Moves To Meet Berlin Crisis Studied By Security Council

Board To Study School Policies At Meet Tonight

The Pampa Independent School Board will meet in special session at 7:30 p.m. today in Pampa Junior High School to study the draft of a proposed policy bulletin for Pampa schools.

Warren Fatheree, board president, said tonight's meeting will be for the purpose of beginning a study of school policies as drawn up by Supt. Knox Kinard and Asst. Supt. J. L. Edmondson.

Kinard and Edmondson prepared the draft, Fatheree said, at the request of the school board.

The study to be started by board members tonight, Fatheree said, will be to familiarize them with it and to accept, reject or add portions as the board deems advisable.

Fatheree said the Pampa school system never has had a set policy to outline duties and procedures and it was about a year ago that the board decided a policy bulletin for all school personnel would be of value to the school system.

"No doubt it will take a lot of studying and revamping before the finished policy is adopted by the board," Fatheree said.

The school board president said when the final draft is agreed on it will be made available to the public.

Superintendent Kinard will attend his last school board meeting tonight before going into retirement Saturday. Kinard will be succeeded in his post by Asst. Supt. Edmondson.

Highway Measure Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Kennedy signed the highways bill into law today.

Approved by Congress three days ago, the legislation is designed to keep the interstate highway system on a pay-as-you-go basis until its scheduled completion in 1972.

The bill raises the taxes on the truckers and tires and cancels a scheduled cut in gasoline taxes, so that the highway plan can be financed.

Two Men Killed As Autos Crash

SEMINOLE, Tex. (UPI)—Two men were killed and two other persons were injured in a two-car smashup Wednesday night east of Seminole.

The dead were Harold Ray Stinnett, 21, of Hobbs, N.M. and Holger Glasner, 43, of Tucson, Ariz.

Injured were James Harrison Johnson, 26, and Bob Glasner, 13, both of Hobbs.

Fair And Warm Weather Slated

Pampa and vicinity can expect generally fair skies and warm temperatures today and tomorrow the weatherman said today.

Little change in temperatures is forecast for Friday with a low tonight of 67 and a high of 95 Friday.

Housing Bill Now Before President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is expected to sign into law quickly a $5.6 billion catch - all housing bill carrying funds to clear slums, ease home buying and build college dormitories.

World's First Nuclear Satellite Fired By U.S.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States today orbited the first satellite powered by a nuclear battery in an historic "three-for-one" rocket shot that heralded a new era in the conquest of space.

The new moonlet, a 16-sided package named Transit IV-A, beeped out signals to test an all-weather, system for global navigation. Two of its four radio "voices" received electric power from a grapefruit-sized generator using a radioactive isotope as fuel.

Near Transit IV-A, two other artificial satellites, Greb III and Injun, whirled around earth to collect radiation information that will be useful in plotting trips into space by man himself.

A single thunderous stroke by a two-stage Thor-Able-Star rocket fired at 10:23 a.m. CST swept the three satellites and an empty upper stage—1,622 pounds of equipment stamped "made in U.S.A." —into a generally circular orbit estimated at 600 miles above earth.

The launching marked two steps into the future for the U.S. space program:

—Marriage of the power of the atom to orbiting spacecraft. Nuclear generators are lightweight and long-lived, and will be used to provide electricity for communications, navigation and military satellites that will have to remain in operation for years.

—Proof that multiple satellites can be launched successfully with a single rocket. For full-scale "space station" networks such as those for communications purposes, the initial cost will be lessened by the use of one booster to orbit several satellites in one crack.

There have been no indications that Russia has attempted either a multiple satellite launching or the use of nuclear power for electricity in payloads.

The launching went smoothly. About 2½ hours after the 80-foot snub-nosed rocket blasted into the sky, the Defense Department announced the satellites had gone into orbit.

Further information was withheld until data from tracking stations around the world could be analyzed.

However, sources said all three satellites were beaming signals back to earth during the early hours, and that the nuclear package "appeared to be working dandy."

Big Insect Horde Hits Three States

By United Press International

The worst invasion of grasshoppers since the 1930s in three northern farm states today stripped fields bare, defied control and brought warnings of "near crop failure."

The grey and green insects, thriving on recent drought conditions, have attacked nearly all of Montana's 56 counties and hundreds of thousands of acres in North Dakota and South Dakota.

"They look like popcorn flying up from under your feet," a North Dakota sheriff said. "It's the worst grasshopper outlook since 1934."

The three states have appealed to the Agriculture Department for disaster area aid. Together with drought losses, costs of the grasshoppers' ravages will run into millions of dollars.

"The state of Montana has no funds to assist the farmers in thir area in combatting the infestation," acting Gov. Tim Babcock wired Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman. He said an eastern county had the pests at "15 to 20 per square foot."

Chemical sprays slow the invaders, but do not stop them. Control agents must be weak enough to permit livestock grazing after spraying and even then meat must be withheld from market for preliminary tests.

Meanwhile fields are chewed bare when a horde hits. "They even strip cedar posts when they get bad," Sheriff Ed Cornell of Medora, N.H., said.

"The ranchers are all riled up. They've been talking about not much else besides spraying for the past week."

Cornell said cattlemen put their hopes in controlling the grasshoppers before they reach maturity in four to six weks. The insects average five per square foot in Billings and Golden Valley counties and "they're thicker than fleas," he said.

In South Dakota, Mrs. Harry Kickelson of McIntosh, wife of the Corson County sheriff, said grasshoppers were less damaging than drought but "they're pretty bad."

Cattlemen are selling early due to parched and brown grassland, but the grasshoppers were nowhere near as bad as in the '30s." Most of them have settled in soil banks, Mrs. Kickelson said, and "I'm sure our crops were far enough along so that the grasshoppers couldn't do too much damage."

'Bad' Liver Believed One Cause Of Cancer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The "ultimate single cause of cancer" may prove to be a deficiency of an anti-cancer substance produced by the liver, the annual meeting of the American Medical Association was told today.

This was the report of one team of cancer investigators. Another team reported it was possible for tiny amounts of cancer-causing chemicals to ride piggy-back on common human viruses into the interior of body cells, thus giving cancers their start.

A deficiency in the liver-producing anti-cancer substance could be either hereditary or acquired, said the investigators, Drs. Peter A. Herbut, Theodore T. Tsaltas and William H. Kraemer of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

They were believed to be the first to turn up evidence that such a substance is elaborated by the normal human liver. Their work began with the established fact that guinea pig blood contains a powerful substance which protects them from a number of transplanted experimental cancers.

They traced this unidentified substance to its origin in the guinea pig liver. Next they made extracts of normal human liver, as well as of the livers of the hog, rabbit, horse, cow, sheep and lamb, and found that all extracts markedly inhibited the growth of two kinds of cancer in mice.

Then they took blood from non-cancerous human beings and these also inhibited cancer growth. But bile taken from cancer patients did not. Bile is a liver product, discharged into the intestine.

Equally fascinating was piggyback transport of cancer-causing chemicals by viruses.

Body cells are hard to get into by just about anything except viruses. Viruses penetrate them with ease—just about any virus, including those responsible for wide-spread respiratory diseases including the common cold.

This idea was advanced by an investigative team headed by Drs. Christopher M. Martin and Sigmundur Magnusson of Seton Hall College of Medicine, Jersey City, N. J.

Military And Economic Actions Are Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prsident Kennedy called in the National Security Council today to consider possible military and economic steps to meet the increased Soviet threat to Berlin.

The White House meeting at 2:30 p.m. CST. following administration warnings that the American public must prepare for the possibility of stern measures to meet a situation which could trigger a third world war.

No early decision on specific moves was expected. Kennedy and his advisers first must consider a wide range of potential steps to counter any conceivable Communist military move or pressure play against the Red encircled Allied forces in West Berlin.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson is in charge of pulling together recommendations from the various presidential military and diplomatic advisers. Kennedy faces a two-fold task in the coming weeks:

—To convince Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, by both words and actions, that the Western Allies are unshakeable in their determination to stay in Berlin, will defend their position by military might and cannot be split by Soviet pressure tactics.

—To awaken the American public to the grave peril involved in the new East-West clash in Europe and to the possible necessity of distasteful homefront measures to prepare for any eventuality.

Kennedy emphasized at his news conference Wednesday that he had come to no final conclusions.

But officials said home-front suggestions being advanced included the calling up of some National Guard reserve units, increasing the draft, stepping up civil defense preparations and canvassing measures to bolster the economy.

U.S. officials said they saw no softening of Khrushchev's position in his announcement Wednesday that his threatened peace treaty with East Germany would guarantee access to West Berlin.

They pointed out that Khrushchev still insists that the Allies would have to deal with East Germany, which the West has refused to do.

Meantime congressional atomic experts wo have been urging resumption of U.S. weapons tests today hailed President Kennedy's announcement that a scientific panel would check on whether Russia has conducted secret tests.

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who heads its weapons subcommittee, praised the President's action.

Kennedy, in announcing the new study Wednesday at his news conference, declared that he had no evidence of clandestine Soviet tests. He said a panel of eminent scientists would take a close look at whether the Russians might be testing and if so, what weapons the Kremlin might be developing.

In separate interviews Jackson and Holifield said they were sure, on the basis of committee testimony, that the scientific panel would conclude that the Russians could conceivably be making secret underground tests but it would be impossible to know for sure.

New Khrushchev Threat Adds To Danger In Asia

GENEVA (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has sounded a veiled threat on Viet Nam that spells fresh dangers from the uneasy peace in southeast Asia.

In Moscow Wednesday, Khrushchev said he was confident that the struggle of the Vietnamese for the reunification of their homland will end in full victory.

This was taken by some observers to mean Khrushchev backed the Communist North Vietnamese regime's plan to "reunite" the divided nation by ousting the Western-backed South Vietnamese government of Ngo Dinh Diem by force.

The Communist North Vietnamese have been playing an important part in the troubles in Laos.

United States officials attending the 14-nation conference recently reported that at least 1,000 Communist North Vietnamese were known to be in action alongside the Red-oriented Pathet Lao rebels.

Arms supplies to the Pathet Lao forces have been coming from North Viet Nam, and continue to be supplied from there.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently spotlighted the grave situation in South Viet Nam. He disclosed that according to recent information Communist agents and guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam have increased from 3,000 to over 12,000 in the past two years.

Social Security Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was expected today to send President Kennedy a bill that could fatten Social Security checks for 3.7 milljon persons by September.

Senate and House conferees agreed on a compromise measure Wednesday. The two chambers were expected to stamp their approval on the bill today and send it to Kennedy. If the President signs it into law by Monday, the increases will become effective in the first week of September. Otherwise they would be delayed until October.

The Social Security bill would give men the same option now allowed women—to retire at age 62 on permanently reduced benefits. This would not add to the program's long-range cost.

The measure would require higher taxes, however, to finance a 10 per cent boost in cash benefits affecting 1.5 million widows and others entitled to survivor benefits; and raise to $40 the present $33 minimum monthly benefit for 2.2 million workers retiring at age 65.

To finance these and some other, less costly, changes in the program, payroll taxes on employes and employers would be raised up to $6 a year.

Other congressional news:

Electoral — The National Association of Manufacturers NAM urged Congress to change the Electrical College system to 'reduce the overwhelming concentration of political power" in the 11 most populous states. The NAM testified before the Senate constitutional amendments subcommittee in favor of requiring election of federal electors by district, rather than on a statewide basis.

GOP—The national Republican Congressional Committee was expected to elect Rep. Bob Wilson, Calif., as chairman succeeding Rep. William E. Miller, N. Y., the new GOP National Committee chairman. Others in the race were Reps. Jack Westland, Wash., and William M. McCulloch, Ohio.

BABY FATALLY SHOCKED

HOUSTON (UPI)—Debre Lynn Wolk, 21 - months old, died Wednesday at Texas Children's Hospital after doctors failed to revive her from an electrical shock. Juvenile officers said she was shocked by an electric fan.

Unions Set To Ignore No-Pay-Boost Advice

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (UPI)—AFL-CIO leaders made it clear today they will demand further pay increases despite calls for wage restraint from top officials of the Kennedy administration.

The executive council of the 13-million-member labor federation said negotiated wage gains did not threaten the nation with rising prices or runaway inflation.

In a statement adopted Thursday night, the council asserted that union-won pay boosts were required to help reduce heavy unemployment and bring "real recovering" from recession.

Council members rejected wage restraint pleas recently advanced by Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon and White House aide Walter Rostow as unnecessary and groundless.

Instead of worrying about inflation, they said, the administration should be concerned about putting idle plants and jobless men back to work full time.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said the action was taken partly to bolster the bargaining position of the United Auto Workers at the start of negotiations wih General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The council waded into a troublesome inter-union scrap on the final day of its summer meeting.

It prepared to rule on a dispute between the powerful Steelworkers union and the Sheet Metal Workers International Association over bargaining rights at a Carrier Corp. air conditioning equipment plant in Syracuse, N.Y.

This dispute has heightened tension between the industrial unions that formed the old CIO and the building trades that were the backbone of the former AFL.

The sheet metal union sought to represent the workers even though the Steelworkers were on strike against the firm. The steel union said this was the worst kind of "raiding" and banned by the AFL-CIO constitution.

