GOP, Truman Disagree On Taxes

Eisenhower Promises Cut In Two Years

DENVER (AP) — A cut in taxes in two years, which would be possible by balancing the national budget, was promised yesterday by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower if he is elected President.

No cut in taxes can be made, he said, until the budget is balanced and the military might of the Western nations equals that of Russia, goals which he estimated could be reached in two years under his leadership in the White House.

After that, he foresees a "steady shrinkage" in the tax load.

The Republican presidential aspirant expressed the opinions during a conference late yesterday with Oregon delegates, who are backing him unanimously.

The general also took a position, shortly after the Oregon meeting, favoring legislation to place states in control of offshore oil deposits. He said this was subject to a check on constitutional issues, but indicated he sees no serious problem the

He plans to fly to Denison, Tex., his birthplace, Saturday, then go on to Dallas and then fly to Boulder City, Nev., and Hoover Dam Sunday. His schedule calls for a return to his Denver headquarters Sunday night.

Chinese Nationalists, he said, should be kept on Formosa to protect the island.

Acquiring West German strength for the Western World "may in the initial case cost us a little extra money," he said, but would be "worth it."

On the domestic scene, he said the federal deficit must be ended "and if that requires us to go on a slower program on building our security forces, including those abroad, then we should do it." But he argued that "we can get the same amount of defense and cut the budget sharply."

Regarding politics, he said, "I have no intention of ignoring organization and particularly the state organizations through the established head of the parties in those states." Later a member of his official family, who declined use of his name, said this means the general would leave state patronage to regular Republican state organizations.

President Claims Levies Need Boost

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today taxes should be increased rather than decreased as advocated by both top candidates for the Republican presidential nomination

The President told his news conference he didn't think any Democratic president would reduce taxes.

He said if taxes could have been reduced he would have tried to do so himself.

A reporter wanted to know whether a Republican president actually could reduce taxes.

No, unless he wants to put the country more in the hole than it is now, Truman replied.

Truman commented one day after Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio declared he is willing to pledge "a straight 15 percent cut in taxes" if he is elected President.

Meanwhile, in Denver, Dwight D. Eisenhower, locked in a hot battle with Taft for the Republican presidential nomination, said a tax reduction would be possible in about two years.

After that — after free world defenses are built up — the tax load can be subjected to a "steady shrinkage," Eisenhower said.

Truman said he still thinks Gen. Eisenhower is a nice guy, but he wouldn't wish him any luck in his campaign for the presidency.

The President was asked at a news coference whether in view of Eisenhower's attacks on the administration, in his campaign for GOP nomination, he still thinks the general is a nice guy.

Of course he does, the President said. And he added that this is a free country and Eisenhower is entitled to his political opinions.

"Do you wish him luck?" he was pressed. The President laughed and said he couldn't say that, that Eisenhower is not running as a Democrat.

The President said he agreed with Averell Harriman that his victory in the District of Columbia Democratic primary this week was a clear-cut triumph for the New Deal and Fair Deal.

It couldn't have been anything else, he added.

COMEDIAN ARRESTED AS DRUNK DRIVER — Comedian Lou Costello trails his attorney, Attorney Nathan O. Freeman, after he was bailed out of jail in Van Nuys, Calif., following his arrest on a drunk driving charge. Police said he slammed into a parked car while backing out of the driveway of his home and then cruised down a main boulevard on the wrong side of the street. Later Freeman pleaded Costello guilty and a fine of $150 was imposed. (AP Wirephoto)

Pressure Of Rent And Food Hikes Blamed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government's cost-of-living barometer moved up today under pressure of rising food and rent costs to within a tiny fraction of the record high reached last January.

The living - cost index, measuring prices of food, clothing, shelter and a host of other things climbed during the month ending May 15 two - tenths of one percent to 189 percent of the 1935-39 average. That is 4.1 percent over the mark of the 18 months ago when price and wage controls took effect. The peak figure last January was 189.1.

A million and a quarter rail workers will get an automatic two-cent hourly wage boost as a result of the latest increase in living costs. Their work contract ties wages to the cost-of-living index and adjustments are made each three months.

Leading the over-all living-cost rise was a boost of four tenths of one percent in rent across the country. The price of food at the grocery store moved up three tenths of one per cent.

But the price of clothing, of fuel and electricity and of house furnishings all dropped fractionally.

Although prices on most items have climbed, Office of Price Stabilization officials announced yesterday ceilings would be suspended this week end on bottled whiskey and wine. They have been selling for months below ceiling levels.

The price drop in these items was attributed to big stocks and lagging sales since last November, when a steep new federal tax went into effect.

Another 100,000 wage earners — aircraft, textile and oil refining workers — also are affected by today's index change.

Main reason for the higher cost of living is the rising cost of food. Foods at the retail level moved up four-tenths of 1 percent between April 15 and May 15.

The last cost - of - living index, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics a month ago and reflecting prices for the month ending April 15, was 188.7, just four-tenths of 1 per cent below the January high.

'Bad Blood' Charge Draws Official Ire

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officials of the Oklahoma Defense Blood Center here reacted swiftly and bitterly today to charges the center was sending malaria-contaminated blood to Korea.

Dr. J. R. Branch, medical director, declared:

"I assure you no contaminated blood has been sent from this center to Korea."

Dr. Branch called the charge "vindictive and malicious."

William H. Cordell, center administrator, made the accusation yesterday in a telegram to top armed services and Red Cross officials.

He asked for a federal investigation of the center, claiming he had proof that in one day five pints of whole "O" blood were drawn and shipped to Korea from persons whose reports showed they have had malaria.

Dr. Franch said it was normal procedure to accept blood from donors with case histories of malaria. Such blood, he said, is sent to a center at Wichita Kan., where it is processed for plasma or blood derivatives.

Dr. Bert F. Keltz, chairman of the Blood Bank Committee, said if the charges were true he had no official notice of them.

"Every pint of blood that goes to Korea is checked locally and by the port of embarkation," he said.

C. E. Heaton, manager of the Oklahoma County Chapter of the Red Cross, commented: "There is no substantiation whatsoever."

All officials contacted by the Associated Press said they had an idea what may have brought about the charge, but could not reveal it at this time.

Call Out For Harvest Hands

A call for skilled wheat harvest workers is going out this week as the harvest gets into full swing throughout the area.

Harvest on the county's 85,000 acres is expected to reach its peak Saturday and an estimated 200-300 workers will be needed, according to the Texas Employment Commission.

Needs thus far have been met, the commission official stated, but it is not definite if enough workers and equipment will come into the area to complete harvest within the next week.

It is hoped that workers migrating from Lubbock, Plainview, and other South Plains points will be routed into the Panhandle. Wheat in the Lubbock area is poor this year, the official stated, and harvest should be completed early.

An early maturity of Kansas wheat will get many workers that usually come from Wichita Falls, up through the Panhandle into Oklahoma and Kansas, it is feared.

However, the commission feels that if farmers and truck, tractor and combine operators will report to the office, workers can be routed to meet job demands.

The county is expecting approximately 1,000,000 bushels of grain this year from 10,000 acres harvested. Last year's harvest was less than five per cent of the acreage seeded.

Wheat in the Laketon area is yielding over 30 bushels per acre and is of the best milling variety, accoring to Bill Everting, Laketon elevator operator.

With weight tests up to 64 pounds per bushel, the wheat, Everting said, has a low 10 per cent moisture content. The best wheat comes from summer fallowed wheat land, said Foster Whaley, county agent, that has had less than eight inches of rain since seeded.

In other areas of the county, wheat planted on land that was yielding only from 4 to 10 bushels per acre. The overall average is 12 bushels per acre for the county.

Farmers are getting on the average of $2.03 per busnel this week from grain elevators in the county. This price rises and falls in relation to the national market.

Will Shoot Back . . . Swedes Beef Armed Forces

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Traditionally neutral Sweden, irate over the shooting down of a Swedish plane by Soviet jet fighters, beefed up her already stong defenses against Russia today but was expected to still fight shy of participation in such Western alliances as the Atlantic Pact.

The Swedish government already has ordered a step-up in air attack alertness throughout the country and instructed its air force and navy to shoot back if fired on by Soviet planes. Neighboring Denmark also told its airmen to return fire if attacked.

Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Unden, cut short his Italian vacation after the incident and was due here by air from Rome today.

But political observers expressed doubt that Unden's return would result in any change in Sweden's long-held policy of "freedom from alliances." She has been a neutral in European wars for more than 100 years.

Sweden flatly rejected last night a Russian protest that the ill-fated Catalina flying boat, blasted from the air Monday over the Baltic Sea with seven men aboard, had flown over Soviet territory and started the shooting.

The Swedish reply declared that the only two Swedish planes operating in the area at the time were two rescue flying boats, both unarmed and therefore incapable of shooting at anybody.

Truman Considers Invoking T-H Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said today he is considering use of the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel dispute.

He indicated at a news conference that he has doubts, however, that the 650,000 striking CIO steel workers would obey a court order to return to work.

The President said his decision as to whether he will invoke the Taft-Hartley law will not be influenced by Senate or House action.

The Senate has voted a request that Truman use the law and there are signs the House will follow suit.

Pressed as to why he has not used the Taft - Hartley Act, the President said the union waited 99 days before striking and that he was not sure that the T - H law would work.

The T-H Act permits a court order, good for 80 days, against a strike which imperils the national security.

A reporter asked if Truman was implying that the union might not obey a Taft-Hartley injunction, questioning.

Truman said that he was. Under questioning, he said that he believed they would work under seizure.

Clark Pleads 'Not Guilty'

Clark, an attorney, was released in police court on personal bond for a hearing July 3.

Pearson was not in court. He was represented by his counsel.

Clark, $75,000-a-year lobbyist, has admitted to reporters that he threw the punch yesterday.

"I felt I'd be unfaithful to my Irish forebearers," Clark told reporters, "if I didn't do something."

The one - blow encounter between the columnist - commentator and his critic — who, in turn, had been raked over the coals twice in Pearson's column — occurred after lunch yesterday in the lobby of the fashionable Mayflower Hotel.

National Committee To Decide Argument

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican National Committee will rule early next month on convention delegate disputes in Texas and six other states — a 72-vote total that could decide a close presidential nominating race.

The committee's ruling, after a hearing to begin July 1 in Chicago, is almost certain to be appealed ultimately to the convention, which opens six days later.

Backers of Ohio Sen. Robert Taft and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, top contenders for the Republican nomination, have staked rival claims in the disputes. The rivalry waxed particularly hot over Texas' 38-vote delegation.

Mrs. Charles P. Howard, national committee and convention secretary, set the July 1 hearing date yesterday. She cited a party rule adopted at the 1944 convention and upheld at the one four years later.

The regulation says that convention delegates elected by districts, when contested, are the concern of state conventions or committees. Those named from a state at large and then contested go to the national committee for settlement. Appeals in at-large contests can be taken to the convention credentials committee and eventually the convention floor.

Airport Bids Are Sought

Bidding on improving the north west field could be sharp on July 1 as copies of the plans and specifications for seal coating one runway and constructing aprons and taxiways went into the hands of six potential bidders.

Wayland Merriman, consulting engineer on the airport project, said he had sent copies of the plans to six potential bidders and has had to order more copies printed. These should be in his office this afternoon, Merriman said.

The county commissioners court will open the bids July 1, with the hope of getting the project finished by the end of August, termination of the lease extension on Pampa Municipal Airport.

Work has already begun on setting up a water and sewage disposal system for the field, and lights for the one runway have been ordered. Lights now used at Pampa Municipal Airport will be used for one of the other runways until new ones are purchased a few years from now.

Masons To Play Host To Pampa DeMolays

Pampa Masonry will play host at 7:30 p.m. today to the DeMolay chapter for the organization's initiatory ceremonies.

Several candidates for membership in the DeMolays will be given the work by the chapter's degree team in the presence of the Pampa Blue Lodge.

All members of the DeMolays and all master Masons have been requested to make special efforts to attend the ceremonial, E. E. Shelhamer, DeMolay chapter advisor, said.

While Other Cities Thirst . . .

Pampa Won't Have To Worry Over Restricted Water Use

While the neighboring cities of Amarillo, Wellington and Shamrock were making frantic pleas for water conservation, Pampans looked forward to their fourth straight year of unrestricted use of water.

Stories of water rationing in those three cities broke yesterday and today in Panhandle newspapers as supplies dwindled and demand rose because of the dry-hot spell.

But, Pampa went its merry way with a steady flow of water through its mains except in some low pressure areas where the trouble lies with delivery and not suppl. That trouble was on the wane this week as the bond issue program was going ahead with laying of a 16-inch main and putting part of it to work.

Today, Pampa is capable of pumping a maximum of 5.3 million gallons per day through its two pump stations. By July that capacity will be jumped to 6.5 million per day and could be pushed to the eight - million mark if necessary.

It was in September, 1948, that Pampa felt the last water squeeze and the city commission had to order water rationing. But, by March, 1949, the new south water field was brought in and rationing was over for Pampa.

City Engineer Ray Evans this morning said he could see no possibility of water rationing irrespective of how many days Pampa went without rain — except for the possibility that the demand would go over the eight-million gallon mark or from a breakdown in the water supply system.

But, barring all accidents, there will be no water rationing in Pampa during 1952.

Senate Will Set Date On Tideland Veto Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate probably will be asked again today to approve a date for voting on President Truman's veto of legislation giving states title to offshore lands.

