Mayor E. R. Cockrell of Fort Worth was the principal speaker for the Lions Club of Wichita Falls and what he had to say made a deep impression upon the Lions and their invited guests. He was on his way home from Frederick, Oklahoma, where he filled the fourth number of the Knights of Pythias free chautauqua Thursday night and he gave his audience one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures of the series. He lectured on "Team Work in Town Building," a theme dear to his heart. Mayor Cockrell was born in Missouri, reared in Montana, educated in the public schools and colleges of America and finished at Oxford and then made a tour of Europe in a study of city building and municipal government. He is a nephew of Francis M. Cockrell, a major general in the Army of the Confederacy and afterwards twenty-four years a United States senator from Missouri; a nephew of the late Judge J. Vardaman Cockrell, a pioneer jurist of West Texas and for many years a member of the lower house of the American Congress. His father was a Montana ranchman and the mayor of today in his youth was a cowboy and range rider on his father's holdings. He evoluted from the saddle to college, from the college to Oxford University, from the university to law and literature and from law and literature and civics to the mayoralty chair of the fourth city of Texas. He was not invited to come to Texas when his collegiate course was ended and his travel-research work in foreign lands was over. He came because he wanted to come, he became identified with Texas Christian University as the head of its law department and he became widely known throughout the state as a lecturer on municipal problems and city building. Mayor Cockrell is as clean as a hound's tooth, a red blooded American, a scholar and a gentleman. He didn't know anything about the game of practical politics when men and women of Fort Worth who believe in city building, civic cleanliness and external beauty and the forward movement made him their standard bearer for the office of mayor. He didn't know anything about practical politics when he was inaugurated. He knows a lot now. He will know vastly more at the end of his second term for he will be given a second term by the people of Fort Worth if the aforesaid people believe in civic building, in civic endeavor, in the forward movement, in sanitation, in parks and playgrounds, in modern viaducts, in well paved streets, in concrete sidewalks, in police protection of life and property, in non-partisanship in administration of municipal affairs, in public schools which are of the best and a living wage for those who are employed to develop the brains, direct the minds, awaken the souls and train the hands of the boys and girls of their city. Mayor Cockrell has been referred to as an idealist and a dreamer, a theorist and a experimentalist. He may be all of these; if so he stands for the things which are most needed, the building program which should be pushed forward, the ideals which are not corroded by Mammon and the practical methods of government which return a dollar in labor or material improvement to the taxpayer for every hundred cents that he pays into his city treasury. Lions of Wichita Falls heard what he had to say. Lions of Wichita Falls readily understand why the idealist and scholar and traveler overwhelmed the Fort Worth machine last spring, with the aid of the women voters of that city and gave an awfully drubbing to Mayor Bill Davis, Colonel Louis J. Wortham and his Star-Telegram, the barnacles which had attached themselves to the old machine, those who believed in a municipal government privilege and favoritism—in fact all classes and conditions and cabals that go with a political combination that has ruled a city for a quarter of acentury. Cockrell, the student and the thinker, won over the machine politicians and their followers by a majority of 3,500. Some of them have been trying to get him ever since, but a man who is clean and sincere, who is doing the best he can for his people, who is ever extending the olive branch to his former foemen to join in cooperative effort to build a greater city, usually has the people with him and escapes the pitfalls excavated for him by those who would destroy his political influence or terminate his career as a public servant. Mayor Cockrell talked irrigation yesterday and on irrigation, as on kindred topics, he is well qualified to speak. His father was one of the early settlers of the Gallatin valley of Montana. It was a wilderness almost and much of it a desert when this Cockrell who was not a general or a senator, or a congressman invaded the then western wilderness and paid seventy-five cents per acre for his large holding. Irrigation came before young Cockrell deserted the valleys or the plateaus of his adopted mountain state. All that happened is ancient history to men who read and think. That land today is worth $300 an acre, the magical flow of water has made the former desert a field of prolific productivity and the moisture from the irrigated land below reaches the highlands and even the mountain tops, causing trees to grow where there was only dwarfed shrubs before and rich grasses to spring lush and plentiful from the soil. In those former valleys, fringed by deserts and mountain sides, irrigation has called for the building of modern cities, twentieth century transportation lines and all other modern accessories of civilization. Irrigation has made land that was worthless almost priceless in its value. Irrigation has peopled a country that was once a waste of wilder-

FIRE NEARLY WIPES OUT BUSINESS DISTRICT OF YOUNG COUNTY TOWN

Almost the entire business section of Loving, a town of 500 population on the G. T. & W. railroad, between Olney and Jacksboro, was wiped out by a fire which started at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Daniels Hotel, a two-story frame structure, according to telephone reports from the railroad agent in Olney.

The loss, estimated at $50,000, which consisted of a hotel, two grocery stores, a barber shop and a garage, comprised the business part of the town with the exception of a general merchandise store and a bank.

There were no injuries sustained by anyone in the fire, according to reports, and the conflagration was put out without damage to any of the residences.

No damage was sustained by the railroad property of the Gulf, Texas & Western railroad, on which the town is located, the agent said.

FINAL SALES TAX MEASURE IS DEFEATED

Smoot Plan Will Be Proposed Later for Raising Soldiers' Bonus Funds, Is Indicated.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The sales tax as a source of federal revenue at this time was definitely rejected today by the senate, but there was further evidence that it was the purpose of republican congressional leaders to bring it forth later as a means of raising funds to finance the proposed five way plan for adjusted compensation for former service men.

The majority today against the Smoot amendment to the tax revision bill proposing a business sales tax of one half of one per cent was even larger than that last night against the Smoot one per cent manufacturer's sales tax, being 46 to 25, as compared to 43 to 25 last night.

As was the case with the manufacturer's tax, the democrats voted solidly against the business tax. They were joined by 22 republicans, three of whom voted for the manufacturer's tax. Six republicans who did not vote last night supported the amendment today and three republicans who supported the manufacturer's tax did not vote. Counting senators who were paired, it was estimated that the maximum vote which would have been cast for the sales tax was 34, or some six less than it had been estimated would support it. Some senators thought that the debate resulted in the loss of some votes.

"The senate continued consideration of the tax bill at a session tonight, but with the soldier bonus and other important amendments yet to be disposed of, republican leaders abandoned hope for passage of the bill this week. They sought to obtain unanimous consent for a final vote at 3 p. m., Tuesday with debate limited after 3 p. m. Monday, but the plan fell through after some debate.

MAIN WITNESS IN ARBUCKLE CASE VANISHES

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—The California police through District Attorney Matthew Brady of San Francisco, were last night requested to find Alice Blake, one of the main witnesses for the state in the manslaughter charges against Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, due to be brought to trial here November 14.

Miss Blake disappeared yesterday from a place near Calistoga where she was staying with Mrs. John Duffy, mother of George Duffy, a deputy district attorney. The witness was not under arrest, but was detained at Mrs. Duffy's place with her own consent pending the Arbuckle trial.

Her disappearance, according to Mrs. Duffy's story to the district attorney here, came after a visit by Miss Blake's mother, Mrs. John Westphal of Oakland, and an attorney whose name District Attorney Brady had not obtained last night. The girl left with her mother in an automobile, Mrs. Westphal saying she was going to take her daughter home.

The Westphal home in Oakland was untenanted late last night, investigators said.

Miss Blake was a guest at the party given by Arbuckle in a local hotel when Virginia Rappe, film actress, is alleged to have sustained injuries which preceded her death.

DISTRICT COLUMBIA MASONS ADDRESSED BY REP. PARRISH

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Representative Parrish Friday night was one of the principal speakers at a meeting of the combined Masons of the District of Columbia in honor of the 160th anniversary of George Washington's admission into the Masonic organization.

COURT DECREE ACCEPTED BY I. & G. N. MEN

Four Local Chairman Will Not Be Taken Back, Is Announced by Receiver Thornwell Fay.

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 4.—Striking I. & G. N. trainmen Friday afternoon anounced their acceptance of the decree of Federal Judge J. C. Hutchesen, Jr., handed down Wednesday.

The court order provided for the return to work of upwards of 500 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, out on strike since Saturday, October 22, on November 25. It also provided that the four local chairmen, whom the court held largely to blame for the walkout, should return to work only in the discretion of the receiver and officials of the road. The trainmen, under the order, will be put upon 30 days probation in which time they must demonstrate a spirit of conciliation and co-operation. Then, the order held, seniority rights and their wage contract should be restored.

Coincident with the announcement of the men's acceptance of the court order came a statement from Thornwell Fay, receiver of the road, in which he declared that officials would "obey" the court's order as regards re-employment of the four local chairmen. These leaders, J. G. Nellis, R. D. Frame, J. D. Shepherd and J. C. Bigham, Mr. Fay said, will not be taken back.

Announcement of the strikers decision was contained in a letter to Judge Hutcheson from J. H. Farquharson, vice president of the Brotherhood, who has been here since Monday, negotiating with officials of the road. It was brief, merely acquiescing in the decree of the court.

MRS. SOUTHARD CONVICTED IN MURDER TRIAL

Woman Charged With Killing Fourth Husband Hears Verdict Without Sign of Emotion.

By Associated Press.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Lyda Meyer Southard today was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury.

The verdict was returned at 3:50 o'clock. A good sized crowd filled the courtroom when the verdict was read.

The defendant showed no sign of feeling and did not raise her eyes from the floor when the verdict was announced.

Mrs. Southard was accused of the murder of Edward F. Meyer, her fourth husband. The verdict was returned after about 23 hours deliberation.

Trial of Mrs. Southard on chareg of causing the death of Meyer, foreman of the Blue Lakes Ranch, Twin Falls, by administration of poison said to have been derived from poisonous insect exterminator, was opened in the district court, Judge W. A. Babcock, presiding, on September 26.

Because of extended notoriety given the case, difficulty was encountered in obtaining a jury, this function consuming a week's time.

Hypothetical questions, together with clinical discussions, consumed the greater portion of the five weeks devoted to the trial and many physicians, chemists and similar professionals were called upon as expert witnesses.

On the stand the accused woman maintained an unperturbed attitude throughout a long grilling by the prosecution which failed to derive any important admissions from her.

WAIT AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS AT CONFERENCE

Roger W. Babson Talks of the Armament Conference and Business for the Readers of Record News.

Credit Machine Needed to Put the People of Europe Back to Work to Effect Complete Reorganization.

(Exclusive Statement for the Readers of This Paper by Noted Economist.)

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Nov. 4.—"A tremendous help to business if it is successful, of a hard blow if it fails, this conference which convenes on November 11, is the most important business event since the armistice," said Roger W. Babson. "The possible benefit from the immediate saving in armament expenditures is only one important feature of the conference. The keen business man's interest lies in the fact that the conference practically desides whether Europe shall be pulled through or permitted to go into bankruptcy. About 95 per cent of government expenses today represent the cost of wars, past, present and future, and over 20 per cent of these total expenditures represent the present cost of armament.

"The immediate relief which the conference offers lies in the hope that it will bring about a peaceable understanding between England, France, Japan and the United States. It is my conviction that none of these nations have at heart any aims or schemes which, if the cards are all laid on the table, cannot be adjusted in peace and harmony. Accomplish this and you have eliminated the greatest barrier to commercial revival of Europe. As to the financial outlook of certain of the European governments I can see no cure short of complete reorganization, but a credit machine can be established which will safely allow merchants and manufacturers of Europe to set their factories and businesses running and gradually put the people of Europe back to work.

"When people have asked me if they should buy European securities, I have advised against it, because there was no assurance as to what their money would be used for. To furnish Europe money to buy raw materials and carry on a profitable business is one thing. To supply money for building battleships and keeping a lot of idle soldiers is another, from the investors standpoint. On the first proposition you stand to get your money back with interest; on the second you are simply throwing your money away. The greatest thing which the conference can do, therefore, is to bring about a frank understanding between the principal countries. Tear down the present jealousies and intrigue between the leading nations, substitute in their place the commonsense of cooperation and you will have a basis upon which almost unlimited credit could safely be extended.

In the meantime foreign bonds can be watched with interest. I thus far have advised against purchasing foreign bonds, especially while such good investments are available in the United States. If, however, the conference is a success and money rates continue to decline, foreign bonds may become attractive. The best foreign investments are those of Switzerland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries, together with certain municipals. The best speculations are in Chinese, Japanese, French, Italian and Russian bonds. The latter now

APPLICATIONS TO BREW BEER ARE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes approved today the first two applications from brewers for permits to manufacture and sell beer for medicinal purposes under the new treasury regulations.

The applications were from Joseph Schlitz of Milwaukee and Piel brothers, of New York, and officials said the permits for them to engage in the medical beer business would be forwarded at once.

Other applications from brewers for permits, officials said, would be acted upon rapidly and where there was no evidence of prior violation of the law or irrigularity in the preparations for dealing in medical beer, the necessary premits would be forthcoming.

Before the distribution of medical beer to the sick can begin, Commissioner Haynes explained, both physicians and druggists must obtain new permits to enable them to prescribe and sell it. Applications for these permits, he added, are made to state directors and issued by them.

In connection with prescriptions for beer, Mr. Haynes added, a point yet to be decided is whether a physician is limited to the 100 prescriptions every three months as is now the rule or whether under the new regulations he is entitled to more prescriptions for beer.

CHARLES IS TWO-THIRDS DETHRONED

Hungarian Cabinet Passes Dethroning Meaure to Third Reading.

By Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 4.—The Hungarian national assembly today passed two readings of the bill calling for the dethroning of Former Emperor Charles. It then adjorned until Sunday when the measure will come up for third reading and final passage.

Count Stefan Bethlen, the premier, woh introduced the bill Thursday is expected formally to resign immediately the bill becomes law and afterwards re-constitute the cabinet.

During the debate Premier Bethlen declared that the government has been forced to give way to the little entente. Count Albert Apponyi, considering the bill from the viewpoint of a public law, expressed the opinion that the assembly did not have the power to pronounce the expulsion ofa lawful dynasty and that the legitimists consequently could not recognize such legislation.

When adjournment was taken it was decided to bring up the bill for third reading at a special session of the assembly on Sunday, as the ultimatum calling for the dethronement of Charles expires on Monday.

PARDON FOR PRISONERS OF A. E. F. SOUGHT

Sec. Weeks Recommends That Five Soldiers Sentenced to Leavenworth for Life Be Released.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Pardon for five American soldiers charged with murder of Captain George Lancefield of the British forces in Germany last year, has been recommended by Secretary Weeks. The names of the five men are: Jim D. Richardson, Denton, Texas; James A. O'Dell, Comanche, Okla.; Carl J. Bryan, McConnell, Tenn.; Roy O. Youngblood, Omaha, Neb., and George Vangilder, Toledo, Ohio. They are serving life sentences in the penitentiary at Leavenworth.

The secretary's recommendations would, if approved and made effective by the president, provide for release of the men and giving to them the preference of returning to their old organizations and serving the remainder of their enlistments or of applying for immediate discharge from the service.

Mr. Weeks based his recommendations on the ground that the court-martial which tried and convicted the men jointly had condemned "innocent men" and pardon was the only way in which justice could be done them.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 4.—Word was received here today that five former soldiers now serving life sentences in the federal penitentiary, probably will be pardoned on the recommendation of John W. Weeks, secretary of war. The information came in a telegram from Representative L. W. Parrish of Texas, addressed to J. W. Brichards of Denton, Texas, one of the five men. The other include J. Odell, Comanche, Okla.

