with a lifetime pass as the prize for the person whose suggestion is adopted.

Simmons university was the only school represented which was doubtful as to acceptance of the constitution, the other three schools expressing readiness to become members.

W. L. Stangel, of Texas Tech, presided over the meeting today. Other representatives from the Lubbock institution were W. A. Jackson, government professor, and M. T. Warlick, business manager of athletics.

Gates Is Elected Dictator Of Golf

Professional Golfers Association Names Chicago Man Administrator; Will Work For Game

By BASIL WYRICK.
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, March 22. (AP)—Baseball has its commissioner, the movie industry has its general director and now comes the golf dictator.

Albert R. Gates of Chicago, long a leader in official golfing circles today was made administrator of golf by the Professional Golfers' association, an organization of 2,202 leading golf instructors who govern the game in nearly half of the 5,649 golf clubs in the United States. The organization under the administration of Gates plans to enroll all the 3,158 professional golfers in the country and to seek a voice in all affairs of the game.

To Work With Pros

Commissioner Gates and his cohorts, far from planning any revolt from the constituted authorities of golf, such as the United States Golf association will work with those bodies in keeping the game clean and sportsmanlike.

The new arbiter has qualifications gained in heading the Western Golf association four times as president, in 1907 and 1908 and again in 1921 and 1922 as well as in being secretary in 1906. He has been a lawyer for many years and is now a director in three banks. He was president of Calumet Country Club 25 years ago, but is now connected with Skokie Country Club on whose links Gene Sarazen won the national open title several years ago.

Texas Relays Draw Cream Of Nation's Track Stars

Wild Bill Mehlhorn Captures La Gorce Open Tourney

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

TRULY HE'S SUNNY JIM

Gabby Street can rely on one Cardinal athlete giving his best. He's a ballplayer's ballplayer, a likeable character on and off the field, a fellow who can smile when the going is tough or fight light a demon when something ruffles his ordinarily smooth nature.

The National league—or the American league, too, for that matter—has known few better first basemen than Sunny Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals. Jim is the same year after year, always trying hard and always in the thick of the fight. He's known as a good ball player and one that everybody likes.

A few seasons ago, Bottomley was regarded as a serious threat to Rogers Hornsby's batting supremacy in the senior circuit. Then his batting average dropped to .299 in 1926, .302 in 1927, .325 in 1928 and and .314 last year. Some pointed out that Jim had slipped.

TOTAL—NOT THE AVERAGE

I listened to Bottomley's story the other day in Bradenton. His batting averages may have gone down, but I think he's still about the most valuable ballplayer on Sam Breadon's payroll.

"I'd rather knock in two pals with a home run than get three dinky singles with no one on," explained Jim, and his explantion suited me.

Bottomley prefers the grand total measured in team success to the grand total for the individual. He explained it thus:

"I wasn't a fence-buster when I came into the league. I went up to the plate to hit and a single satisfied me as much as a triple. After I got used to myself and had hit a few to the far corners of the lot I decided to go in for slugging. Now I'm in the cleanup position in the batting order, where I have to come through with a long-distance wallop. Home run hitters aren't way up in the averages and there you have the answer. I'm hitting home runs and driving in runs even if my own average isn't much to write home about."

TO CHANGE HIS STYLE

Bottomley figures he'll have to cross up the pitchers this season, his eighth in the National league. Conditions at Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, demand it.

"Many of my homers in the past have been low liners that landed among the pavilion occupants," added Jim, "but this year the new screen in front of the right field pavilion isn't going to do me a bit of good. I don't hit them as high nor as far as Babe Ruth and that screen will be a handicap. This year Jim is fooling the boys—he's going to pick on the open spaces in left field. I'm going to shift my stance a bit and drop a few short flies in front of the left fielder. And another thing, if the pitchers aren't careful what they throw me they'll see me accepting those free tickets to first base. Chick Hafey bats right behind me and he'll hit a round-house or a fast one farther than Jimmy boy."

There is one ball player Bottomley likes to talk about. He's Rogers Hornsby.

"I'm not familiar with the great hitters before my time, but my vote always will go to Hornsby, who can hit slow curves breaking low on the outside into the right field seats, rifle one through the center out to the flag pole on the first hop, or lash a fast ball on the inside against the scoreboard in left field. He does all this without apparent exertion. And boy, that's what I call hitting."

Brilliant Array Of Athletes Will Be In Contests

Sprinting Between Leland, Bracey And Simpson Will Feature; East To Send Stars To Meet

BY CHARLES S. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Hailed as one of the greatest track and field events of the year, the sixth annual University of Texas relays will be run here Friday. Some of the greatest stars the cinder paths have ever produced will be seen in action with more than 1,000 athletes from all parts of the country scheduled to participate.

The University of Texas relays have produced quite a few world records in the past years and with the galaxy of stars entered for the 1930 competition it is predicted that several more records will fall. The list of entries includes champions in many events, 40 universities and colleges and 30 high schools having submitted entry lists with several more predicted before the deadline.

Sprints to Feature.

What is expected to prove the feature race of the relays has been arranged between great tracksters of the north and south. The south will be represented by Cy Leland of Texas Christian university and Claude Bracey, of Rice Institute. The north has entered Simpson of Ohio State university, official holder of the world record in the 100-yard dash, and Ford of Northwestern, who recently defeated Simpson in a special match.

Leland will be remembered for the record he established in past track meets and as one of the leading football backfield men in the country last year on account of his quick starting and tremendous speed and driving power. Officials of the relay previously had tried to arrange a special match between Leland and Jack Elder of Notre Dame university, another track man who starred last season in football and who scored the only touchdown made by the Irish in their game with the Army last year. No entry has been received from Notre Dame, although one may be filed within the next few days.

Other Features Carded.

Several other feature matches have been arranged. One will be a 440-yard run between Robert Greenwade, coach of the San Antonio Junior college; Clyde Blanchard, representing the Los Angeles Athletic club and former captain of the University of Arizona track team and Nelson Greer, former Rice star, holder of the 440 meter A. A. U. championship and 880-yard junior champion of the United States.

An interesting time in the pole vault event also is predicted with Canby of Iowa and Warne of Northwestern, co-holders of the Texas relay title, again entered. Canby also holds the Western Conference championship. Iowa has entered another champion in the person of L. D. Weldon, national A. A. U. junior champion javelin thrower.

The cream of the University of Indiana tracksters has been entered. Among the Hoosier entries are Todd, one of the best all-around track and field men of the nation and especially dangerous in the pole vault, shot put and discus throw, and Shapman, noted long distance runner.

Sentman, holder of the 70-yard indoor low hurdle record has been entered by Illinois while Butler university of Indiana is sending its great star, Burt Nelson, holder of the world record in the high jump indoor competition.

All of the schools in the Southwest conference have entered full teams in the competition. The Texas Aggies, conference champions, are expected to prove especially troublesome to all contenders as they upset the dope bucket in several instances at the 1929 relays and are reported to have an even stronger squad this year.

Risko Will Meet Campolo Monday In Return Match

Cleveland Scrapper To Get Another Shot At Argentine; Odds Even For Johnny To Get Revenge

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—If lightning does strike twice in the same place, Victorio Campolo, the Manana Mauler, will have to start all over again in the fight racket early Tuesday morning.

The gaucho of the Argentine tangles with Johnny Risko in Madison Square Garden Monday night in the heart of the New York State Athletic commission's ballwick. A few weeks ago the solemn solons ruled that the Cleveland spoilers, the iconoclast of the heavyweights, was too small for the six-foot-six Campolo.

But time has changed things since then. Ruled out in New York, the garden took that fight to Florida to bolster the Sharkey-Scott card. Instead of curling up before Campolo's mighty right hand thrusts, Risko turned strictly natural, as he did with Sharkey, George Godfrey and other topnotchers, winding up with a draw that most folks thought should have been a victory.

Johnny has his chance to do it all over again before the New York faithful Monday night, this time for the sake of sweet charity. The card is sponsored by the House of Calvary cancer hospital. The main go is for ten rounds and the odds are about even that Risko will come down in front officially this time.

Braves Slaughter Yankees, 11 to 2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22. (AP)—The Boston Braves buried New York Yankees under an avalanche of base hits today to win 11 to 2.

The two tallies of the Yankees came in the third off Southpaw Ed Brandt, when Koenig doubled and Babe Ruth drove out his second home run of the season.

Definite Settlement of Controversy Over Fred Walker at Texas Expected Monday Night; Shakeup Is Threatened

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Definite settlement of the athletic controversy that has been shaking the University of Texas for the past several weeks, was expected Monday night when the athletic council was scheduled to meet with a special investigating committee appointed by the board of regents.

The controversy has centered around the basketball coaching position held by Fred Walker, whose contract expires this year.

At a meeting of the athletic council two weeks ago, a move to fire Walker resulted in a tie vote, five of the council voting to retain Walker and five voting opposite.

Since that time, a member of the council stated, enough votes have been mustered in the council to retain Walker.

Should this action be taken Monday, it was believed that a shakeup in the entire personnel of the coaching staff might result as two coaches Billy Disch, baseball mentor, and Clyde Littlefield, head of the football and track departments, disapproved of Walker's regime. Disch threatened to resign should Walker be offered another contract by the Longhorn council and has withheld his acceptance of a contract.

Fred Ward Will Train With Owls

HOUSTON, March 22. (AP)—Fred Ward, Jr., of Dover, N. J., whose victory in the first annual national A. A. U. 20-mile marathon here opened a vista that may lead to participation in the 1932 Olympics, has placed himself in the hands of Ernie Hertzberg, Rice institute track coach.

Ward ran the 20 miles in two hours, 12 seconds and beat the veteran Clarence DeMar of Boston.

The runner, who wears the colors of the Millrose A. C. of New York, expects to remain here until the end of the current college season, at least. Hertzberg, his mentor, has coached American and Swedish Olympic teams in the past.

Eight Managers In Six Seasons

SAN ANTONIO, March 22 (AP)—Managers of the San Antonio Texas League club have been plentiful and they have come and gone on short notice in the last six years.

In this respect the Indians claim some sort of record, for eight pilots have directed the club since 1925. Dallas of the same loop, however, is a close second for seven managers have tried their luck during the same period. Waco provides the other extreme in that it has not undergone a managerial shift since it entered the league six years ago.

Brownwood Man's Violin Made Only Of Match Stems

(By Associated Press.)

BROWNWOOD, Mar. 22.—A. G. Strickland, of Brownwood, formerly of Archer City, has a violin made of 3,047 match stems. Strickland used several pounds of wood glue in putting the stems together and he worked at odd times for six weeks.

The neck of the fiddle is hand-carved from a piece of maple wood. Everything about the violin is hand made except the keys, tail piece and strings. Strickland explained that to make the violin he dipped each stem in glue, then placed them together in much the same manner as in bricklaying, that is, one stem was placed to about the middle of the other and then the next filled up the space and so on until the instrument was completed.

Top One Piece

The top of the violin was made in one solid piece after which the sound holes were cut out. The bottom also was made in a solid piece and the sides in three separate pieces. When the parts were finished they were glued together and the whole then was sandpapered and covered with one coat of shellac.

To test the strength of his sturdy fiddle, Strickland has had people stand on it. Musical experts have pronounced it a fine instrument, with a beautiful tone, soft but clear. Mr. Strickland does not play a violin and did not have a model but fashioned his "match" fiddle from the mental patterns of violins he had seen.

The Brownwood man has consistently refused to sell his uncommon instrument. He said he could make another but he might never take the time.

Strickland got his idea from a story his father told many years ago about a life-term convict who yearned to play but did not have a violin or any means to purchase one. The man gathered all the match stems he could find and pieced them together. The result was an instrument from which he produced beautiful tone and which helped him to while away the drab monotony of prison life.

A FLY WEIGHS MORE ON 6 LEGS THAN ON 4

Weight as a force is the result of gravity and is equal to the pressure which a body exerts upon the obstacle which keeps it suspended. The action of gravity varies in proportion to the distance from the center of the earth. The weight of a body will vary in the same manner, and as a result a fly will weigh more when it stands on 6 legs than when it stands on 4.

The French physicist Saussure has conducted some very delicate expepriments bearing on the infintissimal changes in weights of insects due to their posture. He incorporated his findings in his "Monograph on Gravity and Weight."

Annual Auto Show Successful Here

Crowds Fail To Equal Those Of 1929; Dealers Satisfied With Acclaim Given Cars Exhibited

Although final computations show that the attendanne at Lubbock's second annual automobile show failed to exceed the mark established at the 1929 exposition, the doors to the Uptown Dance Palace closed Friday night upon a two-day event which was described as a notable event by spectators who viewed the 1930 motor cars on display.

Final computations reveal that the majority of visitors to the show were local automobile enthusiasts while surrounding trade centers failed to send their usual quota of prospective motorists.

Dealers Satisfied.

The nine dealers represented in the show are pleased, however, with the results of the event, after listening to praise from critics who inspected the 33 vehicles on the floor. A number of sales were reported during the course of the exposition, but the real results will come within the remaining months of the year, local dealers believe.

Speaking for the Lubbock Automobile association, Geo. P. Kuykendall, president of the organization, said:

"We want to express our thanks to the people of Lubbock and the surrounding section for their response to our second annual automobile show. The acclamation that has been given the 1930 models is assurance that our efforts will be rewarded. We feel sure that the show has given the automobile buying public much information on the values that are being offered by the Lubbock dealers."

Local dealers plan to make the automobile show an annual event and plans for the 1931 event will start within a short time."

Turkey Banquet Is Celebration Here

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fluke's home, 1207 19th street, was the scene of a celebration Thursday when relatives met to observe the birthdays of Mrs. Isham Tubbs, Mrs. R. I. Tubbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Fluke, all of whom have birthdays this month.

A turkey banquet was held with beautiful pot plants emphasizing a color scheme of rose and lavendar. Several musical numbers were given by Misses Loys Tubbs and Mary Louise Revier. Mrs. Mary Dean Tubbs played piano selections.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Isham Tubbs, R. I. Tubbs, J. L. Tubbs, C. H. Tubbs, Travis Tubbs, Otto Simms, C. G. Weir, H. H. Ross, H. R. Fluke, E. T. Beard, Mesdames Mary Dean Tubbs, F. F. Revier, Katie Spikes; Misses Loys Tubbs, Mary Louise Revier, Wilda and Wilma Spikes; Stewart Fluke, Carlisle Tubbs and little daughter, Betty Loys, Penner Tubbs, Mildred and Doris Tubbs, Billy Tubbs, C. LONDONER, 88, BROADCASTS

London is claiming that Sir Alfred Yarrow, who recently broadcast over the radio, is the eldest man to talk through a microphone. Sir Alfred, who is 88, and famous as a shipbuilder, is being congratulated on his speech. He is one of England's most active men and takes his outings in an open victoria drawn by a prancing horse.