Tuesday, July 1, appears to be a probable date for voting.

Yesterday Sen. O'Mahoney D-Wyo, leader of those supporting the vote, and Sen. Holland (D-Fla) who wants the veto overridden, asked unanimous consent to set the vote for Thursday, June 26, at 2 p. m. EST. However, Sen. Chaves (D-NM) objected, saying he would be absent that week.

Government Still Will Be Deep In The Red . . .

Spending Lighter Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is going to wind up its year two to three billion dollars better off than it expected. But it still will be deep in the red.

Government experts, speaking privately, said today the deficit—the amount by which the government overspends its income—is likely to be less than 6 1-4 billion when the fiscal year ends June 30. It could be as low as 5 1-2 billion.

President Truman, budget message last January, figured the government would go in the hole by $8,200,000,000.

The President estimated total spending would jump 59 per cent above last year due to a huge expansion in rearming the U.S. and friendly foreign countries, But the military expansion hasn't taken place on that scale.

Officials now say spending will fall at least 3 1-2 billion, and possibly more than four billion, below Truman's $70,-900,000,000 spending estimate.

Whatever its effect on Western defenses, this dropoff will much more than compensate for a decline in tax revenues below the expected total.

Taxes are up—as who doesn't know—but they will probably fall some 1 1-2 billion dollars short of the $62,700,000,000 Truman budgeted.

On the spending side, slower-than-expected military deliveries are likely to continue and to keep outlays for the year beginning July 1 below the $85,400,000,000 level aimed at by the President. Congress may trim that further by cutting appropriations.

In any case, prospects are that the government's deficit for fiscal 1953 will be scaled down substantially from Truman's $14,400,000,000 forecast.

Steelworkers Begin To Show Signs Of Financial Hardship

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philip Murray's striking CIO United Steelworkers are beginning to show signs of financial hardship as the 18 day-old walkout bites ever deeper into the national defense program.

Walter Klis, president of a big steelworkers' local at Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. in Pittsburgh, says several requests for financial assistance have been received from steelworkers' families.

The powerful union does not provide strike benefits. However, most of its locals are reported in healthy financial condition and ready to aid any hardship cases.

Referring to his members, Klis said:

"They're just running out of money. So far we have referred them to state and county welfare groups but we plan to set up our own welfare organization this week."

In addition to the 650,000 striking steelworkers, more than 100,000 in allied industries have been laid off as a direct result of the strike. Most of the 100,000 are employed by railroads and coal mines, but the crippling strike is also being felt in other fields.

One of the hardest hit sections is Alabama, where more than 25,000 steelworkers and coal and iron miners now are idle. The steel-workers union says there are "hardly any" hardship cases among strikers.

Mullins Manufacturing Company at Warren, O., said it will put production of mortar and artillery shells on a three-day-a-week basis at its Liberty plant in Warren and a division of its Plant 3 at Salem, O.

Ford Motor Company is starting a four-day week for most of its manufacturing operations and assembly plants this week. This will delay plant shutdowns.

Seeger Refrigerator Company at Evansville, N. J., notified workers it will close indefinitely July 3 because of a steel shortage. The company did not say how many workers would be affected.

No End In Sight For French War

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Inochina (AP) — If you want to know when the second biggest war in Asia that of the French Union forces against the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina—is going to end, consult your own crystal ball.

You'll get as accurate an answer there as anywhere.

There isn't even a glimmer of hope of victory for either the French of the Vietmian. The bitter struggle between the armies of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh and the French Union already has dragged on for six years and, barring intervention by Red China, could go on for many years to come.

That might be hard for the average American to understand. He knows the United States is pouring hundreds of millions of dollars worth of equipment and supplies into Indochina. He knows the French have fighters, bombers, heavy artillery and everything they need to win a war. The Vietminh fight with machine guns, grenades, rifles and pistols. Although supplied by the Chinese Communists, they don't have the modern equipment to wage a first class war.

Why don't the French launch a full-scale offensive and try to force a decision?

There's a good answer in a single sentence: There isn't any front in Indochina. This is a "hit and run" war.

The Vietminh attack French or Viet Namese military posts, villages or towns, when they think they have the defenders outnumbered and see a chance of a quick, local victory. They flee to the mountains the moment they know French reinforcements are arriving for a showdown battle.

This is a war of fast movement. There are no trenches. There's no front. So how can the French win the war when they can't corner enough of the Vietminh long enough to force a battle of decision?

On the other side of the picture, the Vietminh can't win, either. They lack the modern equipment to put on a big show. They studiously avoid committing any large number of forces aginst the French.

The Vietminh might figure they're satisfied with things the way they are.

They're tying up 176,000 French Union troops which France badly needs to supplement her contribution to NATO in Europe. They're forcing the United States to send almost a billion dollars of war assistance to Indochina that might well be used elsewhere.

The Veitminh — territorially speaking—control most of Viet Nam. Out of Viet Nam's 23 million people, there are 13 million in Vietminh-held territory.

Why don't the French just fan out, and start clearing all of North Tonkin of the Vietminh?

The answer is that the French first must make secure what they now have left in Northern Indochina—the vast, sprawling, rice-rich Red River delta. That's their lon bastion of defense against the tide of communism in Southeast Asia.

In the delta today, the French estimate there are probably 7,000 Vietminh regular troops, many regional battalions and guerrilla units adding up to as many as 50,000 men.

All of these must be wiped out, or driven out, before the French can think of venturing forth for a showdown battle with the five or more Vietminh division outside the delta.

The French are trying hard. They've killed, captured or wounded tens of thousands of Vietminh so far this year in a series of "mop-up" pushes.

A careful, verified check of enemy casualities shows the Vietminh have lost, in round figures, 45,000 wounded since last December 1. French losses have averaged one-fifth of these totals.

All of this is helpful but it hasn't kept the Vietminh out of the delta. More Vietminh seem to pop up as fast as their comrades are killed or captured.

Union Cuts Supply Of Kisses, Cookies

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (AP)—A five-foot "no-man's land" separates 2,500 supervisors inside strike-bound Inland Steel Company plant from their supply of kisses and cookies.

Their wives have set up a howl. Plant officials said the men themselves have made no complaints.

CIO leaders set up the boundary because, in the words of a spokesman, the through-the-fence kissing, gossipng and cookie passing was "breaking the morale of the pickets."

The supervisors have stayed in the plant for maintenance work.

It had got so it didn't even look like there was a strike on," said Tom Conway, local union financial secretary. "There'd be 50 to 60 women and kids there making a holiday of it."

Stomach Ache — And No Wonder

CHICAGO (AP) — A 19-year-old youth flagged a taxicab on Michigan Avenue early today and told the driver:

"I just ate 40 razor blades and I have a stomach ache."

Dr. John Kerrigan, night warden at Cook County Hospital, said a fluoroscope examination confirmed the youth's story.

Kerrigan said Hinkle would be kept on a soft diet until the razor blades pass out of his system which, he said, would take about a week.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

pay no attention to mere possibilities.

The discard pile doesn't tempt aybody until it's fairly juicy. By the time the pile contains about fifteen or twenty cards everybody is yearning for it, and probably everybody is discarding safely in the hope of getting it eventually.

Eventually somebody grabs it and proceeds to meld a bushelful. If that player is lucky (or skillful enough to meld out right away, he catches the two opponents (who are automatically partners) before they can even get started Fortunately, that is a very rare occurrence.

Dice found in the ancient tombs of Egypt are similar to those used by gamblers today.

Charges Baltics Held As Slaves

BONN, Germany (AP)—Baltic representatives have charged that 25 percent of the population of the three captive Baltic countries — 1 1-2 million persons — have been sent into slave labor by the Russians.

Representatives of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, leaders of the Central Committee of the Baltic National Committee in West Germany, told a news conference "a coldly calculated plan for the physical and spiritual destruction of the Baltic people is in full swing."

Would Okay Red China

SNYDER (AP)—The United States must not block admission of Red China into the United Nations, E. W. Napier, candidate for the U. S. Senate, has told Snyder residents.

The Wichita Falls attorney said Monday that by keeping the Peiping government out of the U.N. this country is alienating all of Asia.

Napier said the United States also should recognize the Chinese Communists as the legitimate governors of China.

"I am satisfied that if we drew our forces out of Korea, returned Chinese prisoners to the Chinese, and told the Chinese Reds that they must not advance across the 38th parallel, they would respect our wishes," Napier said.

Red-Backed Land Reform In Effect

GUATEMALA, Guatemala (AP) — A Communist - backed land reform law which permits the government to break up large holdings for distribution among farm workers, has gone into effect.

President Jacobo Arbenz Wednesday signed the controversial measure he had sponsored. It received Congress approval last week.

The law permits the government to expropriate land from present owners and make it available to farm workers on a lease or purchase basis. It does not apply to farms of less than 255 acres and to large plantations producing export crops.

Owners of expropriated land are to be paid in 25-year government bonds.

Opponents complained the law was communist - inspired. It will not apply to the United Fruit Company of Boston.

'Cut-Throat' Canasta Exciting

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When Fleur Cowles returned home from South America recently she taught me a new kind of Canasta that seems to have everybody in an uproar down there. The name of the game is "Cut-throat Canasta" and it's the perfect answer to the problem of giving three players a game that will be as interesting as the four-handed variety.

Each player gets thirteen cards, the regular number for a three-hand game. When drawing from the stock pile, each player takes two cards at a time instead of only one. Since only one card is discarded, everybody's hand gets bigger all the time.

Now we come to the most important feature of the game. When you begin a hand, you have no partner: each player is out for himself, and you-know-who can take the hindmost. But as soon as a player takes the discard pile the other two players become partners against him.

The effect is much more far-reaching than it seems to be. Most hands go to the end of the stock-pile because it's usually quite difficult to meld out. During that time, two partners helping each other enthusiastically can usually run up a score of about a thousand points.

Naturaly, you can't take on two opponents if they are going to score a thousand points when you are going to score only a few hundred. So you don't try to take the first discard pile unless you are in position to score at least a thousand points by the time the hand comes to an end.

In practice, you take the pile when you can meld a natural canasta, or two mixed canastas then and there. You're not tempted by a single mixed canasta, and you

What Rights?

The people of Puerto Rico have been living on a diet of undiluted trouble ever since Christopher Columbus came across them. They've suffered infestations of hookworm, malaria and Rexford Guy Tugwell. They've fought the Spanish, Dutch, English, Americans and each other. And when they weren't engaged in any of those little pleasures, they were being blown to the far corners of Purgatory by hurricanes which periodically rearrange the geogaphy, population and economy of the island.

Puerto Rico has, indeed, acquired a fine, fat supply of trouble. And she isn't out of the woods yet.

The House of Representatives has passed a joint resolution approving the constitution of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, but not until some fast congressional footwork yanked the shades of Rex Tugwell out of the document.

In case you've misplaced the name Rex Tugwell, recall the early (or "delirious") age of the New Deal when the fantasy was in its first blush of youth and political depravity had become a national religion.

Those were the days of the Fireside Chat, the saloon-belt brawling of the young Roosevelt hellions, the tea parties for young Communist bums in Madame First Lady's sitting room — and the Brain Trust.

It was in this last-mentioned choir that Rex Tugwell, a New Deal red-hot, sang a boyish, trilly tenor while the Old Master chanted the soothing bass chords.

Rex never amounted to a hill of beans in the grandiose master plan of the inner circle; but he had a string of college degrees from here to breakfast and back; he was the prettiest thing around the White House; and he was eager for any sort of sport that involved spending a flock of dough to improve the condition of the Great Unwashed, as the New Deal classified the boobs who made the whole fiasco possible.

Rex was planted in the Agriculture department, for reasons best known only to his bosses, but he wandered around like a department store gumshoe, doing little odd jobs and putting out small fires. After a turn at these noble endeavors, he was shipped off to Puerto Rico where he eventually became the governor of that already sadly abused little West Indies island.

Rex brought with him a background of university professoring; New Dealing; state planning (in New York City); and the national scandal of the Tugwell Towns (remember?). The Puerto Ricans were used to trouble, which may be why they sent Rex down there, figuring one more disaster wouldn't be noticeable.

Rex tried to socialize the island; and his efforts to bring the government into competition with private industry cost the taxpayer an unannounced wad of money. Finally, however, the government sold out, patted Rex on the head, and got him the hell out.

But the shades of Rex Tugwell are stalking the island. The constitution approved by the Puerto Ricans and debated by the U. S. House of Representatives last week contained the famous "section 20" from which we will quote in part. Section 20 holds that all men have certain rights, among them:

"The right of every person to social protection in the event of unemployment, sickness, old age or disability.

"The right of motherhood and childhood to special care and assistance."

There also is a part that says every Puerto Rican has the right to a high school education.

This jazzbo document based on Tugwell's preachings might have gone on the books as the constitution of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, with the blessing of the government of the United States, if a few Representatives hadn't raised a thin, high-pitched scream.

Judd of Minnesota, Budge of Idaho, Halleck of Indiana, and some others said they wouldn't vote for the constitution if Section 20 remained. They pointed out they would not endorse a constitution which set up the philosophy of a socialistic, paternalistic government.

It was a Puerto Rican, a delegate to the assembly which approved the Constitution and sent it to Congress for approbation, who told the boys off. He said he did not vote for section 20, never would.

