AMAZING PLOT REVEALED BY OFFICERS

SELF-MUTILATION TO COLLECT DAMAGES BEING CHARGED

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Amazing charges of self-mutilation to collect damages for traffic accidents were made by District Attorney Buron Fitts today in an investigation of an alleged accident racket which he said cost insurance companies of the nation $1,000,000 a year.

Assembling evidence with a secretly-installed short wave radio, detectives arrested five Long Beach residents in connection with a local insurance case.

Five Are Charged

Harold Jenkins, 45, his wife, Alta, 42, and Elton Miner, 45, were booked on suspicion of grand theft. William Bone, 39, and Martin Biggs, 40, were held on suspicion of mayhem and suspicion of grand theft.

From a receiving radio set three blocks away from the home of Biggs and Bone, and from an under-cover informant, District Attorney's Investigator Charles E. Griffin said he learned these facts:

Shortly before a supposed accident last May 9, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins drove with the informant to a busy intersection, where Jenkins punctured a tire of his machine with an ice pick.

Radio Drowns Screams

Another car, occupied by Biggs and Bone, picked the trio up and all drove to the Biggs-Bone home. While a radio was turned on full blast to drown out all screams and moans, a blood-curdling scene followed.

Jenkins laid his arm on two blocks of wood and Biggs struck it in the middle with a rolling pin, fracturing the bone. Moving swiftly about his business, Biggs next took on the informer, flailing him on the body with the same rolling pin. A hypodermic needle was then jabbed in his arm, filled with blood.

Bill Davis, whose residence was raided by city and county officers Saturday morning, also was charged with liquor law violation in a complaint drawn by County Attorney Jess C. Levens. Davis's arrest had not been reported.

Bond Is Posted

Mrs. Edith Dickson, facing a similar charge, has posted $300 bond, said Deputy Sheriff Parum Posey. C. L. Dickens, charged with possession of liquor for sale, had not been released on bond, it was said.

Eugene Clark, 19-year-old Lubbock man who is serving a $100 fine assessed for drunkenness and who escaped from City jail the night of May 28, was re-arrested by Patrolmen Sid Carsway and C. C. Chase

PLAN TO TRAP BANDITS IS OUTLINED

ZONE SYSTEM IN FIVE SOUTHWEST STATES WILL BE USED

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 15.—Modernized Texas' state police today projected a coordinated zone blockade system in five southwestern states to trap criminals in interstate flights from the law.

"Coordination and cooperation will be the key to its effectiveness," said L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas highway patrol. "It will be well worthwhile if we can perfect it."

Cooperation Needed

Cooperation of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas with Texas would be needed, Phares explained, to coordinate efforts of local officers in the various states. Likewise, the new Texas department of public safety, parent of the highway patrol, would enlist aid of the hundreds of local Texas officers.

Without a precedent in the United States to guide him, Phares learned numerous pitfalls in highway blockading several years ago in the patrol's search for the notorious Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker. Lack of organization and cooperation, he said, spoiled attempts to capture the bandit pair through road blockades.

Rest On Rapid Action

Effectiveness of Phares' plan would rest primarily upon the rapid movement of police to strategic points, thus forming a double line of trained officers through which fugitives would have to pass.

MYSTERY AUTO DISCOVERED

CAR LOCATED BURIED IN MUD AND SILT NEAR ROSWELL

(By The Associated Press)

ROSWELL, N. M., June 15—A mystery automobile, half sunken in silt and mud at the bottom of a 125-foot lake north of here, lent impetus today to a search for the bodies of four mid-west tourists whose disappearance is still as enshrouded in darkness as on the day they were discovered missing more than a year ago.

State police, balked by darkness last night, renewed efforts at removing the machine today. It was discovered yesterday by E. P. Lane, a deep-water diver.

In Lake For Year

Lane could not tell whether there were bodies in the car. It apparently had been in the lake about a year, he said.

The new aspect of the search brought from Chief E. J. House, jr., of the state police the expression that possibly the car might contain the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, Illinois tourists.

Last seen at Vaughn, N. M., May 22, 1935, their disappearance has threatened to become another of the state's unsolved mysteries.

Body Of Drowning Victim Discovered

GALVESTON, June 15 (AP)—The body of Miss Adele Schroeder, one of three persons drowned in the gulf while bathing last night, was found on the beach here today.

A search for the bodies of B. C. McInnis and J. C. Moore continued.

TEXAS PLANS FOR CRIMINAL BLOCKADE

Landon Will Map Eastward Attack

PLAN OF BATTLE IN EMBRYO STAGE; LEADERS IN CAMPAIGN TO HOLD CONFERENCES TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., June 15 — Governor Alf M. Landon turned his thoughts today to an eastward attack in a campaign for the presidency.

The plan of battle remained in an embyro stage, pending councils today and tomorrow, but the Republican nominee was reported attracted by the idea of speaking in several large eastern cities, to precede a probable western tour.

Replies To Statement

John D. M. Hamilton, manager of the Landon campaign, was due here today from Chicago, where he replied to a critical statement by James A. Farley, the Democratic campaign general.

Expected tomorrow to round out the mode of attack are Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, the vice-presidential nominee, and the sub-committee in charge of campaign strategy.

A quiet Sunday, his first day of relaxation since he won the nomination, left Landon refreshed today for the task he set himself — wading into a fighting campaign with a willingness to go anywhere it might take him.

First By Hamilton

Authoritative sources indicated today the first speeches would be made by Hamilton, then Knox, with Landon swinging in for the final salvos about August 15, after giving largely of his time to a special session of the Kansas legislature in July.

Hamilton announced an office would be established in Chicago and that he expected to be there "about 60 per cent of the time." All executives of the various campaign divisions, he said, will be appointed and functioning by July 1.

Would Extend Tour

If the eastern tour materializes it was said, Landon would not limit it to the Pennsylvania and Ohio districts he knew as a boy but would include such centers as New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

The Governor and Mrs. Landon enjoyed a typical Sunday, at church and at home. His new role was reflected, however, in a larger number of handshakers and well-wishers, and in the pastor's specific mention of "the great honor shared by all of us in the selection of the governor of Kansas to become the Republican candidate for president of the United States."

GRAND OLD LADY OF OPERA PRAYS FOR MORE YEARS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 15 (AP) — Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, beloved for half a century as a grand opera and concert singer, on the eve of her 75th birthday today is looking forward to a new career, in the movies.

"I no longer have to be the great opera singer," she said. "They are going to let me be my own, mischievous self in pictures, just like I am at home."

Has Family Dinner

She was her "own, mischievous self" as she celebrated her birthday with a family dinner in her home here yesterday, her sons and daughters and their children about her.

She laughed happily and she wept a little, too, remembering the two sons who died in the World war, one of them wearing a German uniform.

"It is almost my happiest birthday," she said "with all my children about me. Yes, I mean all, because my sons I lost on the battlefield are with me always."

Prays For Life

She would like another twenty years in which to make people laugh as a motion picture comedienne, she said recently.

"Still, I pray the good God to give me four or five more years and with that I will be satisfied. It is long enough to do a little bit of good, anyway.

"I have so much sunshine to give and I know I can make people laugh and be happy."

She played a small part in a picture last year and two producers urged a contract upon her. A major studio is preparing a story for her.

A charge of assault to murder was filed in justice court against her. Sanders was taken to a hospital where it was said he had an even chance for recovery. A bullet from a small-calibre pistol entered the left side of the abdomen coursing downward and causing six interstinal perforations.

A witness to the shooting, A. J. Davis, of Pineville, La., in a statement to Esco Walter, county attorney, said Mrs. Sanders had earlier warned her husband, "if you buy any whisky today I'll shoot you." OPEN SESSION SLATED FOR TOMORROW

ARGUMENTS BOTH FOR AND AGAINST PLAN TO BE HEARD

City commission Tuesday afternoon will hear Lubbock citizens on the question of installation of parking meters in the downtown heart of the City.

The meeting, set for 1:30 o'clock, was announced this morning by Mayor Ross Edwards after E. J. Parsons, Morris Levine, and A. H. Maas, and others had asked for the hearing. The three men, operators of department stores, are opposed to the meters.

All Persons Invited

Mayor Edwards invited all interested persons to attend.

"We don't care whether they're for or against the meters; we want the citizenship to express itself," the mayor said.

"The City commission," he continued, "is not trying to put anything over on anyone; we're trying to help. We are responding to a constant request from merchants and citizens for relief in this congested area.

