Reds Sweep Up 80 Towns

Nazi Counterblows Fail As Attacks Carry Ten Miles Nearer Reich Seat

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 21—Russian First Ukraine Army forces drove some 10 miles northwest and west in Germany's Brandenburg province yesterday, capturing more than 80 communities in the face of persistent counterattacks by which the Nazis strove to hold the vital southeastern approaches to Berlin, 57 miles away.

Moscow's nightly communique, announcing these gains, said about 1,000 Germans were captured in the sector northeast and east of Guben, while some 100 miles to the southeast fighting continued for the annihilation of the German garrison in the besieged Silesian capital of Breslau.

Break Into Other Towns

German radio accounts, agreeing essentially with the Russian announcements on the conflict in Brandenburg east of Guben, said also that the Soviets had broken into Breslau and Glogau but had been thrown out and that the Breslau garrison had spurned a surrender ultimatum.

On the northern front Moscow announced gains up to 13 miles and capture of 50 Polish corridor towns by the Second White Russian Army. Advancing northward on a 20-mile wide front, these forces were within 33 miles south of Danzig, once-free Baltic port.

On the southern end of the long Eastern front the Russians announced capture of 20-odd Czechoslovakian towns in a drive that carried northwestward within 13 miles of Banska Bystricia, and told of repelling determined German counterattacks in Hungary on the north bank of the Danube east of Komarom.

New Breakthrough Set

Berlin also said the Russians were preparing for a new breakthrough smash at the Moravian gate where the borders of Silesia, Poland and Moravia meet. The Russians were silent on this, as they were also on German reports of some "minor" gains by the First White Russian Army southeast of Stettin.

More vital to the immediate defense of the Reich was the 65-mile front where Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine troops were attacking and the Germans were violently counterattacking.

German broadcasts described the line as extending from Guben, 51 miles southeast of Berlin, through Sorau down to Lauban, 61 miles east of Dresden and only 13 miles from the border of Saxony province.

Moscow's communique did not disclose fighting as far south of Lauban but did announce Konev's capture of the strongpoint cities

FDR Talks With Near East Chiefs

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—President Roosevelt, during a dramatic Near East odyssey, has obtained from Prime Minister Churchill a new promise "to throw everything" at the Japanese after Germany's defeat. He also got a snub from General Charles de Gaulle.

The story of the President's meetings with premiers, kings, and princes after the Crimea conference came out in part today.

The White House made public some details of his trips through Egypt and Algeria, and how Mr. Roosevelt is adding, by plane, motor and ship some 14,000 miles to his stupendous travel.

Met At Alexandria

The fresh British pledge for fullest participation against Japan was given to the President by the Prime Minister at Alexandria. The White House narration said that "new and important" discussions of the Pacific situation were conducted there, topics that had to be passed over at the Big Three meetings because of Russia's nonaggression pact with Japan.

The account told of an invitation to General de Gaulle to meet with the President at Algiers. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to discuss questions of "mutual interest and importance" to France and the United States. The French leader, supposedly miffed at being barred from the Big Three conferences, declined and the President said he was "most disappointed."

Ibn Saud Breaks Record

One of those who did accept a Roosevelt invitation, however, was King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia. Leaving his country for the first time in his life, the king went sailing to the conference in the Suez canal aboard an American destroyer luxuriously bedecked with oriental carpets and gilded chairs.

Mr. Roosevelt did not go to Rome and Paris, as had been indicated in some foreign quarters. Instead, he went by motor to Sevastopol, flew to Egypt for conferences aboard a warship in the Suez canal with King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, and King Ibn Saud and then started home via Algiers, his last stopping place.

No Dates Announced

No dates were given in the official summary for security reasons.

Of the Churchill meeting, the statement said:

"Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words that his government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

The President stopped within a few minutes air reach of Cairo. His first caller was King Farouk. He was received aboard a United States warship at anchor in Great Bitter lake through which the Suez canal passes. The conference began before noon and continued through luncheon. The President referred to large American wartime purchases of Egyptian long staple cotton and expressed the hope of a greater two-way future trade.

CASH AWARDS POSTED

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 20. (AP)—The American Farm Economic association announced today a total of $12,500 in cash awards would be given for suggestions on constructive postwar price policies for agriculture, including any needed changes in the parity price formula.

Heavies Batter Big Nazi Center

LONDON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Nuernberg, one of Germany's most important rail junctions and scene of former Nazi party propaganda spectacles, was battered today by 900 U. S. Flying Fortresses in its heaviest daylight bombing of the war.

The big American armada, which included an escort of 700 fighters, encountered no enemy aerial opposition but ran into intense antiaircraft fire. Sixteen bombers and 23 fighters were missing tonight.

Series Of Warnings

A series of warnings, during which the German radio twice went off the air, indicated the Allied aerial blows were continuing into the night.

The Germans reported three separate formations operating over the Reich early in the night, two of them possibly groups of RAF Mosquitos. Both were said to be over Brandenburg province in which Berlin is located.

Approximately 11,000 high explosive bombs and 300,000 small incendiaries were dropped on Nuernberg, which Moscow reports have said has become the seat of the Nazi government.

Vital Junction

It is a vital junction of the main east-west and north-south railways in south central Germany, 100 miles north of Munich, and the American assault was directed principally at the big railway station, freight yards and repair shops.

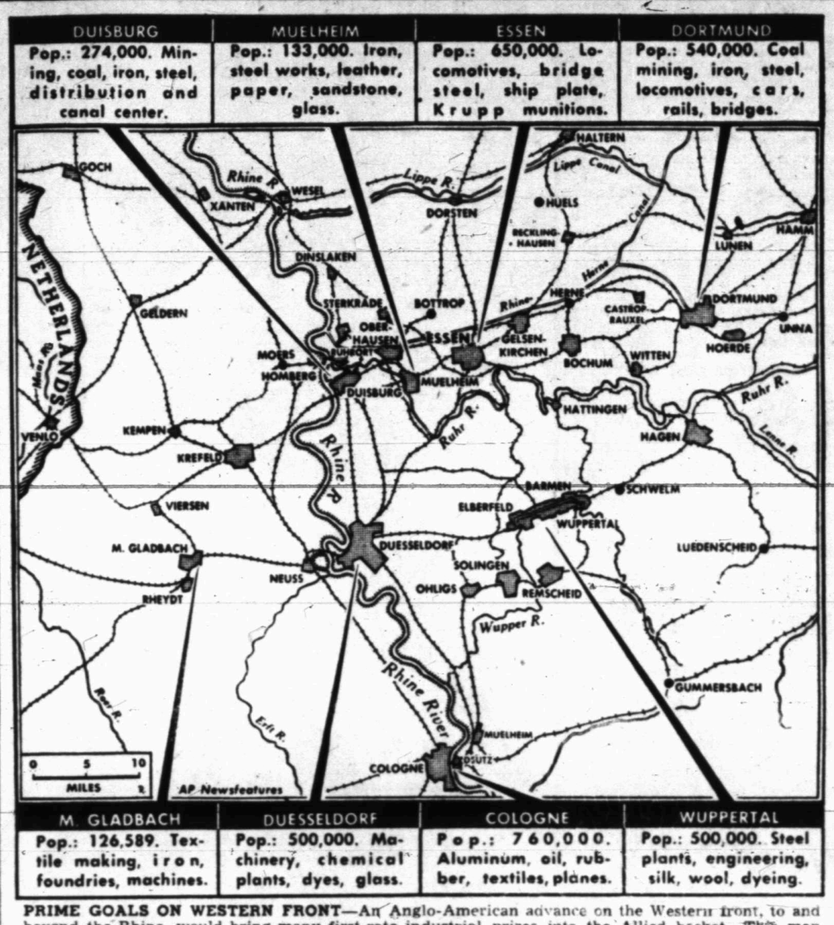

The heavy blow at Nuernberg was predicated upon aerial reconnaissance which showed extraordinarily heavy rail traffic piling up there.

Significance Unknown

Significance of the traffic congestion was not determined. Whether it was movement of government offices from Berlin, a concentration of men and material on the way to the east front, or shipments for the defense of Vienna against the Red Army was not learned.

Heavy bombers of the 15th Air force operation from Italy returned to the Vienna area today, attacking the Lobau and Schwechat oil refineries southeast of Vienna. Medium bombers and fighter bombers battered away again at targets on the Brenner Pass rail routes between Italy and Austria.

Third Smashes Forward In Surprise Moselle Crossing

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Feb. 20—The American Third Army, slashing into or beyond the Siegfried line on a 50-mile front, surged forward 2½ miles in rain and mud today and captured ten towns and entered five others in a surprise new attack across the Moselle river.

Scottish forces of Gen. H. D. Crerar's Canadian First Army cleared all of the Siegfried stronghold of Goch except a few isolated pockets, but this offensive at the northern end of the Western front appeared generally stymied in its 13th day by vicious enemy resistance.

Canadian troops fell back slightly in the flaming arc before Calcar, seven miles northeast of Goch, as the Germans hurled in one counterattack after another to dent Allied lines for the first time since the drive down the Maas-Rhine corridor began.

As resistance on the 25-mile northern front mounted in intensity, with the Germans reinforced to the strength of at least nine divisions, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's doughboys stepped up the pressure along the major portion of the Third Army front, where four divisions ran their three-day bag of prisoners to 4,500.

The Americans registered their best gains in the triangle formed by the Moselle and Saar rivers, smashing within four miles of Saarburg from two directions.

Bridgehead Deepened

The armored units that crossed the Moselle early in the day deepened their bridgehead to nearly three miles, capturing Palzen and pushing within four miles of Saarburg in the vicinity of Rommelfangen. The town of Kirf, on high ground four miles southwest of Saarburg, also was captured.

The Germans threw a counterattack at the bridgehead during the day, but it was repulsed.

Patton's forces fighting in the Echternach area to the north expanded their hold on Nazi soil to 12 miles wide and six miles deep.

The Fifth division cleared Halsdorf on the Enz river, five miles north of Boilendorf, and bagged 215 prisoners to bring its three-day total to 1,265.

The 80th division cleared Enzen, Seimerich, Korperich and Obersgegen and raised its three-day prisoner total to 2,000.

The town of Bivels, two miles northwest of Vianden, was entered by mechanical cavalry units and other troops on the 80th left won a two-mile stretch to the Dahnen-Dasburg highway, cleaning out 34 Siegfried line pillboxes.

Still farther north, Sengerich and Binscheld, two towns about ten miles southwest of Prum, were

WLB Grants Wage Hikes With An If

By HAROLD W. WARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The War Labor board announced its willingness tonight to fatten pay envelopes of 145,000 meat packers and 50,000 textile workers, if it wins its policy fight with Economic Stabilizer Fred Vinson.

The board released its long-awaited decisions in these two cases, but held up the money items until it has settled the squabble with Vinson. He wants to give OPA veto powers over wage adjustments if they necessitate price increases.

The decisions came as the two industries were threatened with farreaching strikes.

For the textile workers, the board raised the minimum wage from 50 to 55 cents, and granted a flat 5-cent increase to preserve the present differentials. These were allowable in the board's eyes because they would adjust "sub-standard" wages.

The meat packers were told to establish a commission to set up, for the first time, a standard wage structure for the industry. Clothing, tools and sharpening of tools are to be company expenses, also for the first time.

All non-money items can be negotiated immediately between the companies and the workers.

Main Unions Affected

Principal unions involved are the CIO-Packinghouse Workers, representing 125,000 employes of Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy and John Morrell packing firms, and the CIO-Textile Workers. The latter represented employes of 23 Southern, 25 New England and six New York-Pennsylvania textile mills.

Tonight's decision in the packinghouse case involves so-called "fringe" demands rather than major general increases. In this case, the WLB said the general 10 per cent wage boost is to be shelved until President Roosevelt decides whether to lift the ceiling limiting increases to 15 per cent over 1941 levels.

The board's decision in the textile cases concerned 54 New England, six New York and Pennsylvania and 23 Southern plants.

It came down just as Emil

Chinese Claim 500 Japs Die In Battle

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20. (AP)—More than 500 Japanese troops have been killed in fighting west of the Canton-Hankow railroad near the Hunan-Kwangtung border, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The announcement said Chinese forces attacked the Japanese 10 to 15 miles east of Ichang and about 105 miles south of Hengyang and that heavy fighting is continuing. Meanwhile, a Japanese attack 12 miles northeast of Ichang was repulsed, it added.

Fighter planes of the Chinese-American wing of the 14th Air force attacked Japanese rail lines, river communications and ammunition dumps in north China yesterday, damaging nine locomotives and eight river boats and sinking one boat.

Churchill And Eden Make Report To King

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gave first-hand accounts of the Big Three Crimean conference to King George in an audience at Buckingham palace tonight.

It was the first time the King had received the Prime Minister and Eden since their return from Russia. After the conference, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill and Eden dined with the king and queen.

David Lloyd George Said Critically Ill

CRICCIETH, Carnarvon, Wales, Feb. 20. (AP)—David Lloyd George, one of Britain's elder statesmen and spark plug of the empire's fight in the last war, was reported critically ill tonight at his home near here.

A bulletin from his physicians said the white-haired, 82-year-old liberal was suffering from "increasing physical weakness" which was causing anxiety among his family and friends.

A later bulletin, however, said the patient was "more comfortable."

Miffed De Gaulle Fails To Stifle French Peace Spirit

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Feb. 20.—The French government announced officially tonight it was actively pursuing an exchange of views on the Big Three Crimean conference despite the inability of Gen. De Gaulle and President Roosevelt to hold a meeting.

Spokesmen for the foreign office also declared France definitely intends to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25.

The reports came as the French public heard for the first time of de Gaulle's refusal to meet the President at Algiers.

In one of the first published accounts of the incident, the newspaper Combat said Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and some other ministers wanted de Gaulle to forget national pride and meet with Roosevelt despite the latter's declining to come to France, but the head of the government was sustained in his refusal by a majority of the cabinet. There was no denial that the situation stemmed from France's disappointment at being left out of the Big Three meeting at Yalta.

Government sources conceded that although France was not likely to forget what many considered a rebuff by Roosevelt in stopping at Algiers and bidding the chief of the French government to meet him on what is actually French soil, the incident probably will not provoke a serious breach with the United States because France is well aware of its dependence on help from outside. However, the matter may be

Marine Progress On Iwo Beats Schedule

Airfield Captured But Toughest Of Fighting Is Ahead

By ELMONT WAITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, Feb. 21—The three-day-old invasion of Iwo is ahead of schedule despite the unprecedented ferocity of Japanese resistance, it was learned today.

The U. S. Fifth Marine corps achieved one of the invasion's main objectives by noon Tuesday, a little over 24 hours after the Marines landed on the southeast coast, when they captured the three-runway Motoyama bomber field No. 1, within fighter plane range of Tokyo, 750 miles to the north.