According to information available here the offense for which the five men were sentenced to life imprisonment was the killing in a brawl in a cafe, of Captain Gilbert Lancefield of the British army. A vase was thrown, it is said, which struck the British captain and caused his death. All five of the men deny having been in the cafe at the time.

In the telegram the men were informed they might expect orders for their release Sunday or Monday next.

Pershing Says Watson Charges Are Groundless

By Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4.—General Pershing declared here today that charges brought in the senate by Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, were "the most outrageous and untrue accusations that could possibly be made and absolutely without foundation."

APPLICATION MADE FOR ORGANIZATION OF HASKELL BANK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Comptroller of the Currency Crissenger today received an application from O. E. Patterson of Haskell for permission to organize the American National Bank of Haskell, with a capital of $25,000.

ORDER WATSON A. E. F. CHARGES INVESTIGATED

Senate Adopts Resolution to Probe Charges That 21 Soldiers Were Hanged Without Trial.

Watson Declares Charges Based on Statement of Soldier Who Talked With Gallows Guard.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Investigation by a special senate committee of the charges of Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, that American soldiers in France were hanged without trial, or shot by officers' orders, were assured today when the senate after three hours' discussion, unanimously ordered the inquiry.

The special committee, headed by Senator Brandegee, republican, Connecticut, will meet next Monday to determine upon procedure, but it is expected that several days then will elapse before hearings are begun while Senator Watson is gathering his evidence.

Another speech by the Georgia senator in support of his charges, wranglings between senators over the wording of the inquiry, resolutions and parliamentary mix-ups preceded the order for the investigation to proceed. The senate finally unanimously adopted a new and amended resolution directing the inquiry and another empowering the special committee to subpoena persons and papers.

Probe Charges Only

The program announced yesterday for a motion to discharge the committee did not materialize. Instead, Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, proposed the new resolution which was adopted, with an amendment declaring that the inquiry should be into Senator Watson's charges and not an investigation of the senator himself.

From the resolution giving the committee power to act in the case, another amendment struck out a statement relative to inviting Senator Watson to appear before the committee. The committee's course in this respect, members said, would be determined later.

Senator Simmons at the conclusion of the debate said that Senator Watson was satisfied with the amendments and would no doubt submit his evidence to the special committee.

Earlier Mr. Watson had challenged republicans to expel him, declared for debate in the open senate and asked only an effort should be made to "entrap" and "silence" him before a committee. He denounced "white washing committee reports" and said they were not read.

The war department is preparing to give its fullest support to the senate investigating committee, taking the position that the accusations of the Georgia senator constitute a blot on the good name of the army unless a full investigation is held.

Edge Opens Debate

The fight over the senators charges opened today when the senate met an hour early to take up the affair. Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, began the debate with a criticism of Senator Watson for presenting photographs yesterday of a gallows where a soldier had been executed after a court martial, the New Jersey senator said, for a "brutal" attack upon a seven year old girl. Senator Edge declared the incident

Italy Buries Unknown Hero With Honors

ROME, Nov. 4.—Italy's unknown soldier this morning found final resting sepulchre in the Victor Emmanuel monument, the "altar of the country," exactly under the allegorical figure representing Rome. King Victor Emmanuel and the royal family were the chief mourners in the solemn ceremony, which was rendered deeply impressive by the presence of large numbers of widows, orphans, mothers and blind and mutilated men of the war.

About the Luge monument were high officers of state—ministers, generals, admirals, senators and deputies—and grouped near the tomb were representatives of war widows, mothers and mutilated.

The body was transported from the church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli in formal procession. The same order that characterized the impressiveness of the transportation of the body from the station to the church prevailed except that the king and royal family awaited the body at the monument.

Crowds lined the route and massed against the troops so solidly that it was with difficulty that the soldiers held their positions. Via Nazionale was a mass of surging humanity but the solemn character of the occassion was always maintained. The crowd paid silent homage to the symbol of Italy's dead as the gun carriage bearing the remains passed down the long, wide thoroughfare to the monument. Men bared their heads and women bowed in remembrance of brothers or sons lost in the gigantic conflict.

REPORT K. K. K. KLEAGLE AGAIN WORKING HERE

Efforts to Organize Local Branch of Ku Klux Klan Reported Some Success.

Another effort to perfect organization of a local branch of the Ku Klux Klan is now in progress here, according to what is believed authoritative information obtained by the Record News.

This time, it is asserted, the effort to organize is apparently meeting with some success.

A kleagle, or organizer of the K. K. K. is, according to this information, now here and engaged in the work toward the above end.

This is believed to be the fourth effort in this direction, the movement having been broken up on at least one former occasion by the opposition of prominent business men here. On this former occasion, however, indications were said to have shown clearly that sentiment was not all one way, a number expressing themselves as strongly in favor of such an organization.

MINE UNIONS WIN CONTEST FOR CHECK-OFF

Court of Appeals Orders System, Prohibited by Injunction, Continued Until Further Orders.

Threatened Strike Will Be Held in Abeyance Awaiting Further Developments Is Announced.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The check-off system of holding out union dues and assessments from coal miners' pay, against which an injunction was handed down by Judge A. B. Anderson of Indianapolis, will continue until further order of the United States court of appeals, the court held today in suspending that part of the injunction applying to the check-off. An appeal hearing was granted the union for Wednesday, November 16.

W. A. Glasgow of Philadelphia, as counsel for the union, presented the history of the case briefly pointing out the possibilities of enforcement of the injunction, which he said was a virtual demand that a legal contract be broken. He pointed out that the check-off was a matter of contract between the miners' locals and the operators, with the consent of the individual miners.

He declared it was beyond the power of the international union to prevent disturbances by locals and said it was his belief that an immediate hearing was the only means of averting "interruption of the regular supply of coal."

The origin of the controversy began in the filing of a bill by the Borderland Coal company, operating in Kentucky, but shipping into other states, against the union, its officers, and several coal companies and officials, charging that union wages established in the central competitive district were to be spread into West Virginia, tending to create a monopoly of labor by the union and restraint of trade.

Check-off In Contract

The union wage agreement included the check-off system, by which union dues and assessments were to be collected from the miners and paid to the union by the operator.

Mr. Glasgow told the court that the bill charged that this check-off system was a part of the conspiracy to unionize West Virginia. The union counsel asked sufficient time of Judge Anderson, he said, to prepare a reply to the charges.

"Judge Anderson then sought to get my promise that no attempt would be made to unionize West Virginia," Attorney Glasgow continued. "I could not make such a promise in good faith, as I had no means of carrying it out. He also asked John L. Lewis, president of the union, to make the same promise, but Mr. Lewis had no power to do so. He thereupon granted the injunction restraining the union from using funds in unionizing or attempting to unionize miners in West Virginia."

Mr. Glasgow pointed out that the check-off being a part of the contract, and expressed his opinion that Judge Anderson "went too far."

He should have limited the injunction against expenditure of money to unlawful means of spreading unionism. Here he undertook to rip up by the roots a system long established, and by which money is obtained for perfectly lawful purposes," the attorney said.

As a part of a contract, however, Attorney Glasgow appealed to the court to allow full pursuit of trial to determine whether the check-off system contract was legal.

By the injunction, he said, the op-

PREMIER HARA SUCCUMBS TO KNIFE WOUND

Assassination Follows Receipt of Threatening Letters by Several Japanese Political Leaders.

Hara's Death May Have Important Effect on Japan's Position at Washinton Conference.

TOKIO, Nov. 4.—Premier Hara was fatally stabbed in the breast today at the railroad station in Tokio, and died an hour later.

The assassin, who is 19 years old and demented, was arrested.

WASHINGTON SHOCKED AT NEWS OF ASSASSINATION

WASHINGTON, Nov 4—The Japanese delegation to the armament conference was thrown into sorrow and confusion and official Washington, including the delegates from other lands to the conference, was profoundly shocked today by the announcement from Tokio that Takashi Hara, the Japanese premier, had been assassinated.

Admiral Baron Kato, the ranking member of the Japanese delegation and Mr. Hara's most intimate friend, was so affected by the announcement that he burst into tears—something most unusual for a Japanese, who is trained from childhood to conceal his emotion.

President Harding expressed horror at the outrage. It was an unhappy, discordant note, he said in a formal statement, at a time when all were seeking to come together around the conference table and add to the good understanding and good will throughout the world.

Secretary Hughes went immediately to the Japanese embassy and expressed his condolence to Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador. Later he cabled to Ambassador Warren at Tokio to express to Count Uchida, the foreign minister, his profound distress and to say how much the news had caused a feeling of deep sorrow throughout the United States.

The death of Premier Hara, who had attained a dominating political influence in the Japanese empire, and who was expected personally to shape from Tokio the Japanese policy at the forthcoming conference, is a very serious loss to Japan at a time when that country is passing through a period of intense transition. Emperor Yoshihito is incurably ill, mentally and physically, and is not able to carry on his duties.

The assassination of Premier Hara comes at a dramatic moment when the Japanese delegation is assembling for the Washington conference and when Japan is intensely interested in the international issue in which Premier Hara has until now taken such an important part. He had been urged to head the delegation to Washington and for a time had the matter under consideration, but finally decided that his services would be better employed at home during the discussions at Washington.

Premier Hara frequently addressed the Japanese diet concerning the serious word ahead for Japan at Washington and on October sixth, expressed the view that Japan's chief aim would be to put an end to race barriers. He later conferred with the American ambassador at Tokio and the premier soon afterward announced at a meeting of the government party that Japan was willing to compromise on the Shantung with China which had long been a main subject of controversy.

Premier Hara declared in recent statements that Japan was ready to accept a limitation of her naval establishment along with the rest of the world and always keeping in mind the necessities of her national defense.

Takashi Hara has been premier of Japan since 1918 when he formed a cabinet after the fall of the Terauchi ministry, the Seiyu-Kai party of which he was a leader, taking control.

The position of the premier and his party was confirmed by the general election in May, 1920, that party securing a great majority.

Brilliant Career.

The premier has had a long and distinguished political career. Born in 1854, he was for some time in the foreign office service both at home and abroad and was vice minister for a time in 1895. He joined the late Prince Ito in organizing the Seiyu-Kai party in 1900 and shortly afterward became minister of communications in the cabinet. Later he served again as head of that department of the government in the Seiyu-Kai cabinet of 1906-08 resigning with the fall of that ministry and traveling in Europe and America in the latter part of 1908 and 1909.

On his visit to this country he was received by President Roosevelt in Washington in September, 1908.

M. Hara re-entered the cabinet in 1913 as minister of home affairs and in 1918 formed the cabinet now in office.

When a youth, M. Hara studied law for a time, but early foresook it for journalism, through which work came his introduction into the foreign office service. During a later interval in his political career in 1906-7 he was chief editor of the Osaka Mainichi, and took up again the chief editorship of that paper for a time before entering the Saionji cabinet as minister of the interior in 1906.

Earlier Plot.

In May, 1920, a plot was discovered to assassinate Premier Hara from details coming out in November last by publication of the findings of a preliminary court which tried a former artillery man named Ito, charged with planning an attempt against the premier's person.

Seven bombs were to have been employed and the attempted assassination was to have taken place ... y 8, 1920, the court findings showed.

It was asserted that Ito came to Tokio and purchased a revolver and explosives making his bomb out of bottles and boxes.

Taking them into the streets, however, he was knocked down accidentally by an automobile and ... e police discovered the infernal machine he had devised and unraveled the plot.

The assassination of Premier Hara recalls a similar dramatic incident when Premier Clenemceau of France was shot and dangerously wounded at a time when the peace conference, of which he was presiding officer, was at its height. This occurred February 19, 1919, while Clemenceau was going from his home to the American headquarters at the hotel Crillon. Springtime from behind a Kiosk, the would-be slayer, Emil Cottin, fired a volley of shots at the aged statesman, two bullets taking effect, one in the shoulder and another in the breast near the lungs. The victim's life was despaired of for a time but his iron will helped carry him through and within three weeks he resumed his place with the peace conference, which had been threatened with disruption by the accident.

The Vienna congress after the Napoleonic war was similar disturbed, first by a series of assassinations and then by Napoleon's dramatic stroke in escaping from Elba and returning in triumph to Paris.

WAIT AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS AT CONFERENCE

selling around 15 and despised by everyone may be worthy of study.

"If the conference fails it will indicate that the great nations are hopelessly at odds and as soon as they get their breath they will start fighting again. Money lent on such a basis would probably be lost. If you are planning to buy foreign securities or foreign money, therefore, wait and see what happens at the conference.

"Remember also that the future of Europe has a great deal to do with the future to America. Peace and reconstruction in Europe means peace and better business in America. War and bankruptcy in Europe means, perhaps, war, but at least continued hard times in America. Remember that while you may have nothing to do with foreign trade, foreign trade has a whole lot to do with you. Hence, I urge every foresighted trade man and woman to get behind President Harding and help him to carry through his part in this Conference to Reduce Armaments.

"The increase in general business which set in a few weeks ago has been checked. Whether or not this is merely temporary cannot be told at the moment. It will, however, be treated in full in a statement which I shall issue next week. Meanwhile, it should be remembered that the Babsonchart which reached a low point of 20 per cent below normal in March, 1921, rose to 18 per cent below normal in September and has now reacted to 20 per cent below normal."

ness. This was one of the things that the scholar in municipal politics, the former rider of Montana ranges, the Oxford student and European globe trotter told the Lions of Wichita Falls when they honored him with an invitation to appear before them. Fort Worth was built by cowmen; Fort Worth was for many years the headquarters of cowmen; Fort Worth had a cowman for a mayor who was regarded as invincible and almost infallible by his fellow cowmen. He had ruled long and it was the warm handclasp for his friends and an iron rod for his enemies. There came civic birth, an awakening to the city, and the cowman mayor was relegated to the shades of private life by the son of a Montana cowman who had the vision to acquire knowledge, travel around the world, absorb information and impart it to other seekers for truth and progress in municipal affairs and city building who were desirous of walking in the right road.

A county over in East Texas, one of the earliest settlements in Texas history, boasts of a cotton crop of 10,000 bales this year. Childress, in Motley county, is "away out west." Editor J. C. Thomas of the Childress Post tells the story of the growth of the cotton industry: "Had it ever struck you that there is a million dollars worth of cotton now on the Childress yard? Public Weigher Jim Hankins told the Post man Tuesday that there are now on the Childress yard 10,000 bales and figuring that at $100 a bale you would have an even million dollars. This is considerably more cotton than was ever seen on the Childress yard at one time before. The yard proper has filled and it is now piled far out on the hills around the yard. Mr. Hankins stated that he had weighed almost exactly 10,000 bales this season." Wherever farmers produced cotton under Texas skies this year frozen assets in the local banks were liquidated and streaks of prosperity were let loose. And it has come to pass that Dabney White, of Tyler, Smith County, East Texas, over in the piney woods cheerfully makes the admission that the cotton belt of Texas has moved westward some few hundred miles. Editor Thomas is a road builder and in the current number of his newspaper he shouts this dope into mossbacks and mossbackery: "Childress county and all other counties in Texas will some day come to see that a permanent road is the only one worth the money it costs and then he shall get them. It can even now be shown by figures that a road costing $30,000 a mile is a paying investment and a money maker for the community through which it is built. When a majority of the taxpayers come to see this fact we shall have some good roads but we cannot before."

OFFICER'S SON PLACED UNDER $20,000 BOND

Attorneys Declare That Lonnie Griffin Will Furnish Bond in Case Following Death of R. H. Taylor.

