Germans Take Over Hungary

Resisting Leaders Held In Move To Close "Back Door"

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 20—German invasion troops have occupied Hungary in militant preparation for a last ditch stand against the Red Army in the hills and plains of that reluctant ally, dispatches from neutral capitals declared tonight.

The grey-clad divisions were reported to have marched in late Sunday night, despite Hungarian opposition.

An Associated Press dispatch from Ankara said a diplomat there, who declined to be named, positively confirmed the German occupation.

A Stockholm dispatch said Hungarian Regent Nicholas Horthy, Foreign Minister Jeno von Ghyczy, and the chief of the army general staff, Gen. Granz Szombathelyi, apparently were Hitler's prisoners in the Reich.

Opposition Said Urged

The Nazi troops were reported to be meeting resistance from Hungarian troops as they marched in from old Austria on the north and from Rumania on the south, and a secret Hungarian radio station, presumably backed by Premier Nicholas Kallay, was said to have begun urging the people actively to oppose the Germans.

A Hungarian in Stockholm said the three Hungarian leaders were summoned to Hitler's headquarters Friday and that they turned down requests for more active military aid against the Russians—for "participation in the war without reservations." They were then prevented from returning to their country, he said.

DRAMATIC MESSAGE

LONDON, Tuesday, March 21 (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today that Hungarian military authorities had broadcast this dramatic message to the nation early this morning:

"We have suffered our first dead in the fight against the invader, our former ally. The fight must and will continue."

The Daily Mail did not say from what station the reported message was broadcast.

From Berlin came indications that the Nazis were preparing to seize control of other southeastern Europe satellites.

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said Hungarian troops resisted the German march-in, made from both Germany on the north and Rumania on the south, but had no details.

The Germans were said to have made their swoop while Regent Nicholas Horthy and Gen. Ghezy, Hungarian commander-in-chief were held virtual prisoners after

Two Divisions Of Rumanians Beaten

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Tuesday, March 21 Russian troops have captured the east bank German base and rail junction of Mogilev-Podolski on the Dniester river and hurled aside two Rumanian divisions trying to bar the Soviet surge into pre-war Rumania, a Moscow communique announced early today.

Premier-Marshal Stalin in an order of the day also announced the fall of Vinnitsa, the German Bug river stronghold 60 miles northeast of Mogilev-Podolski, and the communique said other Soviet troops driving on Lwow in old Poland seized 50 villages, including Korsov, only 56 miles northeast of that big Axis communications hcb.

In Sight Of Carpathians

Moscow dispatch said the Red Army was within sight of the Carpathian mountains, rolling through shattered German lines with such astounding speed that the liberation of the entire southern Ukraine now was almost a foregone conclusion.

Attacking on a 500-mile front from old Poland to the Black Sea near the encircled port of Nikolaev, the Russians said their troops had swept through 115 more towns and villages during the day, including the district center of Radzivilov on the Rovno-Lwow railway 60 miles northeast of Lwow.

Fifty other villages were taken in the westward push into former Poland, said the Regular communique.

Expand Bridgeheads

On the Bessarabian fighting the bulletin merely said the Russians "continued to wage successful engagements to expand the bridgehead captured on the right bank of the Dniester," a 31-mile sector between fallen Mogilev-Podolski and Yampol.

Tight Policy On U. S. Property Sales Set

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—W. L. Clayton, the newly appointed federal surplus property administrator, said today he had the power and intended to use it to put a stop to loose disposition of excess government-owned materials, and to bring about coordination in this matter among the numerous agencies involved.

As an example, he said that when his agency is fully organized, he would see to it that one government unit does not throw a particular surplus on the market while some other agency is buying, or trying to buy, the same thing.

"If you do that, you'll do a pretty good job," remarked Rep. Patman (D-Tex.)

Clayton was before the House banking committee which is considering a measure giving the Reconstruction Finance corporation additional authority to dispose of surpluses. He reserved his opinion on this bill, but remained to answer general questions about disposal.

De Valera Ired At U.S. Appeal

Message Referred To As Ultimatum

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 20—I was informed on excellent authority on my recent visit to Dublin that Prime Minister Eamon De Valera gave way to expressions of anger at the recent American request for ousting of Axis diplomats from Eire, thumped the table and shouted: "This is an ultimatum."

Cooly the American minister, David Gray, replied:

"If you will read the note again you will find there is no 'or else' clause and no time limit. It is not an ultimatum. It is only a sincere effort by the United States government to safeguard the lives of thousands of American soldiers from the very real danger of Axis espionage agents in Eire."

Rigid Censorship

Eire's rejection of the request was announced March 10.

Ever since Prime Minister Churchill warned in midweek that the Allies would isolate Eire from the outer world, Eire's censorship has been rigid and unsmilingly polite toward British and American correspondents.

"We have a reputation of being the toughest censorship in the world," Eire's chief press censor told the Associated Press in Dublin. "We might as well live up to it."

He spoke bitterly of "those two powerful but misguided nations, the United States and Great Britain."

No actual news on the crisis has been permitted to leave Dublin. Irish newspapers, solidly supporting De Valera's regime for the first time in many years, are printing only the most favorable editorial comments on Eire's stand from Britain, the United States, Switzerland and even China.

Texas Approves Federal Ballot

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)— The federal bob-tailed ballot, approved by Congress and awaiting President Roosevelt's approval or veto, can be used in Texas without conflict with state law, Governor Coke R. Stevenson today informed the President.

The governor said a study by him and Attorney General Grover Sellers indicated that Texans serving in the armed forces could vote in the general election for presidential electors and congressional candidates by applying for a federal ballot and without payment of the state poll tax.

No Free State Votes

To vote for state candidates in the general election it is still necessary for soldiers to have paid their poll tax, he said. A state absentee ballot can be obtained and cast in accordance with state statutes.

Service men wishing to vote for candidates for Congress and for presidential electors in the general election may apply through military channels for a bob-tailed ballot.

The governor announced his decision at a press conference. The President had asked governors of all states whether their laws interfered with use of the proposed federal ballot.

Two-Thirds Rule

Answering a question the governor said he thought it would be desirable if the Democratic national convention would restore the rule requiring a two-thirds majority vote for nomination of candidates.

School Bus Hit By Train, Two Killed

TANGIPAHOA, La., March 20. (AP)—A school bus collided with the Panama Limited train of the Illinois Central and two persons were killed instantly here today.

The bus driver, Willie Smith, and his eight-year-old daughter were the only occupants of the bus, which had finished delivering children from the Kentwood Grammar school and was enroute to Smith's home near Tangipahoa.

Smith and his daughter, Jane Idell Smith, were believed to have been killed instantly. The bus was demolished.

Spring Is Here, Tra-La But Forecaster Proves Contrary

WELL, today is the first day of spring, tra-la and all that.

It now may be presumed that the fair sex, to coin a phrase, will be squirming into their autumn finery before long. And the thoughts of the young men, as some wag pointed out, probably will turn to thoughts of their induction day.

According to something the weather editor read in a book, today marks one of the two equinox periods. "The equinoxes," he says, flourishing a limp cigar, "are the two periods of the calendar year when the sun crosses the celestial equator. Equinoxes come on March 21 and Sept. 23, when the sun is exactly over the earth's equator. Lengths of the day and night at those dates are practically equal."

The weather forecaster was reluctant to fall into the spirit of the thing. Partial cloudiness, lower temperatuers, with fresh to strong winds are to be expected today, he said.

Winter Saturday night and Sunady took one last fling before expiration of its official period, doing heavy damage to fruit trees and killing many young garden plants. The mercury swooned to a low of 24 degrees at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Practically all opened buds on fruit trees were considerably damaged, according to Dr. W. W. Yocum, professor of plant industry at Texas Technological college. Yocum ventured that damage to plum trees was light, but the buds on apricots were nearly

Nazis Punch Troops Back Into Cassino

Bitter Fighting Goes On In Ruins

By JOSEPH MORTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 20.—Fighting everything from bayonets to roaring 155s, British troops pressed forward in a furious house-to-house battle on the western fringe of Cassino today after blasting the Germans out of the ruins of the Hotel Continental.

The Fifth Army men also retained the initiative in a death struggle on the lower slopes of Monastery hill, where the enemy had the advantage of high ground.

Harsh Picture Painted

An Allied officer painted a harsh picture of the situation, saying the Germans not only had been able to reinforce their fiercly-resisting troops in the ruins of Cassino itself, but had in vicious counter-attacks again recaptured Hill 165 just west of the town. This important height has changed hands several times since the Allies launched their big assault last Wednesday.

German troops who had defended the Continental hotel-fortress fanatically for several days finally raised a white flag and surrendered late yesterday after New Zealand tanks had closed in virtually to shotgun range. They had eaten little for two days, but they still were surly and confident, and when they were removed to the rear last night—carrying their own wounded on litters—they still kept in step.

Tough Parachute Troops

The troops defending Cassino are members of the First German Parachute division, commanded by Lt. Gen. Richard Heidrick, who once rejected a group of replacements on the Adriatic front because they were not tough enough.

Lynn Heinzerling of the Associated Press, writing from the outskirts of Cassino today, said the Germans "not only were fighting for every inch but appeared to have ample troops in reserve to reinforce and steady their precarious position. These reinforcements apparently are reaching the various German strongpoints through well-covered draws and tunnels through the hills behind the town."

Despite loss of the Continental hotel ruins, the Nazis still had strong centers of resistance in the area where the Via Casilina swings around Monastery hill, and their snipers still blazed away from isolated buildings. They were strongly entrenched both in the old Ducal palace, on the south side of

Forts And Libs Lash Frankfurt

LONDON, March 20. (AP)—Fighter-escorted U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators, thundering through pea soup cluods, bombed military targets in the Frankfurt area today in the major operation of a day which saw between 1,600 and 2,100 British-based Allied planes of all types in the air against the Germans.

The formation which made the 400-mile trip to Frankfurt was described in a U. S. Army communique as "medium sized." It consisted of between 250 to 500 bombers escorted by even stronger formations of Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs of the U. S. Eighth and Ninth Air forces.

Six Bombers, 8 Fighters Lost

Six American bombers and eight fighters failed to return, the war bulletin said, while the escorting fighters brought down four of the German planes of the few encountered in the dense clouds.

The formation flew in weather so bad that the crews of the bombers sometimes could not see the ships flying beside them. Driving unerringly to the targets the bombers again used instruments to drop their loads through the clouds.

While the Fortresses and Liberators were conducting this scientific bombing in this, the sixth day of a shattering aerial offensive, Thunderbolts and British Bostons, Mitchells, Mosquitos, Typhoons and Spitfires—plastered the Nazis' Atlantic wall and targets slightly deeper in France in fine weather.

Some of the lighter planes operated under a tight umbrella of New Zealand and Belgian-piloted Spitfires.

In today's steady sequence of coordinated blows an estimated load of over 1,200 U. S. tons of bombs was dropped, bringing the total delieverd by both Britain and Italy-based Allied planes since last Wednesday to probably well in excess of 21,000 tons.

ROYALTY WEDS — King Peter of Yugoslavia and Princess Alexandria of Greece were married Monday at London in what was called one of the strangest royal weddings London has ever seen.

Yugoslav King Weds Princess

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Young King Peter of Yugoslavia married his Greek princess, Alexandra, today in one of the strangest royal weddings London has ever seen, with King George VI as best man. Peter is 20, Alexandra 23 and pretty.

The young monarch, who risked the wrath of his people in defying a tradition that Serbian rulers should marry on their own soil, thus completed half the object of his present visit to London. The other half involved behind-the-scenes conferences, going forward between two of Peter's ministers and British leaders in the hope that an alliance could be arranged with the fighting Partisans of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

Private Ceremony

Today's ceremony was a private one in the Yugoslav legation before about 40 guests, including King George VI of England, King George of Greece, King Haakon of Norway, Queen Wilmelmina of the Netherlands, Queen Elizabeth, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Duchess of Kent, and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The ceremony was performed by Archpriest Ristanovitz of the Serbian church and Archbishop Germanos of the Greek church.

Close friends of King Peter said he had wanted for a long time to go ahead with his marriage to the daughter of the late King Alexander of Greece, but that his cabinet had opposed it for fear of being overthrown when the time came to return to Yugoslavia.

The king's defiance of their wishes possibly means he is ready to abandon the Cairo government if he is not able to compromise with Marshal Tito's faction.

Peter is known to have been impressed with the United States, and if the wedding costs him his throne he possibly will take his bride to California to live. Most of his vast personal wealth is invested in the United States.

Sub Rescue Vessel Hits Reef, Sinks

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) The 2,000-ton submarine rescue ship Macaw sank after striking a reef in the Pacific Feb. 13, the Navy reported today.

The Macaw's skipper, Lt. Commdr. Paul W. Burton, of Asbury Park, N. J., is listed as missing.

The Navy said the Macaw struck a coral reef, then slid off and sank. The ship was launched July 12, 1942, at the Moore Drydock company, Oakland, Calif., and was commissioned last July 12.

Five Jap Ships Sunk, Many Troops Are Lost

Convoy Believed Enroute To Wewak Sent To Bottom

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Tuesday, March 21—More than 100 American bombers and attack planes sank a five-ship Japanese convoy, including two vessels loaded with troops, off Wewak, enemy base in New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

"Many hundreds of troops and ships crews were lost," the communique said of the attack Sunday.

