

Surface Completed on FM Highway 2166

Collingsworth County's newest farm to market road, No. 2166, was completed recently and on Wednesday, April 25, it was accepted by the Texas Highway Department, according to Clyde Drake, resident engineer.

The road is 13.084 miles in length and begins at a point three miles south of Quail at the intersection with FM 1056. It extends south and southwest to the Hall County line a short distance from Memphis.

Most of the road is through ranch country.

Ivan Dement Construction Company of Amarillo was awarded the contract on a bid of $113,586.84.

The grade and structures were completed last year.

The completion of this road gives a hard-surfaced north-south FM highway through the western part of the county, as FM 1056 extends north through Quail and Marella, to Abra and Dozier, then north to connect with Interstate 40 at Lela.

The picture is looking north into the Buck Creek Valley, and on to the point on the horizon where FM 2166 and FM 1056 meet.

Traversing the red hills through the southwest part of the county, this is one of Collingsworth's attractive drives. Heretofore, it has been touched but seldom by the pleasure driver, but to the ranchers in that section of the county, it gives a quick and direct route into their county seat.

Collingsworth C-C Opens Membership Drive Soon

Fifty new members for the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce will be the aim during the annual membership drive which opens Tuesday, May 10, Jeff Wilson, drive chairman, announced this week.

These members will be sought from all parts of the county and from business firms and individuals.

Joining Wilson in spearheading the drive are John Coleman, Jack Sanford, Billy Mosely and Sandy Parsons.

Wilson described the aim of the drive briefly:

"In order for the Chamber of Commerce to be a better organization for the county, we need new blood and new ideas."

The Chamber of Commerce is county-wide in its field of service, Wilson pointed out.

Personal contact will be used in the drive, it was pointed out, and during the ten days to two weeks period it is under way, one or more members of the committee will call on all community leaders not already members to explain the work and purpose of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wilson outlined the work the chamber is doing now:

"The chamber is working diligently to secure a prospective industry for Collingsworth County and a labor survey is now under way to determine if there is sufficient work force here to support it."

"We are also working with the Water Board to help secure a grant through the Economic Development Administration."

Voters Ballot in Democratic Primary Election Saturday

Collingsworth County voters will ballot on state, district, county and precinct officials in the First Democratic Primary to be held Saturday, May 7.

Little interest has been shown in the election to date, and among the county races, only two are contested. Both precinct races are contested.

Eighty applications for absentee ballots had been made at noon Tuesday, May 3, and the deadline was Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Voters in the North Wellington box were reminded that this year, the election will be held in the Chamber of Commerce office at the northwest corner of the square.

There were two reasons for the change, according to Paul Spillman, county Democratic chairman. The commissioners' court room of the court house, where the election formerly has been held, is outside the North Wellington voting box. Also, a number of older voters of that voting precinct had requested a change so they will not have to climb a flight of stairs.

This year, the names of the precinct candidates will appear on the ballots only in those precincts where they are to be voted on, Spillman said. For example, ballots carrying the names of the Precinct 2 commissioners candidates will be used only in the Lutie box, only voting place in that precinct.

Here are the names of the Democratic candidates, in the order they will appear on the ballot:

Governor: Johnnie Mae Hackworth of Washington County; John Connally of Travis County; and Stanley C. Woods of Harris County.

Lieutenant Governor: Bill Hollowell of Van Zandt County; and Preston Smith of Lubbock County.

United States Senator: Waggoner Carr of Lubbock County; and John R. (Jack) Willoughby of Harris County.

Attorney General: Franklin Spears of Bexar County; Gallows Calhoun of Smith County and Crawford C. Martin of Hill County.

Commissioner of Agriculture: John C. White of Wichita County.

Commissioner of General Land Office: Fred Williams of Val Verde County and Jerry Sadler of Anderson County.

Comptroller of Public Accounts: Robert S. Calvert of Travis County.

State Treasurer: Jesse James of Travis County.

Railroad Commissioner: P. S.

(Puss) Ervin of Dallas County, Byron Tunnell of Smith County, and Paul B. Haring of Goldad County.

Supreme Court of Texas (Chief Justice): Robert W. Calvert of Travis County.

Supreme Court of Texas (Associate Justice, Place 1): Clyde E. Smith of Tyler County.

Supreme Court of Texas (Associate Justice, Place 2): Joe Greenhill of Travis County.

Court of Criminal Appeals

(Judge): John F. (Jack) Onion of Bexar County and W. T. McDonald of Brazos County.

