planning to build moderately priced homes on Fordham Ave. to alleviate Big Spring's shortage of family housing. The rest of the Chamber of Commerce ambassadors and several Sun Country Realtors look on.

'American dream' homes to be built in Big Spring

Manna Associates, a Big Spring housing development contractor, is attempting to alleviate the city's need for moderately priced housing by offering prospective home buyers a choice of four types of dwellings on Fordham Ave. across from the Moss Elementary School.

Manna Associates held an official groundbreaking ceremony this morning for a model home which the firm expects to have built in approximately eight weeks, said Richard Diaz, president of Manna Associates.

Diaz said there is enough space to build 11 homes on the block. "What we're trying to do is build a quality home for a moderate price. So much of the housing nowadays is in the $70,000 to $80,000 category, but we're offering a complete housing package in the $60,000 to $65,000 range," said Diaz.

Diaz said the packaged deal includes a parcel of land, landscaping, stove, refrigerator, dishwasher, washer and dryer. He said color selections, brick and carpet samples can be seen at Sun Country Realtors.

The four types of dwellings offered range in size from 1,229 square feet up to 1,376 square feet, according to floor plans prepared by Manna Associates. These figures do not include garage space, said Diaz.

"The American dream is to buy a home and someone must build them and we're the ones doing the building so people can realize their dream," said Diaz.

Diaz said he hopes younger couples will be able to consider the new homes because of the lower prices. He also said the people who have moved here from Midland and Odessa because of the housing shortage in those cities might find the houses attractive.

"We like Big Spring and feel it has an opportunity to grow and we would like to grow with Big Spring. We have the in-house training and expertise to provide any kind of family housing and we could be here a long period of time given the opportunity," said Diaz.

Information about the new housing can be found at Sun Country Realtors or any multiple listing realtor in Big Spring.

In other construction projects around the city, James Duncan, owner of the Highland Mall, has put up $93,000 for the renovation of the shopping center.

Gary and Co. is handling the work.

John Gary said the renovation will involve a cosmetic process which will cover the Mall's floor and walls with imported tile and an acoustical suspended ceiling also will be installed.

"We're dressing up the store fronts and the outside of the mall and we hope to have most of the inside work done by Christmas," said Gary.

City court clerk shot in home; man arrested

An employee of the Big Spring Police Department was found shot late Wednesday afternoon in the home of her ex-husband at 3617 Connally, police said.

Gwendolyn Fair, 40, of 1905 Wasson, was listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Malone-Hogan Hospital today. She had been shot four times with a .22 caliber pistol, police said.

Fair is a municipal court clerk for the police department, said Lt. George Quintero, who has been investigating the incident since police were called to the scene about 6:37 p.m. Wednesday.

Quintero said today that after a call was received by the BSPD alerting them to a possible shooting, units were dispatched to 3617 Connally and found "Gwen inside the house. She'd been shot several times."

Also in the home was Fair's ex-husband, Arthur Julius Fair Jr., Quintero said. Fair, 46, was arrested on a charge of attempted murder, according to police reports.

Fair was transferred to county jail about 9:55 p.m. Wednesday and placed under a $50,000 bond set by Judge Lewis Heflin. He has been released on bond, made by Patterson & Jones.

Formal charges against Fair had not been filed this morning, although Quintero said he expected them to be filed by this afternoon.

The shooting may have been "the result of an argument," Lt. Quintero said today. "A motive has not really been established," he said.

According to District Attorney Rick Hamby, Fair served as a juror during the recent trial for Carroll Wayne Jones, who was convicted of rape of a child.

VA denies income test report

By BOB CARPENTER

Disputing a report by the Associated Press, the Veterans' Administration's announced recently there is no plan to deny medical care to eligible veterans based upon an income test.

Big Spring VA Medical Center Director John Steward told The Herald the VA is responding to an inaccurate AP story that stated many veterans with family incomes over $15,000 a year would be cut off from medical care.

"The VA has issued a news release stating that the story was false and misleading. Things will continue to be the same. There will be no change at this point in time regarding benefits and probably not in the foreseeable future," said Steward.

The release issued by the VA said: "No final income limitations have been determined... and no final decisions reached. Whatever steps we ultimately take to contain costs will be carefully designed to insure that no veteran with a service related condition or any veteran in dire financial straits will be denied quality health care by the VA."

"I'm not aware of what the story was based on, I know of no sources which anyone could have used to write the story. We're not sure how the rumor got going, but it's just not true," emphasized Steward.

The Sept. 25 story said that as many as 3 million of the 15 million veterans who get outpatient care at VA hospitals might have to find aid elsewhere. The AP also quoted a VA hospital administrator as saying 100,000 hospitalized veterans might be turned out of their hospital beds.

Cee-City launches school projects

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A number of projects are underway at Colorado High School, according to Superintendent Charlie Uselton.

Uselton commented: "We are advertising for bids for our bus garage which will be a building 40 feet by 165 feet... more of a shed-type... without any doors or windows, where the buses can be parked entirely inside, cutting down on the possibility of ice or sleet forming on the windshields and windows — which is a tremendous plus factor to the safety of our children."

Uselton continued: "We've received tremendous response from contractors not only in Colorado City but in Snyder, Abilene, Big Spring and other area cities. At this point, we haven't had any bids returned... but we're expecting several bids to be turned in to us at our regular school board meeting Monday night."

Colorado City's school system also is looking for two fulltime employees in its bus program and Uselton encourages all persons interested in pursuing employment in this field to contact him.

On the subject of utility bill conservation, Uselton remarked: "As you know, we are taking bids for an energy-management program for all of our buildings. We have had a number of persons who have called to ask questions concerning this project and we'll have some bids turned in at Monday night's meeting. We hope this program will be something with which we can live financially. We know we need to do something, and in some cases, various companies have guaranteed a full (repayment) of investment within two years."

Uselton concluded: "Energy conservation in the schools is the talk across the state and we certainly are among the interested."

SIGN LANGUAGE

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Pictured here today is the sign for "fine." Think how often during the day you say "O.K." or "that's fine" and you'll see this sign is very well used.

To sign fine, place your thumb at the chest and point your other fingers outward. Move the hand slightly up and forward.

Of course, if you'd rather sign "O.K." just sign an "O" and a "K" and you'll be doing fine.

Since you know the sign for "fine" you can now sign "polite," "courteous," "manners," "fancy," "formal," and "elegant" with very little extra effort. For any of the above six words, repeat the sign for "fine" twice. How you use the word in context will help the person you are signing to understand what you are communicating.

As we've pointed out before in this column, American Sign Language condenses often, and makes use of facial expression and body language rather than words to convey variations.

ASL also omits articles like a, an

and the.

Often, when relying on ASL you use one sign plus body and facial expression for a complete statement. And ASL uses one sign concept to convey several English words.

This information on ASL is contained in "American Sign Language, A Student Text," by Dennis Cokely and Charlotte Baker. This text is one used in many sign classes taught through the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf of the Howard County Junior College District.

The sign reprinted here is used courtesy of Gospel Printing House.

Banks set record for deposits, loans

Big Spring area bank deposits for the third quarter of 1981 surpassed a record set during the first quarter of this year by close to $9 million, according to figures released by the banks.

Total deposits for county banks, including First National Bank, Security State Bank, State National Bank and Coahoma State Bank, reached $211,433,494. This compares to $202,845,188 in first quarter deposit totals for the period ending March 31. Second quarter deposit totals for the period ending June 30 dropped to $199,453,101.

A total of $111,072,494 in loans was recorded for the third quarter which ended Sept. 30. This is an increase of more than $3 million in loans over the second quarter figures. On June 30 $107,299,066 in loans had been recorded. Third quarter figures for 1980 show a total of $85,277,013 had been recorded.

Action/reaction: Juvenile officer

Q. What are the qualifications for the juvenile probation officer's position? Are the requirements due to be changed? Who makes the appointment?

A. The requirements for the juvenile probation officer changed on Sept. 1 of this year. Juvenile probation officers must have a college degree and have one year's experience in the field. Current probation officers are not affected by this.

In Howard County, the juvenile officer is appointed by a Juvenile Board. This board is made up of two members appointed by the County Commissioners, two members from the City Commissioners, and two members appointed by the school board. The county judge acts as the president of the board.

Injured city fireman may not walk again

Bobby Wayne Sullivan, a Big Spring fireman severely injured in a motorcycle accident Sept. 27, is recovering at Methodist Hospital in Houston, according to Big Spring Investigator Rodney Phillips. Phillips, who said he talked with Sullivan Tuesday, said the fireman is given "a very, very slight chance of walking again."

Sullivan underwent extensive surgery on his spine Oct. 1 and 2 and is in "fairly good spirits," said Phillips. He said Sullivan wanted to be back in Big Spring with his friends and that Sullivan hoped he could "return to being a fireman again."

Phillips said he was checking into the possibility of Sullivan moving to the Veterans' Administration Hospital or to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Phillips said a fund has been set up by area firemen to help Sullivan at First National Bank. According to Phillips, the fund is to defray the costs of flying Sullivan to Houston, as well as to cover the loss of income, the cost of rehabilitation and costs not covered by insurance.

Persons wishing to contribute to the fund may do so either by mail or by leaving contributions at the bank.

Air convoy will land in Big Spring Friday

A 10-plane All Texas Air Tour will be landing tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Big Spring's municipal airport. The visit is part of a trip being taken by retired persons who are traveling to various points of interest in Texas, said Mark Sheedy, assistant manager of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Sheedy said when the flyers arrive the chamber will greet them and host a barbecue meal. The travelers will be provided transportation to and from their motels and the chamber will explain any questions about Big Spring the flyers may have.

Sheedy said the tour will help to bring trade into the Big Spring area and he hopes it will be a learning experience for everyone involved.

Sheriff holds woman for theft

Olivia Balderas, 19, was transferred from the city police to Sheriff's custody today. Balderas, of 1301 Park, is charged with theft over $200. Bonds of $10,000 and $5,000 were set by Judge Bobby West. She was released after bond was posted by Basden & Conway.

Carol Wayne Jones was transferred to the custody of the sheriff's office after sentencing yesterday to 16 years in prison for a rape of a child conviction.

Man gets 3 year drug term

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Robert James Brotherton, charged with delivery of a controlled substance, was sentenced to three years in state prison after entering a guilty plea Wednesday in 32nd District Court.

A second trial got under way in the district courtroom over defendant Edward Tietzman, who is charged with theft.

Sweetwater credit group seeks new directors

SWEETWATER — Stockholders of the Sweetwater Production Credit Association will hold their 47th annual stockholders meeting at the Scurry County Coliseum in Snyder Friday. Election of new directors is one item of business the stockholders will consider.

A.R. McCarty Jr. of Colorado City is the incumbent candidate for director of Position 4. McCarty, a cotton producer and cattle rancher, has been a PCA member for 20 years. Stanley Moore of Colorado City also is a nominee for director of Position 4. He produces cotton and alfalfa.

Two Lubbock cotton producers have been nominated for the directorship of Position 5. Sanford J. Boardman has been a PCA member since 1961, and Lloyd Coffman has been with the PCA for 28 years.

Two Houston residents are on the ballot for the Position 6 director. Buster Haggard, the incumbent and 29-year PCA member, is a cotton and cattle producer, as is Glen Morrison, a 10-year PCA member.

Guest speaker for the event is Bob Jett, consumer commodities specialist, who will speak about the energy crisis. Jett has a long background in radio, TV and professional entertainment.

Registration is set to begin at 9 a.m. at the coliseum.

Adoption is preferable

Adoption is preferable, plus moral relaxation, have combined to produce a big teen-age pregnancy problem in the nation, said Howard Hulett, head of the Southwest home, at the Downtown Lions' Wednesday meeting.

The sheer weight of numbers has overcome any deterrents of contraceptives in teen-age pregnancies, he said. As a consequence, homes for unwed mothers are almost overwhelmed, he told the Lions.

At Smithtown in Lubbock, as in many other homes in Texas and across the nation, viable alternatives are held out to young mothers, he said. Sometimes jobs are found, sometimes family reconciliations are effected, sometimes adoptions are arranged, he explained.

Adoption, he said, is the oldest and most satisfactory means of caring for homeless children. Since about one-third of adoptions are biologically incapable of having children, the demand for children from adoption agencies is many times the number of babies available.

SAM'S SUIT — Sam Brown, the 14-year-old Easley, S.C. youth who visited Egypt as a guest of Anwar Sadat's two years ago, checks the length of a pair of pants with C.L. Smith, an Easley department store employee. Sam went suit shopping tonight after he received word he would be included in the American delegation to the Egyptian leader's funeral.

Two teens who corresponded with Sadat saddened by attack

By The Associated Press

Two young Americans who wrote Egyptian President Anwar Sadat about their admiration for his bold Mideast peacemaking efforts now wonder whether their fallen hero's hopes can survive.

"My friend is dead," said Sam Brown, the 14-year-old who sent a letter to Sadat two years ago and received a handwritten reply and a free trip to Egypt. Brown got a haircut and new suit Wednesday for a trip back to Cairo — for the slain president's funeral.

"I respected and admired him for trying to make peace with Israel," he said. "It takes a man to make peace after a war. I think there will never be such a peacemaker as he."

Mark A. Russell, 17, of Fort Wayne, Ind., received a signed, typewritten reply five months ago from Sadat for a letter he wrote. He was particularly pleased with the salutation, which addressed him as "My son."

"I'm sure his death will cause violence in the future, which is ironic because he wanted peace," Russell said.

Tuesday's assassination, Russell said, "reaffirms my convictions that the world does need peace. When a man of peace is gunned down in such a senseless and violent fashion... it is saddening, but it's also inspiring."

Brown was a Georgia schoolboy when he wrote Sadat. He now lives in Liberty, S.C., and through the efforts of his congressman, Rep. Carroll Campbell, will accompany former Presidents Carter, Ford and Nixon to the funeral Saturday.

Donald Brown said his son "still feels real bad about the death of President Sadat. This thing has touched him more than anything I've ever seen touch him. He idolized President Sadat."

But the boy's mother, Sybil, said Brown "was really down until he heard that he was going to the funeral. Now he says he can at least go over there and pay his respects."

Russell told Sadat that as a young black man he was resolved to fight racism in America and believed in Sadat's peace initiatives in the Middle East.

"I cannot help but feel that even though we are many, many miles apart, our goals of brotherhood and peace unite and uplift our souls when our optimism gives way to pessimism," the youngster wrote.

Said the reply: "Thanks a lot for taking the trouble of sending such a kind letter which expresses your good feelings towards me. I seize this opportunity to wish you a most happy and prosperous life."

Russell, a senior at Northrop High School where he is a member of the debate and speech club and vice president of the Afro-American Club, plans to attend Indiana University.

He described Sadat as "a level head in the midst of hot heads," and said he never expected a reply to his letter, much less a personal response.

Sadat funeral security tightened

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The government announced today that plans for the funeral of assassinated President Anwar Sadat have been altered to insure tighter security.

The announcement coincided with a clash between riot police and Muslim worshippers in the southern city of Assiut in which shots were fired, police sources said. It was not immediately known if there were casualties.

The government, which has accused a Muslim fanatic of leading the attack on Sadat, rearranged events for the Saturday funeral to safeguard the scores of dignitaries, including Egypt's new leader, Vice President Hosni Mubarak, European royalty, heads of state and three former U.S. presidents.

President Reagan, wounded in an assassination attempt in March, will not attend the funeral because of the danger of an attack, the White House announced.

Communications Director David Gergen said all three living former American presidents — Jimmy Carter, Gerald R. Ford and Richard M. Nixon — accepted Reagan's request that they represent the United States at the funeral. The delegation will be headed by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and will also include former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

Egypt's parliament, in an attempt to assure a smooth transition in power, has given a 5-1 endorsement to Mubarak as the sole candidate to succeed Sadat in a nationwide referendum next Tuesday.

Apparently to make sure nothing disrupts the chain of succession and to guard against attacks on the dignitaries, Sadat's body will travel a route that can be better controlled by the military.

A government spokesman said prayers will be held at a mosque on the grounds of Cairo's Maadi military hospital where Sadat died Tuesday after being wounded in an attack during a military parade.

The spokesman said Sadat's coffin will then be flown by helicopter from the hospital, some six miles south of central Cairo, to the main sports stadium in Nasr City, five miles northeast of Cairo.

Police Beat Radar detector stolen from car

Alan Roberts, 538 Westover, told police Wednesday that someone broke into his 1981 Datsun and took a radar detector and a set of metric wrenches. Total value of the goods taken was $285, police said.

A door reportedly was taken off its hinges at the Figure Seven Tennis Center prior to 3:04 p.m. Wednesday. An employee at the tennis center told police that damage to a lock on the door and to the hinges resulted in the incident.

Police arrested Gina Balderas, 1301 Park, at 4:06 p.m. Wednesday and charged her with theft over $200 and under $10,000.

A theft at 2522 Gunter was reported at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Police report one roll of cambray vinyl valued at $525 was taken from the home.

An employee at the Dairy Queen at 2600 Gregg told police that a male subject ordered some food from the store, then said he didn't want what was served to him. He then changed his order, and allegedly short-changed the waitress of $10.54.

A minor accident was reported at U.S. 87 and Interstate 20 at 12:01 p.m. Wednesday. A 1978 truck driven by Johnny Harris and a 1982 Continental driven by Catherine Taylor of Georgia collided at that time, police said.

Hal Hudson, Lubbock, told police that at about 8:59 p.m. Wednesday someone hit his car and left the scene. The accident occurred in front of the Sands Motel on U.S. 80, police said.

PTA membership drive winds up

"Happiness is PTA," the city-wide PTA membership campaign, winds up Friday in all but one of the five local PTAs.

Latest figures put 1,465 members on the rolls of Big Spring PTAs — 350 at Marcy, 288 at Moss, 378 at Kentwood and 449 at Washington. No figures are available yet for the College Heights PTA, which started the campaign late and will extend it into next week.

Local PTAs set a goal of 2,080 PTA members — one for each student enrolled in the five schools. On Wednesday, 70 percent of that goal had been reached, according to Carole Owen, of the membership drive.

Washington PTA is the only one to have surpassed last year's membership yet, according to city membership Chairman Shelane Roberts. However, Kentwood, Moss and Washington all have reached their membership goals, said Roberts.

Contrary to rumor, Snoopy really did become a PTA member at Moss Elementary, according to Moss membership Chairman Linda Bradley.

Dogs normally can't join PTA, but Moss PTA decided if Snoopy, the campaign's star, could come up with 283 votes, he could join. Each student, teacher or staff member recruiting a PTA member was entitled to cast one vote. So far, Snoopy's tallied 312 votes.

Anyone 18 years or older can join PTA and lend their financial support through the small membership fee even if they have no child in school and cannot be actively involved in the organization's projects, according to Roberts.

