Local office gains new Texas Ranger

The Texas Department of Public Safety has announced the posting of new Texas Ranger assigned to the Snyder office.

Relocating locally is John Billings, who replaces David Byrnes. Byrnes was transferred to the Dallas area last fall after being promoted to the rank of sergeant.

The 35-year-old Billings is a South Texas native and a 1969 graduate of Edinburg High School. He has 14 years experience with the DPS as a highway patrolman.

He was promoted to ranger after passing entrance examinations for the law enforcement agency last October.

Prior to joining the DPS, he attended Pan American University and Texas A&I University and worked at the Donna Police Department.

He has served as a highway patrolman in Corpus Christi, Bishop and Kingsville.

He and his wife Brenda Kay have two sons.

Gymnastic events scheduled for local coliseum Saturday

Some 300 entries from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are to compete at the Scurry County Coliseum Saturday at a nationally-sanctioned gymnastic meet.

The meet is approved by the United States Acrogymnastics Federation (USAF) and is one of only two sanctioned meets to be held in a tri-state region this year.

Active in obtaining the meet here were members of the Snyder Springers Booster Club, an organization of parents whose children are involved in gymnastic competition.

Some 20 Snyder youth will compete at Saturday's event.

Only advanced levels of competition will be offered, events which will see the majority of contestants fall within the 10-18 age range.

These events will include power tumbling, trampoline, synchronized trampoline and the double mini-tramp competition.

Two USAF-sanctioned meets are held each year for the tri-state region of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Competitors have to attend at least one to qualify for state competition.

Using a point system which judges both the individual performance and its "difficulty" level, winners can advance to regional, state and national competitions.

The state competition will be in April in Andrews. The national event will be in Rockford, Ill.

Entrants now registered will come from as far away as San Marcos, Dallas and Austin.

Saturday's event will include a

Journalist Seib turned over to Swiss

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)-- Iranian officials have handed Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib over to the Swiss Embassy in Tehran in preparation for his expulsion from the country today, an Iranian diplomat said. (He is the brother of a Snyder woman, Debbie Lang.)

Iranian officials announced their decision to fee Seib on Wednesday, five days after his arrest on charges of spying for Israel. He had been invited into Iran last month with other Western journalists to report on the Iran-Iraq war.

At U. N. headquarters in New York, Iranian Ambassador Said Rajaie-Khorassani told a news conference late Wednesday that Seib was handed over to the Swiss Embassy. Spokesman for the embassy, which handles U. S. interests in Iran, would not comment.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored here, said Wednesday that Seib would be put on a plane out of the country today. It did not say where the Cairo-based journalist would be taken.

Paul Seib, the journalist's brother, said at the family home in Hays, Kan., that relatives were elated. But he added the family won't "take anything for granted" before hearing definitely that Seib has been freed.

IRNA quoted an unidentified Information Ministry official Wednesday as saying the decision to expel Seib followed "a judicial probe" and that the reporter is banned from ever returning to Iran.

IRNA gave no details of the investigation, but Seib apparently was cleared. Premier Hussein Mussavi told Tehran radio Wednesday, without elaboration: "After bring questioned, the issue has been clarified."

Seib's arrest may have resulted from maneuvers by factions preparing for a power struggle anticipated by the death of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who is 86. There were rumors that some in the government were extremely pleased with the arrest, while others opposed it.

Seib was among 57 foreign correspondents and photographers invited by Iran to tour the battle zone where Iranian forces have pushed into Iraq toward its southern provincial capital.

Couple 'out' of Africa

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

J.M. Kayser of Snyder finally fulfilled a dream of a lifetime this past Christmas, but not quite the way he had originally planned.

The former school administrator and school board member and his wife, Dorothy, a teacher at Northeast Elementary, visited Abidjan, situated on the Ivory Coast in West Africa.

In addition, the couple went on safari at the Masai Mara Game Preserve. But, instead of shooting the animals with a gun as he had always wanted to, Kayser shot countless rolls of films of the animals and their habitat.

"I had always wanted to hunt big game in Africa," Kayser said. "But in later years, I lost that killing feeling."