Capital Debutantes Ride in Style

NEA Washington Bureau

Dues Should Be In By First Of April

All dues and additional dues for members of the Parent-Teacher associations in membership with the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers should be in the State office of the Texas Congress by April first, if Texas is to take the place in the membership ranks with the other states that her size and population should give her, according to Mrs. James Loving, state treasurer in the Texas Congress who is urging the 2000 associations and new associations to send in dues for the 1929-30 school year now if they have not already sent them in and if they have members who have joined since dues were sent in to state, to send the 25 cent per capita dues for such additional members by April first. Mrs. Loving explained that for every bona fide member of the Texas Congress five cents is sent to the treasurer of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which amount makes the state member a member of the National.

1928, Texas had sent per capita dues for 56,235 members, while in 1929, 60,600 members were accounted for, a gain of over 4,000.

"This is a good increase," stated Mrs. Loving, "but our per cent of members based on the estimated population for the year, 5,487,000, is still far down in the list of states. Colorado with an actual number of members less than Texas, 52,359, is the highest on a percentage basis, having a percent of 4.80 to Texas 1.10 per cent."

Mrs. Loving explained that this was not a fair showing for Texas to make and that if every association would send in dues for the members that have joined during the year as well as the dues taken in the first of the year and sent in before November first, the numbers would be more nearly correct and would be more just to Texas.

"It is a question of loyalty, not only to the organization but to the State of Texas," Mrs. Loving concluded, "for each group to want every local member a part of the great State and National movement for child welfare. Each individual member should feel a thrill when she or he is presented with the certificate of membership signed by the national and state presidents as well as the local president of the local body, for the certificate is a tangible evidence that the individual is vitually connected with the nation wide movement for the betterment of children through cooperation with other like minded men and women."

BILINGUAL BROADCASTING

Announcements will be made in English and Spanish at the new radio broadcasting station at Reynosa, which will be the largest in Mexico. The bilingual plan is intended to reach audiences in the United States as well as in Latin-America. Studios will be maintained in six cities of the Rio Grande valley.

Electricity obtained from a lighting circuit operates a small air compressor for spraying paint, the entire device being light enough to be carried in one hand.

Four Eclipses To Appear During '30

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Four eclipses, only two of which will be visable in North America, are scheduled for 1930, Dr. Paul M. Batchelder, adjunct professor of pure mathematics at the University of Texas, has announced. There will be two eclipses of the moon and two of the sun.

The first eclipse will occur April 13 when the moon will be partially shadowed. This will be visable both in North and South America. A central eclipse of the sun is scheduled for April 28 and may be seen in the northern part of the United States and Canada. The first part of this eclipse will be total and the latter part annular.

The other eclipses will occur in October. The first, Oct. 7, will be an eclipse of the moon and will be visable only in Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia. An eclipse of the sun is scheduled for Oct. 21 and 22. The total path will cross the Pacific ocean, touching a few small islands, and will end in the southern portion of South America. Its visability will be confined to the eastern part of Australia, New Guinea and the southern part of South America.

But The Legislature Won't See It!

Thirty Percent Of The Students At Tech Use Library In Knowledge Pursuit—And 'Courting'—Figures Show

WHILE the Texas legislature, which recently refused to approve an appropriation for a library at Texas Tech, may not realize the fact, fully thirty per cent of the college student body crams the inadequate quarters in pursuit of knowledge here, Miss Madeline Canova, reference librarian, reports.

"The percentage of regular users does not exceed that number I'm sure but some students study in the reading room often," Miss Canova reports. As a whole, and in proportion to the number actually taking the courses, Geology majors study more consistently than do other students. The others study by spurts so much so that it is very easily told when exams are assigned.

Books Most Used

"Books are more popular than magazines but not for purposes of entertainment. Professors' assignments account for the number of reference books called for. The magazines and newspapers are read a lot for current news and for light amusement. I don't think that the students are reading as much for pleasure as formerly because the fiction books have been placed in the stacks. When these were in the reading room where the people could browse among them and find interesting ones the demand was greater."

College catalogues, which are kept on a large rack in the reading room, are very popular according to Miss Canova. This type of literature cannot be taken from the main lobby of the library and so is always read in the presence of the librarian.

Some Never Learn

"Some seniors who have been in the college for four years or more do not know how to use the card catalogue," says Miss Canova. "They come to the desk, ask for a book and complain that the filing system used is merely a waste of time. They do not realize that the purpose of the card catalogue is to save time for the student and the library assistants."

Most popular books are kept on the reserve shelf and can be used only two hours at a time. This necessitates either study in the library or some place nearby so that the books can be returned on time.

Two Special Shelves

There are two special shelves in the library which are being furnished by individual classes. One is the American novel shelf, which contains about 300 modern American novels. They are purchased by members of the American novel English class, taught by Professor R. A. Mills. Those who are not in the class can use the books for seven days by paying a fee of five cents a day. The novels are not open to public use at the time the course is offered.

The second special shelf has just recently been started by a Texas history class and holds books dealing with cowboys and early life in Texas. It is expected that other additions will be made by future classes.

Negro Paper Read

All of the newspapers are popular, including the out-of-state ones. "The Houston Informer", a negro publication, is of especial interest to the students.

Galsworthy and Scott are the most popular writers of fiction. "Emily Post's book on etiquette is read often but is not overly popular", said Miss Canova. "I don't think it is read as much as it should be but it is a little too aristocratic for the society of the west."

There is little trouble with the students not bringing the books in on time but once in a while, there will be one, who had rather pay a five cent fine and sleep an extra hour than to get up and bring in a book that is due.

"Courting," according to other library assistants, is almost as popular as is studying. Boys, especially, find the library a convenient place to pause at every table and speak to all the girls they know. Bob Martin, assistant, states that while there just isn't any room for courting in the library, still it is done!

Cotton Irregular; Market On Decline

Reactions Follow Early Advance In Saturday Market

Decline Caused By Week-End Realizing; Rallies On Renewed Covering Come Late In Session

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—Cotton today was rather nervous and irregular. An early advance was followed by reactions under week-end realizing but there were rallies on renewed covering in the later trading. May aftr selling at 15.85 declined to 15.68 and closed at 15.77 compared with 15.78 at the close of Friday, the general market closed steady with March 11 points higher, while later deliveries were 1 to 2 points higher to 6 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 2 points, with the active months showing net advances of about 4 to 13 points. Prices eased, July declining to 15.72 and the new October contract to 15.37 making net losses of about 7 to 10 points on the more active positions. Offerings tapered off at these figures and a renewal of trade buying and covering accounted for the late rallies.

There was very little business in March in which the interest has evidently been very much reduced, and it required only a little buying to send the price up from 15.66 to 15.71 at the close. July closed at 15.83 and the New October contract at 15.43.

Cotton Fluctuates In Active Market

NEW ORLEANS, March 22. (AP)—Cotton was fairly active for Saturday prices fluctuated nervously and without definite trend.

Following a slightly easier opening showing initial losses of 2 to 5 points, the market rallied 4 to 11 points on week-end covering and on reports of a much improved demand for manufactured cotton goods gaining 4 to 11 points.

In the final hour prices turned easier on week-end liquidation losing 12 to 16 points from the early highs but rallied 5 to 7 points at the end, closing a shade net lower for the day. May eased from 15.57 to 15.41, down 16 points and closed at 1547 or 3 points net lower for the day. The general market closed steady net 3 points down to 2 up.

Curtailment of Cattle Receipts Fails To Offset Depression of Beef Trading

Volume of Cattle Receipts Dwindles

FORT WORTH, March 22. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle receipts at Fort Worth during the week have been of dwindling volume with mixed butcher classes, cows and slaughter yearlings forming the bulk.

Well finished 1,273 pound beeves topped at 13.25. Slaughter steers $9.00 - 10.00 ranges. Desirable slaughter yearlings $11.50-13.00. Fat cows $7.50. Low cutters $4.00-4.50.

Best heavy fat calves $11.50. Common grades $10.50.

Very few stock cattle and calves.

Good butcher hogs in carlots $9.50. Best truck hogs $8.85.

Medium to choice truck hogs $8.50-8.85. Choice rail butchers $9.65. Packing sows $7.50-7.75.

Practically no sheep or lambs included in today's livestock receipts and the trade remained nominal.

KANSAS CITY, March 22. (AP)—Curtailment of cattle receipts around the eleven market circuit this week was not been sufficient to offset the depressing influence of a sluggish dressed beef trade. Fed steers and yearlings are off 25c to mostly 50c with spots 75c lower on the better grades as compared with a week ago. Stocker and feeder steers at several markets received a price setback of 25-50c. Receipts 131,000, a decrease of 23,500 from last week and 18,500 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Lighter weights of butcher hogs are closing somewhat uneven, some points showing a 10-15c decline, while at other centers weight averages of 240 lbs. down are 5-15c higher. Strong weight butchers show an advance of 10-20c. Chicago had a late top of 10.80. Offerings 384,000 against 500,927 last week and 567,612 a year ago.

Fat lamb prices during the week under review cashed 25-75c, but values on aged stock for the most part were little changed. Choice light weight fed wooled lambs on the close at Chicago cashed up to 10.65. The week's supply approximated 334,500, a decrease of 13,500 from last week and 82,000 heavier than a year ago.

Wheat Closes Low In Saturday Mart

CHICAGO, March 22. (AP)—Pursuing a general downward course, wheat today closed at the lowest. This action of the market was looked upon as a natural swing of the pendulum succeeding recent sharp upturns. Weakness of Liverpool and Winnipeg wheat, with word of cheaper export offerings from Argentia, and from Australia as well, did a good deal to weigh upon values here.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were heavy, 1 3-8 - 2 1-4c a bushel beneath yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 - 1 1-8c down, oats 1-4 - 1-2c off, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 3c advance.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat, despite likelihood of some reduction of the corn visible supply total on Monday.

Provisions were firm because of steadiness in the hog market.

Warning Made on Dog Vaccination

As a measure to protect citizens against hydrophobia, all dogs which have not been vaccinated and which do not have license tags will be picked up by city officers and killed, beginning April 1, Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, announced last night.

"This is our only measure of real protection," said Dr. Rollo. "We have repeatedly warned against unvaccinated dogs. Within the last few weeks there have been several cases of rabies. Nothing has developed of a serious nature thus far, and we are taking this action to guarantee safety."

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP) — C. V. Terrell, railroad commissioner, and R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, left Thursday night for Pampa, where they will hold hearings on oil proration in the Panhandle. A proration program now is in operation in Winkler, Howard and Yates fields.

Large areas of farming lands are being opened in Argentina.

Bull Movement In Stocks Buried By Sales Landslide

Most Gains Of Two Previous Sessions Are Canceled In Heavy Trading; Tone Is Non-Commital

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP) — The bull movement in stocks was buried under a landslide of sales today which cancelled most of the gains of the past two sessions, and kept the ticker running 52 minutes after the close. Sales were 2,314,900 shares, which was at the rate of nearly 5,800,000 shafes for a full session.

The non-commital tone of the week-end business and trade reviews, yesterday's abrupt end to the period of abnormally easy money, and acute weakness in a handful of isolated stocks, appeared to have shaken bullish confidence.

The announcement of President Carltoon of Western Union that the company was experiencing its least profitable quarter in 15 years, and would not earn the $2 quarterly dividend, was also unsettling, although this was largely due to extraordinary expenses such as costly repairs to trans-Atlantic cables broken by earthquakes. Reports from the Youngstown Steel area indicated aggregate production next week would sag.

ARABS GET DEATH

JERUSALEM, March 22. (AP) — After a month's trial, five Arabs today were sentenced to death for the murder of four Jews in the Arab-Jewish riots at Hebron last summer. They also were ordered to pay $5,000 civil indemnity to the defendants of the murdered men, who were of the Abousbdid and Gouzian families.

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Senator Joe M. Moore of Greenville was elected president pro tempore ad interim of the senate Thursday. The vote was unanimous.

Tech Professors Have Varied Spare Time Hobbies; Reading, Shows, Golf, Riding And Other Recreation Taken

"Whata' we do, whata' we do on a dew, dew, dewey day?" Texas Tech professors do everything from reading to playing dominoes in their spare hours and list all of these activities as "recreations."

Miss Kathryn Harper, cafeteria manager of the college says that she has only three hobbies: painting, growing flowers, reading and writing. She prefers watercolors to oils in painting and is fond of making landscapes, especially of the West Texas sun sets. Last year, in a bed south of the college cafeteria she had a riot of blooming flowers throughout the summer and inside the cafeteria are several baskets of growing things. In her writings she features her work and has had several articles published.

Others Not So Serious

Some of the other women students do not have serious hobbies as does Miss Harper. Miss Lucille Gill, instructor in the English department likes to walk. "I like to walk even when I don't have to" she declared. "I'm learning to play golf and tennis too. I enjoy a good movie occasionally and I like to dance. Most of the time though I am too busy!"

Dr. E. L. Thompson, of the math department declares that he spends the greater part of his leisure time helping students to understand their mathematics. When he is at home he likes to play with the neighbors' dog for his own died recently. Dr. Thompson also enjoys shooting at the Faculty Rifle club.

Learning Golf

Miss Gussie L. Teague, instructor of English, likes to walk. "I like to shop, too," she said, "but most of my shopping is done when I walk to town and look in the windows. I am taking the golf course that is being offered in the physical education department this term and I hope to learn how to play. I sometimes spend a free hour picnicking, either in the canyons or on some nearby ranch."

"My hobbies are three fold," declared Lonnie Langston, math professor. "Golf, tennis and driving my car are all of them. I have two experiences in playing golf that I am particularly fond of telling: one is that the very first hole I ever played was in par and the second is that while I was a guest in New Mexico my host took me over a course where snowballs were used as tees. "I prefer playing singles in tennis to playing doubles. These activities take up most of my time throughout the day and at night I play bridge. The greatest luck I've had in that game was to draw 12 clubs and the queen of hearts. In spite of the fact that my partner bid hearts, I went down one trick on a grand slam bid."

