She replaces Miss Valda Moore, Miss Betsy Wilson, Lubbock, with an A. B. degree from Texas Tech, will teach English in Junior High. She succeeds Miss Faye McCandless.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Religious Homes Needed by a Nation

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 12.

Text: Deuteronomy 6:4-5; 11:18-25.

RELIGION in the home is the foundation upon which religion in the nation is built. Home life is the greatest determining factor in the quality of a nation's life.

The Bible is a great textbook of home and family life. The Hebrew scriptures would seem to be almost unique in the ancient world in the high idealism that they attached to family relationships. Among pagan peoples who even had considerable culture, it was not thought inconsistent with good practice to expose the weak and the aged to death; but Hebrew children were taught to love and honor their parents, and the Hebrew scriptures again and again bear evidence of the deep affection of parents for their children.

At a later time the Jews are foremost in education, and the Jewish boy of 12 in the time of Jesus had a training that would compare favorably with what the boy of today receives under a modern educational system.

In some respects, perhaps, the training was deeper and more effective. Here in this lesson from the early life of Israel, there is strong insistence upon the teaching of children in the home, the training of them in the great traditions and principles of their national religious life, and the strengthening of them for all the duties and responsibilities of life.

THERE is a sort of imperialistic note in this lesson in the idea of a strong nation disposing other peoples and driving them out; and all this does not measure very properly with the ideals of New Testament religion, which is the religion of love even to enemies, and the religion of mercy and justice.

But apart from this imperialism of an undivided age, the sort of imperialism that is still too rampant in a world that has not progressed to the heights of New Testament teaching, the teaching of this lesson is sound in its suggestion that the strength of a nation depends upon the relationships of its people in their home and daily life.

WE read an ancient lesson in terms of Christian fulfillment of Old Testament ideas. What makes a Christian home? First of all, a sense of the responsibility of parents to God. A home cannot be Christian where parents themselves do not love and worship the Great Father. Where parents love God, they will love their children truly and deeply. They will have the same love toward their children that God has, even toward his erring and wayward ones.

Where a home is truly Christian, children will love and honor their parents, and there will be an attitude of accord and helpfulness toward one another. One of the saddest things in life is to see brothers and sisters traducing the very name of brotherhood. Our great words—fatherhood, motherhood, brotherhood—are embedded in the conception of the ideal home.

The great question confronting us in church and in state is how increasingly we can make our homes ideal homes, until all the homes of the nation become filled with the right spirit and the nation itself is one great home and family.

CERTAIN TREES GROW LOCALLY

CHINESE ELMS THRIVE BEST IN SEMI-ARID CLIMATES ACCORDING TO SURVEY MADE RECENTLY

Amarillo, Texas, Sept. 9.—The Osage orange, commonly known as bois d'arc, the red cedar and the Chinese elm are the trees best suited to the semi-arid conditions of the Southern Great Plains, a survey recently completed by M. T. Bunger, Jr., forester for the Soil Conservation Service project at Guyton, Oklahoma, reveals.

In making the survey, a count was made of tree plantings of all common species, many of which are more than 30 years old, in the Panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma, southwest Kansas and southeast Colorado.

Trees were counted only where it was definitely determined that they had been well established and had survived up to the recent drought period. The survey included sites of all kinds on well-drained slopes and on high flats. Low creek sites where excessive moisture was available were not included. Approximately 6,500 trees were counted, including about the same number of each species.

The approximate percentage of survival, or those alive in 1937, was found to be as follows: Black locust, 67 per cent; Osage orange, 85; red cedar, 93; Chinese elm (nine years old), 87; ash, 5; mulberry, 42; thorny locust, 48; black walnut, 18; and seedling apricot, 7.

This survey, Bunger points out, shows that the black walnut, seedling apricot and ash have not been able to withstand the drought. Mulberry and thorny locust have survived fairly well, although the first has suffered seriously from winter killing, and the latter from the ravages of the tree borer. This leaves the Osage orange, red cedar and Chinese elm as the most favorable trees for the semi-arid area.

The Osage orange or bois d'arc is slow growing under dry conditions, but makes a good tree when given sufficient water. The red cedar, although difficult to get started, is able to survive adverse weather conditions. Trees of this species are to be found on bare and dry rocky hillsides and along canyon walls in Texas and New Mexico. The Chinese elm, although introduced into the Southern Great Plains only recently, has made a rapid growth despite drought conditions and promises to be especially adaptable to the area.

