RAINS FALL OVER SOUTH PLAINS AREA

CROPS ARE TO BE AIDED BY MOISTURE

REPORTS OF HAIL IN SOME SECTIONS ARE RECEIVED TODAY

Rains and showers that are expected to be of considerable benefit, especially to recently planted cotton, fell early this morning over the greater portion of the South Plains area. Continued clouds indicated possibility of additional moisture.

Locally, a wide variance between the state experiment station three miles east of town, and Texas Technological college, west, was shown in reports. The experiment station gauge showed .83 of an inch; the college, .33 of an inch.

Cotton Injured By Winds

Cotton that has come up within the past week or more, was being seriously injured by hot winds, owing to the looseness of the dirt around the tender plant, as well as by the heat. The rain is expected to pack the dirt more firmly about the stem, thus giving it a better chance for growth.

Several reports of hail around Lubbock were made. At the experiment station Don Jones said the hail was light and no damage was done. However, the dropping of the mercury to 64 degrees was indication of some hail over the territory.

Reports Given

Santa Fe reports showed the rain extended from Canyon to Snyder and from the New Mexico state line to Crosbyton.

By stations, reports were: Canyon, eighth inch; Happy, half; Plainview, eighth; Hale Center, half; Abernathy, inch; Lockney, quarter; Floydada, shower; Texico, quarter; Muleshoe and Sudan, eighth; Am-

RETAIL TRADE IS SLOWING

HESITANCY IN GAINS IS REPORTED FOR CURRENT WEEK

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 12.—Hesitancy in the rate of business gain during the current week was noted today in the weekly review by Dun & Bradstreet.

"While the general pace of business has yet to be slowed, there were fewer gains recorded for most branches during the week," it was stated. "Swayed by the varying weather influences, retail distribution was about on a par with its previous level, but failed to hold some of the advantage over last year's showing. . . .

Upswing Is Lost

"As retail trade lost a little of its recent upswing, most of the leading cities reported that the increase over the previous week's sales was held down to 3 to 6 per cent," it continued.

"As a result, the estimated volume of retail sales for the country, as whole, was only 8 to 12 per cent larger than for the 1935 week."

The Weather

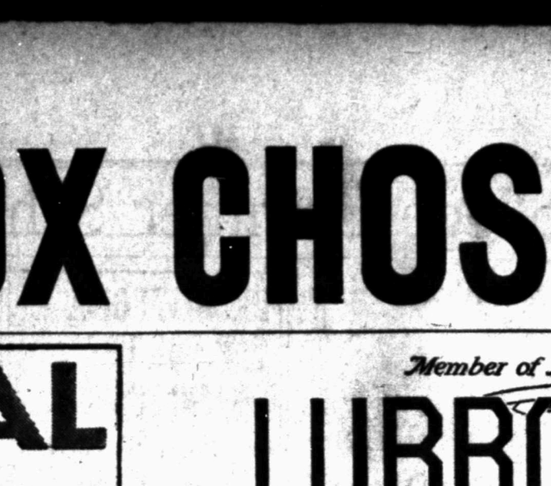

WEST TEXAS: Generally fair, slightly warmer in the Panhandle tonight and Saturday.

EAST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; probably showers on the west coast Saturday. Moderate northeast and east winds on the coast.

BILLIONS FOR VETS IN THE MAILS

Uncle Sam's extra army of postal clerks is working feverishly throughout the country to get millions of bonus bonds ready for registered mail delivery to war veterans by June 16. Right, routing the bonds. Left, the bonds are stacked up like piles of lunch boxes in postoffice storage rooms.

Annual Banquet Set As Program Feature

SPEECHES ARE HEARD TODAY; SESSION TO END SATURDAY

Addressed by D. Leon Harp, state securities commissioner, C. A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Avalanche-Journal publications, and Ray Gill, secretary of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce featured the morning session of Texas chamber of commerce managers as the program was carried through a second day.

A final session with reports from three committees will be conducted Saturday morning with adjournment expected before noon.

Registrations at Hilton hotel, convention headquarters for all activities except luncheons at Lubbock hotel, this morning were approximately 80, including managers and their wives.

Banquet Set Tonight

An annual banquet and dance following is on the entertainment program tonight. W. Roy Christian, director of public relations for the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, will address the banqueters tonight on the topic, "Time Marches On."

President of the TCCM, George S. Buchanan of Marlin, will preside as toastmaster. Ned Bradley and his orchestra will play for the dance in the Hilton ballroom.

Floor Show Planned

Floor show entertainment during the evening has been arranged by Hal Grady, director. On the program are R. C. Matheny, tap dancer; Miss Gloria Sadler, songs and dance; Miss Brunette Beard, songs; Morris Burchfield, impersonations; and Miss Wanda Sue Wilhite, imitations.

Disappearance of security racketeers from activities within the state, the 47th state to enact security protective measures, was stressed by Harp in his talk on "The Texas Securities Law." The topic taken by Gill, "Sucker Money," was in review of money schemes instituted in various towns and cities by other types of racketeers.

Libel Laws Discussed

Methods of publicity and Texas libel laws were discussed by Mr. Guy.

Following a luncheon which began at 12:45 in Lubbock hotel, with George D. Barber of Sweetwater presiding and Carl Blasig of Brownwood scheduled for the luncheon address, a fourth business session will be led by William O. Harwell, of the Kerrville Chamber of Com-

REVENUE PLAN IS ATTACKED

DRIVE AGAINST BOTH OF PROPOSED BILLS LAUNCHED TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A sharp attack directed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States against both house and senate tax bills came today as conferees met again to compose differences in the two measures.

Harper Sibley, chamber president, aimed his criticism particularly against the house measure which would provide a graduated levy up to 42 1-2 per cent against the undistributed corporation profits.

Senate Bill Better

The chamber executive declared the senate bill, which provides for a flat 7 per cent tax on such profits, was to be "preferred, although it also imposes penalties upon reasonable retention of earnings needed for business purposes."

In a letter to all members of the organization, Sibley declared the house proposal "would obstruct industrial growth and the progress of recovery."

County Tax Board Is To Close Work

Members of the county tax equalization board, including County Judge E. L. Pitts, chairman, and the four commissioners, were expecting to conclude their work in that capacity this afternoon.

Few persons have appeared before the board since it convened yesterday morning to adjust taxes with property owners who had been sent notices of a change in valuation.

WPA Song Writer Aids Republicans

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—A musical prediction, "Better Times Are Coming," bearing the imprint, "official Republican campaign song," was disclosed here today as the work of a WPA composer, Perry Bradford, a negro drawing a regular check from the federal theater project.

Bradford said the song had been approved by Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee.

CHIEF VISITS CENTENNIAL AT DALLAS

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN HUGE WELCOME FOR PRESIDENT

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 12—Striking at monopoly and calling for "chiselers" and calling for "Democracy in opportunity" as well as in government, President Roosevelt declared here today the net result of economic control by the few "has meant the ownership of labor as a commodity."

Standing in the packed Texas Centennial stadium, the chief executive also asserted a "lessening of sectionalism" was apparent on every hand and the "good neighbor policy" should be extended across the border to Mexico and other lands so that war may be forever banished from this hemisphere.

Questions Discussed

He discussed national questions freely, as he did in the first set speech of his western tour at Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday night.

"If labor is to be a commodity in the United States, in the final analysis it means that we shall become a nation of boarding houses instead of a nation of homes," he declared.

"If our people ever submit to that, they will have said 'good-bye' to their historic freedom. Men do not fight for boarding houses. They will fight for their homes."

The president led up to his anti-monopoly theme by tracing the history of Texas wars on the battlefield and against corporate control.

"You found," he said, "that cer-

HUGE OVATION IS GIVEN

COWBOY YELLS HEARD AS 400,000 GREET FDR IN DALLAS

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 12 — President Roosevelt rode through showers of ticker tape, cowboy yells and khaki-clad national guardsmen here today to the cheers of some 400,000 persons in his first presidential visit to Dallas.

For four miles, from the union terminal to the huge cotton bowl at the Texas Centennial exposition grounds, the streets were lined with shouting, waving persons.

Greeted By Son

Greeted at the station by his son, Elliott, and Governors Guy Park of Missouri and Richard Leche of Louisiana, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, bearing a huge bouquet of red roses, started the long procession with youthful Governor James V. Allred of Texas at their side.

As the president passed the county jail, inmates pressed against the bars on the four floors and shouted themselves hoarse. A wave of the presidential hand and his famous smile greeted them.

Most Enthusiastic

Down main street he rode, ticker tape flooding his open automobile. Those who have accompanied him on his hurried jaunt through Arkansas and Texas remarked it was the most enthusiastic ovation he has received.

Ten gallon hats waved, straw hats were hurled and typical Texas "yipees" split the air during the 25-minute procession.

The presidential automobile reached the main gate of the $25,000,000 exposition, where for hours packed thousands had been waiting

Parking Meters For Lubbock Authorized

LOCAL CITIZENS ARE SHARPLY DIVIDED OVER QUESTION

Lubbock residents today were sharply divided on the installation of 350 parking meters in the downtown section. City commission meeting Thursday afternoon voted to place the meters as an experiment in controlling traffic.

Opinions Are Asked

Forty persons chosen at random were asked for an opinion on the meters. Fourteen declared they favored the installation, 23 were opposed, two had not reached a decision, and one was willing to try them.

Six of eight women who were questioned were definitely opposed to the plan.

Driving away of rural trade was feared by several persons who opposed the meters. Others were convinced Lubbock is too small to "take on city ways."

Persons who favored the meters said customers would be able to shop with less time and effort and that they would welcome the improvement.

To Sign Contract

The commission authorized Mayor Ross Edwards to sign a contract with Dual Parking Meter company for purchase of the equipment at $58 each. Nickels collected in the meters will be used to pay for the equipment, which will cost about $20,000. Action of the commission followed an explanation of the plan by W. A. Darter, company representative.

The commission did not discuss the areas in which the meters will be placed nor ordinances requiring observance. Consensus was that angular parking would be continued in the section in which the meters are placed.

To Receive Receipts

The City will receive all receipts from the meters until the installation cost, not to exceed $1.10 per meter, is repaid. After that time, the City will receive 15 per cent and the company 85 per cent of receipts until the meters are paid for. The City then will receive all funds.

If the City asks that the meters be removed after 120 days the company will remove them without cost to the city and will refill holes drilled into concrete sidewalks for the equipment. If the contract is terminated by the City, it will retain 15 per cent of the money collected and the company the remainder.

Mayor Edwards emphasized that the installation was as a trial without cost to the City. He said the meters would be installed in the most congested areas downtown. The action, it was explained, was taken after merchants had complained about the parking situation.

President Of Local Firm Death Victim

Ben J. Sibbitt, Wichita, Kans., president of the Lubbock Steel Works and the Sibbitt Iron Foundry at Wichita, died Wednesday after being ill for some time.

Mr. Sibbitt was well known among contractors and architects of Lubbock and this area for many years. Before establishment of the local plant, he shipped steel into this area from Wichita. The two concerns have furnished most of the steel for Lubbock construction during the past two decades.

E. G. Lewis, manager of the local concern, went to Wichita to attend funeral services. Mr. Sibbitt's last visit here was in November, when he spent several days here.

Borah Refuses To Make Any Comment

WASHINGTON, June 12. (AP)—Senator Borah of Idaho who failed of the Republican presidential nomination at the party's Cleveland convention returned today declining to comment immediately on Governor Landon's views on the gold standard.

The senator who reached Washington on an early train went directly to his home saying he would have a press conference early this afternoon.

LOANS ARE TO CLOSE TODAY

NO FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR HOME LOANS OVER NATION

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The federal government today closes the till to further loans on homes, with the HOLC ready to spend the next 15 years getting its $3,000,000,000 back again.

The lending books close officially at midnight tonight and officials of the Home Owners Loan corporation said the "emergency" demand for home mortgage refinancing was over.

Available To Million

The vast sum lent by the agency during the last three years under the home owners loan act of June 15, 1933, was made available to more than 1,000,000 home owners. When the act was passed, officials said, foreclosures had reached a peak of 1,000 a day.

With more than one million accounts to be billed monthly, spokesmen said, the HOLC job is far from finished. The shift from lending to liquidation will require a large staff in 286 offices throughout the nation. The present staff of 16,391 employes represents a gradual reduction from 21,000 at the late 1934 peak.

Homer Atkinson Is Confederate Leader

SHREVEPORT, La., June 12 (AP)—Aged Confederate veterans cooling off after the heated battle over election of officers at their annual reunion here, turned once more to swapping stories of the Civil war today.

The soldiers named Gen. Homer Atkinson, 88, of Petersburg, Va., as commander-in-chief for the coming year to succeed Gen. Harry Rene Lee of Nashville, Tenn.

Foreign Elements Are Being Feared

PARIS, June 12 (AP)—Police acted today to prevent mass demonstrations as officials expressed fear of "foreign elements" in the French strike crisis.

Roger Salengro, minister of the interior, announced his police had the situation in hand after gendarmes arrested persons who refused to "keep moving" and formed crowds on the streets.

Harmony Again Prevails Over GOP Gathering

CHICAGO PUBLISHER IS SELECTED ALMOST BY ACCLAMATION; OTHER CANDIDATES TO POST WITHDRAW AND POWER RESTS WITH KNOX

(By The Associated Press)

CONVENTION HALL, Cleveland, June 12—It's Landon and Knox for the Republicans.

Matching its demonstration of harmony of last night, the Republican convention today nominated almost by acclamation Col. Frank Knox of Illinois for vice-president on the ticket with Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

One of the deciding factors was a caucus which sent the 90 New York votes solidly for Knox. Right up to the meeting of the session, there was talk of drafting Vandenberg but he was adamant.

Echo Of Last Night

The sing sing of the roll call sounded like an echo of the procession of the states to the Kansas governor for the presidential nomination last night.

Michigan cast its 38 for Knox, although a previous announcement had said that state would go for Vandenberg.

The official total of the first and only ballot was Knox 1003, others, none.

Already a formidable candidate, Col. Knox swept into his column state after state after Senator Vandenberg of Michigan had sent a message to the convention asking that his name be not considered as the running mate of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

SESSION ADJOURNED

CONVENTION HALL, Cleveland, June 12. (AP)—The Republican national convention adjourned sine die at 12:14 p. m. C. S. T. today.

Others Withdraw

One after another those placed in nomination against him withdrew. The first to step aside was Walter Edge of New Jersey. He was followed by Governor Nice of Maryland.

Michigan had announced it would cast its 38 votes for Senator Vandenberg, but Chairman Snell read the letter at once saying "this is conclusive," and "I am convinced I can serve more effectively on the floor of the senate during the next Landon administration."

The effect was to increase the strength of Col. Knox for whom many of the party leaders had been working all morning.