"In my opinion," he said, in a letter, "every individual should feel responsible for the well-being of himself and his family. It would be destructive of social peace should everyone lean upon the constituted civil society . . . as the provider of work, food and medical care . . . It is indeed unlike the American ways of life where men do not yield their own means of procuring subsistence and where great private institutions undertake the task of helping humanity. This provision will cause the imposition of high taxes until, with the destruction of private wealth, the government will take over and thus become the big employer, the sole provider.

"Men would then enslave themselves to the government, and their only ambition would be to reach high offices in the government . . ."

Get that man's name, rank and serial number, sergeant!

Well, it took a Puerto Rican to tell off our congressmen. He pointed out, without saying so, that he didn't want the island to follow the pattern of the United States and become a government of Big Brotherism.

When the constitution finally won the approval of the House, section 20 had been stricken.

At least the proposed commonwealth will not begin life with an official declaration that every man can expect the state to be a great wetnurse, confessor, advisor and buddy-chum.

Perhaps it was a small victory; but it was a victory.

And in these days and time, even a small victory for human freedom a[illegible]ity is something to yell about and devote a little space in the newspapers to.

...y Semi-Golden Rule Civics Textbooks Used in Tax Supported Schools

II

In the last issue I related the fact that I had just finished reading nine civics textbooks that some people contended taught the American way of life and were in harmony with the Golden Rule.

The public has been indoctrinated for so long into believing that the state can educate that most people actually believe it. For this reason, parents usually do like an ostrich does, put their heads in the sand, and send their children to state schools and believe that they are safe and being educated properly. Nothing is further from the truth than that. It is no more possible for the state to educate than it is for a man to lift himself by his own bootstraps.

Education comes from coming in contact with men who stimulate the student into having the desire to understand natural law. But the state only teaches one side of a controversial political economic question — that is the various forms of socialism that justifies a state monopoly of education.

The state demands all the intellectual energy the youth has between the age of six and eighteen to fill the mind of the youth with a belief in a paternalistic state. Only the very bright youth has enough energy left to study things outside of what he is required to study in school. And most of this is never of any value to the student.

I, of course, do not believe that it is possible for the state to teach moral principles because state "education" is not based on any moral law. It is not based on the Golden Rule. The result is that the men who write the textbooks are not really men who use the Golden Rule as a universal guide. The more I read the civics textbooks used in the public schools, the more I am convinced that the statement is true that "He who can, does; and he who cannot, teaches or writes textbooks."

The men who write or select these textbooks cannot tell the difference between their ideas of government other than degrees than those of Joseph Stalin. Therefore, they must use textbooks only differing in degrees from those used in Russia.

Undoubtedly that is the reason they will not answer questions as they would before a court to determine whether or not tax supported schools are in agreement with the Golden Rule and the Coveting Commandment. The men who select the [illegible]tbooks are men who have goo[illegible]utations among most people. Th[illegible] are regarded by their fellow man as educators and as worthy of confidence. But they are men more interested in their reputations than they are in find[illegible]ne moral principles [illegible] ern human relations. In this way they are like all socialists. They are really not interested in education or they would want to have their ideas tested tosee whether they face a dilemma and contradict themselves.

And men who will not have their ideas tested do themselves a great injustice because they make it almost impossible for them to develop and learn to reason and learn to recognize a contradiction.

Invariably the members of the state boards of education, who select these textbooks, are vain men. They exalt themselves. They are so sure that they are right and that those not part of the government are so dumb that the educators think they are justified in having a state policeman use a club to make the helpless youths of the land read and study the books that they prescribe. They do not seem to understand that "He who exalts himself shall become abased." Nor that "The meek shall inherit the earth." Nor do they understand "He who takes up the sword (initiates force) shall perish by the sword."

The reader who is not informed on how strong the school lobby has become may think that the state does not have complete control of education, and that I am exaggerating. If so, let him read the Washington Post of April 13, 1952, where it tells what the school authorities in North Carolina did to Frank DeFebo, Monteo, N. C., who wanted his children educated in a different way than that prescribed by the state. Mrs. DeFebo, wife of Frank DeFebo, a graduate of Smith College, wanted to educate their own children, so she went to educational authorities of the state and applied for a license to teach her children. She was refused. She proceeded to teach them without the consent of the state educational monopoly. Mr. DeFebo was put in jail. The children were taken from their parents and put in a state institution. If it can happen in North Carolina, it can happen in any state.

The Supreme Court of the United States has ruled that religion cannot be taught in public schools. On the other hand, the local boards in California have no way af refusing the school buildings to Communist speakers to teach Communism. So tax supported schools are being more and more taken over by the federal government.

The result of state schools is that the youth of the land is being indoctrinated to believe in a paternalistic state — he is taught to believe that might makes right, that there are no eternal, moral principles — no Golden Rule — that the government collectively needs to respect.

The youth of the land is entitled to just treatment, but if there ever was unjust treatment toward the youth of the land in the United States, it is the treatment they are receiving by being coerced and compelled and conscripted to read and study civics textbooks that are semi-Golden Rule and based on no moral principle.

If anyone thinks that there is a just civics textbooks used in public schools that stands in harmony with the Golden Rule and the Commandments, I would be under great obligation to have the name of that book. One might think that some books are less harmful than others, but it does not make any difference how often a man steals or lies or murders, he is violating moral law.

It is a law of life that like begets like; that men reap what they sow; that an act that violates the Golden Rule cannot produce results that are in agreement with the Golden Rule.

It is because I do not believe it is possible to have civics textbooks used in tax supported schools that are in agreement with the Golden Rule that I am obliged to take a stand against tax supported schools.

This Could Ruin A Convention

Is There A Subversive Movement In Public Schools?

(This is the twenty-eighth installment of the talk given March 21 by Rep. Paul W. Shafer of Michigan in the House of Rpresentatives).

XII. A NEW "CALL" AND NEW STRATEGY (cont.)

(Editor's Note: The Brameld draft referred to was published in the November 1946 issue of Progressive Education. The final statement was published in the February 1948 Progressive Education)

Following is an analysis of the most important portions of the policy statement:

First The statement cites approvingly the trends, outside the United State, toward increasing public controls over "economic processes" and deplores the failure of the country to match these trends.

The following paragraph was adopted in the final draft unchanged from the original Brameld draft:

In only one great respect — though a most crucial one — the present decade differs from the twenties. While America seems to have learned little from its recent economic experience, other parts of the world have learned much. All over the earth powerful movements of the common people are demanding that these absurb and destructive fluctuations of the industrial system should end —that public controls be exerted over economic processes of sufficient strength and rationality to guarantee stability, much greater equalization of wealth, and the securities of a rising standard of living which the proven potentialities of abundance make entirely feasible.

Final statement: "Since the end of the war, America has shown a singular reluctance either to take cognizance of the democratic nature of these movements or to deal with the serious social problems which have called them forth."

Second. The original and final drafts also show some significant changes in the wording of the two major policy declarations of the American Education Fellowship.

Brameld draft: "The two great constructive purposes which should now govern the AEF follow directly from the brief analysis. They are:

"I. To channel the energies of education toward the reconstruction of the economic system — a system which should be geared with the increasing socializations and public controls now developing in England; Sweden, New Zealand, and other countries; a system in which national and international planning of production and distribution replaces the chaotic planlessness of traditional 'free enterprise'; a system in which the interests, wants and needs of the consumer dominate those of the producer; a system in which natural resources, such as coal and iron ore, are owned and controlled by the people; a system in which public corporations replace monopolistic enterprises and privately owned public utilities; a system in which decentralized regional and community administration; a system in which social security and a guaranteed annual wage sufficient to meet scientific standards of nourishment, shelter, clothing, health, recreation, and education are universalized; a system in which the majority of the people is the sovereign determinant of every basic economic policy."

Final statement: "As a result of the analysis made above, two great constructive purposes have first claim for active support.

"1. The reconstruction of the economic system in the direction of far greater justice and stability; a system to be secured by whatever democratic planning and social controls experience shows to be necessary; a system in which social security and a guaranteed annual wage sufficient to meet scientific standards of nourishment, shelter, clothing, health, recreation, and education are universalized; a system in which the will of the majority with due regard for the interests of all the people is the sovereign determinant of every basic economic policy."

Brameld draft: II. To channel the energies of education toward the establishment of genuine international authority in all crucial issues affecting peace and security; an order therefore in which all weapons of war (including atomic energy first of all) and police forces are finally under that authority; an order in which international economic planning of trade, resources, labor distribution and standards is practiced parallel with the best standrads of individual nations; an order in which all nationalities, races, and religions receive equal rights in its democratic control; an order in which 'world citizenship' thus assumes at least equal status with national citizenship."

Final statement: "2. The establishment of a genuine world order, an order in which national sovereignty is subordinate to world authority in all crucial interests affecting peace and security; an order therefore in which all weapons of war and police forces and finally under that authority; an order in which international economic co-ordination of trade, resources, labor and standards parallels the best practices of individual nations; an order geared with the increasing socializations and public controls now developing in England, Sweden, New Zealand and certain other countries; an order in which all nationals, races, and religions receive equal rights; an order in which 'world citizenship' thus assumes at least equal status with national citizenship."

It will be noted that the Brameld draft, as cited above, calls explicitly for advocacy of Socialism, which he defines in detail. This detailed proposal of Socialism is omitted from the final draft. But note this: whereas the Brameld proposal to gear the economic system "with the increasing socializations and public controls now developing in England, Sweden, New Zealand, and other countries" appears in the section calling for "reconstruction of the economic system" in the United States, the final draft shifts this endorsement of "the increasing socializations and public controls now developing in England, and so forth" to the section of the policy statement dealing with "international coordination." Just how this relocation of this phrase makes the document any less an endorsement of Socialistic principles and methods is a puzzling question, to say the least. The Socialistic slip still plainly shows beneath the verbal outer-garments of the revised document.

Ike Stuck His Neck Out When He Commended Unions

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

I want a good president out of this year's deal. I would gladly consider Eisenhower against Taft if he could convince me of his honesty and of his courage and wisdom in making hard decisions. I have to believe that Ike was just downright dishonest in his speech to the CIO's national convention in Atlantic City Nov. 20, 1946.

As to his courage and wisdom in making hard decisions the damned fact remains that if he had repudiated the stupid whack-up of Germany, Russia could have been kept out of Berlin and the Russian frontier could have been shoved back to Eastern Poland. But Ike flinched and thus the terrible situation was created which he invokes today to justify his call for universal military training and a European army.

I have been receiving from Ike's New York headquarters a stream of propaganda which would make him all things to all men. One of its publications is an expensive 36-page pamphlet entitled, "Where Eisenhower Stands on 16 Vital Issues." It contains an excerpt from the speech to the CIO under the sub-head: "American Labor Rightly Shares In the Laurels Won by American Troops on the Battlefield."

The paragraph says: "When the chips were down we could always count upon an ample supply of material means, provided by the American arsenal. You (the CIO) manned the nation's war plants: you bridged the oceans with ships. You saw to it that the cost of victory in American blood was reduced by the sweat of American labor. When the great emergency demanded special effort, time and again our unions responsded loyelly. American labor rightly shares in the laurels won by American troops on the battlefield."

I submit that here Ike degraded himself by uttering dishonest statements for political purposes. Some generals and admirals are almost unbelievably dumb on worldy matters, but Ike pretends to a knowledge sufficient for a successful presidency.

Let us take up these statements, one by one.

"—We could always count on an ample supply of material means."

That is not altogether so. There were shortages. But he implies that the CIO produced the abundance, completely ignoring the fact that American industrial genius and management created the source of this abundance and that individual citizens did the work. The CIO didn't exist when this great American asset was being created. The CIO just extorted financial tribute in hundreds of millions for its own treasury and ran up the bill by hundreds of billions in inflationary raises for unskilled and often ill-disposed employes. Murray and his fellow extortioners should have been thrown into jail for the duration. Instead, Roosevelt bribed the CIO.

Ike plainly meant this predatory mob of profiteers to understand that he gave them credit for producing the abundance out of the goodness of its dirty soul. The truth is, and Eisenhower should have known it, that the CIO and the AF of L pulled strikes in the war industries at a rate of 5,000 a year and that some of these strikes were due to petty grievances such as a shortage of a favorite flavor of belly-wash on the hokey-pokey wagons in the factories.

One strike, in the Pittsburgh area, pulled by Philip Murray's own steel workers, was so raw that even the late Ray Clapper, a New Dealer with a mind as firm as a poultice, said it was a disgrace.

In Akron the CIO rubber workers beat up loyal Americans and slashed their tires on the parking lots because they were turning out tires faster than the union stewards would let them. These tires were urgently needed for artillery, prime movers, bull dozers, planes and jeeps but still the CIO held back production. It took about 30 percent more man-hours to create a given tire under the CIO conditions that free labor would have required for the job. This was typical CIO conduct.

The CIO and the AF of L did not "man" any war plants. These gigantic rackets bestrode the roads to the great plants, the camps and air fields and extorted billions of dollars — and I say billions not millions — from loyal citizens for licenses to work. The people "manned" these plants. But for the CIO and the AF of L they would have done it all for about half the eventual cost to us in war debt, now passing on to a new generation.

Eisenhower knew the CIO didn't build any ships. The American people built them and the unions retarded production. Under union conditions, loafing, hiding out in obscure places and whistle jumping became organized arts of the job and the American people are still paying taxes to meet the additional pay-roll costs of this larcenous idling.