Ship Strike Report Due Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)— Down-to-deadline talks spotlighted intensive negotiating efforts today to find a solution to the nationwide maritime strike before a possible Taft-Hartley injunction is ordered.

The deadline is Friday when the fact-finders appointed by President Kennedy are due to report on the 14-day-old strike. Unless there is a settlement Kennedy is expected to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction that would send the seamen back to work for 80 days, freeing the more than 200 ships that are tied up.

The fact-finders could report progress of a sort — they at least got the unions and shipowners back into negotiations Wednesday and even some concessions by both sides were reported. Talks and caucuses continued into the early hours today, and then were recessed until after a meeting of the fact-finding panel this morning.

So far in its three-day life, the fact finding panel has held only an hour of public hearings. The public session Wednesday lasted only 30 minutes before it was terminated and the fact-finders turned to their extra-curricular role of trying to get negotiations restarted after an 11-day lapse.

The private peace-making role, although not covered in the Taft-Hartley Act under which the panel was set up, paid off when chairman David L. Cole succeeded in getting the largest of the striking unions, the National Maritime Union (NMU), and the largest shipowners' organization, the American Merchant Marine Institute (AMMI), back into negotiations.

A major stumbling block has been insistence by the unions that American-owned ships registered under foreign flags and operated at lower costs than if manned by U.S. crews be brought under their jurisdiction.

Three Are Killed As Autos Collide

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two automobiles collided headon Wednesday south of Ellington AFB, killing three persons.

The dead were identified as William Kimble David, 37, of Kemah, Tex., driver of one car; Miss Mabel Lee Dunlop, 62, driver of the second car, and Mrs. R. May Centerbury, 78, a passenger in the Dunlop car.

Both women were Houston residents.

Officer Victim Of Plane Crash

NAVASOTA, Tex. (UPI)— A light plane exploded and crashed north of Navasota Wednesday, killing Bryan Police Chief Lawrence, L. Martin and Bryan Traffic Sgt. Richard K. McDaniel.

Martin, 53, was a retired Air Force colonel and former commander of Bryan Air Force Base. He had been police chief at Bryan since November, 1959.

Home Economists Headed By Texan

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Mrs. Florence W. Lowe, head of the home economics department of Texas A&M College, was named president of the National Home Economics Association today.

The announcement came at the association's annual meeting in Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. Low will serve as president during the 1961-62 school year.

Recess Called In Sabine River Project Hearing

AUSTIN (UPI) — The State Board of Water Engineers is taking a six-day break in a hearing to determine the feasibility of what may become the state's largest man-made body of water.

It is the proposed Toledo Bend dam and reservoir at the Texas-Louisiana border. Its cost will be shared by the two states.

The board recessed its hearing Tuesday and decided to resume on July 3.

One of the last witnesses to appear before the board said planners of the $54.4 million project have made no firm plans that would divert Sabine River water to areas out of its watershed.

Austin lawyer J. H. Hart requested the postponement to study lengthy documents introduced in two days of hearings on the application by the Sabine River Authority of Texas. Hart represents George Patterson of Joaquin, Tex., a lumberman who says the project is not feasible and will flood valuable timber land.

John Simmons of Orange, general manager of the SRA of Texas, said: "We have heard rumors of intended use of the Sabine River water for needs out of the watershed, but we have made no official recognition of such plans for Toledo Bend. We are willing to discuss problems to which we can offer solutions, but we have made no official contact in that respect."

Five Men Hurt In Plant Fire

ODESSA (UPI) — A compressor engine blew up yesterday at a Cities Service gasoline plant and started a fire that critically burned five men.

The men were directly outside a sheet metal building that shattered and collapsed when the gasoline exploded.

The plant is eight miles southeast of Odessa. It compresses natural gas, boosts it and strips liquid products, such as gasoline, from natural gas.

The injured men are Jack Kapler, 41, O. C. King, 50, Vernon R. Todd about 53, Zuerl King, 38, and Willis B. Taylor. They are being treated at an Odessa hospital.

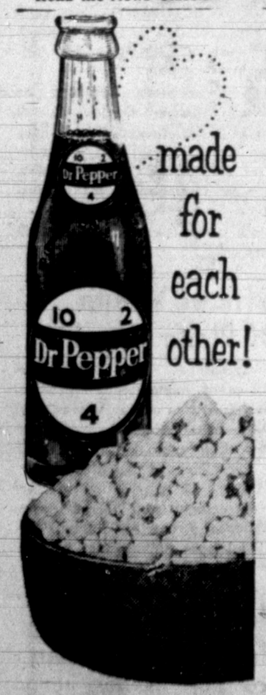

They heard a hissing sound and were walking toward the compression station building when the explosion shot flames over them.

The blast blew part of the ceiling away and the rest of the roof collapsed in a flash fire that followed.

Bob Perry an employe who witnessed the blast, said, "I heard a loud roar, then everything shot up in the air and fell like a cloudburst." He was not injured.

Firemen brought the fire under control about 3 minutes after the explosion.

Salt Water Conversion A Long-Range Program

On June 21st the President of the United States pressed a button in Washington, D.C. that started the flow at Freeport, Texas, of fresh water produced from the sea. It heralded the completion of the first saline water conversion plant in a long - range government program designed to produce the answer to one of man's oldest problems. It is the hope of all of us that effective answers to this problem can be found at an early date. However, we must recognize that the proper attack must be on a long-range basis. If we can find the solutions early, the research and development program can be terminated. On the other hand, if the answers are not forthcoming quickly, we must not run the risk of wasting money on short-range, ineffective programs. Man lives by the theory of elimination. He moves step by step as he probes into the future. He can only discover by repeated attempts to gain the desired results. In other words, "If you don't succeed the first time, try, try again." It was this philosophy that the first flight of the Wright brothers blossomed into the jet airliners of today.

We know that the vast waters in the sea, as well as the brackish waters underlying the earth in many places, can be changed into life-giving fluid that can be utilized not only for human consumption, but for all other domestic and industrial needs of man. The question is, as to how this can be done so that it will be economically feasible. Whether or not this can be done by perfecting present known methods, or whether it will be done by new and unknown methods, is our responsibility. It must be accomplished and it can only be done by proper research and development. It must be done, because this accomplishment during our generation would go down in history as the greatest single step ever taken by mankind to bring about universal peace.

I was honored to be present at the Freeport ceremonies, as the legislation making possible the research and development in this field was handled by a subcommittee of which I am chairman. It was indeed gratifying to see the physical results of what can be produced by a free nation with the government and private enterprise working hand in hand for the betterment of mankind. The ceremonies were most impressive and were attended by the Vice President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, whose long record in suport of this program was written in the Senate; the Honorable Stewart L. Udall, Secretary of the Interior; several United States Senators and several members of the House of Representatives; Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey; and other State officials. Private enterprise was represented by leaders in the industrial and commercial fields of this country.

Let us all hope that this occasion which took place in the State of Texas will constitute the beginning of man's conquest of one of his most dread enemies, "drought."

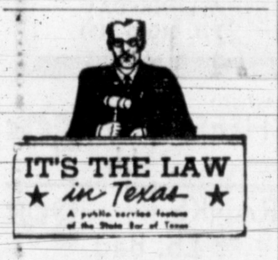

THE BERLIN ISSUE

The Berlin issue could turn out to be the number one issue in this decade. There is no doubt but that Khrushchev so considers it. Some feel that he would rather have the issue than a settlement. This, however, appears to be wishful thinking. The Berlin question has already been pushed by Khrushchev to the point that some settlement is expected by the other countries of the world. Undoubtedly Khrushchev realizes this, because he has as much, or more, at stake than does this country. He also realizes that war is not and cannot be the answer to this dilemma. It can probably be concluded also that he realizes the futility of war as a solution to problems, as compared to the additional problems created. Our position must be firm and he must understand that we will not vacillate. Unless this position is maintained, our position in the eyes of the world and each area could be seriously jeopardized.

In passing, I would make the following observation: although the Germans have been our enemies twice in this century, it is difficult to visualize people of the German stock remaining complacent under a Russian boot heel.

Among them were Miss Joyce Wilson and Herky Killingsworth from Paducah who represented Cottle County.

ROVER'S LAST ROMP

Rover, a Great Dane weighing 135 pounds, was owned by the people down the street. One evening Rover entred Mr. Brown's yard and savagely attacked his 35 pound Cocker Spaniel. It looked as if Rover was about to kill the smaller dog when a quick thinking neighbor frightened the larger dog away by firing a shotgun in the air.

Mr. Brown put his badly injured dog in the car to rush him to the veterinarian's office. He had just left his driveway when he noticed Rover heading toward a small child. Thinking that the dog was about to attack the child, Brown drove his car into Rover, killing him.

Rover had been an expensive dog, and his owner sued Brown for damages for what he claimed was the wrongful killing of his pet.

Did Mr. Brown have the right to kill Rover?

Yes, he did. The court held that a person can kill a dog for the purpose of defending himself or third persons against harm threatened by the animal. Rover's actions led Mr. Brown to know or reasonably believe that he could prevent an attack on the child only by killing the dog.

Brown also could have legallly killed Rover at the time that he was attacking his dog. A land owner has no right to kill a dog which is merely trespassing, or even because it is engaged in a fight with his dog. However, if it reasonably appears that it is necessary to kill another dog to protect your dog from death or serious harm, or to protect yourself, your property or other persons from harm, then you may legally kill the dog.

The law will not permit you to kill a dog simply because you don't like its bark. Remember, a dog is still a man's best fried.

Chandler Death Probe Is Asked

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Screen Actors Guild has been asked in a petition signed by more than 150 members to investigate circumstances of the death of movie star Jeff Chandler.

TV cowboy Clint Walker, star of the "Cheyenne" series, circulated the petition, which was signed by such performers as Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Dorothy Provine and Troy Donahue.

Walker revealed the petition said in part:

"Was the death of Jeff Chandler due to negligence, incompetence, error or mitigating circumstances?

"We feel we are entitled to know and are requesting that an investigation be conducted by the guild to evaluate the facts.

Man Who Saved Kennedy's Life Writes Of Joy

MANDOU, WANA WANA LAGOON, BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS (UPI) — The silver letters on a U.S. dime may now be added to this coconut village's favorite real-life legend — how Nebuchadnezzar Biuku Gasa once saved the life of a young lieutenant who grew up to be President of the United States.

Biuku Gasa, paddling a canoe as an allied scout found Lt. (j.g.) John F. Kennedy and his men on the tiny island of Nusa Olasava in 1943. With another villager, Jone Kare, he guided a U.S. PT boat through the reefs by torchlight to their rescue.

The story of the dime is told by the Rev. E. C. Leadley of New Zealand, a Methodist missionary to this village, and in a letter Biuku Gasa wrote Kennedy in February after learning of his election.

Ledley said he had been told Biuku Gasa had "received a medal from the Americans but he does not show it to people.

"The lieutenant of course thanked him and said that although they might not meet again they would meet in a better land. He produced a dime and showed Biuku the words 'In God We Trust.'"

The letter, translated by Leadley, is dated from this place on Feb. 6, 1961 and says:

"Dear Sir,

"In my reverence and sense of your greatness I write to you. It is not fit that I should write to you but in my joy I send this letter. One of our ministers who was with us long ago, Rev. E. C. Leadley, came and asked me,' Who rescued Mr. Kennedy?' and I replied, 'I did.'

'I did.'

"This is my joy that you are now President of the United States of America. It was not in my strength that I and my friends were able to rescue you in the time of war but in the strength of God we were able to help you. The Name of God be Praised that I am well and in my joy I send this loving letter to you my friend in Christ. It is good, and I say 'Thank You' that your farewell words to me were those printed on the dime, 'IN GOD WE TRUST.'

"God is our Hiding Place and our Saviour in the time of trouble and calm.

"I am your friend,

"Biuku Gasa."

Amarilloan Fined On Check Charge

Bill Redden of Amarillo was fined $5 and cost Wednesday in county court when he pleaded guilty on a charge of swindling with worthless check. Restitution was made on a $20 check given to Mrs. C. C. Woodard, Pampa.

$5 Fine Meted On Check Count

Mrs. Fracens K. Miller, 911 E. Denver was fined $5 and cost yesterday in county court when she pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling with worthless check. Restitution was made on a $13.06 check given to Blake's Country Store.

28 Hospitalized By Chlorine Gas

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Twenty-eight persons remained hospitalized today with after effects of chlorine gas that leaked out of a tank and overcame 103 persons Wednesday at a crowded swimming pool.

There were no deaths, although authorities said a youth who refused medical treatment and ran away had symptoms indicating a "very dangerous stage of chlorine poisoning."

Pampa To Send Delegation To Canadian Rodeo

Pampa will send a delegation to Canadian Monday to participate in the parade which will be one of the outstanding features of Canadian's Rodeo and celebration July 2, 3 and 4.

Jake Osborne, president of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Ass'n., said today he hoped Pampa will have one of the largest visiting delegations at the Canadian event.

Pampans who plan to go to the Canadian Rodeo are urged by Osborne to notify the Rodeo Office in the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, City Hall, and also make plans to be in Canadian in time to form for the pageant which gets under way at 3 p.m. Monday.

Pampa will have a western entry, a comic auto and a group of riders in the parade, Osborne said.

"We hope that every Pampan who can possibly make the trip Monday will join with us in helping to make the Canadian parade a success," Osborne said.