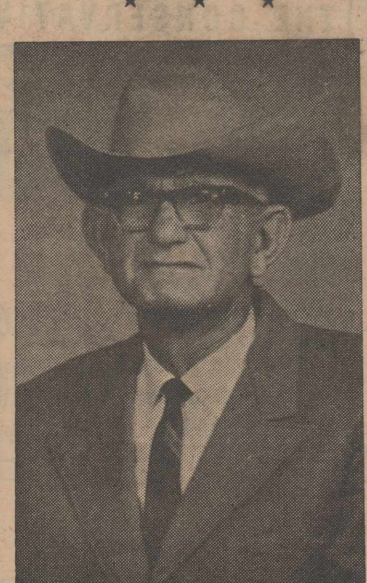

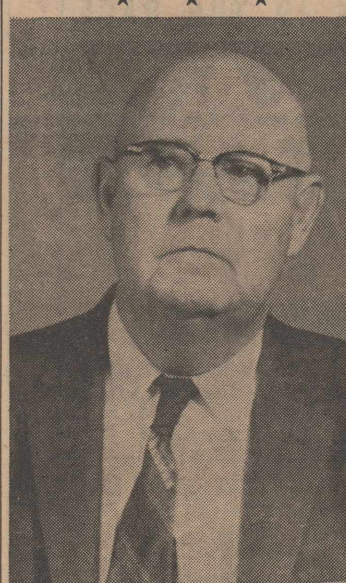

Court of Civil Appeals, 7th Supreme Judicial District, Chief Justice: James G. Denton of Lubbock County.

U.S. Representative, 18th Congressional District: Walter Rogers of Gray County.

State Senator, 31st Senatorial District of Texas: Grady Hazlewood of Rada County.

State Representative, 31st

Two Caught for Hollis

School, Owens-Scott Grocery Burglarized

Burglars hit in Wellington on two successive nights last week, but neither entry was especially profitable for the burglars. No arrests have been made.

On the other hand, Sheriff John Rainey on Tuesday morning, May 3, arrested two men for Hollis officers about an hour after they burglarized a liquor store.

Wellington elementary school was entered Tuesday night, April 26, when burglars broke out a glass pane in the southwest door, reached through and unlocked it, Rainey said. An attempt was made to get in the coke machine but this failed. Some pop was taken and the burglars ransacked the building.

Owens and Scott Grocery was entered Wednesday night and approximately $78.20 in cash was taken, along with several cartons of cigarettes, according to the sheriff.

The burglars broke out one of the front plate glass windows to gain entry, he added.

Sheriff Rainey identified the two arrested in connection with the burglary of Beth's Liquor Store in Hollis as Cecil Jones Aldrich, 34, of Moorcroft, Wyoming, and Kenneth John Haven, 19, who told officers his home was in Rhode Island.

The burglarly was reported about 6 a.m. Tuesday and the arrest was made here about 7. The two were driving a 1954 Ford half-ton pickup with an Alabama license.

The men signed a waiver and were returned to Hollis by Harmon County Sheriff Pete Cunningham.

Demo Precinct Conventions to Be Held Saturday

Precinct 4, Samnorwood, at Samnorwood School.

Most of the years he spent here were in the Cross Roads community, where he was active in the affairs of that area. He served on the Cross Roads school board for many years.

In the early years of this century, Mr. Keller was a freighter between Wellington and Memphis, in a period when most supplies had to be hauled overland from the railroad.

For a number of years Mr. Keller added livestock to his farming enterprises, 7 miles northwest of Wellington.

Joseph Allen Keller was born Sept. 7, 1878, in Pountsmouth, Ohio, the son of G. J. and Martha Keller. He was still a small boy when the family moved to Texas. He came to Collingsworth County alone in 1903 from Johnson County, and later other members of his family followed.

He was married to Miss Rosa L. Richards March 12, 1904 in Wellington.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church Saturday at 2 p.m., with the Rev. A. B. Earnest, pastor, and the Rev. Ellis Todd, pastor of First Methodist Church officiating.

Wynona Jones Weds Beauford Kerr in Home Ceremony Friday Evening

Miss Wynona Jones became the bride of Beauford Kerr of Amarillo in a ceremony performed Friday, April 29, at seven-thirty in the evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hezze Jones. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lois Kerr, of Eldon Lane, Amarillo.

The Rev. A. B. Earnest, pastor of First Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

The setting for the wedding was an arch covered with foliage and white gladioli, and at each side were baskets of white gladioli on tall pedestals and seven-branched candelabras.

Recorded music was played softly during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white lace street-length dress in A-line design. A small silk collar outlined the low neckline and the sleeves were elbow length. Her headpiece was a narrow silk circlet to which was attached a short veil. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations on a bride's Bible.

Miss Jan Glenn, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue silk suit and her headpiece was of matching blue leaves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Jim Berryman of Amarillo was the best man.

Candles were lighted by the bride's brothers, James Howard Jones and Tim Allen Jones. The flower girl and ring bearer were LeeAnn Layton and Derel Layton of Arlington, small niece and nephew of the bride.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Jones were hosts at a reception to honor the couple.

DEFICITS ARE DANGEROUS

The "New Economics" which constitutes the basis for present Federal government economic policy is a radical doctrine. It breaks with economic laws that have stood the test of time. It pushes in the direction of totalitarian government. It has a distinctive Marxian flavor.

And it's chief sponsors in the government and in the academic community either have fooled themselves or they are seeking to fool the American people.

If Americans are going to be saddled with something so drastic, they should be told the truth about it. The "New Economics" will not safeguard capitalism, as is claimed. If its doctrines continue to grow in favor in Washington, capitalism, whose measure of prosperity has made America the envy of the world's people, ultimately will be destroyed.