Membership fees may be sent to school with students tomorrow or dropped by the school offices — College Heights, $1.50; Kentwood, $1.75; Moss, $1.50; Marcy, $1.75, and Washington, $1.50.

Stanton council clarifies service billing procedures

STANTON — The Stanton City Council met and rescinded a resolution which would have placed sewer and garbage billing under the heading "city services," according to Stanton City Manager Gary Rudler. The single billing caused too many problems, so sewer and garbage billings will continue separately, Rudler said.

The council also received James Tompkins recommendation of a 15-year rotation on city streets, said Rudler. The plan calls for 16 blocks to be sealed each year at a cost of $30,000 a year.

The council also opened bids on a street sweeper for the city, looking at bids of $45,000 on a brush machine from an Odessa firm and $52,000 on a vacuum machine from a Dallas firm, Rudler said. The awarding of the bid was tabled until a special council meeting set for 7 a.m. Friday.

Rudler said the council heard from the city engineer about plans for the waste treatment plant and a cost reduction from $627,000 to $300,000. Rudler said the next meeting would discuss raising commercial garbage rates.

In other action, the council approved Terry Blair and Gary Rudler to attend the Lignita nuclear plant tour, Rudler said.

C-City playhouse picks cast for Neil Simon play

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The next Colorado City Playhouse production has been cast, according to director Marsha Moore.

The Neil Simon comedy, "I Ought to Be in Pictures," will be performed by the West Texas theater group, the first amateur group in the area to present this play.

According to Moore, "We're delighted with the cast. There are only three roles: the male role by Carl Moore, his girlfriend by Jolyn Mikow and his daughter by Lesa Wilkinson."

Moore continued, "We plan to have a lot of fun with this play, with tentative production dates scheduled for Nov. 12, 13 and 14 and Nov. 19, 20 and 21."

"I Ought to Be in Pictures," is a new Simon play based on a combination of two of his former plays which have been made into a movie.

Theft trial delayed

The trial of Langford Wood, alias Bradford Wood, for theft from a person has been postponed and tentatively rescheduled for Friday morning, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby.

The illness of a juror's relative is the reason for the postponement, Hamby said. The trial is being held in 118th District Court.

Wood is charged with stealing some $400 in cash from an individual, said Hamby. Wood is being defended by Wayne Basden.

Hamby said that on Monday the murder trial of Steve Morse is scheduled to begin.

"The case is from the Midland district attorney's office, and they will be trying it with our help," Hamby explained.

Hamby said the prosecution will be handled by the Midland DA, Vern Martin, or one of his assistants, while Hamby's office would be assisting.

Hamby also noted that Judge Baskin would be presiding.

MEMORIAL FOR SADAT — President and Mrs. Reagan, along with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. are pictured at a memorial service Wednesday at the Washington National Cathedral for slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Sadat was shot Tuesday, while attending a parade in Cairo.

Haig will lead delegation

Former U.S. presidents to attend Sadat funeral

WASHINGTON (AP) — All three living former American presidents are making an extraordinary journey to Cairo to mourn the death of slain Egyptian leader Anwar Sadat, the "gigantic personality" who befriended the United States and made peace with Israel.

Only rarely in U.S. history have there been three surviving former presidents at the same time and joint appearances by such select groups have been even more unusual.

But at President Reagan's request, Jimmy Carter, Gerald R. Ford and Richard M. Nixon agreed to participate in the official U.S. delegation which will attend Sadat's funeral Saturday. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. will lead the group.

Reagan himself, acting on the advice of U.S. security agencies, decided "with great regret" to stay home, said White House communications director David Gergen.

Sadat's shift away from the Soviet Union and toward the United States occurred during Nixon's presidency. One of Nixon's final trips abroad as president was to Egypt a few weeks before he resigned in August 1974. Unswerving support for Sadat has been a mainstay of American foreign policy since then.

Haig was the White House chief of staff at the time of Nixon's trip.

On Wednesday, it was Haig who offered the administration's first major policy statement on the Middle East following Sadat's death.

He called Sadat "a gigantic personality" and said the United States must take from his death "a fresh determination to complete his work."

Haig pledged full support for Hosni Mubarak, Sadat's hand-picked successor, adding that the United States "is pledged to work with Egypt and our other friends in the region to build a structure of relationships which will protect and advance our mutual interests in the Middle East."

In an apparent message to Libya and other radical Arab states as well as the Soviet Union, Haig declared at a news conference that the United States "would view with great concern...any efforts by external powers to manipulate the tragic events of the last 24 hours."

As he spoke, the Defense Department continued its order, issued shortly after Sadat's death, calling for increased readiness of some elements of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force and American warships in the Mediterranean.

Haig and the three former presidents will be joined by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, congressional leaders and other dignitaries. Among the former first ladies, only Rosalyn Carter will attend.

Domestic cuts face tough fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans on the Senate Appropriations Committee, in a direct rebuff to President Reagan, say they won't go along with the administration's plan for a 12 percent, across-the-board cut in domestic programs.

Instead, there is growing support for much sharper cuts in defense spending than Reagan wants, and some members are urging postponement of next July's personal tax cut installment.

Despite their differences with Reagan, the GOP group favors the president's plan to trim $16 billion from the deficit for the 1982 fiscal year.

Reporting on two days of private meetings among GOP members of the committee, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said Wednesday that it would be "impossible to take 12 percent across the board in all accounts." The feelings of the committee Republicans are important because the panel drafts spending legislation for floor action.

Reagan's proposal was "not politically realistic, nor was it equitable," said Hatfield, the committee chairman, speaking with reporters on a day when all 53 Senate Republicans caucused privately to review Reagan's latest economic proposals.

Hatfield also reported that "strong support... is emerging to double the president's request" for a $2 billion cut in planned military spending in the 1982 fiscal year, which began Oct. 1.

The Oregon Republican spoke with reporters shortly after a spokesman for the White House hinted broadly that Reagan would veto an $87.4 billion House-passed appropriations bill for the departments of Labor, Education and Health and Human Services. The measure still must go to the Senate.

"This appears to be the kind of bill he was talking about" when the president vowed last week to veto budget-busting legislation, spokesman Larry Speakes said, although he later added that he wasn't definitely saying Reagan would veto the measure.

Even though the bill was approved by voice vote, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., conceded the House probably would uphold a veto.

In the Senate, Hatfield said Republicans on the Appropriations Committee decided to seek cuts of $5 billion combined in defense and domestic programs. That compares with a total of $10.4 billion that Reagan called for in those areas.

Former official sentenced

THE COLONY, Texas (AP) — A former police officer and city councilman has been sentenced to five years in prison after pleading guilty to raping two girls.

Freeman Upchurch, 38, resigned from the council in August after he was indicted by a Denton County grand jury.

He was arrested in July after a young girl identified him as her attacker. Upchurch, who has four children, was charged with two counts of raping a child. The victims were 12 and 14.

Upchurch served as a police sergeant for two years and won a council seat last spring.

Siamese

twins

'inseparable'

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Tests Wednesday evening on the Siamese twins born recently in a set of triplet girls show the two have congenital heart defects that make them inseparable. Sierra Medical Center spokesman Lynne Freeman said.

The twins, joined at the chest and upper abdomen, had been in stable condition in Sierra's intensive care nursery since their birth Sept. 24. Their conditions worsened Wednesday, and Dr. Stanley Wagner and Dr. David Gough performed tests to see if heart problems caused the decline.

The test involved injecting a dye into heart blood vessels to see how the heart is pumping and if the blood supply to the heart is blocked.

Late Wednesday, the twins were in critical but stable condition.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service predicts rain Friday for parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, The Mississippi River Valley and the South, with showers predicted for parts of New Mexico, Texas, The Mid West, Idaho and Montana.

Heavy thunderstorms soak South Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Forecasters predicted some relief today from the thunderstorms whipped by vigorous winds that dumped heavy rains in South Texas, sent streams cascading over their banks and chased some residents to higher ground.

The National Weather Service said there was only a 30 percent chance of additional rain today in San Antonio and the surrounding Hill Country.

Parts of South Texas were deluged by more than 10 inches of rain Wednesday. The downpour swamped roadways and swept one San Antonio man more than 3 miles down churning Olmos Creek.

Rick Anthony Patterson, 20, who fought the swirling waters for 90 minutes after falling into the creek, was found grasping an underpass pillar in 20 feet of water. Firemen threw him a lifeline and pulled him to safety. He was treated for exposure at Brooke Army Medical Center.

Dozens of San Antonio motorists stranded in low-water crossings were rescued early Wednesday, but no injuries or mass evacuations were reported.

A violent storm that some residents insisted was a tornado damaged patios and roofs and uprooted trees in two Southwest Bexar County subdivisions in San Antonio.

Mary Guerra said she awoke to find the stone patio that had been set in concrete behind her home lying in the front yard.

"It was like somebody took a big hand and ripped it out," she said. "It made an awful noise. I wanted to cry. We just had it built about three months ago. We saved so hard to get it done."

Other area residents reported small buildings tossed as far as 50 feet and trees uprooted. A weather service spokesman said the early morning storm could have been a tornado, or a "gust-burst" — a violent wind associated with a thunderstorm.

Heaviest rains were reported southwest of San Antonio at Derby in Frio County, with 10.6 inches, and at Devine, in neighboring Medina County, which recorded 10 inches. The thundershowers began Tuesday.

At Dilley, about 100 miles southwest of here, swollen Cibola Creek rose over a bridge and forced the closing of IH-35, the main highway to Laredo.

San Antonio utility officials reported numerous power outages blamed on lightning from the thunderstorms, attributed to the cold front and an upper air disturbance over Northern Mexico which spread through the Southwest western United States.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Some drizzle, fog this morning. Otherwise, mostly cloudy today with scattered thunderstorms south this afternoon. Partly cloudy northwest. Cloudy south tonight and Friday. Scattered showers, thunderstorms, more numerous south. A few heavy thunderstorms possible southwestern mountains tonight. Warmer north today. Highs mostly 40s except mid 60 to low 80s southwest. Lows mostly 50s except upper 40s lowlands of the Big Bend.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Scattered showers and thunderstorms mainly southern portions ending late Saturday. Partly cloudy most sections Sunday and Monday. Near seasonal normal temperatures through the weekend. Highs in the upper 40s north to the upper 60s southwest and lows ranging from the mid 40s north to the mid 60s south.

Clements says talks with Mexico crucial

FORT DAVIS, Texas (AP) — Establishing lines of communications was the most significant part of the recent meeting between four U.S. governors and six Mexican governors, Gov. Bill Clements said Wednesday. Clements spoke at a Fort Davis Chamber of Commerce banquet attended by 370 people.

"Irrespective of the issues we were in complete agreement of the benefit of both nations, this must be a continuous thing," he said.

Meetings between governors of both countries should be convened annually, he said.

"A major concern of Texas is its relationship with Mexico," he said.

The governors discussed several topics including immigration, agriculture, conservation and tourism.

Specific new actions were agreed upon, Clements said. He did not elaborate, however.

"Regarding illegal aliens, the governor said, 'The situation now is wrong. We must develop a system to document aliens.'"

The governor also encouraged voters to support the proposed Texas Constitutional amendment establishing a state water trust fund.

"Texas is considered a water-short state," he said.

"Without new reservoirs, we will have a severe water shortage by the year 2000. It is a statewide concern. (The amendment) is an investment in our future. A water trust will be tax saving in the long term sense."

"A shortage of water will effect metropolitan areas as well as rural regions," he said.

The population growth for Texas will severely strain its resources and he asked rural Texans not to forget the needs of their urban brethren.

"You cannot isolate yourselves from the rest of the state," he said.

"You're Texans, too."

In a similar vein, Clements said, government needs to learn how to tighten its financial belts and spend tax dollars more wisely.

"We need to instill a sense of discipline in the government. I see a healthy trend taking hold in government."

"We've reduced the percentage of state spending, we've reduced the size of the bureaucracy."

Republican Clarke in comptroller race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Fred "Buddy" Clarke III has announced as a Republican candidate for state comptroller, saying the job needs more daily attention than it is getting.

Clarke, president of an accounting firm in Dallas, told a news conference Wednesday he had gotten his "family and business in order" so he could campaign full time.

He said he would raise $1 million or "whatever it takes" to win the office.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, a Democrat, announced almost a year ago he would run for re-election in 1982.

"The name Buddy Clarke will be a household word by next May" when the primaries will be held, said Clarke, 36. Former Travis County Sheriff Raymond Frank, 64, has said he will announce later this month for comptroller in the GOP primary.

Clarke said, "I really see the need for someone in this office who knows what he's doing. I'm not a politician. Without naming Bullock, he said the man currently in the office 'shows an arrogance about him.'"

"The office has been one which needs attention, day after day, attention, and day-to-day leadership. I can handle the attention without being arrogant and abrasive," he said.

"My goal right now is not to run a 'dirty' campaign, 'not to touch on his (Bullock's) health or any physical problems," Clarke said.

Bullock entered an alcoholism treatment program at an Orange, Calif., hospital last month and is not expected to be released until Oct. 23.

"I'm looking forward to sending him back to Hillsboro (Bullock's hometown) where he can get well," said Clarke.

Clarke is a graduate of Highland Park High School and North Texas State University.

His resume says he has worked in the presidential elections of Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, George Bush and Ronald Reagan, in Gov. Bill Clements' 1978 race and in Dallas legislative races.

Clarke said Dallas businessmen who are close friends had encouraged him to run. "I think it will be a tough race, but I've got the backbone to do it," he said.

Another milestone for SWCID

We have within our midst an institution that is bursting at the seams.

Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf opened its doors in 1980 with 26 students and 24 staff members.

Since then it has increased its enrollment more than 500 percent, to 137 students and 48 staff.

Even more importantly, out of 57 post-secondary programs for the deaf recognized by the office of Demographic Studies in Washington D.C., SWCID has moved from 28th place to third place in enrollment for the United States and Canada.

Third largest out of 57 programs! Right here in Big Spring, Texas.

THE ONLY TWO institutions serving more deaf students than SWCID are Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., and the National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) in Rochester, N.Y. Each of these colleges has an approximate full-time enrollment of 1,000 deaf students. Gallaudet is more than 100 years old and was legislated by Abraham Lincoln during his presidency. NTID has been in operation for 13 years and is a college of the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Both of these colleges have long waiting lists of students seeking admission.

Despite a shortage of adequate housing, SWCID continues to grow by leaps and bounds. This is partly because of SWCID's excellent recruitment program; partly because of the support of organizations in Texas, such as deaf consumers and parents of the deaf; but mainly because of the need for an education facility in the Southwest for deaf students.

ALSO: SWCID has an excellent design, with self-contained classes taught by persons specially trained to work with the deaf, as well as opportunity for total mainstreaming in courses at Howard College.

SWCID is the world's first state self-contained college for the deaf. Its funds come from the Texas Legislature, as opposed to Gallaudet, which depends on federal monies. The open support of the Legislature and Gov. Clements has been crucial to SWCID as well as the support of the board of trustees of Howard County Junior College District.

ONE OF THE MOST important factors to SWCID's success has been the receptiveness of the Big Spring community to the new students in town. The excitement of growth is contagious, and there is a tremendous demand for sign language instruction throughout the community as it opens the doors of communication and welcome.

With additional funding, training and dormitory facilities, SWCID's enrollment will continue to grow, serving deaf students from Texas and the Southwest who do not want to go as far as Washington D.C. or New York for their college education.

"So now you know why I'm called, 'Mr. Zip'!"

Boss Reagan

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Reagan "did all the talking" during a Sept. 28 hush-hush session on the MX missile with Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger in his White House living quarters right after Reagan returned from his law-and-order speech in New Orleans.

When Weinberger raised his familiar arguments against putting the MX mobile missile in protective shelters, Reagan cut him off. The president said he had made up his mind on the MX. There would be no more temporizing. He wanted the MX built and he wanted it land-based.

Reagan told Weinberger to proceed with research on the so-called "long duration" aircraft that, if ever built, might be used to carry the MX sometime in the future. But for now, the president hammered home his theme: The U.S. must show the Soviet Union and its European allies that it can make tough decisions.

CARTER IN '84? Hamilton Jordan, who master-minded Jimmy Carter's phenomenal climb from obscurity to the 1976 presidential nomination, is eyeing an even harder assignment: taking Carter from national rejection in 1980 to the 1984 nomination.

In telephone conversations with the former president's supporters around the country, Jordan has hinted at a Carter comeback. But one of Carter's most generous and loyal supporters brought Jordan up short: You must be dreaming, he said, or else totally unaware of Carter's unpopularity around the country.

A footnote: Robert S. Strauss, Carter's campaign chairman in 1980 who has toyed with the notion of a 1984 presidential run himself, has quietly told supporters that it is no Strauss believes a campaign would be more likely to destroy him than nominate him. But that does not rule out Strauss as the first Jewish vice president.

Sen. John Glenn was making slow progress trying to persuade Japan's defense officials to increase military spending. But when a headline announcing "White House to Cut $30 billion in Defense" screamed across page one of a leading Tokyo newspaper, Glenn was completely undermined.

The Sept. 1 headline was over a Washington story quoting "White House officials" that President Reagan was planning to reduce military spending by that amount. In fact, the source — White House chief of staff James Baker — was out of touch when he leaked that erroneous word. Reagan soon put him straight.

But the damage had been done in Tokyo. Glenn, a defense-oriented Democrat with presidential aspirations, had pressed the Japanese hard to raise their puny defense spending, particularly in view of the massive American effort defending Japan's oil sources in the Midwest. With the appearance of that headline, Glenn knew that the smiles on the faces of the Japanese officials spelled defeat for him.

NEW AND OLD RIGHT The difference between the new and the old right was pointed up when Sen. Barry Goldwater succumbed to the pleas of Majority Leader Howard Baker for the decisive vote to enact the trillion-dollar debt limit.

Giving back Republicans some of their old medicine for refusing to cooperate with debt ceiling problems of Democratic presidents, all Democratic senators withheld their support — insisting that Republicans provide all votes for the unpleasant but necessary chore Baker finally twisted Goldwater's arm after three junior Republican senators — Bill Armstrong of Colorado, Charles Grassley of Iowa and Steve Symms of Idaho — said no.

Armstrong, Grassley and Symms along with Sens. Gordon Humphrey of New Hampshire and Don Nickles of Oklahoma, who also voted no, are members of the new right, committed to hard principle. As a more flexible old rightist, Goldwater could not refuse his majority leader's entreaties. Baker was so relieved that, in plain view of the Senate galleries, he hugged the man who used to be called Mr. Conservative.

LIBERATING EL SALVADOR According to intelligence reports, France and Mexico timed their diplomatic recognition of leftist insurgents in El Salvador to coincide with the most recent — and, as it turned out, unsuccessful — guerrilla offensive.