Youngster Hit By Automobile

A two year old Pampa youngster was slightly injured Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile while crossing the street in front of his home.

He is Dee Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cunningham, south of the city.

Witnesses told officers that young Cunningham was returning home from playing at the neighbor's house just across the street, when he stepped out in front of the moving vehicle.

The boy was taken by his father to Highland General Hospital where his condition is reported as good.

Women Workers Needed In East German Plants

BERLIN (UPI) — "Mothers belong in the factory" has replaced the three-K's as the slogan for East German women.

The three-K's — "kinder, kueche, kirche" or "children kitchen and church" — were the old German formula for women's role. slogan, emphasizing "kinder and "kueche."

Now, in Communist East Germany the regime tells housewives that work is a patriotic duty, a joy and a social must.

This propaganda campaign is aimed at recruiting housewives to fill employment gaps produced by the flight of 3.5 million refugees to the West.

Even jealousy is played upon to get them out of the home. Wives are advised to get into the factory to keep an eye on their husbands, who might othrwise be frolicking with female workers.

For women who will not do a full day's work, special four-hour shifts have been established in many factories. The Potsdam cannery, for example, has one shift from 8 p.m. to midnight for mothers and other housewives. Presumably the mothers go to work after they do the dishes and put the children to bed.

Of East Germany's 7.8 million employed, about 3.5 million are women.

In addition, 30,000 women have formed 4000 "housewife brigades" for part time work, often unpaid, in factories, shops and on farms.

Elderly women, described as "grandmothers," have formed brigades to baby - sit for younger women who work.

Husbands have been urged by the Communist-run "German Woman's Federation" to drop their traditional reluctance to help with the housework so that working wives will have an easier time.

Letters from joyful working wives fill the East German press.

Frau Eichmann (not Adolf Eichmann's wife), wrote the newspaper "Maerkische Volksstimme" that "as a housewife felt suppressed by my husband. But since I started to work he respects me and we have peace at home. I thank the factory that I have become a valued person."

Frau Traute, in the "Lajusitzer Rundschau," wrote: "It is a matter of equal rights. Our consittution guarantees women equal rights. That means that a woman has the same right as a man to work."

Howell Rites Set Saturday

Funeral services for Ruben D. Howell will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Harvester - Mary Ellen Church of Christ with Jim Perkins, Church of Christ minister, officiating.

Mr. Howell, who resided at 720 Buckler, died at 7:10 last night in a local hospital following a week's illness.

He was born Jan. 11, 1901 in Kenton, Tenn., and had been a resident in Pampa for 20 years. He had been employed as a clerk for Montgomery Ward for 17 years and was a member of the Harvester-Mary Ellen Church of Christ.

In 1921 in Tennessee, he was married to Irene Allen, who survives.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, Gene of Pampa and Tom of Omaha, Neb.; three brothers, L. D. and Buford, both of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Lester of Spearman; one sister, Mrs. Vesta Worel of Fort Lauderdale and five grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Charles Adkinson, E. G. Frashier, Bill McComas, Cecil Trollinger, Don Propeck and George Flaherty.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Bond was set at $500 for Lee Alton Woodward yesterday in county court when he entered a plea of not guilty on a charge of aggravated assault. The complaint was signed by his wife, Gay.

Collusion Denied In Bus Purchases

DALLAS (UPI)— The former president of the Superior Coach Corp. of Dallas Wednesday denied talking with anyone in advance about his firm's expected share of school bus sales to the state.

Gordon K. Allen who sold his business interest in the firm on June 1, testified at a hearing in county court that he used records of 1958 and 1959 contracts let by the State Board of Control to figure his business estimates.

The board handles school bus bids for Texas school districts.

The hearing stems from a charge by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson that bidders knew beforehand what percentage of the business they would get in state school bus business.

Summertime's Good Time To Invite Neighbors Over For Backyard Party

For many women, a cook-out is second-best only to a night out, because that's when the man of the house takes over as chef.

It's a good time to do crowd-entertaining, too, because your dining room is as big as all outdoors. Many neighborhood gatherings are arranged so that each family provides a course for the meal, simplifying everybody's job and adding to the fun and variety.

Whatever your crowd and menu, your main chore is readying the fire. Light it at least an hour before you plan to cook. Do not put food to grill until you have a bed of coals that looks ash - white in daylight, shimmering glowing red in the dark.

Steaks, hamburgers, hot dogs, chicken, chops, fish and shish kebabs can be cooked over direct coals, of course and if you like to keep your clean-up chores to a minimum, learn the many delicious ways of cooking vegetables on the grill, too.

GRILLED TOMATOES

Cut 4 firm tomatoes in half and set aside. Combine ½ cup finely crushed potato chips, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 tablespoon minced onion, dash cayenne and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Use fingers or pastry blender to mix and crumble together thoroughly. Sprinkle generously over tomato halves or slices and place on grill to cook. Takes 3 to 5 minutes.

MEAT BALL KEBABS

1 cup finely crushed potato chips
1½ pounds ground chuck
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 bacon slices, cut in 1-inch pieces
½ cup canned mushroom caps, drained
2 green peppers, cut in 1- inch squares and par boiled
3 tomatoes, cut in wedges
½ cup butter, melted (garlic flavored if desired)

Combine crushed chips with ground chuck, eggs, cheese, parsley, salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape mixture into 30 balls about 1-inch in diameter. Arrange meat balls, bacon slices, mushrooms, green peppers, and tomatoes alternately on skewers, beginning and ending with meat balls. Fills 10 six-inch skewers. Baste with butter and cook over low coals 10 to 15 minutes, turning and basting every 5 minutes.

SHISH KEBABS are fun for everybody, particularly when you provide the uncooked ingredients, individual skewers and let each person select what he likes best. Have pieces of meat (lamb, pork, or beef) cut in about 2-inch squares (smaller if you prefer), an assortment of vegetables such as small onions, wedges of tomato, cucumber rings, green and red pepper, squash. Alternate vegetables and meat on each skewer and place on the grill over low coals about 15 minutes. When cooked, push off onto bun or plate, season with salt and pepper.

FULL OF TASTEWORTHY FOOD VALUE

Teenagers Meet For Good Food

When a teenager brings the crowd home to dance, be sure you have lots of ice cold soft drinks and lots of golden crisp potato chips to greet them.

And if you want to be elected The Mother We Like Most To Come Home To, here is some delicious goodies to have on hand. You can make 'em. . .and so can any daughters you happen to have handy.

BROWNIES

2-3 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup butter or shortening
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs, well beagen
1 cup suagr
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup crushed potato chips

Sift flour, then measure; add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Melt shortening and chocolate over boiling water. Beat eggs well, then add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly. Add chocolate mixture and vanilla and blend. Add flour and mix well. Add potato chips. Bake in lightly greased 8x8x2 inch pan in moderate 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. While warm, cut in squares. 12 to 16 brownies.

To stretch the life of elastic, keep the material away from hot water, hot irons, synthetic detergents, chlorine bleaches, face creams and all oily preparations.

Before polishing shoes, rub with a cloth moistened with liquid detergent. Proceed with the usual polshing routne after the application of detergent has dried.

Choose Fun Food For July 4th Celebration

The Fourth of July is the day we celebrate our independence from offices, classrooms and household chores. We're free to spend the day how and where we like it. For most of us, "where" is outdoors, and the high point of the day comes when the family gathers around the charcoal grill.

Franks are tailor-made for July Fourth fun, so they'll probably be the leading choice for the meat of the meal. Kids like them because they're fun to eat. Moms like them because they know franks provide high quality meat protein with extra value and extra goodness. Dads like franks because they're fully cooked when purchased so no special talents are needed at grillside. Just a brief heating to insure delicious eating!

Franks identified by those two most famous words in meat come in half pound and pound packages. Buy plenty because they're good as all outdoors, and Fourth of July fun whets appetites.

Hot dogs, packed with meat power, are a treat with nothing more than buns and mustard for adornment. But because this is a special day, you may want to give them special trappings. What could be simpler than lining buns with seasoned baked beans and a slice of cheese before adding the franks. These Frank 'N Beanwiches can be assembled at home and carried to the picnic in foil packets which go atop the grill for heating. Give your feast of franks the perfect patriotic close by serving a bi gcake you've frosted to look like Old Glory.

FRANK 'N BEANWICHES

Yield: 10 sandwiches
1 pound package franks
1 pound can baked beans
1 teaspoon minced onion
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
10 frank buns
10 slices Cheddar cheese

Combine baked beans, minced onion, mustard, salt, pepper, and Worcestershire sauce in a pan. Heat for about 5 minutes.

Spoon some of the bean mixture into each frank bun. Place one slice of cheese on top of beans in each bun. Top each slice of cheese with a frank.

Wrap bun individually in foil. Heat in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) or on a grill for about 10 minutes to heat franks and melt cheese. Serve hot.

CRISPY FRANK SANDWICHES

Yield: 10 sandwiches
1 pound package franks
2 cups shredded lettuce
1 cup shredded carrot
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon celery seed
½ cup dairy soured cream
2 tablespoons blue cheese-in-a-tube
10 frank buns

Combine lettuce, carrot, onion, and celery seed. Blend together sour cream and blue cheese. Combine lettuce mixture and sour cream mixture. Heat franks. Place some of lettuce mixture in each bun. Place a frank on top. Serve immediately.

Summer Supper Pleasant Fare

Two's a party, the saying goes, so there's no need to wait for company to come. Family parties are fun, too. A summer supper on the porch can be pleasant for you,too, even though you're cook and hostess.

(Play a rousing game of Chinese checkers after dessert and let the loser was the dishes!)

CHIP - COATED OVEN FRIED CHICKEN

1-½ cups finely crushed potato chips
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
2 to 3 pound fryer (cut in pieces-
2 eggs slightly beaaten
¼ cup milk
¼ cup butter

Combine crushed potato chips, salt, pepper, paprika. Combine eggs and milk. Dip chicken first in egg and milk mixture, than in chip mixture. Melt butter in baking dish. Add chicken (do not stack) and cook at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until tender.

(People who can't eat fried chicken can eat this delicious version. Serve with fresh fruit salad, green vegetable and beverage.)

VEGETABLE-EGG DISH

Arrange cooked asparagus on bottom of greased baking dish. Cover with coarsely crushed potato chips and deviled eggs, pour cream of mushroom soup over all. Top with more potato chips. Bake in 350 degree oven about 20 minutes or until bubbly hot. Serve with tomato aspic salad and salt bread sticks.

CRUNCHY BEANS

2 No. 2 cans whole green beans
4 to 6 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 to 2 cups crushed potato chips

Drain beans. Combine butter and lemon juice and pour half of it over half of beans in baking dish. Add half of potato chips. Top with remaining beans and rest of butter and chips. Place in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

Cabbage is nutritious and low in calores.

Use leftover material as trim on aprons or napkins.

Barbecue Sauce Enhances Flavor Of Grilled Meat

There are as many barbecue sauces as there are chefs. Each one makes his sauce a specialty, but a good basic recipe is given below. Vary it according to personal preference.

SIMPLE BARBECUE SAUCE

½ cup salad oil
1cup vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chili sauce
4 slices lemon
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Place in saucepan over low heat and keep warm until ready to use. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

Many people like to marinate meats. The barbecue sauce may be used for this, if you like a tart flavor. An easy marinade is made as follows:

½ cup salad oil
½ cup vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons brown sugar

Combine ingredients and mix well. Place in shallow pan and let meat stand in sauce for 2 to 4 hours. Turn occasionally. Before grilling, drain well.

Milk's big four are calcium, protein, vitamin A and rboflavin.

Don't spoil the effect of a full skirt by putting a full jacket over it. Instead try a neat, waistlength jacket.

Criminal Leaders Moving Into Suburbs Of Nation

EDITOR'S NOTE: Organized, syndicate-dominated crime is usually regarded as a plague peculiar to big cities. In recent years, however, there have been indications that bigtime lawbreakers are spreading out into he nation's fast-growing suburbs. The following report examines how far gangland crime has spread beyond the city limits.

By DAVID SMOTHERS

SUBURBIA, U.S.A., still boasts it is safe from organized, big city crime. But the boasts are giving way to anxious second thoughts in some suburbs.

There are worries in the Chicago suburb of Morton Grove, Ill. There, two men who were operating striptease honky tonks along Chicago's "clip row" not so long ago have applied for permission to establish a $3 million hospital.

There are worries in the New York suburb of Mamaroneck, N.Y. There Charles Messina, 22-year-old college student and son of a prominent contractor, was sentenced last week for his role as a salesman in a Westchester County narcotics ring which involved scores of teen-age customers.

There are serious worries in New Orleans, where Metropolitan Crime Commission Chairman Aaron Kohn warns criminal elements, especially gamblers, have taken advantage of "new outlets" in the suburbs and have developed "branch stores" to serve new population centers.

Organized crime — the kind which is often blamed on the shadowy "crime syndicate"—has trademarks of its own. Its specialties are gambling, large scale prostitution and narcotics, all of them operations which needed hard-headed and ruthless organization in the background.

There are other areas of organized crime where the trademakers are not so plain. These are the legitimate and semi-legitimate enterprises favored by well-heeled gangsters as good investments for their criminal profits.

Most suburban centers questioned in a United Press International spot check said they are free of both kinds of bigtime criminal activity.