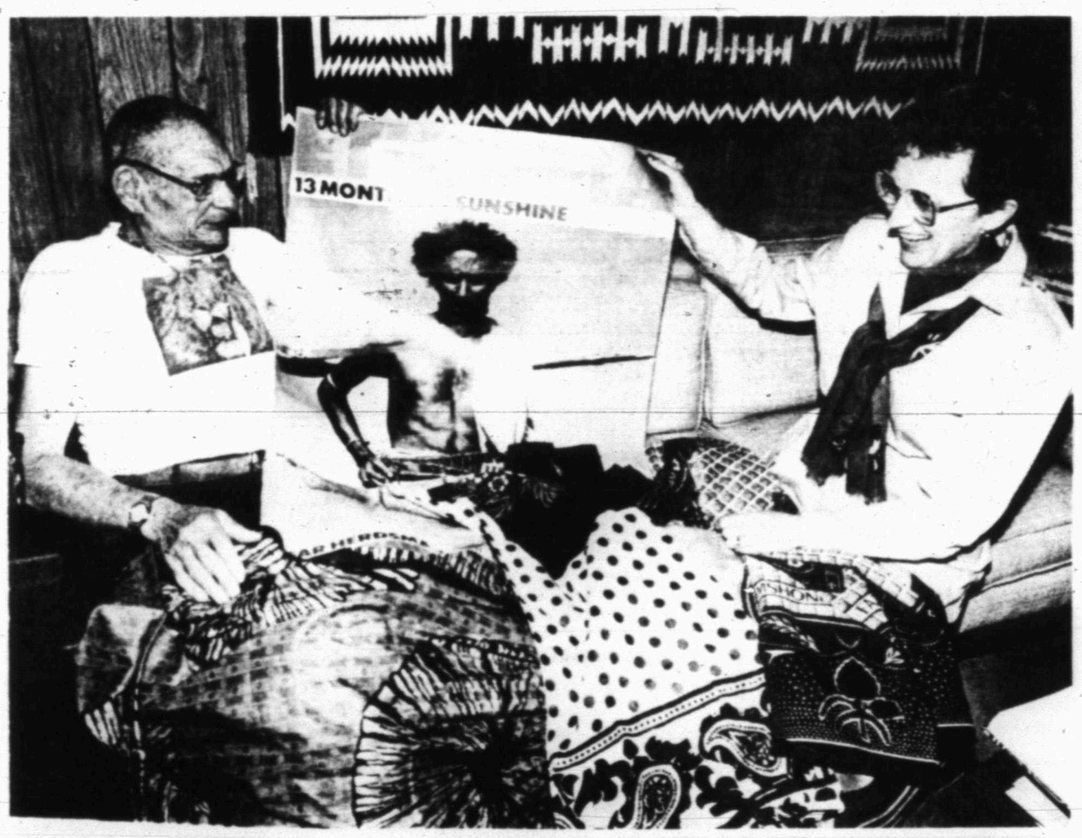
The Kaysers were in Africa from Dec. 20 through Jan. 2. They spent Christmas in Abidjan with Dr. and Mrs. David Howe, longtime friends.

"That made Christmas very special for us," Mrs. Kayser explained. "Because we were with friends rather than just being by ourselves and away from home."

Besides visiting friends, the Kaysers enjoyed several days at the Masai Mara Game Preserve where they took a 10-mile balloon ride over the animal reserve.

"When we decided to visit the Howes, we decided to see as much of Africa as we could," Kayser explained.

The Kaysers spent eight weeks securing visas, making travel arrangements and studying about the country they were going to visit. "We really did our homework this time," Mrs. Kayser said.



AFRICAN MEMORIES — J.M. and Dorothy Kayser are pictured with a few of the souvenirs from their trip to Africa which they took this past Christmas. They brought back several samples of material and a poster from a brief stopover in Ethiopia. (SDN Staff Photo)

While at the game preserve in Kenya, the Kaysers stayed in tents and managed to see the "big five," that is elephants, lions, leopards, rhinos and cape buffalos. Since there are very few rhinos left, it was considered rare that they were able to see two of them.

Among the many animals scenes they witnessed, two stand out.

In one instance, they quietly observed two female lions enjoying a small spot of shade in an otherwise sunny and hot day. Then, along came a male lion who started to nuzzle up to the two females. Before long, he had the shady spot and the two females left.

On another occasion, Mrs. Kayser said she was observing a cluster of trees when she suddenly realized that she could see a giraffe's head as it was eating leaves.

They said fires were kept burning around the camp at night. They suspected it was to keep away mosquitos and wild animals.

While touring the preserve, the Kaysers said you were safe as long as you kept your arms and hands inside the vehicle. Usually, they said, the animals simply ignored them.

There were no telephones at the game preserve and all communication was via a short wave radio.

While in Africa, they also visited several Masai villages, where it is the custom for the

Rainfall expected to linger

From Local, Wire Reports

Wednesday night showers deposited almost half an inch of moisture here with the forecast for Snyder and most of Texas Thursday calling for colder temperatures and more rain clouds.

Texas skies were cloudy during the morning as low level clouds blanketed the state. A weak cold front brought thunderstorms and widespread rain over much of Texas.

Snyder's official reading was .48 of an inch, upping the year's total to past the 1 inch mark. Rainfall for 1987 now stands at 1.03.

Heavier rain amounts were reported in rural sections of the county. At Hermleigh, 1.08 inches were noted. One inch of rain reportedly fell at Dunn and Lake J.B. Thomas also.

North of Snyder at Fluvanna, no rain was noted, although conditions were said misty.

Thursday night, the forecast for the Snyder area was for a 60 percent chance of rain with lows in the mid 30s.

Friday, highs are expected in the lower 50s with a 50 percent chance of light rain.

Portions of West Texas have freezing rain and snow in the forecast.

Across the state Thursday morning, fog was lingering over some areas with travelers advisories posted for the Del Rio area in southwest Texas and the coastal area near Corpus Christi.