Open To Suggestions

"The idea of the commission was to place these 350 meters in the most congested area for a trial, but if the citizenship feels that the project is not worth even a trial, we are open to suggestions for a better proposition."

Although the commission has not designated the area in which the meters are planned, the section being considered was made known Monday.

Installation of the equipment has been suggested for the following area:

Area Is Mapped

Main street — Texas to Avenue J, and from Avenue H to Texas on the north side of the street only.

Broadway — Texas to Avenue L. Avenue J — Main street to Thirteenth street.

Texas — Main street to Thirteenth street, on the west side of the street only from Main street to Broadway.

As indicated in the foregoing designations, no meters will be placed on sides of Texas avenue and Main street adjacent to the courthouse square.

Reign Of Terror In Nazi Germany

CAMPAIGN OF MURDER AND THREATS AGAINST HIGH OFFICIALS OF GOVERNMENT RUMORED

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, June 15—Vengeful terrorism by followers of Captain Ernst Roehm was reported sweeping Nazi Germany today.

The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Paris-Soir said a campaign of murder and threats against high officials was being conducted by brownshirt adherents of Captain Roehm, slain in the Nazi "blood purge" of June, 1934.

The dispatch reported formation of a "Roehm racher (revenge Roehm) organization which has sent warnings to even Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

The bodies of members of the SS (Schutzstaffel) and SA (storm troops) have been found in isolated spots with the avenging "RR" initials scrawled on their chests.

(Nazi officials derided the report, declaring any threat against the chancellor was "nonsense."

(A spokesman for the propaganda ministry denied the existence of the "Roehm organization" and added "there never will be any."

(The source of the correspondent's dispatch, the spokesman said, "was a book called 'I Can No Longer Keep Still' published in Switzerland by a German immigrant.")

Twenty thousand of Roehm's followers swore to avenge their leader's death when he was shot in the "purge," the correspondent asserted, and this pledge is being carried to culmination by the "RR."

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR FLORISTS AND NURSERIES OF LUBBOCK JUST ENDING AND SUMMER BUSINESS TO BE NORMAL

Most prosperous year that Lubbock nurseries and florists have seen has just closed and the industries are settling down to normal summer business, in anticipation of a resumption of landscape business next December.

Meantime, florists are reporting an increase in the purchase of flowers over last year and a steady increase along that line.

Four Florists In City

There are four florists in Lubbock; two of them devote their business almost exclusively to flowers and the other two combine flowers with nursery business.

EDITOR'S NOTE

This is another of a series of articles appearing in Monday afternoon editions of the Lubbock Evening Journal and dealing with various phases of business here.

The articles are being written by members of the Journal staff following surveys of the various businesses covered.

Lubbock florists are connected with the telegraph delivery service, enabling Lubbock residents to send messages to almost any town in the country for a delivery there of fresh cut flowers.

During the spring and early summer, the two concerns that have nurseries, did a heavy business in the setting out of trees, shrubs, potted plants, rose bushes and other kinds of shrubs.

Many housewives this year added a rose garden, or enlarged their

CASH TO FLOW INTO TRADE CHANNELS

LONG STRUGGLE OVER COMPENSATION ENDS FOR VETS TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15. —The bonus was paid today to veterans of the World war.

The fruit of a 17-year struggle over various forms of adjusted compensation, "baby" bonds worth almost $1,650,000,000 moved through the mail to some 3,000,000 ex-service men. When the work is completed 38,000,000 bonds will have been sent out.

Millions Will Flow

Government experts said that by the end of the week millions of dollars in cash would be in the hands of those men who seek immediately to swap the bonds for government checks—and the cash then will flow into the trade channels.

At 45,000 postoffices workers prepared to accommodate those who are eager to get cash.

Special offices have been set up in many cities for certifying the bonds after veterans have been identified to postal workers. Here, the veteran will trade his bonds for a temporary receipt. The bonds will then be sent to the nearest of 248 paying postoffices and checks will be written.

Arrangements Made

No veteran will need to leave his home town to cash his bonds, officials said. Each local postmaster has made arrangements to identify veterans, certify bonds, and forward them to paying offices where the checks will be written.

Business observers watched expectantly to see what effect the sudden burst of cash would have on general trade at a time when business normally hits a downswing.

President Roosevelt has urged cooperation in the cashing of federal checks in order that the flow of cash into trade may start "without unnecessary delay."

SWEEPING RELIEF PLAN IS OFFERED

LOS ANGELES, June 15 (AP)—A sweeping plan for unemployment relief—general wage increases of $8 weekly and a 36-hour week—was offered employers of the nation today by George A. Hormel, Austin, Minn., packing company head.

"This plan would mean the addition of $280,000,000 in the country's circulating money," he told a group of manufacturers in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"The extra spending of $280,000,000 weekly would create enough jobs to put 10 million of the unemployed back to work within six months."

Hormel announced he would ask employers throughout the country to sign a voluntary agreement for the boost in wages and reduction in workin hours, but he disclaimed any intent of making a tour in his proposal's behalf.

Forty-six automobile mishaps were reported by police in the 60-day period following April 10, when Police Chief H. L. Johnston initiated a safety campaign, records show.

There had been 345 such accidents in the two-year period preceding, research revealed.

Total damage for the 60-day period was estimated at $1,734, an average of $37.93, figuring in medical attention and other cost factors.

In the past 60 days tickets for traffic law violations totaled 3,474, a large number of which were not paid, however, because of those arrested claiming residence outside Lubbock or pleading logical excuse.

"Excuses had to be good, though," said the police chief.

In recent months, exports of German champagne have increased considerably, with Great Britain being the most important market.

A SUGGESTION
At mealtime, try Camels yourself and see why smokers say
"For Digestion's sake—smoke Camels"

Science confirms the truth of the popular phrase "For Digestion's Sake ...Smoke Camels"

Scientists have found that Camels promote well-being by stimulating the flow of the digestive fluids ...alkaline digestive fluids...necessary for good digestion. Often fatigue, worry, excitement, nervousness—all interfere with this digestive flow. Camels restore and increase it, thus assisting digestion to proceed normally and healthfully.

With their finer, costlier tobaccos, Camels give mildness a new meaning. They do not get on your nerves or rasp your throat. Make Camels your smoke—for their cheery "lift"... for digestion's sake. Camels set you right.

Edmisson Captures City Open By 1-Up Victory Over Bradshaw On Sunday

Thirty-Seven Holes Are Needed To Turn Trick In Play Here

CHAMPION RALLIES SHARPLY TO OVERCOME A TWO-DOWN DEFICIT AND SQUARE MATCH ON HOME GREEN; HE COPS WITH A BIRDIE

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Journal Sports Editor

Rallying sharply, and with the spirit of a true champion, to overcome a two-down deficit and square the 36-hole match on the home green, John H. Edmisson yesterday wielded a wicked putter on the 37th and calmly mounted Lubbock's golf throne.

Topping a nifty cast of 15 other championship flight also-rans was J. K. Bradshaw, young professional golfer who carried the torch for Meadowbrook yesterday in the finals of the City Open against his arch-rival at Country Club. It was a heart-breaking defeat for Bradshaw, the defending champion, who won the title last year by defeating the same John Edmisson in a thrilling 40-hole finale at Meadowbrook.

His heavy-headed driver and his thin putting blade letting him down when he needed them most, Bradshaw gave a brilliant demonstration of pressure golf—until the pressure became all but unbearable. He, too, staged a great rally, coming from behind as the afternoon round started to gain the advantage and hold it until the very last scheduled green.

Into Extra Innings

So they went into extra innings, which is coming to be a habit with them, and a birdie 4 on the 515-yard No. 1, was just too much pressure for even a strong-hearted fellow like Bradshaw, after Edmisson had borne down with the equivalent to a wrestler's Japanese crab on the 35th green.

Thus Edmisson not only added a beautiful gold trophy to his already crowded mantel; he won the "rubber" match from Bradshaw, which gave him probably as much pleasure as copping the championship. For Bradshaw and Edmisson, firm friends off the links, were clashing in the City Open final for the third time since 1932. That year Edmisson defeated Bradshaw. They fought it out last year, and J. K. won.

Were Favored Again

From the start, they were favored again this year, although they needed to pull out of severe holes in preliminary matches. They brought almost the same price in the Calcutta, Bradshaw slightly higher. They played a match yesterday that was worthy of being the championship round.

Finals in other divisions of the tournament resulted in favor of favorites in nearly every instance, the matches producing everything from a hole-in-one to tens and elevens.