Scheduled For Night

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent, confirmed that the invasion plan called for seizure of the airfield, also known as Suribachi, by tonight.

Today the Marines, still backed by one of the most concentrated ship bombardments in history which in six days has pitched more than 8,000 tons of steel at the Nipponese, tore into enemy hill positions on the flanks after sealing off the south third of the island's eight square miles.

There is a terrific fight ahead against Japanese on the north end of the island, on a plateau overlooking the beachhead. The bulk of the Nipponese garrison is there.

Enemy Fire Toughest

As the Marines consolidated their flanks yesterday, Dopking said they encountered "probably the stiffest enemy fire yet faced in the Pacific war."

Controlling the south third of the island, the rain-drenched Leathernecks advanced 200 yards beyond the airfield on the north flank against Nipponese rocket, mortar and artillery fire.

On the south flank, they attacked formidable enemy positions offering stiff opposition from the slopes of volcanic Mt. Suribachi.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz issued separate communiques on the morning and afternoon developments Tuesday covering action up until 6 p. m.

Achieved Big Objective

Although Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fifth Marine corps was battling for every yard in the most savage actions of the Pacific war, they already have achieved one of their biggest objectives in capturing the big bomber field, within 750 miles of Tokyo.

How bitter the battle was is made clear in a Wednesday broadcast by Bud Foster from the invasion fleet lying off the island.

The NBC war correspondent, representing the combined American networks, said the invaders have had no sleep for 48 hours. Tuesday night the skies over Iwo were "ablaze with the almost constant flash of star shells, tracer bullets and the flame from heavier guns and mortars, Foster said.

The Japanese used rockets for the first time yesterday.

Larry Tighe, Blue network correspondent, said today:

"These are no terror-stricken Jap soldiers of the Imperial Army that the Fourth and Fifth Marines are fighting.

"They are tough, wily and experienced foemen who know every trick in the book concerning defensive fighting."

The Pacific oceans area commander, who moved his headquarters to Guam only a few weeks before the invasion of Iwo said he was unable to estimate casualties. Earlier, they had been reported as running from strong to moderate.

Area Shrouded In Heavy Mist, Fog

The entire South Plains area was shrouded in a heavy mist and fog Tuesday night, and the stage was set for a possible "ice storm."

A drop in temperature from 40 degrees at 10 o'clock to 37 at 11 o'clock indicated that the mercury might sink to freezing before many hours.

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy weather.

U. S. Loses Sub Chaser And 2 Torpedo Boats

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Navy announced today the loss of two motor torpedo boats and a submarine chaser in the Philippine area.

The motor torpedo boats P-T 73 and P-T 338 were lost as a result of grounding. There were no casualties.

The submarine chaser PC 1129 was lost as a result of enemy action. The Navy said casualties were light. Next of kin of casualties have been notified.

The announcement brought to 265 the total of naval craft of all types which have been lost since the start of the war.

The submarine chaser participated in the Lingayen gulf operations in the Philippines in January 1945.

KAISER GETS CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—A contract for the construction of eight aircraft escort carriers to cost approximately $88,000,000 has been awarded to Henry Kaiser, Inc., Vancouver, Wash., the Navy announced today. No further details were disclosed.

Jap Savagery Adds To Casualty List

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Wednesday, Feb. 21—Japanese casualties of more than 92,000 in the six weeks of the Luzon campaign were reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who said the compressed enemy garrison in south Manila was treating non-combatants "with the greatest savagery."

MacArthur listed American casualties for the six weeks at 12,929—2,676 killed, 245 missing and 10,008 wounded.

These figures underscored the severity of the Manila fighting, which MacArthur said was still bitter. They showed an increase of 24,000 Japanese casualties and 3,246 American casualties in the last week alone.

Further Compressed

Japanese cornered in the Intramuros (walled city), which American howitzers are pounding from close range, and its environs are being compressed into an area measuring 1,200 yards by 800.

The enemy, MacArthur declared, "is acting with the greatest savagery in his treatment of noncombatants and private property."

The Japanese commander in the Intramuros has not replied to an American offer to liberate the estimated 7,000 civilians inside in exchange for an honorable surrender.

Heavy howitzers, consequently, were wheeled across pontoon bridges spanning the Pasig and began shelling the thick outer wall from as close as 500 yards range to make way for tanks and infantrymen. Cutting an entrance-way through the medieval wall was a big job, however. The walls measure 40 feet thick at the base.

Round Per Minute

Yank artillery was firing into the Intramurors wall at a steady rate of a round per minute. The Americans have on call more than enough air power to pulverize everything and everybody inside, but are trying to save the civilians.

South of the Intramurors the Americans yesterday cleared enemy pockets on the University of the Philippines campus in bitter close-quarter fighting and drove through to the wrecked high commissioner's former residence on the bay front.

On Corregidor the Japanese, using deep tunnels and intercommunicating defenses, were making the mopping up job as dirty and fierce as any Yanks have been forced to undertake on Luzon.

Entrances Blocked

Medieval siege tactics with modern equipment were being employed on Corregidor as at the Intramurors. Both entrances to Corregidor's main tunnel have

Two Liberated From Jap Camp

A former Lubbock man, James Leroy Hendryx, 29, was among civilians liberated recently from the Santo Thomas camp in Manila, according to a War department communication received Tuesday afternoon by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hendryx, 2212 Nineteenth.

The message described Hendryx's condition as "fair."

When the Philippines fell to the Japanese, Hendryx was employed by a contracting firm at work on the Manila harbor, his father said. Previously, he had served a "hitch" with the U. S. Army in the islands.

James Spencer Freed

News of another liberated prisoner came yesterday to Charles A. Spencer of 2403 Twenty-third, postoffice employe, with the notification that his brother, Pfc. James C. Spencer of Athens, Tex., an army man, had been rescued in the Philippines. The Athens man was graduated from Texas Technological college in 1936 and was a member of the Texas legislature from 1938 to '40. He was captured on Bataan.

The first word from Hendryx since his capture came in two cards to his parents Jan. 29. The cards had been written "seven or eight months" before, his father said.

One of the cards mentioned that he had seen his wife and young son, who apparently were not interned by the Japs, according to J. W. Hendryx. He said that his daughter-in-law was the child of a Spanish supervisor of medicine for the islands, and for that reason evidently was left unharmed by the Nips.

Hendryx is a graduate of Lubbock High school. He enlisted in the Army in 1936 and was stationed for a while at Fort Bliss, where he "signed up" for overseas service. After serving an enlistment in the Philippines, he worked as purchasing agent for the Army Quartermaster corps, subsequently going to work for the contracting company.

Fifth Army Gains Slighty In Italy

ROME, Feb. 20. (AP)—Concentrated mortar fire broke up a German loudspeaker propaganda broadcast on the Eighth Army front in Italy today while Fifth Army units improved their positions somewhat in the western coastal area.

Ground activity in Italy was confined to patrol actions. Eighth Army troops repulsed a wild, small-scale attack along the Senio river near Fusignano.

Shouted commands of a German officer tipped off the operation, and the Germans fired mortar shells at Allied positions even after the attack began. The Germans had split into three groups in an attempt to hit the Allied position from the rear and the sides.

NAZIS CLAIM SINKINGS

LONDON, Feb. 20. (AP) — The Berlin radio asserted tonight that German torpedo-carrying planes had sunk eight cargo ships totaling 57,000 tons and two destroyers.

Senate Shelves Work-Fight Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Senate Military committee shelved the work-or-jail bill today despite a new endorsement by President Roosevelt and began perfecting a much milder substitute.

The 12 to 6 vote to lay aside the House-approved measure in favor of the substitute which would strengthen the War Manpower commission's present job placement program was taken shortly after the committee was handed a memorandum from the President.

President's Appeal

Dated Feb. 11 and presented to the committee by majority leader Barkley, it read:

"I hope that legislation embracing the principle of the May bill can be speedily enacted. It will assure the armed services they can rely on the flow of necessary supplies and greatly contribute to the success of our arms."

The House passed the May bill several weeks ago shortly after its enactment was urged by Mr. Roosevelt.

The committee hopes to agree on final terms of the substitute tomorrow. It got through about half the text today, inserting a few clarifying amendments.

All Workers Affected

Unlike the House bill, which would affect only civilian men from 18 to 45, the substitute measures takes in all working people regardless of age or sex.

Under the direction or supervision of the director of war mobilization (James F. Byrnes), the

Branson On Stand Says His Wife "Acted Plain Crazy"

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20 (AP) — First Lt. C. E. Branson, whose wife is on trial for the kidnaping of an infant, testified today that Mrs. Branson "acted plain crazy," in Laredo, the day following the abduction.

The defense has indicated it will plead temporary insanity in the case in which Mrs. Branson is charged with kidnaping the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McGill. The child, Milly, was taken from the hotel room of her parents here Jan. 9 and was taken to San Antonio where she was left the next day in a bus station.

Last Saturday Mrs. McGill filed a suit for divorce, asking that Milly be given into the custody of Mrs. Branson.

Branson, a tall, red-haired B-24 pilot, testified that he first approached Mrs. McGill last Thursday at the invitation of Mrs. McGill's father, C. A. Tatum. He said he went with Tatum and O. H. Fincher, Mrs. Branson's father, to a hotel to see Mrs. McGill.

Other of the day's witnesses included Mrs. Fincher, McGill, and Dr. Thomas W. Grice, Fort Worth physician.

Mrs. Fincher said her daughter had a miscarriage about midnight of Dec. 20 at the Fincher home in Fort Worth. She said she attended her daughter and did not call a physician.

McGill testified he had not given Mrs. Branson permission to take the baby.

Dr. Grice, on the witness stand, said a small percentage of women go insane after miscarriages.

Facilities For Migratory Farm Workers To Be Discussed Friday

The possibility of providing housing and sanitary facilities that meet minimum health standards for migratory workers will be discussed at a county planning meeting at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the second floor courtroom of the courthouse here, it has been announced by W. O. Rieger, chairman of Lubbock County Farm Labor committee.

This should be, the joint responsibility of farm operators and civic leaders, Rieger said. "This is not a new problem—it started when Lubbock county farmers had to depend on outside labor to harvest the crops that could not be saved by family workers," he said.

Over 9,000 Came Here

"Conservation of transportation facilities during wartime requires 40 to 50 workers to travel in a single truck instead of the family-size crew traveling by automobile. Over 9,000 out-of-county workers came to Lubbock county last fall to help harvest a near-record cotton crop."

The Lubbock county farm labor committee has defined the joint responsibility as follows:

"Providing housing on the farm to accommodate large crews is the responsibility of the individual farmer or a group of farmers in a neighborhood. Four or five farmers pooling small houses will satisfy an over-crowded situation on single farms.

Responsibility of Area

"Providing housing and sanitary facilities that meet minimum health standards in transit from one county to another, and while the manpower is available within the county is the responsibility of towns and cities."

The extension state farm labor office, through the Lubbock County Farm Labor committee, offers assistance to any community in the county desiring to better the living conditions of migrant farm workers while they are working in the county.

Centers Are Recommended

Farm people, laborers and others attending planning meetings, conducted by the state office in connection with the migratory labor program, recommended that reception centers and other facilities be established by communities in which migratory labor is used. The state office, in order to encourage communities to establish reception centers for migrants, will assist this movement in a financial way under the following conditions:

The state office will contribute $300 to be spent for lease, alterations and repair of properties if needed. The state office cannot pay for new construction.

To Provide Personnel

The county agent's office will provide for personnel to look after property during peak periods to act as camp manager, guard or placement officer.

Requirements to be met by local sponsors in the construction of the center are:

1. Adequate sanitation facilities, including toilets and showers.
2. An adequate sanitary water supply.
3. Buildings to provide, at least, a minimum amount of shelter.
4. Adequate parking space.
5. That the center shall be used only by migratory labor during seasonal peaks of labor requirements. It is to be used as a place where migrants can gather in awaiting placement by the county agent through his farm labor field assistant. The center should not be used as a place for permanent residence during peak periods. Migrants should be invited and encouraged to use all the facilities of the center while in the community on shopping and holidays.
6. Local sponsors should make arrangements for fuel at reception centers.

Title to the property shall rest with the community sponsors establishing the facilities.

Scurry Announces Refunding Of Bonds

SNYDER, Feb. 20. (Special) — Scurry county's commissioners court has announced through F. C. Hairston, county judge, the refunding of $62,000 in courthouse bonds, bearing four per cent interest, into a like amount of refunding bonds bearing 2¼ and 2½ per cent.

The old courthouse bonds were dated April 10, 1937, and had been refunded at that time from an original issue of $110,000.

Present refunding, court members state, was completed at a great saving to taxpayers. If the old bonds had remained out at four per cent interest, the county would have paid $35,020 interest on the bonds. However, the refunding bonds, bearing only 2¼ and 2½ per cent interest will cost the county, in interest, only $13,655.70. This makes a saving to taxpayers of $21,364.30.

Refunding was negotiated with the holder of the old bonds, and the holder agreed to pay all expenses and accept the new bonds at par. The refunding, therefore, cost the county nothing and no fee of any kind was paid by the county.

S-Sgt. T. Q. Scott Is Casualty In Germany

S/Sgt. T. Q. Scott, 33, son of G. W. Scott, 2201 Thirteenth, was killed in action somewhere in Germany on Feb. 3, according to word received by his father from the War department.

Sgt. Scott, a 1929 graduate of Lubbock High school, had attended Texas Tech three years. Prior to going into service, he was living at Laredo. He went into the Army on Dec. 10, 1943, and trained at Aberdeen, Md., before going overseas to England in Sept., 1944.

He had been in the Ordnance division of the Army but was transferred to the infantry shortly before his death. He was recently made commander of his platoon.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Scott of Corpus Christi; a sister, Miss Mary Scott of Downey, Calif., and a brother, Gilford Scott of Coleman. His wife, sister and Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Scott have come here to visit briefly with Mr. Scott.

WARNING! The traffic toll in winter regularly climbs to a peak fifty per cent higher than the summer accident rate.

And this winter, because tires and cars are older; both cars and lives will be wrecked at a rate far faster than ever, unless YOU do something about it!

So take every possible precaution . . . Drive slowly and alertly, because it requires from four to eleven times the usual braking-distance to stop a car, without chains, on wet snow or ice . . . Don't close-in on the car ahead . . . Slow down well before reaching crossings . . . And watch out for pedestrians picking their way in hazy twilight or darkness.

At any other time in our nation's history, there would have been something sacrilegious in discussing the saving of cars in the same breath with the saving of human life. Today, however, the country's war effort and well-being depend on an ever-dwindling supply of essential transportation. Lives are important; so are irreplaceable automobiles.

Do your humane and patriotic part to save lives. Let your Phillips 66 Service Man do his patriotic part to help you save your car.

U. S. Assures France No Secret Agreements Made On Freed Areas

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—France has sought and received assurances from the United States that no secret agreements were made by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin at Yalta for the government of liberated countries of Europe.