Lord John Maynard Keynes, the Englishman who propounded the theory upon which the "New Economics" is based, condemned capitalism with carefully worded faint praise, and then devoted 99 percent of his textbook to proposing a mechanism of centralized control which would choke the bloodstream and smother the dynamism of capitalism — and our personal freedom.

Lord Keynes projected the following central ideas — none of which have yet been proved:

1. Thrift is harmful to the general well-being. He said money that individual families would like to save ("put away for a rainy day") must be channeled into a constantly rising purchasing power — under the control of those who would administer the nation's economy from the White House or the Treasury Department.

2. Deficit spending could be made a permanent activity of the Federal government.

He emphasized its benefits as a depression cure, but his disciples apparently have extended the idea to make "controlled" deficit financing and "controlled" inflation a permanent requirement. One disciple has written, "Once you have begun deficit financing, you need only the courage to continue it."

3. Unemployment could be eliminated by a redistribution of wealth, plus continuing government manipulation of the wage-cost-price equation to achieve a constantly rising purchasing power.

Since these postulates are at the very heart of Keynesianism, let's briefly examine them.

1. The habit of thrift is bad for a country, say the Keynesians. This isn't true in a capitalist nation. In capitalism, the savings of people—in banks, insurance companies, savings, and loan associations, in common stocks, etc.—supply the capital for the expansion of business and industry from which all genuine wealth must come. Wealth is created only when a natural resource is processed into something — goods or services — which people will buy.

2. Deficit spending, to the Keynesians, is just wonderful. They are not worried about the size of the national debt (now $320,000,000,000) because with control of the economy in the "right" hands, steady inflation will produce so many watered-down dollars that the debt can someday be reduced. But what about the people with fixed incomes, savings accounts, pensions, and insurance policies; and what about the nation's financial stability with our currency eroding and our debt rising?

3. "Full employment" can be achieved by a redistribution of wealth, say the "New" economists. You get some of the rich man's money, and the poor family "down by the tracks" gets some of yours. No new wealth is created. In order for an individual or a government to take property (money) from one person and give it to another, a new concept of morality is required — or the basic principle of private ownership must be thrown overboard. Karl Marx wrote in the Communist Manifesto: "Communism . . . is the abolition of private property."

Our examination of these three postulates of the "New Economics" has been brief because of space limitation. But the essence of our fear has a solid foundation and, we think, with common sense, too.

Talk to your neighbors about deficit spending and the attack upon thrift. Informed citizens can help safeguard capitalism; and they must, for it is a part of the superstructure of our

Eastern Star Entertains Visitors From 6 Towns, Wellington Masons

The Wellington Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star entertained with its annual Friendship Night, honoring the members of the Masonic Lodge and visitors from six Eastern Star Chapters.

A patriotic program was presented by band and chorus students of James Larson, high school band director.

Jack Davis gave the invocation and Mrs. Nell Land, worthy matron of the Wellington chapter, welcomed the guests. Grand officers present were introduced.

Table decorations also were patriotic in theme, with Uncle Sam hats in red, white and blue predominant in the decorating scheme. The Flags of the United States and Texas were displayed.

Seventy-five registered from Clarendon, Childress, Dodson, Hedley, Turkey and Shamrock Eastern Star chapters, and from the Wellington Eastern Star chapter and the Masonic Lodge.

Drug Prevents Legume Bloat

COLLEGE STATION. — The discovery of a new drug, poloxalene, represents a major breakthrough in the search for a preventive of legume bloat in livestock.

Dr. C. M. Patterson, Extension veterinarian at Texas A&M University, says tests made in Kansas and other states indicate the new drug is very effective in preventing legume bloat which annually causes losses approximating $100 million for U.S. farmers and ranchers.

Although specific causes of bloat elude researchers, they agree it is brought on by excessive foaming of rumen contents of dairy and beef cattle and sheep. To meet the needs of stockmen, an anti-bloat product had to do several things. It had to prevent bloat for at least 12 hours in animals fed green legumes, had to act fast and be palatable and economical enough for general use. It could not leave any residue in milk or body tissues or cause any bad effects on health, reproduction, rumen function, feed intake or milk quality or quantity.

Tests conducted in Kansas, Montana, Iowa, Illinois, Mississippi and Louisiana show the new drug has satisfied all of these requirements.

"Bloat Guard" is a dry product which may be spread over grain as a top dressing. If this is fed to cattle a few minutes before they are pastured or fed freshly cut legumes, bloat will be prevented. Animals weighing 1,000 pounds or more need 20 grams per day and smaller animals 10 grams.

With the bloat preventive, Patterson says stockmen can safely feed legumes and make much wider use of good legumes for pasture.

Mobile Homes More Popular

Mobil homes are gaining in popularity each year, yet the increase in mobile home purchases points up the fact that more attractive and well-planned trailer park facilities are needed, says Mrs. Jane Berry, Texas A&M University Extension housing and home furnishings specialist.

She says that high quality but poorly located mobile home parks are forced to compete economically with other types of housing which can be more favorably located.