Such reports came from police in and around Cleveland, Dayton, Washington, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Pittsburgh, Knoxville, Dallas and Milwaukee.

Officials in some of these cities could not always agree, however. In Milwaukee, newly appointed U.S. District Attorney James B. Brennan said organized crime was reaching into southern Wisconsin. He detected a heavy traffic of stolen goods from the Chicago area into Wisconsin.

Near Los Angeles, law enforcement officials have been powerless to do anything about legal draw poker palaces operating in the city of Gardena.

Metropolitan areas where some evidence of organized crime in the suburbs has turned up included Chicago, New York, Boston, Cincinnati, Omaha, Kansas City, and New Orleans.

The leaders of big city crime commissions, such as New Orleans' Kohn and Chicago's Virgil Peterson, were most outspoken about the gangster menace in the suburbs.

They pointed out that a number of big shot racketeers, such as Tony Accardo of Chicago and Carlos Marcello of New Orleans, have already made the suburbs their homes. In some suburbs, gang-controlled criminal establishments are so well settled they're taken for granted. In others, the big city organizers may be beating the suburban police to the punch.

Kohn reported that the most enthusiastic customers of lotteries, once the sport of longshoremen, now are suburban maids, housemen and housewives. Flagrant prostitution has moved into at least one of the better suburbs, Kohn charges, and racketeers are taking advantage of the relative weakness of country sheriffs.

The suburban residents themselves must take part of the blame for allowing the criminal organizers into their communities, Kohn said.

"Most of them moved to the suburbs to escape many things, including the responsibility of citizen action," Kohn said. "This plays right into the hands of organized crime."

One Chicago suburb which is deeply concerned is Morton Grove. A town meeting has lasted into the morning hours and village leaders have traded charges deeply concerned is Morton over the issue of hoodlum influence.

Centers of the controversy are Harry Boshes, 56, and Albert Nadolna, 53. Twelve years ago, they were operators of saloons featuring striptease dancers in Chicago. Then they went into the construction business and put up a glittering string of motels. Now they are asking permission to build a multi-million dollar hospital in Morton Grove.

The construction was halted when the head of a "civic party" disclosed the background of the hospital entrepreneurs. Boshes and Nadolna denied gangster connections, but federal agents began looking into the financial records of their construction firm.

Survey Reveals Some Girls Buy Own Diamonds

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some females are rather unromantic. They buy their engagement diamond rings on a solo trip to the jeweler.

Approximately four per cent of the gals sporting new engagement rings are in that class, said researchers who made a study of diamond jewelry sales. Interviews were conducted among retail jewelers nationwide.

Figures also showed that 42 per cent of the diamond engagement rings are purchased by the man alone. Another 42 per cent are purchased by the man with his financee and seven per cent are purchased by the man with his family or friends — but not fiancee.

In another five per cent of the cases, almost a committee action is involved when it comes time to buy the ring. The man, his financee, his family, her family and quite often, friends, help to select the ring.

The survey, for N. W. Ayer and Son Inc., also showed that the traditional solitaire diamond ring maintains a 53 per cent lead of total unit sales. The median size of the center stone set in diamond engagement rings was found to be 42 points — eight points shy of a half-carat.

The median price of a diamond engagement ring: $227—plus tax.

Jurist Succumbs To Heart Attack

DALLAS (UPI)—District Judge W. L. Jack Thornton, younger brother of former Dallas Mayor R. L. Thornton, died yesterday of a heart attack. He was 75.

He had ruled the 44th District Court in Dallas since 1937 and presided over the court until illness took him from the bench a few days ago.

HEAVY SPENDERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Home owners will spend over $15 billion in home improvements during 1961, according to the Tile Council of America.

FULL OF TASTEWORTHY FOOD VALUE

WINNING FRIENDS AT EVERY TURN One thing about Corvair, it makes friends in a hurry. One drive, in fact. Because any Corvair—wagon, sedan or coupe—is such an overwhelming joy to pilot. Its rear-engine design makes for light, positive steering and real nailed-down traction. And its full independent suspension shuts out road shocks before they ever reach you. What's more, this sweetheart's no slouch at saving you money: It carries a sensible price tag, goes and goes on a gallon, never needs liquid coolants.

How can you resist a personality like that?

Taking advantage of all the features the modern electric range offers, this homemaker keeps her kitchen-family room cooler as she cooks on a hot summer's day.

Cook Up A Storm In Cool Kitchen

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Keeping the kitchen as cool as possible in summer is a worthy goal which becomes even worthier when the kitchen is a part of the dining or family room. The heat and humidity which build up in a busy kitchen from cooking and dishwashing can be better controlled than they usually are. The secret lies in taking full advantage of the modern appliances we have.

I talked with Agnes Garvey, a leading home economist at test kitchens in Louisville, Ky., about more comfortable kitchens. The best piece of advice and one most consistently ignored by homemakers is to study the instruction book that comes with a range. Here you will learn modern cooking techniques made possible by modern ranges which will keep a kitchen cooler and clearner.

Today's ovens, for example, do not require a long preheating time; most may be preheated in 10 minutes. Because heat will come through any range no matter how well insulated, it is important to avoid a long and unnecessary preheating before baking.

Miss Garvey also told me that we are prone to turn on the oven too soon. Most meats, casseroles, frozen dinners don't have to be put into a preheated oven, she says. As a rule baked goods do require a preheated oven. Do the baking early in the morning.

Oven timers are still viewed with suspicion by some homemakers although in most cases they will work like a charm and can be a great aid in summer.

Plan a simple oven meal, avoiding the highly perishable foods such as fish, poultry stuffing, milk or eggs. Assemble the ingredients, place the pans in the oven, set the timer, then go swimming, gardening or what you will. This is one of the easiest ways to avoid standing over a hot stove.

Oven timers will turn on the oven, preset to the correct temperture, and turn it off again.

Many modern ranges have improved, automatically controlled top units, too, that can be used in a manner similar to automatic electric skillets. As a rule these units work most accurately with medium weight aluminum pans. The temperature recommended for the food is dialed or set and the unit then maintains this temperature. This efficient use of heat is also an aid to cooler kitchens.

Using the least amount of water possible when cooking vegetables holds nutritional value and helps keep down humidity. Choose a proper size saucepan with tight cover for the amount of vegetables to be cooked, bring water to boil on high heat then switch to low heat. Miss Garvey, using this method, cooks two pounds of vegetables in one half cup of water.

A range hood with an exhaust fan siphons off vapors that increase humidity. If you have a dishwasher, try to turn it on at night or when the area isn't occupied. This will give the moist heat the dishwasher generates a chance to dissipate before mealtime.

Job Hunters Note: Apply Well Groomed

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If the high schooler in your family has his eye on a summer job, he'd be wise to stand a clothing and appearance inspection before making any job-hunting rounds.

A full 85 per cent of company personnel managers polled by the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear say personal appearance and grooming are the first things they note in a job applicant. And they're quite outspoken about the things they don't like to see.

Clashing colors, sloppy socks, scuffed shoes, overdue haircuts unpressed pants, ill-fitting suits, extreme styles, rundown heels, and careless personal hygiene are the kiss of death for any job seeker.

With little or no previous experience, the young man seeking a summer job has only his over-all appearance to sell. The way he looks tells personnel experts volumes about his potential as an employe.

Some personnel managers even insist they can tell instantly whether or not an applicant has dressed up especially for the job interview, or is he is habitually well-dressed and well-groomed.

Mothers of teen-age sons undoubtedly do their best to see that their youngsters look presentable — but often they labor against great odds. For the kids seem to think that sloppiness is synonymous with manliness.

Fortunately, many high schools actively encourage their students to improve their appearance by establishing minimum regulations regarding acceptable dress. Others conduct "Dress Right" clinics and similar programs aimed at postgraduation days.

The schools report a notable overall improvement not only in appearance, but also in scholastic averages and behavior. They have also reported favorable comment from local businessmen who hire students for part-time and summer jobs.

Their experience is summed up in these tips on correct dress for job applicants:

Wear a clean, pressed suit. Sports jacket and slacks are acceptable, but remember the rule of contrasts — with a patterned jacket wear plain slacks, and vice versa.

Dress shirt is a must, as is a conservative tie.

Shoes must be shined (virtually every prospective employer notices this immediately).

If a raincoat must be worn, be sure it is clean.

Hair and fingernails should be neat and cut reasonably short.

Sequinned dresses or hats, brilliant evening jewelry or fabrics like metallic brocades are out for daytime wear.

This well-groomed applicant rates a smile from the receptionist. His clean, pressed suit, dress shirt, conservative tie and gleaming shoes will play an important role in getting him the summer job he seeks.

The Mature Parent

Stupid Methods Ruin Achievement

Suppose I want my husband's agreement to a visit by my mother. On Monday I start campaigning for my wish. I announce that mama has written about how much she misses the children. On Tuesday I find an opportunity to remind my husband of how we entertained his niece during the Easter holidays. On Wednesday I use his interest in a TV drama to press home its tragic theme: the loneliness of old age. On Thursday I ask him to cosign the birth day card I'm sending to mama — and he blows up. He roars, "No! And if you must have your mother here for a visit, make it a weekend because it's all I can stand!"

Or suppose I see an attractive scarf on a department store counter. I want it. Making a pretense of interest in other scarfs, I grab my chance to slip it under my coat. The store detective sees me. He arrests me. I am disgraced — and lose the scarf.

In both these cases my wishes have been eminently respectable. My wish for a visit from my mother is as respectable as my wish to possess an attractive scarf. But my method for expressing my wishes are inefficient and unrespectable. I've failed to achieve them by offending my husband with my atempts to manipulate him and the store by my effort to avoid paying for the scarf.

Discipline of children is teaching them the difference between wise and stupid methods of getting what they want.

When Johnny lies to us about breaking our favorite ashtray, there is nothing bad about his wish to preserve our view of him as a child who is careful of ashtrays. It is his method of preserving that view that offends us.

When he disobeys an order to be home in time for lunch, there is nothing awful about his wish to continue playing ball instead of eating. Again, it's his method of achieving his wish that we object to.

When Joan declared that she has done the sloppily washed dishes, we are not outraged by her wish to evade a chore that bores her. We are, however, extremely annoyed by the method she chooses to express her wish.

Cost Stumbling Block To Daughter's Education

Woman To Woman
By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only 55 per cent of the girls in the top 10 per cent of high school graduates enter college.

The rest of them potential eggheads never get a chance to hatch.

The largest stumbling block for those in the upper levels of ability; Financial problems. And they're getting worse.

A report just issued by the Joint Office of Institutional Research in Washington, D. C., cites the extent to which increasing college costs are preventing some of the nation's most talented young women from attending college.

The report, on behalf of the 94 state universities and land grant colleges represented by the research unit, shows that between 1952 and 1960, tuition and fees to state residents at major public universities rose more than 71 per cent.

Threat To Education

Even some of the bright students who manage to enter college have financial troubles threatening their education in mid-stream.

Factors discouraging higher education of women include more than the inability of low-income parents to save adequately to meet college costs.

The institute reported that the parents also are reluctant to borrow against the future for a daughter's education.

There's also the lingering feeling of many parents that education of a son is more important than that of a daughter, if a choice must be made — and the high tuition rates.

Can't Afford Waste

The report points out that, at a time when the United States needs increasing numbers of adequatley trained people to perform the complicated duties of a complicated society and economy, it cannot afford to waste talented womanpower.

"There are already too many unskilled workers," the institute said. "Furthermore, most young women today can look forward to about 25 years of work outside of home, principally after child-rearing days are over.

"The social values in educating women, even those few who may never be gainfully employed — lie in the improved cultural and civic heritage they pass on to their children and the lower ratio of broken homes among the better educated."

As a solution to the problem, the institute report advocates that tuition and other costs be kept low, in keeping with the "great American tradition of public education."

Dear Abby...

Check To See If You're Kissing Sweet

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband of nine years doesn't believe in kissing. He says it is unsanitary. He wasn't bothered by this unsanitation before we were married. I don't know whether you can believe this or not, but he is by nature a very affectionate person. He is always hugging and squeezing me, and he shows me a lot of devotion, but he just skips the kissing part. How can I get him to kiss me?

WANTS TO BE KISSED

DEAR WANTS: Are you kissing sweet? Is he? Some men avoid kissing because they are conscious of their own cigarette or beer breath. Don't sit around "wanting to be kissed." Kiss HIM! He might develop a taste for it again.

DEAR ABBY: What is a wife suposed to think when her husband comes home and telis her that his secretary hit her knee on a file cabinet and she sat down and cried while he bandaged it for her? We have been married for 25 years, and I'm quite sure if it had been MY knee, I'd have had to bandage it myself.

WOLF'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: What better proof could you want that your husband is NOT a wolf? If he were, he could huff and puff and she'd never have let him near her knee.

DEAR ABBY: My teen-aged daughter is simply driving me crazy. She has one of the most beautiful heads of hair you could ever hope to see — but the way she wears it is just terrible. It is all ratted and matted and stiff with spray. It looks like a wig. And she looks like an old lady. She is only 17, Abby, and this is something she and I have been going around about for almost a year. Do you think I should let her do what she wants with her hair? She would be strikingly beautiful if only she would take my word on how to fix her hair.