MUSICAL WILL BE SHOWN

"Broadway Melody of 1938," as its name implies, is a year ahead of its time.

The stimulating musical from Broadway-Mayer showing at the Ellis Sunday and Monday, September 12-13, co-starring Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell, with a cast of virtually an all-star aggregation.

Includes George Murphy, Bing Crosby, Buddy Ebsen, Sophie Tucker, Judy Garland, Charles Igor Raymond Walburn, Robert Taylor, Willie Howard, Charles Lane, Robert Wildhack and a host of lovely girls.

Del Ruth directed and the cast was Jack Cummings, Dave Roberts, Herb Brown and Arthur H. Hays Sulzberger on the musical score. The songs are sure-fire hits.

There has never produced a more musical comedy sets on a ninety-ton glass curtain, a set of the Gotham Skyline, and a set of cellophane costumes; a set of race track scenes and a set of night club sets, all flash with amazing speed.

The musical story supports the lead Miss Powell, loyal to her father, backs one of her fathers. In order to keep the full she dances in a night club, as an earnest young girl, buys the animal at an auction to save it for her and sure the horse romps home a champion of the big race.

"Broadway Melody of 1938" will be the foremost musical ever produced and, with the aid of the studio, it surpasses anything possible on the stage.

QUESTION UNSOLVED

Mr. N. J.—Little did a South Texan realize the commotion starting when she asked the department of Agriculture for pig's tails curled clockwise counter-clockwise. Several pig raisers advised Fred W. Jackson, department director, that they would counter-clockwise. Then he examined 40 porkers and the majority curling the other way. Letters are pouring in from pig raisers giving their own twist in a pig's tail.

Albert Cooper and his Shamrock Texas staff are to be congratulated for that most excellent 60-page "Eastern Panhandle Progress Edition" issued Tuesday.

Another Panhandle newspaper rendered a service to their community this week with a special edition. On Sunday, J. C. Phillips of the Borger Daily Herald came out with a 58-page issue advertising the Hutchinson County Fair.

Warren R. Landrum, superintendent of the Stratford project of the SCS, and his staff, with the cooperation of the farmers living within the project area are doing a wonderful job of proving that the badly wind-eroded land of that section can be returned to production, even in a year of sub-normal rainfall like the present.

The Stratford project includes 25,000 acres and every acre in the project is under contract with the exception of four sections belonging to non-residents. When reclamation work started about a year ago, practically every acre had up to 24 inches of the top soil removed. The land was covered with hummocks and dunes.

On a tour through the project, the G. C. Brown place south of Stratford demonstrates that trees can be made to grow. Here we found a wonderful tree site. Eight inch trees planted a year ago, some of them are now 10 ft. high. Mr. Brown is making a comeback with the help of the SCS. He has a fine feed crop this year, two sections, and has two big trench silos to store green feed.

Terraces and contour farming is the order of the day in the project. Another thing that impressed us, we being from the country where farmers with half-section equipment and finances invariably farm not less than two sections, was the fact that farmers in the project do not attempt to farm over one-half of a section with one-tractor equipment. But they're taking care of their land, raising a good feed crop this year with only six to seven inches of moisture since January 1. Shows what scientific farming methods and hard work can do.

This same condition does not hold true in Sherman county outside of the confines of the project. In the project, there is no attempt to raise wheat. Outside it is a different story. Same land, same moisture but not the same farming methods. To an outsider it looks like Sherman county needs at least one more demonstration project. There is not a single WPA project in the county and as WPA labor is used on these demonstration projects, the setting up of another area would solve the employment and relief problem and at the same time, create another "oasis."

Visited the Campbell Roberts place on the Dallam County demonstration project. Here B. H. Hopkins, project superintendent, showed us around. The Roberts place is covered with the finest feed crop you ever saw. Last spring it looked like a desert and this transformation has been accomplished with 70 percent of normal rainfall.

Even on the run-down farm of Ernest Lovelace, a RA client, we saw feed that was going to make this relief client a good return. The Lovelace place was one of the worst eroded places in the project. He raised some feed last year, has a good cover crop on his ground this year and will have a fair crop.

In the Dalhart project, there is 47,000 acres with 29,000 acres under agreement. It is 18 miles northeast of Dalhart. It is worth the time and expense to make the trip to these two projects and see for yourself the wonderful come-back these people are making with the help of the SCS. Tree sites are flourishing with Desert Willow, Honey Locust, Cottonwood, Green Ash and Chinese Elm trees doing the best.