Liberator heavy and Mitchell medium bombers with Boston attack planes caught two transports of 6,000 and 4,000 tons and three corvettes seventy miles northwest of Wewak at 10 a. m., and in a concentrated, low-level assault destroyed them all. The Americans lost three planes.

Shadowed By Catalina

Sighted first by Navy Catalina patrol planes the convoy was shadowed until the bombers could arrive for the attack. A headquarters spokesman said the convoy apparently was headed for Wewak, probably bringing replacements for that garrison's oft-bombed force.

The spokesman said it was believed that the convoy had not touched land at Wewak and that our airforce drove it off.

The attack demonstrated again the Allied control of air and sea lanes in the Bismarck Sea area.

Wewak itself was hit again by Allied bombers, 113 tons of explosives being dropped on airdromes and supply dumps in the ninth consecutive day of raids.

Last Big Base In Area

Allied concentration on this base brings into focus the last remaining Japanese strong point in the Bismarck Sea area. Madang, another base on the New Guinea coast about 175 miles below Wewak, hati been hammered so often and hard in the past that airmen reported a few weeks ago they believed the Japanese had evacuated much of their equipment and supplies.

American troopers of the First Cavalry division were reported to be pursuing fleeing Japanese into the highlands of Manus island in the Admiralties, in mop-up operations after the fall of Lorengau, enemy headquarterss, last Saturday.

Solomons-based planes continued their hammering of Rabaul, New Britain, dumping 60 tons of incendiary bombs on the base.

Food Urged For Hungry Europe

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Against opposition from the Army, the foreign affairs committee today brought before the entire House a resolution urging the Allies to feed the hungry in subjugated Europe.

The Senate passed a similar resolution Feb. 15, and House committee action was held up since then because, some members disclosed, the military authorities have opposed the legislation.

One member who declined to be quoted by name said that the mail to Congress has been so heavy in favor of the idea that the committee was prompted to release the resolution.

Proposals Of Plan

House approval — a vote is slated for April 3—would put Congress on record as favoring:

1—Relaxation of the blockade of Europe.

2—Use of Swedish shipping, and "food surpluses from the Americas," to feed the Poles, Czechs, French, Hollanders and Belgians described as facing mass starvation.

3—Collection of certain sums from the exiled governments which possess money to pay for the food.

4—Supervision by the International Red Cross and neutral governments to make certain that "no military advantage may accrue" to the Germans.

Former President Herbert Hoover stated some time ago that the project could be carried out satisfactorily.

Bus Falls Into River, 13 Dead

Tragedy Blamed On Ice-Coated Bridge

PASSAIC, N. J., March 20. (AP)—Nine bodies were recovered tonight, bringing to 13 the known death toll in the tragic plunge of a bus from an ice-sheeted bridge into the Passaic river early today.

Thousands of persons lined the bank of the river as the bus was finally hoisted from the stream's 18-foot channel to the deck of a barge by a 40-ton construction crane, shortly before 10 p. m.

Identification Sought

Bodies were removed from the water-logged vehicle with grappling irons, wrapped in blankets, and transported by motorboat to the hearses stationed along the shore. Police said they would be placed in an emergency casualty station, set up by the civilian defense council, for identification by relatives.

After several unsuccessful attempts to attach tackle to the submerged bus, the vehicle was made fast at 7:35 as the rescuers worked in driving snow under powerful searchlights.

Salvage operations were slow, as rescuers expressed fear the bus, badly damaged in its crash through the bridge rail, would disintegrate from the pressure of the hoists. Three of the trapped victims were pulled out from the rear-end and top of the vehicle when it was still partly in the stream.

Others Feared Lost

Police officials said there was a strong possibility that additional victims were still in the river, but rescue operations were abandoned for the night once the bus was pulled aboard the barge.

Towed down the river, the bus was unloaded at a pier for examination by police and state public utility officials.

Divers estimated shortly after the hoisting of the bus got under way late today that there were "about 25" bodies inside.

Eight of the bodies recovered tonight were unidentified. The ninth was the driver. Two women victims were dead when pulled from the river at noon, and a third died shortly after being taken to a nearby war plant for treatment. A man, knocked into the river by the bus as he crossed the bridge, died in a hospital.

Three Jurors Seated For Lonergan Trial

NEW YORK, March 20. (AP) — Three male jurors were seated in the first degree murder trial of RCAF Aircraftman Wayne Lonergan today after the defense forced the prosecution to reveal the names of its entire list of 29 witnesses.

The three were chosen in a brisk morning session. Sixteen talesmen were examined in the afternoon and were excused.

Lonergan, 26-year-old cafe society figure accused of slaying his estranged and wealthy wife, Patricia, 23, in her bedroom last October, stood and calmly faced each of the jurors as they were sworn in.

He looked pale as he sat at the counsel table and consulted his attorneys on the selection of the men who hold the power to send him to the electric chair.

Invasion Tempo Stepped Up Sharply All Over England

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND.—Everywhere, in this coastal countryside of tiny villages, thatched-roof cottages and backward plumbing, any day, you can see signs of the building-up for the big invasion.

The Yankees have stepped up the tempo to a terrific pace in the usually slow-moving towns.

Huge Convoys Rolling

The old English village—as portrayed on postcards — fundamentally hasn't changed. But the tempo nowadays is so fast.

Huge American convoys roll from morning until night and often through the night over the narrow, twisting country roads, roads a skimpy two-car width.

No one ever asks where they are going, for nowhere is silence for security more pronounced than here.

And nowhere, perhaps, is there more action and less talk about invasion. You never hear the word mentioned—by soldier or villager.

So security-minded is everyone that it's almost a guilty conscience that you even look into the sky at winging planes, or stop to gape at the convoys passing by.

During the day, in the small shopping centers, the townfolk carry on just like they always have.

But after dark these sleepy peacetime "9 o'clock towns" come to life as swarms of doughboys come in looking for fun. You can count more Americans than English in almost any spot. There

Big New Burma Battle Flares

Invasion Of India Indicated By Japs

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, India, March 20.—A Japanese offensive from remote bases of the upper Chindwin aimed at an invasion of India and disruption of the Allied supply line over the Burma hump to China apparently was developing today into the biggest battle in this theater since 1942.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia headquarters announced yesterday that the Japanese had crossed the Chindwin in force at several places, and today it was disclosed that a hard battle lasting two days had been fought in the Tiddim area on the southern flank of the Japanese thrust.

Severe Jap Casualties

Although the communique said the Japanese were forced to withdraw after severe casualties in the Tiddim action, it reported the general situation unchanged.

The Japanese objective obviously was to break through the jungle wall along the Assam frontier of India and strike into the rail, air and river line which feeds Allied supplies not only to Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's Chinese and Americans in northern Burma but also to Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's U. S. Air force in China.

Striking northward along the west bank of the Chindwin, one Japanese column evidently was aimed at Imphal, British base in India. Another column, striking from between Homalin and Timanthi farther north, was headed westward.

Enthused Yet Apprehensive

Allied commanders appeared to feel as much enthusiasm as apprehension at the new Japanese offensive, however.

If the Japanese tried to supply their columns by air as the Allies have been doing, British and American could wish for nothing better, for they have dozens of fighter fields within easy reach.

Allied ground forces also were on either side, at Tiddim and at Timanthi where they recently crossed the Chindwin.

Allied headquarters gave no further news concerning the air commando invasion which set British and Indian troops down on a jungle "beachhead" southeast of Myitkyina, 150 miles behind the enemy lines and comparatively near the Chinese border.

Finnish Report Expected Today

By EDWIN SHANKE

STOCKHOLM, March 20. (AP)—It was authoritatively stated in Helsinki tonight that the Finnish government will issue a communique early tomorrow and it is believed that this will deal with the Finnish-Russian armistice negotiations.

In view of the continued Russian silence on Finland's answer to Moscow's final peace proposals, there was speculation that the document might disclose a complete breakdown of contact between the two governments. There was no indication, however, of the exact nature of the communique.

U. S. Action Holds Hope

Finns base some of their hope that a way will be found out of their present dilemma on the fact that the U. S. legation in Helsinki remains open, a Stockholm informant said today, adding that "nothing would shock the Finns more into a realization of their position than a break in American relations."

In the minds of many the question of whether the United States will continue relations with Finland exceeds in importance the Finnish-Russian peace deadlock, said this source, who cannot be identified by name.

(The Helsinki radio quoted the Finnish newspaper Sanomat as saying that "According to the latest information, considerable modifications have been made in Soviet peace terms and the outlook is better now."

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

PERHAPS if more people had cared about what happened to other people, the world would not be in the state it is today.

ON HIRING MAIDS

SOMETIMES you hear a woman who has given up trying to keep household help, say such things as "Well, when the war is over they'll be back looking for jobs—and they won't be so high and mighty." They don't add, "And when they do come back, we'll fix 'em, because we'll be in the driver's seat," but they indicate it by their tones.

It's pretty foolish for women to take that attitude because this is the very time when they should be interested in working out a solution to a better relationship between housewife and house worker.

The women who have been doing their first housework in years should be finding out how much there is about a house. They should figure how to make household work more pleasant, lighter and more efficient.

WOMEN who from necessity struggle along with a refrigerator that is half shot to pieces and a stove that is temperamental, should determine that come peaceful days they will see to it that new household equipment will be bought among the "firsts," ahead of luxuries. Perhaps these furnishings would have been purchased before they became scarce in the stores if the homemaker had become acquainted with them sooner.

If after the war women try to get as much help from maids for as little money as they can pay, they are going to have a bigger help problem than they had before the war. For they will be dealing with help that had better jobs so far as wages and hours and independence are concerned. And if the housewife isn't prepared to meet such a person half way—there is going to be trouble.

MORALE BUILDERS

IT'S said that American nurses cherish their cosmetic cases even unto the muddy seas of a tented Army evacuation hospital in Italy as a first aid in keeping up their training school standards of looking well on duty. Though their boots be covered with mud and their uniforms only a clean, neat coverall or seersucker edition of the glistening starchy whites worn in hospitals back home, they can always give themselves a feeling of confidence and a lighter spirit by carefully tended complexions and nails.

Nurses' quarters near the combat zones are wall tents with just enough room for two cots, a wash stand and lockers but rugged as these environs are, it is not unusual to find a full-length mirror attached to the tent pole. These mirrors are salvaged from bomb-wrecked Italian castles. It's said the nurses move their mirrors as the lines advance to new territory.

Lieut.-Col. George P. Wood of Charlotte, N. C., commanding the 38th Evacuation hospital, not long commented on the efforts made by the nurses to appear trim and well groomed under all conditions. He said a bright looking nurse who gives every evidence of having just stopped for a quick look in a mirror and a daub of rouge or a bit of lipstick is a great contribution to the recovery of the patients.

NO CANDIDATES

Evidently our suggestion in Sunday's column that Lubbock might have a woman candidate for the places of mayor and commission appeared too trival to cause comment. We thought the mail would bring a number of suggestions but not a person bothered to scribble a line. Come, come readers, don't you want a woman to hold a public office in Lubbock? If they are replacing men in other fields, why not in city management?

Youth Guidance Is Aired At Discussion

Theme for a panel discussion given at a luncheon at Hilton hotel Saturday afternoon was "Guiding Youth to See the Need of Trained Men and Women." Those taking part concluded that the average citizen must be educated in the school rooms of our country before he can fulfill his responsibility to the world. Miss Gertrude Watson, coordinator of homemaking in Lubbock Public schools, was leader.

"One thing seems certain: in the world of tomorrow the present school generation will decide the problems of maintaining permanent peace and the best opportunity for service will come to those who have had outstanding training," Miss Watson concluded.

Taking part on the panel were Miss Frances Urban, assistant professor, department of home management, division of home economics, Texas Technological college; Mrs. L. L. Miller, City Parent-Teacher council president; Mrs. Gladys Holden, Farm Security administration; Sam Leifeste, president Texas Classroom Teachers association and director of distributive education and of adult education, Lubbock Public schools; Miss Louise Ohlenbusch, Frenship High school homemaking teacher; Jannie Pointer, Tech freshman; Yvonne Hartsell, Tech senior; Billie Masters and Jacquelyn Reynolds, High school seniors.

In their discussions the speakers brought out how the institutions which they represent might aid in the youth guidance in education program.

What's Done In Lubbock

Mr. Leifeste said that in Lubbock High school vocational interests tests are given; vocational programs are presented; films are shown and group discussions are held on the subjects of occupations and future.

It was agreed by all that school authorities, parents, employers and all other interested groups or agencies in the community should recognize obligations to safeguard the welfare and physical and intellectual development of youth. Suggestions included:

Encouraging a back-to-school campaign.

Providing part-time school and community work programs.

Using schools as community centers for recreation, for work and for general community improvement.

Doing a better job in counselling with youth both at home and at school.

Teaching with a better understanding and with a new zeal and spirit since "skilled workers do not grow, they must be trained."

Mrs. R. A. Burford arranged the program.

War Unites Father, Son After 22 Years

WICHITA FALLS, March 20. (AP)—War has united a Sheppard field soldier and his father after 22 years.

Sergeant-Gunner Rankin Dumont Wyman returned from combat duty in the Solomons thinking himself an orphan. His father, George Dumont Wyman erroneously had been reported dead in Mexico in 1931. His mother died on the west coast in 1938.