This was learned tonight as officials here studied the effects of General Charles de Gaulle's rejection of President Roosevelt's invitation to a meeting in Algiers. The general conclusion was that French-American relations are on the down-grade and may continue that way for some time.

Suffering Of People

A principal contributing cause is the suffering of the French people, because of hunger and cold. Officials here say that although the United States is getting the blame for lack of food and clothing in France, the shortages are the inevitable result of short shipping and other war conditions.

As for the Crimean communique, the State department said the French had asked for clarification and the information requested had been furnished. The French request was received here Saturday and the reply went out yesterday.

The French wanted to know what the Biig Three had concluded about how liberated territories should be ruled, whether trusteeships were contemplated, whether special arrangements had been made for solving the known or expected problems of those territories. In effect, they wanted to know whether the Big Three had made some decisions about liberated Europe which they had decided to keep secret.

Settle As They Arise

The American reply stressed that no secret agreements had been made and that in fact the Big Three believed that problems of liberated territories can best be settled as they arise.

The second major point the French raised was what channels would be used for exchanging information among the great powers on the liberated areas. They were told that regular diplomatic channels would be used.

Officials here believe that the failure of the Big Three to include the French in plans for the foreign ministers meeting is at the moment the focal point for French criticism of the Crimean agreements.

The White House, in issuing an official dispatch today on Mr. Roosevelt's recent travels, laid the responsibility for the lack of a Roosevelt-de Gaulle meeting directly on the president of the French provisional government.

The incident is regarded as distressing in itself because of the uncordial attitude it reflects as between the two leaders but even more importantly it is symptomic of a condition stemming from several basic troubles involved in the relations to the two countries.

Some of the principal difficulties are:

1. What officials regard as the extreme sensitiveness of French leaders who take easy offense at real or fancied implications that their nation is not at the moment a great power.

2. The serious supply situation inside France where shortages of food, fuel, clothing make the population restless and unhappy. And as one American official said today "we're getting the blame for it."

American handling of de Gaulle has at times been somewhat rough, many officials here are ready to admit. Some of the President's own advisors have counseled a more generous treatment of the French by the United States.

BILL IS SENT BACK

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—A bill providing for sale of the state-owned railroad between Rusk and Palestine was sent back to committee for further study today by the Senate.

Redistricting Of Courts Opposed

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Unanimous opposition to the judicial redistricting bill by Rep. C. M. McFarland of Wichita Falls was expressed yesterday by the first six witnesses appearing before the House redistricting committee.

Rep. Ned Price of Tyler, chairman, said hearings will continue daily until all witnesses have been heard.

Lawyers Oppose Bill

W. R. Brown of Bell county said "the lawyers in Bell, Mills and Lampasas counties are unanimous in opposition to this bill which abolishes the 27th district."

Rep. Luman Parton of Marlin said Williamson county in the 26th district "Already has all the business its courts can handle, let alone the addition of post-war business, without taking on that of Bell and Falls."

Snyder Solan Testifies

Rep. Sterling Williams of Snyder said: "All lawyers and every man, woman and child in the 32nd district is opposed to this bill." McFarland's plan eliminates Borden but adds Coke, Runnels and Sterling to Nolan, Scurry and Mitchell.

Rep. Henry L. Atkinson of Beeville which asked the committee to "not add to the confusion of an already confused world."

The addition of Lampasas and Mills to Coryell, Hamilton, Comanche and Bosque counties in district 52 was opposed by Representatives O. M. Moore of DeLeon and Earl Huddleston of Oglesby on the grounds that their judge was carrying as heavy a load as he could stand.

Boyhood Chums Meet On Pacific Island

SOMEWHERE IN PACIFIC. (AP) (Delayed)—It took a war and the Marine corps to bring Phil Porter and Jim Cochran together again after 11 years.

They were boyhood chums in Sherman, where Phil's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cochran, reside at route 1. At the age of nine they were separated when Jim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Porter, moved to Dallas.

Although only 75 miles apart since then, they never met again until their reunion after the Marianas campaign.

OUMANSKY ASHES BURIED

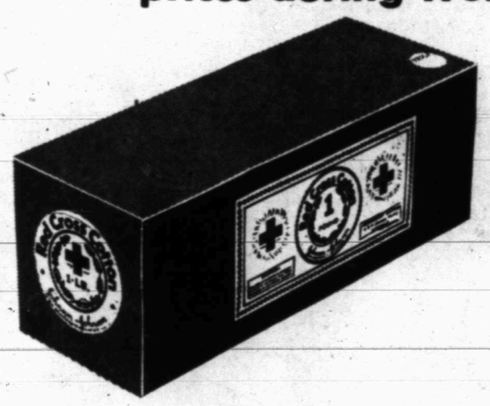

MOSCOW, Feb. 20. (AP)—Funeral services were held here today for Constantine Oumansky, ambassador to Mexico, who was killed there in an airplane crash Jan. 29. Oumansky's ashes were flown to Moscow by a U. S. plane for interment in the Novodevichy monastery.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

JAMES F. BYRNES' request for a midnight curfew at entertainment places will have little effect here because as long as we can remember (which goes back to our infancy) Lubbock has been a sleepy time town with the sidewalks rolled up soon after 9 p.m.

The lights might burn brightly here after midnight if we had beer taverns, dance halls and night clubs. Offhand we can't think of anyone who is going to be hurt by the request. Lubbock has contributed little to the war effort in the nature of a sacrifice, except her gallant men and women who answered the call to the colors. If turning out the lights at midnight will help even in the least to conserve fuel, manpower and transportation, we believe Lubbock will enter into the scheme with wholehearted cooperation.

AN HONOR

LAST fall a list of names of qualified women was submitted to Gov. Coke Stevenson to consider when he made his appointments to various state boards. This was done after it became apparent women weren't going to get very far in public life if they didn't ask for some recognition.

A group of leaders in women's organizations held a "Little White House" conference in Austin and the list of names was an outgrowth of the meeting. Gov. Stevenson took the list but since he had made a number of appointments to places of importance but had given them all to men, the women were getting a bit discouraged. Tuesday's appointment of Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland to the state board of education was evidence the governor was impressed after all.

Of course the man who wrote the story said Mrs. "Joe" Perkins of Eastland was appointed, which struck us as a bit humorous, because in all the years we have been writing about the gracious, poised woman we had never heard her referred to as Mrs. "Joe" Perkins. That's like saying President "Frank" Roosevelt or Prime Minister "Winnie" Churchill in our opinion. Because she has such dignity and charm the name Mrs. "Joe" Perkins grates harshly.

In case you don't know who she is we'll say she is at present chairman of the department of fine arts in the General Federation of Women's club, president of the Texas Federation of Music clubs, past president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, a talented musician, a gifted speaker, a mother and grandmother. She is a handsome, tall brunette with long black hair which she wears in buns at the nape of her neck. She wears striking clothes, and she is one of the few women lecturers we have heard who didn't seem to have any trouble in getting the men in her audience to listen to her.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Woman's Angle: Please allow the poor, lowly, despised, Lubbock landlord to speak: I happen to be one of the unpatriotic, much-publicized idiotic landlords who "prefers couples or families" for tenants. This preference comes after expensive and embarrassing experiences with all types of renters—single ones who posed as married; married ones who masqueraded as single ones and lived as such, and even a few who practiced polygamy.

I cherish the friendships of many splendid, congenial tenants, several from the northern states, too. Then I have suffered the pangs of seeing an apartment abused, wrecked and transformed into a cheap amusement place by punch-drunk wives, intoxicated with domestic freedom and an excess of spending money when their husbands entered service. Evacuating undesirables is practically impossible without a court order entailing character investigations and libel dangers.

Tenants of that type can in a few days' time change the year's profit to red-ink losses, for repairs and replacements. Once I found a solid walnut bed reduced to splinters. The renters refused to share the bill, saying it was broken while eight persons were lying on it—evidently in line with their regular habits of living. Once a sweet (but irate) war wife inserted a coin in the refrigerator motor, necessitating expensive repairs; another moved out at midnight after pouring gallons of water on the hardwood floors.

My observances have shown a remarkable and commendable trait of character in families being moved about over the country during these war days to adjust and content themselves with conditions that exist. An apartment regardless of size or convenlences becomes, temporarily, a real home for the family who has to move about to do war work. A man and his family are appreciative of the comforts and privacy of a rented place almost as much as one which they own and treat it with the same respect. Most couples are working and trying to save, materially, toward that future of peace which we all look. The man returns from work seeking quiet and rest; the family enjoys radio, games, reading or visiting.

The evening hours and the early morning hours often in the apartments of war wives are usually different. Activity starts in the evening and hilarity sometimes disturbs neighbors who work during the day and rest nights.

If our war widows (as they term themselves) would come down to earth again, live sensibly, simply and savingly as they expect to do when their dear ones return from war, they would find the latch strings out at homes and apartments in Lubbock and every other city. M. M. may be living that same way too; as a landlord, may I say that as "a burned child dreads fire" so do I shy from war-wife tenants.

Since M. M. realizes the acute shortage of living accommodations in Lubbock why does she not content herself with a room. She could share it with her "nice girl friend" for companionship. It would serve her immediate needs and would reduce her living costs at least fifty per cent. It would be a loyal, patriotic thing then to add that to the fund for the postwar home, for that man who is "fighting and sacrificing everything good in life for those people who are inconsiderate to him on the home front."

DEAR L. L.: Your letter was too lengthy to publish in its entirety. As you said in a post script, "after all is said and done, America is still a democracy and M. M. may live in whatever way she chooses and you can continue to rent your apartments to families and couples only.

By the way, would you be interested to learn that three landlords telephoned to ask about the young woman, although she had not sought an apartment through our column?

Feminine Reporters Disconcerting To Tough Bull Halsey

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Bull Halsey dived into deep verbal water (doggone those females anyhow) floundered a while, and almost didn't get himself out. If you've never seen an admiral blush, here's where you can read about it:

Having put on a necktie for the first time in months and squeezed his feet into shoes (he usually wears carpet slippers), Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., steamed into Washington and called a press conference.

How'd he know there'd be lady reporters lolling in the cream-colored chairs of the Navy department's board room? With rayon-covered knees? And high heels digging into the deep red carpet?

The admiral did his best to ignore these feminine fripperies. He inhaled deeply on his cigaret, stared into the sunlight and talked about rats, meaning Japs. He mentioned their rag tail, bob tail airplanes. He said even the stupid, bestial Jap saw he was losing the war and he added: It's heads we win, tails he loses.

These Japs, he continued (still keeping his gaze averted from the ladies), hole up like rats and like rats have got to be dug out. As for the bypassed Japs, he said the Navy intended to let them starve to death, slowly and painfully. He said Japs drown as easily as they burn. He said he hoped to God he'd be in Tokyo for the final festivities. Somebody asked him if any British ships now were helping him prowl the Pacific and he said he preferred not to answer. He said he might get his head chopped off.

Two Jap Mistakes

"I don't know why these little rats thought they could lick an American anyhow," he said. "That was the greatest mistake they ever made in their lives. Their second greatest mistake was when they started fighting dirty."

The Bull was going good now and a reporter asked him whether he had any messages for the enemy.

"Just tell 'em," he said, "that I believe in the Chinese explanation of the origin of the Japanese race."

"And what," enquired a blonde with an innocent look, "is that, Admiral?"

The admiral hemmed and he hawed. He said he thought everybody knew that. The blonde said she was sorry, but she didn't.

The bull's face got pinker than ever and he lit a fresh cigaret and he said if ladies weren't present——. Just go right ahead, Admiral, said the blonde.

"Well sir," said Admiral Halsey, "there was a Chinese emperor long ago, who rounded up all the criminals in the land and banished 'em to those islands off the coast.

"So he separated the sexes and . . . and . . . (the admiral was reaching for words) and the island with the men was full of apes. These men killed off all the male apes . . . and . . . and . . . (Admiral Halsey lit another cigaret) . . .

"And then they pulled the female apes down out of the trees and . . . (he blurted the next line) that's the origin of the Japanese race."

Whew! The Admiral wiped his brow. He surveyed his audience. He looked the blonde in the eye.

She didn't appear shocked. The Admiral smiled. His face returned

Rags-To-Riches, Sagas Of Heroism Revealed In New Congressional Directory Just Out

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—This is a review of a new book, price $1.25, about the lives of some great men.

These gents wrote the 79th Congressional Directory, themselves, and if you want a sample, listen to Sen. William J. Langer of North Dakota, writing on William J. Langer:

"Governor of North Dakota, 1933, until July 17, 1934, when he was removed by the Supreme court of North Dakota; only person ever to be arrested in any English speaking country for filling an affidavit of prejudice against a judge."

Helen Nearly 45

There are rags-to-riches stories in this book and sagas of heroism. There also is the information, without any feminine pussyfooting, that Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, the California beauty, is nearly 45 years old.

Connecticut's Clare Boothe Luce announces that she is a playwright, author, journalist, foreign correspondent, and lecturer. If you want rugged, he-man stuff, read the story of Rep. Charles R. Savage of Shelton, Wash., who says of himself:

"Learned nearly every job in the logging industry, including the hard and dangerous work of high climber, bucker, and feller, at which he became an expert."

Authors Are Joiners

Rep. Harold Henderson Earthman of Tennessee listed himself as organizer of the famous One Gallus Fox Hunters Association of America. (That word "famous" is the congressman's.)

The authors unanimously turned out to be joiners from way back; there isn't a lodge in America unmentioned by at least one of them. Sen. Olin D. Johnson of South Carolina is a member of the American Legion, Forty and Eight, Disabled Veterans, Baptist church, Mason, Shrine, Optimistic club, Jr. O. U. A. M., Red Man, Woodmen of the World, Knights of Pythias and B.P.O. Elks.

Stigler Is Enrolled Indian

Rep. Joseph R. Bryson of the same state is a legionnaire, disabled Veteran, Baptist, Mason, Shriner, Woodman, Red Man, Junior, Merrymaker, and United Commercial Traveler. Rep. William G. Stigler of Stigler, Okla., is an enrolled Choctaw Indian.

Shortest biography in the book is that of Rep. Pat Cannon, who admitted nothing except that he's from Miami, Fla. Longest is the story of Rep. Edward Oscar McCowen of Wheelersburg, O., who in 42 lines told about his ancestors, his rise from coal miner to school teacher and his long and distinctive record (he said so, himself) as an Ohio educator.

Started His Own City

Rep. John Lesinski of Michigan took credit for starting the city of Hamtramck with 4,000 houses he built at the age of 26. Rep. William J. Gallagher, the street sweeper from Minneapolis, listed himself as a high school graduate, working man, married.

"Mrs. Norton," wrote Rep. Mary Norton of New Jersey, is the first woman to be elected to Congress from the Democratic party; the first to be appointed chairman of a Congressional committee, the important committee on the District of Columbia, and now chairman of the committee on labor."

