Telephone Communications In Lubbock Impaired By Force Of Storm; Radio Destroyed As Aerial Is Struck

RAINFALL, accompanied by a severe electrical storm which caused one death and did some property damage, fell on Lubbock late yesterday afternoon. A total of .61 inch of precipitation fell at the experiment farm, four miles east of the city, D. L. Jones, superintendent, reported.

Alfred Lewis, 8-year-old negro boy, was instantly killed shortly before 6 p. m. when he was sitting in a residence at 2007 Avenue A, near a window.

Glass In Unbroken

The bolt killing the child failed to break the glass window pane near the boy, but damaged the frame building. Striking the southwest corner of the structure, about 10 feet of the roof was torn away by the lightning. The bolt also cracked the concrete foundation upon which the house was resting. Laura Chandler, who was living in the residence, was slightly injured. the residence, was slightly injured sister, who was in the room at the time he was killed, was uninjured. Frightened, the girl ran to a neighbor's house and told of the accident.

Calvin Quigley, negro undertaker, who last night was preparing the boy's body for burial, said there were no marks or bruises on the body. Attending physicians said death was instantaneous.

Lines Are Damaged

Lightning striking some telephone cables in different parts of the city, placed a number of lines out of order last night, telephone company officials reported. A complete check-up of the damage to the system had not been completed last night and the lines out of order

Penn Oil Company Prepares To Drill In Cochran County

SAN ANGELO, July 18. (AP)—West Texas as the week closed presented the paradox of preparations by the Penn Oil Co., of Dallas, of which Robert R. Penn, chairman of the statewide proration committee, is president, to drill a deep wildcat in Cochrane county, and the raising of the daily allowable production in the Penn pool in Reter county by 1,728 barrels, while a score of wells began plugging to abandon and twelve were shut in in Upton, Crockett and Crane counties because oil at ten cents a barrel is below the cost of production.

Penn Oil Co., was reported to be moving in standard tools for No. 1 Slaughter, a scheduled 5,000-foot test, in labour 80, league 129, Carson county school land. Drilling is in fulfillment of an obligation made when Penn acquired the block, it was understood.

ANNOUNCE PROJECTS

AUSTIN, July 18. (AP)—The state highway department today announced additional highway projects for the July-August meeting of the commission that increased the estimated total of the contracts to be awarded by approximately $1,300,000. The new total was estimated at between $5,700,000 and $6,000,000.

City-Wide Study Of Taxes Called

Taxpayers Of Lubbock Plan Discussion Of City Expenses In Session Monday Night

ALL taxpayers of the City of Lubbock who are interested in the curtailment of expenses incidental to operation of the municipal government, are urged to attend a meeting here tomorrow night, when a discussion of expenses will be entered into, J. H. Hankins and J. K. Wester, proponents of the plan, announced here yesterday.

A petition, calling for the meeting to be held Monday night at 8 o'clock at the county courthouse, was passed yesterday afternoon and was presented to The Avalanche-Journal for publication bearing the names of 31 citizens. Appearing on the petition were the names of some of the largest taxpayers residing in the city.

Seek Aid In Taxes

Acting as a spokesman for the plan, J. H. Hankins outlined the proposal as an effort on the part of taxpayers to foment ways and means of cutting city expenses, so that any decrease ni operating costs might be reflected in taxes upon realty property within the city limits.

He said he expected to preside over the meeting and that a discussion of salary and other expense cuts would be heard.

"Is No Fight"

"This is no fight on the city commission or on any other group," Mr. Hankins declared. "I am just as much behind the commission as I am behind any organization in this town. But we have a democratic form of government in which every taxpayer has a right to be heard and at tomorrow night's meeting the opportunity for a hearing will be given all interested taxpayers.

"There will be nothing radical said or done, if I have my way," he stated. "What we are planning is a heart-to-heart talk upon local problems."

Is Ex-Commissioner

Mr. Hankins said he was familiar with the city's operations and "can quote from memory, almost, the amount of salary being drawn by every city employe who works by the month," as well as other city expenditures. He formerly served on the commission, relinquishing his post slightly more than a year ago to John Roach, utilities commissioner.

Circulation of the petition yesterday was the first public indication that any effort was apparent upon the part of the citizenship to seek cuts in governmental costs for the City of Lubbock. There has been some street discussion in regard to a possible slash in county salaries, led by Commissioner

Jones Funeral Rites Are Set At Rochester

Mrs. Chas. A. Jones, Mother Of Clifford B. Jones, Will Be Laid To Rest Today; Is Former Spur Resident

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 18.—Funeral services for Mrs. Charles A. Jones, mother of Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, Texas, who died here Friday night, will be held in Rochester Sunday afternoon at Calvary Episcopal church.

Mrs. Jones, who suffered a stroke of paralysis more than a month ago, had been in failing health since. She was the wife of Charles A. Jones, former manager of the Spur ranch and of the Freeport Sulphur company, and in addition to her widower is survived by two sons. They are Hoyle Jones, president of the Superior Tube company, of Tulsa; and Clifford B. Jones, Spur manager of the Spur ranch and West Texas representative of the Swenson interests.

To Texas In 1907

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones came to Texas in 1907 from Kansas City and for many years were closely allied with the progress of West Texas. When Mr. Jones was succeeded by Clifford Jones as manager of the ranch, he and his wife moved to Los Angeles where they have spent most of their time since, going to Spur occasionally to visit friends.

Clifford Jones, better known of the two sons in Texas, has been a leader in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce since its organization and is an ex-president of the regional body. He still serves the WTCC as a director and in addition is a regent of Texas Technological college, Lubbock.

Members of the Jones family have been closely associated with the Swensons, New York capitalists and holders of large properties in Texas, for the greater parts of two generations. They are widely known over the state.

Oil Worker Dying Following Burns Received At Kilgore

KILGORE, July 18. (AP) — Earl Renwick, 34, Oklahoma City oil worker, was in a dying condition here today from burns received when a battery of tanks at the Pace Petroleum company well caught fire. He was working on top of a tank when the fire broke out.

Falling into a slush pit where oil was burning, Renwick was burned on both his legs. One leg was broken by the fall. The blaze was believed to have originated when a welding torch set the oil afire. The torch was used to weld a vent line from the tank.

Santa Fe Employe Drowns While Swimming In Concho

SAN ANGELO, July 18. (AP)—C. A. Birley, 32, Santa Fe round house employe, drowned late this afternoon in the south Concho river about a mile from here while swimming with a companion. Briley became exhausted while swimming in deep water, according to C. R. Kirkland, who was with him. The body was recovered.

Condition Of Goolsby Said By Doctors To Be Unchanged

MARSHALL, July 18. (AP)—Attending physicians said the condition of Thomas Scott Goolsby remained unchanged tonight.

Goolsby, injured internally Tuesday when the car in which he was riding collided with another near here, contracted pneumonia. Only one lung was said to be congested.

Situation Finds Two Bridges At Denison And Ringgold As Traffic Carriers; Third Is Controversial Point

(By The Associated Press)

DENISON, July 18. — Governor Murray's drastic action in opening free bridges across the Red river between Texas and Oklahoma appeared tonight to be a coup d'etat which had found right-of-way in legal channels and seemed likely to meet hastily the goal sought.

Within forty eight hours after the colorful chief executive's highway "shock troops" had barricaded the Oklahoma end of the Denison-Durant toll bridge and ordered traffic to detour to a small free bridge a few miles downstream when attempts to open the main free span parelleling the toll structure were frustrated by Texas rangers at the south end, the battle between Murray and Governor Sterling of Texas apparently had turned in the former's favor.

Carrying Traffic

The situation found free bridges near Denison and Ringgold, 70 miles up the river from Denison, carrying traffic that prior to last Thursday passed over the toll bridges; and plans under way for opening the new free bridge at Gainesville, the third point involved in Murray's move.

Soon after a tractor started to plow up the asphalt topping along 200 feet of roadway leading to the Denison toll bridge on the Oklahoma side, to reinforce barriers already set up at that end, came a succession of developments favorable to the free bridge sponsors.

Action In Sight

Definite action by Texas authorities appeared to be in sight with announcement from Austin that Governor Sterling had asked the receiver of the Denison toll bridge, the highway commission and Sen-

Lowering Of Rail Rates Is Proposed By Grain Official

PORT WORTH, July 18. (AP)—G. E. Blewett, secretary of the Texas Grain Dealers' association, declared here today that the railroads instead of raising rates on farm products should reduce such rates to pre-war level or even below that level.

Blewett said the interstate commerce commission, instead of getting misinformation from high salaried railroad men and rate experts who are drawing far more than pre-war salaries, should get the facts from the farmer or from those in direct contact with the farmer.

Fastest Non-Stop Flight To Havana Completed Saturday

HAVANA, July 18. (AP)—What was declared by aviation officials to be the fastest non-stop flight from New York to Havana was made today by James Goodwin Hall, former army flier, when according to his timing he spanned the long stretch in 8 hours, 35 minutes.

According to the flier's records, he took off at Roosevelt field at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Unofficial figures placed the takeoff from New York at 4:38, which would make the total elapsed time 8 hours, 40 minutes.

French Plan Agreement Looms After Conference

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, July 18. — Obstacles in the way of French participation in the conference of major statesmen to be held in London Monday were swept away today in conversations between the heads of the French and German governments.

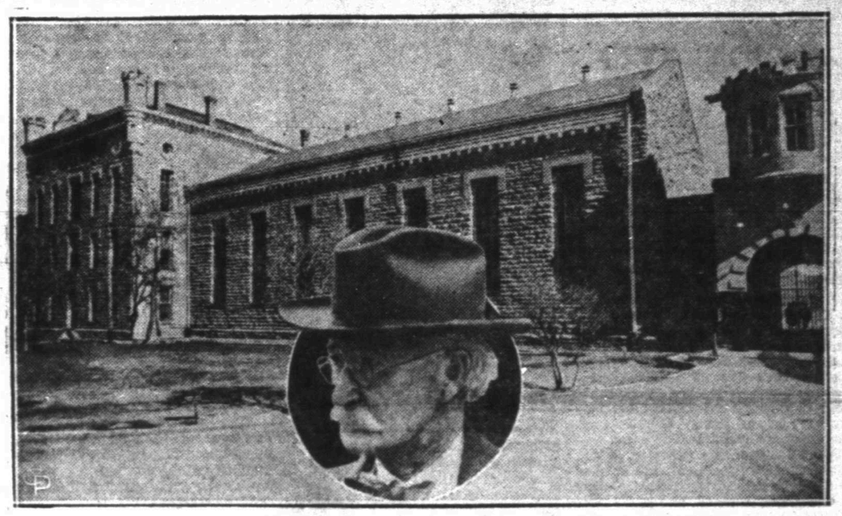

Premier Laval decided, after discussing the German crisis with Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, that his separate negotiations with Germany were sufficiently advanced to remove the French objections to taking part in the London meeting.

The French decision remained in doubt until a communique was issued at the conclusion of the Franco-German conversations and even then it was set forth indirectly in connection with a reference to a meeting tomorrow of the representatives of the powers that will be present at the British capital.

M. Laval made it clear he considered the atmosphere cordial during his talk with Herr Bruening and Chancellor Curtius and during the larger conference which followed and at which the way was opened for Franco-German cooperation in

Leon Trotzky Greets World In Interview

First Interview Granted During Last Two Years Bares Fact That Trotzky Still Is Loyal To Soviet

Unshaken loyalty to the Soviet regime is expressed by Leon Trotzky in the following interview, the first he has granted in two years.

While criticizing the policies of Joseph Stalin, Trotzky categorically denies that Stalin's recent political and economic innovations are a turning toward capitalism.

He declares that when the reforms he wants have been effected in Russia, his leftist opposition will take its place in the "common ranks" of communism.

BY PRISCILLA RING,
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

MODA, Turkey, July 18.—For the first time in almost two years Leon Trotzky has unlocked the iron gates of his retreat to admit an interviewer.

He received an Associated Press correspondent in his small wooden villa at Moda, an Asiatic suburb of Istanbul and a favorite summer resort.

Is Very Cordial

Trotzky shot out cordial greetings in French with some English "How are you's" and "All right's" thrown in. He reads English easily, but prefers not to talk it.

First stipulating his declarations were to be published word for word or not at all, he attacked the questions which at his request had been sent in advance.

Analysis Impossible

"Within the space of an interview it is impossible to give an analysis of the complicated processes which from the contents of the present transitional economic system of

Oil Industry And Proration Claims Attention Of Solons

Terrell, Smith And Parker Up To Testify As To Opinions Regarding Problems; Neff To Be Heard Monday

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 18.—The lower house of the Texas legislature delved into the oil industry and the state proration structure today, interrogating members of the railroad commission and the chief of the oil and gas division.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, Lon A. Smith, commissioner, and R. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division, were unanimous in statements the present proration orders were unenforceable because of inadequate conservation laws. Terrell and Smith agreed the commission was not overworked and could enforce conservation if given proper facilities.

Opinion Withheld

The witnesses would express no opinion as to whether the oil market was controlled by monopolies or that the price of oil at the wells and the price of the refined products was set by agreements in restraint of trade. Parker said he would express no opinion because he could not substantiate it.

Members of the steering committee directing the investigation said they believed the major phases of the inquiry probably would be completed by the end of next week after which action will be taken on bills pending. The investigation is being carried on by the house acting as a committee of the whole.

Neff To Be Heard

Pat M. Neff, third member of the railroad commission who has dissented from the proration policy of the commission majority, will be called before the committee Monday. The committee indicated Governor R. S. Sterling also would be asked to state his views of the oil industry early next week.

Today's witnesses also were unanimous in the opinion that East Texas was the thorn in the side of the oil industry and that unrestricted production was causing serious physical and economic waste.

New Section Of Road Will Be Built From Gainesville

GAINESVILLE, July 18. (AP) — Dave S. Cox, Cooke county commissioner, today told members of commissioner's court he would immediately authorize expenditure of Precinct No. 1 funds for construction of a section of road leading from Gainesville to the new state free bridge across the Red river, six miles north of here.

Cox said business interests of Gainesville had guaranteed purchase of the right-of-way and the City of Gainesville would furnish an engineer to survey the route.

Graduate Of Texas Tech Is Painfully Hurt At Carlsbad

Carl Stultz, 24, graduate of Texas Technological college, was painfully injured late Saturday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a gun while on the rifle range at Carlsbad, N. M., according to word received here last night by A. L. Rambey, father-in-law of Stultz.

Stultz has been employed this summer as a ranger in the cavern service. Few details of the accident were received here. Stultz was said to be in a Carlsbad hospital. The shot took effect through his hip.

Onetime Political Power Now Broken Old Man; To Enter New Mexico Prison After A Night's Rest, Belief

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, July 18.—Just as the sun sank into lowhanging clouds, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, this afternoon began his journey to the New Mexico penitentiary at Santa Fe.

While his wife and daughters, weeping, and a group of friends stood near, he was assisted down the rear steps of his big red brick mansion and into an ambulance, which then left for his ranch at Three Rivers, New Mexico. It was believed he would spend the night there and continue to Santa Fe tomorrow.

A Dramatic Scene

It was a dramatic scene that depicted the beginning of Fall's trip to the prison where he will serve a sentence of a year and a day given him on conviction of accepting a bribe while a member of President Harding's cabinet.

Shortly before six o'clock, a big black ambulance rolled down the street before the Fall house and turned into a driveway at the rear. A dozen photographers and reporters who had waited at the residence day and night for nearly a week stood in silence.

Many Friends Watch

A motorcycle policeman stopped his machine with muffled motor in the street outside the driveway. In many windows of adjacent houses appeared faces of men, women and children, some of whom had been Fall's neighbors for twenty years and more. Others stood on curbs nearby. Many were crying.

There was a delay of several minutes. Someone carried a few articles into the ambulance. An attendant sent with the ambulance

Demand For Food Accomplishes End

HENRYETTA, Okla., July 18. (AP) Their leader carrying an American flag, a crowd of 300 unemployed men and women marched on several downtown grocery stores here late today and demanded food supplies after establishing an emergency relief store in the city hall. In most cases they got the supplies.

Charles Holmes, a minister of Dewar, a mining village near Henryetta, met with the crowd in the city hall prior to the march and prayed for divine guidance in procuring the food for families which have been in need for months because of shutdown coal mines and depression in other industries here.

Although there was no effort at rioting, a group of persons in the crowd entered at least one store with threats of obtaining food by force if it was not to be had otherwise. They left without carrying out their threats.

July Permits Total Eleven Records Show

Postoffice And County Jail Structures Are Included In Total; Repair Jobs Are On In Various Sections

MORE than $450,000 worth of building, including the postoffice and the county jail, is now under construction here, a check of records at the city building inspector's office yesterday showed.

Permits issued so far in July number 11 and amount to $43,830. These include a $33,000 permit for the new Conley building, Broadway at Texas wrecking of which was begun early in the week. The Conley estate is owner of the building and J. J. Clements is contractor.

Baugh Gets Permit

Dr. W. L. Baugh, 1811 13th was issued a permit to remodel and add several rooms to his residence. Amount of the contract is $2,500 and the work is well under way.

L. H. Grimes, service station owner, was issued a permit to alter a brick building at the corner of Avenue H and 13th. Cost was given as $1,500 and Mr. Grimes will operate a modern super-service station there.

Mrs. M. G. Abernathy was authorized to remodel the Leader building, 1102 Broadway, formerly occupied by the Grollman store. This building is to be occupied early in August by J. C. Penney and company. Cost of the altering is estimated at $4,000.

Repair Jobs On

R. C. Hamlin was authorized to repair a business building at 1010 19th street. Cost is estimated at $1,500.

There are seven small repair jobs for which permits have been issued since the first of the month. These amount to nearly $1,500.

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson was given permission to change the windows in a store room at 1015 Broadway. This building is to be occupied by the new C. L. Grollman store. Cost is $1,000.

The new county jail is making good progress at this time. It is believed it can be occupied late in September. H. H. Shell and Son have the contract. The building, when completed, will be the most modern jail structure in West Texas.

Interior Work On

Most of the general contract has been completed. Installation of cells and interior work is being done now. Cost is estimated at $120,000.

Laying of stone for the new postoffice building was begun last week. A change has been made in the plans that will permit the use of stone up to the second floor of the building.

The William McDonald Construction company of St. Louis, Mo., has the contract. It will be about a year before the structure is complete.

In addition to these buildings the power house at Texas Technological college is being erected. This work was started when the legislature authorized additional funds for the job. Including this work the amount is over $500,000.

Highway construction is not included. An $83,000 contract for the paving of Nos. 137, 24 and 7 around Texas Technological college, is starting.

Paving of No. 9 south is expected to be started soon. Letting of the contract is to be considered by the highway commission at an early date.

Likewise grading and drainage work on No. 137 through Wolffarth to the Hockley county line is expected to be let late this month.

Paving of No. 9 north is to be completed within a week or ten days, it is reported.

Former Lubbock Boy Back From Tour Around World, Thanks To Lucky "Breaks"

Allan Carney Tells Of Experiences Over Globe

By CHAS. C. WATSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

BRONZED by months of hard travel under blazing tropical suns, rich in stories of experiences gathered from the far corners of the earth, and enriched by a knowledge of human nature in almost a score of foreign countries, gathered by personal contact—George Allan Carney, former sports editor of the Avalanche-Journal, has returned from a tour of the world which started little more than a year ago.

Young Carney, with Sutton Christian, also a former member of the Avalanche-Journal editorial staff, left Lubbock on July 13, 1930, bolstered by dreams of a pleasure trip into strange and unfamiliar surroundings. Christian remained behind at the last center, Shanghai, China, where he is employed as a member of the staff of The China Press. He expects to return to the states by early fall.

Docks At Seattle

Carney landed back in the United States on June 30, docking at Seattle after working his way across the Pacific as an ordinary seaman on the liner President Jefferson. A short jaunt down the west coast ranged him back into familiar territory and on Friday of this week he was back in Lubbock.

Asked concerning this trip, which was carefully planned and carried out under the most difficult of circumstances, Carney was a bit undecided as to giving a comprehensive description in a brief interview of the multitudinous incidents which occurred in a full year of constant moving about.

"China?" he replied, following a question dealing with his life while in that more or less mysterious country of the Orient which holds sort of a fascination for the average American.

China Metropolitan

"Without the actual experience of having lived there, one can hardly visualize a place so metropolitan, a place where red man, white man, yellow man and black mix in the eternal task of common every day life and labor.

"China, like all other countries of the Far East, has a fascination which grips the white man—grips him so hard that after a short residence there he is loath to leave. This feeling is easily traceable by observance of the habits of those who make that country a place of abode.

"Conventions play a major role. In no place where we traveled did we find society so lax in observance of conventionality—life so loose or human beings so far removed from the standards of living of America.

"The average white man in China, in his own mind is a sort of czar or king of his whole household and of those over whom his power extends. Even in their own country the Chinese cringe at the sight of a foreigner, a complex having been set up in their minds that in some unexplainable way God made them inferior, through the blending of color in their skins. No yellow man openly dares to question the authority of the white, although deep in their heart and souls there is embedded a feeling of bitterness and of almost hate at the fate which life has meted them.

Just Good Servants

"A fair example of the light in which the white man holds the yellow might be gleaned from the answer of the first white settler ever to call China his home. This man, who first set foot in that country more than 60 years ago, like all others, considers the Chinese nothing more than laborers. In an interview with him while living in Shanghai, he bared in one short sentence this feeling. 'The Chinese,' he exclaimed, 'are just a bunch of darn good servants and that's all.

"The newcomer to China can't help but harbor a feeling of pity for these unfortunates, yet in time this feeling is largely dispelled."

In Shanghai alone there are approximately 4,000 Americans, according to Carney. They are engaged in practically every occupation imaginable.

Aside from Americans there are also many Englishmen, Frenchmen, Indians and others. All thrown together these compose a world of strange sights and sounds, he explained.

Everything Backward

"A stranger in Shanghai is first impressed with the appearance of dirt, filth and the custom of doing everything backwards," the young traveler said. "Even traffic moves on the wrong side of the street.

"Night life, contrary to supposition, is not cheap and is, on the other hand, expensive. But any outlay is worthwhile if only for the rare experience of sight-seeing in this country of Buddha and Confucius. A glance into the cabarets and cafes at nightfall and one sees a sight which even the most vivid imagination could not conjure in this country.

Conditions Differ

Working conditions in China are in decided contrast to those of the United States, Carney continued.

"Few people here realize that on an English language newspaper, such as the China Press, there are Chinese linotype operators working in the mechanical department who never know what they are setting. Their work is just a day of handling a jumbled mass of words and letters into a strange and unknown language. Floor men, also in the mechanical department, speak very little English and their work is largely machine-like.

"However, in the editorial and advertising rooms are some of the brightest minds of the nation. Chinese make up the major portion of the reportorial staff, but these men have all been students of universities with a good command of both Chinese and English languages. In these departments are to be found some Americans also.

"Wages in China, while high-sounding to Americans, really are very low, as a rule. This fact is shown through the rate of exchange. Yet while wages are low, the cost of living is decidedly lower and a man earning barely a living wage in America can be classed as almost well-to-do in China. Help is plentiful and can be had at almost the asking."

Visited 14 Countries

During the voyage taken by Carney and Christian, the two youths visited fourteen countries. Included among these were Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, France, Italy, Egypt, French Samoiland, Arabia, India, Straits Settlements, China, Japan and Canada.

"It would be difficult to describe all these in brief," Carney explained. "The one place which possibly impressed each of us most was Cairo, Egypt. Here was a city dreamed of—colorful, fascinating where the east and west blended in perfect harmony. One could stay there weeks and even months and each day see something new at which to marvel.

"Contrary to the rumors, Germany as a nation was the most impressive. In every city we visited activities were at the boom stage and every native was busily engaged. The prejudice which existed following the World war is fast disappearing and the German people as a whole are a wonderful set. They are hard workers and a capable race and in the mind of each exists the belief that Americans are the most wonderful people in the world."

Vagabond In Narrow Escape From Being Stranded Abroad

BY VESTAL LOTT
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE PROVERBIAL milk of human kindness, so often scoffed at by cynics, isn't such a myth after all.

Without it, George Allan Carney, former sports editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and now a world-girdling vagabond, might now be stranded at Madagascar or some other foreign seaport where he had just as soon not be.

Back From Tour

Carney has just returned from a trip around the world which took him to fourteen countries. He and Sutton Christian, also a former member of the Avalanche-Journal staff, left Lubbock last July for a vagabonding tour of the globe. Christian is still at Shanghai where he and Carney worked on The China Press, a daily English-language newspaper, for the past several months. He is expected back in the United States within the next two months.

Except for the assistance—sometimes sought, sometimes unsolicited — from American consuls and other strangers, the two "Tramping Texans" would not have been so successful in circling the world.

"It all seems funny and amusing now, but at times it was intensely serious," Carney said. "I wouldn't take anything for the experiences but at the time some of them were not so pleasant. On several occasions we became desperate—so desperate, in fact, that we had to swallow our pride to get by. But every time that things appeared darkest, when our last hope would seem to fade, we would get a "break"; someone would come to our aid."

Carney said their most trying experiences were—but let him tell it.

"Our funds began to get low upon reaching Germany, after tramping through Belgium and part of France. Many days we had nothing to eat except bread and cheese and very little of that. Europeans don't know what it is to "thumb" a ride; they think you are crazy when you try it.

"We rode fourth class on trains and hiked until we reached Naples where we obtained passage across the Mediterranean on a promise of publicity for the steamship company in daily stories we were sending back to America. We stayed in Cairo hotel for more than a week on the same promise and thought it would work at Port Said. But it didn't. After waiting three weeks with little money and no work, we stowed away on a French liner.

"Holding out against hunger as long as we could, we finally surrendered to the captain and asked to be put to work. He went up in the air and began gesticulating wildly, resorting to his choicest French to express his exasperation. It seems that we were the first to stow away successfully through the Suez Canal.

"He took what little money we had and said he would turn us over to the authorities at Djibouti French Somaliland five days away. Clandestine food tickets were issued us but steerage food in the tropics is just about the most undesirable commodity imaginable. Had it not been for the sympathy of the passengers and sailors, our daily menu would have been far below what the doctor ordered.

Placed In Jail

"Five days of this, during which time we were kicked about in a style quite unbecoming of a Southern gentleman. The chief of police and several of his assistants, dressed in emaculate white uniforms came aboard to escort us to the jail at Djibouti. Wiry natives gazed in open amazement at the sight of seeing three white men coming to this seldom-visited port in company with the police. They very likely thought we were spies or something of the sort.

"Something over two days was spent in the village hoosegow before we were brought before the magistrate.

"You see, the shipping company overlooked the little detail of sending a representative to the court hearing to press their charges. As a result we were acquitted and the money taken from us aboard ship was returned. But there we were in an out-of-the-way seaport with very little funds and no chance in sight of continuing our tour. We heard that Murray H. Jacoby, a rich New York utilities man, had arrived in Djibouti on a special train from Abis Abbaba, the capital of Abyssinia. By a pre-arranged "accident" we met him and, swallowing our pride, told him of our plight. Jacoby was there as the U. S representative at the coronation of the king of Abyssinia. He was more than considerate of our position. He paid our expenses while there and then donated enough money to enable us to cross over to Aden, Arabia.

"When we reached Aden, English officials refused to allow us to land. We faced the cheerless prospect of having to continue to Madagascar aboard the French liner. We appealed to the American consul and after the ship had been delayed two hours he took the responsibility of seeing us ashore.

Landing Denied

"We had met and joined with a California youth who was on a similar jaunt. He cabled America for money and, with what we had, we obtained deck passage, without food to Colombo where we intended to stop. But Colombo is a British seaport and the Britains refused to let anyone land who does not have enough money to leave, and we didn't. Again we thought we were sunk, but again we got a 'break.' An elderly Englishman and his wife who had cultivated our friendship aboard ship came to us and asked to lend us some money. At first we refused, but it wasn't a very emphatic refusal, and we finally accepted a loan of ten pounds—and it was a loan, because we intend to pay it back if it is the last thing we ever do.

"With the money we had borrowed we continued to Shanghai where we both obtained jobs within a week.

Little To Eat

"While sailing we had very little to eat—only what the sailors would have left or what the cook would slip to us."

Asked if he would like to live it all over again, Carney said "never again. I am glad that we made the trip but I wouldn't do it again under the same circumstances. The next time I'll have more money.

"The best thing about the whole tour," the vagabond added, "was getting back home.

Work In State Falling Below Former Figure

Permits Granted In 35 Cities Reveal Total For First Half Of 1931 At $27,809,000; Decline Of 29 Per Cent

AUSTIN, July 18.—Building in Texas during the first half of 1931, as indicated by permits granted in 35 cities, represented a value of $27,809,000, compared to $39,307,000 during the first six months of the previous year, according to the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas.

"This decline of 29 per cent was less than the shrinkage of 31 per cent reported by the F. W. Dodge Corporation in value of new construction throughout the United States," the Bureau's statement said. "The May to June decline in Texas amounted to 27 per cent, compared to the three-year average decrease of 23 per cent during this period. Permits in May amounted to $5,386,000, compared to $3,956,000 in June.

