VOTE ON THE AMENDMENTS

Three to be on the Ballots at the General Election November 3rd

November 3rd, the date of the general election will soon be here. Do the voters of Collingsworth county realize that there is aside from electing all county and state officers the matter of voting upon three Constitutional Amendments, two of which should be of especial interest of the voters of this county.

Ballots at this time should be cast for or against the amendment of Article 1, section 3, determining whether or not the initiative and referendum shall be adopted in Texas.

Another amendment that will appear on the ballot and on which you will be privileged to vote for or against is one providing a regular salary for legislators of $1200 per year for the year in which the regular sessions are held with an additional compensation of $5 for each day of special session held in years succeeding the regular sessions, and to extend the length of the session.

The third amendment will provide for the erection of sea walls by counties along the coast where they are needed to protect the lives and property of those living near the gulf. Of course this latter does not directly affect us here, but it would be proper we think to vote for this amendment as it gives the people of that section the option of voting on the proposition together with the matter of voting the necessary bonds.

Don't ask us to give you the $8.00 worth of ware with a Majestic range after our demonstration week, as this special offer applies to demonstration week only, Monday, October 26 to Saturday October 31.

EXPRESS RATES REDUCTION

Effective Now and Covers the Whole of the United States

Washington, Oct. 16—Drastic and sweeping reductions in express rates for the entire United States, recently ordered by the Interstate Commerce became effective today. Also effective at once the express companies are ordered to revise business methods. The later order the commission declares is designed to "safe guard the public." It simplifies the claim of shippers when disputes arise and disposes of the red tape method. Rate reduction range all the way from 10 to 60 per cent, food-stuffs drawing the principal reduction.

The new rates are to be "experimental," for two years the commission announced. Unless it is shown that the express companies suffer too great a loss of revenue the rates will eventually become permanent. The Commission ruled that the express companies can effectively compete with the parcel government parcel post and with sufficient efforts and reasonable rates can offset any losses.

Rev. J. M. Harder Here

Rev. J. M. Harder, who held such a successful revival here this summer will pay us a return visit. He will preach at the Baptist church Saturday night, Sunday at 11 and Sunday night. He will preach at Dodsonville at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Your neighbor knows his Majestic range uses little fuel, bakes perfectly, heats abundance of water good and hot and costs practically nothing for repairs. Let us show you why. Call during our demonstration week, October 26th to 31st.

School will start next Monday October 26th. With the splendid faculty in charge everything augurs well for a very successful term, indeed The stoves for the new heating system have not yet arrived and it may be necessary to put the old stoves in temporarily. A member of the School Board said the pipes leading water to the new school house will be put in at once.

The splendid new brick building will afford ample room and the school won't be crowded like last year.

'DON'T WORRY' ABOUT COTTON

Example of Many Here Who Seed the Wisdom of Diversifying their Crops

L. D. Bartlett, one of our farmers never bothered about the "low" price of cotton, was in the city this week, and informed us that he had filled his barn with fine feed stuff, and hauled 35 loads of maize, kaffir etc., to market, and for which he received from eight dollars and half to ten dollars per ton.

We have just received 4 cars of flour and are in position to make you prices that will look good. Smith & Brown.

SCHOOL LAND INTEREST NEWS

General Land Office Not Exact Prompt Payment this Year

The following letter has been sent out by the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Austin to the various County Clerks in West Texas and the Panhandle. No doubt in many instances throughout the state this action will be very beneficial as it will enable many to hold their cotton or other farm products for better prices that otherwise might be forced to sell to meet their land interest payments which become due November 1st. The letter reads as follows:

Mr. O. L. Couch, County Clerk Collingsworth County, Texas.

Dear Sir: On account of the financial condition existing at the present time, I write this to say you may say to your banks and to such citizens as may make enquiry that I will not expect remittances on interest due the 1st of November, present year, to be as numerous and as prompt as they have been heretofore. I am writing this so that your people may know that they will be in no danger of having their land forfeited any time soon after the first of November if their interest is not paid promptly. You further understand that before I declare forfeiture I will notify the people, Those who can do so, of course, ought to pay their interests promptly. Please show this letter to your banks.

Yours truly,
J. T. Robison,
Land Commissioner.

R. H. Cocke, Sr., returned yesterday from a visit of several months at Corpus Christi. A. V. Cocke's family, who was also at Corpus Christi, returned, with him. A. V. will return about the middle of next month.

INTERPRETS LIQUOR LAW

The Courts Decision on the Allison Law Permits Whiskey Shipments

Austin, Texas, Oct. 14.—In deciding the case of Elmer Pede of Kaufman county, convicted of shipping liquor into dry territory, the Court of Criminal Appeals interpreted the law to prohibit the shipment of intoxicating liquor into dry territory for unlawful purposes, but does not apply if the shipment is for the use of the person to whom it is shipped only.

Atty. General Says Liquor Shipments Legal

Austin, Tex., Oct. 16.—As construed by the court of criminal appeals the Attorney General today advised Governor Colquitt that he was powerless under the Allison law to restrain railroads and express companies from delivering interstate shipments of liquor into prohibition territory in Texas.

An amendment to the law by the state legislature was necessary to meet the court's view, declared the Attorney General.

The governor said he had no present intention of calling a session of the legislature for such an amendment.

A Far-Reaching Decision.

The incongruous, one might say the grotesque, situation that has developed regarding the operation of the measure known as the Allison Liquor Law, is emphasized by a decision of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, handed down Wednesday. By that decision interstate shipment of liquors designed for private or personal use may be made to local option territory. The new features of this far-reaching decision are presented on another page of The Tribune. It does not need to add that outcome of this notable case will command earnest attention in Texas—and even more so outside the state.