Few Others Presented

A few other names were presented, but little attention was paid to the speakers. Virginia was among the several states who seconded Col. Knox to campaign with Governor Alf M. Landon against the New Deal.

The convention was more than an hour late in convening.

Hamilton was recognized and reused cheers at once with a prediction of Landon's election.

Appeals For Harmony

He appealed for harmony in picking the vice-presidential nominee as prevailed last night; and indicated there would be no candidate for the vice-presidential nomination put forth by the Landon people at least until the end of the nominations.

"I hope we will pick a man here who will add to the ticket and will be able to serve as vice-president of the United States with distinction," he said.

"I ask unanimous consent, for that reason, that the state of Kansas be allowed to pass until the end of the roll call."

His request was granted.

Knox Is Offered

The roll call began with Alabama yielding to New Hampshire, and Governor H. Styles Bridges of that state at once took the rostrum to praise the platform as "aggressive and constructive."

"On behalf of my state," he said, "I nominate for the vice-president

Record For Largest Fish Is Defended

V. O. Jennings, one of Lubbock's cotton-buying Ike Waltons, has defended his record for the season's largest bass at Buffalo Springs lake.

Jennings Thursday afternoon landed a 7-pound bass. The fish was about 25 inches long and 6 1-2 inches across. The cotton-buyer has G. K. Taylor, his fishing companion, to vouch for the catch.

The fish is believed to be the largest taken at Buffalo Springs. Jennings largest catch last season was a bass weighing 5 1-2 pounds. No larger fish was taken there during 1935.

Louisiana Solons Convene In Texas

DALLAS, June 12 (AP)—Gov. Richard Leche convened the Louisiana legislature in the cotton bowl at the Texas Centennial immediately after President Franklin D. Roosevelt concluded an address there today.

The body, in official session, considered a bill of congratulation to Texas, its citizens and others involved in the successful presentation of the Centennial celebration of the state's existence.

LANDON PLANS BRISK FIGHT

KANSAN IS TO WAGE AGGRESSIVE DRIVE FOR PRESIDENCY

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kan., June 12—Alf M. Landon picked out a new necktie, took a fighting stance and gathered up the reins on the Republican party today with the avowed determination of leading his followers to victory in November.

"I propose to wage the most aggressive campaign the Republican party has seen in years," the Kansas governor told newsmen shortly before the Cleveland convention unanimously named him its presidential nominee.

Tumult Is Great

The tumult among Topeka's 65,000—when the phrase "Landon nominated" rippled across the wires and through the ether — was unparalleled here since the World war armistice.

In the ear-splitting demonstration thousands threaded their way through the downtown district and surged across the lawn of the executive mansion.

There near midnight, in the eerie glow of klieg lights, and old fashioned political red flares, the governor came to his front porch and bespoke the "good will" of his neighbors.

Emotion Is Displayed

His gray hair slightly rumpled and his face flushed, the governor displayed his emotion in the timber of his voice. He kept his gray, double-breasted suit trim but his

HIGHWAY PATROL OFFICES OPENED

The Lubbock staff of the department of public safety moved into an office in the southwest corner of the county jail building this morning.

Captain W. W. Legge is in charge of the office, which will represent the safety department in 32 counties of this section. Patrolmen working out of the Lubbock headquarters will be Jack Reaves, W. E. Renfrow, W. C. Alder, J. C. Perguson, and Weldon Lawson.

The territory ranges from Farwell, Tulia, and Childress, to Andrews, Odessa, Big Spring and Hamlin.

Captain Legge said that the office's telephone number would be listed as the department of safety.

An opening in the southwest part of the jail building has been made and a sidewalk will be constructed to the door there.

Congregations To Entertain Tonight For Tech College Summer School Group

Receptions To Be At Hall, Churches

Church congregations are holding open houses tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock, for students at Texas Technological college and young people of eight churches. One of the receptions will be held at Seaman hall, 2407 Sixteenth street.

Invitations, which were sent to all Tech students by the churches of their preferences, will serve as bus fare to the churches, the arrangements committee has announced.

The host churches are the First Baptist, the First Methodist, the First Christian, the First Presbyterian, Asbury Methodist, Cumberland Presbyterian, Nazarene and St. Paul's Episcopal. The Episcopal students will be entertained at Seaman hall.

General arrangements are being made by C. H. McNeese, Cecil R. Matthews and R. W. Springer.

Idalou Club To Have Luncheon Here

IDALOU, June 12. (Special)—The Civic and Culture club of Idalou will attend a luncheon at the Lubbock Hilton hotel on June 23. Plans were made when the group met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Bailey Guess. A program directed by Mrs. John Toler included:

Roll call answered by "What I Would Like to See Most in Texas"; "Texas Travel Talks", members; "Little Known Facts of Well Known People", Mrs. Jess Cannon; "Safe Driving", Mrs. J. N. Marks; "In Retrospect", Mrs. N. Kelly.

Guests were Mrs. Bernie Holt of Lamesa and Miss Ruth Matthews of Lovington, N. M. Members present were Mesdames J. C. Barnhart, Appleton Boyd, L. E. Countess, E. T. Daniell, H. M. Lowe, L. A. Peeples, W. B. Shelton, R. L. Steely, Elmer Caddell, Marvin Caddell and J. W. Grimes.

Group Plans All-Day Quilting Party

An all-day quilting party to take place Tuesday in the home of Mrs. A. J. Allcon, 1217 Eighteenth street, was planned when members of the Central Baptist Dorcas society met with Mrs. H. A. Harvey Thursday afternoon.

The society honored an elderly member, Mrs. R. R. Howard, with a shower of gifts. Devotional, opening the meeting, was given by the hostess.

Attending were Mesdames C. C. Jones, V. L. Elliott, A. J. Campbell, W. B. Lamb, R. E. Swain, George Early, J. B. Vickery, J. B. Wages, J. F. Higgins, Allcon, H. T. James, S. H. Elliott, Ralph Thompson, W. L. Atkins and a visitor, Mrs. M. M. Hollingsworth.

The club will meet June 25 at 3 p. m. for a social in the home of Mrs. Campbell, 1218 Avenue O.

Equipment Of Frost Gin Is To Be Modern

W. A. Frost, Of Slide, Will Rebuild Gin Recently Destroyed By Fire; Construction Is Started

Mr. W. A. Frost of the Slide Community reports that after his gin there was destroyed by fire on March 29th, 1936 that he decided he would re-build upon this location with the finest and most modern ginning equipment that could be obtained. Consequently, he spent sixty days in investigating every known make and design of cotton ginning machinery which is now manufactured in the United States, and after an exhaustive study of the needs of his customers, coupled with operating efficiency, he is pleased to announce that he has purchased and commenced the erection of what he believes to be the finest and most modern ginning outfit anywhere.

The ginning plant proper is now being manufactured by a famous gin manufacturing company, which has been in the business since 18'9, and many modern engineering features will be incorporated in this outfit. Fine Sample, Proper Spinning Preparation, Clean Seed, Good Turnout, Freedom from repairs and Shut-downs, Sufficient Capacity, etc., were all taken into consideration before Mr. Frost placed his orders and the Slide Community will be able to boast of the "Best in the West", when this gin is completed, which should be around July 15th.

Fireproof steel buildings will house the machinery and a 160 H. P. Diesel Engine will furnish the power.

Everyone interested is invited to visit Mr. Frst's plant at any time. (adv.)

When Helen Topping Miller Comes To Town She Brings Along Her Notebook

Because she works at her writing daily, Mrs. Helen Topping Miller, Dallas novelist, brings along her notebook when she goes with her husband, Roger Miller, manager of the southwestern division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to conventions. She arrived in Lubbock Wednesday night.

Thursday afternoon the hazel-eyed woman, whose medium brown hair is graying, was gracious in granting an hour's interview, but she didn't want to waste time for a soft drink because she had set a goal of 1,000 words for the afternoon on a novel that will appear in serial numbers in Good Housekeeping magazine. She doesn't confine herself to this everyday, but she does have system about her writing.

She is the most approachable person one can imagine. Perhaps the secret lies in her honest confession that to save her life she cannot see why she should be considered "famous" because she has gained appreciable success with her writing.

Busy With Deadline

Right now Mrs. Miller is behind with her deadline and before long the artist will be complaining because as a rule he is more temperamental than the author, she has discovered through years of writing.

Mrs. Miller has a novel, "Love Comes Last," running in current Ladies Home Journals and another, "Let Me Die Tuesday," has just ended in the Good Housekeeping magazine. She usually writes two serials a year and five or six short stories.

Asked, "Do you have advice for aspiring writers?" Mrs. Miller smiled, thinking perhaps of the hundreds of persons who have told her they feel sure they could turn out "bang-up" fiction if they could only find time to write.

Gift Is Necessary

"Yes," she said. "It's this: If you want to write you'll do it, provided you have a gift for it."

"I tell young people that they should not become discouraged because they do not sell, their first manuscript. What if an artist stopped with his first crude painting?"

An editor in a current magazine quoted Mrs. Miller: "Always I have loved to write. The musical cadence of words fascinated me as the liquid arpeggios of music thrilled my talented mother."

Among the compliments of which the novelist is most proud are those from her readers congratulating her upon the gentility of her characters, because, as she points out, "there is a world of trash being written and read now-a-days."

Writing Not Easy

Writing a novel isn't the snap it is considered to be by the aspirant. For instance, Mrs. Miller writes longhand, turning her pages over to a typist. There's the matter of titles, sometimes changed by the editor. An example is "Love Comes Last," which its author had titled "Between March and April."

And finally there's the matter of illustrations. Sometimes the artist pictures the characters as visualized by the writer; other times he fails and, in either case, the writer has nothing to say about it.

Is Good Mother

During the years that she has been writing, Mrs. Miller, who by the way is a former newspaper woman, has taken intervals out to mother a son, Eugene, a tall red-haired boy who is here with his father attending the convention, and to rear several children, "who needed homes."

Before the interview was over, Mr. Miller came by to speak to his wife. He is a tall, nice looking gray-haired man whose face still bears traces of an illness of five months ago, after which he was cautioned by doctors "to take it easy."—F. M. T.

Needlecraft club will attend a picnic on June 25 at City park. The outing was planned when the club met with Mrs. Tom B. Cox, 607 Avenue M, Thursday afternoon.

PROBLEM OF A CAR FOR USE OF FDR SOLVED

DALLAS, June 12 (AP)—Obtaining a seven-passenger touring car for the use of President Roosevelt today presented a ticklish problem, but Police Chief Robert Jones finally solved it.

He took the flaming red machine of Fire Chief Sid Hansen, the only seven-passenger touring car available, and repainted it black. When the ceremonies with the president are over, the car will be given another coat of the gayer color.

WASTE OF OIL DESCRIBED

THOMPSON SPEAKS TO TEXAS PRESS BODY ON CONSERVATION

TYLER, June 12. (AP)—Chairman E. O. Thompson of the Texas railroad commission stressed the necessity of conserving Texas oil resources in a speech here before the Texas Press association.

Thompson told the newsmen, who are holding a two-day convention, that the present generation "is paying for the profligate waste of yesterday." He cited the waste of oil, forest lands and early oil fields through "indiscriminate" use and recounted the railroad commission's efforts to stop such waste as applied to oil.

Tells Of Revenue

Thompson told the editors of the great revenue in taxes oil supplies Texas schools and branches of government. In proof of the commission's wisdom in restricting oil producers, Thompson cited the increase of from two billion to four billion barrels in the estimates of ultimate recovery in the East Texas field.

Earlier, President Louis C. Elbert, Galveston publisher, described the Centennial train's tour through the United States as the major accomplishment of the press in the last year. "This trip did more to advertise Texas and the Centennial than any other one thing," he said.

Wellington Wins

The Belo award for the best all-around weekly went to the Wellington Leader, published by Deskins Wells, who last year won the National Editorial association prize.

The Beard award for the best set advertisement of 30 inches or less was taken by the Foard County News, Crowell. The Tri-County News of Luling won second prize and the Wellington Leader third. The Floresville Chronicle-Journal took fourth.

First prize for the best set add of 30 inches or more went to the Beeville Bee-Picayune. The Leader-News, Uvalde, was second, the Crockett News, third and the Paducah Post, fourth.

A Duel To Death On Western Plains

Snorting, stamping, their antlers locked in their mortal combat, two magnificent bucks, in the rare scene above, are pictured as they fought to the death on a huge game preserve west of the Pecos, in Texas. The grim result of the elemental duel, waged either for mastery of the herd or possession of a doe, is revealed in the picture below, with the splendid creature at right lying dead, the other exhausted. A few minutes afterward, the latter sprang up, and paced proudly over the Pecos pastures.

STATE PUSHES TOWARD END

TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF MINISTER WILL END SATURDAY

HOUSTON, June 12 (AP)—The state, hoping to finish its case, called more witnesses today to bolster its attack on the Rev. Edgar Eskridge's temporary insanity plea at his trial for the slaying of Police Chief Ed O'Reilly of Orange.

Three medical experts remained on the state's list of final rebuttal witnesses.

Defense attorneys had arranged to offer additional testimony after the state closed.

Although attorneys predicted testimony would be completed tomorrow, doubt was expressed that summations would be heard before Monday.

Two dozen lay witnesses were called yesterday after Dr. Giles W. Day, third prosecution expert to testify he believed the minister was sane when he shot down O'Reilly on the streets of Orange May 29, 1935, was questioned at length.

Corn is grown on 91 per cent of the farms of North Carolina.

Port Arthur Gets Convention Of '37

FORT WORTH, June 12 (AP)—Port Arthur was selected for the 1937 convention of the Texas State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' association at the closing session of the sixteenth annual convention.

In the only contested place in the election of officers, John J. Blackstone, chief at Burkburnett, was named fourth vice-president. He won in a runoff with John T. Sullivan, El Paso, after Chief O. F. Metz of Center was eliminated on the first ballot.

Jerry O'Brien, 13, son of Chief J. M. O'Brien of Fort Worth, was elected association mascot. Jerry Lee Sims, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sims, Gainesville, was the other candidate.

TEXAS HEROES ARE PRAISED

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK TO BIG CROWD IN DALLAS TODAY

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO DALLAS, June 12—President Roosevelt swung toward birthday-celebrating Dallas today to deliver the second major address of his wide swing through the west, happy in memory of his elaborate preliminary receptions at Houston, San Jacinto, San Antonio and Austin.

Fort Worth, the home of his son, Elliott, also was on the itinerary for his second day in Texas.

Heroes Are Praised

First at San Jacinto battlefield near Houston, and then at the historic Alamo at San Antonio, the president yesterday praised Texas heroes who made it possible for the Lone Star state to become a republic 100 years ago and then a state under the stars and stripes.

Thousands greeted the traveling chief executive. Another great crowd met his train at Austin, the state capital, last night where from the rear platform the president paid tribute to Vice-President Garner and for the third time in as many speeches mentioned the value of peace.

