Hereford's Water Supply: How Long Will It Last?

By WAIN MILLER
Staff Writer

It's a question often addressed to Hereford's business leaders, real estate men, farmers, and residents by persons expressing both curiosity and downright concern.

"How long will Hereford's underground water supply last?"

TWO MEN who are in positions to know the "real facts" about the answer to that question said here this week that the area's present underground water reservoir will continue to supply needs for many years to come.

Experts agree, they said, that the formation from which the area's water is currently obtained will continue to yeild water for at least 50 years.

THIS FIGURE is a "bare minimum," according to engineers who have given the question more than careful study.

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce President Wayne Thomas — in a speech welcoming new teachers to Hereford— asserted Thursday night that "Hereford has nothing to fear concerning a future lack of water."

In an interview with a Brand reporter, a member of the board of directors of the High Plains Underground Water District said that improved farming methods and prospects for additional sources of water for the Hereford area should virtually remove the limits on this area's agricultural lifetime.

Frank Bezner, a member of the water district board, said that studies conducted by the district indicated that water lying in the Ogalla strata—water-bearing sand from which Deaf Smith County water is currently pumped—would probably last at least 50 years at the present rate of extraction.

BUT THIS does not mean that conservation of water is not of utmost importance, said Bezner, who returned Thursday from Los Angelas, Calif., where he and othe representatives of the district attended a meeting in order to learn of new conservation methods and prospects.

Bezner and six other water district officials attended the Biennial Conference on Ground Water Recharge, Development, and Management, attended by some 400 persons from throughout the nation.

THERE, they heard reports describing progress in water conservation. The conference is the largest of its kind in the nation.

Bezner stated that improved farming methods alone will serve to curtail use—and waste —of water in the Hereford area during coming years...so much so that experts believe that this will considerably extend the "minimum" life of the underground supply which is now being used.

HE SAID that the water district predicts that the peak extraction of underground water within its 13-county district will come in the year 1970.

After that, Bezner said, decline of the water will begin to taper off because of better usage of the water which is extracted.

This, he continued, does not mean that agricultural production will be trimmed...merely that farmers will be able to grow more with less water.

Other bright spots in the story of the future of Hereford's water supply lie in current stu- water recharge, importing of dies being made on ground water from Canada, deep wells, which go into water-beaving strata below the Ogalla's formation—and other projects.

Area Workshop Set Sept. 21 For Masons

A Workshop has been scheduled for officers and members of Masonic Lodges in this area at 8 p. m., Sept. 21. The meeting will be held at the Masonic Hall on Country Club Drive in Hereford. Officers of Dimmitt, Vega, Bovina, Friona and Hereford are especially invited.

The program is conducted for nearly 1,000 Texas Masonic Lodges with a membership of 250,000 men. The Masonic Order is the state's largest fraternal organization.

The purpose of the Workshop is to enable Masons to study common problems of Masonic Lodges and their operations. The Workshop will be conducted by J. B. Noland, a Summer field rancher and chairman of Masonic Workshop Area E-6.

Grand Master Hinsley stressed the importance of attendance by all Lodge officers and emphasized that other Masons are welcome.

Speakers Outline Hereford Growth

New Faculty Group Hears Cheery Note

Prospects for Hereford's unprecedented growth during the coming 20-year period — and a history of the area's past — were described to new faculty members of the Hereford school system at a banquet here Thursday night.

Sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, the dinner honored 36 teachers who moved to Hereford this summer to teach in schools here.

Hereford businessmen served as hosts to the dinner, which has become an annual affair.

The growth of Hereford from its birth in 1898 to the present — and the boom which has just begun to spring it into city-hood — were described by Mrs. Bessie Patterson, author of "A History of Deaf Smith County"; and Wayne Thomas, president of the county's chamber of commerce.

Thomas told the 250 persons present of predictions that the city of Hereford would have 20,000 residents within 10 years.

"HEREFORD has grown as much in the past five years as in the preceding 30 years," he pointed out.

Thomas quoted the recently released Blanton survey, commissioned by the chamber, which goes on to predict that Hereford's population will reach 90,000 by 1990.

Blanton's computations show Hereford to possess the fastest-growing business index of any city in the state of Texas, Thomas continued.

HE POINTED to the climb in bank deposits from $8 million in 1950 to more than $26 million today, adding that Blanton predicts this figure will reach $47 million within a decade.

"These figures are conservative," Thomas asserted, pointing out that Blanton was commissioned to compile the business and industrial survey after

Farming Methods Viewed On Tour

Area farmers and residents will have a chance to see sights of farming interest Tuesday on the Deaf Smith County Crops Tour sponsored by the County Crops Committee and Tierra Blanca Soil Consevation District.

The tour will leave the north side of the courthouse at 1 p.m. Transportation will be provided by a school bus and private cars.

FIRST STOP on the tour will be at the Mack Noland farm were tour members will see an assortment of cool season grass. Don Newman, local soil conservation office director, will describe the demonstration.

He will tell how the grasses can keep water runoff from eroding valuable soil.

CHEMICAL weed control on cotton, corn, sorghums, soybeans, and grasses will be demonstrated on the George Warner farm by Warner and Dr. Allen Wiese who is stationed at the Bushland experimental station.

J. E. McCathern will demonstrate to tour members his lake pump and tail water return system.

Use of minumum irrigation, sorghum variety, skiprow planting and cotton interplanting demonstrations will be shown to tour members on the Marnell brother's farm.

Easter Firms Slate Picnic For Residents

Some 1,500 persons are expected to be on hand for a chicken fry at the Easter community Saturday.

The get-together, sponsored by Easter Community Gin, Community Grain Corp., and Spencer Chemical Co. of Easter, is being staged for customers of the three firms.

Fried chicken with all the trimmings will be served by a Lubbock catering service and musical entertainment will be provided.

U. S. Congressman Walter Rogers and state representative Bill Clayton are slated to be present for the affair but are not scheduled for the program.

"It's just a get-together for the folks who do business at Easter," a spokesman said, "and the two representatives will just be one of the bunch."

FROM CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Letter Protests Sales By Out-Of-Town Groups

A letter from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to Amarillo news media protesting "the continued invasion of Hereford by Amarillo groups conducting rummage sales in our city" received wide publication this week.

The letter was okayed by the local chamber after numerous complaints from local citizens were heard.

Chamber manager Bill Thompson addressed the letter to the Amarillo Globe News and sent copies to all Amarillo radio and television stations.

THE LETTER stated:

On behalf of the churches, clubs, and organizations of Hereford and Deaf Smith County we must most strongly protest against the continued invasion of Hereford by Amarillo groups conducting rummage sales in our city. This has always seemed ludicrous to us and has caused very serious resentment against Amarillo in this community. We cannot imagine why people in a community boasting of a population of over 150,000 find it necessary to conduct their fund-raising campaigns in a community of our size in competition with our churches, clubs, and organizations. There certainly must be sufficient market for this type of operation in your own community. We do not and do not propose to send our groups up there; we only ask that you give us consideration before planning such events and consider the effect that this has on the people of Hereford.

This Chamber of Commerce has enjoyed very fine relations with the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and has worked with it on many projects. One of the announced aims of the Amarillo Chamber has been to improve relations with communities in its wholesaling trade territory. This thoughtless action by church groups, clubs and organizations in Amarillo is undoing much of the fine work of the Amarillo Chamber. Your comment in publication of the contents of this letter would be appreciated.

Sincerely,
W. T. Thompson

IT WAS pointed out by Thompson in other comment that "rummage sales" staged by Amarillo groups in Hereford have become "almost weekly events."

He emphacised that the letter was not designed to create ill will between Hereford and the organizations involved, but merely to curtail a problem which was seemingly on the increase.