TEEN-AGER'S MOM

DEAR MOM: A teen-ager's mom has so much to "go around" about when it comes to turning out her daughter, you would be wise not to split hairs. Let her fix her hair the way she wants to. She has to please herself, not you. Use your energy to make her "beautiful" on the inside.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 19 years old I started going with a married man. I loved him and he loved me. I stuck to this man because he kept telling me he would divorce his wife and marry me. He hasn't yet, and now I don't believe he ever will leave his family for me. I am now 34, and all I have for the 15 years I played around with him is a bad name, a few presents and a broken heart. I learned the hard way. Please, Abby, print this. It may help other young girls who think there is a future in loving a married man.

Buick Golf Tournament Opens

Palmer, Player Skip Event For British Tourney

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — A field of 159 teed off today in the $52,000 Buick Open at nearby Warwick Hills with golf's two top money-winners conspicuous by their absence.

Gary Player of South Africa and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who have piled up earnings of more than $100,000 between them this year, passed up this rich tournament to compete in the British Open.

But practically all the other big drawing cards were on hand to test the spacious 7,280-yard Warwick Hills layout and bid for the $9,000 first prize.

Highlights of the Buick Open are being filmed and the winner will also receive a $1,000 bonus for movie rights.

Slammin' Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who has won about $365,000 since he started playing for pay in 1937, has been tagged as the man to beat.

Snead came to Michigan two weeks ago for three major tournaments in the Wolverine State. He was an also ran in the one he wanted most to win — the U. S Open at Oakland Hills in Birmingham. The U. S. Open is the only major golf title that has eluded Snead.

From Oakland Hills, Snead went to Grand Rapids for the Western Open at Blythefield and was runner-up to Palmer.

But Snead won't be without stiff competition in the Buick Open.

The field includes Gene Litter who claimed the U. S. Open title at Oakland Hills, 1960 PGA champion Jay Hebert and the winners of this tournament the past three ouchak, 1959 champion Art Wall years—defending champion Mike Souchak, 1959 champion Art Wall Jr. and 1958 champion Billy Casper.

WRAPPED UP—Peter Cook of New Hampshire had to wrap himself around this tree to play a chip shot to the 13th green in third round of National Collegiate Golf Championship on the Purdue South Course in Lafayette, Ind.

Gold Sox Rapped By Missions

By United Press International

Jack Warner pitched three innings of shutout baseball in relief Wednesday night to help San Antonio to a 6-5 victory over Amarillo, the Texas League leaders.

In other games, Austin trimmed Ardmore 7-3 and Tulsa nipped Victoria, 2-1.

The Missions moved into a 5-5 deadlock with the Gold Sox in the seventh, and added the clincher in the ninth. Danny Murphy sparked San Antonio's 15-hit attack with a two-run homer in the fifth. Jim Bouton went the distance for Amarillo.

Larry Maxie twirled a six-hitter for Austin. He was never behind after a three-run outburst in the third, and the Senators were ahead 7-1 in the eighth when loser Marshall Renfroe was taken off the mound.

Harry Fanok, giving up five hits, pitched shutout ball for seven innings before allowing the Giants to score in the eighth. Both Oiler scores came in the fourth off loser Dick Sovde.

Single games are on tap again tonight with Ardmore at Austin, Victoria at Tulsa and San Antonio at Amarillo.

Savage Has No-Hitter

Pitcher Phillip Savage turned in a no-hitter and chalked up win No. 4 last night as Mohawk downed Hoover 13 to 0 in a Little League game at Western League Park.

Savage was in complete control all the way and only one Hoover man got as far as second base. He gave up only four walks and it was 3-up and 3-down except for the third inning when five men got to bat.

Mohawk executed a neat double play in the fifth inning with the combination of Gary Molberg to Lane Hooten to David Schaub.

Mohawk scored its 13 runs. five in the first, two in the second, two in the fourth and four in the sixth.

The leading hitters in last night's game were Gary Molberg with four for four and Robbie Walters, two for two. Losing pitcher was Gary Butler.

Branch Rickey Under Oxygen

SUDBURY, Ont. (UPI)—Branch Rickey was in "good spirits" today although he has been advised he must remain hospitalized for at least three weeks because of a heart attack.

The condition of the 79-year-old baseball executive was described as "satisfactory" by doctors at Sudbury Memorial Hospital. However, Rickey was being kept in an oxygen tent as a routine procedure to take the load off his heart.

Rickey was flown to the hospital Tuesday hours after he was stricken while vacationing at Manitoulin Island, 95 miles away. He had a previous heart attack in March, 1959.

Oiler Ticket Sale Heavier Than 1960

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Oilers, champions of the American Football League, announced Wednesday that 6,005 season tickets have already been sold as compared with last year's total of 5,980.

Business manager Carroll Martin said he expected a substantial increase in sales when training starts.

U.S. Women Golfers Launch Open Tourney

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (UPI)—Four-time champion Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., led 31 lady pros and 58 hopeful amateurs into the first round of the U. S. Women's Open golf championship at Baltusrol Golf Club today.

Miss Rawls, the defending titleholder, paced seven former champions into the opening round over the 6,372-yard course at the scene where Ed Furgol won the men's U. S. Open title in 1954.

Other former champions teeing off, with the low 40 and ties qualifying after Friday's second round for Saturday's 36-hole finale, include Mickey Wright of Dallas, Fay Crocker of Uruguay, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex.; Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Kathy Cornelius of Phoenix, Ariz., and Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., winner of the inaugural Women's Open in 1946.

The pro group includes such threats as Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif.; Joann Prentice of Birmingham, Ala.; Jackie Pung of Honolulu; Marlene Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., and Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga.

The amateur threats include 16-year old Judy Torluemke of St. Louis, who was the low amateur last year; former girls junior champion Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, and slender, red-haired Ann Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, wife of professional golfer Frank Stranahan.

MINOR MANAGER PROMOTED

WATERLOO, Iowa (UPI)—Matty Scezney of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been promoted to manager of the Winston-Salem, N. C., club in the Class B Carolina League. Scezney had been managing the first place Waterloo team of the Class D Midwest League.

Bill Slack, pitching coach for the Johnstown club of the Class A Eastern League, will succeed Scezney.

BARONS GET CIESLA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League have obtained Henry Ciesla, the league's ninth leading scorer last season, from the Rochester Americans for right winger Bill Dineen.

A'S PAY BONUS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Gary Sanossian of Huntington Station, N. Y., has been signed for a substantial bonus by the Kansas City Athletics. The 17-year-old right-handed pitcher will be assigned to Sarasota of the Class D Florida State League.

'SKINS SIGN CENTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Center Jim Schrader, a six-year veteran with the Washington Redskins, has singed his 1961 contract with the team. The 29-year-old Notre Dame graduate is the 35th player to enter the Redskin fold.

Eight Yanks Survive In Wimbledon Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif. a former college football player tackled the toughest assignment among the eight American survivors in the men's singles division of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

The 24-year-old ex-Stanford University quarterback met fourth-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia in one of the featured third round matches. Emerson already has one Yank scalp to his credit in this tournament, having eliminated Crawford Henry of Atlanta, Ga., in straight sets in Wednesday's second round.

Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., and Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla. also drew tough assignments today. Crawford was pitted against third-seeded Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy while Froehling met sixth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile.

Eighth-seeded Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., the only U.S. ranked player in the men's singles, was a heavy favorite to continue his advance at the expense of Poland's Wiesaw Gasiorek.

In the women's singles, Mimi Arnold of Santa Rosa, Calif., had a second round date with Lesley Turner of Australia. Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., and Yola Ramirez of Mexico were to resume their second round match, which was halted by darkness Wednesday after they had split the first two sets.

Douglas and Crawford eliminated fellow Americans in gaining the third round. Douglas turned back 47-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, 46, 6-1 and Crawford toyed with Mal Fox of Baltimore, Md., 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Milstead Signs Up With Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)— Charlie Milstead, former Texas A&M quarterback, signed his 1961 contract with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League Wednesday.

Milstead was used mainly as a punter last season, averaging 35.8 yards on 66 kicks.

Lavorante Meets Ratliff Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alejandro Lavorante and Monroe Ratliff — both given the brush-off by Tom McNeeley — square off tonight in a 10-round heavyweight bout which finds the big South American a 3-1 favorite to defeat the chunky Ratliff.

Promoter Bennie Ford had announced that he was offering McNeeley, Boston's undefeated sensation, a $15,000 guarantee to meet tonight's winner. But the bid was turned down by McNeeley, Ford said, on grounds that he is training for a title shot with Floyd Patterson.

Alex, who stands six feet 3½ and weighs 206, goes into the non-televised clash at the Civic Auditorium with a professional record of 13 wins and one loss. Eleven of the triumphs have come via knockouts. He was outpointed by Roy Harris in November, 1959.

Lavorante has the height, weight and reach on Ratliff whose lifetime mark is an erratic 15-18-4.

Win Streak Maintained By Windsor

Windsor put its 11th straight win in the record books Wednesday evening when it defeated Dixie Parts 3 to 0 in a game played at Eastern Little League Park. Windsor remains undefeated for the season.

The winning pitcher was H. D. LaRue who struck out 12 batters, gave up only one hit and walked seven. The losing pitcher was Billie Davis.

Ronnie Licky topped the hitters for Windsor with 2 for 3. Leading hitter for Dixie Parts was Gary Hyatt.

Windsor scored all three of its runs in the first inning.

Kist Victorious Over Ideal 10-5

Kist scored six runs in the bottom half of the sixth inning Wednesday evening to win over Ideal 10 to 5 in a Pony League game.

Each team registered 8 hits but Ideal's five errors proved too costly. Kist had two errors.

The winning pitcher was Geary Johnson and the loser, Larry Daniels.

Kerry Roper garnered three hits for Ideal, a single, double and triple. Brown came up with three bingles for Kist, all of them singles. Parker banged out a triple for Kist.

Cubs Rap Reds For Two Wins

By United Press International

Don't be surprised if there's an epidemic of stolen razor blades today because at least a half dozen major league managers must be in a mood to slit their throats.

It was that kind of a day and night Wednesday when second-division teams rose up to knock off contenders, players traded away came back to haunt former teammates and two teams played a record five-hour and 11-minute, 15 inning game that ended in a 7-7 tie because of sandlot-type play.

Take Fred Hutchinson of the National League leading Cincinnati Reds, for example, who saw the lowly Chicago Cubs drub his club, 16-5 and 7-2. Or, Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees, who moaned and groaned as Ryne Duren pitched three-hit ball and added insult to injury with a two-run single in the Los Angeles Angels' 5-3 victory over the AL champions.

Manager Alvin Dark is still another who might be ready to end it all after watching his San Francisco Giants blow two-extra-inning leads, including a 7-4 lead in the 15th frame before the Philadelphia Phillies achieved a tie on a wild return throw by catcher Hobie Landrith to the pitcher.

Managers Jimmy Dykes and Walt Alston shared in the grief, too, as the Washington Senators split a doubleheader with Dykes' Cleveland Indians and the Pittsburgh Pirates dealt the Los Angeles Dodgers a 9-3 defeat.

Reds' Lead Cut

The Reds' NL lead was shaved to 2½ games when the Cubs unleashed a barrage of 25 hits that included five doubles, two triples and five homers. Ron Santo drove in seven runs with two homers and two singles in the first game rout and George Altman led the Cubs' attack in the second game with a homer and a triple.

Duren, traded away by the Yankees this year, struck out 12 before yielding Mantle's ninth-inning homer and turning over the game to Jim Donahue, who retired the last three batters. Duren, hitless in two years, was allowed to bat for himself with the bases filled and the Angels trailing, 1-0, in the sixth and came through with a two-run single.

Landrith's return throw to the mound went wild in the 15th inning and enabled Tony Gonzalez to score from third base that caused one of the season's most improbable games to end in a tie. The game was called because of a NL curfew rule.

Bennie Daniels pitched a five-hitter and Willie Tasby had three hits to lead the Senators to a 5-3 victory after the Indians won the first game, 3-2, on the six-hit pitching of Jim Perry and Frank Funk. The split left the Indians five games out of first place in the AL.

Joe Gibbon ruined Alston's night with a six-hitter behind a nine-hit Pittsburgh attack which featured triples by Dick Stuart and Robert Clemente. Don Drysdale suffered his fifth loss.

Rookies Steve Boros and Jake Wood had three hits each and Don Mossi won his ninth game as the AL leading Detroit Tigers ended the Chicago White Sox' 12-game winning streak, 12-5. Earl Robinson's three-run homer and Wes Stock's two-hit relief pitching over 6 2-3 innings paced the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-4 win over the Kansas City Athletics and homers by Gary Geiger and Frank Malzone helped the Boston Red Sox to a 6-2 decision over the Minnesota Twins in other AL games.

Joe Adcock and Frank Thomas hit homers to help rookie Bob Hendley win his first major league game as the Milwaukee Brayes defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-3, in the other National League game.

Cabot Slips By Sealtest, 10-8

Cabot evened their season record at 5-5 here Tuesday night with a 10-8 win over the Sealtest nine at Optimist Park.

Ray Brady was the winner; Shelton Moore the loser.

L. D. Rowden provided the game's biggest blow with a two-run homer.

Jim Stroud contributed a double and two singles to the losers attack.

BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWO

Texas Lift King Going To Russia

DALLAS (UPI)— Heavyweight Sid Henry of Dallas takes on a large order when he leaves for Russia Monday.

Henry has been named to a five-man team that will compete in a dual weightlifting meet with some of the top performers of the Soviet Union.

Naurally, since he is the only heavyweight member of the group, Henry will be expected to carry the biggest load.

His best lift to date is 1,040 pounds, which he hoisted last weekend in the National AAU meet in Santa Monica, Calif.

It was the third time he has lifted 1,000 pounds or more, and it earned him a place among some 20 weightlifters in the United States who have done so.

The Russian trip is part of the State Department's cultural exchange program.

Although a team usually carries eight members, the U.S. will be represented by a five-man group because of a dearth of quality in the light and middleweight classes.

Others making the trip include Louis Riecke of New Orleans, lightheavy class; Charlie Vinci of Cleveland, bantam; Isaac Berger, New York, feather; and Bill March, York, Pa., middleweight.

The trip will take the team to Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev, with a possible stop in Tiflis.

Houston Gets Welcome To Major Ranks

HOUSTON (UPI)— Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick welcomed Houston into the world of major league baseball Wednesday and said reports that "baseball is dying" is a "lot of bunk."

He said last year the National League drew nearly 11 million fans and the American League about 10 million.

"We have 8,000 organized leagues in Little League ball, and more youngsters playing in high school and college than ever before," Frick said.

The commissioner took part in ceremonies at Busch Stadium honoring "wee" Dickie Kerr, the honest hero of the 1919 Chicago "Black Sox" scandal.

Frick and Charley Segar, secretary to the commissioner, made their first official trip to Houston since the city was granted a National League franchise. Houston's Colts begin play in the 1962 season.

Texas Teams Win In Assn. Games

By United Press International

Denver's Harry Chiti homered in the 17th inning at Denver Wednesday night to give the Bears a marathon 3-2 win over stubborn Louisville in the American Association.

The league's two other host teams also won. Houston blanked Indianapolis, 8-0, and Dallas-Fort Worth shut out Omaha, 5-0.

King's Nag Wins Race

By United Press International

King Ranch's Disperse, who had never won a stakes, has bosted his stock from the Fourth of July Suburban Handicap with Wednesday's victory over heavily favored Don Poggio in the $27,250 Hempstead Handicap at Belmont Park.

Carrying 14 pounds less than Don Paggio, Disperse overcame the top-weighted Argentine-bred in the stretch to win by three-quarters of a length. Next spot for the Max Hirsch-trained Disperse will be against another odds-on choice, 'Kelso, in the Suburban where the 4-year-old son of Middleground has been assigned a feathery 108 pounds, 25 less than Kelso.

Willie Boland booted Disperse to the $13.50 payoff over the mile and one-half distance.

Mrs. O. A. S. McKean's Polylad, ineligible for the Suburban, won the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs under a clever ride by Eddie Arcaro. Our Hope finished second and Nickel Boy ran third.

Polylad survived a foul claim in defeating the favored Our Hope by a head. Polylad returned $6.80.

At Monmouth Park, Wheatley Stable's Batter Up paid $9.60 after winning the $24,350 Colleen Stakes for 2-year-olds. The daughter of Tom Fool, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, scored her third victory in four starts and beat Meadow Stable's Cicada by a length.

In other feature events around the nation, Tenserino, Poltex Stable's unbeaten 3-year-old filly, won her third straight at Hollywood Park and paid $5.80; Jack Bender returned $15.40 at Delaware Park and Bobby Nono rode Count Rose ($21.80) over the mile in record time at Arlington Park.

Cactus To Host Junior Baseball Meet, July 10-15

A junior baseball tournament has been scheduled for July 10-15 at Cactus, Texas, according to Ollie Norris, tournament director.

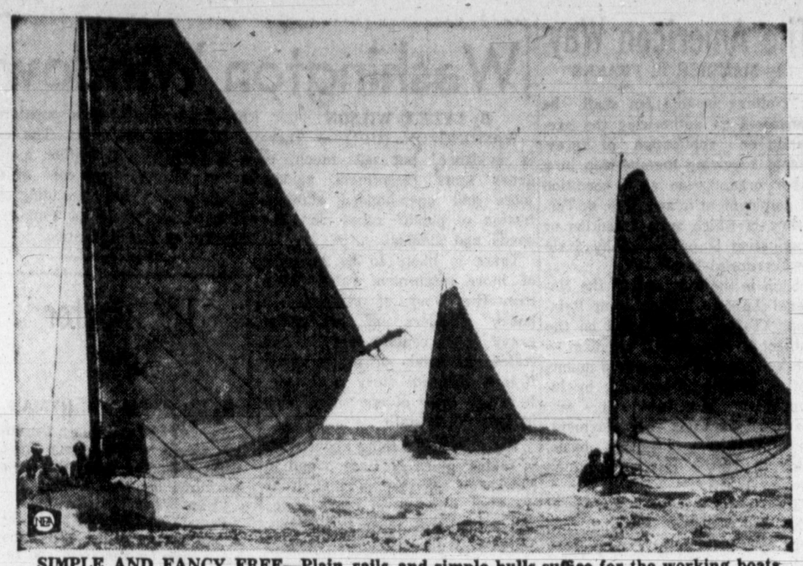

Boys who will not be 14 years of age by August 15 must be verified on a roster of 15 players by the coaches, he said. Deadline for team rosters is Thursday, July 6th.

Pairings will be determined Friday, July 7th. No entry fee is required and first, second and consolation trophies will be given along with 12 individual awards for All-Star recognition.

All entries should be mailed to Ollie Norris, Box 432, Cactus, Texas; Telephone No: 936 - 3241 (Dumas Exchange)

COLTS INK CATCHER

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Houston Colts of the National League have signed catcher Tommy Mangum of Southwest Texas College for a "five-figure bonus." The 20-year-old native of San Antonio, Tex., will be assigned to the Colts' Salisbury, N.C. farm club.

Russia May Be Set To Launch Revolts In Latin America In '61

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — From their base in Castro's Cuba, agents of the Communist International are preparing to launch another "round of revolutions" on the South American continent.

As seen by U.S. specialists on Soviet strategy, 1961 may be as crucial for Latin America as it will be for West Berlin.

So sure, in fact, are the Soviet leaders that the "tide of history" is running their way, that they no longer attempt to hide their Latin American plans.

In a remarkably frank study of "conditions necessary for revolution," Rodney Arismendi, one of Moscow's top agents in Latin America, reports in the Soviet journal Kommunist:

"Conditions for a revolutionary movement in Latin America are already ripe. Experienced Communist parties exist. Revolutionary ideas have taken hold of thousands of warriors who, in turn, lead hundreds of thousands of workers."

Arismendi's report is entitled "Latin America Comes to the Front of the Stage." Specialists on Russia regard it especially significant that it was printed in Kommunist, official publication of the Central Committee of the Soviet Comunist Party.

The Soviet leaders no longer conceal their view that Communist Cuba is a step to revolution in all Latin America. "The contributions of Fidel Castro and the Cuban revolutionists," writes Kommunist, "consists in their portrayal of the Cuban revolution as an all - American event."

Communist parties operated in 14 Latin Aerican countries in 1929. Today, according to Arismendi, "they exist in all countries of Latin America."

Especially powerful and active, in addition to the Cuban Communist party, are the Communist International affiliates in Mexico, Venezuela, Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil.

Red "cells" and "trade unions" are now to be found "in all major industries, private or state-controlled," of Latin America.

Membership in Young Communist Leagues — which cater particularly to students — has increased by 250 per cent between 1955 and the present, the Soviet press claims. Hundreds of Latin American students are trained in Moscow's Patrice Lumumba University.

Kommunist also describes the Red network in Latin American industrial enterprises:

"In each major factory control is concentrated in the hands of a cell consisting of 10 to 15 persons. By means of such cells Communist organizers can control dozens of party members and through them all the workers in a factory."

Red-dominated trade unions play a key role in Moscow's plans to launch "wars of national liberation." Trade Union "centers," Arismendi reports, have been created in all Latin American countries "through strikes and demonstrations in which millions of workers took part.

"In Chile, Cuba and Uruguay," he says, "these centers have been the main instrument of anti-U.S. demonstrations." They also played a major role in "the anti-imperialist struggles" in Venezuela, Bolivia and Ecuador.

Substantial inroads have also made among Latin American "intellectuals." Kommunist claims a considerable "number of outstanding Latin American leaders in the field of culture who now follow the Marxist - Leninist line."

According to the reports in the Soviet press, the Latin American Communist parties are rapidly gaining influence through unrelenting propaganda and "through the use of economic strikes in political struggles."

Soviet officials now speak openly of their aim to create a "union of socialist republics" of Latin America which, like Cuba, will be patterned after the Soviet Union.

Spanish Men Are Adept At Complimenting Girls

MADRID (UPI) — The rain in Spain often is a beautiful snow job.

Take the way the Spaniard compliments the girl he has just met.

"May I light my cigarette with your eyes?," said one Spaniard to me as he glided by me on the street.

This Spanish custom of compliments, known as the "piropo," often takes foreigners by surprise. But there are few females offended by it.

The only trouble is that some Spanish piropos do not translate well, if at all, into English, and therefore don't have the same, if any, meaning.

The piropo is as old as Spain itself, but like many things here, has been given a modern touch.

Such as: "You have eyes bigger than a supermarket." Or, "For you I have a heart like an atomic bomb."

The piropo is not always flattering. When two large women passed a couple of Spaniards one day, the men whispered audibly, "Wow, women in Cinemascope!"

Those who are not adept at flowery phrases can buy a little book of piropos — if they can find one. It took me two and a half months, with the help of doormen and waiters, before one of the office operators finally turned up with two small books of piropos.

(Just try to explain to a book dealer what you, as a female, want with a book of piropos.)

Sometimes the girls answer back, though not often. Usually they ignore the spouting Spaniards.

For winter, there is a special book of compliments. One passing Spaniard pulled out all stops when he murmured at me one wintry day. "For you I would gladly go to the North Pole in my underwear."

He was persistent, and followed. After five blocks of this plus the story of his life and how nicely I would fit into the plan of things, I was ready to buy him a one way ticket to the North Pole, complete with union suit.

Piropos come in all lengths, and for all occasions — what to say when it is raining, or the first of January, or the eve of the Fifth of January (when the Spanish give out their Christmas presents.)

"You are the sun, and I your satellite," is one this book recommends. "If you look at me you will put me in orbit."

Reorganization Program Jolted By House Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Government Operations Committee today dealt another setback to President Kennedy's plans for reorganizing and streamlining federal regulatory agencies.

By identical 5 to 4 votes, the committee rejected Kennedy's plan for administrative reforms of the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Trade Commission.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who voted against the plans, said the Senate is expected to act on them Thursday.

The action left the President batting zero on reorganization efforts. The House has rejected his plan for the Federal Communications Commission and the Senate has rejected one for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The CAB plan automatically would go into effect Sunday and the FTC on July 8 unless the Senate specifically vetoes them. The House already has passed the proposals, but Senate approval appeared doubtful.

The plans are designed to eliminate case backlogs in the agencies. Under them, more powers to decide routine cases could be delegates to hearing examiners and other subordinates.

Clarendon Rodeo Starts Saturday

The oldest July Fourth celebration in the Panhandle will get under way Saturday in Clarendon with the first of four rodeo performances slated for 8 p.m. Other performances will be held the night of July 3, afternoon and night of July 4. Another record-breaking entry list of contestants is expected with approximately $3,500 prize money to go to the winners along with two saddles, belt buckles, etc. Performances will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Monday and Tuesday and 2 p.m. the afternoon of the Fourth.

Six thousand pounds of dressed beef has been donated by local ranchers and individuals for the big free barbecue at noon July 4. The barbecuing and cooking crew will begin their task the morning of July 3.

A western parade will be featured at 1 p.m. July 4; an old settlers reunion at 9 a.m. and an old Fiddlers contest at 4 p.m.

Dances will be held at the air-conditioned Legion Hall each of the celebration nights.

Facilities will be set up to feed eight to ten thousand visitors in 30 to 45 minutes at the July 4 barbecue.

URGE TUNNEL TALKS

LONDON (UPI)—Seventy members of Parliament urged Wednesday that the British and French governments start talking about a tunnel under the English Channel. Representatives of all three parties said a "new and technically comprehensive scheme" had been found for a tunnel under the channel and called for a conference to lay the groundwork for a final decision. The tunnel has been considered by ambitious builders for centuries.

Senate Staging Investigation Of Supermarts

WASHINGTON (UPI)A Senate antitrust subcommittee today set out to determine whether consumers are being deliberately befuddled in a never-never land of supermarket doubletalk.

The subcommittee opened hearings on deceptive practices in the packaging and labeling of food and other household products.

"We are not proposing to determine whether any large stones have been thrown at the free enterprise system," Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said in a statement prepared for the start of the three-day inquiry.

"What we intend to inspect is whether the system is suffering because every day millions of grains of sand are being thrown in the consumers' eyes."

"The old-fashioned butcher was often accused of weighing his thumb," Hart added. "We want to be sure that today's consumer isn't still buying that thumb, but in a fancy package."

Hart noted that packaging of household items is now a $10 billion industry. In the gleaming, modern supermarket the consumer tries to make an intelligent choice from some 6,000 items on which $850 million is spent daily in America.