Likes Reading

Mrs. H. L. Farnow, instructor of French, declares that her only recreation in Lubbock is reading. "I would go to the opera if there were any here and I would enjoy riding if I had a horse, but since there is neither at my disposal, I simply stay at home and read. My husband and I have gone to all the Artist Course numbers so far and I have enjoyed them. Sometimes I go to a show but most always I either read a good book or direct plays. Direction of plays takes more time than anything."

Bailey Carroll, instructor in the history department, spends his spare time playing dominoes or making additions to the Tech museum. He is especially interested in securing new things of historical interest for the college collection.

To Award Banner

The School of Agriculture will award a beautiful banner to the school having four teams of the highest average rank in their respective contests. This banner is of black felt, about two feet square, with a red border, a large five-pointed star in the corner of each being a letter of the word Texas, in its center an American eagle, an emblem inside a yellow circle on which is embroidered the words "Vocational Agricultural Contests." Above the star are the words: "Sweepstake Champions," and under it appear "Texas Tech, 1930." This banner was made and donated to the college by the Caprock Uniform and Embroidery company.

Doheny Freed

ed enclosure. They surrounded the Dohenys as they thanked members of the jury for their verdict.

Some jury members wept and one, Emory H. English, who walked on crutches due to the loss of his right leg, sat in his chair and cried when Doheny came over and shook his hand. Leaving the court room, Doheny posed for photographers and sound pictures.

"Of course I am happy," he said. "I am only sorry that the same verdict could not have gone to my friend, Mr. Fall, who deserved it as much as I do."

Fall was tried in the same court. He is free on bond pending appeal.

The jurors refused to discuss what took place in the jury room today other than to say that the verdict had been reached 15 minutes after the jury retired. He said the indictment was read, to be followed with a brief discussion of its terms and no difference of opinion, the jury rested for little more than half an hour before returning to the court room. It was locked up during the trial.

Preference Charged

The government charged that the $100,000 which Doheny sent Fall November 30, 1921, was a bribe prior to the negotiation of a contract for construction of a naval oil storage plant at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. That contract contained a clause which gave the successful bidder, Doheny's Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, a preference to the Elk Hills lease.

Doheny insisted the money was a loan to an old friend in need and testified it was given to Fall without any thought of influencing his official actions regarding the leases.

Complete Revision Of Tariff Measure

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Completing the revision of the complex tariff bill, the senate tonight recessed until Monday for a few parting tributes and excoriations before taking a final vote.

Passage of the measure, which will send it to conference with the house for adjustment of several hundred differences appear certain, although there were some rumblings of discontent tonight with the final handiwork of the legislators. The work was finished at 8:20 p. m.

The last day of the revision saw no important changes in the rate structure or administrative sections. A sixth attempt to gain a tariff on oil and gasoline, now on the free list, failed 45 to 33.

is established in the city, officials have announced that a transport ship would be located here together with a training ship. "We also would offer to aviation enthusiasts a course in gliders," said Smith.

Depends On Airport

A bond issue of $75,000 has been voted in Lubbock for a municipal airport but up to the present time these bonds have been held intact by the city and have not been sold. The establishment of the school and further work on the airline proposition would depend largely upon the city's co-operation in establishing a modern airport.

Lubbock several times has been given consideration as a possible stop by national air lines but due to the fact that no facilities for handling of ships were offered, has been passed up for other cities with modern means. One air line has been proposed from Floydada to El Paso to connect with points of the Pacific coast, but Lubbock has not been able to secure such a connection with no airport facilities.

Messrs. Smith and Omo will remain in Lubbock through Monday and Tuesday and a ship from their company is expected today to make pictures of the city and of the caprock on Monday for local institutions and the local chamber of commerce.

citizens were forced to bury him without presence of his relatives. It would have required one week, at least, to notify his parents and bring them here in time for the burial.

There were no funeral services, because there was no preacher in the town, which then had a population of less than 50 persons.

Cemetery Started.

Caldwell prepared the coffin, an improvised wooden box, and about 15 local citizens went to a tract of land donated by Richard Bandy and buried the body. Thus was the beginning of the Lubbock cemetery.

Inscribed on the stone over Jenkins' grave is the following: "Henry Jenkins, a cowboy, age about 32, died March 10, 1892, and was the first person buried in this cemetery."

Crop Prediction

president of the Post chamber of commerce, means that 1930 will be like 1924—a year of average crop success.

Mr. Duckworth relayed the information to Mr. Stevens and the Avalanche-Journal over the telephone yesterday, with the explanation that had the wind been from the southwest, southeast or west "the South Plains would have been 'a blowed-up sucker'." Had it come from the east or northeast, the territory would "have enjoyed a bumper crop," Mr. Wilborn said.

Faith in Prediction

Mr. Stevens' faith in Mr. Wilborn's crop prognostications dates back to 1917 and 1918, when Mr. Stevens was operating the Citizens National bank at Post, of which he is still president. Mr. Wilborn, for three straight years forecast the crops "exactly as they were," Mr. Stevens says, and since that time he has always relied—and justifyably so, on the pioneer's predictions.

Mr. Stevens pointed out last night that the predictions do not cover rainfall or time of rainfall. "They only cover the year as a whole and I'm relying on Mr. Wilborn," Mr. Stevens stated.

position as either wet or dry.

Hearings Educational

Speaking for the wets, Representative Linthicum, Democrat, of Maryland, head of the house wet bloc, declared the hearings had been "educational."

"The drys failed to shake the testimony of the anti-prohibitionists on the 'horrible conditions brought about by the dry laws,' he said.

"The hearings have educated the people to the racketeering, bootlegging, increased drinking and disregard of law due to prohibition.

"They will force the candidates in the next congressional election to come out in the open to make known whether they are wet or dry."

SEARCH CONTINUES

LAREDO, March 22. (AP)—The search for J. S. Cross, Corpus Christi business man who has been missing more than four weeks, centered in Laredo today with the finding of a hotel registration in the name of J. Cross on Feb. 21.

NOT TO USE POWER

Moody Says Prison Board Not To Take Advantage

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—The Texas prison board will not take advantage of the legislature's "mistake," in empowering it, unintentionally, to spend as it should see fit any portion of the $575,000 penitentiary system rehabilitation appropriation unused on September 1, Governor Moody said in statement tonight.

A paragraph inserted in the conference committee's bill making appropriations for emergency needs of state institutions was interpreted by some as a joker put through by advocates of the Austin-site centralization plan defeated by the legislature when it rejected a removal bill and enacted one renovating existing properties.

Rains Would Be Of Great Benefit To Texas Crops

Past Few Weeks Favorable For Spring Plowing, Report Of Carl H. Robinson States At Austin

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 22. — While the supply of moisture has been sufficient so far, rains now would be beneficial to Texas crop areas, Carl H. Robinson, statistician for the United States department of agriculture, said in a monthly crop report of that department.

The report said that the past few weeks had been favorable for spring plowing and planting and that work had advanced rapidly during that period.

Killed By Cold.

After a considerable acreage of fall sown oats in the north central part of the state was killed by the unusually cold weather of the past winter, most of it was replanted to spring oats, the report said. Wheat was said to have escaped apparently without any serious freeze damage. Robinson asserted that feed requirements had been unusually large through the winter resulting in low supplies of feed on farms and in the importation of feed to many localities.

Land values were reported to have declined in most sections of the state, only a few favored localities showing an increased value. The northwestern district shows the least decline in values, the report revealed. The demand is slow in all sections and few sales are being made, it continued.

Wheat In Good Shape.

"Wheat is in generally good condition," the report said. "It is estimated that 2,927,000 acres were sown in the state last fall compared with 2,710,000 acres in 1928. With average abandonment and average yield per acre about 30,000,000 bushels should be produced. The national acreage is two per cent larger than that of last year. In Texas farm stocks of wheat on March 1 were 6 per cent of the past season's crop compared with 7 per cent on March 1, 1929. The national carry-over was considerably smaller than usual.

"Farm stocks of oats in Texas represent 15 per cent of last year's production compared with a 29 per cent hold-over the previous year. The farm carry-over of oats for the entire country was much smaller than at the same date last year.

"It is estimated that 27 per cent of last year's corn crop remains of Texas farms, which aggregates 23,254,000 bushels of the 86,127,000 bushels harvested last season. A year ago 33,715,000 bushels were on the farms. For the United States, the stocks amount to 989,469,000 bushels compared with 1,021,873,000 a year ago, and 1,125,166,000, the 10-year average on March 1. Less than the usual amount of corn was shipped out of the counties where grown. The percentage of the 1929 crop which was of merchandisable quality was 77 per cent for the nation compared with 83.1 per cent last year and 80.2 per cent, the 10-year average.

"The ratio of farm labor supply to demand is 126 per cent against 114 last year, 116 in 1928, 112 in 1926 and 94 in 1924. Apparently farm operators are doing more of their own work in order to produce crops at the least expense possible."

Rail Construction In West Texas To Start By July 1st

Contracts Closed For Line From San Angelo To San Antonio; New Route Will Aid Ranching Area

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANGELO, March 22.—Actual construction of the Gulf and West Texas railroad, between here and San Antonio, is to start not later than July 1, J. W. Fox, assistant to Pres. R. W. Morrison in organizing and building the railway, has promised here.

Financial arrangements are nearing completion, and full plans for the proper association with existing lines forming a part of the operating unit between here and San Antonio have crystallized, Fox said. The line may be extended to Corpus Christi later.

Mr. Morrison closed contracts with Col H. M. Taylor, San Antonio engineer, to begin the final survey March 15, Fox said. He added that all camp and engineering equipment had been purchased and camp would be set up one and one-half miles north of Waring, on the Fredericksburg and Northern, on the date the survey started. The contract calls for completion of the survey within three and one-half to four months. Mr. Morrison plans to start construction if possible behind the engineers rather than to await the full survey, Fox said.

The new line will pierce a territory rich in ranching interests.

Fred Minor Is To Be Next Speaker

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP) — If any appreciable number of the membership of the house of representatives is returned in the election this fall, it is virtually certain Rep. Fred H. Minor of Denton will be elected speaker without opposition. He had 90 members pledged to him.

Minor is serving his second term in the legislature and demonstrated his ability as a presiding officer during the regular session, when Speaker Barron was stricken with appendicities and forced to spend several weeks in a hospital.

Brownfield Radio Station Will Aid Garden-Lawn Work

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BROWNFIELD, March 22.—The local broadcasting station BFLD, which is of recent construction, has set aside one hour out of the Sunday program for use of the chamber of commerce, to be called civic hour. A quite interesting program has been developed, with 20 minutes of it devoted toward stimulating interest in a yard and garden contest that is being sponsored by all of the civic clubs of the city under the general direction of the chamber of commerce.

The contest is to continue over a period of several months, closing October 15. Three divisions representing property of different values, including vacant lots, has been decided upon and prizes of $25 and $15, will be offered in each class and a fourth division providing for prizes in the same amount are being offered for the neatest and best kept rural school grounds.

Various cleanup and planting campaigns have been staged here in past years, but results secured from them have been of a temporary nature and it is hoped that more permanency can be obtained under the present arrangement as it is the intention of the inspection committee to make periodical visits over the city and grades will be marked upon general appearance which includes cleanliness and neatness of premices.

A determined effort will be made to secure the active interest and cooperation of every resident of the town and in the event that the present contest produces satisfactory results, it will be renewed at the end of the period and run over a series of years to the end that Brownfield and its rural schools may be known as the cleanest and best kept of any in Texas. The city council contemplates a drastic reduction in water rates to apply during the summer months in order that people may make free use of it for securing better growth of trees shrubbery and flowers.

Laws On Fishing In State Given

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—It is unlawful to catch or have in one's possession black bass, white perch or crappie during the months of March and April, whether taken from public or private waters, the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission has announced.

It is pointed out that the completely closed season applying to all waters was imposed by Article 933, which is not changed or modified by any other article of the penal code. It was announced further that Article 951, while prohibiting the use of seines and artificial bait during March and April, makes an exception of artificial lakes not fed by a stream or subject to overflow, but this exception refers only to the method of taking fish and does not affect the state-wide closure on the taking of bass and crappie in March and April.

Legal length of Bass in the open season is 11 inches or more and crappie or white perch seven inches or more.

Mrs. R. S. Rodgers, President, Presents Dean Gordon, Who Presides During Evening; George Smallwood Entertains With Original "Essay On Woman"

VARYING a bit from the usual programs given on that occasion, husbands of members were in charge of affairs at the annual banquet given by the Lu Beta Delphian chapter Friday evening in the Matador ballroom of the Hotel Hilton.

The tables formed a triangle, character of the society, and yellow candles tied with black tulle were arranged in the same manner. The banquet was served in six courses and the program came at the close of the evening.

Variety Seen In Spring Sports Costumes

BY MME. LISBETH

Sports costumes this season are limited to morning or sports wear, according to all the stylists. One is not supposed to wear a suit of the sports type to a luncheon, matinee or afternoon bridge. Even allowing this, there is a wide variety in the new sports models, some so labeled showing much more formality than others.

Cape and bolero themes are noted in these costumes as well on more formal types, and materials also vary. Knitted fabrics and tweeds, prints and silks, all are employed in fashioning suits that go under the pseudonym of sports wear.

The costumes pictured bear out this statement. On the extreme left Miss Ann Meisler wear a tweed suit with short jacket with cape collar that ends at the sleeves in front. It fastens with three buttons and is collarless. The skirt has a slight flare, but is otherwise plain.

Next to her is Miss Katherine Balbus in a yellow tweed coat with lynx collar which is belted at the normal waistline. The third model has more formality than either of the others. It is a green coat worn over a figured dress to match. The model is Dorothy Bendy. The tuxedo revers are unusual, and the general effect of the ensemble distinctive and pleasing.

A simple yellow print dress with lingerie collar and cuffs is worn by the fourth model, Miss Dorothy Burroughs. It has a boused bodice section and faring skirt.

The last two suits, extreme right are simple little printed crepe frocks in sleeveless styling with short matching jackets. They are worn by the twins, Babs and Winnie London who wear with them white felt hats with the new low back.