Repeats A Theme

At the Alamo, where he placed a wreath, he also repeated a theme in his Little Rock speech — freedom for the individual against license by special privilege.

He said he hoped the "brave men who died at the Alamo "know that we have not discarded or lost the virility and the ideals of the pioneer.

"I hope they know," he said from his open car from in front of the Alamo, "that the overwhelming majority of the Americans of 1936 are once more meeting new problems with new courage, that we, too, are ready and willing to stand up and fight for the truth against falsehood, for freedom of the individual against license by the few.

"Travis' message 'I shall never surrender,' is a good watchword for each and every one of today," he said.

The presidential special was taken to a siding near Austin for a few hours before leaving for Dallas.

In brief extemporaneous remarks after his prepared address at Austin last night, the president said he was "sorry indeed" that "only because of very important business in Washington Jack Garner and Senator Tom Connally cannot be at my side tonight."

The president of the University of Texas, Dr. Harry Yandell Benedict, then handed the president a button. The president pressed it, setting off an explosion a mile and a half away formally opening the University of Texas memorial museum project.

JUROR PLAYS HOOKY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Because he "got tired of the case" and stayed home in the afternoon, Carl S. J. Hanson kept principals and fellow jurors waiting in a damage suit. Declaring a mistrial, Judge Charles R. Boden offered him the choice of paying $50 fine or spending two days in jail.

Where Men and Cattle Died In Train Blast

With this string of wrecked freight cars, tangled together like shattered toys, testifying to the tremendous force of the blast that killed three trainmen and many cattle, here is the scene of disaster following explosion of a locomotive, six miles south of Batavia, N. Y. when the engine, shown at extreme right, blew up, the engineer, fireman and head brakeman, died instantly. Forty cattle were crushed to death, in the smashed, derailed stock cars shown at left. Other cattle were maimed so seriously that they were shot.

RUDY ANXIOUS TO BE A POLITICIAN

BOSTON, June 12. (AP)—Rudy Vallee, crooner and orchestra leader, emerged here as a man of ambition, anxious to enter politics.

Rudy was given an honorary degree of master of arts by Suffolk law school at a special presentation because he had to return quickly to New York.

Dean Gleason L. Archer, who earlier in the day handed Hubert Prior Vallee, A. B. Yale '27, his degree pictured him as a young man of enormous concentration, doggedly wrestling with his studies, oblivious to the charms of chorus girls.

Rudy has not yet finished his law course at Suffolk owing to repeated interruptions necessitated by his radio contracts, but eventually, Archer said, he hopes to do so and then enter politics.

Next year, in addition to continuing his law school studies Vallee will be on the law school's college of journalism faculty where he will teach radio showmanship and head a department of radio broadcasting.

WRITER IS DEAD

CROSS PLAINS, June 12 (AP)—Robert Howard, young writer of detective and cowboy stories, died late Thursday a few hours after he was found wounded in his automobile.

Thursday morning Howard arose from a three-day vigil at the bedside of his mother. He asked a nurse if there was hope his unconscious mother would ever recognize him again. He received a negative answer. He left the house and the nurse heard a shot. Howard was found with a bullet wound in his head.

All-Hours Office Proves Successful

LOS ANGELES, June 12 (AP)—The nation's only 24-hour, 7-day postoffice, outside of the Benjamin Franklin station in Washington, is nearly a year old and proving successful.

Postmaster H. B. R. Briggs, who inaugurated the branch here, says the office particularly meets the approval of visitors and of business houses wishing to transact late-at-night and week-end business. The branch is widely used also by residents on Sundays, when all other offices are closed.

The all-night branch handles all postal business except the sale of postal savings stamps.

HALEY SHOOTS RIGHT BACK

ROPER IS TAKEN BY SURPRISE DURING AUSTIN VISIT

AUSTIN, June 12 (AP)—When a New Dealer meets a Liberty Leaguer, contrasting views are likely to be expressed.

They were while Secretary of Commerce Roper, who preceded his chief, President Roosevelt, to this preponderantly Democratic state, was visiting here.

Touring the University of Texas Centennial exposition, Secretary Roper was shown the civic history displays by J. Evetts Haley, director of the history department of the exposition and member of the American Liberty League. The cabinet member exhibited particular interest in a replica of an old-fashioned saddle shop.

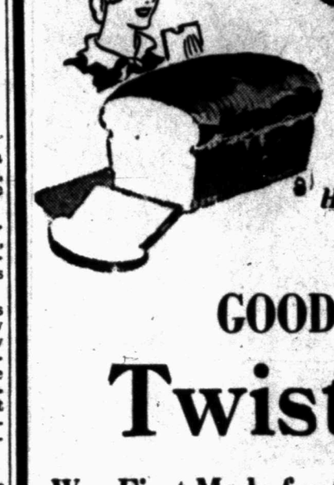

Just A Reminder

"This," Mr. Haley remarked, "is a reminder of the 'horse and buggy days' you've heard about."

"Fine," Mr. Roper replied jokingly, "now I have a clearer idea of what the Republicans want to take us back to."

"Yes," Haley shot back, "and there'll be lots of us Democrats with them too."

SWEDEN GAINS PROSPERITY

OTHER NATIONS STILL STRUGGLE TO BEAT THE DEPRESSION

BY ELMER W. PETERSON

STOCKHOLM, June 12.(AP)—Sweden, enjoying definite prosperity while other nations still struggle to get away from depression, is taking steps to insure that prosperity for some time to come.

Extensive purchases by the Soviet Union are expected to give this country an even firmer hold on the bright side of national financial ledgers.

Negotiations for a credit of upwards of $10,000,000 to the Soviets, for purchases in Sweden, with part of the credits to be guaranteed by the Swedish government, virtually are complete.

Recovery Costs Covered

Meanwhile, with the reputation of being one of the last nations to feel the depression and the first to emerge from it, Sweden is at work writing off the costs of recovery.

The new budget, which provides only 20,000,000 kronor (about $5,600,000) to combat unemployment, also makes further provision for wiping the slate clean of depression expense. Special state loans, raised in recent years to resist unemployment, are to be paid off from surplus revenue accruing from returned prosperity.

Government revenues for the budget year 1936-37, it is estimated, will be fully 25 per cent higher than they were four years ago. New military defense expenses, however, will cut into this increase.

Unemployment is expected to drop to less than 40,000, or less than one per cent of Sweden's population of 6,000,000, within the coming summer.

In fighting the depression, which arrived in Sweden late in 1930 and resulted in a departure from the gold standard in September, 1931, the Swedish government set out to "preserve and increase the purchasing power of the public."

Budget Period Extended

It was deemed advisable to borrow to finance even non-profitable state expenditures, with a view to repaying the loans in times of prosperity. Theoretically, the balancing of the budget was reckoned for a period of years instead of one.

An emergency monetary program known as "managed currency" was put into effect, with a view to stopping deflation and keeping the purchasing power of the krona at a reasonable level. This program proved successful, although hampered by the Ivar Kreuger financial crash in 1932.

Altogether Sweden borrowed 300,000,000 kronor (about $75,000,000) to finance reduction of unemployment by expansion of state enterprise. About a third of this has been paid off.

The government plans to pay the remainder from cash resources, motor taxation, revenue derived from government shareholdings and es in private fortunes.

Foreign Trade Going Up

Swedish industry, which last summer surpassed record 1929 figures in some branches, continues to hold its own. Foreign trade in the first quarter of 1936 showed higher figures than in the corresponding period of 1935.

Fortunate circumstances, including Sweden's wealth of natural resources in timber, iron and water power; standard markets for important exports, good crops, and low costs for raw material purchased abroad, have played important parts in the recovery.

The high standard of living enjoyed by Swedish workmen also is credited with aiding recovery by bolstering internal purchasing power. The average wage for all classes of labor in 1934 was about $2.45, a bit higher than even the 1927 level.

Definite machinery for the settlement of labor difficulties, through advanced forms of collective bargaining and a "labor court" for dealing with disputes, also provided Sweden with pre-depression preparedness.

Within the crisis years, however, several strikes, especially in the building and timber industries, served to retard recovery.

Russian Wife Divorces Oil King

Troubled waters in the marital life of the man who controls much of the world's oil led to the divorce at The Hague, Holland, of Lady Sylvia Pavlovna Deterding from her husband, Sir Henri Deterding, Dutch petroleum king, shown above. Sir Henri, director general of the Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum Co., was sued by his second wife, daughter of the late Paul Koudoyaroff, Russian general, for incompatibility. They were married in 1924.

VALIDITY OF LAW ALLOWING JAILING OF FATHER ARGUED IN HIGHER COURT

AUSTIN, June 12. (AP)—Constitutionality of a law permitting the jailing of a father for failure to make child-support payments directed in a divorce decree was argued before the Texas Supreme court.

The test case was appealed from Fayette county by Claude D. Birkhead. District Judge M. C. Jeffrey held Birkhead in contempt and fined him $100 for failure to pay $22.50 on May 3 and 17 for support of two children.

Remanded To Jail

Birkhead was remanded to jail pending payment of the fine, but obtained his release on a writ of habeas corpus from the Supreme court last Thursday, the court at that time set the case for hearing yesterday.

C. C. Jopling of LaGrange, attorney for Birkhead, argued that the law was unconstitutional because it permitted imprisonment for debt. E. H. Moss, representing the Birkhead children, sought to convince the court that the law was valid.

The court refused to review three cases involving permits to drill oil wells on a tract in Rusk county.

It declined to disturb a judgment of the court of civil appeals reversing the Travis county district court and granting the Stanolind Oil and Gas company injunctions restraining operations of wells drilled by J. Jackson, the Overton Refining company and J. C. Sanford under exceptions to rule 37 of the railroad commission.

Writ Is Refused

The court also refused to grant a writ of error in the case of the Magnolia Petroleum company seeking to compel the commission to grant a permit for a well in East Texas. Lower courts upheld the commission's refusal of a permit.

The court dismissed for want of jurisdiction an appeal from an arbitration award in the case of A. M. Ferguson against Joe Lee Ferguson from Haskell county. The award involved the $400,000 estate of Mrs. Kate F. Morton.

It sustained the court of civil appeals which reversed and remanded a case from Hidalgo county, styled J. Paul Moyer against Rogers, Kelley.

Plaintiff lost in district court a contest of an election in precinct seven in which a majority voted against legalization of liquor sales. In civil appeals court, their contention the ballot form was improper was upheld.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Dangerous Weapon

MIAMI, Fla.—H. H. Farr says he was stabbed by his own mustache.

Farr explained that he awakened on a recent morning to find his pillow blood-spotted. An investigation convinced him some movement made in sleep had driven an end of his well-waxed mustache into his nose, rupturing a small blood-vessel.

College Spirit

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Fifty one years ago the Rutgers class of 1887 prepared a banquet, but when they entered the dining room the food was gone—stolen by pranksters. Now, the 12 living members of the class of 1886 have confessed it was they who took the food. They have invited the 20 living '87 men to be their guests at a "reciprocity dinner" at this year's reunions.

Hot Honey

TARBORO, N. C.—Roland Kenny, North Kenny and Claude Bellamy, young negroes, found a bee-hive tree and set it afire to drive the bees away so they could get the honey.

They got the honey but the fire burned 80 acres of forest. Warden M. W. Haynes took them to court where they were fined $2.50.

MAGIC ENTERS NIGHT CLUB

SORCERERS WORK OUT IN OPEN; NO ROOM FOR EQUIPMENT

BY HOWARD G. ALLAWAY

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—Outstripped by science at wonder working on the grand scale, magic is shelving elaborate apparatus and turning back the clock to sleight-of-hand.

In night clubs, hotels and grills, before intimate groups at private parties, there is scant room for diving tanks and bisectable girls in boxes. Modern sorcerers must work in the open as their predecessors in black art practiced where they could gather a street corner crowd.

And really it's better "psychology" this way, argues John Mulholland, of New York, a leader in the reversion to "close" manipulation, editor of the Conjurer's Journal and the only living magician listed in "Who's Who in America" since Howard Thurston died.

An elephant wafted unseen from a box on a theater stage or a young woman in velvet knickers floated out over the orchestra once entertained as mechanical extravaganzas. But always there was the suspicion of hidden trap doors and invisible wires.

Simple But Confounding

To make a tennis ball vanish in thinair, with no box at all, however, astounds spectators solely by the prestidigitator's nonchalant contradiction of the physical order before-your-very eyes.

For showmanship, after all, is 80 per cent of magic, Mulholland explains. Ten per cent is apparatus, 10 per cent manual skill. But the way you put it over—the careless ease, the sophisticated patter—counts more than what you do.

The return to one-man mystification also is stimulating its popularity as everyman's technique. Of 706 bafflers in the Society of American Magicians, nearly one-fourth are amateurs interested enough in their hobby to pay $12 a year dues.

Only 184 are full-time professional performers, and 361 are semi-pros who devote evenings to paid appearances. Julien J. Proskauer, president of the society, is a commercial printer when he hangs up his silk tophat.

The trade sees Thurston's death as closing the era of great "illusionists." The line ran from Herrmann the Great, through Harry Kellar to Houdini and Thurston.

Leaders Of The Trade

Blackstone's is called the last big-time full-length magic show traveling the road. Hardeen, Houdini's brother (they were born Theodore W. and Harry Weiss, sons of a Brooklyn rabbi), generally is occupied by long engagements, such as his summer run on the boardwalk at Atlantic City. Jack Gwynne still tours vaudeville, but is abandoning huge effects.

In contrast, the new school of wizards are suave parlor tricksters who purposely reduce the size of the illusion and minimize dependence on "gimmicks," or props. Tops include Ade Duval and Tommy Martin, Americans, and Cardini the Welshman.

Fred Keating, of Hollywood, employs tricks merely to keep his hands occupied while he titilates the customers with adult patter—as Will Rogers punctuated his wisecracks with a rope. Dal Vernon and Nate Leipzig make most of their appearances before night club crowds.

Mulholland himself performs only "under auspices" before private organizations. His demonstrations pace lectures on the history, geography and psychology of deception—but his revelations observe the traditions of a tight-mouthed craft.

LAUGHING GLENDA CLAIMS SHE WANTS DIGNIFIED STORIES WRITTEN OF HER

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—Glenda Farrell, who laughs loud and often, knows she is a comedienne and does not want to play Macbeth or Portia or Juliet.

"But I do wish," she said, mock-pensive for a moment, "I could have dignified things written about me. It's always romances, the man they saw me with last night. I'm afraid to go out with my father. They'd want to know who was that elderly gentleman with Farrell."

She laughed again, her blonde bob thrown back and her blue eyes sparkling. At that moment, she was sprayed with a generous shower of salt from an adjoining restaurant booth. A director there was throwing it over his shoulder in conformance with the old superstition. He apologized.

"Too Fresh"

"That's all right," Glenda came back, chortling. "I need salting down. I'm too fresh, anyway!"

