Area farmers hail grassroots efforts on child labor ruling

Farmers and ranchers in Coke County were thrilled over the U.S. Department of Labor's ruling over child labor earlier this year.

"This was a perfect example of what farmers and ranchers can do when we stand together and speak out," said John Ross Copeland, Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau president.

In April, the Labor Department called off the push to regulate teenagers working on the nation's farms and ranches. Washington labor officials withdrew the proposal after overwhelming outcry from the agricultural community.

John Ross Copeland said the credit belongs to those who made phone calls, wrote emails and letters and testified before Congress in opposition to the agency's proposal to curb youth activities on the farm.

"If you want to know just how significant a unified voice can be, just look at this," John Ross Copeland said. "Safety is the highest priority for every farmer I know in this area. When it comes to our kids, we take it very seriously."

Check Out Coke County Library

Copies of Ladies Home Journal, Country Woman, PC World, Parents, Southern Living, Real Simple, Woman's Day, Prevention, Readers Digest, Red Book, Men's Health are some of the magazines that have been brought to share at the Coke County Library. A stack of magazines can rev up ideas and plans for summer diversions...not to mention provide a recipe or two. The borrowing is free.

Reading in the summer can keep children from losing two months worth of skills. Research shows that students score lower on standardized tests at the end of the summer than they do at the beginning. Parents can keep kids mentally up to date with fun books from the Library. The library provides books for all ages - even toddlers. Summer reading from books that are just-for-fun is a way to keep readers from losing ground at school. Reading is still the most reliable way of keeping the brain in shape.

Also, during the summer, children can enter their names for a drawing for a treat from Rhonda and Judy's each week and a grand prize at the end of the summer of a pizza from Cindy's.

Library hours are Tuesdays, 8-12; Wednesdays, 8-4; Thursdays, 1-5; Fridays, 8-12. Call 453-2495 for information.

Texans must work together to conserve water

The epic drought of 2011 reminds all Texans of the importance of conserving precious water resources, according to John Ross Copeland Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau president.

"Residents of Coke County are well aware of the devastation of this drought," John Ross Copeland said. "Lawns shriveled and died in local towns and crops and pastures burned up in the country."

John Ross Copeland said water needs in Texas stretch well beyond what flows from the tap.

"Water touches all our lives in many ways," he said, "including growing the food and fiber that sustains us."

That's why all Texans must cooperate in conservation efforts, he said.

"Water is the key to the future of the Lone Star State," John Ross Copeland said. "We must work together to conserve and preserve."

Horwood attends Farm Bureau Youth Leadership Conference

Lane Horwood of Sterling City attended the Texas Farm Bureau's 49th annual Youth Leadership Conference held at Tarleton State University, June 18-22. He was sponsored by the Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau. He joined more than 300 high school juniors and seniors from over 130 counties across the state.

The purpose of the conference is to provide the students with a better understanding of their American heritage, the capitalistic free enterprise system, and to inspire leadership development, according to John Ross Copeland, president of the Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau.

During the weeklong event, three areas are emphasized: Patriotism, Responsibility and Leadership. Students discuss topics such as the free enterprise system, constitutional government, Americanism, leadership and goal setting, and are encouraged to meet with school and civic groups upon their return home to share what they've learned.

Tarleton State University President Dominic Dottavio welcomed students to campus at Monday's opening session.

Afterwards, Kenneth Dierschke, president of Texas Farm Bureau, presented "Farm Bureau - Your Host."

James Frank presented sessions on "Basics of Free Enterprise," Ronald Trowbridge, former assistant dean at Hillsdale College in Michigan, presented two-part sessions on "The Constitution," and Brian Starr, an investment advisor, offered advice on "Managing Your Money."

Lou Kennedy, a professional development consultant, led a session on "Professionalism in Life," and Sandra Grant, a communications instructor at Midwestern State University, presented sessions on "Public Speaking Skills." Special presentations were given by Dr. Robert Ehlers on "Keeping America Safe and Prosperous. One Man's Perspective" and Curtis Childers' motivational message of "Overcoming Life's Challenges." In addition, the students participated in a program called "Congressional Insight," which allowed them to simulate a Congressional office and election.