The ace went to Windy Watkins, who played Jack Butler in the final for the third flight championship, winning 6 and 5.

Watkins scored his ace on the No. 3 green, the third to be registered there this year. His iron shot from the tee soared high and true, rolled onto the green and caressed the pin. When the marker was removed, the ball had nothing to do but fall into the cup.

Farmer Wins Consolation

Winner of the championship consolation was J. R. Farmer, virtually a newcomer to Lubbock golf but with a reputation for sand greens established at Amarillo. Farmer, who gave up fighting in the first round of the championships, waded through the consolation and defeated Weldon Counts, Country club caddy, 3 and 6 yesterday. Farmer won two matches yesterday, his semi-final with Joe Bihl having ended at dark Saturday when they were all square on the 18th. He defeated Bihl, 1 up, on the 19th hole yesterday morning, then moved to Country club to take out Counts.

Hugh Anderson took first flight honors, defeating Garland Allen, 2 and 1, in their final yesterday. Anderson, who looms as one of Meadowbrook's star players, shot golf close to par all through the tournament.

First flight consolation winner was E. B. Wheelock, who won his finale from Amos Howard, 6 and 5.

Trammell Is Victor

Jack Trammell, Meadowbrook youngster, was second flight winner, taking out Harold Crites, 4 and 2, in the final. Otis Felty won consolations, beating W. Edelman, 3 and 2.

Watkins' hole-in-one helped win the third flight honors, and Guy McAfee took consolations, winning by default from Winston Bumpass.

Ed Hambright sailed through the fourth flight, taking out J. E. George in the finals, 2 and 1. John Collier Parris defeated Jack Goodgion, 3 and 2, in the consolations.

Harking back to the championship finale, a 37-hole match that kept a gallery of nearly 300 on edge from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.:

Recoveries Are Good

Their medal golf, Edmisson's and Bradshaw's, was nothing to claim kingly niches in the world's hall of fame, but their competitive spirits and their nerve-tingling recovery shots were something grand.

The cards:

Morning round:

Par out	543	454	434	—36.
Edmisson out	534	454	433	—35.
Bradshaw out	454	453	534	—37.
Par in	445	534	443	—36—72.
Edmisson in	346	534	444	—36—71.
Bradshaw in	446	534	443	—37—74.

Afternoon round:

Edmisson out	644	453	544	—39.
Bradshaw out	444	343	544	—35.
Edmisson in	446	434	443	—36—75.
Bradshaw in	355	435	444	—37—72.

Extra hole: Edmisson 4, Bradshaw 5; totals, Edmisson 150, Bradshaw 151.

Starting out Sunday morning, they swapped the lead on the first two holes, and halved the next three, swapped out again, halved the 8th and Edmisson was one up at the quarter-turn with a birdie and a 35. He went two up at the 10th, and they halved the next three. Edmisson's shot to the short 14th was nudging the pin, almost, for a sure birdie 2, Bradshaw needing a three. Kay's par on the 18th, however, beat Edmisson's 4, and that was where the Bradshaw boy started his comeback, two down at lunch time.

He Came Back Hot

Bradshaw came back hot, cut his deficit to one hole with a birdie on the first, Edmisson needing a bogey 6. They halved a couple, and Kay's birdie on No. 4 flattened the match.

Edmisson's drive sliced out of bounds on the 5th, but he finished with a par, Bradshaw going one up with a birdie. They halved the rest of them on the front side, but Bradshaw's three victory holes had changed the complexion of things.

Starting the last quarter, Edmisson topped his approach from the rough. Bradshaw was in the road, lay back and got on neatly for a birdie, Edmisson needing a par 4. He was two down. He made a fine recovery from the rough to win No. 11, or the 29th hole, but gave up to a conceded par on the next one, blasting one out of bounds.

Ran Down For Birds

They played the 430-yard No. 13 beautifully, Edmisson placing a long fairway shot on the green with his third, Bradshaw coming out of the rough after a sliced brassie to lie alongside. Both ran down their putts for birds. They halved the

CHICAGO CUBS RIDING HIGH ON POWER

BIG QUESTION FACES CLUB; CAN THEY KEEP IT UP?

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

When batting might hooks up with pitching strength on the same baseball combination, fireworks are the general result.

That's the answer to the current pell-mell parade of those climbing Chicago Cubs, now riding high, wide and handsome on top of an 11-game winning streak, longest run in the big leagues this season.

Big Question Mark

The big question mark now is: Can they continue, away from Wrigley field, as they've done at home? They start the eastern swing tomorrow, and thereby probably hangs their hope for catching up with the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals by July 4.

The long successful home stand ended yesterday with Frank Demaree's two homers accounting for all the runs as the Boston Bees fell 3-2 and Lon Warneke chalked up his third win of the victory streak, his second straight seven-hitter in five days.

The triumph, however, didn't cut down the St. Louis 3 1-2 game lead even a fraction. The gas house gang hooked up in a wild slugging spree with the Phillies and came out on top 12-10, as Dizzy Dean, going to work with only 24 hours rest, went in as a relief pitcher to end the game.

The two leaders pulled away from the third place Pirates, as the New York Giants snapped their own five-game losing streak and the Bucs' seven-straight winning run at the same time, with Hal Schumacher turning in a five-hit performance for an 8-0 edge. Winding up the league program, the Cincinnati Reds climbed to a .500 average for the campaign by trimming the Dodgers, 5-1, on the strength of Lee Stine's four-hit hurling job.

With the Yanks-Tigers and St. Louis-Boston battles rained out, the American league saw the Athletics knock the Indians into fourth place with an 8-6 victory, advancing Detroit to third, while Vernon Kennedy's tight pitching gave the White Sox a 6-4 margin over the Senators.

The big shots, the hotshots, of golf may cop more and better prizes and attract larger galleries, may create more suspense—but it is very doubtful indeed if they have more fun, get a louder bang, than us duffers of the second, third and fourth flights. We know for a fact they don't have to work as hard, so they couldn't appreciate a fine shot as much. Why, even the left handers.

EVEN the left handers? Hah, there's one in this town that would command the respect and admiration of Old John King himself. And Windy Watkins got more wallop out of that hole-in-one than John Edmisson or any of his hot-shot pals could ever get out of winning half a dozen tournament championships in a row, and the three sparring partners in the Watkins foursome at the time knew no greater thrill.

The hat's off to Edmisson for pulling out of the hole and winning the City Open yesterday, and it stays off for the rest of the summer to Watkins for that ace. Everybody was excited but his opponent, Jack Butler, who then calmly teed off with, "Well, guess you'll halve this hole with me."

It was our good fortune to be in that foursome, so Windy has official recommendation for membership in the hole-in-one club. Jack Goodgion, with whom we were bumping along in the roughs in another tournament match, and Butler were the other spectators. We had heard and read a lot about holes in one, but that was the first time we were on the premises when it happened.

MOVE OVER, BIG SHOTS!

Yep, the duffers get a lot of kick out of their games. They don't cut much ice in a public way, which is okay with them, but they're the guys who keep golf going, and they doubtless live longer and happier lives than the boys who attract the galleries. There's less tension and pressure, and larger vocabularies.

Some of the local duffers, however, are about to desert the ranks. They're getting pretty hard to get along with, and championship flights in local City Opens before long will see the "old guard" still further diminished. There were at least six new names in the late but not lamented City Open, men and boys who have come up in the last year or so. Glen Hall, J. R. Farmer, Rufus Bradshaw, Weldon Counts, Bob Hale, and, of course, the medalist, Ralph Trolinger. They crowded some of the old folks back into lesser flights, discouraged some of them from even qualifying.

There was some fine golf, some par golf, in the first and second flights. Hugh Anderson, who has been puttering around at Meadowbrook for a year or so; C. J. Quinlan, another who escaped notice until the recent Meadowbrook championship tournament; E. B. Wheelock, Herb Miller, Ernest Dowell, Garland Allen, Amos Howard, J. D. Hinson, and others are making rapid progress. Quinlan and Anderson may be the most improved golfers in town. They, with others named, are due to make it tough for the old guard before many more tournament hulls drop in the creek.

This, of course, is not intended to scare the Edmissons, Slaughters, Bryant Bradshaws, etc., off the course or to cause them to throw away their clubs. They've got some good golf left. Edmisson, one of the coolest players you ever saw, need not be discouraged for a year or so. Slaughter is to be commended for making a definite comeback this summer. Bays Bryant, Don Mitchell and Ted Tipps also are hitting the ball again after playing around for a couple of years. Others are getting back on the track rapidly.