FIRST FOREGUESSEER

The French astronomer Urbain Leverrier (1811-1877) first used the telegraph in a practical way to forecast weather conditions. Leverrier showed that a central office, receiving weather reports by telegraph from many places, could forecast storms. In 1855 Napoleon III instructed Leverrier to organize a weather forecasting system for France.

Gins First on Control List

Texas' new 9-member State Air Control Board now has held its second meeting since Gov. Connally named the group, whose purpose is to protect the public from air pollution. Indications are that Texas' more than 1,300 cotton gins will be the first area subject to air control rules and regulations.

Conclusions after a year-long study of pollutants caused by cotton gins is the smoke emitted from burr burning contains significant quantities of arsenic and tars. These poisons, along with gin dust, have contributed to the 20 to 30 percent increase in complaints about respiratory diseases suffered by downwind residents during ginning season. Also, there have been adverse effects on trees and vegetation downwind from arsenic and other evidences of pollutants.

Report states that much of the increased pollutants from the gins are caused from an increase in trash — leaves, limbs, immature bolls, and dust—picked up by mechanical harvesters. Recommendations for curing these problems will be in the report of the Board's staff.

Number of mules used on Texas farms has dropped almost 95 per cent during the past 30 years.

Savings Bonds 25 Years Old

Nearly two hundred million Americans jointly observed a Silver Anniversary this week, as May 1 is the 25th birthday of the Series E Savings Bond—an instrument of thrift that has affected the lives of most citizens, in one way or another, said John Forbis, county chairman.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt bought the first Series E Savings Bond on May 1, 1941, no one could foresee the popularity it would attain in the years ahead. At first, it quickly became a part of the war scene. Bond sales helped to provide Uncle Sam with immediate funds to meet rising war costs. And people bought them, not only for patriotic reasons, but because it was a good place to store excess income until hard-to-get items would again be available.

When the war ended, many expected the huge bond sales of four years to dry up to a trickle. But Americans had learned one good lesson—and the habit of thrift stuck, once and for all. They wanted more bonds, and they got them.

From the $30 billion they owned at the end of World War II, their bond holdings have now grown to nearly $50 billion.

Foreign Demand for U.S. Farm Products Continues Good in 1966

COLLEGE STATION—Export sales of U.S. farm products for the fiscal year ending in July 1966 are expected to total $6.2 billion. Such Texas agricultural products as grain sorghums, rice and soybeans going into foreign trade during the last half of 1965 were at record volume compared with previous years, said J. E. Kirby, Extension economist - marketing and policy at Texas A&M University.

Compared with a year earlier the July-November 1965 figures showed rice exports up 78%, feed grain up 42% and soybeans up 15%. But, Kirby said, cotton exports were down 26% for the period and wheat sales declined by 4%.

During the 1964-65 trading year, the economist said foreign sales of grain sorghum ($145 million) and soybeans ($98 million) were record highs. Rice sales totaled $204 million, second highest on record and wheat and flour exports reached $1,239 million, third highest on record. Raw cotton exports fell 13% to $584 million and its 9th highest export volume.

Figures from reliable independent sources of foreign trade information as well as the U.S. Department of Agriculture show a lower average price trend for all agricultural products in world trade, Kirby said. World wheat prices, for example, in 1965 were down about 6% from the 1964 levels and cotton prices off about 1 1/2%. On the brighter side for Texas producers he noted that soybeans prices increased by 8.4% and rice by 3.6% while grain sorghum prices remained steady.

NEW TRUDAN 2 IS HERE!

Trudan 2, Northrup King's new true hybrid sudangrass, is an exciting forage. Unlike sorghum-sudangrass hybrids, Trudan 2 produces fast growth without coarseness... the fine-stemmed, highly palatable plant yields high TDN. Trudan 2 grows back fast with lower prussic acid content. Great for grazing, hay or haylage. Trudan 2 can mean more beef or milk per acre. In tonnage trials, Trudan 2 has out-yielded sorghum-sudangrass hybrids.

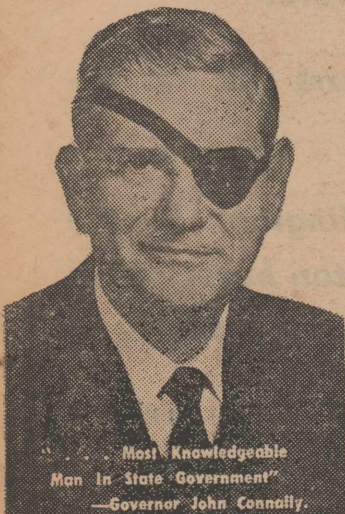

Order NEW Trudan 2 now. Supplies are limited.

Vote Saturday, for We Cannot Delegate Our Duty as Citizens

Relatively little has been said this year about the primary election, coming as it does close behind the Water Bond election. Now it is only three days away.

We have just seen one of the finest turnout of voters the county has known, and we urge you, repeat this as we choose our public officials, from precinct through state level.

Each year, encroachment on the rights of individuals becomes greater. Only we by our own efforts can stave off this tide.

We cannot delegate our duties of citizenship. And one of these duties is as simple as going to the polls to vote, to express our preference of those who would govern us. On Saturday, May 7, we urge you to vote—vote for the person of your choice.