It was lunch time. Miss Farrell said she wasn't eating much because today's role called for her appearance in pajamas. She had them on now, pale blue ones.

"It would show on me if I ate," she explained with a grin. "See—" and she pulled in the slack at her waist—"I'm losing weight. Don't know how much, and I'm afraid to weigh. But you can see my waist is slimmer."

In fact, said Glenda, happily talkative, she had nothing at all to complain about today. Her allergy was gone!

"Allergy is a swell word," she said. "You try it on your friends and then before they've recovered you ring in "allergic," another grand word.

About 'Allergy'

"I've been allergic to something—all broken out—and the doctors couldn't find out what it was. They tested everything—made me stop using soap, tested the dust around the house, foods, creams, make-up. It got so I couldn't eat anything, drink anything, do anything.

"It was deadly—I went away for a while. Went to a farm, slept and played with the animals. That was funny, because the doctors eventually decided my allergy was to animal protein.

"But—oh, yes, about this dignity. Why can't I be like Irene Dunne? When she's working, they call her 'Miss Dunne.' And I—I've never yet worked on a picture where everybody wasn't calling me 'Glenda' inside of a week!"

After which the exuberant Miss Farrell was off to the set again.

Glenda Farrell admits she's "too fresh."

London Exercise Sought By Edward In Palace Grounds

LONDON, June 12. (AP) — It is believed in court circles that King Edward is planning extensive alterations to the grounds of Buckingham Palace so as to make them more suitable for outdoor sport.

Construction of a swimming pool, a hard tennis court and a squash rackets court are among the possibilities discussed.

It is the king's desire that his presence in London—necessary during a large part of the year—should not take from him the opportunities for exercise which he was accustomed to enjoy as Prince of Wales.

The swimming pool probably will be constructed in a part of the large lake at present devoted to water plants and swans. Although in the heart of London it is admirably screened by the high palace walls and a thick fringe of trees.

A laughter club has been formed in Prague, Czechoslovakia. It has weekly meetings and its members are pledged to tell or play one joke a day.

FINDS ALL-BRAN BETTER THAN PILLS, SALTS, AND OILS

This Natural Food Relieved His Constipation*

We quote from his letter: "... So I decided to make a fair trial (of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN), with the result that I felt much improved. I have quit all laxatives since 1929.

"For 34 years, I had to take pills, salts, oils, teas, or other fluids, which did more harm than good. ALL-BRAN now is our breakfast cereal for the whole family." — Mr. Martin Wroblewski, 201 Church Street, Highland Park, Mich.

Meals low in "bulk" often lead to constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides generous "bulk" in effective form. This "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. How much better to use this natural food in place of patent medicines.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. It is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

"MY, BLACKBERRIES ARE CHEAP NOW! I'LL MAKE BLACKBERRY JAM TOMORROW"

Takes Less Than 15 Minutes After Your Fruit is Prepared

WITH Certo, you boil jellies only ½ minute; jams only a little longer. Think of all the time and work that short-boil saves . . . You can actually finish a batch of jam or jelly in less than 15 minutes after your fruit or juice is prepared!

SAVES MONEY, TOO

That short-boil is the reason, too, that Certo saves you money. Because none of the juice boils away, as it does by the old, long-boil method . . . And you average half again more glasses of jam or jelly from your fruit. That's real economy!

SHORT-BOIL GIVES BETTER FLAVOR!

Certo does more than save time and money. It also saves fruit flavor! Because all the flavor stays right in the fruit, instead of boiling away in steam, and your jams and jellies have the rich lusciousness of the fresh, ripe fruit itself! There is no "boiled-down" taste.

You don't need to worry about failures, either, when you use this wonderful Certo. It makes any fruit jell perfectly, and gives jams just the right texture.

Certo is a product of General Foods. You can buy it at any grocer's.

SEE HOW EASY THIS RECIPE IS!

BLACKBERRY JAM

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle Certo

To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hot-test fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in Certo. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each). All measurements are level.

FREE RECIPE BOOK
Under the label of every bottle of Certo is a book of tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits require different handling. Therefore Certo gives you a separate recipe for each fruit . . . Be sure to follow recipes exactly.

BIG PRICE REDUCTION! YOU CAN NOW BUY CERTO AT A NEW LOW PRICE. SO CERTO JAMS AND JELLIES ARE MORE ECONOMICAL THAN EVER.

President Roosevelt Salutes Empire Of Texas In His Centennial Address

TEXT OF TALK REPRODUCED

PRAISE FOR PROGRESS IN STATE GIVEN BY CHIEF EXECUTIVE

DALLAS, June 12 (AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's Texas Centennial speech here today:

I have come here to bear the tribute of the nation to you on your hundredth birthday; you are a hundred years' young. I am here also because I conceive it to be one of the duties and the privileges of the presidency to visit, from time to time, every part of the United States. When I was appointed assistant secretary of the navy by President Wilson in 1913, I had visited, as I recall, only about twenty states but during the next few years I had the fortunate opportunity of going into all the others. Seeing things at first hand is a good habit. I have been fortunate indeed, for as a result of personal contacts with every part of the United States during many years past I have tried honestly to visualize the problems of every part of the land in their relationships to every other part, and to the unity of the whole. This great Centennial exposition is not for Texans alone, it is for the people of all the other forty seven states as well. I hope that they will take full advantage of it. During the past three years, with the return of confidence and the great increase in prosperity, the excellent custom of getting acquainted with the United States has asserted itself. We see a great tide of travel by rail, by plane, by ship and by automobile. We are indeed seeing things at first hand — may the habit spread.

Three Great Expositions

Coincident with the return of better days, we have witnessed three great expositions: The Century of Progress in Chicago, so popular that it was kept open for a second year; the California International exposition in San Diego which is open today in its second successful year; and the third is this fine exposition commemorating the century of the independence of Texas. May you have all the good luck you so well deserve. It is not mere acres that count in this world. It is, rather, the character of the people who dwell upon them. You, the people of Texas, have been tried by fire in these hundred years. You have commenced a war for independence. You have been apparently defeated, and then you have won out. You have gone through the difficult days of the war between the states and the trials of reconstruction. You have had to fight against oppressor from within and without.

Your farmers were among the first to rebel against exploitation by the railroads. In a period of monopoly, combinations, over-capitalization, high rates, poor service and discrimination against the small shipper, you established a landmark in the regulation of public utilities for the good of their users.

Spirit Called Into Play

Later, when industrial development came to Texas, you were confronted by corporations that got out of hand. Here again you called into play the old Texas spirit of freedom for the individual, and out of it came your anti-trust laws, preceded by only one other state in the union.

It is, as I recall my history, a fact that during this period there were many prophets of evil who foretold the ruin of Texas by the enactment of legislation to curb these abuses. Yet it is a matter of record that several years later an authoritative survey reported this:

"No part of the union is more prosperous, no other state has so sympathetically pursued a policy of corporation regulation, and no other state is so free from the domination, of special interests."

Believed In Democracy

Why did the people of Texas do this more than a generation ago? They believed in Democracy in government, but they discovered that Democracy in government could not exist unless, at the same time, there was Democracy in opportunity.

You found that certain forms of monopoly, the combinations of public utilities and other businesses which sought their own ends were undemocratic because they were bearing down heavily on their smaller competitors, and on the people they served. Because of this they were taking away opportunity.

Today we have restored Democracy in government.

We are in the process of restoring Democracy in opportunity.

In our national life, public and private, the very nature of free government demands that there must be a line of defense held by the yeomanry of business and industry and agriculture, not the generalissimos, but the small men, the average men in business and industry and agriculture those who have an ownership in their business and a responsibility which gives them stability. Any elemental policy, economic or political, which tends to eliminate these dependable defenders of democratic institutions and to concentrate control in the hands of a few small, powerful groups, is directly opposed to the stability of government and to Democratic government itself. If the tendency in the dozen years following the World war had been permitted to continue, the inevitable consequence would have been the destruction of the base of our form of government. For its splendid structure there would have been substituted as a natural result, an autocratic form of government.

Prophets Of Evil

I have spoken of the prophets of evil who plagued your great reforms in Texas. They were blood brothers of some who seek to operate on a national scale. After you in Texas had done so much to restore Democracy in opportunity you found as we in other states found, that the evils we had sought to eradicate had merely jumped over the boundary into some other state. The old abuses of the railroads were finally curbed only after teeth were put into the interstate commerce law and a nation-wide regulation was made effective. Banking reforms were tried in many states but here again reform became effective only when the federal government was enabled to operate throughout the union, first by the federal reserve act, and finally by means of the splendid legislation of the past three years. Individual states attempted courageously to regulate the sale of securities or the control of exchanges, but you and I know that from the point of view of the nation as a whole, the effective curbing of abuses was made possible only when the congress of the United States took a hand by passing the securities act and the stock exchange act.

So it goes with the constructive reforms of many other abuses which, in the past have limited or prevented Democracy in opportunity. The more progressive of the states may do their share, but unless the action of the states is substantially uniform and simultaneous, the effectiveness of reform is nullified, crippled by the chislers, who, like many other evil-doers, alas, still are with us.

Fight For Homes

The net result of monopoly, the net result of economic and financial control in the hands of the few has meant the ownership of labor as a commodity. If labor is to be a commodity in the United States, in the final analysis it means that we shall become a nation of boarding houses instead of a nation of homes. If our people ever submit to that, they will have said "good-bye" to their historic freedom. Men do not fight for boarding houses. They will fight for their homes.

I have spoken of the interest which all the country should take in this great exposition. I mean this as a symbol for the concern which every locality should have in every other locality in every other state. The prosperity which has come to Texas through the products of its farms and ranches, the products of its mines, the products of its oil fields, and the products of its factories, has been made possible chiefly because other parts of the nation were in possession of the buying power, the consuming power, to use what you have produced. On the other side of the picture, thousands of factories and thousands of farms in the north and in the east have been enabled more greatly to sell their wares because of the prosperity of you, the people of Texas. I have spoken not once but a dozen times of the necessity of interdependence of each state on every other state. It is a lesson which cannot be driven home or preached too often.

I have taken great happiness in these past three years in the lessening of sectionalism which is apparent on every hand. More and more we have been thinking nationally. That in itself is good, but it would not have been good if at the same time we had not come to understand more deeply that the national good neighbor policy must extend also to those neighbors who lie outside of our national boundaries. You in Texas whose boundaries extend for hundreds of miles along those of our sister republic of Mexico, can well understand what the good neighbor policy means throughout the Americas. We seek to banish war in this hemisphere. we seek to extend those practices of good will and closer friendship upon which peace itself is based.

I salute the empire of Texas.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Laredo Policeman Claimed By Injury

LAREDO, June 12. (AP)—Police Officer Pedro Ayala, 45, struck by an automobile Sunday while he was investigating a collision, died here today.

Sergeant Charles Legay of Fort McIntosh, alleged driver of the car which struck Ayala was placed in jail and charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Ayala had been a member of the police force here for 16 years.

RABBIT LANDS IN AUTO

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP)—The next thing he knew after seeing a rabbit in the path of his car, David Garcia was being kicked in the face. A high leap had sent the animal through the windshield and almost wrapped it around Garcia's neck.

Unearth Oldest American Home In Colorado

Near Fort Collins, Colo., members of the Smithsonian Institution are excavating this campsite of earliest prehistoric man in America. The site has been estimated to be from 10,000 to 20,000 years old and has yielded a rich find of early war and domestic implements. (Associated Press Photo).

BUTTERFLY WU FLITS EXOTICALLY ON SHANGHAI'S SOCIAL HORIZON

SHANGHAI, June 12. (AP)—Exotic Butterfly Wu, who has repeatedly defied the traditions of old China in her rise to stardom in Chinese motion pictures, is again shocking her elders by refusing to let marriage interfere with her career.

In a highly spectacular wedding at the Shanghai Anglican cathedral she became Mrs. Eugene Penn. Then she announced that she would be too busy with pictures to devote much time to housewifely duties.

Mother Is Manager

"I am going to let mother manage my home," she declared.

Business acumen, combined with Oriental beauty, brought fame and riches to Butterfly Wu. She has published books, financed her own productions, even tried her hand at selling locomotives.

And with all this she has found romance. Her name has been linked with warlords and government officials, with rich men and poor men, with merchants and actors. Most famous of her consorts was Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed in 1931 as overlord of Manchuria.

While the Japanese were seizing Mukden, Chang was disporting himself in Peiping with the actress. Some critics charged her with responsibility for the loss of Manchuria to the Japanese.

Rides High Again

But popular feeling quickly subsided, and Butterfly Wu soon was riding high again. Meanwhile, China's sensational "mosquito sheets" were regaling their readers with gossip of "new romances." Her name even was linked with that of Henry Pu Yi, now Emperor Kang Teh of Manchoukuo, but friends of the actress deny that her friendship with the erstwhile "boy emperor" ever was more than casual.

A young photographer, Ling Shih-Hui, was credited with starting her toward fame. They were betrothed when he got her her first movie job. Later she had the engagement annulled in court and Ling died a year ago in poverty.

Her marriage to Penn, who is a tall, athletic Chinese, grew out of a business deal. Agent of a German exporting firm, he collaborated with her in publishing a "best seller" on her career. She in turn tried to sell on his behalf a consignment of locomotives to the Chinese government. It was one of her few unsuccessful business ventures, but it did bring her a husband.

Hollywood Blamed For Baby Deficit

OSLO, June 12 (AP)—Norway's capital has an "alarming deficit" of 70,000 children, according to the city registrar and he places the blame squarely on the film companies of Hollywood.

"In lowering the birth-rate," he said, "people do not really save money. They merely use their wages on unpatriotic things instead of supporting national work.

"The population of Oslo spends a million dollars a year for moving pictures which means that the film companies of Hollywood get that to which Norwegian farmers and food producers have a moral claim."

As a result of the lowering birth-rate, Oslo today has 39,000 children under 15, whereas the normal number should be 109,000.

Wood for walking sticks and umbrellas is grown like corn or oats. Small saplings are planted and are cut in about four years.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF THE BODIES OF MISSING PEOPLE

ROSWELL, N. M., June 12. (AP)—State police continued dragging operations in the little rock-bound lake near here today in quest for the bodies of four Illinois tourists, missing for more than a year.

Secrecy surrounded the activities, which went on despite the fact that a professional diver, called from Houston, Texas, had not arrived to search the bottom of the pool which is from 75 to 100 feet deep.

Might Be Hoax

In the meantime, at Santa Fe, Governor Tingley admitted there is a possibility the story which sent authorities here might be a malicious hoax.

"We tried to check every detail before going to the expense and final effort of dragging the lake," said the governor, in discussing the case of the missing Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Duquoin, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius, of East St. Louis.

"Everything checked out — but there still is the single fact remaining that our information came from a source that cannot be absolutely unimpeachable. It came from a prisoner in the state penitentiary."