But George Wyman came back from Mexico, recently joined the Record-News staff here and in performance of his newspaper duties noticed the name of his son in a story from Sheppard field. There was a joyful reunion.

International Air Service Plan Offered By Senator

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—An "All American Flag" international airline designed to be the leading carrier in foreign air transportation around the world was proposed today by Senator McCarran (D-Nev) in a comprehensive new civil aeronautics bill introduced in the Senate.

A federally chartered private corporation with potential working capital of more than a billion dollars, the All American Flag line would be made up of air carriers now holding certificates under the civil aeronautics act of 1938, except airlines operating wholly within Alaska.

No Interstate Business

The line would be prohibited from engaging in interstate air transportation, but, according to McCarran, would have "active partners operating throughout the United States who will funnel international business into designated points of entry or departure."

Any one air carrier would be prevented from owning a controlling interest in the line.

The nation's airlines meanwhile took issue with the findings of two civil aeronautics board examiners who suggested that present carriers be prevented from adding small cities to their routes so as to leave a field for feeder services. They contended this would "violate sound transportation principles" and threaten the chances for a coherent and efficient air system.

In addition to setting up the new global carrier system, McCarran's bill would abolish the Civil Aeronautics board and the office of administrator of civilian aeronautics, create a new supreme seven-member civil aeronautics authority as an independent agency of government, and take all civil aviation functions away from the department of commerce.

Other Main Features

Other salient features:

The states would be given control of intrastate air carriers and contractors.

Experimental certificates would be issued freely to spur the greatest possible development of feeder lines.

A national airport survey would be authorized with a view toward future development.

Present airlines expressed their views on the report of CAB Examiners William J. Madden and Albert E. Beitel in a letter issued through the Air Transport Association of America.

Money Saved In 1943 Highest On Record

PHILADELPHIA, March 20. (AP)—The American public saved the greatest amount of money in its history during 1943.

San Antonio Becomes Texas' Second City

DALLAS, March 20 (U.P.)—Dallas isn't likely to challenge San Antonio's week-end maneuver which shot the Alamo city into second place in population among Texas cities, it appeared today.

Formal city council action of annexing several suburban areas in the metropolitan area Saturday gave San Antonio an estimated population of 390,000, placing it well ahead of Dallas' estimated 355,000 and supplanting this North Texas city as runner-up to Houston, which boasts of an estimated 500,000 persons.

To meet San Antonio's challenge Dallas would have to annex its suburban areas, including wealthy and populous Highland Park and University Park, areas which consistently have made political issues of joining their "big brother" under one government. With these areas, Dallas would have an estimated population of 430,000.

Greater Crop Of Corn Is Forecast

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) The Agriculture department today estimated this year's corn crop would be about 3,126,000,100 bushels.

The estimates were based on a canvass of farmers' intentions, as of March 1, for planting this year's crops and assumed that abandonment of acreage, and growing conditions and yields would be average.

Production Greater Last Year

In a similar report last year the department estimated corn production at 2,850,000,000 bushels. Actual production was 3,076,159,000 bushels. The wheat estimate then was for 794,000,000 bushels, while production finally was 836,298,000 bushels. Oats production then was estimated at 1,180,000,000 bushels and final production was 1,143,867,000 bushels.

The area farmers intend to plant to corn this year is reported as 99,583,000 acres, compared with 97,136,000 last year, and 96,276,000 acres, the 1933-42 ten-year average acreage.

To Plant More

Intentions for planting all spring wheat are reported as 19,805,000 acres, compared with 17,275,000 acres last year, and 20,083,000 acres, the ten-year average.

Winter wheat was seeded last fall on 47,127,000 acres, compared with 37,834,000 acres for the 1943 crop, and 48,015,000 acres, the 1932-41 ten-year average. An estimate of 526,957,000 bushels as this year's crop was made in December last, compared with a production of 529,606,000 bushels last year, and 550,181,000 bushels, the 1932-41 average production.

The acreage of intended plantings of certain crops, with the percentage as compared with the 1943 acreage, by principal production states included: corn, Texas, 5,330,000 and 95; oats, Texas, 1,816,000 and 14.

Are You MENTALLY EFFICIENT?

Increasing attention is given in these days to the subject of Eye Care and Eye Health. Authorities are unanimous in asserting that poor vision heavily taxes nervous force and is therefore a vital drawback to mental efficiency.

Unknowingly, many people suffer from poor vision which, if corrected, would clear the mind, steady the nerves and produce all-around comfort.

School children's eyes are heavily taxed, often resulting in special strain upon their nervous force. This is equally true of adults in occupations in which their eyes are employed a large part of the time in reading, desk work or "close work" of one kind or another.

Consult your oculist (eye physician) for the examination of your eyes. His medical knowledge and skill in refraction assures you of the best that science can offer.

Military Chiefs Insist On Trans-Arabian Oil Project

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 20. — Military advocates of the proposed multi-million dollar trans-Arabian oil line are preparing to tell Congress, it was learned today, that the project should be undertaken immediately.

These represenatives of the War and Navy departments and the joint chiefs of staff will base their contentions, it was understood, on these two points:

1—Delay might cost American companies their present complete domination of oil rights in the rich Saudi Arabian fields.

May Be Too Late

2—Unless it is started as soon as possible it will not be ready to deliver oil when the post-war European market opens up. Construction is estimated to require at least 18 months.

Their views will be presented to the Senate's special oil committee this week.

Without going into the merits of the project—which has been condemned by oil industry leaders as a "possible breeder of future wars," its backers are described as considering the time element this way:

King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia has been hard-pressed for cash since the war began. His pre-war economy was supported mainly by Moslem pilgrimages to Mecca. The war all but stopped the pilgrimages.

Uses British Funds

The British government, with the aim of aiding a pro-Allied and strategically-located neutral, has turned over to him funds reported to total about $20,000,000.

The United States has assisted with lend-lease supplies approximately equal to the British payments.

But this represents only a portion of the king's pre-war income and unless he can look forward to considerably increased royalties from oil production in the next two or three years he may decide to cut in non-American interests on the concessions now held exclusively by Standard Oil company of California and the Texas company.

So far, Ibn Saud has not been directly and officially approached on the pipeline project but Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as president of the Petroleum Reserves corporation, has announced that the 1,250-mile line would be built and the king is reported to be favorable to the idea.

Presumably, a definite proposal will be made to the king when PRC negotiations with the two oil companies, and diplomatic arrangements have been completed.

The project has picked up considerable controversy. It is the subject of a congressional investigation and will be reviewed at a forthcoming Anglo-American oil conference here.

Ickes' Contention

Industry spokesmen contend the oil line will put the government in the oil business, but Ickes has contended it will represent no more than government construction of a highway over which oil tanks trucks would operate.

It also has been criticized as involving the United States permanently in Middle East policies—a controversy that may compel the administration to formulate a foreign policy statement on the extent to which it feels the government should go in search for vital raw materials.

Registration Of Rent Property Here Starts

Earl W. Heath, area rent director for the OPA, announced Monday afternoon that more than 500 landlords were expected to register their property during the first day of registration at the area rent office, 1415 Avenue Q. At 3 o'clock approximately 350 had registered.

Today is the last day in which to register property in Zone No. 1, Heath said. This zone is bounded by Avenue Q on the east, Fourth street on the north. Nineteenth street on the south and taking in all territory west of these streets.

On Wednesday and Thursday owners of property in Zone No. 2, which is bounded on the east by Avenue Q, on the north by Nineteenth street, on the west by College, and on the south by Thirty-fourth street, will register.

Garza Burns, 3204 Avenue T, was the first landlord to register Monday morning, registering a six-room house at 2407 Fourteenth street and occupied by Mrs. Sunset Boon.

A representative of the civilian employees of Lubbock Army Air field notified the area rent office that these employes who owned property in Lubbock could not get off in time to reach the rent office before it closes at 5 p. m. Heath stated that the rent office will remain open on Tuesday, March 28, until 7:30 p. m., to accomodate these workers. Employes of the field will be the only ones allowed to register after 5 p. m., on that date. The regular office hours are from 9 a. m., to 5 p. m.

Service On Cotton Classing Announced

The War Food administration announced that applications by organized cotton improvement groups for free classification and market news service during the 1944 cotton crop year may be filed any time after members have planted their cotton. Applications must be filed with office of distribution, WFA, 1701 Avenue H, in Lubbock, not later than August 15 for groups in the Lubbock area.

Instructions and application blanks may be obtained from county agricultural agents or from the office of distribution.

Cotton classed for improvement groups under Smith-Doxey act in the 1943-44 season is expected to total about 3,400,000 bales or about 30 per cent of total ginnings the United States. Percentage of crop classed this season is larger than for last season, but, due to smaller crop, the volume is slightly less. Cotton classed for improvement groups under this act during the 1943-44 season in the Lubbock office is expected to total about 550,000 bales compared to 627,000 bales classed last season.

Life insurance policy loans reached their peak in 1932, when they aggregated $3,805,000,000.

Juvenile Cases Clutter Docket

County court Monday afternoon was stuffed with juvenile cases, a rising tide of which has been noticed recently by juvenile officers.

(Nineteen juveniles have been placed in juvenile ward of county jail the first 20 days of March.)

Three Mexicans

Judge G. V. Pardue paroled two of three Mexican burglars and sentenced one to a reform institution. He paroled one boy who had been arrested drunk at 2 o'clock Sunday morning in a public place and lectured another, a 15-year-old Mexican, who was so drunk when arrested at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning in a public place that he was unintelligible. Two 15-year-old El Pasoans, one of whom forged a check on the woman who allowed them to sleep at her residence here, the other attempted to pass it at an ice company, were lectured and will be delivered to the father of one of them who will arrive here today. The court may commit to an insane institution a 16-year-old boy who represented himself to be a U. S. marshal.

The three Mexican burglars broke into Beaird's, a loan place at 815 Broadway, and took five guns which eventually were recovered.

The youth who represented himself to be an officer was arrested Sunday afternoon by Bill Lamb and Ralph Goldwater, police patrolmen, who had been telephoned by the youth to come out and assist him with two "U. S. prisoners who have broken from handcuffs of my uncle, a federal officer."

Wired For Money

Twenty minutes earlier, the youth telephoned to a telegraph agency and had the following telegram sent to Washington, D. S., charging it to a non-existent telephone number:

"U. S. Marshal Charles Hamilton: Need new equipment, especially money for expenses. Please wire it back to . . . (he listed his own name); he is my deputy and will take care of it for me till he hears from me."

He signed a ficticious name. The names "Charles Hamilton" also "didn't fit."

In minutes, the FBI agents here also were on the youth's trail.

"He was sure wild-eyed," police patrolmen said.

Two Months More Of War, Says Henry Ford

ATLANTA, Mar. 20 (AP)—Predictions that the war will be over in two months and that railroads may be abandoned were made here yesterday by Henry Ford, who added that "laziness and idleness are the cause of all the world's troubles."

The motor magnate, in a copyrighted interview in the Atlanta Constitution, asked what he thought was the greatest post-war problem, replied:

"Go to work. That's the answer to everything. Laziness and idleness are the cause of all the world's troubles. . . . by idleness I mean idle land as well as idle people. There are millions of idle acres in the world. The way I see it, greeds, creeds and boundary lines must go . . ."

Ford declined to elaborate on his statement that the war would end in two months.

Local Man Plagued By Weekend Hazards

For M. D. Scott, about 32, of 411 Wolffarth street, the weekend was hazardous.

He escaped injury in one collission with an alleged drunk driver, then was dangerously injured by another as he stood beside the roadside in Amarillo surveying damage.

The story, as learned by Lubbock and Amarillo police and by Scott's employer, Continental Oil Co. of Lubbock, was that Scott, about 11 o'clock Saturday night, was driving his 5-ton tank truck loaded with 4,030 gallons of gasoline and that he was struck on the wrong side of the road by the pickup car of drunk driver No. 1, with such force that the other driver was spilled out on the pavement, his head only two feet in front of where the heavy tractor was stopped

Scott telephoned his company, and Amarillo police and put out flares to warn other traffic he was partly blocking the road with his equipment. Two police arrived and placed themselves at both ends of his truck and trailer, but another alleged drunk drove by, did not heed the police signaling, and crashed into Scott, cutting his head and face so badly 17 stitches were required to close the wounds.

Both drivers who figured in the ramming were charged with drunk driving, it was understood here.

Scott perhaps can be brought to a Lubbock hospital today, it was said at the office of J. A. Fortenberry, Continental agent here.

Swallows Return To San Juan Capistrano

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif., March 20. (AP)—The first day of spring was housecleaning day for the swallows of San Juan Capistrano mission.

True to tradition, they arrived yesterday, St. Joseph's day, to refurbish the abodes they left when winter enticed them southward. The main body of returning birds showed up at 6:50 a. m., just 10 minutes later than last year.

The swallows, legend has it, have returned each year on St. Joseph's day since the founding of the mission by the order of St. Francis in 1776.

Loan Sharks Prey On Discharged Veterans

HOUSTON, March 20 (U.P.)—District Attorney A. C. Winborn said today that apparently there is no legal way to restrain loan sharks from assessing discharged war veterans exorbitant interest rates for small short-term loans.

Winborn's statement followed a disclosure Saturday that some of the money lenders have charged interest rates as high as 1800 per cent on loans of $40 to $60 for a week.