One of the most interesting examples of what can be done was seen on the C. M. Peden farm. This was the farm that was played up by the RA in their picture, "The Plow that Broke the Desert" and it was on this place that many of the scenes of desolation and havoc from wind erosion were "shot". This had been a wheat farm until drouth and wind brought ruination. Then came the desert scenes followed by SCS. This same farm produced a half-ton of maize to the acre last year and from present indications, it will be better this year. Every acre is terraced and contour farmed.

Sherman and Dallam counties are not ruined by any means. The SCS has shown them the way back to normalcy. What they need is more projects and we feel sure that Federal authorities will see the success of the present projects and grant the plea of the people of that section for more aid. It is so much better to "see relief labor on country saving projects like soil conservation than it is for other improvements, maybe needed, but not so essential.

CHURCHES GAINING MEMBERS

New York City.—According to the Christian Herald's annual survey, membership in American churches gained 857,404 last year, "a direct contradiction," the paper remarks, "of the pessimistic reports which still so often fill the pages of the secular press, and even some religious publications." Since 1926 it is estimated that churches have gained 9,000,000 new members, or nearly double the decade's ratio of increase in population.

Although both his legs were lost in an accident when he was 9 years old, barrel-chested Charles Jimmy, above, 43-year-old swimmer, set a new endurance mark in the water when he swam for 148 hours down the Hudson river from Albany to New York City. He is shown waving to cameramen upon leaving the river at the 125th street pier.

NEW HOPE CLUB

Mrs. A. M. Koehn, Reporter
"Do not ruin the effect of your pictures by hanging them on a decorative wall," stated Miss Wertha Tarter, Home Demonstration agent, at a meeting of the New Hope Club in the home of Mrs. Fred Furnish on Wednesday, September 1.

You may achieve color in a plain room with pictures and curtains; but if the walls are decorative, use plain curtains and do not hang pictures where a colorful wall will detract from their beauty. Miss Tarter gave an interesting demonstration on beautifying bedrooms. She says, "In arranging flowers, do not crowd them."

Delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames W. G. Yeary, O. E. Carter, W. L. Lovett, Loyd Furnish, Charlie Cudd, C. J. Frantz and daughter, J. E. Yaden and daughter Susie, A. M. Koehn, Miss Wertha Tarter and the hostess.

WOLF CREEK CLUB

Mrs. S. J. Handy, Reporter
"Color goes a long way in adding attractiveness to the bedroom," stated Miss Wertha Tarter, the County Home Demonstration Agent, to the Wolf Creek Club in the home of Mrs. J. H. Callihan, September 2. Colorful vases and bouquets add color. Arrange the flowers in the vase at an uneven height. To keep fresh, rearrange each day, cutting off a piece of each stem. Baking powder added to the water will freshen the flowers.

Pictures that mean something to the one occupying the bedroom add something. Arrange the pictures, with invisible hangings, level with the eye.

Mrs. Lawrence Elzey joined the club. Those present for the meeting were: Mesdames Walter Daniel, T. V. Elzey, Lawrence Elzey, S. J. Handy, Misses Pauline Callihan, Jackie Callihan and Wertha Tarter agent and the hostess.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times, and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is his treasure" (Isaiah 33:6).

Undulant Fever

Disease Contracted from Cattle, Hogs or Sheep; Many Cases Reported in Texas

George W. Cox. This indicates the fever constitutes a public health problem and also the necessity of its more general recognition. "Undulant fever is so named because of the wave-like variations in temperature. The symptoms include rise in temperature, loss of weight and strength, chills, sweat and joint pains. The disease has rather a low mortality rate, but is important because symptoms may persist for a number of weeks and even months before normal health and strength are restored," Dr. Cox explained.

In Texas, the goat, horse and cow are the usual spreader of this disease. The germs of undulant fever enter the body through the mouth or skin. Therefore, care should be used in handling animals known to be infected and dairy products from the same sources should be pasteurized, if used. More men acquire this disease than women and adults seem more likely to have it than children. More cases are found in the rural areas than in cities.

Prevention of undulant fever is based upon the detection of the disease in live stock and the elimination of the infected animals from the herds. Dairy herds should be tested for Bacillus abortus. This is

LAND RESTORED WITH SOME AID

ECHOLS BROTHERS BRING TO LIFE ABANDONED LAND BY TERRACING AND CONSERVATION

Lamesa, Texas, Aug. 9.—When Boyd and Carson Echols bought a 320-acre farm eight miles east of Lamesa last November some of their neighbors shook their heads and commented that the youthful brothers certainly had "cut out a task for themselves."