After the state had introduced the testimony of four witnesses and the defense closed without the introduction of any evidence, Justice of the Peace Gwinn Friday afternoon placed Lonnie Griffin under $20,000 bond to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of having shot and killed R. H. Taylor, former policeman of Burkburnett, in that city on Monday night.

Attorneys for Griffin, who is a son of the city marshal, announced that the bond would be furnished, thus releasing the accused man from the county jail where he has been confined since his re-arrest by Sheriff Fred Smith after he had been released on $2,500 bond by Burkburnett authorities on Monday night following the tragedy.

Griffin, who is about 40 years of age, showed no nervousness during the brief hearing calmly looking at the bloody and powder-burnt clothes of his alleged victim when they were identified as those worn by Taylor on the night he was shot and from the effects of which he died three days later.

Takes Active Part.

Seated behind him was his father, T. E. Griffin, city marshal of Burkburnett, his mother and other relatives. The father took an active interest in the proceedings frequently consulting with the accused man's attorney, Barnard Martin, during the hearing.

The justice court room was crowded with a large representation of Burkburnett residents in attendance. Both the victim and the accused are widely known in Burkburnett and the surrounding section.

Although the defense placed no witnesses on the stand, cross examination of the state witnesses by defense attorneys indicated that in the event that Griffin is indicted in December when the grand jury convenes, his defense when brought to trial will be that he was compelled to shoot Taylor to protect himself.

Politics May Figure.

Cross examination also brought out the fact that Burkburnett supposed factional politics which have figured in county court-at-law cases that have been tried recently, might also figure later should the case come up for trial later in district court. In this connection, Judge W. E. Beal, an attorney of Burkburnett, who was one of the attorneys representing the accused man in a recent trial in the county court-at-law testified that Taylor was discharged from the police force several weeks ago by City Marshall Griffin and that later the city council had refused to reinstate him over the objection of the father of the accused man.

"If I get well I am going to kill the whole Griffin family," was the declaration of Taylor as he waited for an ambulance to take him to the hospital a few minutes after the shooting, according to Judge Beal who was the first witness placed on the stand by the state.

This testimony and that given above indicated the ill-feeling that existed between Taylor and the Griffin family and which came to an end on Monday night in the fatal shooting of Taylor.

Features Hearing.

Judge Beal's testimony featured the hearing. He testified that on the night of the tragedy he was walking past the First National bank corner at Burkburnett and noticed Griffin standing beside a telephone post with Taylor talking to a man several feet away.

He said a client by the name of Trot stopped him and he was talking to the latter when he heard Griffin say, "There is the man who was subpoenaed to testify for me in county court and did not come."

The witness said that he remarked to Griffin "forget that; that is ancient history." He then, according to his testimony turned so that his back was to Griffin.

"You are a d—— liar" was the remark made by Taylor the witness said, again drawing his attention to the pair a short time later and causing him to turn toward them again.

He declared that Griffin then made a remark of a personal character to Taylor who in "half walk and trot" started toward the accused man.

"Don't come any closer to me," Griffin said when Taylor approached him, according to the witness. He said the fatal shot was fired after Taylor had reached Griffin and was in the act of grasping Griffin by the arm.

The witness then told of stepping between the two when Griffin followed Taylor when the latter grasping his side walked away from the scene of the tragedy. Later he said he aided Taylor while they secured an ambulance to take Taylor to the hospital.

In cross examination it was brought out that Taylor, according to the witness, was a man weighing around 225 pounds with apparently more strength than Griffin, a man of average size. Efforts on the part of the defense attorneys to bring out that Taylor was generally considered "a dangerous man in the community" failed, the witness testifying that he did not know the victim well enough to testify as to his reputation in the community.

Other Witnesses.

Dr. W. P. Martin testified as to the death of Taylor at the Martin hospital Thursday morning from the effects of the gunshot wounds. The clothes worn by the man were identified at this time. Dr. Martin also testified that Taylor made a dying statement to Sheriff Fred Smith. This statement was not introduced as testimony.

Eisler Harris, waiter at Burkburnett testified that he was standing a short distance from the two men when he heard the shot fired. He testified as to the position of the two men at that time.

W. E. Nanney, the last witness stated that he was standing about 20 feet from the scene of the shooting his attention being called through the shot. He said that Taylor told him immediately after the shooting that Griffin had shot him without warning.

ORDER WATSON A. E. F. CHARGES INVESTIGATED

could not be "camouflaged" and that the issue was to the truth of the charges of illegal hangings.

In a spirited reply Senator Watson said has information regarding 21 alleged hangings of soldiers without trial, came from a former soldier who said he had seen the gallows and had been told by a gallows guard that this number was hanged. His informant, Senator Watson said, would face the senate and answer all questions.

The French government and General LaFayette were criticised by the Georgia senator in commenting on a statement by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, that the senator's charges were "preposterous and incredible." Referring to Mr. Baker's statement that France was a "civilized country" and that word of any illegal executions would have spread quickly, Senator Watson said that France had charged America for trenches and play grounds used by American troops.

LaFayette Criticized

"Oh, yes, France is not a howling wilderness, but a civilized country," the Georgia senator continued, "from which LaFayette came up a written contract made with Silas Dean, pledging this country to make him a major general before he would leave France and come to America; and he did not have sense enough to drill a company of soldiers, besides which he sniffled. Some of these days, when somebody gets up here and blows off about LaFayette, I mean to take him down a peg or so. I know LaFayette and Washington knew him and it was not Washington who had him released from that Austrian prison into which he was put when the French army chased him with the infent to kill.

"It was Napoleon Bonaparte in the treaty of Campo-Formio. Yes, I know LaFayette. He betrayed every government that trusted him and the only independent command he ever had in America came very near getting bagged by Benedict Arnold and it was only the James River that saved LaFayette and his command from being captured."

CALL FOR STRIKE AWAITS ACTION OF APPEALS COURT

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 4.—No statement from officers of the United Mine Workers of America was obtainable here tonight, as to the effect of the court suspension of the injunction against the union's check-off that threatened a nation-wide strike but it was said authoritatively that the strike developments would be in abeyance awaiting further action by the federal circuit court of appeals at Chicago.

President John L. Lewis was on his way to his home in Springfield, Illinois, and Secretary William Green was said to have gone to Ohio. Vice President Philip Murray, who joined last Tuesday in sending the message that threatened the strike in sixteen states by advising local union officials to regard discontinuance of the check-off as breaking the existing wage agreement, was said to be in Pittsburgh.

With these officers absent, other persons conected with the miners' union declared to make any formal statement, but it was pointed out that the original message of officers in the 16 states with their decision awaiting action of operators stopping the check-off.

PURPOSE OF ARMS MEET IS PRAISED

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Hamilton Holt, president of the Woodrow Wilson democracy, made public today a statement expressing the organizations attitude toward the coming Washington conference on limitation of armaments.

The statement, authorized by the executive committee by the democracy follows:

"Very timely requests of Secretary Hughes that the American people should place confidence in the American delegation and those who are most interested in the object to be attained, and our endeavor to attain them and to perform our important work without unnecessary embarrassment, has prompted the publication of the following declaration of the Woodrow Wilson democracy:

"The Woodrow Wilson democracy by its executive committee, takes this occasion to state publicly that it regards the disarmament conference as an event of great importance and as such, the organization will lend whole-hearted support to the efforts of the administration to bring about limitation of armament by international agreement. He would seriously question the patriotism and loyalty of any individual or group who might seek to embarrass and make more difficult the constructive efforts of the American conferees.

"We believe that this conference is constructive in purpose; and that it was called together not only to find a solution of the armament problem, but to bring about international harmony and accord.

"The league of nations is organized for the same general purpose and we shall expect the president and the secretary of state to rebuke any effort to belittle or discredit the league of nations or make more difficult the program for reducing armaments."

Mr. Sheppard Declaimed More Than 6 Hours

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas has established a new record for long distance oratory in congress. In the olden days the noted orators, especially during a filibuster, usually gained spirit for their work from occasional quaffs of invigorating refreshments, and arranged for occasional interruption to give them second wind, or to have long documents read in their speech by their clerks. Not so with Sheppard. He is an ardent prohibitionist, as well as being called "the silver-tongued Demosthenes from Texarkana."

Senator Sheppard talked without interruption for six hours and ten minutes on the peace treaties, which, the official stenographers say, is the best record for a continuous speech ever established in either house on congress. He is a graduate of the University of Texas, Yale law school and Southern Methodist university, in all of which he was known as "the boy orator." He is a Kappa Alpha and Phi Beta Kappa fraternity man, and sovereign banker or national treasurer of the Woodmen of the World.

HAMILTON IS SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS

Youth Convicted of Slaying Postmaster at Charlie; Attorneys Indicate Appeal.

Special to the Record News.

HENRIETTA, Nov. 4.—After being out twenty hours, a jury returned a verdict of guilty and fixed punishment at fifteen years in the penitentiary in the case of Dick Hamilton of Wichita Falls, charged with murder in connection with the shooting of B. F. Allison, Charlie postmaster. Allison was killed by a masked bandit last winter as he stepped from his combined store and postoffice.

The case was turned over to the jury Thursday at 12:30 o'clock and their deliberations were commenced about 1:30. The verdict was returned at 9:30 Friday morning.

The defense attorneys immediately announced that they will appeal the case. According to attorneys it will be possible to have bond set for Hamilton while the case is being put through the higher courts.

The evidence upon which the prosecution of Hamilton was made was almost entirely circumstantial.

Foch's Party Carries Away St. Louis Key

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—The key of St. Louis has been carried away by Marshal Foch's party which spent the day here yesterday.

While visiting Mayor Kill's office, the mayor handed the brass key, 12 inches long to the generalissimo, saying:

"You have won the heart of St. Louis, you should have the key to it."

The marshal expressed his appreciation and handed it to an aide. As the special train pulled o... last night, the aide had the key in his belt.

The key has been used hundreds of times in the figurative ceremony of "presenting the key of the city" to conventions and visitors and has always been recovered.

NEW FREIGHT RATE RUILING AIDS REFINERS

For sometime during the early development of the Texas fields and refineries, rates on refined petroleum to points east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river were based on conbination of rates through Vicksburg, Mississippi. This forced all shipments destined to the above defined territory to be routed through Vicksburgh gateway. This condition forced in many instances a much longer mileage haul than would have obtained through Memphis, St. Louis, East Fort Madison and other Mississippi river gateways, and greatly discriminated against all lines except one or two which were Vicksburgh lines.

Some time ago all southwest carriers published a provision equalizing the rates via all gateways, and such provision is now carried in item 60, page 46, SWL Petroleum tariff 35-M. In other words, this provision provides where the lowest combination of rates figures over Vicksburg that such rate will also be applied regardless of what gateway the shipment is routed through. Many shippers have been at a disadvantage because this equalization of gateway rates has not heretofore been fully understood.

South American Trade Reported Strengthening

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Improved financial and economic conditions in South America and a more general tone of optimism during the past month were reported to the commerce department in cabled devices today form its representatives in Southern republics.

The situation in Argentina continues to show improvement, according to the Buenos Aires report, with exchange unaffected by recent loans, other imports and exports were said to be decreasing in volume while increase in imports from Germany was noted with a corresponding decrease in those from the United States. Foreign capital now coming into the country, the report added, was directed largely to investments in petroleum developments.

Although the Brazilian market is improving slowly the general tone is strong and sales are increasing, according to the Rio de Janeiro cable to the department.

Prospects of an immediate revival of trade in Chile are not promising, the San Tiago report asserted, but the improved feeling evident in September has continued through October.

The situation in Peru has improved the Lima cable said with outstanding commercial and financial factors, the proposed loan of $50,000,000 guaranteed by the customs receipts, which will be under American supervision and the establishment of a national bank of issue.

British interests are negotiating an important railway concession in Peru, the report added, but the contracts have not yet been completed.

Little change in Mexican conditions was reported from Mexico City. While business there was said to continue dull, it was described as more healthy, although the attitude of merchants in refusing to accept lesser margins of profits was declared to be retarding the necessary readjustment.

MISSION PASTOR ISSUES CALL FOR HEARTY SUPPORT

A call for conscientious faithfulness to the duties of church members is issued by W. A. Betts, pastor of the Wichita Falls Methodist Mission church, at the beginning of the conference year. Mr. Betts entered upon his second year of service with the mission last week, following his reappointment by the North Texas M. E. Conference at Dallas.

The attention of the members is especially called to the budget system of giving to churches. The pastor points out that this has the hearty endorsement of the presiding elder and saves the pastor from being forced to go in debt, borrow money and otherwise unnecessarily scramble for sufficient funds to buy food and clothing. It is also pointed out that practice of the budget system will save interest on funds borrowed to meet quarterly and other payments of the mission.

NEW ASYLUM'S OPENING DATE IS ANNOUNCED

The Northwest Texas Insane Asylum will be opened for patients on December 31, or possibly a few days sooner, according to the announcement of the State Board of Control at Austin.

Dr. White, superintendent of the new asylum, announced that the store keeper-accountant has been appointed and the selection of the full staff and installment of furniture is well under way.

The asylum here will accommodate 350 patients and the board of control has begun sending out notices to county judges to forward insane persons to the asylum at Wichita Falls after December 31.

FEED AND COTTON CROPS ARE ABOUT IN AT CROSBYTON

CROSBYTON, Texas, Nov 4.—The cotton crop is nearly gathered. A small acreage made it possible for but little to be hired picked. The acreage made it possible for but little to be hired picked. The acreage has made an average of from one-half to three-fourths bale per acre.

The feed crop is about harvested and ready for the thresher. There is a tendency not to put any on the market, except for actual necessity, until the price gets better.

The wheat sowing is about finished. Very little spring wheat will be planted on account of such sorry prices paid to elevators at ports. Dry weather now is getting to be serious with wheat growers.

The town is being wired for electric lights, which will be turned on some time soon.

KNIFE WOUNDS ARE INCURRED DURING AFFRAY IN HOTEL

Twenty-nine stitches were necessary in dressing knife wounds sustained early Friday morning by Ed Ralls during an affray in a downtown rooming house, according to the report from the Wichita General hospital.

Another man was declared by police to have suffered slight cuts about the face and scalp when struck over the head with a pitcher during the affray. M. S. Ketner was taken in custody by police for a short time following the affair, but denied that he had inflicted the knife wounds on Ralls. Ralls refused to say who inflicted the wounds. His injuries are not considered serious.

HARVEST CONCERT AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Dr. Knickerbocker is away at Starkville, Mississippi, holding a meeting at the A. & M. College at that place. He will return the latter part of next week and fill his pulpit the following Sunday. During his absence the K. K. Klass will have charge of the service at the morning hour. Judge John C. Kay will deliver his lecture at the church instead of at the Olympic Theater as is his custom. A rare treat is in store for the congregation. A full attendance of the class is especially urged by the president, Oral A. Jones.

The time for crimson and yellow leaves, crackling fires, falling nuts, red cheeked apples, stiff yellow corn shocks and frosty mornings, is here. In keeping with the season the choir has prepared a Harvest Concert for the evening service Sunday. The program starts at 7:30. Come early to get a seat. Elaborate decorations and special scenic effects will enhance the music. The program follows:

Organ Solo—William Tell Overture—Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr.

Scripture: Ruth 1:1-18—Pantomine—Miss Bruce Dixon, Miss Eliva Allman, Mrs. A. H. Drake, Miss Dolly Gage.

Prayer—Mr. L. B. Haines.

Anthem—"Fear Not ye, O Israel"

Soloists—Mr. Ben Neal, Mr. Paul Von Allman, Mrs. George Thorburn, Mrs. C. Y. Tully.