ONE COURSE AT A TIME

One big fault in the City Open tournament no doubt will be rectified beginning next year. This business of dividing time between the local courses is quite the nerts. The suggestion has been made years since, and listened to by some officials, that the tournament be played on one course one year and on the other the next.

With grass greens going in at Country club, this will just about have to be the cast next year. Officials of the clubs no doubt will get together and flip for it next year, and swap it about thenceforth. There's confusion and unfairness in having the field qualify at one course, play the first round at the other, come back to the starting point for the quarter and semi-finals, then move back across the road for the finals.

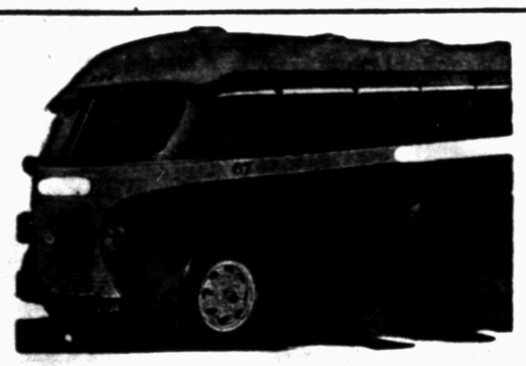

The process no doubt was thought up as a means of giving players of each club chances on their home courses, and at the same time allow each club a part in the tournament. But the entry field should not be decreased if all the tournament were played on the same course.

And while on that line of thought, this village could do very well with a third golf course, a grass greens public course that some smart lad is going to put in if there isn't a waking and shaking up of Meadowbrook and a smoothing out at Country club.

SHIPPERS ARE CLIMBING UP ON STEERS

MURDERERS' ROW NOT IN ACTION; DALLAS DROPS A COUPLE

(By The Associated Press)

The Dallas Steers, who were winning games with such regularity several weeks ago that it appeared they would run away with the Texas league bunting, were holding for dear life to their lead over the other clubs today.

The mauling Mavericks — the appellation, it seems, has lost its significance of late — have dropped three games in a row as Beaumont's fast-stepping Exporters, who are burning up the league, have won as many consecutive games.

Are Dropped Twice

Beaumont dropped the Steers twice yesterday, 3 to 1, and 7 to 6, to cut the Dallas nine's advantage over them to but two games.

The murderers' row of Dallas was putty in the hands of "Slick" Coffman of the Shippers in the first game. Coffman allowed but four hits as Beaumont collected 11 off Sal Ghatto, a Dallas mainstay.

In the second game the Steers were coasting along with a five-run lead in the final inning when Beaumont broke loose with a vicious barrage that netted them six runs and the margin of victory.

Buffs Bumped Around

The luckless Houston Buffs, bumped about roughly since they were dislodged from their place at the top of the league some weeks ago, dropped the series opener to Oklahoma City's Indians, 3 to 2, and were thereby pushed into fifth place — out of the first division. Dick Whitworth held the Buffs to six blows.

Fort Worth took San Antonio into camp, 7 to 4, with the aid of three doubles, a triple and three San Antonio errors.

Galveston's Buccaneers made more runs than they had in any single game this year when they scored 10 to Tulsa's 6. The Pirates enjoyed a 13-hit rampage.

DON SCHUMACHER, SHUFFLING ABOUT COURSE ON TIRED DOGGIES, IS A POPULAR CHAMP

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, June 15—This, briefly, concerns the tale of two rather large feet . . . Two pedal extremities that plodded a long, rocky road before they planted themselves in the velvet.

Golf experts tell you it takes large feet to be a championship player . . . Don Schumacher, stubby, care-free Dallas youngster, qualifies . . . you might say—in a big way . . . For years he has shuffled over many courses, grinning while his friends chided him about the length and breadth of his feet.

Buries His Opponent

Don, as Texas' new amateur golf champion, cares little about the chiding today . . . Limping around on feet that ached after being punished in the broiling sun by a new pair of shoes, Schumacher buried Bill Skeeters, former S. M. U. grid star, 8 and 6, in the finals Saturday at San Antonio.

Back in 1932 Don started attracting attention by breezing to the finals of the state junior tournament . . . It wasn't quite his time, however, and he lost the title to Jack Lee of Orange.

In 1933 Don played one of the greatest tourney matches on record in Texas golf . . . He bumped in exactly eight birdies in a semi-finals match with freckled Halbert Grumbles in the same junior joust — and lost on the third extra hole . . . Next year the tournament was his, however, and he's been hot after the senior title since.

Popular Champion

Only 20, Don is a popular champion . . . well liked by everyone . . . and a golfer the pros say "swings just like Bob Jones" . . . The boy with the big feet has arrived . . . In fact, he arrived with the gallery at the state tourney even before match play had started . . . After a par 72 in the qualifying round, Don hastily jerked off his new shoes at the home green and walked leisurely to the clubhouse barefooted.

Yanks Keeping The Accent Upon Power

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—To keep the accent on power in their drive down the pennant stretch, the Yankees are giving up Ben Chapman, batting disappointment of the lineup, for Alvin (Jake) Powell, the Washington Senators' fly-chaser.

Getting under the trading deadline by a day, the Yanks announced the deal yesterday as a straight player swap, figuring Powell's heavier hitting and base stealing prowess will more than make up for Chapman's throwing arm and speed.

The Cards did some player business, too, on the eve of the June 15 deadline for trades, obtaining Arthur Garibaldi, heavy-hitting, base-stealing Coast league infield star, from their Sacramento farm. He reports at once, possibly giving the Cards a chance to shift Pepper Martin back to the outfield again.

BEWARE!

YOU NEED THIS BLOW-OUT PROTECTION . . .

only Goodrich Silvertowns have the Life-Saver Golden Ply

THE yearly toll of injuries and deaths due to blow-outs runs into the thousands. And here's why. Today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A tiny blister forms and grows bigger and BIGGER until, sooner or later, BANG! A blow-out!

Since the earliest days of the automobile, The B. F. Goodrich Company has made many outstanding contributions to motoring safety. But the Goodrich development that means the most to you as you're driving along at 40-50-60 miles an hour is the Life-Saver Golden Ply, found only in Goodrich Silvertown Tires.

This amazing invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat the Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating. It keeps heat blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister, you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

Don't gamble! Life is too sweet to take chances on unsafe tires. Equip your car with a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with Life-Saver Golden Ply blow-out protection. Remember they cost not a penny more than other standard tires.

EASY TERMS

Buy Now—Pay Later! That's right. Here's a friendly credit plan that will let you equip your car with everything it needs—and you make your own terms. No red tape. No delay. Just ask for the Budget Dept.

Here's Another Great Tire Value

Goodrich, of course, builds tires to meet every need and pocketbook. And this sturdy, low-priced Goodrich Commander Tire, certified by America's oldest tire manufacturer, is plenty of proof that you don't need to risk buying nameless "bargain-builts" just to save money. If you want real honest mileage and wear at a low first cost, don't miss this real opportunity to get Commanders while prices are rock-bottom! Come in today.

"Your nerves are giving away on you, man", the famous specialist told his patient. "You've got to stop thinking about yourself and your troubles. You're going to have a complete breakdown if you don't simply bury yourself in your work!"

HERE it is Monday again and time for "flowers to the living" for another deserving citizen. This will be the last "flowers column" for a couple of weeks, since The Plainsman will be out of town for the next couple of Mondays. Hence, effort was made to choose a recipient unusually deserving.

Nominated as an outstanding "flowers" prospect by at least a score of people, today's selection was made because of the very definite contribution the man has made to Lubbock and the South Plains over the past 23 years and because:

His unfailing good humor makes him a person whose associates and many friends get from him an inspiration to be cheerful;

In good times and bad he has "stayed behind the gun", never letting down in his efforts to be a good citizen and a good friend;

Civic circles have found him an ever cheerful worker and generous contributor ever since the germ of civic pride took hold in Lubbock and through all the years it has blossomed into almost a religion;

A good churchman, he long has been a pillar of First Presbyterian church and has helped build the congregation from a handful to one of the city's major denominations;

He has so conducted his personal business that his competitors point to him as a hard-hitting but never-the-less fair and clean rival;

He looks upon his legion of friends in all walks of life almost the way he looks at members of his family and he feels a warm, personal interest in them, thus making his friendship a valuable possession;

He has contributed time, effort and money to the upbuilding of scores of local projects which, over the years, have helped boost Lubbock from a wide place in the road to its present position in the sun;

His tolerance is axiomatic and he abhors meanness in his dealings with his fellow men;

He is one of what we call "the best, all around men" in this section and has been ever since he came here;

And because he is dependable, constant, self-reliant, agreeable, honest and admirable in his daily walks of life, this week's "flowers to the living" go to that old war horse of the South Plains

THE two major political parties are battling with might and main for the nine million women's votes to be cast next November.