THOMPSON told the Brand Saturday that he had received a letter from one of the clubs involved saying that it would cancel plans for further sales here.

It was also pointed out that one of the Amarillo organizations had staged sales at the intersection of Main St. and U.S. Hwy. 60, "creating an undesirable view of Hereford for passing motorists."

CITY, COUNTY, AND SCHOOL

Council Groups Schedule Sessions

City, county, and school governing groups each have important and lengthy agendas scheduled for separate meetings here Monday and Tuesday.

A DISCUSSION of possible remodelling of the county bull bar will highlight the county commission meeting, which gets underway at 10 a.m. Monday in the courthouse.

Also slated on the county's agenda is continuation of investigation into the possibilities available for moderizing bookkeeping and billing operations in the county tax assessor-collector's office through electronic accounting machines.

CITY commissioners, in a meeting slated to begin at 7:30 Monday, will discuss a proposed ordinance controlling extra-territorial area surrounding the city, as permitted by state legislative action two years ago.

The state ruling allows cities to pass ordinances regulating surrounding property, but the city of Hereford has not taken any action along this line to date.

A REQUEST for a permit to operate a taxi in the city is also slated to be heard.

Commiesioners will aso hear a progress report on current paving projects within the city.

SCHOOL board members, in a meeting set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the school administration building, will hear several reports of varied topics and are expected to make some mod-predictions he made in 1955 concerning Hereford's status in 1965 proved with time to be "fantastically accurate."

In 1955, Blanton predicted Hereford's 1964 school enrollment within 25 students of the actual number enrolled, Thomas said.

Thomas also pointed out that Hereford is now ranked within the top five income producing counties in the United States, on a per capita basis.

EARLIER in the evening, Mrs. Patterson traced the history of the county, emphasing that "the growth which has made Hereford what it now is did not actually begin until after 1940."

She pointed out that the country was populated by cattlemen, but by 1903 the farmer had begun to make the area blossom.

This was when the first load of wheat was shipped from Hereford.

In 1912 came the shipment of the first load of sugar beets from Deaf Smith County . . . and even then, people were working to establish a sugar beet refinery here, she said.

"We are a persistent people when it comes to progress," she pointed out. "Our leaders began seeking a sugar mill back then and kept working on the project until — in 1963 — Holly Sugar Corp. announced it would build its $24 million plant here.

"This," she said, "is the spirit which has made Deaf Smith County what it is."

State Industry Cites Increase In Value Added

Texas industries reported a 1963 value added by manufacture of $7.05 billion , an increase of 40 percent over the value added for 1958, according to a preliminary report of the 1963 Census of Manufactures just issued by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

"VALUE ADDED by manufacture" approximates the value of products shipped minus the materials used to manufacture the products.

Chemicals and allied products led the State's industries with a value added figure of $1.7 billion, an increase of almost 58 percent over the value added for 1958, last previous year of the Census.

In second place was petroleum and coal products, which reported a 1963 value added of $956 million, more than 61 percent higher than in 1958. Food and allied products climbed 30 percent in the five-year period to a 1963 total of $923 million.

Fourth place went to transportation equipment, which reported a 1963 value added of $610 million, less than one percent higher than 1958.

The Houston Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area, consisting of Brazoria, Fort Bend, Harris, Liberty and Montgomery Counties, has a 1963 value added of $1.9 billion, almost 27 percent of the State's total.

The Dallas SMSA, consisting of Collin, Dallas, Denton and Ellis Counties, was in second place with a value added for 1963 of $1.2 billion, an increase of almost 38 percent over its value added for 1958.

The Beaumont-Port Arthur SMSA, consisting of Jefferson and Orange Counties, reported a value added for 1963 of $708 million, a jump of almost 87 percent over 1958.

Industries of the State employed 508,539 persons in 1963, compared with 478,251 in 1958 and the payroll climbed from $2.29 billion to $2.85 billion in the same period.

The report, "Texas," MC63-(P)S-44, is for sale by the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C. 20233 and U.S. Department of Commerce field offices. The price is 10 cents.

INDIANS RUN OWN RELIEF BUREAU

HAY LAKE, Alta. (AP) — The Indians of Hay Lake have set up their own welfare committee which is gaining the reputation of being tougher than the federal officials who handle Indian relief money.

The three-man committee screens welfare applicants and decides how much relief each family should get. It works in cooperation with federal Indian affairs branch officials.

"There's no doubt that the committee is tougher than I would be," says Joe Leask, superintendent of the federal Fort Vermilion-Slavey Indian agency, 400 miles northwest of Edmonton.

After the committee's first distribution of relief money, he says, "several people complained to me that they didn't receive relief. The committee thoroughly investigated each case."

The system is "working out fine" despite the Indians' initial reluctance to take on the job, Mr. Leask says. "There is no able-bodied man on this reserve on permanent relief."

The committee isn't the first move the Indians here have made since they marched on the Alberta legislature in February seeking provincial aid. A saw-mill has been established and construction of 14 houses is planned.

The saw mill, employing 15 Indians, can turn out 20,000 board-feet of lumber a day. Other Indians are working on house construction and building a fire line around the mill.

Your grain at 20% to 30% moisture is the best feed it will ever be.

So why spend your time and money drying your grain . . . and end up with a higher-cost feed?

Your corn, sorghum or barley at 20% to 30% moisture can give you up to 15% better meat or milk production than dry grains. This advantage has been shown in several authoritative college and on-the-farm feeding trials. Livestock eat more grain when it's moist, sweet and chewy . . . and make better use of what they eat.

So why go to all that extra effort and expense to dry your grain . . . and then end up with a less efficient feed?

Look at all the other advantages of HARVESTORE® high moisture grain. You harvest earlier in better weather. Field losses drop from 10% down to 2% or less. You shell or grind as you pick . . . haul right from field to storage. No slowdown in your harvest to wait for the dryer. No extra hauling or handling. No costly drying. Losses in storage are practically eliminated. And you're ready to feed with the push of a button.

The provisional title is "2:2.5," to suggest the idea of split-second timing. Montaldo said he got the idea from an actual robbery years ago at Genoa.

LAST DITCH EFFORT — Whiteface Gene Drummond dived for the ball, but it just passed his fingertips in the final play of the game whiched saw the Whitefaces outgain the Plainview Bulldogs in every way except score in both teams' season opener Friday. Hereford held the AAAA team to a five point margin in the game. (Staff Photo)

BIG DOG ON CAMPUS

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tripod is as well known on the Centre College campus as many of the professors.

The dog, origin unknown, was adopted last year after his leg was broken by an auto. Someone brought him to Dean of Men Max Cannes, who had the leg amputated, a pegleg installed.

Tripod follows students to classes, sits quietly through lectures and shows a preference for Shakespeare. He recently attended a six-week session on the Bard of Avon and even showed up for the final exam.

COMMISSION SALES SCHEME IS CITED

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce warned today that the "model home" racket continues to be used to defraud the public in the sale of aluminum siding.

Bill Thompson, Manager of the Chamber, said the fast-talking salesmen dangle the lure of "something for nothing" to induce home-owners to sign installment sales contracts covering exorbitantly priced aluminum siding jobs.

ACCORDING to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local Chamber is affiliated through membership, the California Attorney General has reported that homeowners in that state alone are bilked of more than $7 million annually by fraudulent aluminum siding sales schemes.

Even a conservative projection of these findings, NBBB said, would mean a huge toll nation-wide.

The California official said more than 4700 contracts, ranging from $2500 to $6,000, were sold during an 18-month period. Salesmen's commissions on a single contract often were as high as $1,000.