Saint Is Invoked Against Accidents

ROSELAND, Ind., June 12 (AP) — Each Sunday afternoon a line of automobiles waits for blessings of St. Christopher, patron saint of motorists, at Christ the King church where the Rev. Wendel P. Corcoran, C.S.C., pastor of the church, administers the blessings.

"St. Christopher," the Father Corcoran explains, "is recognized as the patron of automobile riders and as protector of all in storms, accidents and pestilence."

Horrified by the toll of auto accidents, Father Corcoran says, he decided to build a shrine dedicated to St. Christopher where motorists could come for special blessings.

VANISH LIKE MAGIC WITH ME ON THE JOB!

COOL WHITE and color-fast cottons and linens are popular summer wear for children and grown-ups. But romping play, picnics, beach parties, sports, outdoor-life in general, all help to cause stains and increase the family wash. This summer don't let these stains make extra work for you . . . banish them the easy Clorox way.

A little Clorox removes ordinary stains and dinginess in the regular laundering process. In a slightly stronger solution Clorox takes out stubborn stains such as ink, fruit, flower, grass, beverage, medicine, blood—even scorch and mildew. And, too, Clorox removes jelly and fruit preserving stains from bags, aprons, towels, utensils and drainboards.

Clorox not only removes stains but bleaches, deodorizes and disinfects—all in one easy operation.

Like Clorox itself, the Clorox label is a revelation of safer and easier housekeeping. It also lists many important personal uses. Clorox is concentrated for economy. There is only one Clorox.

Competition Flares Hotly In City Open Golf Tourney; Favorites Advance

Semi-Finals Are To Be Conducted During Saturday

QUARTER-FINAL MATCHES WILL BE COMPLETE TODAY; EDMISSON AND HOLTON ADVANCE THURSDAY; SLAUGHTER, ALLEN EVEN

City Open golf tournament competition flared hotly yesterday as most of the quarter-final rounds were completed. Semi-finalists in all flights are to be determined by tonight, and all first round consolation matches will have been decided.

John Edmisson, veteran Lubbock Country club campaigner, and Alfred Holton, young Meadowbrook star, advanced to the semi-final round in the championship flight yesterday. Another match was started, followed through 18 holes, then called on account of darkness.

Jo Dick Slaughter and Manson Allen, who were off to a late start, will resume their battle this afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Doherty Plays Bradshaw

The other quarter-final contest was postponed until this afternoon, Edgar Doherty and Kay Bradshaw, the defending champion, choosing to take advantage of the extra day allowed and use it for practice.

They played at Meadowbrook yesterday, and that club is minus many birdies as a result, some of them conceded but most of them "gimmes."

Slaughter and Manson put on a golf show that would have been worth a good price of admission, swapping out from hole to hole until they went all square when Slaughter dumped a blind tee-shot on the No. 9 green, which was the 18th of the match since they started on the back nine, for a conceded birdie when Allen two-putted after his approach was too long.

Play By Ear

It was so dark at that time that galleryites circling the green could barely see the ball, and tee shots were played by ear, numerous self-appointed fore-caddies lining the fairways to listen for the drop of the ball. Seeing it was impossible for the last three holes.

Most brilliant medal golf was turned in by Alfred Holton, high school youngster and former champion. Holton eliminated the first of two "dark horses" who faded from the championship picture yesterday.

Through the first six holes, Holton was exactly six under par—and five up on Don Mitchell, husky Country Club player who captured the first round spotlight by defeating Bays Bryant 8 and 6.

But Mitchell had sympathy for anybody who would get beat that badly. Seven down at the turn, after Holton had fired a 29 at him, Mitchell lasted through the eleventh. He was eight down after the tenth when Holton bagged another birdie, his shot lacking an inch or two of rolling in for an eagle 2. They halved the eleventh with pars, but it ended the match.

Mitchell started unsteadily, although settling to shoot pars on many holes. Pars, however, were no good against Holton, who lacked one birdie on the front nine of equallying the course record, held jointly by himself and Blackie Young. He dropped to pars for the seventh, eighth and ninth, although he putted for a seventh consecutive birdie on No. 7. He was hitting 'em far and handsome, rolling them up to the cup for conceded putts that would have required but a breath to sink.

Trolinger Hard To Stop

John Edmisson, runner up last year, and Ralph Trolinger, the medalist, battled to a near standstill for fifteen holes before Edmisson took a 3 and 2 victory.

The medalist went down fighting, and playing fine golf. He got in trouble twice, but finished the 17 holes one over par. He was two under at the turn, but Edmisson was four under, and two up. Edmisson finished only one stroke better than par, taking a seven on the par 4 13th hole after getting into serious trouble with his drive.

Trolinger, three down at the time, also got into trouble, his ball being near Edmisson's and both of them virtually hidden in deep grass and weeds in a creek bottom. Trolinger needed three strokes to get out, but took the hole with a 6 when Edmisson, who played his recovery safe, blasting from the creek backward toward the tee and into another fairway, messed up his approach.

Medalist Trolinger showed that his golf since Sunday, when he qualified with a 67, then defeated Bob Hale, 4 and 3, at Country club, was no flash in the pan. He was nip and tuck with Edmisson. They halved the first two holes, Edmisson won the third, Trolly took the fourth when his tee shot was on the green.

Slaughter, playing serious golf and some of the best in the last few seasons, took a two-up lead on Allen at the 5th hole. They started on the back side. Allen took the 10th with a birdie, they halved the second, or 11th, and Slaughter took the 12th. He also took the 13th, and went 2 up on the next by holing out from several yards off the green. Allen missed a birdie putt and took a 3 to lose.

They Play The 18th

Most sensationally played hole of the match, of any match yesterday, was the 18th, a long par 5 hole, which was No. 9 in the Allen-Slaughter match. Allen was still trailing, although he'd picked up a hole, and needed a win to square the match at the turn.

Their drives were down the middle, 300 yards, beautiful shots, landing not 10 feet apart. Allen blasted a brassie from there straight to the green, on for an eagle. Slaughter's second shot was green high, but off to the left. He got on for an easy birdie, but as the large gallery went silent, Allen calmly made his third championship shot of the hole, canning his eagle putt as if the ball were drawn by a magnet to the cup.

They chased birdies and pars on the last nine, Allen going two up at one time but fading back to flat terms at the 16th. After the drives, the balls were invisible, but Allen's landed in mid-fairway. Slaughter's sliced, hit a telegraph post and bounded back in the fairway, 60 yards short of the green, but his luck didn't hold out. His second was over the green into a trap. He needed two shots to get out, and conceded a birdie to Allen, who was on for a short putt.

A Shot In The Dark

They batted blind to the No. 9 green, Allen's shot landing green high but to the right.

And Slaughter's was on the carpet, six feet from the pin. Allen missed his par putt, and the match was squared again.

All first and second flight matches went to the semi-final round yesterday. In the first flight, W. B. Kelly defeated C. J. Quinlan, 2 up; Hugh Anderson shot championship flight golf to beat Bob Harvey, 3 and 2; Garland Allen won from Ernest Dowell, 1 up, and J. D. Hinson eliminated Stoney Wall by the same score.

Harold Crites, H. L. McMahon, Jack Trammel and Bill Tatum advanced in the second flight. Crites defeated Joe Golfarb, 2 up. McMahon won from Herman Patterson, 5 and 4; Trammel downed Bill Helwig, 4 and 3, and Tatum eliminated W. D. Girand, sr., 1 up.

Consolatjons Start

Harley Sadler advanced in the third flight, defeating Hugh Horne, 1 up, and Jack Butler won in the lower bracket with J. W. Thompson, Butler defeating Walker Stanton, 4 and 3 while Thompson took out W. C. Edwards, 1 up. The unfinished match was Clyde Williams and Windy Watkins.

J. E. George and Ed Hambright advanced in the fourth flight, George beating Seth Bertram, 1 up, and Hambright turning back Woody Waggoner, 5 and 4. Charles Watson is to meet Harry Phelps and N. B. Hilyard takes on Oran Wilson, jr., in the uncompleted matches.

Several consolation matches were played yesterday, J. R. Farmer, Bays Bryant and Weldon Counts advancing in the championship flight. Farmer by defeating Glen Hall 6 and 5. Bryant by taking out Ted Tipps, 1 up, and Counts by eliminating Bob Hale, 3 and 1. Rufus Bradshaw and Joe Bihl are to play today.

In the first flight, A. E. Jones disposed of Loftin Burnette, 5 and 4, while E. B. Wheelock downed R. V. Sandlin, 6 and 5.

W. Edelman won by default from Cliff Dean and O. A. Terry beat W. L. Hale, 2 and 1, in second flight consolations. N. L. Ball defeated Leland Mast, 1 up, and Guy McAfee downed W. C. Wright, 6 and 5, in third flight consolations.

MARSE JOE IS SORRY THAT HE TRADED

NEW YORK YANKS ARE TO NEED PITCHERS TO RETAIN LEAD

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Staff Writer

If he's not doing so yet, Marse Joe McCarthy probably will be "moaning low" before this American league race gets much older over the deal by which his New York Yankees parted company with Pitcher Jimmy Deshong.

The one thin kthe Yanks apparently will need in the stretch is pitching. They have batting power to spare. Their defensive fielding is up to par. But their mound staff from all indications, may be the difference between a pennant and second place — just as it was last year.

Parted Company

Last January, the Yanks gave up Deshong and Jesse Hill to Washington in exchange for Bump Hadley and Roy Johnson. To date, Deshong is taking his regular turn on the mound for the Nats, and has chalked up seven wins against three losses. Hadley, is just "another guy named Joe," so far as the Yanks starting mound staff is concerned.

Deshong seems to be improving and yesterday he shut out the Chicago White Sox cold with two hits for a 2-0 victory. Hadley, meantime, was one of five pitchers McCarthy sent to the mound before the Yanks subdued the Tigers, 10-9 in ten innings, a feature of which was Lou Gehrig's twelfth home run.

Lead Not Increased

The Yanks, however, could not increase their 2 1-2 game first-place edge, for the Red Sox, aided by Rick Ferrell's homer and three-run double, came from behind to down the St. Louis Browns, 7-5. The seventh-place Athletics turned the trick on the Cleveland Indians 5-2. Bob Johnson's two homers and a double just about decided that affair.

The head of the National league race tightened up on the strength of the Chicago Cubs' 6-4 win over the Boston Bees, to move into second place over the idle Pittsburgh Pirates. The St. Louis Cardinals' lead was sliced to 3 1-2 games when the pace-setters were roundly belted by the lowly Phillies, 12-4.

The Giants at Pittsburgh were rained out, while the Cincinnati Reds, entertaining the Mungo-less Dodgers in the season's second night game, nosed out the Brooklyns 4-3.

by COLLIER PARRIS

Golf, the one game in which a good offense is not only the best defense but the ONLY defense, is being played out at Meadowbrook and Country club this week—in case you hadn't heard.

We do not mean just plain ordinary golf, such as us duffers play. We mean real, sure-enough golf, like champions play. For sheer thrills and breathless moments, if you know how to get thrills and breathless moments out of golf—and it is there to get if you know how—you should be watching some of this City Open, Twilight League, goings on. Our local golfers may not cut such fancy figures when they get out of the home ballwick, but on their own sand greens and sun-baked fairways they produce the chills.

Alfred Holton, for instance, chilled the stuffing out of Cotton Roy's delegate to the City Open, Don Mitchell. Now Don used to cut quite a figure at Lubbock Country club. Five or six years ago when somebody would ask us who Lubbock's leading golfers were, we'd name Clint Bussey, Joe Dick Slaughter, Ross McWhorter, Sid Thrash, John Edmisson, Bays Bryant, Cotton McAfee, Bob Harvey, Frank Wright, Buck Buckingham, Gib Payne, Carl Nail, etc., etc.,—and always Don Mitchell.

Wright, Buckingham, Payne and others have since removed to other golf courses, and in recent years McWhorter, Thrash, and Mitchell have not played extra seriously. For two years, Bays Bryant, Bob Harvey, Nail, Clint Bussey and Mitchell have been missing from championship flight rosters. Slaughter and Edmisson and McAfee are about the last of the "old guard," and McAfee has been too busy putting in grass greens this year to play much golf. But Don Mitchell made a fine comeback this week, qualifying for the top bracket, taking out his first round opponent in 'way under par and by a large margin. He tumbled out yesterday, running out of holes before he could catch up and pass Holton, but he's back among the top at Country Club.

Of the old guard, the more consistent two are still in the City Open, and they're playing great golf. Slaughter is still in because he sent his tee shot straight to the green, and on it, when he couldn't even see the fairway because it was so dark last night, to win the 18th hole and square his match with Manson Allen. The game was called then. It goes into extra innings this afternoon.

Edmisson stayed in the running by taking out the other championship flight "dark horse," Ralph "John Santa Fe" Trolinger, Mitchell being the other young upstart. Trolinger, the medalist, gave Edmisson quite a battle, an exciting battle, but he picked the coolest, most dangerous tournament foe Lubbock can offer when Edmisson met him in the quarter-finals.

The championship flight is otherwise dominated by youngsters, taking the places of the old guard in the ever-changing athletic picture. There's a chance, a good chance, that the two veterans will come through, and it will prove something or other in the theories of mankind if Slaughter and Edmisson do face each other in the final round. Kay Bradshaw defending champion, a professional golfer, and Edgar Doherty, college youth, meet this afternoon in the last of the quarter-final matches, the winner to meet Slaughter or Allen. If Allen, who has been an off and on player this season beats Slaughter in their extra match today three youngsters will be in the semi-finals, Alfred Holton having crashed through yesterday.

You're tired of reading golf? But you wouldn't be if you took the time and trouble to get interested in the game, the most democratic game in the world, and one of the most fascinating once you get even vaguely acquainted with it. We're not campaigning for either of the local clubs, but every one should be a duffer once in his lifetime, should even be content to stay a duffer rather than not be one at all. There's no class distinction in golf (thank goodness) because once you get to thinking you're in high class, thump, thump and bump, goes that little white ball fifteen or twenty yards in front of the place where you hit it, or whir-r-r it goes over the telephone lines and into the adjacent highway, or ker-splash in the water. Then you're back in a class with everybody else.

Championship golfers are born, not made, but that should not discourage you when you cogitate upon the fact that something like one half of one per cent of all golfers are championship golfers.

As much a part of the City Open as anybody is Harley Sadler, the colorful tent show magnate, and some of his boys. Harley is playing in the third flight, has won two matches and goes into the semi-finals tomorrow. Two of his lads are in the next flight, Harry Phelps and Bob Siler. (We'll tell you more about Siler after a certain match this morning).