If you listened in on the Cleveland GOP convention you noticed how many women were permitted to yammer over the radio and saw the deference paid feminine delegates.

You'll notice the same thing while the Demos are in session in Philadelphia next week and you'll hear the Rooseveltians patting "the Chief" on the back for giving women several important posts never before held by persons of their sex.

Top flight politicians in both camps say no one controls a woman's vote — neither machine organization nor her husband.

That may be true of northern women but down here in the South, where the men still wear the pants, The Plainsman is of the opinion that most women vote as their husbands suggest.

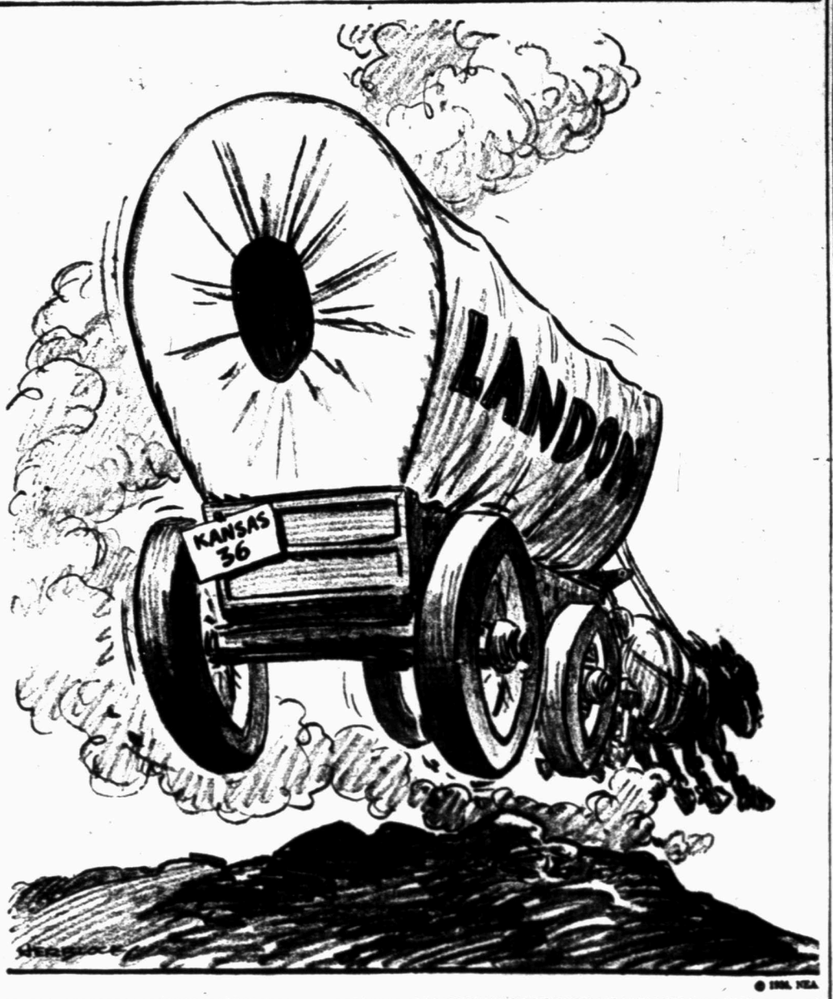

If that's the case, it's a break for the Democratic party, for it will get the double-vote in the South and still have an opportunity to steal part of the feminine vote in the Midwest and North.

BURNIE PHILLIPS has a swell idea. He says he's going to incorporate a company to sell "centennial souvenirs" in the form of slugs the size of a nickel, sell them for two for a nickel, explaining to purchasers that it will be very, very illegal to use them in Lubbock's forthcoming "parking slot machines."

Not a bad idea. That's tying two rackets together which should enable Burnie to kill two suckers with one rock!

George Cukor, Temperament Tamer, Has Won Respect Of Fiery Actresses And He's Directed Some "Tough Ones"

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 15—George Cukor has directed some reputedly difficult women in his time.

The late Jeanne Eagels was one. That was back in theater days, when she played in "Her Cardboard Love." Ethel Barrymore was another, in "The Constant Wife." His first screen assignment included Tallulah Bankhead, in "Tarnished Lady."

Along came Constance Bennett, and Hollywood wondered whether Cukor would be able to cope with her pyrotechnics. But there didn't seem to be any. After a few more pictures—"Dinner at Eight" among them—he directed Katharine Hepburn in "Little Women."

Pretty soon Cukor and Cantankerous Kate not only got along amicably enough professionally, but were great pals off the set.

He directed "David Copperfield," then "Romeo and Juliet." Of course, Norma Shearer isn't in any sense difficult, but it wasn't long before a tougher assignment loomed for Cukor. They asked him how he'd like to direct Greta Garbo in "Camille." He guessed that would be okay.

It's Simple

I dropped around to ask Mr. Cukor how he bosses temperamental actresses. Then I discovered that directors—Mr. Cukor, anyway—have quite an easy time of it.

Performers don't seem to get hoity-toity with bosses for whom they work every day. The directors, in turn, may not be much impressed by their players' offstage reputations for eccentricity.

Said Cukor: "All women stars are likely to be a little high-strung. They have had to fight to get where they are, and they have to fight to stay there. You must make allowances for that.

"You've got to work on a basis of mutual respect. When an actress knows you have her interests at heart—her interests being the betterment of the picture—you can't have much trouble. A director must have a sense of humor, and know when to use it and when to be something of a bully."

When a girl gets pompous and grand, a director's cue is to try to kid her out of it. If that doesn't work, he may bully her out of it.

Not Scared By Glamour

"The legends about certain stars don't mean a thing. They may dodge newspaper photographers and otherwise behave in temperamental ways, but they can't dodge their directors, and they must do their best real acting for the screen.

"When Miss Hepburn was making herself—ah — inaccessible to the press, people wanted to interview me about her, and I refused. I couldn't have said that she was glamorous, or mysterious, or enigmatic, or anything like that.

"Because to me she wasn't any of those things. I saw her every day, from 8:30 in the morning, in makeup and out, tired and full of spirits. I knew her as just a good workman."

Men Are More Vain!

Cukor likes to direct women. He believes they try harder than men. More surprising, he believes they have less vanity than men. In a profession which by its very nature is fundamentally exhibitionistic, he finds men putting on more studied little airs than women, and peeping oftener into mirrors.

He believes the only justification for a man in the movies is great talent. Women have a place in the show business if they're merely very beautiful.

When a woman is beautiful AND talented, she's a star. Or deserves stardom. Cukor says Hollywood is teeming with beauty and latent talent; regrets that not all of it can be trained.

He found Connie Bennett "helpful and completely charming." He doesn't expect to have the slightest difficulty with Miss Garbo. He never has directed the Swedish star, but they have dined together and are friends.

Cukor is sure there's not a trace of affection in her social shyness. Professionally, though, he doesn't care one way or the other. She's a good trouper.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

HISTORY AND PRESS AGENTRY

Paul Revere is quite something in the history of early America. It seems he did some fancy riding aboard a horse.

The horse, too, gets a bit of mention. Without that animal, it is more or less conceded, Paul could not have hit with such a splash the rhythmic verse of Longfellow.

Dr. W. C. Holden of Texas Technological college avers, however, there were two other fellows just, or almost, as deserving of mention on the memorable gallop as was Paul.

The fact they could not get their chins high enough to reach the printed page is ascribed by Dr. Holden to lack of press agentry. Matter of fact, Paul's horse got more play from the historians than they.

However that be, Frank Hill, of the Lynn County News of Tahoka, has determined a sectional lesson may be adduced from the foregoing. A charter member of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society, he soon will attempt in an article to prove there were at least 20 Indian engagements in the Panhandle as important as the little battle the army had with the redskins in Tule canyon.