From these few excerpts you've noticed the modesty of the authors. They have turned out the doggondest book I ever read. Should make a good doorstop, too.

Nimitz Indicates Plans Are Well Under Way For Invasion Of Japan

By FRANK TREMAINE
United Press War Writer

ADMIRAL NIMITZ'S HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 20. — Admiral Chester W. Nimitz made his bid today for command of the invasion of Japan and hinted that his staff already was laying plans for such an assault.

In a statement reminiscent of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's recent "on to Tokyo" proclamation, Nimitz said flatly that "our troops" will land on the Japanese home islands, "covered and supported by the ever increasing power of our air forces and of the guns of the fleet."

The reference to "our troops" was open to several interpretations, but it must be remembered that in his capacity of commander of the Pacific ocean areas, Nimitz has supreme command of all ground forces in this huge theater in addition to the fleet and Army, Navy and Marine air forces.

Present Command

Thus it would appear that he was referring specifically to the troops now under his command in the obvious assumption they will play the major role in the final phase of the war.

Just as MacArthur took the occasion of the American entry into Manila to offer his services as commander of the final assault upon Japan, Nimitz referred to the coming campaign in a statement commending his forces on the invasion of Iwo island.

"The officers and men of the Pacific fleet have dealt the enemy a crushing blow which will be long remembered," Nimitz said.

"The same courage, skill and teamwork which enabled our carrier planes to destroy the enemy in bad weather over Tokyo are now being displayed by the forces which are taking Iwo island, only 660 nautical miles from Tokyo.

Then Comes Japan

"They will also bring success when our troops land in Japan itself, covered and supported by the ever increasing air forces and of the guns of the fleet. . .

"To those brave officers and men who have been and are in combat, and also to those whose support and assistance in rear areas are essential to their success, 'well done.'"

The statement was taken as a clear indication that Nimitz's command has begun drawing up plans for an invasion of the enemy homeland—the third and final of the battle of Japan. The battle entered its second phase with the invasion of Iwo.

Close Cooperation

There is no desire on the part of the Central Pacific high command to detract from the past or future accomplishments of other forces.

On the contrary, there has been the closest cooperation with other commands. An example was the loan of both troops and the use of Admiral William F. Halsey's Third Fleet to cover and support MacArthur's operations in the Philippines for nearly four months.

It now can be revealed that these support operations resulted in the postponement for several months of the original plans to hit the Japanese homeland with carrier planes.

But, in addition to this spirit of cooperation, it is the intense but little publicized desire of this command to carry to its ultimate conclusion the job begun Dec. 31, 1941—24 days after Pearl Harbor—when Nimitz assumed command at that bomb-cracked naval base.

Three Years Of Progress

In the next three years, Nimitz directed his forces in operations which halted the Japanese drive toward the United States at Midway, stemmed the southward push at Guadalcanal and finally projected American power to Japan's home waters.

But all these operations have but one purpose—to soften up Japan and reduce her defenses for the final assault. That will be the invasion of Japan, the greatest amphibious operation ever attempted.

FDR Renews Appeal For Manpower Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt today made a new no-compromise appeal for enactment of work-or-else legislation.

It was contained in a message from the President to Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. Barkley delivered it to the Senate military affairs committee.

This committee has been inclined toward milder legislation or no bill at all. It has been noticeably cool toward the strict May bill passed by the House.

The President's message was released by Sen. Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, chairman of the military affairs committee. The committee meanwhile met in executive session to begin its fourth week of work on manpower legislation.

The President's message said:

"I hope that legislation embracing the principle of the May bill can be speedily enacted. It will assure the armed services they can rely on the flow of necessary supplies and greatly contribute to the success of our arms."

BOATBUILDER DIES

HOUSTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dan P. Platzer, 93, who began an apprenticeship at boat building 75 years ago and who built five-masted barkentines for the Italian government in the last war, died yesterday at his home in Kemah. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Seabrook cemetery.

House Military Group Approves Nurse Draft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — Unmarried women nurses between the ages of 20 and 44 inclusive, would be liable to draft for military service under legislation approved today by the House military committee.

But committee members, concluding three weeks of consideration of the measure requested by President Roosevelt on January 6 to provide 20,000 nurses for the Aamy and the Navy, said privately they did not expect the legislation, if enacted, to be enforced, except possibly among cadet nurses.

Even should the existing volunteer system, which the legislation continues, fail to produce the necessary number of nurses, the impact of the bill would fall heaviest on the 27,000 women trained under the cadet nurse corps program.

The bill requires local draft boards to take cadet graduates first and prohibits the induction of non-cadets so long as the board has cadets available.

The legislation makes it incumbent for every registered or graduate nurse and every nurse eligible for registration, within the age limits, to list herself with her local draft board.

Chairman May (D-Ky) said he hoped to obtain clearance from the rules committee for house consideration of the bill next week.

Dark Picture Of Europe Drawn

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (U.P.) — The United Nations have the choice of "collective security or collective suicide," according to Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, New York Times war correspondent just back from the battlefields of the continent.

Addressing a Dallas audience, she pictured Europe as being filled with "people in rebellion and confusion who don't know where they're going."

Traveling Road Again

"Along the roads leading to Germany are monuments set up in tribute to the men who traveled the same roads to victory in 1918. And their sons are traveling them again today," she said.

"Our only chance," the correspondent concluded, "is to work together for a permanent peace. It is quite possible for us to lose this war as we lost the last war—except in a military sense," she warned.

She described the lost, bewildered people of Belgium, Holland and France wandering listlessly through the wreckage of their "homes and lives."

"The cathedral at Aachen—in which Charlemagne was crowned—rises high and alone amid the complete ruins of the town," the war writer said.

"The people who have gone through the experiences of war have lost their sense of continuity—what makes men feel at home in the world. They think now only in terms of survival—of how they are going to get their next meal."

In her opinion, the people of liberated countries have no sense of gratitude to their liberators.

"They expected of the liberation things that it was impossible to give them while war is going on. Under military occupation, many are more badly off than they ever had been before," Mrs. McCormick said.

Vehicle Operators Are Warned On Inspection

Failure of commercial motor vehicle operators to comply with regulations requiring periodic tire inspections will adversely affect claims of these operators for new tires, Nettles F. Nelson, Lubbock district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation announced Tuesday.

The ODT official warned truck, bus and taxicab operators that General Order ODT 21A requires all commercial motor vehicle operators to have their tires checked after each 5,000 miles of operation, or after every six months of operation if operated less than 5,000 miles.

Office of Price administration action lifting this requirement for passenger car tires in no way affects compliance of commercial motor vehicle operators with ODT tire inspection requirements, it was pointed out. Inspections may be made by any agency designated by OPA.

Truck, bus and taxicab operators were also informed that ODT representatives on tire rationing panels are giving close consideration to records of regular tire inspection in making recommendations on applications for new tires.

Proposed Amendments Hike Texas Pensions, Raise Pay Of Solons

AUSTIN, Feb. 20 (AP)—Submission to the people of proposed constitutional amendments flowed from the House of Representatives today with speed and little dissent.

Although Senate approval is necessary before the people can vote on the proposals next Aug. 26 the House quickly approved these suggested alterations to the state's basic law:

Boosting from $15 to $20 a month the state's maximum contribution (to be matched by federal funds) for individual old age assistance payments. The vote was 135 to 0.

Increasing from $15 to $20 monthly the maximum grant (also subject to federal matching) for assistance to the adult blind. The vote was 124 to 1.

Pay Raise For Legislators

Placing members of the legislature on an annual salary basis of $3,650 compared to the present $10 a day while the legislature is in session. The vote was 106 to 30.

Each of these proposals must receive a two-thirds affirmative vote in the Senate to be submitted to the electorate.

Principal debate came on the pay raising proposal, members splitting into two camps. One side claimed the annual pay basis would improve the quality of the legislature. The other suggested submission of the idea would put the legislature in a sad public light.

Theorized Rep. Houston McMurray of Henrietta:

"One who writes the law is just as important as one who interprets it."

Compared With Judicial

He pointed out that state district judges received $5,000 annually and legislators should receive as much.

Rep. J. T. Ellis of Maxwell asserted:

"One sometimes needs to be saved from his friends as well as his enemies. Submission of this proposition will put the legislature in a bad light before the people."

The resolution submitting the pay raising proposition was by Rep. Charley Pigg of Waxahachie who said it proposed "adequate pay" for members.

Rep. Ben Sharpe of Paris authorized the resolution on boosting the old age assistance grant ceiling. Members defeated a substitute by Rep. Mainor Westbrook of Magnolia Springs removing the ceiling entirely.

More Aid For Blind

Rep. J. B. Pruett of Slidell, a blind member, offered the resolution submitting the increased ceiling on blind assistance. The two social security proposals do not require the state to pay the maximum grant. The amount of the individual grant would be governed by the amount of money the legislature appropriates for expenditure within the constitutional maximums.

While the House was deep in consideration of constitutional amendments the Senate considered confirmation of state appointees.

Both branches received many new bills on first reading.

Senate introductions included those by:

Sen. Alton York of Bryan requiring transporters of oil to furnish county tax assessor-collectors sworn affidavit by April 1 annually showing the exact amount of oil in pipeline or storage as of Jan. 1.

Sen. G. C. Morris of Greenville and others appropriating $14,000,000 a year for the next biennium for aid to rural schools.

SEVERAL APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED BY SENATE

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Appointment of Brig. Gen. Arthur B. Knickerbocker of Odessa as state adjutant general and Claude Isbell of Rockwall as secretary of state were confirmed today by the Senate.

The Senate also approved appointment of Walter Buckner of San Marcos and W. H. Earl of Waco as members of the state commission for the blind.

Knickerbocker was reappointed and Isbell's name was sent up after the Senate rejected the name of Sidney Latham of Longview as secretary of state.

Appointment of two new members of the state board of education, and one appointee to the game commission were announced today by Gov. Coke Stevenson. All are subject to confirmation.

Named to the game commission was Frank Jones of Marfa, a rancher, whose name was sent to the Senate following the rejection last week of Dee Davenport.

Stevenson named Mrs. Joe Perkins of Eastland and C. C. Chesher of Groveton as new members of the board of education, succeeding Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls and Royal Watkins of Dallas. Reappointed to the board of education was Herman C. Custard of Cleburne.

Recommended By Women

Mrs. Perkins' name had been recommended to the governor by a conference of women who met here in the autumn, urging him to appoint more women to members of state boards. She is a former president of the state federation of women clubs.

Stevenson also reappointed the following members of the state finance commission:

H. A. Dobbs of Hempstead, banking secretary; J. H. Ashby of Uvalde, building and loan section; C. A. Gibner of Spearman, banking section.

The governor said he was not yet ready to submit a nomination for the highway commission vacancy to the Senate. The term of Brady Gentry of Tyler has expired and Stevenson has said he would be glad to reappoint him, but that he has not heard whether Gentry would accept.

Also sent to the Senate were these river authority board appointments:

Upper Colorado River authority —L. T. Youngblood of Bronte, J. Culberson Deal of San Angelo, R. M. Simmons of Sweetwater. Central Colorado River authority—O. L. Cheaney and Leroy Stockard of Santa Anna, Frank Hudson of Novice.

All were for six year terms.

Area's Fruitgrowers Facing Prospect Of Losing Crop Again

Rather persistent encouragement of fruit buds to swell, despite continuing chill since the weekend, has the fruitgrower worried.

His casting about for ways and ends to save buds of orchards on the farm or on those few little trees beside the house is nothing new; weather vagaries on the South Plains bring the same complexity almost every year. February has a habit of turning balmy for days at a stretch. The sun beats down and the atmosphere warms. Fruit trees react quickly.

Then frost—average free frost date here is April 15—and another year passes without much production.

Dr. W. W. Yocum, professor of plant industry at Texas Tech, was asked "What are the chances for fruit this year?"

He conceded that many varieties of fruit trees would have stood a better chance had the weather kept them "back" longer, but expressed the belief they could stand 28-degree temperature when in full bloom, or after that stage; colder temperatures two weeks after blooming, particularly if such cold came when there was a moisture envelope about the trees.

Burying ice about the roots of trees or resorting to smudge pots to delay blooming is given slight credit by Dr. Yocum. Protection from wind is a prerequisite to keeping smudge pot warmth in the orchard, he said, and as to ice around the roots, he has conducted experiments that make that theory seem practically baseless to him. Temperature of the air about tree branches affect blooming time more than temperature of the soil, his experiments have indicated to him.

There is something available, however, to aid man in his fight to protect his fruit, Dr. Yocum said.

He said spraying the tree all over with whitewash—lime mixed with glue or floor paste—would cause heat to be reflected from buds, "but this perhaps should have been done two or three weeks ago." He said such spraying delays blooming "about a week." It perhaps would aid apple growers definitely.

There are new chemical methods that have been developed to give relief in the future, Dr. Yocum pointed out, such as harmone materials. These have been found to have a dual purpose: used to keep fruit longer on trees, they have proved to have a "carryover effect," delaying blooming the next year.

Lend-Lease Reaches 35 Billion, Solons Told

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Congress was told officially today that lend lease aid has reached $35,382,000,000 but that its importance in civilian shortages here at home has been "greatly overstated in numerous false rumors."

Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, sent up the 18th report on lend lease operations at the direction of President Roosevelt.

Civilian Workers Replace Soldiers

The twin transition periods occasioned by the recent change of Lubbock Army Air field from advanced pilot training to an AAF Instructors school and the shifting of several hundred civilian employes from jobs at South Plains Army Air Field to the west base, has for the most part been completed ahead of schedule, officials at LAAF announced Monday.

As a result of the increased number of available and qualified civilans, the field will be able to release enlisted technicians for duty elsewhere, it was announced.

Get Additional Training

"There remains, however, a certan amount of training of those civilian employes who have been assigned to new jobs at LAAF, differing in the work these same people did at SPAAF," Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., commanding officer at LAAF, said.

"The civil service employes who were absorbed by LAAF when the glider base began to close down its operations have filled a great need for that type of trained personnel," Col Estes said, "and we are now very grateful to those who elected to stay with the AAF training program."

Provided Capable Workers

"It can now be announced," Col. Estes said, "that months before there was any indication that the glider base would close down its operation, we were directed to begin replacing soldiers with civilian technicians. We first contacted our own personnel in the hope that they could recruit relatives and friends who could be trained for this work. The closing down of operations at SPAAF provided us with many capable workers who were already trained. It also provided us with personnel who did not fit directly into the plan as already drawn up. These people we are now training in new jobs."

Already a great number of soldiers have been released from duty at LAAF and sent to points where their services are more urgently needed. Others will be transferred to the ground forces and to high priority Air Force projects as soon as the above mentioned program can be completed.