At Thursday evening's banquet, Andrew McCrea, an inspirational speaker and

Oscar-winning broadcaster, shared his personal message of "How to Wrestle Bears and Win!"

Students who complete the Youth Leadership Conference and have given a speech on free enterprise to at least five groups will have taken the first step toward qualifying for the Free Enterprise Speech contest, which awards more than $19,000 in scholarships.

By James R. Jackson
The old saying that "the only thing constant is change" is ever true for the Bobwhite Quail here in Coke County. The common sights of the quail hunters, bird dog trailers and the sight of the covey rise are not as common as in past years, however; due to the spring rains that blessed us this year there may be hope that the sights related to the bobwhite quail may continue to change, and this time may change in a positive direction.

A few of the Coke County landowners have been proactive in trying to continue the changing pattern of the bobwhite quail by working with Texas AgriLife Research by monitoring the quail numbers before and after different habitat manipulation practices that have been done and testing the hypothesis that it could be a disease that is responsible for the population decline. Researchers have also accepted the task of analyzing the Bobwhite's response to the Wildcat fire by conducting call counts and analyzing the composition of the vegetation between the burned and the unburned areas of the wildfire and comparing how this information relates to call counts.

To learn more about the research that is happening in Coke County, gain knowledge about how to improve your quail habitat and learn about other efforts statewide to reverse the Quail decline make plans to attend the Quail Appreciation Day on September 14 in Robert Lee. The topics that will be discussed are habitat management, research updates in Coke County, the Bobwhite Brigade and Quail Habitat Assessment.

For more information please contact the county extension office at 325-453-2461 or email at JamesR.Jackson@ag.tamu.edu.

5th Annual Clay Antilley Invitational Golf Tournament is a Huge Success!

The family of Clay Antilley would like to express our heartfelt thank you to all the family and friends that helped to make the 2012 Clay Antilley Golf Tournament the best one yet! We continue to be amazed at the number of friends and family who came together on June 23, 2012 to celebrate the life of Clay with a long, hot, but fun day of golf, great food, that ended with an auction and dance. This is just the kind of day that Clay would have loved so much. Words cannot express how much it meant to all of us to have all of Clay's friends and family here for a day of celebration. Your continued support of this event means so much to us. Because of this event, in the last 4 years we have been able to give approximately $22,000.00 to Robert Lee High School Seniors in honor of Clay.

A special thank you goes to the following people who helped make this tournament possible: the golfers who without we wouldn't have a tournament; Mountain Creek Golf Course for allowing us to have this tournament there each year and Jesse Flores for all you do in getting the course ready; WEB construction, Edwin Brosh, Cody Brosh, Randy Smith, and all the WEB construction workers for all the hard work you did all week long and for picking up the golf carts in San Angelo; Douglas Roberts, Jack Yanez and all their helpers in preparing the great meals; Rough Creek Band-Stephen Myers, Randy Flanagan, Jim Clendennen, David Sheldon, Douglas Roberts, Scott Smith, and Daryl Copeland for the wonderful night of entertainment and also Kacee Roberts for her big debut of singing at the dance and to Kagen Maxcey for his entertainment; David Bautista for furnishing the ice; Cindy's for preparing the cobbles; Valerie Howard, Judy Millican and Debbie Bennett for providing wonderful cookies and dessert; Kelly Millican, Cindy Cathey and Stasia Antilley for making salads; Sandra Flores for working the clubhouse all day; Clay Allen, Ricky Ross, and Darren Clawson for working the tournament; John Hayes for doing such a great job at the auction; Natalie Clawson and Tracie Allen who worked to get items donated for the golf tournament; and last, to all of my dear friends, too many to list, who helped in getting lunch and dinner ready to serve and helped with the cleanup, thank you so much. Without all of these special people in our lives and in the life of Clay, this tournament would not be possible.

Blessing and Love,
Tommy, Kei, Scott, Julia, Casey, and Christy Antilley