NBBB SAID that while most siding applicators are responsible businessmen, a minority in the industry perpetrates the re-siding racket despite repeated public warnings by Better Business Bureaus over the years. It works this way.

The salesman, posing as a representative of a nationally-known aluminum company, tells the homeowner his company has selected her home for "before-and-after" advertising of aluminum siding.

HE SAYS the company will not only reimburse her for use of the home but will give a cash commission for each homeowner in the area who subsequently buys aluminum siding from his company. He may offer a cash advance on these prospective commissions as an inducement.

In reality the salesman, usually an itinerant, does not represent a well-known company and has no intention of using the home as a model. The homeowner, who had been induced to sign various papers, actually is charged many hundred dollars more than the competitive price for aluminum siding.

The National Bureau offered this advice to homeowners:

Don't rush into any important home improvement project.

Don't enter into any home improvement deal with the expectation of having promised commissions pay for its costs.

Deal on lywith firms whose dependability is known to you or has been established through inquiry.

Read and understand any contract before you sign and keep a copy of it.

PICK UP YARDAGE — Hereford quarterback Steve Hodges (20) found the end of the road near after a 10-yard scamper during action at Plainview Friday night in the second half. The Whitefaces limited their hosts to only 14 plays from scrimmage during the second half of the game, but failed to overcome a 13-8 halftime disadvantage. In the bottom photo, the Herd's Gary Tucker (88) throws a block to clear the way for halfback Gene Drummond (10) as a host of Bulldogs move in on the action. (Staff Photos by David Butler)

Hereford Unveils Passing Offense In Season Debute

Uses Aerials To Dominate Stats

By DAVID BUTLER
Sports Editor

Hereford Whitefaces put together a dazzling offense dominating the statistics charts but not the scoreboard in a season-opening bout with Plainview Friday night.

The 'Faces — who limited Plainview to only 31 yards of movement in 14 plays from scrimmage during the second half — unveiled a passing attack which offered the estimated 6,000 viewers thrill after thrill.

Hereford went behind 13-8 just before the end of the first half . . . then came back to camp at the edge of paydirt several times during the second half.

But the 13-8 halftime scoreboard tally remained unchanged at the end of the game.

Try as they might the Whitefaces were unsuccessful in a last ditch effort to score as time ran out.

Plainview spectators got overanxious for the close game to end and rushed on the field as the game was apparently over, but officials cleared the field because the 'Faces had thrown an incomplete pass with one second remaining on the clock.

THE WHITEFACES tried to take advantage of the last play with a long pass from quarterback Steve Hodges to halfback Gene Drummond, but Drummond was unable to reach the ball, and the game ended.

Statisically Hereford outgained Plainview in overall yardage 212 yards to the Bulldog's 157 yards.

PLAINVIEW did outgain the Herd on the ground by a mere six yards, while the 'Faces outgained Plainview 78 yards in passing.

The Whitefaces averaged 35 yards per punt while Plainview managed only 29.

Hereford gained 14 first downs with the Bulldogs marking up nine. Most of Hereford's first downs came from effective passing.

The Herd completed nearly half of their passes hitting 12 of 30.

HEREFORD dominated the second half of the game completely in every way.

The alert defense didn't allow the Bulldogs any first downs during the second half while Whiteface offensive players managed to pick up six first downs.

Hereford gained 72 yards on the ground and 39 yards in the air while limiting the Bulldogs to 31 yards in the final two quarters.

PLANVIEW'S first touchdown was called back due to a penalty. It came after Steve Mason took a Hereford punt on his own 15 and returned it to the Whiteface 40 where he was abruptly stopped by Wayne Miller.

On the next play Mason bounded through the right tackle for what was apparently a touchdown.

BUT IT was called back on a penalty.

In the last few seconds of the first quarter Plainview's quarterback David Maggard handed off to Mason who found a hole in Hereford's line and plunged 40 yards to paydirt.

Stan Rigler's kick for extra point was good.

HEREFORD then began its drive for the 'Faces' only score of the evening.

A pass from Whiteface quarterback Hodges to Greg Richards fell short of its goal, but in the next play Hodges handed off to Mike Davis who plowed through the Plainview line for a gain of six yards.

Hodges then hurled a long pass to Drummond for a first down.

Davis on a short pass from the quarterback managed to pick up another three yards.

ROGER OWENS then made what was undoubtedly the most spectacular play in the game when he plucked a long pass from Hodges out of the air with one hand on the Plainview 21-yard line.

Richards on a double reverse gained four yards. On the second down a pass attempt was incomplete.

Hodges passed to Walter Williams for another first down putting the Whitefaces on Plainview's 5-yard line.

A pass to Owen was to no avail to the Whitefaces.

WITH 8:07 minutes remaining in the half, Richards plowed through the Bulldog line to paydirt.

Hereford scored an additional two on a clever fake kick play when Owen passed to Richards and he crossed the goal for the second time putting the Whitefaces out in front 8-7.

Plainview retaliated before the second stanza was over when Bobby Bouldin on a pass from Maggard crossed the goal.

AN ATTEMPT for two extra points was stopped short by an alert Whiteface defense.

Hereford never allowed the Bulldogs to threaten its goal again during the game, but did manage to get close to paydirt themselves during the second half.

COACH JACK Meredith and the team will polish up this week for Friday's battle with the Dimmitt Bobcats in Dimmitt.

The following week the Herd will open their home season in Whiteface stadium against Littlefield.

SERVED HIMSELF

It was a check for $1, noting three gallons of diesel fuel had been taken, and signed by Dean Anthony, Attica, Kan.

Krehbiel checked with Mrs. Anthony who said "That sounds like something Dean would do."

Her husband was driving a truck load of melons to Canada at the time and she speculated he ran low on fuel.

AREA SOLDIER GRADUATES AF COURSE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Second Lieutenant William W. Fairchild, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Fairchild of Friona, has been graduated at Mather AFB, Calif., from the training course for U. S. Air Force electronic warfare officers.

Following specialized training at other bases, Lieutenant Fairchild will be reassigned to Bergstrom AFB, Tex., for duty.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Friona High School, has a B. S. degree in education from West Texas State University at Canyon. He was commissioned in 1964 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

EYE-CATCHER — Sam Bell, middle, general manager for the Panhandle-Plains Automobile Club of the American Automobile Association, was the first person to purchase Texas' new "prestige" auto tags through the Deaf Smith County tax assessor-collector's office. Bell chose a combination which makes for some eye-catching advertising for his non-profit association. Shown admiring the novelty are Lloyd Laird, left, treasurer of the PPAC, and Guy Lawrence, president of the club. See story. Staff Photo)

County Marks Sale Of First Prestige Plate

The first "personalized" vehicle registration plates sold by the Deaf Smith County tax assessor - collector's office were delivered this week.

Bearing only the letters "AAA", the plates were ordered by Sam Bell. Bell is general manager of the Panhandle-Plains Automobile Club, a division of the American Automobile Association (AAA).

RECENTLY made available by state legislative action, the personalized plates can be obtained by special order at a cost of $10 in addition to regular vehicle registration fees.

Tax assessor Nell Miller said that anyone desiring the special auto tags may obtain them by applying through her office.

She explained that any combination of six or fewer letters and/or numerals may be obtained by filling out a form which is sent to Austin.

Specialized tags bearing any inscription which has not been previously assigned will then be made and returned to the assessor's office, where they may be picked up.

It was also pointed out that persons who already have standard 1965 tags may replace them with the "prestige" plates for a cost of $10.

LEAVE FOR H-SU

Most dependable chopper built...
GEHL 72 CHOPS NON-STOP!