Are Replacing Soldiers

Lt. Col. Claude Prichard, director of supply and maintenance, said that the great majority of the personnel recently hired at the west base has been utilized in the departments under his jurisdiction. "Already 109 civilian employes have been placed in production line maintenance, a department which has up to now been wholly made up of military personnel. And thirteen more civilians have been placed in the motor maintenance. These two important departments will be almost entirely 'demilitarized'," Col. Prichard said, "thus releasing the enlisted mechanics used for the past three years."

"The South Plains area can be very proud of the contribution that it has made to the AAF training program," Col. Prichard said.

Sugar, Butter, Meat Problems Worst

Gallup Surveys Rationing Problems On Home Front

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Tightened rationing in individual sugar allowances and butter hits the American people where it hurts most.

Among the world's heaviest sugar consumers, people in the United States are finding it harder to cut down on sugar than on any other product on the list of wartime rationed products. Butter ranks second on the list, meat third.

GALLUP

This does not mean people are unwilling to make the sacrifice, for more than a year ago a large majority in a survey said they would be willing if necessary to have rationing extend into the post-war period in order to give food to people in Europe who need it.

In the survey people were limited to one item. The question they were asked was:

"What one product that is now rationed do you find it hardest to cut down on or get along without?"

Here is the list, in the order of the frequency with which the item was mentioned:

1. Sugar	20%
2. Butter	19
3. Meat	19
4. Gasoline	10
5. Shoes	5
6. Canned Foods	2
7. Fuel Oil	1
8. Cheese	*

*Less than 1 per cent.

Women are more inclined to name sugar and butter than men, although these items are near the top of the list for both men and women.

A greater proportion of men than women mention gasoline when they are asked to name the rationed item they miss most.

And, as might be expected, there are roughtly three women for every man who mention shoes in reply to the question.

Though not officially rationed, cigarettes turn up in the replies. Other items mentioned are coal, nylons, liquors, building materials, automobile tires, farm machinery.

In spite of the fact that the question limits the choice to one item, field reporters encountered many who threw up their hands, figuratively, when asked to make a choice. Their replies: "Everything!"

"Shortly after LAAF was established two big recruiting drives were conducted in the area with excellent results. In large part these are the men who, having reached a high degree of efficiency, are now to be sent on to bigger and better duties. Frankly, when the station was directed to replace these men, many of us at LAAF were at a loss as to how they could be replaced because we knew the area had already furnished us with about all the potential mechancis available. Then came the deactivation of SPAAF and the answer to our question. The people of the South Plains are still keeping the wheels of maintenance turning at LAAF."

Filling Vital Needs

According to Col. Prichard 172 skilled and semi-skilled employes will fill the vital needs of his departments. Others have been scattered about the field as replacements for enlisted men qualified for overseas assignments.

It was explained that all of the civilian employes released at SPAAF would not be given posts at LAAF because of the inability of some of them to fill the necessary qualifications for certain jobs at the big AAF Instructors School. However, the program of training qualified civilian personnel will proceed as rapidly as possible, it was said.

Gold Prospector Says War Surprise To Him

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP) — There wasn't any war on when Albert N. Roberts went hunting for gold in the mountains near Las Cruces, N. M., he testified today, and he didn't know of any when he came out of the hills five years later.

Roberts, 38, told a U. S. commissioner before whom he was arraigned on a draft evasion charge, he arranged with a Mexican boy to keep him supplied with provisions. He said he saw no one else during the five years and did not see a newspaper.

When he came to Los Angeles last November, he was arrested. His bond was set at $1,000, pending further investigation and to give Roberts a chance to get into the Army.

Smith Offers Amendment To Share University Fund Among Colleges

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (Special)—A proposed constitutional amendment providing principally that all state supported colleges shall participate in all interest derived from the "university permanent fund" on a pro rata basis depending on enrollment has been set for committee hearing Thursday night.

It was offered by Rep. Preston E. Smith of Lubbock.

Resolution for submission of the amendment was introduced by Smith, and co-authors include Reps. McAlister, Hull, Love and Simpson, all of Fort Worth; Allison, Stephenville; Vale, Rio Grande City; Coker, Huntsville; Ellis, Maxwell; Smith, San Marcos; Helpinstill, Nacogdoches; Mabe, Eagle Pass; Mangum, Greenville; Proffer, Denton.

Sponsored by 15 House members, the proposed amendment was offered to benefit all state supported colleges, as well as the university. Sponsors, claiming more than 50 pledges of support in the House and 99 who have agreed to give friendly aid, also have the following Senate sponsors, among others: Hazelwood, Amarillo; Kelley, Edinburg; Knight, Madisonville; Lanning, Jacksboro; Martin, Fort Worth; Morris, Greenville; Ramsey, San Augustine; Weinert, Seguin; Brown, Temple; Winfield, Fort Stockton.

Opposition Expected

Proponents are armed with a mass of statistical information, but opposition is expected to head up fast and pointedly; the university would be expected to be deprived of much revenues were the amendment to pass.

Lands sales, bonuses and royalties accruing to the university would not be affected, the proposed amendment merely seeking to share the interest accruing from such sources.

The state university in 1944 had a balance of $57,008,000 from such sources, Smith said, referring to a survey he had worked up; in 1944 it received $11,741,000 from land sales and royalties and $10,496,000 from land sales and bonuses.

Smith Cites Benefits

Smith pointed to benefits other states schools would receive were the amendment to be voted: For the 1946-47 period, Texas Tech, for instance, would receive $163,500; A. & M. college, $180,600; John Tarleton, $43,000; North Texas Agricultural college, $58,000; Texas State College for Women, $209,000; Texas College of Arts and Industries, $36,800; College of Mines, $59,900; East Texas State Teachers, $44,000; North Texas Teachers, $136,000; Sam Houston Teachers, $52,000; Southwestern Teachers, $41,800; Stephen F. Austin Teachers, $22,900; Sul Ross Teachers, $12,300; West Texas Teachers, $58,700; Prairie View Normal (negroes), $101,800.

That table still would allow the University of Texas its share of $540,100, far the largest since its enrollment would be much larger than any state supported school.

Bonds Total $47,917,000

Bonds now held by the university total $47,917,000.

Concretely, Smith's house joint resolution seeks amendment of section 2 of article 7 of the constitution to provide that "all lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas, together with all proceeds of sales of the same, heretofore made or hereafter to be made, and all grants, donations and appropriations that may hereafter be made by the state, or from any other source, except donations limited to specific purposes, shall constitute and become a permanent university fund. And the same as realized and received into the treasury of the state (together with such sums belonging to the fund as may now be in the treasury) shall be invested in bonds . . . and the interest accruing thereon after this amendment becomes effective shall be subject to appropriation by the legislature . . . for the organization, maintenance, support and direction of all other state supported colleges and universities now existing or which may hereafter be established, and the appropriations for each . . . from this fund shall never exceed in the aggregate its pro rata share of said interest . . . At the end of every calendar year each institution shall be credited with a pro rata share of said interest, to be calculated on the basis of the ratio its average attendance for the preceding school year bears to that of all other schools participating."

Excepted from the fund would be one-tenth of the alternate sections of the lands granted to railroads reserved by the state, which were set apart and appropriated to establishment of the university in 1858.

The proposed amendment would be submitted to a vote at an election in November of 1946, and calls on the governor to issue a necessary proclamation for the election, as well as to call for $5,000 appropriation to pay election and publication expenses.

Smith, attempting to put the issue in a nutshell, seeks to show that millions of acres in West Texas were donated to the university "because at that time citizens had no conception how Texas would grow and prosper, that oil and other minerals were under the soil and that Texas would ever have more than one college.

"It is time that the apparent intentions of the Constitution are carried out so that all state supported colleges will benefit from at least the interest on lands, bonuses, royalties and sales . . ."

He said that the state "had departed from its intention by establishing a large number of district colleges. If the intention of the Constitution had been carried out, the available fund of the university would have been subject to the support of all higher education of the state."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pampa Five Wins North Half Race

PAMPA, Feb. 20 (Special) — Coming from behind all through the series, Coach Otis Coffey's Pampa Harvesters roared into the playoff with the Plainview Bulldogs for the District I-AA basketball championship by nosing out the Amarillo Sandies, 39-38, in the final and deciding game of the series to determine the north half champions here tonight.

It was a story book finish, and cast Earl Davis, 6 foot, two inch southpaw, in the hero role of the finish. It was Davis' great finish to the ball game that saw the Harvesters winning after coming up to the last three minutes of the game, trailing the Sandies, 33-37.

Pampa Ties Game

Randal Clay broke through for a crip shot, then less than a minute to play, Davis was fouled as he shot under the basket, and he put both donation tosses through the hoops for the tie that sent the ball game into an overtime session.

Baucum put Amarillo back into the lead in the overtime period with a free pitch. Then working smoothly on a set play, and screening perfectly, Davis again flashed under the basket to sink a crip shot, then the Harvesters stalled for time until the final gun placed the north half title on the brows.

Foster Tops Scoring

Scoring honors for the night went to the same two that battled for them Monday night, with Leroy Foster of Amarillo scorching the nets with an 18 point barrage, while little Johnny Campbell again was top billed with the Harvesters with 12 points.

The game was a see-saw battle all the way, with the lead changing hands fast and often. Pampa reached the first quarter turn with a 14-11 lead, but Amarillo led at the halftime intermission, 23-22. At the end of the third quarter, Pampa again held the lead, moving into the home stretch with a 29-28 advantage.

Amarillo appeared to be heading for the playoff when they built up one of the best leads of the night with only three minutes to play. But the Harvesters refused to be whipped, and the regulation game ended with the teams knotted, 37-37.

No announcement was made after the game as for plans for the playoff series with Plainview, but since District champions must be named by midnight Saturday night, no delay is expected to get the playoff started.

Flowers Named Plainview Coach

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 20 (Special) —The addition of Clyde Flowers to the coaching staff of Plainview High school, announced today by school officials, indicates that the school will be ready when another football season rolls around.

A few days ago, W. C. O. Harris, well known Fort Worth High school mentor, and former president of the Texas Coaches Association, was signed as athletic director and head coach, to take the place of Finis Vaughn, who left Plainview schools recently to go into private business in Lubbock. Vaughn brought to a close a tenure of service of 13 years with the local schools.

FLOWERS

Clyde Flowers is a native of West Texas, coming from the Texas Panhandle to play with the Texas Christian Horned Frogs, where he was rated as one of the greatest linemen in the nation.

Flowers will report here April 2 to take over his new duties.

Plans have not been announced here for spring football workouts, but the timing of the arrival of the new skippers of the football destinies of the school, indicates that spring workouts will be started early in April.

The prospects at Plainview High school are the brightest of many years, with a large number of last year's rugged eleven being back for another season at the sport.

Prospects were bright enough at the school, that at the winter meeting of the district executive committee, and during much argument as to where Lubbock and Amarillo schools would be playing on Thanksgiving Day, Plainview and Pampa officials openly boasted that, "regardless of where Lubbock and Amarillo play, Plainview and Pampa will be playing for the district title on that day."

Just how Harris and Flowers will divide the duties this fall has not been announced.

Childress Cats Cop Victory In Opener

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 20 (Special)—The Childress Bobcats were "too hot to handle" here tonight, and with Hubert Kitchens pouring in half the points, the Bobcats drubbed the Burkburnett Bulldogs, 50-28, in the opening game of the playoff series for the title in District 2-AA.

The Bobcats looked just as they looked last season, and delivered the goods in grand style when the chips were down. The visitors took an early lead, and never slowed down.

The series will be resumed on Thursday in Childress, with the third game, if needed, scheduled for Friday night at Childress. The winner will play the winner from District 1-AA for the right to enter the state tournament in Austin, March 8, 9 and 10.

Chicubs Press Plans For Spring Training

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs' management, still a bit apprehensive over the 1945 fate of baseball, nevertheless went ahead today with plans for opening the spring training camp at French Lick, Ind., March 7.

Bobby Dorr, Cubs' groundskeeper, plans to leave in a few days for French Lick to prepare the playing field. Manager Charlie Grimm is expected here Thursday morning for conferences with club officials and will leave next week for French Lick to supervise preparations for the camp.

Swedish Track Stars Cause Worry To AAU

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP) — Gunder Haegg and Haakon Lidman, Sweden's track stars, are at sea—and so is the AAU.

Wartime secrecy swallowed the two athletes who left their homes Feb. 2 by air for London. They were visible to Londoners for five days until Feb. 7.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the AAU and manager of the National indoor championships in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, has made tentative entries for each, Haegg in the mile and three-mile and Lidman in the hurdles.

The Swedish legation in London said today that there was no reason for anxiety.

In New York, Swedish government officials and track followers think that both Haegg and Lidman made contact somewhere with the Gripsholm, exchange ship, which is due at Jersey City tomorrow.

Sam Houston Teachers Win Over East Texas

COMMERCE, Tex., Feb. 20. (AP) —The Sam Houston State Teachers college basketball team defeated the East Texas State Teachers college 47 to 30 here tonight.

The Sam Houston Bearkats piled up an 18-point lead the first half and held their own in the last.

LAAF Noses By Hobbs, 39 To 38

HOBBS, N. M., Feb. 20. (Special) —Lubbock Army Air field Fliers won a cage thriller here tonight over Hobbs Army Air field five, with a long ranged field goal in the final four seconds of the game giving the Texans a 39-38 win.

Hobbs was playing a "freezing" game as time ticked out, but Beniot Riddel intercepted a pass near the center of the court, and heaved the ball for the basket. The final gun went off with the ball in the air, and the oval went through the hoop without touching the rim.

The ball game was close all the way, with the lead changing hands many times. Lubbock held a 20-17 lead at the halftime intermission.

Scoring honors for the game went to a pair of Texans, with Bruce Prior firing in 17 points for top honors, closely followed by Gerald McCarty, who had 15. Graf led the Hobbs attack with 12 points.

The Texans will return home tonight, and their next appearance on the court will be Friday night at Frederick, Oklahoma.

Grid Rules Makers Set New York Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Col. William J. Bingham has called a meeting of the National Collegiate Football Rules committee for New York City on March 31, the Associated Press learned today.

Bingham, Harvard's athletic director on military leave, was named chairman of the code committee a year ago last January but refused to convene his group, declaring there was no need for such action and that the grid law would remain frozen for the duration.

He suggested, however, the war-year football seasons be devoted to experiments, with the result that during the 1944 campaign virtually every conference in the country tampered with the rules in some manner and further alterations were in prospect for the coming season.

Even after the Coaches Association met in Columbus, Ohio, last December and made six recommendations to the rules group, Bingham declared there was no need for a meeting.

It was at that session that Maj. Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth and the U. S. Marines, was named NCAA representative of the first district, succeeding Chairman Bingham; and Col. L. M. (Biff) Jones of West Point, taking over the No. 2 district job, replacing Asa Bushnell of Princeton.