The idea, pushed particularly hard on the French, was that recognition from Paris and Mexico City would be timed with occupation of Salvadoran "liberated zones" by the communist-led guerrillas. But the offensive failed to establish any clear areas under insurgent occupation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please write on carbon monoxide poisoning. It seems lay people should know that the first sign is a pounding heart (my experience). I almost died from it until we had our furnace repaired, but it took a long time to get my strength back. Perhaps older people should know about this. I am 75. My doctor missed the diagnosis. — A.G.

You are right. There are so many chances of carbon monoxide poisoning we should be more alert to the symptoms. But don't be too harsh on your doctor. I must say that I would probably have missed it, too.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas that comes from the incomplete combustion of fossil fuels. With the increased use of tighter home insulation and fuel-saving, wood-burning furnaces and space heaters, carbon monoxide content of our air

Defense worse than noted

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Last week, with much fanfare, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger released a 99-page assessment of Soviet military power in hopes of persuading the American public and our NATO allies that the Russian war machine poses a serious threat to Western security.

But Weinberger didn't reveal the whole story, for some reason. A top-secret document obtained by my associate Dale Van Atta shows that the situation is even worse than Weinberger described it.

The document is the current Military Posture Statement prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was the principal source of Weinberger's public report.

Some of Weinberger's omissions were minor, such as his description of Soviet long-range air forces as "more than 800 strike and support aircraft," when the Joint Chiefs' report puts the number at 874 deployed at 25 airfields throughout the Soviet Union.

SOME WERE MORE serious. For example, referring to the Soviets' electronic jamming and interception techniques, Weinberger did not add this ominous appraisal by the Joint Chiefs: They (the Russians) can monitor and counter U.S. radar and communications signals from ground, air, naval and space platforms. That pretty well covers the field, and the Russians obviously know they have this capability. But Weinberger chose not to disclose this to the American people and our European allies.

At another point, the defense secretary made a brief reference to the Russians' ability to reload their intercontinental ballistic missile launchers. But he omitted the Joint Chiefs' admission that our intelligence agencies have so far been unable to come up with important details of the Soviets' reloading capability. "The time required to refurbish and reload ICBM launchers is not known, nor is the survivability of the silo launcher or key logistics and support functions," the secret posture statement acknowledges.

One of the most disturbing sections of the Joint Chiefs' report concerned anti-ballistic missile defense. Weinberger didn't even touch on the subject in his public report.

As I reported last May, the Russians have been feverishly developing their ABM system, despite the strict limitations of the 1972 U.S.-Soviet ABM treaty. The United States, meanwhile, has let its ABM program lag.

THE SECRET REPORT notes that

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have never had anything to do with religion, but now I feel I need God in my life. The problem is I am very shy, and I don't want to go to a church because I don't know anyone. What should I do? — A.A.T.

DEAR A.A.T.: I am thankful you are sensing your need of God. God created you — you are not here by chance. He also loves you very much and, more than anything, he wants you to come to know him personally. He has made this possible for you if you will reach out and accept his gift of salvation.

It will be important for you to go to a church where Christ is preached — and when you do, you will find, I believe, that they want to help you and reach out to you. But the most important thing you can do is something you can do right now, right where you are.

You can invite Jesus Christ into your life by a simple prayer of faith, and if you will do that, he has promised to come into your life. Jesus said, "whoever comes to me I will never drive away" (John 6:37).

You see, your need is to have the barrier between you and God removed. That barrier is caused by sin, and only God can take it away. And that is what he made possible in Jesus Christ. Christ died on the cross as a sacrifice for our sins. He is the one who bridges the gap between us and God, and when we come to him in repentance and faith we are reconciled to God.

"For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself as a ransom for all men" (1 Timothy 2:5-6).

Once you come to Christ you will discover that you are part of God's people. You need other Christians — and they need you. Even if you do not know anyone at first, attending a church where Christ is preached will help you grow spiritually. And as you begin to get involved and get acquainted with other believers, you will find that you are surrounded by the love of Christ in these people.

the Soviets are continuing work "on an ABM system — the ABM-X-3, which could be deployed rapidly to defend large parts of the Soviet land-mass." This suggests a significant mobility that has no U.S. counterpart.

In addition, the Joint Chiefs reported, the Russians have huge phased-array radar networks under construction that would spot and zero in on incoming missiles for Soviet ABM interceptors. They even pinpointed the four construction sites — Pechora, Sary Shagan, Lyaki and Olenegorsk — and warned that work at the last-named site "may now be complete," or will be early next year.

"Another large phased-array radar recently was identified under construction north of Moscow," the Joint Chiefs reported. "although it is too early to determine its function with confidence, it probably is designed for battle management of the Moscow area BMD (ballistic missile defense) system."

"The Soviets have been deploying and testing an ABM-X-3 system at Sary Shagan for over 15 years. Primary efforts appear to be devoted toward development of a discrimination ability, rather than operational deployments."

Finally, the secret report points to recent activity around Moscow as evidence that "a launcher replacement program is underway." The ABM treaty permits 100 launchers around Moscow; in 1979, there were 64, but last year this was reduced to 32. This clearly suggests that the Soviets are planning to replace Moscow's missile defense system with improved ABMs.

UNDER THE DOME: Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., was outraged the other day when he arrived late at a hearing of the Subcommittee on the Constitution and found the staff taking testimony because no other senator had shown up. "Increasingly over the past month, this has become routine at this and perhaps other subcommittees," Leahy complained to the panel's ranking minority member, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del. "I think the practice of abandoning the chair for some or all of a hearing reflects poorly on the Judiciary Committee and the Senate. To leave a hearing in the hands of staff is to announce to witnesses that we are not thoroughly serious in our purposes."

— Sen. John Warner, R-Va., seems to have a political death wish. He recently referred to "one of the biggest drains on our treasury — the pensioners and those receiving money from the federal government." The expense of the government's pay and pension rolls is "almost unbearable and adds to our inflation problems," Warner said. These are rash words for a senator whose state has more federal employees than any other.

Around the rim No vacancy

Carol Hart

I remember when the Haitians first arrived in Big Spring back in July. At the time, I wasn't sure how to spell Haitian, much less pronounce it, but I knew they were pretty newsworthy.

The Associated Press kept calling us here at the newspaper and area news media sent camera crews and reporters to the scene. It was all very exciting.

But I never really paid any attention to the Haitians as people, as individuals, except to note that when they first set foot in Big Spring, Texas, they filed very neatly into the prison gymnasium. They were friendly to all the people bustling around them, and posed politely for the cameras.

THEN, OTHER NEWS stories came along and the Haitians were pretty well out of sight as far as I was concerned. But then, when they staged a demonstration Sunday and Monday they suddenly became individuals again.

Camp superintendent John Allman told us the men were frustrated. I guess speaking very little English, but realizing they were being detained in a prison, added up to a feeling of hopelessness.

I believe the Haitians received good treatment here, even though the law dictated they had to be detained. Allman said the men were taking English courses sponsored through Howard College. And they were being fed and clothed and had a place to stay.

BUT THEY WEREN'T free and they weren't sending money to their families. And they still aren't free, as the 87 men shipped out of here Tuesday were moved to a medium security prison, one with fences to remind them not to leave the grounds.

Allman told us the men were despondent and depressed as they left on the buses. Some of them even cried. Suddenly it became a very sad situation.

The men never really understood where they were, because they wanted to walk back to Miami.

I don't think anyone is really to blame for the situation, because we do have a problem in the U.S. compounded by a heavy influx of refugees.

BUT MAYBE WE should make it clear that we are no longer a nation which can take the tired and the homeless. Maybe we should hang a sign on the Statue of Liberty that reads, Sorry, Offer No Longer Good in the U.S.

I love living in this country. I don't know what any of the answers are for improving our economic conditions or bettering our already pretty good way of life.

But I'm just glad my family got in before the doors slammed shut.

Pounding heart may mean CO poisoning can quickly increase to dangerous levels. Healthy people can develop headache, nausea, vomiting, loss of dexterity.

Heart symptoms, like your pounding, may occur. The gas molecules attach to red blood cells, lessening their oxygen-carrying ability. The symptoms are chiefly due to this fact. A telltale sign is a cherry red color of the skin. When poisoning is suspected, the doctor can easily determine the blood levels of the gas.

Let's hope that your letter will prompt families of elderly people who may be living alone to run over and check out heating systems before this winter brings its share of poisonings.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am concerned about a problem my husband seems to have. Lately, on two occasions, he has had blood in his seminal discharge. He has no discomfort of any kind, no pain, no swelling, or anything you would consider abnormal. He is of the opinion it is nothing to worry about. I know I would have a difficult time getting him to see a doctor about this. — C.V.

He should see a doctor, taking comfort in the fact that mild and infrequent bloodiness of the discharge generally does not indicate any great problem. Usually, the blood comes from tiny vessels in the prostate gland. While he may take some degree of comfort from that thought, he should also be aware that sometimes infections of the prostate, inflammation, or stones there can cause blood to appear. When those conditions are eliminated the blood situation almost always clears up spontaneously.

Any profound or persistent bleeding, of course, requires an immediate visit to the doctor. For clues to prostate problems see the newly-revised booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," which you may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of the booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

LION FAMILY — Rusti Schuler takes a nap with Sandi, a 350-lb. lion that lives with Rusti and her husband Gene. To some Rusti Schuler's idea of fun may seem a bit strange, but for the Schuler's, caring for three lions is a labor of love.

Dear Abby

Son's New Faith Raises Mother's Doubts

DEAR ABBY: My son (I'll call him John) graduated from our state university with a master's degree in business administration, but it's been a year now and he hasn't found a job. He had very little money saved, except for a small $5,000 inheritance from his grandmother.

John was raised a Catholic, but he wasn't happy in that church, so he quit and joined another one. I didn't object because John had always been a "loner," but he had made a few friends at his new church and seemed much happier.

My shock came about six weeks ago when I was cleaning John's room and on his desk I saw a check that he had written for $900 — made out to this church! I became curious and looked into his checkbook, which was also on his desk, and found that John had already given the church three other checks totaling $3000!

I called the church and spoke with one pastor, who referred me to another pastor, who referred me to a bookkeeper. I tried to tell them that my son had been unemployed for a year and couldn't afford to give them this kind of money. I was told they never question anyone's ability to give, and all donations were voluntary.

I spoke to John about it, and he said the church was wonderful, deserved all the help he could give, and that nobody took advantage of him. I called the church again and tried to get the people there to refund at least a part of the money, but they refused. I begged them to quit accepting money from my son, but they told me again that all donations were voluntary.

Abby, what can I do? How can I get the church to listen to reason? I am not saying my son is "crazy," but this church has got him so involved he can't be thinking right. Please help me. I'm a widow with very little money. Thank you.

NOWHERE TO TURN

DEAR NOWHERE: You can't stop a church from accepting voluntary contributions, but if you have reason to believe that your son isn't "thinking right," you should start with a doctor, and end up with a lawyer. If your son is psychiatrically examined and found to be mentally sound, he can give the gold out of his teeth to whomever he so chooses, and there's nothing you can do about it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently applied for a job where I am employed. He went in for an interview last Monday and was told that he would be notified at the end of the week whether or not he had been hired for the job.

By Friday my husband had not heard anything, so he asked me to call and find out what the situation was. I refused, saying I didn't think it was proper for me to call, and if he wanted to know, he should call himself.

He said that my refusal to call showed that I had no interest in his career. I tried to tell him that I am interested, but there are some things a person should do for himself. Who is right?

CONCERNED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You're right.

BSHS Class of 1961 plans reunion events

The Big Spring High School Senior Class Reunion is scheduled for Nov. 6 and 7. On Nov. 6, the 1961 alumni will have a float in the afternoon parade. A special section will be set aside for the 1961 alumni at the football game that evening, with tickets selling for $4 for adults and $1 for students. A reception, to which all alumni from all graduating classes are invited, will follow the game in the Howard College Cactus Room.

On Nov. 7, the 1961 alumni will meet at the Dora Roberts Center (formerly the Cosden Country Club). Registration will take place from 10 a.m. until noon. Lunch will be served at noon. Group pictures will be taken afterward, and will be ready that evening.

From 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. there will be an organized fun and game time. An open house will take place at Big Spring High School at 2 p.m. Baby-sitters will be available. A barbecue buffet and dance, with Gary Pickle as master of ceremonies, will begin at 6:30 p.m. Any alumni wishing to bring old records for the dance are invited to do so.

Price for the reunion, which includes two meals, soft drinks, coffee, tea and use of the club is $15 per person.

Reservations should be mailed no later than Oct. 24 to Wanda Driver, Sterling City Rd., Box 41-A, Big Spring, Tx 79720; phone number (915) 263-6538.

There are a number of missing persons whom the 1961 Senior Class Committee has not been able to locate. If you have the address or know the whereabouts of any of the following individuals, let Wanda Driver know and she or one of the committee members will contact them. The missing people are as follows:

NSDAR to support two American Indian Schools

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution Captain Elisha Mack Chapter met Monday in the home of Mrs. J.W. Tipton. Mrs. C.G. Barnett, regent, presided.

Mrs. Lola Kilman gave a report on the two American Indian Schools which the DAR supports. They are Bacone College near Muskogee, Okla., and St. Mary's Episcopal School for Indian Girls, Springfield, S.D. The project this year at Bacone College is to air condition the Wacoche Dining Hall, which is used throughout the year for receptions and other activities. Funds are also applied to scholarships and general operating expenses. The project for St. Mary's School is to build two outdoor tennis courts and to aid in music scholarships and general expenses.

Mrs. Douglas Newman, National DAR Magazine chairman, reported that subscriptions to the magazine exceed 25 percent of the chapter's membership.

Mrs. Jack Alexander, honor roll chairman, announced that the National President General's project for the next two years is to repair Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C. The chapter voted to contribute $148 toward the project. She also reported on the workshop in Hereford which she and Mrs. Barnett attended.

The society will sell pecans this year as a money-making project.

Mrs. Nadine Hodnett was welcomed as a member of the chapter on acceptance of her papers by the National Society. Mrs. John Damron gave a program on the bicentennial of the victory at Yorktown in October 1781.

Hostesses were Mrs. J.W. Tipton and Mrs. John Cobean. Those attending a Sept. 15 luncheon in celebration of Constitution Week given by Col. Theunis Dey and Lt. William Brewer

Chapter of Midland were Mrs. Curtis Driver, Mrs. John Key, Mrs. Douglas Newman, Mrs. Stanley Reid, Mrs. J.D. Hooper, Mrs. F.H. Lanham, Mrs. Mike Skalsky, and Mrs. C.G. Barnett.

The next meeting will be Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. W.A. Riley.

College Heights PTA announces officers for new school year College Heights PTA is now in full swing, according to Diana Bailey, last year's president.

Senior among the city's five PTAs, College Heights' Parent-Teacher Association is at least 35 years old.

New officers are Rebecca Pierce, president; Robbie Billings, vice-president; Linda Branum, secretary; and Diana Bailey, treasurer.

College Heights joins the city's other PTAs in the city-wide "Happiness is PTA" campaign. Due to a late start, College Heights will close its membership campaign several days later than the Oct. 9 deadline of the city's other PTAs.

Letters have been sent home with College Heights students asking parents to join PTA. The PTA emphasizes that "you don't have to have a child in school to join PTA and add your financial support."

"We need all the help we can get this year," says three-time president Diana Bailey. She urges College Heights alumni, "old-time College Heights parents and PTA members," and any friend of the Big Spring schools to help the PTA by joining this year.

Membership fee is $1.50 per person and is open to anyone 18 years or older. Membership fees may be dropped by the school office or sent to school with a College Heights student.

Debbie Rogers, who has no school age children of her own, has stepped in to run the College Heights PTA membership campaign.

The school's PTA Carnival, an important fundraiser for such recent PTA purchases as a school obstacle course and cafeteria bench tables, has been scheduled for Oct. 24. Carnival co-chairmen are Kay Roberts and Diana Bailey.

First child's birth is announced

John and Roxanne Reese, 2600 Central Drive, announce the birth of their first child, a son, Paul Andrew, Sept. 26 at Malone-Hogan Hospital. Paul made his debut at 2:40 p.m., weighing 9 pounds 12 ounces and measuring 22 inches long.

The infant's maternal grandparents are Herb and Bettye Funk, Littlefield, and his paternal grandparents are Howard and Evelyn Reese, Combs, Ark. Paul's great-grandmothers are Mrs. Frieda Cunningham, Littlefield, and Mrs. Nina Yates, Lubbock.

Stickels named to dean's list of San Antonio law school

John W. Stickels, Pecos, has been placed on the Dean's List of St. Mary's University Law School in San Antonio.

The Dean's List consists of law students who rank academically in the top 10 percent of the school's student body, and is compiled at the conclusion of each academic semester.

The notation "Dean's List" is placed on the permanent record of each student who receives the honor.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stickels, Pecos, and the grandson of Mrs. J.C. Niblett, Ackery. He is currently attending Texas Tech University Law School in Lubbock.

Mattox taking on tax cuts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman plans to take the lead next week in trying to rescind many of the tax cuts President Reagan won recently.

"In view of the financial chaos that confronts this nation as a result of Congress' willingness to support the untested theories of Reaganomics, it is absolutely imperative that we Democrats adopt a policy of financial responsibility," says Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas.

Mattox, a member of the House Budget Committee, wrote his committee chairman, Jim Jones, D-Okla., Wednesday and urged that the Reagan tax package be reopened and cut back severely.

"It's the sheer total that was too much, and it's setting us up for the largest deficit in the history of the country. Personal tax cuts were too large, and there were too many sweeteners," Mattox added.

In his letter to Jones, Mattox said the 5 percent tax cut that went into effect Oct. 1 should be left intact but that 10 percent cuts scheduled for 1982 and 1983 should be tossed out.

Further, he said, the numerous "sweeteners" for business in President Reagan's tax bill should be reexamined and pruned or deleted if necessary, he said.

The Dallas Democrat said he plans to actively push for his proposition after the House returns next week from a holiday recess.

"I've already visited with Jones and about a half dozen members of the Budget Committee about it, and they seem to be agreeable," Mattox said.

"It's best for the country to follow a path the people actually want — a balanced budget. They wanted it for 1982, but that will be hard to do, because of the massive tax cuts, which the people would have preferred to postpone," Mattox said.

"So I propose to do as much as we can in 1982 and finish the job in 1983."

Deletion of the sweeteners — business tax cuts added as the Democrats and Reagan administration vied for votes in the tax bill fight — would hit Texas and other oil states hard. The most controversial business tax cuts were for royalty owners, independent oilmen and major oil companies through partial repeal of the Windfall Profits Tax.