Simple Ceremony Is Read At First Presbyterian Church, Made Lovely With Tapers, Pink Roses On Altar

Only Members Of Immediate Families Witness Service; Couple To Spend Honeymoon In New Orleans, South Texas Cities Before Returning To Lubbock

AT AN altar made lovely with tapers and baskets of pink roses, Miss Afton Gilkerson, daughter of George Gilkerson, 1715 18th street, became the bride of Charles R. Bacon Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church at Amarillo. Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom witnessed the ring ceremony, read by Dr. R. Thomsen, pastor of the church.

Amarillo is the home of the bride's sister, Dr. Nan L. Gilkerson Blackwell, who entertained Miss Gilkerson and out-of-town guests with a one-o'clock luncheon at the Rose Bowl Saturday.

In a frock of pink chiffon and real lace, the bride was unusually attractive for the ceremony. She wore imported pearls, a hat of pink Baku with a touch of blue, and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and blue forget-me-not showers.

After the service, she changed to a blue ensemble with accessories to match for travelling. The couple left for a motor trip to New Orleans and South Texas cities where they will spend their honeymoon before returning to Lubbock.

Is College Beauty

Mrs. Bacon is quite popular in the younger social circles. She is a graduate of Lubbock high school and a former student of Texas Technological college and of the University of Southern California, Los Angeles. During her freshman year at Tech she was elected one of the most beautiful co-eds on the campus and awarded a full page in the beauty section of La Ventana, yearbook of the college.

Represents Lubbock

In 1928 when the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convened in Fort Worth, Mrs. Bacon was chosen as Lubbock's representative to the meet. She is a member of Las Chapparritas, social club of Texas Technological college.

Mr. Bacon is a former student of Wentworth Military academy and the University of Missouri, Columbia, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Relatives Attending

George Gilkerson, brother of the bride, who is in school at Marshall, and Miss Virginia Bacon, sister of the groom, who is attending Ward Belmont at Nashville, Tennessee, were unable to attend the wedding.

Members of the bride's family who made the trip from Lubbock were George Gilkerson, father, and Misses Voncile and Johnnye Gilkerson, sisters. Those of the groom's family going from Lubbock were John F. Bacon, father, Miss Blanche Bacon, sister, and Mesdames W. A. Bacon and W. R. Adams, aunts.

Upon returning to Lubbock Mrs. Bacon will be honor guest at a tea to be given by Miss Blanche Bacon and Miss Johnnye Gilkerson, at the Country club.

Historical Significance Of Fashions

BY LUCIEN LELONG
Special Cable to Central Press
PARIS

Historically, I believe that the new fashion has become very significant. In introducing my own interpretation of it, I suggested that the future might place this graceful gown—the type gown of the season— in fashion's hall of fame as the gown of the "1930" period.

I have maintained for some seasons that we were evolving a true period fashion—using the word in its real sense and not in the perverted meaning that applies it to some resurrected fantasy of the past, such as the young girl's "robe de style" dance frock. This season brings that evolution to its full flower, and since periods in history or fashion usually take the name of their initial decade years, I expect this gown to be known as the costume of the 1930 period.

Curiously enough, there is a strong historical analogy between 1830 and 1930, a year which named a memorable period in history. The first quarters of both centuries were marked by enormous upheavals—the Napoleonic wars in the early nineteenth century and the great war of the twentieth. Both of these world disturbances were followed by more or less turbulent periods of adjustment, ending finally in the calms of new and settled orders of society.

What in England and America is known as the Victorian era, really had its roots in 1830. Then began the factory age, the development of machinery and of more rapid transit, the application of science to civilization, all the things which characterized the nineteenth century and made the world a different place from what preceding generations of men had known.

It looks now as if 1930 would be also just such an epochal year. There is every indication that during the coming months the world is going to settle into the mold which will characterize the coming mid-century, and may even last into the twenty-fist century. The statesmen of every land seem determined to bring the world into an enduring economic and political peace which will permit civilization once more to make great progress.

But while historically the two dates, 1830 and 1930, present an analogy, in dress fashion they produce a contradition. In our day we flatter ourselves that we have created one of the most beautiful styles ever known; whereas the dress fashions of the 1830's lacked continuity, were arbitrary rather than natural, and, with their voluminous skirts, were, from our point of view, deficient in good taste.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Here's a young man who puts the question of the double standard of morals right up to me.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: 1. Suppose a young man meets a girl and falls for her, but before he can make much progress, is separated from her by a whole continent. The memory of her remains so strong that he does not derive much enjoyment by stepping out with other girls. He plans to return some time but maybe not for a year or two. Would you advise him to step anyhow, just to keep what ease and confidence he may have? Is there any chance of his going stale?

"2. Suppose that a fellow becomes acquainted with a girl and falls for her before he finds that she is engaged? Must he then desist trying to win her hand, or is it honorable to keep right on until she takes the 'I do's?'

"3. In a recent screen play the heroine is supposed to have led a low life before the story starts, but has straightened up. Her father and lover have lived the same kind of life and yet they have an awful fight with themselves before they can forgive and forget her past.

"Why is it so accepted that a young man can go into the very dregs of sin and yet, while he is still there, be accepted by society as a social equal, yet if a girl does the same she is never considered a social equal, no matter how hard she tries to compensate and straighten up? Is not 'What is fair for the goose is fair for the gander here also?

"Do you not think that this idea tempts boys to go and taste of this life rather than helping them to overcome this desire?

"Your interested reader.

"A. Y. M."

To answer your last question first, A. Y. M., this attitude on the part of society at least does not discourage the boys. They know they can pretty well "get away with murder," and that society is even inclined to think a man a bit too good to live if he has not had "experiences," so he does not think it necessary to exercise self-control.

I don't want to be hard on your sex, brother, but I'm afraid the attitude toward women has been largely their doings. Women have been, heretofore, pretty well dependent on men for their bread and butter, not to say cake and ice cream, and have therefore been forced to accept what they could get in the way of husbands, without much regard to quality. Men demanded their wives and sweethearts "pure," no matter what they themselves were, so it meant that a woman was "down and out" when she "sinned."

That situation is rapidly changing. Some think women themselves are growing more lax in their conduct. It may possibly be. It would be a natural reaction, but personally I think they are merely more frank and unfraid in admitting their feelings and "rights." And I believe the time is coming very fast when men and women who marry will both be required to show a clean record. I hope so. No one was ever hurt by self-control, but much misery has come from licentious conduct. Excuse me if I seem to preach.

As to No. 2 question, as I started answering them backward: How would you feel, if you were engaged to a charming girl and were planning on the wedding, and some other fellow insisted on wooing her? Wouldn't you want to "knock his block off?" Well, that's the answer.

Now, No 1. I don't believe many young men would enjoy the life of a recluse just because the only girl was a continent away. You might "go stale," as you say. I believe I would lend the light of my presence to society once in awhile, if I were you, but I would also keep Uncle Sam working to carry reminders of me to "the girl I left behind."

There, I have answered you at length, and, I trust, satisfactorily.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young married woman, have no children. My husband was good until awhile back, and has begun to be so ill and fussy. His father lives with us and he also fusses every time his son does, and says it is my fault, but, Virginia, it isn't.

"Would you advise me to leave and go back to my dad? How would you put in a plea for divorce, just leaving without cause of desertion? How long would it be before I could get one? Is a woman who quits her husband called a grass widow and nagged at and talked about by decent people?

"Dear Virginia, please tell me what to do, as I have cried day and night until I am in a nervous condition, but don't let my husband know this and cannot speak to him without a big fuss, so I keep my mouth shut all the time when the men folks are around.

"A HEART BROKEN WIFE."

Maybe if you opened your mouth and told them just what you think of them it might relieve your feelings and clear the atmosphere. Of course if your husband is ill, that would account for his ill humor and he should see a good doctor and try to get well. Then he would be good natured again. And in that case, too, you should be patient with him and not fuss.

Leaving them for a short time might make them realize how disagreeable they have become, and bring them to their senses. I wouldn't give up my home, if I were you, without a struggle. You might find it was not so pleasant back home with dad, and want to return. Women who are divorced are called grass widows, but I don't believe they are "nagged at" and talked about by "decent people," as you say. People are always sorry for women who are unhappy, and some are always ready to say hateful things, but why bother about that if you have done nothing wrong?

You would have to apply to the court for a divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty or incompatibility, and the length of time you would have to wait for your decree would depend on the number of cases on the docket and on how soon yours could be heard and decided.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, March 22.—West Texas is to be congratulated on having an agricultural college which is liberal enough and open-minded enough to adopt new ideas, according to Ray Yarnell, editor of the Capper's Farmer, who made the above statement while congratulating the Panhandle section on the interest that is being taken in the dairy industry. Mr. Yarnell has been given an invitation to attend the Third Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show at Plainview on April 7, 8, 9 and 10.

Following the suggestion of the Capper's Farmer a number of West Texas counties have established mail order cow testing associations, having headquarters at the Texas Technological college at Lubbock. "CLEAN-UP WEEK"

It has become an established practice in every wide-awake community to clean house in the spring of the year, therefore, A. C. Woodward, mayor of the city of Lorenzo has issued a proclamation designating the period from March 30 to April 5 inclusive, as "Spring Clean-Up Week" in Lorenzo.

In this proclamation Mayor Woodward calls upon every man, woman and child to dilligently observe the occasion by cleaning away all things that menace our safety from fire, or the public health. He also suggests to housekeepers that they begin in the attic and remove everything from the home that has outlived its day of usefulness. And, when that task has been completed, turn attention to the yard, garage and outhouses.

This spring Clean-Up campaign should be carried into every section of the city, and the time to begin preparations for it is now. Safety from fire and disease is a matter of supreme importance. Wherever there is dirt and disorder there is danger. A pile of trash may start a conflagration; a few ill-kept homes, dirty yards or stagnant pools may easily become the source of an epidemic. Let us enter actively into the work, and thereby contribute to the safety, health and happiness of ourselves and our neighbors.

TEXTILE DUTY PASSED

Manufacturers Protected In Tariff Measure

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—To compensate manufacturers using long staple cotton for increased costs due to the tariff of seven cents a pound, recently voted on this product, the senate tonight approved a duty of 10 cents a pound on all products made from cotton of a staple of 1 1-8 inches and over.

The cotton textile rate went through without a word of debate.

Without a record vote, a proposal of Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, for a duty of 4 cents a pound on short staple cotton was rejected.

The 10 cents a pound duty on products made from long staple cotton would be in addition to the duty provided in the bill on such products.

"Yes, ten years ago," he continued "I started having trouble with indigestion and from that time on I have certainly had my share of it. I kept taking medicines thinking I just would get over the trouble but I just kept on suffering. My appetite was no good and I had an awful burning and pains in and about my stomach. I got to where I was disgusted with medicine because nothing helped me. I was blue and despondent, had no ambition and was just getting clean down and out as far as health was concerned.

"I was so miserable I just felt like I must get some relief, some how and when I saw so much in the papers about Orgatone (Argotane) I decided to see if it would do he any good, and upon the recommendation of my friends who had used it, I bought my first bottle. Well it's fine. My awful pain and distress went away before I had finished my first bottle. My appetite is good now, I eat hearty and sleep like a log. I may have gained some in weight too, I don't know, but I do know I feel like a new man, and Orgatone (Argotane) is the cause of it. If any one will inquire I certainly will tell them what this medicine will do. I'm satisfied there's nothing to equal it."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.—I John, iii, 15, 16.

A FOREWARNING

NEARLY four years ago The Avalanche-Journal raised a hue and cry for the appointment of a West Texan on the State Highway commission.

Lubbock newspapers editorialized on the proposition, printed open letters to the governor and exerted every influence possible to bring about representation for this section of the state on the highway board. Whether it came as a result of the Avalanche-Journal's campaign or not, a West Texan, Judge Walter Ely, of Abilene, was chosen as a member of the three-man commission. All looked well and good.

But Lubbock newspapers, along with Lubbock and South Plains citizens, have learned a lesson. They have learned that the mere fact of a West Texan's being on the commission doesn't mean a thing unless that West Texan and his colleagues take recognition of the needs of the South Plains in a highway measure—and act to supply those needs.

In the matter of hardsurfacing, Lubbock and Hale counties have had excellent co-operation from the highway department and commission. But in the matter of dirt highways this section is not being taken care of as it should be.

It will be many years before the South Plains can and will boast of a complete hardsurfacing of its state designated highways. For a long, long time our travelling will be done partially, at least, upon dirt roads—as it has been in the past—and even the most optimistic of the Pollyannas won't claim that the highways of this section are being kept in a satisfactory manner.

Lubbock, and the balance of the counties of this section are paying plenty of tax money into the highway system of Texas and deserve better treatment at the hands of the highway commission than they have been getting. If it takes a hue and cry to get fair treatment from the commission, The Avalanche-Journal proposes to raise it with a gusto which will reach from here to the capitol and back again.

When the time comes to name new highway commissioners this newspaper, and all the help that it can muster, demand and trade for, is going to campaign—not for a West Texan, for the territory is too large—but for a South Plains citizen on that board. Then maybe we'll get at least a portion of the service and treatment of which we are entitled.

POWER PLANTS IN THE HOMES

Summary by the department of commerce of the extent to which domestic electrical appliance are being pressed into service in the nearly twenty million wired homes in the United States is an eye-opener. Hardly thirty years have elapsed since household use of electricity was confined almost wholly to illumination. Now power is rapidly taking the place of human service and lightening domestic drudgery.

The government survey enumerates eleven electric appliances the users of each of which are numbered by millions. The most common of these is found in all but six per cent of the wired homes. The illuminant is now called upon to wash and iron the clothes, clean and heat the house, preserve and cook the food, make the coffee and toast, supply breezes in hot weather, operate radios, clocks, oil burners, sewing machines and health and exercising equipment and wash the dishes. And the end is not yet.

It must be fairly apparent to the producers and purveyors of electricity that practically the only limit to the development of the gold mine represented by more prodigious uses of current-consuming equipment in the home is the limit of the consumer's capacity ti buy. It is price alone that restrains still wider employment of the model electric servant.

PROFESSORS MUST LIVE

It has long been known that some of the best minds and personalities that any university might be proud to have on its teaching staff have been drawn through economic pressure into other fields. Economists have found business opportunities that the necessity of supporting a family has forced them to accept. English professors have been compelled to desert their academic for literary and journalistic posts; chemists and physicists have been tempted away by the research laboratories of great industrial corporations not simply by the chance for more money, but by the chance for more research.