Ask Us

Q. — If I write my own will and have it notarized, is it legal?

A. — Under Texas law, a person can have a legal will if they write it out by hand--typewritten is not legal--and if it follows the "formalities" of a will, that is clearly details how their estate should be divided. Texas law does not require that such a document be notarized.

Pay raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and 3,000 top federal officials and judges are collecting hefty pay raises, at least temporarily, while opponents try to repeal the increases or kill them in court.

By almost all accounts, the pay raise took effect at midnight Tuesday when a 30-day deadline for disapproval expired, although the House cast a largely meaningless vote against it Wednesday.

Tort reform will be a topic of heated debate in this session of the state legislature. Although we believe reforms like those introduced by Sen. Ray Farabee are sorely needed, we're not too optimistic about the chances this year.

From time to time we come across suits that simply should never take up the court's time.

We read recently about a fellow who sued after joining a Trancendental Meditation group. He was told that he would be taught how to fly.

During court testimony, the man told the Washington federal jury that the best he could manage was to "hop with his legs folded in the lotus position."

Although it seems silly, a sympathic jury awarded him $138,000 for his disappointed expectations. One defendant, the Trancendental Meditation Founder, had to be dropped from the suit because he had vanished to Europe and couldn't be served with the necessary legal papers.

As one court observer said of the plaintiff who wanted to fly, "maybe he should have paid closer attention to his guru."

There are some folks who believe the government sets out to "gig" the taxpayers.

There is a new dimension to "Gig'em Aggies." The new federal budget is between a maroon and white cover--the colors of Texas A&M. It is also noted that the budget director and his chief deputy are both graduates of Texas A&M.

The nation may really be in trouble now.

Statements are given on nuke waste dump

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department's efforts to pick a high-level nuclear waste dump were criticized in statements by Texas Gov. William P. Clements Jr. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen filed with the Senate Energy Committee.

A nine-square-mile area in the Texas Panhandle west of Amarillo is one of three sites being considered by the government for location of the dump, which will house 70,000 tons of high-level waste. The other sites are in the states of Washington and Nevada.

Clements attacked the way DOE has conducted its investigation at the three sites under consideration in the West as inadequate, and particularly the way federal scientists had probed the West Texas site.

Bentsen reiterated complaints about the postponement of a search for a second site in the East and a failure by the department to consult the states involved.

"We in Texas recognize the need to serve the national purpose of disposing of these dangerous wastes in a safe, acceptable and timely manner, but, regrettably, I must report to you that our confidence in that goal being reached through the current, implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act is severely stressed," Clements' said in his statement.

Clements' statement, submitted by Steve Frishman, state director of nuclear waste programs, criticized DOE for failing to adequately investigate the geology of the West Texas site.

"The DOE has been told in numerous communications that the Deaf Smith County site has a number of characteristics that raise serious doubts about whether it will be suitable for a repository license from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission," read the Republican governors' statement.

He said the department has failed to collect basic physical data from the site and that without the data, such as earth plugs from bore holes where the waste would be deposited, the Deaf Smith site should not have been included as one of the three final sites.

The Panhandle site is an enormous salt deposit in Deaf Smith County that scientists believe would be a potentially safe geological formation to store high-level nuclear wastes.

Sugar cane harvest now 55 days behind schedule

SANTA ROSA, Texas (AP) — An unusually wet fall and winter have dampened this year's sugar cane harvest in the Rio Grande Valley and forecasters say more rain is possible through the end of the month.

This year's harvest has been set back 55 days because of wet weather or fields so soggy they don't support thrashing equipment, said Jack Nelson, president of the Rio Grande Valley Sugar Growers Inc.

An average harvest misses 30 days because of rain and the crop is usually in by mid-March.

Last year's smaller crop was harvested by Feb. 20 and only eight days were lost because of the weather. Nelson says the cooperative hopes this year's harvest, valued at about $35 million, can be completed by mid-April.

But the National Weather Service on Wednesday predicted a substantial chance of rain through Friday and forecasters said that February may continue a four-month trend of above normal precipitation.

"We'll just have to wait and see," Nelson said Wednesday. "We can't manage the weather."

The Valley has been beset by unusually wet weather since October, when monthly rainfall totals began climbing above average.

Nelson said 52 percent of the Valley's 31,400 acres of sugar cane remain to be harvested.

In the past two months, the harvest was shut down between Dec. 10 and Jan. 5, and then again between Jan. 12 and last Sunday.

NWS forecaster Alfredo Vega in Brownsville said rainfall was more than 10 inches above normal between October and January.

Get the facts before surgery

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a curved spine and am going to have a rod put in my back. The doctor didn't have a lot of time to spend with me, so will you describe the operation?

DEAR READER — The type of operation you describe is highly individualized. The doctor who proposed the surgery is your most logical resource for information. Although he may be busy and appear rushed, you are entitled to full information about the operation, its benefits and potential risks.