"Where the cuts would come would depend on the Ways and Means Committee. We'd direct them to restore some of the tax revenue, and they'd cut where they saw fit to come up with the amount needed," said Mattox.

Farm bill

setbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm Belt members of Congress have handed President Reagan two setbacks in his drive to rein in federal dairy price supports.

In its first major decision on a new package of commodity price supports, the House on Wednesday rejected the deep cuts Reagan has backed for a new four-year dairy program.

A majority of both Democrats and Republicans opted for a compromise proposal that supporters say will at least bring the 1982 cost of the dairy program within the administration's budget limitations.

In the Senate, Wisconsin Democrat William Proxmire blocked emergency legislation to roll back a 3 percent increase in dairy subsidies prompted by the failure of Congress to agree on a new long-term dairy plan.

Failure of the roll-back bill to clear Congress Wednesday forced the Agriculture Department to make its first dairy product purchases since the higher support rate went into effect a week ago.

Until the support level is either rolled back by the emergency legislation or a new long-term dairy program, the government will spend an extra $400,000 a day to maintain milk prices, and officials fear there will be increases in consumer costs that will never be rolled back.

The House has passed the emergency bill, and the Senate now is scheduled to vote on it next Wednesday.

The compromise long-term dairy program endorsed by the House was only grudgingly backed by many lawmakers, who feared their failure to line up behind the package would open the way for deeper cuts in a program they said was already inadequate.

The less costly package, offered by Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., was turned backed, 243-153.

"This course will require some very tough decisions, but I believe it is the only honest way we can confront the problems facing our economy," Mattox wrote Jones.

Copies of the letter also went to members of the House leadership — Speaker Tip O'Neill, Majority Leader Jim Wright, Majority Whip Thomas Foley and Deputy Whip Bill Alexander.

Reagan called for the tax increases and a new round of spending cuts last month to keep the government on the path toward balancing the budget in 1984.

The proposals would raise taxes by $3 billion in fiscal 1982, $8 billion in 1983 and $11 billion in 1984. They would take back 7.8 percent of the $280 billion tax cut that Congress voted for those three years.

"I have my doubts that will fill in the form they are talking about," said Rep. Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., a member of the House Ways and Means Committee. "This is in essence a tax shift — the burden is shifted from one segment to another."

Treasury Department officials planned to submit the new bill to Congress within a few days after the president's speech. But now the target date has slipped to about Oct. 21, indicating the administration may be having trouble reaching agreement on the package.

Even if Congress agrees to Reagan's latest plan, the lawmakers may decide to spend the extra tax revenue on pet projects instead of using it to balance the budget.

Rare firearms sale nets $900,000

NEW YORK (AP) — An arms deal was underway at Christie's auction house, but the buyers of guns once owned by the likes of Theodore Roosevelt and Charles Lindbergh were more interested in showing the weapons than shooting them.

Spirited bidding from a standing-room-only crowd of 400 at Christie's pushed the price of a 1921 gold-inlaid Parker shotgun to $95,000 for Wednesday night's highest purchase, as the total for all the purchases climbed to about $900,000.

The 28-gauge Parker A-1 Special was bought by William Jaqua, a sporting goods dealer from Findlay, Ohio.

Items sold also included weapons owned by Chuck Connors, the star of the defunct television series "The Rifleman." The Winchester carbine Connor used in the series brought $7,500, and a pair of engraved revolvers honoring Connors for giving Colt pistols to Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev were sold for $52,000.

"Some people estimate that there are as many as 400,000 gun collectors in this country today," said Robert L. Wilson of Colt Industries, who organized the sale at Christie's.

George Strichman, chairman of Colt, paid $1,400 more than double the estimate — for a revolver ordered by Theodore Roosevelt from Colt when Roosevelt was New York City police commissioner.

A company spokesman said the No. 20 Colt revolver would be donated to the New York City Police Department.

Strichman said gun collecting had changed dramatically in recent years.

Cites 'political intervention'

Pickle is angry about VA center's move from Austin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, didn't ask that the Veterans Administration establish a streamlined data processing center in Austin, Texas in the first place.

But now that the decision was made, supposedly to improve operations, the Democrat from Austin is letting his wrath be known about a decision by the new VA commissioner to rescind the action, which is taking employees from Austin instead of adding more.

Pickle appeared Wednesday before the House Veterans Affairs Committee to protest actions by Commissioner Robert Nimmo that represent a complete reversal of previous policies.

He called the decision "a direct result of political intervention."

The decision was announced in September of 1980, when the VA announced the Centralized Development Center in Austin, a streamlined concept supported by the Office of Management and Budget, the General Accounting Office, Nimmo's predecessor, the House Committee on Government Operations, and the Veterans Affairs Committee.

The decision was made, Pickle was told, because of a GAO report into cost overruns, schedule slippages and performance deterioration. The CDC was promoted to correct several weaknesses in VA data processing, such as duplication of resources, poor coordination and utilization of effort, and lack of standardized documentation and development methodology.

Among other things, the move would have eliminated 57 fulltime positions, and would have meant the transfer of employees to Austin from other locations, including many from a VA facility at Hines, Ill., that fared poorly in VA efficiency studies.

But Illinois congressmen intervened at that point, and Nimmo began backing off the proposal as soon as he took over, Pickle said.

Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., Veterans Affairs Committee chairman, told Pickle he favors sending people to both locations and then bringing them back for a report to the committee.

We'll need to take a close look at this," Montgomery promised.

Not only have plans to expand the Austin center been halted, but the Texas operations are losing personnel, Pickle said.

I have now been advised that several of the medical debt collection and construction systems will in fact be moved from Austin. The order for that change was issued last week," Pickle said.

The longtime Democrat said Nimmo "thumbed his nose" at a request by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, the chairman of the Government Operations Committee, who requested that the administration halt any attempt to abolish the CDC until his committee could review the matter.

That is not normally a healthy thing to do in Washington," Pickle said of the snub.

Pickle also objected to the firing of William Martin, who was director of the VA data processing division and directly involved in the VA decision to establish the CDC.

Railroad may close agency offices

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — The Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. has asked the Texas Railroad Commission for permission to close at least nine agency offices in West Texas and move operations to Houston freight offices in two cities.

Railroad officials said Wednesday that service would not be abandoned, but centralized at San Angelo and Brownwood. Lawrence Simmons, Santa Fe spokesman in Dallas, said the proposed move would provide more efficient operations.

"The only difference in service would be that instead of dialing the number of the local agent, the shipper would dial a toll-free number and use the regional office," Simmons said.

San Angelo will absorb the work load of Delinger, Barnhart, Big Lake, Alpine, Brown and Fort Stockton.

Brownwood will absorb Coleman, Dufur and Comanche agency stations.

Although the agent's position will be eliminated, it is highly unlikely anyone will lose his job, Simmons said.

"Most of our agents have enough agents that they will exercise it and move out of the freight office," Simmons said.

Currently, a shipper would call the station agent, who would locate a car for the shipper, Simmons said.

He said in the regional operation, office personnel would use a computer to locate freight cars and provide rate and availability information on them.

The regional freight office operation is not an experimental one, Simmons said. He said Santa Fe has worked with regional freight offices in California for the past five years.

WARNING TO LIBYA Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. faces reporters at a news conference Wednesday in Washington. Haig said the United States "would view with great concern any attempt by Libya or Arab radicals aim at Sudan?

By STEVEN K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Arab radicals hope the death of President Anwar Sadat will be followed by the overthrow of his only major ally in the Middle East, President Gaafar Nimeiri of Sudan.

"Today Sadat, tomorrow Nimeiri and all the remaining agents," said the Palestine Liberation Organization's security chief, Salah Khalaf.

Col. Moammar Khadafi of Libya, the biggest threat to Nimeiri, concluded a friendship treaty last August with pro-Soviet Ethiopia and South Yemen. This coupled with the presence of 12,000 to 15,000 Libyan troops in Chad, boxed in Sudan on both the East and West.

In Washington, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told a news conference the Reagan administration "would view with great concern" any attempt to intensify instability in the wake of Sadat's death.

Asked about Libyan threats to the security of Sudan, Chad and other nations in the region, he said the administration was "reviewing the situation intensely."

Khadafi tried in 1976 to overthrow Nimeiri when he was on a trip abroad. About 1,000 Libyans slipped into Sudan to support an attempted coup. About 1,000 people were killed in street fighting in Khartoum, the capital. The coup failed because Nimeiri hurried home and took charge of the army's resistance.

Nimeiri perceived Khadafi's expansion into Chad as the preliminary to another attempt to undermine him and in June broke diplomatic relations. In September, the Sudanese government accused Libya of bombing Sudanese villages along the border with Chad and announced the arrest of 18,000 refugees it said escaped from their camps and had no visible means of support.

About 5,000 are still held, and many of them are accused of membership in the anti-Nimeiri "Libyan Army for the Salvation of Sudan." On Wednesday, the Sudanese news agency reported formation of a "National Front for the Salvation of Libya."

Meanwhile, the Sudanese news agency reported that Khadafi's government expelled thousands of Sudanese workers from Libya because they refused to join an anti-Nimeiri "liberation front."

Reagan winning AWACS converts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is winning converts for the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia, but opponents insist they still have enough votes to defeat it in the Senate.

Reagan invoked partisan loyalty and the shooting of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat on Wednesday in an impassioned appeal to 43 Senate Republicans. He convinced at least one former opponent, Sen. Alan Simpson of Wyoming, the second doubting Republican in two days to come over to the White House side.

Six other senators, previously uncommitted but considered likely to support Reagan, publicly announced they would vote for the $8.5 billion deal for five Airborne Warning and Control System planes and weaponry for U.S.-built F-15 jets.

At the same time, assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California, a leading opponent of the sale, conceded that at least three other Republicans have changed their minds and will back the president.

Meanwhile, supporters circulated a resolution that they hoped would satisfy opponents' concerns that AWACS in Saudi hands could jeopardize U.S. security.

The moves all gave the impression of momentum for Reagan in one of his toughest battles on Capitol Hill, but the administration was still fighting from behind.

"More senators are favoring the sale and we think we are making definite progress and there is reason for optimism," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

The administration is conceding defeat in the Democrat-dominated House, where the Foreign Affairs Committee voted 28-8 against the sale Wednesday. A similar outcome is expected on the House floor next week.

A congressional veto requires majority votes of both houses by Oct. 31, and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is expected to recommend disapproval a week from today. That leaves the showdown on the Senate floor in about two weeks.

GOP senators reported Reagan said Wednesday that he needs to win the AWACS battle to demonstrate the president runs the country's foreign policy and that Republicans need it to show they — not minority Democrats — run the Senate.

"I need you, the country and the world need you on this decision," he was quoted as saying.

Speakes described Reagan as "determined and resolute" to push the sale through Congress.

But Cranston said if the assassination of Sadat or Reagan's lobbying were to reverse the tide of opposition, it would have happened already.

Weinberger pushes sale

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — The assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is all the more reason why the Arabs should have the AWACS radar planes, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Wednesday.

"It simply emphasizes the need for Saudi capability in friendly Arab hands," Weinberger told a news conference at the Naval Air Station before making an appearance before the Dallas Rotary Club.

He said that the new Egyptian government will be very stable and the new policies of Sadat will be carried out.

He said the assassination "is a terrible catastrophe for the world, but it's not a unique case. There have been assassination attempts in many countries, including the United States and it is not evidence of instability. It's evidence that terrorism is still around."

Reagan wants growth, Fed doesn't

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Reagan administration has issued the clearest signal yet for faster growth in the nation's money supply, but the chief of the Federal Reserve Board stressed his commitment to restraining such growth as a way to curb inflation.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan on Wednesday told the American Bankers Association in San Francisco that the economy was "in trouble" and that a less restrictive money-growth policy by the Fed would help prevent a severe recession.

"A tight money supply in a downward economic cycle could exacerbate the trouble we're in," Regan said, adding that the Fed had limited money-supply growth even more than it had planned. "To continue to undershoot at the rate they are now could aggravate the current situation."

Speaking at the same convention, Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker said he was aware of the financial strain a tight-money policy was putting on business, but vowed to hold a steady course in restraining money and credit growth.

"A sense of retreat would not only aggravate the present problems but could set back the prospects for restoring growth and stability for years to come," Volcker said.

The administration has strongly supported the Fed's effort to reduce the growth rate of the money supply. But Regan's comments Wednesday and similar remarks in the recent past have seemed to put pressure on the Fed to loosen its policy.

The nation's gross national product — the total value of all goods and services produced — declined 1.6 percent in the second quarter, and the Commerce Department's preliminary estimate for the third quarter showed another small decline.

That has raised fears of a long period of no growth or a long recession, which would in turn undercut the administration's promise of reviving the economy next year as President Reagan's economic recovery program takes effect.

Meanwhile Wednesday, the Senate approved a bill that would exempt much of the telephone industry from regulation. It would free AT&T to expand into new data processing and information fields.

In Chicago, the United States League of Savings Associations reported Wednesday that more than $15 billion was deposited in the tax-exempt All Savers Certificate accounts in the first four days of availability at savings and loan associations.

In other economic developments Wednesday:

— President Reagan pledged his support for a package of amendments designed to revive the stalled Alaska natural gas pipeline that has been on the drawing boards since 1976.

— Aides to Reagan indicated he would veto a House-passed appropriations bill that exceeds by $4 billion the spending limits Congress set earlier this year.

— The House preserved a compromise dairy price support program by rejecting the even deeper reductions supported by Reagan. The compromise would reduce 1982 dairy program costs by about half the 1981 level.

Congress may be needed for water import fight

SANTA FE (AP) — A member of the High Plains Study Council predicted Wednesday it will take an act of Congress to import water to the six state high plains region from adjacent states.

Calling the proposal a "sensitive political issue," Gov. William Clements of Texas acknowledged that states with surplus water won't be anxious to turn it over to their neighbors voluntarily.

But Clements said national and international demand for food from what he termed the "bread basket" of the high plains eventually will become so great that Congress will be forced to step in.

When that occurs, the cost of the project — estimated at up to $20 billion in 1977 dollars for start-up costs alone — will not be an obstacle, he said.

"It's a question of how hungry we become," he said. "If the people need the food out of the bread basket... then we will put the water on the high plains."

Clements' comments came during the council's annual meeting held this year in Santa Fe. New Mexico Gov. Bruce King is chairman of the council.

Created in 1976 by an act of Congress, the council is charged with reviewing ways of supplementing the shrinking Ogallala Aquifer, which sustains about 13.2 billion acres of farmland in the region.

States represented on the council are Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado.

Studies have shown that by 2020 — if nothing is done — there will be insufficient water in the aquifer to sustain about 5.4 million acres of agricultural land now in use.

According to its charter, the council can consider obtaining additional water only from states adjacent to the high plains region.

At its meeting Wednesday, the council heard presentations from representatives of Arthur D. Little Co., a consulting firm, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the costs of various alternatives.

In addition to the water importation alternative, the council is considering the consequences of doing nothing, launching voluntary conservation programs and compelling farmers to use less water.

Frank Feeley, project director for Arthur D. Little, told the council a small amount of farmland could be salvaged if each of the states in the high plains region enacted conservation incentives or adopted mandatory conservation programs.

But Feeley said that importing water was the only method by which the region could hope to sustain its current level of agricultural production through the year 2020.

William Pearson of the Corps of Engineers told the council that based on four leading alternative sources of water, the price per acre foot of bringing water to the high plains state would range from $292 to $569 in 1977 dollars.

A large factor in the cost per acre foot was the high price of energy used to pump the water, he said. Pearson said the energy cost alone would be in the range of $75-$150 per square foot.

But Clements and King told reporters at a news conference during a break in the meeting that the high cost of importing water wouldn't stand in the way of any importation project.

The two governors said that national and international demand for "food and fiber" from the western states ultimately will force Congress to appropriate the money necessary to bring water to the high plains.

The council is scheduled to receive final draft reports from its consultants by Dec. 1 on the feasibility and cost of each of several alternatives.

Jury is selected for Daniel trial

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A minister's wife, a firefighter and the wife of a Liberty County sheriff's detective are among 12 jurors who must decide if Vickie Daniel is guilty of murder in the slaying of her estranged husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys completed nearly three days of jury selection Wednesday, empanelling an eight-man, four-woman panel that ranges in age from 24 to 61.

During preliminary questioning, 19 of the remaining 59 prospective jurors Wednesday said they already had formed an opinion on whether Mrs. Daniel fired the fatal shot.

Visiting State District Judge Leonard Giblin of Beaumont said he will hear several defense motions on Monday. He said testimony would begin Wednesday afternoon, and he predicted the trial will last at least a month.

Mrs. Daniel, 34, who pleaded innocent to the murder charge, waived her Fifth Amendment protections last spring during her successful custody fight with in-laws over the couple's two young sons and testified she did not intentionally shoot her husband.

Prosecutors allege that after a bitter quarrel over the impending divorce, Mrs. Daniel murdered her husband with a .22-caliber rifle at their spacious ranch home just outside this Southeast Texas town.

Daniel — 39 and scion of one of Texas' most prominent families — bled to death before an ambulance arrived.

High court decides against televised trials

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the state Supreme Court says television coverage of a judges' convention in Corpus Christi did not help the cause of getting cameras into Texas courtrooms.

Greenhill notified the news media Wednesday that the court, which makes the rules for Texas judges, had decided against allowing televised trials.

The court's decision, which Greenhill indicated was 9-0, abided by the results of a poll that showed judges at the recent Corpus Christi convention opposed televised trials, 182-36.

"Television coverage of the convention was not helpful," Greenhill said at a news conference Wednesday afternoon. "Some of the judges said the media covered only one side and asked, 'Is that how they are going to cover our trials?'"

He said television crews used a lot of lights and set up their cameras "without regard to whose lap they sat in, including mine." He said television cameras, tripods and cameramen blocked his view of the speakers.

Greenhill suggested some other possible reasons why judges voted so heavily against televised trials:

— Although guidelines recommended by a State Bar of Texas committee gave each judge total discretion, many didn't want to decide whether to allow TV coverage.

— "You all can put a great deal of pressure on people, whether you realize it or not. A judge telling you all to get out takes a good deal of courage, whether you all realize it or not," Greenhill told reporters.

— Many judges feared television cameras would affect the behavior of witnesses, as suggested by prominent Austin defense lawyer Roy Minton.

Minton said he thought that was the big reason for the judges' decision.

The issue of cameras in the courtroom came to the court in a petition filed last year by the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters.

The executive director of the Texas Association of Broadcasters, a statewide trade association of television and radio stations, said his organization would keep fighting for televised trials.

"We're totally disappointed, but we don't intend to stop trying to get into the courthouse. I don't know what our options are, but a lawyer is checking. We're not going to quit," said Bonner McLane of Austin, who served on the State Bar committee.

Greenhill, however, counseled against trying in the near future to run the issue by the judges once more.