Permits Totaled

"Permits granted by cities during the first half of 1931, as compared to the corresponding period of 1930 totaled as follows: Abilene $147,000 this year compared to $306,000 in 1930; Amarillo, $1,598,000 compared to $1,287,000; Austin, $1,321,000 compared to $2,309,000; Beaumont $793,000 compared to $1,263,000; Brownsville, $174,000 compared to $281,000; Brownwood, $526,000 compared to $685,000; Cleburne $54,000 compared to $317,000; Corpus Christi, $321,000 compared to $822,000; Corsicana, $67,000 compared to $297,000; Dallas, $4,608,000 compared to $3,426,000; Del Rio, $118,000 compared to $312,000; Denison $22,000 compared to $45,000; Eastland, $16,000 compared to $45,000; El Paso, $692,000 compared to $1,838,000; Fort Worth, $2,699,000 compared to $4,624,000.

Lubbock Behind

"Galveston, $1,658,000 compared to $760,000; Houston, $6,710,000 compared to $8,859,000; Jacksonville, $56,000 compared to $143,000; Laredo, $40,000 compared to $108,000; Lubbock, $232,000 compared to $1,241,000; McAllen, $56,000 compared to $109,000; Marshall, $98,000 compared to $103,000.

"Paris, $167,000 compared to $86,000; Plainview, $38,000 compared to $264,000; Port Arthur, $565,000 compared to $1,689,000; Ranger, $16,000 compared to $12,000; San Angelo, $115,000 compared to $331,000; San Antonio, $1,434,000 compared to $4,996,000; Sherman, $133,000 compared to $162,000; Snyder, $14,000 compared to $17,000; Sweetwater, $119,000 compared to $216,000; Temple, $297,000 compared to $344,000; Tyler, $1,381,000 compared to $592,000; Waco, $1,497,000 compared to $692,000; Wichita Falls, $57,000 compared to $316,000."

Four County Health Meets Are To Be Held In Section

LAMESA, July 18.—Plans are under way by the four county committees of this health unit area for six many health roundups during August, before school starts early in September, Miss Myrtle Setzer, health nurse, announces.

Counties cooperating are Lynn, Dawson, Borden and Martin.

A. M. Gosch is the sanitarian, and Dr. Don C. Patterson the health engineer.

"We will hold a health roundup for school children some time in August," Miss Setzer said. "The dates have not been set. The Dawson county committee is at work on plans for the roundup and they will be announced soon."

More than 63,000 acres in the Dominican Republic are bearing rice this year.

Damages Asked In Suit Filed By Woman Here

Mrs. Elba Raby With Husband Seeks $5,200 Damages From C. J. Hallmark For Alleged Assault And Injury

Alleging she was assaulted and injured twice, Mrs. Elba Raby with her husband, S. A. Raby, filed a petition in ninety-ninth district court Saturday morning against C. J. Hallmark for damages totaling $5,200.

Mrs. Raby and a son, Odie Raby, were tried in county court Friday before Acting Judge George Berry on simple assault charges as an outgrowth of a dispute between the Rabys and Hallmarks, owner of a farm which the Rabys are working on shares near Idalou, over water to irrigate a garden.

Raby Acquitted

A jury acquitted Odie Raby and failed to agree in Mrs. Raby's case. Hallmark will be tried in the July term of county court, authorities said Friday.

In the suit filed Saturday, Mrs. Raby asked $200 actual damages—$100 for each alleged attack—and $5,000 exemplary damages. She charged Hallmark assaulted and beat her May 16, disabling her for two weeks, and again Tuesday, necessitating care of a physician. He struck her over the head with a four-foot stick the second time, the petition charged.

The dispute began about six weeks ago. Charges filed in justice court at Idalou were dismissed on agreement of those involved, it was said at the county attorney's office here. Charges were filed in county court Tuesday after the dispute had been renewed.

Effect Of New State Cigaret Tax On Sale Of "Fags" Matter Of Conjecture Among Solons

Levy To Become Effective On August 21; Receipts Are Variously Estimated From Five To Eight Millions

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 18. (AP)—What effect the tax of three cents per package on cigarets, authorized at the last session of the legislature, will have on the sale of the "fags" in Texas was a matter of conjecture among state officials. The tax will become effective at midnight, August 21.

When the tax was up for consideration in the legislature, receipts were variously estimated between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. Since that time the estimate has dropped to around the $5,000,000 mark with several officials and members of the legislature estimating the receipts at approximately $4,000,000.

Half To Schools

One-half the receipts from the tax will go to the general revenue fund to bolster it against the continual demands made on it and the other half will be credited to the public free school fund. The tax originally was sponsored by members of the education bloc in the house but was defeated when the house refused to print it on minority report after it had received unfavorable action from the revenue and taxation committee.

The tax was added to a peddler's tax bill in the senate after heated argument. The contention of opponents of the tax that the action of the senate was unconstitutional because the constitution declares all tax measures must originate in the house was overruled and the house by a few votes concurred in the amendment.

Threats Die Down

Shortly after the tax was passed by the legislature, talk flew fast and thick that its constitutionality might be attacked in the courts. Since the heat of the session has abated, however, these threats have died down and the manufacturers and dealers in cigarets apparently have accepted the tax and made preparations to pass it on to the consumer.

That the tax undoubtedly would decrease the consumption of cigarets was admitted both by opponents and proponents. Several individuals have expressed the intention of having the cigarets delivered to them direct from the manufacturer; quit smoking altogether; smoke a pipe or cigars or even "roll their own" as a protest against payment of the levy.

The tax was levied mainly on the plea the money was necessary for operation of the schools.

"I am for education strong," one man stated, "but I don't believe in levying a tax on a poor man's pleasure and let the high priced cigars smoked by the rich go untaxed. Surely there is a better method of raising revenue than by this 'nuisance' tax."

Recently cigaret manufacturers announced an increase in the price of cigarets and those that formerly sold at two packages for 25 cents now sell for 15 cents straight, with dealers predicting a rise to 20 cents per package when the tax becomes effective.

Stringent enforcement of the tax to eliminate as far as possible the "bootlegging" element has been planned by Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, charged with administration of the law.

A survey of other states in which a cigaret tax is levied showed it produced results in some instances for a time and that collections then started dropping. Rigid enforcement in other states, however, has resulted in maintenance of a fairly even flow of revenue.

Deaths Over The South Plains

MRS. A. C. HINES

SLATON. (Special).—Mrs. A. C. Hines, 90, mother of Mrs. Fannie Dawson, postmistress at Wilson, died at the Dawson home, July 15. Funeral services were held the following day at Birdville, near Fort Worth. Besides Mrs. Dawson another daughter, Mrs. Mary Reeves of Fort Worth and several grandchildren survive.

JOE NOKES

BROWNFIELD. (Special).—Joe Nokes, 46, a resident of the Johnson community, died July 14 after a brief illness. Funeral services were held the following day and burial was here. Mr. Nokes was operated on two months before his death and feeling sufficiently recovered, drove his farm machinery. He suddenly became chilled after becoming overheated.

Charters Near Total Of 1930

Number For First Six Months Of 1931 Only Two Less Than For Similar Period Of Last Year, Records Reveal

AUSTIN July 18. (AP)—The number of charters granted by the state for the first six months of 1931 was only two less than the total granted in the first six months of 1930, according to records of the office of Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state. The number issued to July 1, 1931, was 1,229 compared to 1,231 the corresponding period the previous year.

According to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas, capital represented by the charters this year totaled $58,669,000 compared to $32,138,000 in 1930, an increase of 82 per cent in the money involved.

Oil companies led the list of charters with 258 in 1931 compared to 127 in 1930. Other classifications were: public service corporations, 23 this year and 20 last year; manufacturing enterprises, 125 in 1931 and 122 in 1930; banking and finance corporations, 73 in 1931 and 50 in 1930; real estate and building corporations, 93 this year and 94 last year, miscellaneous companies, 657 this year and 811 last year.

A total of 244 foreign corporations was chartered in the first half of 1931 compared to 207 in the same period of 1930.

The number of charters issued and the capitalization in June was well below the totals for May. Charters issued in June totaled 179 with capitalization of $9,807,000. In May 329 charters were issued with a capitalization of $14,417,000.

England is considering legal sanction of sweepstakes for State and charitable purposes.

Terry Exhibit Being Planned

County Will Exhibit Products At Panhandle-South Plains Fair And Later Carry Them To State Fair

By Staff Correspondent

BROWNFIELD. July 18—Terry county agricultural exhibits will be shown at the South Plains fair in Lubbock late in September and will then go to Dallas for exhibition at the state fair, J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, announces.

Directors of the local group voted to participate in both expositions. The secretary was instructed to get an exhibit together showing the products of Terry county.

The state fair participation will be in conjunction with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"We are going to have a good exhibit from old Terry," Mr. Shelton said. "You can tell the rest of the counties that we are going to have a good exhibit at Lubbock this year. We've got a real crop."

BUILDS LAYING HOME

If You Think That Being Jailer Is Easy Job Just Try It Out, Says Earnest

Prisoners Use Many Kinds Of Tricks To Break Jail

Is Not So Easy

WILL EARNEST

All sorts of tricks and artificies are used by jail prisoners seeking to gain their freedom, or, as Deputy Sheriff "Bill" Earnest puts it, "to make life miserable for the jailor."

Earnest was official jailor of Lubbock county for 28 months, holding that position until about three months ago when there was a change in the personnel of the sheriff's department.

No Easy Job

"To anyone who thinks a jailor who has about 50 to 75 prisoners on his hands has an easy job, I just wish he had the opportunity of living that routine for a few weeks," the deputy sheriff said. "He would change his mind."

"Although we had some model prisoners at times, it seemed to me like 75 per cent of the inmates were constantly thinking up plans to get out, or to get the jailor in 'Dutch'," he added. "Every conclevable plan and device was used.

"Of course, when the prisoner is first confined to jail he thinks of saws when he starts to devise methods of escape. At the beginning he tries to get saws smuggled in to him. Finding such practice usually difficult, the inmate calls upon his invenitve genius. In a few weeks he has learned how to make crude saws out of knives and forks, which he holds out at meal time. Weeks of patient labor is required to make such cutting implements and they are not very effective when completed.

Burn Out Lights

"After the idea of saws has worn away, he next turns his creative mind to devising other methods of getting rid of the bars. At this stage, he thinks of the electric lighting circuit. Somewhere, he has seen arc welding and cutting. With the lead of a pencil as a welder, he starts in on the steel barriers. But the fuses in the jail were not designed for such heavy duty and instantly the entire jail is in darkness.

"Before the old jail was removed to make way for the new structure, I once had to prohibit the prisoners from having magazines. If any quantity of magazines were accumulated an attempt was made to soften the bars, using ignited paper for heating purposes. Although this method also proved ineffective, and caused the inmates to suffer from smoke, some one of them would try the plan again as soon as a sufficient quantity of magazines was gathered.

Locks Fascinating

"I found that locks on the cells held a peculiar fascination for prisoners," the deputy sheriff continued. "There were a large number of fellows locked up at various times who spent hour after hour studying the locks on their cells. Using spoons and pieces of wire, crude keys were made. Some of these keys actually worked.

"Another favorite trick was to 'jimmy' the locks so the bolts would not work when it came time for them to be returned to the cell from the 'bull pen'. Although this did not help the inmates to any great extent, it did cause the jailor plenty of worry.

"Some of the prisoners, lacking inventive genius, would study up ways and means of overpowering the jailor. A favorite stunt was to ask the keeper to hand them something through the bars. While the officer was reaching through the bars a confederate would attempt to grab the officer's hand. The other inmate was supposed to go after the jailor's gun.

"And a jailor had to be careful with pepper," Earnest said, or he would find the pepper in his eyes. Many times I found pepper shakers hid in cells, evidently being held by some prisoners who hoped to gain his fredom by overpowering the jailor by the pepper route.

"Billies" Found

"The boys would run afoul the law also were very good at making clubs and 'billies' I discovered while I was keeping the county 'hotel'. Iron braces holding the bungs to the cell walls were found to make excellent clubs. In case I found a bunk out of line, my head began to feel a little queer, for I didn't know but what my skull would find the missing bar before my eyes located it.

"Tinfoil in packets of cigarets is harmless enough as long as it stays out of jail and around cigarets, but when the metal goes to jail, it becomes a potential weapon. A roll of tinfoil in a sock, or wrapped in a piece of cloth, makes a dandy 'billie' and and more than likely would prove effective should the jailor be caught off his guard."

While most of the prisoner's tricks are executed for the purpose of enabling escape, many are performed to annoy the captors.

"Many nights I had to go upstairs and stop all sorts of noises, such as constantly banging a bunk against the metal bars, raking a tin cup across the bars, or just plain yelling and screaming in the dead of the night. The prisoners had lots of time for sleeping, but the jailor, who was trying to rest below, did not," Earnest said.

Often Flood Jail

"Another stunt, which furnished plenty of amusement for the boys and was considerable annoyance to me, was for the prisoners to flood the second floor with water. Of course the water would run down the walls and into the living quarters below, but that was the purpose for the flooding, so the prisoners did not mind."

Particularly unruiely prisoners, or those who were constantly trying to escape, were punished by being placed in a dark cell and served only bread and water at meal time. This punishment usually had a remarkable effect and aided in changing the views of the offenders, the officer said.

All Not Bad

"All prisoners are not bad, but those who want to be disagreeable are in the majority," Earnest added. "While I was keeping jail I ran across several model prisoners, who tried to do the right thing themselves in addition to aiding officers in maintaining order in the cells. Most of those, I recall, were men who were regarded sa the most hardened criminals on the outside.

"Jailors really appreciate prisoners like that," he said. "When you find a man doing the right thing you naturally feel more inclined to make things a little lighter on him while he is under your jurisdiction."

Registration At Tech Will Begin Monday

Second Term Of Summer Session Opens Tomorrow; Sixty Per Cent Of First Term's Enrollment Expected

Registration of students at the second six-week summer session will begin at Texas Technologcal college at 8 o'clock Monday morning. Enrollment is expected to approximate 60 per cent of the first summer term's 1,330 students.

Men will register in the east end and women in the west end of the administration building if they are in the Liberal Arts school. Others will be enrolled at their respective schools. Registration is expected to be completed at noon; a hundred students being enrolled each hour in liberal arts, the only school in which congestion ordinarily occurs.

From 150 to 200 new students are expected, Dr. J. M. Gordon, liberal arts dean who estimated total enrollment for the second term, said. Some courses available the first session will be repeated and additions will be made, he said.

Students who have not undergone a physical examination since September 1930, must have one before August 1.

Lubbock Passes One-Horse Town Post

People No Longer Watch The Trains Go By But They Do Go Out To Watch The Planes Perform At Airport

Lubbock's a city now.

People no longer go down to watch the trains go by—at least they do not except occasionally on Sunday afternoon when other things pall, according to R. P. Bayless, local passenger and freight agent for the Santa Fe.

More modern things have caught the fancy of the public, since the time when watching the trains pull through was a sole diversion. Nowadays, there is the air port north of town with its air planes as an attraction and that site is the mecca of riders who have no place to go.

Visitors Numerous

From one to three thousand people visit the port on an ordinary Sunday, according to Hal Bradley, manager. Week days, there are usually about 25 or 30 car loads of callers during the day, he estimates.

Many of those who come to the air port do not get out of their cars. Others get out and inspect the plant and hang around for hours watching the activities, Mr. Bradley says.

During the last few days, since the new motor car service has been added by the Santa Fe between Lubbock and Amarillo, numbers of people have called at the station here to inspect the car, Mr. Bayless said. Without some such stimulus, however, trains pull through with little excitement and less show of interest, he says.

Ten Gins Operate In Terry County

By Staff Correspondent

BROWNFIELD, July 18.—Terry county has ten cotton gins this year to handle the 1931 cotton crop.

A reduction of five percent from the 101,500 acres planted in 1929 is estimated by gin men and others in close touch with the situation. There has been a loss of probably 10 per cent in acreage, due to increased feed crops and blowing out of crops has forced a reduction also.

Gins are located as follows: five in Brownfield; three in Meadow and one each in Tokio and Wellman.

A rural gin at Union will not be rebuilt this year as had been planned.

Animal Medicine Is Being Made By Local Veterinarian

What is said to be the only medicine that will cure colic in horses and mules, is being made in Lubbock by Dr. L. B. Hodges, local veterinarian, at the Mercy Animal hospital, 403 Avenue M.

Dr Hodges has made an extensive study of colic in animals and after considerable research developed what he calls "Mercy Colic Hypo." He has used the medicine in his treatment of animals and has now decided to place it on the market.

"I am placing the medicine in 53 of the leading drug stores of the South Plains," Dr. Hodges said. "There has been a large number of cases reported recently and I believe that I can meet the need for a medicine of this type."

According to the Home Secretary, Sunday opening of motion picture theatres in London will place $1,000,000 a year at the disposal of various charities.

GOLD BEING FOUND

SAN BENITO, July 18 (AP)—Many new discoveries of gold are being made in Mexico, but few Americans are going there to work the mines because of the laws against taking gold out of the country, according to W. A. Thiere of this city, who has been connected with a mining company at Torreon, Mexico.

Deaths in coal mines of Wales in the year ending February 28 totaled 207, and those seriously injured there numbered 881.

WHITE SOX 6-2, ATHLETICS 1-7

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Philadelphia won both ends of a double header with the Chicago White Sox today. The champions won the first game, 7 to 6, after 11 innings, and copped the second 7 to 2. Two rallies of two runs each, in the ninth and eleventh innings enabled the Mackmen to stave off the White Sox in the opening game. They tied the score at 5 to 5, in the ninth and after the White Sox assumed a fresh lead of a run in the eleventh, scored two more runs on two walks by Relief Pitcher Al Thomas that forced the winning runs over the plate. In the second game the Athletics clubbed Pat Caraway for five runs on five hits in the first inning.

Freshmen Shine As Harvard And Yale Track Team Beats Oxford-Cambridge, England

STAMFORD BRIDGE, London, July 18. (AP)—Two Yale Freshmen, making their debut in international intercollegiate competition, turned in sensational performances today to help the combined Yale-Harvard track and field team conquer Oxford-Cambridge.

One of them, big John M. Kilcullen of New York, who has ambitions as a boxer, put the American team in front with a meet record shotput mark of 47 feet, 4 3-4 inches. The other, Karl D. Warner of Woodbury, Conn., came through with a victory in the 440-yard run that clinched the meet. The final score with only first places counting, was 7 1-2 to 4 1-2 as the Yale-Harvard athletes scored their sixth triumph in ten meets with the British collegians since 1920.

Sharkey Looks Like Bad News For Mickey Walker In Training Camp Bouts

Boston Sailorman Reveals Power In Workout

By EDWARD J. NEIL

POMPTON LAKE, N. J., July 18. (AP)—Someone said Jack Sharkey was a hollow shell, that he was slow and fat and torpid, getting old, his days as an outstanding heavyweight box fighter definitely behind him.

It appears nowthat someone was wrong. The big Boston sailorman, two days away from the end of his training routine for his fifteen round match with Mickey Walker in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night, worked eight rounds today and looked as keen, as powerful, as great a fighter as he was in the days of his conquests of Jimmy Maloney and Harry Wills.

Today under the canopy of his covered ring, Sharkey boxed four rounds with four sparring partners and turned in a brilliant exhibition. Fast, powerful, vicious, in perfect condition at 199 pounds, the Boston sailor hammered first Joe Banovic than Yale Okun and Paul Cavalier, all fairly proficient 180 pounders, and topped off the drill by knocking out Jack Poliseo, a Newark middleweight, in two and a half minutes of punching.

Sharkey, as he approached the 30 mark in years, has added weight to his already powerful shoulders but the increased poundage seems all muscle and has increased his hitting powers.

Sharkey will box tomorrow and again Monday when he will wind up the training campaign. He will go into New York Wednesday.

McDonald Smith Wins Meet Joust

WEST ORANGE, N. J. July 18. (AP)—MacDonald Smith, New York veteran, hit a streak of unbeatable golf today to win the metropolitan open championship for the third time.

After setting a new course record of 66 in this morning's round, he played through a driving rain this afternoon with another par-breaking round of 71 for a 72-hole total of 285 and a lead of five strokes over his nearest rival, Gene Sarazen.

A stroke behind Sarazen was Johnny Farrell, 1927 champion, who had 291.

Gus Moreland Wins Seventh Golf Tournament Of Season

DALLAS, July 18, (AP)—Gus Moreland won his seventh golf tournament of the year here today when he deefated Jack Jackson 7 and 6 for the Dallas city championship. Moreland and Jackson are members of Cedar Crest Country club here.

Moreland was in front all the way, and after turning the 27th hole fiveup, ended the match on the 30th green with a par four against Jackson's five.

Moreland now holds the following golf titles:

Texas Golf Association state championship; Houston Country club invitation; Dallas Country club invitation; Abilene Country club invitation; Dallas city championship; Ranger Country club invitation; Mineral Wells Country club invitation. Moreland will compete at the Dallas Brook Hollow Country club this month in the sectional qualfiying round of the national amateur.

Bob Clark, "Water Houdini," Stages Act At City Swim Pool Monday Night

Handcuffed, shackled and with hands and feet padlocked together, Bob Clark, popular water "Houdini" of Amarillo, will allow himself to be placed in a regulation mail sack, locked and dropped into the deepest portion of the City Swimming pool here tomorrow night and then in less than two minutes will free himself of the weighted sack and other impediments and rise to the surface.

Thus is scheduled a feature attraction at the pool by K. N. Clapp, manager of the resort. Clapp says Clark can do all of these things and come through unscathed.

Officers To Drape Him

To assure his spectators that no special locks are used, handcuffs and shackles will be provided by Sheriff Wade Hardy and Chief of Police John Lemond and locked on Clark by them. Mayor Clements will place Clark in the sack and padlock Clark securely within the bag, Clapp states.

"In 1928 at Dalhart," Clark said when asked if an accident had ever overtaken him in his performances, "I almost lost my life. I was placed in the sack and a sewer pipe was used as a weight for the bag. This was round and when I was dropped in the pool the pipe rolled on me, tangling me up. This frightened and confused me. I finally made my escape but came up black in the face. I can stay under water a minute and 20 seconds but if I cannot get out in that time it is curtains for me."

Clark will give his act at 6:30 o'clock Monday night. The entertainment will be free to the public.

Mate Defeats Twenty Grand In Arlington

Bostwick's Horse Wins Richest Race Prize For 3-Year-Olds In America; Super-Racer Is Left Behind

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 18. The pounding hoof beats of Mate ground Twenty Grand, the superrace horse of America, into startling defeat to the astonishment of 67,000 howling spectators today.

Twenty Grand, winner of four successive rich stakes this season, and rates as the greatest race horse produced in America since Man o'War, was soundly beaten in the $86,000 Arlington classic, richest three-year-old race in the world. Twenty Grand, a 1 to 3 favorite, finished third, four lengths back of the speeding Mate, with Spanish Play, a Kentucky bred horse, second, just a nose ahead of the supposedly unbeatable Twenty Grand.

Sir Ashley, carrying the silks of William Woodward, New York, was fourth, with Sun Meadow fifth, Joey Bibb sixth and St. Brideaux, stable mate of the defeated champion, last in the field of seven.

Mate Is Champion

There was no fluke in Mate's flashing victory, and if there is a three-year-old champion of America, A. C. Bostwick, the 30-year-old millionaire of Philadelphia, who lives with his own horses, trains them, and often rides them in steeple chases, is claiming the honor for his Mate. Mate already had won the Preakness, and the American Derby, both $30,000 stake events, and today's victory was his third big stake triumph of the year against two for Twenty Grand.

Sets New Record

Mate, in his smashing victory, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5, to set a new track record, clipping one and one-fifth seconds off the mark established by the western handicap star Chicago, when he carried 122 pounds.

Mate carried 126 pounds today, the same impost Twenty Grand shouldered.

The conqueror of Twenty Grand second choice in the betting, rewarded his backers $10.80 for $2 in the mutuel wagering. The place price on Mate was $5.96 with $2.68 to show. Spanish Play, winner of the Louisiana and Latonia derbies, paid $10.12 to place and $2.84 to show. Twenty Grand, coupled with his stable mate, St. Brideaux as the Greentree stable entry paid $2.22 to show.

The classic had a gross value of $86,200 of which $73,650 went to young Bostwick, owner of Mate.

The start of the race was perfect, with only a second's delay at the post.

Sun Meadow bounded into the lead, with Spanish Play moving into second place on the turn with Mate third. Sun Meadow set a smashing pace until the field neared the three-quarters mark. Mate was winging along second with Spanish Play third, and the big horse, Twenty Grand, running fourth.

As the horses began their dash around the far turn, Mate found a hole on the rail and shot through into the lead.

Vines Wins In Longview Meet

Champion Doeg Goes Down In Lengthy Match; Helen Wills And Partner Win Doubles Over Twin Team

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 18. (AP) Ellsworth Vines, latest California tennis sensation, today handled Johnny Doeg's terrific service in such masterly fashion that he defeated the national champion, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, in a thrilling Longwood Bowl singles final. Sudden sweeps to the net to slice off placement volleys which broke down the blond giant's delivery six times during the five-set, racquet duel.

Vines also gained half of the doubles honors for he teamed with Keith Gledhill, intercollegiate champion from Santa Barbara, Calif., in a dull 3-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3 victory over Doeg and his partner, Wilbur F. Coen, Kansas City.

Dorothy Andrus, unseeded player from Stamford, Conn., upset Sarah Palfry, Brookline, in the women's singles final and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Mrs. George W. Wightman, twice national doubles champions, gained the team title by defeating Sarah and Mianne Palfry, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Tribe Of Jones Has New Boy Wonder Golfer; He's Billy, Aged 9, A Wow!

Youngster Yearns To Follow In Steps Of Famous Bobby

BY EDWIN W. PRYOR

Central Press Sport Correspondent

WICHITA, Kas., July 18.—Bobby Jones, golfer supreme, better look to his laurels. Billy Jones is gunning for them.

Billy is only nine years old, but already he is way ahead of the average golfer when it comes to parking the little white ball in the cup.

He started his golfing career about two and a half years ago—Bobby started when he was six, too. Billy used to follow his dad, Cecil Jones, about the municipal course, making himself handy by keeping his eye on the ball, carrying an extra club or so, and otherwise helping out. Then he got interested in the game and began battering around an old ball while his dad played.

It wasn't long until he was hitting them pretty straight, even if not very far. So Dad Jones decided to give him a chance; bought him a set of clubs fitted to his size and started instructing him in the proper stance, follow through, and all the other mystic rites of the golfer.

Now Billy has demonstrated that he has learned his lesson well, almost too well for his dad's peace of mind.

Playing in a foursome the other three adults, Billy shot the Sim park municipal course, a rather sporty affair with a par of 71, in 81, just one over his dad's card.

He equalled bogie for the course, which is far better than the majority of golfers who play there every day can do.

Billy went out in 42 and back in 39, the latter score just three strokes over par for the final three. He was even or better on every one of the three-par holes, and went down for a birdie on one.

"Billy just needs more strength to give me the beating of my life," his dad confides. "His direction is perfect—you can tell that by his score when you stop and figure my longer drives would naturally give me an edge on him."

"Billy lives and thinks golf all the time," says Dad Jones. "The most confirmed bug you ever saw. And he eats up everything he can find on Bobby Jones. He's taken Bobby for his hero and his model, and is out to do as well as the champion by the time he is grown. The way Billy's going now, it wouldn't surprise me a bit if he weren't a junior champion when he is a few years older. He plays like a veteran now. All he needs is more strength."

Incidentally, Billy has one grudge against his parents.

"Why didn't you name me Bobby?" he continually demands. "Can't we change my name?"

And the way to pacify him, Cecil Jones declares, is by pointing out that it's up to him whether the name Billy Jones takes equal rank with Bobby Jones in the golfing history of the country.

E. F. Woodward Of Houston Leads Nation's Best Shots

DAYTON, O., July 18. (AP)—E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas, again leads the nation's trap shooters in registered targets, according to a list of official averages released today by John Brandt, manager of the amateur trap shooting association here.

Woodward shattered 1,389 out of 1,400 targets for a percentage of .9921. In last year's final averages he had .9905 on 1800 clays to lead the nation's amateur shooters.

Miss Leonie Boutall, Houston, Texas, one of the sensations at the grand American handicap last August, leads her sex at the traps with 537 breaks out of 900 for .9300.

Golf Bag Strikes Lamesa Players And Everybody's Fighting Him With Clubs

By Staff Correspondent

LAMESA, July 18.—Golf has struck the metropolis of Dawson county like a South Plains "rain", coming suddenly upon a stranger out on one of the highways "forty miles from nowhere."

"Everybody's doing it," from the mayor and the chamber of commerce secretary to the clerks in stores until the links are crowded all day and up until too dark to see to play.

Lamesa is in second place in the Sand Belt Golf league, with Texon and Colorado tied for first with 184 points each, to 166 for Lamesa, Midland is third with 157; Big Spring fourth with 148 and Snyder trailing with 85 points.

There are three more games to be played by each team. Next game is July 24. Or the last day of the season, late in August, four teams meet at Midland and Secretary Bob Scott of Colorado is arranging for a barbecue and the annual meeting.

Billy Jones who wants to be a Bobby Jones—and has a chance!