Don't have the operation until the surgeon sits down with you and describes the procedure in detail. Make sure you understand what he proposes to do and why. If the doctor isn't willing to provide the information you require, seek another opinion. In my view, no patient should undergo surgery without first understanding the pros and cons of the procedure. This is called informed consent. It is a mandatory part of good medical surgical practice.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report, AN INFORMED APPROACH TO SURGERY, which covers everything from second opinions to outpatient surgery. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Since 1972, I've been taking atenolol, hydralazine, triamterene, Coumadin, hydrochlorothiazide, potassium chloride and quinine for high blood pressure. During this period, my wife has noticed an increase in my body odor. Could any of the drugs I'm taking cause this?

DEAR READER — Although our odors change as we age, many medicines can accentuate body odor. You are taking a tremendous conglomeration of drugs: diuretics, a beta-blocker, an anti-coagulant, a mineral and an anti-cramp medicine. Any of the medicines could alter your body odor. That possibility is compounded by possible drug interactions. You should alert your doctor to the change in odor; perhaps the two of you should discuss whether so many medicines are essential to your health.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How common is Addison's disease? My daughter, who is 35, has it. Is it hereditary? She has three children.

DEAR READER — Addison's disease, the complete or partial failure of the adrenal glands, is not common. It is caused by infections, tumors, hemorrhage into the adrenal glands, or poorly understood autoimmune reactions (which cause a person to become allergic to his or her own tissues). It does not appear to be hereditary. If untreated, Addison's disease can be fatal. It causes weakness, fatigue, digestive problems, depression, low blood pressure and — in its most serious form — shock. Addison's disease is readily treatable with pills that contain adrenal hormones.

PRO℠ TEXAS
A NEW OPTIONAL CALLING PLAN FROM AT&T

On November 13, 1986 AT&T Communications of The Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T") filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional calling plan, PRO Texas. A comparable interstate plan, known as PRO℠ America, is currently available to Texas customers.

PRO Texas gives Texas consumers an opportunity to save money on direct dialed in-state long distance calls. Customers who choose this new AT&T plan will receive a 10% discount on all AT&T intrastate direct dialed station calls by paying a monthly charge of $15.00.

The PRO Texas discount applies to calls placed during all rate periods and all days. The discount is in addition to the AT&T intrastate evening discount of 25% and the night/weekend discount of 40%. A one time charge of $6.00 will be billed to initiate the service. However, this charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

PRO Texas will be available to all Message Telephone Service customers in Texas. AT&T estimates that it will generate revenues in the first year of almost $8 million, which is .7% of AT&T's annual revenues for all Texas intrastate service.

The PUC has assigned Docket No. 7194 to this proposed service offering. The proposed effective date for PRO Texas is March 16, 1987. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Simplifying matters

By James Jacoby

This deal looked fairly simple to declarer. West had overcalled in spades and had led his suit. Of course, there would be no problem if West held the diamond queen, but some care had to be taken if East had it. South would then also need to make a second heart trick. Since West probably held the king of hearts for his overcall, declarer wanted to lose to West's heart king before giving up to the diamond queen — a strategy called avoidance. Declarer times the sequence of giving up tricks so that the dangerous opponent does not come on lead when he can still set the contract. So South played a diamond to the ace and then took the heart finesse.

West grabbed the trick with his king and continued spades, setting up his suit. Of course, declarer held off until the third round of spades and then played the diamond 10. Alas, West showed out and East was just nasty enough to allow the 10 to win the trick. That held our hard-working declarer to eight tricks. Was there an answer? You bet.

Let South play the jack of hearts from his hand at trick two, giving up the chance to finesse. Then, no matter who wins the heart king, declarer can hold up in spades until the third round and take an immediate diamond finesse. Although East can hold off on the first diamond, he must take the second round or lose his trick. Declarer will make his contract and send the hand off to the nearest bridge writer.

AAUW meets

The American Association of University Women met in regular session Wednesday at First Methodist Church. Hostesses were Ruth McBeth and Peggy English.

Dr. Gil Fleer presented the special program, "Rolling in the Dough." While demonstrating methods of working with yeast dough, Dr. Fleer shared his life philosophy.

He pointed out that one can knead dough and relate that experience to real life. He said it all depends on the "mix" and that people can relate that to individuals and real-life situations.

President Phyllis Smith presided at the business session. Treasurer Tammy Wesson reported on the fund raising projects supporting the WTC scholarship fund.

The next meeting will be March 5 with Dr. Leslie Butler, chiropractor, presenting a program entitled "Fit for Life."

CONSERVATION RESERVE SIGNUP SET FOR FEBRUARY 9-27

Farmers who want to bid to enter their highly erodible cropland into USDA's 10-year Conservation Reserve Program may do so during the program's fourth signup period from Feb. 9-27.

During the signup period, producers will be given the option to enter into a CRP contract beginning with either the 1987 or 1988 crop year.

Under provisions of a recent amendment to the legislation authorizing CRP, alfalfa and other multiyear grasses and legumes in rotation during the years '81-'85, as approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, will be considered to be "agricultural commodities" for the purpose of determining eligibility of land to be placed in CRP.