Eleven men, including A. A. Stagg of the College of Pacific, make up the group. Stagg is a delegate at large and a life member.

McKeever Hinted As Post-War Ram Coach

Hugh Fullerton's sports column, released Tuesday by the Associated Press carried an item of interest to local friends of Ed McKeever, former Texas Tech star, who is now coach of the Notre Dame football team.

McKeever stepped into the shoes of Frank Leahy last season, and was at the helm of the Fighting Irish last season. Fullerton now hints that McKeever might be ticketed for the coaching job at Fordham after the war.

Fullerton's comment was:

"Notre Dame's Ed McKeever hasn't signed with Fordham yet, but you can bet he will be on the job when the Rams resume football.

High point man for the evening was Webb of the Bearkats with 15.

Red Raiders Blast Cowboys For Second In Row, 53-14

ABILENE, Feb. 20 — Texas Tech's Red Raiders turned on the steam here tonight to wallop the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, 53-14. The victory gave the Red Raiders a sweep of the two game Border Conference series.

Texas Tech won the opener, 52-40, Monday night.

The Red Raiders started early, and bounded away to a lead that was never threatened. There was never any doubt about the outcome as the visitors racked up a 29-6 lead at the end of the first half, and didn't let up after the intermission.

Gene Hardey, big Kansas star, paced the Red Raider attack, finding the range on the basket for nine field goals and a free toss for 19 points and the top honors. His greatest help came from Jiggs Jackson and Jay Kerr.

Jackson fired in five field goals and three donation tosses for 13 points and second honors, while Kerr was getting ten points with five field goals.

Box score:

Slaton Cagers Split Pair With Lorenzo

SLATON, Feb. 20 (Special) — In a battle of champions, the Slaton and Lorenzo basketball teams split a twin bill here tonight, with the Slaton boys nosing out a 32-31 win in the feature game, after Lorenzo had won the girls game, 38 to 14.

The boys game was a wild scoring finish, with the lead changing hands many times during the game. The score was tied 5-5 at the end of the first quarter, but before the halftime, Lorenzo had pulled away to a 16-10 lead. In the third period, Slaton staged a comeback, and tied the score at 19-19 as they moved into the home stretch.

In that wild fourth period, Slaton pitched in 13 points, and Lorenzo 12 as they battled down to the finish.

Slaton's boys were winners of the south half of District 4-A, while Lorenzo boys and girls won the District 8-B title.

The Slaton scoring was well divided with Hanna and Burnett getting eight points, and Huckaby and Elder each getting seven. Williams of Lorenzo topped the scoring with 11 points, seven of them by free throws. He was followed by Moore with eight and Smith with seven.

Nettles paced the winners in the girls game with eight, and Bounds was high for Slaton with eight.

Golden Gloves Gate Biggest In History

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Texas Golden Gloves will contribute between $7,000 and $10,000 to charity this year, bringing the total for the nine seasons of this boxing feature to close to $40,000.

Flem R. Hall, director of the Gloves, said today the show which ended last night would gross around $25,000 and despite the fact that the tax is 10 percent higher this year would still show the largest gate in the history of the tournament.

One reason was that there was an extra night at the Fort Worth district tournament this year.

Attendance for the state tournament was around 17,000 with more than 7,000 turning out for last night's finals.

Net proceeds are contributed to the Goodfellows fund, a Christmas fund for underprivileged children, and to a free milk and ice fund. The Star-Telegram sponsors the annual tournament.

Meanwhile, champions crowned last night were preparing to leave for Chicago and the Tournament of Champions opening next Monday.

Three service men and five civilians, one a shipyard worker, won state championships last night. They were: Flyweight—Gilbert Areche Dela Cruz, San Antonio; Bantamweight — Hector Marquez, El Paso; Featherweight—Donald Frye, Houston; Lightweight—J. W. Blankenship; Welterweight—Gilbert Garcia, Houston; Middleweight—Pvt. Jim McGrath, Bryan Air field; Light heavyweight — Cpl. Tom Attra, Brooks Field; Heavyweight—Cpl. Ben Gosney, Camp Hood.

Baseball Bosses Talk To Byrnes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP) — Baseball's two-man diplomatic team, Ford Frick and Will Harridge, saw James F. Byrnes today and came out with big smiles.

"As we remarked to Mr. Byrnes, any statement on our talk will have to come from him," Frick said.

Reporters met the major leagues' presidents as they were leaving the war mobilization director's office at the White House after less than a 30-minute conference.

They parried questions as to whether they had talked about the future of baseball in the light of more stringent manpower restrictions.

"We merely laid our problems before him," Frick said.

Asked if he considered the interview "encouraging," Frick replied that "Mr. Byrnes was very friendly and courteous."

But they looked as though the conference was satisfactory.

Byrnes had no comment.

TCU Frogs Plan For Conference Baseball

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. — It's all a bit indefinite, but Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian reports that he will hold spring football practice for two weeks early in March, and will then call a baseball squad together to get ready for competition in a sport that has not been on the Frog program since 1942.

"Most of our time in spring football practice will be spent with 10 or a dozen high school youngsters who are entering TCU March 1," Meyer reports.

"As for baseball, we'll concentrate first on trying to develop some pitching. We have a lot of boys, both civilians and V-12ers, who are eager to participate in the diamond sport, but, so far as I've been able to find out, they're all infielders or outfielders. If we can find a couple of pitchers, we might develop a pretty fair outfit."

The last time Meyer coached Frog baseball, in the spring of 1934, his team won the conference championship.

Five schools are expected to field teams in the conference baseball race—Texas, Rice, A. & M., SMU and TCU.

It's A Good Decision

Lives Mean More Than Money

HEADS of the War Production board and chiefs of Army and Navy Supply have just made a decision that will cost the American people a great deal of money which otherwise would not have been spent. But, even so, those who made the decision should be commended for it, because their action should result in winning the Jap end of the war quicker, hence at a saving of lives of some of our fighting men who otherwise would die.

The civilian and uniformed personages in charge of war supplies have decided to keep practically all war plants running at full tilt after the collapse of Nazi Germany. Because of the time element involved, much equipment in use in Europe at the time of victory over Hitler will be left there and new equipment will be shipped to the Orient from these shores. Such a step is dictated, too, because of the number of ships involved in transportation; and because certain equipment suitable to European fighting is not suitable to warring at the other end of the earth.

Of course, the decision will mean that much equipment will be wasted; therefore much extra money will be spent. But the WPB and Army-Navy Supply are convinced that their decision will save lives—and lives are much more important and valuable than dollars.

We salute the decision. We believe all patriotic Americans will join in a similar salute.

There Are Better Examples

ON this page today the eminent Washington correspondent and observer, Thomas L. Stokes, comments upon strange poses struck and attitudes exhibited by members of Congress. However, it seems to us that he might better have chosen some other example than the one he uses.

Mr. Stokes describes some of the actions and repeats some of the statements made by a Michigan representative, Jesse P. Wolcott, regarding the President's nomination of Henry Wallace to be Secretary of Commerce. He seems to think Mr. Wolcott's suggestion that the President conceivably might appoint Sidney Hillman or Earl Browder to some high office in the government is exaggerated, almost ridiculous. But is the suggestion entirely without benefit of predicate? We think not.

While Mr. Wolcott's suggestion regarding Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder is farfetched, so have been some previous actions of the President.

Mr. Stokes forgets, perhaps, the Supreme court "packing" campaign. He overlooks the President's nomination of "Boss Ed" Flynn, of the Bronx, to be an American ambassador. He takes no cognizance of the fact that for 12 long years the important Department of Labor has been headed by an estimable lady who has shown astounding inaptitude for the post. And last, but not least, Mr. Stokes fails to note that the President sought to put Henry Wallace—a man celebrated for his impractical ideas and lack of business experience—as head of the Commerce department plus all the great financial agencies therewith connected.

Mr. Stokes scouts the idea that there may be political plums for Messrs. Hillman and Browder, but he fails to take into consideration Mr. Roosevelt's very frank letter to Jesse Jones, in which the President flatly said he was handing Mr. Wallace a generous hunk of political pie not because of Mr. Wallace's fitness for the post, but because he owed Mr. Wallace a personal political debt. It must be remembered that Messrs. Browder and Hillman, like Mr. Wallace, stumped the country for the President's Fourth Term re-election. Therefore, it must follow that if Mr. Roosevelt thinks he owes Mr. Wallace a high appointment in return for Mr. Wallace's active support, he conceivably could adopt the same attitude regarding Messrs. Hillman and Browder.

In principle, we agree with Mr. Stokes. We do not believe the President would offer a high post in the government to either Mr. Hillman or Mr. Browder. To do so would be to rip the home front wide open—into the most bitter dissension imaginable. But Mr. Roosevelt's record is spotted with unusual appointments and recommendations. His best friends and staunchest supporters recognize the President's penchant for doing, or seeking to do, the "unexpected."

Therefore, we think Mr. Stokes' example of Congressional buffoonery on this page today is poorly chosen for the point he is trying to make. There must be many other better and more logical examples available.

But would merely making agrarians out of the Germans after the war, as many suggest, constitute adequate punishment? Shouldn't a flock of agricultural bureaus and agencies be set up to harass them?

A GEORGIA TOWN IN 1807

III

It was the middle of the afternoon on the day of the dinner party before Kitty found any time to sit down and rest. In preparing for such an occasion every nook and cranny of the house had to be cleaned, or so she thought. Being distrustful of the interest of the house servants in their allotted tasks she followed them assiduously and pointed out dusty corners and grimy windowpanes. She was in and out of the kitchen to see if the cooking were going on according to plan. The Negro butler had spent an hour or two polishing the silverware, then she had him clean all the lamps and fill them afresh with sperm oil. On the dining table she planned to have candles — pink candles with shades—in her set of silver candlesticks.

At last she concluded that everything had been attended to and she sat down in an armchair by one of the parlor windows that overlooked Centre street. With a sigh she reflected that the street, which had been just a country when their house was built in 1790, was now the chief thoroughfare for entering the town from the south. At this season, in the fall, Centre street was noisy nearly all day with cotton wagons bringing the season's crop to market. "Ah, well!" she thought, "One must take things as they come."

The Earle house, or mansion, as it was sometimes called, was a medley of architectural fashions like the houses of many well-to-do people in that era. The chief idea of its designer was to make it look imposing, and he had succeeded in accomplishing that purpose, though it was lacking in other ways.

Across its front there was a handsome portico which occupied the whole width of the house. From its outer edge rose six tall, white columns. They ran to the top of the house and supported the lofty roof of the portico. Squeezed close to the roof were the second floor windows, so completely overshadowed that the bedrooms behind them were in semi-darkness nearly all day.

The body of the residence did not measure up to the Greek temple boldness of its face. The most spacious place in the house was a wide hall which ran from the front door to the back. The rooms, with high ceilings, were small and crowded with furniture. On the ground floor there were four rooms, parlor (or living room), library, dining room and a so-called "smoking room" which had a billiard table. The meals were cooked in a kitchen in the yard and brought to the dining room under a covered way.

The second floor had six bedrooms, including two rather large ones in the front. The beds were wide and massive. Each had four heavy posts with a canopy and curtains. Only the two larger rooms had built-in closets; the small bedrooms were furnished with wardrobes. There was no bathroom in the house, and of course no running water. When anyone wanted to take a bath the servants brought in a large circular wooden tub and filled it with buckets of water brought up from the well. Each bedroom had a handsome washstand equipped with a pitcher and a bowl of decorative china.

Each of the four rooms downstairs had a fireplace, and fires of pinewood and hickory were kept going in all of them during the winter months—from December first to the middle of March.

There were only a few pictures on the walls and most of those were painting of Kitty Earle's relatives. In place of pictures some of the walls were covered by French tapestries, and here and there hung a strip of silk colored and flaming with Chinese embroidery.

The house stood in a plot of about two acres. Between it and the street was a flower garden which, in the summer months, was full of roses and other flowering plants. A wanderer from the 20th century would have observed, with interest, no doubt, that some tomatoes were growing among the flowers. Tomatoes were called "love apples" in those days and were considered poisonous, but they were raised in flower gardens because the red love apples were pretty. Children were warned never to eat them or even to handle them.

Back of the house stood the stables, a barn and some outhouses. To the left was a vegetable garden, a grape arbor and a small peach orchard. On the right, behind the kitchen, were the cabins of the Negro house servants. These cabins, built of boards, were whitewashed. Each cabin consisted of one room, and had a brick chimney, a door and a window. The slaves who lived in the cabins were not permitted to put up window curtains, for the patrol on making its rounds of slave quarters looked through the windows to see what the Negroes were doing. Before the front door of each cabin there was a porch.

For carrying on the housework there were six servants besides two more outdoors. All the housework could have been done easily by three people if energy and briskness could have been put into slaves. But that was impossible, for the servants got no wages at all, and they had developed deliberation of movement, slowness of action, and stupidity of comprehension into an art. It should be said, however, in justice to human nature, that the temptation to practice that are must be very strong in those who are never paid for their work.

Telegram To Nimitz Is Sent By Sam Rayburn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Speaker Rayburn today sent the following telegram to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz:

"At the request of the House of Representatives, unanimously expressed, I send to you, the officers and men serving with you and also the participating air corps, our grateful thanks and admiration for the great accomplishments during all operations and especially those of the immediate past.

"We salute you all and send warmest regards."

In the Galveston hurricane of 1900 some 6,000 persons perished.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

SHOULD you buy your home. Should you rent, How big a house should you buy if you buy.

These are questions that come up in almost everybody's life, and I want to give you a letter a Newwark, N. J., reader wrote me a few days ago. It was in reply to one of my columns in which I poked fun at the one-room paper houses with which the War Production board is now experimenting in Washington.

This is what the lady wrote:

"To me a home is anything you own and that is comfortable for you and your loved ones. Four walls of any size or any material, with love, make a happy home.

"I was born in New York 67 years ago. We came out to New Jersey some years later for more room. Where I now live was then country and one could not rent a place. We had to buy a lot and build a home. But I found soon that one had to work and slave forever after.

BRANDEIS

"Even after your place is cleared of the mortgage you have to make repairs. My husband died when my child was six years old, and to hold my house I went without many things and many pleasures my friends and relatives in New York were enjoying, for they could ask the landlord to do the repairing of else.

"Our locality has since built up and improved, and our taxes have been increased, although the old residents preferred it as it was, so I can see how a cheap house would be appreciated by many poor widows. I had to rent out all of my house except three rooms. Several widows I know had to sell out at once after their husbands died.

Most homes need a man, and who knows whether the man or the woman will in the future be the one left to occupy the home alone? If you rent a place, when reverses come you can move to a cheaper apartment, but if you own a place you've got to hold it until you find a buyer, and then you run the chance of having him hand it back to you in a couple of years in worse condition than when he bought it, because he could not keep up the payments.