Large Entertainment Program Planned For Coaching School

Trio To Carlsbad Caverns And Golf Tournament Top Program For Visiting Coaches; Plan Men's Fun Night

An entertainment bill that stacks up with the importance of the school itself has been arranged by the promoters of the Wade-Phelan Texas Teach coaching school which will be held here August 3 to 15. A golf tournament, perhaps two of them, a weekend trip to the Carlsbad caverns, several dances and an all-men's fun and fite night make up the fun program offered to approximately 300 coaches who will attend the school.

More than 250 coaches, representing more than half the states of the United States, have already definitely declared their intentions to be here. The number probably will swell within the two weeks that remain before P. W. Cawthon, Tech's head coach and promoter of the school, officially opens the series of course by introducing Wallace Wade of Duke Univedsity and Jimmy Phelan of the University of Wasington.

The Lubbock Country club and the Meadowbrook Golf club have offered the use of their 18-hole courses free of charge to visiting coaches. A tournament over the Meadowbrook layout is being outlined. The Lubbock and Hilton hotels have agreed to provide floors and orchestras for dances during the two weeks' school.

Eight sporting goods houses will be represented at the school, and prizes for winners in the golf tournament will be donated by them. Chuck Taylor, all-American ace of former years, now representing an athletic house of Chicago, will be here in the role of entertainer also. His reputation as a trick shot artist with the circular sphere has never been surpassed and his demonstrations are instructive as well as comical.

Plans Being Laid For Angelo Joust

SAN ANGELO, July 18. (Special.)—Extensive plans are being laid by the San Angelo Country club officials for the entertainment of the largest gathering of West Texas golfers in the history of the game at the club's third annual invitation tournament, September 11, 12, and 13.

Bob Scott of Colorado is the defending champion, having defeated Johnnie Ballard of Fort Worth in the finals last year. Dennis Lavender was the 1929 winner.

The 1930 meet was one of the largest and fastest invitation meets in this section. Suitable trophies are to be awarded to the medalist, the winners and runners up of each flight and consolations.

The 18-hole course on the banks of the South Concho river with its grass greens and watered fairways is a fine test of golf and with the careful grooming it will get in the next six weeks will be in prime shape for the fast field of golfers, many of whom have already accepted the invitation.

Dizzy Dean Suffers Attack Of Appendicitis; Not Serious

HOUSTON, July 18. (AP)—"Dizzy" Dean, Houston Buff pitching star, suffered a slight attack of appendicities today and was confined to his room. His physician said he was out of danger and would be able to take his regular turn in the box.

The loss of Dean at this time would be costly as he is slated next Saturday at Beaumont to pitch the first game of the first half playoff series against the Exporters.

Dodgers Climb To Third With Win Over Cubs

Bill Walker, Giant Southpaw, Limits Cardinals To Pair Of Safeties As New Yorkers Win; Braves, Bucs Split

(By Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, July 18. — Bill Walker, New York Giant southpaw, had the Cardinals well tamed today and the visitors won the first game of the series, 4 to 0, to reduce the Cards' lead in the National League to four and a half games. Walker allowed only two hits, one in the second inning and another in the sixth, and never was in serious danger.

BRAVES 3-1, PIRATES 9-0

PITTSBURGH, July 18.—Boston and Pittsburgh split even in a twin bill here today the Pirates winning the first 9 to 3 and the Braves blanking the locals in the second 1 to 0.

In the opener the visitor used four pitchers in an effort to stay the Pirate bats. In the second Cantwell puzzled the Buccaneers, allowing only six scattered hits, while his single, Maranville's walk and Worthington's double accounted for the only run of the game.

South Plains Golf Tournament Held Here Next Sunday

Hubbers Eliminated From Amarillo Tourney By Wyatt's Nine, 8 To 7

Medal Play To Settle Winner In Tournament

Leading Linksmen Of South Plains Expected To Enter Tournament At Meadowbrook Course, 36-Hole Play

The Meadowbrook Golf club course will be the scene of much activity next Sunday if plans by W. G. McMillan, owner of the club, and Pat Patterson, Meadowbrook pro, go through.

Known as the South Plains tournament, in which all golfers of ten surrounding counties will be eligible to participate, the meet next Sunday will be the first of its kind this season and will embrace the golfing element of this section of the Plains.

Played on the order of larger open tournaments, the South Plains tourney will consist of 36 holes of medal play, low score to determine the winner. Prizes will be awarded the winner and runner up and the team displaying the best golfing ability as shown by a composite card.

All Lubbock golfers are invited to enter the tournament, there being no need of presenting membership cards with either of the local courses. Golfers from Lubbock, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Crosey, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Dawson and Hockley counties will be invited to take part in the tournament.

American Team Beats English Davis Cuppers

George Lott And Van Ryn Win Important Doubles Match To Get Ahead; Team Needs One Win To Challenge French

PARIS, July 18. (AP)—The United States took a commanding lead in the inter-zone final of Davis Cup competition against Great Britain today as George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn trounced Fred Perry and George Hughes, 6-1, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, in the doubles.

If Frank Shields can defeat Henry W. (Bunny) Austin in the singles tomorrow or the youthful Sidney Wood can turn back Perry, an accomplishment each achieved at Wimbledon, then the United States again will challenge France for possession of the cup.

The British pair of Perry and Hughes was not only soundly beaten but in danger of something like disgrace in international tennis warfare before they rallied bravely and captured the third set after the Americans had won the first two and led 3 games to one in the third. It was the third 1931 victory for the American combination over the British pair. The others were in the French championships, and at Wimbledon.

The Americans played a bullet-proof game and their showing today can be counted on to give Cochet and Brugnon, whom they beat at Wimbledon, a battle in the Davis Cup, providing Shields or Wood clinch the inter-zone final tomorrow.

Encampment In City Is Ended

Recreational Period Saturday At Panhandle-South Plains Fair Park Closes Annual Affair Held Here

The annual encampment of Lubbock county 4-H club members, which opened Friday afternoon, closed yesterday afternoon at the Panhandle-South Plains with a recreational period.

About 250 Lubbock county boys and girls registered for the encampment, County Agent D. F. Eaton said last night. The registration for the first day was 228.

Yesterday the entire day was devoted to various phases of club work instruction. Mr. Eaton supervised the boys' work and Miss Ruth Stockton, county home demonstration agent, directed the girls' division.

A joint session of the boys and girls was held yesterday morning from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m.

Lunch was served at noon to the visiting delegates through the courtesy of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Following the lunch hour, the boys were given instruction in dairy judging. The last two hours of the afternoon session was devoted to swimming and fishing at the county park.

Teams to represent Lubbock county at the farmers' short course at Texas A. and M. college were not completed yesterday. The identity of all of the team members probably will be announced Monday, Mr. Eaton said.

Both Mr. Eaton and Miss Stockton expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the results obtained at this year's encampment. The boys and girls showed unusual interest in the course of instruction and club activities.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
AVALANCHE-JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

Welcome home, Hubbers. A bit earlier than we expected you to arrive but welcome anyway. Better take the lights to the next tournament.

GOLFERS from ten counties will gather in Lubbock next Sunday to participate in the South Plains tournament at the Meadowbrook club. It will be an open tournament, not an invitation joust, with each entrant playing 36 holes, low medal to count as the winning number.

Weldon Chapman, Lubbock High school's new head coach, is back in Lubbock, this time as a permanent resident. He has moved his family here and has forsaken Cisco and the Big Dam Loboes for good. "Chappo" has been in California for most of last month attending the annual coaching school conducted by Pop Warner. Being a follower of the Warner style, Chapman is a regular attendant of the Warner school.

The Warner school is usually a small but important series of courses. This summer there were only about 25 enrolled for the courses, but Chapman says they were serious minded mentors, close followers of Warner, and that the school was successful. It will in no wise compare with the Wade-Phelan school to be held here August 3-15 so far as the number of scholars is concerned. In fact, no school in America this summer will compare with the Texas Tech school from that angle. It will be the largest and most important in the country.

THE people of Lubbock, the people of West Texas probably do not realize the importance attached to the coming coaching school. Not too much can be said in complimentary terms for the men who are promoting the affair. They are doing Lubbock a great service in bringing more than 300 members of the national coaching fraternity here for a two weeks' sojourn. From a purely commercial standpoint the school promises to outstrip any convention that has been held here this year or perhaps any other year. Pete Cawthon, Tech coach and chief ramrod of the school, predicts that as much as $40,000 will be spent here during the school, not including the tuition fees. But that is only one important phase in connection with the series of courses.

When you consider the fact that this is the first attempt ever made to bring a coaching school to Lubbock and that it is to be the most important and the largest in the country you have something of a fine topic for conversation.

COACHER CAWTHON is reported to have delivered a short address before the assembled membership of a local civic club the other day in which he discussed the coming school from several angles and deviated from the main topic long enough to tell some of the inside stuff connected with the daily life of a college coach. He remarked that he would not exchange places in the business or social world with any man, unless it would be to ascend higher on the coaching ladder. He planned to be a coach while he was in grammar school. He likes to work with big, husky, redblooded he-men who are not afraid to tackle any runner or run into any tackle—none of the cake-eating, corner cowboys for him.

". . . but a coach is never permanently settled. If he's a good coach he climbs higher, gets a better contract with a better school; if he doesn't make good he gets the boot, so there you are. If there are any real estate men present you needn't call on me," the Tech mentor iterated.

THE Amarillo tournament is due to end today. We haven't figured out just how it will be finished, because it appears that after two games today two clubs will be left with one defeat each. But that's up to the tournament manager.

Our correspondent from Lamesa says the baseball and golfing elements are about evenly divided in the Dawson county capitol. The men, women and children of that port are taking the cow pasture pool game quite seriously and that the course is crowded. Lamesa has one golfer, maybe more who stands in with the best of the West Texas amateurs. He is Frank Rose and he was hard to get out of the West Texas Golf association tournament here this summer. Another Rose of that land is a pitcher on the Lobo baseball team. We've heard little of the thorns of the vicinity but the two Roses are sharp thorns when they come to Lubbock.

DID YOU KNOW: That some of the Hubbers were "on their ears" when they were misinformed that this department had been "riding" them for their seeming nonchalance last Sunday at Amarillo when they lost the Borger game . . . that they sent word back to Lubbock by Red Gaither that they were considerably enraged at the efforts of this writer . . . that they've been getting flowers so much an infrequent jab at their sinking spells arouses ire . . . that his department doesn't stand responsible for the games lost by the Hubbers . . . that Joe Rieger diminutive deputy sheriff not only has been a rodeo performer but is a former professional track jockey and boxer . . . that he prefers jockeying . . . that Ed Hambright, centerfielder for the Hubbers, has been plying from the bench lately . . . a batting slump and a standing inability to hit left handed pitchers brought him down . . . that Allan Carney, former sports editor of the Avalanche-Journal, recently returned from China, is due to speak at the Methodist church at Vernon tonight?

Lubbock Final Is Feature Of Meet Thus Far

Texola-Willow Beats Borger; Three Teams Battle It Out For Championship Today In Final Games Of Tourney

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, July 18.—The annual Globe-News semi-pro baseball tournament became a three way battle for the championship of the Panhandle today. Texola-Willow, Okla., took the lead in the semi-final round this afternoon by defeating Phillips 66 of Borger, 7 to 4, and the Earle Wyatt's Stores nine of Amarillo clinched third place by sending the Lubbock Hubbers home with an 8 to 7 defeat.

The Oklahoma nine had little trouble in disposing of the Oilers. A five-run opener in the second inning gave them a lead the Borger squad would not overcome. The inning featured Jack Knight, Texola-Willow hurler, winning his own game with a home run with two on. He limited his opponents to eight scattered hits, allowing two runs in each the third and ninth frames, while his teammates collected 10 hits off Haddock and Dillon.

Hubbers Feature Program

The second battle was the feature game of the tournament. Lubbock scored four runs in the third to take a 6 to 2 lead. The Wyatt's nine scored three in the fourth and two in the fifth while Lubbock got one in the fourth to tie the count. The Hubbers failed to count again and the Wyatt's pushed over a run in the first of the ninth to win.

In the final run tomorrow Wyatt's meet Borger in the first game, with the winner playing Texola-Willow fro the championship in the night cap.

George Muelder, Pitcher, To Get Tryout With San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, July 18. (AP) — George P. Muelder, a right hand pitcher of Seguin, has been signed for a trial with San Antonio, Secretary Tom E. Conner announced today.

Muelder pitched against the Chicago White Sox in a game at Seguin last spring and held the Chisox to 4 hits in seven innings.

Misleading
Genuine Labels On Synthetic Rum

GALVESTON, July 18 (AP)—The foreign label on the bottle may be genuine, but the stuff inside is likely to be synthetic.

Prohibition agents here said so after a raid in which they seized 218 bottles of pseudo-imported liquor with imposing labels.

It was, they said in effect, just the garden variety of bootleg stuff.

Russ Saunders, captain of the 1929 University of Southern California grid team, has announced he will play professional football next season with the Green Bay (Wis.) Packers.

More than 100 teams entered the 1931 state championship tournament of the Oklahoma Baseball federation.

Bill Terry's Belated Drive Toward National League Lead Takes Honors

Eddie Morgan Drops Babe Ruth Back In American

NEW YORK, July 18. (AP)—Starting a belated drive to regain the National League batting supremacy he held last season, Bill Terry, slugging first baseman of the New York Giants, pounded 12 hits in 27 times at bat during the past week to climb from fifth to third place among the regulars and within 11 points of the leader.

Terry's .444 week boosted his average to .384, compared to the .359 mark of Chuck Klein of the Phillies and the .356 average of Virgil Davis, big Phillie catcher. Other leaders through Thursday's game were Hendrick, Cincinnati, .345; Hogan, New York, .345; Grimm, Chicago, .342; Cuyler, Chicago, .341; Hornsby, Chicago, .337; Allen, New York, .333; Roettger, St. Louis, .331; and Arlett, Philadelphia, .327.

Klein Leads Four Places

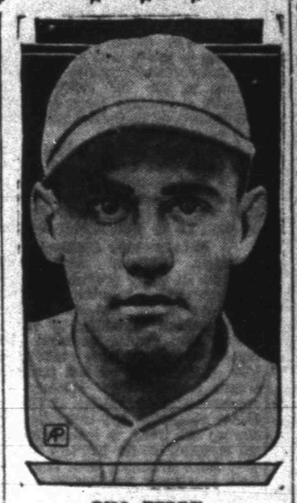

In addition to holding his batting leadership, Klein continued to monopolize the honors in four other departments. His 23 home runs placed him far ahead of the field; he had made the most hits, 123, had knocked in the most runs, 79, and had crossed home plate 81 times. The Phillie star, who did not train a day last spring, displays no indication of letting up in his furious pace.

The few individual honors to escape Klein thus far are distributed among Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who has hit 30 doubles; Bill Terry, Giant star, who has collected 11 triples, and Hazen Cuyler of the Cubs, and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh, each of whom has stolen 11 bases. Dick Bartell of the Phillies stands second in number of doubles, with 28. Watkins of St. Louis is second in number of triples, with 10.

Robin Hurler Climbs

Watson Clark, Brooklyn southpaw, and Jakie May of the Chicago Cubs have compiled the highest winning averages among the league's pitchers, Clark has won 8 and lost 2, while May has won 4 out of 5 games. Jim Elliott of the Phillies has 12 victories to his credit, more than any other hurler in the league, but has lost 8.

The Chicago Cubs top the seven other clubs both in hitting and fielding. Collectively, the Hornsbymen are hitting an even .300 and fielding at a .977 clip. The Giants stand second in hitting at .296, the Boston Braves last with a mark of .262.

BILL TERRY

Bambino Pushed Back

CHICAGO, July 18. (AP) — Eddie Morgan of Cleveland, a holdout who made good the same season, again has replaced Babe Ruth as the leader in the American League batting championship race.

Unofficial averages, including games of Thursday, showed that while the Bambino's mark fell from .391 to .376 Morgan climbed into the lead with his .381 record. It was the first time in three weeks that Ruth was shoved out of the lead and it was Morgan who accomplished the trick the last time.

Gehrig Stands Out

Lou Gehrig, another first baseman of note with the New York Yankees, stood out as the individual batting leader of the three, however. He led in four specialties with 87 runs, a total base collection of 227, a leading total of 26 home runs and in runs batted in with 91. His batting mark was .354. The leading hit producer was Al Simmons of the Athletics with 127; Earl Webb of Boston topped the field with 39 doubles; Simmons and West of Washington were tied with 11 triples apiece while Chapman of the Yankees was far ahead in base stealing with 34 thefts.

All of the leaders, except Chapman, were among the big ten hitters in the league, the unofficial averages disclosed. The leaders: Morgan, Cleveland, .381; Ruth, New York, .376; D. Harris, Washington, .364; Simmons, Philadelphia, .362; Goslin, St. Louis, .361; Gehrig, New York, .354; West, Washington, .354; Webb, Boston, .352; Averill, Cleveland, .348, and Cochrane, Philadelphia, .343.

"Lefty" Grove of the Athletics pitched and won only one game during the week for a change but his season's record of 18 victories and two defeats was easily the best in the league.

Cleveland retained first place in team batting with a .300 marks, one point higher than a week ago but Philadelphia went ahead of Washington in fielding, pulling up a point to .977 while the Senators dropped to .974 and second place. St. Louis turned in seven more double plays during the week to run its record to 91 for the campaign.

Farm Meeting Dates Carded

District Farm Bureau Federation Convention Will Be In Lubbock September 10, 11, 12, Director States

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 10, 11 and 12, are the tentative dates for the district farm bureau federation convention of the 18th district, to be held in Lubbock, Mrs. M. S. Hudson, Hale Center, district director, told members of the board of the county federation yesterday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of George C. Cooper, president.

"Thursday and Friday will be devoted to the general sessions," Mrs. Hudson said. "The directors of the Texas Farm Bureau federation will meet Saturday. President Montgomery asked me to arrange for one day for a meeting of the directors."

Speakers Listed

Speakers invited by Mrs. Hudson and President Montgomery include:

M. S. Winder, Chicago, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation.

E. F. Creekmore, New Orleans, general manager of the American Cotton Cooperative association.

R. J. Murray, Lubbock and Dallas, general manager of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

A. Willison, Washington, D. C., specialist in poultry and dairy work for the Farm Board.

John Owens, Dallas banker and capitalist.

Besides these E. L. Corbin, Dallas, secretary of the state federation and a number of marketing specialists from state and cooperative groups will be present.

"I believe we will have 1,500 to 2,000 people here for the convention," Mrs. Hudson said. "This is one of two to be held in Texas this year. The other was held at Waco the first of June."

Buck Stanton's Big Bat Keeps Him Leading Texas Swat Race

Average Of .364 Is Good For Lead; Dizzy Dean Climbing Toward Pitching Record At Houston; Stoner Is Going

DALLAS, July 18. (AP) The mighty bat of Buck Stanton, Wichita Falls first baseman and wrong-side hitter, continues to deal misery to Texas league pitching. Stanton's impressive work with the stick makes the redoubtable Spudder star by far the best bet for the 1931 league batting champion.

With an average of .364, Stanton continues to head the swat parade. While actually, he is only 11 points ahead of Boroja of Beaumont, he is 21 points in front of Rip Radcliff of Shreveport, the closest player in relatively as much play.

The ten leading hitters through the day game of Thursday, July 16:

Dean Wins 18th

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, Houston's eccentric 20-year old southpaw wizard, registered his eighteenth victory July 16 to lead the league in games won. Lil Stoner, right hand ace of the Fort Worth Cats, boasts the highest mound average with .897. Other pitching top-notchers:

Games: George Washington Payne of Houston, 31. Complete Games: Bill Harris of Galveston, 19. Innings Pitched: George Washington Payne of Houston, 190. Strikeouts: Jerome Dean of Houston, 157.

Joyner White, Beaumont's brilliant rookie star, is pacing the league in runs scored with 75. Carey Selph of Houston is giving White a pressure race with 73 runs.

Stebbins Also Hits

In total hits, Buck Stanton heads the field with 144, but has a close rival in Stebbins of San Antonio with 133.

Stanton continues his drive to shatter Rhino Williams' two base hit record of 70. Through Thursday afternoon game, Stanton had collected 3 doubles. His closest rival is Medwick of Houston, who has 30.

Gullic Is Home Run King

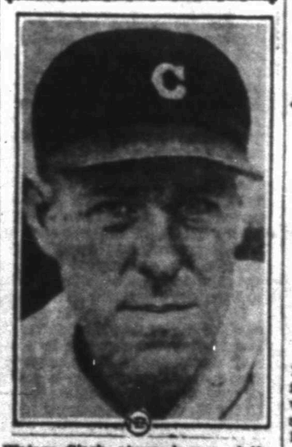

Ted Gullic, giant outfielder for Wichita Falls, has no serious competition in the home run race. Gullic is far ahead with 17. Gullic also leads in runs batted in with 74. His rival in this department is Medwick of Houston with 69.

Other league leaders through Thursday afternoon game follow:

Triples: White, Beaumont, 15; Garms, Wichita Falls, Hughes, Beaumont, Fritz, Beaumont, 10 each.

Stolen Bases: White, Beaumont, 33; Nash, San Antonio, 22.

Mound Climber

Watson Clark, above, is one of the big reasons for Brooklyn's sensational climb from the lower deck to one of the high places in the National League race. He has compiled one of the two highest winning averages in the league.

Aw! Mom!

The Waters Cold!

How many times have you heard that complaint from your son? Can you blame him for leaving "water marks" when the dirt clings like glue with cold wash water? It's always difficult to teach children the habit of cleanliness when there's an undependable hot water supply.

For a few pennies per day per person, you can have running hot water, from any faucet, at any instant. Much less than you already spend for sodas, gasoline or theater tickets! A thrifty Self-Action Water Heater will hold an unfailing reserve for baths, shaving, house-cleaning, the dishes and the laundry at all times.

Startling Information Seen In Answers Offered In Test Recently Conducted In City

Papers Of Winners Being Graded In New York City And Six Boys Will Be Informed Of A Free Trip This Week

CIVIL disobedience is a city in Texas; George F. Baker, successor to Legge on the farm board; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler is commander of the marines besides being the new speaker of the house; Timothy Healey is a United States senator; August Piccard, besides being a French aviator, is a great musican; Patrick Hurley is a congressman; Ban Johnson, a United States senator; Takamatsu is a great picture show, a Chinaman and a town in Asia Minor; both Adolph Hitler and Cosimo Wagner were assistants of Professor Piccard; William Cosgrave writes articles for magazines and Primo De Rivera has the dual role of being a great Italian opera star and one of the best summer resorts of the world; Arnold Bennett was an American flier and holder-of airplane endurance records while Simeon Fess is a fiction character.

Above is a small portion of the startling information gleaned from the fifty-five papers handed in by South Plains high school boys who took the National Intelligence test conducted by the Central Press association under the sponsorship of the Ayalanche-Journal.

Papers Are Graded

The papers are being graded by the national judges in New York this week and the six youths, who are to receive a free trip to Italy this summer, will be notified within the next week.

Further "identifying" men and news events, it was found that Betty Nuthall is a famous American aviatrix. Arthur Woods, treasurer of the U. S.; Jose Iturbi, president of Peru; Arnold Bennett, besides being a brother to Richard B. Bennett and an American air endurance holder, was also a traitor to the U. S.; that Managua was a revolutionist; the Southern Cross, an organization and the R-101, a sunken submarine.

Currents Identified

Salomon Andree was deefated for the French presidency; Adolph Hitler, a United States representative; the Enterprise is a famous transoceanic airship and Jose Iturbi is a Central Press man with offices in the Empire State building. The R-101 was also said to be a new navy ship.

Aviation, motion pictures, science and sports figures and events were fairly well identified by the youths while history, fiction, music and art failed to receive much attention.

Hawks Well Known

Practically every boy knew that Frank Hawks was a great American flier and holder of records and that "All Quiet On The Western Front" was a great picture show. Yancy Cravat was easily identified as the hero of the show "Cimmaron," few boys giving Edna Ferber credit for writing the novel from which the film was taken.

Nearly every one missed the founder of the Quakers, William Penn being their choice instead of George Fox.

The Empire State building was said by nearly eevry boy to be the largest building in the world.

Twenty Grand Picked

Only one boy identified Twenty Grand as the winner o fthe Kentucky Derby while a score or more of them said it stood for twenty thousand dollars in slang. One lad said he saw a race horse recently at Arlington Downs.

George W. Wickersham was properly identified with the report on prohibition by several of the boys while one put him down in an attempt to balance production and consumption.

In the first question, the boys were supposed to substitute the correct words from a list into a group of sentences with missing words.

Below are a few of the answers.

Answers Are Given

Will all the work of the future be done with a TENTATIVE?

He picked up an old DEMAGOGUE in the library.

Many people are opposed to the use of the radio for PROTOCOL purposes.

Heavy equipment will MELEE our progress in the expedition.

The court's ITENERARY of the accused man was received with applause.

The SOLVENT interests compelled the banks to help the farmers.

The clowns were artists of PROXIMITY.

Many people are opposed to the use of the radio for INSULAR purposes.

Heavy equipment will BROCHURE our progress in the expedition.

The URBANE of the state, shown in the last census, was extremely high.

Delving into fiction, history, art and literature, the boys found out that Cleveland was the president elected in the war of 1812; the angel of death is Hades; Leander nightly swam the Helespoint to see Cleopatra; Napoleon was the husband of Helen of Troy. Dante was the most famous Persian poet and that Helen of Troy also had another husband by the name of Arcmades.

Credit Is Given

Moses was said to be the most famous Athenian law-giver; Mrs. Lincoln was the mother of Lincoln; King Victor was the husband of Queen Victoria and The Wanderer of Liverpool, a speculator in the Liverpool market.

Both the Prince of Wales and King George were credited with say.ng "England expects every man to do his duty."

Nearly every boy had read the Avalanche-Journal papers at some time during the Spikes trial for not a one missed the sentence which read Suits of LIBEL were made against the man who had written the book.

In selecting the book for a week's stay in camp alone, seven boys picked the Bible, four chose "The Handbook for Boys", two wanted Mark Twain's "Connecticut Yankee," two Robinson Crusoe, two "The Count of Monte Cristo," two a book on wild life and seven wanted the Boy Scout Manual. One boy wrote that he'd choose a book of poetry.

Water Houdini

Bob Clark, Amarillo water Houdini, is shown above attempting one of his difficult escape tricks, Monday night at the City Swimming pool, he will permit himself to be handcuffed, his legs shackled and padlocked to his hands, and be placed in a mail sack, which will be weighted, padlocked and dropped in ten feet of water. He then will escape.

Lubbock Rains

had not been determined, it was said.

The fire department answered an alarm during the storm coming from 707 Avenue O. A radio at the residence, occupied by Pat Patterson, was destroyed when lightning struck the serial connected to the set. The fire had been extinguished when the fire fighting apparatus arrived, officials of the department said.

Centered On Lubbock

As far as could be determined last night, the rain was centered on Lubbock extending from 8 to 20 miles in all directions. The downpour here lasted about 15 minutes.

Officials at the Union bus terminal said bus drivers had reported that the rainfall extended as far as Anton. Traffic on the highway was not interrupted, it was reported.

Hale Center reported a light shower but motorists arriving here last night said a heavy downpour fell between Lubbock and that city. A light shower also was reported between Plainview and South Plains.

A light sprinkle fell at Floydada, according to information received here.

No moisture fell at Slaton, Post, Tahoka, Lamesa, Brownfield, Littlefield or Spur, a check revealed.

Clarence H. Mackay To Wed To Anna Case, Opera Star

NEW YORK, July 18. (AP)—In the presence of his daughter Ellin, whose marriage to Irving Berlin caused a three-year estrangement, Clarence H. Mackey was married today to Anna Case, concert singer and former Metropolitan opera soprano.

The 57-year-old chairman of the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation, whose Irish immigrant father amassed millions in the gold rush days, and the village blacksmith's daughter, 42 years old, whose voice brought her world fame, were married in the Catholic church at Rosly, Long Island, near the Mackay summer estate.

Robbins And Jones Hope To Start On Flight This Week

SEATTLE, July 18. (AP)—Reg Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Texas aviators, back here for a second attempt to make a non-stop mid-air refueling flight to Tokyo, said today their plane would not be ready for the takeoff before next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Forced down last week near Nome, Alaska, they returned here to have a larger motor installed. They hope to win a $25,000 prize for the first non-stop flight between Japan and the United States.

Legislature

lature was called by Governor Sterling to enact laws to strengthen the conservation statutes after conditions in the oil industry had reached a chaotic stage and after the failure of proration was generally acknowledged.

Terrell and Smith, while saying new laws were needed, did not advance any recommendations to the legislature, apparently preferring that the legislature reach its own solution as to what should be done.

Recommends Changes

Parker, however, recommended changes in court procedure to give the commission a better advantage and revision of the conservation and common purchaser or ratable taking law. Parker testified that under the present laws a suit to enjoin enforcement of the proration orders automatically released the operator from penalties. If the operator obtaining the injunction opens up his wells, it forces the offset operator to do likewise to prevent least drainage with the result that increased production spreads rapidly to other parts of the field, Parker said.

The East Texas field, where the producing area is divided into small leases, is the only field in which the commission has had trouble with the enforcement orders, Parker said.