A few historians and fewer general writers know of the significance of those engagements, says Hill. As for him, he will attempt the press agentry necessary to establish the right to comparative fame of those who ducked splashing lead and whizzing tomahawks in those barely recorded brushes.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

(Copyright, 1936 NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

CLEVELAND, June 15.—It is not in the nature of things, for the Democratic convention this year to be as screwy as the Republican.

The fight here over the constitutional amendment issue has been enough to prove that. Until the convention eve it was axiomatic in politics that the G. O. P. had a foolproof issue in its grim stand for preservation of the Constitution and the power of the U. S. Supreme court from New Deal tampering.

Every orator in the party beat his breast and declaimed that his life blood must be taken before anyone could cast snoots at those great institutions and get away with it. And this issue seemed a popular one.

Overnight the Republicans themselves changed all that. Talk of constitutional amendment buzzed through Cleveland hotels and bars. Republicans everywhere were making sour comments on the court, erstwhile sacred idol, because of the New York minimum wage law decision.

Landon's platform builders were found working on an amendment plank. Even conservative Herbert Hoover joined the cry for an amendment of a sort.

Borah, whose chest bears huge callouses from long years of public defense of the court, publicly asserted a belief that its majority members had been wrong. He and others took the stand that alteration of the court's complexion was necessary.

More And More Hooey

In short, it developed that what the Republicans thought about the Constitution and the court wasn't what they thought at all.

If it also seems fantastic, consider further the spectacle of a great political party about to nominate a presidential candidate who had failed to take any position on the outstanding, vital issues of the day.

And then proceed to analyze the real underlying facts behind the enormous ballyhoo, telegraphed out of Cleveland in millions of words, about the so-called "fight" over the nomination.

The only other candidate who could be logically nominated was Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who went on a long European trip just as the other candidates began to set bait and who made no secret of the fact that he believed the Republican nomination worthless until 1940.

Landon became the only possible answer if the party were to avoid a flagrant exhibition of boss rule.

If you believe that much to be true, you will have a hard time figuring out any good excuse for most of the local fuss.

Borah Pulls The Classic

Any medals offered for the quintessence of the grotesque, however, seem to be the property of Borah, the statesman.

On the night of May 28, as politicians waited with breath held, Borah told the world that he was not interested in party platforms, but in candidates.

On June 8, as his arrival in Cleveland marked one of the high spots of the convention and everyone again held breath, Borah solemnly assured the same world that he was not interested in candidates, but in the party platform.

Further food for thought, perhaps, is added by the innumerable Kansans here who have fought Landon for years. Only six years ago enough of them to bring about his defeat thought he wasn't the man for precinct committeeman. Those who licked him now sing "Suanna!" and proclaim the gifts which fit him to rule over us all as president.

It is easy for a newspaperman to cover a convention and interview the politicians. But sometimes it's all a bit difficult to understand.

The GLAMOROUS ADVENTURE

by Jean Sevwright

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, winner of the John S. Larne costume design prize, comes to New York to find work. Gail's parents are both dead. She has spent the past three years at MISS CRANSTON'S fashionable school for girls—due to Miss Cranston's generosity and friendship for Gail's mother.

Armed with a letter from Larne, Gail goes to his office and is told he is out of town. DEREK HARGREAVES, an artist, overhears this conversation and offers to help Gail. He advises her to go to MADAME LIZETTE'S shop to apply for a job.

Gail arrives there just after temperamental Madame Lizette has learned her designer has gone to Hollywood. Gail gets the job and goes to work next morning. Madame Lizette is a trying employer and at the end of the day Gail is discouraged. She forgets this when Derek calls to take her to dinner.

LUCILLE TRAVERS, snobbish classmate of Gail's, asks them to join her party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

Derek said insistently, "But it's perfectly all right with me—don't give it another thought!"

They were leaving the Russian restaurant after Gail had refused Lucille Travers' invitation to join her friends. The snake-like glance Lucille had turned on the other girl had not been lost upon Derek.

"Surely," he continued, "you know I'd rather be with you than with that Park avenue crowd."

"But I'm afraid I was rather selfish," Gail objected. "Lucille is frightfully rich. Perhaps if you'd met her friends it might have brought you some commissions for portraits."

"Do you think I'd sacrifice an hour with you for the sake of such a mercenary consideration? It seemed strange, though—I thought from the way Lucille greeted you that she must be one of your dearest friends. Of course if you'd wanted to go to her table I'd have been willing enough to go along. But there—let's forget all about it!"

As they reached the door Gail noticed the woman who had spoken to her the day before in the tearoom—the one who had urged her to see a certain exhibit of paintings. Gail was surprised when Derek acknowledged the woman's jerky little bow most courteously.

It was not until they were outside that he said, "Did you notice that rather unusual looking woman to whom I bowed as we left the restaurant?"

"Yes. Who is she?" Gail asked interestedly.

"Mrs. Morton, the widow of one of America's greatest financiers. She's tremendously rich and takes an interest in young painters, trying to get a start. Art's her hobby. In fact, it was the sale of a little water color to her that set my feet on the ladder. The fact that she bought it immediately made folk sit up, for she's considered quite a critic."

"How exciting!" said Gail. "But, believe it or not, she spoke to me yesterday!" Quickly she told Derek of their meeting.

"Well, you are having some lucky breaks, for if Mrs. Morton becomes interested in you or your work there isn't a thing she won't do for you."

"Oh, I may never meet her again. It isn't likely I'll be joining the social whirl. I'm afraid my work's going to take most of my time."

"Say, you're not going to make work the whole aim of your existence! I'm going to see to that, right now. How about a little trip

JOURNAL READERS EXPRESS THEIR VIEWS

WANTS "SPEED METERS"

Dear Plainsman: Referring to considerable comment on parking meters and having no idea as to either side but believing that some form of "speed meters" on certain highways in the city limits, such as north Avenue H, for instance is of far greater importance — is this submitted.

There are other sections probably as important but hardly as terrific through a school zone where cars passing at 60 to 75 miles per hour cause little children to stand at times for ten minutes to cross a small strip of pavement and then afraid to go and even more especially at this time of the centennial and local swimming pool rush. We dread disasters that seem momentarily imminent and trust that some more constant vigil may be installed.

Your reader friend.

FOR COMFORT STATION

Dear Plainsman: I am very much interested in what you wrote in your column in Wednesday's Evening Journal.

Just why can't Lubbock begin to have some "big town ways"?

"Back East" the large cities have public playgrounds, public comfort stations, and some of the department stores have moving pictures, any and every thing to entertain and accommodate visitors, and people who come to trade.

Last fall I talked with several Lubbock merchants in regard to a "combination rest room and nursery" as a "trade-getter" but none thought the idea practical. I am still of the opinion Lubbock does need a public comfort station which I hope we will have in the very near future.

Good luck to you in this new undertaking.

Yours for a more up-to-date town, or should I say city?

Mrs. J. D. Bynum,
1905 Dixie Drive.

AGAINST METERS

Dear Plainsman: Is Lubbock To Be Classed As A Could-Have-Been?

It is indeed not very hard for the minds of citizens of this town to remember a town just west of Fort Worth, that is one of those, because of its altruistic methods that will continue to be numbered among the could have been?

Lubbock has already received some very unfavorable advertisement in the Literary Digest, relative to "Green Pastures." It is already advertised to the public as the only city in the United States that would not permit this colored troup to show in its confines.

Now, the City commission is placing parking meters throughout the city. This will be the greatest method of advertising to the farmers who have made this town, that we do not desire them to come to Lubbock. And they will not come. Other communities immediately adjacent to this town will be the benefactors of this ordinance. Business will continually watch for the expected customer, who will not pay a parking tax in order to come to the city, that does not welcome him. I am indeed sorry to hear of the passage of this kind of legislation, very much of it will forever destroy the future of Lubbock. The City commission as business men should realise, that not all the propositions which are placed before them that will bring in revenue, are best for the continued building of a city.

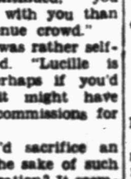

Cities are builded because they have something to offer to their constituency, not because they are forever exacting their price in gold. And if this city is to become one that exacts its price, it should place at its entrance the sign, "Those who would enter here should leave all hope behind." Then, when this is adopted as a slogan, no one would be deceived, and, if it is not placed, the public will not be long in realizing the hidden truth, and we will be numbered among those that could have been.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP)—Acute anxiety regarding prospects for the domestic wheat spring crop skyrocketed Chicago prices more than 3 cents a bushel today and Minneapolis 5 cents.