The prosecutor pointed out that an injunction restrains law enforcement agencies from prosecuting under a new state law aimed at usurious practices while a test suit is pending at Austin.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP) Legislation to revive federal crop insurance and extend it to corn, tobacco and rice as well as wheat and cotton, was introduced today by Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) of the House Agriculture committee.

Million Nazis Said Standing Watch Over 'Fortress Europe'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the most complete picture to date of the German "Atlantic wall" and other anti-invasion defenses. It was written inside Germany by Ralph E. Heinzen, former United Press director for France, while interned at Baden Baden. Heinzen arrived in New York last week aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm. Some of the material was obtained from persons in the camp who had seen the Germans erecting the defenses. Some was obtained by personal observations. Much was culled from German military publications, to which Heinzen had access and which he was able to evaluate from his own wide experience as a soldier and veteran foreign correspondent).

By RALPH E. HEINZEN
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Germans say that a million men stand watch day and night in "Fortress Europe" under the high command of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to resist any Allied landing attempt from Spain to Finland.

While I was spending 13 months in German internment at Baden Baden I was permitted to compile reports about these defense works by talking with persons who had seen portions of the line before they were interned, and from German military publications. I have seen small segments of the coastal works near the Spanish border on my way to freedom and I made a personal inspection of 31 forts in the inner defense arc along the Rhine when Gestapo guards took some of us there.

Made Available To Internees

This is the German pre-invasion defense picture as made available to internees at Baden Baden by German agents:

From Hendaye, Franco-Spanish frontier, to the Hague, Netherlands, stand 6,000 cannon planted permanently behind steel and concrete and 3,000 mobile guns.

In the waters off that coast are millions of mines, steel obstacles planted in concrete to rip the bottoms of assault craft and submerged wrecks.

Northward to Petsamo on Finland's northernmost tip are similar emplacements. Some 1,700 cannon have been planted practically one to the mile along the 1,500 mile Norwegian coast, deeply cut by fjords and difficult for landings at best.

Coastlines Bristling

Acres of minefields have been planted from Hendaye to Petsamo, some to explode on contact and others operated electrically from shore. Coastlines are bristling with flame throwers and smoke batteries, according to descriptions published by the Germans.

No eyewitness confirmation of such features is possible, of course, but the foregoing is a digest of what an American internee is told at Baden Baden.

Germans say the face of nature has been lifted in vast camouflaging operations.

Siegfried Line Is Third Barrier

Behind the coastal defenses they picture an intermediate defense system across the plains of Picardy, straddling the Somme, from Flanders to the Argonne. This is a rough approximation of the line on which we fought most of World war I.

Behind this they tell you of a third barrier, the Siegfried line, originally built to counter the Maginot line, now completely overhauled and ready to protect the Rhine. I visited this line last December near Strasourg and saw 31 empty fortresses and casemates along less than two miles of that vital river front. No troops or guns are in the line now but the forts are ready. I dipped my handkerchief in the Rhine and hung it to dry on a fort, beating to it the British who sang in 1939 that they'd hang their washing on the famous line.

Strengthening Goes On

The Germans boast they've poured 10,000,000 tons of concrete into the Atlantic wall and that the strengthening goes on. Hundreds of thousands of French and Italian laborers have been pressed into construction of a Mediterranean wall on the French south coast, anchored at either end in the Alps and Pyrenees.

The intermediate line through the World war I battlefields corresponds to what Gen. Maxim Weygand tried to establish to halt the German tanks when he was summoned from Syria to replace Generalissimo Gamelin in May, 1940—a connected chain of strong points at crossroads in the Somme plains which sweep widely with hardly a hillock for cover. It is above all an anti-tank defense system par excellence, according to the German boasts. There are minefields, deep tank traps, pits, upended steel rails and concrete posts to raise a tank so a gun can pierce it belly.

Air Defense Inter-Locking

The western air defense is said to consist of an inter-locking system of concrete runways, underground hangars and communications.

Despite German propaganda, the Atlantic wall is not continuous like the great wall of China. There are placed on the North Brittany coast between Brest and Morlaix where there is not a single fortified position within 10 miles but there are natural obstacles to make a landing most difficult.

The coastal bunkers are said to contain bombproof barracks with electric lights and in some cases, gas and water.

Former Lubbock Man Honored By Ickes

John S. Ball, formerly of Lubbock and now in Laramie, Wyo., as associate chemist in the U. S. Bureau of Mines petroleum laboratory, has been honored by Secretary H. L. Ickes for originating a time and money-saving system in his department, it was learned here yesterday.

Ball's contribution to efficiency, which consisted of developing a system of analysis to determine types of sulphur compounds in petroleum distillates, won him an increase in salary and an official award of excellence by Ickes.

A graduate of Lubbock High and Texas Tech, from which he took bachelor and master degrees, Ball is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Ball, 1924 Sixteenth street. His wife also is a former Lubbock resident, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben E. Noell, 2501 Twenty-fourth street.

Postwar Production Of 200 Billion Yearly Called For

By ALLEN DRURY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 20. — The Senate war contracts subcommittee, warning that 8,000,000 workers will be jobless when war output stops, declared today the nation must aim for $200,000,000,000 a year production in the postwar period to achieve a "healthy domestic economy."

In a formal report criticizing the government's present policies on contract termination, the committee, headed by Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont) observed that national production of goods and services, which amounted only to $98,000,000,000 in 1940, has now soared to about $194,000,000,000—an "unprecedented height."

Much Now War Contracts

But, it said, about half the basis of this gigantic output consists of war contracts, both prime and sub, and "when war contracts are withdrawn, the danger is that the entire edifice will topple over." Therefore, the committee said, postwar production problems cannot be solved merely in terms of cleaning up government war commitments—"they cannot be solved by looking backward."

"It is possible for the demobilization program to be planned in such a way that our total output of goods and services during the transition periods falls to no less than $135,000,000,000 a year," the report said. "It is entirely feasible for us to aim at $200,000,000,000 a year or more within five years after the end of the war."

8,000,000 To Need Jobs

Thus, it said, the 8,000,000 persons who face unemployment can find jobs in expanded or new industries which will turn out the goods to help raise the standards of living not only in this country but throughout the world.

"It is clear," it said, "that the only thing to take the place of war contracts is the purchasing power of the people and of our fellow nations throughout the world. . . . All programs intended to adjust our economy to the removal of war contracts upon which it now rests in large part must be aimed at developing domestic and foreign markets to a level that has never been known or dreamed of."

The committee, which also includes Sens. Harry S. Truman (D-Mo) and Chapman Revercomb (R-W Va), criticized the "inefficient and unsatisfactory" method in which the government has handled the $13,000,000,000 in contracts terminated thus far.

Red Tape Feared

As a result, the report said, many contractors have hestitated or declined to take new war contracts, and instead have sought civilian production assignments because they are "fearful of being tied up in a mass of red tape in event of termination."

This situation, the committee declared, "augurs ill for the inevitable period of transition from war to peace."

The report recommended a series of measures now pending before the Senate Military Affairs committee as the start of a program to guide postwar development. These are measures providing for an office of demobilization, means of expediting contract settlements, providing for loans to small concerns upon termination of war contracts, and for disposition of surplus material."

all killed. He said unopened buds on peach trees were still all right while opened buds suffered severe damage.

After a partial check of the orchard at the experiment station east of the city, Don L. Jones, superintendent, said: "Apparently the damage to fruit trees is not as severe as one might suppose considering the low temepratures." He estimated that of the peach and pear trees he examined one-third of the blooms are still good.

One Killed, Two Hurt In Hotel Explosion

CONROE, Tex., March 20 (U.P.)—One man was killed and two persons were burned severely in an explosion that wrecked the Bartlett hotel last night.

The dead man was identified as T. F. French of Houston.

Miss Billie Knee and J. T. McGee, jr., both of Conroe, were hospitalized for treatment of severe burns and injuries.

The blast which ruined the two-story frame hotel came when Miss Knee and McGee entered French's room seeking the source of gas fumes. Miss Knee inadvertently struck a match while searching for the light switch in the room.

The explosion was followed by fire, which gutted the 10-year-old building. All other guests escaped safely.

Invasion Tempo

isn't much to do, but it's just typically American to "go to town" at night.

Fortunately, in even the smallest English villages there's usually at least a half-dozen pubs. But beer is scarce—and weak—and the pubs often run out of their daily ratio nearly in the evening. Whisky is almost impossible to get.

There's usually a small movie-house in town. The pictures often are old—some as much as two or three years old—but the sold-out sign is hung out every night.

For these little English villages, the tempo has truly speeded up and many natives think for the better — especially the English girls who can be really choosey.

BRITISH COASTLINE IS "PROTECTED AREA"

LONDON, March 20. (AP) — In prelude to the invasion of Europe, more than 700 miles of England's southern and eastern coastline were declared a "protected area" today, with severe limitations on all civilian movements effective April 1.

The great naval base at the Firth of Forth also was included in the order by the British military, which stated succinctly that it was "for operational reasons."

With few exceptions—and authorities exercised rigid control over these—no one except persons who reside in the area will be permitted to enter a 10-mile deep belt which extends from the wash in the middle of the east coast to England's southwestern extremity at Land's End.

The order will have a two-fold effect of clearing coastal communications for military purposes, and keeping snoopers out of the English coastal area opposite the enemy-held Netherlands, Belgium and France.

Persons unable to explain their presence in the "protected area" will be subject to a $400 fine and three months' imprisonment.

Terms of the order require all persons in the area over 16 years old to carry identification, and bans binoculars and telescopes.

Plot To Overthrow Government Hinted

WASHINGTON, March 20 (U.P.) Rep. John L. Rankin, D., Miss., said today the Dies committee, in deciding to investigate radio commentator Walter Winchell, was on a "hot trail" that would uncover a "gigantic conspiracy to overthrow this government."

The Dies committee last week subpenaed the scripts and transcriptions of Winchell's broadcasts for the last two years. Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., said more than 30 witnesses had been called.

Rankin said the drive against the constitutional form of government was led by men "schooled and trained in the technique of controlling the government from key positions in the various departments and agencies."

Fleecers From East Move To Old South

NEW ORLEANS, March 20 (U.P.) Police said today that they had uncovered an organized gang that had moved from the east into the credulous old South, defrauding hundreds of their life savings and killing rebellious gang members without mercy.

William Grosch, detective lieutenant, blamed the gang for at least two recent murders in New Orleans. He estimated that 100 local persons had been swindled by the organization.

"Here in New Orleans," Grosch said, "the gang centered its attentions on selling fake oil stocks, medicines and a miracle solution that victims were told would make $20 bills out of $1 bills."

Grosch said one scheme netted the conspirators $27,000 and another $8,000. The gangs activities extended to New York, Houston, Tex., Chicago, Detroit and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., he said.

Grosch and Detective Lt. Andrew Arnold, said they uncovered the gang's activities in investigating the murder of Constantino Massotta, alias Gene Mano, of Brooklyn, who came to New Orleans and posed as a humble butcher in the old French market section. Massotta had had an underworld record in Brooklyn, police said.

De Valera Angry

nocuous information. American and British correspondents found even their personal telephone calls to friends within Dublin itself were being tapped, with little effort to conceal official eavesdropping.

The Associated Press was not permitted by the Irish censors to send out a story printed on the front page of De Valera's own newspaper, "The Irish Press," about the attendance of both the German and Japanese envoys at an Irish Red Cross function St. Patrick's night at Dublin Castle, Eire's Whitehall.

The American minister was not invited, nor did the British minister attend.

Irish officials scoffed at charges of Axis secret agents spying from Eire on the pre-invasion maneuvers of American troops in Northern Ireland.

They Listen Angrily

High Eire government officials listened angrily to an Associated Press correspondent who relayed from the best Allied sources a list of probable Axis espionage activities—the ease with which German planes, which frequently fly over Eire for no known reason, could pick up spy messages from a Nazi-operated "walkie-talkie" set in a secluded field, or how a spy masquerading as a fisherman could row out to a German U-boat and hand over vitally secret information affecting American troops.

As I left Dublin today the station was jammed with St. Patrick's day week-end crowds, anxious to get out before possible closing of the Eire-Ulster border, which they expected in a matter of days if not hours.

In the last 15 minutes before train time the ticket sellers announced to frantic last-minute arrivals that no more tickets would be sold.

Course For Bombing Pilots In Operation

MIDLAND ARMY AIR FIELD, March 20. (AP)—A bombing pilots approach course in operation at Midland Army Air forces bombardier instructors school teaches bombardiers to teach pilots to chauffeur other bombardiers.

Courses in bombing pilots approach are given in each of 13 schools in the United States for pilots of four-engined bombers, and the Midland course trains instructors for such schools, a press release from the field said today.

Here bombardiers returned from combat in war theaters learn techniques of teaching pilots of heavy bombers the problems involved in successful bombardment, pointing toward close cooperation between pilot and bombardier over a target.

Soldier Pretends To Be Overseas Veteran

MOORE FIELD, Tex., March 20. (AP)—Pvt. William E. Jacks, who appeared at several war bond rallies and other patriotic programs in this area, ostensibly a veteran of many English campaigns as a member of the Royal Canadian Air force, has been convicted by a summary court martial of misrepresentation and been confined to the gaurdhouse, the Moore field public relations office announced.

The announcement said the intelligence office found Pvt. Jacks had been accepted in good faith as a former RCAF man but had never left the continental United States.