Pull the Gehl 72 Flail Chopper along side any other make. Feature for feature — round after round — the "72" proves its right to be the leader. Here's why:

Unitized fan blades and knives give exclusive cut-and-throw action. Crops don't thresh around. They're in, cut, then blown to the farthest wagon corner.

New Easy-Swing drawbar adjusts right from the tractor seat. No wrenches needed. Just pull the rope control to change chopper pulling positions for easy maneuvering in tight places.

Flails are reversible . . . give full 6-ft. cut. The 39 interchangeable flails are mounted in gangs and easy to switch. They're double-edged for double chopping life.

Pete Progress

speaking for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce

By BILL THOMPSON
Chamber Manager

Pete promised as he left the Chamber of Commerce office that he would return to conclude his observations regarding the proposed changes in the unemployment compensation laws. True to his word he showed up promptly with the information he had promised.

"In addition to imposing "Federal standards" that would force states to expand their benefits, the bill proposes two major extensions of the program: (1) a program of Federal subsidies to state; and (2) creation of a new Federal Unemployment Compensation program.

"HALF OF the cost of these additional programs would come from the increase in the net Federal tax rate and half, from general Treasury funds.

"An underlying principle of present UC systems is that the states will exercise financial prudence. States are expected to adopt taxable wage bases and tax rates that will result in an financially-sound program.

"Today, the UC programs are in good financial shape in most states-year-end reserves in 1964 amounting to $7.3 billion, up from $6.6 billion at the end of 1963.

"In 1954, Congress established a loan fund from which any state could borrow additional funds to continue to pay UC benefits during times of financial emergency. The loans were repaid from increased state UC rates.

"H.R. 8282 would add to this a Federal subsidy program, technically referred to as a "non-repayable grant; — equal to two-thirds of a state's "excess benefit costs" in a year.

MANY authorities believe this subsidy would not only reduce the incentive in every state to exercise financial prudence, but would mean, in effect, that employers in states where such prudence was exercised would have to pay taxes to subsidize ststes where a legislature, dominated by labor unions, had set up a system of benefits that was completely out of line with revenues.

"In the recessions of 1958 and 1961, Congress temporarily extended UC payment for 13 weeks to beneficiaries who had exhausted thier state benefits.

H.R. 8282 would establish a permanent new Federal UC program-to be called Federal Unemployment Adjustment Benefits (FUAB)-for workers who have used up their 26 weeks of eligibility under the regular state program, and who had so-called "substantial" employment during the preceding three years.

"THE WEEKLY benefit amount would be the same as the state UC benefit, including any allowances for dependents. The cost would be financed equally from the increased Federal UC tax rate-with no experience rating feature- and from general tax fund.

"Many people believe that it is this combination of Federally-imposed standards and the establishment of a permanent Federal UC program that will spell the death knell of the state systems; that, eventually, the Federal benefit program, with no experience rating, will engulf them.

"They base this reasoning, among other things, on the fact that "substantial employment" means no more than 78 weeks of work in the preceding three years. At the same time, however, that some people with only this amount of employment are drawing a full year of benefits, others, with even more total employment, but differently distributed, will be ineligible.

"IT IS highly unlikely that such discrimination will be long permitted-so that eventually practically everyone with a limited record of employment over a three year period will be permitted to draw unemployment benefits for a full year.

"The principle of unemployment compensation is thoroughly established-and accepted. In a modern industrialized society, a system of weekly benefit payments to workers who are unemployed through no fault of their own not only eases individual hardships, but serves a useful national purpose in maintaining purchasing power. UC is sometimes referred to as one of our "built-in stabilizers" for the economy.

"At the same time, there is some question as to whether the American people as a whole are as yet ready to accept the thesis, increasingly propounded by liberals, that everyone is entitled to a guaranteed annual wage whether he is productive or not.

UNEMPLOYMENT problems vary from worker to worker and from area to area. If unemployment compensation is to perform its true function, it must be used as a method of easing individual hardship in the transition from one job to another; is should not be destroyed by becoming a relief program for the very long-term unemployed who need re-training or training in new skills.

"What is needed, it has been suggested, is a closer tie-in between UC programs and the training and retraining programs available under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act and other programs.

"These programs, which include provisions for training allowances, should be used to equip the very long-term unemployed with skills that will enable them to return to work.

"DESPITE propaganda to the contrary the state UC systems, by and large, are doing an outstanding job in providing partial replacement of income for both the short-term unemployed (up to 14 weeks) and the longer-term (15-26 weeks) unemployed. These programs are being improved continually.

"That is not to say, of course, that all state systems are perfect. In some states, for example, it seems evident that too large a proportion of benefits are being dissipated among part-time workers who move easily in and out of the labor force. In other states, a system of dependency allowances has been developed that relates benefits more closely to the needs of family heads.

"It is probable, however, that this variation is good-rather than bad. Successful experiments in one place are likely to be adopted elsewhere; mistakes made in one state can be avoid in another.

"IN CONTRAST, a mistake made at the national level for political reasons is universally applied. Cases of abuse of the program are too well authenticated to be completely ignored.

"Still unresolved is the question of the level at which benefits can be set without destroying some measure of individual incentives which lie at the heart of the competitive enterprise economy. The effects on the businssman's incentive to stabilize employment that would result from abolition of the experience rating system are more readily visible.

Said the Indiana State Chamber:

"This proposal (H.R. 8282) raises fundamental questions as to the merits of Federal Bureaucratic control as contasted with decentralized administration in the hands of the individual states-and as to how far government can go in making pay for unemployment desirable and available to everyone without creating more of the unemployment against which it seeks to offer protection."

This discussion of an important issue facing the nation and of particular importance to our agricultural area will be followed by other, Pete promised. But right now he has gone out to help the Chamber membership workers reach their goal of $3,500 in new membership support.

EVANGELIST — The Rev. Bill Butts, pastor of First Baptist Church at Gruver, will conduct revival services in Avenue Baptist Church for a week beginning today, the Rev. Ron Harpster, pastor, announces. The public is invited to services at 6:30 and 9:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily through Sept. 19. The pastor will be song director.

Short-Season Soybean Unveiled

The success story of a private enterprise agricultural research foundation is being told again with the announcement at noon on Wednesday, Sept. 8, by Dr. Earl H. Collister, Director of the High Plains Research Foundation, of the release of a new "short-season" soybean.

NAMED "Patterson", in honor of Virgil Patterson, Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Foundation, the soybean will mature in approximately 105 days. Patterson, who is the President of the First National Bank of Amarillo, was the guiding light for the success of the new Amarillo Baptist Hospital Foundation. Patterson has dedicated his life toward his profession and toward making the High Plains a better place in which to live.

The Patterson is the soybean variety to be developed by the Foundation and, as such, is the second soybean bred specifically for the Plains. Along with the early maturing qualities of the Patterson is found a high degree of shatter resistance, high tolerance toward lodging, and yield in the 20 to 30 bushel per acre range.

The Patterson variety fruits high off the ground around 4 inches) for ease of harvest; thus reducing bean loss during combining.

Dr. Collister states that the Patterson variety has been accepted by the Texas State Seed and Plant Board for Certification under the State program. The Director of the Foundation also states that the Patterson is an improved and superior variety of soybean that will add much to the economy of the High Plains area.

DEVELOPMENT of the Patterson soybean was started by Dr. Collister nine year ago when the Foundation was a Station of the Texas Research Foundation at Renner. The early research work at the High Plains Research Foundation was financed by a grant from the Southwestern Public Service Company. The need for a crop that could be planted in case of hail out, when it was too late to come back with either cotton or grain sorghum, was laid at the door of the Foundation by the area farmer.

THE PATTERSON will meet this need.