It is true that no one has to go into academic work unless he or she wants to, and those who do considerations of income will not deter or deflect. But teachers must live, and they must live according to a high standard imposed upon them by their social and professional positions.

Many a promising academic career has been ruined or corrupted by the necessity of eking out a painfully small income with extra teaching, extra writing and extra editing which has hampered research and taken the edge off a man's scholastic and teaching usefulness.

In view of these facts putlic approval is given the new willingness on the part of colleges and universities to grant sweeping salary increases to their professors.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

STEWART USES SUBJECT TO ILLUSTRATE HOW POLITICAL PRINCIPLES DISAPPEAR IN TARIFF FIGHT

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Shingles may seem like a dull subject.

Time was when a single shingle could so applied as to occupy a lad's attention for awhile to the exclusion of all else, but that time is past. As an instrument of justice the shingle is obsolete. Even for roofing purposes it is anything but the builder's main reliance that it used to be. Living in a city, away from rural methods of construction, I doubt if I have so much as thought of shingles in years—until the other day.

Reference to them in connection with the tariff debate in the senate was what brought them to mind.

The tariff is a dull subject, too.

Nevertheless, two things, mixed together, sometimes produce a conbination that is entirely different from either of its ingredients, taken by itself.

Shingles and the tariff, mixed, did it in this instance.

It was a mixture, it seems to me, of a sort to interest anyone who suspects that the last few years' increase in his income has not kept pace with the increase in the cost of nearly everything he has to pay for in order to live.

We have a shingle industry in our Pacific northwestern states, and just over the border, on the Canadian side, they also have a shingle industry.

Now, while it is true that houses in this country are not as exclusively roofed with shingles as once they were, the fact remains that a great many of them still are so roofed, and so are a lot of barns and miscellaneous shacks. And naturally the folk who foot the bills like to buy their shingles as reasonably as possible.

Thus there is competition in the shingle trade.

As a general proposition American industries would be at least a disadvantage in competing with foreign industries for American customers, if it were not for the tariff protection which the American industries enjoy, because their cost of production is higher, on an average, than it it abroad.

Such is the argument in favor of our protective tariff system—American producers have to have it or foreign producers could undersell them in their own home markets.

It appears, however, that our shingle-makers felt they were not getting the protection they deemed themselves entitled to. Canadian shingle-makers, they complained, were shipping their shingles across the border, selling them in the United States and cutting like sixty into the American shingle industry's profits.

The American shingle folk presented their plea before the law-makers engaged in framing the tariff bill over which the senate has been struggling for the last few months, and the lawmakers asked them how high a rate they needed to offset the lower cost of shingle-production in Canada.

It was then that this fact came out.

The shingle industry is different from some other industries, in that shingle-production is a trifle higher in Canada than in the United States. The Canadian shingle men undersell the Americans, not because of their advantage, but despite their disadvantage, for the reason that more moderate profits satisfy them than satisfy the American shingle men.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Medical Adviser for Central Press and The Avalanche-Journal.

DIET CAUSING WEIGHT TOO HIGH IN STARCHES, LOW IN OTHER ELEMENTS

Hunger While Reducing

"Dear Doctor: I wrote you some months ago for your pamphlet, and told you that I had weighed 230 pounds, but had reduced by the use of drugs and had by these means reduced my health to zero. I have regained my health and have reduced to 148 pounds by following your instructions. I feel, sleep and look better than I have for the last ten years, thanks to your tried and proved method.

"Now, Dr. Peters, my mother, 58 years old, wants to reduce, but has absolutely no faith in that possibility and speaks of starvation every time I mention calories. She has a fallen stomach and insists that as it has distended, it needs more food than a normal one. She has just returned form a two-year trip in Europe, where she visited several sanitariums for nervous exhaustion, and, she insists on this account she also has to eat plenty. MRS. E."

Contrary to the usual belief, it is not necessary to go hungry while reducing. You may have food longings, yes, for a while, but no actual hunger if the diet is correct. Your mother is mistaken in thinking that she needs a lot of food on account of her distended stomach. Probably her stomach's being so heavy and distended with food is the cause of its being fallen then it may be possible that her stomach is normally lower than others.

On a diet causing such an excess weight naturally she has been getting an excess of starches and sugars, and even though she might have been getting enough vitamins and mineral elements, they have been relatively too low. Holt showed, with children that if an excess of sweets and starches were taken, there was an increased need for vitamins and mineral elements. Now a diet that is deficient in the vital elements is going to markedly affect all of the organs of the body, eventually, including the nerves, so it is possible that your mother's nervous condition may be a partial result of the wrong diet.

Show this answer to mother and see if you can't get her to see the light. And thank you ever so much for letting us know your good results, Mrs. E.

Those who need instructions on how to lose or gain weight may have our Petersizing pamphlet by observing column rules.

Mrs. L. wants to know how one can tell if a doctor is a reputable one or not?

Practically without exception, a reputable physician joins his County Medical society, Mrs. L. It is necessary in order to be a member of the American Medical association. So ring up the County Medical society of your city and ask if the doctor you want to know about is a member.

Miss E: Yes, I would go to another physician. Try to get a competent one this time.

You probably have a cystic condition of the glands of the breast (especially judging from the "dark" fluid which sounds as though there were bleeding) which may need surgical drainage or removal of the cysts. This condition is not uncommon. If it is what I think it is, it is not a cancer, but if neglected may have cancer possibilities.

Mrs. K: We have a pamphlet on the Hygiene of Women which answers your question. See column rules for obtaining it.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Calming, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

The Road To Mandalay!

Murder Backstairs

by ANNE AUSTIN
AUTHOR OF "THE AVENGING PARROT" "THE BLACK PIGEON" ETC.

©1930 by NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DORIS MATTHEWS, lady's maid, is murdered Friday night in a summerhouse on the Berkeley estate by a blow with a heavy perfume flask, and the body, rock-weighted and tied with CLORINDA BERKELEY'S scarf, is dumped into the lake where it is found Saturday morning by DETECTIVE BONNIE DUNDEE house guest, who summons CAPTAIN STRAWN.

MEMBERS OF HOUSEHOLD fall under suspicion. MR. and MRS. GEORGE BERKELEY, who have quarreled over Clorinda's engagement to SEYMOUR CROSBY, close friend of the social secretary, MRS. LAMBERT. GIGI BERKELEY, who sprinkled all persons in drawing room Friday night with perfume from flask presented by Crosby to Mrs. Berkeley and later used as murder weapon; DICK BERKELEY, who, after having been missing all night, turns up while his mother is accusing EUGENE ARNOLD, chauffeur, of having murdered Dick and Doris; WICKETT, butler, formerly in employ of both Mrs. Lambert and Crosby.

Mrs. Berkeley contends she did not see or speak to Doris after 7:15 but is forced to admit she called Doris over house phone about 11:15 from library and told her to await her mistress in bedroom; says Doris was not there. Confronted with the rouged print of Doris's mouth on the bathroom dressing-table mirror, Mrs. Berkeley admits she slapped the maid while dressing for dinner for having said she used "too much perfume"; denies scene took place in bathroom; swears Doris was not there when she (Mrs. Berkeley) came up to bed about 11:40, but collapses when told her daughter Clorinda's scarf was found tied about the murdered girl's legs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

It was Bonnie Dundee who mixed a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia and George Berkeley who staggering a little under her weight, carried the fainting woman to her unmade bed.

"Looks like a confession coming on, don't it?" Captain Strawn whispered as Dundee was hurrying past him to the bell.

But when Mrs. Berkeley opened her eyes and was jerked back to realization by the sight of Captain Strawn bending expectantly over her she did nothing more illuminating than to scream, then close her eyes again, rolling her head distractedly on the mussed pillows.

They left her in her husband's charge smoothly but in the hall Strawn beckoned to a detective doing patrol duty and stationed him in the little foyer between sitting room and bedroom, with instructions to listen at the not quite closed door leading into the bedroom.

As Dundee and Strawn were walking down the broad stairs the latter whispered exultantly: "Pretty good case against her, eh! Wickett took the flask of perfume Crosby had given her to her room between 10 and 11. She says herself she told him to take it up, and I'd bet my shield he did. Perfume gone. Girl in struggle in the bathroom. And the old Tartar admits she slapped the girl around seven o'clock. Tried to be about ordering the girl to go to her room and wait till she came up. Thought her husband would back her up, and nobody else would know. But George Berkeley's a white man, and no fool, either. Wouldn't let her get away with it, would he?" and Strawn chuckled.

They had almost reached the last step and Dundee halted before answering in a low voice.

"There's something a lot—that hasn't come out yet, Chief. Did you catch that about the other bottle of perfume? I'd give a good deal to know the truth about Doris's 'impudence'—exactly what she said to make Mrs. Berkeley slap her. As it is now, I can't see Mrs. Berkeley chasing the girl out of the house, brandishing the flask of Fleur d'Amour, till she caught up with her in the summerhouse, and then cracking the poor thing over the head with it, no matter how impudent Doris had been or how serious their quarrel was, if she was there when Mrs. Berkeley went up for the night."

"Hunh!" Strawn snorted. "You don't doubt for a minute that she was there, do you? You proved that yourself, with the mouth-print on the mirror. The struggle, too. And you saw what a spitfire the old dame is. Got fists like sledge hammers. My chest'll be sore for a week. No telling what a woman like that will do when she loses her temper. Not only was she sore at the girl for 'sassing' her, but she had it in for her plenty about Dick."

"Yes, I know," Dundee frowned. "But—Well, what next? Clorinda?"

"Sure! If she gives us what sounds like a straight story as to how that scarf got into the summerhouse I, for one, am pretty near ready to get out the bracelets for the old lady. Guess I ought to have checked up on the shoes she was wearing last night, to see if there was any of that perfume on the soles, but I didn't want to show my hand too soon. There'll be time for that later, when she's out of the way. The shoes are safe, all right. She can't dispose of them or souse them in benzoin without being caught at it."

They found the two girls, Mrs. Lambert and Crosby lingering at the breakfast table, though no one was eating. Lounging in the arched opening between drawing room and dining room was Detective Payne.

"Oh, hullo, Bonnie Dundee!" Gigi sang out. "Mr. Crosby has been telling us the most gorgeous story about a hunting trip in Africa. He bagged a lion and two tigers—" Suddenly her voice broke, and with it her pretense at gayety. "Have—have you found out who—who killed poor little Doris?" she pleaded.

"Not yet, Gigi," Dundee answered gravely.

"I'd like to have a little talk with you, Miss Clorinda," Strawn cut in. "Come along to the library. The rest of you will please go to the room you call 'the little parlor' and wait till you're called."

Calmly and disdainfully, Clorinda murmured "You'll pardon me?" to Mrs. Lambert, then walked across the dining room with the leisured self-possession of a queen or a manikin.

Gigi watched her wide-eyed, a little brown fist pressed against her mouth. Then before her sister had reached the detectives she was on her feet and dashing after her.

"May I come with Clo?" she panted to Dundee, something much deeper than childish excitement and curiosity in her eyes. Something oddly like panicky fear.

"Go to the little parlor as you were told, Gigi!" Clorinda commanded sharply, her fine black brows drawing together in a frown. "I don't want—or need—your interference."

"It will be all right for Gigi to come along, won't it, Chief?" Dundee asked, turning his head so that only the chief of the homicide squad could see the slow, significant dropping of his right eyelid.

"But no shenanigans, young woman!" Strawn agreed severely, and Gigi linked arms with him, rubbing her bright head against his uniform sleeve before matching step with him as the four moved through the drawing room.

"Now, what's the kid butting in for?" Dundee wondered silently. "She's got something up her sleeve, knows something she's afraid Clorinda will spill."

In the big front hall they came upon Wickett about to ascend the marble staircase, with a silver tray laden with letters.

"Just a minute, Wickett!" Captain Strawn halted him. "Mrs. Berkeley says that she gave you that flask of French perfume to take to her rooms last night. That right?"

"Yes, sir. I was just returning from the library, after showing Mr. Dundee to the telephone there, when Mrs. Berkeley called to me and gave me the flask. I took it upstairs immediately, sir."

"And where did you put it?"

"On Mrs. Berkeley's bathroom dressing-table, sir."

"Did you see anyone in your mistress' rooms?"

"No, sir. There was no one in the sitting room or in the bathroom, the only two rooms I had to enter to dispose as I did of the perfume. I did not look into the bedroom, sir."

"And what time was this?"

"I cant say exactly, sir, but I believe it was between 10 and half-past."

After dismissing the butler, Strawn strode into the library, Gigi's little legs stretching themselves ludicrously to keep in step.

"Will you be seated?" Clorinda asked coldly. Then added sharply: "Don't sprawl all over Captain—ah—Strawn, Gigi."

"Sitting on the arm of his chair isn't sprawling," Gigi corrected her sister cheerfully. "I want to be where I can choke him if he asks questions he shouldn't. Like this!" and she leaned over and encircled the austere detective's big neck with her little brown hands, then laid her flushed cheek against his and laughed wickedly. "You know, being only 15 does have its advantages. Think of all the gorgeous men I can hug before I'm 16 and grown-up, if I work fast—"

"Shut up, Pest!" Captain Strawn roared, but Dundee saw that he was vastly pleased, so pleased that he was not suspicious—as was his young subordinate—of the child's real motives. "Now, Miss Clorinda, I've got a good many questions to ask you, and I advise you to answer them fully and truthfully, or—"

"Don't you have to tell her, 'And I warn you that anything you say may be used against you'?" Gigi interrupted, bouncing on the chair-arm with excitement.

"Your sister is not under arrest—yet," Captain Strawn reminded her, "so I don't have to warn her against incriminating herself."

"But Gigi has warned her, and—the haughty Miss Berkeley is on her guard!" Dundee told himself, sending a narrowed, newly respectful glance at the child, who returned it with wide-eyed innocence.

"Miss Clorinda, when did you last see Doris Matthews?" Captain Strawn began, and Dundee, seated in a big chair with conveniently broad, flat arms, waited with pencil poised over his pad of notepaper to take down the answer.