For the judgment of the high court (and here is where the incongruity is manifest,) liquor dealers in outside States may ship their wares anywhere in Texas with impunity. The mail order and express business may flourish as long as there are people in "dry" territory who want to buy and people in outside States who want to sell.

But under this ruling dealers in "wet" territory in Texas defies the law and incurs its penalties if he ships liquor to a private customer in a "dry" district. To illustrate more clearly, the dealer in Waco may not send any liquor to an individual at Crawford, McGregor (or any local option district), even though such purchaser intends to keep the liquor in his home, for his own personal use. But the mail order liquor house at Kansas City (or in any locality in another state) can sell to as many customers at Crawford or McGregor as he can find in "dry" territory, the only requirements of importance being that such buyers do not propose to sell or give away the intoxicants after a manner violative of Texas local option laws. There is the grotesqueness, the incongruity of the situation—and it is

THE WOMAN WHO KNEW TOO MUCH

There was once a Woman who Understood her Fellow Men very Thoroughly. This Endearred her to Many of Them, but as she was Very Particular in Her Tastes, they Seldom Suited her. Finally, however, she Found a Man who Perfectly Satisfied all her Requirements. She then Brought to Bear upon him All her Information concerning His Sex, which was Great. One day the Man's Sister Called on Her and said, "It is a Good Thing that you are So Strong, for so is He, and He does Not Like Delicate Women."

At this the Woman Smiled. "I should be Very Foolish were I to Act on This Hint," said she. "My Knowledge of Men teaches me that Such Men invariably Prefer Women of Opposite Disposition from Themselves." So when he Next Saw her she Told him that she was Terribly Afraid of Mice and Could Not Walk Far.

Again His Sister Called on Her and said, "It is a Good Thing that you Understand Politics so Well, for he is Much Interested in it, and says that All Intelligent Women should be, too."

The Woman Smiled Wisely. "I should be More than Foolish were I to Allow myself to be Deceived by This," she said. "When a Woman admits that she can Master Politics, then it is All Up with Her. A Man's last claim to Superiority is Gone, and Life would be Unendurable to Him without That." So when he next Saw her she Asked him if it were True that Republicans were Better Dressed than Democrats, and why They had to Import their Ballots from Australia.

By and by he Stopped Calling, and she Learned to her Horror that he had Engaged himself to a Woman who had Written a Pamphlet on the Currency Question. She herself had Given a great Many Ideas on this Subject to the Other Woman. Thus she Realized that the Man was Peculiar.

This teaches us that Things are Sometimes What They Seem.

FABLES IN SLANG

GEORGE ADE

The New Fable of Everybody's Friend and the Line-Bucker.

In a sequestered Dump lived two Urchins, Edgar and Rufus, who went to the Post with about an equal Handicap.

They got away together down the broad Avenue of Hope which leads one Lad over the hills and far away to the United States Senate Chamber and guides another unerringly to the Federal Pen near Leavenworth, Kansas.

When Edgar was a Tootsey he received a frequent dusting with Extreme Violet Talcum Powder and was allowed to play with a flaxen-haired Doll named Celeste.

About the same time, Rufus began to take Cold Baths and was propped up to look at Pictures of Napoleon and John L. Sullivan and Sitting Bull.

At School each was a trifle Dumb. If Edgar fell down on an Exam, his Relatives would call a Mass Meeting to express Regrets and hang Crape all over the Place.

If Rufus got balled up in his Answers, his immediate Kin would pat him on the Back and tell him he was right and the Text-Book was wrong.

Edgar would emerge from the Feathers every morning to find his Parents all lined up to wish him a new set of Police Regulations.

They held up the Right Forefinger and warned him that he was merely a Grain of Dust and a Weakling and a poor juvenile Mutt whose Mission in Life was to Lie Down and Behave.

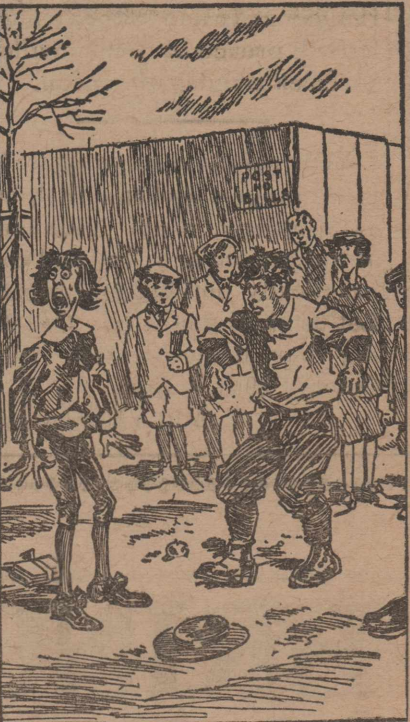

Rufus would be aroused each Sunrise by a full Military Band of 60 Pieces playing "Hail to the Chief who in Triumph Advances."

Between the Buckwheats and the Sorghum, the two Family Boosters would slip him the pleasing Information that never since the Morning Stars pulled their first Harmonies had there bounded into the Arena another such Prodigy of Intellectual Brilliance and Physical Valor.

Consequently when Rufus hit the Fresh Air, with the McGuffey under the Arm, he wore his Chest about a foot in front of him.

He acknowledged with a Slight Nod the Salutation from some Member of the Town Board.

Edgar, staggering under a Ton of Restrictive Advice, would spot Rufus at a Distance and sneak into an Alley, because he didn't wish to get Blood all over his Clean Waist.