They're showing a fine spirit, Sadler and his boys, and they're being treated like regular club members. They're fine folks, even if they are villains and constables in the tent productions, and they're welcome on Lubbock's golf courses any time they're around this part of the section. Harley takes his golf pretty seriously, was as proud as a champion after taking out Hugh Horne in the quarter-finals yesterday.

BRITISH HAVE NEW HOPE

JIMMY WALSH DRAWS ENGLISH INTEREST AS LIGHTWEIGHT

LONDON, June 12. (AP)—With the Jock McAvoy bubble blown askew by John Henry Lewis, British hopes of gaining an American-held world title are now pinned brightly on Jimmy Walsh, the Chester "Slasher."

As English lightweight champion Walsh is now seeking a title bout with Tony Canzoneri, in New York.

Walsh is considerably younger than Canzoneri, and his list of conquests includes Maurice Holtzer, the French champion; Carlo Orlandi, European title-holder; and Wes Ramey, who beat Tony Canzoneri in a non-title boxing match.

McAvoy's thumping at the hands of Lewis was bitter tea to the fight fans over here. They figured that Britain, the original home of the Marquis of Queensberry's "manly art of self-defense," had at long last produced a hard-hitting sensation.

London sports columnists glowed over his spectacular string of kayo victories in the United States this

DALLAS STARS ARE PAIRED OFF TODAY

HARRY TODD TANGLES WITH SCHUMACHER IN GOLF ROUND

BY DAWSON DUNCAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—Lower bracket pairings offered as a feature quarter-final match today a tilt between Harry Todd of Dallas, defending his Texas Golf association title, and Don Schumacher, another Dallas star.

Schumacher proved up his pre-tournament favorite ranking by besting Jim McGonagill of Dallas one up on 20 holes in the first round. Derald Lehman of Fort Worth fell before him next, two to one.

Face Tough Going

Difficult going faced the victor in the Todd-Schumacher tilt for other lower bracket quarter-finalists were the Walker cupper from Dallas, Reynolds Smith, and Hack Williford, the San Antonio municipal ace.

Smith's record of par on 47 holes of competitive play without having practiced a round belied the fact he suffered fever just before the tournament started. He sailed through Blaine McNutt of El Paso, 7 and 5, and Bill Welch of Austin, Southwest conference titlist, 4 and 2, to earn his quarter-final stand.

Williford, the municipal entry, eliminated Major A. W. Smith of San Antonio, one up, and then ousted Dr. Waid Robinson of Austin, five and four.

Banker Faces Skeeters

W. R. (Shorty) Long, jr., of Austin, the golfing banker who is the tournament medalist, faced Bill Skeeters of Dallas in a top bracket quarter-final. Long pulled through the first two rounds by the narrowest of margins, being forced to 15 holes in the second by young Buck Luce of Austin, junior titlist.

Skeeters attracted keen gallery attention with a one up victory over the favored O'Hara Watts of Dallas.

To round out the field, Bernard Schreiver of Dallas faced Milton Ward, surviving member of the Corpus Christi group. Schreiver eliminated Jack Cameron of Houston, 4 and 3, while Ward advanced over Lafayette Franks of Dallas, one up on the 19th hole.

LAKE YIELDS MERCURY

OLANCHA, Calif. (AP) — For the first time known to western mining men, mercury is being recovered by placer methods. A pilot plant has been working the sands of vast, dry Owens lake. Operations may be stepped up to produce 10 flasks daily.

Sea horses are primarily inhabitants of warm waters, although occasionally found in cold seas.

TEXAS LEAGUE COUNTS ITS FIRST TIE

EXPORTERS AND CATS CALL HALT IN 10TH AS RAIN APPEARS

Today's Games:
Dallas at San Antonio (night).
Fort Worth at Beaumont.
Oklahoma City at Galveston (two night games).
Tulsa at Houston (night).

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas league counted its first tie game of the season today. The Beaumont club and Fort Worth's last-place Cats were deadlocked at 3-all at the end of the tenth when threatening skies forced a halt. Hal Wiltse and Pat McLaughlin, the latter chunking for Beaumont, matched pitch for pitch the entire game. Wiltse allowed ten hits, one more than his opponent.

Steers Advance

The league-leading Dallas Steers, playing under the lights at San Antonio, pulled another of their belated drives to score four runs in the fifth to whip the Missions 7 to 4. The Missions were ahead, 4 to 3, in the fourth after scoring three runs. The victory put Dallas a full four games ahead of the second-place Beaumont team.

Rain called a halt in the scheduled game between Oklahoma City and Galveston at Galveston, and Tulsa and Houston at Houston.

winter, and hailed him as a "miracle man" who would wipe out the stigma of Britain's reputation for producing horizontal push-overs.

He Loses Again

But McAvoy, roundly trounced by Lewis, came home to disappoint his boosters again by losing to gawky Jack Petersen, the British heavyweight champion, in a sorry spectacle of hugging and mauling that drew earnest booing from the clients for 15 straight rounds.

Petersen's failure, with a 14-pound advantage, to stop McAvoy and McAvoy's will-o'-wisp refusal to mix, combined to sour the customers, critics and even the promoter of the fight, who declared:

"I have no doubt Petersen did his best. But his best is not good enough. He is a charming boy, and a nice boy to deal with, but we've got to find someone to beat him."

"Much Relieved," Says Lady After Taking CARDUI

Although they may be very active and apparently in good health, many women, at certain times, will do well to take Cardui. It may relieve some of the nagging symptoms that are so annoying every month.

Mrs. F. T. Foster, of Greensburg, Ky., writes that she has "derived great benefit" from Cardui. "Before taking Cardui, I was weak and extremely nervous, and suffered from sleeplessness. This made me tired and worn in daytime. My back ached continually. Being an active woman, I did not want to continue in this condition. Having heard a great deal about Cardui, I found, after just a few bottles, I was much relieved. I continued taking Cardui and was so much helped."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—Adv.

PRESIDENT SLOWS PARADE TO SPEAK TO CRIPPLED KIDDIES ALONG ROUTE

HOUSTON, June 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt, benefactor of crippled children, slowed a parade in his honor Thursday to speak to groups of crippled children who had begged only to see him pass.

A three-year-old girl, Carolyn Croft, was the only one of the tens of thousands of persons lined along the parade route able to slow the fast moving presidential automobile.

From her nurse's arms Carolyn waved a tiny flag at the president. He signaled the driver. The car came to an almost standstill. The president had noticed Carolyn and a group of other crippled children.

"Hello there," sai dthe president.

"How are you?"

Carolyn waved her flag, clutched her doll but could not speak. Her companions answered for her.

"All right," they chorused.

Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Croft of Palestine, underwent an operation for a foot ailment yesterday.

CASH REPORTS ARE GIVEN

MORE THAN MILLION DOLLARS POURED INTO COFFERS

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) — More than a million dollars jingled into political collection boxes of various parties and causes during the past three months with the count for some organizations yet to be recorded.

The pre-campaign financing was shown in statements filed today with the house clerk under federal law.

Receipts Recorded

The Democratic National committee recorded receipts of $360,891 for March, April and May, of which $81,019 was in direct contributions. The Democrats reported a balance of $299,074 on May 31, after paying out $188,918. Unpaid obligations of $174,765 were recorded.

Earlier the Republican National committee reported a $220,856 cash balance at the end of the quarter, without unpaid obligations. The Republicans reported income for the period of $792,405, of which contributions accounted for $435,152.

Receipts listed by the American Liberty League totaled $124,247 and expenditures, $156,901 for the three-month period. League headquarters announced this did not mean it had a deficit.

Contributions Made

The National Union for Social Justice, headed by Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, reported contributions totaling $168,248, a $22,500 loan from the Radio League of the Little Flower and expenditures of $185,344.

The biggest single contributor to the Democrats listed was Percy S. Straus of New York, with $10,000.

The National Republican congressional committee listed $5,000 each received from E. R. Crawford, McKeesport, Pa.; John D. Rockefeller, New York; James A. McDonough, New York; Harry Payne Bingham, New York; John D. Rockefeller, jr., New York; and B. H. Kroger, Cincinnati.

The United States produces and uses 10,000,000 tons of paper a year, as much as all the rest of the world combined.

That Girl on Broadway says ignorance has its compensations. Many a man has gotten well because there was no specialist around to tell him his malady was fatal.

Hamilton Fish, the New York congressman, was the first man to toss his hat into the GOP presidential ring, but the way things have gone at Cleveland it seems that he lost his check!

* * *

PHILADELPHIA hotel keepers have doubled their room rates for the forthcoming Democratic convention, thus proving once and for all that Jesse James is positively not spending all his time at the Dallas centennial exposition.

That Man on Avenue Q says if the Republican party expects to sell the nation on the predicate that Landon is a great man, the first thing it'll have to do is prove that he doesn't come from Kansas.

WHEN Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal government got well under way and it became apparent that a number of newspapermen were in active governmental positions, great was the cry from the anti-administration section of the press.

The old wail, "In order to have a free press we must have no connection between press and government," was heard on every side and in the NRA controversy between the President and the press, "freedom of the press" was the main issue.

Apparently, those newspapermen who oppose the New Deal have learned something from it. At any rate, the revamped Republican party of today is top heavy with top editors and publishers, many of whom were among the loudest critics of the early liaison between Mr. Roosevelt and the press.

* * *

Along that line, Ray Tucker, one of The Journal's Washington correspondents who has been covering the GOP convention in Cleveland, brings out the fact that our Republican friends have no fear of "press freedom" except when the press is connected with the Democratic party.

Writes Mr. Tucker:

Emulating Franklin D. Roosevelt's flair for journalists in and out of office, Republican politicos have virtually abdicated in favor of American publishers. Editors are making headlines instead of writing them. The clashing and dominant figures who have rewritten history on the shore of Lake Erie rank as topnotchers in the world of American journalism.

"IT is a development which few have noted and for which nobody seems to have the explanation. It may, ironically, bode ill for the Democrats, who first drafted publicists Charlie Michelson, Henry Wallace, Robert Bingham and Jesse Jones into office. Alf Landon's presidential candidacy was born and reared in the city room of the Kansas City Star. Roy Roberts, Star managing editor, a skilled and veteran ex-Washington correspondent, managed and edited it in days when few national politicians had heard of the 'Cornfield Coolidge'—a catch-phrase incidentally, which was coined by a clever journalist. The boom grew and grew like a newspaper hot off the press.

William Allen White, the gentle white-haired sage of Emporia, gave a headline benediction. He devoted the editorial talents which once sparkled, 'What's wrong with Kansas?' to writing edition after edition. 'What's right with Landon?' The brightest bit of publicity from a Republican standpoint has been his daily syndicated suggestion that 'youth' has finally busted out in the G. O. P.

Ex-Governor, ex-Senator and Editor Henry J. Allen has been a powerful factor in the Landon movement. He handled many chores which only his closest friends know about. Three other Kansas editors have headed and steered the Landon candidacy from its conception in the city room to its climax at the Cleveland auditorium—Jack Harris, Oscar Stauffer, Lacy Haines.

"William Randolph Hearst was the first to unveil the Landon candidacy nationally and expose it to the winds of political and journalistic criticism. That immediately stirred resentment, and the two men who felt most keenly and bitterly over the Hearst intrusion were Editors Chester Rowell of San Francisco and Harry Chandler of Los Angeles. They frothed editorially at the prospect that Hearst might emerge as political boss of their state, and they repulsed the invaders.

"The feuds which this incident provoked may yet have a profound effect on the November outcome. Mr. Hoover may campaign for the party nominee, but deep down he fumes at the Landon-Hearst tieup. So do many of the Kansas governor's political and newspaper advisers.

"TWO rivals in the campaign race have been—one still is—'working members of the press'. They were as eligible for the preferred press section at the convention as they were for the White House. Frank Knox edits the Chicago Daily News, and Senator Vandenberg, to used the hackneyed line, 'used to be a newspaperman himself.' Their speeches and statements drip with printer's ink. Mr. Knox's campaign managers—ex-Senator Moses and ex-Washington correspondent Roy Vernon—still do a daily stint.

"Senator Borah's vice-presidential associate is Frank Gannett, publisher of a string of influential newspapers. Walter E. Edge, prominently mentioned in the political news of the past week, is part owner of an Atlantic City newspaper. And Senator Dickinson, whom a color-blind Republican convention didn't recognize as a 'dark horse', is a relative by marriage of a distinguished newspaper dynasty of Iowa.

"This unprecedented participation of publishers in practical politics may mean anything or nothing. But the soundest answer given behind the scenes at Cleveland is that these newspaper seers forecast the 1936 presidential struggle as the most vital and important since the days of those two constitutional publicists—Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton."

* * *

PERSONALLY, The Plainsman thinks a newspaper editor or publisher can do a better job for his readers by staying away from public office and too close an alliance with any group or clique.

However, a lot of eminent gentlemen in this racket seem to feel otherwise, so your humble servant may be wrong again!

Many A Costly Smoke Gets In Stars' Eyes; Rare Odors Waft Across Their Nostrils From Exclusive Tobaccos

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 12—A dapper little Englishman and a burly, black-haired Armenian are the screen colony's smoke-masters. Percy Dudleigh Richardson blends tobaccos for famous pipe smokers, and Jack Serailian makes cigarets, mostly fancy ones, tipped and monogramed.

They're to be found on Hollywood Boulevard, in their Ye Olde English Smoke Shoppe. Lots of people tell Serailian that he ought to insist on changing it to "Ye Olde Anglo-Armenian Smoke Shoppe," but he figures that an establishment by any other name would be as redolent.

This one smells plenty. A bell tinkles in the heavy atmosphere when you open the door. A sign on the wall announces that "Richardson's Famous Blends Are Endorsed by Motion Picture Stuios," the inference being that Columbia's goddess approves one kind and M-G-M's lion puffs another.

Richardson himself pops up behind the counter with a long-stemmed briar in his mouth. Serailian huddles over his workbench and scarcely glances up.

And They Serve Tea!

Richardson was born in London; inherited a tobacco shop, or shoppe, from his father, but sold it six years ago and came to Hollywood. He says Englishmen are his best customers—Leslie Howard, C. Aubrey Smith, Arthur Treacher and Boris Karloff. They come and chat and sniff at his latest importation, and have a pot of tea in the back room.

He makes a specialty of individual blends, keeping hundreds of formulae in a little black book, and packing the tobacco in fancy tins with the owners' names on the labels. He can afford this extra trouble, because some of the blends cost $10 a pound.

His Studio Blend is only $4 a pound, though, and the inspirational mixture he sells to writers costs even less. Screen writers seem to be great pipe smokers. Oh, quite.

He declares a number of prominent women smoke pipes, too, but he declines to name them.

* * *

Competition Too Keen

Times aren't so good for Serailian, the cigaret maker. He's half inclined to blame his private depression on the indorsement campaigns of popular brands.

In the days when the screen was silent and the stars tried to outdo one another in extravagance, he couldn't keep up with the orders. Now he caters mostly to the wives of directors and producers, and foreign newcomers, and tourists.