Wastage Is Tragic

Gas wastage in all Texas fields was termed "tragic" by Parker who recommended a law giving the commission authority to set the oil-gas ratio on a sliding scale, based on local producing conditions. The oil-gas ratio is the amount of gas that can be used to bring a barrel of oil to the surface.

Changes in the common carrier law to require railroad companies operating loading racks and pipe lines to take ratably from a field, the same as required of common carrier pipe lines, were recommended. Failure of small producers to obtain connections has caused considerable trouble, Parker said.

Affected By Storage

In an effort to determine Parker's views on monopolies, he was asked if he did not think it peculiar that oil was selling for higher prices in 1929 when the nation's production was greater than now when production was considerably below the 1929 figure. Parker said it would appear peculiar unless the price of oil was affected by increases in surface storage.

A bill introduced today by Representative Joseph Greathouse was aimed directly at preventing monopoly. It provided for repeal of the law whereby foreign corporations could obtain stock or a controlling interest in Texas domestic companies.

Bill Is In Line

The Greathouse bill was in line with reported charges made in the resolution authorizing the house investigation. The resolution stated it was frequently reported the oil industry was dominated by trusts and monopolies and that the market was being manipulated by agreements in restraining of free trade.

Terrell, Smith and Parker admitted that enforcement of the present proration orders depended almost entirely on the voluntary cooperation of the operators. One change recommended was that umpires in the various fields be paid by the state and placed under control of the commission. Umpires now are named by the commission, with the advice of a central advisory committee, but their salaries are paid by operators.

The commissioners were asked if they had heard the report the umpires in several fields were on the pay roll of the major oil companies. They answered "no."

Parker said he favored proration on the potential rather than the unit plan adopted by the commission in its last order on East Texas. Parker said the estimated market demand for Texas was 880,000 barrels daily and that production was approximately 986,000 barrels.

The French and the Germans were wholly frank, it was understood, the Germans setting forth the details of the crisis in their country and saying, in effect, "What is the world going to do about it?"

It was recognized here it would have been extremely embarrassing for M. Laval to refuse to go to London, but he maintained his refusal to accept the British invitation until the end of today's conferences.

The Germans made it clear they were in Paris on their way to London. Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, will leave tomorrow. This virtually put M. Laval in the position of making the best of whatever understanding he could get from the Germans.

There was an evident desire on both sides to avoid any clashes in Paris over prickly political questions, such as the guarantee of the Polish frontiers and Austro-German political union, but the veiled references to these problems were understood by all participants.

Mrs. Maggie Jordan, president of the Texas Rebekah assembly, of Paris, also will attend the district meeting. Rebekahs from the sister lodge of the I. O. O. F.

Texas recently was divided into 12 supervisory districts. Instructions will be given in details of the lodge work under the new plan.

Albert Fall

from a mortuary arranged the pillows on the bed on which Fall was to lie. Mrs. Jouett Elliott, Fall's daughter, appeared on a small back porch with a handkerchief to her eyes.

Leans On Cane

Then the door to the small chamber in which Fall had lain most of the time for the past several months since he came to El Paso from his Tres Ritos ranch was slowly drawn open, and Fall himself appeared, leaning heavily on a cane and supported on each side by two men friends of the family.

The porch was suddenly filled with friends, relatives, all gathered around the former secretary, most of them weeping. There was a moment's hesitation at the head of the short flight of steps. Fall seemed to be placing his feet carefully.

Black Hat Gone

He was dressed in pajamas, which gleamed white beneath a green smoking jacket. On his white hair, dishevelled as it has been always in recent weeks when he talked to newspapermen, was pressed a white hat. The big black felt he usually has worn and which is most readily identified with his photographs had been laid aside.

Down one step. A pause. Another step. Another pause. At last the ground was reached, and the ambulance door swung open. He was lifted in, almost bodily, and laid upon the bed.

Physician With Him

Dr. J. H. Gambrell, his personal physician for years, entered the ambulance to go with him. Martha Fall, his 16-year-old granddaughter, likewise entered.

Then the big car backed out of the driveway, and preceded by the policeman on his motorcycle, drove rapidly away. The photographers folded their cameras. The scene was ended.

It was a far different scene from that when Fall came to El Paso more than two months ago. Then he rode in the front seat of the family automobile, although he was weak, and his spirits were high. He was coming back to continue the fight to clear his name before the highest court in the land.

Joked With Reporters

No one outside of the family and his closest friends knew of that coming. Out of touch with the world at the ranch, he wanted to carry on the fight in the courts and to consult his legal advisers.

In his front porch, shortly thereafter, he joked with newspapermen, and with his deep chuckles matched the higher spirits of his wife and daughters. To all of them it was a beginning of action that held hope, as against inaction that meant nothing.

Not First Descent

Nor was it his first descent of those same back stairs with the aid of a cane and strong hands on his arms. Less than three weeks ago, he felt his way down them, when he went to an army hospital here for a physical examination at the request of the government.

The army physicians said he was suffering from chronic tuberculosis, chronic arthritis, chronic pleurisy and hardening of the arteries. But the District of Columbia supreme court adjudged him able to serve his sentence if he was kept in the high, dry climate of the west to which he was accustomed.

Place Given Up

Mrs. Fall accompanied her husband in another automobile on the last trip. A place had been reserved for her in the ambulance, but at the last minute it was given temporarily to the granddaughter. She planned to change to the ambulance after it had left the city and had escaped the cameras of photographers.

Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Elliott did not leave immediately. Mrs. Elliott was very weak, not only from grief over her father's plight but also distress over her former husband's death three days ago, in Virginia. Mrs. Chase said she would remain awhile with her sister, but the latter was determined to follow her father and both undoubtedly would do so soon.

After Days of Waiting

The departure came after days of waiting which to the family were agonizing. First there was the waiting for the Washington courts to decide whether because of Fall's health his sentence would be suspended. Then, with this last avenue of escape from prison closed, there was waiting for the designation of the place for service of the sentence. And finally for the last formalities of committment to be completed.

Fall himself said only a few days ago, "I'll gentlemen, it will be a relief to get it over with, the strain of waiting has been one of the hardest things to bear."

There was one last consolation to Mrs. Fall and her daughters, the fact that he was going to prison in a city and state where he numbers his friends by the thousands and where he believed he would have the best treatment possible under the conditions.

Began In Santa Fe

In Santa Fe, Fall began the career which carried him to one of the highest political stations in the country. There he served in the territorial legislature, before New Mexico became a state, and there he served as attorney general, associate justice of the New Mexico supreme court, and a member of the board which governed the very penitentiary in which he will be confined. Subsequently, he was twice elected United States senator, resigning the last term to become secretary of the interior.

Dr. Gambrell recommended the Santa Fe prison because he felt its hospital facilities and means for obtaining fresh air and sunshine made it preferable to any jail. The government originally suggested the El Paso jail as the place for imprisonment.

The Three Rivers ranch is about 125 miles north of El Paso and not directly on a line with the road to Santa Fe, which is approximately 250 miles north of Three Rivers. Gambrell said recently he believed if the trip were broken with an overnight stop it could be made without undue danger to Fall's health.

A Snake Story

Huge Rattler Is Caught Alive

KILLEEN, July 18. (AP)—One snake story brings on another, and a party of Killeen men who set out to investigate a report that a snake of monstrous size was roaming the Darbey ranch near Salado returned with another story—an evidence to verify their snake yarn.

They failed to discover the particular snake described, said to be so large it could not get through a goat wire fence. George Breedon declaring it weighed about 250 pounds. But the party, composed of Dr. L. A. Chanslor, Louis Fry, Ellis Fry and Breedon did return with a snake, captured alive, which weighed 35 pounds, was five and a half feet long and had 19 rattles.

Dr. Chanslor slipped a noose about the reptile's neck, when it was aroused in its lair on the Darbey ranch, and brought it here for exhibition. The captors expect to ship the snake to Houston to be placed in a zoo. The men received a bounty of $50 for the capture.

Excavation At Dam Is Made

Preliminary Work On Hamilton Power Dam Project On The Colorado River Is Already Completed

LLANO, July 18 (AP)—All preliminary work connected with the Hamilton power dam project on the Colorado river about 20 miles east of Llano has been completed and the excavation for the dam proper is under way. A quarry is in operation and sand production will begin soon. A rock crushing plant is being erected to crush 600 cubic yards of limestone each day it operates.

Practically all equipment for the project has been received and the building program for the community which will be located there during the 23-month construction period has been completed.

Everything Complete

There are housing facilities for several hundred men, a commissary, kitchen, recreaton hall, 15-bed hospital, blacksmith and machine shops, saw mill, a complete sewerage system, water works with filters and chlorinators, a laundry operated by electricity, a complete switching yard, railroad bridges and trestles.

The scene of construction activities is located in Llano county. A road has been built from Llano to the dam site and a daily bus line is in operation. A sub-postoffice station out of Llano is being sought.

The Hamilton dam will be the largest of the six dams on the Colorado river for which the Emery, Peck and Rockwood Development company of Chicago holds water rights. It will form the storage reservoir for the lower dams. It will impound water in the Colorado river, flooding 25,000 acres and furnishing storage of more than one million acre feet of water available for power to the extent of 40,000 horse power.

The dam from end to end will reach about 11,000 feet. It will consist of several structures, some connected and some at isolated points. It will vary in height in the different sections. The river section will be 140 feet high and will consist of twenty-eight 70-foot arches supported on buttresses.

The Pegles Construction company, Minneapolis, has the contract for the dam, which will cost between 3,000,000 and $3,500,000.

Bridge Fight

ator Loy to meet with him tomorrow in an effort to work out a plan whereby the parallel free bridge might be opened "legally" within a short time.

Porter Newman, District judge at Durant, announced today he had postponed indefinitely hearing on the petition of A. G. Gilbert, part owner of the Denison-Durant toll bridge, asking that the Oklahoma highway commission be required to remove barriers from the high way preventing crossing of the structure.

Moves Underway

A further legal move designed to back Governor Murray's fight was under way at Oklahoma City, where W. C. Lewis, assistant attorney general, was drawing up a petition for an original action in the United States supreme court to open the three new free bridges.

In his determination to encourage the use of free bridges, Governor Murray was reported by highway employees to have issued orders to begin tearing up a section of road near Achille, Okla., leading to the K. O. and G. railroad bridge at Carpenter's Bluff, eight miles east of Denison. The bridge has a toll runway for vehicles.

SUB BREATHING BAGS

LONDON—A safety dress, containing a breathing bag, is a new method devised by an English scientist for escaping from trapped submarines. The bag is equipped with a small cylinder of oxygen and a cartridge of soda lime to absorb the poisonous carbonic acid gas of the exhaled breath. Should a submarine sink, the hull of the craft would be flooded to equalize the water preseure inside and out and the crew would use the safety dresses to escape.

Preparations Under Way For Annual Old Settlers Reunion July 29, 30, 31

A part-picture of the colorful setting for the annual Old Settlers reunion at Johnston's ranch, July 29, 30, and 31, emerges from reports of preparations which will be completed in the next ten days. Jim Johnston is general chairman of the three-day event.

A rodeo, horse races, a traveling carnival, old fiddlers contests, dances, a barbecue, and speeches from the bulk of the program, for which a pavilion, stock pens and chutes, and a brush-arbor will be available. Both contests and exhibitions are on the rodeo bill. Professional stables will be represented in the turf events.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, Texas Technological college president, and Marvin Jones, United States congressman of Amarillo, will supplement old settlers on the traditional speakers' stump. Panhandle-Plains pioneers have indicated they will attend the celebration at Johnston's ranch, 12 miles southeast of here, from Roswell and Carlsbad, N. M., Phoenix, Ariz., and Mineral Wells, South Bend, Graham, and elsewhere. Most South Plains towns will be represented.

Central Committee On Public Health In Lubbock County To Meet Here On Friday Morning

Leon Trotzky

the Soviet union, a system which constitutes a bridge between capitalism and socialism. . . .

"During the past weeks a dispatch passed through the world press which attributed to me some opinions directly opposed to those which I have exposed and defended.

"The enemies of the Soviet regime, at least the most obdurate and least perspicacious, expected after my expulsion from the Soviet union hostile actions on my part against the regime hated by them. They were mistaken and there only remains for them to take refuge in falsifications, relying on credulity or bad faith.

Uses Opportunity

"I use the opportunity of the questions asked by you to declare again my relations to the Soviet regime have not vacillated even an iota since the days when I participated in its creation.

"The fight which I carry on together with my friends and my closest co-thinkers within the communist ranks does not touch the general questions of socialism but the methods of the realiation of the tasks imposed by the October revolution.

"If those at Warsaw and Bucharest hope the interior difficulties of the Soviet union can reflect the tendency represented by me in the camp of the 'defeatists' of the Soviet union they are truly mistaken as well as their more powerful inspirers.

To Fill Resition

"In the moment of danger the so-called 'Trotzkyists' (opposition of the left) will fill the most combative positions as they did during the October upheaval or during the years of the civil war.

"We have before us a zigzag along the road from capitalism to socialism. Taken in part it is a zigzag of retreat. But a retreat has nevertheless a tactical character. The strategic line can remain the old one. The necessity for the turn, and its sharpness, were brought about by the faults of the Stalinist direction during the recent period.

May Encourage Enemies

"The new course of Stalin may nevertheless not only encourage some light-minded enemies but also discourage some friends of the Soviet union who do not think very profoundly. The first feared, the second hoped that during a few years in the Soviet union the peasantry would be entirely collectivized and socialism would reign.

"The question of the five-year plan took on the inadmissible character of a jumping competition.

"The opposition of the left decidedly warned against this policy, especially against the premature and precipitate transformation of the five-year plan into a four-year plan.

"It goes without saying that it is necessary to do everything for the acceleration of industrialization. But if when put to proof it should be shown that the plan is realizable not in four but in five or even in six or seven years, that, too, would be a magnificent success. Capitalistic society developed immeasurably more slowly and with a much higher number of zigzags, turnings and clashes.

"It is indutiable that the present zigzags to the right have been caused by previous faults in direction and signify an inevitable transitory reinforcement of bourgeois forces and tendencies in the country.

"It is unnecessary to say that I follow with greatest interest the developments of events in Spain. Minister of Foreign Affairs Leroux expressed himself in this sense, that he saw no reason for refusing me a visa. However, the provisional government directed by Alcala Zamora found it more prudent to postpone a decision on the question until the convocation of the cortes and the formation of the new government.

"I shall not fail naturally to renew my demand as soon as the government is formed."

Incident Considered Closed Following Consul's Arrest

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18. (AP)—The incident arising from liquor charges against Consul H. Valdez, of Mexico, and his sister-in-law, Miss Kay Barrett, was considered closed today both by local authorities and Ambassador Tellez at Washington.

Forty-six pints of alleged beer and eight gallons of mash were spilled by police at Miss Barrett's home Tuesday after complaints made by Walter Benson, former justice of the peace resulted in investigation.

Pipeline Companies Drawing On Storage To Meet Demands

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18. (AP)—With an approximate 50 per cent curb in the Oklahoma City field by action of producers, the Daily Oklahoman says pipeline companies are drawing on storage in the greater Seminole-Cromwell district to meet their demands.

Last week Seminole storage was reduced 132,000 barrels and during the current week demands have been even heavier. Gulf-Gypsy, says the newspaper, has almost emptied its storage in Seminole and Cromwell.

Fire Victims Are Buried Saturday

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

RALLS, July 18.—Double funeral services were held at the Baptist church here at 10:30 a. m. today for Mrs. Etta Melton, 37, and her 18-months-old son, Elmer, who died Friday from burns suffered when the Melton residence burned. Mrs. Melton was fatally burned when she attempted to rescue her infant son who was sleeping in the burning building.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Harder, pastor of the Baptist church. The mother and child were buried in a single casket in the Ralls cemetery.

The woman, who was the wife of C. G. Melton, was the daughter of J. P. Ashcraft, a resident of the Ralls community for many years.

Besides her widower and parents, Mrs. Melton is survived by seven children and several brothers and sisters.

Cotton Reactions Follow Opening Advance — Livestock Cattle Receipts Number 180,700 — Grain Wheat Demand In Cash Grain

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 18. (AP)—Trading in cotton in today's brief week-end session was moderate. Price fluctuations were narrow and developed no particular trend.

After a slightly higher opening in sympathy with better cables than due, prices turned easier on week-end liquidation, favorable crop advices and easier stocks, declining 13 points from the opening figures. In the second hour, there was a sharp recovery on covering induced by official forecast for showers generally during the coming week which traders assumed would be favorable for the spread of weevils.

NEW YORK, July 18. (AP) — Slight opening advance in cotton was followed by reactions today, but prices steadied up again in the later trading. October contracts, after selling off from 9.46@9.31, rallied to 9.47 and closed at 9.45. The final tone of the market was steady at a net decline of 1 point on July but generally 1 to 4 points net higher.

While favorable opinions of weather and crop progress remain much in evidence, there were reiterated complaints of too much rain in some sections of Texas and it was felt that a continuance of recent rains and showers, might revive apprehensions of insect damage. The market still seemed to be dominated most largely by the European news and the action of the stock market, however, and much of the day's trading was attributed to further evening up of commitments.

Wall Street Is Idle Pending News Of Developments In Paris Session

NEW YORK, July 18. (AP)—Inasmuch as the foreign markets were closed and Wall street was unwilling to make a move pending developments at the Franco-German conference in Paris, stocks spent two hours of virtual idleness today.

German government bonds, on the other hand, rallied confidently and other obligations of German origin moved upward with them. Domestic issues were quiet and firm. Wheat eased, but corn and cotton were steady.

Weakness of sterling was a feature of the day's markets here. Cables dipped 5-8 of a cent to $4.84 5-8.

Stocks opened heavy and extended their losses in the early trading. During the second hour, however, prices firmed slowly with the result that the Standard Statistics averaged involving 90 issues finished unchanged.

El Paso Will Be Host City

Lubbock Legionnaires Are To Select Delegates For State Convention To Be Held Late In August

Delegates to the annual state convention of the American Legion, to be held at El Paso August 24, 25 and 26, will be elected by the Allen Brothers post, No. 148, next Thursday night, Glen Hess, commander of the Lubbock unit, announced yesterday.

The local post will be allowed 16 delegates and the same number of alternates. At least 25 Lubbock Legionnaires are expected to attend the state meeting, Mr. Hess said.

Earl Earp of Sweetwater, commander of the sixteenth district of the organization, is to address members of the Lubbock post at the meeting this week, the post commander said. Mr. Earp is expected to outline the program of the El Paso convention at that time.

Reduced railroad fares are being offered Legions who plan to attend the convention. Those who care to take advantage of the low rates must obtain special tickets from the post commander, Mr. Hess said.

The commander of the Lubbock post urged all Legionnaires who could do so to plan to attend the state convention. A worthwhile program and plenty of entertainment is being arranged, he said.

One floor of one of El Paso's largest hotels has been reserved for Legionnaires of this district, he said.

Cotton Production On Plains During 1929 Near To 300,000

Lubbock Leads All Counties With Number Of Farms Reporting; Total Of 2,234 Checked From Vicinity

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE nearly a million and a half acres of cotton on the South Plains produced almost 300,000 bales of cotton and 143,000 tons of cotton seed during the 1929 season, federal census reports just issued by the U. S. Bureau of the census show.

Totals show the following farms reporting, 18,021; acres, 1,495,579; bales, 292,418; tons of seed, 143,129.

Counties included in the South Plains area are: Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lubbock, Lamb, Lynn, Scurry, Terry, Yoakum.

In the number of farms reporting to the census bureau Lubbock led with 2,234 farms; Dawson was second with 2,008; Lynn third with 2,005; Lamb fourth with 1,643; Scurry fifth with 1,448 and Crosby sixth with 1,445.

Lubbock likewise led in acreage, there being 205,276 acres planted to cotton in 1929. Lynn with 204,009 acres was second; Dawson with 182,527 acres was third; Crosby with 134,078 acres was fourth; Scurry with 129,104 acres was fifth and Terry with 101,487 acres was sixth.

Lamb county led the plains in number of bales, its total being 50,495. Lubbock ranked second with 44,691 bales; Dawson was third with 33,978 bales; Hockley was fourth with 28,687 bales; Lynn fifth with 27,179 bales and Crosby sixth with 24,954 bales.

In tons of cotton seed produced, Lamb with 22,512 was first; Lubbock with 18,609 tons was second; Dawson with 15,262 tons was third; Hockley with 12,710 tons was fourth; Lynn with 11,604 tons was fifth and Crosby with 11,106 tons was sixth.

By Counties, the comparative figures are

Root Rot Not In Evidence In Trees Here, Jones Says After Inspections

There is no root rot on trees of Lubbock and the South Plains, Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment station east of the city, said Wednesday in commenting on reports of many trees dying here.

The cause of the death of the trees seems to be due to the late freeze of March and April, Mr. Jones said.

"Every tree I have inspected, I find has the bark split," Mr. Jones said. "The freeze evidently hit when the sap was up and froze the cambium layer or feeding area of the tree."

The symptom of this ailment is when the leaves of a limb turn yellow. It's only a few days longer until the tree dies, he said.

The trees might be saved by cutting the limbs fairly close to the tree, Mr. Jones pointed out, but stated that about the best way was to begin digging up the tree. Cutting the limbs injuries the tree too greatly, he said.

Mr. Jones said where aphids were attacking trees, the first symptoms are when the leaves begin to curl then brown spots appear. Later the leaves die. Spraying or dusting nicotine sulphate can control this to a great extent, he said.

There are more chinch bugs on the Plains this year than ever before, Mr. Jones said. He declared that they might be doing damage to crops but the possibility was slight. They are known to injure milo in other sections of the country, he pointed out.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 18. (AP)—Wheat was in moderate demand on the cash grain market today. No. 1 ordinary hard wheat 69 1-2@83c; No. 1 hard 14 per cent protein, 86@85c; 13 per cent 81@84c; 12 per cent 73@76c.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis railroads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 67 1-2@70c; No. 2 white 71 1-2@72 1-2c; No. 3 yellow 72@74c.

Oats—No. 2 red 26 1-2@27 1-2c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 37 1-2@39 1-2.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1.07@1.10; No. 2 kaffir 1.04@1.09.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 18. (AP) — Struggling against heavy arrivals of newly-harvested wheat, and faced by prospects of an augmented influx Monday, wheat prices went lower today. Uncertainties that surrounded financial parleys abroad, with wheat export business at a halt, tended to depress bullish action. The corn market averaged higher, influenced by continued drouth and by temperatures still threatening crop damage.

Wheat closed unsettled 3-4 to 2-4 cents lower, corn 1-4 down to 1-8 advanced, oats 1-8 off to 1-4 up and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to 7 cents gain.

Lou District School Will Start Session August 13

LAMESA, July 18.—August 13 is the tentative date decided upon by the school board of the Lou district for the starting of its fall term, W. P. Webb, county superintendent of schools, says.

"They plan to hold six or eight weeks of school and then close for cotton picking," Mr. Webb said. "After being closed for about two months, the school will open in late November or December and finish out its term."

Several other schools of the county are planning to do the same thing, the superintendent added.

More than 57,000,000 pounds of licorice root were imported into the United States last year.

Administration Of Vaccines And Toxoids Free In Health Program Of Area Eliminated

Biologics Budget Of United States Public Health Service Reduced; More Than Thousand Vaccinated

Free administration of toxoids and vaccines has been eliminated from the public health program in this district, except for emergencies precipitated by epidemics, as a result of reduction of biologics budgets by the United States public health service.

More than a thousand persons were vaccinated against smallpox in this district and preventives were administered to small groups early in the program, as district and state health department attaches understood biologicals would be furnished for all children and adults needing them. Dr Don Peterson of the mobile unit of the state department said here Saturday. That part of the program has been dropped because of the public health service's decision following unexpected requests for aid.

Surgeon General H. S. Cumming of the United States public health service, financing the program through state and county health departments, stated:

Aid Requested

"Since the tentative allotments from the emergency rural sanitation fund were made to the several states health departments in the drouth stricken areas for the fiscal year 1932, the public health service has received requests for aid from two other states which previously had not been expected to require assistance, and a request for further help from a state in which a serious emergency has developed.

"In order that funds may be found with which to meet these requests it has become necessary to reduce some of the budgets submitted. This reduction will be made in the biologics budgets submitted where large amounts have been requested, for the reason that reducing these budgets will not disturb personnel units already organized.

"Even if the biologic budgets could be allowed as submitted, the public health service does not feel that it could justify approval of requisitions except for supplies needed to meet emergencies."

Tyhoid fever and other communicable diseases in this district, composed of Lubbock, Lamb, Parmer, Hockley, Cochran, and Bailey counties, are no more prevalent than usual, Doctor Peterson said.

T. H. Pearson Is Called By Death

T. H. Pearson, 72, a resident of Lubbock for 13 years, died at 12:55 p. m. yesterday at his residence, 802 Avenue X. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today at the Bynum-Morgan Funeral home chapel with Rev. J. O. Haynes, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery.

Mr. Pearson came to Lubbock in 1918. He was in the floral business here until last year when he retired.

He is survived by his widow, a brother, James D. Pearson of Fort Worth, and three grandchildren.

Pall bearers at the service today will be: D. L. Parker, Kelly Dean, John Denman, A. B. Ellis, J. H. Moore, and C. J. Norton.

Only 150 of the 352 burglaries reported to the London police in 1930 have resulted in arrests.

City Spends Money For Targets

Approximately $300 Yearly Is Spent By City Of Lubbock After Destructive Ambitions Here Have Been Satisfied

THE city of Lubbock spends about $300 a year for targets for "nigger shooter" marksmen and those who desire to test their rock throwing skill, a city official said yesterday.

This amount is spent by the city for globes on street lights which are broken by vandals.

During the past year, up to July 1, this year, a total of 66 globes, costing $334.65, were replaced by the city street lighting department. Ninety per cent of the globes were believed to have been broken deliberately, according to J. J. Graham, city light superintendent.

The articles cost from $3.12 to $5.50 each.

"Because most of the globes were broken at night, and usually in sparsely settled sections of the city, we are unable to say just who broke them," Mr. Graham said. "The glass bowls usually show signs of being cracked by stones, or lead shot."

Police said they had been unsuccessful in apprehending most of those who had a mania for destroying the lighted targets.

"In some cases we found that small boys were the offenders, but such was not true all of the time," an officer said. "Grown boys, and sometimes men, who should have more respect for private property, were found to be guilty of throwing or shooting at street lights."

Sometimes the lights are broken by accident, such as an automobile striking the light standards, but it is very seldom that this is the case, it was said.

Jack Coker Is Captured Here

Fourth Escaped Prisoner Now Is In Custody Of Lubbock Officers Following Capture Here Saturday

With the capture of Jack Coker, 18, early yesterday morning, four of the nine prisoners who escaped from the city jail a week ago were back in the custody of officers last night.

Coker was arrested at a residence in the 700 block of Avenue L shortly after 3 a. m. yesterday by officers Baxter Honey, Grady Harris and Don Reader of the city police force. The escaped prisoner was sleeping at the time the officers entered the house.

Does Not Resist

He made no effort to resist arrest, officers said. A woman was in the house with him. She was not arrested, officers said.

Coker said that he had been in and out of Lubbock ever since he escaped from the city jail on the night of July 11. He told officers that he spent Monday in a field nine miles from the city. The sun was too hot out in the open so he decided to return to Lubbock and hid here, he said.

Held For Burglary

The youthful prisoner, is charged by complaint with the burglarizing of Logan's service station, at Texas avenue and Thirteenth street about two weeks ago. He was under a three years' suspended sentence at the time of his arrest.

The other prisoners recaptured are: Cecil Lebow, and two negroes, Murray Sadler and Joe Anderson. Lebow is being confined in the county jail at Vernon. Anderson is being held at Brownwood, where he is awaiting trial on charges of chicken and automobile theft.

Negro Identified

Sheriff Wade Hardy, who returned to Lubbock Friday night from Temple, stopped over in Brownwood to finally identify the negro, who was arrested at Dublin and returned to Brownwood to face felony charges.

Anderson readily told details of the jail-break here, the sheriff said.

"The negro told me that he stole the automobile in Brownwood after arriving there on a freight train," the sheriff said.

Had Stolen Chickens

"Anderson, according to members of the Brown county sheriff's department, took the automobile after stealing several crates of chickens," the sheriff added. "With the chickens loaded in a stolen car, the negro went to a gasoline station, purchased some gasoline and then told the attendant to charge the amount of the fuel to the sheriff. The negro said that he was delivering some chickens for the sheriff and that the account would be approved.

"The negro was arrested at Dublin after the service station attendant had phoned the sheriff about the account and given officers the number of the automobile in which the escaped prisoner was riding.

OPERATES STATION

O. B. Conley, former chief deputy sheriff of Lubbock county, has become operator of an automobile service station at 802 Avenue H. Three gasoline pumps are available and a fourth will be installed, he said. Plans are to furnish one-stop service, motor and other repair work being done in addition to oil, gas, and tire servicing, Conley said.

SERVICES HELD

Funeral services for Margaret Ann Markham, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Markham of the County Line community, who died Friday night, were held at the County Line school house yesterday afternoon. Burial was in the cemetery there under the direction of Rix Funeral home.