Whenever Edgar was forced into a Battle and came home smeared and disarranged, his Mother would go to her Room and Cry softly and Father would Paint a vivid Word-Picture of a Wretch standing on the Gallows with a Black Cap over his Head.

Then Edgar would crawl to the Hay-Mow and brood over his Moral Infirmities and try in a groping way to figure out his Relation to Things in General.

But, when Rufus appeared all dripping with Gore, his Seconds would cool him out and rub him with Witch Hazel and pin Medals on him and indicate to him on a Chart the exact latitude and longitude of the Solar Plexus.

His Parents made the Grave Mistake of backing him to the Limit. They pumped him full of Courage every Morning and set him out to Lick all Comers.

No wonder he became as pugnacious as U. S. Grant, as conceded as a Successful Business Man and as self-assured as a Chautauqua Lecturer.

Everyone disliked him intensely but just the same they stepped off into the Mud and gave him the entire double width of Cement Sidewalk.

Edgar, on the other hand, was one of the most popular Door-Mats that ever had "Welcome" marked up and down his Spinal Column.

All those who scratched Matches on him and used him as a Combination Hall-Tree and Hitching Post used to remark that he didn't have an Enemy in the World.

They had corralled his Goat, so he had to play the Part himself.

It had been deigned into him that True Politeness means to wait until everyone else has been Served and then murmur a few Thanks for the Leavings.

Besides, his Parents had convinced him that if he went Fishing he wouldn't get a Nibble, and if he climbed a Tree he would fall and break his Leg, and if he tried to manipulate more than Two Dollars at one time, he would go Blink.

Therefore, when both were in College, Rufus acted as plunging Half-Back, with Blue Smoke coming from his Nostrils, and achieved the undying Distinction of being singled out by Walter Camp.

Edgar sat up on the Bleachers with 2,500 other Mere Students and lent a quavering Tenor to a Song about Alma Mater.

Even the Undergrads could not take the Tuck out of Rufus.

He was fresher than Green Paint and his Work was Raw, but he was so Resilient that no one could pin him to the Mat and keep him there.

When a Boy has been told 877 times a Day for many Years that he is the Principal Feature of the Landscape, it takes more than ordinary Doctoring to Cure him.

He left College thoroughly convinced that the World was his Oyster and that he had an Opener in every Pocket.

He began grabbing Public Service Utilities by Strong-Arm methods, whereupon a lot of Uplifters became excited and wanted some one else to head him off.

He put things Across because when he tucked the Ball under his Arm and began to dig for the Goal of his Immediate Ambition, all the Friends of Public Weal were scared Blue and retired behind the Ropes.

Edgar took his Degree out into the Cold World and began to make apologetic Inquiries regarding Humble Employment which would involve no Responsibilities.

He became an Office Lawyer of the dull gray Variety with a special Aptitude for drawing up Leases and examining Abstracts.

He could not face a Jury or fight a Case because the fond Parents had put the Sign on him and robbed him of all his Glimp.

But a Nice Fellow?

You know it.

Anyone who had a Book to sell, or a Petition to be signed, or a Note that needed endorsing came dashing right into Edgar's Office and Hailed him as the Champion Patsy of the Universe.

Not one of these ever ventured into the Lair of the Street Railway Czar, for he knew that Rufus might jump over the Mahogany Table and bite him in the Arm.

Even Edgar, when he made a Business Call on Boyhood Friend and loving Classmate, was permitted to wait in the Outer Room, resting his Hat on his knees, and mingling on terms of Equality with the modish Typist and the scornful Secretary.

And when they went away to look at some Properties, Rufus took the State-room while Edgar drew an Upper.

Any great big Brute of a Man with a Tigerish Instinct for pouncing on each Good Thing and then hanging on to it like Grim Death, never can win the Esteem of the envious but anaemic Gallery.

Everyone at the Club referred to Edgar as a Good Old Scout, but when all the Push gathered at the Round Table and some one let fall the Name of the High-Binder, they would open up on Rufus and Pan him to a Whisper.

Then Rufus would enter in his Fur Coat, upsetting Furniture and Servants as he swept through the Lounging Room.

Immediately there would be an Epidemic of Goose Pimples and a Rush to shake Hands with him.

Rufus was sinfully Rich, but nevertheless Detestable, because his Family had drilled into him the low-down Habit of getting the Jump on the Other Fellow.

Edgar may live in a Rented House, but he will always have the inward Satisfaction of knowing that he is sweet and courteous Gentleman with Pink Underwear, and a Masonic Charm on his Watch Chain.

When Edgar answers the Call, the Preacher will speak briefly from the Text, "Blessed are the Meek."

If the Death Angel succeeds in pulling down Rufus, the same Minister will find a Suggestion for his Rem in those inspiring Words, "I have fought the Good Fight."

The farmer who has hogs and has raised plenty of feed may now stand erect with his thumbs under his suspenders.

Pause and consider the amount of the war tax if President Wilson had allowed himself to be stampeded into Mexican intervention.

Now, let us again repeat that sensible saying with feeling and understanding—that the trouble with most of us is the cost of high living rather than the high cost of living.

The farmer who lives at home—that is raised on his farm as near as possible everything for his table—is the man who is today not worrying a great deal about the cotton market. The living-at-home feature is the best argument for farm life and its independence. The argument grows stronger as the cost of living advances.

If a girl of fourteen can raise 102 bushels of maize on an acre of land when properly planted and cultivated, why could not the average farm make half that much under favorable conditions? This girl lives near Canyon and was a member of the farm co-operative demonstration work. Of course she took the prize for the greatest yield.—Hereford Brand.