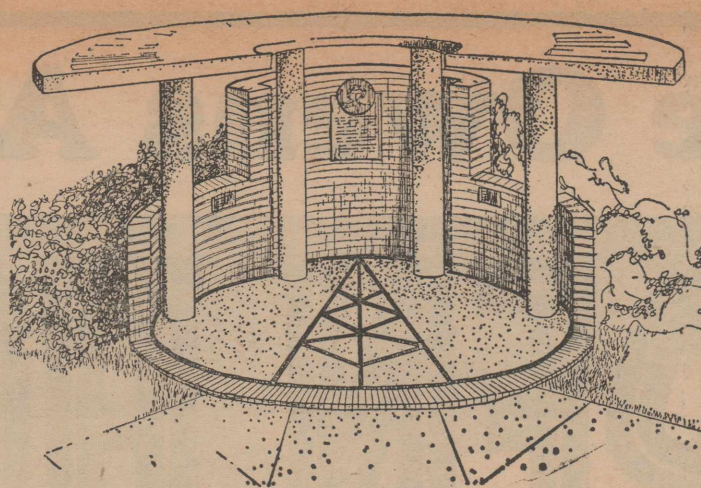

Our communications specialist says daytime television is the punishment employers have come up with for workers who stay home when they're not really sick.

A good neighbor is one who can watch you take it easy without thinking you are lazy.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor :

I see where it is being projected in an Oklahoma county to build 150 dipping vats with $187,000 of Poverty War money.

My louseless neighbor says after watching the TV news pictures, he is in favor of the poverty warriors' plan to go on this big de-verminizing spree.

But he thinks it would be cheaper to scatter the dipping vats around more, like one or two in each major city, to save the cost of rounding up and shipping our woolly beatniks and protestniks to a central dipping facility.

My medium-rich cow attendant neighbor says it was revealed to him one time when he put on a Free Barbecue that humanity suffers from a great Free complex.

People feel obligated to get their share or a little more of anything that is free, whether they need it or not, and even if it is more trouble to get to it than it is worth.

So he expects when Free hospitalment starts, our hospitals will have to stack their patients five or six to a bed, like cordwood. Without discrimination as to race, color, or sex, of course.

My hinterlandish neighbor is a persistent but unappreciated Congressional advisor, and is now telling the lawmakers how to legislate a totally safe car.

He says autos had ought to be built of armor plate, and round like a big pool ball, with the passengers packed in a foam rubber nest inside.

Claims it would be real Action type living to go rolling down the highways, caroming off other cars and cushioned guard rails and 10-ton trucks, while the patrolmen direct traffic with big pool cues.

It would seem to some of us ruralistic minds that the Bible may be outlawed one of these days, for teaching doctrines subversive of The Great Society.

On account of it lauds a square Samaritan for getting involved with some beat-up citizen who had obviously provoked some civil rights demanders by trying to hold back something they wanted.

Whereas the modern Great Samaritan in a case like this kicks the victim aside and rushes after the robbers, to doctor their deprived psyches with a big money poultice.

Water Rights Considered

Considering a case which could affect every rancher, farmer and other landowner in Texas—so far as water rights on their own land is concerned—are the three judges who make up the Third Court of Civil Appeals in Austin.

Appeal by P. L. Garrison of Bandera County of a trial court decision favoring the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water Improvement District No. 1 may revise the process authorized by the Legislature in 1959 under which a landowner could get irrigation rights to more than 200 acre feet of water a year through a relatively simple process of filing for a permit with the Water Rights Commission.

Garrison got his permit on Jan. 8, 1964. But a few days before that, the Commission had ruled that the 1959 route to a permit for additional water did not apply where navigable waters are concerned.

Attacking the permit because of this rule, the water improvement district won a trial court verdict that the Commission's rule was valid, but Garrison's permit was not. This because the usually dry west prong of the Medina River, covered by the permit, is part of a "navigable stream."

gible stream."

Garrison fought two sides in the arguments before the appellate court, because the Commission's attorney said he would rather the court upheld the rule than the permit, even though both were issued by the Water Rights Commission.

If Garrison loses, Texas landowners will frequently find themselves in need of a surveyor and an attorney when they plan to apply for a water use permit.

FOR COMMISSIONER PRECINCT 2

(Political Ad Paid for by A. S. Whitson)

I ask your vote and support when you cast your ballot for County-District Clerk

One of the most important offices you will vote on in the Democratic Primary May 7 is the County-District Clerk. Nowhere is courtesy, accuracy and general business experience more important.

I am asking for your support on the basis of my experience as a business woman in this county. I believe this has given me insight into our problems.

Please consider these qualifications when you go to vote:

- I was employed at the First National Bank 15 years and was Assistant Cashier when it was sold.
- I have been a bookkeeper for three gins in Wellington; I have worked with cotton buyers and I have been a cotton buyer. With this background I am familiar with keeping detailed records.
- My husband is a farmer and I know the problems of the farmers and ranchers.

I have only this promise to make: If you elect me your next county-district clerk, you may be sure I will show courtesy and consideration to all who have business with that office or with the county or district courts.