The subcommittee will try to find whether labels clearly state vital information as to quality and value or whether "there appear to be techniques...which confound or confuse."

Insurance Case Suit Is Ordered By High Court

AUSTIN (UPI)— The State Supreme Court reversed lower court decisions today and ordered a trial in a suit by receiver J. D. Wheeler to recover money lost by investors in the defunct Texas Mutual Insurance Co.

Wheeler brought suit against two Beaumont banks and three individuals for some $3 million on charges that assets of the insurance company were fraudulently misrepresented.

Wheeler said the banks, the First National and American National, made conditional loans to Texas Mutual in 1950 and 1951 which helped falsify assets. He also contended that V. C. Thompson, a state insurance examiner, approved the company's books when he knew that the money showed as capital was only on loan.

Other defendants included Samson Carr, who appraised the insurance company's office building as worth $561,000 when Wheeler said the value was not more than $94,000; and Charles Kohler.

A nopinion by the high court said the alleged role of the banks in the case was to "aid the officers and directors of Texas Mutual in creating fictitious assets in order that such officers and directors could represent to the Insurance Commission of Texas and other states that it had the capital and surplus required by law to do business."

The Supreme Court agreed, however, with a previous ruling that the liability of the banks should be limited to the amount of the loans, $90,000 by the First National of Beaumont and $75,000 by the American National.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandmants, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilites in harmony with the above moral principles.

Academies Everywhere

Ever since the Air Academy began its multi - million dollar career, various politicos have been trying to get into the limelight by setting up some new legislation which will saddle the American taxpayers with further academies in various avenues of activity.

It would be an enormous feather in the cap of the lucky office holder who, in later years, could be referred to as the "father" of the Academy for Government Space Research: or the Academy of Ultimate Planning.

We've had a bit to say on prior occasions about the proposed "Freedom Academy," which is being boomed by Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota. But Mundt will aparently not be swayed by logic or the thought of the increased burden of taxation the proposal carries.

Apparently he wants to be remembered by posterity as the man who successfully confused the meaning of freedom to the point where people began to believe that freedom is a government product and can only come under some particular kind of political administration.

But Mundt's venture into higher academic circles is being paralelled in other quarters by other senators equally ambitious. One has announced that he wants a government academy to train foreign diplomats. Another wants an academy to train Civil Defense workers. Still another has hinted vaguely at something in the nature of a government academy to further space research.

But quite the most ambitious of the lot has now emerged. This time we have Representative Victor L. Anfuso, Democrat of New York, who has introduced a bill to set up a "West Point of Science." And Anfuso's ideas are grandiose in the extreme.

He wants a government school completely equipped with every conceivable kind of laboratory where science research can be totally unrestrained by any cost factor.

Here the cadets at government (taxpayers') expense will probe the mysteries and, upon graduation, automatically be hired by the government in fields of science, engineering and technology. They would be required to stay in government service at least the number of years they had spent in the academy.

Fortunately for the national well being, Anfuso is being opposed by a number of intelligent scientists and educators in our independent colleges and universities, and it is possible that nothing will come of this effort. Nonetheless, we should be advised that Anfuso's desire to be a "father" of a science academy is going to die hard. This is the second time he's come forward with this proposal. The one last year didn't get out of committee and this year's effort is still in committee. But one never knows.

The moves by Karl Mundt, Anfuso et al, tho undoubtedly sired by hopes of national greatness, are calculated to enlarge the federal government's invasion of the educational field. What preeminence remains in American possession in the intellectual area resides pretty largely in our remaining private and independent schools. The federal government's moves to subsidize schools and to move more and more into educational channels is a most serious thing and is going to have to be understood for the danger that it is.

School taxes are already the largest amounts of money paid by property owners, in their tax bills. By getting the federal government further into the educational picture, wherever it occurs, still greater sums must be obtained from tax - payers. And tho many a congressman would be shocked to learn about it, moves to make the government more and more of a school master are consonant with communism. This is particularly reprehensible in the case of certain congressmen who have posed for years as being strongly anti-communist.

But the real danger to the American people which comes in these various bids for more academies, lies in what this sort of thing will do to our young people in the years ahead. Any nation which permits its government to provide the education of its youth will end in a totalitarian state.

Some way, we don't believe this is what the American people really want.

A Superstition

Human beings tend to believe readily that which they hope is true. The stronger their hopes, the larger their credulity.

It is on this basic psychological weakness that government is built. People HOPE that government can make the world better, finer, cleaner, less costly, more delightful. Hence, they turn more and more to government as a device to solve their problems or to do their work for them.

The result, over any extensive period of time, is appalling. We have no idea as to the number of persons, potentially self - reliant and strong, who have succumbed to political nonsense of this character.

Without doubt, the gullibility of so many in this area is an outgrowth of our more primitive and superstitious eons, when man did not understand the nature of the world, and much of his ignorance was systematized into pagan fetish worship and cult practice.

The dictionary says of superstition that the word derives from soothsaying. "An irrational abject attitude of mind toward the supernatural, nature or God, proceeding from ignorance, unreasoning fear of the unknown or mysterious, a belief in magic or chance, or the like. Any belief, conception, act or practice resulting from such a state of mind."

Before the market place had developed sufficiently to lift man out of savagery he tended to a belief that his every action was controlled by some authority outside himself. This authority was whatever he conceived the supernatural to be.

This belief was false, of course, but men in their savage state did not like to think of being responsible for their own actions. It was so much more desirable to imagine that an invisible "big brother" controlled their destiny. Then, if things didn't work out for them as they hoped, they could always find an alibi. The gods were opposed; fate intervened, circumstances in the form of demons had conspired to trick them or to destroy their chances. Men like to believe this way.

With the growth of science, the development of writing, the printing of books, the establishment of education as an emphasized procedure, some of the superstition vanished. But today, instead of banishing superstition, many people have simply transferred their hopes to the government, which they hold to be a sort of superhuman agency which can work miracles on their behalf, if only the proper ritual is followed.

If men can find an alibi in gods or spirits, or in government, they can avoid the conclusion which mature minds have gradually come to accept; that they are in fact self-controlling individuals and are thus responsible for their own actions.

Most of the ills of this modern world stem from false beliefs. Most false beliefs are traceable to man's intense desire to believe that which he hopes is true.

Reliance upon rabbit feet, charms, amulets, lucky numbers, lucky days, omens and such nonsense is part of this superstitious heritage we have acquired from our past.

Reliance upon majorities, ritual, taxation or legislation is all of a kind. That which is contrary to fact is contrary to fact, however our hopes burn in anticipation of some magic way out of our difficulties.

Today, by far and away the largest area of superstition exists in public reliance upon governments. Someway people have grown convinced that government can provide something for nothing. The belief is false. Government can only provide that which it has taken from others by stealth or by violence.

The worst of it is that so many people, including millions of parents, teachers, preachers and thought leaders, encourage such beliefs as being "helpful." They seem to feel that illusions and superstitions are a kind of therapy and that people are better off with a head full of trust in magic, than a head full of knowledge and conviction resting on truth.

Yet the progress made thus far by the human race has always rested upon the willingness of a few to set aside the superstitious past and to place their hopes in logic and reason rather than in some panacea, whether engendered by government or any other kind of fairy story.

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy — Herb Elliott and I have something in common.

He has run a mile in under four minutes and I have read his first (and perhaps last) book in under four minutes.

Three minutes 51 seconds to be exact. I found it well up to the standard of books by athletes. The prose gallops (as it should when the author is a champion runner), the dialogue is pungent (why not when the author uses buckets of liniment a year?), and the spelling is faultless.

I gave the book — "The Golden Miler" — as much time as I did because of the chapter on American athletes in which Elliott says they are far too soft-living to produce any really great middle or long distance runners.

This chapter, I understand, has caused quite a commotion in the United States, and several reviewers have laid it onto Elliott with a thick and spike-studded paddle.

I enjoyed this chapter. It did my soul good to get it from an expert that my country's youth didn't give a hoot in you-know-where for running round and round a track, for miles and miles, blistering their insides, bringing great misery to their legs, and causing their mouths to fly open like junior Mammoth Caves.

My faith in our youths' sense of values has been revived by Elliott's book. It would bother me to think that America's young men were turning from a fast spin in a convertible with a pretty girl to jogging miles and miles by themselves, their eyes fastened, not on a kiss but a stamped out medal of some sort.

Watching a long distance race is boring enough, but imagine what it is to run one Round and round the distance runners go, and then round some more. Same scenery. Same faces on the edge of the track. Same old companions in front, alongside, and behind. It is a wonder to me that a man of sensitivity wouldn't stop after a mile or two, with a "this is getting me nowhere" attitude.

The fire, dash and burst of the 100-meter race, yes. The sharp challenge of the hurdles, yes again. The quick, supreme effort of the 200, 400, 880, by all means. But the popeyed grind of the distance races, never.

Elliot to the contrary, it is entirely possible that a country can achieve greatness without having so much as one ordinary, much less great, distance runner. A country might even achieve greatness on art, music, literature, and spiritual values. Some of the greatest men in the world have never won a medal — even a bronze one —for running as much as fifteen yards, let alone two, three, or five miles.

Einstein, I am told, didn't even like to walk two miles, much less run that far. Not a single medal of Shakespeaare's exists. Three miles at a slow jog would have killed Sebastian Bach, Beethoven was too deaf to hear the starter's gun, and one look at a picture of Napoleon is proof sufficient that he couldn't have run a middle distance race even with Josephine cheering him on.

And wouldn't you like to see some of Elliott's rival authors in a middle-distnce race? Waugh. Greene. Maugham. Osborne.

Allen - Scott Report

Atty. Gen. Kennedy Tries New Strategy Against Hoffa All-out Probe of His Associates

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy is trying a new strategy to topple James R. Hoffa from his position as head of the 1,600,000 member Teamsters Union.

He has launched a nation-wide investigation into the financial affairs of a score of Hoffa's associates in the Teamsters organization, the underworld, and business.

Already, federal grand juries are hearing witnesses and studying financial records in Detroit, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C. Other grand juries are to be summoned in Florida, Ohio, and Missouri later in the summer.

Kennedy's new strategy is a simple pincer movement to seal off Hoffa from some of his chief supporters by a methodical prosecution of underworld figures and financial manipulators, found to be engaging in crime, that surround the Teamster Czar.

Tough prosecution of these people, who the Attorney General believes have shielded some top Teamster figures in the past, is expected to greatly undercut Hoffa's invincibility and power within the labor organization.

To handle the sweeping investigation, Kennedy has set up a special 120-man unit by Assistant Attorney General Herbert J. Miller, head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division. Miller is being assisted by Walter Sheridan, former investigator from Senator McClellan's Labor Rackets committee, and John Cassidy, formerly a lawyer with the court - appointed Teamsters monitors.

The Miller - Sheridan - Cassidy team is well acquainted with all of the financial operations and dealings of Hoffa and his associates from coast to coast. For example, Cassidy, after nearly three years with the court - appointed monitors, has on the tip of his tongue the names and connections of every underworld figure within the Teamsters, and their business interests.

Attorney General Kennedy decided to try the new approach to unhorse Hoffa after a thorough review of the Justice Department's files showed that there had never been a fully co-ordinated nation-wide investigation of Hoffa and his associates.

Under the Eisenhower administration, government lawyers had made a series of separate investigations and prosecutions, but no over-all probe had ever been ordered despite many official comments that such an investigation was underway.

MAKING PROGRESS — Already there are positive signs that Kennedy's new strategy is working.

Several witnesses, summoned before grand juries this month, have asked for and received immunity from federal prosecution in exchange for a promise of full cooperation.

This surprising but not altogether unexpected development has greatly boosted the optimism of Justice Department crime busters and they are now forecasting a series of indictments by the end of September.

However, unless new evidence is turned up, it is unlikely that in the next few months there will be any new effort by Kennedy to move directly against Hoffa.

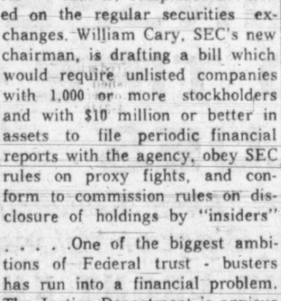

The Teamsters President is still under indictment in connection with a land transaction in Florida, but it is not likely that the Justice Department will push for trial of that fraud case.

Kennedy aides point out that indictment was returned in great haste in the final days of the Eisenhower administration and is considered to have some basic weaknesses.

Although young Kennedy plans to point his legal guns at Hoffa's associates in the weeks ahead, the Attorney General's main long-range target is still the Teamsters czar. He has vowed to aides that he will topple Hoffa before leaving office.