"It would not be helpful to bring it up again real soon," Greenhill said, but added, "Nothing is forever."

Wayne Fisher of Houston, president of the State Bar, agreed with Greenhill that in view of the "overwhelming" vote of the judges there was little hope of bringing televised trials to Texas in the near future.

"If it was a real close vote, I would say bring it up next year for reconsideration. But it wasn't," said Fisher, who added he favored televising trials under the guidelines recommended by the State Bar committee.

The guidelines said each judge should have total authority to allow cameras in his or her courtroom or to keep them out and to designate camera positions. Not more than two television cameras or still cameras could be in the courtroom at one time. Crews could not move about, and cameras could not have lights or noisy motors.

Glen Moyer of WOAI in San Antonio, the AP Broadcasters' president for radio, called the decision "a shame."

"I think this is a vote against progress in the state of Texas... I thought surely that with the success of televised trials in Florida, that Texas would see the light," Moyer said.

Minton said he was "delighted" and said the decision would prevent "a circus" in the courtroom. Before the court's prohibited televised trials in 1965, a circuslike atmosphere prevailed, he said.

Moyer said modern technology had done away with the noise and bright lights that used to accompany television cameras into the courtroom.

Court holds hospitals liable for use of defective products

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court has upheld a lower court decision that a Houston hospital products will add to medical costs throughout the state.

The precedent-setting decision says hospitals, even though not negligent, can be made to pay for injuries and deaths caused by their use of dangerously defective products.

Burrell Thomas, a patient in St. Joseph Hospital in Houston, died Jan. 2, 1974, two weeks after he dropped a lighted match while smoking and ignited his hospital gown, causing burns over most of his body.

His wife, Josephine, sued and presented testimony that it was possible at the time of the fire to manufacture hospital gowns from flame-retardant material.

Mrs. Thomas lost her case when the trial judge dismissed two gown manufacturers and a cloth maker as defendants and the jury found St. Joseph

Hospital innocent of negligence.

Boxing must have scoreboard

After watching the replay of the Sugar Ray Leonard-Thomas Hearns fight in Las Vegas, it became apparent that something is drastically wrong in the world of professional boxing.

Before viewing the fight, I had read countless stories that came across the wire dealing with the fact that Hearns was leading the fight when Leonard TKOed him in the 14th round.

Personally, I enjoy watching both fighters, and like their personalities, so I had no favorite. And maybe that's what made watching the rematch so interesting.

But had Leonard not won by the TKO, had the fight gone the distance and the judges announced that Hearns was the winner by decision, there is no question in my mind that the sports arena at Caesar's Palace would have erupted in anger. It would have looked like a fix.

Hearns maybe won the first few rounds, but not by much. On the weird boxing scoring system, the most Hearns could have won a round could have been by 10-9. But it seemed that when Leonard won rounds, it was a different story, like 10-7, or 10-8 at the least.

Nevertheless, Hearns was said to be ahead by the judges when the fight was stopped. I don't see how.

Which raises my next question. Why aren't the boxers and the audience made aware of the scoring after each round?

What if, say, there were no scoreboards in pro football or basketball? Theoretically, that would be no different than the way boxing is currently set up.

Let's take a for instance. Say the Dallas Cowboys were playing the Philadelphia Eagles for the NFC East. The Cowboys had outplayed the Eagles, or so people thought, and with three minutes to go in the game and the ball, the Cowboys simply used a ball control type attack to sew up the game.

But wait! The judges come across after the game and say the Eagles won by 16-14.

The same could happen in basketball or baseball. Say a basketball team had what they felt a decision in the late stages of the game. They sit on the lead in college basketball, and if in the NBA, wait until the allotted time clock runs down to one before shooting an off balance shot. They control the clock, but at the conclusion, find out that they were really trailing by two points.

The way boxing is set up, there is really no difference in their scoring system and their way of announcing it as there is in the two theoretical cases mentioned above. Boxing needs to take a look at itself before a truly giant controversy rocks the system in such a championship affair.

Former Big Spring Steer John Thomas Smith made All-Pro last year as a punt returner for the Kansas City Chiefs, as well as starting for that AFC West squad as a wide receiver the past two years.

Smith has returned to nearly keep pace with his NFL leading punt return totals of 1980, and looks to be improving on his pass receiving stats.

The ex-BHS star thus far has returned 13 punts for 143 yards to rank second in the AFC in that department. In the pass receiving department, John Thomas has latched on to 21 catches for 306 yards.

Those receiving stats are eighth in the AFC in number and sixth in yardage produced.

Good news for Cowboy fans bent on superstition. The Cowboys are 4-0 in regular season action against New England, the team they disposed of in a recent Monday night game. And in all four of those wins, the Dallas team went on to participate in the Super Bowl.

While the pre-season Top 20 in college football has been scrambled each week, things have gone according to the way they were supposed to on the Bottom Ten. In the pre-season, Northwestern was considered the No. 1 of the worst teams, followed by Oregon State and UTEP. All three have failed to win going into this weekend's games.

According to last year's NFL won-lost records, the undefeated Miami Dolphins have the toughest schedule in 1981. The Dolphins face teams that combined for a .539 winning percentage, with Baltimore and Cincinnati next at .535, and Kansas City at .533. And while the tough slate hasn't bothered the Dolphins, it also hasn't seemed to affect the Bengals and Chiefs, cruising along at 3-2.

Most knowledgeable sports fans have a pretty good idea about the highest paid professional athletes. But here are some interesting facts concerning the bottom and average on the NFL pay scale.

GERRI FAUST, new coach at Notre Dame: "I don't think I would have this job without winning, and I don't think I'll keep this job without winning."

RAY ALBORN, Rice University head football coach: "Spring practices are a lot like spring flowers. They all look pretty and look real nice in the spring, but when the fall rolls around, they aren't worth a damn."

Pittsburgh Steelers safety J.T. THOMAS, responding to the charge that his once proud team is going downhill: "We're like the Ringling Brothers Circus. They lost four elephants, a giraffe and a gorilla, but the show went on. The same thing happened here. Everyone is replaceable."

National League umpire DOUG HARVEY, on the difficulties of his job: "They say a good fastball takes a third of a second to get to home plate. In that span, an umpire is asked to determine whether the ball passed through an imaginary zone. You can't imagine the amount of concentration it takes to do this job properly."

ANOTHER WORLD — Denny Walling, Houston Astros' pinch hitter who singled to right field to drive in the winning run in the 11th inning to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0, wears his helmet in reverse with ears of rabbit back of it as he talked with newsmen. The win gave Houston two games over the Dodgers in the best of five series for the Championship of the National League West.

Walling's 11th inning hit pushes Houston to 1-0 win Astros go 2-up on Dodgers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Denny Walling, who struggled through the regular season with a .234 average, "I don't like to take my problems home with me and the speed bag helps me leave them in the clubhouse."

Walling took a 10-minute speed bag session Tuesday night in a move that may establish a norm for pinch hitters everywhere.

Walling turned from a punch hitter to pinch hitter Wednesday with a two-out 11th inning single to lift the Astros to a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles and a 2-0 lead in their best of five National League playoff series.

"The speed bag is my way of releasing my frustrations," said Walling, who struggled through the regular season with a .234 average. "I don't like to take my problems home with me and the speed bag helps me leave them in the clubhouse."

Walling noted from the dugout that Dodger outfielders were playing shallow and when he came to bat in the 11th inning with the bases loaded and two out he drove a fastball from reliever Tom Niedenfuer over right fielder Derrel Thomas' head.

"I'm not going to try to coach their team," Walling said. "They had been moving people around throughout the game, doing a good job of it. A lot of teams play us shallow in this ballpark and sooner or later they get burned."

The Astros now travel to Los Angeles in the familiar position of needing to win only one of the next three games to repeat as Western Division champions.

Houston faced an identical situation in 1980 when the Astros led the Dodgers by three games with three games to play in the regular season. Houston lost all three games but won the title in a one-game playoff.

"It seems almost like just last week we were going out there with the same odds," Astros Manager Bill Virdon said. "I know that was last year and somehow I hope we can win one of them this time."

Walling said the 1980 playoff drama helped make the Astros a better team. "That playoff game last year made us winners," Walling said. "We've been through it all now and we know what it takes."

The Dodgers left 13 runners stranded including Rick Monday at third base with two out in the sixth and Davey Lopes reached third with one out in the seventh. "We're just not scoring runs, it's as simple as the nose on your face," Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda said. "All their runs have been with two outs. They're getting the clutch hits when they need them and that's why they've won two games."

Don Stewart started the Dodgers' fatal 11th and lost for the second straight game, yielding back-to-back singles to Phil Garner and Tony Scott.

Rookie playoff managers find different results

By the Associated Press
It was the first major league postseason managerial appearance for Montreal's Jim Fanning and Milwaukee's Buck Rogers. Fanning was a winner, while Rogers was a loser. However, they spoke about the same basic theme.

"It's only one of what could be five," Fanning said after his Expos defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 Wednesday to take a 1-0 lead in the National League East best-of-five divisional playoff.

Playoff roundup

"Losing tonight was not a catastrophe, although every game certainly is big in a short series," Rogers said after the New York Yankees trimmed his Brewers 5-3 for a 1-0 lead in their American League East series. "But it makes tomorrow a bigger game for us."

The Yankees and Brewers were to meet at 3:10 p.m., EDT, today in Milwaukee, while the Phillies and the Expos clash in their second game at 8:15 p.m., EDT, at Montreal.

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's head home with a 2-0 lead over the Kansas City Royals, while the Houston Astros take a 2-0 advantage to Los Angeles to play the Dodgers. Both series will resume on Friday.

Oakland edged Kansas City 2-1 in the AL West Wednesday and Houston nipped Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings in the NL West. "There's no doubt that the team which wins the first game of a series has a better statistical chance to win it," said Montreal pitcher Steve Rogers after he combined with Jeff Reardon to stop Philadelphia. "But if you think we're going to sit back and take it easy, no thank you."

"We've seen too many teams lose three straight after winning the first game," Rogers added.

Fanning, who took over as Expos manager on Sept. 8 when Dick Williams was fired, said he told his batters to lay off the low-breaking pitches of Philadelphia's ace Steve Carlton.

"Our players have hit against Carlton many times, and they all remember his stuff," Fanning said. "If they did anything to help themselves, it was laying off those pitches on which he gets so many strikeouts."

Carlton worked six innings, gave up seven hits and struck out six. He walked five, unusually high for the left-hander, who has won three Cy Young Awards.

"He (Carlton) doesn't often get beat," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green. "He wasn't the same Steve Carlton, but he pitched a good baseball game."

Montreal jumped out front in the first when Jerry White reached on a fielders' choice, stole second and scored on Gary Carter's two-out double. After Keith Moreland knotted the score with a second-inning homer, the Expos took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on a double by Tim Wallach and a single by Chris Speier.

Montreal's final run came in the fourth when Speier walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on a double by Warren Cromartie.

Yankees 5, Brewers 3
Rick Cerone's two-run double capped a four-run inning and the Yankees used brilliant relief pitching by Ron Davis and Rich Gossage to beat Milwaukee.

"I had a pretty good fastball, and when I got ahead I tried to pitch to spots," Davis said after earning the victory with 22.3 innings of no-hit, four-strikeout relief. "I

Congress may be needed for water import fight

SANTA FE (AP) — A member of the High Plains Study Council predicted Wednesday it will take an act of Congress to import water to the six state high plains region from adjacent states.

Calling the proposal a "sensitive political issue," Gov. William Clements of Texas acknowledged that states with surplus water won't be anxious to turn it over to their neighbors voluntarily.

But Clements said national and international demand for food from what he termed the "bread basket" of the high plains eventually will become so great that Congress will be forced to step in.

When that occurs, the cost of the project — estimated at up to $20 billion in 1977 dollars for start-up costs alone — will not be an obstacle, he said.

"It's a question of how hungry we become," he said. "If the people need the food out of the bread basket... then we will put the water on the high plains."

Clements' comments came during the council's annual meeting held this year in Santa Fe. New Mexico Gov. Bruce King is chairman of the council.

Created in 1976 by an act of Congress, the council is charged with reviewing ways of supplementing the shrinking Ogallala Aquifer, which sustains about 13.2 million acres of farmland in the region.

States represented on the council are Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado.

Studies have shown that by 2020 — if nothing is done — there will be insufficient water in the aquifer to sustain about 5.4 million acres of agricultural land now in use.

According to its charter, the council can consider obtaining additional water only from states adjacent to the high plains region.

At its meeting Wednesday, the council heard presentations from representatives of Arthur D. Little Co., a consulting firm, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the costs of various alternatives.

In addition to the water importation alternative, the council is considering the consequences of doing nothing, launching voluntary conservation programs and compelling farmers to use less water.

Frank Feeley, project director for Arthur D. Little, told the council a small amount of farmland could be salvaged if each of the states in the high plains region enacted conservation incentives or adopted mandatory conservation programs.

But Feeley said that importing water was the only method by which the region could hope to sustain its current level of agricultural production through the year 2020.

William Pearson of the Corps of Engineers told the council that based on four leading alternative sources of water, the price per acre foot of bringing water to the high plains state would range from $292 to $569 in 1977 dollars.

A large factor in the cost per acre foot was the high price of energy used to pump the water, he said. Pearson said the energy cost alone would be in the range of $75-$150 per square foot.

But Clements and King told reporters at a news conference during a break in the meeting that the high cost of importing water wouldn't stand in the way of any importation project.

The two governors said that national and international demand for "food and fiber" from the western states ultimately will force Congress to appropriate the money necessary to bring water to the high plains.

The council is scheduled to receive final draft reports from its consultants by Dec. 1 on the feasibility and cost of each of several alternatives.

Jury is selected for Daniel trial

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A minister's wife, a firefighter and the wife of a Liberty County sheriff's detective are among 12 jurors who must decide if Vickie Daniel is guilty of murder in the slaying of her estranged husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys completed nearly three days of jury selection Wednesday, empaneling an eight-man, four-woman panel that ranges in age from 24 to 61.

During preliminary questioning, 19 of the remaining 59 prospective jurors Wednesday said they already had formed an opinion on whether Mrs. Daniel fired the fatal shot.

Visiting State District Judge Leonard Giblin of Beaumont said he will hear several defense motions on Monday. He said testimony would begin Wednesday afternoon, and he predicted the trial will last at least a month.

Mrs. Daniel, 34, who pleaded innocent to the murder charge, waived her Fifth Amendment protections last spring during her successful custody fight with in-laws over the couple's two young sons and testified she did not intentionally shoot her husband.

Prosecutors allege that after a bitter quarrel over the impending divorce, Mrs. Daniel murdered her husband with a .22-caliber rifle at their spacious ranch home just outside this Southeast Texas town.

Daniel — 39 and scion of one of Texas' most prominent families — bled to death before an ambulance arrived.

High court decides against televised trials

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the state Supreme Court says television coverage of a judges' convention in Corpus Christi did not help the cause of getting cameras into Texas courtrooms.

Greenhill notified the news media Wednesday that the court, which makes the rules for Texas judges, had decided against allowing televised trials.

The court's decision, which Greenhill indicated was 9-0, abided by the results of a poll that showed judges at the recent Corpus Christi convention opposed televised trials, 182-36.

"Television coverage of the convention was not helpful," Greenhill said at a news conference Wednesday afternoon. "Some of the judges said the media covered only one side and asked, 'Is that how they are going to cover our trials?'"

He said television crews used a lot of lights and set up their cameras "without regard to whose lap they sat in, including mine." He said television cameras, tripods and cameramen blocked his view of the speakers.

Greenhill suggested some other possible reasons why judges voted so heavily against televised trials:

— Although guidelines recommended by a State Bar of Texas committee gave each judge total discretion, many didn't want to decide whether to allow TV coverage.

— "You all can put a great deal of pressure on people, whether you realize it or not. A judge telling you all to get out takes a good deal of courage, whether you all realize it or not," Greenhill told reporters.

— Many judges feared television cameras would affect the behavior of witnesses, as suggested by prominent Austin defense lawyer Roy Minton.

Minton said he thought that was the big reason for the judges' decision.

The issue of cameras in the courtroom came to the court in a petition filed last year by the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters. The executive director of the Texas Association of Broadcasters, a statewide trade association of television and radio stations, said his organization would keep fighting for televised trials.

"We're totally disappointed, but we don't intend to stop trying to get into the courtroom. I don't know what our options are, but a lawyer is checking. We're not going to quit," said Bonner McLane of Austin, who served on the State Bar committee.

Greenhill, however, counseled against trying in the near future to run the issue by the judges once more.

"It would not be helpful to bring it up again real soon," Greenhill said, but added, "Nothing is forever."

Wayne Fisher of Houston, president of the State Bar, agreed with Greenhill that in view of the "overwhelming" vote of the judges there was little hope of bringing televised trials to Texas in the near future.

"If it was a real close vote, I would say bring it up next year for reconsideration. But it wasn't," said Fisher, who added he favored televising trials under the guidelines recommended by the State Bar committee.

The guidelines said each judge should have total authority to allow cameras in his or her courtroom or to keep them out and to designate camera positions. Not more than two television cameras or still cameras could be in the courtroom at one time. Crews could not move about, and cameras could not have lights or noisy motors.

Glen Moyer of WOAI in San Antonio, the AP Broadcasters' president for radio, called the decision "a shame."

"I think this is a vote against progress in the state of Texas. ... I thought surely that with the success of televised trials in Florida, that Texas would see the light," Moyer said.

Minton said he was "delighted" and said the decision would prevent "a circus" in the courtroom. Before the court's prohibited televised trials in 1965, a circuslike atmosphere prevailed, he said.

Moyer said modern technology had done away with the noise and bright lights that used to accompany television cameras into the courtroom.

Court holds hospitals liable for use of defective products

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court has upheld a lower court decision that a Houston hospital predicts will add to medical costs throughout the state.

The precedent-setting decision says hospitals, even though not negligent, can be made to pay for injuries and deaths caused by their use of dangerously defective products.

Burrell Thomas, a patient in St. Joseph Hospital in Houston, died Jan. 2, 1974, two weeks after he dropped a lighted match while smoking and ignited his hospital gown, causing burns over most of his body.

His wife, Josephine, sued and presented testimony that it was possible at the time of the fire to manufacture hospital gowns from flame-retardant material.

Mrs. Thomas lost her case when the trial judge dismissed two gown manufacturers and a cloth maker as defendants and the jury found St. Joseph

Hospital innocent of negligence.

Boxing must have scoreboard

After watching the replay of the Sugar Ray Leonard-Thomas Hearn fight in Las Vegas, it became apparent that something is drastically wrong in the world of professional boxing.

Before viewing the fight, I had read countless stories that came across the wire dealing with the fact that Hearn was leading the fight when Leonard TKOed him in the 14th round.