Maturing in about 105 days, the Patterson can be planted as late as Mid-July in the event of a need for a cash crop to be planted after hailed out cotton.

TESTING of the Patterson was conducted for three years from the top of the Texas Panhandle, Southern Oklahoma, and throughout the High and South Plains. In all areas, the new soybean performed well from the standpoint of yield, shatter resistance, and over-all performance.

Original breeding material for the Patterson soybean was sent to Dr. Collister from French Morocco. Dr. Collister, one of the nation's outstanding plant breeders, made crosses and selections from the basic breeding materials, and after extensive research work developed the Patterson.

IT IS AN early maturing variety that can be used to boost the economy of Texas agriculture. Working with Dr. Collister in the development of the Patterson soybean has been Barry Love, Agronomist, and Paul Belcher, Technician. Belcher has worked with Dr. Collister for several years.

Collister, who is no stranger to the field of plant breeding, began his career upon receiving both his M.S. and Ph. D from Purdue University in Plant Breeding and Genetics.

AMONG HIS accomplishments as a plant breeder over a 16-year period in Texas can be listed these improved crop varieties that he has developed: Renner's No. 1 Sesame in 1953; Renner's No. 2 Sesame in 1955; Renner's Combine Sesame No. 15 in 1956; Arthur Hopkins Soybean in 1958; Hinn Soybean in 1964; and Patterson Soybean in 1965.

Many farmers in the North Plains have expressed interest in the Patterson Soybean as a crop that can be planted after wheat has been harvested. Farmers on the Mid and South Plains are looking forward to the Patterson as not only an insurance crop, but also as a crop that will not require as much water as many of the crops that are now being grown in the area.

Foundation Seed of the Patterson will be released this year with preference being given to members of the Foundation.

Autumn Activity Stirring In Clubs

TASK ACCOMPLISHED — Pioneer Study Club's yearbook committee, like those of other clubs which compiled in summer the program to be followed this fall and winter, sifted through masses of material before the outline was completed and references listed. At work in her home is Mrs. A. L. Manjeot, chairman, standing, with Mrs. Delmar Sigle and the club president, Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr. Another member of the committee is Mrs. W. F. Ball. Programs on the year's theme, "Whither Bound?" began for the club, active in Hereford since 1909, at a brunch last Thursday.

EARLY SEPTEMBER days call women back to club activity after summer vacation, with a stir of special meetings which is being felt in Hereford now. Members are turning the pages of just-off-the-press yearbooks to see what programs and community projects they will take part in during the next eight or nine months.

YEARBOOKS ARE being put into their hands by small groups of their fellow members who did not take club vacations in the summer, but worked diligently to prepare programs and gather other material which make the books invaluable guides to a season's work. Yearbook committees, usually of three members and with the president as consultant, close out their principal task just as others in the club are facing theirs.

CLUBS REPRESENTED on this page are those in Hereford which are affiliated directly with the Texas and National Federations of Women's Clubs, so the framers of their programs must meet state and national, as well as local, standards.

READY FOR NEW YEAR — A study series for Bay View Club in its 57th season has been arranged by the yearbook committee in readiness for the initial meeting Sept. 16. Work on the program, listing of members and committees, and other yearbook details was done in vacation months by, from left, Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Gililland, immediate past president, and Mrs. Will S. Kerr. Also assisting was Mrs. John W. Harper, a member of the yearbook committee who has moved to Canyon since the start of the club year. Bay View Club, formed in 1909 and federated in 1917, is one of the city's oldest organizations. Mrs. Ansel McDowell is president for the current year.

RESULT SURVEYED — Yearbooks for Summerfield Study Club, product of their summer efforts, are examined by committee members and the club president, Mrs. R. E. Lance, in whose home a coffee will be held next Thursday to begin a new season. Subject for the year's study will be "Woman's Responsibilities in a Changing World" and the yearbooks carry programs centered on that topic. Mrs. Lance is seated between Mrs. J. R. Euler, left, and the yearbook committee chairman, Mrs. Mack Noland. In addition to Mrs. Euler, her committee includes Mrs. George DeLozier.

West-Allred Vows Said In Chapel Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Lynton Allred are returning this weekend from a wedding trip to Colorado which started immediately after their marriage in a chapel ceremony at the First Christian Church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Allred is the former Miss Joyce Elaine West.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Clinton West, 314 Western and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Allred of 129 Ave. D.

Eugene Brink, minister, officiated for double ring wedding vows at an altar where white gladiolas, giant mums and stock were arranged with green leaves in baskets between candelabra. Relatives and close friends of the couple were present.

Only attendants of the couple were Miss Suzanne Langley, maid of honor, and Charlie Thomas, best man. Guests were ushered to their seats by Johnny West, brother of the bride.

Miss West's uncle, Curtis Dickinson of Lubbock, sang the wedding solos, Whither Thou Goest and, as the ceremony closed, Wedding Prayer. Mrs. Dickinson accompanied him and played traditional love songs before the service.

The bride was wearing a white Italian wool knit suit with satin trim. Her headpiece was a white satin rose on net ornamented with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white mums and net surrounding a pair of white orchids which were detachel to become her going-away corsage.

Her pearl necklace was the bridegroom's gift and her costume included time-honored luck pieces, one a blue garter belonging to her aunt.

Miss Langley wore a powder blue wool suit with accessories to match and a white rosebud corsage.

For the wedding and a reception afterward the bride's mother was dressed in a royal blue suit with accents of winter white and Mrs. Jimmie Allred wore a suit of Copenhagen blue with black accessories. Each had a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Herman Jesko ladled punch and Mrs. Bill Harlan served cake from a table covered with white net over felt and centered with blue and white flowers in a silver bowl. Bride-and-groom figurines topped the embossed wedding cake. Miss Debbie Dickinson assisted at the table. Mrs. Bill Clark, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the bride's book.

Out-of-city guests registering were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson, Gay and Debbie, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harlan and Shawn of Clayton, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dickinson and Grover Dickinson of Tucumcari, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Garland Mayo of Seattle, Mrs. Florence Hogg of Claude.

Hereford Men Attend School

Calvin Goodin and Don Waters of Hereford Butane attended the Smith-Douglass Basic Agronomy School at Plainview on Sept. 7.

The Smith-Douglass Agronomy School objective is to help prepare the dealer to aid in counseling and advising his customers in the correct use and application of fertilizers as is practical in the area, thereby enabling the farmer to cope with average farm situations.

Areas of instruction were soil testing, nitrogen, phosphorous, trace elements, fertilizer placement and business management.

The economy of this area is dependent upon agriculture and with the proper and adequate use of fertilizer, the increased gross income is similar to the community obtaining a new industry.

Efforts to solve our problems of modern living are being made constantly by the people who caused the problems in the first place, and this I appreciate. However, I'm just too far in the van for some of them to reach me.

FOR INSTANCE, only a few years ago the manufacturers of fabrics generally began listing fabric content on labels and now a law, I believe, requires this. It is supposed to lead us through the burgeoning maze of materials which man has concocted from chemicals, and let us know what to expect of the wearing qualities and what sort of treatment the fabric can take in the laundry.

So we get labels with information sort of like this: "40% polynel, 30% raylon laminated cotton, 30% cortrel, 25% plasticized nyletate, 30% fortester — Pat. Pending Dupont Co." Even without trying to add percentages, these labels give me a headache. They also force me to keep reading tags until one says whether or not to dry clean only.

They make me very, very sorry for girls in homemaking classes who must learn the properties of all these and the new ones that keep coming out. And very, very happy that I squeezed through just in time, when we had only to learn about cotton, linen, silk and wool.

Shortly afterward came rayon and nylon and those I could grasp. The rest is a blur.