CARUSO'S WIDOW TO MAKE ITALY PERMANENT HOME

Mrs. Dorothy Park Benjamin Caruso and daughter Gloria, photographed since their recent arrival in the U. S.

Mrs. Dorothy Park Benjamin Caruso, widow of the famous tenor, now in New York to settle financial matters in connection with her husband's death, says she has decided to live premanently in her adopted land, Caruso's native Italy. Miss Gloria Caruso, their daughter, apparently prefers America, judging by her happy laughs and smiles. Mrs. Caruso denies that there may be litigation over Caruso's will.

OWNER MUST TAKE PROPER CARE, RULES

Each owner of property is required to exercise ordinary care in order to keep it from becoming dangerous to the public and this is to be measured by the possible danger through defects in the structure, according to the ruling of Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Friday in the $30,000 damage suit of W. P. Harris against W. P. Parker and three other Indiana street property owners. The suit is the result of injuries alleged to have been received by the plaintiff when awning in front of buildings owned by defendants fell during a snow last February.

The ruling as to the law applying in the case was made Friday previous to it being placed in the hands of the jury. The jury after having the case under consideration a half hour failed to reach an agreement and adjourned until this morning.

The rule of "ordinary care," and the "greater the danger the greater the care," was announced by Judge Martin in his charge to the jury.

The question arose during the trial of the case in which there was an apparent disagreement among the litigants as to whether the property owners, tenants or original owners were responsible for injuries resulting from a falling awning in front of a building which forms the basis of this suit.

SKIN DISEASES DUE TO WASTE PRODUCTS IN THE BLOOD

For Genuine Relief Your Blood Must Be Purified.

For real downright, harrassing discomfort, very few disorders can approach so-called skin diseases, such as eczema, tetter, boils, eruptions, scaly irritations and similar skin troubles, notwithstanding the lavish use of salves, lotions, washes and other treatments applied externally to the irritated parts.

To correct the basic trouble—waste products—the blood must be purified. Don't clog your blood. Just clean it out. Nature will do the rest. Pure, rich, red blood nourishes the body and fights off disease.

S. S. S., the standardd blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy for skin ruptions. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the waste products which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56 page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

Personal medical advice, without charge, may also be had by sending a complete description of your case. Address Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 743 S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. All drug stores sell S. S. S.—Adv.

Fashions for Americans

Lace and georgette are combined in the costume blouse shown in the sketch, the latter fabric being used to make the deep cape collar that extends across the back, and as a foundation or lining for the waist itself. Ribbon matchings the georgette in color is used as a girdle or belt. The cape collar is really a perfectly straight section of fabric, rounded just a trifle for the neck and attached to the elbow sleeves their entire length.

There seems to be a very real fancy for lace blouses this season, either in black, white or color, and, in fact, many tailored blouses shown are trimmed with lace dyed to exactly match the shade of the silk or satin used for the garment. For example, a tailored blouse may be made of gray or tan satin and trimmed about the collar and sleeves and down the front with narrow Valenciennes lace dyed exactly the shade of the blouse.

Tie-back blouses, as well as models as long as the one shown in the sketch, are frequently made of lace. A very smart little tie-back recently seen was fashioned from a lace scarf, the ends crossing fichu fashion in front.

Heavy fabrics that share honors with lace in the smart new blouses are fine chiffon velvet and duvetyn. Some extremely smart long blouses now being shown are made of these heavy materials, and among the interesting models that are distinctly new may be mentioned those cut on jumper lines. The jumper may be of velvet or duvetyn, with guimpe of lace or chiffon in contrasting color. The jumper is usually slashed to form scallops or panels below the waist line, or cut longer in front than in the back, or vice-versa, the effort being to effect an uneven hem line. In combining the heavier fabrics with the sheer ones, such as chiffon or Georgette, frequently the entire back section will be made of the heavy material and the front of the sheer weave, the velvet or duvetyn being used to form band cuffs for the transparent sleeves.

WOMAN IS INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Sam Hellems of this city sustained injuries which necessitated her removal to a hospital at Iowa Park and other occupants of the car sustained minor injuries in an automobile smashup which occurred at 3 p. m. Friday on the Iowa Park road about three miles this side of Iowa Park.

In connection with the accident, a charge of reckless driving was filed against C. C. Stone of Sherman the driver of one of the machines. He was being held Friday night on $300 bond by the sheriff's department.

T. E. Ellison was the driver of the other car which was coming to this city. According to Officer McDonald, Mrs. Hellems was thrown from the front seat of the Ford when the collision occurred, striking the pavement. The extent of her injuries could not be determined Friday night. Ellison and two other occupants of the rear seat, sustained minor bruises.

Stone in a statement to officers claimed that he was turning out to pass a buggy when the collision occurred.

OFFICERS OF VALLEY VIEW NEW MACHINE

S. A. Covington, general superintendent of the Fort Worth & Denver; M. A. Steiner, chief engineer, and O. E. Maer, superintendent of the Wichita Valley, made an inspection trip on the Valley Thursday in connection with the putting into active service of the "Jordan Spreader," the recently acquired machine for ditching cuts, and improving the right of way.

This machine, which represents an investment of about $25,000, is one of the most advanced designs in equipment of this kind in service on any road, according to Mr. Maer. For the time being it will be assigned to the Wichita Valley to rush the road bed improvement work now under way, he says.

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Hope Nearly Gone, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her

Star, N. C.—"My monthly spells gave me so much trouble, sometimes they would last two weeks. I was treated by two doctors without relief and they both said I would have to have an operation. I had my trouble four years and was unfit to do anything and had given up all hope of ever getting any better. I read about your medicine in the 'Primitive Baptist' paper and decided to try it. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for about seven months and now I am able to do my work. I shall never forget your medicine and you may publish this if you want to as it is true."—Mrs. J. F. HURSEY, Star, N. C.

Here is another woman who adds her testimony to the many whose letters we have already published, proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound often restores health to suffering women even after they have gone so far that an operation is deemed advisable. Therefore it will surely pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to try it.

K-K-Klass in Charge of Service at First Methodist, South, corner Tenth and Lamar, Sunday Morning

Judge John C. Kay, instead of lecturing to the men's class at 9:30 at the Olympic theater, will give his usual lecture, always witty and always full of sound philosophy, at the 11 o'clock service at the church. Oral Jones, the "live wire" president of the class, assures us an excellent program is in readiness.

Harvest Concert Under Direction of Mrs. E. C. Huckabee at the Night Service

The culmination of some weeks of hard work by the choir will be the Harvest Concert at the church at 7:30 p. m., Sunday. The effect of the music will be enhanced by elaborate decorations and special scenic effects, one being an old fashioned home at harvest time. Some of the most talented musicians of the city will take part in the program. Miss Knickerbocker will give a dramatic reading.

T. C. U. SQUEEZES THIN WIN OVER OSTEOPATHS

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 4.—A forty-yard forward pass by Fowler gave the Texas Christian University football team their 7 to 0 victory against the American School of Osteopathy here today. Sermon, quarterback of the Missouri team, was the star of the game, with his passing, running and defensive work.

An exchange of punts in the first quarter gave the T. C. U. the ball on the Osteopaths' forty-yard line. Two passes through the line were incomplete. Fowler shot the ball to Cherry, who scored. Ryan kicked goal.

The line up:

T. C. U.	Position	Osteopaths
Houtcheus	L. E.	Hurt
Cantfell	L. T.	Harris

NEW STADIUM AT ILLINOIS U. HONORS VETS

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 4.—Every war veteran of the state will be commemorated in the new University of Illinois Memorial Stadium, as a result of an agreement between officers of the American Legion and local stadium chiefs. At the recent Legion convention in Decatur, a resolution was passed urging the dedication of the Stadium as a state memorial.

Stadium authorities immediately accepted the proposal, and the memorial group from the Legion will outline plans for memorial features to include each of the 353,000 service men of the state.

The feature will be two towers at the entrance, one dedicated to soldiers, the other to the sailors and marines of the state and University who fought in the World War.

W. L. Kelley, Shelbyville, former vice-commander of the Legion, is the leader of the movement.

CHARGE IS RESULT OF LOST RACE

Charges of theft were filed Friday against C. J. Sutton who was arrested Thursday night by police officers after a chase on Scott street. Sutton is alleged to have taken a Hudson car belonging to J. H. Coleman while it was parked in front of the Ford Supply Company on Indiana street.

According to officers, Sutton was seen to get in the car and drive away. An alarm was given and after chasing him for a short distance in the machine, Sutton is said to have jumped out starting the foot chase. The officers overtook him after he had run down an alley off Scott street.

MEXIA, Texas, Nov. 4.—L. C. Hivick of Oklahoma City; Henry Ford of Bowie, Texas, former resident of Wichita Falls; John E. Keller of Shawnee, and Harry Houghton of Oklahoma City, are among the Oklahomans who are operating in the Mexia oil pool. All are interested in well now drilling which are expected to reach sand depth during the present month. A contest has arisen between them to see who can win the first honors in an "oil" way.

Hivick's well is down over 1800 feet. He seems to have a lead in the race as far as depth is concerned, however, Henry Ford's chances for a well were improved today when the Monarch Oil Co. hit a sand and began making preparations to drill in. The Monarch is located to the southwest of the Henry Ford well. It is on a straight line to the Coyle-Carter well, which created the last really big sensation since the "blowing in" of the Desenberg. The Monarch partially proves up the Henry Ford lease.

The Coyle-Carter well, which is drilled only partly in, is claimed to be the biggest well in the field. The elbows on the eight-inch pipe were blown off which led to the tank, and the oil got away from the workers. There was a wild scramble as result, to get the unruly pipe back into the tank each time it broke away.

Casing is being set in the Monarch well and plans are being made to drill in.

The Henry Ford is down about 200 feet and has just finished going through the hard rock.

Construction to Cause Change in Street Car Runs

Pending the completion of laying the new tracks on Ninth street, street car service on the loop from Tenth and Indiana around Ohio to Sixth and back to Tenth on Indiana will be discontinued Saturday morning, it was announced Friday by L. L. Allbritton, general manager of the Wichita Falls Traction Company.

Opening of the new Ninth street cutoff and resumption of use of the loop is expected to begin in about three weeks, according to the announcement. The blocking of traffic on Indiana at Ninth is not expected to last more than nine or ten days, Mr. Allbritton asserted, but a longer time will be required before the new road bed and tracks between Indiana and Ohio will be in condition for use by the cars.

During the time the loop is out of use, both Southland and Factory cars will run to Ninth on Indiana for loading and unloading passengers, otherwise making their round trips as in the past.

BANKER WANTS TEX RICKARD PLACED IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss today signed an order requiring Tex Rickard, sporting promoter, the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and the Madison Square Sporting Club, Inc., to show cause next Monday why the three should not be put in the hands of receivers. The application was made by Frank D. Armstrong, a banker.

KATY HEADS HERE FRIDAY

A party of high Katy officials and representatives of New York bankers were in Wichita Falls Thursday and visited this city and the Burkburnett oil fields. The party, which included C. N. Whitehead of St. Louis, chief operating officer; W. N. Whittenton of Dallas, assistant chief operating officer; H. E. McGee of Dallas, general manager; H. F. Ringer, chief engineer, and Messrs. Williams and Davis of New York, arrived in two special cars. They were accompanied in the afternoon to Burkburnett by F. W. Grace, division superintendent of the Katy, and were taken in automobiles through the fields.

The trip is one of the periodical inspection tours taken by operating officials of the road and their stay in Wichita Falls was indicative of nothing special, local railroad officials said.

STAGE SET FOR BIG HI SCHOOL GRID BATTLE

Three o'clock this afternoon will be whistle-blowing time at Athletic park, with Coach Edens' Electra lads bucking the fighters from the North Side high school of Fort Worth in a battle for the district football championship. The ticket sales for the game are reported unusually heavy for this city, and it is expected the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a football game here will turn out for the contest.

The Rotary club, which sponsored the movement to bring the two teams to Wichita Falls to settle the championship and which guaranteed the expenses, will turn out in a body, while hundreds of individual fans will trek to the park to root for Edens Wichita county eleven. Electra will probably send more than 200 supporters of her team down to the game, while many Fort Worth enthusiasts also will be here from the Tarrant county seat of football activities.

On paper Electra appears to have a slight "edge" over the maroon and white, but as each team has thus far gone through the season without a defeat the fans can be assured of a whirlwind battle throughout every period. Both elevens have had the best of coaching and each is a smooth-running, powerful football machine. The Fort Worth boys have the advantage in weight, while Electra counts largely upon the speed of her backfield stars to bring home the championship.

All money over actual expenses will be given by the Rotary club to the Boy Scouts of this city.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

Already they're talking about the future of one "Bo" McMillin, with the wise ones declaring that he will take the position of coach at Centre college. Which might sound reasonable under some circumstances, but before I believe it I'd like to know what's to become of Uncle Charley Moran, who has startled the grid world with the football teams he has turned out at Centre. Neither McMillin nor any other star is going to take Moran's job—unless Moran quits of his own accord to accept a bigger position.

Fort Worth must be terribly excited and stirred up over the clash here this afternoon between the North Side and Electra high school elevens. I received a telegram from the Fort Worth Record yesterday asking me to file a story of the game and the line-up "as early as possible Friday night." But I haven't had much experience describing football games before they happen so I guess I'll take my time and wait until the game is played.

I picked Memphis to beat Fort Worth and the Yankees to beat the Giants, so all you fans must know that I'm a wise picker all right, and I suppose you're just crazy to know my favorite in the Electra-Fort Worth game, so's you can bet the other way! All right, I pick Electra.

"Princeton's battle-scarred but determined Tigers, hungry for gore and full of fight, will face Harvard here today," writes Jack Veiock, International News sporting editor. That sounds thrilling, Jack, and the Tigers may still be determined, but the Navy and Chicago U. kicked most of the fight out of 'em. They're battle-scarred, I also admit, but there aren't many scars on the other feller.

Ohio State and Chicago tangle this afternoon in what should be one of the toughest football games of the season, with the possibility that the Western conference championship may hang on the outcome. Another game of more than passing interest will be the one big inter-sectional match of the day, between Notre Dame and the Army. While here in li'l ol' Texas, the Baylor Bears and the Aggie will whoop 'er up melodiously. Baylor has the better press agents; I dunno which has the better team.

Frankie Mason says he will retire when he has fought 500 fights—but it wasn't so long ago that Carl Tremaine made Frankie think he had been in that many fights in one night.

Well, look who's here? The New York Supreme court has signed an order requiring Tex Rickard, the Madison Square Corporation and the Madison Square Sporting Club, Inc., to show cause why all three of 'em should not be put in the hands of a receiver. Why, Tex, I'm surprised at you!

You will fool around and get yourself in a financial hole trying to promote fights between such hams as Bryan Downey and Johnny Wilson et al. Tex, you'd better stick to one big fistic promotion a year and lay off those bum fights in between.

ACOSTA'S MARK WORLD RECORD STATES BRAGG

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Caleb Bragg, chairman of the contest committee of the Aero club of America, announced today that the time of 176.7 miles an hour made by Bert Acosta at Omaha yesterday was the world's record for a competitive flight, if the figures were correct. The previous record, he said, was 173 miles an hour, made by Lieutenant Georges Kirsch, in France, flying for the Meurthe cup last October.

The record time for 1920, made by Captain Moseley of the Army air service at Mitchell Field, was 156.5 miles an hour, Mr. Bragg stated, adding that previous figures of 178 miles an hour for Moseley were wrong.