Personally, I enjoy watching both fighters, and like their personalities, so I had no favorite. And maybe that's what made watching the rematch so interesting.

But had Leonard not won by the TKO, had the fight gone the distance and the judges announced that Hearn was the winner by decision, there is no question in my mind that the sports arena at Caesar's Palace would have erupted in anger. It would have looked like a fix.

Hearn maybe won the first few rounds, but not by much. On the weird boxing scoring system, the most Hearn could have won a round could have been by 10-9. But it seemed that when Leonard won rounds, it was a different story, like 10-7, or 10-8 at the least.

Nevertheless, Hearn was said to be ahead by the judges when the fight was stopped. I don't see how.

Which raises my next question. Why aren't the boxers and the audience made aware of the scoring after each round?

What if, say, there were no scoreboards in pro football or basketball? Theoretically, that would be no different than the way boxing is currently set up.

Let's take a for instance. Say the Dallas Cowboys were playing the Philadelphia Eagles for the NFC East. The Cowboys had outplayed the Eagles, or so people thought, and with three minutes to go in the game and the ball, the Cowboys simply used a ball control type attack to sew up the game.

But wait! The judges come across after the game and say the Eagles won by 16-14.

The same could happen in basketball or baseball. Say a basketball team had what they felt a decision in the late stages of the game. They sit on the lead in college basketball, and if in the NBA, wait until the allotted time clock runs down to one before shooting an off balance shot. They control the clock, but at the conclusion, find out that they were really trailing by two points.

The way boxing is set up, there is really no difference in their scoring system and their way of announcing it as there is in the two theoretical cases mentioned above. Boxing needs to take a look at itself before a truly giant controversy rocks the system in such a championship affair.

Former Big Spring Steer John Thomas Smith made All-Pro last year as a punt returner for the Kansas City Chiefs, as well as starting for that AFC West squad as a wide receiver the past two years.

Smith has returned to nearly keep pace with his NFL leading punt return totals of 1980, and looks to be improving on his pass receiving stats.

The ex-BHS star thus far has returned 13 punts for 143 yards to rank second in the AFC in that department. In the pass receiving department, John Thomas has latched on to 21 catches for 306 yards.

Those receiving stats are eighth in the AFC in number and sixth in yardage produced.

Good news for Cowboy fans bent on superstition. The Cowboys are 4-0 in regular season action against New England, the team they disposed of in a recent Monday night game. And in all four of those wins, the Dallas team went on to participate in the Super Bowl.

While the pre-season Top 20 in college football has been scrambled each week, things have gone according to the way they were supposed to on the Bottom Ten. In the pre-season, Northwestern was considered the No. 1 of the worst teams, followed by Oregon State and UTEP. All three have failed to win going into this weekend's games.

According to last year's NFL won-lost records, the undefeated Miami Dolphins have the toughest schedule in 1981. The Dolphins face teams that combined for a .539 winning percentage, with Baltimore and Cincinnati next at .535, and Kansas City at .533. And while the tough slate hasn't bothered the Dolphins, it also hasn't seemed to affect the Bengals and Chiefs, cruising along at 3-2.

Most knowledgeable sports fans have a pretty good idea about the highest paid professional athletes. But here are some interesting facts concerning the bottom and average on the NFL pay scale.

Walling's 11th inning hit pushes Houston to 1-0 win
Astros go 2-up on Dodgers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Denny Walling, typecast as the steady pinch hitter deluxe, admits he sometimes takes his frustrations out on a speed bag.

Walling took a 10-minute speed bag session Tuesday night in a move that may establish a norm for pinch hitters everywhere.

Walling turned from a punch hitter to pinch hitter Wednesday with a two-out 11th inning single to lift the Astros to a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles and a 2-0 lead in their best of five National League playoff series.

"The speed bag is my way of releasing my frustrations," said Walling, who struggled through the regular season with a .234 average. "I don't like to take my problems home with me and the speed bag helps me leave them in the clubhouse."

Walling noted from the dugout that Dodger outfielders were playing shallow and when he came to bat in the 11th inning with the bases loaded and two out he drove a fastball from reliever Tom Niedenfuer over right fielder Derrel Thomas' head.

"I'm not going to try to coach their team," Walling said. "They had been moving people around throughout the game, doing a good job of it. A lot of teams play us shallow in this ballpark and sooner or later they get burned."

The Astros now travel to Los Angeles in the familiar position of needing to win only one of the next three games to repeat as Western Division champions.

Houston faced an identical situation in 1980 when the Astros led the Dodgers by three games with three games to play in the regular season. Houston lost all three games but won the title in a one-game playoff.

"It seems almost like just last week we were going out there with the same odds," Astros Manager Bill Virdon said. "I know that was last year and somehow I hope we can win one of them this time."

Walling said the 1980 playoff drama helped make the Astros a better team. "That playoff game last year made us winners," Walling said. "We've been through it all now and we know what it takes."

The Dodgers left 13 runners stranded including Rick Monday at third base with two out in the sixth and Davey Lopes reached third with one out in the seventh.

"We're just not scoring runs, it's as simple as the nose on your face," Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda said. "All their runs have been with two outs. They're getting the clutch hits when they need them and that's why they've won two games."

Don Stewart started the Dodgers' fatal 11th and lost for the second straight game, yielding back-to-back singles to Phil Garner and Tony Scott.

Rookie playoff managers find different results

By The Associated Press

It was the first major league postseason managerial appearance for Montreal's Jim Fanning and Milwaukee's Buck Rogers. Fanning was a winner, while Rogers was a loser. However, they spoke about the same basic theme.

"It's only one of what could be five," Fanning said after his Expos defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 Wednesday to take a 1-0 lead in the National League East best-of-five divisional playoff.

Playoff roundup

"Losing tonight was not a catastrophe, although every game certainly is big in a short series," Rogers said after the New York Yankees trimmed his Brewers 5-3 for a 1-0 lead in their American League East series. "But it makes tomorrow a bigger game for us."

The Yankees and Brewers were to meet at 3:10 p.m., EDT, today in Milwaukee, while the Phillies and the Expos clash in their second game at 8:15 p.m., EDT, at Montreal.

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's head home with a 2-0 lead over the Kansas City Royals, while the Houston Astros take a 2-0 advantage to Los Angeles to play the Dodgers. Both series will resume on Friday.

Oakland edged Kansas City 2-1 in the AL West Wednesday and Houston nipped Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings in the NL West. "There's no doubt that the team which wins the first game of a series has a better statistical chance to win it," said Montreal pitcher Steve Rogers after he combined with Jeff Reardon to stop Philadelphia. "But if you think we're going to sit back and take it easy, no thank you."

"We've seen too many teams lose three straight after winning the first game," Rogers added.

Fanning, who took over as Expos manager on Sept. 8 when Dick Williams was fired, said he told his batters to lay off the low-breaking pitches of Philadelphia's ace Steve Carlton.

"Our players have hit against Carlton many times, and they all remember his stuff," Fanning said. "If they did anything to help themselves, it was laying off those pitches on which he gets so many strikeouts."

Carlton worked six innings, gave up seven hits and struck out six. He walked five, unusually high for the left-hander, who has won three Cy Young Awards. "He (Carlton) doesn't often get beat," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green. "He wasn't the same Steve Carlton, but he pitched a good baseball game."

Montreal jumped out front in the first when Jerry White reached on a fielders' choice, stole second and scored on Gary Carter's two-out double. After Keith Moreland knotted the score with a second-inning homer, the Expos took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on a double by Tim Wallach and a single by Chris Speier.

Montreal's final run came in the fourth when Speier walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on a double by Warren Cromartie.

Yankees 5, Brewers 3
Rick Cerone's two-run double capped a four-run inning and the Yankees used brilliant relief pitching by Ron Davis and Rich Gossage to beat Milwaukee.

"I had a pretty good fastball, and when I got ahead I tried to pitch to spots," Davis said after earning the victory with 2-3 innings of no-hit, four-strikeout relief. "I

To when Houston went to LA last year

TIME FOR THOUGHT — Philadelphia Phillies first baseman Pete Rose is deep in thought as he sits on an equipment case in the dugout in the eighth inning of Wednesday's game in Montreal. Rose missed a bunt on a hit-and-run play, and Phillies runner Lonnie Smith was caught at second base, to end a possible Phillies rally.

flyball for the first out. Niedenfuer came on to intentionally walk Cesar Cedeno and strikeout Art Howe to set up Walling's game winner.
That's all it took to send the Dodgers packing for home with their backs against the wall.
"I've been playing 11 years now and we've always bounced back," Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey said. "This is the first time we've lost two playoff games in a row and that should be enough incentive to come back and use our home field advantage. You talk about must games, Friday is a must game."

Houston starter Joe Niekro and Los Angeles' Jerry Reuss carried the scoreless duel through most of the game. Reuss went nine innings and scattered five hits, while Niekro set down the Dodgers eight innings on seven hits.

"I'm looking forward to going back to Los Angeles because we are a better team than we were a year ago," Niekro said. "Tony Scott and Phil Garner have strengthened this team and we are playing much more relaxed now. We've been through everything that can be thrown at us. We just want to go out now and win it Friday."

Unser renamed Indy winner

The decision made Unser a three-time Indy winner.

A special USAC appeal panel overturned the penalty and restored him as winner of last May's race.

"I'm just ecstatic," said Unser's wife, Marcia, in a radio interview with station KZIA in Albuquerque, N.M., the Unser's home. "I radioed to him (Bobby) at the elk camp (where he is hunting). I told him, 'Bobby, you're a three-time winner. It's official. There was no answer. I said, 'Bobby, did you hear me?' He told me, 'I'm really excited 'cause we weren't expecting it. We really weren't.'"

Mrs. Unser said she and her husband and the Penske racing team "were prepared to take it (their appeal) further if we had to. We could have taken it to FIA (Federation Internationale de L'Automobile, the international racing body for the world). That would have been our next step."

threw the ball probably faster than I have since the strike."

Oscar Gamble's two-run homer into the right-center field bullpen in the second tied the score at 2-2. Bob Watson followed with a single, Larry Milbourne had an infield single and Cerone scored them both with a double to left.

Milwaukee pulled to 4-3 on an RBI single by Ted Simmons in the fifth. But the Yankees added their final run in the ninth when Jerry Mumphrey singled, stole second, went to third when catcher Simmons' throw went into center field and scored when Robin Yount bobbled Reggie Jackson's two-out grounder for an error.

A's 2, Royals 1

Oakland's Tony Armas, who pulled a muscle in the sixth inning, rapped his fourth hit of the game in the eighth — a double through the legs of Kansas City third baseman George Brett — chasing home Dwayne Murphy with the winning run.

Armas said he felt the pain in the right side of the groin area when he darted back to second base after a fly ball out in the sixth.

Armas also knocked home Oakland's first run. Murphy singled in the first, went to third on a double by Cliff Johnson and scored on Armas' double.

Steve McCatty struck out three, walked four and gave up only six hits to the Royals in going the distance for the win.

Sports or politics, world's sick

By the Associated Press
Bob Hope had scheduled a telephone call from the West Coast Tuesday to talk about his television special next month in which he dips his ski-sliding nose and biting wit into pro football. Enthusiastic over the project, he wanted to talk about it.

Shortly before noon, the phone rang and across the wires came the voice of a Hope associate.
"Bob wonders if it would be okay if he postponed that chat until sometime later," he said. "He is so crushed by the Sadat tragedy he doesn't feel like talking. He doesn't think you would, either, and he doubts that anybody would be interested at this time."

It was just a small episode in a long, wrenching day of momentous events thousands of miles away, but a microcosm of the sadness and hopelessness that gripped not only the people of this country but around the world.

For the moment, big-time sports seemed trivial and unimportant. With the slaying of the Kennedy brothers, Martin Luther King and Beate John Lennon still fresh in memory as well as attempts on the lives of President Reagan and Pope John Paul II, the thought of waving pompons and having fun seemed almost sacrilegious.

The world was going mad.
Sports provide the greatest antidote to the wave of terrorism and anarchy erupting around the globe.

If the sports establishment can learn anything from the current wave of senselessness — teen-age crime on the streets as well as assaults on world leaders — it is that sports must not be lured into the same kind of cold violence and insensitivity.

Things are happening in our cozy little world of fun and games that should give us pause to ponder.

Baseball suddenly is stricken with an uncommon outbreak of fan abuse. Cesar Cedeno and Reggie Smith were provoked into leaping into the stands to confront offenders, while Pete Rose accosted two abusive spectators behind his dugout in St. Louis. Umpires got into a scuffle with a newsmen.

Tennis, traditionally a sedate and gentlemanly sport, has become a jungle. Unruly spectators had to be ejected during an important women's match in the recent U.S. Open. John McEnroe, the world's best male player, was heavily fined and denied honorary membership in the All-England Club for a running series of rebellious antics at Wimbledon.

In a Davis Cup match against Australia a week ago in Portland, Ore., McEnroe and Peter Fleming raised a silly ruckus over a single point that captain Arthur Ashe felt cast a bad light on the country. Pam Shriver, a teen-ager, publicly blistered her opponent, Tracy Austin, with profanity after losing a match.

These are fresh and seemingly trivial incidents compared to cheating at the college level, excessive brutality and abject surrender to the almighty dollar.

It was Jack Tatum of the Oakland Raiders who, after a vicious tackle that paralyzed New England's Darryl Stingley for life, said, "There is no room for sentiment in football — I was a hit man, a paid assassin."

He'll find another skipper position

Braves manager not worried

ATLANTA (AP) — Bobby Cox reportedly says he's no longer the manager of the Atlanta Braves, but he's hoping to hear from more than one major league club seeking his talents.

Cox said Braves' owner Ted Turner told him he was fired Wednesday because "a change was needed," the Atlanta Constitution reported today.

Braves officials made no comment on Cox' status, but scheduled a news conference today in which, Turner said, "We will tell everything." Earlier this week, Turner had refused to say that Cox would be managing the team next year.

In the past week, however, executives of three other major league baseball clubs have been quoted in published reports as saying Braves officials had told them Cox would be fired.

Cox said he planned to be at the news conference and that he harbors no grudges against Turner or the Braves.

"Ted just told me a change was needed, and we didn't have a great year," Cox told the Constitution. "We didn't have a terrible year either."

"I like Ted and I respect him. And I thanked him for the four years I have been here. In that time, I think the team has come leaps and bounds. The Braves were little more than an expansion club when I got here."

The Braves went 69-93 in 1978, Cox' first year, 66-94 in 1979, 81-80 in 1980 and 50-56 in the abbreviated 1981 season.

Cox, 40, has been mentioned as a possible successor to former Toronto Blue Jays Manager Bobby Mattick, who resigned Wednesday to take a front-office job with that team. But Cox did not limit himself to Toronto for a possible position.

"I feel I can get another job managing, and I hope to hear tomorrow from more than one club," Cox said. "Don't worry about me. It's going to work out somewhere."

Cox said that wherever he goes, he hopes to have with him Braves coaches Bobby Dews, Tommie Aaron, John Sullivan and Luke Appling. "They are all good people who have been loyal to me and the Braves."

The Constitution reported that three men are being considered to replace Cox and that the official search would begin following today's news conference. The candidates include Braves pitcher Phil Niekro, former Montreal Manager Dick Williams and current Richmond Manager Eddie Haas.

Millionaire status deceiving

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — John Mahaffey says 1981 for him has been "fairly mediocre." Despite joining golf's millionaire club and earning more than $128,000 this year, "It's been an up and down year for me," the 31-year-old former PGA champion said as he prepared for today's opening round of the $200,000

Southern Open Golf Tournament over the par-70, 6,971-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"I can't recall a year in which I've missed even two cuts. This year I've missed seven but financially I've done all right. It's been a strange year," said Mahaffey.

The 5-foot-9, 150-pounder captured the Anheuser-Busch Tournament in July and has five top 10 finishes this season. In 10 years on the Tour, he has earned $1,040,553.

"That's just the way it is out here, though," he said. "There's peaks and valleys. I've played for 10 years and I'll probably play another 10. Anything can happen and it probably will."

Mahaffey, who is getting over the flu, has never played well in three previous tournaments here but raved about the condition of the course.

"The course is in the best shape of any I've played on this year. The fairways are ideal. I don't know how I'll do but somebody should shoot a record score if the weather stays good," said Mahaffey.

He considers Jerry Pate and Hubert Green as the players to beat for the $36,000 first prize.

Pate, who is seventh on the money list this year, is the only two-time winner of the Southern, winning in 1977-78. Green won it in 1975.

Others in the field of 156 include defending champion Mike Sullivan, Arnold Palmer and previous winners here, Ed Fiori, Johnny Miller and Forest Fezler.

SWC

DALLAS (AP) — Three of the four teams tied for the Southwest Conference lead are in conference action this weekend, along with the nationally televised Texas-Oklahoma clash here.

Saturday's games in order of starting times:

TEXAS (3-0) vs. OKLAHOMA (1-1) at Dallas, 11:30 a.m. — Sooners were knocked out of No. 1 spot in The Associated Press college football poll two weeks ago in last-second 34-34 tie to Southern Cal, then tied by Iowa State last week, 7-7. The are the No. 2 rushing team in country with 5.4 yards gained per try and 354 yards per game, while Texas is No. 2 rushing defense in country with 1.1 yards allowed per play and 40 yards per game.

The battle will be the Texas defensive line, anchored by Kenneth Sims, against the Sooners' wildcat rushing of Stanley Wynn (105.7 yards per game), Kelly Phelps (7.9 yards per carry) and Buster Rhymes (nine yards a whack). Longhorns hold 47-3 lead in series that started in 1950.

TEXAS A&M (3-1, 1-0 in SWC), 2 p.m. CDT — Both teams won SWC openers last week, Texas 23-0 over defending champion Baylor and the Aggies 24-23 over Texas Tech in Lubbock. Both teams are holding on to less than 10 yards per game rushing. Cowboys allowing 55.7 (third nationally) and A&M allowing 66.7 (eighth nationally).

ARKANSAS (3-1, 0-1 in SWC), 2:30 p.m. CDT — Both teams try to rebound from close SWC losses last week. Tech losing a 23-10 fourth-quarter lead over A&M before losing 24-23. Razorbacks falling to TCU 20-24 after leading at one point 24-13. Arkansas leads the Tech series 20-4, and is 10-1 at Jones Stadium, including the last six.