House Democrats Gain Their 216th Member

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP) —House Democrats gained their 216th member and the Navy released a lieutenant (jg) today as George W. Andrews, jr., took the oath of office as representative from Alabama's third district.

Back from active duty at Pearl Harbor, Andrews barely had time to change from Navy blue to a business suit for the ceremony less than an hour after the Navy placed him on the inactive list.

He succeeded the late Henry B. Steagall.

House Democrats now number one more than the bare majority they have been holding since the death last week of Rep. O'Leary (D-NY).

Hungary Occupied

conferring at Hitler's headquarters.

The Hungarians were widely reported during the day to have balked at Hitler's demands they resist the Russian advance, which is threatening to inundate Hitler's Danubian storehouse and his Balkan allies, and neutral sources said the invasion was also designed to thwart any Hungarian peace bid.

Turkish sources said the German action was inspired also by fear of an Allied landing in the Adriatic, a fear raised by the American bombing of the Hungarian trans-Danubian rail centers.

Later in the day, indirect confirmation of the occupation came from the German foreign office, which was said by a Zurich newspaper to have declared that Germany was "striving to coordinate all resources and forces of southeast Europe against the common Russian threat." This was interpreted to mean that perhaps the same fate awaits Rumania and Bulgaria.

Hungary frequently has been pictured as holding out against recurrent German demands for more aid in holding the Carpathian mountains. The Red Army is already within sight of these peaks which from Hungary's northeastern boundary. Both Washington and Moscow have warned Hungary that continued adherence to the Axis would entail the same crushing that awaits the Reich.

"For the past 24 hours, the Hungarian radio has been broadcasting only German news," said a BBC report of an Ankara broadcast — indicating that Germany had moved swiftly without waiting for Hungary to make up her mind. That the Nazis might be planning similar steps was indicated in the comment of the Zurich newspaper — Neue Zurcher Zeitung—that:

"The surprising reticence of Berlin indicates military events are going on which do not apply merely to Hungary."

Speech Cancelled

A scheduled speech by Premier Nicholas Kallay over the Hungarian radio was cancelled tonight without explanation, and silence cloaked Budapest as the Hungarian news agency failed to issue its usual news bulletins. The Vichy radio said the Hungarian Parliament had been called to meet Wednesday.

From the United Nations radio at Algiers came a report that in Rumania the Germans had ordered the evacuation of the national bank from Bucharest and the removal of factories to the country's western reaches. For weeks, Rumanian civilians have been declared fleeing from the eastern provinces now breached by the Russians in Bessarabia.

(The Bucharest radio, in a broadcast heard by OWI, told Rumanian troops facing the Russians that "the danger, however great, does not frighten us.")

Parallel To Vichy

Hungary's reported occupation was seen by one observer here as a parallel to the German move into Vichy, France, following the Allied invasion of North Africa. Hitherto, Hungary has been allowed to maintain the appearance of an independent partner, and no German troops have been garrisoned there, although Hitler's soldiers have been accorded transportation facilities through the country.

The desperate German effort to stem the Russian tide and hold on to raw materials—especially Rumanian oil — might lead to the wiping out of the last vestiges of Rumanian and Bulgarian independence. The Russian-Finnish peace negotiations are reported to have caused a strong reaction in Bulgaria.

Moscow broadcast a Tass report tonight denying that Russian armistice conditions had been transmitted to Prince Barbu Stirbey, who has been reported enroute to Cairo as a Rumanian peace envoy, to confer with Allied officials. The broadcast said the Swiss newspaper Journal De Geneve was quoted in the Swedish press as saying that Russia had given such terms, including points concerning the Soviet-Rumanian frontier.

Rabaul as "now isolated."

Demonstrating the Allied control of the Bismarck Sea, American destroyers entered Wewak harbor Saturday night and pounded shore installations.

It was the farthest west Allied naval vessels have been since the early days of the war. The warships also bombarded Kairiru and Muschu islands off the New Guinea coast northwest of Wewak. The Japanese have a seaplane base on Kairiru.

The convoy destroyed was believed to have been the remaining ships of a group attacked by Liberators and Catalinas farther west along the coast before dawn Saturday, when a 3,000-ton freighter was sunk and a destroyer and a 5,000-ton cargo ship was damaged.

Airmen returning from wiping out the convoy Sunday said they saw hundreds of Japanese swimming in the water, probably too far from shore to be rescued.

Ex-Vichy Minister Signals Own Death

ALGIERS, March 20 (AP)—Declining to be blindfolded and himself shouting the command to fire, Pierre Pucheu, former Vichy interior minister, died at dawn today ,sentenced a special French military tribunal that found him guilty of treason.

A few hours later, a special tribunal condemned a young Tunisian native to death for treason and imposed prison terms on three other defendants. All were former members of the African Phalange, which recruited and sent troops to the Russian front during Vichy rule as members of an anti-bolshevik legion.

Pucheu, a prominent industrialist who was convicted for alleged collaboration with the Germans, had vehemently told the court that condemning him would "plant the first stake in a civil war" in France, and had shouted that "this is not a court of justice; it is a political coup."

Thompson, Jester Hit Proposed Oil Subsidy

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP) — Two members of the railroad commission today reiterated their opposition to a federal subsidy on oil production.

Both chairman Beauford Jester and member Ernest O. Thompson said a price increase would be of more beneficial effect than a subsidy. Member Olin Culberson was not available for comment.

Jester and Thompson spoke in opposition to a proposal, ready for submission to economic stabilizer Director Fred M. Vinson, to spend $50,000,000 annually on a payment of approximately 35 cents per barrel for oil produced by stripper or secondary recovery wells making up to 10 barrels a day.

The fall of Mogilev-Podolski, 65 miles from the southeastern tip of old Poland and 100 miles from the former Czecho-Slovakian border, gave the Russian Second Ukraine Army under Marshal Ivan S. Enormous Piles Of Foreign Wool Plague U.S. Markets

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—A War Production board official, testifying today before a House Agriculture subcommittee, told how the fortunes of war had brought about an enormous stockpile of foreign wool which is now plaguing American growers.

The picture is so different from what it once was, said Edward Browning, jr., of the WPB stockpiling and transportation division, that some ships returning from Australia and New Zealand actually carry wool as ballast.

But two years ago, he said, all shipping space allocations were based on the assumption that the Japanese would take both Australia and New Zealand.

Wool got a high priority so as much as possible could be squeezed into the holds of the few ships then available. But as the Japanese threat lessened and new ships slid down the ways the situation eased and wool was placed at the bottom of the priority list.

Browning said he appreciated the concern of American growers over the stockpile of almost 300,000,000 pounds of foreign wool, but that his division had no authority to ban the imports so long as bottoms weer available.

Less From Argentine

Importations from Argentina have had to be curtailed because of a higher priority given some strategic minerals in regard to shipping space, he continued. He said that availability of ships had made it possible for the Foreign Economic administration recently to bring in some wool from Iceland.

Considering the possibility of liquidating the wool stockpiles, held by the Defense Supplies corporation, and the Commodity Credit corporation, committee members questioned naval supply officers regarding Navy policy about the use of American-grown wools.

Capt. William A. Best, of the clothing division of the Navy Supply corps, testified that during the past few years the Navy had used foreign wools almost exclusively.

Since Aug. 16, 1943, there has been a gradual increase in the use of domestic wools, he said, adding that probably as much as 10 per cent of 1944 consumption by the Navy would be domestic.

He said that because of the higher price of American wools, it is now costing the Navy about $150,000 a month more than if foreign wools were consumed.

Subcommittee Chairman Granger (D-Utah) urged that the Navy give serious consideration to increasing use of domestic wool or a policy of using the American clip exclusively.

Rep. Hill (D-Colo) urged the adoption of such a policy to assure continuation of a large domestic supply to fall back on in case of any furture emergency.

Tri-County Show At Seagraves Scheduled

SEAGRAVES, March 20. (Special)—Preparations are being made by the Seagraves FFA boys for their annual Tri-County Livestock show to be held in Seagraves Friday and Saturday, March 24-25, according to Walker P. Todd, vocational agriculture teacher in the Seagraves schools.

T. L. Leach, professor of agriculture education at Texas Technological college in Lubbock, has been secured to judge the show.

FFA boys, 4-H club boys and amateur showmen of Gaines, Terry and Yoakum counties have been invited to show registered and grade hogs and dairy animals in the show. A livestock team from each of the FFA chapters in the three counties have been invited to do some judging during the show.

The Gaines county commissioners court and business men of Seagraves have raised $200 for prize money, Todd said.

It's Now Senator O'Daniel Of Aledo

FORT WORTH, March 20. (AP)—It is no longer correct to refer to the junior United States Senator from Texas as W. Lee O'Daniel of Fort Worth. He is now Senator O'Daniel of Aledo.

The former Fort Worth flour salesman who ran for governor in 1938 without a poll tax receipt has qualified as a voter by paying the tax this year in Parker county, according to Mrs. J. B. Shaw, tax collector at Weathford.

The lagest issue of the congressional directory also shows O'Daniel's home address as Aledo. Earlier issues listed him from Fort Worth.

Pilot Training Time Extended

FORT WORTH, March 20 (AP)—Future air force fighter and bomber pilots are going into combat better equipped than ever before with the knowledge it takes to manipulate the intricate controls of their fighting ships.

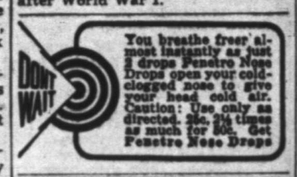

The Army Air Forces Training command revealed last night that since adequate replacements now are available for both types of combat pilots, the AAFTC had lengthened the training schedules to give fighter pilots 45 weeks of training, including a new five-week transition course, and bomber pilots 50 weeks of training as compared to present 36 and 45 week schedules, respectively.

Effect of this revised program will be felt gradually between March 14, when it became effective, and late in 1945, the command said.

The four phases of pilot train- and advanced (bomber pilots have a fifth, specialized) — will be lengthened from nine to ten weeks and fighter pilots will return to their "alma maters" after getting their wings for the transition course which concentrates on fixed gunnery, P-40 flying, advanced ground instruction in weather, maintenance functions and operation of combat type planes.

The fixed gunnery and P-40 training heretofore had been crammed into the advanced phase of training.

Food production in America's victory gardens in 1943 amounted to 2 billion pounds more than the total relief food sent to Europe after World War I.

"I COULDN'T STAND HARSH LAXATIVES!"
Kellogg's All-Bran Brought Relief!" Says Ex-Sufferer!

If you, too, are a sufferer, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"My system was sluggish, after I'd been sick, and I couldn't stand harsh laxatives. I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, and found it was grand. We have a box of it in the house all the time. Just for variety, several times a week, we mix a small portion of other cereals with the ALL-BRAN! It's delightful! And we still get the benefits from the ALL-BRAN." Mrs. Joseph W. Pontin, 56 Englewood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

What's the secret of such amazing relief for so many? Simply this! KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can "get at" constipation due to lack of certain "cellulosic" elements in the diet—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural elimination! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is this kind, eat ALL-BRAN, or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't praise its welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Adv.

Red Raiders Launch Second Week Of Spring Grid Camp

The Texas Tech Red Raiders launched the second week of drills Monday afternoon with the rougher work scheduled to get underway this week under the guiding hand of head ringmaster, Dell Morgan, and his assistant, Polk Robison.

The first week was spent in brushing up the squad on the fundamentals of the game, and stiff drills on pass defense taking up most of the time. The squad was somewhat reduced during the first week as a few of the boys fell by the wayside, but the hardy ones left will get a taste of real football this week.

This promise meant that the squad will probably get some scrimmage about Thursday of this week with some rough tackle sessions promised for today, and more of the same for Wednesday to get the defense set for the scrimmage session Thursday.

Added to the quest for a man to fill the post at center for the Red Raiders, has come a new worry. As the second week started for the spring drills, Coach Morgan was looking hard for a passing star to give the Red Raiders an aerial attack.

The first week brought out a number of new prospects that look very promising for next season with a pair of backfield youngsters in Don Johnson and Sheehan from Graham both stealing a share of the limelight in the first week.

Sheehan has been running at the left halfback post for the past few days, and shows much promise of developing into a first line star for the next year Red Raiders. Johnson, a youngster, has shown much promise and is pretty sure to see plenty of action this fall.

Linemen have been doing plenty of head-butting during the past week, but have been given little chance to really show what they could do under fire. But this week should answer a number of questions about the linemen.

One of the most promising linemen to show up in the camp to date has been Horace Smith from Rising Star, a tackle. Smith appears to be a bit slow afoot, but had been making the railbirds at Tech Stadium buzz with his showing on the defense.

Frnka Has 33 Ready For Spring Training

TULSA, Okla., March 20. (AP)—Coach Henry Frnka's first call for spring football practice at the University of Tulsa was answered today by 33 candidates, including a score of veterans from the 1943 Sugar Bowl team.

Biggest man on the field was Forrest Griggs, 290-pound tackle from Longview, Tex., High school. Griggs said he expected to start the football season at around 265 pounds.

CUBAN TO REPORT

MILWAUKEE, March 20 (AP)—Julio Acosta, Cuban southpaw pitcher, notified Manager Charley Grimm of the Milwaukee Brewers by cablegram today that he would report at the club's spring training camp at Waukesha within a week.