NEW SLATON STORE

Visitors, Brides-To-Be Share Courtesies

Mrs. William Addis Charless, who was Miss Edythe Deahl of Amarillo before her marriage on June 27, is a recent addition to Lubbock social circles. Mr. and Mrs. Charless returned to Lubbock last Tuesday and are making their home for the present at 1631 Main street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Charless are members of prominent Panhandle ranching families. He is with the West Texas gas company.

Younger Set Welcomes Guests With Informal Events; Others Are To Be Feted During Week

Clubs Schedule Meetings To Be Held During This Week And Many Will Be In Form Of Parties; Tea And Supper Are Announced For Visiting People

VISITORS in Lubbock are sharing social courtesies with brides-to-be, while society has turned informal for the heat of mid-summer.

A series of visits from members of the younger set has served as inspiration for dances and other events among the boys and girls of high school and early college age and other events are promised for the coming week. Miss Rosalie Buchanan, Mineola, who is to arrive Tuesday with Misses Katherine Klett and Ansent Jones, who have been her guests for a house party, is to be feted during her stay.

Miss Buchanan will visit the two girls who have been in her home and will visit, also, with Mr. and Mrs. Owen McWhorter and Miss Charlotte Ratliff.

Another event that is promised for the week is to compliment some young guests in the Floyd Bowen residence.

Last Plans To Be Talked For State Meeting

Mrs. William Dingus Is To Meet State Committee Of Federation Tuesday Noon In Fort Worth

As a preliminary to the state meeting of Texas Federation of Women's clubs in Lubbock next November, Mrs. William Dingus, chairman of the local entertainment committee, is meeting with Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, of Mount Pleasant, in Fort Worth Tuesday at noon.

Mrs. Lindsay is president of the state organization and is having members of her executive committee meet in Fort Worth at that time in order that detailed plans for the state meeting here may be worked out. Mrs. Dingus is to have Mrs. Lindsay and other members of the executive board as her guests for lunch at the Blackstone hotel at that time.

Upon her return to Lubbock, Mrs. Dingus is to finish with the appointment of local committees to look after the meeting here during the fall.

Mrs. Dingus is chairman of a committee made up of representatives from federated clubs in Lubbock and this group has general charge of all local entertainment for the convention. Some sub-committees have already been appointed and others are to be named after Mrs. Dingus has had this final conference with state officers.

Mrs. Dingus left Friday night for Fort Worth and is visiting this week with her sister there. She expects to return to Lubbock the latter part of this week.

George Simmons And Parsons Families Leave On Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons, 2124 Broadway, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Parsons and family, 2509 19th street, are leaving today by automobile for California, where they will spend a vacation.

Fort Worth Women Visit In M. L. Gillfillan Residence

Mrs. M. L. Gillfillan, 2313 20th street, is to have as her house guests during next week her mother, Mrs. Charles W. Laney, and sister, Miss Flora Laney, of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Frank Lewin Has Been Guest Of Local Relatives

Mrs. Frank Lewin, of Miles, has been visiting in Lubbock as the guest of Mrs. Anna Faulk and other relatives. Mrs. Faulk left Saturday for a visit to California.

Mrs. W. L. Price, 2117 16th street, has had as her house guest during the past week Mrs. Claude Young of Abilene.

Daytime Frocks Are Enlivened With Bold Colors For Summer; Skirts Tend To Be Longer In Late Fashions

BY ROSETTE HAEGROVE
NEA Service Writer

PARIS, July 18—The summer mode of 1931 very easily and justly could be described by one word, "contrast." This theme is, in fact, the keynote of all that is chic just at the moment.

This vogue of contrast in fashion's color scheme is, after all, a necessary evolution from the drab uniformity of dress that reigned supreme years ago and which now has receded into the limbo of time. The new colors are frank, sometimes bold, but they nevertheless are a tremendous relief from the somewhat funereal impression that one gathered even as recently as last season wherever smart women were together.

Color contrasts are not limited to accessories either, but are to be found in every type of dress, from the informal to the most formal. Their possibilities are almost infinite, yet great care must be taken not to achieve anything that borders on the bizarre.

Some Popular Combinations

A brown dress topped by a short, straight coat, or by a longer one in billiard green, or by a basqued orange affair, is considered smart. A white linen blouse and coat lining to a flag blue suit introduces the color contrast very effectively, too.

Black and white, however, still hold their undisputed sway, probably because they always look right. But the usual 'touch of white' has grown this summer to equal proportions with black, and contrives to look entirely new. The white coat, whether in the guise of jacket with short, three-quarter or long sleeves, or a diminutive bolero, is seen everywhere. Supremely elegant is the ensemble composed of a white dress worn with a black tunic-coat which allows more than a glimpse of the white. So far as prints are concerned, here too the smartness of black and white designs always stands out.

On the other hand, when used as a contrast to brght colors, you will find the note of white in the form of collar and cuffs, usually pique or organdie, and used in small quantities. White accessories, though, are chic when worn with red, blue, green or brown, such as a flower of broiderie anglaise or lace, a bag of white kid or pigskin, white gauntlet gloves and a large or small white hat to match the character of the dress.

Need Bag To Match

Still on the chapter of accessories, Paris has decreed that brown should be reserved to the informal type of dress and black to that worn after luncheon. Brown suede fashions many of the newest gloves, shoes and bags for morning wear and black antelope or velvet suede for afternoon. White suede shoes with black trimmings are another alternative for the black and white afternoon ensemble, and in this case a bag to match should be carried.

An interesting point gathered at smart functions recently is that skirts have a tendency to be shorter than those seen in the early spring, always excepting the formal afternoon or garden-party type of dress. Evening dresses remain ankle-length, and scarcely any trains are seen. Summer evening wraps are all short but mid-season collections indicate that the long evening coat will replace these for the fall.

Misses Graves And E. Rodgers Given Parties

Mrs. J. T. Krueger Honors Bride-Elect Saturday At Breakfast; Two Entertain For Miss Rodgers

APPROACHING marriages for four young women of Lubbock have dispelled any tendencies that society might have to sink into lethargy.

Hardly a day passes that at least one party is to be given for one of the brides-elect and on some days there are more than one event. Picnics, breakfasts, bridge parties, showers, luncheons and other forms of entertainment are chosen by hostesses for these galeties.

The first wedding for the quartet will be next Sunday when Miss Lois Graves becomes the bride of Earl Collins. On the Wednesday following, Miss Marion Evans is to be married to James Freeman of Houston and on August 1, Miss Elizabeth Rodgers is to marry Charles Fagg, of Eastland. The fourth wedding is to be in September, the engagement of Miss Blanche Bacon and L. D. Howell, of Washington, D. C., having been announced during the last week.

One In Series

One affair in a series for Miss Graves was given Saturday morning when Mrs. J. T. Krueger entertained in her honor with a breakfast at the E. B. Adcock residence, 2601 19th street. The table was laid for 12 young women, friends of the honor guest having been invited.

Another party of the week-end for a bride-elect was given on Friday morning at the Hilton hotel by Mrs. C. A. Tubbs and Mrs. R. L. Powers. Miss Rodgers was the honoree.

Games of bridge and forty-two were played, following which a shower of miscellaneous gifts was presented to the honor guest. She received a linen luncheon set from the hostesses and favors in the games went to her, also. Mrs. C. A. Burrus scored high in forty-two, Mrs. R. S. Williams was high in bridge and Mrs. Harold Gordon cut high.

Floral Decorations

Tallies were in the form of brides' bouquets and the room was decked with daisies. Favors on the refreshment plates were nasturtiums.

Guests for the games were Miss Rodgers, Mesdames Joe Webb, Frank Griffith, Gordon, Glen Hunt, R. D. Moxley, Claude Roberts, Joe Kuykendall of Big Spring, E. L. Reed, Guion Gregg, R. H. Moore, R. S. Williams, H. B. Hawkins, A. J. Hodges of Shreveport, La., A. R. Leidigh, W. E. Ballew, Joe Reese, R. S. Rodgers, Frank Revier, John Dalrymple, R. I. Tubbs, J. M. Gordon, C. A. Burrus and Miss Lulu Mae Cravens.

Tea guests were Miss Loys Tubbs, Mrs. Harvey Williamson and Mrs. Lee Tubbs.

George Brown Marries Today At Corsicana

Miss Helen Fay Bonner Is To Be Bride Of Lubbock Man; Couple Is To Live In Big Spring

George Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Brown, and Miss Helen Fay Bonner of Corsicana are to be married this morning at 11 o'clock in the home of the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bonner, in Corsicana. Rev. A. C. Caraway, assistant pastor of the Corsicana Methodist church, is to officiate with the double ring ceremony.

After the marriage, Mr. Brown and his bride expect to leave for Colorado for a visit and after September 1 they will be at home in Big Spring. On their return from Colorado, they expect to stop in Lubbock for a short visit.

Mr. Brown is a graduate of Lubbock High school and of Abilene Christian college at Abilene. For the last two years he has been science teacher and coach at Big Spring high school and is to return there next winter.

Miss Bonner, who graduated from the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, in 1928, is at the head of the home economics department in Big Spring high school.

Mr. Brown left Friday for Corsicana and was accompanied by his mother, who will return to Lubbock after the wedding.

Mrs. J. B. Cardwell On Visit With Relatives This Week-End

Mrs. J. B. Cardwell and daughter, Betty Jo, of Plainview, are spending the week-end in Lubbock as the guests of Mrs. Cardwell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. May, and her sister, Mrs. W. W. Royalty, and family. Miss Catherine Royalty is to accompany them home for a visit.

Lawn Games Are Played By Society

Tables were arranged on the lawn for the party attended by members of the Maggie and Jiggs club Friday evening when Mr. and Mrs. E. G. White entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, 1411 8th street. Games of forty-two were played and an ice course was served at the close of the evening.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames L. D. Casey, A. T. Cocanougher, D. Williford, O. C. Moore, J. G. Oslin, W. H. Trice and Frazier McCrummen.

Mrs. Clyde Elkins Is Elected President Merry Bidders Club

Party Is Given On Friday For Society By Mesdames C. B. Powell And Guion Gregg In Powell Home

Officers were elected at the party attended by members of the Merry Bidders club Friday evening when Mesdames C. B. Powell and Guion Gregg entertained in the home of the former at 2306 16th street. These officers take the places of those who have moved away from Lubbock recently.

Mrs. Clyde Elkins was elected president. Mrs. Hattie O'Hair was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Calvin Henson is to be the reporter for the club.

Mrs. J. C. Allensworth was received as a new member.

Five tables were arranged for games of forty-two in rooms made attractive with cut flowers.

At the close of the afternoon, the hostesses served an ice course with sweetpeas as favors. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. Powell's daughters, Misses Carolyn and Josephine Powell.

Members in attendance at the party were Mesdames Temple Ellis, Fred Spikes, E. C. Young, K. Carter, John Moore, Hattie O'Hair, W. C. Rylander, Sam T. Davis, Norton Baker, E. P. Norwood, R. H. Moore, A. W. Evans, J. P. Gregory, Clyde Elkins and Calvin Henson. Guests were Mesdames H. W. Stanton, R. T. Campbell, C. E. Roberts, J. T. Howell and J. E. Beall of Pearsall.

Mrs. Riddle, Who Is Visiting With Friends, Honored

AMARILLO, July 18—(Special)—Yellow and white furnished the color motif for decorations in the Edwards home, 113 B East Sixteenth street, Thursday evening when Mrs. L. D. Edwards and Mrs. John Crudgington entertained with a lovely dinner party honoring Mrs. Frank Riddle of Lubbock.

The entertaining rooms were beautifully decorated with shasta daisies and fern. The place cards, favors and score pads also carried out the color motif. The table was covered with an Irish lace cloth and centered with a daisy bouquet.

After dinner, bridge was introduced. Honors were presented to Mrs. John Wiggins and Joe Mobley, for high scores, and to Mrs. Joe Mobley and Orla Allen for second high score. The honoree received a guest prize.

Those who attended were Mrs. Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williford, jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Culpepper, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mobley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bradley, O. W. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. John Crudgington, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards.

Plans Are Started For Women's Division At Fair This Fall

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE G. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

PAPERS from other sections are filled with what the well dressed girl will wear to camp this summer and "Fashions for seaside shifting as the beach sands", while today some one called me from a store to say they have in some new fall suits.

And I had just got my other dress for summer and had settled down to enjoy a little warm weather for awhile. I hate to be reminded so soon that it is time to acquire a new wardrobe—which in this instance is a new dress—and I do not like to think of winter yet when the last one is so shortly over. This is the good old summer time and I like it. The weather isn't perfect, but it beats a blizzard and if I had to choose between this and what we are going to have next December, this is what I would choose.

All of which reminds me of a little poem, Hot Weather Song, that the sports' editor, Collier Parris, found some place and pasted on his typewriter. It is by Don Marquis and I wonder why I couldn't have thought of it first since it expresses my feelings so accurately:

* * *

"I feel so exceedingly lazy,
I neglect what I oughtn't to should!
My notion of work is so hazy
That I couldn't to toil if I would.
I feel so exceedingly silly
That I say all I shouldn't to ought.
And my mind is as frail as a lily;
It would break with the weight of a thought!

THIS FEMININE VIEWPOINT

SOMEONE was telling me that I have queer ideas for a woman. It seems that I am supposed to reflect the sentiments of all other women, believe as they believe. There is such a thing as a masculine viewpoint for generalizations, but my personal beliefs can't be interpreted as a wholly feminine viewpoint.

My beliefs and interpretations of some things may more nearly approach those of a business man than those of a woman who has never had contact with the business world, because I spend far less time at home than I do at the office. With an identical environment, which is unlikely, man and woman might have no distinctive viewpoints.

The Kansas Mugwump queen, Miss Marion Eliet, whose column, "Musings of a Mugwump", in the Concordia Blade-Empire has attracted wide interest is an example of a woman whose thoughts do not correspond with what is traditionally termed the feminine viewpoint. Or, it may be, she simply has the courage to express ideas which are not in harmony with tradition.

These are some typical paragraphs of hers, for instance: "Women don't really want emancipation. What they want is a strangle old on the male, and they want primarily as a guarantee of social and economic security. With a woman possession is nine points of the law."

"The Kansas City, Kans. woman who is suing her minister for a stolen kiss alleges that the kiss was a terrible shock to her nervous system and resulted in a loss of appetite and loss of sleep. What that woman wants isn't damages. She wants another kiss."

It may not be the feminine viewpoint, but there is such a thing as a woman's opinion that is not washed in simpering sentimentality.

IT IS THE AROMA

IF YOU have ever traded dry meat sandwiches with a genial Alpine guide over the hospitality of the Swiss peaklet; if you have rested on the earthen stoop of a white-washed cottage somewhere in Ireland and eaten bread and tea; lingered over a French dinner 'au Bois' with artichokes served in hot butter sauce and wine of ancient vintage, we needn't waste a paragraph on the luxury of eating outdoors," some inspired writer has composed for a foods page.

* * *

And, if you have ever stood around under the feeble protection of a hackberry tree and smelled coffee boiling in a tin bucket and bacon and eggs simmering over a fire beside some dry creek bed, in West Texas on an early summer morning, we needn't waste a paragraph on the luxury of eating outdoors.

Mrs. R. W. Fenton, Sr., Will Go To College Station Meet

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, July 18—When Lynn county's delegation for the annual short course sponsored by Texas A. and M. college at College Station leaves Snyder Saturday night, July 25, Mrs. R. W. Fenton, Sr., president of the Home Demonstration Clubs of Texas will go as the guest of the Tahoka Kiwanis club.

Through the efforts of Miss El Fleda Harrison, county home demonstration agents, the club voted to pay the expenses of Mrs. Fenton to the college course.

Mrs. Fenton has been active in women's work over the county since Lynn has had a demonstration agent. She has given her time to the work and has become well known throughout the state with her participation in the state movement.

SUMMER SALAD

For a delectable summer salad, use alligator pear, tomatoes and cucumbers, marinated along with the lettuce that goes with them, in a big bowl.

Mrs. Jones Is Selected Fair Division Head

List Changes Are Promised In Women's Department For This Fall; Directors Are Selected

WITH THE approach of mid-summer, plans are being made to have the woman's division of the Panhandle South Plains fair the most successful in history. Copy-read proofs of the annual catalogue are being returned to the printer at this time and announcements concerning the routine were made by officials last week.

Mrs. Hub Jones retains her position as director of the woman's division and her assistants are Mesdames J. S. Johnson, George A. Simmons and R. Q. Pierce.

Division superintendents have held their posts in past seasons. These are Mrs. A. T. Biggers, superintendent of culinary; Mrs. Thomas West, superintendent of textile; Mrs. W. O. Stevens, superintendent of plants and cut flowers; Miss Della Wilkinson, superintendent of art; Mrs. W. F. Schenck, superintendent of relics, art and curios.

Has Club Section

Miss Ruth Stockton, Lubbock county home demonstration agent, is to be in charge of girls' and boys' exhibitions and also of the entries made by women in the county who are members of home demonstration clubs.

A change of interest in the art department is the statement that premiums under the professional heading have been increased $5, $3 and a ribbon for first, second and third places, respectively, from $1.50, $1 and a ribbon.

Provision for a number of new entries are to be made and the premium list has been increased in order to allow for a classification for every worth while entry that is brought. Where no entry was made last year, a substitute has been placed and this helps to keep the list down and while allowing for entry, according to fair officials.

Books in the woman's department will be opened for entries on Monday, September 21, and close Thursday, September 24, at 6 p. m. to receive out of town articles. Local exhibits will be received from September 25 at 1 p. m. until 4 p. m. of the following day.

These rules hold for all articles except perishables such as bread, cake and cut flowers which may be entered on the opening day.

Wranglers Are In Fort Worth

Three Pleasant Picnics Are Given During Week By Three Children On Their Birthdays

Three pleasant affairs of the week for smaller people were birthday parties given by Shirley and Harold Parsons and Betty Jean Jones.

On each occasion, a group of children was taken to the Country club for swimming and a picnic supper.

Betty Jean's party was on Tuesday and she was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Hub Jones. Mrs. E. J. Parsons gave the other two affairs for her children, Harold's party being on Wednesday and Shirley's on Friday afternoon.

Arizona And Oklahoma People Are Visitors In Peters Home

Mrs. J. D. Peters 1212 14th street, has as her house guests her sisters, Mrs. A. F. Jones, of Phoenix, Arizona, and Mrs. J. H. Carlock and son, Hoyle, of Ardmore, Okla., Mrs. Nettie Chafe of Ardmore is a guest n the Peters' home also.

HANGING PICTURES

When hanging pictures it seldom is wise to take a ruler and arbitrarily determine their position by centering them in a certain space. More satisfactory balance can be obtained by measuring only with the eye, which takes into account the influence of nearby doors, windows or panels.

Mrs. T. H. Davis of Rising Star is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Smallwood, and family.

Southern Visitors Dress In Cotton

"All done up in cotton" is the way members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women attended their biennial convention held at Richmond, Va.

Out of deference to the south, which entertained them, Miss Marion F. McClench, president, and others planned their entire wardrobes of cotton.

When planning these cotton wardrobes they discovered that chic comes via the southern cotton fields this summer, for a fact.

Cotton mesh hose, fine handmade voile lingerie, fabric hats, shoes and gloves are highly styled this summer and offer the latest modes in colors, cut and decorations.

As for cotton daytime frocks and afternoon dresses, there are perfectly lovely figured cottons that lend themselves beautifully to this season's feminine frills and furbelows.

For daytime wear, Miss McClench had, among others, one stunning white eyelet embroidery frock, white fabric shoes, hat, gloves and purse, and another blue cotton taffeta, tailored with chic. For the afternoon she had figured voile, and for evening she had a blue cotton lace dinner dress and an evening gown that combines cotton and rayon. Among her accessories are a pique sports hat, a coat of cotton corduroy, cotton fabric shoes, cotton mesh hose, cotton fabric gloves and cotton lingerie.

For rainy days, she was no less cotton-minded, for she included a cotton sudanette raincoat and a cotton taffeta umbrella.

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

DR. MYERS

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

FRIENDL YADMONITIONS

MY DEAR YOUNG FRIEND:

You don't want anyone to preach to you; of course not. You have ideas of your own. You know that you are pretty well grown up, though the older members of your family don't.

Just because you can think for yourself, you won't object to thinking over a few things with me. As you have observed, those who have lived twenty or thirty or forty years longer than we have are in possession of some experiences we are not familiar with, some wisdom which is not to be found in books. Although most who are much older than we are value their experience from age more highly than we do, it is possible that we put too low an estimate upon it. Anyway, it might pay us all to keep our eyes and ears open, picking up suggestions here and there from those about us, especially from those who have lived longer, a few points which might save us some unnecessary worry and effort, might contribute toward our success and happiness next year, or twenty years from now.

Agreeing with me to this point, please allow me, about thirty years older than you are, to drop a few suggestions for your consideration.

You think you are independent but you never were more like a slave. You pride yourself upon your courage; never were you a bigger coward. You are chained to the ways of doing by those of your group, and terribly fearful of their disapproval. You study hard at school and strive to earn high grades if the gang you go with count industry and good school achievement worthy goals. You loaf along and feel indifferent toward school success if your set holds loafing and indifference toward such matters proper. Of course, you always have to live with other people and you naturally want to be likable—a most laudable wish. But you do not live just for today, nor for a few short years. You have a long, long life ahead. With your personal pride in your own ability to be independent it is possible to get more satisfaction than you ever had dreamed of by looking forward, by asking yourself if the standards set up by your gang are going to bring you substantial satisfaction five or ten or twenty years from now. If your gang do not measure up to the standards which your reason dictates, yours is a rare opportunity to prove the stuff in you, to prove how much courage and independence you posess. The greatest people of the world have been those who either sought new gangs or groups that more nearly measured up to the standards which proved most promising to them, or they demonstrated their leadership more nearly perfectly by helping raise the goals and ideals of the group in which they found themselves.

Just to smoke because the gang smokes, to drink because the gang drinks, to loaf because the gang loafs, to cheat because the gang cheats in examination, or to do anything which your dearest love dones begged you not to do, because such things are done by the group you go with, does not prove you have much courage, independence or moral stamina.

Curiously enough, sometimes when you feel most rebellious against parental restraint, and most resentful against advice by adults, you are expressing independence when you may actually be forging your own chains of slavery. You have ability to think pretty keenly. I should be interested to know the conclusions you arrive at.

Not all is easy for the adolescent. He has many problems; many worries. Most of us parents fail to sympathize with him. We often are less reasonable toward his conduct and point of view than he is toward ours. Once he really knows that we who are older try to understand how he looks at things and how he feels about them; once he knows that we have consideration of him as a personality and that we care for his joys and sorrows, pains and pleasures, hopes and fears, he will be more ready to welcome our advice and more ready to have us analyze his problems in the light of our more enriched experiences.

Forty-Nine In Attendance At Sanders Picnic Friday

Forty-nine persons were in attendance at a picnic given by members of the Sanders Aid society for their families Friday evening at the City park. Following a series of games and stunts, a picnic supper was spread. This outing took the place of the regular meeting of the society for the week.

Sherman Girl Holds Fund Of Women's Clubs

Miss Catherine Neal, State University Sophomore, Is Awarded Scholarship Of The Federation

AUSTIN, July 18.—Miss Catherine Neal of Sherman has been awarded the University of Texas scholarship for 1931-32 offered annually by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, according to Miss Mary E. Gearing, faculty representative on the committe on award. Miss Neal will be a sophomore student next year. She was one of the most outstanding members of the freshman class during the past year, Miss Gearing pointed out. She was editor La Movata ,yearbook of the Littlefield dormitory, where she resided, was secretary of the dormitory organization, and was a delegate to the Southwestern Association of Student Government, which convened at Baylor College for Women, Belton, in April. She is a member of Ashbel Literary society and of the senior cabinet of the Young Women's Christian association for 1931-32. She was elected to the honorary freshman scholarship society for women, Lambda Doleta, and has been chosen president of the sophomore class for 1931-32.

Miss Virginia Irvine of Austin was chosen alternate.

The scholarship was endowed by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in 1903, the interest from a fund of $3,500 being used. For 1930-31, Miss Antonetto Bracher of Fredericksburg was the holder.

Bridge, The Game Of The Hour, Was Not Always Favorite Of Society In Lubbock; This Fad May Be Replaced

The social Rip Van Winkle who might walk in on a pleasant gathering of society today and sit in on the card game might get no further than the familiar, "I bid——".

After that, the game now played in Lubbock would be as strange as a round of whist might be to the college youth. For 20 years ago in Lubbock, bridge was not the fad of the hour.

Bridge, the game of auction, was introduced to Lubbock people some 16 or 18 years ago when four women, Mrs. Arnold Brown, Mrs. Charles Rush, Mrs. O. L. Slaton and Mrs. Shelby Robbins, got together to play. Mrs. Brown, mother of Miss Harriett Brown, and Mrs. Rush had played the game elsewhere. It was through them that the others had an introduction to the game.

For several years, however, forty-two was the favorite for parlor gatherings and dominoes were more familiar than cards. Twelve years ago, bridge was beginning to have a following, gradually displacing the dominoes until today it is the popular pastime for those who look for social diversion in games. Contract is gaining in favor, but those who play most, express an opinion that it will not entirely replace the games of auction.

Before forty-two became the favorite diversion, 500, a game similar to bridge and played with cards, was played.

"A reminder last week in the papers that it is against the law to play bridge in public, reminds me of the warning R. A. Sowder used to give us at Canyon when he and I boarded with the Clark Smiths at the Victoria Hotel in Canyon", Miss Della Wilkinson remarked in this connection.

Knew That Law

Mr. Sowder, then a young attorney in Canyon, frequently warned other guests in the hotel about the law which was designed to prevent card playing in hotels and such places. However, the games continued.

There were other favorites in the days before bridge came in. Pinch, euchre, whist, charades.

Each game has been the pastime for a few years and has been forgotten as other things caught the fancy of the public. Games, too, have been popular for a day, have been forgotten and then returned to favor, so bridge may pass by as a favorite to be replaced by checkers, dominoes, whist, backgammon or something new that is invented.

Flower Show Is Planned As Fall Specialty

Garden Club Members Are To Sponsor Showing Here During September; Talks Are Heard Friday

Sometime during September there is to be a flower show in Lubbock if plans now being made by the Garden club mature.

Final decision to have this show was made Friday afternoon at a meeting of the club with Miss Della Wilkinson, 1201 17th street, and talks on these shows were made by Mrs. J. S. Johnson and Mrs. R. A. Mills.

Mrs. Johnson talked on rules governing shows and Mrs. Mills talked on shows in general and on miniature gardens.

A committee to arrange for the show is composed of Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. M. C. Overton, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe and Mrs. W. A. Myrick. Mrs. Mary Lovell, vice-president, was in charge of this meeting.

The club plans a garden party for August.

Mesquite School Plans Building

O'DONNELL, July 18.—Bids are to be opened by trustees of the Mesquite school, in Borden county 18 or 20 miles southeast of O'Donnell, on August 1 for the erection of a new school building to replace the one destroyed by fire several weeks ago. The new building will have four rooms and an auditorium.

The district had the school building insured some years ago with a five year policy, under which they were to receive three-fourths of the total amount of the policy. A new law, just passed by the legislature, made it possible for the district to collect the full face of the policy.

After the bids were asked for the insurance company notified the board that it had nearly a thousand dollars additional money coming in.

The structure will be of brick and tile. The combination auditorium will seat several hundred people and will be used as a community house.

B. B. Street is the superintendent.

Mrs. Luna Leach of Brownwood is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John A. Porter, 2206 10th street.

Services Announced

Services for the Fourwinds revival which is being conducted in a tent at Nineteenth street and Avenue L have been announced for the day as follows.

Rev. Mary Rozzell Smith is to preach on "The Rose of Sharon" at the morning hour and at 8 o'clock Rev. Anna L. Benton will bring a message on "What Shall We Do With Jesus Which is Called the Christ?" There will be no afternoon service.

The weekly divine healing service will be conducted Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Boyd P. Milburn, pastor of the West End Baptist church, is to begin a two weeks' revival at the Carlisle Baptist church today. Services are to continue twice daily at 11 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock. C. O. Pendley is to lead congregational singing.

Form New Dairy Finance Company

TYLER, July 18 (AP)—Organization of the East Texas Dairy Finance corporation has been completed here, B. J. Peasley, has announced.

The organization is expected to make available approximately $200,000 for financing and refinancing dairy cattle of farmers now engaged in the dairy business or wishing to engage in that business. It is affiliated with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, branch of the Federal Farm Loan Bank of Houston, to the extent of re-discount privileges.

Activities of the organization will be centered in Smith, Upshur, Titus, Cass and Harrison counties.

The company's $25,000 capital stock was subscribed by interested business men in these counties.

Peasley explained that cows now owned by farmers will be used as collateral for loans which will be repaid monthly over a period of 30 months (two and one-half years) at the rate of 6 1-2 per cent interest.

Bryan Blaylock of Marshall, secretary-treasurer of the company, will spend one day each week in each county receiving applications from farmers for loans.

Directors of the corporation are: B. J. Peasley, Tyler; W. C. Pierce, Marshall; L. F. Allday, Atlanta, Texas; John Brogotti, Gilmer; and Eugene Lilliestern, Mount Pleasant.