This apprehension was well justified. The farm probably was in just about the worst condition of any tract of land in the Soil Conservation Service camp area at Lamesa. The sandy land, having a slope of four to five per cent, is at the head of a drainage area. The field had been washed down to the subsoil in many spots, and deep gullies were being cut by the run-off water.

The western half of the farm had been planted to cotton for 12 years. Since cotton provides little cover during the blowing season, this part of the field had been damaged severely by wind erosion. The eastern half had been damaged to such an extent by wind and water erosion that it had failed to produce a crop for five years and had lain idle for the last three years.

This farm not only was non-productive, but stood as a menace to the surrounding land. Located at the head of the drainageway, the unprotected field allowed water to sweep down upon a large ranch, creating gullies, and resulting in valuable range land being flooded. During the blowing season, soil from the barren field was carried over a large area to damage productive farms.

Since the Echols family owns two full sections of land immediately adjoining the brothers were especially interested in doing something to control the field that was menacing hundreds of acres of surrounding farms and ranches.

When the Echols brothers purchased the 320 acres, they knew exactly what they wanted to do. They became cooperators with the Soil Conservation Service camp at Lamesa and adopted a program of soil and moisture conservation.

Nine terraces were constructed on half of the field before planting time. Sudan grass was planted on the terraces, and a strip-cropping plan was adopted, grain sorghums and cotton being seeded in strips of equal width.

Despite the severely eroded condition of the land, moisture conservation resulted in good stands being obtained except in a few spots where all the topsoil had been lost. The entire field is being cultivated on the contour and has been stabilized against blowing. The terraces are holding the water on the field where it falls and damage to land farther down the drainageway is being eliminated.

The young farmers estimate they will harvest a ton of grain sorghums to the acre, and at least a half bale of cotton. Such a yield will be more than the land has produced in the previous six years, they say.

This fall, they plan to terrace the remainder of the field and to strengthen the structures built last winter. The crop strips will be rotated next season to furnish additional residue for the soil.

"I am greatly pleased with the crops this year, but best results cannot be expected for a year or two when full benefits of terracing will be realized," says Boyd Echols. "Just to prove how well pleased I am, I have just refused an offer of $5 an acre profit for the 320 acres," he adds.

Swimming Pool Closes

Season Over With Total Receipts Running $2,487.52; Provided Recreation Spot for All

At the meeting of the city council Tuesday night it was decided to bring the 1937 swimming season to a close next Sunday, September 12. Like all things of this nature business falls off during the latter part of the season but record crowds may be expected during next summer at this popular place when it opens next spring.

The municipal pool has shown a decided profit during its first season of operation under the direction of Mayor Forbes and Paul Bowen, manager. The total receipts for the three months which included the confectionery stand at the entrance, were $2,487.52.

Since September 1, the swimming hours which were originally in two shifts, have been changed to 3:00 p. m. 9:00 p. m. on week days and from 3:00 p. m. to 7:00 p. m. on Sundays.

The pool is to remain closed during the winter months and will be looked after by a caretaker. Complete arrangements have not been made as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tandy and sons, Phillip and Joe Bill, left Monday for their home in Carrollton, Ky., after visiting in the home of his sister, Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, for several weeks.

DREW ELLIS TO COACHING JOB

ACCEPTS POSITION AS HEAD COACH AT CLARKSVILLE, TEXAS SCHOOL; ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Drew Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ellis of this city, has accepted the position of athletic director of the Clarksville, Texas schools. In the Clarksville school, Drew will devote his entire time to athletics, teaching no subjects. He will have an assistant coach under him.

Drew graduated this summer from T. C. U. with a Bachelor of Science degree. At T. C. U., he won national fame in football, lettering all four years, and being honored by being selected as co-captain of last years team. He received honorable mention for All-American tackle.

He was a member of "Dutch" Meyers All-Star team of college players that defeated the Chicago Bears, Monday night in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas by a 6-0 score.

Drew's rise as a football star has been remarkable and his record is an outstanding example of what can be accomplished through proper training and coaching. Drew, when he entered the Perryton high school, was small for his age and it was not until his last year in high school that he succeeded in making the team. But, at T. C. U. he was a star almost from the start. He made the Freshman team, weighing 158 lbs. Then came the Sophomore year, when with his weight up to 178 lbs., he made the varsity. Then as a Junior, weight 195 lbs., and a Senior with 225 lbs. of beef and muscle, he developed into the star tackle of the Southwestern conference.