ARKANSAS (3-1, 0-1 in SWC), 3:30 p.m. CDT — Both teams try to rebound from close SWC losses last week. Tech losing a 23-10 fourth-quarter lead over A&M before losing 24-23. Razorbacks falling to TCU 20-24 after leading at one point 24-13. Arkansas leads the Tech series 20-4, and is 10-1 at Jones Stadium, including the last six.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN (2-2, 1-1 in SWC) at RICE (1-3, 0-1 in SWC), 7:30 p.m. CDT — Both teams won last week. Frogs ending a 22-year drought against Southern Methodist 40-0, 1-0 in SWC. TCU leads series by 30-26-3, but neither team has won two straight since Owel wins in 1972 and 1973.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 9, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to consider the various duties connected with your personal life and to do what is necessary to put your affairs on a more solid structure. Maintain an optimistic outlook.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your basic aims and find the best method to attain them with a minimum of effort. Avoid extravagance tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to have talks with advisers who are familiar with your problems. Contact a close tie for the data you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can gain a good deal now if you engage in social activities in a practical way. Show increased affection to loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to express your capabilities in the business world. Contact a higher-up for the backing you need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have new ideas that should be fully studied before putting them in operation. Show that you are progressive minded.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It's important that you carry through with promises you've made. Go to the right sources for the information you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more willing to make a new arrangement with an associate and become more successful in the future. Express your charm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have much work to do and a new system could be helpful in handling it more efficiently. Improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have talent you seldom use and this is a good time to try it out. Engage in hobby with friends tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may find it difficult to handle a personal problem now. The evening can be a delightful time with congenials.

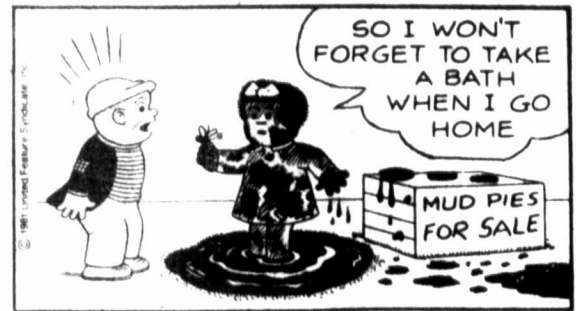

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day when you are thinking cleverly and can easily gain your aims. Don't ask any favors from friends at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your financial situation may worry you, but if you carry through with an objective plan, everything will turn out okay.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she should be alerted to opportunities in the outside world, particularly where modern methods are concerned. Give a good education, since the pioneer spirit is definitely in this chart. Teach good manners.

Rogers favored in English Match Play

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Bill Rogers is favored to continue his fantastic winning streak and take home the $69,000 first prize in the Suntory World Match Play Golf Championship.

The big Texan is among 12 of the world's top golfers competing in the head-tohead, knockout tournament over Wentworth's 6,945-yard, par-72 course.

All matches are over 36 holes, making this one of the most grueling events left on the world circuit. Hours of rain left the course soaked and playing long, and the tournament promised to be harder than ever as it opened today.

Rogers won the British Open at Sandwich in July. In recent weeks he has won three straight tournaments — the World Series, Suntory Open in Japan and Texas Open.

The bookies rated Rogers a 4-1 favorite, David Graham of Australia 13-2, Bernhard Langer of Germany 7-2, Ray Floyd 15-2, two-time winner Hale Irwin 10-1, Japan's Isao Aoki and Spain's Seve Ballesteros 11-1, and Ben Crenshaw 12-1.

Rogers had a bye in the first round and was not involved in the action Thursday. The first round pitted Ballesteros vs. Irwin, Brian Barnes of Britain vs. Floyd, Gary Player of South Africa vs. Aoki and Crenshaw vs. Nick Faldo of Britain.

First-round byes went to Greg Norman of Australia, Langer, Rogers and Graham.

The $230,000 tournament ends Sunday.

Beaumont's Busceme Mr. KO again

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Texas lightweight boxing champion James "Bubba" Busceme battered Ernest Herrera with punishing combinations Wednesday night to record his 10th straight victory with a technical knockout in the 10th round.

Busceme, 26-3 and with 22 knockouts, hammered the former featherweight and lightweight champion of Mexico throughout the fight and did not lose a round on the cards of the officials.

Herrera, who fought for the world featherweight title in 1978, had trouble penetrating the Busceme left-handed style and landed few effective punches.

Busceme had Herrera in trouble in the ninth round with left-right combinations to the head and body. Busceme's punishing attack in the 10th round caused Herrera's handlers to throw in the towel.

Herrera's record fell to 42-7. Busceme, a former five-time Texas Golden Gloves champion and four-time national Golden Gloves champion, will fight James Martinez in Fort Worth Oct. 29.

Senate endorses legislative

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is endorsing legislation that would remove much of almost a half-century of regulation of the telephone industry and encourage competition from American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

For consumers, the bill could mean less expensive telephone equipment and lower long distance charges but higher local service rates.

The measure, sent to the House on a 90-4 vote Wednesday, also would let AT&T expand for the first time into unregulated fields such as data processing and information services. That would mean a suit which AT&T filed in 1974 against Reagan and his administration would be provided with a new twist.

Senate approval and Republican support would be a step toward a new telephone regulatory structure.

The House bill would require AT&T to create new fields like data processing, and to create a separate subsidiary with its own facilities. The new subsidiary could provide electronic publishing, cable TV or burglar alarm services.

regulations

AT&T would create another subsidiary to provide delivery of electronic news and advertising. The subsidiary would be prohibited from controlling the content of such services in which newspapers, although it could provide listings.

ABC takes lead in new TV season

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC took a running jump into the 1981-82 TV season, despite only moderate success for the network's first major miniseries of the fall, "The Manions of America," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

Though the new TV year did not officially begin until Oct. 5, the networks fudged a bit in the week of Sept. 28-Oct. 4. Nine of the 20 highest-rated programs were first-run, including the premiere installment in the three-part "Manions" miniseries, in 15th place.

ABC had only seven shows in the Top 20 — to 10 for CBS and three for NBC — but compiled an average score for the period of 17.3 to win the weekly race for the third straight time. CBS' average rating was 16.9, and NBC's 13.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 17.3 percent of the nation's homes with television were watching ABC.

With the fast-paced finish, ABC won the weekly competition 10 times in the 55-week TV year which had been stretched some by labor problems in Hollywood. CBS was first 38 times, NBC five, and ABC and CBS tied for first twice.

NBC, though continuing to struggle in prime time, won the evening news competition for the third week in a month. The network's "Nightly News" was first in the field for the third time in a month, with a rating of 11.5 to 11.2 for ABC's "World News Tonight" and 11 for CBS' "Evening News."

Despite the large number of new shows in the week, the highest-rated program in the period was a repeat episode of ABC's "Hart to Hart," with a rating of 23.5. Nielsen says that means of all the country's TV-equipped homes, 23.5 percent saw at least part of the program.

Another three-part program at least partly in competition with the ABC miniseries, NBC's "Sophisticated Gents," began slowly. — No. 57 of 58 shows broadcast during the week — and improved slightly as the audience for "Manions" fell off. Part II was No. 54, and the third chapter 52nd.

NBC had seven of the eight lowest-rated programs, all but ABC's "Theater for Young Americans" production, "The Wave," which finished last — No. 58.

In addition to "The Sophisticated Gents," NBC listed a movie, "Tilt," 51st, another film, "Jet Pilot," 53rd, a "Project Peacock" feature 55th and "NBC Magazine" 56th.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs:

"Hart to Hart," with a rating of 23.5 representing 19.1 million homes, and "Three's Company," 23.1 or 18.8 million, both ABC; "The Jeffersons," 22.4 or 18.2 million, "Dukes of Hazzard," 22.2 or 18.1 million, and "M-A-S-H," 22.1 or 18 million, all CBS; "NFL Monday Night Football," Los Angeles vs. Chicago, 22 or 17.9 million, ABC, and "Alice," 21.9 or 17.8 million, "60 Minutes," 20.5 or 16.7 million, "Trapper John, M.D.," 20.3 or 16.5 million, and "House Calls," 20.1 or 16.4 million, all CBS.

Newspaper to appeal U.S. judge's ruling

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for The Lufkin News are determining whether to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a judge's ruling barring the public from pre-trial hearings in a bank stockholders suit, the newspaper's publisher says.

The Texas Supreme Court refused last month to hear the newspaper's appeal, which sought to make transcripts available from previous hearings and to bar a local judge from closing any future proceedings in a Texas National Bank stockholders suit.

Attorneys for the News now are deciding whether to appeal in U.S. district court or go directly to the U.S. Supreme Court, said Joe Murray, news editor and publisher of the News.

"It's not something we do eagerly. It's something we feel that we must do," Murray said.

"We've spent $10,000 so far and we'll spend $10,000 more. But it isn't the information (from the pre-trial hearings) that's worth the money we're spending; rather the public's right to know, and that is precious and priceless," he said.

In the bank suit, several stockholders and a former bank president allege that directors of the bank violated federal banking regulations and usurped the bank board's authority.

87 Haitians bused to El Paso prison

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, confirmed today that 87 of the 97 Haitian refugees detained locally were moved to the La Tuna Federal Correctional Institute in El Paso at about 11:30 p.m. yesterday.

The decision to move the Haitians, which was made by the director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, was made Monday following a mild demonstration staged by the refugees, Allman said.

At a news conference, Allman described to local reporters the events Sunday and Monday which led to the removal of the Haitians from the camp.

"We called the local police, the Texas Rangers, members of the highway patrol and the sheriff's department," said Allman.

These extra security people were called to the scene "just to make sure (the Haitians) did not go into the community" because there could be problems if they went off the camp, Allman said.

Law enforcement officials "responded immediately and covered the perimeter" of the camp, he said.

The Haitians were later convinced to return to their dorm, but because of their frustration about being detained, the decision to move them was made, Allman explained.

The superintendent said the Haitians had heard from "some sources that they were being detained too long" compared to other refugees around the country.

These "sources" were friends, relatives and attorneys with whom the Haitians have been in contact with since their detention, he said.

As a result, the men wanted to be released or sent home, Allman said. Because of their feelings, it was decided to move the men to a medium-security facility in El Paso.

"About 11 p.m. last night, our officers escorted (the Haitians)" to buses, Allman said. The Haitians were told after they boarded the buses that they were being moved to another institution.

The men were "despondent and depressed," said Allman, as they set out for El Paso.

"The buses wouldn't carry all 87" to La Tuna at once, Allman added during the conference today. He said "nineteen men are in the Midland city jail" and will be transferred to La Tuna Wednesday.

Nine of the refugees, who did not take part in the demonstration, remain at the Big Spring camp. Another man is in a local hospital and was in the hospital prior to the demonstration Sunday.

The men who remain in Big Spring must still be processed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"I don't know how long they will be here," Allman said.

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

A Howard County jury today sentenced Carroll Wayne Jones to 16 years in prison on a rape of a child conviction. The jury deliberated a little over 30 minutes before returning the sentence in state district court.

Jones was found guilty of the charge yesterday by the jury after about 15 minutes of deliberations.

The 14-year-old girl Jones attacked testified in court Tuesday morning that Jones had sexual intercourse with her at various times from February to March of this year. The girl, who was 13 at the time of the attacks, testified the last encounter with Jones took place in March, after which she told her sister what was happening. She said she was afraid she was pregnant, and her sister took her to Dr. J.W. Kuykendall for an examination.

Dr. Kuykendall, who testified Monday afternoon, stated in court the girl had had numerous acts of intercourse.

Under questioning from Don Richard, special assistant to the district attorney, the girl said Jones had threatened to kill her if she told anyone about the incidents of sexual intercourse. She also said she had been an out-patient at Big Spring State Hospital as a result of the incidents.

Sandy Torres, defense attorney for Jones, questioned the girl about where she learned the terms she used in her testimony. She said she had not been told what to say by the district attorney's office.

Under questioning from Torres, the girl said Jones threatened her before the sexual intercourse began.

Other witnesses testified for the defense concerning the time element in which the attacks could have occurred — the bookkeeper where Jones was employed testified as to the early hour the employees had to begin work. The girl claimed the incidents occurred early in the morning.

The jury also heard from Jones' ex-wife and the victim's mother. Jones did not take the stand.

The closing argument for the defense centered around the conflicting statements made by the girl on the stand and the probability of the attacks occurring during the times the girl testified that they did.

Richard, in closing statements for the state, said the main issue was the testimony of the young victim combined with the fact that Jones had the opportunity for the attacks. Richard said time problems and conflicting statements which the girl made to police and later in court are to be expected from a young person remembering traumatic events.

Farmers convene

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Although a steady drizzle and cool temperatures kept attendance down, about 20 area farmers took part in the 1981 Cotton Field Day sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Tuesday.

Don Richardson, county extension agent, said Cotton Field Day is a once-a-year event when area farmers get together to view various varieties of cotton being grown in the county and to study money-saving conservation techniques.

When rain and chilly temperatures ruled out a cotton stripper demonstration, the farmers headed for the Knott Co-Op Gin to the Larry Shaw farm to view several varieties of cotton being grown there in a demonstration.

At the Shaw farm, Dr. Ken Lindsey, an agronomist with the extension service, talked with the farmers about 12 different varieties of cotton that Shaw is experimenting with. Shaw said the varieties included Cascot BR-1, Cascot Camd-E, Lamesa 5, Lamesa 8 and Lamesa V-14.

Other varieties on the Shaw farm are Stoneville 213, Earlycot 32-A, Stripper 31-A, SP-37, GSA-75, GSA-78 and GSA-71.

Dr. Lindsey said most of the cotton varieties being experimented with on the Shaw farm are "available commercially." Together, the men discussed plant type, boll type and the maturity date of the cotton varieties.

Cotton Field Days "give everybody a chance to look" at cotton varieties, said Dr. Lindsey, adding that the cotton could be viewed under hometown conditions.

Day care center on E. 17th approved

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Big Spring will get a new day care center to handle up to 17 children, if Mrs. Della Hogue gets her way.

She's well on her way, having won the unanimous approval of the city Planning and Zoning Board last night. The board by a 7-0 vote recommended that Hogue be given a specific use permit to remodel a building she owns at 1514 E. 17th with the intention of converting the building into a day care facility.

The next hurdle is city council approval. It's expected that Hogue's request and the board recommendation will go before the council later this month.

Approval also will be needed by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Hogue told board members the center would be open five days a week and she would run the center with her daughter.

"With today's economy, more mothers are going to work," Hogue told the board. "We need facilities for their babies so they can work."

She said her facility would be educationally oriented and the staff there "wouldn't be just babysitters."

She gave the board a list of neighbors who she said don't object to the conversion of the single-story structure to a day care center.

Bidders turn out for auction

Approximately 300 bidders converged on the city of Big Spring's annual auction which was held yesterday in the Industrial Park. The bidders were able to choose from a variety of items including city vehicles, earth moving equipment, electronic gadgetry, stoves, heaters, desks, chairs, pianos, medical equipment and assorted junk.

Dub Bryant's Auction Co. handled the auction with a staff of four and kept the crowd buzzing with excitement with each new item that came up for bid. The auction started at 10 a.m. and continued on until about 5 p.m.

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson said of the auction, "It looked like we had a pretty good crowd and things were selling pretty good considering what we had to sell."

Ferguson said the proceeds from the auction would go into a general fund and an airport fund for maintenance and general expenses. He said it would be Monday before he would have the tallied results from Dub Bryant.

Also sold were a few items from the Big Spring Independent School District and Howard County Junior College.

Colorado City jail escapee sentenced

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A 32nd District Court jury Tuesday sentenced George Miles to nine years in prison and fined him $2,500 for a jail escape May 30, 1981.

Miles, along with two other men, Billy Wayne Williams and Charles Allen Ramstad, ran out of the Mitchell County Jail and hid in weeds until they were recaptured a short while later.

Williams and Ramstad failed to appear for their trials and District Judge Weldon Kirk ordered their bonds totaling $27,500 forfeited. Two Lubbock bail bond companies are on the bonds for Williams and Ramstad.

Miles' sentence was deliberated by a jury for approximately an hour and a half Tuesday afternoon.

Another case concerning Ed Teichman, accused of theft, was scheduled to be heard today.

J. ARNOLD MARSHALL
Marshall elected
Caprock president

J. Arnold Marshall of Big Spring has been elected president of Caprock Service Co., Inc., a crude oil buyer and oil field service company operating in the Permian Basin.

The announcement was made Friday by Reagan M. Martin of Dallas, chairman of the board.

For Marshall it marks a return to the company which he co-founded in 1957 and managed for 20 years. Caprock is a division of the H.W. Smith Transport Co.

Marshall was a part owner of H.W. Smith Transport and Caprock from 1957 to 1967, when he bought full interest in both corporations. In the meantime he started the ACE Transport, Inc., in Sonora. He sold all three companies in 1977 to Martin and his associates.

Marshall is a former mayor of Big Spring from 1962 to 1972. He currently is vice president, Eastern Region, of the Buffalo Trails Council of Boy Scouts of America, and president of Big Spring Boys Club. He is a past president of the board of the First United Methodist Church of Big Spring and has been active in many other civic organizations.

"I am very pleased with this appointment," Marshall said. "I intend to work very hard to ensure that Caprock maintains the very highest standards of service and integrity."

PRESERVE YOUR CAR'S APPEARANCE
Tidy Car of Big Spring can do the job

Tidy Car provides three protective processes

Your car is one of your most important possessions, important enough that it deserves the best care possible, not only for the engine but for the exterior.

Tidy Car car wash, located at 200 West Second at the Devore Texaco building is a facility designed to preserve your car's appearance forever.

Tidy Car, locally operated by Ed Clark offers Preserve-A-Shine "total finish concept" to keep a showroom shine on your car.

The Preserve-A-Shine idea provides three protective processes: 1) protection for the outside of your car, to keep the paint job looking new and bright and to cut down on the need for waxing; 2) Upholstery Gard 2, to give your car's interior fabrics permanent protection from common stains and spills (this process is guaranteed in writing for as long as you own your car; and 3) A vinyl roof treatment that will keep your vinyl roof looking new for months. This treatment helps repel dirt, grime and pollution. It also protects vinyl and leather interiors.

Together these processes make up the Tidy Car promise - to make your car look like it just came off the showroom floor. Preserve-A-Shine will preserve the beauty of your automobile investment with a protective shield.

FINE SERVICE FROM A FAMILY-RUN BUSINESS
Morris Robertson Body Shop of Big Spring

Morris-Robertson Body Shop, located at 207 Goliad, is a family-run business that has the experience and skill needed to get the job done the right way at a reasonable cost.

Morris and his sons take great pride in the professional work they do. The residents of Big Spring and the surrounding area know they can trust the Robertsons. They have been in the body repair business since 1946 and they know that the best way to do thriving business is to show they care about their customers.

Morris Robertson Body Shop offers complete body work facilities. They can do radiator work, general body work, and they will mend the broken glass and straighten the frame on your car. They can get your damaged auto looking like new, but at a reasonable price.

The sign in front of Morris Robertson's says "Artists at Work". They say that because they know their job and do it with pride.