It has been a pleasure to visit with you as I have gone over the county. If I have missed any of you, I take this means of asking your vote and support. I assure you I will appreciate it.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW:

FUTURE OF FARMING By Roger W. Babson

Over the past quarter century, we have been watching closely the revolutionary changes that have taken place on the nation's farms. Machines have been replacing men at an explosive rate, and now U.S. agriculture is a huge, modern industry. It is, in fact, our largest industry, providing income of $14 billion in 1965, a boost of $1 billion over 1964.

We think this farm-income growth is going to continue.

Fewer, Bigger — and Richer

While the small, general-purpose farms have been fading out, the streamlined type of modern family operation has been moving triumphantly ahead. Naturally, this kind of farming takes plenty of outlay for mechanization, and far greater technical skill. But, where the management is competent and well informed, the profits more than make up for the costs of machinery and the study required to develop more advanced technical know-how.

Over the past five years, net income per farm has pushed upward 40% to a new all-time height of $4,150. Perhaps even more significant is the fact that, in the same period, per capita income of farmers has advanced 35% while income for the remainder of the population has risen only 20%. Farm labor costs have, of course, been drifting downward for years because of agricultural mechanization, and acreage has been climbing steadily for the individual farms. These latter trends are bound to continue.

Strong Supports

There have been many related reasons for the healthier demand for agricultural products and for rising profits. The most elementary but important cause is the enormously broader spending for foods of all sorts, due to large increases in population, soaring spendable income, and richer eating habits. Exports of farm produce have been on the upward push for a long while. Markets have been particularly well sustained in the countries of Western Europe, in Japan, and in many other free nations. Higher living standards in such places favor continuing brisk demand for our agricultural exports for an indefinite period.

As long as our own people are adequately supplied with foodstuffs, there will continue to be heavy shipments to needy nations that lack sufficient growing operations of their own. This entire export situation, along with the government's cutting back of our planting acreage over the years and our own booming markets, has succeeded in bringing surpluses down to manageable levels. Since over-supplies all ways mean downward pressure on prices, present conditions are more conducive to good returns for farmers. Income per farm will, of course, be steadily greater as the number of farms dwindles and the greater prosperity is divided among fewer establishments.

Harvests Could Be Greatly Increased

In spite of the phasing out of great numbers of marginal farms, the strong nucleus of larger units that are left could dramatically step up agricultural production. Total harvests during 1965 smashed all previous records. Experts feel that even these highs could be topped some 20% in a couple of years if federal acreage controls were done away with.

Some interested parties are suggesting that 55 million idle crop acres be replanted, especially in view of the number of countries where starvation actually threatens.

What would be the effect of sudden removal of acreage restrictions? Prices would tend to fall unless demand could be kept in line with output. Since world markets are a strong part of the success-key for American farmers, exports would have to be maintained—

Cotton Insect Control Possible

By Sam Helmers,
County Agent

Cotton insects can be economically controlled by the use of recommended insecticides at the correct time.

In order to assist cotton producers in their fight against insect pests, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has released the 1966 "Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects" and copies are available at the offices of all county agents in cotton producing counties.

Copies of the revised guide are now ready for distribution from the local office to any interested cotton grower. The and even increased—if price softening were to be prevented.

However, we feel that—under present conditions and with this dire world need—there may be dangers of shortages, at least in some grains and other basic farm products. Certainly, if underdeveloped customer-countries on a wide scale could be brought up to the economic level of Canada or Japan, our farmers could whistle a happy tune for a long time.

guide not only lists the recommended chemicals but also the amounts of each needed for insect control. Advice and suggestions are also given on the safe use of insecticides.

Recommendations in the guide are based on the results of continuing research conducted throughout the state by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Entomology Research Division, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The cotton insect control program for 1966 includes three phases: namely, early season control which insures early fruiting and maturity in certain areas; late season control which insures continued fruiting and fruit protection and early stalk destruction and farm cleanup which reduces populations of boll weevils, pink boll worms and tobacco budworms.

Cotton growers are advised to inspect their cotton fields to determine the degree of infestation and to check for such pests as aphids and spider mites which may influence the choice of insecticides before applying an insecticide.

Study Beef from Dairy Bulls, Steers

Texas A&M University's Animal Science Department has started a pilot project to determine the practical and money-making possibilities of producing beef from dairy bull and steer calves. The project will be completed in April and results should give researchers information on whether or not such a program can provide dairymen with another significant source of income.

WT Works With Green Drama

CANYON.—A plan of co-operation in the production of "Texas," the musical drama which will play this summer in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park has been announced at West Texas State University and the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

The University departments of speech and music will assist in the production, through using "Texas" as a laboratory work for university students, WTSU President Jame P. Cornette said.

Branding Iron Theatre Director William A. Moore, and the university's technical director, Erin Wertenberger, will direct the foundation's production of Paul Green's historical pageant.

Many members of the cast of "Texas" may enroll for one or more semester hours' credit in the university for their work in the canyon production through the speech department's summer offerings. The music department will assist in recording musical selections for "Texas" as part of instruction for many of its students.