A rhetorical case may be made out for Ike's statement that "the cost of victory in American blood was reduced by the sweat of labor." The statement is unarguable one way or the other. But he plainly meant that the CIO reduced the cost in blood when the truth is that there never was an issue in which the CIO put the interests of the fighting men above is own predatory ambitions. The CIO ran the Allis-Chalmers strike which set us back nobody knows how many great pumps, valves and engines for submarines, boats and locomotives. It ran the Inglewood strike which Roosevelt himself, in a blurt of honesty, condemned as a violent Communist insurrection.

And Ike knows that the National Maritime Union was bloody Red and joined most of the other big CIO union rackets in opposing the war program until Russia was attacked. Then of course, it hastened the delivery but only for Russia's sake, not for the sake of Ike's American fighting men.

So much for Ike on the subject of the unions.

If Red Programs Backfire, Satellite Leaders Purged

By JOHN FISHER

An encouraging sight in Europe right now is the number of big shot satellite stooges who are in bad with Stalin, in some cases for carrying out his cruel orders too fast and too well.

One day they are tops. Then overnight comes the Kremlin reprimand that topples them from the throne and down the path that begins in disgrace and may end at the gallows, the final reward of so many of Moscow's loyal proconsuls.

Complete success of a mission is the only answer Stalin accepts. His French Man Friday, Jacques Duclos, flubbed the recent mob riots, got arrested and now has been degraded by the Communist Party bcause of dumbness.

Ana Pauker, the most hard-boiled of Red Amazons, has been rebuked in Rumania because she so ruthlessly backed - up Soviet dictates in currency reform, deportation and other upopular measures that even local rank and file Communists complained.

"Aunty" Ana, the wife who sent the father of her three children to the execution squad, has been made the scapegoat for worker and peasant complaint and has been given the heave-ho from the Bucharest Politburo.

Russia's faithful Czech traitor, Rudolph Slansky, is in the same prison to which he had previously sent his victims. A purge in Bulgaria, which already has kicked out from party membership more than 17,000 suspects, has lately touched leaders closely associated with Prime Minister Vulko Chervenkov.

Thus does the Communist hierarchy resemble a cannibal system, devouring its own kind.

An ironical feature of the current liquidations is that a while back, the nationalisms of Polish Gomulka and Yugoslav Tito were anathema. Now a mild form of "Socialist nationalism" is acceptable as the party line as expressed by President Gottwald in Czechoslovakia and Ana's successful rival, Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej.

Ana was born in 1893, one of several children of a poor butcher. A brilliant student, she was studying to be a doctor when she took up Marxism. In 1921 she became one of Rumania's few original Communists. Her early life was aseries of encounters with the police, court sentences and jail terms for attempts to overthrow the state by violence — plots which won the acclaim of distant Moscow and led to her rapid rise in Cominform affairs.

Among her most intimate friends is Maurice Thorez, head of the French Communist Party, now silenced in a Russian hospital undergoing medical treatment. Until her fall from grace, she was so close to Stalin that she was one of the few people in Europe who could phone him directly.

This tie was resented by the Russian ambassador to Rumania, who had to communicate through official channels. He sided with the Georghiu-Dej faction in the recent showdown.

Ana's life ambition is to take revenge on Rumanian "capitalists" who snubbed her when she was poor. In power, she strangled privanteenterprise and tried to force her country to adopt the Soviet pattern in economy and agriculture too swiftly. Hatred of Russian infiltration and bullying tactics is centered on her.

Her first big failure was spearheading the Cominform attack on Tito in 1948. Instead of taking punishment, the Balkan rebel walked out of the Russian league and ever since has been a bitter enemy.

She alienated fellow Rumanians by her savage liquidation of monarchists after the war. Her manner of repaying a kindness was revealed in the case of Premier Antonescu, who let her out of jail in exchange for an obscure politician whom the Russians had captured when they seized Bessarabia in 1940.

After the war she had him arrested. A firing squad. composed of Ana's NKVD executioners, was such poor shots that the police had to fire three salvos into the doomed statesmen and other prisoners before they could kill them.

Her latest clash wth Georghiu-Dej was her criticism of the mild "bourgeois nationalism" that does everything Moscow wants, regardless of its harsh effects on her own country men.

A tirade, that got under the Premier's skin, was her Lenin Day address, Jan. 21, in which she denounced as "American agents" those "digging up stench of nationalism."

Ever since the war, Rumanians have suffered grievously at Russia's hands. The so-called liberating Soviet army engaged in an orgy of pillage, rape and reprisal. Later, when Rumanian Reds took over, the bloodshed continued. It is estimated that 700 Catholic priests were executed.

Forced labor gangs were sent to dig canals, fell timber and construct a pipline connecting the Ploesti oil wells with Russian outlets. Saboteurs, angered by the way the Russians are robbing their nation of petroleum, have frequently damaged the line and oil installations.

Farmers, who objected to collectivization, have been punished. Recently mass deportations, on the brutal Hungarian model, have been carried out in Bucharest. Middle class "undesirables" and former non-Communist soldiers have been transported to slave colonies, their old homes and belongings sold to Red newcomers.

The straw that broke the camel's back was the "Golden Leu" currency reform which Ana's associates pushed through on orders from Soviet financial experts in Rumania. It was designed to drain off reserves. It destroyed savings overnight — anyone owning 1,000 lie had to exchange at the rate of 100 old lei for one new leu.

Since January, the starting date, prices in the black market and the value of the dollar have soared. Peasants stopped selling food. Workers demanded pay raises to meet conditions.

Economic chaos and rage were so universal that Ana's colleag[illegible], Moscow-trained Vasile Luca, nance minister, was ousted [illegible] March. But public anger was [illegible] appeased and now Luca and Pauker have been tossed from the Politburo for offenses which Moscow itself ordered them to commit.

Justice is served when a biter gets bit. But Communist gratitude also is revealed in the incident.

Highway Slaughter Starts Off Fight Against Careless Drivers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A grim two week siege of highway slaughter has touched off an unprecedented campaign against careless drivers in Alabama.

Even Gov. Gordon Persons, in his siren-equipped limousine, is patrolling the roads to see that officers carry out his orders to arrest all traffic law violators.

Accompanied by a state highway patrolman, Persons traveled through 14 counties Saturday and Sunday warning bad drivers, congratulating careful motorists.

The carnage started with the Memorial Day holidays and continued almost without letup until 39 persons were dead in 12 days.

To give the highway patrol more striking power, the governor has added 50 men to the 265 already in uniform. In addition he has directed 125 liquor enforcement agents and Public Service Commission inspectors to make arrests on the highway.

Later, if it can be worked out, he plans also to deputize 120 game wardens and forestry patrolmen as road watchers.

On the highway patrol, Persons has broken up the familiar two-man teams and ordered the office reassigned one man to a car. He figures that alone will put about 130 more cruisers on the highways. Fifty patrolmen will go back to riding motorcycles.

The governor has singled out speeders as the No. 1 hazard.

With that in mind, the highway patrol arrested 557 drivers for speeding in two days this past week end.

Persons put a speed limit into effect on most Alabama highways seven months ago by executive order, pegging the lawful rate of travel at 60 miles an hour in the daytime and 50 at night. He has promised to cut it even lower if "these hghway murders" contnue.

Soviets Try New Anti-West Tactics

VIENNA (AP) — U.S. sources say that a Cominform organization in Vienna is trying to rope Europe's wartime guerrilla heroes and concentration camp victims into an international movement against the West.

The Kremlin front organization, these sources said, is the International Federation of Resistance Fighters. In a meeting here just ended, it called for an "International Combat Week Against Fascism and War" from Sept. 7 to 14.

These sources said the Red organization, established in Vienna several months ago, has been sending agents all over Western Europe to convince the remnants of wartime anti-Nazie guerrilla armies and those who were in Nazi prison camps that the West's new pact with the Bonn government threatens peace.

BAXTER, Tenn. (AP)—68 Baxter's bulging bachelor, Charlie Hughes, has decided that after 28 years of daily reveille the residents of this small mid-Tennessee community need a little early-morning sleep.

Hughes is off on a two-week vacation — his first in 28 years.

In 1924 Hughes decided that bugle blowing would be healthful exercise. Ever since he has been blowing reveille from atop a pole in his back yard sharply at 5 a.m. daily.

Bar Gives Tips On Jury Duty

Thousands of Texans are called each year as prospective jurors in our many state and federal courts. When chosen to serve, very few of these violate their oath with intentional misconduct. But honest mistakes have all too frequently brought the sincerity and ethics of an individual juror into question. Usually such errors arise from his misunderstanding of his function as a judge—for the jury is judge of the facts in the case before it.

Like Caesar's wife, the juror must not only avoid wrong, but must also avoid any appearance of wrong. Otherwise, his integrity and honor may be brought into question by actions which are actually innocent but appear censurable to those who view them. By observing the following simple suggestions, the juror may be sure he is maintaining the highet of ethics, in which no possible fault may be found by others:

Hold yourself aloof from all persons (except other jurors) in any way connected with the trial of the case. That means that you should not mingle with nor talk to the lawyers, witnesses, parties, nor the judge, even though the discussion is wholy unrelated to the trial.

Do not discuss the case nor permit others to mention it to you or in your presnce during the trial. If anyone insists upon talking about the case after you have explained to him that you are a juror and must not listen, report the matter to the judge immediately.

Do not commence your deliberations until you have heard all the evidence from both sides, the argument of the lawyers, and the court's charge. You should not mention the case except in the jury room when all other jurors are present.

Do not become a private investigator. All properly admissible evidence will be brought before you. Do not try to search out additional facts you believe to have been omitted. Do not even guess or speculate about facts not in evidence.

Be attentive to the evidence as it is presented. If you are to properly aid the other jurors in settling the fact questions, it will be necessary to listen carefully to all evidence presented.

Do not guess at the judge's opinion of the facts. You are the judge of the facts. He is not allowed and will not try to invade your province. His rulings on admissibility of evidence reflect no ieas or opinions on any fact question.

You should not mention or discuss your own personal experiences, or any knowledge that you may have of similar transactions. If you should disclose such information to others serving on a jury, the court would have to grant a new trial.

Accept no favors from and bestow no favors upon any person interested in the trial. However innocent the conduct may be, it will raise doubts in otherwise undoubting minds, and may even be subject to more serious insinuations and charges.

When in doubt ask the judge If you are in doubt about your rights or duties as a juror, you should not ask anyone but the judge for information.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

"We're his creditors in case he wins!"

Knotty-Pine Room No Place For Oil

BALTIMORE (AP)—A knotty-pine club cellar is no place to deliver a tank full of oil, the Murray P. Smiths have complained in a $15,000 suit against the Esso Standard Oil Company.

They alleged in their Superior Court suit that last December a Standard Oil man drew up to their home hooked up his hose to a fuel pipe outside the house and pumped away — without any warning.

The fuel line had been disconnected inside the house, the Smiths explained.

And furthermore — they hadn't even ordered any oil.

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Fact No. 1
Model for model—costs less
Stack up a Chevrolet truck against any other truck with comparable specifications, capable of handling the same payloads. You'll find the Chevrolet truck lists for less and brings you great features.

Fact No. 2
Mile after mile *at rock bottom cost
Truck users everywhere have proved to their own satisfaction that Chevrolet costs the least of all to own and maintain. Valve-in-Head economy, in the Loadmaster or Thriftmaster engines, saves on gas.

Fact No. 3
Right truck for the job saves money
Chevrolet trucks are factory-matched to your payload requirements. You don't waste money by buying "too much truck"—you don't risk work interruption or slow-downs by buying "too little truck."

Fact No. 4
Lower, slower depreciation
Records show that Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more at resale than any other make which costs about the same new. The market value of Chevrolet trucks stays up because the value stays in.

You buy a truck to get work done fast and efficiently, at the lowest possible cost.

There's a Chevrolet truck that will do just that. It lists for less money than any other truck with comparable specifications. It saves on operation and upkeep. It's factory-matched to your job—frame, tires, axles, springs, engine, transmission, brakes. And traditionally, it keeps its value longer, trades in higher than many other trucks costing more. These are the plain hard facts of truck buying. They are the down-to-earth reasons why, year after year, more truck users buy Chevrolet trucks than any other make.

More than two and a half million users are proving that it makes sense, and saves dollars, to haul and deliver with Chevrolet trucks. Come in and discuss your truck needs with us.

Cook's Nook

If you would please a child, give him a cookie--but if you would delight him, give him a cookie with a face on it. Just about as long as there have been ovens, there have been Gingerbread Men, or something very much like them.

Nowadays when we make a Gingerbread Man we bow his legs and put a hat on him and call him a cowboy, but the principle is the same, and it still works. Cookies that look like cookies aren't nearly so interesting as cookies that look like people or pussycats. The same is true of candies. Maybe dressing them up is a little extra trouble — but it's worth it, particularly for a party.

FUNNY FACES

2 cups (12 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, chopped or bits
2-3 cup light corn syrup
5 cups oven-popped rice cereal

Melt chocolate over hot but not boiling water, using a 2-quart double boiler or two saucepans. Add corn syrup and mix well. Remove from heat and stir in cereal, mixing until well coated. Press into greased shallow pan to a thickness of 1-4 inch. Cut into circles with a three-inch cookie cutter. Use life-savers, gumdrops, raisins, etc. to make faces on the circles.