Drouth in North Dakota, the leading spring wheat state, was officially reported as having resulted but once before since 1907 in such a low condition for wheat as at present. This applied not alone for wheat but also to oats, barley, rye and hay.

Wheat closed strong, 2 1-2 to 3 1-8 cents above Saturday's finish, July 87 5-8 to 87 3-4, Sept. 88 7-8 to 89; corn 5-8 to 1 1-8 up, Sept. 59 3-8 to 59 1-2; oats 1-2 to 5-8 advanced, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to 1 lower with higher Liverpool cables offset by rain in the eastern cotton belt over the week-end. Jly 11.70, Oct 11.14, Dec. 11.08; Jan 11.07; Mch 11.10, May 11.13.

Orders from both foreign and domestic sources seemed to be pretty evenly divided between price fixing by the trade and realizing or liquidation through commission houses during the early trading.

The undertone was steady, however, and prices stiffened a few points before the end of the first hour as selling tapered. October sold up from 11.13 to 11.17 and March from 11.10 to 11.13 with new crop months generally showing net gains of from 3 to 6 points.

Liverpool cables were lower.

The cotton offering around 11.20 for Oct was gradually absorbed later in the morning with prices for all new crop months making new high ground for the movement on continued trade and commission house buying.

Trading became more active as prices worked upward. The market at midday was firm with new crop positions showing net advances of 10 to 13 points. The demand for July continued to be supplied by the pool at 11.70 and brokers operating for that account were credited with selling from 15,000 to 20,000 bales up to midday.

Sales of futures by the pool for the week ended last Saturday amounted to 46,400 bales which reduced their holdings to 368,000 bales including 244,300 bales for Jly delivery, reports indicated.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 15. (AP)—Steady price movements with options holding in a narrow range a point or so above Saturday's closing prices prevailed at the opening of the cotton market today.

July sold at 11.70 at the first call, while Oct. at 11.09, Dec. at 11.04 and Jan at 11.04 also showed nominal advances.

The market ran up to good gains during the morning, inspired by persistent trade buying and a lack of contracts being offered by the trade.

Oct. gained 11 points to 11.20 while Jan. sold at 11.18. July was relatively steady, a point higher at 11.69.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Another bow to brightening business news was made by today's stock market.

While the European scene was cloudy, and Washington developments a bit enigmatic, quiet buying lifted leading shares fractions to 2 or more points near the start of the fourth hour.

J. I. Case was a favorite with a gain of 4, and American Woolen Preferred, responding to improvement in textile demand, pushed ahead 2. Du Pont was up as much. Lesser advances were registered by Consolidated Edison, North American, United Corp., American Water Works, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Western Union, Celanese, Industrial Rayon, American Telephone, Allied Stores, Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Chrysler, Great Northern, N. Y. Central and Pennsylvania.

Reports of serious drouth conditions in the spring crop districts brought a sharp rally in wheat. Cotton did better. Carrier bonds pointed higher. Foreign gold currencies were lower in terms of the dollar.

Last Interview On WPA Rolls Is Set

Certified persons on Works Progress administration employment rolls will be given a second and final opportunity to be interviewed for recertification and revalidation Thursday at the Lubbock relief office in 1300-block Avenue G, A. J. Delahunty, director for the division of employment in the district, said today.

The relief office will open at 8 o'clock and close at 5 o'clock that day, and persons residing in Lubbock county at the present time on WPA rolls but not working on a project, who failed to report last week, must attend, Delahunty said.

Scraped Off Skin

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jenkins was shredding the skin off her legs with a cheese grater, scraping without removing her stockings. The radio hid her gasps and low moans.

As these operations were completed, Miner arrived in a third automobile and drove the injured persons to the Long Beach community hospital, reporting he had unavoidably run them down while they were repairing a puncture. The Jenkinses were admitted as patients and confined for a considerable period. The informer, feigning a dazed condition, disappeared.

Two Have Confessed

Griffin said Jenkins and his wife have confessed, charging Biggs had told them of "an easy way to make money." The others protest their innocence, Griffin said.

A sixth person, Henry C. Groseclose, oil worker, was held for investigation in connection with another purported accident in which, Griffin asserted, he collected $8,000 insurance for a broken back. The injury was believed to have been sustained some time before in an accident at El Paso, Tex., Griffin said.

The greater majority of the ex-service men who were to receive them, were ready at their homes when carriers called.

It was expected that all bonds registered Monday would be sent to Dallas Monday night with return of checks probably Wednesday. A rush in the Dallas office may delay return.

Attempts will be made Tuesday to deliver in person all of the letters containing bonds. Only the one to whom the letter is addressed may sign for it and he must be known personally, or identified, to the delivering postal employe.

American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars post officers and members are cooperating with the government service in securing delivery and other matters.

LIQUOR RAIDS

at 1 a. m. Sunday.

Two run-away boys, detained by the Jones county sheriff at Anson, will be returned to Lubbock by the father of one of the lads, Lubbock police have been informed.

Theft of a suitcase, containing clothing, was reported by Bill Babbs, Clairemont, Saturday night.

Two persons were charged this week-end with drunkenness. One, whose case is in Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg's court, posted $250 bond. The other was fined $1 and costs by Justice of the Peace J. J. Dillard.

Three Are Fined

Three persons were fined for overloading trucks when they were arraigned in Justice of the Peace Trigg's court today. Each was fined $1 and costs.

Two other complaints were filed with Trigg, one alleging petty swindling, the other improper registration of a motor vehicle.

Police reported one collision.

A motorcycle being driven eastward on Nineteenth street by Everett Lynn, 16, of 2108 Twenty-first street, was in a collision with a Ford-A automobile being piloted westward on the same street by Fred Harmon, 37, of Lubbock. Harmon, said Patrolman Bill Mabray, was driving to the left into Avenue S at the time of the crash at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Louis Willing To Fight Bare Handed

LAKEWOOD, N. J., June 15 (AP)—To Joe Louis all the hullabaloo Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling's manager, has been raising over the amount of bandage and tape the brown bomber will be allowed to use on his hands when he clashes with Schmeling Thursday is just so much noise.

Advised that Jacobs, who had previously said he would like to have the bandages adjusted after the fighters enter the ring, intended to take up the matter of the amounts used, Louis indicated it didn't make any difference to him.

"The commission allows me only six feet of bandage and two feet of tape. That's all I had on in the Baer fight and my hands were swollen afterward," he said. "Maybe they ought to let us use more. But why all the yelling? I'll fight bare handed if they like that."

'Settles Down'

Traveling only 2,500 miles a week as stewardess on a Chicago-New York airline, Mary E. Mussen, above, has "practically settled down." She was born in Chingkiang, China; educated in Shanghai, London, Ont., and Wheaton, Ill.; and completed her nurse's training in Toronto and Chicago.

present one, to their flower garden. Hundreds were sold. American and tea roses being the most popular.

Likewise, bushes such as the mock orange, lilac, etc., were set out. Honeysuckle also is popular. Flowering shrubs around the front porch, or to screen off the back garden or lawn, are also in demand.

Chinese elms are the most popular shade trees for this section. Introduced by the state experiment station here some 16 or 17 years ago, they are fast supplanting the locust and other earlier types of trees. Thousands are sold each year, Lubbock probably selling 100,000 or more annually.

Walnut Introduced

A new tree, a walnut, with a non-edible fruit or nut, is said to be a coming popular tree. It has been introduced this summer, coming from the Davis mountains and is said to be as beautiful as the pecan tree and as fast growing as the Chinese elm.

Fruit trees also have been sold in large numbers. There is a good demand for fruit trees.

Landscape work forms a part of the nursery work. Property owners are, each year, spending more and more in beautifying the lawns of their homes.

In this connection, scores of lawns were "cut down" this spring, the dust and sand storms of the past two or three years having increased the height several inches or more. Many pounds of grass seed have gone into local lawns.

While most of the larger towns of the area have a florist or a nurseryman all the year around, yet Lubbock draws a considerable amount of out-of-town business. Farmers and especially farm women, bought trees and shrubs last spring in a home beautification movement.

One local florist dropped a suggestion that indicates the wide extent of the industry over the nation. Said he, "believe it or not, there is more money tied up in nurseries in the United States, than in the steel industry."

HANGMAN WILL BE READY

EXECUTIONER IS NOT WORRIED AS GOOCH NEARS GALLOWS

McALESTER, Okla., June 15. (AP)—A grizzled executioner of 53 men reared in the cow country where horse thieves once were strung up summarily, will use the noose his first time June 19 when Arthur Gooch becomes the first Lindbergh law kidnaper to die.