Annual payments for 10 years will compensate farmers for retiring highly erodible land from crop production. The amount of the payment is determined by the accepted bid per acre and the number of accepted acres.

Participants will also receive cost-share assistance for establishing grass or wildlife plants on the acreage placed in the reserve. Hunting is allowed on the land but no crops can be harvested while it is in the reserve.

For information about CRP, contact the Snyder offices of the USDA Soil Conservation Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service located in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Rag baskets to be made

Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club will meet 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at 2706 34th St. Kathy Roberts, extension agent, will present the program, "Have You Looked at Your Grocery Receipt Lately?"

In addition, she will be demonstrating the art of making rag baskets. Members and non-members wishing to participate are asked to call Joyce McCoy at 573-0704 or Pearl Wheeler at 573-0670 for a list of supplies needed.

Latin America's economy has been affected by three major factors which have plunged it into serious recession. These include deteriorated terms of trade due to low prices for its export commodities, increased annual payments of interest and profit remittances, and a sharp drop in new capital inflows. This, according to the Inter-American Development Bank, has forced the region to carry out painful economic adjustments over the past four years that have thrown most countries into recession.

Western teams to challenge FPC in Borger this evening

BORGER -- This is one of those "must-win" games for Coach Phil Spradling's Western Texas Westerners, who take on Frank Phillips here tonight at 8 o'clock in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference ballgame.

The Westerners, 3-6 in conference play, need to win five out of their last seven contests to have reasonable expectations of qualifying for the Region V Tournament in March. Frank Phillips, at 1-8 in conference play, is a team Western can ill afford to lose to.

Tonight's action is a double header, tipped off at 6 o'clock by a women's game which features the seventh ranked Lady Dusters of Western Texas.

At 5-1, the Dusters are not overly concerned with qualifying for regionals. Instead, the Dusters are looking to challenge Odessa for the WJCAC women's championship - and the No. 1 seeding in the regional tournament that goes with it.

Elsewhere around the WJCAC tonight, New Mexico Junior College is at Big Spring for a double header with Howard College while Odessa men are at Midland and Clarendon men are at Roswell, N.M., for a game with New Mexico Military Institute.

Men

Frank Phillips' Plainsmen are 8-15 for the 1986-87 season and 1-8 in conference play. Despite the unimpressive conference mark, FPC has challenged a number of opponents, including Western Texas. The Westerners nipped the Plainsmen 80-79 on a John Lewis free throw in an earlier conference meeting.

The Plainsmen are led by freshman Carlos Harris, who averages 28.8 points at outing second in the conference only to WTC's Alvin Lee. George Ramsey leads the team in rebounding with 8.8 a game. He also scored 17 points when FPC and Western met in December.

Western Texas' men are 8-13 overall and 3-6 in conference play. Lee's 34.8 scoring average paces the unit, which gets 17 from John Lewis and 12 each from Amos Jones and Darrell Nelson.

Women

Frank Phillips women are all but out of the race to qualify for the Region V Tournament with a 1-6 conference record. The Lady Plainsmen are 9-11 overall.

The Plainsmen have talent in 5-9 sophomore Gloria Thomas, who with a 19.8 scoring average is second in the WJCAC behind Western's Brenda Welch. Thomas also averages 10.3 rebounds an outing.

FPC's downfall has been shooting. The team is hitting only 38 percent from the field and 57 percent from the line.

Thomas scored 24 points in an 82-56 loss to Western in December. Suzanne Irlbeck, a 5-6 freshman, put in 13.

Western, ranked seventh in the country with a 20-3 record, is tied for the WJCAC summit with a 5-1 mark. The Dusters have never finished below a tie for second place in the conference and appear to be heading for at least that strong a finish this season.

Brenda Welch, a 5-11 sophomore, leads the team and the conference in scoring with a 24.1 average. A veteran lineup of Wendy Milner, GiGi Robinson, Lisa Thompson and Dee Ann Marr share double figure scoring routinely. The squad averages 74.6 points while shooting a league-high 52 percent from the field.

Rockets may lose Sampson for remainder of campaign

HOUSTON (AP) -- The season that started for the Houston Rockets with the sweet afterglow of reaching the NBA finals and joining the league's elite has turned to brimstone.

Ralph Sampson's knee injury in the first quarter of Tuesday's 107-105 loss to Denver likely ended the 7-4 Twin Tower's season.

The incident added a chapter to the long list of bad news that has sent the Rockets crashing from the heights to the depths. Sampson's injury was described as a large tear of the lateral cartilage in his left knee that will require surgery to repair.

Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon have been sidelined off and on all season with ankle injuries and Robert Reid missed seven games after undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery Dec. 8.

Another bombshell hit the team on Jan. 13 when Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins, key figures in last season's title push, were banned from the league for life for using cocaine.

Nonetheless, the Rockets had made a charge since losing Lloyd and Wiggins. They have a 13-5 record since Dec. 30 and Coach Bill Fitch was named NBA Coach of the Month after the Rockets went 11-4 for January.