I do not advise young people to buy a home anywhere within commuting distance of a large city. Just now you can sell any house, but when times become normal again it wouldn't be so easy.

Would your wife be any better off than the rest of us widows?"

WELL, there you are—not very optimistic, is it?

But while there is much to what my Newark reader says, people will go on buying homes and working and slaving for them.

There is something that you cannot quite explain to owning your own piece of ground and being able to say That is mine—mine by my own effort."

Home ownership is a monument to your success. True, there may be a mortgage on it and you may lose it if you don't keep up your payments.

True, there is a lot of work and drudgery to owning a home.

But in owning a home lies the very essence of America: independence, freedom, hope and confidence in the future.

We have to pay the mortgage and the interest. But we also know that it may rain tomorrow and that winter will come some day.

But who cares? After winter comes spring and after rain comes sunshine.

That is America—looking forward and always hoping for the best.

That home we recently bought here is Connecticut is a lot of work for my wife and me and there is a mortgage on it and interest has to be paid.

But I wouldn't give it up for the highest stack of rent receipts in the world.

My wife agrees with me, and she's taking a nap after cleaning up seven rooms and washing the breakfast dishes.

Our seven rooms and our dishes.

'War Of Nerves' Aimed At Japan

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE Big Three conference had extremely important military aspects that were generally missed because of the emphasis placed on consummation of diplomatic arrangements and territorial agreements. Adopting the 1935-1940 strategy, the leaders of the United Nations staged a war of nerves against Hitler and Hirohito.

The plan to recompense a divided Poland with land in East Prussia and Silesia reflects the confidence of Allied chiefs in a fairly speedy liquidation of the Nazis.

It also serves notice on Berlin that even harsher conditions will be imposed in the event of a suicidal, last-ditch stand. Whereas Woodrow Wilson promised eventual national rebirth to the enemy, his heirs propose destruction as a penalty for senseless resistance.

The decision to include France in the postwar controlling powers was also designed to weaken our European fot. It insures that the Germans will be hemmed in for years by three hostile and revengeful peoples—France on the Rhine, Poland on the Oder and Russia so close that, unlike England in 1940, Moscow can always rush reinforcements to Paris or Warsaw.

TUCKER

Japan, however, was the chief target of this psychological warfare.

Participants in the Black Sea deliberations have returned to Washington with the definite impression that Stalin has decided to attack Tokyo as soon as the Germans have surrendered or been beaten in the field. That is the principal objective of Anglo-American policy today.

In granting Russia's major western demand (the Polish partition), President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill indicated their willingness to go to extreme lengths to obtain the aid of the Red Army and Air Force in the last stages of the Oriental struggle. On his side, Stalin agreed to permit his experts to sit with the British-American Joint Chiefs of Staff in London and Washington.

Indeed, a two-year conflict with Japan may be avoided as a result of these accords, despite the fact that the Pacific problem was not mentioned in the official communique. For if Tokyo comes to the conclusion that Stalin will be in there fighting some time in 1945, the emperor may force his war lords to sue for peace soon after the fall of Berlin.

JOBS: Federal statisticians are staggered by preliminary estimates of the cost of the Murray Full Employment plan that has been sponsored by the wealthy senator from Montana.

The program, roughly, provides that the government first ascertain the number of people who will want jobs. Then Washington finds out how many persons private industry can hire. Through public works and other activities Uncle Sam then makes jobs for the remainder. So far, so good. Everybody wants that.

If FDR's figure of 60 million employables is accurate, it is possible to get a faint idea of the necessary financial outlay. Suppose, for instance, that private concerns can take care of only 50 million, leaving 10 million to be financed by federal agencies. If they are to receive a living wage instead of mere relief money, it is estimated that the annual sum for each individual should be at least $2,000 dollars, although some propose $2,500. Ten million times 2,000 makes 20 billion dollars.

Advocates of the program are not frightened by this figure. They maintain that full employment, however achieved, would preserve purchasing power and provide sufficient taxes to underwrite the glamorous project.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

HERE is a roundup of views expressed by New York bipartisan authorities on international affairs—experts in sympathy with Polish aspirations but who put American interests first.

They think it would be tragici if our hopes for Allied unity and lasting peace—raised high by the Crimea conference—should be dashed to the ground by certain Polish chauvinists who insist on the whole hog or nothing, and by a few irresponsible American politicians who are willing to jeopardize our foreign relations merely to curry favor with hyphenated voters in their districts.

LEMAN

A distinguished Pole says, "Whenever you see two of my countrymen, there you will find three political parties."

But most Americans are not informed concerning the agelong propensity of our friends to dispute violently among themselves about political subjects.

They do not know that differences of opinion run the gamut from the die-hard positions of the aristocrats in the cabinet-in-exile in London to the dream of landless peasants for a partition of farm properties. Many are not aware that former Premier Mikolajczyk, who wants his country to be good neighbor to Moscow, has come out for the Yalta compromise.

GRATEFUL: The conflict in Polish attitudes is shown in its propaganda bureaus, which seem intent on stirring up bad blood among peoples fighting the Axis.

Articles appear in this week's grist of handouts distributed from New York headquarters attacking the French for making a treaty with the Kremlin, anti-Fascist Spaniards for opposing Franco, Italian socialists for cooperating with the Communists against the Nazis, and the Soviet Union for the way she is fighting Hungary—Hitler's partner.

But it would be unfair to give only this example; there is another side. A correspondent cables that, on their national memorial day, Polish peasants set small saucer lamps and flowers beside the little wooden pyramids crowned with a star that mark the graves of Russian soldiers who fell driving the Nazis from the Vistula.

It should not be forgotten that Polish troops battled alongside Americans, the French and the British to liberate Africa and Europe.

The writer talked with a noted Dutch industrialist who has just flown to New York from Holland. He told how the Polish Black Brigade, after combats in Italy, Normandy and Belgium, played a large part in ousting the Germans from the Dutch provinces of Zeeland and North Brabant.

Though a hardheaded businessman, there were tears in his eyes as he pictured his grateful countrymen tending the graves of all the Poles who died to free the Netherlands. "We will always do it," he promised. "We want our friends to feel that a part of Holland will be sacred Polish soil forever."

EMBITTERED: Besides the blighted territorial hopes in the Black Sea document, other problems may cause future discord.

If, in comparison for the loss of land, Warsaw receives portions of East Prussia, Silesia and Pomerania, she will be burdened with a German irredenta of from three to five million. It will constitute a large minority of recalcitrant subjects for a nation of 35 million to rule.

Should German residents be swept out and dumped in the Reich, the embittered migrants would probably plot for the recovery of their lost possessions. The Turkish-Greek transfer of populations in 1920—though made in good will—brought only misery to the uprooted.

On the other hand, if the Poles eventually are successful in regaining the lands east of the Curzon line, which they wrested from weak Bolshevist Russia after World War I, they will have areas in which only 40 per cent of the inhabitants are nationals. The others are Russians, Ukrainians, Ruthenians, Czechs, Lithuanians and Germans. Perhaps these aliens would not wish to live under the Polish flag.

Meet Honorable J. P. Wolcott of Michigan

Solons Strike Strange Poses

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Members of Congress occasionally get themselves into some strange poses which, if tried out first in front of a mirror, would make them laugh at themselves—that is, granted the average sense of humor.

Take, for example, the Honorable Jesse P. Wolcott, Republican of Port Huron, Mich., who got so wrought up over the throught that Henry Wallace, the former Secretary of Agriculture and Vice President of the United States, may become secretary of commerce.

STOKES

Mr. Wolcott has done nearly everything one man could do to stop that. He wasn't at all satisfied with the bill the Senate passed to take RFC and its affiliated lending agencies away from the Commerce department so that Henry couldn't get his hands on them.

He prepared amendments to isolate Henry from any contact with money. One of them would have deprived President Roosevelt of his war power to transfer bureaus and agencies here and there, because of Mr. Wolcott's fear that Mr. Roosevelt might transfer something to Mr. Wallace later. It seemed to a good many others that it is rather touchy to start monkeying with the President's war powers in the middle of a war.

Fears "Screwball Appointments"

But Mr. Wolcott made another big discovery. The Secretary of Commerce is one of the directors of the $2,000,000,000 Export-Import bank. That was bad. So he fashioned another amendment to throw the Secretary of Commerce off this board of directors, even though the Commerce department is supposed to have something to do with foreign commerce.

In discussing this proposal before the Rules committee, the Michigan member argued with a straight face that President Roosevelt might appoint Sidney Hillman, CIO leader, as head of the Export-Import bank, the job now held by Leo Crowley as head of the Foreign Economic administration.

But when Mr. Wolcott stood up before the House, with all those members present and the galleries filled, he had an even more horrendous, if slightly madder, inspiration. Why, he said so solemnly, the President might appoint Earl Browder as head of the Export-Import bank.

"Browder, the Communist" turned "Browder, the banker." What a thought!

THIS shows the extreme frenzy into which some congressmen have worked themselves over Henry Wallace. Watching it all, one wouldn't have been surprised much if someone had proposed to build a little sentry box outside the Commerce department and lock Henry up in that every morning at 9 o'clock and let him out at 4:30.

Then, surely, someone would move to amend that to make sure there was no telephone in the box, or Henry might call the Kremlin.

After all, he did study Russian for a while, along with Spanish.

Some Good Accomplished

The Michigan congressman made another assertion, equally solemnly, with his fear about Comrade Browder.

"It is unfortunate," said he, "that a personality enters this matter."

He knew, and everyone there knew, that if it wasn't for a personality none of this would have happened. The House would not have intruded itself into nominations to the cabinet, which is supposed to be the exclusive right of the Senate. Nor would Congress as a whole have found out about the lending agencies and the power they exercise. That is a good thing, though the cure can be carried to extremes, as Mr. Wolcott demonstrated.

ALSO, conservative Democrats who don't care so much for Mr. Wallace have been frightened by the build-up some of them and the Republicans have given him in the last few weeks. It was learned, for example, that one argument House Democratic leaders used in whipping their members into line to try to pass the bill quickly was that if this kept up Henry Wallace might get the party's 1948 nomination.

There is more than one way to get nominated for President.

German Spy Captured By Mexican Soldiers

PARIS, Feb. 20. (AP)—The U. S. Army newspaper Stars and Stripes tells how a group of American soldiers of Mexican origin, now united in one squad, recently captured a German spy by confusing him with a flow of Spanish when he attempted to make their acquaintance by speaking English.

The account was from the paper's Ninth Army correspondent who quoted Juan Dominquez of Lasara, Tex.

"We are now one little family," said Dominquez. The squad was formed about three weeks ago. Roy Huerto of San Antonio, Tex., and Gerardo Guerra of Corpus Christi, Tex., are among its members.

Dominquez told the correspondent that when the squad was on patrol all orders were given in Spanish.

Capture of the German was celebrated afterwards when Trinidad Sandoval of Los Angeles opened a bottle of wine and the group sang "Soldado Raso" (freely translated "The Buck Private"), and other Mexican and Spanish songs.

WE STILL have a few farms that we can get possession of for 1945, some dry land, and some irrigated. If you are looking for a farm, and want possession this year, it will pay you to see us before you buy. We also have several good buys in good farms for investments. We also have several homes large and small for sale at this time. Priced in line with present real estate values.

You may think real estate is too high in Lubbock, and we agree with you that it is, but there is nothing that we can do about it. So if you are in market for any kind of real estate, see us before you buy. We will be glad to assist you any way we can.

Alarmed Hirohito Calls For Checkup

Emperor Hirohito called administrative heads of Japan's oft-bombed industrial areas to his palace today for an accounting on measures undertaken to "transform the entire nation into a huge arsenal," the Domei news agency said today in a Tokyo radio report.

The broadcast, monitored by the FCC, said the imperial summons went to administrators of districts which include Nagoya, Kobe and Osaka on Honshu, main homeland island, and Kyushu and Shukoku islands to the southwest.

Domei said heads of the eight regional administrations in Japan's home islands conferred at Premier Kuniaki Koiso's Tokyo residence yesterday on problems of home defense and production.

Work-Fight Bill

chairman of the War Manpower commission (Paul V. McNutt) would be authorized to establish employment ceilings in individual plants or areas, and to regulate or prohibit the hiring of new workers by employers.

Enforcement would be directed primarily against employers. If they hired or retained a man in their employment in defiance of the WMC chairman's regulations, the government could deduct the man's salary in paying the employer on a war contract. Also, the employer could not deduct the forbidden employe's wages as a business expense on his income tax.

Byrnes would be instructed to coordinate government procurement policies so as to channel contracts to areas with surplus labor. He also would look into the use of manpower, civilian and military, by the War and Navy department, while McNutt would supervise in plant surveys of private civilian labor utilization.

PRICES HOLD GAINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP) — The stock market made another new 7-year average peak today by a nose despite light selling which crimped many leaders and restricted the general run of gains of fractions.

Investment demand, based on inflation psychology and income prospects, remained as the principal trend bulwark. Good war news also was helpful. Transfers of 1,770,000 shares compared with 1,880,000 Monday.

The Associatde Press 60-stock composite showed a net advance of .2 of a point at 62, a top figure since Sept. 4, 1937. It was a broad market, 994 issues appearing. Of these, 432 were up against 562 down or unchanged.

In the "new high" class were U. S. Smelting, up 4¼; American Smelting, up 1¾; General Motors, up ⅜ and U. S. Lines, up ½.

Declines were posted for Chrysler, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, North American, Western Union "A," Kennecott and American Can.

Bonds were uneven.

Tilting forward in the curb were Electric Bond and Share and International Hydro-Electric.

of Crossen, at the confluence of the Oder and Bober rivers 57 miles southeast of Berlin and 17 miles northeast of Guben; Boberserg, 13 miles east of Guben; and Christianstadt, 11 miles east of Sommerfield.

The German DNB agency said the Guben-Sorau-Lauban front was "one of the main centers of gravity of the Russian offensive, with fighting still in full swing and the ultimate decision unforseeable."

The whole picture was one of small but important Russian gains in preparation for a solid linking of the First Ukraine and First White Russian fronts and a concerted drive on Berlin from the east and southeast.

Defenses Outflanked

Konev was busily consolidating his salient, which already outflanked German fortifications erected along the central Oder river to face Marshal G. K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army group.

Zhukov, holding several bridgeheads across the Oder in the Kuestrin-Frankfurt-Fuerstenberg area, has been massing his force for about two weeks.

Farther northeast, the Second White Russian forces of Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky were continuing a spirited drive through the Polish corridor towards the Baltic ports of Danzig and Gdynia.

Struggle In Prussia

There was no let-up in the struggle in East Prussia, with the Germans reporting that Soviet troops were attacking heavily on the Samland peninsula west of Koenigsberg and that German warships were shelling the attackers.

On the almost-forgotten southern front, the German Transocean agency asserted the Nazis had liquidated the southern part of a Soviet bridgehead on the Hron (Gran) river where it joins the Danube 21 miles northwest of Budapest.