Accident Knocks Out Arkansas From Meet

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 20. (U.P.)—Gene Lambert, coach of the University of Arkansas basketball team, said today there was "absolutely no chance" that it would reconsider a decision to withdraw from the Western Regional National Collegiate Athletic association tournament at Kansas City, Mo., after an automobile accident in which an assistant coach was killed and two top players were injured critically.

The injured players were Ben Jones and Deno Nichols, both guards. Jones suffered two broken legs and one of Nichols' legs was broken when they were struck on the highway by another car as they attempted to repair a flat tire on their station wagon last night. The coach, Everett Norris, was killed almost instantly.

Southwest May Not Put Team In Tourney

AUSTIN, March 20. (AP) — The Southwest apparently will have no representative in the National Collegiate Athletic association Western play-off basketball tournament at Kansas City Friday and Saturday.

The University of Arkansas withdrew from the tournament following an automobile accident in which an athletic instructor was killed and two players were severely injured Sunday.

D. X. Bible, a member of the selection committee for this district of the NCAA, said he hoped Arkansas would reconsider but there was no indication from Fayetteville today that it would do so.

"I am trying to get Araknsas to reconsider," Bible said. "If they do not, then this district will not be represented. All other representative teams of the Southwest conference have Naval trainees and under the rule prohibiting their absence from the campus more than 48 hours they could not participate in the tournament."

AAU Tourney Moves Into Second Round

DENVER, March 20. (AP) — The Logan, Utah, Collegians successfully countered a second-half power drive by the Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Fliers today to win the first second round game of the National AAU basketball tourney 46 to 42.

In the first round cleanup, Boyt Harness Company of Des Moines, Iowa, tripped up the Laramie Wyoming Spic and Span Cleaners 54-37, Fort Logan, Colo., eliminated Camp Cooke, Calif., 63-46, and the Esso team of Baton Rouge, La., disposed of Omaha university 65-42.

The college boys from Logan, site of Utah State college, moved easily into a 25-13 halftime lead over the Fliers, who last night bombed Denver Fitzsimons General hospital out of the race.

The seeded Portland, Ore., Albina Hellships knocked out the Lincoln, Nebr., Nut House, a first round winner, 50 to 31. Claude O'Connel guided the Hellships to the win with 14 points.

With all old-time A.A.U.'ers jamming the line-up, the Wichita, Kans., Cessana Bobcats romped over the Central Coast All-Service team from Salinas, Calif., 56 to 28. Dick Smith, A.A.U. All-America, in 1938, when he played for the Wichita Gridleys, scored 17 Cessna points in his first appearance in his 13th national tourney in 14 years. Dick Staab, a member of the Kansas City Healeys when they won National meet in 1938, scored eight.

Sooner Cagers Defeat Canisus

NEW YORK, March 20. (AP) — The Oklahoma Aggies, towering over their opponents, staged a sustained drive for 14 minutes midway of the game and then went on to whip Canisus, 43 to 29, and enter the semi-finals of the National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden tonight.

After battling through the first 14 minutes on even terms before a crowd of 16,000, the Aggies opened up a drive that carried them into a 21-12 lead at the half and then continued the attack in the second half to build up a 30-14 margin after eight minutes.

The up-state five finally solved the Mid-Westerners' diamond zone defense, and with Herm Brunotte showing the way, closed within seven points 36-29 but that was the closest the Griffins got as Capt. Floyd Burdette of the Aggies, took charge of the situation. Burdette, who learned his basketball at Murray, Ky., Teachers, was the high scorer with 18 tallies while seven-foot Bob Kurland poked in 13 for the Aggies.

With Kurland guarding the goals, Canisius did most of its shooting from outside while the Aggies, swinging off the pivot set up by either their giant center or six-foot, five-inch Burdette, counted all but one of their field goals from close in.

In the other half of the double header, Kentucky's favored Wildcats had to go all out to whip Utah, 46 to 38, to complete the semi-final bracket of the tournament.

Olmo Looms As Star With Brooklyn Nine

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 20 (U.P.)—Luis Olmo, the Puerto Rican center fielder who played only 57 games with the Brooklyn Dodgers last season, may become one of the outstanding players in the league in his sophomore year, Manager Leo Durocher said today in praising the youngster's work in spring training thus far.

Durocher emphasized his batting power and speed as particular assets which make him almost certain to be in the Dodger starting lineup. He is working hard to overcome a weakness for side arm curve balls.

Drews Reports With Yankees For Trial

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 20 (AP)—Pitcher Frank Drews, fourth member of a delegation of Newark players ordered to report to the New York Yankees, worked out with the big leaguers today in the armory.

Drews, 4-F in the draft, was out of baseball last year but won nine games and lost three in 1942 while with Evansville.

Kids To Get Great Chance In Major Loops This Year

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The list of baseball players who have jumped from college campuses, high schools or sandlots to Major League clubs without benefit of Minor League seasoning is comparatively short, but it promises to lengthen out considerably this year. In fact, there will be lads making the jump from kids' teams, as witness the 15-year-old prospect on the Cincinnati Red roster.

There are a few notables of such grass-green rookies coming up, sticking, and becoming outstanding players. Mel Ott, for one. And Waite Hoyt, and Bob Feller, and Frankie Frisch.

Others who made the grade on the first jump include Chubby Dean, Ted Lyons, Ike Pearson, Tom Zachary and—and he should be included in the paragraph above — Walter Johnson. There have been a few others, but most Major Leaguers had at least a few weeks at Peoria, or Springfield, or Walla Walla or some other such place before being brought up.

The reason for this prospective list of lads who will be starting at the top — and they hope not working down—is obvious. In normal times, with players plentiful and the Minors feeding them to the Majors in a steady stream, the boy without experience in pro ball faces a terrific handicap.

Only youngsters who were super-super prospects stood a chance. Ott was one. Feller another, although he nearly got in the Minors. He was signed by the Cleveland Indians and, if memory serves, was assigned to New Orleans. He never reported, and the Indians got in some kind of a jam over the transaction.

This year the Majors can use anyone who can lift a bat and knows the way to first base, so players with only fair ability will be on the rosters. And some of the rookies without previous pro experience might surprise, at that. It's their big chance, and they'll be getting their reasoning under the big top. Some of them might be hard to displace after the war.

Most of the material, should the war continue, will come up without having played for wages before. Comparatively few Minor Leagues are operating, and there just won't be anywhere the boys can get pro experience. It's practically the Majors or nothing, and the boys don't want nothing.

And for the Majors it will be the kids or nothing. It looks like a vicious circle.

DODGERS SEE SNOW

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—The winter's heaviest snowfall failed to interrupt the training activities of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the large squad of Minor League players who share the cage at West Point with Leo Durocher's athletes.

Dutch Harrison Far Ahead In Golf Meet

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 20 (AP)—Marching home with his second 66 of the tournament, soldier Dutch Harrison converted the $10,000 Charlotte Open into a one-man show today and took a four-stroke lead at the three-quarters mark of the 72-hole event with a total of 202.

Playing a muddy course after rain had stretched the tournament from three to five dyas, the Flying Dutchman of the Army Air Forces equaled his own competitive course record as he lengthened his lead over Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the pre-tourney favorite, to four full blows.

The slow talking, deliberate Arkansas countryman whipped the hard first nine of the Myers Park Country Club course in 32 strokes, three lower than the best previous nine on that side, and then drifted home in 34. Barring a collapse of his game tomorrow, he seems assured of becoming the first service man to win a major golf event.

McSpaden unfurled a fine 68, four under par, his third straight sub-par round, but still found himself losing ground to the sentimental favorite.

Back of the leaders came Sammy Byrd of Detroit who bagged a 68 for a total of 210, four shots behind McSpaden, and eight strokes off Harrison's torrid pace. Another stroke back in 4th place was Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the duration open champion, by virtue of another 68. Jimmy Hines, Amsterdam, N. Y., veteran, fired a 69 for a total of 212 and moved into the fifth slot ahead of Lord Byron Nelson.

Snow Chases Giants Into Warmer Arena

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 20 (AP)—With three inches of snow crusted over their playing field, the New York Giants sought refuge in a YMCA gymnasium today.

Joe Medwick, veteran star who notified Manager Mel Ott by telephone from New York yesterday that he would report in camp today, failed to arrive, probably because of the snowstorm.

Farm Hands Are Hopes Of Yanks

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 20 (AP)—Of the 28 players now listed on the ever changing New York Yankee roster, 21 jumped through the hoops for the ring master George Weiss in the farm system before they arrived at the big stadium in the Bronx.

Jim Turner and Bill Zuber are the only pitchers on the 14-man "paper" staff who are not products of the Yankees' Minor League gardens and even Milkman Jim spent some time there after leaving the National League two years ago. He was brought up from Neward for Yank bullpen duties late in 1942.

Other non-Yankee products are catcher Rollie Hemsley, outfielder Tuck Stainback and infielders Frank Crosetti, Nick Etten and Oscar Grimes.

Of the seven, it is possible that Zuber, Hemsley and Crosetti will stay out of baseball this year. Stainback appears Army bound and Etten is 1A and expecting his induction call in mid-season. That would leave Grimes as the only "foreigner" on the Yankee roster.

The Yank farm-system started when the late Col. Jacob Ruppert purchased the Newark franchise of the International League in 1931 and Weiss has been the chief farmer since, although recently he is spending more and more time as vice president of the Yankees and assistant to Club President Ed Barrow.

There were 14 clubs in the system at its peak but only five remain due to suspension of many Minor Leagues. Bill Meyer, veteran of the organization since its inception, is boss at Newark and Jack Saltzgaver has succeeded Johnny Neun, now a Yankee coach, as Kansas City manager. They are the two top farms, both Double A.

Wranglers Win Tech Cage Battle, 23-13

The Texas Tech gym was the scene of a bitter cage feud Monday night as the Wranglers piled up a 23-to-13 win over the Centaurs. With Owen Gilbreath setting the scoring pace for the winners, he was greatly aided by the play of Hugh Monroe and Troy Caldwell. Buster Melton and Randy Rutledge set the belated pace for the losers.

Track Meets Carded For Chapman Field

Lubbock track fans should find Friday and Saturday busy days at Chapman Field with two dual track meets scheduled for those days. On Friday, the Cowboy trackmen of the two Junior High school squads will clash for the first meeting between the two.

Saturday the Amarillo Golden Sandies will roar into Lubbock to meet the Lubbock Westerners in a battle between two squads expected to fight it out for the regional title next month.

The Saturday meet was planned as a meeting of the six schools in District 1-AA, but since it has been learned by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools, that there were no track teams at Brownfield and Plainview, and late Monday he had still rceeived no reply from the invitations to Pampa and Borger schools.

Amarillo accepted the invitation several days ago, and the meet now looms as a dual meet between these ancient foes, with several events expected to afford some real battling for top honors.

Armstrong Beats Out Washington Scrapper

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP) Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, the former triple champion of the prize ring, pounded out a decisive ten-round unanimous verdict over Frankie Wills, Washington hopeful, tonight before a small gathering of the fight faithful.

Armstrong had the advantage from the start. His cutting left jabs and hammering rights had Wills reeling through most of the bout. On a few occasions, Wills sent the Los Angeles fighter into a corner with a series of straight rights but Wills was unable to follow up his advantage at any point.

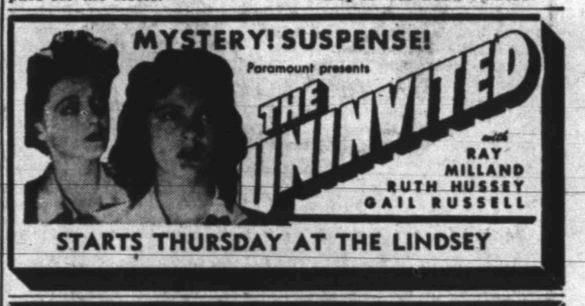

On the Associated Press score card Armstrong was credited with seven of the ten rounds and one was scored even.

It was Armstrong's latest bid in his third come-back attempt since he lost the three-championships he once held.

"Little Perpetual Motion" showed flashes of his old time form when he backed Wills into the ropes with furious barrages of lefts and rights, but there was little of the speed of Henry of the old days.

Armstrong clearly showed his superiority with neater footwork, better timing, and shrewd ring strategy.

SINUSITIS

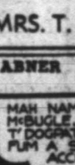

The old name for sinusitis was catarrah. This is the time of year on the Plains when those succeptible will suffer more account of the dust storms. Why they are succeptible is a question we all cannot agree on. The mucous lining of the air passages become inflammed and highly sensative. Particles of dust coming in contact with this surface will set up an irritation.

Chiropractic has proven its worth in bringing relief to those with Sinusitis. For further information please call at this office . . . .

The Campaign In Italy

THE facts prove that momentous results have been accomplished by the Allied campaign in the Mediterranean sector, which includes Sicily and Italy. It has turned the tide of war toward Allied victory.

But facts also refute claims of such men as "high staff officers" in Washington who, according to The National Whirligig Sunday insist the Allies have accomplished their "main objectives" in Italy. These claims followed criticisms, especially vigorous in England, of the results of fighting in Italy.

However, the achievements have been of first importance. Let's list some of them: The enemy has been driven out of North Africa; most of the Mediterranean sea has become an Allied lake; the Allies have Sicily and much of Southern Italy, including highly important air bases and practically all of the Italian fleet; the enemy has been cut off from supplies to which he had exclusive access not long ago; and others could be mentioned.