KAUFMAN COUNTY MAN IS ACQUITTED OF MURDER

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Nov. 4.—Hugh Priddy, prominent Kaufman county farmer, was at liberty today, having been acquitted by a jury last night of a charge of murder in connection with the killing last January of his father-in-law, J. B. Willard, near Ola. The jury deliberated 28 minutes. The case was tried here on change of venue.

Defense counsel said they expected dismissal of another indictment charging Priddy with the killing of Mrs. Willard, his mother-in-law. The Willards were murdered at night in their farm home.

BUSINESS ON SOUTHERN IS INCREASING

Cattle and Oil Movements Figure in Reported General Growth in Volume of Freight Traffic.

Cattle movement on the Wichita Falls & Southern railroad to market center sis growing reports show. A full train load was handled Friday from Olney, and other points. This branch of the freight business shows a highe per cent increase, the local railroad office reports.

Oil business is also showing a steady improvement, both in the number of crude tank cars moved and in the refined products handled.

A new refinery said to represent an investment of $300,000 recently started operations at Eliasville, according to C. L. Fontaine, traffic manager of the Southern. This refinery is owned by the Western Gasoline & Producing company and will have a large output, according to advices. This is the third refinery, Mr. Fontaine says, to open on the Wichita Falls & Southern railroad in the past few months. The railroad is building a spur at the new refinery to accommodate the output.

Excitement Is Incident to Marital Rif

Two charges of disturbing the peace, a severely bitten finger for the man, various and vociferous language and the firing of four shots from a .38 calibre revolver were reported by police to have been the high lights resulting Friday afternoon from a rift in the marital bliss of a dusky couple, living west of the railroad tracks.

After being arrested and brought to the police station by Night Chief McDonald and Detective Hembree the negro man was found in possession of a razor. Police however asserted that he had evidently made no attempt to use it during the dispute. Police also asserted that it was not believed the woman fired with the intention of hitting her husband as they were in a small room and the target would not have been a difficult one.

BRITISH COURTS HOLD THEATER IS NOT EDUCATIONAL

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Theaters are held by the British courts not to be educational institutions under the terms of a decision handed down the lord chief justice yesterday. The case arose when the auditors of the educational funds of the city questioned the legality of the school authorities spending 3,000 pounds in taking children to special performances of Shakespearian plays.

The lord chief justice remarked the educational authorities should take children to houses of parliament, Westminster Abbey and the Tower of London, but that the law did not contemplate attendance at theaters as a part of a child's elementary education.

MILK STRIKE IN NEW YORK AT DEADLOCK

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—More violence marked the fourth day of New York's milk strike in which the deadlock showed no signs of weakening.

From various parts of the city came police reports of attacks on wagons by strike sympathizers and the spilling of milk in the gutters. The sharpest disorders occurred in Brooklyn, where three wagons leaving a milk station were attacked. More than a score of shots were fired, two policemen were injured and nearly a score of men rounded up for questioning.

Distributors reported more strikers replaced and deliveries being resumed.

Health Commissioner Copeland, who warned distributors yesterday he would take over the milk companies if distribution did not reach 50 per cent of normal by Saturday, announced that this measure would not be necessary, provided deliveries continued to be as good as today. Reports, he said showed about 50 per cent of the city's minimum normal supply received today and increased.

SCOUTS GET MERIT BADGES

Two boy scouts were awarded first class badges, one a second class badge, and six were recommended to the national court of honor for badges of merit at a meeting of the Wichita Falls court of honor Friday evening at the American Legion hall.

Emmett Banknight and Buster Brown were recommended for the first class badges and Oliver Lawson for the second class badge. Those recommended for the merit badge were: Edgar Ellis, George Bolin, Elton Felder, Dillard Hughes, Buster Brown and Emmett Banknight.

Scout Executive Taylor announced a meeting of the scout masters to be held next Tuesday night and urged that every one interested in boy work come to the meeting. Three or four vacancies are reported among scout masters, due to their leaving the city.

Troops 10 and 2 were reported being organized under the leadership of Scout Masters Burk Taylor and former Assistant Scoutmaster E. R. Powers.

DID MRS. OBENCHAIN PLAN TRAGEDY ENACTED HERE?

A new and general view of Kennedy cabin, garage and stairway where tragedy occurred. Madalynne Obenchain stood on the porch above, arrow No. 1, when Kennedy, at spot marked No. 2, was shot. The shot was fired from the bushes at the right of the stairs, indicated by arrow 3. Insert is of J. Belton Kennedy, the slain man.

Did Madalynne Obenchain calmly plan the tragedy which ended in the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, Los Angeles man, on a stairway in front of his cabin home near that city? As Arthur C. Burch, a former sweetheart of Madalynne, is being tried for the murder the state believes this fact will come out. Mrs. Obenchain, divorcee, left Burch to be with Kennedy. She had gone to Kennedy's cabin with him. She says that a shot was fired from the bushes. The state charges that Burch shot Kennedy, to prove his love for her.

RAZING PIER LEAVES RATS HOMELESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—An army of a million rats, driven from their homes beneath the old wooden wharves of lower Manhattan by the advent of the concrete pier has met its collective doom in the cold waters of the Hudson and East rivers.

A rat will soon be a rarity along Gotham's waterfront. Hordes of high and low-caste rodents from every land on earth have infested New York's seawall for decades. With the advance of modern construction health officials foresee the passing of the bubonic plague peril and the elimination of the most ingnominious of disease carriers.

Pity the New York waterfront rat, homeless and friendless. Not that we would suggest a drive to relieve their increasing sorrows. But a tinge of pity would not be out of place in view of the old residence that the rat has enjoyed beneath the keyboard of Manhattan's shore-line. Eventually what is left of this breed will have lost social standing among the punier inland hordes that are satisfied to infest stables, old tenements and to frolic beneath kitchen floors.

Rats From Everywhere.

The New York rat is different from his brethern. He is cosmopolitan to begin with. They have no Blue Book among them, it is true, but had they one it is certain many famous rats would be enrolled therein. Huge rodents from the aromatic wharves of far Sumatra, pirate giants from the Chelsea piers, quaint rats from San Francisco's picturesque waterfront, to which they came perhaps from far Celyon or the dimly-lighted wharves of Shanghai. Rats from Java and Edinburgh, rats from Calcutta, Bombay and Colon, more rats from Pernambuco and Stockholm—all these grace, or disgrace, the thousand alleys beneath the wooden Battery wharves.

But only one army of an estimated million rats has so far permanently disbanded. Armies of many more millions of rodents remain to be vanquished by the builders of concrete piers. According to Health Commissioner Dr. Royal Copeland, the evacuation and eternal retreat of the waterfront rats is a necessity and an end to be brought about at the earliest possible date. For it is asseverated that the greatest potential peril to the lives of New York's seven million, and for that matter, the lives of all who dwell within the borders of the nation, is the peril of the great white plague. The germ of this terrible disease is borne by the rat flea.

Piers Harbor Disease.

Inasmuch as Manhattan Island is entirely surrounded by piers, few of which are rodent free, Dr. Copeland's admonition is considered timely by many physicians.

The modern concrete pier, or rather the method of constructing the concrete pier, will be responsible for the passing of the dread carres, according to Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert. Rats reached their prospective homes beneath the floors of old-fashioned piers by way of X-s applied supports nailed to the wooden piles to keep them in place. These X supports are the stirways or runways of the rats, which jump overboard from the ships and swim a few feet under the piers to their future abodes.

Aged Woman, Who Has Cheered Many Homes During Life's Dark Hours, Loses All in Blaze

Nearing the age of 90 years and rounding out a life-time of usefulness in the darkest moments of grief and despair, "Granny" Johnson was stripped almost the last of her few possessions Friday evening when fire destroyed her little home at 1310 Fifth street. "Granny" as she is said to be known to all Wichitans who have lived here for any great length of time, was at supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Spivey on whose property she lived, when the fire broke out. Firemen reported that no cause for the fire could be discovered as the blaze destroyed the small shack and all its contents, save a small trunk in which were kept a few trinkets and souvenirs of days gone by.

Neighbors declare that for years she earned her living, yet time and time again volunteered her services in cases of sickness, regardless of the danger giving her every effort to help some one in distress. She has lived here practically ever since Wichita Falls was founded.

The home, which she lost, was furnished Mrs. Johnson by Mr. and Mrs. Spivey and neighbors immediately following the fire asked that announcement of the loss be made pub and gifts asked 'to restore a home to a worthy woman who has given much to humanity during her life.' The request was also made that the gifts be handled through Mrs. C. E. Ousley, secretary of the Welfare Council. Her office is at the Chamber of Commerce.

MARRIAGES IN PALESTINE ARE UNIQUE AFFAIRS

By Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 4.—The marriage customs of Palestine demonstrated recently in the wedding of one of the prettiest girls of the city to a well-to-do merchant, are among the most interesting celebrations of this ancient city.

No person who is privileged to witness one will ever forget either the gorgeous costumes displayed or the thrill of the music and dancing indulged in by the guests.

Not only the respective families of the bride and bridegroom but also the entire neighborhood takes part in the merrymaking which generally lasts for seven days.

The celebration begins always on Monday and the wedding ceremony, itself, always occurs at dawn on the following Sunday.

Invitations are sent only to those from whom presents are expected. However, any person may attend who wishes. Presents are always in the nature of foodstuffs such as rice, meat, sugar, coffee, flour, butter and vegetables. These are necessary to provide food for the hundreds of guests who flock to the bridegroom's house daily to take part in the singing and dancing.

Saturdays bring the climax to all joy making. If the bridegroom's father is of even moderate circumstance, professional musicians are hired for the day.

Men and women in Palestine do not mix together, often, due to the general belief that women are not mentally worthy of association. Consequently it becomes necessary to entertain women separately.

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock there takes place the shaving of the bridegroom, a feature of the entertainment. Surrounded by scores of men and women who keep up incessant maddening yells, which may be heard for a mile around, the barber undertakes the operation.

This done, a procession is formed proceeding to the church with people marching two abreast. At the head come eight kawases (guards) followed by ten children carrying in their hands palm branches and long candles lighted. Immediately after, hobble four priests dressed in their church robes and singing psalms. The bridegroom, accompanied by his father and the best man, come next, trailed by 200 or 300 men. At the end of the procession come the women and children.

A similar procession having started at about the same time from the bride's place, the two groups meet at some appointed place and proceed jointly to the church. All along the streets men and women, wakened by the noise, lean out of their windows to watch the bridal party.

Large Crowds of Formal Opening Again in Evidence on First Day Of Saul's Formal Opening Sale

Saul Lebenson

"A day of business that was all the successful formal opening indicated it could be," was Saul Lebenson's characterization of his first day's business in his new quarters at Sixth and Indiana, following the formal opening of Thursday afternoon and evening.

Large as were the crowds that passed through the establishment receiving the free souvenirs and courtesies of Saul's store, equally as large were the crowds who continually streamed through the building during the business hours of Friday, both the management and clerks declared at the end of the day.

The crowds of bargain hunters began entering the place shortly after the doors were opened and the continual stream kept the extra large sales force in a constant rush throughout the day until about 4 or 5 o'clock.

The sales of the day were declared by the owner to have reached a considerable figure, indicating that the marked down goods now on display will have but a short life. The sale is scheduled to last for 14 days from the opening day and the merchandise, which includes practically everything that can be worn on any or every occasion, is spread out in an attractive display with easily read price tags that leave no doubt in the customer's mind as to the quoted value of any garment.

A large and attractive display of goods is also on display in the huge show windows, which stretch out for half a block on either side of the large building and which are large enough themselves to hold an entire stock of goods for a good sized dry goods establishment.

FIFTY-SIX BALES COTTON DESTROYED BY FIRE AT GOREE

Special to the Record News

GOREE, Texas, Nov. 4.—Fifty-six bales of cotton were totally destroyed by fire in the local yard early this morning. Most of the cotton was owned by farmers and only a small amount of insurance was carried.

Near a Texas town there is an abandoned well which produces peculiar music under certain wind conditions.

"millions now living will never die" —Judge Rutherford

—In a free lectnre at Wichita theater, Sunday afternoon, it will be conclusively proved by many biblical prophecies, which have been fulfilled during the past four years, and from many others still in course of fulfillment, that many thousands now living in this city will never die.

—"In this instance, do not deceive yourself that 'where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise,' because life everlasting on this earth as a perfect human being will depend upon the individual knowledge and understanding of, and acquaintance in the rules of conduct that are to govern the world in its reconstruction now in progress and ever after."

—In a startling and comforting lecture, "Millions Now Living Will Never Die," Mr. Rice offers a reasonable and satisfying solution of many questions raised by the conflicting claim of orthodox creeds, Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir Conan Doyle, Christian Science practitioners and the various faith healing sects. No matter what your present ideas on this great question may be, you should hear

B. M. RICE, of BROOKLYN, N. Y.

At Wichita Theatre
INDIANA AVENUE

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 3 P. M.

—"For there shall be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until now (1914-1925), no nor ever shall be, and except those days be shortened, no flesh would be saved; but for the elect's sake those days will be shortened," and millions now living will never die.

Hear the evidence, the judge and rejoice

—"I want the statement 'millions now living will never die' to be taken literally, as it is, in the light of fulfilled prophecy, a provable Biblical proposition." —J. F. Rutherford

NEW YORK GIVES TREMENDOUS WELCOME TO MARSHAL FOCH

Marshal Foch (arrow) acknowledging cheers as he rides up Broadway.

Not since Dewey returned from Manila, not since Armistice day, have New York's millions turned out with such spontaneity and in such numbers as on the occasion of Marshal Foch's arrival in that city. A greater welcome could not have been accorded the French hero as he rode up Broadway, smilingly acknowledging the cheers of the thousands who lined the streets.

PEGGY HOPKINS, HOME AGAIN, SAYS SHE'LL FIGHT FOR $10,000 PER MONTH

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, photographed on her recent arrival in New York

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, whose matrimonial misadventures have been the talk of two continents, returned to New York a few days ago from France, where she spent most of the summer. Questioned in regard to the divorce suit brought by her husband, J. Stanley Joyce, Peggy said she would hold out for $10,000 per month alimony, adding that it was very easy to spend that much a month if one has been used to doing so.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property.
CONSTABLE'S SALE.

By virtue of a certain Order of Sale issued by W. T. Harris, County Clerk in the County Court at Law of Wichita County, on the 18th day of October, 1921, in a certain cause wherein R. J. Williams and C. E. Smith, partners composing the firm of R. J. Williams & Company, are plaintiffs, and John G. Knox is defendant, in favor of the said plaintiffs, and numbered 4074 on the docket of said court for the sum of $699.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from date of judgment, together with all costs of suit, that being the amount of a judgment recovered by the said R. J. Williams and C. E. Smith, under the firm name aforesaid plaintiffs in the County Court at Law of Wichita County, on the 22nd day of September, 1921. I have levied upon, and will, on the 18th day of November, 1921, at the Court House door of Wichita County, in Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder all the right, title and interest of John G. Knox, in and to the following described personal property, levied upon as the property of John G. Knox, to-wit:

One Art Metal Safe, 1 Flat Top Desk with brass handles, 1 combination typewriter desk, 1 swivel arm chair.

The above sale to be made by me to satisfy the above described judgment for Two Hundred Ninety-nine and no-100 Dollars, in favor of R. J. Williams & Company, together with the costs of said suit, and the proceeds applied to the satisfaction thereof.