Postmaster General Burleson has recommended that the rural mail route be let to low est bidder instead of carriers fixed salaries as at present. Mr. Burleson contends that by this change the government can save many million dollars, and he is doubtless correct, but why single out the rural route carriers for the bidding system? Why not also put the postmastership, the position of the clerks, railway clerks, inspectors and even the postmaster generalship? Don't make fish of one set of officials and flesh of another.—Plainview News.

Post Office girls may be pretty, she may be fascinating and perfectly irresistible, but they can't be smart or they would never contract the post office habit. Just here it may be safest for us to explain what we mean by the term "post office girl." In its uses we have not the least reference to the girls who work in the post office nor the girl who actually has need to frequent the post office lobby on business. In every town, however, there may be found a few misguided girls, usually young, yet sometimes of uncertain age, but always extremely giddy, who make it a daily habit to saunter down to the post office once or several times a day, ostensibly for the purpose of oggling the boys and being oggled by them in turn. This is what we mean by the post office girl. The boys all know them, but none hold any of them in very high respect. Some well meaning young girls of good families fall into this unsafe habit, but as a rule "the post office girl" won't do and the boys are all aware of it. So, if you want to stand well, don't be a post office girl.—Childress Post.

A Great President

Nearly everyone is agreed that Woodrow Wilson is making the greatest President that this country has ever had. If he had not been wise and level-headed we would have been in a bloody war with Mexico. He is determined that the United States shall not become involved in the European war.

The Democratic party naturally expected the President to make political speeches during the coming campaign, as has been the custom of former Presidents. President Wilson while a Democrat, says that America is greater than any party and he issues a statement in which he says that he will not enter the campaign. On account of the European war he will stay on the job in Washington and take care of the interests of America. He is a great and wise Christian President, and is not only looking after the best interests of the nation, but is looking out for the best interest of the average man.

Every man should be profoundly thankful that we have such a patriotic and peace-loving citizen as Woodrow Wilson in this crisis of the world. It is the solemn duty of every man, regardless of his politics, to uphold the administration. We are glad to see that the patriotic citizens of the nation are standing by Woodrow Wilson as they have probably never stood by a President before in the history of our country.—Lexington Dispatch.

In his San Saba speech Mr. Colquitt declared with Thomas Jefferson that the government which governs least is the best and freest. That was good doctrine then and it's good doctrine now. But here comes Mr. Colquitt and actually proposes to send a man to the penitentiary for running his farm to suit himself. We question if autocratic Russia would dare perform a deed so despotic.—Waco Times Herald.

The Value of a Shave

A shave is a privilege to be enjoyed by every man. It puts 15 cents into the pocket of the barber, and lends a dollar's worth of personal appearance to the man who has received the shave. A shave is temporary. Never has one been seen that was permanent.

A shave stimulates the complexion and uncovers long lost smiles. Statistics would show that millions upon millions of smiles have been squandered in the depth of a bushy beard. Smiling under a hirsute growth is hiding the light of your heart under a half bushel—of whiskers.

The face, unfortunately, is arranged in such a way that the smile wrinkles run east and west across the lower portion while the frown wrinkles are horizontal furrows across that section of the face between the eyebrows and the timberline of the hair, which is the most conspicuous part of the countenance.

A man may feel more like a Christian if he shaves regularly. Look at the train robbers and stage villains. You never see one that does not need a barber's attention.

A man who had been out on the ruffles of civilization for several weeks arose from a barber's chair with a clean shave and remarked with a wide-open smile: "Now I know I did not steal that horse. But I felt exactly like I had before I got the shave."

On the other hand, beards may be used as chest protectors or to cover some facial defect or an identity; but they are mighty in the way when the wearer engages in a fight with home folk or an enemy.

Whiskers have been with us every since Noah took every other sort of an animal into the ark except a barber; but in these times of all kinds of machinery, with its sundry flywheels and cogs and belts, it is imprudent to wear whiskers very far away from home.—George Bingham, in Judge.

The Auto in the Field

It is quite a common sight in Texas to see farmers drive to the harvest fields in automobiles. It takes a solemn sum of money to buy an automobile and it takes good roads, as well as gasoline, to run them.

A joy ride in the harvest fields of this State is one of the most exhilarating experiences that is available on this continent and one would charm a tourist and convince a home-seeker. A speedway lined with growing crops and blooded stock is a landscape that one seldom tours in a lifetime. In mapping out automobile routes the Texas harvest fields should be given prominent position. Why not a "See Rural Texas First" campaign?

ONE WEEK ONLY

SAVE $8.00

AS a special inducement during our demonstration week only, with every MAJESTIC RANGE sold (prices always the same) we will give free one handsome set of ware as illustrated here.

Every piece of this ware is the best of its kind. Not a piece that is not needed in every kitchen. It cannot possibly be bought for less than $8. This ware is on exhibition at our store. DON'T FAIL TO SEE IT.

WHAT SHALL IT BE?

DO YOU intend to continue laboring, burning valuable fuel and destroying high-priced food with that old worn-out cook stove.

You KNOW that old stove eats up a lot of fuel each year.

You KNOW you have trouble in getting it to bake just right, in fact, spoil a batch of bread every once in a while—you know it costs considerable for yearly repairs.