Yield: About 30 faces.

CHOCOLATE CATS

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cup butter or margarine
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2-3 cups sifted flour
1-2 cup ready-to-eat brand
1-2 cup seedless raisins
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar and continue beating until thick. Stir in cooled chocolate mixture. Add flour, bran and vanilla and stir only until combined. Spread in greased baking pan, 9 x 9 inches. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. When cool, cut in triangle shapes. Decorate with coconut and corn candy to make cat faces.

Yield: 18 cats.

Merten Home Demonstration Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. A. M. Nash For Study

Mrs. A. M. Nash was hostess to the Merten Home Demonstration Club this week when the group met for study of cabinet finishes.

Mrs. D. A. Rife had charge of the demonstration. She described several different kinds of cabinet finishes that are easy for the housewife to keep.

Following the demonstration, Mrs. Jack Prather presented a program on kitchens, showing work simplification and storage planning. She said shelves, especially ones in which staples are stored, should be of proper heighth. She also explained the importance of using cheerful colors in the kitchen.

Roll call was answered with "How I Improved My Kitchen."

Mrs. W. T. Cass directed recreation following the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. V. Day, vice president.

Mrs. Nash was presented gifts in observance of her birthday.

Cookies and punch were served to Mmes. A. B. Whitten, Prather, Cass, V. Smith, Clyde Edmondson, Rife, P. J. Boyd, Day, T. G. Groves, a new member, Mrs Archie Maness, and two guests, Mrs. W. H. Hillard, and Miss Linda Kay Day.

RUTH MILLETT

If women only wouldn't:

Try so hard to keep up with each other, instead of each woman figuring out for herself what is really important to her and what she really wants from life.

Get such a cool, appraising look in their eyes when they are introduced to each other for the first time.

Make such a problem out of their in-law relationships.

Be so stingy in their spoken admiration for other women.

Make such a job of entertaining that they grow to dread it instead of anticipating it with pleasure.

Worry so much about holding their men.

Boss their children around like petty tyrants.

Take such delight in conversationally picking each other to pieces. Take up so much more time talking about tragedies and misfortunes.

Take on more than they can possibly manage and then go around breathlessly complaining about how rushed they are.

Fret and fume over problems they never intend to try to solve or problems that can't be solved and might as well be calmly accepted.

So often fail to get the most pleasure out of the full, busy years.

Always look forward to the time when they will be freer" —only to eventually discover that a woman needs to be needed far more than she needs to be free.

If women wouldn't so often make these mistakes how much happier they would be.

Initiation Held When Pythian Sisters Meet

H. L. Meers and A. C. Parsley were inititated and made members of the order at the Pythian Sisters meeting held this week in the Pythian Hall.

Following the initiation service, coffee and cake were served to the following "knights," J. C. Hopkins, A. L. Weatherred, Kenneth Huey, Meers and Parsley.

Hair Care Can't Begin Too Soon

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Little girls with curls are no novelty these days. The advent of the junior-type home permanent has made it possible no matter how straight her haid may be, to boast a curly top.

If you've decided your little girl's hair is about as hopeless as your own, you'll be glad to hear about two new, home permanent products that make an ideal mother - daughter duo.

One contains a waving lotion made especially for curling the limper, less elastic tresses of little girls. The other has a unique waving lotion precisely formulated to put a soft but springy and long-lasting curl in adult hair.

Why don't you and your daughter set up your own beauty salon at the bathroom sink, and combine your beautifying efforts? Set aside a time when the male members of the family are far removed.

Once the house is yours, let the youngest member of this duet play or attend to some household chore while you shampoo your own hair and start winding your curls. If she gets restless before you are finished, you'll find her more than willing to hand you curlers or end papers.

But a word about shampooing. Use a lotion or creme shampoo for pre-permanent lathering because of the thorough but no-drying action. Either one is a soapless detergent, so it will rinse free and leave no deposit on the curls to interfere with the waving lotion action. And just wait until your little one sees the suds it makes.

Once your hair is wound, the stage is set for the junior member of this beauty guild. In her kit you'll find a whole booklet of punch-out paper dolls. The moment daughter's hair is shampooed and you've set her down hand her this colorful pacifier.

She'll adore her new playmates, and you'll find that she stays angelically quiet during the entire procedure, even through you may still be winding her curls when it's time for you to take your first 30-minute-check curl.

No neutralizing is required with your youngster's home permanent, so you can send her off to play as soon as her curls are wound. But during the first hour, keep her close by and indoors because at the end of this time you'll need her for the last step in the permanent.

Now, with your little girl off the schedule for the moment, tend to your own curls. The new adult kit should allow you to find the curl you want within one hour. As soon as you see the dips and ridges that indicate a perfect wave, start the new quicker neutralizing process that goes with this kit.

Is one hour up since daughter's hair was wound and resaturated? Then she's due for a lukewarm water rinse for two minutes. Towel-blot her curls so that they will be dripless and comfortable and she can go off to play until her hair dries naturally on the curlers.

Before you set your hair, rinse your new curls with creme rinse. This will make your hair still more manageable and give it body. The rinse is good for your daughter, too. She'll love its grown-up fragrance.

And here are some setting points for both you and your daughter. If a soft loose-end curl is what you want, set your hair in jumbo pin curls, rolling the hair around two fingers instead of one. Place your curls evenly, and your curls will be even when you comb them out.

When the male members of your family see the results of this combined beauty session, they may not know exactly what happened, but they're bound to be pleased.

Baptist Class Honors Two Young Couples

The Young Business Girls' class and the Winsome BTU of the First Baptist Church honored two couples who are to be married this month, with a party this week.

Honored guests were Miss Odevern Spencer and Glen McConnell, who are to be married June 22, and Miss Gorda Bell Miller and Raymond Bates, who are to be married June 19.

Refreshments were served after which the group went on a scavenger hunt. The evening closed with group singing.

Busy Bee Club Has Meeting In Skellytown

SKELLYTOWN (Special) — The Busy Bee Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. C. L. Nicholson for a business meeting which was led by the club preseident, Mrs. B. O. Bertrand.

During the meeting, it was decided to disband the club until September. The club voted to sponsor the Reading Round-up for children which will be directed by Miss Jo Battle, county librarian from Panhandle, and Mrs. Bert Haiduk, local chairman.

Members present were: Mmes. B. O. Bertrand, Clifton Kelly, Dare Lock, Bert Haiduk, Gene McCormick and L. A. Puckett.

Travis-Bohannan Vows Exchanged In White Deer Church

SKELLYTOWN (Special) — Miss Peggy Travis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Travis, Sr., became the bride of Mr. Eugene Bohannan, son of Henry Bohannan of Cherryvale, Kansas, in an impressive twilight ceremony Saturday evening, June 14, in the First Baptist Church of White Deer. Rev. M. V. Mears, pastor, officiated.

Sammy Milligan, organist, played the traditional wedding marches, and accompanied Miss Ernestine Thornburg as she sang "O Promise Me." During the ceremony, Mr. Milligan played "Clair de Lune."

Miss Wanda McAdams, bride's attendant, wore a brown dress with white and carried a corsage of daisies. Don Park of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, was the bridegroom's attendant.

The brine, given in marriage by her father, chose a suit of Royal Blue tricot faille, with white and blue accessories. She carried Esther Reed daisies atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Travis, mother of the bride, wore a gold suit with blue accessories. She wore a single white gladiola.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the basement of the church. Mrs. Larry Murray of Skellytown registered the guests, while Mrs. Cledus Parks of Amarillo presided over the pouring table.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bohannan will be at home at 117 S. Wynne, in Pampa where the bridegroom is employed by the Coco Cola Bottling Co.

Waysidettes Meet In Stevens Home

Miss Lynda Stevens was hostess to the Waysidettes when the group met this week for a demonstration on making cup cakes.

Miss Betty Barnes conducted the meeting. When roll was called, each girl answered with " a good thing to eat between meals."

A special meeting will be held this Saturday in the home of Jocelyn Morgan.

Mrs. Clifton Kelly Entertains Son On Third Birthday

SKELLYTOWN (Special) — Mrs. Clifton Kelly, of White Deer, entertained for her son Frank Saturday afternoon in their home with a party celebrating his third birthday.

Favors for the boys were jumping ropes, and for the girls were animal scissors. Each child received a small cup cake with one candle resting in an animal holder.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. David Grayson and Douglas, Mrs. Arnold Doss and Larry, Gary and Ronnie, Mrs. Harrold Anderson and Sherri Lynn of Pampa, Mrs. Bill McCullock and Cheri Lynn, Mrs. Eddie Dittberner and Tommy, Mrs. N. A. Keahey and James, Larry and Laqueta, Mrs. Brian Evans and Deborah, Mrs. Dare Lock and Bruce, and Otto and James Wheeler, Connally Mears, Penny Powers, Harlan and Bruce Hy Smith, Marylin, Carolyn and Ellen Young and Donnie Nicholson.

Movies were made by Mrs. Kelly.

In warm humid weather packages of dried fruits that have been opened, should be kept in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator.

Drouth Poses Grave Crisis In Australia

By O. A. GUTH

SYDNEY (AP)—All hope of relief before November from the great been officially abandoned.

This grim decision came by radeo from government officers sent by truck across the desolate plains that stretch in three directions from Darwin. They say light, bog - making showers now will only hasten the death of the million head of cattle in the drought region.

An area comparable in size with the whole of Free Europe is gripped by a strange and devastating drought which experts believe will have its repercussions on trade and even defense for 10 to 15 years.

Already the minister for agriculture and commerce, J. McEwen, has announced Australia cannot expect to export any beef this year. The drought is expected to cut the output by nearly 100,000 tons.

Australia's output of beef last year was 652,000 tons, of which more than 60,000 tons was exported. The beef cattle population was 10,200,000, a record.

Beef exports for the nine months to the end of March brought Australia $9,755,200, a drop of $1,612,800 from the corresponding period in 1950-51.

A Brisbane Queensland newspaper editor has just returned from a 2,500-mile tour of the stricken area including the world's largest cattle station, Alexandria Downs, which sprawls over 11,200 square miles. The manager's truck travels 30,000 miles a year without leaving the property.

"There is hardly a drop of surface water left," says the editor in his report.

"The Aborigines have abandoned their rain - making. . .Every night for months their chants and dances went on around the camp fires, but medicine men now admit they are licked.

Even Brisbane could be waterless if the wet season fails again next Christmas.

"Some 50,000 cattle are already dead in the northern territory alone. The death roll could be 150,000 by Novmber.

"A while ago, cattle were dropping on the shadeless plains from heat exhaustion. The sun temperature has been 140 degrees . . .

"This epic tragedy is entirely the result of the failure of the monsoonal summer rains on which the north depends for its very life.

"In this fight to save the empire's greatest beef project two phases lie ahad:

"One phase is a choice between getting the cattle to water or bringing water to the cattle. The government has been asked to throw the Australian Army into the job.

"The second phase is a challenge to Australian and British genius in a crisis.

"The plan is to build a 500-mile railway in two years along the edge of the desert which borders the tablelands.

"The proposed steel lifeline . . . could not be built for peanuts—but it could be built for less than peanut farms.

"At present the territory must breed cattle capable of walking 800 miles in 80 days to fattening areas."

Korea Explosion Probe Finds No Sabotage

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — U.S. Army headquarters said today thorough investigation of the Haeunde am munition dump fire and explosions Sunday showed no evidence of sabotage. The official probe into other possible causes is continuing.

Teen-Ager Says Government Has Set Poor Example

SEATTLE (AP)—A Texas teenager has told Kiwanians "the men of the government have set rather a poor example" for today's young people.

Seventeen-year-old Theodore M. Vestal of Sherman, Tex., outlined his views in a speech prepared for the 37th annual Kiwanis International Convention, Tuesday.

Vestal, a recent graduate of the Sherman High School, is president of the Key Club International, a Kiwanis organization with 21,222 members in 1000 high school clubs.

Vestal declared the "young people of today were born or grew up in depression and have lived in times of continuous war.

"Their attitudes are being determined today by their association with adults.

"With scandalous things going on in high places, it is little wonder that high school and college athletes receive bribes. The West Point cribbing and basketball scandals can be traced directly to pressure on the young men of our country by adults who corrupt not only the hired players but also the entire student body—who learn from their elders the cynical immoral doctrine that one must win at all cost."

Ike May Return To Army Career

DENVER (AP)—Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower, who gave up his five-star pay and allowances totaling more than $10,000 a year to campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency, may return to active duty with the Army if he is not successful.

The general, it was learned on good authority, does not want to go into permanent retirement and has a deep desire to get back into uniform if his political venture is a failure.

Hank Waiting On TV Results Before Selecting A Candidate

By HENRY McLEMORE

Like many, many thousands of other Americans I won't know how to vote until the television results come in from the Chicago convention.

The candidates will be, I understand, under almost 24-hour scrutiny by the cameras which send images winging through the air with the speed of a line drive to center. Each of the networks is sending a fortune in equipment to Chicago.

In one way the influence of TV on the minds of the voters is bad and in another way it is very good. On the good side, it will keep the politicians unnatural. Nothing is worse than a natural politician. Politicians won't be able to be themselves, for whch we can all be eternally grateful. They' have to improve their grammar. appearance and poise, the last being something most of our statesmen have always lacked.