Dawson County Has 180,000 Acres In Feed, Agent States

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, July 18.—Dawson county has about 180,000 acres in feed crops this summer according to Walter W. Evans, county agent.

"We have had less than 5,000 acres of feed crops blow out this spring and summer," Mr. Evans said. "Some of the farms are spotted because of the wind blowing out the crops."

While there has not been any heavy showers recently and the county has had spotted rainfall, crops are not suffering seriously from lack of moisture at this time. However, according to the agent, a rain is needed before the first of August if the feed crops "make" a large yield.

Pasturage Is Being Assured

Lynn County Farmers Will Repeat Performance Of Having Small Plots Of Wheat For Their Livestock

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, July 18.—Scores of Lynn county farmers who had small plots of wheat for pasture the past winter and spring, will repeat the performance this year, insuring their livestock a sufficient amount of green pasture during the winter.

At the same time these farmers will feed wheat to their livestock this fall, using it instead of other feed as long as it lasts.

Nearly all the farmers who had wheat this year, harvested the crop and then stored it. Very little, if any, was sold, local grain men say.

Many farmers will feed hogs on wheat this fall and winter. It is said to be a fairly cheap feed.

Other farmers are going to feed the wheat they have bundled to their work stock. Some estimate half of the wheat was bundled instead of threshed.

Tahoka is a good hog shipping point. W. B. Slaton of the First State bank reports that nearly all the farmers of the territory have some brood sows this summer and will raise some fall litters.

If you suffer from mosquitoes, use insecticide with an insect gun all over the ceiling and upper walls. That is where they collect before they bite you.

Newly Formed University Club Will Meet For Dances And Other Socials During Year; Dance Saturday Night

Organization of a University club was announced here Saturday morning, and members and their guests attended a dance at the Hilton hotel Saturday evening. About 65 couples were present.

Hosts for the occasion were Mesars. Olen Purcell, Oscar Slaton, Howard Hoffman, of Slaton, and J. P. Rhuman. Misses Blanche Bradley, Hazel Ligon, Frances Ford and Catherine Jameson.

The club was organized a short time ago and is composed of students and ex-students of selected universities. The membership is 40 at present and a limit has been placed at 80 members.

Howard Hoffman has been elected president of the society. Olen Purcell is vice-president; Miss Gail Quinlan, secretary-treasurer, and Leroy Vaughan, reporter.

Constitution and by-laws have been drawn up for the club, which is purely social in nature, and will meet at stated times during the entire year.

Love Affair Has Campus In Furore

University Of California Graduate And Japanese Maid Are Engaged And All Efforts Being Made To Break It Up

BERKELEY, Cal., July 18 (AP)—The love affair of a University of California graduate student and a Japanese maid, and the efforts of the girl's Japanese guardian to win her for himself, have thrown the college campus here into a mild furore.

The affair came to light with announcement of the engagement of Warner Angell, 24, son of the Rev. J. W. Angell, Gold Beach, Ore., and Katsuko Susuki, 23, orphaned art student at the university. Angell is a graduate of Wooster college, Wooster, Ohio.

Learning of his son's intentins, the Rev. Mr. Angell voiced protest, and sought official aid of the Japanese consul in San Francisco. The consul said he had no interest in the love affairs of his countrymen. Then the minister became reconciled to the situation.

In the meantime Chiyuro Endo, the girl's guardian, frankly admitting he wanted to marry his ward, sought to end the engagement.

Tahoka Women Are Building Wagons For Dinner Service

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, July 18—As a result of a recent table service demonstration staged as a part of the county home demonstration work, farm women are now building tea carts or service wagons, according to Miss El Fleda Harrison, home demonstration agent.

"I know of five tea carts that are being built now by women," Miss Harrison said. "Later on we plan to have these shown to the public."

Shaw Teaches His Brims To Match His Eyebrows And Mustache, He Says

LONDON, July 18 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw always wears his hat brim turned up and for a reason.

Asked by a reporter who wanted to find out what great men thought about hat brims turned down, the famous dramatist replied:

"I have never given the subject very much thought. In my own case I wear my hat to match my eyebrows and mustache—turned up!"

Tenant-Operated South Plains Farms Show Big Gain

Decrease Cost Of Butterfat

Lubbock County Dairy Demonstrators Reveal A Marked Reduction In Costs Of Production In Three Months

Marked reduction in the cost of butterfat producton has been shown by dairy demonstrators of Lubbock county during the past three months, nearly one third being clipped off the average cost per pound, records of R. N. McClain, assistant county agent in charge of dairy work show.

"Our May average cost was 8.66 cents per pound, with the April average 9.9 cents and the March average 12.5 cents," Mr. McClain said. He added that June totals would not be available for about a week.

More Records Kept

Starting the March work wth half a dozen demonstrators keeping complete records of costs, seven men reported for April and 11 for May. Now there are 13 demonstrators in the work, with an average of nearly ten cows per farm.

Minimum cost per pound was 3.3 cents, with a maximum of 18 cents for May, Mr. McClain said.

The test will last for a year and cooperators will seek to reduce their production costs to a minimum.

Demonstrators are: J. W. Duncan, H. K. Arant, W. A. Goeth, W. E. Connell, Russell and Son, S. J. Paschal, J. M. Potts, C. J. Meyer, C. Q. Hallmark, W. J. Slover, George Sooter, Richard Douglas and Raymond Boyd.

Forty Farmers In Texas, 28 On South Plains, Are Certified Seed Breeders

Forty farmers in Texas, 28 of them up on the caprock of the South Plains, have become breeders of certified grain sorghum seeds by patience and persistence in meeting the standards for pure seeds set forth by the state plant and seed board.

These breeders, whose methods have been inspected, studied and approved by the state board, have complied with all standard requirements in the preparation of ground, the selection of types of seeds the keeping clean of fields and the proper harvesting of the crop. As a result these seeds are just about as pure as can be made humanly possible, free from noxious weeds and grasses and with a high germination record.

Most Above Cap

The greater bulk of the breeders are found on top of the caprock There is a reason for this, the use of bags in protecting seed. It is only on the high plateau that bags can be used with no danger of the seed moulding. In other sections below the cap, the chief trouble is that seed confined in the bag moulds from rain and subsequent moisture.

Last year there were six breeders on top of the caprock and one below.

Following are the South Plains grain sorghum breeders:

Lubbock county; James Burroughs, Pat Nix and W. E. Goeth, breeders in previous years; R. Q. Stubbs, new.

Lamb county: H. B. Brown, Harry Love, J. W. Hammock and A. B. Little, all new breeders.

Dawson county; J. A. Dunn, old breeder; Debman brothers and J. R. Weaver, new breeders.

Hockley county: George C. Beakley and Dwight Hammell, new breeders.

Deaf Smith county: J. C. Roberson and son, old breeder, and H. L. Hershey, new.

Parmer county: J. T. Thornton, new breeder.

Floyd county: John McDonald, new breeder.

Cotton Blooms Reported By Several Farmers In Area Around O'Donnell; Crops In Need Of Rain

(By Staff Correspondent)

O'DONNELL, July 18. — With many farmers reporting cotton blooms the past week, indications are that the first of September will see the first bale of cotton for the 1931 season.

Just now cotton is in need of rain as the ground is a little dry. Farmers say that with a good general rain, conditions will be much better and nearly an annual average crop is assured. Underground moisture is sufficient to carry the crops through, it is thought.

There is a lot of feed in O'Donnell's trade territory this year. Most of it is expected to make a fair crop, although a good general rain is needed. Two or three inches of rain during July and as much in August will make the territory the largest crop in history, farmers say.

Rains and showers have been spotted over the territory.

Pasture is dry and rain is needed to make fall pasture sufficient to carry through the winter season.

Increase Of 198 Per Cent Is Revealed For Past Decade By United States Census Bureau

Acreage Of Farms Operated By Owners Has Decreased By 609,585 Acres In Sixteen Counties Of This Section; Farms Valued At Nearly Quarter Of Billion

BY J. SAM LEWIS,
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

An increase of 198 per cent in the number of tenant-operated farms in the 16 counties comprising the South Plains area, is shown by the U. S. Bureau of Census reports for the decade between 1920 and 1930.

Acreage increase of these tenant operated farms is 110 per cent, while the number of farms under 100 acres have increased 420 per cent.

A complete census report for the 16 counties, made available the past week, shows some interesting comparisons. Acreage of farms operated by owners has decreased 609,585 acres, by managers 977,143 acres while farms operated by tenants have increased 1,669,490 acres.

Total Shows Increase

In 1920 there were 4,697 farms operated by owners in these counties, 136 by manager and 3,567 by tenants, a total of 8,400 farms. Ten years later there were 8,710 farms operated by owners, 167 by managers and 13,613 by tenants, a total of 22,450 farms. The gain of 14,050 farms is 170 per cent.

Value of these farms also has shown considerable changes. Valuation of farms operated by owners increased $18,000,000 in the decade, from $98,600,904 to $116,901,143. Value of manager-operated farms dropped over $8,000,000, from $21,162,320 to $13,010,940, while the value of tenant-operated farms increased $68,000,000 or from $50,538,328 to $118,797,814.

South Plains farms are worth slightly less than a quarter of a billion dollars, the total being $249,476,696, compared to $169,664,123 ten years ago.

Acreages of owner-operated farms decreased from 3,893,819 to 3,284,234 acres; manager-operated farms from 1,985,320 to 1,008,177 acres, while tenant operated farms increased from 1,508,938 to 3,178,428 acres.

Counties comprising the South Plains area include Bailey, Crosby, Cochran, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, Lubbock, Scurry, Terry and Yoakum.

Average Decreases

The average number of acres per farm has decreased in the decade from 4,798.7 to 507.7 acres. The number of horses and mules has increased from 96,399 to 118,630, the number of cattle including milk cows, has fallen off from 353,490 to 324,969, and the number of hogs from 60,662 to 56,597.

Chickens have more than doubled, from 533,463 to 1,299,346, the census takers found.

Some interesting figures on the size of farms is shown. In the last ten years the number of farms of less than 100 acres increased from 876 to 4,567; the number of 100-500 acre farms from 5,652 to 15,972 and the number of farms of over 500 acres has increased 52 from 1,876 to 1,928.

Crop lands have increased a million and a half acres, from 2,032,602 to 3,569,967 acres. The plowable pasture land is estimated to have dropped from 1,870,334 to 1,595,036 acres.

Average value per acre of farms had increased from $23.41 to $31.51.

Special Train To A&M Course

Tentative Schedule Is Given For Train To Annual Short Course At College Station, Starting July 27

Tentative schedule for the special Santa Fe train from Amarillo and Lubbock to College Station, Tex., for the annual Texas A. and M. short course starting Monday, July 27, is announced by E. Kancher, division freight and passenger agent of the railroad.

Between 75 and 100 South Plains farmers and 4-H club boys and girls are expected to make the trip.

Starts July 25

"We have so far obtained about 22 persons from Lubbock county," Mr. Kancher said. "D. A. Adam, county agent at Amherst, says there will be 15 from his county. The county agent at Tahoka reports 12 from Lynn county. Hockley county will send six from Levelland and there will be two from Muleshoe."

W. W. Evans, county agents at Lamesa has not announced the number of farm people from that county that will make the trip, according to the railroad official. Knox Parr, county agent at Post, likewise has not yet completed his party.

Word Not Received

No word has been received from Plainview or Canyon as to the number from those towns. From Tulia, C. B. Martin, county agent, is expecting six persons to make the trip.

Schedule is as follows:

Leave Amarillo, 7 p. m. July 25; Lubbock, 9:50 p. m. Sweetwater, 6 a. m., July 26; Brownwood, 10:05 a. m. Temple, 1:35 p. m., arrive College Station, 4:20 p. m.

The equipment is to consist of three standard chair cars and four standard tourist sleepers, with a baggage car.

Paving Contract To Come Up Soon

Possibility that a paving contract for State Highway No. 9 south from Lubbock to the Lynn county line may be let at the July letting of bids by the State Highway department is indicated by Guy R. Johnston, district construction engineer.

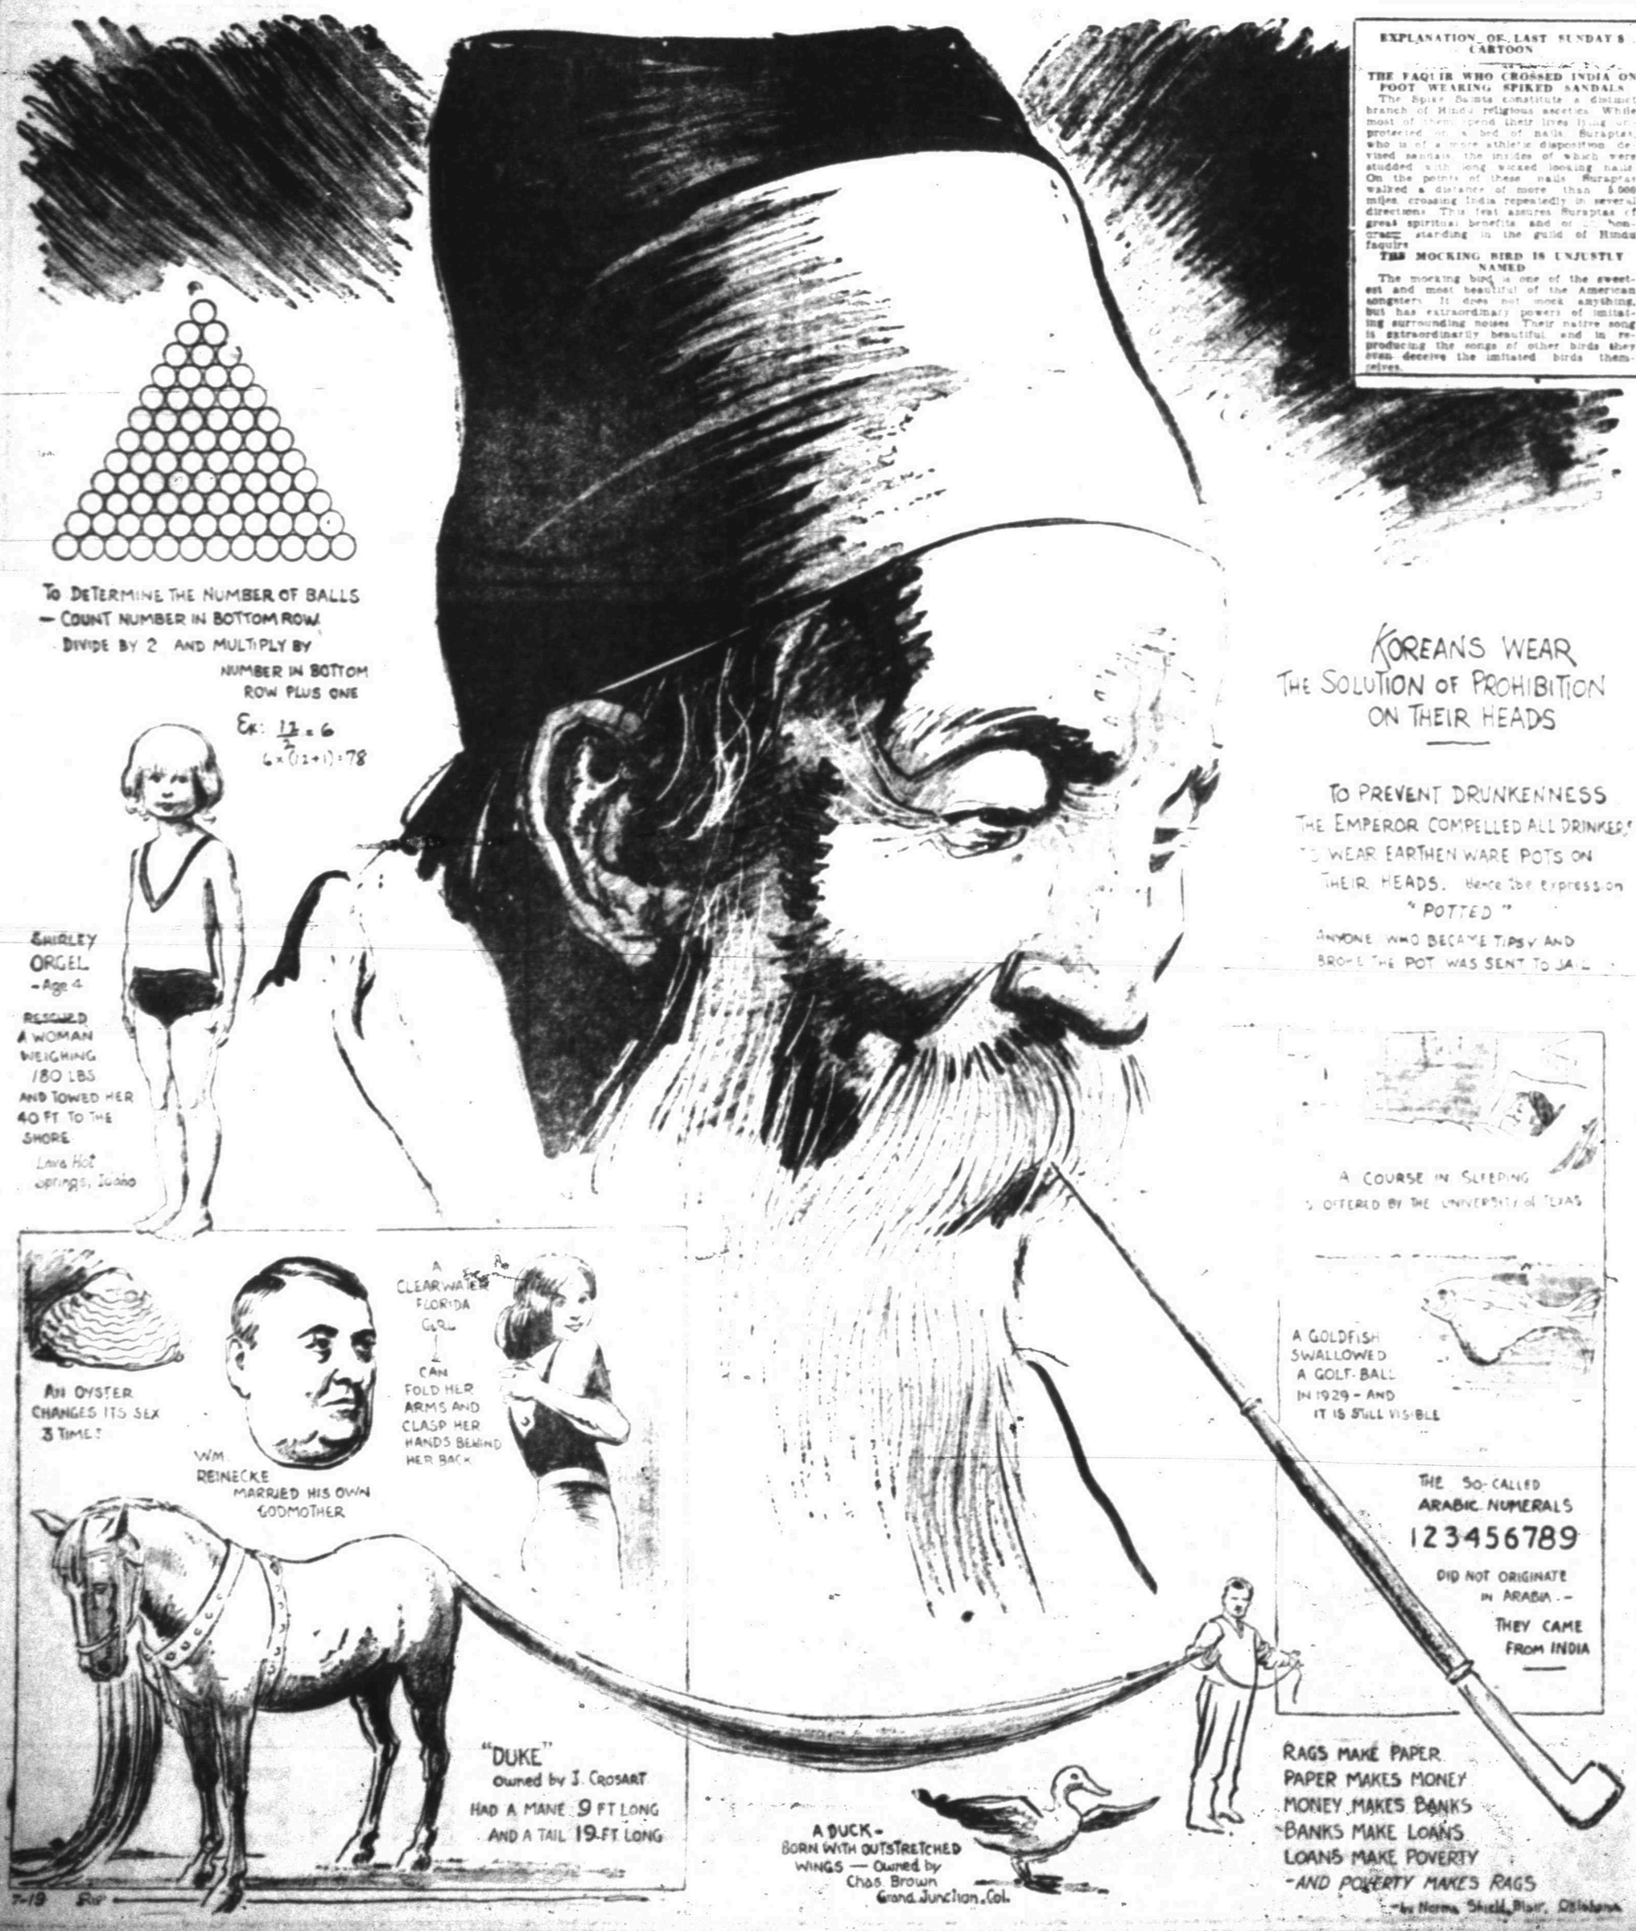

Several weeks ago E. L. Pitts, county judge, wrote the State Highway chairman, W. R. Ely, asking when the contract would be let. He also enclosed a resolution of the County Commissioners' court asking for the work to be started and pointing out that the county had the money already posted.

In reply chairman Ely said that the contract would be "let soon."

Engineer Johnston said he had not been advised as to the date of the letting of the work of unit No. 2. "I am asking the state engineer and the commission to put the contract up for biddings," Mr. Johnston said. "I believe that it will be done at either the July or August letting.

Uncle Sam Takes Hand In Planning For Great South Plains Territory

Government Is Practical For State Farmers

Four States Are Receiving A Large Amount Of Trees And Shrubs For Use In Beautifying Their Farms

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

UNCLE SAM is doing something practical for the farmers of the wind swept Great Plains area of West Texas, New Mexico, western Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas by the introduction of a new scheme of rural home beautification for this section.

Starting about a year ago, through the U. S. Dry Land experiment station at Woodward, Okla., 93 farmers in these four states were shipped some 125,000 trees and shrubs for practical and ornamental purposes.

Free To Farmers

These trees were free to farmers, except for the light carrying charges of shipping by express. The trees numbered from 150 to 1,000 or more in shipments. They were of various kinds, mostly chinese elms, with some pines, including Scotch pines, Western Yellow and Arbor Vitae for the ornamental type.

Six Texas counties, Dallam, Hartley, Moore, Hockley, Terry, and Gaines received trees in the spring of 1931. Shipment was made early in March from Woodward.

New Mexico Aided

Five New Mexico counties received trees in 1931 and 12 Oklahoma counties. Kansas did not receive any trees this spring.

For 1932 allotments have been made to the following counties in Texas: Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Bailey, Moore, Hockley, Lynn, Dawson and Howard.

Seven Kansas counties, seven Oklahoma counties, and three in New Mexico also will receive trees next spring.

Purpose Explained

"This is strictly a dry land farming program," S. S. Burton, horticulturalist of the Woodward station said in outlining the work and purpose of the program. "These trees do not require a whole lot of water. We work on the dry land farming plan of cultivation for preserving moisture.

"Our work is along three lines at the Woodward station: trees for windbrakes, ornamental shrubs and grapes.

Packed Light

"Trees are packed very light. I think our largest single shipment was about 1,000 trees. As I recall it they weighed only a few pounds. I do not think the average shipment, which is about 300 trees, would run over a dollar and a half or so, unless the farmer is a long, long ways from Woodward.

"I visit the farm of the cooperator, look over the place and draw a plan for his windbrake or whatever he wants. We put the trees for windbrakes on the north and west sides of his building site. We try to take in the house, garden and barns, with the protection. Generally elms are shipped the first year and ornamental trees or firs for this work the second. We make a plot for the garden for the trees and shrubs.

"Shipments are made in the spring. This is done to get the best results. The average farmer does not know how to keep trees through the winter if we shipped in the fall. Spring planting of trees is much more satisfactory than fall planting."

Terry county has one allotment. There will be six in Bailey county, six or seven in Dawson, four or five in Lynn and five in Hockley.

Branches of the Woodward station are as follows: Dalhart and Big Spring, in Texas; Tucumcari, N. M. and Lawton, Okla. Tree planting, grain and grape work is done at Dalhart; cattle feeding mostly at Big Spring and the Tucumcari work is much the same as Dalhart.

O'Donnell Is Shipping Out Carloads Of Hogs Monthly

(By Staff Correspondent)

O'DONNELL, July 18.—O'Donnell has been shipping an average of two or three car loads of hogs for several months and with a good feed crop this fall the number of hogs in the county will greatly increase, according to J. L. Shoemaker, jr., cashier of the First State bank.

"We are now shipping a car load of hogs about every two weeks or so," Mr. Shoemaker said. "I expect to see a good many farmers in the county to have hogs this winter if they get fair feed crops."

George Shumaker is the principal hog buyer of this territory.

Royal Ambition

His greatest ambition that he will one day get a job where he can wear overalls. Prince Charles, second son of King Albert of Belgium, is shown arriving at New York for the purpose of studying our industrial methods. The Prince, who is cloaking his royalty under the incognito of Charles de Rethy.

Guardsmen To Go To Camp

Troops From Over Territory To Leave On Special Train For Palacios, July 31; To Be Gone 2 Weeks

Lubbock National Guardsmen will leave here July 31 for the annual two-week encampment of the Texas national guard at Palacios, using a special train over the Santa Fe from Canyon to Palacios, E. Kancher, division freight and passenger agent, announces.

The special will leave Canyon at about 8 o'clock the morning of July 31. Stops will be made at Plainview, Lubbock, Snyder and Sweetwater.

Between 12 and 15 cars will comprise the train Mr. Kancher said.

Tahoka Farmer Is Saving His Wheat

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, July 18.—G. W. Stewart, well known farmer living near Tahoka, who has a considerable amount of livestock, is holding his wheat for feeding out to hogs, expecting to more than double his money.

Mr. Stewart last fall put out between 160 and 200 acres of wheat. During the winter he pastured 100 head of cattle on it, the animals making good gains.

This summer Mr. Stewart harvested the wheat, it making better than 15 bushels to the acre. Instead of selling the crop he stored it and plans to feed 400 head of hogs, fattening them for market.

Mr. Stewart told W. B. Slaton, of the First State bank, that he believed he could double his money at the present price of hogs.

Jarrott Brothers Expect To Feed Out Sheep In Fall

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, July 18.—Jarrott brothers, well known feeders of sheep and cattle, expect to feed out their usual amount of sheep this fall, it is said here.

A. M. Brownfield, another well known feeder, also expects to feed some sheep.

In addition to these two feeders, hundreds of other farmers of the county will feed from a score to several hundred sheep. The feed crop is large this year, with indications of a good stand.

L. A. Hollar, Supervisor Of Rural Schools, To Be Heard

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, July 18.—L. A. Hollar, rural school supervisor for the state department of education, is to be in Lamesa on Tuesday, August 4, to address the school trustees of the county, W. P. Webb, county superintendent of schools announces.

The meeting will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning Mr. Webb said. All of the trustees of the county will be invited to attend.

Sale Of Dog Licenses Shows Decline In Lubbock; Only 123 Tags Are Sold

License tags have been bought for 123 dogs in Lubbock since January 1 and eight of the licenses were duplicates, R. A. Holland, city tax assessor and collector, said.

The total is smaller than for any corresponding period here, he said. Licenses are not required for cats here. Holland attributed the decline in sales of dog licenses to increased stringency of enforcement of regulations pertaining to dogs in the city limits.

No Rabies Reported

About the same number of dogs has been killed by city authority here this year as last, city officials said. No rabies have been reported in Lubbock this summer, although there have been cases of hydrophobia in neighboring towns of Lubbock county and elsewhere, members of the city health department said.

The city has no permanent dog catcher and pound keeper, Acting City Manager W. H. Rodgers said, men being employed intermittently to catch stray dogs. The animals are placed in the pound and killed if not claimed after a designated period.

To obtain a license for his dog, the owner must present a veterinarian's certificate showing that the pet has been vaccinated against rabies not more than sixty days prior to issuance of the license.

Owners do not register names of their dogs here, as is done in some cities.

COURT TERM SET

TAHOKA, July 18.—Next term of Lynn county court will begin on Monday, July 27, Judge G. C. Grider, county judge, announces.

So far the docket, both criminal and civil, apparently will be a light one, Judge Grider said.