Mrs. Ples Harper, president of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, said that Dr. Crannell Tolliver, head of the WTSU speech department, Mr. Moore, and Dr. John Green, music department head, are all ex-officio members of the foundation board, "to assist in the co-operative effort." She said she "hopes that additional departments of instruction at WTSU may join in the program in the future."

Carolyn Ann Christian
Honors, all richly deserved, have come to Carolyn Christian during her three years in Wellington high school.

Only a few weeks ago she ended her year's reign as Miss Wellington. Last year she was FFA Sweetheart, chosen for Who's Who, and was a delegate to Girls State at Austin, where she served as justice of the peace.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Christian who live near Wellington, Carolyn Ann was born in Amarillo April 10, 1948. She attended Will Rogers Elementary School and Travis Junior High School in Amarillo before coming here.

Whatever the activities she has participated in, Carolyn has given her full attention. A member of the Future Homemakers of America, she held an office, including that of president, three years.

She also attended a state convention as the chapter's voting delegate last year. For the last three years, Carolyn has belonged to the Future Teachers of America chapter and again was an officer.

Her scholastic ability won membership in Beta Club three years; she was an officer as a sophomore and attended the state convention as a junior and senior. She has been a class officer and for three years a teacher's aide.

Carolyn has been a member of St. Joseph's Hospital Junior Auxiliary four years, and has served as president. She was capped two years and this year received a pin—denoting many hours of volunteer service to patients.

American government is her favorite subject and her hobbies are playing the piano and creative writing.

Leslie will attend Texas Tech.

Water Quality Costs Going Up

Taxpayers, as well as the men who run the sewage treatment plants in growing cities, must get used to the fact that in the future they are going to have to maintain high standards of operation of their plants. Higher quality water means higher cost of treatment.

This came out in the Texas Water Pollution Control Board meeting when the City of Dallas objected to a doubling of the Board's usual chlorination requirement, arguing it would cost more than it would be worth.

Dave Smallhorst, the Board's executive secretary, said: "The cities, including Dallas, have to recognize the fact that an increase in water quality requirements is going to mean an increase in cost." Smallhorst said chlorination is necessary to protect public health and the first concern of the Board is the health of the public.

Sharon Kaye Blackshear

Sharon Kaye Blackshear has divided her school years between Wellington and Borger, but it was to WHS that she chose to return for her senior year.

Sharon is the daughter of Mrs. R. L. Blackshear, 1105 Floydada Street. She was born here July 29, 1948 and attended Wellington schools until her junior year, when she moved to Borger.

Her extra curricular activities are varied. She was on the annual staff and a convention delegate representing the Future Teachers of America, WHS chapter. Ti-ca is her social club.

Sharon has been a teacher's aide and an assistant in the library. She also was in the speech class plays and played basketball as a freshman and sophomore. She was a member of St. Joseph's Hospital Junior Auxiliary one year.

Speech and English are her favorite studies and swimming and reading her hobbies.

A mid-summer wedding will begin a whole new life for Sharon.

Marie Teresa Nickelberry

Honors have come to Marie Teresa Nickelberry for her singing and her spelling during her years in high school.

Marie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Nickelberry, 309 Ennis Street.

She was born here Oct. 7, 1947, and attended Booker T. Washington School from 1954 until the second semester of 1964, when she moved to Pampa. The next year she returned to Wellington.

One of the school's fine singers, she has been a member of the high school choir four years and at Booker T. won a first place ribbon individually in the Octet. She also was a member of the Student Council and won three district championships in Interscholastic League spelling.

Biology, history and general business are her favorite studies, while her hobbies are drawing, singing and sewing.

Marie will attend Draughon's Business College in Oklahoma City.

Marilyn Carol Philley

The editor of this year's yearbook, The Skyrocket, is Marilyn Carol Philley, and this is but one of many activities she has crowded into her one year in Wellington high school.

Marilyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Philley, 905 West Avenue, was born at Wellington Nov. 20, 1947. All of her school work, however, was at Perryton until her family moved here last year.

Her classmates this year chose her Most Courteous and Most Co-operative, and members of the Future Teachers of America elected her delegate to the state convention.

She is one of the honor graduates and a member of Beta Club, whose members also sent her as their delegate to the state convention.

Marilyn has been a member of Future Homemakers, Future Teachers and her school chorus two years each. This year, she is also treasurer of the Student Council and a teacher's aide.

Outside of school, St. Joseph's Hospital Junior Auxiliary is her service organization and Ti-ca her social club. Marilyn was winner of the Salt Fork SCD essay contest from the senior class.

History and English are her favorite studies and reading is her hobby.

Marilyn will attend Amarillo Junior College.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The primary election on next Saturday, May 7, slipped up on us until this week. It is no longer true on the county level for the candidates have been campaigning extensively by personal calls at the homes of every voter besides sending out advertising through the mails and inserting advertisement in the newspaper. For these reasons it can be assumed that most voters are fairly knowledgeable about who is running for what office on the county and district levels as well as the state.

The important decision that may slip up on the citizen next Saturday is the one to be made at the Precinct conventions. All the Democratic Precinct conventions will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon. The places of these meetings are: South Wellington box, District Court room; North Wellington box, Commissioners' Court Room (voting will be in the C of C office); Samnorwood, School; Quail, School; Dodson, School; Dozier, Church of Christ; Marella, Store; Lutie, gin office.