Baylor upsets Horned Frogs; Tech Red Raiders boil Rice

WACO (AP)-- Now the Texas Christian Horned Frogs know how the 1981-82 Texas Longhorns felt.

Texas was fifth-ranked six years ago. TCU was 15th ranked Wednesday night.

In both cases, 14-game winning streaks were shattered by the Baylor Bears in Heart O' Texas Coliseum.

In other SWC games Wednesday, Texas Tech beat Rice 79-63 and Texas defeated Arkansas 78-73.

The win gives the Red Raiders a record of 12-9 overall and 7-3 in conference play and drops the Owls, with their fourth straight loss, to 7-14 overall and 1-9 in conference play. Texas rises to 11-2 overall and 4-6 in SWC play, while Arkansas falls to 13-10 and 4-6.

TCU went into Wednesday's game with a perfect Southwest Conference mark of 9-0, the longest winning streak in the school's history, and a No. 15 national ranking.

Five seasons ago, Abe Lemon's Longhorns were stunned 69-59 after center Mike Wacker broke his leg in the first half.

TCU starting center Tony Papa stayed home Wednesday with the flu, and the Horned Frogs fell 66-63 before 8,294 fans as Michael Williams scored four late baskets - including a slam dunk with a second left.

TCU leads the SWC by two games over Baylor and Texas Tech. The Frogs must travel to College Station on Sunday.

"We just waited too long to get started," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "We let them take the boards away from us and we didn't play very quick."

"Baylor should be happy," said TCU guard Carven Holcomb. "We mainly just beat ourselves by not being ourselves. We just weren't the same team out there tonight."

TCU only shot 43 percent from the field compared to 54 percent for Baylor, the best a team has shot against the Horned Frogs this year.

TCU dropped to 19-4 overall. The Bears improved to 12-8.

Williams finished with 15 points for Baylor while Jamie Dixon had a game-high 23 points for the Horned Frogs.

Mavs sink Sonics again; post 30th win this season

DALLAS (AP) -- It appears the Dallas Mavericks have the Seattle SuperSonics' number this season.

Dallas beat Seattle for the fourth time in as many meetings, 124-94, Wednesday night at Reunion Arena.

In those four games, the Mavericks have outscored the Sonics by a total of 80 points.

Those victories have enabled Dallas to tie the all-time series between the teams at 17 games each. In addition, Dallas has beaten Seattle in 12 of the last 14 meetings.

The Mavericks became the third team to reach 30 victories this season, joining the Los Angeles Lakers and Boston Celtics. Dallas has its best record in franchise history at the All-Star break.

"I think the Mavericks own us or something," said Seattle forward Tom Chambers, who led his team with 19 points. "We've played well against everybody but them this season.

"They come out and just take us out of our offense and shoot the heck out of the ball. They bring out the worst in us. I don't know what we're going to do if we ever meet them in the playoffs because we're going to have a hard time."

The Mavericks were never threatened, leading 64-40 at halftime. Seattle shot a miserable 39 percent from the field for the game to Dallas' 58.8 and was out-rebounded 55-41.

"We came out tonight and made sure we didn't have a letdown," said Mavericks guard Rolando Blackman, who joins teammate Mark Aguirre as members of the Western Conference All-Star team.

"We know they had been playing well and we just tried to apply pressure on their guards. It really worked tonight."

Although his team is playing its best of the season, having won six of its last eight, Dallas coach Dick Motta is ready for a break.

"I'm ready to get away from the players for a few days," said Motta. "I know they love me but I suspect they're ready for a few days away from me, too."

President Reagan's age is the subject of several jokes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has probably used his age as joke fodder more than anybody since Jack Benny. In fact, he's embellished on Benny's most enduring joke so often that he can claim on his birthday Friday that he is 89 for the 37th time.

"I'm beginning to notice," Reagan said at a state dinner last year, "that every time they bring out my birthday cake, the top of it is beginning to look more and more like a torchlight parade."

Reagan, who loves nothing more than telling a good story, turns 76 on Friday and it seems appropriate to recall what he's said about aging over the last few years.

In his State of the Union message last month, Reagan departed from his prepared text to say: "I am delighted you are celebrating the 100th birthday of the Congress. It's always a pleasure to congratulate someone with more birthdays than I've had."

A favorite Reagan line with young people begins, "When I was about your age, if you can take your minds back that far ..." and he reserves this one for Republicans: "You know, I've already lived some 20 years longer than my life expectancy when I was born. And that's been a source of annoyance to a number of people."

In Texas, at a political fund raiser, Reagan said he was particularly glad to be there during the state's sesquicentennial because "I'm always happy to be any place that's twice as old as I am."

He mentioned he was going on to Florida "where Ponce de Leon looked for the fountain of youth." After the laughter died down, the president said: "And just in case he found it, I've got a thermos jug with me."

The president has an inexhaustible supply of Hollywood stories from his acting days. "I've been asked at times what it is like to sit and watch the late, late show and see yourself," he told an audience in the White House. "I have one answer. It's like looking at a son you never knew you had."