HANDSOME TABLE decorations at the Pioneer Study Club's brunch Tuesday were the flowers I have always associated with Hereford — dahlias.

Of course the city is proud of its fine roses, of its many iris in spring and of the wealth of other blooms, but when I first started reporting the doings of garden clubs in the Panhandle I began hearing about the choice dahlias grown in Hereford, which somehow had the right soil and climate for them.

Now that the blooming season is here, there is beautiful proof that the reputation was a just one. I hope their season lasts until the Bud to Blossom Garden Club's flower show next month brings the many colors and kinds together.

Mrs. K. Dwight Southworth
. . . experiments in cooking

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Party Dessert Unusual

A husband who likes to try his hand in the kitchen, always on exotic dishes, can broaden a cook's interest in the unusual, says Mrs. K. Dwight Southworth, pretty young homemaker who is mistress of the Church of the Nazarene parsonage at 307 Ross.

Her minister husband prepares an occasional Spanish or Italian dish himself, and since both enjoy the food of other lands she does not hesitate to experiment with new recipes, foreign as well as domestic.

Caring for her two sons,Tod, 3, and Brent, a year old, keeping house and preparing meals keeps Mrs. Southworth busy but she manages time for such church activities as teaching the nursery class and also a group of junior-age youngsters in Sunday night meetings.

Residents of Hereford since last November, she has found the city an easy place to make new acquaintances and with her husband has especially enjoyed association in the church with numerous couples of about their ages and interests. They moved here from El Dorado, Ark.

Mrs. Southworth is a native of Arkansas and lived in Helena until she left to attend the Nazarene College in Bethany, Okla. She was married after a year as a student. Rev. Southworth had graduated and served six months in the U. S. Army.

He held pastorates in Buffalo, Okla. and El Dorado before coming here, where he is now leading the congregation in a building program. Mrs. Southworth is looking forward to completion of the church building with its prospect of new activities.

Amoung her favorite recipes is one for an unusual party sweetmeat or company dessert, which is made without cooking.

SNOWBALLS

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten separately
2/3 cup crushed pineapple
¾cup chopped nuts
1 pound large vanilla wafers
1 pint whipping cream, whipped and sweetened

Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg yolks, crushed pineapple, nuts and last the stiffly beaten egg whites. Take 3 or 4 vanilla wafers and put together with the filling mixture between. This makes one snowball.

Place all snowballs in covered pan or wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate overnight. About two hours before serving, coat with sweetened whipped cream and roll in cocoanut. Keep chilled until served. Serve with fork.

For decorative variations, Mr Southworth suggests that colored cocoanut be used on the balls — even though this entails a name change!

Hereford At Night... a refreshing atmosphere

"Standing there absorbing the view . . . the moonlight . . . and the cool night air, you know that you will return another night to take an unhurried walk through downtown Hereford at night."

Story and Photos by WAIN MILLER

You walk along amid the silence and the warmly inviting lights and feel compelled to pick up the lonesome paper sack which rustles across the sidewalk on the wings of a whispering breeze.

A full moon shines from overhead and the distant noise of a passing truck only adds to the excitement of the night.

A moment ago, the idea seemed a bit corny . . . but after just a few steps into this — another world — you are glad you took the time.

Ambling along aimlessly, you note a new alert awareness of the surroundings.

There is an elaborate ornamental grill, which you have seen before but forgotten in the rush of daytime activity.

Shopping carts viewed through the window of a deserted grocery store appear to be resting after a busy day.

You cross a street and stand between two churches which seemingly guard the entrance to the city's business district.

After a moment's pause, you turn and walk back up the other side of Main St., admiring merchandise in shadowy stores.

A barbershop's "candy cane" sign holds the eye's attenion for a longer - than - usual glimpse as the city's lights reflect from its glassy surface.

You turn and stroll along a side street and suddenly the brightly lit exterior of the courthouse beckons you for a closer look.

Pausing at first at the edge of the square, you take in the vastness of the building.

You climb the steps and stop again, this time at the spacious portico.

Smoothly rounded, gigantic gray columns stretch from your feet towards the sky. From here, the city's rooftops and alleys are seen . . . and even they possess tonight a special appealing glow.

Standing there absorbing the view . . . the moonlight . . . and the cool night air, you know that you will return another night to take an unhurried walk through downtown Hereford at night.

SPEAKS AT KIWANIS — Lou Spry, sports information director for West Texas State University, described the 1965 version of the WT Buffalo gridsters at the Thursday noon meeting of the Hereford Kiwanis Club. Spry, shown above, described prospects for an improved WT team this year, saying that defense for the squad would show the greatest advances. He commented that Butch Walterschied of Hereford will probably be a defensive standout for the Buffs this year. Walterschield, a former all-district end for the Whitefaces, has lettered three years on the WT varsity. He is a senior this year. (Staff Photo)

Vote Shows National Trend

Deaf Smith County and the Panhandle took a licking at the polls this week when Texas voters turned down the proposition to add eight new State Senators. Just what this entails is anyone's guess — except that we must face the fact that residents of large cities of our state are in accord with the federal movement to shift governing strength into our nation's metropolitan areas.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood, scheduled as our new senator under the present arrangement, is certainly a qualified and capable man who exerts important influence in Austin. Furthermore, the Lubbock-Amarillo-Midland vote indicates that at least these cities are cognizant of the value of representation of rural and farming areas. All of this means, in a nutshell, that our particular territory can expect aggressive representation, fair hearings on local problems, and general consideration in Austin.

In other words, we do not stand to lose on the local level.

The big question, therefore, rests in the overall picture. If the downstate, metropolitan senators follow the pattern of their constituents, it is entirely possible that rural areas and the smaller towns may well be on the outside looking in when comparatively sparse population cannot expect to dominate any of the Senatorial sessions — all of which is an old, old story to political observers.

Moreover the Farm Bloc, once a state and national political power, has taken a back seat. Labor, backed by high population counts, is now calling the shots on the state as well as the national level, and there appears slim possibility that any change will be noted along this line in the next decade. This has been established through farm mechanization, centralization and new methods, including a farm program which indirectly disloged thousands of tenant farmers. But, regardless of the means, the fact remains that agriculture is not so powerful as in the past.

We do have on our side the fact that the nation has never known long-range prosperity without a prosperous agricultural segment, also the fact that U. S. agriculture outreaches all other endeavor in the parade of world competition — and the fact that even the city resident must eat.

And while we are surveying the situation, let us also recall the fact that most of our national benefits to agriculture have originated with representatives and senators who come from metropolitan areas. The fact that the cities hold the "whip hand" does not mean that they will "cut off their noses to spite their faces."

Farmers and small town inhabitants are notorious for their lack of organization and unified effort, but it appears to us that our prime motivation at this particular moment should be that of selling the big town political leaders — along with the city population — on the importance of well guided, practical and progressive farm legislation. While rural America has declined in population, it has at the same time, created new standards. The average producer today has a new image: he is a community leader, an alert business man, and frequently a college graduate; his investment is often tremendous and, more often than not, he can be classified as a successful man.

All of these things are part of our new Space Age. They are often foreign to ways of the past but, like airplanes, television and other innovations, they are here to stay, and the sooner we learn to live with them the better off we will be.

Jaycees Versus Road Homicide

Jaycees in this part of the country deserve a hand for their valiant effort to cut accident tolls over the recent Labor Day holiday, even though the national statistics did pile up new records.

The basic idea of slowing people down for a breather is one which has previously been established as practical and sound. We have no idea how many people paused along the way to take advantage of the generous J-C offer, but we do recognize the fact that hundreds of young men, accompanied by wives and girl friends, manned scores of booths across the Panhandle. In addition to the time donated, the groups also invested several hundreds of dollars in refreshments which were distributed.