On the bad side of following the candidates via television around the clock is the truth that Americans are suckers for charm. For every one person who knows John Foster Dules, thousands know Arthur Godfrey. Red Skelton is as well known as General Eisenhower, despite the large gap between their accomplishments. For every adult in America who is familiar with the name of Chief Justice Vinson, hundreds, yea thousands, know Dagmar.

I said in my opening paragraph that I would not make up my mind as to how to vote until I saw the television results from Chicago. The candidate who shows up best on my 16-inch screen is my fellow and gets my ballot. This does not mean that I am convinced thalt the man who shows up best on TV is the best man: it only means that I have lived long enough to know that one must join the great and general norm to fit comfortably, snugly, into American society.

The way things are in this country today, a presidential candidate who has charm on television, and a weak foreign policy is a two-to-one bet to beat a man with no charm and a strong foreign policy. There's no use in a fellow promising to reduce taxes if his profile is bad, or his speech halting, and his talk not glib. This sort of situation makes me wonder if Abraham Lincoln would ever have been elected had TV been in existence a hundred years ago.

A stovepipe hat; an ill-cut frock coat, a not-too-well trimmed beard, and an utter lack of false charm, might well have finished off Lincoln. I can well imagine network vice presidents in charge of TV, control room engineers, and oily-voiced announcers, advising him about how to improve his TV appearance. I would like to suggest that we television set owners try to do our best to weigh a candidate's words and not his ease of manner and photogenic qualities.

After all, amole on the nose, an awkard grasping for the right word are not quite as vital to this country as integrity and intention. Let us try to listen while we look, to use an old railroad crossing evpression. Let us try to remember that an image on a screen, a fleeting thing at best, is not nearly so important as solid flesh and blood in the white House.

Business Highlights

The Pampa B & G Hosiery Shop, managed by Mrs. Barbara Scruggs, placed second in a nation-wide contest of the 27 stores in the B & G chain for sales during the month of May.

The store was notified yesterday that prizes would be sent to individual salesmen and to the store. The local store showed an increase of 35.4 per cent, second to Fremont, Neb., with a gain of 47.2 per cent.

Besides Mrs. Scruggs, clerks at the local store are Mrs. Juanita Elwess and Rena Welch.

COLUMBIA, Mo. — J. C. Penney, chain store founder and native Missourian, recently gave the University of Missouri his world-famous Foremost Guernsey dairy herd and other assets with a total estimated value of $750,000.

Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the Univeristy, has announced that Penney's gift includes all the property, endowments and assets fo the Foremost Guernsey Association, State of New York. The Association's assets include the farm land, buildings and equipment at Hopewell Junction, N. Y., in addition to cash, stocks and bonds.

The Foremost herd, totalling about 250 cattle, is one of the country's finest purebred herds and worth, conservatively, $200,600. It will be brought to Missouri and perpetuated, as Penney wished, by the University's College of Agriculture. Lawrence R. Rainey of St. Albans, Mo., has been appointed superintendent to manage the Foremost Guernsey herd and farm for the University.

In building his nerd, Penney purchased only four bulls, the other sires having been produced within the herd. These bulls have sired scores of record - winning progeny, both male and female. Many of the cows have been developed in the herd itself, too; although Penney did buy some famous ones.

Penney incorporated the Foremost Guernsey Association in 1936 with an eye to assuring its perpetuity. He intended to transfer the herd to the University sixty years later—in 1996; but he recently decided he wanted the University to have the herd during his lifetime.

Mamie Would Like To Unpack Furniture And Stay Forever

By PAT PATTERSON

DENVER (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower would like to "unpack my furniture someplace and stay forever."

But, for the record, she's not saying if she'd like to be the nation's first lady or whether she has any ideas on how to play homemaker in the White House.

The lady with the bangs, who pooh-poohed the idea that she might be starting a new fad with her haircut, talked with four gals from the press here.

"It wasn't a "press conference," said Mamie. It was just a "little get - together over a bottle of coke."

Such things as the affairs of the nation and the chances of her Ike—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—becoming the Republican presidential candidate were strictly out.

Instead she sat down in the executive suite of the Brown Palace Hotel and chatted about her grandchildren, French dress designers, recipes and her engagement rings.

Mamie revealed that Ike proposed to her in a note he sent from his Army post in Texas. He gave her a replica of his West Point ring shortly before they were married which later was transferred to her right hand in favor of more conventional diamonds.

For 37 years she's been "following him around the world," and the longest they've been separated is 3 1-2 years during World War II. That was while the general was in Europe and she was living near Washington, D. C.

While Eisenhower is busy starting his campaign, Mamie is spending her time woth her mother who maintains the old family home here. Son John will be leaving in about 10 days for a Korean assignment.

Mrs. Eisenhower makes no speeches. She hopes to keep that record. She explained that if she accepted one such invitation, she felt she'd have to accept them all. That, she concluded, would be "quite physically impossible."

Mamie receives "about 50 or 60" letters a day and until recently she's tried to answer each by longhand. Her mail ranges from requests for souvenirs to be auctioned off at church bazaars to the I - collect - such - and - such - would - you - please - send - me - one - of - same.

Crude Production Increased In U. S.

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The United States' daily average crude oil and condensate production, helped by a big Kansas gain, increased 50,250 barrels during the Dakota's 1000-barrel spurt to 2800 week ending June 14, the Oil and Gas Journal has reported.

The total daily average was 6,156,650 barrels of which Kansas provided 311,900 barrels, a jump ove the previous week of 63,200. Another development was North Dakota's 1000-barrle spurt to 2800 barrels, peak output for the newest oil-producing state.

Texas increased 850 barrels to 2,699,500 barrels, and Michigan had the next biggest boost, up 800 barrels to 37,400.

"Okay! You're next, Watkins!"

Rotary Hears Review Of European Defense Council

A review of the European Defense Council organization was given during its weekly meeting in the Palm Room, City Hall.

Stein also gave a short report on the recent international Rotary convention held in Mexico City.

The speaker described the agreements that had to be reached between Western Germany and the other European nations — France, Belgium, Italy, Luxembourg, and The Netherlands — before the proposed international army can be placed in operation.

He said feeling over the new setup are mixed among the German people, divided between leanings toward the West and those embracing neo-Nazism and wanting complete independence.

During the program it was announced that reservations for the June 24 installation program at the Country Club have been made for all Rotarians and that withdrawals will have to be made or memmbers will be automatically considered as having a reservation.

ICC Okays FW-D Reorganization

The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a railroad reorganization plan that has placed the old Wichita Valley Railroad and five other small railroads under one road — Fort Worth and Denver.

The reorganization plan covered only book work but will not result in any change of operations, personnel or routes. Railroad officials, said it means simply, that a group of small subsidiaries will all go under one head from now on.

The information was released through a news release prepared in the Fort Worth offices of Robert L. Hoyt, a FW and D vice president.

Women Get Tips On Wedding Shower

BONHAM (AP)—The good women who give bridal showers just don't know how to do it.

A group of men here gave Bill Richards a groom shower before his wedding here Monday. He got a hammer, nails, bolts and the real thing in the way of showers — a deluge of water when he came in the door.

Maryland Governor

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Former Gov. Preston Lane Jr. has rejected a chance to become the nation's civil defense administrator at $17,500 a year.

Lane said that other commitments would make it impossible for him to accept the post to which Presdient Truman was reported ready to name him.

FATHER 64TH TIME

Another Unknown, Gajda, Paces Scoring In PGA Test

LOUISVILLE (AP)—They've played the PGA Championship on all kinds of courses since its inception in 1916 and they don't toughen them up with extra traps, jungles of rough or superslick greens as they do for the Open.

The result is the kind of scoring that took place over Louisville's Big Spring course yesterday when they turned loose 137 of golf's best professional shotmakers to try for the 63 places in the match play brackets.

One of the "unknowns," tall lean Bob Gajda, went out early in the day and posted a 6-under-par of 66. The rest threatened that score and the course record all day but couldn't beat either.

Par Busters

There were three 67s, five 68s and three 69s and going into today's second 18-hole qualifying round it looked as if the ones who couldn't match par for 36 holes wouldn't get into the first of tomorrow's "sudden death" matches.

The arrow indicating the 64th man on the scoreboard pointed at the middle of the 73s at the end of the first day.

Among those who looked as if they might not make it were Ed Porky Oliver, runnerup to Julius Boros for the Open title last week; Denny Shute, the last player to win two PGA titles in succession 15 years ago; and Charlie Bassler, a gaint - killing semi-finalist in last year's tourney. They all had 75s. Former Open Champion Lew Worsham and Buck White shot 76s and Skip Alexander a 79.

Behind Gajda, a 35-year-old assistant pro at Detroit's Oakland Hills Club, came two tournament stars, Cary Middlecoff and Dutch Harrison, and stay-at-home Henry Williams Jr., who went to the PGA final two years ago. They had the 67s.

Boros Withdraws

Meanwhile, Julius Boros' withdrawal from the PGA tournament may have set the stage for this year's dream golf match.

It would pair the winners of the PGA and the National Open.

Boros' surprise decision to stay out of the Louisville scramble after he had accepted a special invitation to participate was followed by a remark that he would like to meet the winner.

The Mid Pines, N. C., shotmaker won the Open title at Dallas last week. The PGA waived its apprenticeship rule to invite him to participate in its camponship round and B. T. Atkins defeated Dr. Ray Laycock.

In the third flight, Bob Baker defeated Warren Fatheree, 1 up.

Second round matches are supposed to be completed Sunday with all play through semifinal rounds to be ended by June 28. The championship matches will start at 1 p.m. on June 29.

Rose Defeats Howard To Fill Championship Flight Action

The field for the second round of the Pampa Men's City Golf Tournament was completed yesterday as Medalist Henry Rose defeated young Jimmy Howard, 4-2. The match completed the first round of play in the championship flight.

In the second round, defending champ Clare Freeman meets C. F. McGinnis in a match scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday; Grover Austin, Jr., meets Dr. J. F. Elder, in a match set for 1 p.m. Sunday; Rose meets John Ramsey; and Max Mickey battles Mark Heath.

Rose had an extremely hot putter to go along with his usual long game yesterday to defeat the battling Howard. The tournament medalist consistently rammed down putts all the way from 15 to 30 feet long to get Howard two down at the turn and then pick up two more before they returned to the clubhouse on the back nine.

In other matches played so far this week, Charles Austin defeated Aaron Sturgeon, 1 up, in the first round of the First Flight; Lefty Cox defeated Russell Carver, 1 up, in the second round and B. T. Atkins defeated Dr. Ray Laycock.

Boros accepted and then declined with the explanation that because he still has three years to go on the required five-year apprenticeship his participation might stir up dessension in PGA ranks.

Eagles Stretch Lead To 2 Games

By CHARLEY ESKEW
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dallas' Eagles made their Texas League lead two games Wednesday night to climax 33 days of battle among the leaders in which five clubs changed places at the top.

It took a night of double-headers to bring Dallas' margin, the first est since Beaumont held first over Fort Worth May 16.

San Antonio was the victim of Dallas 3-1 and 96. Helping to strengthen the Eagles' first place hold, Tulsa clipped Beaumont twice, 5-0 and 7-1.

Houston regained second place by dividing two with Fort Worth, losing 3-1 before Al Papai became the first 11-game winner in the loop by hurling Houston to a 9-3 second game verdict.

Shreveport fell as far into the cellar as any club has been—eight-and-a-half games out—although the Sports divided with Oklahoma City. The Indians beat Shreveport 9-5 in the first game. Despite 14 hits Oklahoma City fell 7-4 in the nightcap.

OPEN CHAMP QUITS PGA—"You can have it," Julius Boros waves after the newly crowned National Open golf champion withdrew from the PGA tournament in Louisville, Ky. The Southern Pines, N.C., pro, who received a special invitation to play although he had not served the required five-year pro apprenticeship, said he withdrew to avoid criticism and to prevent dissension. # Gassers, Lobos Divide Pair

LAMESA — (AP) — Borger and Lamesa fought to a standstill here last night by splitting a doubleheader, the Gassers taking the first game 4-3 in eight innings and the Lobos winning the second 8-3.

The Gassers took a one-run lead in the top of the first in the opener when Joe Duffield walked, went to third on a single by Hal Epps and scored on Eddy Carnett's fly to center.

Borger added two more tallies in the third. Windy Eldridge got a base on balls, went to third on Duffield's single and scored on Epps' one-base blow, Duffield taking second. Duffield went to third on Carnett's long fly and then stole home.

The Gassers scored the winning run in the eighth. Carnett singled and was sacrificed to second by Bill Manning. Wright singled him to third, and he came home on Jackie Wilcox's muff of Ed Flannagan's grounder.

Oilers Top Dukes In Fifteenth, 6-5

Righthander Jesse Priest threw the wrong pitch to Oiler Manager Jake Phillips in the last half of the ninth inning at Oiler Park last night, and the Pampa skipper lashed it back over the leftfield fence into the teeth of a strong breeze and therby prolonged a bautifully pitched and played ball game into 15 innings before Deck Woldt singled Auerbach home to give Pampa the win. Phillips' home run, his ninth of the year, came on the first pitch of the bottom of the ninth and tied the game at 5-5, after the Oilers had seen a 4-1 lead wilt away in the fifth.