But neither that experience nor another new one—the construction of the only scaffold he has ever seen—is bothering Rich Owen, who has thrown the switch at 53 executions, 50 in Oklahoma where the penalty for capital crimes is death in the electric chair.

Hanging Provided

The federal kidnaping law, under which Gooch was condemned, provides death by hanging.

"I'm not worried about it," Owen said confidently. "I know just how a man should be hanged because I have studied methods of the best hangmen and have talked to others."

Gooch, former Okmulgee butcher boy, was sentenced to hang for kidnaping two Paris, Tex., officers and taking them into Oklahoma to avoid arrest.

Gooch's last hope of escaping the gallows faded when Mrs. Mable Bassett, Oklahoma's grandmother commissioner of charities and corrections, was unable to obtain an interview with President Roosevelt as the presidential special passed through Oklahoma.

Mrs. Bassett had been active in seeking clemency for Gooch and once went to Washington to ask that he be saved from the gallows and his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Sunday?"

"I'm sorry I can't accept. I've promised to spend the weekend with some friends on Long Island."

"Oh, you have friends here then? I thought you were all alone."

"So I am," Gail returned, rather spiritedly. "In fact I'd forgotten how near Long Island is to New York, and I certainly would never have looked them up—" she stopped rather suddenly. She had almost added—"but I met Dick by chance."

"Well, I hope you have a good time," said Derek as they reached the clubhouse.

"Oh, I guess I will. Thank you for the nicest evening I've had since I came to the big city."

"Glad you enjoyed it. By the way, the Ferrara gallery is to be open one or two evenings next week. The pictures are well worth seeing. Won't you let me take you there?"

"Of course I will, if you're sure you don't mind taking me."

"Mind? Are you fishing, little lady?" he questioned whimsically. Then, clasping both her hands in his, he said, "This has been the happiest evening I've known in a long time."

For a precious moment his eyes held hers. Then, withdrawing her hands, Gail ran up the short flight of stone steps, paused for a moment and waved a slender hand before disappearing inside the clubhouse.

As Gail turned the key in the door of her room the green-eyed girl she had seen in the dining room stepped out into the hall. She glanced up and down the hall and then crossed to Gail. "I've just broken the points of my scissors," she said. "I wonder, if I might borrow a pair from you for a moment or two? I'm Natalie Preston," she added, in a carefully modulated voice.

"Of course you may! Come right in." Gail held the door wide open.

"What a nice room!" Natalie's green eyes quickly noted that it was larger than her own and that the occasional chairs were better upholstered.

"Yes, it is quite pleasant, but I haven't all my things unpacked yet."

"Oh, you're just here for a visit?" asked Natalie.

"No, I expect to make my home here permanently. Won't you sit down?"

"Well, I'm in no rush," Natalie replied. "We might as well get acquainted, for we're neighbors." She sat down in the most comfortable chair.

"Of course," agreed Gail, taking off her hat and coat, rather flattered that the distinguished-looking girl seemed so friendly.

"What is your work?" asked Natalie, taking a cigaret from the box Gail offered her.

"I design dresses."

"That's interesting! I'm in the advertising line. I write special women's copy for one of the big Fifth Avenue stores. It's not bad, only you don't get around enough—I mean outside the store. And it's real slavery, for we have to work Saturdays, too. I'm trying to get into an agency. You get to know more people that way. Besides I'm fed up writing exclusively about clothes. I loathe them."

Gail laughed. "Then I guess you don't think much of my line?"

"Oh, that's different. You're actually creating—not just raving about creations! Besides, if you're any good at all as a designer you'll make a fortune. Some of the wholesale houses pay fabulous sums to their designers, and they can act just as 'temperamental' as opera stars."

"Surely they're not all like that?" Gail's amber eyes were twinkling as she looked at her guest.

"Oh, there are exceptions, but most of them seem to think they are gifts from heaven and must be handled with care. Are you on your own? But there, you must think I have an awful lot of nerve to cross-question you like this!" For a moment Natalie's green eyes were veiled by drooping lids.

"That's the only way we'll get acquainted. I've just started to work with Madame Lizette. I had some training at school but of course I need some practical experience before setting up for myself." As she spoke Gail thought how glibly she was repeating Derek's advice.

"Oh, Madame Lizette's!" Natalie sat forward in her chair. "How ever did you manage to get in there? I hear it's awfully hard even to get an appointment with her to talk about a job! But maybe you had some pull?"

"No," Gail replied, and then revealed the manner in which she had secured her job. "You see, after all, it was only luck," she went on, "and besides, I don't know what may happen tomorrow. It wouldn't surprise me from what I've seen at Madame's if I should lose my job any moment!"

"You don't seem to feel very worried about it. But then, perhaps, you have money of your own."

"Just my prize money. I guess $500 doesn't go very far!"

"Not if you're living on it," remarked Natalie, lighting another cigaret. "Still, I suppose you're getting a handsome salary." Once more the heavy lids drooped over Natalie's green eyes.

Gail shrugged her shoulders. Had she spoken too freely to this stranger? But, as though the dusky-haired girl had read her thoughts, she started up, taking the scissors with her. When she reached the door, she murmured, "Hope you don't think I've asked too many questions. You know I don't want to pry into anyone's affairs."

"That's all right. All I've told you might be published from the housetops. It's been ever so nice of you to stop and talk to me. Come back any time you like."

"Thanks, I will. What time do you get home in the afternoon? I'm afraid I won't have a chance to return your scissors sooner."

"About 6, for I never hurry, although my work at Madame's is over at 5. I generally go to dinner about half past 6."

"You're eating your meals here?" asked Natalie.

"Yes, I don't know much about other places yet."

"All right then, good night. I'll be seeing you soon."

"Good night," said Gail, closing the door.

Alone again, she summed up the other girl, "A bit nosey, but not a bad sort." Maybe they could go around some together, for undoubtedly Natalie knew the city well. Gail glanced at her traveling clock and saw that it was only half past 10. She would have time to write to Miss Cranston before turning in. It was a shame she hadn't written her old teacher before.

Opening her handbag, she took out her fountain pen, sat down at the desk, and began to write. "There," she exclaimed an hour later as she re-read the letter and, folding it, slipped it into the envelope. "That should satisfy the dear old thing!" A wave of color dyed Gail's cheeks when she thought of Derek. She had not mentioned his name!

CITY OPEN

short 14th with pars, and Edmisson took the 15th with a par after dubbing his approach. Bradshaw's drive caught the rough and the rocks, and a neat play was impossible. Both ran down good putts on the 16th, but here the pressure began to tell.

On the 17th, Bradshaw again was in the rough, Edmisson down the middle. But Bradshaw was on with his second, Edmisson short, on with his third for a 10-foot putt, Bradshaw a couple of feet inside him. Edmisson ran it down for a par, and Bradshaw needed to sink to wind up the match. He failed to do it, and things were dormie.

Edmisson laid his tee shot neatly across the lake and on the edge of the last green, Bradshaw, a case of jitters no doubt attacking him, was wild, to deep rough on the right. He slashed out, his ball tore across the carpet, into a trap on the opposite side. His third shot was still yards from the pin. Edmisson putted to within an inch of the cup, and they picked up.

Have Zooming Drives

They sent zooming drives to the par five extra hole, although Bradshaw was in the rough again. He made another of his famous recovery shots, and was better than even with Edmisson's second from the fairway. They pitched on with their thirds, Edmisson again out with a 10-footer, Kay again inside by two feet.

And that's about all. Edmisson canned his putt like a jar of olives before the pop-eyed and travel-worn gallery, and things got so quiet one could hear the snoring of a Saturday night toper sleeping it off in a downtown hotel. But it didn't help, and Bradshaw saved himself and the spectators an uphill trudge by rimming the cup.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Next Time You Need a Laxative

For constipation, take a dose of Black-Draught as soon as you realize the condition you are in.

"If I am bilious, have headache or a cold, I take a dose of Black-Draught at night," writes Mrs. R. D. Thaxton, of Lexington, Ga. "If I have a bad feeling after meals, I take just a pinch of Black-Draught. It relieves me. I recommend it very highly—a good family medicine. I give my children Syrup of Black-Draught. I find both good."

Black-Draught paves the way for the relief of many such symptoms as those mentioned above, when constipation is at the bottom of the trouble.

Just try it! Follow the directions carefully and you'll probably learn why Black-Draught is so popular. Adv.