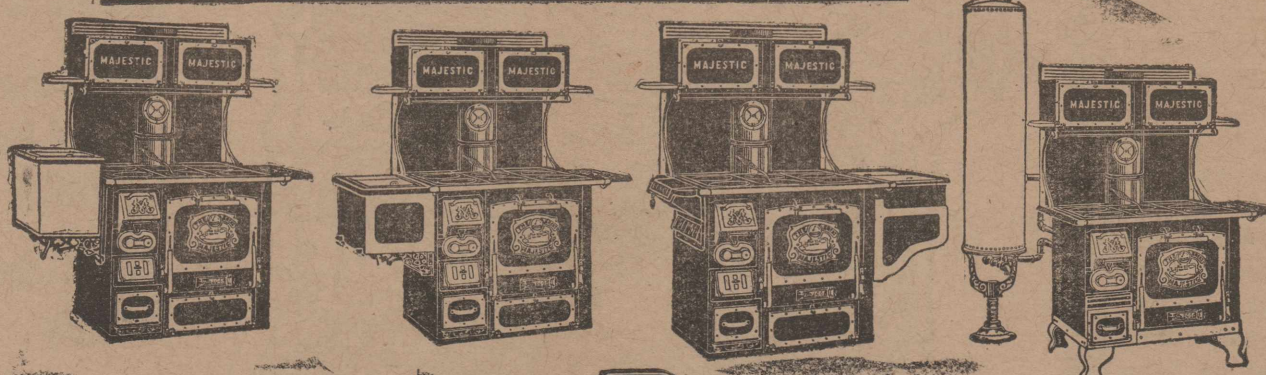

Stop and think and figure. Won't it pay you to buy a good range—a range with a reputation—

The Great Majestic MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON Range

YOU make no mistake in buying the GREAT MAJESTIC—it's the range with the reputation—ask your neighbors. Then, too, it's made just right and of the right kind of material—MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that doesn't warp—that's why the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning), heats fifteen gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime, and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime "unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the GREAT MAJESTIC—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the MAJESTIC is 300 per cent stronger than other ranges where most ranges are weakest.

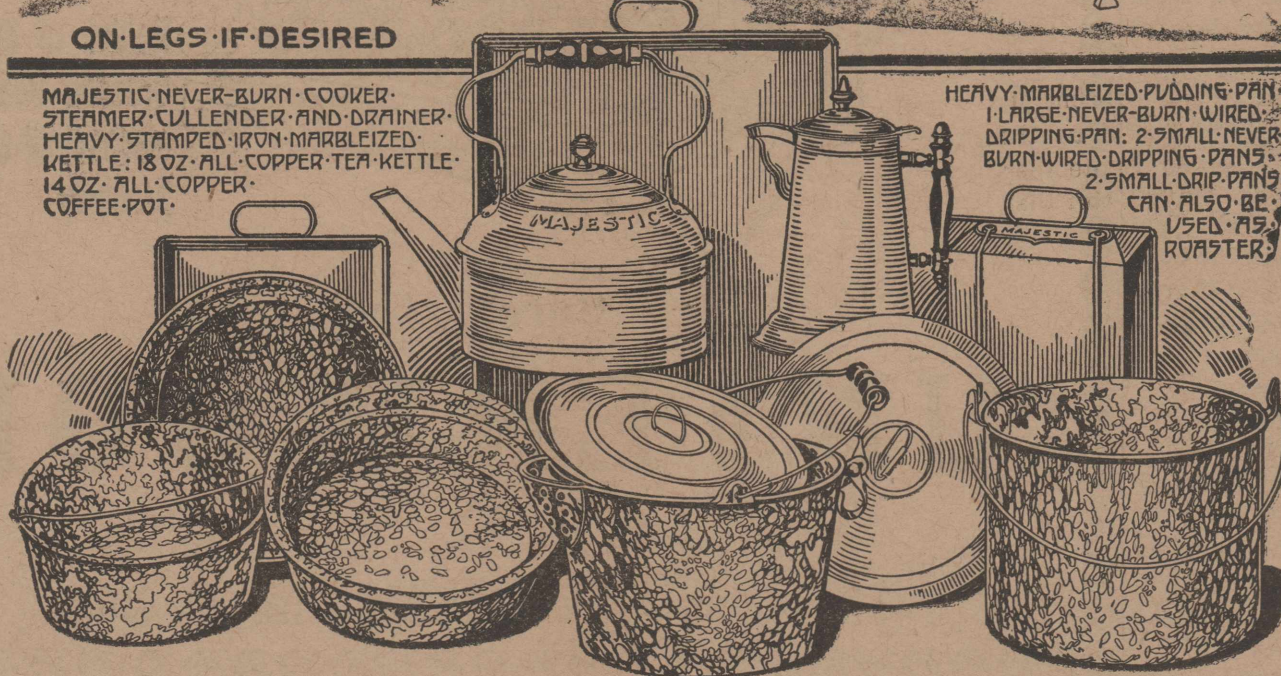

MAJESTIC RANGES ARE MADE IN ALL SIZES AND STYLES

—SOUVENIR DAY—

100 TANGO HOOPS FREE

Tuesday, between 3 and 5 p. m.

The first 100 boys and girls who present to THE MAJESTIC RANGE SALESMAN at our store, between 3 and 5 p. m. Tuesday, written answers to the following questions, will receive a "TANGO HOOP Souvenir" FREE.

- 1---What range is your mother now using?
- 2---Do you know anyone needing a new range? Who?
- 3---Why should the GREAT MAJESTIC be in every kitchen?

$1.00 ARTICLE FREE

The one giving nearest and best answer to the last question may select any $1 article from our stock, in addition to the SOUVENIR.

Don't be discouraged if you are not one of the 100 to get a Tango Hoop Souvenir. You will get a Majestic Puzzle Card. Something for all the boys and girls.