If business was "slow", we would say that the fault rests entirely with the motorists, because the Jaycees and Jaycettes were definitely doing their part, and we are proud that Hereford was included in the Panhandle-wide drive.

All civic clubs were established and are operated on the basis of service to the community, state and nation. We cannot think of a project which offers more merit than one which helps to curb our No. 1 killer — highway accidents. Furthermore, we hope the movement will continue. This first wide-scale effort should spread from holiday to holiday and, in the course of time, it may well contribute extensively in curbing highway homicide.

Santa Fe Builds New Facilities

At a time when railroads are reporting losses, bemoaning a lack of passengers and tonnage, it is refreshing indeed to note that Santa Fe has seen fit to expand its operation in Hereford, rather than curtail its services

In the first place, Santa Fe has long been recognized as one of the most efficient lines in the nation, and we are fortunate to have such a progressive railroad as part of our transportation and communications system. The fact that they have chosen to expand services here at the same time indicates that Hereford is good for Santa Fe, providing unusually heavy tonnage in grains, vegetables and other commodities.

Like our telephone, bus and truck service, we too often are prone to criticize, and frequently without benefit of the complete facts. U. S. railroads have faced exceptional competition during the past quarter of a century. Only those with the vision to modernize, expand and proceed along practical lines have survived, and even these maneuvers have been limited by the communities which they serve.

As the story goes, Hereford was named by Santa Fe engineers who viewed herds of purebred Herefords serenely grazing along the countryside back around the turn of the century. Since that time Hereford and the railroad have progressed hand in hand. As a result of mutual benefits, the two have long been fast friends and, naturally, we are happy to see our friends prosper and grow. In fact, we are proud of the part this community has been able to play in making the national line one of the nation's best.

New Emphasis On Bad Habits

Tax rates on cigarettes, gasoline and liquor have been boosted in most states this year, according to recent surveys.

Here in Texas, we set the pace on cigarette sales tax to the tune of 11 cents per pack. Vermont, Wisconsin and New York now collect 10 cents a pack, and 18 other state have raised their cigarette tax by three and four cents a pack. Gasoline tax rates during the year have been boosted in eight states with a present high of 7.5 cents per gallon. Six states so far in 1965 have raised tax rates on alcoholic beverages, and others are contemplating similiar boosts.

Law makers have always followed a trend of taxing these items heavily, chiefly because they are excellent revenue producers, and because people generally accept the fact that they are as near non-essential as any items one could choose and regardless of what one says, the argument does have considerable merit. At the same time, it offers another side in that the most patriotic thing an American can do these days can be condensed as follows:

"Get drunk, drive your car, and become a chain cigarette smoker."

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Congress' Atomic Age Committee Cause Study

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Regional Service

WASHINGTON — Expanding science and technology has confronted many congressmen with the opportunity and necessity to acquire knowledge not formerly associated with their positions.

Rep. Olin (Tiger) Teague, D., of the Bryan-Corsicana district (and South Dallas under the redistricting for 1966) attests to the validity of that statement.

SO CAN Rep. Bob Casey, of Houston, site of the manned space program headquarters.

Teague, the No. 2 Democrat on the House Science and Astronautics Committee, recalled his days at Texas A & M University, 1928-1932, to emphasize the need for study to act intelligently on space legislation.

HE THUMBED THROUGH a book-sized document dealing with the preparation that went into the recent Gemini 5 space flight and said:

"I've done more home work on the space program, by far, than I ever did in college.

"We hear the top scientists testify in hearings, and we visit aerospace industrial plants, seeing every step in the production of rockets and capsules from the raw metal to the finished thing, but it still takes hours of reading late into the night."

TEAGUE, now 55 and hefty, would like for the alumni of all Texas colleges and universities to put more emphasis on scholarships.

"IF THESE former students would spend one-tenth as much on improving the quality of education as they do on sports, Texas would be much better off," he added.

"The future of our nation as a world power and of our state as an economic force depends on education. I'm convinced that we cannot continue to be a leading nation or a leading state unless we keep abreast in the production of brainpower."

Teague is personally acquainted with practically all of the astronauts, several of whom he considers as friends. He was at the Houston Space Center during the Gemini 5 splashdown and has witnessed several lift-offs from Cape Kennedy.

ONE OF THE many photographs in his office is a color picture of Astronaut Edward H. White II "space walking" during the Gemini 4 flight, and one of James A McDivitt, his companion on that space journey. White inscribed his picture thusly: "To Chairman Teague with appreciation for your understanding and support of the Space program" McDivitt wrote: "To chairman Teague with best wishes and many thanks."

Casey, the seventh ranking Democrat on the House Science and Astronautics committee, is a lawyer and was a judge before entering Congress.

IT REQUIRES a lot of study to act responsibly on the legislation we handle, all right," agreed Casey, "but it's fascinating.

"The caliber and dedication of scientists and engineers we hear makes you want to learn more about the subject."

He noted that most of the astronauts live in his district and that he and Mrs. Casey are acquainted with some of them and their wives.

Free tours for the public are offered by hundreds of factories and plants across the United States. Several firms provide free baby-sitting service while parents tour the premises.

School Growing Pains Are Happy Problems

SEPTEMBER 15, 1955

Hereford schools' growing pains are continuing to cause School Board and faculty members their share of trouble. New classroom space can't seem to keep up with increased enrollment.

Deaf Smith County crops are looking good.

With the harvest of maize getting underway, growers and elevator men alike are predicting a good crop, especially on irrigated land.

The occasion was a "hot box" on a railroad car just east of Hereford.

New telephone directories were mailed to Hereford subscribers this week by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. The new books include the names of Dawn, Frio and Westway customers of the West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative as well as Hereford subscribers, all in one alphabetical listing.

The Hereford Whitefaces, it has been announced, will definitely jump to AAA classification next year.

Senior class officers for the school year of 1955-56 were elected at Hereford High School. Officers for the coming year are Sara Jo Smith, secretary; Jan Hargis, treasurer; Bill Albracht, president; and Lynn Jones, vice president. Senior sponsors are Mrs. Billye Buck and L. L. Chissum.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm reports on a new telephone invention this week. We didn't even know he had a phone.

Dear editar:

The thing about progress is that you've got to know how to handle it, or it's more trouble than it's worth.

Take the telephone. It's all right if you need to call somebody, but it frequently becomes a nuisance when somebody wants to call you. I have observed that when I'm gone and somebody calls and leaves a message to call him, saying it's important, it's generally important to him, not to me.

This is going to be changed soon, although I don't think the telephone company intends it that way.

As I understand it, they've perfected a system where you can transfer your own calls, so in a sense your phone follows you around wherever you are. Say you're expecting a big business deal by telephone and you have to leave your office temporarily. All you do is dial a code number, then dial the number of the phone where you'll be while you're out, and if a call comes in it'll by-pass your office and ring at the other number.

Now the phone company figures this will be a great service and I'm sure it will, but it has other possibilities the company may not be aware of.

Say you're sitting down to watch a western and don't want to be interruped. Just dial the code number, pick out somebody else's number, instruct your phone to switch to there, and let his phone ring instead of yours.

A teen-ager staying on your phone too much? Just switch your calls to the school superintendent's number and relax.

If a man is alert enough, he can always salvage something useful out of nearly any kind of progress, excepting bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Speaking of progress, the latest 8-day trip of the astronauts proves that man can survive in space, and right now another group of men are living in a capsule on the bottom of the ocean to see if man can survive under water.