Will Report On Gatesville Probe Today

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 4.—Final decision as to the charges of brutal treatment to the inmates of the Juvenile training school at Gatesville will be made by the board of control when they meet to further discuss the matter at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Chairman S. B. Cowell announced today, following a conference of the board with Governor Neff.

In their decision the board expects to give the result of the findings in the inquiry only recently completed, whether the charges of brutality are true; also, if true, if the present management is responsible for them or allowed them to continue with his knowledge. The latter decision concerns the retaining or discharge of C. E. King, president-superintendent.

The inquiry was made following the death of Dell Thames, fourteen year old inmate on September 26, for which H. G. Twyman, former drill master is held on a charge of murder.

It was not announced whether Governor Neff would be present tomorrow when the board makes its decision.

SHIP OWNERS URGE THAT HOOVER FORM MARITIME BUREAU

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Centering in the department of commerce the maritime functions of the United States, with the exception of those of the shipping board, was urged by a committee of the American steamship owners at a conference today with Secretary Hoover.

The meeting was for the purpose of obtaining from the ship owners, views relative to the recently announced plan of Mr. Hoover to reorganize the marine bureaus of his department. It was stated after the conference that the views of the owners and those of Mr. Hoover were in close accord.

Among the owners' suggestions was immediate transfer from the treasury department to the navy of the sea going cutters, officers and men of the coast guard service.

Bandits Holdup Cashier Omega, Oklahoma Bank

By Associated Press.

KINGFISHER, Okla., Nov. 4.—Three unmasked men held up the cashier of the Omega State Bank, Omega, Okla., 18 miles west of here late today and escaped in an automobile with $800 in cash after locking the cashier in a closet, according to word reaching here tonight.

Officers have traced the men five miles east of Omega, and it is believed that the bandits are headed toward Kingfisher. Posses were formed at once and farmers of the entire territory are being notified to watch for the men.

The bulk of the money was saved when the cashier told the robbers that the vault was locked and that he did not know the combination.

MATINEE THIS AFTERNOON OF "SICK-A-BED"

There will be a special matinee today of "Sick-a-Bed" at the Wichita theater for the children. This is a play that is sure to please the children, so send them to the matinee today. Tonight will be your last chance to see this wonderful farce comedy. During the past week the house has been well filled at all performances which goes to show that Wichita Falls will support a first class stock organization and Gene Lewis, has been giving us regular two dollar shows for stock prices.

Starting Monday evening they will begin their third week when they will offer the first stock production of the Cohan and Harris' smashing success "The Acquittal."

For more than one year this play delighted theater-goers of New York and Chicago. It is a play that is entirely different from the first two presented by this company. It gives Miss Worth a chance to wear some very handsome gowns. She also has several big dramatic scenes in this play which will give you a chance to see what she really is capable of doing in the dramatic line. Miss Worth considers this one of her very best parts.

"The Acquittal" will open Monday and run for the entire week with special matinee on both Wednesday and Saturday.

DEVELOPMENT OF ELIASVILLE COAL FIELDS PLANNED

ELIASVILLE, Texas, Nov. 4.—Developments of the Eliasville coal field on an enormous scale is planned by men who have been here during the past few days, and have practically closed a deal with a group of miners who have been operating the Donnell No. 1 shaft on the Donnell and Childress land.

Consummation of these plans would mean the addition of two or three hundred or possibly more people to the Eliasville neighborhood. Full commercial use would be made of the coal deposits that lie in abundance nearby. Plans call for a spur track from the Wichita Falls & Southern at Eliasville to the mine.

NEW YORKERS PAY TRIBUTE TO TWO OF ITALY'S HEROES

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—New Yorkers today paid tribute to two of Italy's war heroes, one living and one dead.

At St. Patrick's Cathedral a throng of men and women overflowing into four streets bowed their heads in homage to that nation's unknown war dead as Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes celebrated solemn requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of the nameless martyr, who at the same hour was being buried with a nation's highest honors in Rome.

The city's admiration for the living was made manifest when multitudes lining Fifth avenue sent up a thunderous cheer as General Armando Diaz, commander of Italy's victorious armies, was escorted to and from the cathedral.

Visitors to Italy who travel on Sunday have to pay a special tax.

IF THEY WANT HIM.

"Representative Blanton Stigmatized," screams a head line in the Wichita Falls ecord News. Mr. Blanton probably feels more like he had fallen into the swill barrel.—Duncan Daily Eagle. Why this unprovoked attack upon T. Lindsay Blanton, the pride of the Abilene district? He recanted, he apologized; he said "as God is my judge" my heart is pure and my hands are clean. Congress let it go at that. Congress could do nothing else. Blanton had not been guilty of treason. He had been guilty of indecent exposure of his ignorance and lack of knowledge of the eternal fitness of things. His constituants are responsible for him. They made him. If they want him let them keep him.

BRANDED.

Colonel George Harvey, gadfly of American politics, falls to all men and to all principles readvocates but morally perfect and financially the soul of integrity, received his from the American Legion. This is the message sent to the ambassador at the Court of St. James and to the president of the United States who named him as the representative of this republic to the aforesaid court of Mr. John Bull: "That the sentiment expressed by George Harvey, United States ambassador to Great Britain, in his Pilgrim Day speech, setting fourth the reasons for American entry into the world war and the cause for which America fought, does not represent the true American attitude as interpreted by the American Legion and let it be known for all times that America fought not only for the maintenance of America's rights, but for the freedom of the world and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States." It goes without saying that the branding iron of the American Legion made the flesh of George Harvey sizzle where it scorched. He was given the brand and the scar will not be effaced. He had it coming.

One-half of Texas homes are rented homes, according to a Washington correspondent. Total number of homes, 1,017,413; total number rented, 563,597. More than half the people of the United States are living in rented houses. What the deuce did the people do with their money when the peak wage prices were on?

"THE MAN FROM MIZZOURY."

After declaring he would not resign the national democratic chairmanship, Mr. George White gracefully stepped down in favor of Committeeman Hull from Tennessee. We don't know anything about Mr. Hull; he may be an ideal man for the place in this critical hour of the party's history, but we fail to understand just why the honor was not bestowed upon our own Thomas B. Love, who as the leader of a forlorn hope stands without an equal.—Denison Daily Herald. Why harpoon National Committeeman Love? As an organizer he has few equals in the country; as a practical politician he is as smooth as velvet; as an interpreter of the sign language has has few peers. Love went after the scalp of George White. He could not be a whole loaf; being a wise politician he accepted a half loaf and Cordell Hull of Tennessee is the successor of the Buckeye. T. B. L. isn't an Adonis; he isn't a dancing master; he does not wear a wrist watch; he never wears a cane in the crook of his elbow; he hasn't a Sunny Jim smile; he advocates policy which may be obnoxious to many esteemed tallow dippers, but when it comes to the game of politics "The Man From Mizzoury" as a gum shooer can give Will Hays the best cards in the deck and then work around him. Love isn't a candidate for the senate; he isn't a candidate for any office; he has many political enemies; he has many loyal friends and he has a fair stock of what many politicians lack—brains.

Oil and gas leases in Osage county, Oklahoma, are to be sold at Pakhuska December 12. About 150 tracts or 37,000 acres improved territory are to be offered and all will be sold to the highest bidder. It is predicted that more than 2,000 oil men will attend the sale. Petroleum is a fascinating game; petroleum has come back. Why shouldn't there be a large attendance of active buyers and why shouldn't the bidding be spirited?

Milton Farrier of Omaha is president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. He says East Texas lands are as productive as any to be found and they are far cheaper than any other lands of like productiviness. Maybe so but there are more white tenants in East Texas that it would be possible to find in the same area under the British flag in the Republic of Ireland. How did it happen?

Navarro county ginned 47,326 bales of cotton this year. This cotton has been sold and wildcatters are bringing in wells every other day. There is prosperity this year in Navarro. Cotton started the revival or resumption of industry and thawing of frozen assets in the banks accomplished wonders.

CHATTERER SCREWS UP HIS COURAGE

Over since Sammy Jay had dropped a hint about the plentiful supply of corn over at Farmer Brown's, and how easy it was to get all that one wanted, Chatterer had been trying to screw up his courage to go see for himself if Sammy had told the truth. Chatterer had spent most of his life in or close to the Green Forest. He had a very wholesome fear of Farmer Brown's boy and his dreadful gun, and he always had been content to keep away from Farmer Brown's dooryard. The truth is he was afraid to go up there. You see, there were Black Pussy the Cat and Bowser the Hound and Farmer Brown's boy; why it was a terribly dangerous place!

And yet Sammy Jay went up there every day and didn't seem to be in the least afraid. He even scolded and said impudent things to Farmer Brown's boy. If Sammy dared go up there why shouldn't he? He certainly was as brave as Sammy Jay! Right down in his heart Chatterer had always though Sammy Jay very much of a coward. Yet here was Sammy going up there and helping himself to corn just as if it belonged to him. Chatterer though of how hard he worked every day to fill that storehouse in the hollow fence rail, and of how every minute of the time he had to watch out for Redtail the Hawk and Reddy Fox. It seemed as if he never, never could get enough corn to keep him all winter. And then it was a long way to go every day, 'way from the Old Orchard down to the cornfield. Chatterer sighed at the thought.

"If Sammy Jay told me the truth and it is so easy to get all the corn one wants over there at Farmer Brown's it will be ever so much easier in bad weather than going way down to my storehouse thought Chatterer. "Anyway, it won't do any harm to have a look and see for myself how things are."

So Chatterer started running briskly along the old stone wall which led right up to Farmer Brown's yard. As he drew near he would stop every few steps to make sure that the way was clear. At last he reached the very end of the wall, and hiding behind two stones he peeked out. Right across a wide road was Farmer Brown's house, and in the sun on the back doorstep sat Black Pussy dozing. Chatterer had hard work to hold his tongue. The very sight of her made him so angry that he almost forgot that he didn't want to be seen. He just longed to tell her what he thought of her. But he kept still and set his sharp little eyes to discover where Farmer Brown kept his corn. He could see Bowser the Hound fast asleep in front of his own special little house. He could see the big barn and the henhouse and the shed where the wagons were kept, and the long woodshed.

"I wonder," said Chatterer to himself; "I wonder if that corn is kept

The Very Sight of it Screwed His Courage Up Till He Felt Brave Enough to Dare Anything in any of those places, and how Sammy Jay gets it."

Just then Farmer Brown's boy came out of the barn. Chatterer dodged back at sight of him. He wanted to scold just as he had wanted to scold at Black Pussy, but he wisely held his tongue. Farmer Brown's boy didn't even look toward him, but went straight over to a queer little building standing high on four legs, and with wide cracks between the boards of the walls through which something yellow showed. Farmer Brown's boy went up several steps and opened a door. Chatterer gave a little gasp. There was the corn, more corn than he ever had seen in all his life, more corn than he had supposed the whole world held! Chatterer made up his mind right then and there that he was going to have some of that corn in spite of Black Pussy and Bowser the Hound and Farmer Brown's boy. The very sight of it screwed his courage up till he felt brave enough to dare anything.

VICTORIA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

One of the most diverting books I have read this long time is Lytton Strachey's "Queen Victoria."

One beauty of the volume is that its title indicates exactly its contents, which is not always the case with books, and it is not pleasant to pick up one thinking it is a biography and find you are in for a homily.

A good many criticisms in fact remind us of the witty remark of some Frenchman who said that the critic's method usually was: "Apropos of Shakespeare and his art, I will proceed to talk about myself."

Strachey's pages really give us Victoria. And readings them one cannot help feeling sorry for the old girl, and for all whom fate condemns to the barren loneliness of royalty.

For instance, we are given on page 97 a glimpse of a royal evening party.

After dinner the company reassembled in the drawingroom, for at her majesty's affairs gentlemen were denied even the sole remaining refuge of getting drunk.

The Queen proceeded to swap platitudes with those present, and the evening moved forward in arid and deadly elegance.

Here is her conversation with Mr. Greville, clerk of the Privy Council:

"Have you been riding today, Mr. Greville?" asked the Queen. "No, madam, I have not," replied Mr. Greville. "It was a fine day," continued the Queen. "Yes, Madam, a very fine day," said Mr. Greville. "It was rather cold, though," said the Queen. "It was rather cold, Madam," said Mr. Greville.

"Your sister, Lady Frances Egerton, rides, I think, doesn't she?" said the Queen. "She does ride sometimes, Madam," said Mr. Greville.

There was a pause, after which Mr. Greville ventured to take the lead, though he did not venture to change the subject. "Has your Majesty been riding today?" asked Mr. Greville. "Oh, yes, a very long ride," answered the Queen with animation. "Has your Majesty got a nice horse," said Mr. Greville. "Oh, a very nice horse," said the queen.

It was over. Her Majesty gave a smile and an inclination of the head. Mr. Greville a profound bow, and the next conversation began with the next gentleman. When all the guests had been disposed of, the Duchess of Kent sat down to her whist, while everybody else was ranged about the round table. Lord Melbourne sat beside the Queen, and talked pertinaciously—very often apropos to the contents of one of the large albums of engravings with which the round table was covered—until it was half-past eleven and time to go to bed.

May heaven be blessed that we were not born to the purple, and have nothing worse to endure than receptions of college presidents and Presbyterian church sociables!

If there's anything along Main Street more asphyxiating than this royal chapter of horrors we have never found it.

SURPRISE VISITORS

When I decide to visit friends I write and tell them so; and if from them a roar ascends, I wilt, and do not go. "We have the flue to beat the band," my cousin wrote me back, when I informed him that I planned to visit at his shack. "The smallpox has us in its grip," replied my loving niece, "so do not make your threatened trip, but let us die in peace." And thus I give them every chance to dodge impending woe, when I, in pomp and circumstance, to their abodes would go. If they desire to have me there, they'll let me know, I wot, and if they don't it isn't fair to camp upon their lot. For I detest the giddy guys who visit unawares, who think it cunning to surprise poor victims in their lairs. I have a grist of ancient aunts who play this ghastly trick, and when they come my spirit pants to do things with a brick. Oh, one must rail at spiteful fate, and wring his hands and rant, who sees a taxi at the gate discharge a withered aunt. She has a birdcage in her hand, and earmuffs on her ears, and well he knows that she has planned to stay for seven years. If she had only written him that she was breaking loose, he might have had a broken limb, or other good excuse. If you invade another's home uncalled, unadvertized, there is a puncture in your dome that should be vulcanized.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

REPLY OF BABY WARREN HARDING HANNAWAY TO THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

(As the infant would, no doubt, respond to the recent communication from President Harding congratulating it upon being named after him, urging him to grow up worthy of the name, and expressing the hope he will become a useful citizen.)

My Dear President:

Your letter of recent date received and placed on file. In reply I beg to state:

You inform me that a friend of mine wrote you letting you know of my arrival in this world and my being named after you. Permit me to say that he was much better informed of both events than I was. The first thing I knew about the naming business I gathered during the past forty-eight hours from a crowd of noisy, inconsiderate relatives, neighbors, and friends, who have been swarming about my cradle reading the letter over and over again. I now know it by heart, and I feel that if you knew the annoyance it would cause a poor kid trying to get a little sleep and a little solitude you would never have written it.

You urge me never to do anything to discredit the name. Well, believe me, Gamaliel, I feel so sore just now that I'm afraid that will be my one amition in life. The following incidents have influenced this feeling:

1.—Scores of grinning women with most alarming faces have pinched my cheeks several thousand times, pulled my ears, squeezed my toes, made terrible grimaces at me, and uttered words to this effect:

"Izz ooh name Warren Harding, ooh little sweet blessums? Ess ooh izz, ooh snookum ookums. Ess ooh is Warren Harding, ooh blessedest iddle umpkins."