Dawson Farmers Use Rain Guages

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, July 18.—Thirty-two farmers in Dawson county have rain guages with which they record the rainfall in all sections of the county in conjunction with their reports on crop costs, made to A. C. Magee, Lubbock, district farm management expert, Walter W. Evans, county agent, reports.

"For the first six months in 1931 these guages show from two to as high as seven inches of rain," Mr. Evans said. "Each farmer is keeping a record of the rainfall in addition to records of his crops."

Dawson county has one government guage at Lamesa. There is said to be a considerable difference between the local records and those of farmers in the far off parts of the county.

Mars rotates on its axis in 24 hours, 37 minutes and 22 seconds, so that its day is only slightly longer than that of the earth.

EVERYBODY'S 'On the Hop' IN LUBBOCK

Yes Sir! Lubbock goes forward regardless. There is activity here! It's evidenced from every hand. People are doing things, as they have never done them before.... Beside the Federal Building and County Jail, the Conley Building is now being re-built. Stores are being remodeled—every indication is that everyone is looking to the future. They have faith in it, or they wouldn't build. Lubbock is ready for another big step forward. It's bound to come, and with the present indications, someone will start the ball right. Penn started drilling another oil well in Cochran County last week—who knows? People down here are "on the hop" and that means something. Let's stay that way!

Sylvia Ulbeck To Give The Truth About Hollywood Stars In Book

BY HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD.—Sylvia, the tiny Scandinavian masseuse who is Hollywood's fountain of youth, has a good memory.

SYLVIA ULBECK

For six years she has been pounding the stars back into shape, telling them what to eat and when not to drink, the while collecting anecdotes and incidents, humorous and otherwise, for her amusement, and many, many shekels for her labors.

Now Sylvia Ulbeck has written a book, consisting of reminiscences which I am sure are going to make your movie idols and mine feel kind of silly.

Sylvia is going to pull the stars off their pedestals and, as she tells you, make them "look like a bunch of saps ruined by too much money." She says this in slightly broken English, blue eyes twinkling merrily.

Mystery Picture Is Featured On Movie Program This Week

Bebe Daniels Star Of Film Opening Here

"Forbidden Adventure", Real Comedy Treat, Is Current Attraction At Palace; Paul Lukas To Show At Lindsey

A MYSTERY story—the first in several weeks—will feature Lubbock's theater program this week.

"The Maltese Falcon" is the mystery thriller and it starts a three-day run at the Lindsey today. Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez head the cast which includes Dudley Digges, Una Merkel, Robert Elliott, Thelma Todd and Otto Matisen.

EDNA MAY OLIVER

Miss Daniels appears as an alluring adventuress who uses all the wiles known to femininity to win over various men who are trying to determine if she is the leader of a baffling crime ring. She is able to keep the audience mystified as to her real personality until the last.

A statuette of a maltese falcon is supposed to contain jewels sought by Miss Daniels and by a gang of criminals. Ricardo Cortez is seen as the head of a detective agency. He is fascinated by but undecieved by Miss Daniels.

Paul Lukas, star of "The Vice Squad", plays the leading male role in "Women Love Once", which comes to the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday. Lukas appears as a commercial artist who makes a comfortable living and is happy with his wife, Eleanor Boardman, and their daughter.

A menace appears in the form of Juliette Compton, wealthy matron and patroness of the arts, who pursuades Lukas to go to Paris where his artistic temperament will find its "true soul". When he returns he is cool toward his wife who has waited for him. She realizes that he loves another woman and further trouble develops when their daughter is injured by an automobile. But the ensuing events lead to a happy and romantic climax.

Dorothy Mackaill, who will be remembered for her brilliant portrayal of an "office wife", is the star of "Party Husband" which shows Friday and Saturday at the Lindsey.

DOROTHY MACKAILL

She appears as a sophisticated bride who means to keep her individuality and take a place in the business world. Her husband agrees with her theory. He is to be the party-husband and she the party-wife.

Their separate business contacts lead them into marital difficulties and the witch's pot begins to brew. The outcome is, to say the least, entertaining.

A real comedy treat is the current attraction at the Palace. It is "Forbidden Adventure" and it started yesterday and will continue through tomorrow. If you think it isn't a comedy just read the principals in the cast: Louise Fazenda, Edna May Oliver, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl. The stars are supported by a number of clever kid actors an dskillful grownups.

Taken from the popular Sinclair Lewis story, "Let's Play King", which ran serially in Cosmopolitan recently. "Forbidden Adventure" makes a highly imaginative, yet exceptionally amusing talkie.

The story deals with the humorous rise from mediocrity of two women and their offsprings, who are pushed to fame as boy and girl king and queen of kid acters at Hollywood. The picture is crammed full of amusing situations.

The truth about Russia of today is revealed for the first time on the talking screen in "The Spy" which opens a two-day stand at the Palace Tuesday. It deals with the romance of an aristocratic Russian couple struggling against the conflict and intrigue thrown around them by the dreaded secret service system of the Soviets. The film is charged with the thrills, suspense and dramatic action characteristic of the passionate people of the frozen steppes.

LOUISE FAZENDA

Kay Johnson and Neil Hamilton play the featured roles and John Halliday appears in the most villainous part of his career in the title role.

Thursday and Friday the Palace will present "The Trap Of Terror", the first of ten episodes of "The Mystery Trooper". It is a serial picturization of the romance and adventures of the Canadian Northwest mounted police. It deals with a girl of mystery in love with the mystery trooper.

Lyric Offers Features

"Strangers May Kiss", starring Norma Shearer, will be shown a second time in Lubbock when it comes to the Lyric for a three-day run starting today.

Ronald Coleman in "One Romantic Night" is scheduled at the Lyric for Wednesday and Thursday.

The Friday and Saturday attraction at the Lyric will be Ken Maynard in "Mountain Justice",

At the THEATERS

Here is Paul Lukas who plays the leading role in "Women Love Once" at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

Crop Acreage In Lynn Is Divided

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, July 18.—Three fifths of the crop area of Lynn county has been planted to cotton and two-fifths to grain sorghums, W. B. Slaton, of the First State bank, estimates.

"I believe there has been a general reduction of 15 per cent in our cotton acreage this year," Mr. Slaton said. "We have had the largest amount of wheat in the county that we ever had.

"So far there has been very little cotton or feed blown out. There has been some. Cotton is in good shape. We do need a rain this month if our feed is to be anywhere near what it should be.

Mr. Slaton said that he believed a rain of an inch or two by the first of August would virtually insure a record feed crop. There will be more animals fed this year in the county than ever before, he added.

Variety Offered Lovers Of Books In These Days

New Lists Offering Range From Dance To World Affairs

IF VARIETY is the spice of life, the book business should be looking up these days.

The recent fare served up includes a little of everything from "Tap Dancing at a Glance," by Jimmy Ormonde to the serious and thoughtful tome, "The Background of International Relations," by Prof. Charles Hodges of New York university.

In between came "Hot News," by Emile Gauvreau, editor of the New York Daily Mirror. Gauvreau has written an autobiographical "confession" of his part in the more flashy aspects of daily journalism. Thinly disguised, readers will recognize many characters who have played parts in the more lurid news dspatches of the last few years.

Gauvreau's chief character feels he is caught in a giant web of circumstances which leads him to do many things not quite considered in the best of taste. But one gets the impression that he enjoyed it all thoroughly and wouldn't have traded his place for a quieter one if he could.

Gauvreau was editor and publisher of The New York Evening Graphic for five years before he switched to The Mirror, and he should be in a position to survey his field from the viewpoint of an "insider," but the influences of easily impressionable onlookers are evident in the narrative.

At Home

WHEN tap-dancing was "Hot News" Gauvreau ran a series of illustrations in his paper telling how the steps were done. This series now appears in book form by Jimmy Ormonde. It is dedicated to Gauvreau, "whose cooperation has made possible the production of this book." Mr. Ormonde says, "I have analyzed the movements so that you who have never danced before . . . can learn in your own home to become as proficient in this type of stage dancing as those who have spent great sums of money in dancing schools."

International

PROFESSOR Hodges' work is particularly timely just now, when the news of the day is all tied up in Paris, London, Berlin and Washington datelines.

He calls it "a challenge to the reader to face international realities in the scientific spirit" and says it "brings together, by means of the survey method, a general statement of the fundamental facts of the relations of nations."

A little more on the light side is Elliott White Springs' story, "The Rise and Fall of Carol Banks." This tale of a war time flier, Romeo of the air service, is related in the reminiscent manner.

Carol Banks' amours cover a lot of territory and his mental attitude as shown rather between the lines is thoroughly representative that generation which laid down its school books to take up war manuals.

Documented Work

NOT all authors believe in documenting themselves as fully as Charles H. Sherrill. Before writing, for instance, his new book, "Bismark and Mussolini" (Houghton Mifflin company), General Sherrill made it a point to read every book and pamphlet written in any language which might be described as "anti-Mussolini." By way of further preparation, General Sherrill read widely in German history, made a thorough study of Fascism, had several personal interviews with Il Duce, spent half a day with the Kaiser at Doorn, visited the Bismark country house at Schonhausen and had tea with President von Hindenburg in the garden behind his official residence on the Wilhelmstrasse.

Completes Story

ARCHIBALD Henderson, the official biographer of Shaw, who wrote the authorized biography, "George Bernard Shaw, His Life And Works," published in 1911, is putting the finishing touches to a biography of Shaw which brings his story right up to date. The manuscript will be ready for release on Shaw's seventy-fifth birthday on July 26, and will be published by D. Appleton & Co. early in the fall. Dr. Henderson's earlier work was written in collaboration with Shaw himself and the new book is its continuation. This will make it the authentic Shaw life-story.

Opinions Vary

THE latest reports from the Irish Free State are that Erich Maria Remarque's "The Road Back", generally conceded by critics and public to be a great preachment against war, has been banned "on Irish ground." And the reverse side of the medal is that the Germans determined to lift the government ban on the film of "All Quiet on The Western Front," have finally won their point and the picture is playing to packed houses in Berlin.

Of Sand Bank

"MONEY Mad," a novel of a bank built on quicksand, published a few days ago by the Vanguard Press, is written by a former newspaper man. Herman Michelson was formerly Sunday editor of the New York World. Though the events and personages described in the book are wholly fictitious, it is inevitable that comparisons will be drawn between this novel and recent financial collapses.

His Fourth Aim

WINWOOD Reade, author of "The Martyrdom of Man," recently reissued by E. P. Dutton & Co., in its twenty-sixth edition, was the nephew of the author of "The Cloister And The Hearth." His chief ambition in life was "to read all the great books, study all the great languages, travel everywhere and see everything and write a history of the world." In the brief 36 years he lived he accomplished to a certain extent the first three aims he set for himself, and "The Martyrdom Of Man" shows how successfully he carried out the fourth. This book stands out today as the first of the "outlines," H. G. Wells giving Reade credit for the inspiration of his own "Outline Of History."

IF YOU'RE not in the mood for that, however, Eve Garrette Grady tells all about life in soviet Russian in "Seeing Red." Mrs. Grady, it will be recalled, was deported from Russia because she told a joke about Stalin.

Now that she's back home she has written her impressions of the system under which the five-year plan restricts the social and moral tenets of the populace as compared with those in America.

The wife of an engineer who was employed by the Russian government, Mrs. Grady paints her picture in a series of anecdotes which effectively convey her impressions. And she tells another story about Stalin!

SCHOOL PLANS LAID

TAHOKA, July 18. — Several of the rural schools of Lynn county are planning to open up their fall work late n July or early August, H. P. Caveness, county superintendent, says.

"They will run for six or eight weeks and then close for cotton picking," Mr. Caveness said. "About the first of November the schools will open again and complete their work."

The longest village in the world is probably Kempton, near Bradford, England. It straggles along a single road for seven miles.

Work On School Will Begin Soon

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, July 18. — Work is to start July 27 on the new four room brick school building in the Munger district, 12 miles northwest of Lamesa, W. P. Webb, county superintendent of schools, announced following the letting of a contract for the building to George W. Hornbeck, local contractor.

Plans for the building were drawn by Harvey C. Allen, Lamesa architect. The structure will include two class-rooms that can be thrown into one large room to be used as an auditorium, seating about 250 persons.

Several months ago the district voted $7,000 in bonds for the new structure. Material from the present building is to be used in the new one.

The class room-auditorium plan makes it possible for community affairs to be held in the building, thus making it a community center, Mr. Webb said. A stage is to be a part of the equipment of one room and the auditorium can be used for school work as well as community work.

E. P. Chilcott, superintendent, is chairman of the building committee.

A Queer Quirk Of Nature

WE AMERICANS, as a nation, have some queer ideas and, as a nation we apparently do not mind giving them expression. Take for instance, our attitude toward our public officials.

Prior to the election of a Governor, or a President, the candidate is "a great and good man". When he is swept into office it is taken for granted that the majority of voters decided he is "a great and good man" and that characterization is thundered from speakers' platforms and from the printed page of many newspapers.

Time passes then, as time has a habit of doing, and what do we find has happened?

A great number of people who were calling the official "a great and good man" during the pre-election period have decided for some reason or another that he isn't "a great and good man" at all. He really is a big bag of wind—an inefficient nincompoop—and they can hardly wait until the time rolls around to boot him from his public post and place there, in his stead, another "great and good man."

Thus the merry-go-round of public opinion whirls merrily in many sections of this country of ours.

It is our opinion that the mere election of a man to high office does not change his entire course of action. If he were "a great and good man" during the campaign, he will continue to be "a great and good man" after he takes office.

On the other hand, if he has always been a very ordinary sort of a person, endowed with the flair for corralling votes, his election is not likely to turn him into any kind of a world-beater.

More care in selection of candidates, more care exercised at the ballot box is what we need.

If we demand "great and good men" in our high offices, we should be careful that the "great and good man" of the pre-election campaign is really a "great and good man" who will continue to fill that bill long after he takes office. Election doesn't automatically change the basic character of the individual. He remains in office the same type he was before election.

Practical Health Problems

CONSTIPATION DURING PREGNANCY

This condition prevails in the majority of women before pregnancy ensues and the principal causative factor is neglect. When one feels the inclination or stimulus for defecation, which normally registers on the nervous system within the first hour after arising, she should heed it regardless of other obligations. Because that inclination is natures alarm clock and if neglected even a few times the stimulus will not be sufficient to make an impression upon the nervous system, consequently no desire will be elicited and constipation ensues.

Habit will be a great factor in restoring normal bowel activity, but it requires a much longer time to correct the abnormality by the sole institution of habit than it does to become constipated as a result of neglect. The continued use of habit forming cathartics is a worse evil than the existing constipation.

The intestines are affected during pregnancy, constipation is almost the rule. This condition is usually due to displacement of the bowels, abnormal nerve supply, general inactivity of the woman and interfence of the bearing-down efforts in defecation by the enlarged womb.

Care Explained

Care: First the patient should make it an unfailing habit to go to stool at a certain hour each day. The best time is shortly after breakfast. Straining should be avoided as much as possible. A glycerin suppository or an enema may be resorted to for an occasional inability to move the bowels. A desire to go to stool at any time must not be resisted.

Second: Every morning just after rising and every evening just before retiring she should drink a glass of water and eat some fruit—an apple or an orange. Between meals water is to be drunk freely.

Third: Her diet should consist principally of fruits and vegetables, especially spinach, peas, beans, barley, tomatoes, corn, bran bread, and any kind of fruit she desires except bananas. Coffee should be taken in moderation. Milk should be taken freely, about one quart daily. Prunes and figs are especially good in the dietary where constipation exists, begin by eating one or two a day and gradually increase by one or two daily until ten or fifteen are eaten then gradually cut down on the intake as the need subsides.

Fourth: If the above dietary does not correct the constipation one may inject four to six ounces of olive oil or glycerine into the rectum just before retiring, leaving it there all night. This is especally good in spastic constipation.

Fifth: Drugs should be withheld as long as possible and active cathartics, such as castor oil is forbidden. Cascara, bitter variety, is the cathartic of choice but the individual should discontinue the use of any drug for this purpose just as soon as possible. Pluto water is exceptionally good in many instances. Mineral oil is a good intestinal lubricant and will in many instances suffice.

Not that the Germans have achieved anything particularly important lately, but it seems that the whole world is giving them credit.

Internal Leadership Need

(This is the fifth dispatch analyzing the bituminous coal industry.)

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH July 18.—Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania (former secretary of labor, and though now a very rich man, bearer of a trades union card to this day, besides representing the country's coal-producing state par excellence in the upper house of congress, from all of which it would seem reasonable to expect him to take an all around view) believes the bituminous industry can be stabilized, to the advantage of mine owners and miners alike, without modification of present anti-trust legislation.

James J Davis

However, Representative Clyde Kelly of the coal-producing Thirty-third Congressional district of Pennsylvania, who a half dozen years ago presented perhaps the most intelligently worked out plan yet proposed, for the industry's stabilization, believes certain modifications in present laws highly essential to attain the desired end.

But Senator William H. King of Utah, most notable among monopoly's foes in the national legislature, says that only over his dead body will either the Sherman or Clayton anti-trust acts be modified. "In fact," he adds, "they already have been seriously weakened by judicial interpretations and urgently need strengthening."

"In my opinion," observes Senator M. M. Neely of Pennsylvania's great rival soft coal-producing state, West Virginia, "the bituminous industry's trouble is too deeply seated to be reached by modification of our federal anti-trust laws, even if they could be modified."

"Leadership within the industry, not congressional interference," argues Senator Davis, "is what the bituminous situation requires. A limitation of output to the demands of the market, a shortening of the country's great soft coal users not to insist upon prices which will force men to work for starvation pay—these will solve the problem.

"The steel industry" (Senator Davis was a puddler as a young man) "was stabilized without the necessity for changes in the national anti-monopoly laws.

"It was in a state of very much such disorganization, in its time, as the soft coal industry is in now—a multiplicity of small plants, over-production, cut-throat competition, constant warfare between employers and employes. But it developed leadership and look at it now!—the strongest among industries. The bituminous industry's illness can be cured in the same way."

Representative Kelly's prescription for the afflicted industry was embodied in a bill introduced in congress by him about the period of the mid-1920's. It provided for the creation of a commission representative of all interests concerned in soft coal production, to evolve a code of regulations for their joint benefit and protection, which was to be made effective upon the government's approval—or which, of course, the government could veto.

"But no one showed the slightest interest in it then," relates the congressman. "It was referred to a committee and stayed there—never even came up for discussion, let alone a vote. Evidently, at that time, all hands preferred the anarchy which reigned, to stabilization."

This experience left Congressman Kelly extremely skeptical as to the prospects of an improvement through leadership within the industry. "There obviously isn't any leadership in it to develop," he observes.

Nevertheless, the Pennsylvania representative does surmise that maybe the mining groups are tired of anarchy by now and thinks of reintroducing his bill next winter. Yet even so, he can see no escape from limitations upon production, if treatment of the soft coal industry's malady is to succeed; nor does he disguise his inability to reconcile such limitations with the letter of the Sherman anti-trust law, despite the steel industry's success (under somewhat different circumstances) in getting around it.

Congressman Kelly, to be sure, is not averse to altering the Sherman act sufficiently to meet the situation's necessities.

"In the field of manufacturing generally," he says, "competition unquestionably should be safeguarded, but this is a matter involving the utilization of a natural resource. The issde of conservation enters into it, too."

Nevertheless, Senator King is adamant. President Hoover himself has appealed to him in vain to yield. "If the law is modified as to coal," points out the senator, "the next demand will be for its modification as to oil—and then lumber—and, very shortly the entire competitive system will be at an end. And every lesson in history has taught us the evils and oppressions of monopoly."

Much to the point, however, there undoubtedly will be a larger number of lawmakers of Senator King's way of thinking in the new congress than there were in the last one.

Senator Neely, discussing the coal industry with me at his home town of Fairmont a few days ago, shook his head at the suggestion of legislation or the modification of legislation to mend matters.

"There is no use," he said, "in trying to lift bituminous mining out of its difficulties as a separate industry. The industries are interwoven. The fuel industry is one of the most important—basic. It can be intelligently considered only in connection with all the rest.

"The individual who finds the formula for the relief of its present agonies will have found the formula for relief of hard times."

Probably Will Hays is right in his claim that the movies have removed the "hick" type from small town life. They took one young Indiana villager to Hollywood and made him a czar.

The remains of a diplodocus, as tall as a street car and with a brain the size of an apple, have been found in Utah. A hunt will be prosecuted for the big fellow's first-baseman's mitt.

A university announces a course in book selling. Huh? All there is to book selling is getting in. Once he is in, anyone will buy books from a book salesman to get rid of him.

One co-operative in the state of Washington alone did $25,000,000 worth of business last year in eggs. None of the others, it seems, could hold a candle to it.

BERYL BORDEN hopes that a radio career will help her forget her hopeless love for TOMMY WILSON who is engaged to her half-sister, IRENE. Young PRENTISS GAYLORD pays attention to Beryl until Irene learns that he is rich and tries to win him. Finally she succeeds. After a hasty marriage they depart for Gaylord's western home. In despair Tommy drinks deeply, loses his job and joins evil companions.

Beryl catches cold while seeking Tommy to beg him to break with the bootlegging gang. Her throat is affected and the doctor announces her singing days are over. When Tommy realizes that she made this sacrifice to save him he reforms, gets another job, and starts night courses to finish college.

Beryl is happy until Irene quarrels with Prentiss over her affair with DERRY MEADE and comes home to wait for a divorce. Slowly fear grows in Beryl's heart as she realizes that Irene is trying to win back Tommy's love. MRS. EVERETT questions Irene about the daily letters she is receiving from Derry. Irene decides to dispose of Derry and returns to Oakdale. She gets off the train and telephones to him from a suburb.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

Irene was not to learn that evening what it was that Derry Meade had to tell her that was so important. One reason for this was that Irene did not give him the opportunity. Another reason was that Asa Crewe telephoned Gaylord as soon as Irene and Derry disappeared and told Gaylord that his wife had been in the store.

Asa did not know of the conditions Gaylord had imposed upon Irene and Derry but he did know that Irene was not supposed to be in Oakdale and that her presence there meant trickery to his friend. Asa wasn't inclined to say who had been with Irene but Gaylord could guess easily enough and Asa saw no occasion to lie about it.

"Which way did they go?" Gaylord asked. "Toward town?" He meant toward Oakdale. The river park lay in that direction from Old Town and Asa answered yes.

Then Gaylord began his search. In the meantime Irene and Derry had reached their destination, the semi-sheltered parking space in the park, and a heated conversation had begun. Irene tried to lead gradually to the subject of breaking their engagement but Derry's love-sick mind leaped ahead of her. He accused her of tiring of him before she had actually spoken.

"I see," he said bitterly, "you've been thinking it over and you don't want to marry a poor man."

The words were accompanied by a puzzling smile. Irene hated having anyone assume a mysterious air and her annoyance with him grew.

"As far as that goes," she said haughtily, "Gaylord is something more than a rich man."

"Yeah?" Derry retorted. "Aren't you late in finding it out? I thought he was the sort of fellow who was all right in business but a bum in married life. Seems to me I've heard you say he neglected you."

"If you choose to remember what I said when I was unhappy," Irene cut in. "It just proves that you wouldn't understand me any more than Gaylord did. I was a fool, that's what I was, but I've learned my lesson."

"Don't be too sure of that," Derry cautioned her. "People don't change so easily."

"Derry Meade! Are you calling me a fool?"

"What if I am? But I'll tell you one thing. You're not going to make a fool out of me! How do you think I feel? People have been saying I broke up Gaylord's home."

"Well, didn't you?"

"I guess you had something to do with it. A man doesn't go all the way without some encouragement. I'd never have told you I was crazy about you if you hadn't said you were unhappy."

"Oh you wouldn't," Irene scoffed. "How about that night at the Harmon's barn dance?"

"Bad girl."

"Of course. Lay it on the drinks. I might have known you'd make excuses!"

"Well, I wasn't drunk when I told you I'd fallen for you, and I'm not drunk now. I'm off the stuff and I'm telling you I still love you. I don't want to hear any more talk about mistakes."

Irene looked at him in amazement. Derry'd never shown so much spirit before. What had come over him anyway?

"Dear me," she murmured sarcastically. "Aren't you impressive when you're giving orders!"

"Never mind being smart! Just listen to me."

"Listen to you!" Irene flared at him. "It wouldn't make any difference what you said after calling me a fool, you conceited idiot!"

"Conceited?" Derry echoed, not minding the "idiot."

"Yes, conceited. To think a girl could love you and not care for Gaylord. Just because he's rich—"

"Just because he's rich he's what you want, no matter how much you pretend otherwise. You don't give a snap of your fingers for him. You couldn't care for anyone, I guess."

Irene laughed. "Just because I've discovered that I don't care for you?"

Derry winced. "So you have discovered that?" he said fiercely. "It has nothing to do with the fact that I haven't any money?"

Irene looked at him disdainfully. "You will persist in your conceit," she said as though merely musing aloud.

Then Derry laughed. "My mother warned me what to expect," he remarked with no small degree of disgust. "Well, I wanted to do the right thing. You can laugh," he added unemotionally as Irene continued to smile. "Of course I love you, but I don't want to be known as a home wrecker."

Irene regarded him mockingly. "Haven't you found that it adds to your reputaton?" she sneered.

Derry looked back at her, his eyes blazing with anger. "If all girls are like you," he said tensely, "I won't need a reputation."

Irene did not understand this but she chose to appear offended. "Derry Meade," she cried, "if you say another thing like that I'll slap your face!"

"I guess you don't quite understand," Derry said quietly, "but you will later and when you do you'll see that the joke's on you."

"You needn't try to excuse yourself by talking in riddles," Irene retorted. "If you ever speak to me again after today I'll—" She paused on the verge of threatening him with punishment at the hands of her husband, but remembered in time that she had no right to that husband's protection. It was a faint hope that Gaylord would forgive her. She knew this and did not wish to risk ridicule.

"Do you intend to stay in Oakdale?" Derry asked. "You said a while ago you weren't going to. What are you going to do, Irene? Did you come out here to tell me you've made up with Gaylord?"

"Never mind what I came for. I thought you were a gentleman, but now I'm not a bit sorry for you."

"You needn't be if you go back to Gaylord," Derry told her. "I suppose I could expect you might do that. But if I thought there was another man in the picture I'd wring your neck right now."

"You've become terribly ferocious since I went away, haven't you?" Irene taunted him. "What's come over you anyway?"

Derry looked at her thoughtfully. Then he said soberly, "You're through with me, aren't you?"

Irene avoided his eyes.

"Yeah, it's final all right," Derry continued. "I can see that. Well, I suppose I might as well tell you myself about what's happened to me. I'd rather like to see how you take it. First, there's just one question I want to ask you. Did you ever care anything at all for me or were you playing with me all the time?"

"Of course I cared for you," Irene

SWAN

In New York With Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, July 18—On the day they were burying Harry Reichenbach I happened to be passing a nondescript second-hand and auction store in lower Sixth avenue. In one corner of a window, in a pile of dusty mirrors and dishes, I noticed a timeworn copy of "September Morn." Remember it? And how shocking it was supposed to be?

Well, I mention this because it was Harry who caused an entire nation to get excited over this ordinary picture. He had been retained by a certain picture dealer who wanted to sell more wares. And millions of copies were sold when Harry made almost everyone believe that something naughty was being perpetrated.

This was, to be sure, one of the earlier stunts of this fabulous press agent.

Barnum and Reichenbach would have made a great team. For Harry had a flair for the fantastic and bizarre in advertising and was prepared to stage any sort of stunt to introduce his clients to the public.

This often involved the hoodwinking of many editors. Harry was, in fact, one of the last of the "big Buncombe" type of press agents. What he did was often spectacular and even hilarious, but a tremendous change has come over the publicity business within the past five years or more.

Broadway gents, who once spent sleepless nights trying to think of schemes, now resort to no flim-flammery. They let news of the stage or screen speak for itself. They write well, and half a dozen of them have been taken from their old tasks to hold down serious writing jobs. Several have become stage producers and have presented successful plays; and number are in Hollywood and others are well-known authors.

When the war came, Harry's reputation had reached the point where Uncle Sam let him be a press agent for the American forces.

Before he reached this status, however, Harry had participated in hilarious fakeries that have since become Broadway legends. There was the case of "The Virgin of Stamboul", for instance. Harry had "planted" half a dozen mysterious Turks in a swanky hotel. They refused at first to be seen by the press and there was much conjecture as to their mission. Then, one day, admission was made that they were searching for a kidnaped Turkish maid, known as "the virgin of Stamboul." A reward of $20,000 was offered. When the newspapers had tumbled for it, announcement of the movie of that name came.

On another occasion a lion was discovered in a hotel room. It had been delivered, innocently enough, in a crate. Police were called and there was no end of excitement. The papers thought it a funny tale and followed the many incidents, until the owner was discovered to be a certain "T. R. Zann."

Meanwhile, the efforts to dislodge a lion from a mid-town hotel room was proving a most whimsical novelty, if not a difficult task. And, of course, the "T. R. Zann" involved was later connected with "Tarzan of the Apes."