COMING EVENTS — Federal Judge J. Cullen Ganey, who fined 29 electrical companies and 45 of their executives a total of $1,925,000 for their part in an anti-trust conspiracy, will be named to the Third U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by President Kennedy. A Philadelphia Democrat, Ganey is expected to easily win Senate confirmation . . . Securities and Exchange Commission officials, despite the defeat of the administration's reorganization plan for the agency, are mustering arguments to use in a controversy they expect to stir up later this year. The issue: SEC's desire to broaden its surveillance of companies whose stocks are traded "over the counter" — that is, companies not listed on the regular securities exchanges. William Cary, SEC's new chairman, is drafting a bill which would require unlisted companies with 1,000 or more stockholders and with $10 million or better in assets to file periodic financial reports with the agency, obey SEC rules on proxy fights, and conform to commission rules on disclosure of holdings by "insiders" . . . . One of the biggest ambitions of Federal trust - busters has run into a financial problem. The Justice Department is anxious to know how well hundreds of old antitrust decrees are working. As a starter, Attorney General Robert Kennedy asked the Federal Trade Commission to check up on 60 decrees. FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon replied that to do the job he would need an additional million dollars.

matter of Fact

Like many other smart animals, dolphins know the value of teamwork. The "killer whale," actually a dolphin, is about 30 feet long and likes to hunt in packs. A seal sunning himself on the Antarctic ice may feel safe from these killers—but that isn't taking teamwork into account. In combined assault, killer whales lunge at the ice and break it. The startled seal is tipped into the water—a quick lunch for every member of the team.

The American Way

By MAURICE R. FRANKS

"Nothing in this Act shall be construed as authorizing the execution or application of agreements requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment in any State or Territory in which such execution or application is prohibited by State or Territorial law."

Such is the language of the National Labor - Management Relations (Taft - Hartley) Act on the subject of compulsory unionism — the herding of workers into unions not of their own choosing by labor bosses as a take - it - or leave - it condition of employment, on a private - licensing basis. Such is Taft - Hartley's famed Section 14-(b).

This is the provision of Federal labor law which, although it does not itself ban compulsory unionism, does at least respect the sovereign right of each one of our fifty States, at its own discretion, to do so. It does this specifically, by declining to preempt the rights of States to adopt so-called right-to - work laws of their own, should the citizens of any State or Territory be opposed to letting union leadership ride herd on industrial workers.

As a result of Taft - Hartley's Section 14-(b), nineteen of our States to date have exercised their sovereignty and have passed right - to-work laws — and that number includes the northern industrial state of Indiana.

This provision and the situation it has led to — the preservation of some measure of union democracy in almost two fifths of our United States — has always irked the nation's union hierarchy. In almost forty per cent of our States, workers are still free to join or not to join a union. In that "dangerously" large percentage of States, unionism must be sold on merit — not rammed down the throats of employes who may with good reason have no use for its leadership. Here, then, is a source of considerable embarrassment to union heads, who may be possessed of merit too minor to be sold and who elsewhere rely exclusively on legalized coercion to fill out the ranks of their unions with members and their coffers with dues reluctantly paid.

Because of the loophole (14-(b) has left in the labor leaders' drive to organize every last corner of American industry and every last ounce of American manpower, they have worked tooth and nail over the years to have it sponged from the slate. Millions of union dollars have been spent fighting to close that loophole in Taft-Hartley, when it became apparent that, for all their hollering and yelling about "Slave Labor Law," the labor bosses weren't going to succeed in getting Taft - Hartley repealed in toto. In campaign after campaign, the big professionals of the labor movement have assailed the States' rights principle expressed in Section 14 (b) with all the political - action weapons they could muster. The last national political campaign was no exception. They let the platform committees of both parties know what they wanted and, ever since a Democratic Administration and a Democratic Congress were returned to Washington, the labor leaders have been clamoring for early repeal of 14-(b) in terms of a "political debt" that they believe is now theirs to collect.

Now it may be that certain members of the 87th Congress are listening to nothing in the world but the droning commands emanating from the House of Labor, but I doubt that more than a handful of Congressmen and Senators are so limited in their intelligence, so provincial in their interests, so lacking in knowledge of their mainline responsibilities and so picayune in their integrity as to study the matter no further. I, for one, am convinced that the vast majority of our federal lawmakers, regardless of party label or the specific areas of sectionalism they may as individuals represent, and are elected to represent, are nevertheless fully cognizant of their obligation to serve the best interests of our American economic society as a whole, and that they know as well as you and I do what a jungleland of union savagery would be precipitated throughout the country, were the last barrier to universal compulsory unionism to be removed.

I'm sure that your Congressman and mine, along with the Senators representing the dignity of each and every state in the union, have a pretty clear notion of who elected them to office and why, as candidates, they were elected. It may have been labor that in some instances tipped the scales in their favor, but I think that as practical politicians these lawmakers know the difference between an honest, God-fearing workingman and the cynical autocrat who, just because he heads a labor union, presumes to call himself "Labor."

We hope and pray that our legislators at Washington will not sell the American workers down the river by killing Section 14-(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which enables the individual States to ban compulsory unionism. More on this important subject in my next article.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is evidence, but not much, of grass roots resentment against loose and open-handed administration of public relief for the needy and indigent.

There is likely to be evidence of more resentment rather than less. The story of attempts to knock chiselers off the relief gravy train centers now in two states thousands of miles apart. It is a statewide story in Oregon. It is the story of one small town in New York state.

The significant thing about what is taking place in Oregon and in Newburgh, N. Y., is that it is sparking interest in other states and cities and towns. The well-edited Wall Street Journal, always alert to a good story, gave the Oregon experiment its first national publicity puff 10 days ago.

The Oregon plan simply requires that able bodied persons receiving public welfare funds must work on public projects, road maintenance, maintenance of county buildings and such. A reliefer who is able but refuses work on public projects offered by the county is dropped from relief rolls, instantly.

Such public work earns the worker $1 an hour, plus expenses for necessary special clothing or equipment and something for extra food. One Oregon county undertook this program in 1959. It was in operation almost statewide last winter and will be resumed during the season of slack employment.

In the Oregon experiment some reliefers suddenly found private employment when confronted with a choice between public work at $1 an hour or being separated from the relief rolls.

The New York Times devoted all the news matter on a single page of its Sunday edition to the Newburgh experiment. This city of 30,000 has proceeded further than Oregon into the problem of relief costs and chiselers. Newburgh provides public work as does Oregon under similar conditions.

Mothers of illegitimate children in Newburgh have been told that another illegitimate birth will deprive them of relief aid. 'The homes of children receiving aid must be found satisfactory on inspection. If otherwise, the child is placed in foster care in lieu of welfare aid to the family's adults.

Relief is denied in Newburgh to applicants who quit work voluntarily; being neither fired nor laid off. The city complains of an invasion of new residents who connect immediately with the welfare rolls. Newburgh will require all newcomers applying for relief to prove that they came to the city in response to an actual job offer. Those who can prove it are eligible to a fortnight of relief. Others are eligible to relief for one week only.

Newburgh authorities explain that 1,380 persons of a population of 30,000 are on relief. The cost is $938,000 of a $3 million annual budget. Thus 95 per cent of the population has been spending one-third of its money to support 5 per cent of the population.

After all is said and done, it's time to break up the party. © NEA

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Perhaps you remember the answer given by the famous artist when a student asked him now he mixed his paints:

"With brains."

Perhaps you'll think no better of my answer to the many who ask a cure for ringworm and related disorders.

For the answer is, "With understanding."

Now here are the things you must understand if you wish to prevent and-or cure such nuisance disorders as "athlete's foot," "dishpan hands," "jungle rot" and similar disturbances:

— Each is caused by fungi, molds or yeasts.

— Although they are called infections, they are really not true infections in that they do not ordinarily involve an invasion of living body tissues by the causative microorganism (pathogen).

— Instead, these pathogens cause the local skin disturbance as a result of their growth on dead skin, skin peelings and hair, moistened by bath water, sweat or the tissue fluid that appears on the surface of scraped skin.

— We cannot prevent these infections by our efforts to kill these pathogens since they are present in the air we breathe, the dust that settles on our floor coverings, the water we bathe in, the soil we walk on, the grains we harvest, the produce that grows in the soil and the coats, dander and paws of domestic animals and household pets.

— To prove that the mere presence of these pathogens is insufficient to cause disease, volunteers soaked their feet for 30 minutes in water that had been heavily contaminated with ringworm fungus. Not a single case of ringworm developed.

— But if you fail to dry between the toes and fingers, under the arms, in the crotch area and other sites where dead skin and skin peelings tend to accumulate, you provide these otherwise harmless fungi and molds with a diet on which they can thrive and establish colonies.

— Thus the problem presented is not that of applying fungus or mold killers (fungicides and mycocides). It is that of making special efforts to see that these pathogens do not get the food and fluids they require to grow and reproduce.

In another column, I'll give detailed directions for preventing fungus disturbances.

Drug Industry 'Greedy', Subcommittee Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The drug industry is a greedy near-monopoly that often pays more to advertise its wares than it does to make them and charges ailing American as much as 30 cents for a 1.5-cent pill, according to a Senate antitrust subcommittee.

The subcommittee made the charges in a 261-page report to the Senate Tuesday night by Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., who wants to impose strict federal controls on the drug industry.

The report, summarizing a two-year investigation, said the industry holds unjustifiable market controls over life-and-death drugs to write prescriptions by brand names.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, and Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., called the Democratic committeemen's charge a monstrosity. They said the majority report made "no attempt whatsoever to be objective."

The report said that consumers who must have prednisone or prednisolone bearing the brand name of a major pharmaceutical company paid about 30 cents for a pill that can be made for 1.5 cents.

The report said drugs sold to consumers for $2.3 billion in 1959 cost the 22 major producers less than a third of that amount to make.

"On the average, selling expense constitutes the largest single item for all these companies, often exceeding the cost of goods sold," the report said.

News Briefs

HAILS PHILIPPINE FREEDOM

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Kennedy Wednesday saluted the 15th anniversary of Philippine independence by expressing the affection, admiration and respect of the United States for the Filipino people.

In a message published in the New York Journal of Commerce's special issue on Philipine economic development, Kennedy said that "this progress in which the United States hopes to be of continued assistance offers great encouragement and hope not only for the Philippine people themselves but for all the free nations of Asia.

BOMBS INJURE 18

ALGIERS (UPI)—A series of four plastic bomb and hand grenade explosions injured a total of 18 persons in Algiers and the eastern city of Tizi-Ouzou Wednesday night.

Police blamed two of the explosions on rightwing settler extremists and two on Moslem rebels.

72 Girls Start Tour Of America's Cities

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seventy-two young ladies, 15 to 19 years of age, set out today to see this country—as one of them put it—"from the inside."

The girls and their eight adult chaperones come from 27 of the states and 12 foreign countries.

During the next six weeks—with most of the American girls traveling in different sections of the country from their homes—they'll probably see a good deal more of the United States than many Americans are likely to in a lifetime.

The American girls, all Senior Girl Scouts, and the foreign girls, Girl Guide Rangers, split up into four groups and boarded buses.

Two of the buses started out from Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. One headed for the Northwest and the other started a trip through the Southwest. Two others departed from New York to cover the Northeast and Southeast.

All four groups also will see a good deal of the United States before they meet at the University of Kansas, Aug. 8 to compare notes.

By that time, the girls will have covered a total of more than 16,000 miles, traveled through 40 states and the District of Columbia, stopped over at 52 towns an cities and spent a night or two in the homes of about 1,000 American families, all told.

The foreign girls' trip was financed by the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund established in honor of the founder of girl scouting in this country and supported by nickels and dimes contributed by scouts. A $200 fee charged the U.S. girls was either raised by their local scout council or by the girls themselves.

Cities to be visited by the Southeast tour group include Washington, Williamsburg, Va.; Winston-Salem and Asheville, N. C.; Oak Ala.; Jackson, Miss.; New Orleans; Houston; Shreveport, La.; Fayetteville, Ark., and Tulsa, Okla.

Southern girls touring other parts of the country include:

Southwest: Mary Elizabeth Brott, 18, Franklin, Va., and Mary Holmberg, 17, South Miami, Fla.

Northeast: Susan Remington, 17 Winter Park, Fla.

Northwest: Martha Jean Ketella, 15, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Rosan Kozlowski, 18, Tampa, Fla.; Joan Landry, 17, Biloxi, Miss., and Carol Van Sant, 16, Winter Haven, Fla.

Physicians Ask Mass Injection Of Polio Vaccine

NEW YORK (UPI)—American Medical Association delegates today unanimously approved a report urging mass vaccination with the new Sabin oral polio vaccine, despite a protest by Dr. Jonas A. Salk that the report was based on "embarrassingly uncertain scientific grounds."

The 216-member AMA House of Delegates had no word of the Salk protest at the time of the voice vote. There was no discussion of the report.

Salk, whose injected polio vaccine has been in use since 1955, had telegraphed Dr. Norman Welsh, house chairman, cautioning the AMA that the report contained misinformation and misleading inferences. Public relations officials said no such telegram had been received during the sesson in which the report was considered.

The AMA drug council had called for mass public use of the new Sabin vaccine —made of tamed-down, live viruses.

The council said the Sabin vaccine, served in a sweet syrup, presents a unique opportunity to eliminate polio as a significant public health problem. The inference that stirred Salk was that no such vaccine developed to date could do this.

FRONDIZI ACCEPTS BIDS

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—President Arturo Frondizi has accepted an invitation to visit Thailand and Japan at year's end, it was announced today.

GILROY, Calif. (UPI) — An illegal cockfight at Giroy Sunday drew 12 sheriff's deputies and Judge John M. Klarich, who levied fines of $26.25 on each of the 87 spectators.

The 52 gamecocks were confiscated — and converted into stewed chicken at the county jail farm Monday.