Only Al Jolson and Henrietta Crosman, among the players, are steady customers now. Serailian's memory is bad, but he does recall making thousands of cigarets for Tom Mix, Pauline Frederick, Fatty Arbuckle, and John Gilbert when they were tops. He fashioned a batch for Max Baer, too, when the butcher boy was champ and in Hollywood making a picture.

Long And Short

These days, $7.50 a hundred is about the limit for Serailian's cigarets, and those are after-dinner models measuring 5 1-2 inches. For really rare blends and solid gold tips, a distinguished customer can pay a good deal more.

To tourists Serailian sells 11-2-inch cigarets in packs of 10, labeled "A Puff From Hollywood." Sounds silly, but people buy 'em.

Topsy-Turvy Rules

There are "No Smoking" signs on the studio sound stages in deference to fire department regulations. But everybody smokes, including the firemen. Only time the rule is enforced is by order of the director or the cameraman, who doesn't want a noticeable haze to settle on the sets.

A movie property man—the fellow who is supposed to be able to produce anything from an aardvark to a Zuni—usually can be distinguished on the set by the cigars he smokes. Reason is that a box of cigars is part of every prop man's equipment. They're furnished by studios to be used in scenes. Generally they are used behind the scenes.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Mark up another sign of better times in Texas.

Gross receipts of private gas, electrical and water utilities in the first quarter of 1936 were 21.43 per cent greater than in the corresponding period last year, the state comptroller's department announces.

Their income was $21,678,644 compared with $17,850,864, and the greatest increase was noted in natural gas sales. Gross receipts from that source alone were $12,413,609, a gain of 34.44 per cent.

More profitable receipts, it should be noted, are in the face of rates somewhat lower than those in effect seven years back. Those who feel rates are yet too high might find in the comptroller's figures some hope that utility bills can be further reduced.

Meanwhile, consolation will have to be found in a statement by the comptroller that utility taxation revenues may be some $100,000 higher during 1936, if the returns continue the upswing throughout the year.

Small consolation that brings, however. Such amounts as $100,000 will have no effect in tax rates since increasing expenditures, governmentally speaking, greedily sop them up and await more and bigger ones.

Thought For Today

For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law.—Romans, 2:12.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Gossip as to the 1940 presidential aspirations of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones has blossomed anew among insiders who know how the tall, white-haired Texan recently tried to maneuver control of PWA away from Secretary Harold Ickes.

It was about that time that Ickes threatened to resign. And Jesse didn't get what he was after, even though he had the support of Harry Hopkins of PWA, whose feud with Ickes is now more bitter than ever.

Under congressional pressure, Roosevelt came around to the idea of using a PWA revolving fund for PWA grants in a continuation of the loan-grant system which would use RFC money for PWA loans.

Jones vigorously sought the power to handle the PWA loans, which would have meant control over the grants and would have left Ickes somewhat in the position of an office boy.

Even more astonishingly, the RFC chairman proposed that he be empowered to make loans to municipalities for any and all purposes. That would have made him the banker for city politicians all over the country and, although he already is known as the "world's biggest banker," would have added enormously to his power.

Certain men in the administration who think Jesse will bear watching managed to scotch the scheme.

Promise Broken Or Not?

Picking up $250,000,000 for PWA was a sleight-of-hand job, the implications of which the administration doesn't care to stress. It either repudiates the president's promise that there would be no new expenditures beyond those called for in the budget without new taxation to cover them—or it doesn't, according to the way you look at it.

No new appropriation was required. Ickes will merely be spending money which otherwise would have been "recoverable" and sooner or later have been paid back into the treasury. Thus it doesn't do the deficits or the national debt any good—not by $250,000,000.

But it's worth pointing out that under the most favorable circumstances, the sum may mean up to a billion dollars in public works. Ickes has said that only about half the recipients of PWA grants now require loans from PWA funds, the others being able to get them under as favorable terms on the market.

Clash Over Figures

There's an increasing disposition to question the accuracy of WPA statistics, although it would be difficult for any agency to check them.

Ickes and his friends are sorer than ever at Hopkins, because they believe the facts as to the relative employment potentialities of WPA and PWA were misrepresented to the president.

Hopkins, the Ickes faction claims, persuaded Roosevelt to agree that all figures as to government-created work should be collated through WPA. The same group charges that the figures, by the time they were presented to F. D. R. prior to his apparent decision to let PWA die on the vine, were "doped."

On big PWA projects such as the Tri-Borough Bridge in New York, where the states put up 55 per cent of the money, it is claimed by PWA fans that the cost to the federal government per man employed is less than the WPA cost.

Even inside WPA itself you can hear occasional skepticism expressed as to the statistics furnished by Corrington Gill, boss statistician and research director.

A "Simplified" Tax Bill

Another recent leak reveals that the administration's corporation surplus tax bill got off to an even worse start originally than all but a few supposed.

Legislative draftsmen employed by Congress were flabbergasted when Herman Oliphant, general counsel and master mind of the treasury, appeared on Capitol Hill with little more than an idea which had been okayed by Roosevelt and hardly a line or two on paper.

General supposition had been that the treasury had carefully worked out a tax bill and would never think of merely tossing an idea involving such a problem at the draftsmen.

The latter say that a year or more should be spent on working out such a complicated problem if all its possibilities—dangerous, undesirable, and otherwise—are to be weighed.

Anyway, the tax bill which reached Capitol Hill in the idea stage has been having trouble ever since.

The GLAMOROUS ADVENTURE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, winner of the John S. Larne costume design prize, comes to New York to find work. Gail's parents are both dead. She has spent the past three years at MISS CRANSTON'S fashionable school for girls—due to Miss Cranston's generosity and friendship for Gail's mother.

Armed with a letter from Larne, Gail goes to his office and is told he is out of town. DEREK HARGREAVES, an artist, overhears this conversation and offers to help Gail. He advises her to go to MADAME LIZETTE'S shop to apply for a job.

Gail arrives there just after temperamental Madame Lizette has learned her designer has gone to Hollywood. Gail gets the job and goes to work next morning. On the way to the shop after lunch she encounters DICK SEARLES whose sistery, ROSEMARY, was Gail's roommate at school. The Searles' are very wealthy. Dick tries to make a date with Gail, but she postpones it.

Back at the shop, Madame Lizette sends for some sketches Gail has made.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

Dejectedly Gail flung herself on her bed when she entered her room. How quickly her rosy dreams had been shattered! Only this morning she had started off thrilled at the prospect of working at Madame's. She'd make a name for herself and it wouldn't be long till she would be recognized in the world of fashion!

Now she thought bitterly of those dreams. Why had Madame deliberately declared she wanted designs suitable for older women, when Gail's instructions had been to prepare youthful models? Surely Miss Carolie wouldn't have changed the instructions. Miss Carolie had been enthusiastic about Gail's work.

Something was wrong, though—very wrong. And this was only Gail's first day at the shop!

Perhaps Madame had resented the fact that Gail had returned late after lunch; though, if she had looked at the time cards, she would have seen that Gail had not been gone even an hour. Then her thoughts flew to Dick. She liked him. He was a good companion. Never having had a brother of her own, Gail had looked upon him as one ever since Rosemary had invited her to spend a summer vacation at their home the year Gail's father had died.

Of course they were older now. Gail was 19 and Dick was 23—going into his father's office in the fall. Well, the girl who married him would have a good time, and never a single worry about making ends meet.

Gail rose from the bed. Things hadn't come quite to such a stage with her that she would grasp the first chance to seek security—marry a man whom she did not love. Then she laughed softly. She knew suddenly what was wrong. She was hungry! Things would look different after she had eaten dinner.

Pulling off her frock, she opened her wardrobe trunk (she hadn't unpacked it, for the future still seemed rather uncertain) and selected a lovely green dress of featherweight wool. Then, as she started to run the water for her bath the telephone tinkled insistently.

Gail hastened to pick up the receiver. It must be Dick—but as she answered the call a sudden thrill of happiness rose in her heart. Derek's voice came over the wire.

"Tonight," she repeated, and her eyes were shining . . . "to celebrate . . . But I don't know yet if I've made good! Madame . . . all right . . . in half an hour . . . yes . . . delighted," and she replaced the receiver gently in its cradle.

She danced across to the bathroom. Derek Hargreaves was coming to take her to dinner. She was in and out of the bathtub in almost no time at all. She brushed her red-gold curls till every solitary hair seemed like a thread of burnished gold. She outlined the delicate curve of her lips with a rosy lipstick, dusted her cheeks with powder, and touched the pink lobes of her dainty ears with a delicate, fragrant perfume. Then she slipped into her clothes and perched a smart little hat on her sunny hair.

Glancing in the mirror, she whispered softly to herself, "You've done your best, chile!" She felt extraordinarily happy.

Again the telephone tinkled to inform her that Derek was downstairs. Picking up her handbag, Gail walked along the corridor to the elevator, trying to still the ecstatic beating of her heart, trying to wear a casual look, to make herself feel that this date was of no special importance.

There was admiration in Derek's blue eyes as he took Gail's outstretched hand. "Well, here you are!" he said. "Once more let me offer my congratulations."

"But I told you I didn't know if they were in order. Madame acted so queerly today I don't know what my fate may be tomorrow!"

"Oh, I don't think you need to worry. Besides, we can always have another celebration if need be. Any special place where you'd like to dine?"

"No. I haven't lived in New York since I was a youngster, so every place is new."

"Well, I think you'll like the place I have in mind. It's in the Village, and if you're interested in seeing some of the celebrities about town as well as some of the Park Avenue set we'll go to Ivan's."

"That sounds intriguing."

"The food's very good—lots of Russian dishes. And now, let's take a taxi. You see, I don't have a car."

"Why not the subway?" asked Gail, who had already learned the various modes of transportation in New York. "It's quick—"

"And cheap," added Derek. "But that doesn't count tonight because I've just had a check for an illustration I did months ago. I'd quite forgotten it. The firm went broke and the advertising agent refused to pay until he knew what was coming to him . . . so you see we're celebrating on 'Found Money'!"

In spite of Derek's remonstrances—for he felt a taxi was a necessity, not a luxury according to the present state of his finances—they went downtown in the subway, walking the short block to Ivan's.

The three rooms in the basement of the old brownstone house were crowded, but Derek and Gail were seated at a small table in the glassed-in room which had been added at the rear. Part of the glass roof had been removed and bright-hued awnings formed a ceiling, for now that summer was within hail, this room would become an outdoor dining room.

Gail looked around eagerly, her bright eyes noting the precisely trimmed orange trees in their green wooden stands, the rough, hand-woven linen tablecloths and the peasant ware on the tables. Her toes tapped the floor impatiently in harmony with the wild music of the Russian peasant orchestra.

"What a gorgeous place!" she exclaimed softly, as though afraid of breaking the spell woven about her.

"I thought it might appeal to you. It's very popular just now. Do you like the music?"

"I love it, and the costumes of the orchestra—typically moujik, aren't they?"

"Yes, but they say the leader and one of the others are really members of the old Russian nobility."

"Oh, how interesting! Have you ever spoken to them?" Gail's amber eyes glowed as she turned again in the direction of the musicians.

"No! I've said 'Hello' occasionally when the leader has passed my table at close range. Well, how about ordering dinner now?" Derek offered her one of the menus that the waiter had placed on the table. "While they've lots of Russian dishes, they also serve honest-to-goodness American food, too, if you'd rather have that."

Quickly Gail glanced at the list before her. Then, raising her sunny head—for she had taken off her small green hat—she said, "Won't you please order for me? There isn't a thing in the world I can't eat, for you see I knocked around with Dad so much when I was a kid I learned to eat everything."

"Well, that's easy. How about a nice steak and vegetables and then some Russian dessert, with all the

DEADLINE FALLS SATURDAY NIGHT

Candidates for county offices must file their intentions and pay their fees to L. C. Ellis, county Democratic chairman, by Saturday night, he announced this morning.

"The funds should be in the hands of the county committee when it meets Monday," he said. "At that time the committee will apportion the unpaid difference between what we have set as cost of the primaries for each office, and the amount paid in. Then, in those contests where there is a difference, we will notify all candidates and they have until next Saturday, June 20, to pay in the balance."

A misunderstanding has arisen, that candidates have until June 20 to pay their fees, he pointed out. He again checked the laws and regulations and they show fees must accompany the filing.

"If fees do not accompany the filings, then it's just too bad," he added. "The committee must have the cash when it meets Monday."

Mr. Ellis announced receipt Friday morning of the official list of candidates for state offices.

HUGE OVATION

for a glimpse of the chief executive. Texas rangers, mounted on spirited cow ponies, formed an escort as the president entered the gate and pranced in front of the machine as it sped to the cotton bowl.

Coatless thousands, some 50,000 of them, fanned with programs and sat under bright colored parasols in the 95-degree heat. The sun was broiling but frequent cheers rippled through the stadium as the president made his 30-minute speech over both national networks.

Bishop Seaman To Officiate In City

Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of the Protestant Episcopal church in this district will officiate at a Holy Communion service at Creighton chapel, 2407 Sixteenth street, Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, and at the morning prayer service at St. Paul's-on-the-Plains church, 1609 Avenue Q, at 11 o'clock.

Bishop Seaman was to arrive here from Amarillo this morning and will leave Sunday afternoon. He will be available for conferences and pastoral administrations and may be contacted by telephone calls to Seaman hall.

At the Sunday school session at 9:45 a. m. Sunday at St. Paul's church, Bishop Seaman will present John B. Rountree to the recently organized adult Bible class. Mr. Rountree will teach the class during June and July.

LANDON PLANS

necktie was crumpled and askew when the crush of the well-wishers abated.

Waving his hand for quiet Gov. Landon appeared before the uproarious crowd accompanied by Mrs. Landon and her mother.

"Nothing is more worthwhile than the regard of one's neighbors," he told the throng, suddenly become silent.

"Nothing tugs more strongly at one's heart strings than their good wishes. If, after three years as your governor, I did not enjoy your respect and good will, I should feel that I had failed—

"For the sentiments you manifest by your gathering here tonight, Mrs. Landon and I thank you from the bottom of our hearts. We shall always cherish the memory of this happy evening together."

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 12. (AP)—Good rains in parts of Alberta Province, Canada, as well as prospective showers in Saskatchewan and Manitoba led to late downturns of wheat prices today.

Gains that wheat scored earlier were more than wiped out. Word of a dust storm at one point in North Dakota was virtually ignored.

Wheat closed unsteady, 1-4-5-8 under yesterday's finish, July 84 1-2-5-8, Sept. 85 3-8-1-2, corn 1-8-3-8 down, July 61 1-8-1-4, oats unchanged, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to 2 lower under profit-taking and foreign selling which was absorbed by trade buying. July 11.70; Oct. 11.13; Dec. 11.13; Jan. 11.10; March 11.15; May 11.17.