* * *

One might assume that such stunts would have caused Reichenbach to have been tossed out on his ear by every editor in New York. Fact was, that Harry was friendly with most of them, though eyed with great suspicion until he "reformed." Most of his jokes were so good that even an editor who had "bitten" had to laugh. The day of the hoax type of publicity passed, however, and Harry adopted more serious methods. He took on the personal publicity of many movie stars and even toured with Sarah Bernhardt.

Harry will be remembered longest for his pranks, which will be told and retold for many a year.

SASSAFRAS TREE LARGE

NACOGDOCHES, July 18 (AP)—Probably the largest sassafras tree in Texas is at Chireno, 20 miles east of Nacogdoches, near the residence of Morgan Weeks, a merchant. This tree is four feet in diameter and 75 feet in height. A companion tree, also sassafras, is three and one half feet in diameter and almost as tall.

To preserve ancient manuscripts electric air conditioning devices have been installed, one drying the air in summer and the other moistening it in winter.

University Of Texas To Hav New Building

Preliminary Sketches Of Of Eight Proposed Structe es Submitted To Board Regents Committee

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AUSTIN, July 18—Preliminasketches of six of the eight nebuildings proposed under the $000,000 building program of tUniversity of Texas were submted by the building committee the board of regents at its lemeeting.

These plans were drawn accoring to specifications recommendby the authorities of the deparments which are to be housed the various buildings. A tentatiplat of the campus with the locaion of the new buildings desinated has been worked out. Thlocates the union building and tharchitecture building to the nortand south of the Main walk, respectively, on the west edge of thForty Acres. The physics buildinwill be constructed between thchemistry and biology buildingsthe engineering building will bplaced near the new engineerinshops east of Speedway; the homeconomics building will go north ofthe biology building and west othe new women's activities building; the men's dormitories will blocated on the Cavanaugh tract between 19th and 21st streets; thgeology building will be built southof the present engineering building. The library will occupy thpresent site of the Main buildingthough for some time only the northwing of the latter will be torn downto make way for the new building.

To Start Soon

The building program is expected to get under way as soon afinal plans for one or more of thbuildings can be completed. It ithought that construction will starton the $8,000,000 union building soonafter the first of the year. Thistructure is being financed chiefly by ex-students and others, whilthe other items of the building program are to be paid for by a $6,000,000 appropriation from the available building fund of the institution.

NOT SO HOT

WASHINGTON—The "red hot mammas" aren't so hot, Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie Institution here finds in testing their basal metabolism. This scientific term is tendered the heat production of the average person lying quietly awake before breakfast, or 12 hours after supper. Dr. Benedict found that the average woman gives off ten per cent less heat than a man of the same size.

A well-known French scientist has invented a metal motion-picture film that is said to be more durable than celluloid and equally light and efficient.

As One Judge To Another

One woman to another, as well as one judge speaking to a fellow-judge, May D. Lahey welcomed Ida May Adams to the municipal court bench in Los Angeles. The oath was administered by Judge Lahey (right), and after the formal ceremony, the two women jurists warmly shook hands to celebrate the feminine victory in placing a third woman on the municipal court roster. Judge Adams is the third to win election, Judge Georgia Bullock having been first.

blasted, "but earing isn't love Derry. Maybe you'll find that out some day, too."

"I'll take your word for it," Derry assured her, "since you seem to know so much about love. I thought I loved you, but maybe I only cared for you."

* * *

Irene did not like to hear this and was not satisfied that the tone he used seemed to belie the words. It was too much like losing something that belonged to her.

"Don't be mean to me, Derry," she pleaded, suddenly becoming gentle again. "I didn't mean to hurt you."

Derry laughed. "Just like a loaded gun, huh? If anyone plays with you and gets hurt it's not your fault. Oh, no, not at all."

"I didn't ask you to fall in love with me," Irene reminded him.

"No," he said bitterly, "you only did all you could to make me do it, that was all. You didn't need to ask me."

Irene hedged again. "Can't we come to an understanding?" she urged. "I'm getting cold."

"Of course we can," Derry agreed. "I'm satisfied. I just wanted to know that you cared a little for me. It will make it easier to believe that you wouldn't have thrown me over if I'd been able to offer you the things Gaylord can give you. I shouldn't blame you, I guess. It was asking an awful lot to expect you to be content with me after living in the Prentiss mansion. No, I shouldn't blame you."

Irene misunderstood. "I'm glad you see it that way at least, Derry. It would be awfully hard for you to try to support me in the manner I'm accustomed to. I have been thinking it over, as you said, and I realized it might spoil all your future to have an extravagant wife to take care of. You're so popular. You ought to marry someone with plenty of money."

Derry interrupted by seizing her savagely in his arms. "Just tell me this you'd rather have me than anyone else in the world if I could support you," he said. "Then I'll take you anywhere you say, and I'll never bother you again."

"Why of course, I would," Irene said softly. "And I mean it, too, Derry!"

He let her go abruptly then, and Irene was shocked to see that he was laughing.

What he said was even more surprising. "That'll do," he said. "I guess I can laugh it all off now. And I'm glad I found out what a little parasite you are before I told you anything about—"

Irene was not listening to him, compelling as his words were. She was looking down the road over which they had entered the park. Her face had suddenly whitened.

Derry followed her gaze when he saw that she was not listening. He recognized Gaylord's car just as Irene screamed her husband's name.

Public Is Guiding Radio Toward Good Music

NBC Director Maps Musical Menu For Air

Now In Important Place, Erno Rapee Was Pounding Pavement Looking For Job Two Decades Ago In N. Y.

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, July 18. — Nearly two decades ago Erno Rapee, after pounding the sidewalks of New York looking for a job, began pounding the ivories in an East Side cafe.

Today, he is the man-behind-the-men-before-the-mike. Hour by hour, day after day, he maps the musical menu of listening millions as music director of NBC.

Rapee is 40 and not very prepossessing in appearance. Short, with mild, bespectacled brown eyes, he wouldn't be picked out of a crowd as the dynamic director who has handled, in his time, more than 8000 musicians. Handled them, too, with a lash on his baton — driven them through interminable hours of rehearsals until they were tone-perfect.

Ask Roxy. The New York theatrical impresario, S. L. Rothafel — who was the first to bring great music to the movies — gives full credit to the little conductor who for 13 years gave melodic expression to Roxy's showmanship.

Just swinging into his new duties at NBC, and working late (if not too early) to score the organization detail into his own smoothly-running composition, Rapee still has time to talk.

Fans Demand Improvement

"First," said he, "let me tell you that there are to be no innovations—only improvements. After all, it is the public, not I or any other individual, who makes the programs.

"Music—radio music — must be better. This demand comes, not from broadcasting officials or sponsors, but from the listeners themselves.

"We must build and keep together strong orchestral units. The public knows when an orchestra is inadequate.

"The day is past when you could keep 'em tuned in with a string trio. They want well-rounded, balanced combinations. The modern microphone is so sensitive, and transmission so perfect, that bad performance no longer can pass as static.

"There is a very definite trend of perference, Rapee declares, toward classical music. Then he corrects himself hastily.

"I should say, instead, toward the better class of music, for many fine things are being done in the so-called popular manner.

"I used to be very orthodox in my tastes. I was a nut on Wagner. But now I am a liberal.

Melody on Top, Now

"This, however, I do know—that rhythm is giving way to melody. The one is transient in the public taste; the other lives in its memory. Music shouldn't aim at dancing feet, or try to crash the eardrums. It should hit 'em under the fourth rib on the left side. Then they'll remember.

Erno Rapee ought to know. Do you remember "Charmaine," "Diane" and "Angela Mia"? He wrote them, and many another song for talkie triumphs. Hollwood and Germany both have borrowed him for the difficult task of adapting, synchronizing, scoring and composing music for the movies.

And he's going to go right on composing, he says. What? Well, songs that the millions can sing and that the millions can hear through their loudspeakers. Rapee isn't interested in lyrics. Excerpts from the Congressional Record would be all right with him if they were set to good, heart-appealing melodies.

"To me," he continues, "it is still an uncanny achievement of radio that it can so effectively twang the heartstrings. Speaking of strings, you will notice that more and more stringed instruments are being used. The piano, for instance—it is my instrument, you know—will be played more often, and better, in the future.

"The dearth of piano music on the networks has been, I believe, a very natural rebound from the earlier days when it was so terribly overdone—when stations hired musicians from the corner movie to fill in during blank periods."

A Genius at the Piano

Rapee himself doesn't play the piano now. At least, he doesn't have time to practice, or to play professionally. But there was a time when he was a prodigy of the keys.

In 1907, in his native Budapest, he was graduated from the conservatory with the highest honors. He became, in turn, the pianist with the philharmonic orchestras of Vienna, Berlin and Budapest. He was appointed assistant conductor of the Dresden orchestra. Then he toured South America.

But New York didn't know Rapee, or want him either, when he landed in Manhattan in his early 20's. Finally a second-rate cafe gave him a chance to play for his meals. In rapid succession he went from the orchestra pits of various theaters.

Then came the rise of Roxy, and Rapee found himself the music maestro of the movies. He built and directed the internationally known symphony orchestra which bears Roxy's name. He left it to go to the National Broadcasting Company.

Rapee was married back in those precarious early days in New York. Now there are two sons—Bob, 17, and George, 16. The elder tinkers with a saxophone and a motorcycle, the younger with a clarinet.

Their father is sure that neither ever will be a musician.

Lawyer, Sportsman and Wood-Carver Is Alvan Macauley, Packard Chief

Lifted Himself To High Position By Own Bootstraps

BY JAMES F. DONAHUE
NEA Service Writer

DETROIT, July 18. — A square, sun-tanned jaw, aggressively shoved forward from a square set of shoulders marks Alvan Macauley, president of Packard Motor Car Company, as a man who lifted himself by his own bootstraps to a commanding postion in the automotive field.

Macauley is the vigorous type of executive. The suns of Florida, Michigan and New York golf courses have given him a healthy color. He is always clean shaven. His walk is a snappy stride, and a youthful and jaunty downward flip of his hat belies his 59 years.

But as life in the business world goes, he is an old man. He was born in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1872. His education was received at Lehigh and George Washington universities.

At 23 he became a patent attorney. His work was so well done that John H. Patterson, head of the National Cash Register Company, offered him a position as patent attorney for his company. Macauley accepted and soon worked into the manufacturing and developing end of the business. That was his first start as a manufacturer.

Higher In Figures

The Burroughs Adding Machine was getting under way at St. Louis about that time. Macauley couldn't see much difference in the keys of a cash register and the keys of an adding machine, so when he was offered a job with Burroughs he accepted. Shortly after he became general manager of the company.

Packard, looking around for new blood and brains, found in Macauley just what it sought. In 1910 "Mac" was seated in the general manager's chair and 1916 found him firmly anchored to the presidential desk.

Since he took over the leadership of Packard, that organization has more than doubled in size, wealth and importance.

Macauley has made a name for himself in the industry. He has been president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce for the last three years.

"Mac's life outside the office is simple. He is a golfing enthusiast. Incidentally, Alvan T. Fuller, former governor of Massachussets, R. B. Parker of Philadelphia, Lee L. Eastman of New York, and even Gene Sarazen, with whom Macauley sometimes plays, agree that he plays a good game.

Overlooking Lake St. Clair, in Grosse Pointe shores near here the auto magnate owns a fine Tudor country house, set in beautifully landscaped grounds. In it he is the perfect host who makes anyone, no matter what his station in life, feel comfortable immediately he steps over the threshold.

Here he indulges in three of his chief hobbies—his library, gun room and workshop. He gets a great kick out of wood-carving and works of his efforts in this art are to be seen all around his home.

He has a fine collection of guns gathered personally from all parts of the world, and he knows how to use them. He is a crack shot in the duck marshes near Toledo, they say.

Under Macauley, Packard has more than upheld its reputation gathered in the early days of motor cars. It has modernized itself to the extent that it has entered aviation with the manufacture of a Diesel type engine for airplanes.

The motor is Macauley's pride especially since it powered the Bellanca plane which recently won back for America the non-refueling endurance record. Its success promises further big pickings for Packard in the aviation industry.

Along Auto Row In Lubbock

Brief Bits Of News About Automobile Dealers, Sales And Activities Of The Industry In Local Circles

SALES PICK UP

Sales picked up rather smartly along Lubbock's auto row last week with the larger cars having a decided advantage. Perhaps this is another sign of returning prosperity—the sale of heavy passenger machines. Another sign might be found in the fact that used car sales are falling off while more new movements than usual are being recorded.

FISHING, BUSINESS GOOD

Hub Jones Chrysler house did a good business last week and Hub says it was because he was out of town on a vacation. Fishing was also good, he reports, along Colorado brooks. Five new Chryslers and four used machines drifted through the exit of the Hub Motor company. J. W. Blaylock of Littlefield purchased a new Six sedan. Another went to J. H. Grimsley of Lubbock. A Chrysler Six coupe was purchased by Buck Moss. T. S. Sales bought a deluxe Eight coupe and Dick White took out a Six sedan.

A shipment of new Chryslers last week included two of the free-wheeling styles which are to be sold at a slight increase in price. A gadget on the instrument board, as on the new Plymouth, controls the free-wheeling transmission, making it standard by the simple twist of the wrist.

NEW SALES MANAGER

R. S. Mays, former factory representative for the Chevrolet Motor company, has become sales manager for Kuykendall Chevrolet company here. It was announced late last week. Mr. Mays has made Lubbock his headquarters for several months but will move his family here from Denison soon to establish a permanent home. He has been affiliated with the Chevrolet company for six years as a factory representative in this district.

George Kuykendall, proprietor of the local Chevrolet shop, returned from a short tour of Oklahoma and North Texas late last week and reported good crops over that section but said business was no better, if as good, as in Lubbock.

A new Chevrolet coupe was delivered to W. B. Gates of Lubbock last week. Kuykendall Chevrolet Company moved five used jobs.

FOUR CARS SOLD

Scoggin-Dickey Oakland and Pontiac Company did a flourishing business last week, selling four new cars, including an Oakland Eight sedan, and three used machines. The Oakland went to E. A. Bills of Littlefield. L. W. Read purchased a new Pontiac sedan. H. F. Wood bought a new Pontiac coupe and a sport coupe went to George Wilson.

John Matthews, formerly a salesman for Scoggin-Dickey at Plainview, has been transferred to Lubbock.

SALESMAN HONORED

Mike W. Tipps, salesman for Ratliff-Rogers Buick Company, received a telegram from the home office of the Buick company congratulating him as the outstanding salesman of the Oklahoma City zone for the month of June. Tipps sold eighteen new and used machines for Ratliff-Rogers during the month. The Oklahoma City zone is comprised of the western portion of Arkansas, all of Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

Ratliff-Rogers delivered a new business coupe to George Combs last week and sold six used cars.

Tires Must Be Kept Inflated At All Times

Too Much Pressure Tends To Make Riding Uncomfortable While Too Little Results In Wearing Out Tires

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Sometimes there is a peculiar "feel" at the steering wheel that seems to warn the driver of something gone wrong.

The motor may be humming along in tip-top shape. Yet there it is, a sort of drag on the car, a feeling that the engine is pulling harder than usual.

The steering, too, seems more difficult and the wheel must be gripped tight to keep the car from swerving out of control.

Usually this is a sign of an under-inflated or flat tire in front. But sometimes, even with the front tires in good shape, this occurs. Then the cause may lie in the fact that the pitch, or toe-in, of the front wheels may be out of adjustment, enough to make control of the car difficult.

Pehaps even the caster, or slant, of the front axle may be off a degree or two, and the wheels may be shimmying as a result.

Tires, for easiest driving, should be kept inflated at the pressures designated by the car's manufacturer.

Too much pressure will cause susceptibility to hard knocks from irregularities in the road, and so make riding uncomfortable. Too little pressure makes riding easier, but causes difficult steering and renders the tires open to greater wear and tear.

The front wheels have to fulfill three important requirements in order to make driving easy and riding comfortable.

First, they must have a definite pitch or inward slope, so that the bottoms are from one to three inches closer than the tops.

Second, they must "toe in," or stand inwards horizontally as well as vertically, so that their forward edges are closer together than the rear.

Finally, the axle has to have a definite tilt or caster which prevents shimmying or wandering of the wheels.

If the pitch or toe-in of the front wheels are off just an inch, the tires will drag a mile sidewise in every 16 miles the car goes forward, engineers have calculated.

That's what causes not only undue wear on the tires, but that uncomfortable "feel" at the steering wheel, the kind that makes you think a heavy weight is dragging behind. In fact, steering is much more difficult.

Unequal pressure by the front brakes, or a sudden hard twist in turning a corner may upset the balance of the front wheels. A slight shock, a bump against a curb or over a rut, may be other causes for such trouble.

The bushings, pins or bearings in the wheels and steering system may be worn so as to cause the wheels to wobble or the steering to be uneven.

The remedy lies mostly in prevention: in keeping the entire steering system tightened up and in getting a monthly check on the pitch and toe-in of the front wheels, and the caster of the front axle.

Lamesa Starting A Municipal Zoo

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, July 18.—Lamesa has a start towards a municipal zoo with Mrs. A. C. Costin living near town presenting the city with an armadillo captured near her home on her farm.

Edgar Scott, custodian of the city park, has built a pen for the animal. He is now asking for other wild animals.

The armadillo made so much noise on the Costin farm at midnight that Mason Costin had to get up and capture him and pen him up before he quieted down enough to permit the family to sleep.

Which Is Your Favorite Hymn?

Trio Of Lubbock Pastors Agree On "Amazing Grace" As The Finest Church Song; Other Favorites Are Disclosed

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Hymns of the past centuries, those that found favor with our grandfathers, remain today as the best-loved of local ministers and congregations alike.

Modern methods in conducting worship choirs composed of trained voices, and the jazz-like songs usually sung during Sunday school periods have not affected the choice of congregational singing in Lubbock, it seems. Favorite hymns of seven pastors were revealed to be ages old.

Three Like Same Hymn

Three Lubbock ministers named "Amazing Grace" as their favorite hymn. The Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, mentioned several well-liked songs but, most of all, "Amazing Grace."

"Amazing Grace' stands out in my mind as one of the best hymns, with a world of meaning," said the Rev. J. O. Haines, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, chose this hymn, also.

Church congregations differ in times for being at their best in audience singing. Those in the First Methodist sing better in the morning, the pastor believes, while Rev. Campbell said that at the evening hour, when there is more time for singing, the church members seem to enter more into the spirit.

Faith Looks Up To Thee" and "C Higher Ground" are included in t songs which members of the Fi Christian church like the best, a cording to the pastor, Rev. Walt P. Jennings.

"Rock of Ages" song of past ag is the one best-liked by the Re Jennings.

"Our members are learning son from new books," said Rev. O. Baucom of the First Cumberlan Presbyterian church, "and inte sperse these with old ones."

"I can think of no bigger cha lenge than is presented in th words 'Must Jesus Bear the Cro Alone?'

Rev. Boyd P. Milburn choos "On Jordan's Stormy Banks Stand" and Rev. G. P. McCollo of the Asbury Methodist churc gives "A Charge to Keep I Hav as their favorite hymn.

Columbia University has begun survey to learn how the graying c lor in hair is affected by age, se and occupation.

What How Why
PLYMOUTH FLOATING POWER
THE WHOLE NATION WANTS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT IT

The revolutionary character of the New Plymouth has created a great flood of interest. Even the hardiest of skeptics are so amazed at this new four that performs like an eight that they ask eagerly for the facts behind this tremendous accomplishment.

What is Floating Power?
Floating Power is a term applied to the new and revolutionary principle of mounting the engine in the car frame, developed by Chrysler Motors engineers for the New Plymouth.

Just how is the engine mounted?
On two live-rubber mountings nearly an inch thick. These mountings are so placed that a line drawn through them passes through the center of gravity of the engine. Thus the engine is suspended in perfect balance.

What does Floating Power do?
The live-rubber mountings allow the engine to rock upon its natural axis as if in a cushioned cradle. Vibration is thus entirely eliminated from the car.

Why does Floating Power succeed when all other methods fail?
Because Chrysler Motors engineers have not tried merely to dampen vibration; they have achieved an entirely new principle which dissipates the motor impulses so that they never reach the body and frame.

Why and How is Power Increased?
Because the elimination of vibration allows higher compression, which gives greater horsepower without increasing cylinder size. Floating Power makes possible 56 brake-test horsepower and actual stop-watch speeds of 65 and 70 miles an hour, and pick-up from 0 to 40 miles in 9.7 seconds.

What else does Plymouth offer?
A score of things! Plymouth's Free Wheeling combines the advantages of the various types now in use. As a result, it permits Free Wheeling in all forward speeds, and it also may be completely locked out. The Easy-Shift transmission which enables you to shift, without clashing, from second into high and back into second, if you wish, at speeds up to 50 miles an hour. The new, double-drop frame for greater safety and roadability. New, eye-compelling beauty. Internal hydraulic brakes. Safety-Steel body.

You must see and drive the car to appreciate the phenomenal performance and value made possible by one of the greatest engineering developments the industry has ever seen.

he horse slowed down and shortly stopped, and to the street the brave lad dropped. "Gee! Are you hurt?" cried Scouty, as he leaped out to the ground. The lad looked up, still brave and bold and said, "Oh, no! I lost my hold." And then he jumped up to his feet and he was safe and sound.

The Travel Man then joined the bunch. Said he, "I have a happy hunch that this lad needs a fine reward for rescuing you boys." He gave the boy a bill or two and said, "I'm sure we all thank you!" The Tinymites broke in a cheer and made a heap of noise.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's skip. We're going to board a great big ship and sail for Honolulu. I will promise, when we reach that port, you'll have a lot of fun." They sailed before the day was done, and reached the town and soon the bunch were playing on a beach.

Lubbock Boy Scouts Win Majority Of Prizes At Camp In New Mexic

Hub City Lads Surpass Rival Organizations

Variety Of Contests Are Won By 44 Local Youths; Large Group From Many Cities In Competition On Outing

Lubbock Boy Scouts won a majority of group and individual awards at Camp We-hin-ah-pay in the Sacramento mountains of New Mexico, July 5 to 15.

Forty-four Lubbock, 22 Plainview, and nearly forty New Mexico scouts attended the ten-day encampment, which was under auspices of the Eastern New Mexico council. Minor Hoffman, executive of that council, was camp director.

Five Leaders Along

Five adult leaders, including D. T. Jennings, South Plains council executive, accompanied the Lubbock boys to camp. The local representation went in private automobiles and a bus. Lubbock scouts participated in two three-day mountain hikes, on which they were accompanied by a chuckwagon. The second group of hikers was composed of Lubbock boys only and was led by Jennings.

Lubbock won the field meet, table inspection, cabin inspection, and personal inspection awards, all baseball games which its team played, presented the best stunt at a town-night campfire program, and collected its share of individual prizes.

"Ike" Wins Pennant

Billie ("Ike") Crenshaw of Lubbock troop No. 4 received a pennant designating him as best all-round camper, the outstanding individual honor. He served through the ten-day period as assistant cook. The camp was divided with three cabins assigned each division of about 24 scouts and leaders. Lubbock scouts formed two divisions, members of troops No. 3 and No. 4 composing the Aztec division and of No. 6, No. 7 and No. 8 the Spac division.

W. O. Daniels and La Verne Manire were leader and assistant leader, respectively, of the Aztecs. Charles Brock led the Spacs. His assistants were R. L. Fletcher and James White.

Troop Six Cleanest

Troop No. 6 won the table-inspection pennant for maintaining the cleanest and neatest table, and a pennant for first place in cabin and personal inspection.

Charles ("Mike") Crenshaw brother of "Ike" and also a member of troop No. 4 received first in completing the finest leather project.

The afternoon of the last day in the mountain camp, the Spacs won the field meet. They also won the divisional song and yell contests.

Lubbock scouts placing in individual events were:

Billie Crenshaw third in archery; Clark Pollard and Elwood Chesley, both of troop No. 7, first and third, respectively, in hatchet-throw; R. C. ("Horsey") Douglas of troop No. 4 first in mountain-climb, and Littleton Cobb of troop No. 4 third in string-burning.

The Aztecs won first and the Spacs second in first aid. The Spacs captured first and the Aztecs second in general service signaling. The two Lubbock divisions tied for first place in semaphore signaling.

He Weds Medium After Seance

Romance which began about a year ago at a seance conducted by Mrs. Jane B. Coates, 59, of Washington, D. C., culminates in her marriage to Paul Warren DeLoe, 27, capital clerk. The young husband describes the nuptials as a "marriage to form a union of their souls." He declares his wife's psychic powers were not exerted in any way over him and that he considers himself a fortunate man to have married her.

Farmers Store Wheat Surplus

O'Donnell Banker Tells Of Activities Of Farmers In His Territory; Little Wheat Is Sold In Area

(By Staff Correspondent)

O'DONNELL, July 18.—Most of the wheat in O'Donnell's trade territory that ripened has been stored by farmers according to J. L. Shoemaker, jr., cashier of the First State bank.

"We received two cars of seed wheat last fall," Mr. Shoemaker said. "Most farmers planted it for grazing purposes, but a lot of them let it ripen. I think that we must have had 5,000 or 6,000 acres altogether.

"As far as I have heard there has been very little wheat sold here in town this year. No shipments have been made from town that I heard of.

"More wheat was sown last fall than ever before in the history of the county. Farmers using it for grazing found it to be a life saver."

Farmers are storing wheat on the farms, according to the banker. Some are holding for expected higher prices, others for seed and also some for feed for the winter.

E. G. Phipps, C. L. Tyler and A. R. Tyler had the largest averages, their wheat running around 20 bushels to the acre. All three men are in the same section of the county and had good rains.

For the most part, according to Mr. Shoemaker, averages on farms ranged from four or five bushels to as high as ten or twelve.

Destruction Of Garden By Drouth Spurs Woman Onward

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, July 18.—Destruction of her home garden by drouth did not deter Mrs. E. B. Carey of New Lynn, from trying to get enough canned fruit and vegetables for her own table for the winter.

"Mrs. Carey has made arrangements to go to another county and can fruit and vegetables on the shares," Miss El Fleda Harrison, county home demonstration agent says. "The drouth took her garden but she did not want to go without some canned fruit."

Magazines Meet "Depression Time"

Summer's Heat Causes Mental Laziness And Combines With Outings To Lure Reader From His Favorite Periodicals

Although magazines sales have decreased 30 per cent in Lubbock in the last six months, a decrease always occurs from April to October, a wholesale distributor here said this week.

Cooler weather is conducive to reading. Summer outings, outdoor sports, and mental sluggishness attributed to the heat are accompanied by a drop in sales of periodicals here and elsewhere, dealers said. Winter-time is reading-time for the average person.

City Passes Others

The bulk of the decrease in Lubbock is a seasonal variation, however, the distributor indicated. Lubbock magazine readers evidently have not stopped patronage of news stands and magazine racks to the extent prevalent in some Texas cities. San Angelo this month reported sales there were less than 25 per cent of normal for the same period last year.

Slick-paper magazines lead the pulps in sales in Lubbock, the distributor said. Slicks include the leading five-cent weeklies, the so-called quality group, most women's magazines, and true-story, moving picture, and other periodicals. Most western, detective, air, and allied magazines are called pulps because of the type paper on which they are printed.

Like "Westerns" Here

Western-story magazines continue to lead the pulp parade in Lubbock, with the more recent detective and gangster yarns second in popularity, the wholesaler reported. Love, confessions, and air stories, respectively, are the next best sellers.

Collier's is first in weekly sales, Liberty second, and Saturday Evening Post third in Lubbock. McCall's leads the Ladies Home Journal and Woman's Home Companion, which rank in the order named.

Women and girls buy most of the confession magazines, the Lubbock distributor said. Men are the principal source of income from periodicals of a sexy nature, other than the confessions, he said.

Strictly non-fiction magazines are popular with only a limited class. Cold weather or a fall rainy period will boost periodical sales, dealers agreed.

Reduction In Valuations In Terry County Is Seen

By Staff Correspondent

BROWNFIELD, July 18—Reduction in valuations, mostly personal property, will amount to a quarter of a million dollars in Terry county in 1931 according to Jay Barrett, county judge and chairman of the county commissioner's court. The court has just been sitting as a board of equalization to hear complaints on assessments.

"Our land values will remain about the same," Judge Barrett said. "Cows that were assessed at $20 per head will be assessed at $15. I think our valuations will decrease $250,000 this year.

Total valuation for the county is estimated at approximately $5,000,000.

Following applications for subsidies in building 3,000 miles of railways the Japanese government has stopped its aid on the ground that the lines now subsidized will care for the country's needs for several years.

What Will It Be Skipper....

Sail Or Steam?

AN OLD SEA CAPTAIN ONCE SAID "Any windjammer can ride out a storm with the hatches battened down and the sails clewed up; but it takes a steamship to ride out a dead calm."

Deflated market prices of all farm products have made a dead calm on the average farm home, and it is taking a good farm captain to bring the old farm home to Port.

Close observation of many farm homes of the south Plains, has brought the fact that South Plains Farmers are meeting this situation by living at home. Raising their own . . . . . MEAT, EGGS, POULTRY, CREAM, FEEDS, BUTTER, MILK, VEGETABLES, FRUITS and Etc., such a deversification by some of the better farmers is to be complimented, factors like these will no doubt in time make farming the most independent life in the world, and the Great South Plains the Garden spot of West Texas.