Tonight the two clubs conclude their series with a single game starting at 8:15. It will be Max Molberg going for Oilers against Jerry Folkman for the Dukes. The Oilers will be bidding for a sweep of the series.

The game rolled through to the bottom of the fifteenth in good time, neither pitcher wasting any time, and giving up few hits. Votaw was Priest's thirteenth out victim to open the inning. Auerbach lined a single into right and then stole second as Woldt waved at a second strike. The little Oiler second baseman then socked a hit into rightfield to plate Auerbach with the game-winning tally.

The Oilers got to Priest in the first three innings for four runs that looked like they might stand up. The game started in a sprinkle that turned to heavy rain as the bottom of the first started. The Oilers got a bloody run as Auerbach beat out a dribbler down the third base line, Deck Woldt punched a bunt over the charging Hal Abbot's head, and Stan Bartkowski punched a single through the leftside of the drawn up infield, Auerbach scoring. Don Moore hit a sinking liner to left that looked like a hit, but Burelson gloved it and doubled Woldt off second. Priest then fanned Manny Temes for the first of five time during the night.

Two hits and an error gave the Dukes an unearned run in the second, but the Oilers got it right back and two more to spare in the third. With two out on two pitches, Priest walked Woldt. Bartkowski doubled off the left-field fence, Woldt coming around to score and break the tie. Moore singled to left and went to second when the throw to the plate was too late to get Bartkowski. A wild pitch moved him to third and then when Cuitti threw past third when he recovered the ball, Moore came all the way home.

And that was the sub and substance of the Oilers' attack on Priest until the first pitch of the last of the ninth.

Meanwhile, the Dukes went ahead with four in the fifth. Abbot starting it with a single to center. Harriman beat out a roller back toward the mound and Burelson hit a looping single to left to load the bases. Rikard then lahed a three-run double into the hole in left center to tie the game up at 4-4.

Ted Tate tried to pick Rikard off of second, hit him in the back, and when the ball went into centerfield, Rikard moved to third. Stenborg bounced out, but Dick Burgett hit a hot smash at Brown who was playing in close, and it went for a hit to score the lead run, which held until the ninth.

It was a great defensive battle as well as a pitchers' duel. Hal Abbott turned in several fielding gems at third base for the Dukes, while Bobby Brown and Auerbach did likewise for the Oilers.

But the pitching was the superb feature. Priest was almost untouchable, and seemed to grow stronger as the game progressed. He picked up nine of his strikeouts after the seventh inning, and didn't give up a hit from the tenth until Auerbach's single in the fifteenth.

Votaw didn't even allow a semblance of a hit in his three inning stint. Montero did a fine job of pitching himself out of trouble in the ninth and eleventh, when the Dukes got two men on each frame but couldn't get them moved around. In the eleventh with runners on second and third, the aging Cuban righthander, got Stenborg on strikes to end the threat.

Hubbers Murder Gold Sox, 16-2

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Lubbock slaughtered the Amarillo Gold Sox here last night, 16-2, Hubber bat exploding for 10 runs in the sixth inning with rookie Pitcher Dick Leeder sparking the big frame with a home run and a double.

Leeder turned in a brilliant six-hitter that was almost lost in the thunderous roar of Hubber bats, which drove out 18 hits off three Amarillo hurlers. Eddie Bucz hit his eighth homer of the year in the third hastening Howard Waters, the loser, to the showers.

WARREN'S ARMUP

By Warren Haase—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What is the final score of a forfeited baseball game?

WIN OR WORK

Manager Jake Phillips led his charges back into Pampa at 6 a. m. Tuesday morning after the 3-6 road trip through the southern portion of the league. And the skipper was so disgusted with the weak hitting on the trip that he sent his boys off to their beds with a terse request for their presence at the park at 12 noon for a workout . . . and under the hot afternoon sun.

And then again, just before taking the field for the first game of the home stand, before the second largest crowd of the year (1,277 paid) Phillips informed the boys that if they didn't win they would be right back out under that hot sun for another afternoon workout the next day. As is now history, the Oilers responded with a well played 13-7 win over the Dukes.

It was just an example of Phillips' "get tough" policy, which is the other method of managing. Jake, an easy to get along with fellow, has tried to be lenient with the team. But when their record was a .500 one despite what appears to be the best team in the league, Skipper decided to try something else.

The team looked great Tuesday night. Their hustle, on all balls, flawless defense and timely hitting were encouraging. They are now in the ideal situation for starting a drive for a permanent spot in the first division. Being home for eighteen days in Oiler Park, and six at Borger and Amarillo where they have always played good, the Blue and White should be firmly entrenched in the top bracket when they atart their third go-round of the year.

The pitching has been excellent. The brilliant relief chore turned in by Morris Shipman Tuesday indicates that the right hander may finally be coming into the role of a starter. Wildness had been his main trouble through the past. He's got the speed and confidence. "My trouble was been that I wasn't in shape," Ship told us Tuesday. "But feel of this," he said, pointing to a wringing wet sweatshirt. "I've been able to ring two cups of perspiration out of this twice a day the last week. I've been running and getting my legs in shape."

With Shipman ready, the acquisition of lanky Luverne Thompson from Oklahoma City, and a continuation of the fine pitching that has been forthcoming from the rest of the staff, the Oilers shouldn't need too many runs to win any given ballgame. The lone sore spot in the mound staff is in the right arm of Bill Bohne. Bohne complained Tuesday night that he couldn't put anything on the ball, that his arm had gone dead on him. If such is the case, it means that the Oilers will have to be on the search once again for another starting twirler. We hope that Bill is wrong, that the arm hasn't gone dead. He has been spotty all season, but showed good promise in between trips to the doctor with injuries.

Odds And Ends

Buddy Cockrell writes from Canada that he is getting some catches of fish . . . He, along with two more Harvesters, Richard Qualls and Lee Fraser, left for the North right after school let out. . .Abilene got a new first baseman, Billy Cox, on option from Dallas, and optioned outfielder Ed Bucynski to Vernon. . . .Umprie Carusso has quit the league as has Bill Frank. . . Left Prexy Winkler in a tight the other night, and Ted Wybernac, Ray Drake and Lee Gatewood had to help Jim Tongate work a game at Lamesa. . . George Pyate has gotten in his share of arbitering, too, and get's a league check for his work, also. . .Sonny Hancks, Abilene second baseman, was married at home plate at Abilene Tuesday night. . .He then went out and played a good defensive game, handling nine chances cleanly, but was horsecollared at the plate. . . The National Golf Foundation, a non-profit organization, advertises the sport as "the game of a lifetime—for fun, to stay young, play golf.". . .There was a time we used to be able to beat these youngsters, but we got a lesson from Buster Carter and Jimmy Howard the other day. . .Jimmy, incidentally, home from West Point, was captain of the freshman basketball team, No. 3 man on the golf squad, and made the dean's honor roll!! . . . He and Ed January, Oiler pitcher, were teammates at Tarleton State in 1951.

Seitz Chased As Pioneers Lose

ABILENE — (AP) — Otho Nicholas spaced five hits over the distance to mark his ninth pitching victory of the season Wednesday night as the Blue Sox turned back Clovis for the second straight time, 5-2, to clinch the series.

The Pioneers scored the first of their two unearned runs in the sixth when Virgil Richardson's grounder to first was muffed by Billy Cox, Johnny Jeandron doubled, and Frank Benites hit a fly to right, Richardon scoring after the catch. In the sixth, after one out, Sonny Tims drove a double down the leftfield line, and scored on Jackie Sullivan's two-base bobble off Francis Rice's grounder.

The Blue Sox meanwhile combed Bill Hair for ten hits, used them to advantage for five earned runs against Clovis' errorless fielding.

Glen Selbo led the attack with a triple in the second, scoring Cox who had singled, and a home run in the eighth with none on. He walked and scored in the sixth.

Manager Grover Seitz entertained briefly in the second inning, and saw the rest of the game from a dark corner of the stands, in the course of a run-in with plate Umpire Joe Theodore. The Pioneers also lost the services of Richardson, first baseman, in the sixth via the thumb route. After popping up a foul on a third strike, Richardson flung his bat viciously against the low grandstand wall near the Clovis dugout, dangerously near the bat boy and box seat fans.

Seitz was removed, in custody of a policeman, after ending an argument with Theodore about the latter's calling of balls and strikes. As he started away, he knelt and brushed off home plate with his hands. Theodore gave him the signal, and Seitz rushed him, kicking dirt on the ump's uniform. As field Umpire Williamson rushed in, Seitz greeted him the same way. As a cop approached, Seitz made a lunge at him, then softly offered his arm and they walked away from there. Seitz then moved to the press box, but visited less than an inning, Theodore spotting him up there. He spent the rest of the game high up in the grandstand, and Richardson joined him there in the sixth.

Negro Goes Tonight

TEXAS CITY (AP) — Mel Griffin, 20-year-old Negro southpaw pitcher, probably will pitch his first game for the Texas City Texans against Harlingen tonight.

Griffin, a native of Texas City, was recalled yesterday from Centralia of the Mississippi-Ohio Valley League where he had been on option.

Chick Howard Sold To Lubbock

AMARILLO — Crawford "Chick" Howard, veteran Amarillo outfielder, was sold to the Lubbock Hubbers yesterday by the Gold Sox for an undisclosed amount of cash, it was announced by Mrs. Dorothy Dean, secretary of the Lubbock club.

Howard, for years one of the outstanding hitters in the league, played centerfield for Lubbock last night, going hitless in four trips.

He was drafted last winter by Corpus Christi, but worked out arrangements to be returned to Amarillo after he refused to report to the Gulf League club.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ben Hogan had won his fourth Open championship, we would have placed him without hesitation upon the same golfing pedestal with Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen and would have been prepared to defend our conviction with fervor. Perhaps it is as well that the fierce little competitor failed to bring it off.

Our feeling was—and still is that Ben has won his triumphs over more good golfers than his two great predecessors were called upon to overcome.

Even so, and with some reluctance, we are willing to abandon the battle before it might have begun. We have been reading up on Jones and Hagen in Gene Sarazen's book "Thirty Years of Championship Golf," and squire has swayed us. There is a sneaking feeling that either Bobby or Walter, given the advantage Hogan held at the halfway point at Dallas, would never have let it get away.

It seems doubtful that Hogan will have another such chance at his fourth Open crown, the one which would irrevocably have set him in a class above the others of the modern group. Ben, like his chief rivals of the past decade, is crowning 40, and next year they are inaugurating a 36-hole qualifying test on the two days preceding the Open to take the starch out of ageing limbs.

Sarazen Rankings

It it is, indeed, the end of some sort of era, then the reader may be interested in Sarazen's estimate and ranking of the players he has seen in his long and brilliant career.

Gene places Jones and his one-time bitter rival Hagen on an absolute par. They were, he says, the greatest ones with his four U. S. Opnes, three British Opens, five U.S. Amateurs and one British Amateur; Hagen with his four British Opens, two U. S. Opens and five PGA crowns.

Rawls Wins In Western

CHICAGO—(AP) — An all Georgia scrap and a battle of teenagers spiced today's quarter finals of the Women's Western Open in which defending Champion Petty Berg and Medalist Betsy Rawls still overshadowed their brackets.

The Georgia dispute pitted pro Louise Suggs, three-time meet winner from Atlanta and Mary Lena Faulk a dogged amateur from Thomasville.

Two other amateurs still in contention, 17 - year - old Barbara McIntire, Toledo, O., and 19 - year-old Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., met in a lower bracket contest.

The real business of the quarter final round, however, was expected to be transacted in the upper bracket between Miss Rawls and pro Peggy Kirk and the lower bracket tiff between Miss Berg and the fifth pro still in the running, Betty Jameson.

Miss Rawls, an Austin, Tex., lass, was only one over par yesterday for the 14 holes she needed to best Mrs. Louise Anneaux of Hinsdale, Ill., 5 and 4.

Miss Kirk notched a 4 and 3 win over Pat Leith of Elgin, Ill.

Miss Berg nipped Carol Diringer, veteran Tiffin, O., amateur, 2 up.

Miss Jameson cruised to the most lop-sided second round win, 7 and 6, over Detroit's Pat Devany. Miss Suggs beat pro Marilynn Smith 3 and 1. Miss Faulk beat Betty McKinnon 1 up.

Knuckler Giving Shantz His Stuff

By CHARLES CHAMBEDLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) Bobby Shantz, the jigger-size lefty who currently is baseball's most amazing pitcher, credits most of his success to a knuckle ball.

He will give the Chicago White Sox a look at his famous flutter-fling today in the opener of a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Shantz, a comparative speck on the mound, will be aiming for his 11th straight victory and 12th of the season against only one defeat.

He is only 5 feet 7 inches tall and is listed at 150 pounds, a weigh-in that must have taken place after he had eaten a steak and drunk three malted milks.

In fact, Shantz is so small to be a big leaguer that three years ago the story goes that he and another youth tried to gain admittance at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium as ball players but were refused by a dis-believing gateman.

Finally, a veteran player well known to the gate man came along and identified the pair as Shantz and Nelson Fox.

Most Effective Pitch

"My knuckle ball is my most effective pitch when it's working well," says Shantz, who has a little bit of everything — a sneaky fast ball, a good curve, a chance of pace and a slider.

"When I broke into organized ball with Lincoln of the Western League four years ago I was told to quit trying to throw a knuckler. They said it was too much strain on the arm for a young fellow."