Prices responded only partially to the relatively easy showing of the late months in Liverpool, owing to a continued good volume of trade and spot house buying. The market held very steady in early trading.

New crop months made new high ground for the movement with October selling at 11.19 and March at 11.20, or 3 to 5 points above yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first hour.

The advance extended to 11.20 for Oct. and March contracts later in the morning making net gains of about 3 to 5 points on the new crop positions.

The New York cotton exchange service estimates domestic consumption for May at 555,000 bales against 577,000 in April and 470,000 in May last year.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 12 (AP)—An easier tone developed at the opening of dealings on the cotton market today as overnight profit taking and some long liquidation appeared.

July held a point higher at 11.08, but Oct. at 11.08, Dec. at 11.05 and Jan. at the same figure were from 2 to 3 points lower.

The volume of business fell off on the decline and prices ruled closely around their opening levels. Oct. recovered to its previous close and sold at 11.11. Dec. changed hands 3 points lower at 11.05 while there was but one sale in Jan. at its opening prices of 11.08.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—The stock market halted for breath today, following its fast upward sprint of the previous session.

While the industrial news was conducive to cheerfulness, many traders apparently decided that profit-taking description was the better part of valor. At that, there was little urgency in the realizing movement and scattered resistance was in evidence near the fourth hour.

Declines were the rule following a firm and active opening. J. I. Case and International Harvester jumped to new 1936 highs before stepping back behind small minus signs. Others, fractionally to a point lower, included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Budd Mfg., General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and American Telephone.

Consolidated Edison was among the few active shares in favor, getting up a major fraction as a $30,000,000 refunding application was announced. Improvement was also shown by Columbia Gas, Caterpillar Tractor, American Woolen Preferred, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Anaconda and Air Reduction.

tain forms of monopoly—the combinations of public utilities and other businesses which sought their own ends, were undemocratic because they were bearing down heavily on their smaller competitors, and on the people they served. Because of this they were taking away opportunity."

"Today," he said, "we have restored Democracy in government. We are in the process of restoring Democracy in opportunity."

Demands Line Of Defense

The president said the very nature of free government "demands that there must be a line of defense held by the yeomanry of business and industry and agriculture. x x x

"Any elemental policy, economic or political, which tends to eliminate these dependable defenders of Democratic institutions, and to concentrate control in the hands of a few small, powerful groups, is directly opposed to the stability of government and to Democratic government itself."

Stressing again the necessity of the federal government taking a hand to cure economic evils when they get beyond state control, the president added:

"The more progressive of the states may do their share, but unless the action of the states is substantially uniform and simultaneous, the effectiveness of reform is nullified—crippled by the chiselers who, like many other evil-doers, still are with us."

Extension Is Urged

Urging extension of his "good neighbor" policy, the president said: "I have taken great happiness here in these past three years in the lessening of sectionalism which is apparent on every hand. x x x

"You Texas whose boundaries extend for hundreds of miles along those of our sister republic of Mexico, can well understand what the good neighbor policy means throughout the Americas.

"We seek to banish war in this hemisphere; we seek to extend those practices of good will and closer friendship upon which peace itself is based.

Empire Is Saluted

"I salute the empire of Texas."

Urging all to come to the Texas Centennial, the president said: "During the past three years, with the return of confidence and the great increase in prosperity the excellent custom of getting acquainted with the United States has exerted itself.

"We see a great tide of travel by rail, by plane, by ship and by automobile. We are indeed seeing things at first hand—may the habit spread."

TRAVELERS WARNED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., (AP)—From Missouri, state of prolific fruit orchards, wrote Mrs. Frances D. Peckler of Union to her sister in Virginia: "Fruit is very scarce, Sister, if you come to this country, bring some dried peaches." But the letter was written in 1934, and now is a state historical exhibit.

PARKING METERS

ed the following opinions of the installation of parking meters:

D. B. Abbott, Yellow Cab company—It won't affect our business, but I want to wait and see what effect they have before I express an opinion.

W. F. Dean, Dean Supply company, Thirteenth street and Avenue H—In the part of town where we are I don't think the meters are necessary. There's space enough around here now to park a dozen cars. We change tires at our doors, and I would want to know whether we'd have to pay for space to do that. I think the meters are unnecessary, that we are getting ahead of ourselves. The town is not big enough, for you still can get a parking place within a block of Broadway most any time.

Town Too Small

Burnie Phillips, Burnie Phillips Tire company—We're too small for parking meters. It will drive business out of town. I'd rather have the friendly spirit and invite them here than charge them for parking space. I think installation of the meters would be wrong.

J. T. Billingsley, manager Ponca Wholesale Mercantile company—From our standpoint, the meters won't affect us commercially. I think, however, that a parking limit down town, if enforced, would be better. I feel this nickel a shot is too much.

R. L. Evans, Camp Comfort—I think it's a very good idea. Drivers are very extravagant with parking space. They will park and leave about half enough space between them for another car.

All Right In Cities

M. B. Hilburn, Lubbock Printing company—They work well in larger places, but I don't know if the town is large enough. Personally I would be in favor of the meters, but I don't know how they will go with out-of-town business. The meters may send all the motorists over on the side streets and take up the parking space near us. A 2-hour or a 1-hour limit would do more to solve the problem. In the larger cities, there is not as large a proportion of country people trading.

L. D. Rankin, M. G. Davis Supply company—I don't believe we are large enough, for rural trade is so heavy. Every little town shops here, and I don't believe the meters would meet with their approval. I believe, however, that we'll grow to the size where we will need the meters, and then it will be a good proposition.

Roche Newton, Newton & Co.—I think the town is too small. We are still a country cow town. If we go to hopping on city stuff, we are liable to get crowned. We have too much open space to charge people for parking.

Think They Are Okay

L. S. Mast, Mast Welding shop—I think they are okay.

L. M. Drown, Hilton hotel—It looks like a good thing to me. They must have been satisfactory in other towns. It means revenue for the City, and I don't much believe people will find fault with them.

J. C. Sanders, Lubbock Tailoring company—I'm not for them myself. Parking should be left open to the public. I don't think they will necessarily hurt my business, but I think they will hurt the public.

M. N. Hale, Lubbock Sash & Door company—I haven't given much thought to it.

Thinks It Ridiculous

Mrs. L. E. Davis—I think it's ridiculous. I don't think Lubbock large enough for it. I think we need two-hour parking rules which would be enforced.

Mrs. A. V. Weaver—I think the town is too small yet. It seems rather drastic now. A little bit later we will appreciate it more.

Mrs. Warren P. Clement—I think it's a fine thing. I've wasted a nickel's worth of gasoline trying to find a place to park many times.

Mrs. J. H. Stiles—I believe that the town is too small for them, now. If arrangements could be made with business houses for them to provide parking places for their employers we wouldn't have so much trouble.

General Nuisance

Mrs. Mamie I. Neal—It seems to me it will be a general nuisance.

Mrs. Ethridge W. Eagan—It seems drastic for a city of this size. I think parking lots would be a better solution. It may work out well but it doesn't seem to me that it would now.

Mrs. Jimmie Wilson—I don't believe Lubbock is a large enough place for them. I can see why they might drive business away.

Miss Flora McGee—I'm willing to try it out.

Danish Clothier Stages Clothes Out Sale

Christian Troelstrup, Copenhagen clothing merchant, demonstrated that ingenuity wasn't an American monopoly when he covered the sides of his store with 1000 overcoats which he wanted to dispose of in a hurry. This is how the store looked before the customers arrived and the police had to be called out to keep order. But he sold the coats.

Delegates in all parts of the hall stood and waved their hats, many whistling while the band blared. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and other mid-western states joined southern states in lifting their standards for Knox.

PROBE IN DEATH WILL BE DELAYED

TAHOKA, June 12 (Special)—A court of inquiry into the death of a man whose skeleton was found tied in a cotton sack Thursday was delayed this morning pending arrival of two witnesses.

The body, virtually decomposed, was turned over by a plow operated by R. L. Hagler, farmer living about 20 miles east of Tahoka and near the Garza-Lynn county line.

The skeleton apparently had been partially covered by wind-drifted soil.

Officers said they believed the skeleton to have been that of a Mexican, who disappeared several months ago. Investigators were District Attorney Truett Smith; Sheriff B. L. Parker; Dr. L. E. Turrentine, county health officer; Deputy Sheriff Norville Redwine; Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county; County Attorney C. H. Cain, and Justice of the Peace W. S. Swan.

A fracture of the right side of the skull apparently caused death.

Discussions of talks during the afternoon will be in charge of Roger Miller, manager of the Southwestern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Wilburn Page of Wichita Falls. Speakers are Grady Shipp of Longview and J. E. Bell of Corpus Christi.

Remedy Is Proposed

All-inclusive vocational teachings were proposed as a remedy for unemployment by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, at the Thursday luncheon in Lubbock hotel.

Not maintaining that vocational guidance held the key to the "whole situation," nevertheless the college head pointed to it as a means of alleviating conditions brought about when "two million young people leave school every year and try to crowd into 25 occupations which they know about when there are 20,000 or more others which they have not been told about."

The fault, he maintained, lies in the failure of our present educational system to open the eyes of youth to its opportunities for work best suited to the individual. "It goes back three-quarters of a century or longer when public schools started with the sole purpose of providing culture to supplement home training in physical skills.

Search For Employes

Today, Dr. Knapp said, "companies are more frequently sending men to our campus and other campuses in a search for employes. Companies are even establishing training schools of their own in an effort to fill their own demands for skilled workers," in spite of the fact that unemployment is still a major issue.

Speaking of Tech college, where special attention has been directed to vocational guidance and education, Dr. Knapp declared, "We could 'market' more graduates in chemistry, engineering and agriculture than we are now producing," and recited figures showing that almost every one of the college's technical graduates of depression years got jobs and remained employed in the work for which they had been trained.

Papers Discussed

Four technical papers were discussed in the afternoon business session which followed the luncheon, presided over by Pete H. Smith of Longview. Harold J. Bryant of Tyler, Paul T. Vickers of McAllen, Glen D. Davis of Dallas, assistant manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and C. K. DeBusk of Jacksonville presented the topics. Grady Shipp of Longview, vice-president, was in charge.

The visitors were treated to a chicken barbecue and "fun night" program beginning at 7:30 o'clock last night on the campus of Texas Technological college. The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce was host to the managers and their wives at the barbecue, and local retail merchants and their wives responded to the invitation to attend the hour program arranged in the gymnasium.

FINAL SERMON TO BE OFFERED TONIGHT BY DR. LONDON

Final sermon of a five-day Christian Workers convention at the Church of the Nazarene will be delivered by Dr. A. S. London of Kansas City on "Why Crime Among Youth, or the Things That Led to the Hickman Trial" tonight at 8 o'clock.

The revival at the church will continue through Sunday night, however, Rev. R. M. Hocker, pastor of the church, reminded.

Many Attending

Approximately 225 out-of-town visitors have attended the convention and today's attendance is expected to increase the number to at least 250, said Rev. Mr. Hocker.

A choir composed of 100 women and girls will sing tonight.

Additional chairs have been needed to seat the crowds the last two nights, said the pastor.

Today, closing date of the assembly, is devoted to Sunday school work, said the minister. Successively, there have been sessions devoted to ministers, WMS and NYPS organizations.

Rev. John L. Knight of Mineral Wells, chairman in charge, expects a large increase in attendance, he said. Dr. A. S. London, general evangelist of Kansas City, spoke at 11 o'clock this morning on "The Four Essentials in Building a Sunday School."

Josephus Daniels To Return To Post

RALEIGH, N. C., June 12 (AP)—Josephus Daniels said last night he had not heard rumors that Jefferson Caffery, ambassador to Cuba, might replace him as ambassador to Mexico.

"I will return to Mexico City June 28," Daniels said.

Outlook On Life Has Changed Since Health Is Restored

Gly-Cas Is A Real Blessing To Mrs. Roberts; Rheumatism Yields To New Remedy, Stomach And Kidneys Regulated After All Else Tried Had Failed.

"There can be no doubt now as to the merit of this new Gly-Cas," Mrs. S. J. Roberts, 1442 Plum street, Abilene, Texas, said. "For years my system had been accumulating poisons until they really had the best of me. My stomach simply refused to digest foods properly. I would bloat after every meal and attacks of indigestion were often unbearable. My stomach would become terribly sore and I would have dizzy spells for weeks at a time. Often spit up undigested foods. I was terribly nervous, would lie awake for hours at a time at night unable to sleep. Then to make my condition more miserable those sharp stabbing pains would come in my arms, neck and shoulders until I could hardly endure the suffering. My lower limbs were affected with rheumatism, swelled and pained in spite of all I tried and I did not know where to turn for help until friends knowing of my condition and of what Gly-Cas had done for others persuaded me to give it a trial—its action, I found, was truly remarkable."

"Gly-Cas reached my awful case and restored me to good and glorious health," she continued, "and to-day I feel like a new person. I can now eat the foods I wish, enjoy my meals without the fear of suffering afterwards for all that gas, bloating and indigestion has been eliminated. My system has been cleansed of its poisons too, and that dreadful rheumatism and neuritis has vanished so those awful pains no longer bother me. Even my kidneys have been regulated so I sleep good the entire night through get my proper rest and get up in the morning full of strength and energy and ready for a full day's work. Life looks brighter for me than it has in years and I cannot praise Gly-Cas half enough for the remarkable change it has made in me."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

fixings—salad, coffee, and so on?"

"Lovely!" exclaimed Gail, and once more her eyes roved around the room. What a lot of interesting looking people! Would she ever belong with them? she wondered. Then, looking across at Derek, she realized that he was gazing intently at her.

"Aren't you going to tell me about your 'kimmy' with Madame?" he asked, his eyes twinkling.

"Oh, but that sounds so paltry after a crowd like this. I don't want to bore you."

"Nothing you can say will ever bore me." Derek answered gallantly, and Gail knew there was more significance to his reply than appeared on the surface.

Immediately he told him about her work at Madame's, quickly skipping over the real reason she had been late at noon. "Now that's the history of my first working day. Do you think I'll ever have another?"

"Another? Why, Madame won't let you go. I've been hearing some things about her, and her former designer who's on his way to Hollywood. You may not enjoy your surroundings much at Lizette's, but when you leave you'll have some reputation! That's what everyone says. And now that we've settled that, let's begin to get acquainted with each other."

The waiter brought the food and hovered about with becoming solicitude while Derek and Gail exchanged many a confidence.

"So your mother's home was in Arizona?" Derek remarked, lighting a cigaret. "I've always wanted to go there and paint, but now that I've got a start at portraits I don't suppose I'll take up landscape work again except for my own enjoyment."

"I've never been there, although Dad and I covered lots of the states, but it's New York for me now!" Gail stopped abruptly. Were her eyes deceiving her or was that really