Clorinda Berkeley had seated herself on a dark-red leather couch, placed under the big double windows which looked out on the west lawn so that her back was to the light. She seemed to be insolently at ease, her beautiful long legs crossed, her hands clasped behind her dark head. But Dundee suspected her of clever forethought in so disposing of her hands that they could not betray her in moments of surprise or tense emotion. The lids were drooping over her magnificent black eyes as she drawled:

"For about 10 minutes just before 11 o'clock, I found her in my room when I went upstairs last night. She was laying out my night things, and waited to—to help me undress."

But Strawn was not yet ready to trap her in a lie. "How did she seem, Miss Clorinda? Unhappy? Worried about anything?"

"Not at all! In fact, she was in an unusually happy mood. She confided to me that she was going out to meet her fiance, Arnold. The chauffeur, you know."

"You did not tell her that Arnold would not be waiting for her, that his services had been required by the Benjamin Smiths?"

"Certainly not, since I did not know that fact until this morning," Clorinda answered cooly. "I went upstairs before my aunt and uncle asked for the use of the car."

"But Doris also told you, didn't she, that your brother had made her promise to meet him last night when the family was in bed?"

The magnificent poise was broken at last. Clorinda Berkeley gasped, started to rise, then sank back against the couch, her eyes closing so that the fan-like fringe of her long lashes made a startling contrast with the sudden pallor of her cheeks.

"Rio Rita" Headlines Lubbock's Weekly Theater Offerings

John Boles, Bebe Daniels Stars Of Colorful Picture

Headliner Begins Showing Today At Lindsey

As Florenz Ziegfeld has "glorified" the American girl, so Radio Pictures glorifies Ziegfeld in its superb spectacle of music, beauty and drama coming to the Lindsey today for four days, "Rio Rita."

All the rich qualities which drew Broadway crowds for 62 consecutive weeks to the Ziegfeld theater have been retained in the film production and to these have been added mobility and magnitude which the stage, even under the direction of a Ziegfeld, could not hope to attain.

Bebe Daniels Stars

Against the most lavish sets yet seen on the screen is played and sung the magnificent drama of the Mexican borderland by Bebe Daniels, John Boles and a supporting cast of hundreds. Mighty vocal choruses, inspiring dance routings and beauty assemblies show for the first time the endless possibilities of the speaking screen.

In the huge cast are Robert Woolsey and Bert Wheeler, crack comedians of the original show; Don Alvarado, popular screen player; Dorothy Lee, flapper sensation of "Syncopation"; Helen Kaiser, Follies beauty; Georges Renevant, Tiny Sandford, Sam Nelson and Eva Rosita. More than a hundred glorious girls, the Pietro Cimini grand chorus of 80 male voices and the famed Radio Pictures symphony orchestra are among other features.

The whole of the second part of the production is filmed in technicolor aboard a sumptuously furnished galleon anchored in the Rio Grande.

In addition to "Rio Rita," "Following the Sun Around," "The Kinkajou" and other of the lovely melodies from the original show, two new songs are heard. These, also composed by Harry Tierney and Joe McCarthy, are "Sweetheart, We Need Each Other," and "You're Always in My Arms."

Ruth Chatterton Will Be Seen In Lindsey Picture

"Sarah And Son" To Start Run Here On Thursday

In much less than a year's time Ruth Chatterton has achieved a position among feminine talking screen stars that is very close to the popular leadership of Clara Bow.

Miss Chatterton's first all-talking screen appearance was in "The Doctor's Secret." Then followed in quick succession, "The Dummy," "Charming Sinners," "Madame X," "The Laughing Lady" and now "Sarah and Son" which will be seen and heard at the Lindsey Theater beginning on Thursday next.

"Sarah and Son" is a story of mother love, showing the deep love of a struggling singer for her baby boy and her tragic pain when her worthless husband steals the child. It shows her mother love frustrated and repressed, only to be revived when operatic success gives her the position to renew the search for her boy. In the end it shows her finding him, in a reunion shared by the man she loves and now can marry.

"The Virginian" Returns For 2nd Showing In City

Screen Classic To Start Friday At Palace Theater

THREE of Paramount's most active and most powerful actors will be seen and heard in "The Virginian," all-talking classic which returns for a second showing at the Palace Theater starting Friday. They are Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian. Each has had phenomenal success in the new medium of talking pictures and each is a great favorite.

Cooper plays the role of the Virginian, Arlen is Steve and Miss Brian is cast as Molly Wood, the school teacher with whom the Virginian falls in love. Walter Huston, veteran of the Broadway stage, and a great movie favorite since his outstanding appearances in "Gentlemen of the Press" and "The Lady Lies," will be heard in the featured role of Trampas, the ring-leader of the cattle rustlers in the play.

"The Virginian," a novel by Owen Wister, was first published in the 80s and it was acclaimed at that time as the great American novel. Many American leaders in literary circles maintain that it is still the greatest American novel ever written. It was rewritten for the stage

"The Gold Rush" Coming To Lyric

In "The Gold Rush" called Charlie Chaplin's greatest comedy, and coming today to the Lyric under a United Artists Corporation release, the world's most famous comedian is seen as a pathetic tenderfoot struggling along with hundreds of others who are in search of gold in the Klondike.

In several sequences it seems an endless line of ragged humanity that is crossing the Chilkoot Pass. A blizzard rages and men are blown about helplessly. They fight on doggedly, as this winding path cut through the snows over a precipitous mountainside, is the gateway to their goal, the Klondike.

Scandalous Story Exposed In "Party Girl" At Palace

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Head Of Notable Cast

The sensational and scandalous stories which lie behind some of the most seemingly respectable business deals of our leading American manufacturing firms, is courageously laid bare in Tiffany's all-talking production, "Party Girl," a Halperin Production, a straightforward exposé of whoopee-girl methods of salesmanship which comes to the Palace Theater Tuesday.

The shameful manner in which these paid "party girls" get wholesale buyers drunk for the purpose of selling them large orders of goods when they are too maudlin with liquor to know what they are doing, is here revealed for the first time.

Wherever shown, "Party Girl" has proven a sensation. Carrying a warning against the underhand methods of these nighthawks of the business world, it emerges as one of the outstandingly significant productions of the year in the cinema industry.

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., heads the notable cast of "Party Girl." Other principals in the cast are Marie Prevost, Jeanette Loff, Judith Barrie, Lucien Prival and John St. Polis.

Evelyn Brent And Clive Brook Here Today At Palace

"Slightly Scarlet" Reported As Big Talkie Hit

SUPPORTED by a remarkably strong cast, Evelyn Brent and Clive Brook come to the Palace Theater today in their first co-starring picture, "Slightly Scarlet." These stars made an outstanding hit in Paramount's first all-talking picture, "Interference." They are tremendously effective in this New Show World talking picture filled with fast action, romantic thrills, dangerous adventure and wholesome laughs.

"Slightly Scarlet" keeps audiences on the qui vive every second. Each new situation is a surprise situation, an unexpected plot twist that's hard to guess. There's not a dull moment in the whole show from the time that beautiful Miss Brent sees handsome Clive Brook in Paris and wishes she could know him. They finally meet, and then the real excitement begins. Each has a secret he dreads revealing to the other.

Author and director have built up a clever suspense angle throughout the story. And yet "Slightly Scarlet" is not a mystery story. It is romance, adventurous romance, in every sense. The tenseness of its situations makes for unusual suspense, however.

Paul Lukas, the graceful sophisticate, is seen in "Slightly Scarlet" in another of those delightful menace roles which have made him so popular with film audiences everywhere. And laughter-provoking Eugene Palette struts and booms in dress clothes. The cast includes Henry Wadsworth, the sailor in "Applause"; Morgan Farley, seen with George Bancroft in "The Mighty"; Virginia Bruce, a beautiful blonde recently placed under contract by Paramount.

The highest suspension bridge in the world has recently been put into operation across the famous Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river. The floor of the bridge is 1053 feet above the stream.

Lifting The Veil Of Time In Lubbock

News Events Of Twenty, Ten And Five Years Ago, Taken From The Files Of The Lubbock Avalanche, Recall Earlier Days In Hub Of The Plains

MARCH 24, 1910

Lubbock's first immigrant train came in last week and brought a crowd of nearly 100 prospectors to this city. The train was met by local citizens who furnished automobiles for the convenience of the visitors.

The old settlers of the Lubbock section are to meet at the courthouse for the purpose of forming an old settlers association.

Williams Selected By Tahoka Again

Body Reviews Accomplishments Of Past Year With Pride; Committees Are Named For Year

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TAHOKA, March 22.—C. C. Williams, secretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce for the past year, has been re-elected by the board of directors of the organization, according to Taylor White, president, also serving his second term.

During the past twelve months, the local body has probably accomplished more than during any other like period in the organization's history. The budget for the next twelve months has been raised, and an intensive program of work mapped out.

Committees appointed by President White are: L. F. Craft, Thelma Greenwade, and L. C. Haney, civic improvements; Chester Connolly, W. S. Anglin, and W. L. Burleson, conventions; D. W. Gaignat, W. O. Thomas, and B. R. Tate, charity; Taylor White, R. E. Shaver, and Thelma Greenwade, fair and exhibits; G. A. Brasfield, L. F. Craft, Claude Wells, G. C. Grider, Chester Connolly, T. J. Bovell, and W. Final Tariff Bill Action Seen Today

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP) — A final drive to pass the tariff bill tomorrow was promised tonight by senate leaders after attempts by both democrats and republicans to keep the senate in session tonight until the measure was disposed of had failed.

At 10 p. m., when an adjournment for the night was taken, a big majority of the individual amendments to the rate sections had been acted upon. Notice was given by factional leaders that several speeches would be made on the bill itself before it is permitted to come to a final vote.

An attempt will be made tomorrow to keep the senate debaters going until a final roll call is reached.

Game Birds and Animals to Have Day In Texas After Years of Neglect by State; Conservation Program Starts

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP) — After years of neglect game birds and animals are having their day in Texas, and that day promises to be a long one.

It was only a little more than 50 years ago, in 1879, that the first semblance of a statewide conservation law was passed. Today a closed season is enforced on practically every bird or animal that attracts the hunter's gun.

Changes Made

Scarcely a legislature convenes that does not make some change in the game conservation statutes. The 41st legislature authorized a game, fish and oyster commission of six men to do the work which one man, the game, fish and oyster commissioner, had been called upon to do previously.

Members of the commission believe that the tide is swelling and that subsequent legislation will be toward further conservation. They already see an increase in the supply of game as a result of past legislation.

First In 1860

The first game law enacted in Texas was adopted in 1860 when Galveston Island closed it season on quail for two years. Nineteen years later the decline of game, if any, had not begun to worry sportsmen seriously for 85 of the state's 252 counties were exempted from provisions of the first general law which gave protection to song birds and forbade the killing of doves and quail during the breeding season.

A tightening of the laws occurred in 1881 when a closed season of five months was established on prairie chickens and on deer, both bucks and does, and a 3 1-2 months closed season on turkeys. This apparently overdid the matter for the legislature in 1883 granted exemptions from all game and bird laws to 130 counties.

Twelve other counties tolerated some of the regulations. Even in 1895 exemptions from some of the laws were claimed by 78 counties.

Season Closed

Laws were enacted in 1903 establishing a five-year closed season on antelope, mountain sheep and pheasants, and forbidding the sale of these animals and of deer or parts thereof. The Audubon societies had been working for the protection of birds and their plumage so the legislature inaugurated a five-year closed season in the traffic of non-game birds and their plumage. Killing of a doe or spotted fawn was made unlawful and the open season on bucks was reduced to the months of November and December, with six as a bag limit. Headlight hunting was outlawed. The killing of turkey, prairie chickens, quail and doves was restricted to the months of November, December and January with a bag limit of 25 of all species combined.

In 1907 the limit on bucks and turkeys was cut to three and the netting or trapping of birds was forbidden. The legislature that year created the game department which was to function as part of the existing fish and oyster commission, provided enough hunting licenses were sold to pay its way.

Licenses Started

The earliest available record of the selling of hunting licenses was in 1910 following enactment of a hunting license law in 1909 which allowed hunting without licenses in the home and adjoining counties. Five thousand licenses were issued the first year.

In 1915 the limit on quail and doves was cut to 15 a day and in 1919 ducks, geese and short birds were given their first protection under state law with a closed season and a bag limit of 25 daily. The season on wood duck was closed for five years. The legislature of 1919 gave the turkey hen its first protection.

These activities, with the constant renewal of closed seasons on antelope, mountain sheep and prairie chickens, further shortening of closed seasons and reduction of bag limits, were steps in the direction of conservation; but they meant little 10 years ago with the department having enough money to place only a half dozen wardens in the field.

Wardens Employed

In 1923, however, the legislature turned over the entire game fund to the department and 45 wardens were employed. Now the corps numbers about 100 and fines for violation of the hunting laws have increased many times.

In 1925 the state began the establishment of game sanctuaries. Land set aside for that purpose has reached about 3,000,000 acres. A committee has been appointed to study the feasibility of creating a game propagation farm. In 1928 the department estimated there were 68,992 does, 19,026 bucks and 96,587 turkeys in the state despite the steadily increasing numbers of hunters.

During the 1928-29 season nearly every third hunter on deer-shooting preserves got a buck. About 65,000 ducks are killed each year on duck-shooting preserves. For 1928-29 approximately 13,371 bucks and 15,638 turkey gobblers were estimated to have been killed.

Game On Increase

Game of all kinds has increased the last annual report of the commission stated. Present laws provide an open season of only one and one-half months on bucks and one and one-half or two months on does. Ducks may be shot only for three and one-half months at most. Quail are protected for all but one and one-half months and the same is true for turkeys excepting a few counties that have a closed season the entire year. The limit on bucks is two a season, does 15 a day or 45 a week, ducks 25 a day or 50 a week, quail 12 a day or 36 a week and turkey three a season. Even squirrels are protected by closed seasons and bag limits.

TWO INDUSTRIES PAY

Poultry And Dairying Are Paying In Lockney Area

LOCKNEY, March 22. (Special) The poultry and dairying industries are furnishing two sources of cash income to the farmers of Floyd county that local merchants say is proving a boon to retail business.

Produce dealers report cream receipts of about 1,600 gallons per week that is bringing the farmer about 90c per gallon. A survey of about $1,200 per week is now being paid out for eggs. Live poultry receipts are unusually heavy for this period of the year. Hatchery men report their plants running to capacity with a good demand for their products.