(Now, I ask you, Mr. President, as man to man, wouldn't that make you sick?)

2.—Everybody, from the grocer's boy to the minister, has bounced me on his knee, blown his heavy breath in my face and said:

"So this is the little kiddo who has been named after the President of the United State. Well, well, well."

3.—My father has done nothing since I was born, but sit on the edge of the bed and read your letter aloud to everybody who entered the house, always concluding by grabbing me in his arms and tossing me up and down in the air until I though I'd kick in.

So, you can realize, Mr. President, that your letter brought no joy into my young life, and unless you want to separate the Republican party from all rising young voters you should swear off this sort of letter writing. Appreciating that you have a great name I would sooner have been christened Casey Jones or Jim Jenks.

But I must close now as father is about to read your letter again and twenty-two visitors are swooping into the nursery.

Your suffering namesake,

WARREN HARDING HANNAWAY

P. S.—Would you mind asking the newspaper men not to print so much about this whole business?

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

ABOUT BATHS

In a fire-lit room that was faintly sweet with the breath of violets and roses some women sat chatting. The early winter night had closed in around the pretty silk-hung windows, and on a table where its rosy light streamed out into the darkening street stood a big beautiful lamp.

The conversation fitted from one topic to another and finally drifted to beauty culture, massage and baths.

"I do believe in baths as treatments for illness, said the woman who tried to keep up with the times.

"They are stimulating," murmured the woman who boasted that she hadn't a nerve in her body.

"I believe, positively, that baths lessen nervous irritability," said the woman who was always calm and undisturbed.

Her "Discovery" Not New

"Of course, it is reasonable that the influence of heat and cold on the body must result in a benefit of one kind or another to the body," said the woman who was nibbling fudge, a trifle vaguely.

"But so few people seem to realize that one must be temperate in all things—even baths," said the woman who owned the lamp and lived in the pretty house.

"I remember, when I was going to school and I used to fall asleep over my lessons at night, I made the marvellous discovery that by dipping my face into cold water I lost my weariness. Then I learned that cold water stimulates the part of the brain that controls thought—and I found that the discovery was not mine, after all."

Recalling similar "discoveries," there was a ripple of laughter and the women were swept into a discussion of baths.

"I wish some one would tell me the correct temperature for a hot bath. I've had a bath thermometer in my bathroom so long that it has become a family joke, because it looks so important and is never used."

"I think the temperature generally agreed upon for hot baths is from 103 to 122 degrees Fahrenheit, which is a few degrees higher than the normal temperature of the body," said a woman who constantly read about such things.

"And speaking of sleeplessness, as we were a little while ago, I have discovered that by remaining in a warm (not hot) bath for thirty minutes I can go to sleep as soundly as a child," contributed a women who had said little until this moment. "I usually have the bath temperature exactly 99.

"The reason, my dear, is that the warm water lessens the stimulation of the superficial nerve endings, which, as we all know, lie just beneath the skin. Consequently, there are fewer impulses passing into the nerve centres, and fewer impulses passing out. The result is a complete relation of the tired tense muscles."

Morning Shower Part of Routine

And the woman who explained the soothing effect of warm baths that are warm, not hot, seemed almost surprised at herself for having entered into the conversation so scientifically.

"But I do think," she added, "that since the Saturday night bath has passed as one of the family rites and the daily bath has come to stay, in most families, we have a happier, healthier community. Certainly our children emerge from their cold showers and their morning settings-up exercises with a rosy glow that is a gratification."

"And we have fewer 'colds' to cure," added the woman in whose home the morning shower was part of the routine.

What Noise Does

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

To any one who questions the statement that noise inevitably has a harmful effect on efficiency, I commend Professor M. V. O'Shea's report of sundry experiments in the psychology of noise. This report will be found in Professor O'Shea's book, "Mental Development and Education." Here I can give only a brief summary of it.

The experiments in question consisted in their simplest form in having persons look at letters exposed one after the other, and press a particular telegraph key according to the letter exposed. This task was complicated in various ways, but always involved pressure of telegraph keys according to things seen.

An electrical device registered both the promptness and the accuracy of performance, and also registered precisely the force put on the telegraph key when it was pressed. The experiments were repeated several times with each person, under conditions varying from absolute quiet to a good deal of noise.

"In many tests of this kind," Professor O'Shea reports, "individuals showed the effect of the noise in increased tension. Nature appears to say to one in a noisy situation:

"'You are being disturbed. You must resist distraction. You must therefore exert yourself. Expend more energy so that you can perform your task and not be hindered by this noise.'"

Further than this, the experiments revealed that in most cases, when disturbed by noise, the subjects' breathing was affected in such a way as to indicate that noise arouses all the resisting forces in one's organism. Hence however well the task was done, it was done at the cost of a waste of energy when noise was present.

Necessarily this means a hastening of the onset of fatigue. And when fatigue comes, as need hardly be said, efficiency is in some degree impaired.

Now, it is notorious that of recent years there has been increasing complaint that workers, whether mental workers or manual workers, do not perform their tasks at old-time levels of efficiency. The tendency has been to ascribe this to wilful evasion of duty.

Possibly, however, the increasing noisiness of the environment, particularly of city environment, is an unsuspected factor of great potency.

The multiplication of machinery, the introduction of electric street railways, the advent of the automobile, make life formultitudes one continuous clang. Nor has there been anything like what there should be in the way of enforcing ordinances designed to reduce noise in the operation of machinery, street railways, automobiles, etc.

It may, indeed, be that the inefficiency complained of is a psychophysiological consequence of the wear and tear of noise on the nervous system. In which case it would indeed be impossible for workers to gain a maximum of efficiency until ways and means are found—as they can be found—for reducing the noisiness of life.

I would urge all employers to give same consideration to this, as I would urge all those sincerely concerned because of the social unrest, the nervousness, the morbidity from organic degenerative diseases, so lamentably in evidence today. Noise—noise that is largely preventable—may have more to do with all these evils than at first thought would seem possible.

The Daily Story

JENNY'S AFTERNOON OUT

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner.)

Helen Louise was so cross that Sybil, her mother, couldn't do a thing with her. The only thing that would keep her from crying was to trundle her back and forth in her gocart. It was too cold and windy to take her out and, besides, Sybil could not leave the house. She always had to stay in on Friday afternoon; that was Jenny's afternoon out. As a curious coincidence, and one that seemed never to be lacking, Helen Louise was cross on Friday afternoons.

As Sybil dragged the gocart back and forth across the living-room rug, she could hear Jenny stepping about upstairs. Jenny was getting ready to go out. She went out every Friday afternoon. Sybil didn't know where, she never had asked, and Jenny never told her. But it was enough for Sybil to know that every Friday afternoon from 2 until 6 Jenny had absolute freedom to spend time as she pleased.

"And I would give anything just to have two hours of undisturbed quiet in which to play over some of my music or paint a little," Sybil thought. "I'm forgetting all I ever knew about water colors and the piano. I'm busy from morning to night; even when Helen Louise is not cross and William is content to play out of doors and it isn't Jenny's afternoon out."

She frowned into the blue eyes of her daughter. Helen Louise stared in astonishment at the clouded face, which she expected ever to find smiling, and she twisted her small mouth into a vociferous vocal effort. At the third shriek William came galloping in.

William was a great boy of three and a half with chestnut hair, eyes to match and red cheeks. He was done up in brown wool from top to toe and looked like a little round cinnamon bear. "What makes sister cry?" he demanded of the mother.

"She's cross," answered Sybil. "Run away and play, William. Maybe I can get her to sleep."

William bent over the gocart, wherefore Helen Louise, resentful, struck him in the face. It was an ugly little incident, and Sybil, surprised at her daughter's misdemeanor, could only gasp.

At that instant the door opened and Jenny entered. Jenny was several years older than Sybil, a neat, plain girl, with a certain dapper little way of wearing her blue serge suit and black velvet hat. She paused just inside the room and looked at Sybil. "I've just been thinking," she said, "that maybe you'd like to go somewhere or do something this afternoon. If you'll change off with me I'll look after the children."

"Why Jenny!" Sybil said. She could not understand such a sacrifice of a precious commodity as one's afternoon out.

"The truth is," went on Jenny, "that after I'm all dressed I've changed my mind. I don't want to go out. I'd rather stay with the children." She came forward and picked up Helen Louise, who instantly stopped crying and began to coo. "You go and do anything you want to," she bade Sybil.

"Why, I don't know what to say," Sybil said. "Of course, if you'd really rather stay in——"

"Oh, I would much rather!"

"Well, then," Sybil's spirits soared. "I could use the time, Jenny. I—I believe I would practice, or no, I would paint. Oh, dear me!" she laughed shakily. "You see, I want to do so much I don't know what to choose."

"I'd do both if I were you," Jenny decided. "If you've got four good hours."

"Oh, Jenny, you're ever so dear!"

Jenny carried Helen Louise upstairs. When she came down she had changed back into her house dress. From that time until dinner Sybil did not see her again.

Sybil spent a wonderful afternoon with her music and paints. She did a whole picture which had been on her mind for some time, and ran through a package of music which her sister had sent her. Somehow the time seemed different with Jenny staying in. But thoughts of Jenny intruded. Sybil did not know Jenny very well. She had only come into the family six weeks before. But she had been brisk, punctual and obligating, a good cook and a neat housekeeper. Further than that Sybil had not inquired; Jenny was her first maid; she had not hired until she felt that she must have help and could afford it. She had an idea that one should not be too intimate with one's maid—a certain distance should be maintained for the satisfaction of both employer and employed.

At 6 Sybil finished her refreshing afternoon. She bathed, slipped into a pretty dress and made ready to greet her husband. She had expected to have to tidy up the children and help with the dinner, but she found that Jenny had done all that.

"Well," Kendall said when he came, "how have you been getting along this afternoon with your handmaiden out?"

"She didn't go out," Sybil replied. "She stayed in. I was the one who had the afternoon out. That is, I painted and played while she minded the domestic machinery."

That evening Kendall went to a business meeting through a pouring rain. It was impossible to expect any one to come in, so after the children were asleep Sybil, feeling lonely and in need of society, suddenly decided to use the nearest means of companionship. She sought Jenny in the kitchen. She sought Jenny in the rings. "You better come into the living room, Jenny," she said. "There's a better light."

Jenny obeyed. She seated herself, but did not resume her work. Nervously Sybil picked up a bit of embroidery. "Go on with your darning, Jenny," she requested.

Jenny took up the stocking. They worked a few minutes in silence, Sybil was wondering what she should say next when Jenny began of her own accord.

"Maybe you didn't understand why I didn't want my afternoon out," she said. Sybil nodded. "Well, it was because I didn't know where to go."

"Why," Sybil asked, "where did you go all those afternoons you had off?"

"Well," sighed Jenny, "once I went to the movies, but, say is there anything lonesomer than a show when you have to see it alone? The other four afternoons I sat in the park. It was too cold to do that today. So, I didn't know what to do."

"But, Jenny—why—I don't understand why you went out if you didn't have a place to go to."

Jenny flushed. "It's customary to ask for an afternoon off, and I was too proud or too simple, to let you know I didn't have any use for it," she replied.

"But how did you manage at the other places where you worked?"

"This is the first time I've ever worked. I had to do something to keep myself from thinking. I thought of a factory, but tI decided I had more knack for housework. You see, I'd kept house so long for my brother. He died in June." She paused. "I expected before that to go from his home into one of my own, but John and I had a disagreement. He went away. I suppose I'll never be married now." Her lips quivered.

Sybil threw aside her work. She leaned forward and grasped Jenny's hand. There was no longer any distance between them. They were just two women with hearts, for the moment, beating alike.

Watching the Parade

There is no question in my mind that Tommy Rice is a peril to society. If I were one of the old fashioned sort of czars—the sort that seems to have gone permanently out of style—I wouldn't pause a moment in getting rid of Tommy. I'd shoot him toward Siberia on a dogsled wearing an Oregon boot. The world will be better off if Tommy is neither seen nor heard.

"This country," says Tommy, "is being ruined by the nuisance of feminity. The women have todern much to say about things. In a little while we'll all be wearing ruffles and speaking in low, tenor tones."

It's no use telling Tommy that not even the ladies, bless their hearts, wear ruffles nowadays. He's prejudiced. He says that the country is filled with magazines and the magazines are filled with fiction, and most of the fiction is written by women. And he says that the only thing a women ever thinks about—ever really thinks about—is love.

"She may talk about other things," says this brutal cynic, "but what she thinks about is love. So that the growing generation is being softened and unfitted by a lot of snappy and sloppy stories which are entirely made upon a foundation of how He got Her, or how She pinned Him down. If a story gets by the alert editor without a love interest and a slavering clinch at the end the incident sends a thrill of alarm through our large population of she-writers. They call on the offending editor and holler like all time."

Tommy says the only salvation of the growing generation lies in the fact that newspapers are still being printed, and they deal very largely with life in the more or less raw. A newspaper story of a wooing is apt to have a brace of clubs mixed up in it. The only fiction worth while, says Tommy Rice, is the detective form, which is rarely written by women.

"I'm in earnest about this," says Tommy. "Getting married is not the chief end of man. It's supporting the wife after she catches you that is the real big story."

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

Following Instructions.

Going into his stable one day, he found his little son, with a slate and pencil in his hand, astride one of the horses. "Why, Harry," he exclaimed, "what are you doing?"

"Writing a composition," was the reply.

"Well, why don't you write it in the house?" asked the father.

"Because," answered the little fellow, "the master told me to write a composition on a horse."—Boston Transcript.

Some Chest-Nuts

The story of the jobber, with a high-pitched voice to whom the broker said after a tiff, "I am no longer on speaking terms with you," fits in with the story of a chief clerk who had a row with his employer one afternoon.

Next day when the clerk got to the office he was surprised to find that the head of the firm was not feeling well and would not be at the office that day. "Oh, dear me," said the clerk, "I hope it's nothing trivial."

"I want a shave," said the determined-looking man as he climbed into the barber's chair. "I don't want a hair cut nor a shampoo. Neither do I want any bay rum, witch hazel, hair tonic, hot towels or face massage. I don't want the manicure lady to hold my hand nor the bootblack to fondle my feet. I just want a plain shave with no trimming. Do you understand that?"

"Yes, sir," said the barber. "Will you have some lather on your face, sir?"

The pastor was interrogating the pride of the family. "And do you always say your prayers before you go to bed?" "Yes, sir," replied Johnnie. "And what are the things that you pray for?" pursued the good man. "Well," responded Johnnie thoughtfully, "mostly that papa won't find out what I've been doin' during the day."

It was a lesson on punctuation, and Jimmy was falling asleep at his desk. "Now," said the teacher, "if I say, 'I must leave, as I have an engagement—— By the way, what is the time?' I place a 'dash' after 'engagement,' because the sentence is broken off abruptly."

At that moment she caught sight of the dozing boy.

"Now then, Jimmy, you are not listening. What was I saying?" she asked him.

"Please, Miss Smith," said Jimmy, with a start, "you were telling me you said 'dash' because your engagement was broken off abruptly!"

The energetic vicar of a poor parish in which a new district church was to be built was discussing the plans for the new building with the architect.

While insisting on size, beauty and dignity, he added the reminder that the congregation was a poor one, and that the estimate must not exceed the very modest total which he named.