At a party for 68-year-old Russell Long of Louisiana, who was leaving the Senate, Reagan said he couldn't figure why anyone so young would want to retire. Then he launched into this story about an elderly couple getting ready for bed:

She said, "Oh, I just am so hungry for ice cream, and there isn't any in the house." And he said, "I'll get some." And she said, "vanilla with chocolate sauce." He said, "Vanilla with chocolate sauce."

She said, "With whipped cream on top." And he said, "Vanilla with chocolate sauce, whipped cream on top." And she said, "And a cherry." And he said, "And a cherry on top." Well, she said, "Please write it down. I know you'll forget." And he said, "I won't forget. Vanilla with chocolate sauce, whipped cream and a cherry on top."

And away he went. By the time he got back, she was already in bed, and he handed her the paper bag. She opened it and there was a ham sandwich. And she said, "I told you to write it down. You forgot the mustard."

The president told an audience last year he had been invited to be at Ellis Island on July 4 for the 100th birthday celebration of an American institution. Quipped the president: "Somebody goofed. My birthday isn't until February."

Then he added: "It really won't be my hundredth, although I've been around for a while. I can remember when a hot story broke and the reporters would run in yelling, 'stop the chisels.'"

AFRICAN SCENES--These four photos represent just a small sampling of the pictures J. M. and Dorothy Kayser took when they visited Africa this past Christmas. Top cocaine trafficker now in custody

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A man alleged to be one of the world's top cocaine traffickers was in federal custody today after being captured in a shootout by Colombian authorities and extradited to the United States.

Carlos Lehder Rivas, who was brought to Florida early this morning, was to appear in federal court in Tampa today, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Ernst Mueller in Jacksonville. Lehder then faces a detention hearing in Jacksonville, where the indictment that led to his extradition was handed up in 1981.

Colombia long has been under pressure from the United States to curtail that nation's drug lords, and the capture and extradition of Lehder was hailed by U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese as a major victory.

Lehder, 37, who allegedly started out selling marijuana on New York streets, is reputed to be a member of the "Medellin Cartel," described by authorities as the world's biggest drug smuggling ring, responsible for 80 percent of U.S. cocaine imports.

Mueller, the prosecutor in the case, said Lehder has threatened the lives of those pledged to bring him to justice.

"Not me personally," Mueller said late Wednesday. "He has made generic threats. He hasn't named anybody. He has said if he was caught, he would kill a federal judge a week until he is freed."

Ana Barnett, a spkeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's office in Miami, said extraordinary efforts are being made to assure the safety of Lehder and those who are guarding him. "His past shows he's a violent man who is capable of many things," she said. "Security will be very tight."

Mueller said the hearing in Jacksonville would be held in "the most secure facility available." He refused to elaborate.

Lehder faces 29 charges in the United States.

Charges in Jacksonville include conspiracy to import cocaine, importing cocaine, possession with intent to distribute the drug and racketeering.

In 1984, he was charged in Miami with one count of conspiracy to import and distribute controlled substances, two counts of possession with intent to distribute, one count of attempting to import controlled substances and one count of promoting international travel for purposes of importing controlled substances.

women to shave their heads. The natives were very tall and angular, but also "commercial.

Before the natives would allow them to visit their village or take pictures, money was required, Mrs. Kayser said.

"Kenya was more than I expected it to be," she noted. "I couldn't believe all the animals they supported."

Africa was the fifth continent the Kaysers have visited. They hack South America and Greenland. Greenland and the Gallapagos are next, they said.

The slides the couple shot in Africa are being compiled into a slide show presentation.

grand entry at 10:15 a.m. The competition is expected to last until past 6 p.m., beginning with the younger age competitors.

Spectators are welcomed at the meet at no charge. Only contestants will be allowed on the floor area, however.

Coach for the Snyder Springers is Kay Porter. Also competing will be a Rotan-based team coached by Kellye Luera.

The president of the Snyder Springers Booster Club is Sherry Kidd.

Tank battery fire run made

Units of the Snyder fire department answered two alarms late Wednesday night including a call to a tank battery fire.

Firemen were dispatched to a location west of the Ira Cemetery at 12:45 a.m. The tank battery was said owned by Veva Petroleum on the Minnie Wells lease.

Firefighters were first called to the Tim Dacus residence at Hermleigh at 11:45 p.m.

That call was classified as a smoke scare, fire officials say.

Bike said stolen

Police are investigating one bicycle theft reported Wednesday

Adelina Martinez of 2807 Ave. N reported at 6:22 p.m. that her daughter's 26-inch White's brand 12-speed had apparently been stolen from outside their residence.

Value of the missing bike was placed at $175.

Arkansas University. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in agriculture and business.

She has been with the SCS since November of 1978. She served 18 months in Waco and three years in Ballinger before settling in Snyder.

She and her husband Joe live on a farm near Hermleigh and are expecting their first child in March.

Her husband is the director for the ASCS office here.