It is in these seemingly insignificant precinct conventions that the working machinery of a political party is reorganized and put in working condition and given its directions every two years. It is in this small gathering of people where you have your only say as to who will be nominated for presidential election years, which is of no concern until 1968. It is also in these little precinct meetings where you will have your only free say about the working of your party in 1966 and 67. It is in these same precinct meetings where you will have your say as to whether Gov. John Connally or Sen. Ralph Yarborough will lead the Democratic Party in Texas for the next two years.

Gov. Connally has been leading a strenuous fight to improve the educational system in Texas from the high school level to the highest universities, as well as working for increased tourism, increased industry and many other sound and constructive moves that will increase the prosperity of the state and the welfare of its people. But he is opposed to a state income tax as advocated by the AFL-CIO and the other extreme left wing policies that will prevail if Sen. Ralph Yarborough and his henchmen or his bosses, whichever you want to call them, gain control of the party machinery.

For these reasons I say that it is imperative that the people go to the precinct meetings next Saturday and vote your sentiments. You know what you think; but it takes active participation in the small political meetings at the right time to get any part of your thinking into useful motion.

In all probability a resolution will be offered supporting Gov. John Connally. If one is not, offer one yourself. Vote against any seeking to make the state party just a branch of the national party—that is the AFL-CIO thinking. And remember this starts in the precinct convention. The course is set by the time the county convention rolls around.

The picture of the four whooping cranes in another part of the paper reminds me that the giant birds are not faring too well this year. In March 42 of these exotic cranes left their winter home at the Aransas Pass Refuge; but according to the last reports only 27 had been counted at their summer

Stevenson Named AC Dealer of Month

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson were honored at a dinner Monday evening, May 2 by Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company, with whom he has been associated 31 years.

Mr. Stevenson, of Stevenson Implement Company, was chosen the first Dealer of the Month in the West Texas-New Mexico District, under a program which Allis-Chalmers is inaugurating nationwide. He received a plaque.

Mrs. Stevenson was presented with a silver party set. Both were appropriately inscribed.

At the dinner, R. E. Bruse, branch manager, recalled that Mr. Stevenson is the oldest farm equipment dealer in Wellington. Allis-Chalmers sought him for the dealership here three years before he finally signed a contract. He started in the days when implement dealers were still taking in mules and livestock in trade for new tractors.

"I had as many as 20 to 25 head on hand at one time," Mr. Stevenson recalls.

A two-row tractor, equipped at that time cost $1400 to $1500. Sometimes Mr. Stevenson tried to discourage farmers from buying the two-row outfits, because they didn't need that much of a tractor.

Eight- and ten-row tractors are commonplace with this Wellington dealer now, and the cost is $4,000 and above. Cab equipment complete with carpet mats on the floor, heating and air conditioning, and a small car television unit is available and that costs about as much as the whole tractor did when Mr. Stevenson took over the Wellington dealership.

Thirty years ago, he recalled Monday, there was considerable question as to whether a rubber-mounted tractor could operate in sandy land. Mr. Stevenson remembered a demonstration on a farm near Hedley and the branch officers and farmers for miles around came. The tractor drove out at about six miles per hour. The experiment was successful and farmers in the deep sand knew they could use tractors with tires.

nesting home in the far north. It is hoped that more will show up later.

What this country needs is a birth control pill for Chinese Elm trees.

Factors that have been characteristic of Stevenson Implement Company through the years were in part responsible for Mr. Stevenson's selection as the first "Dealer of the Month."

These include the service which Stevenson Implement Company gives its customers and the unusually complete line of parts, Mr. Bruse explained. And there is the friendly, considerate manner that is found in all of those connected with the firm.

Joining in paying tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson were employees of the firm, Gene Mote and Johnny Mote, brothers who are in charge of the mechanical work and parts, Ray Scott, who also farms, and Mrs. Max Manly, bookkeeper. One employee was unable to attend, Hezze Jones.

Representing Allis-Chalmers Monday night were W. F. Hart, branch manager at the time Mr. Stevenson joined the company; F. J. Munk, division manager of Amarillo; Mr. Bruse, also of Amarillo; and Vernon Compton, district manager of Vernon.

Others present were Mrs. Ray Scott, Mrs. Gene Mote, Mrs. Johnny Mote, Max Manly, Miss Virginia Robey, and Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson.

Postpone FFA, Scout Auction

The auction sale planned by the Samnorwood Future Farmers of America and the Samnorwood Boy Scout Troop 39 has been postponed until a later date, Supt. Robert Dwight said this week.

The event was originally planned for May 7. The change of dates became necessary because the Area I FFA convention will be held in Lubbock on that date.

This is a comedy, with a hillbilly setting, and a full evening of entertainment is assured, said Joe Lennon, one of the directors.

These leading roles are taken by Mary Ann Lindsey and Tommy Needham.

The plot continues as Ma Brannigan, not at all pleased with the engagement, enlists the help of her hillbilly neighbors to discourage the match.