"Oh, come now," remonstrated the architect genially, "why not say $5 more, and have a tower and a spire, and a peal of bells while you are about it?"

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—There was a little more activity reported in the local raw sugar market, but no change in quotations which ranged from 4.06 to 4.11 for centrifugal.

The sales amounted to 56,000 bags ofg Cubas to local refiners by the committee of November shipment at 2 1-2 cents, cost and freight, equal to 4.11 for centrifugal.

The raw sugar futures market was steady early in the day, but after showing advance of 1 point on some of the active months on covering, offerings increased and prices sold off, closing unchanged to 3 points net lower.

Trade interests and commission houses were the principal sellers and while business was of fair proportions, considerable of it was in the form of switching from near to the distant positions. December sold at 2.40; March 2.26; May 2.35; July 2.45.

There were no changes in refined sugar with fine granulated listed at 5.20 to 5.30 with a moderate inquiry reported and refiners catching up on old orders.

There were no transactions in refined futures and closing prices were unchanged with December at 5.40 and later months at 5.30.

COFFEE.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—There were further reactions in coffee futures today. Demand for December contracts appeared to have subsided and a disposition to take profits on long contracts in later deliveries during today's trading was probably increased by easier ruling of Brazil. The opening was 5 to 24 points lower. The market sold about 18 to 30 points below last night's close during the afternoon with December at 8.47 and March at 8.10.

December closed a few points up from the lowest with the general list closing at a net decline of 10 to 30 points. Sales were estimated at about 90,000 bags. December 8.35; January 8.40; March 8.10; May 8.00; July 8.05 and September 7.95.

Spot cotton was reported very teady at 8 1-4 for Rio 7's and 11 3-4 to 12 1-2 for Santos 4's.

A crowd of 1,000,000 persons standing in comfort would cover seventy acres.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Trading in bonds again overshadowed dealings in all other securities on the stock exchange today. Various domestic and foreign issues floted during the war registered highest prices for a year or more.

Liberty bonds and victory notes continued to move forward under the impetus given the investment demand by nation-wide indications of easier credit conditions. Most of the liberty series at their new higher record showed extreme gains of 10 to 100 points. Victory 3 3-4's were at their maximum for the year and victory 4 3-4's duplicated yesterday's record quotation at par.

Among the foreign bonds—many of which sluffered acute depression, while the war was in an uncertain stage—today's strength was most marked in French government eights and Belgian government's 7 1-2's these gaining 1 3-4 to 3 points respectively.

Railroad bonds were only moderate better, reflecting the uncertain tone of the stock market. Total sales par value, were $22,275,000.

Dealings in stocks were altogether governed by technical conditions. Issues in which the short interests was believed to be dominant moved hesitatingly, but became heavy in the final hour, when call money rose from 5 to 5 1-2 per cent. Sales amounted to 575,000 shares.

The foreign exchanges were featured by another slump in German marks to .43 cents and weakness in Greek and Central European remit tances.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, Nov. 4.—Canners sold to a broad demand on a good steady basis here today, but on everything else the market was a drag and where there was any change in prices, it was toward lower levels. Calves of good quality sold mostly to outside buyers on an unchanged basis, but packers bought common and medium calves at a decline of 25 to 50c. Steers had to be peddled and fat cows were weaker. Receipts amounted to 1,600 head of cattle and 1,800 calves.

Just a few hogs were here and prices were called five cents higher. One car went to an order buyer at $7.85 and packers paid $7.75. Bulk sales ranged from $7.50 to $7.75. Pigs sold steady to strong at $7.75 to $7.80. Hog receipts amounted to only 500 head.

Stockers made up the entire offering in the sheep house, receipts reaching 150 head. One sale was made at $3.50 and another at $3.00. Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves $3.00@6.00; stockers $3.00@4.50; cows $2.25@4.00; canners $2.00@2.25; heifers $3.00@5.75; yearlings $3.50@6.00; bulls $1.50@3.00; calves $2.00@6.50.

Hogs—Light $7.75@7.85; medium $7.50@7.75; mixed $7.00@7.50; common $6.00@7.00; heavy $7.50@7.65; rough $6.00@7.00; pigs $7.50@7.75; stags $5.00@5.50.

Sheep—Lambs $7.00@7.75; yearlings $5.00@5.50; wethers $4.50@4.75; ewes $3.25@3.75; culls $1.00@2.00; stocker sheep $2.50@3.50; stocker lambs $4.00@6.00.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 4.—Cattle 1,200; steady; Texas steers $5.00@6.20; cows $3.50@4.25; heifers $4.00@6.00; canners and cutters $2.50@3.50; Texas bulls $2.90@3.35; best vealers $10.00; stockers and feeders $4.00@5.50; heavy calves weak to 50c lower; common Texas $4.50; medium to good stock calves $5.35@6.25.

Hogs 1,500; closing active, strong to 5c higher; bulk of sales $6.90@7.50; packer top $7.55; bulk sows $6.25@6.50; pigs $7.75@8.00.

Sheep 4,000; slow; most stock lambs around $4.00; best western lambs offered $8.65; natives $8.25; feeding lambs $7.75.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—An early decline under reports of heavier private ginning returns than expected was followed by sharp rallies in the cotton market today owing to continued large spinners takings as reflected in week end figures. After selling up from 17.98 to 18.46 for January, however, the market showed renewed hesitation, closing barely steady net one point higher to 6 points lower, with Jnauary quoted at 18.22.

The marketd opened easy at a decline of 12 to 24 points with active months selling about 20 to 29 points new lower during mid-morning under liquidation, local, western and southern selling. There was also some selling here for Liverpool account, presumably influenced by reports that private returns pointed to a ginning of 6,560,000 bales to November first and an indicated crop of 7,560,000, or about a million bales more than the official forecast based on end-September condition figures. This decline carried December contracts off to 18.15 and March to 17.97, making a reaction of about $3.50 per bale from the high price of Wednesday.

The decline was then checked by covering for over the week end and buying became more active during mid-afternoon on talk of bullish weekly statistics and reports of an improved spot demand. For a time the market showed considerable strength, selling up to 18.67 for December and 18.22 for March, or nearly half a cent from the low level of the morning and 12 to 24 points net higher. The relative firmness of December following earlier week liquidation was an encouraging feature, but the market failed to broaden much and sold back below last night's closing at the close under realizing.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Extremely large mill takings were in conflict with bearish ginning estimates in the cotton market today and from net declines in early trading of 25 to 33 points there was an advance to net gains of 12 to 18 points in the early afternoon, but in late trading the market softened under hedge selling and liquidation and fell back to small net declines, the closing being at losses compared with yesterday's close of six to 13 points.

Estimates of ginning from a private bureau were circulated before opening and were the cause of the early weakness. Some traders got the report as showing 6,500,000 bales ginned to November 1, along with a crop estimate of 7,560,000, while others got the ginning at 6,550,000 and crop at 7,550,000. The ginning estimate was considered bearish because it indicated more cotton ginned than the government estimates has shown, the last indicated crop figures being 6,537,000 bales.

Short covering checked the initial decline but the advance of the middle part of the session was mainly due to Hester's figures of 401,000 bales as the world takings of the week of American cotton against 280,000 this week last year and 327,000 this week two years ago. These takings were much larger than expected, even by those who were looking for large takings, and they brought the total for the last four weeks up to 1,425,000 bales and the total thus far this season up to 3,663,000 bales against 2,274,000 to the same date last year and 2,676,000 to the same date two years ago.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Percales for spring delivery today were priced on a basis of 13 1-2 cents for 4-4, 64x60's, light deliveries to continue until February 1. This was an advance of 1 3-4 cents a yard over last April's price. Cotton goods held generally steady. Yarns were barely steady, wool markets grew stronger, silks quiet and burlaps slightly firmer.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 4.—Cotton spot quiet; prices easier. Good middling 12.01; fully middling 12.51; middling 12.11; low middling 10.81; good ordinary 9.11; ordinary 8.36. Sales 5,000 bales, including 3,700 American.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Cottonseed oil advanced 11 to 14 points through covering by timid shorts on better showing in lard and grains and light offerings of crude. Locals sold on the advance and at the close net gains were only 2 to 6 points. Sales 8900 barrels. Prime crude 710 sales; prime summer yellow spot 8.35@8.75; December 8.90; March 8.96; May 9.15, all bid.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Upturns in wheat prices took place today, helped by victory bonds at par and predictions of frost in Argentina. Closing quotations, although unsettled, were 1 3-4 to 2 1-8c net higher with December 1.01 to 1.01 1-8 and May 1.06 to 1.06 1-8. Corn gained 3-4c to 1 1-2c and oats 1-2@5-8 to 3-4c. Provisions finished unchanged to 20 cents higher.

At first the wheat market showed a downward tendency but rallied later. Dispatches saying the Argentine wheat crop was at a critical stage and that frost was looked for tonight was a bullish factor.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat. Provisions reflected firmness of hog values.

German Marks Drop to New Low Quotation

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—German marks today suffered the severest slump they have yet experienced in the London exchange market, being quoted during the noon hour at 950 to the pound sterling after opening at 875.

The market was at a loss to account for the depreciation beyond the influences already known to be at work and the fact that selling orders were heavy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—German marks, which have been declining steadily here, dropped to a new low record today, selling at .43 cent. This was a drop of two points from yesterday's low. Weakness of German exchange in London accounted for the latest drop here.

BOLO PASHA STILL IN DIRECTORY BUT "DOES NOT ANSWER"

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Paris never takes anything short of a World war with absolute seriousness, and even the epochal appearance of a new telephone directory has given the wags of the French capitol a cue to poke a little fun at the keepers of telephone archives.

The French learned many things from their American associates during the war, but efficiency in compiling telephone directories was apparently not one of them. A veritable army of one-time subscribers, no longer available by telephone, appears in the "revised" edition which has just been distributed.

Some of the "subscribers" are not only beyond reach of the Paris central operators, but cannot be located by any other known means of communication, with the possible exception of the faithful ouija board.

Paris funmakers have been calling up the number which corresponds to the listing "Bolo Pasha, Rue de Phalsbourg." Bolo, it will be remembered, was executed as a traitor on April 17, 1918.

After the usual ten-minute interval required to get a telephone connection in Paris, or to find out why it cannot be obtained, request for this number brings a response to the truthfulness of which the calling subscriber is never disposed to doubt.

"He doesn't answer," the operator solemnly reports.

RICH AND HOMELY HUSBAND IS SOUGHT BY UGLIEST WOMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Miss Millie Long, who boasts that she is the world's ugliest woman, arrived in Philadelphia the other day from Buffalo. She wants a husband. And she wants him ugly.

"I have had thirty-one proposals of marriage," she said. "But when I tie up it is going to be with an ugly man who has money. All the good looking men who have asked me to marry them were after my cash and the farm I own near Buffalo. What chance would I have with a handsome husband?"

Beauty is merely a matter of line, in the opinion of Miss Long. Ugliness is her line. She flaunts her gift, which she says is God-given. Seven feet two inches in height, she weighs ninety pounds. She fell out of a crib when she was 4 years old and broke her nose. Her "professional" costume consists of black tights.

"As it pays me to be ugly, I accept ugliness as a gift," said Miss Long. "I believe that if you can't be beautiful it is better to be frankly ugly. Most women will not agree with me. They try to make up for what nature did not do for them by using all sorts of paints and powders.

"All the paint in the world couldn't help me, so I have never been tempted to use any. And I never have to worry about getting my beauty sleep."

FORT WORTH MAYOR PRAISES WICHITA FALLS

The completion of the irrigation system putting thousands of acres of land in the Wichita river valley under cultivation, will assure the place of Wichita Falls as one of the great cities of the state, Mayor E. R. Cockrell, of Fort Worth, told members of the Lions club at their weekly luncheon Friday at the Kemp hotel.

Mayor Cockrell's talk was greatly enjoyed by the hearers for the optimistic and glowing terms with which he pictured the future possibilities of this city. Among the subjects treated in his talk were the problems of the American city, with special reference to the tax rate.

"Wichita Falls was destined to be a city, by virtue of its location as a cattle and a farming center long before oil was discovered," Mayor Cockrell declared. He voiced the belief that in the future this city would not depend chiefly upon the oil resources for its growth, but would return to the original background.

Taking up the tax question, as applied to the American city, the speaker said the tax dollar, judicially expended, brings more results in the modern city than in any other place. The city building spirit which leads the people to build for the good of the whole was commended by Mayor Cockrell.

The speaker was introduced by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, an old friend of the Fort Worth mayor. President S. A. L. Morgan acted as chairman of the program.

The club voted to send a message of cheer to Abe Marcus, member of the local club, who was recently injured seriously in Fort Worth and who now is in a hospital there.

BAPTISTS TO HAVE VARIED PROGRAM

A full and varied program is planned for Sunday at the First Baptist church, according to announcements by the pastor.

Sunday is announced as Dollar Day for the Sunday School classes, the day when the school is to make its initial payment on the $2,500 building fund pledged by the entire membership. Short talks by members of the Junior classes, telling how they earned the dollar which they gave toward the fund for building the church, is expected to be one of the features of this service.

A talk by M. H. Wolfe of Dallas, business man and well known lay lecturer, is announced as the feature of the evening service.

Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor, will deliver a sermon at regular hour Sunday morning and several special musical numbers are announced as further features of the services.

Clarence Eddy, announced as one of the world's greatest organists, is scheduled to render a pipe organ recital at the church next Thursday evening.

Advance Resorvations for Council Luncheon Reported Very Heavy

Advance reservations indicate a large attendance at the noonday lunch at the Kemp hotel today to which the entire membership of Chamber of Commerce is invited, according to Hubert Harrison, general manager and vice-president. The luncheon will start promptly at 12:15 p. m., and those who expect to attend are requested to make reservations at the Chamber of Commerce offices this morning.

Two minute speeches by several members on "How Can the Chamber of Commerce Best Serve the Interests of Wichita Falls at This Time," will feature the program of the luncheon. Two prizes given by local merchants are to be awarded the two best talks.

Although the luncheon is sponsored by the Business Council of the Chamber of Commerce, its entire membership is urged to attend.

Thieves Get Auto Wheel And One Car

The theft of a wire wheel and casing and the theft of a five-passenger automobile were the only robberies made in the city during Thursday night, according to police reports of Friday.

The wire wheel was reported stolen from Frank Erzell, and the automobile from G. W. Cooper, 625 American National bank building.

The reported theft of approximately $300 from the Dixon Motor Co. was brought to an end Friday morning when the money was found hidden from view by a box in the office safe, according to the report of City Detective Bob Hembree, who was called to investigate the case.

C. E. GANT DIES EARLY SATURDAY

Succumbing after a three day illness with blood poisoning, C. E. Gant, 30 years of age, died Friday morning at 3:30 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. S. Gant, 1011 Elizabeth street.

The deceased came in Tuesday from his farm on Lake Creek in order to be nearer to physicians. He is survived by his wife and three children, who were at the bedside during the illness and death. Three sisters, Mrs. J. D. Meredith, Mrs. D. L. Bates and Mrs. W. P. Stokes and three brothers, J. T., G. N., and W. D. Gant and the parents also survive.

Leaving the home of the parents at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning the funeral procession will move to the Lake Creek church where services will be conducted by the Rev. J. W. Reed of Bowie. Burial will be in the Lake Creek cemetery.

Locomotives and cars have been built for the French railroad in the Sahara that are specially designed to withstand the force and cutting effect of sandstorms.