The most recent indictment against Lehder, unsealed in Miami on Nov. 18, accuses the Medellin Cartel of sending 58 tons of cocaine to the United States.

Terrorism meeting has been canceled by U. S and allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, in a dispute with some of its closest allies, has been forced to abandon plans for a meeting on fighting terrorism, a U.S. official said today.

The session was to have opened Friday in Rome.

France, with support from Britain, objected that the allies might have been drawn into a controversial discussion of U.S. military options to combat terrorism in Lebanon, said the official, who demanded anonymity.

An announcement was expected from the State Department later in the day.

The continuing U.S. military buildup in the eastern Mediterranean apparently raised concerns in allied capitals of a possible attack in reprisal for the holding of eight American hostages in Lebanon.

"Military action was not on the agenda," the U.S. official said. "But, presumably, any discussion of terrorism would touch on that."

L. Paul Bremer, who heads the department's counter-terrorism office, was to head the U.S. delegation. The meeting was to be the first test of allied resolve since the seven industrialized democracies agreed, at U.S. behest last May at the Tokyo economic summit, to take a firm and coordinated stance against terrorism.

Threat of AIDS Has Thinned Blood Supply of Red Cross

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: As a volunteer for the American Red Cross for many years, I have an important favor to ask. First, let me explain that the Red Cross Blood Bank is practically drained! I am sure the public is not aware of how serious this blood shortage is.

Many people have quit giving blood because they are afraid they might get AIDS from donating blood. This is not true. The fact is that the AIDS virus was found in some of the stored blood that was to be used for transfusions, but that threat is at a minimum since there is a new screening process.

I am enclosing a column that you ran May 7, 1985. After this came out in the Chicago Tribune, we had blood donors standing in line. Please help us again.

WORRIED VOLUNTEER

DEAR WORRIED: Consider it done:

WHAT GOOD IS A BLOOD DONOR?

A blood donor is good for people who go through windshields and red lights. For somebody with leukemia. For people being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren't careful. For people who are into feudin' and fightin'. For hemophiliacs and daredevils. For people undergoing dialysis while waiting for a kidney transplant. For people who fool around with guns. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle of something poisonous.

A blood donor is good for people who have been badly burned. For new mothers who need transfusions. For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For people having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For people with severe hepatitis and anemia. For kids who fall out of trees or whatever. For anybody any age with bleeding ulcers. For people who were in the wrong place at the wrong time.

A blood donor is good for people who are in a lot worse shape than most people you know.

A BLOOD DONOR IS GOOD FOR LIFE.

DEAR ABBY: I have just started dating a very beautiful young woman I think I could care for seriously. She's 27 and I'm 36. I have been losing my hair for the last two years, and while I'm not exactly thrilled with my receding hairline and the little balding spot on the back of my head, I'm not going to lose any sleep over it.

My ladyfriend has been after me to get a hairpiece. At first she said it in a kidding way, then after a while, I knew she was serious. It's gotten to the point where she is saying, "If you really love me, you'll get one."

I have no intentions of getting a hairpiece. So how do I handle this?

THINNING

DEAR THINNING: Tell her, "If you really love me, you won't insist."

DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for an article you wrote about a year ago in praise of the National Stuttering Project. I wrote to the address you mentioned, and I was sent information and a local number to call. Since then, I have attended several meetings.

I had been a stutterer all my life, and this group not only helped me to understand why I stuttered, but how to overcome it. If any other stutterers have not inquired about the NSP, I encourage them to do so. Please print the address again for those who may have missed it the first time.

I'm signing this letter along with the other members of the Sacramento Division. It's our way of saying thank you, Abby.

Ponder board changes

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Board of Medical Examiners needs to update antiquated procedures and attitudes in order to get tough with inept physicians, says a member of the board.

"Legislation won't help unless the board changes its attitude," Cynthia Jenkins, a public member of the board, told a news conference Wednesday.

"The attitude of the board is slowly changing, but we've got to stay that way. We can't change a few things and then go back to the way we've been doing," she said.

Ms. Jenkins appeared Wednesday in support of bills introduced in the House and Senate that would require all hospitals and health agencies to report to the board any disciplinary action taken against physicians.

The measure also provides legal protection for hospitals, doctors or others who report the misdeeds or mistakes of physicians.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena; Rep. Nancy McDonald, an El Paso nurse; and Rep. Mike McKinney, a Centerville physician, said their legislation may be expanded to require similar reports on sanctions against doctors in other health services.

New radar center slated to monitor drug smugglers

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal authorities say a new sophisticated radar center will help reduce the number of illicit drugs brought into the country through Mexico.

The Blue Fire Operations Center was unveiled Wednesday during a news conference in which sheriffs and police chiefs from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma were present.

With the facility in southwest Houston comes the use of balloons and radar-equipped aircraft to be used during Operation Alliance, the federal crackdown on narcotics smugglers, said U.S. Customs Commissioner William von Raab.

The auditorium-style control room monitors radar points at South Padre Island, Port Mansfield, Port O'Connor, Freeport, Galveston and other locales along the coast, von Raab said.