The Pioneers of Yesterday Visualized Today

When Columbus first gazed upon San Salvador, When DeSoto viewed the Mississippi and called it the "Father of Waters," when Ponce DeLeon struggled through the Jungles of Florida and the "Old South" vainly searching for the "fountain of youth"—yea—even when Balboa climbed a high tree to receive the mighty Pacific's broad expanse, were they visualizing the future of this country? We have every reason to believe they thought of gold and a great empire for the Fatherland. It might be said they were dreamers of Utopia for every pioneer is seeking something better. While these men of old looked upon virgin forests, un-commercialized rivers and mountains with hidden gold, it is necessary that the pioneer today have the same progressive spirit, the same inquisitive nature in exploring the hidden. The great difference today being a change of scenery. It is a case today of exploring the hidden facts of business, and placing into operation the best laws of economics. Visualize the future as it will be, not as it is today.

Acreage Reduction Seen Despite New Plains Farms

Much New Land To Go In Cultivation In Lubbock County

Greater Portion Will Be Put In Feed Crops; Indications Point To Cotton Reduction Throughout Area

More new land will be put in cultivation throughout Lubbock county this year than during any time of the past few years, in the opinion of County Agricultural Agent David F. Eaton.

"Indications are that the great majority of these new acres will be planted to feed," Mr. Eaton declares. "Therefore, if our old acreage is reduced materially, there will be no increase in cotton for the county."

Reduction Will Be Made

Cotton acreage reduction appears to be the rule among cotton farmers of this county, as well as of the entire South Plains, by at least 15 to 25 per cent of present acreage.

There will probably be 300 or more new farms put in cultivation this year, throughout the South Plains area. These new farms will average perhaps 160 acres, making a total of 128,000 acres additional. Not more than 50 per cent of the new land will be put in cotton. Granting there will be 50 per cent planted to cotton, the increase over this section, in new acres, would be only 64,000 acres.

New Acres Give No Increase

With an increase of farms bringing a 10-percent rise in acres under cultivation, and reduction obtaining a decrease of 15 per cent, or 25 per cent, the South Plains would still have a decrease in cotton acres. Out of a total number of acres in this area, of 9,212,161, there are not more than 1,000,000 acres planted to cotton.

Should this section ever plant 60 per cent of its tillable acres to cotton, there would be more than 5,000,000 acres and, with one-third of a bale production per acre harvested the South Plains would be credited with 1,666,666 bales, or approximately one-third of the present Texas total production.

Moser's Visit To Lubbock Postponed

The anticipated visit of C. O. Moser, of Dallas, vice-president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, who was scheduled to be in Lubbock during the past week for the purpose of starting membership work for the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association, did not materialize because Mr. Moser was called to Washington, D. C., it was learned here Saturday.

In a letter from Mr. Moser to Dean A. H. Leidigh, of the Texas Technological college school of agriculture, he stated that he expects to be able to visit Lubbock and the Panhandle-Plains area some time the latter part of this month.

Vernon Gets Headquarters

Before being called to Washington Mr. Moser aided in forming a district organization in division number one, for the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association, with Vernon selected as headquarters. The Vernon chamber of commerce, in order to have that city chosen as the center of organization work for that district, underwrote the cost of organizing it.

The Lubbock chamber of commerce has not declared whether or not that organization will underwrite organization work for this district, but it is known that effort will be made to center everything at Lubbock that is possible, with the aim in view of having this city selected as the concentration point for cotton handled by an eventual separate unit of the American Cotton Cooperative association.

Warning Issued On Too Early Planting

"Until you put away your winter overcoats and heavy clothing, you had better not plant your crops," is the sense of a warning issued by Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state agricultural experiment station here, to farmers of the South Plains.

"Better wait until May," Mr. Jones declares, "before planting field crops on the South Plains. There will likely be a cold spell or two between now and the last of April. The first of May will give ample time and greater surety, besides providing needed moisture from rains ordinarily prevalent the first two weeks of May."

Famous Guernseys Go Under Hammer

WATERLOO, Iowa.—Dominant in the American show rings for 20 years, the famous Guernsey herd of the late Wilbur W. Marsh, Waterloo manufacturer and prominent national figure in the democratic party, is to be dispersed under the auctioneer's hammer.

In 1911 the Marsh barns contained 300 Guernsey cattle, most of them importations. That year, with 10 head, Marsh established a show ring record which, it is believed, still stands unbeaten. At seven major shows, including the national dairy show, the Marsh herd took ever, first place, with but one exception, and championship of the breed. One young calf placed second at the national dairy show.

About the same time Marsh purchased the herd of 42 cattle owned by J. Pierpont Morgan.

U. S. Combs World For Wilt-Resisting Alfalfa

By NEA Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.—Alfalfa, the forage crop king of the United States growing on more than 11,000,000 acres, is seriously ill in spots. The cause is a parasitic disease commonly known as bacterial wilt.

The most promising remedy, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, is to introduce strains of alfalfa that are immune to the disease or at least able to grow in spite of it.

Gather Foreign Seed

H. L. Westover, forage crop expert in the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry, has recently returned from abroad, where he gathered more than 170 lots of seed representing every section in Turkestan, France, Italy, Germany, Poland, Austria, Rumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. In the mountain regions of Asia he also found some wild alfalfas.

Bacterial wilt, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is responsible for a great deal, if not for the larger part, of the trouble that alfalfa growers have experienced.

Whole Fields Die Out

Losses of 30 to 50 per cent of the alfalfa in some of the best alfalfa-growing districts were reported last year as a result of the wilt disease. Whole fields die out in three or four years, whereas a good stand once lived a much longer time.

The disease has remained unbadly diseased plants show signs of the trouble, forage specialists say.

The organisms causing the disease enter the plan through wounds and travel about in the water carrying vessel without apparent injury to the plant. But the entire plant may wilt suddenly on a hot day.

Thus far, says the Department of Agriculture, it appears that the Ladak variety and certain strains from Turkestan and Provence, France, possess some resistanbe to the disease.

Cotton Market Would Pay More For A Better Staple, Says Specialist

Studies now in progress in the Division of Cotton Marketing on the grade and staple of American cotton indicate that cotton growers are not now producing cotton of the various saple lengths in proportion to domestic consumption, says W. B. Lanham of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. They are producing a preponderance of the shorter staple lengths which, of necessity, compete with the short cotton produced in foreign countries, he says.

"American cotton farmers, like the producers of all other commodities, are presumably interested in growing the kind of cotton which they believe will return to them the greatest net profit. Since there is good mill demand for cotton around one inch in staple, it is reasonable to suppose that an increased production of these lengths would return enhanced profits to many growers."

Short Staple Predominates

Of the 14,187,000 bales of cotton which the Bureau of the Census reported as having been ginned from the crop of 1929-30, up to January 16, only about 1,650,000 were 1 to 1 1-32 inches in staple length, according to Mr. Lanham. If the staple lengths from 15-16 to 1 3-32 inches, inclusives, were grouped together, they would represent only about one-third of the entire production. More than half of all cotton produced was 7-8 of an inch or shorter. Inch cotton represented only a little more than half as much as did 13-16-inch cotton. It should be borne in mind he says, that cotton less than 7-8 of an inch in length is not tenderable on future contracts.

"In considering the reduction of cotton production," Mr. Lanham asks, "should we not particularly stress the need for reduction of short-staple production?

"It should be encouraging," he says, "to recall that production of cotton around an inch in length is not restricted to a few limited areas in the Cotton Belt. The studies by the Division of Cotton Marketing show that some inch cotton is being grown in practically all cotton growing sections. There must be, therefore, some other explanation for the production of such large quantities of short-staple cotton.

Buying Practice Is Cause

"Individual growers receive little encouragement to produce anything but the shortest cotton so long as buyers merely roughly average the grade and staple length and buy on this average. So long as this practice prevails, there is little hope that growers will plant varieties producing superior staples. They feel that very short-staple varieties produce more pounds of lint per acre than do varieties producing lint an inch or longer in staple.

"Buyers commonly pay for cotton on the basis of the average quality marketed at a given shipping point. Studies indicate that the average price received does bear some relation to the average quality produced in that district. For instance, recent studies in Texas show that cotton produced ata Henderson, Texas, averaged about 1-16 of an inch shorter than that produced at Hillsboro, Texas. The average price received by the Henderson farmers was about $5 per bale less than the price to Hillsboro farmers."

At the present time, says Mr. Lanham, the difference in price between middling 13-16 and middling 1-inch cotton is $5 to $10 per bale on the spot market.

North Carolina Acts To Stimulate Cotton

RALEIGH, N. C.—A plan for the improvement of cotton by communities and counties has been agreed upon in North Carolina.

Briefly, it calls for use of varieties tested and found adapted, selection of a certain variety for a certain community and breeding of the variety through careful selection and care of seed.

The purpose is to eliminate the weakening influence of several varieties growing in proximity. It is hoped eventually to develop one or more local cotton breeders in each community.

Forty ex-service men have been placed in charge of dusting the 3,000,000 books in the British Museum at London.

Lubbock County To Have Dairy Cattle At Show

Texas Tech, Other Herds To Be Represented With Finest Stock; Quality And Number Increases

Prize dairy cattle from the Texas Technological college herd and from such well-known dairy farmers as Fritz Fuchs, of Abernathy; J. C. Newton, of Idalou, and others, will be seen among those to be exhibited at the third annual Texas-Panhandle-Plains Dairy show at Plainview, April 7, 8, 9 and 10.

In the foreword of this year's premium list and catalogue of the show, W. L. Stangel, head of the Texas Tech animal husbandry department, who is chairman of the association's catalogue committee, has the following timely remarks:

"Livestock development is characterized either by an increase in quantity or an increase in quality of animals. Statistics conclusively prove that an increase in the number of dairy animals has characterized the Panhandle-Plains section of Texas. Advance registry records and the animals exhibited at the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show convinces everyone that quality in dairy stock also prevails.

Section Is Not Satisfied

"This section is neither satisfied with the number nor the individuality of her dairy cows. The Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy association promotes the holding of an annual dairy show at which the individual merits of animals are evaluated. Exhibitors learn that their animals are better than they thought, or not as good as they should be, or that a bull of certain type of breeding can correct the fault that exists in his stock. Immediate steps are taken toward remedying this condition, resulting in further improvement of quality of dairy animals. Exhibitors and patrons of the show also learn who has the best dairy cattle should they be in the market for more foundation animals.

"Livestock shows educate and advertise. The Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show has advertised this section to this state and other states that she is interested in dairying. The show advertises to this section that good cows and bulls are available. The exhibitors and patrons of the show have learned that fitting is necessary to bring out to advantage the characteristics of their stock animals. The latter was forcibly brought out at the Second Annual show as the animals were much better fitted than they were at the first show.

Patrons And Exhibitors Needed

"It takes exhibitors to make a livestock show. It takes patrons to make the exhibitor feel that his exhibit was worth while. Let exhibitors and patrons combine in making the 1930 show the best that has been held."

Lubbock county's part in this show suurpasses the exhibition of dairy cattle. The association's first president, David F. Eaton, Lubbock, county agricultural agent, now serves as a director and member of the executive committee this year. Mr. Stangel is also a director, as is C. E. Merrill.

At last year's show this county sent the largest delegation of any county on the plains to the exposition. It is planned that another large delegation attend in a body at some one day of the show, probably on Jersey day, Tuesday, April 8.

CAROLINA HENS BUSY

Responsibility Of Cooperative Goals Rests With Farmer

Texas Wheat Growers Head Declares Grain Trade Is Opposed To Interests Of The Producer

BY H. J. BOWERS
Professor Of Agronomy
Texas Technological College

At least every wheat farmer of the Panhandle-Plains area is vitally interested in salient points made in the speech of John Manley, of Amarillo, manager of the Texas Wheat Growers association, and director of the National Grain Corporation, at Plainview last Wednesday.

Cotton farmers find interest in Mr. Manley's statements because of the fact that the National Grain Corporation, of which he is a director, is the first of the cooperative marketing organizations created by the Federal Farm Board. Following are a few of Mr. Manley's declarations:

"The grain trade is the most efficiently organized body in the United States. It is a government within a government, and it is a question in its competition with the Farm Board, whether or not it is bigger than our government.

"While the grain trade is efficient in marketing grain, do they look after the producer's interest?

"The cry of surplus has always been heard. There never was a surplus of wheat. Prices are set and maintained according to the buyers of grain futures, or the grain gamblers, and not by supply and demand.

"The policy of the Farm Board is to organize the producers to market his own products the same as big business. The distinction is always made between farmer and business men. If the farmer learns to market his products he will become a business man. The idea is to grow what the market demands, and to the needs of the world's markets.

Grain Men Well Organized

"The grain stabilization organization was organized to protect the cooperatives. Their plan was to buy wheat only from members of the cooperatives. President Hoover was flooded by telegrams from every grain man over the United States because of this fact.

"If the farmers were as well organized, and 7,000,000 telegrams reached President Hoover, maybe they could make as good an impression as the telegrams of the grain men met on February 18.

"Acreage reduction of wheat is not practiced. There are too many crop failures. The Lord will take care of the production. The problem of the farmer is marketing.

Calm Of Class Legislation

"The plea against the farm relief bill is that it is class legislation.

"But does industry not have class legislation under the protective tariff?

"Do the railroads not have class legislation under the Cummins act?

"Do not our labor organizations have class legislation under our immigration laws?

"Don't the banker have class legislation under the Federal Reserve act?

"To be sure. So, it is high time for the farmer to have class legislation and the farm relief act and it depends upon his attitude whether or not this opportunity is to be developed."

Dairymen Cooperate To Oust Substitutes

CHICAGO.—Throughout the corn belt dairymen are meeting to plan a national campaign against the inroads of vegetable oils in the dairy market.

First they propose to set their own house in order. Farmers, they say, have been hurling cocoanuts at their own cows.

Rural tables contributed heavily to the consumption, in Michigan alone, of almost 20,000,000 pounds of butter substitutes last year. At the same time there were 3 per cent more cows on Michigan farms than the year before and 6 per cent more heifers.

Importation of copra and cocoanut oil last year increased the production of butter substitutes some 40,000,000 pounds over 1928, dairymen say.

Leonard Man New Spur School Head

SPUR, March 22.—(Special)— S. Z. Hall, superintendent of schools at Leonard, was chosen by the school board Saturday night, March 15th to fill the place left vacant by R. N. Cluck who goes to Cisco.