Shant said he took the advice. He won 18 for Lincoln that year. In 1949 he was a six-game winner for the Athletics and had an 3-14 record the following season. Last year he carved an 18-10 mark.

"They were knocking me around pretty good early last season," Shantz recalls. "So I decided I had to do something. I went back to the knuckler. Mr. Dykes—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the A's told me to throw it if I had confidence in it."

Dykes believes the best assets of his 26-year-old star are control and supreme confidence.

Everything But Boxing Discussed At Robinson Camp; France And Italy—Man, That Was Living, Says Champ

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

POMPTON LAKES, N. J. — (NEA) — The boys were having a friendly little game of hearts, oblivious to the nearby outdoor ring and weathered wooden stands. Around the shade-shrouded table underneath the trees clustered the kibitzers.

His Sugarship — Ray Robinson, middleweight champion of the world — was holding court.

Jested the champ, informal in blue denims, T-shirt and red baseball cap, as he raked in the pot: "You know what the pook says, boys: 'Into each life some rain must fall.' Hey, Pee Wee, go in the house and get me that Bible story book."

And Trainer Pee Wee Beale soon emerged with a handsomely bound volume.

"I'm brushing up on David and Goliath," winked Sugar Ray. "Gotta find out where David got that stone."

That was his first reference to the upcoming bout with light-heavy champ Joey Maxim, June 23, at the Yankee Stadium.

Boxing gab outside the ring is meticulously avoided around the Robinson entourage (which numbers 12 people, ranging from masseur to detective).

His Sugarship would rather talk about his escapades last year in gay Paree.

"Mais oui," spouted Sugar Ray. "Boxing can get monotonous after so many years. So we just horse around and keep happy. If you can't be happy, what's the use of living?

"France and Italy — man, that was living. I'm a regular citizen. In France, everybody kiss you. Women kiss you, men kiss you, too. Man, what people. In Torino, I need a police escort for three blocks just to get out of the hotel.

"I'm in a room with Doc Nardiello when woman comes in and says 'Buon giorno (good day).'

"'What she say, Doc?' I ask.

"'She says she wants your autograph.' That Doc, he don't understand Italian better than I do. He's Sicilian. We go to party and just wave our hands. Everybody smile. Nobody knows what anybody saying.

But the gay boulevardier, who has passage to Europe booked for July 11, is proud of his conversant French. When Manager George Gainford prescribed a few minutes of shadow boxing to start the afternoon workout, Sugar Ray raised his quizzical forehead: "Combein, George?" (How many?)

In any language, however, Sugar Ray's still all business when he gets inside the ring. He had to be restrained by Gainford while cuffing willing sparring partners Jimmy Cerello and Sal Belloise.

Ran Gainford's patter: "Loosen up. . .make him come to you. . . you're leading too much, Robinson. . . .sideways now. . .move those feet. . hold everything (as Ray fore aggressively into one of his stable mates).

"You want to keep boxing, you do what I tell you. Okay?"

Robinson nodded his head obediently and finished up a fast three rounds.

It was Gainford's idea to go after Maxim and the triple crown.

"I didnt want to fight him at first," confessed Ray. "My mom didn't like the idea. She figures he's 20 pounds heavier and might hurt me. But my manager thinks I can beat him. So do I."

"I don't take this match if I don't think my man could beat him," chimed in Gainford. "Maxim don't knock you out. That's why we take him. We lick Maxim, and we go after the big boys. Walcott? You think he can lick my man? Hmmph! If Mickey Walker fight the big boys, so can he."

Sugar Ray would be satisfied adding just the light - heavyweight title to his collection.

"I'm no Mickey Walker," he reflected modestly and prudently.

Marion's Leadership Moving Browns Back Toward The Top

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

If Marty Marion is handling his St. Louis Browns with kid gloves, it seems to be the right system.

Since Marion took over as Rogers Hornsby's successor, the Brownies have won five of eight, including their last four in a row. Only eight games off the pace in the muddled American League race, they still can raise hob with the leaders.

Marion's secret weapon appears to be shortstop Marty Marion. When Mr. Shortstop Marty Marion, the Brown's infield plays with first division gusto. When he is os the bench, they don't make the big plays.

Checking back throug the statistician's bulky files, you find a starting from change in the Browns. With Marion playing shortstop, not just appearing as a pinch runner or a part-time player, the Brown's record is 21-18. Without Marty it's 6-13.

Marion's Play

The old master came through last night with one of his specials —a drooping single that barely dropped safely along the right field line. Marion's hit followed Dick Kryhoski's leadoff double in the last of the ninth to give St. Louis a 4-3 win over Boston.

In addition to knocking home the winning run, Marion chipped in on two of three St. Louis double plays that helped Duane Pillette get home with his sixth win. Pillette scattered 11 hits while the Browns made nine off rookie Bill Henry add up to victory.

Up front in the league, the New York Yankees widened their lead to 2 1-2 games over the Red Sox by turning on the home run power at Detroit in a 10-6 crusher. Gene Woodling, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra blasted Art Houtteman, the ex-soldier, for his eighth straight knockout.

Tribe To Fourth

Washington shoved slumping Cleveland down a peg to fourth place, behind idle Chicago, with a 3-2 decision for Spec Shea, his first win since May 16 and a six-hitter at that.

Brooklyn and New York continued to pull away from the field in the National as the Dodgers nipped Chicago, 6-5, scoring the winning run in the 10th without a hit, and the Giants thumped Pittsburgh, 5-2, with Bobby Thomson rapping four hits, including two homers.

Solly Hemus and Stan Musial teamed up on the offense while Joe Presko set down the Phillies with five hits for a 7-1 St. Louis Card victory that pulled them up even with the .500 mark.

Cincinnati knocked off the Boston Braves in both ends of a twi-night doubleheader, 7-6 and 3-1. In the second game, Kenny Raffensberger overcame 11-strikeout pitching by Warren Spahn to cop his eighth.

Philadelphia and Chicago were idle in the American League.

National AAU Track Meet Gets Underway Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 64th annual National AAU track and field championships get underway tomorrow night with a full slate of champions on deck to defend their titles in this Olympic year of 1952.

Titular aspirations are combined with hopes of fame in the big games in Finland for all the athletes assembled here. For most of the field, the AAU offers a chance to qualify for the final Olympic trails in Los Angeles June 27-28.

Track experts figure that at least nine crowns are in danger here.

The threatened titles include those owned by Len Truex if Ohio State in the 1,500-meter run; shot-putter Parry O'Brain, NCAA champion; high hurdler Dick Attlesey of the Los Angeles Athletic club; steeplechaser Horace Ashenfelter of the Penn AC; discus thrower Dick Doyle, Montana AC; hop-step-jumper Gay Bryan, Olympic club of San Francisco, and his teammate, Bud Held in the javelin; Jim Ford of Drake in the 200 meters, and 10,000 meter man Curtis Stone, New York AC.

The shotput contest among O'Brien, world record holder Jim Fuchs of the NYAC, Darrew Hooper, Texas A&M, and Lt. Otis Chandler, Air Force, will be a feature on the Friday night show.

All are 55-foot and over putters. Fuchs' world record is 58 feet 10 1-2 inches. O'Brien's best is 57 3 3-4.

The 100-meter dash finds Jim Golliday of Northwestern favored over such rivals as Art Bragg, Morgan State, and Dean Smith, Texas.

The 200 meter dash Saturday finds Ford running against the former Seton Hall star, Andy Stanfield; Kansas' Thane Baker, Texas' Charlie Thomas, Ollie Matson of San Francisco U. and others.

PWGA Holds Point Tourney

Maysia de Howell won first in a point tournament held by the Pampa Women's Golf Association yesterday at the Country Club. Four points were given for eagles, three for birdies, two for pars, and one for bogies. Second place was shared by Orpha Mitchell and Juanita Tinsley.

The ladies also announced that from now on the ladies days, Wednesdays, would start at 9:15 a.m., and that the women's tournament starting next Wednesday would start at 8 a.m., with ten minute intervals between foursomes. An approaching and driving contest will also be held, at 6 p.m., next Wednesday. Girls that are not playing in the city tournament may still compete in these.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Lila Austin, Floy Heath, Maysia De Howell, Jean Duenkel, Mirium Leudders, Beth Heiskell, Fern Parker, Orpha Mitchell, Juanita Tinsely, Oak Alle Whittle, Mary Sue Nimmo, Virginia Carver, Alice Howard and Irene Beagle.

Big Coaches School Slated In August

FORT WORTH (AP) — Between 1500 and 1600 coaches of the Southwest are expected here for the Texas Coaching School scheduled Aug. 4 and 8. Reservations are pouring in for the 20th annual clinic of Texas High School Coaches Association.

The 18th annual all-star football game matching schoolboy stars of the past season will be Aug. 8 at Amon Carter Stadium at Texas Christian University. The seventh annual all-star basketball game will be played Aug. 7 at Will Rogers Coliseum, offering the largest gymnasium ever for the cage contest.

Jim Tatum of Maryland will instruct in the split T formation and coach the North all - stars. Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian will lecture on the spread formation and coach the South.

Henry Iba of Oklahoma A&M and Vadal Peterson of Utah will lecture on basketball and coach the South and North all - star teams respectively.

Amos Melton, business manager of athletics and sports publicity director of Texas Christian, will lecture on public relations; Elmer Brown of Texas Christian will instruct in treatment and prevention of injuries; Jack Patterson of the University of Houston will instruct in track and Alex Hooks of Southern Methodist in baseball.

Clyde Gott and George Lee of San Antonio will conduct football and basketball rules discussions and J. R. Watson of Texas A&M will talk on grasses for football turf.

Mac Wishes He Didn't Believe Everything That He Reads

By HENRY McLEMORE

I wish to goodness I didn't believe everything I read.

For example — and this is the only example you'll get today because it is going to be the keel and the hull of the column — a national magazine had a three-page layout entitled, "Free Meals from Woods and Field."

The article, in color, explained how wild plants in the woods were good for soup, salad, pickles, and chewing gum. I read the story in a dentist's office, where I had gone to have a toothache cured, and where slightly out-of-date magazines are always provided for the waiting victim.

To cut this thing short, the magazine story said that when a man walked through the woods he should be on the alert for vegetables and nuts not grown commercially, but which are offered free by nature. Cat-tails, the magazine told its readers, are good for salad, cooked vegetables, and flour. Ferns are like a loaf of bread, as are the carrion flower, and the burdock, and the ground cherry, whatever they are.

I need not tell you that on my first free day, what with the price of food being as high as it is, I took off for the woods.

I didn't set out on a hike as I always have done before. Before I read this article, a long tramp through the woods meant the bracing, fresh air of early dawn, the crunch of stubborn dew underfoot, the lilting cry of the Centralis Parkis while feeding, the glory of the sunrise behind a skyscraper, and the bright- noisy chatter of Night Club-bis Americans Going Homus.

This time I was foraging. A fern, with its leafy tracings, was not a handiwork of Nature, but something for me to pull up by the roots and put in my knapsack. The fern had ceased to become one of the earth's graceful waving fingers and had changed into a potential part of a tossed green salad, and I hope you are completely tired of the phrase, "tossed green salad" as I am.

I dug up roots as I walked along, tore bright green things from their moorings, and poked them in the knapsack mentioned above. Birds must have trilled, but I didn't hear them, brooks undoubtedly rippled, but my ear was deaf. I was busy living off Nature and cheating the grocer.

If you will brace yourself and send the children out of the room I will tell you what happened when I cooked what was in my knapsack. This is for strong adults only.

Perhaps the best way to let you know what happened to me would be to ask you if you have ever eaten a green salad made of poison ivy. I rubbed the bowl with garlic. The olive oil was pure. The vinegar I couldn't pronounce, which means it was awfully good. The greens were lovely but they were poison ivy.

I boiled the weird roots I had plucked. I ground the cat-tails into flour and ere the stroke of midnight struck, I was in a condition that warranted the family physician's calling in consultants.

"He is full of ferns," one doctor said.

Another doctor asked his colleague what in the world he was talking about. Still another doctor said that his diagnosis was that I was suffering from under-cooked cat-tails. I need not tell you that this brought about a general fight among the M.D.'s. There was heck to pay for an hour or two.

The doctors agred on only one thing — the bill.

I agreed with myself on only one thing — to eat what most other people eat and to take Nature for its glory, not its vitamins.

Says Russ Can Take Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—This nation's top military strategist is on record as saying Russia could overrun Europe now if she so desires.

The statement made by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who added that he believes the Soviet Union has not made a military move against Europe for these two reasons:

1. She recognizes United States superiority in atomic weapons "would make her pay a very desperate price at home."

2. She has a wholesome respect for the U. S. military capacity.

Bradley's statement was made at a secret sesion of a Senate appropriations subcommittee May 5.

He and other ranking U.S. military leaders frankly describes this nation's military potential to the subcommittee, which is studying President Truman's request for 52 billion dollars in defense funds for the 2 months starting July 1.

15 New Cases Of Polio Reported

HOUSTON (AP)—Fifteen more polio cases have been reported by the Health Department.

The 15 new cases included seven from the city, four from the county and four out-of-county cases brought here for treatment.

So far this year there have been 104 city cases and five deaths; 63 county cases and two deaths, and 71 out-of-county cases and five deaths.

Last year at the same time there were 43 city cases and three deaths; nine county cases and no deaths, and six out-of-county cases and no deaths.