Don't fail to get one of these Tango Hoops. It's a new and wonderful toy—amuses the old as well as the young. The Hoop dances forward, hesitates and returns to the operator. Children, it's great, and will be the talk of the town.

Be sure to have your answers ready to hand in at our store TUESDAY AFTERNOON, between 3 and 5. They must be written answers—OTHERWISE YOU WILL NOT get a souvenir.

Special All during this week a special demonstrator direct from the MAJESTIC FACTORY will be glad to show you "ALL ABOUT RANGES"—show you why the MAJESTIC is the best range on earth at any price.

Come, If You Intend to Buy or Not.

Education lies in knowing things—know why the oven of a range is heated—why the Majestic uses so little fuel—know how a range is made inside and outside. This education may serve you in the future. Don't overlook a chance to Know Things shown by the one who knows. Come Collingsworth in Splendid Shape.

Fortunately Collingsworth county is better off than most any other county in Texas—or any other southern state for that matter. We have produced splendid all around crops. Good prices are being paid for kaffir corn and maize and Indian corn, oodles of which we have to sell. It is true the cotton market is extremely low, but the yield is about double that of last year and the price being about half as much as last year it brings into circulation about as much money. Last year we had scarcely any feed at all to market, while this year car load after car load is being shipped out.

In order to handle the enormous amount of feed stuff being shipped out the railway here has found it necessary to put on a daily local schedule. Heretofore the local schedule has been three times a week. Also a number of extras are called into service.

Wellington merchants report very satisfactory business. In fact one of our leading dealers tell us that his business for September was considerable better than the same month last year.

The Boles grocery Store for the freshest.

J. B. Rhodes who owns several good farms near town, and always makes big crop yields, informs us that he has already gathered 40 lales of cotton off of one hundred acres, and expects to get at least 25 more. Some of his cotton, he says, will make a bale per acre. Mr. Rhodes has our thanks for a couple of dollars on subscription.

Gainsville Journal to Publish List of Boose Shipment.

Gainsville, Texas, Oct. 17.—The announcement by the Evening Journal, of this place, that it will publish a "Shipment List" which will contain all the names of those citizens who receive shipments of liquor promises to start some lively scrambling around here.

The recent opinion handed down by the criminal court of Appeals, which put a new interpretation on the law on liquor shipment, is the cause of the newspaper's taking this step.

As the receivers of liquors are supposed to covet the liquid merely for medical purposes anyway, it may be that the town will not contain nearly so many invalids during the next few weeks, as it might otherwise have, had the paper not made this appointment.

FRUITS OF DEMOCRACY

Today the fruits of President Wilson's administration, not yet a year and six months old, are piled high before us. We were warned that the passage of the tariff act, its first conspicuous achievement, would flood American markets with foreign goods, but the import statistics of the first nine months of its operation show that the normal annual increase of our import trade has not been equaled under the new tariff. We are about to put into operation a banking law acclaimed by the financial wisdom of this country and Europe. Our national good faith has been vindicated in the eyes of all the great carrying nations of the world by the repeal of the Canal toll exemption act. Our relation with South America have been brought to the best condition they have presented since the Mexican War. And now with all Europe ablaze with war, the United States, thanks to Woodrow Wilson's good sense, wide sympathies, political tact and colossal indifference to deration and criticism when serving his nation as God has given wisdom to serve, is at peace with all mankind and ready to serve the world with trade and treasure, with food and implements of work, as only a mighty nation at peace can serve a world broken and distracted and panic-stricken by war.

Some men have to wait until after they are dead before the quality of their public service appears. To Woodrow Wilson's countrymen has been given the vision of the value of his work while he is yet alive. We cannot heal the grief which is his portion, but, in view of the harvest of his labor which is before us, the least that we can say is the word: "Well done." We can at least join our wishes and our prayers that the sense of work faithfully wrought may nerve his hand and brain for the tasks which still confront him, and that, with all the weight of his personal griefs, something of the deep joy of the reaper among the garnered sheaves may be his in these autumn days.—St. Louis Republic.

It Costs $95 to Get Sick

Dallas, Tex. Oct. 18.—Sickness costs Texans $15,000,000 annually, and the average cost per case of illness is $95.00, according to Dr. M. M. Carrick, the famous clean town expert. In discussing this gigantic loss recently, Dr. Carrick said:

"There is an economic side to the question of sickness that should be considered, as well as that of the inconvenience, loss of time and suffering it entails. The needless and senseless drain upon the public for the care and maintenance of the sick from preventable diseases should cease. It was this aspect of the problem that induced Gladstone, Bismarck, Disraeli and other far-seeing statesmen to incorporate into the laws of their respective government the statement: 'The care of the public health is the first and highest duty of statesmen.'

"Every public official in Texas should consider the care of the health of the public, and their first and highest duty, if every physician co-operated with them in the enforcement of sanitary laws, making vaccination against communicable diseases compulsory—for example—if all the people in Texas could and would observe in their daily lives the laws of health as now known to the scientific world, sickness would soon decrease and health would abound. This is the only practical, logical solution of our civic problem."