Morris Robertson Body Shop is located at 207 Goliad. They are open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Call them today at 263-7306.

Navajo Indian rug donated

Mrs. Mary Cosse of McConellsville, Ohio has donated a 5 x 8 foot Navajo Indian rug to Heritage Museum in memory of her Aunt, Maydell Alderman, who was born in Big Spring in 1900 and died August 10, 1981. She was born in a little house between her father's C.L. Alderman's Home Union Store, and her uncle's opera house, where Zale's Jewelry now stands. The family later moved over on Scurry Street, which at the time, was called "Silk Stocking Row."

According to Jonnie Gunnels, acting curator, tourists are still stopping by for a tour of the museum.

Recent out-of-town and out-of-state visitors and their hosts, visiting the museum were: Mr. and Mrs. Cecil V.

Fowler of Arab, Ala., visiting his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lloyd and family of Torrance, Calif., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lloyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ramirez of Acariqua, Portuguesa, Venezuela, visiting their aunt, Mrs. James Potter. Also visiting the Potters was her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Mickelson, Silver City, N.M.

Visiting Mrs. Charles Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Hack Miller were R.T. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Smith and baby, of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Mary Smith, Odessa, Laura Smith, Odessa, and Daisy Smith, Sterling City.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Billy Palmer were her mother Mrs. Fern Ramsey, and brothers Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Norton, Salinas, Calif.

In addition, visitors to the museum from the following states and cities were registered: Nre Hampshire, Arizona, Louisiana, New Mexico, South Carolina, Illinois, California, Alaska, Idaho, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, and the country of the Netherlands. Texas towns listed were included Gainesville, Irving, Orange Grove, Lamesa, Dallas, San Angelo, Houston, Colorado City, Tahoka, Post, Odessa, Midland, and the St. Lawrence Community.

Several ladies from the local Salvation Army brought a group from the San Angelo Salvation Army, for a tour of the museum.

$1,200 diamond ring and tapes are stolen

A woman reported to police Tuesday that a $1,200 diamond ring and a case full of eight-track tapes were taken from her car while it was parked at the YMCA between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Gelores Gonzales, who lives at 1209 Utah, said her car window was also damaged in the incident. Total loss of goods and damages was listed at $1,440, police said.

Garry Bodenheimer, 35, was arrested at 5:43 p.m. Tuesday after he allegedly tried to steal a package of cigarettes from the Seven-11 Store at 11th and Johnson, then allegedly damaged the front door of the store, police said.

Store employee Brenda Tingley told police Bodenheimer broke the door off the hinges in the incident, causing $350 to $400 in damages. Bodenheimer was also charged with parole violation from a charge in Odessa, police said.

Laura Mexia told police Tuesday that someone broke the antenna off her car while she was parked at the Sonic Drive-In.

A 22-year-old woman reported a case of aggravated assault to police Tuesday. She said a man she knows hit her about the face and neck, then pulled out a knife and began threatening her, police said.

A local man was charged with reckless conduct Tuesday when he went into the Casa Blanca restaurant and reportedly got angry with a waitress there.

Police reports show the man became angry then went to his car, pulled out a shotgun and waved it around.

A major accident was reported on Simlar at 6:23 p.m.

Tuesday. Cars driven by Joyce Taylor, 616 State, and Michael Walker, 2619 Hunter, collided, police said. Taylor's vehicle had to be towed from the scene, but no one involved in the accident was treated for injuries, police said.

A car driven by Jeffrey Minyard, 2609 Wasson, was swerving to avoid another vehicle when it collided with a street light and turned over. The vehicle was towed from the scene, but Minyard and the passengers in his car were not seriously injured, police said.

Cars driven by Shirley Holmes, 2605 Dow, and Annette Gibson, Sterling City Route, collided at 3:28 p.m. at 400 W. Third, police said.

Cars driven by Margie Hill, 1419 Sycamore, and Cuca Everett, 104 N.W. Eighth, collided at 8:17 a.m. Tuesday in the 700 block of Goliad, police said.

At 3:18 p.m. Tuesday, cars driven by Brenda Lemond, No. 2 Crestwood Terrace, and Roselinda Dutchover, 314 N.E. Ninth, collided at 400 Marcy, police said.

At 5:29 p.m., cars driven by Larry Bounds, 713 Washington, and Larry Ringener, 2301 Grace, collided in the 2600 block of Wasson, according to police.

Cars driven by Maud Othman of Pampa and Sharon Nuckolls 1017 Johnson, collided at 6:20 p.m. Tuesday in the 1700 block of Runnels.

An alleged case of hit and run was cleared at 3:41 a.m. today by police. The incident occurred at 13th and Goliad, and involved cars driven by Maurine Hanks of Vealmoor and Ricardo Alexander of Fort Worth.

Alcoholism seminar set Friday

The Big Spring State Hospital will conduct an alcoholism seminar Friday, Oct. 9. It will be held in the auditorium at the Big Spring State Hospital.

These seminars are made possible through the Big Spring State Hospital and are being held in conjunction with Howard College.

Malvin P. Sikes, Ph.D., a Clinical and Counseling Psychologist and also a Professor of Educational Psychology at The University of Texas at Austin, will be the consultant for this seminar. Dr. Sikes is also Director of Research and Development Center for Teacher Education at The University. Dr. Sikes has done research and has published in the field of alcoholism, where he has over 20 years experience.

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of chemical abuse and to those of the general public who are interested in learning more about this problem. This seminar will be directed toward understanding the role of "people power" in the treatment process, as opposed to a complete capitulation to "techniques" and drugs. The goal of the day will be to clarify our role, and to share practical, useful skills and experiences with people who work in this field.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. The general session will begin at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged. With an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education Units from Howard College. (Persons wishing to receive full credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

The theme for the day will be: "Use of People Power in the Treatment Process." Additional information may be obtained from Clyde J. Alsop, training officer, Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program, Big Spring State Hospital.

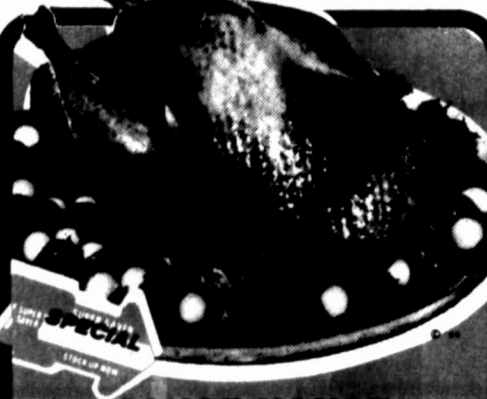

Roy appointed to RID committee

Rep. Roy, director of the division for Collegiate Studies, has been selected to serve as a state representative to the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf National Reorganization Committee, Dr. Douglas Burke, Vice President of the South West Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, said.

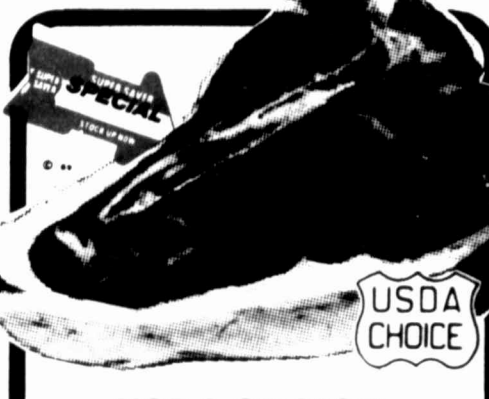

RID state representatives serve as liaisons between the regional RID representatives and the RID affiliated chapters in the states. There are ten regional representatives on the committee, one from each of the 10 Federal Regions. Irma Young, of Knoxville, Tennessee, is the chairperson of the committee.

"I feel very honored to be asked to join such a prestigious organization," said Roy. "What we (the committee) will be trying to do is to solicit suggested plans from all local chapters of the Society of Interpreters for the Deaf in Texas, develop three or four reorganization plans for publication in the November-December Interpreter Views, and develop a final plan for reorganization to be published in the March-April Interpreter Views for review."

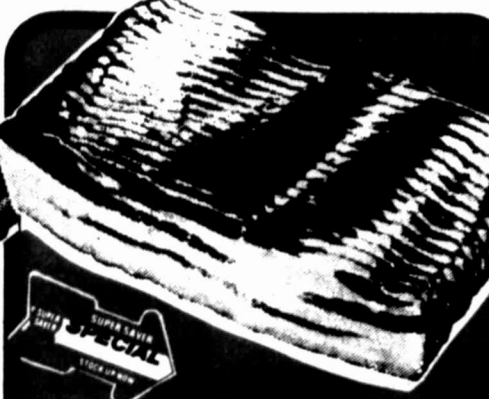

Roy will serve in Region VI, which hosts the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Request for prune cake recipe is answered

Last week's recipe request for Jack Horner Prune Cake has been answered by Marvalene Bradford. Mrs. Bradford said, "I hope it is the one she wants at any rate it is a very good moist cake." We have received another request this week. Gloria Roe is looking for a pumpkin custard recipe. This is an appropriate request with Halloween, Thanksgiving and even Christmas (already?) quickly approaching. Share your family favorite by sending it to: Recipe Exchange, care of Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring TX. 79720. Several other of the area's good cooks shared their favorites this week. Why not share yours? Mail them today.

PRUNE CAKE
Marvalene Bradford
2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
4 eggs
1 cup chopped prunes
3 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup prune juice
1 cup sour milk
Cream sugar and shortening; add beaten eggs and mix well. Add prunes. Put in dry ingredients and liquids alternately. Beat mixture thoroughly. Bake in 4 greased and floured layer pans or tube pan at 350 degrees. Bake layers for 25 to 30 minutes; tube pan for 45 minutes to an hour or until done. Do not overcook. Frost with vanilla icing.

BOSTON FUDGE CAKE
Marvalene Bradford
(a rich, old-fashioned brown sugar and chocolate cake)
2 cups sifted flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups brown sugar, packed
1/2 cup soft shortening
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

3 medium eggs
2 squares unsweetened chocolate (2 ounces), melted
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 2 round layer pans, 9x1 1/2", or an oblong pan, 13x9 1/2x2". Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Add brown sugar and shortening. Pour in buttermilk and vanilla. Beat for 2 minutes at medium speed with mixer or 300 vigorous strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl constantly. Add eggs, chocolate. Beat 2 more minutes, scraping bowl constantly. Pour into prepared pans or pan. Bake layers 30 to 35 minutes; oblong 40 to 45 minutes. When cake is cool, frost with your favorite fudge icing.

BROCCOLI AND RICE
Mrs. Lady Grace Hamilton
Cut one onion and celery stalk. Cook chopped broccoli according to package directions. Cook 1 1/2 cups rice. Combine ingredients and add 1 small can evaporated milk and 1 can cream of chicken soup. Bake at 250 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Top with Cheese Whiz.

CHILI SQUASH
Mrs. Lady Grace Hamilton
6 medium tender yellow squash
1 teaspoon onion flakes, or one onion, finely chopped
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 can whole chili peppers
8 slices American cheese
1 cup canned milk
2 cups water
Cut squash and cook in 2 cups of water with onion or onion flakes until tender. Allow to cool. Beat egg and mix with milk and flour and salt. Beat until smooth. Remove seeds from chili peppers, then finely chop them. Pour the juice from the can and add to mixture. Add the squash to this a little at a time with cheese between in an oblong baking dish. Bake at 300 degrees until firm.

CABBAGE SALAD
Mrs. Lady Grace Hamilton
1 large head cabbage
1 large onion
2 bell peppers
Shred or grind above ingredients. Then add:
1 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar or honey
1 1/2 cups corn oil
1 tablespoon salt
Mix well and let stand overnight. This is also good for bean salad.
BROCCOLI AND MEAT CASSEROLE
Mrs. J.O. Murphy Sr.
1 pound ground beef
1 10-ounce package chopped broccoli
1 cup rice, cooked
1/2 pound Velveeta cheese
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 small onion
Cook meat with chopped onion. Cook broccoli as directed on package. Mix cheese with meat and onion mixture. Add soup, rice and broccoli; pour into baking dish and bake for about 20 minutes at 300 degrees.
HONEY CAKE
Mrs. J.O. Murphy Sr.
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon OR 1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
Cream shortening, add honey and egg. Sift flour, then measure and sift again with baking soda, salt and cinnamon. Add alternately with milk to first mixture; mix thoroughly. Pour into well-greased 8x8 pan. Bake 45 minutes at 375 degrees.

Do's and don'ts of job interviews are given

AUSTIN, Texas — Although they may not rank in the category of deadly sins, certain gaffes in dress and demeanor may hurt a college student's chances for success during a job interview with a business recruiter, University of Texas students were told recently.

Speakers included Mary Lynn Damhorst, assistant professor of home economics and sponsor of the UT Fashion Group; Dr. Fred Jablin, assistant professor of speech communication who teaches a course on Interviews and Interviewing; Terry Schillace, a UT Graduate School of Business student who formerly recruited for an accounting firm, and Joe Vorsas, director of the UT Business Placement Office.

Ms. Damhorst said that while the kind of clothes you wear probably won't make or break an interview, they give you an "edge" in the vital area of first impressions and "provide some sort of message whether you like it or not."

Her advice: "Go for quiet clothes, things that don't scream out."

Referring to a recent study

she made to gauge how persons perceive those who are attired in certain ways, Ms. Damhorst said she found that men and women who were shown to be wearing suits were perceived to be in managerial positions, while those in casual attire were not.

Job applicants should dress to look like a person in the role they are aspiring to, she suggested.

Ms. Damhorst told women students not to wear bright red to an interview, for it is too stimulating a color. She suggested that women wear medium to darker colors or soft patterns of color. When interviewing, "emulate your grandmother" by not wearing low-cut necklines, avoid tight clothes, wear lower heels, don't wear hats, pants or culottes, and "stay away from vintage clothes and weird pattern combinations."

Instead of dress, women "probably" ought to consider wearing a suit to an interview, she said.

For men, Ms. Damhorst suggested they wear gray, navy or dark tan suits in a conservative cut. Men's suits should be in good fabrics such as wool or wool blends, and men "should avoid 100 percent polyester double-knits."

Matching pants and jacket make a man look taller and slimmer, she said, while plaid suits make a man appear shorter and fatter. As for textures, she cautioned men to "avoid anything shiny." Another no-no for a male job-seeker is a white linen suit, she said. In regard to shirt colors, she said to wear a white shirt "if you want to be totally safe."

Dr. Jablin said lack of preparation for the job interview is a common fault of students.

Students should prepare themselves to know something about the recruiter's company, he said. They also should be prepared to discuss their own qualifications and objectives and be able to answer a typical recruiter's request:

"Tell me about yourself." In listing a number of complaints that interviewers have about job-seekers, Dr. Jablin said lying was the worst offense.

"If they catch you lying, it's over," he said.

Other complaints of interviewers include lack of interest in the interview, lack of sincerity and initiative, evasiveness, arrogance, dirty hands or faces, being late for the appointment, inability to express oneself well, immaturity and an unrealistic desire to start work in an executive capacity, he said.

Dr. Jablin cautioned about the use of too much humor, wisecracks and jokes on the part of the job-seeker.

Mr. Vorsas, from his experience in directing the business placement office, observed that one of the most unrealistic expectations a student can have is "to think companies are going to hire you right out of school for an overseas position."

Annual Garden Club Council luncheon held

The Big Spring Garden Club Council held their annual luncheon at Garrett Hall in the First United Methodist Church Saturday.

African Violet Club meets

The Texas Star African Violet Club met in the home of Mabel Kountz Thursday. Sixteen members and one guest, Mrs. Granville Glenn, were present.

Thelma Montgomery presented a program entitled "African Violet Suckers." Refreshments were served following the program.

The next meeting will be Nov. 8 in the home of Lona Crocker, 1707 Benton.

Mrs. Paul Guy, council president, was mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Guy stressed the thought "Our today is built of yesterdays."

The Rev. Victor Sedinger, minister of First Christian Church, gave the invocation, and a welcome address was given by Mayor Clyde Angel.

On display were paintings by Mel Prather and the 1982 Garden Club calendars, "Visions of Beauty." The calendars will be sold by Garden Club members for $3 each.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Clyde Angel in appreciation of her support to the club, and to Mrs. J.I. Balch for selling the most tickets to the luncheon.

Proceeds from the luncheon will be used for beautification of the city.

Dear Abby

Loyal Reader Deserves Abby's Best Shot

DEAR ABBY: I've read you faithfully ever since you started 25 years ago and clipped many of the items I thought were worth keeping. I have over 1,200 of them.

One letter signed "Too Late" caused me to visit my elderly mother every day during her last two years in a nursing home, and I will always be indebted to you for giving me the motivation that now permits me to live with a clear conscience.

Why don't you put together a book containing the cream of all the letters that have appeared in your column over the years? It would be a cinch best-seller.

E.S.G. IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR E.S.G.: You must have "E.S.P." I have put together a book containing the "cream" — it's titled "The Best of Dear Abby" and will be in the bookstores on October 8. The chapter "Encore, Encore" contains those letters most frequently requested for a rerun. You will be pleased to know that the one signed "Too Late" ranked "numero uno!"

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Never Been Kissed" prompts this: When I was a college freshman, a lovely sophomore girl offered to teach me how to play tennis if I'd help her with her Spanish. I was a shy guy and rather afraid of girls. I had tried a bit of kissing in high school, but derived no particular thrill out of it.

Well, I learned tennis. She learned Spanish and was so grateful she offered to take me riding in her Model-A Ford. We became better acquainted, and one moonlit night we were parked under the tall ponderosa pines of Flagstaff, Ariz. I ventured into a few nervous but delightful moments of petting, when suddenly she stunned me with, "Sam, you can't kiss worth a damn!"

I was terribly embarrassed and all I could say was, "Well, that's the way my mother used to kiss me."

"That's what I thought," she retorted. "Now, quit puckering up your lips like a bunch of stiff nerves. Moisten them just a little, then part them ever so slightly and keep them soft and velvety... like this." Then she kissed me several times. I learned fast and in no time at all I was an expert.

FAST LEARNER

DEAR FAST: Beautiful! That's the best kind of lip service.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having an argument, and we can't find anyone who can settle it, so please ask one of your consultants. He says there is just as much nutritional value in the vitamins you buy in a store as in the vitamins you get in food.

I say he is wrong — there is no way you can imitate nature, that the vitamins you get in food are far superior to the synthetic vitamins manufactured in some laboratory. If I'm wrong I'll eat this newspaper. Thank you.

FRAN IN FAYETTEVILLE, ARK.

DEAR FRAN: Start nibbling. The United States Public Health Service's Food and Drug Administration spokesperson says, "Synthetic vitamins, manufactured in a laboratory, are identical to the natural vitamins found in foods. The body cannot tell the difference, and derives the same amount of benefit from either source."