But these are not "main objectives." What are the "main objectives?" For the Allies, it is to smash the enemy by attack. For the Germans, it now is to defend their positions so stubbornly, and to inflict such losses, that the Allies will accept a negotiated peace.

On this basis, the progress of action in Italy during recent months has accorded with the German hopes of escaping unconditional defeat. If they can hold the Allies on all inner fronts, present and future, as well as they have been holding in Italy, then an eventual negotiated peace would inevitably result. And comman sense tells us that German morale has been bolstered by the stand in Italy. Certainly the Germans must reasson that, if 19 of their divisions can do so well in Italy, 100 or more divisions now available might do as well, if and when the Allies actually open a Western Front.

None of this implies criticism of the men fighting in Italy. Doubtless they have done all, and more, that men could be expected to do.

Nor does this suggest the brand of failure for the Italian campaign. It has been a monumental success, as far as it has bone. But it is an unfinished campaign, in which the "main objective" still is to be achieved.

Bridges Is For Bridges!

BEYOND question, Harry Bridges, the left-wing labor czar, was sincere when he told a Dallas audience a few nights ago that a Republican victory in the approaching national elections would be a "catastrophe."

Such a victory almost certainly would be catastrophic—for Harry Bridges.

Few memories require refreshing as to the identity of this Australian-born exponent of labor hoodlumism. For years before the outbreak of war, he was the master-mind out on the Pacific coast behind some of the bloodiest labor trouble this nation ever has seen. He continued to engineer labor difficulties even after the United States became involved in war. For that matter, organizations dominated by him stand accused now of attempting deliberately to slow the pace of the war effort—especially prior to Russia's entry into the conflict.

For years, efforts have been made to deport him from the United States. On at least one occasion, his deportation actually was ordered. Yet, for reasons not entirely clear, he never has been placed under the slightest restraint. He is under no restraint now.

Just how Bridges has managed to escape has not been explained. But certainly he has not been handicapped by the fact that one of his most loyal supporters has been "Madame" Perkins, who is America's apology for a Secretary of Labor. Doubtless it has been helpful to Bridges, too, that Mrs. Roosevelt has extoled him on occasions. And even the White House is under the accusation of having done everything it could to obstruct anything and everything that might tend to reveal facts bearing among Bridges' activities.

Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that Bridges would be doing everything he can to keep the New Deal in power in the White House and to further its aims to control Congress.

Bridges is fully aware, no doubt, that if the present administration loses out, he almost certainly will go out—out of power and out of the United States—with it.

The One Minute Sermon

This day the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do these statutes and judgments: thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

Thou hast avouched the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice:

And the Lord hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promised thee, and that thou shouldest keep all his commandments;

And to make thee high above all nations which he hath made, in praise, and in name, and in honour; and that thou mayest be an holy people unto the Lord thy God, as he hath spoken.—Deuteronomy 26; 16 through 19.

Mac liked Collins. His hardy egoism allowed him to enjoy a spot of male company without worrying about Kitty's place in the picture.

Ben felt very pleasant. If only the girls, he thought. If the fussing and the complicating could only be shut off. He always enjoyed talking to Collins. Collins had a way of making you feel you were sitting with him in the window of a very good club. Accepted as one of the fortunate.

Mac and Collins, he discovered, were rebuilding the world. They had the war all fought and wiped up and now they were reconstructing. Mac seemed to be disagreeing volubly on fine points.

"Away, Silver!" said Ben. "You're just talking now, Mac."

"No I'm not!"

"Then what was that noise I heard?" said Kitty.

Peg followed her in. They certainly looked cozy, she thought, sitting down. The stinkers. Can't be upset about anything for more than five minutes at a time, and not that long unless it's right before their eyes.

"That's our Kitty," said Mac cordially, "pouring oil on fire again."

Peg thought "our Kitty" was in the worst possible taste and only what she might have expected. She snapped out her Red Cross sock and knit with angrily clacking steel needles.

"Peg, dear," said Collins, "if you knit all those naughty thoughts into that sock you'll give the poor soldier blisters and blood-poisoning."

Mac guffawed appreciatively.

Kitty pulled out a gnarled little sock of her own.

"How's your gusset?" asked Mac, managing to make it sound intimately indelicate.

"Do you think she has one?" asked Collins lightly.

"Oh, I wouldn't go so far as to say she hadn't," said Mac reflectively.

"Then don't," advised Kitty.

"Kitty," said Collins, "you're looking very well."

Peg glanced at him apprehensively. It was the first time he had really spoken directly to Kitty all evening and although it sounded harmless, Peg felt nervous. Collins was so complicated. She wished forlornly that he had been a simpler type content to express himself in easily comprehended action and relieving the strain. If, for example, he would just poke Mac in the jaw, if he resented him. But no, Collins had to be amiable and inscrutable and leave everybody guessing. Including Kitty.

Collins said he was glad Doremus agreed with Kitty and that he supposed MacGregor kept her amused? Kitty dropped a stitch and went delving.

"Oh, I'm just second string entertainment," said Mac easily.

"Kitty," teased Collins, "have you been and gone and disturbed the peace? The trouble with you is, you don't know the strength of your own charm!"

"Dear me," said Kitty, "I wish I had my fan! You gentlemen are so flattering!"

Peg would have called them several other things herself. She was annoyed at Ben, too, for holding such strong theories on both hospitality and minding your own business.

Kitty said that of course it was stimulating to be considered a siren even if you weren't one.

"Now, Kitty," objected Collins, "that's just your modesty!"

"Of course it is," agreed Mac. "Ask the ladies of Doremus, they know different!"

"It's 10 o'clock," said Ben suddenly. "Who's going to take up Sara Ann, Peg, you or me?"

"I will," offered Kitty quickly. She didn't care for the picture of herself Mac projected, even if he had done it only to annoy her. He was obviously an old master at saving his own skin, but all the same he'd made her sound like a predatory female and general home-wrecker and Kitty didn't like it.

Mac said he guessed perhaps it was time he left. Peg mumbled an excuse and followed Kitty upstairs. Said Ben to Collins when they were alone: "You're a hard man, McGee!"

"Shut up, will you?" said Collins.

Ben took it as meant literally.

* * *

"Peg," Kitty, after Sara Ann was resettled, "what's your idea of Collins' idea in coming out here? That's what I wonder. Considering the circumstances I suppose it's none of my business to be wondering. After all, you and Ben and Collins have been friends for years. Probably," she added, indignantly, "if Mac heard me he'd accuse me of breaking up friendships as well as homes!"

"That Mac—" began Peg.

"It's a waste of time to resent Mac seriously. Nothing's real to him except MacGregor."

Peg looked relieved but surprised to hear that Kitty knew it. "But Kitty," she said, "Collins—"

There she stopped. Ben's voice commanding her to stay out of things tolled like a bell in her head.

"I have an idea of my own," said Kitty while Peg still searched for words. "I have an idea I'll oversleep tomorrow morning. I doubt if I'll wake up until after they've left for the train."

Peg thought it was an excellent idea, and encouraged it. Ben and Collins had gone back to the war when the girls rejoined them. Peg had never thought she'd live to see the day when she'd be positively grateful for the fact that all conversations eventually circled back to the war, but she was. There were, in many different senses, worse things than war.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

"GOLDIE" is retiring. After 40 years as a mail carrier, David Goldberg of Brooklyn is going to be pensioned off and live a life of ease and leisure.

For 40 years he has been delivering the mail to banks and brokerage houses in Wall Street. He has handled millions of dollars worth of stocks and bonds, he has met hundreds of America's richest men. They all call him "Goldie" and they all like him.

Goldie has never aspired to wealth.

Those stocks and bonds never tempted him. He worked his regular hours, had a smile for everybody, and when the job was done each day, he went home to Brooklyn to his family, his slippers, his newspaper and his radio.

He doesn't think he'll just loaf. He wants to do something for the war effort. He'll keep busy, all right. At 60, he is hale and hearty, and he still takes long rides on his bicycle down the Parkway.

I wonder who is the greater success, the fellows to whom he delivered the stocks and bonds, or Goldie, the mail carrier.

Down in Wall Street many a night you can see the lights burning at 10 and 11. You see worried-looking fellows in expensive limousines and going to their ornate homes.

They take their business home with them and spend many a sleepless night worrying where the next million is coming from.

Money is heavy food, you know, too much of it is hard to digest.

A famous doctor told me that nervous breakdowns and stomach ulcers are almost unknown among the moderately well-to-do and the not-too-poor.

They are, what he called "business men's diseases." Take your business home with you and it's bound to get the best of you eventually.

ONE OF Goldie's "success secrets" is that when he left his bag in the postoffice at the end of the day, he left his worries in his bag.

You may not call Goldie a success. I do.

I call anybody a success who gets happiness and contentment out of life.

Many a "successful" man will tell you that when he finally achieved success it wasn't at all what he had imagined it to be.

A pretty good measure of success is how well you sleep at night.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE unprecedented epidemic of squabbles among Supreme court members has lowered that body's prestige to an aldermanic level with veteran attaches, practitioners and reporters. But their differences and prejudices, both legal and personal, have had the practical effect of holding up decisions on questions of vital economic, social and political importance.

It is doubtful whether this or any other high tribunal has ever before fallen so far behind in completing cases on the docket. Whereas about 100 rulings had been handed down at this point in last year's term, only two-thirds of that total have been disposed of at this time.

At least 40 per cent of the litigation dealt with at this session has been the subject of sharp controversy. Sometimes the dissenting opinions consisted of only a one-line acknowledgment on the part of the off-jurist. But more often the highly individualistic members wrote lengthy briefs to set forth their contrary views.

The present situation contrasts sharply with that which prevailed under former Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. He insisted that his associates do their homework promptly, and frequently chided slow or lazy judges. Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone is more lenient with his young and hadstrong aides.

TUXEDOS: Dissents are not the only reason for congestion of the court's files. On numerous occasions one or more justices have concurred in the basic findings, but they have fallen for the urge to explain in artistic detail why their reasoning differed from that expressed in the official opinion.

Obviously men engaged in such fierce disputes, and so insistent on exploding on the least provocation, cannot find the time to tackle their more important duties. It takes as much research, labor and thought to prepare a dissent or separate statement as it does to frame a majority decision.

Principal participants in the legal feuds have been Justices Owen Roberts, Bob Jackson, Bill Douglas and Frank Murphy, with Felix Frankfurter, Hugo Black, Stanley Reed running neck-and-neck. Hardest workers are Stone, Roberts, Black, Jackson and Douglas.

A more trivial explanation for the stalling of the legal machinery is that FDR's appointees, more so than most of their predecessors, are quite socially inclined.

Time was when a Supreme court jurist adopted a hermit's regimen when he slipped on the black grosgrain robe. But now certain members are seen in tuxedos or tails more often than in their official regalia. Naturally, they do not always pull their full weight on the judicial oars.

IRELAND: Several seemingly unrelated Anglo-American moves indicate that the United Nations are getting set for the great drama of World War II — an all-out, knockout assault on Hitler's Europe.

Quite appropriately, in view of the expectation that the United States will bear the brunt of the attack, the last-minute preparations have been left in President Roosevelt's hands.

The demand that Ireland oust Axis spies, together with proposed pressures to enforce this request, is clearly a pre-invasion act of expediency. With England as the base of our operations, we cannot afford to permit such a strategic land to continue as an observation tower for the enemy.

The same consideration accounts for the more hard-boiled policy pointed at Argentina, Spain and Turkey. Every "leak" of information or supplies must be plugged before our men hop across the channel — or wherever they are going to hop.

SURPRISE: FDR's supposedly offhand remark about allocation of one-third of the Italian fleet to Russia is part of the same over-all undertaking. So were Secretary Cordell's Hull's persistent efforts to coax Finland out of her struggle with the Soviet.

Naval experts note that Red armadas operating in the Baltic and North Seas, with a friendly Helsinki to the northeast, would harass Der Feuhrer while GI's and Tommies struck frontally.

The prospective reduction of the gasoline allowance for the whole nation fits into this picture. A similar restriction was imposed on eastern states just prior to our landings in North Africa.

All these presidential gestures, although politically dangerous, are justified by the emergency. They may cost the Democrats some votes among the population groups affected.

But the American Commander-in-Chief, as a more popular figure than Churchill with the Irish, Italians and Finns, was deliberately chosen to master-of-ceremony the military show of the ages.

This "clearing of the underbrush," as our top fighting men term it, will give no comfort or tip to Berlin. The element of full surprise cannot attach to the approaching offensive because the foe has seen it coming. The task now is to achieve tactical unexpectedness concerning the point of assault, numbers of invaders, land-sea-air strength etc.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

A FLURRY of news about limited successes achieved by "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell's Marauders and the seizure by the British of the key road to Akyab indicates that the Yanks and Tommies in the Asiatic jungle are on the move at last.

United States officers home from this theater think that the public has an erroneous conception of the entire campaign. At first it expected a great drive to hurl the Japs from Burma, a grandiose dream which could not be realized at this stage of the war. Next it swung to the other extreme and judged all maneuvers in the sector of minor importance.

Actually, ours is a middle-of-the-road strategy:

1. We seek to establish bases beyond the Assam frontier from which to goad the enemy and to connect India with China by air — and later by highway.