The Telephone Girl

Take off your hat when you meet the telephone girl, advises the Lyons Daily News. She is the one person in the city who knows exactly where every lady and every gentleman lives, has the home location of every hypocrite and Pharisee and double-dealer, is perfectly "next" to the girl who is telling her parents she is "spending the evening with Mary" while in fact she is bumming the streets with some cheap sport, and if there are men and women who regard the marriage tie lightly the telephone girl has them all spotted. She has advance information about every wedding, a line on every scandal, inside history of every neighborhood row. Every bit of this she knows without ever stopping to "listen in," for that is not only impossible in the rush of business, but totally unnecessary. Like the actor and the newspaper, the telephone girl knows a great many things she never speaks of; and if either of these three would be as free about their gossip as the average person, pandemonium would reign in town. It's wonderful how the fact that a person is carrying dynamite in his hands makes him careful about dropping it. There are folks everywhere who would be safer handling dynamite than carrying about with them some of the inside history these three agencies carry every day in the natural course of their service to humanity.

Tribute to Women.

An exchange editor who is a married man pays the following tribute to women:

There is much gladness in her gladness when she's glad—and there is sadness in her sadness when she's sad—but the gladness of her gladness nor the sadness of her sadness is nothing to her madness when she's mad.

There is kicking in her kickness when she kicks—there is licking in her lickness when she licks—but the kickness of her kickness nor the lickness of her lickness is nothing to her nixness when she's nix.

There is crossing in her crossness when she's cross—there is glossing in the glossness of her gloss—but the crossness of her crossness nor the glossness of her glossness is nothing to her bossness when she's boss.

Mail Another Package

When the "Buy-a-Bale" movement was first started and promised to be popular, the Montgomery Ward Company, chief of the mail order grafters—always on the lookout for free advertising—announced that it was going into the deal to the extent of buying 1,000 or 10,000, or may be it was 100,000 bales—the number makes no difference. The metropolitan papers came out in glaring announcements of the advent of the great philanthropist in the field. It was spreading like a prairie fire—the advertising—not the buying.

Just to ascertain what, if anything, there was to the proposition, W. I. Giles, cashier of the City National Bank, of Hollis, wrote to the benevolent institution to find out about how much of their hard earned these new found farmer's friends would probably send into this part of the vineyard, or to get whatever information that might be available. The answer was characteristic of the institution. It indicated that the great concern had no intention of deserting the ancient and noble order of the "double cross" for the Red Cross. That they had not as yet perfected their plans for handling the gigantic proposition, or words to that effect.

What plans are required for handling such a deal as this promised to be? There are responsible organizations, or agencies, in every city and town in the South that would be only too glad to purchase and store the staple for them. No, the only arrangements they have to make is that of selling this said cotton before they buy, and unless they can arrange to turn it so there will be no loss there will be no cotton bought.

Granting that these thirty-third degree grafters do intend to buy cotton, but they do not get their plans perfected before the first of the year, or the early spring at the latest, what are the poor farmers, who are needing relief, going to do for the necessities of life in the interim? Why, go to the local merchant, just as they have in the past. The merchant will stake his last dollar and his credit to help out the farmer, but do these mail order concerns ever risk a dollar on them? No, not on your tarrapin gizzard. Yet, some of these farmers patronize them when they have money, hoping to save a nickle on a mouse trap.—Dodsonville News.

From the outside world; both the belligerent countries as well as the neutral nations are fast turning to the United States for supplies, and the resulting business will be a very material boom to country at large.

WILSON AND WATTERSON

Peace Brought About and these Two Stalwarts Lunch Together

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—Peace between President Wilson and Col. Henry Watterson was assured tonight, "Marse Henry" having arrived in the capital today, and arranged to lunch with the president tomorrow. The meeting will be the first since the New York dinner in 1912, when the break occurred. A touching tribute to Mrs. Wilson, on the occasion of her death written by Col. Watterson, is said to have led to the reconciliation.

Beer to Pay Half the War Tax

St. Louis, Mo. Oct. 19.—The war revenue tax of approximately $50,000,000 on the annual output of beer is agreeable to the brewers of this city, although this industry already pays a yearly internal revenue tax of $165,000,000. The stamp tax on negotiable instruments, stocks and bonds, deeds, bills of lading, pullman car and steamship tickets and insurance policies is expected to yield $30,000,000 and

WOMAN VICTIM OF POISON

Also it is Alleged Gave Dose of Strychnine to Her Nine Year Old Daughter

Iowa Park, Texas, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Harrison Johnson, a well known woman of this place took strychnine at about 2:30 o'clock this morning, dying within an hour. She also gave strychnine to Lorene, her nine year old daughter who was still in a critical condition late this afternoon with the chances believed to be against her recovery.

Mrs. Johnson runs a boarding house in Iowa Park. Shortly after 2:30 this morning her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Gant who occupied a room across the hall heard her mother calling from the hallway and ran to her. When her daughter reached her she had fallen against the doorway and cried that she was dying. Her daughter led her to her bed where she died within about twenty minutes. Other members of the family gathered at her cries and Lorene among them. Mrs. Gant told the little girl to run across the street to summon a neighbor.

Mrs. Johnson remonstrated crying, "Don't send Lorene, she

CAN PELLAGRA BE CURED?

Two Cases of this Disease So Rumor States, Are in Wellington

The following item in regard to pellagra may be of interest to many of our readers at this time, especially when it is remembered that there is said to be two cases of this disease in Wellington:

"There is good news regarding pellagra, the mysteriously devastating disease which has been under investigation in Europe and in this country. The Public Health Service in Washington announces the discovery that diet is at once the cause and cure of pellagra, that it is not contagious or infectious, and that cure can be effected by proper eating within four weeks. The credit for this important discovery is given to Surgeon Goldberger of the Public Health Service, who with Director W. F. Lorenz of the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute and several assistants, has been at work for some months in the study of the problem which this disease has so long afforded. Pellagra has been much in evidence in our Southern States, but is more of

LOAN PLAN IS APPROVED

The Texas Legislature has Given Its Endorsement to $150,000,000 Pool

Austin, Texas, Oct. 16.—The Texas Legislature has given its approval of the St. Louis plan of raising $150,000,000 for a cotton loan fund. By a proviso in an act just passed by the special session, Texas State banks are permitted to borrow money and participate in the plan, and this without reference to capital stock of surplus. Commissioner Collier declares the plan one of the most expedient and practical devised for relieving the present situation.

SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES

The Prophecy of Iasiah Inscribed Paper Weights to Ambassadors

Washington, Oct. 16.—"They shall beat their swords into ploughshares."

Secretary of State Bryan had that prophecy of Iasiah inscribed on paperweights made from the steel of United States cavalry sabre blades in the shape of ploughshares. These paperweights he has presented to the twenty-eight Ambassadors and Ministers of the countries which have signed peace treaties with the United States.

The sabres were condemned ones Mr. Bryan obtained from the War Department. There was much labor in beaating the wrought steel into its new form.

The hilts of the sabre were presented to the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

All the sabres were more than fifty years old. Most of them were used in the civil war.

Ratifications of the Peace Commission treaty between the United States and Guatemala were exchanged at the State Department today. Treaties is going with me." Her meaning was not understood at the time and the little girl went to the home of Mrs. V. G. Wiggley and summoned her. While the family stood around their dying mother, Lorene suddenly was taken with convulsions. It was then discovered that Mrs. Johnson had given her poison also.

The little girl before becoming unconscious told the others that she had been awakened by her mother giving her something from a tablespoon. It tasted bitter and she knocked the spoon out of her mother's hand. Doctors Clark and Clark who arrived just as Mrs. Johnson died, worked with the little girl all morning and at noon it was believed that her chances for survival were better.

Mr. Johnson who was at the farm southeast of Iowa Park where another daughter, Mrs. Bertha Owens lives was summoned but didn't reach home until after his wife's death.

Mrs. Johnson left a letter addressed to each of her children and one also to Mr. Johnson. Family trouble is believed to have prompted her deed.

a menace in Europe, where it is prevalent chiefly among the peasantry, whose food supplies are meager and limited in variety. It had been attributed in Italy to the universal use of corn meal, the slight fermentation of which was regarded as probably accountable for the disease. This was negatived when pellagra was found to exist in countries where corn was not used. The discovery therefore that pellagra is a dietary rather than due to a specific organism is of world-wide interest, and more important still is the announcement that the disease can be cured through proper feeding.—Springfield (Mass.) Gasoline and Inebriety

In recent years gasoline has caused more fires than inebriety has caused poverty.

In every drop of gasoline there is written in letters of living fire the word "danger."

There is no fool-proof gasoline.

Gasoline requires more watching than the proverbial kicking mule.

It harbors more destruction than a modern dreadnaught.

Just a chance and gasoline will do more damage than a forty days rain at harvest time.

Gasoline is not a toy. It is not a plaything. It can do more destruction in ten seconds, if the opportunity is presented, than a thousand men can repair in a year.

Never get around gasoline without thinking you have an invitation from eternity.—S. W. English.

bound to impress any intelligent and open-minded man.

The purpose of the law, undoubtedly, was to discourage and as far as possible prevent the use of intoxicants in local option territory—to put a stop to any indulgence in strong drink, even in private homes. It was to govern the habits of anti-prohibitionist as well as prohibitionist, and when enacted it was declared to be one of the most sweepingly drastic laws on the statute books of any state. The decision just rendered will have the effect of negating—at least in large measure—the purpose and provisions of the Allison law. The decision was written, it is noted, by Judge Harper, who is an advocate of prohibition. Thus it will not be claimed that this is a partizan ruling, due to a partizan majority of the court. Thus it is manifest, too, that the chief purpose of the law is defeated. The result may be foreseen. Liquor will be shipped to and sold in local option districts.

The result most apparent is that outside dealers in liquor will have a monopoly of the trade from the Texas "dry" territory. If this decision is to stand—and we assume that it will—the inhibition that Texas dealers are under had as well be removed.

They had as well have the right to ship to "dry" territory, too, for under existing circumstance is promoted by the Allison law—only partially effective. If a cause involving intrastate shipment shall come before the Court of Criminal Appeals, it is not likely that another decision will complete the work of negating one of the most important features of the Allison law—Waco Tribune.

Hon. R. L. Templeton Returns from Austin

Hon. R. L. Templeton returned Tuesday from Austin where he has been in the capacity of Representative from this district at the special session of the Legislature. The session accomplished practically nothing, the Texas State Bank Bill being defeated as also the Cotton Bill, which according to our way of thinking should have been. Mr. Templeton exercised great wisdom, being the first we believe to put the motion for sine die adjournment, and if the body had adjourned at the time several thousand dollars would have been saved to the State.

Dear Leader and friends:

I notice that the fine weather is causing your crops to hustle you about as well as ours have us out here, though we got a heavy frost and light freeze on the 5th which did not catch but a little green feed uncut. We are having nice autumn weather. Corn gathering has begun while small grain threshing is not near over yet. The bean harvest is progressing nicely though the price is low they are moving right along and are quite a help in a financial way to the farmers.

We are enjoying three square meals per day of Mexican beans with pumpkin sauce, baked Hubbard and Pikes Peak squashes as dessert, with rabbit on toast when we are lucky enough to get one. The big melons and fried chicken that I enjoyed while visiting among you all the last summer, made me almost homesick enough to want to return to good old Collingsworth county.

As ever your friend,