I predict he can, and then the only test left will be to see if he can survive on earth.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Tips Are Given On Care Of Utensils And Ovens

By ARGEN DRAPER
Home Demonstration Agent

The Young Homemakers of Texas had a very interesting convention this week-end. Their work started early as they made such good plans for their meeting. I went to Plainview Thursday to help with some record judging.

TWO ITEMS FOLLOW regarding care of utensils and chrome-lined ovens:

Many homemakers are puzzled about the best ways to clean chrome-lined ovens. There are several techniques to use, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Texas A&M University Extension home management specialist.

It's important not to scratch the chrome plating as this exposes the metal underneath to corrosion. Therefore, chrome should not be scoured or scraped with anything sharp.

The most satisfactory way to remove grease film is by washing with a sponge or soft brush dipped into hot soap or detergent suds. A wooden spoon or a rubber scraper may be used to loosen cooked-on food debris after it has been softened by the suds. Then rinse-wipe the chrome with warm water and polish immediately with a dry cloth.

If the chrome has streaks, wipe it - when cool - using a cloth moistened with baby oil or kerosene. Before using kerosene, however, open a window and turn off any pilot light or other flame to avoid fire hazard, cautions Mrs. Meyer. Then wash the chrome again with suds, rinse and wipe dry.

You can keep the outside of the chrome oven door shiny by applying silver polish according to directions on the container.

In special instances, when an oven has been neglected so badly that ordinary washing is not sufficient, a special oven cleaner may be used. After this has loosened the stubborn crust, then wipe it off and wash all surfaces as usual.

Once the oven is clean, it can be sprayed with a transparent protective coating which prevents grease and food from sticking. After that, it takes only a sudsy sponge to wipe it out until the coating gradually wears away and needs to be renewed.

NEWEST COOKWARE utensils on the market have a slippery, non-stick plastic surface which makes them a joy for the homemaker to use and wash, says Mrs. Elsie P. Short, Extension home management specialist, Texas A&M University.

Except for the tubed cake pan, all non-stick utensils should be conditioned the first time they are used by wiping with cooking oil or shortening. An occasional oiling thereafter will improve their use when they appear dry.

The use of fat in cooking is optional in top-of-range utensils. Eggs will cook without the addition of fat, but the appearance and flavor is improved when the non-stick skillet is very lightly greased.

Most meat has enough fat in itself for flavor and browning and requires no additional fat when it is cooked in a non-stick pan. Muffins lift right out of non-stick muffin cups. With cupcakes, however, it is necessary to grease the cups first.

TENDER PRODUCTS with sugar content, such as butter cakes, have a tendency to stick and tear unless the pans are greased first. Yeast breads and quick breads release from an ungreased non-stick pan, but the pan has to be greased to bake a butter cake or a layer cake.

Angel food, sponge and chiffon cakes bake to the same light volume in a non-stick pan as in an uncoated one. The cake is inverted to cool and has to be loosened with a rubber spatula in the same way as in an ordinary pan.

Do not grease the pan for cookies which contain shortening, but grease will be needed for meringue cookies which contain no shortening. The egg poacher cups have to be greased lightly to insure easy removal of the eggs.

The non-stick coated casseroles, waffle and grid irons offer great advantages when it comes to cleaning. Hot foods seem to release better from non-stick pans than cold ones.

Remember to use nylon coated, rubber, wood, all non-stick and plastic coated metal spoons and spatulas with your non-stick coated cookware.

4-H Members Slate Annual Show Saturday

The annual Deaf Smith County 4-H Vegetable and Crop Show will be held next Saturday at the Little Bull Barn, with entries from all clubs to be judged and a county exhibit compiled for the Tri-State Fair which will open Sept. 20 in Amarillo.

A show committee named from 4-H Club junior and adult leaders completed plans this week for the event. Entries are due by 9 a. m. Saturday in three divisions: Field crops, garden produce and posters. The posters contest was added to the show last year.

Prizes of $3, $2 and $1 will be given on products winning the three top places in each division. Material for the Tri-State Fair exhibit will be selected from blue-ribbon winners.

Winning posters will decorate the fair booth, and other posters will be used in displays over the city during 4-H Club Week, which begins Sept. 25. Theme of the posters is "This is 4-H" and each is to portray something which identifies or explains the 4-H Club program.

In addition to crop and vegetable exhibits from this show, the 4-H exhibit in Amarillo will include entries from county 4-H Bake Show winners.

Sorority Group Hears Introductory Program

The first business and program meeting of the new club year was held Tuesday evening at the Community Center by Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Howard Gore, president, was the presiding officer.

Routine committee reports were heard, with major business being the discussion of the Area Council to be held here October 16-17.

Mrs. Gore, Mrs. Hicks Roberson and Mrs. Bob Huddleston reported on the state sorority convention they attended in Dallas in the summer. They showed souvenirs and pictures which they brought home.

The new program book, "Life, Learning, Friendship", was introduced by Mrs. Roberson, program committee chairman.

Mrs. Clyde Russell and Mrs. Roberson discussed the topic "What Is Life?" done describing life as we may know it in the year 1990, and the other using a response to life by a woman traveler to illustrate the question.

Mrs. Nolan Grady spoke on the subject, "The Beginning of Life," using both spiritual and scientific data.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Ann Woodward and Mrs. Carl Hollingsworth.

Other members present were Mmes. Delbert Bainum, Don Baugous, Harold Beauchamp, Charlie Bell, Doc Carter, Clete Corless, Bob Huddleston, Bill Kendall, Chuck Laing, Jo Miller, Van Nichols, Max Stipe, Larry Summers and Ollene Williams.

Kappa Iota BSP Group Hears Talk

"Introductions" was the appropriate subject for the first program of a season in Kappa Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The sorority met in Community Center Tuesday evening, beginning semi-monthly programs after a three-month recess.

Mrs. C. D. Fitzgerald presented the program, which dealt with the etiquet of making introductions and responding to them.

In the business period, with Mrs. Harold Kids presiding, plans were made for the chapter's part in entertaining a district assembly of Beta Sigma Phi members here next month.

The High Plains Area meeting is set for Oct. 16-17. Mrs. John Gililland of Kappa Iota Chapter is general chairman of arrangements.

Mrs. Wendell Maloney and Mrs. Bobby Shelton, hostesses, served lemon cake with coffee.

Recital Set By Brothers

Two brothers, Richard and Carl Brownd, will be presented in recital at 4 p.m. Sunday in Ward Parlor, First Methodist Church. Richard, a high school senior, plays both organ and piano while Carl, a junior high student, plays the piano.

Their teacher is Mrs. John Sims and they are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gid Brownd. Richard has studied music eight years and his brother a shorter time.

The recital, which will present a variety of selections, is open to the public. On program are such favorite classical number as the Beethoven Minuet in G and airs from Grieg's Peer Gynt Suite as well as music by contemporary composers.

Lively selections like Juba, by Dett, and Nevin's Jazz Miniature are contrasted with the quiet melody of In a Monastery Garden, Ketelbey, and Evensong, Johnston. The opening number will be Rhapsody, Demarest.

Practice In Arranging Given By Garden Club

A workshop - luncheon Friday gave Hereford Garden Club members an opportunity to practice flower arranging and have their efforts appraised by one of their member judges, Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. The meeting was in Hereford Community Center.

Mrs. R. L. Wilson, program chairman, discussed basic mechanics for flower arranging and illustrated her talk by making two arrangements. Each member brought to the meeting flowers, mechanics and container to use in a composition of her choice, and it was these which Mrs. Hill judged.

She also presented one of the topics, "Conservation and Beautification Begin at Home" on the program titled "From the Ground Up". Mrs. R. W. Mitchell's subject was "Building the Soil". Mrs. A. O. Thompson gave horticultural tips for gardners.