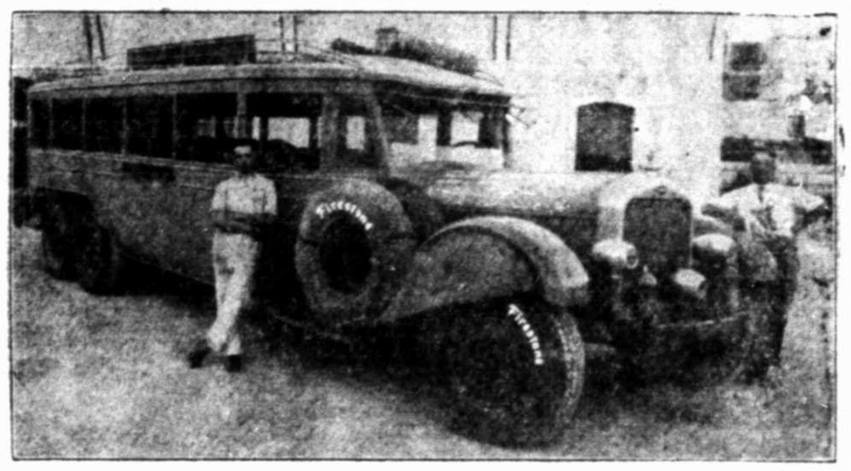
The Spur public schools are classed along with the very best in West Texas. Vocational Agriculture, Home Economics, and Commercial work are among some of the more recent additions to the school curricula. To keep pace in an educational way with the rapid development of a West Texas town like Spur is no easy task.

SPUR NAMES SECRETARY

D. L. Granberry Is Selected To Manage C.C. Affairs

SPUR, March 22. (Special)—The Spur Chamber of Commerce recently elected D. L. Granberry of this city to manage the affairs of that organization for the coming year. An active program of county and city development is outlined by the new secretary. W. B. Lee prominent banker and president of the chamber of commerce accompanied by the newly elected secretary attended the Feeders and Breeders banquet at Fort Worth. It is planned to put some of the things talked about at that meeting into actual practice in the Spur territory. Build the country up and you can't keep the town down, is something of the slogan and spirit with which the chamber of commerce hopes to go about building up the prosperity of the Spur community.

A building, recently constructed in Moscow, is built to represent a wartime tank.



Tire costs nearly drove the operators of this Syrian Desert Damascus to Bagdad bus line out of business, until they started to use Firestone truck and bus balloons exclusively. Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires proved 300 per cent better than the nearest competitor when tests were made.

Ancient travelers on the torrid Syrian Desert would have been amazed if they could have seen this modern passenger and baggage bus booming along at 35 miles an hour over hot, desert sands.

According to Harold S. Gelin of Beacon Master Service Station, Firestone dealer located at Lubbock, the owners of the line were discouraged when they found their tire costs threatening to drive them out of business.

The route runs between Damascus and Bagdad, is 269 miles long and is covered with a mixture of sand and sharp flint. Tires did not last long.

"That is, not until the Firestone dealer in Bagdad told Captain Nairn, managing director of the Eastern Transport Company, to try Firestone truck and bus balloons," Mr. Gelin said.

"Rigid tests were made of leading tires and in the end, Firestone's performance was judged 300 per cent better than the nearest competitor," Mr. Gelin said. The buses are all equipped with Firestone tires now, according to Mr. Gelin.

Mr. Gelin said that the temperature on the Syrian Desert was ordinarily in the vicinity of 170 degrees, a sharp contrast from the present temperatures in Lubbock.

Lubbock Man, Ex-Ranger, Recalls Thrills On Border

Edgar Neal, Veteran Officer, Tells Of Helping Drive Heavyweight Bout From Texas In Perilous Days Of '95

Fitzsimmons-Maher Battle, Chased From El Paso To Rio Grande Island, Was Adventurous Affair

DRIVING a world heavyweight championship battle from Texas boundaries was a unique official gesture of the Lone Star rangers in 1895.

Edgar T. Neal, Lubbock real estate man, and veteran peace officer, was dispatched with about 40 other Texas rangers in that year to frustrate efforts to stage the Fitzsimmons-Maher scrap at El Paso, between Champion "Ruby Robert" Fitzsimmons and Peter Maher.

A $10,000 prize was at stake for the champion. The scheduled event had been widely heralded. El Paso then a sprawling border city of about 5,000 to 10,000 population, was agog with prospects of witnessing the popular Bob Fitzsimmons in action. The city was seething with discussion over the coming fight.

Both pugilists arrived early and installed training camps at the Gateway city.

Culbertson Starts Trouble

Then Governor Culbertson entered into the pre-war publicity. He officially announced that the state law which forbids prize fights would be upheld, and subsequently the rangers were called into service.

Plans for the fight went forward, only mild attention being given the governor's announcement. In due time the rangers arrived.

Boxing fans of El Paso and widely separated cities of the Southwest revolted at the announced purpose of the rangers. It appeared certain that the governor would receive no co-operation from El Paso as a whole. Police were frankly expressing opposition to interference. Notorious gunmen of the border were there with open threats.

It did not appear a safe place even for 40 Texas rangers.

Trains Are Watched

All departures of trains were watched closely. "One night," said Mr. Neal, "a freight car was loaded with supplies. We suspicioned that both camps were moving to another location near El Paso in an effort to elude us.

"In company with Rangers Ira Eaton, Will Smith and 'Friendly' Dubose, I boarded the car for an investigation. The supplies were then sent to Lordsburg, N. M., supposedly as an effort for decoy, because later Fitzsimmons, Maher and their followers went to Langtry, down the Rio Grande valley.

"Many El Paso supporters, by this time extremely indignant, followed. When they arrived the rangers were there. Fitzsimmons and Maher had maintained a calm disposition during the interruption of their plans. A few times I talked to the champion, and he never appeared resentful.

"An improvised platform, roped for the occasion, was built across the Rio Grande in Old Mexico. At last efforts to contest Texas law were abandoned. There was the strangest setting in history of world championship fights. In an isolated, sun-baked region of Old Mexico, separated from any evidence of civilization, a few hundred persons sat on crudely built seats to see a championship decided.

Viewed the Fight

Across the river, on the Texas side, we viewed the fight from our camp. And at that we were as near as many in the present day are able to get through purchasing $5 tickets."

Mr. Neal was a ranger for four years. During that time he never shot a man, because it was never necessary, he explained.

San Saba Sheriff

In 1898 he was elected sheriff of San Saba county. He went to Fort Worth in 1906, but returned to San Saba eight years later and in 1918 was again elected sheriff of the county. He served until 1925, when he was appointed deputy district game commissioner. He served under the latter commission for two years.

Mrs. Neal, who was also a deputy district game commissioner during her husband's commission, is the first woman to hold such a position. She has also edited at various times three Texas newspapers, and until recently has written extensively.

Their three sons, all of whom are peace officers, were born in jail, while Mr. Neal was sheriff of San Saba county. Edgar C. Neal is a theater censor in Detroit and was formerly a patrolman in that city; Tom E. Neal is assistant chief of police at Austin, and Jack Neal is a patrolman in Fort Worth.

Slater Neal, pastor of the Four Square Gospel church, Fort Worth, was graduated from Aimee McPherson's Bible school.

Potts, of Lockney, is the director. Both these men will have entries at the show as will Robert Smith, jr., J. A. Jameson, W. L. Jameson, Albert King, and E. C. King.

Hemphill County To Be Represented

PLAINVIEW, March 22. (Special)—Dairying has developed in Hemphill county to the extent that during 1929 there was marketed in Canadian $120,000 worth of cream and butterfat and continued interest in the dairy industry is indicated by the fact that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a farmer-business men's delegation to the Third Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show at Plainview This information was given by H. V. DeArmont, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, to Maury Hopkins, manager of the dairy show.

A. Wilson, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce. Last year a number of Slaton people attended the show and the interest in that section in the dairy business has increased to a great extent.

Modern Machinery To Be On Exhibit

PLAINVIEW, March 22. (Special) The most modern farm machinery used on the Plains will be displayed at the Third Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show at Plainview on April 7, 8, 9 and 10. This added attraction to the dairy show will be housed in the new armory building that is now rapidly nearing completion. Local dealers have ordered new machinery for the exhibit and are making preparations for the first farm machinery show held in Plainview.

In addition to the armory building, which will be sixty feet wide and one hundred feet long, the machinery show will occupy a space sixty feet wide and one hundred and eighty feet long at the rear of the building.

Canadian And Perryton To Have Delegations

PLAINVIEW, March 22 (Special)—The north portion of the Texas Panhandle will be well represented at the Third Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show by good delegations from Perryton and Canadian. Bah Jove! Poker and Bridge Invade England

LONDON, Mar., 22. (AP)—The card-tables of London are becoming Americanized by the steady increase in popularity of contract bridge and poker.

It is true that the spread of contract has been nothing like so rapid as enthusiasts for the game predicted two or three years ago, but in private houses the query is being asked "auction or contract?" and nine times out of ten the decision will be "let's play contract."

The spread of poker has been accompanied by much less debate. Simply, one finds that more people are playing it, and while the American in London had, a few years ago, considerable difficulty in finding a game, he now can choose among the score or more English homes where he is welcome.

Why does the omelet-recipe say SERVE AT ONCE ?

THE minute an omelet is hot from the pan, it is puffed up, tender . . . at its best. . . . And the minute vegetables are fresh from the garden, all their flavor, all their juice are at their high point.

The way to have white wax beans while they are tender; and carrots when so crisp they cook creamy before they are creamed . . . the way to have all vegetables at their climax-time of freshness, is to pick them from a garden of your own. And the way to grow vegetables approaching perfection is to plant Ferry's purebred Seeds.

These seeds are perfected the way breeders perfect cattle. A Ferry-bred tomato is no more like an ordinary tomato than Ferry's sweet corn is like horse corn. Find Ferry's purebred Seeds at the "store around the corner." And write for Ferry's Seed Annual. This gives you 73 years' experience in gardens before you start—news of mulch paper—and even of better ways to cook vegetables. D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Michigan.

P. S.—THE GARDENER HAS NO SECOND CHANCE. PLANT THE BEST.

Want fresh lima beans with Sunday roasts? Eleven tender varieties are in this Annual. Only purebred seeds can produce their rich, buttery flavor.

Nothing Stops 'Em

Trees Moved To Make Movie

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP) Many fine trees of this locality never know where they will be rustling next.

Duels are fought and love trysts are held beneath them. They weave as man-made wind moans through their boughs and an artificial rain beats down upon them.

These trees are rented by movie firms and society matrons on various occasions. It is not unusual for a tree weighing 12 tons to be shifted within a short time.

"We frequently move trees 30 years old and have moved one that was 120 years old," said W. H. Smitter, nursery manager.

It was Jacquard of Lyons, France, who invented the loom. His neighbors mobbed him because they feared it would throw them out of jobs.

SCAR HOLDS INTEREST

May Determine Future Fate Of Pete McKenzie

SAN ANTONIO, March 22. (AP)—A jagged scar a little more than two inches long and a quarter of an inch deep on the back of John M. "Pete" McKenzie's head will either send him to the electric chair or back to the hospital for the insane from which he came.

In the sanity hearing before Judge W. W. McCrory of the 94th district court for the condemned slayer of Sam Street, chief of San Antonio detectives, the scar has been the center of every hypothesis offered by both state and defense. The case will go to the jury some time Saturday. Arguments of two attorneys were completed Friday night, and others are to speak Saturday. When speeches are concluded the fate of McKenzie will be for the jury to decide.

CHEVROLET

A WISE MOTOR CAR INVESTMENT

Consider a few of the basic facts that make the new Chevrolet Six such a thoroughly sound investment.

It offers a great six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower . . . assuring the smooth, quiet, resilient performance which is so essential in a modern automobile.

It offers the all-weather braking efficiency of internal-expanding, completely enclosed, 4-wheel brakes—big, powerful, quiet and extremely easy to apply.

It offers the modern riding comfort of four long semi-elliptic, chrome-vanadium steel springs—under the cushioned control of Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

It offers the greater beauty, comfort and safety of bodies by Fisher—built of selected hardwood and steel . . . providing thousands upon thousands of miles of quiet, care-free service.

It offers scores of individual features that contribute to the pleasure and convenience of present-day motoring—

—a new Fisher VV non-glare windshield; foot-controlled, twin-beam headlamps; adjustable driver's seat in all closed models; dash gasoline gauge; and safety gasoline tank, located in the rear of the car.

With all these important advancements—coupled with greatly reduced prices for the entire Chevrolet line—it is only logical that thousands are saying every day—"The New Chevrolet Six is a wise motor car investment!"

This trend to EIGHTS is a trend to

HUDSON

The wide, new interest in 8-cylinder cars is another tribute to Hudson leadership. For it sweeps aside the barrier of high premium on eight-cylinder quality. It establishes in this field a new scale of low ownership costs—in price, in operation and in maintenance. It is ruggedly built for long-lasting reliability.

That is why you find thousands of former "Six" owners enjoying its distinction and brilliant performance with better economy than they ever knew. It is why long-time eight-cylinder buyers are turning in great number to the advantages of Hudson's exclusive new type.

It is why this trend, which you see, toward "Eights", is really the public acclaim of Hudson's Great-8.

Come see, and ride in the most modern and advanced of Eights. From whatever viewpoint you regard car ownership—whether rich appearance, distinguished performance or pride of possession—it questions the wisdom of ever paying more for any car. . . .

Brownfield Paving Work Progressing

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BROWNFIELD March 22.—Springlike weather for the past few weeks has aided the paving progress wonderfully and the Panhandle construction company, who has the contract has taken full advantage of the situation and placed every available man upon the work. Five blocks have been completed and opened for traffic and the concrete base placed upon four others.

The program calls for 18 blocks and is of as high a type as is used in the larger cities which will make it as nearly permanent as is possible. As soon as the main street program is completed, work will be commenced on special parking ground that is owned by the county between the main streets and the courthouse lawn and inside of this will be six-foot sidewalks inclosing the lawn.

The object of the county officials in reducing the size of the courthouse square is to allow parking space without interfering with traffic on the main streets. The city will have several thousand dollars remaining after the present contract is completed and are arranging to contract for covering additional territory.