2. By means of land and sky raids we hope to disorganize the Japanese back areas and force the Nips to tax their already strained communications. Tojo's troops must dart here and there to parry the widely spaced thrusts. The program is somewhat similar to that carried out in the Pacific: Gain steppingstones and destroy supply facilities.

Weather is a restraining factor. It is generally dry and cool in March. But thunderstorms are frequent in April and May, followed by the monsoons in the middle of June with a 100-inch rainfall and high humidity. In this season nearly all transportation is mired except that by river barge.

SPECTACULAR: The first American flyers arriving in India from Java in March, 1942 found only 10 airdromes in the entire country, not one in the locality where operations against Burma were being arranged. The defensive system had been built around the Khyber Pass when Russia was considered the potential invader.

United States and British engineers have since laid out a large number of fields for use against Japan. Many are no more than runways in rice paddies. From the air they look like ordinary meadows but planes are cleverly hidden under palm trees. Others are set up in tea gardens. Elephants do the heavy construction and maintenance work.

Anglo-American aviators and ground troops wear an odd assortment of axes and knives. Though the men have the appearance of fierce old pirates, the purpose of the weapons is not combat but preservation of life should the owners get lost in the forests. They are taught that young shoots of bamboo contain enough moisture to keep a man from dying of thrist.

Homing pigeons that took part in the Battle of Britain were brought to India by the RAF. The young of these famous birds bear messages from marooned patrols whose emergency radios are out of commission. They can travel 600 miles at one hop and can be released in flight.

Although no spectacular advances are probable in Burma until the rains stop in late fall, relentless pressure on Hirohito's far-flung lines ties up his shipping which might otherwise be used against MacArthur and Nimitz.

Sheriff Ired Over People Listing His Jail As Home

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (U.P.)—Police Chief Aubrey Hopkins is mad.

He's mad because too many San Antonians have given the city jail as their "permanent" address.

The chief, in a mild way, blew up when he picked up a letter obviously containing an income tax blank and addressed to a prisoner.

Said he: "This is too much. It's carrying things too far. People must not continue to give the city jail as their permanent place of abode."

Chief Hopkins said there even had been cases of persons giving the jail as their permanent address to their draft boards.

He doesn't know how to stop it—but he wishes he did.

No. 1 — Burglars entered the Orange Crush Bottling company, obtained $600 from the safe by using a hammer, punch bar and file from the firm's tool room.

No. 2—He or she took $10 worth of stamps, $2 in cash, three bottles of rum (the good kind), a gold pen knife, a roll of Scotch tape, and two cartons of mints from the Houston Poster Advertising company.

And he or she left a note in a secretary's typewriter, reading: "I'm sorry that I had to do this, but I found it necessary. Please excuse me. Yours respectfully. A Friend."

Too Many Pennies

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (U.P.)—Perhaps the most disgusting person in town was a certain deputy county tax collector.

He spent numerous perspiring and jittery moments counting one by one — 1,387 pennies.

The counting started when a thrifty housewife raided her over-sized piggy-bank and used the contents to purchase 1944 automobile license plates.

AUSTIN, March 21. (U.P.) — Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called "dog days" of summer.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said that in February the state laboratory examined 316 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over 37 per cent of which tested positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed, and all pets vaccinated for rabies, it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

"Dogs suspected of rabies should be confined 10 days for observation to see if the disease develops. If the dog dies during the observation period, the head should be removed, packed in ice, and sent to the State Health department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing the dog prematurely, or in such a manner as to injure the brain, may make laboratory findings uncertain, if not impossible.

"After the dog is confined 10 days and then killed, there is still ample time for a victim of his bite to be treated for rabies prevention. But if the diseases is found to be present in the dog, the victim should begin treatment, without further delay.

Valley Fights Insects

WESLACO, March 21. (U.P.)—The Rio Grande Valley may be able soon to produce its own insecticide for protection of its abundant crops.

Shipments of rotenone supplies have been stopped by the war, but scientists have discovered that the Valley is an ideal place for growing the jicama or yam bean, which is fatal to several types of insects.

Substantial growths of yam beans have been found in Mexico, though utilized there for food. Part of this year's yam crop will be devoted to insecticides, and more acreages likely will be given over to it later.

The Valley Experiment station currently is making tests of a processed dust mixture of the beans. The plant is an annual, producing crops from four to six months after planting.

HOUSTON, March 21. (U.P.)—Age does make a difference, if Warehouse Superintendent Homer Kelsheimer takes the word of an aged negro.

The darky, who gave his age as 51 years, which appeared to be about 10 years shy, asked Kelsheimer for "Saddidy and Sunday nights off" from his warehouse swing shift duties.

Explaining the reason for his request, the negro said he wanted to get married, and observed:

"Jes two nights off is er-nuff fo' a man o' mah age to spen' gettin' mahried."

He got the time off.

Soft Spot For China

SWEETWATER, March 21. (U.P.) — China holds a special place in the interests of Cpl. Pete Clendennen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clendennen.

In his collection of souvenirs he has a picture of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, a gift from Mme. Kai-Shek, and also a remembrance from Brig. Gen. Claire Chennault.

Cpl. Clendennen served in China for more than 10 months, prior to which he was in India for three months.

HOGS IN A HURRY

Feed
STANTON'S 20% PIG RATION

Today, more than ever before, it is extremely important to speed up growth and keep mortality down in young pigs. Feed is too precious to waste on the laggards and pork is too valuable to lose before it goes to market. Stanton's 20% pig ration provides extra protection against both. In hundreds of hog lots, it has consistently improved pig health, speeded up growth and reduced mortality because it gives little pigs the same kind of boost that chick starter gives to baby chicks. It is being fed widely to sows before farrowing and—preferably in "creeps" as illustrated—to pigs from 2-3 weeks of age on up.

MANAMAR

in Stanton's 20% Pig Ration supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials—fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "Complex," supplied by patented "B-G Plus."

ManAmar and B-G Plus have been developed and are produced in the laboratories of Philip R. Park, famed livestock nutrition authority. These laboratories have approved the formula for Stanton's 20% Pig Ration. Let the records of users tell the rest of the story. Get all the facts today.

STOCK PRICES DIP
NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The stock market was subjected to a spring thaw today and prices generally dipped fractions to a point or more in the worst stumble of the month.
The retreat started after a moderately steady opening.
Extreme losses were shaded here and there at the close but declines were widespread.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 52.8 sharpest set-back since Feb. 29. Transfers totalled 1,186,210 shares compared with 1,382,-920 in the previous full session.
On the offside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Alleghany common and preferreds, Atlantic Coast Line, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Anaconda, United Aircraft and Schenley. Montgomery Ward dropped a point.
In a mixed curb small advances were posted for Bellanca Aircraft, Carrier Corp. and Imperial Oil. Cuban Atlantic Sugar, St. Regis Paper and Cities Service were off.

NEW YORK FUTURES
NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The cotton market recovered from early weakness today to end 15 to 35 cents a bale higher.
Mill price fixing against the steady trickle of government textile awards bolstered near-by positions and the wide discount at which the March, 1945, contract was ranged under expected loan rates next season attracted commission house interest. The market sold off in early trading on an accumulation of week-end liquidating orders.

AVERAGE PRICE
NEW ORLEANS, March 20 (AP) — The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was unchanged at 21.11 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 20.96; middling 15-16ths-inch average 19.56.

GLAD OF POOR AIM
DALLAS, March 20. (U.P.)—One Dallas man was thankful today that his stepfather never took time to learn to shoot—accurately. After the two became embroiled in an argument yesterday, the older man emptied two pistols—12 shots—at his stepson without even coming close to scoring a bullseye.

Nazis Believed Abandoning Trapped Troops In Crimea

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

There are startling intimations in the war news that the German retreat into Rumania may be headed for the Carpathian mountains-Danube delta line, virtually abandoning Nazi troops in the Crimea and the Odessa region to their fate.

With the Dniester river Russian-crossed on a wide front in the center and Red forces already firmly gripping positions in the Carpathian foothills in southern Poland, there seems no other short, naturally strong line available for a Nazi stand in the south.

SIMPSON

The Dniester break - through virtually undermines both the Prut and Siret river positions in Rumania proper as potential defense fronts.

Nazi seizures of complete control in all Hungary, reported from Ankara, lends color to this theory. Budapest is the focal point for all rail and road connections leading to the passes of the Carpathians and of the Translyvanian Alps. Whether brewing revolt against Nazism in Hungary is also involved or not, military necessity could well explain the German move.

Closing On Junction

Russian spearheads in Bessarabia are closing in on Balti junction through the gap in the Dniester line. Balti's fall would cut the only northern escape route for German forces still in the Dniester-Bug trap, driving them southward toward Odessa.

Beyond Balti lies the Iasi Prut crossing of the Odessa-Tiraspol-Iasi railroad, the only other westward escape hatch from Odessa. Its garrison and other Nazi troops being herded toward it by Russian pressure from the north and east are all but trapped.

There is no reason to expect any better prepared Nazi defense on the Prut or even the Siret than Russia met on the Dniester. The Germans failed even to blow up Dniester bridges or destroy Dniester ferries behind them, or to defend the western bank of the river. There is no other line of equal natural strength for defense in central Rumania short of the towering Carpathians on the west flank of the Siret valley.

Strong Barrier In Delta

Southward to the Black Sea coast of Rumania, however, the Danbue delta offers a strong barrier to a continued Russian westward sweep. It is toward some such last-ditch defense front for his badly shaken eastern Balkan flank that Hitler's armies routed from the Ukraine seem to be staggering.

That would mean abandonment of all eastern Rumania from the Polish border to the Black Sea to the Russians, however. It could mean Russian entrapment of the bulk of Nazi forces still in the Ukraine and in southeastern Rumania against the Black Sea to stand siege in Odessa or attempt a sea borne escape.

Reds Menace Oil Fields

Of even graver possible menace to the German war effort, is the increasing threat to Nazi prime high grade oil resources in Rumania. The Russian break through over the Dniester has brought the front within little over 200 miles of Ploesti, main oil refining center in Rumania. Red troops are even closer to the Rumanian oil fields themselves on the eastern flank of the Carpathians.

That those oil fields and installations are of even greater strategic and tactical value in Russian eyes than the prospect of annihilating thousands of Nazi troops in the Dniester-Bug trap goes without saying. Stalin's victorius legions are within sight of dealing their Nazi foes a most paralyzing war economy blow, very possibly with the immediate help of Allied bombers based in Italy.

Two American Aces Coach Sooner Flier In First Nazi Kill

A U. S. MUSTANG FIGHTER BASE, England, Mrach 20 (AP) — The story of how two American aces helped Lt. Edward F. Fox, Muskogee, Okla., knock off his first Nazi plane by coaching him while they stayed "upstairs" has been told.

It happened on the March 16 raid over southern Germany when fighters were escorting bombers as they tangled with several Messerschmitt 110s.

Fox was flying as wing man to Capt. Don M. Beerbower of Hill City, Minn., who was nine and a half kills to his credit, in a flight led by Capt. Jack T. Bradley, Brownwood, Tex., who has accounted for six and a half enemy planes.

Beerbower had just peeled off and raked the lead ship with deadly busts when Bradley told Fox: "You get the next one. We'll stay above you and give you cover."

Fox when after one plane and damaged it badly, but was called off by Bradley's warning that another Messerschmitt 110 was on his tail. Fox wheeled around in a tight bank and knocked down the Messerschmitt from only 100 yards.

"I could hear Bradley up above talking to me like a football coach," Fox said. "He kept saying: 'get up on him. Hold your fire. Lots of time. Take it easy.' Then I heard him say: 'In a wee bit more. Now. Give it to him'."

Fox did.

British Sloops Sink Six German U-Boats

LONDON, March 20. (AP) — Five British naval sloops were credited officially today with sinking six German submarines during a 20-day patrol in the North Atlantic described by First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander as "perhaps the greatest cruise ever undertaken in this war by an escort group."

The feat was announced in an Admiralty communique which disclosed the loss of one of the light, speedy craft — the H.M.S. Woodpecker, which foundered in heavy weather after receiving a torpedo hit.

All the Woodpecker's crew was rescued, however, and returned recently to Liverpool with the other four ships to receive a gala welcome.

Five of the Nazi submarines sunk during the patrol were sent to the bottom with their entire crews, the Admiralty said. Fifty-one crewmen of the sixth were captured before she was sunk by gunfire after being driven to the surface with depth charges.

Several Named In County Court Cases

Judgments totaling $350 in monetary fines, court costs, two days in jail, forfeiture of an automobile and revocation for six months of the right to drive an automobile were filed Monday by County Judge G. V. Pardue, naming five persons.

Seventeen-year-old Charles Burton pleaded guilty of malicious mischief and was fined $25 and costs.

Fine of $25, court costs and four days in jail, deferred to June 1, were assessed against Leo Parramore, who pleaded guilty of theft.

Fine of $50 and costs and two days in jail were assessed against F. M. Moses who pleaded guilty of theft of $15 worth of picket fencing from J. E. Griffis.

Fine of $100 and court costs were assessed against D. Gillit, who pleaded guilty of liquor law violation.

Fine of $100 and costs of court and forfeiture of his automobile were assessed against Alfred Johnson, who had pleaded guilty of transportation of liquor; and another judgment of $50 and costs and revocation for six months of his privilege to drive an automobile were assessed against Johnson after a plea of guilty of drunk driving.