Stassen Accepts Conference Post With Misgivings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Comdr. Harold E. Stassen said today he is putting world peace ahead of his political future to serve as a delegate to the United Nations conference.

His selection by President Roosevelt is a "political liability," the former Minnesota Republican governor told a news conference. But, he added, it is his patriotic duty to help work for a strong postwar league of peace-loving nations.

Stassen, flag officer with Admiral William F. Halsey, is here with his chief for strategy talks with Admiral of the Fleet Ernest J. King.

He said he would doff his uniform temporarily for the world conference so that, in civilian status, he can "speak, act and think" as he pleases day supported the invasion and carrier aircraft added the weight of their bombs and rockets to the coordinated assault.

Marines On Iwo Beat Schedule

Already, Nimitz, reported, 8,000 tons of ammunition had been expended in naval gunfire.

The warships were standing close to shore, concentrating "close-in" fire on caves and other underground strongpoints from which the Japanese were strafing the northern end of the American beachhead.

Supplies were pouring ashore "satisfactorily," Nimitz said.

Rains hampered air cover and impeded ground action.

The report that "slight gains" had been made north of Motoyama bomber airfield, located on a plateau near the southern end of the island, substantiated earlier statements that the conquest of Iwo would be tougher than the invasion of Tarawa in the Gilbert islands at the start of the Central Pacific campaign late in November, 1943.

Strong Beachhead

Two days of hard fighting had given the Marines a strong beachhead and the important bomber airfield. They had cut off the Nipponese in strong positions on Suribachi and thrown a ferocious counterattack before dawn Tuesday in which the enemy attempted to take back a portion of the airfield.

A dispatch from Morrie Landsberg, AP war correspondent aboard the experitionary flagship of Vice Adm. Richard K. Turner, said the Marines had obtained a strong toehold on the island from which to push their conquest. It was expected, he added, that the bloody finale of the campaign would be in the rocky northern Portion of the island.

Yank casualties were heavy at times, Landsberg reported, as they fought yard by yard from their terraced beachhead. There was enemy fire virtually every step of the way.

Nips Fight Furiously

With the entire southern defense system of Japan threatened, the thousands of Nipponese on Iwo were fighting back with every weapon at their command, which included rockets. By early Wednesday, the third day of the invasion, not a single enemy plane had been able to penetrate the combat air patrol thrown around the island and the invasion armada.

Extremely tough going was being experienced on the right flank of the American line, curving northward from the northern slope of formidable Suribachi. This line traverses the northern end of the captured airfield and then dips down to the upper or northern end of the beachhead.

Toughest of Tough

Viewing the action from a warship just off the American beachhead, Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of Pacific Marines, said "the fight is the toughest we've run across in 168 years." And he meant tougher than Tarawa, a victorious, bloody fight that was costly in American lives.

One war correspondent flying over Iwo 750 miles south of Tokyo, described it as "eight square miles of unadulterated hell."

In two communiques Tuesday, second day of the grim fight, fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said the determined devildogs drove across the southern end of the island and isolated the strong volcano positions from Japanese forces in the north. He said the Marines expanded their beachhead by 1,000 yards on the southwestern coast.

The 27th Marine regiment broke up a fierce night Japanese counterattack by 900 troops at Motoyama bomber airfield and drove off the Nippon survivors.

Drive Across Island

By noon on the second day the Leathernecks from the southwestern and southeastern beachheads drove their lines from the west to the east coast. Within the third of the island they control are the bomber field and the 546 foot volcano as well as the lowlands just back from the beaches.

The volcano positions were not knocked out. Enemy guns still blazed from the rugged slopes, against which swarms of rocket planes were sent.

In one of his communiques Admiral Nimitz sounded a sober note, indicating that a terrific fight was still ahead.

Jap Planes Dispersed

The first Japanese planes appeared near the Iwo scene at night, as Nipponese artillery and mortars rained shells on the beachheads. The enemy raiders were driven off before they reached their objective. Despite the heavy fire the supply units worked like beavers on the beaches landing tons of ammunition and other battle necessities under the light of starshells sent up by warships. The men-of-war continued their round-the-clock bombardments.

A Marine corps spokesman at fleet headquarters said there was no indication of any noticeable weakening of the Japanese garrison. He too forecast a bitter fight ahead.

Marine casualties in the south were light but on the open unprotected slopes east of the captured airfield—just inland from the invasion beachhead — they were "more numerous."

"Bloody" No Misnomer

The wording of one communique indicated clearly that "bloody" was no misnomer. Reports of intense mortar and artillery fire and small boats plying between the shore and the white hospital ships off the beachheads told a clear story.

Radio Tokyo reported a new American landing at night on northern Iwo just above the original beachhead on the southeastern shore. The Japanese said "furious fighting is at present in progress" in that sector.

Homeland invasion jitters still held the Tokyo press. The newspaper Mainichi said "we must now realize that it is not impossible for the enemy to attempt a landing on the homeland... The homeland has indeed become a fighting front."

Gripsholm Due Soon With Repatriates

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 20 (AP) — The Gripsholm neared the end of its sixth exchange voyage tonight, bringing home 1,206 repatriates, including 463 ill or wounded American soldiers who were prisoners of war in Germany.

Aboard besides the American officers and enlisted men are 78 Canadian military personnel, 42 merchant seamen who were also prisoners and 623 civilians.

The Army arranged for a quick transfer of the American soldiers to Halloran General hospital on Staten Island, where they will receive physical examinations. Those whose physical condition permits will be given furloughs. Interviews with military personnel will not be permitted before Thursday.

The seamen, who represent nine ships sunk by enemy action, are the first merchant crewmen to be repatriated from Germany. Five skippers are among them.

Americas Open Parley Today

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20. Secretary of State Stettinius brought a whirlwind of optimism today to the inter-American conference which he said he confidently expects to equal the success of the Big Three Crimean meeting.

The youthful, white-haired diplomat arrived aboard a four-engine transport at 3:05 p. m. He brought to the meeting of all the American nations except Argentina a strong link with United States-British-Russian plans for a peaceful world.

Starts Active Efforts

Stettinius already had started working towards success of the conference. On the plane with him were Foreign Ministers Pedro Leao Velloso of Brazil and Enrique Munoz Meany of Guatemala, completing the roster of delegation heads here.

The American secretary of state issued a brief statement, in which he promised full United States support in the conference, opening tomorrow, for moves toward strengthening inter-American relations. He expressed pleasure at visiting Mexico and declared "the United States looks on Mexico as a good neighbor and as a strong upholder of the democratic tradition of this hemisphere."

Mexican Foreign Minister Padilla told the press that the inter-American conference would seek to extend the Crimean declaration to fit the western hemisphere.

Based On Rights Of Man

"The world security organization," he said, "should be based on the rights of man."

Padilla, who will be chairman of the meeting, assured that the Argentine question would be fully discussed. It was reliably ascertained that Bolivia, which has been considered sympathetic to the Argentine cause, will refrain from making any proposals on how to solve the exclusion of that country from the family of American nations.

Speaking to about a hundred foreign and local correspondents at an interview in his home, Padilla declared that the conference will take an important place in history.

"It is a conference of equal nations," he emphasized, "and in all the important topics to be discussed there is an equal opportunity to present proposals which merit the consideration of the assembly."

Padilla listed three important topics the conference will take up beginning tomorrow: (1) The organization of a permanent world peace; (2) The inter-American system and its relation to the system of collective security; and (3) The seconomic security of the hemisphere.

The Mexican chancellor, who is confined to his home recovering from a cold, traced an immediate connection between this conference and the scheduled United Nations meeting at San Francisco to discuss the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

been blocked by explosives. Liquid fire and bombs were wiping out the few Japanese who managed from time to time to dash out of the few remaining crevices in banzai charges.

The Americans on the fortress were looking amid the rubble for the ventilation vent. When this is found the remaining Japanese troops will be completely sealed in and possibly remain buried within the caverns from which MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Jonathan W. Wainwright directed the last tragic battles of the enemy invasion in 1942.

General MacArthur, reporting savage Japanese treatment of civilians and private property, said a survey of Manila showed that practically all private possessions of value were thoroughly looted during the period of enemy occupation and apparently shipped to Japan.

Rev. Robert Duckett Dies At Home Here

Rev. Robert L. Duckett, 68, a Baptist minister for 49 years, died at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night at his home, 508 Ave. O.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alma Dean Duckett.

Funeral services probably will be held today, according to Plains Funeral home. Officiating ministers were announced as Reverends Jack and Jeff Welch, co-pastors of the Central Baptist church, and Rev. L. L. Richardson, pastor of College Avenue Baptist church.

The Lubbock Oddfellows lodge will have charge of services.

Third Smashes Across Moselle

entered by the 90th Infantry.

Bad weather limited tactical air support over most of the Western front, but more than 200 sorties were flown against German targets in front of the Third Army. The 19th air command pounced on 30 oil barges, one of the biggest groups ever spotted on the Rhine, and set 16 ablaze in an attack on a flotilla at Gernsheim, 17 miles north of Mannheim.

Traffiic Said Heavy

Airmen reported heavy eastward rail and road traffic opposite the Third Army.

Between the two active sectors of the Western front, the Roer river — curving around a huge bulge that contains three other tense Allied armies—was dropping steadily from its flood stage and supply roads behind Allied lines were reported drying in many places. This is the necessary prelude to a full-scale onslaught by Gen. Eisenhower's armies.

The Canadian close-in on Calbar, seven miles northeast of Goch, was slowed for the moment by at least five fierce Nazi counterattacks in a seesaw fight northwest and southwest of the water-girt town. It was a give-and-take slugging match for the roadhub two miles from the Rhine.

Nazis Slash Back

A late front dispatch said fierce Nazi counterattacks in the moyland area just northwest of Calcar and along the Calcor-Goch highway had penetrated British and Canadian positions in bloody fighting and had cut the highway.

Canadian infantry and armor were being hastily thrown against the breaches in Allied positions, with heavy fighting going into the night. In a mile advance southeast of Goch, Scottish and British troops took the towns of Buchholt and Halvenboom.

The German Eighth Parachute division was identified among enemy forces taking part in the bitter fighting. In all, the Germans had jammed elements of at least nine divisions across the Maas-Rhine corridor in an effort to halt the Allied advance toward the Ruhr.

Roger D. Greene, Associated Press front correspondent, said this massing of enemy strength and intense German artillery and mortar barrages appeared to have stalled the British Empire offensive at least temporarily after 13 days of slow but steady advances.

Time Counts Aginst Nazis

He predicted, however, that the drive would gain its second wind shortly, before the Germans could construct new fixed defenses to replace the broken Siegfried line.

Goch, which had been pounded into a rubble by Allied planes and artillery before Scottish and Welsh troops crashed into its center early yesterday, had been mopped up except for isolated Nazi nests at its southern end.

Murky weather stripped the British Empire forces of all aerial support in the forenoon, but other tactical air units hit transport and strongpoints along the remainder of the front and a great force of heavy bombers from England struck the strategic German rail center of Nuernberg.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army, now fighting on the Saar front, captured Etzling, only three and a half miles south of Saarbrucken and in clear view of the battered Saarland capital. High ground overlooking nearby Forbach also was seized.

WLB Wage Hikes

Rieve, president of the CIO-Textile Workers, freed his 100,000 members of further obligations to adhere to the no-strike pledge. This was announced in New York.

Rieve said a "political connivance has deprived the National War Labor board of its independent tripartite nature and has caused cotton textile workers to lose faith in the board's processes."

The union charged that textile manufacturers had exerted political pressure on James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, to block wage boosts.

In the textiles case guide post rates for certain key occupations were set forth to insure alignment of the wage schedules between the parties.

Special Panels Set Up

Special panels are to be established to review the wage classification schedules negotiated by the parties and to draft schedules for those on which they are unable to agree.

For the southern mills a premium of five cents an hour was ordered for work on the third shift. The union had requested a seven-cent differential for these mills.

For 11 southern companies where vacations comprised an issue, the board ordered one week with pay after one year of service "unless a more liberal plan was contained" in the latest contract.

The employees are to receive vacation pay computed as 2 per cent of total earnings of the previous year if the company requires the employes' service "in the interest of war production."

News Briefs

A tiny metal wheel was removed from the esophagus of Joe Bob Dycus, aged 18 months, of Levelland, Tuesday afternoon at Lubbock General hospital. The infant was released after treatment.

Approximately 125 parents and Cubs of Pack 9 celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of scouting at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at the American Legion hall. Speakers were Cub Don Van Meter, whose subject as "Dads Are Good Fellows," and E. D. Van Meter, who spoke on, "Just a Boy." Short talks were also made by C. C. Schmidt, Cub commissioner; G. M. Unger, Scout executive; and M. H. McMasters, deputy regional executive of Dallas.

Liquified Gas Price Increase Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Office of Price Administration today increased ceiling prices for tank wagon deliveries of small quantities of liquified petroleum gas to consumers in Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and 18 West Texas counties an average of a half-cent a gallon.

OPA said the increase, effective Feb. 26, was granted after a study disclosed that previous ceilings were established at "abnormally low levels."

The new ceilings in Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle will be 7 cents a gallon for single lot deliveries of 220 gallons or less, 6 1-2 cents for 221 to 500 gallons and 6 cents for more than 500 gallons. In West Texas the ceilings will be 7 1-2 cents for single lot deliveries of 200 gallons or less, 7 cents for 221 to 500 gallons, and 6 cents for more than 500 gallons.

The Texas Panhandle area includes the counties of Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Wheeler, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Collinsworth, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall and Childress.

The 18 counties in West Texas affected are Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent and Stonewall.

De Gaulle Miffed

recalled at some future time when the circumstances are different, they say.

It was considered certain that the President originally had intended to visit France because the American Army made elaborate preparations for his stay. That which impelled him to decide against coming here was not known here, however.

While the French foreign office is withholding formal acceptance of an invitation to the San Francisco meeting pending a study of the decisions made by the Big Three in the Crimea, especially concerning the definition of zones of occupation in Germany, officials said there never had been any question of her refusing a place at the United Nations table.

French foreign office officials said they expected British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to arrive within a few days for talks with de Gaulle on the Crimean decisions. This implied that all plans for a Roosevelt-de Gaulle meeting now had been abandoned.

Eden might be empowered to speak on behalf of all three great powers, obviating the need for separate replies from Britain, Russia and the United States, officials said.

Attendance Mounts At Church Schools

Attendance at the two cooperative leadership training schools being conducted here by Lubbock churches continued to increase, it was reported Tuesday night.

Rev. L. L. Richardson, pastor of the College Avenue Baptist church and superintendent of the training school at the First Baptist church, said that approximately 170 persons attended their classes Tuesday night, with many more present early in the program for the address by Dr. Baker James Cauthen.

Rev. Richardson also announced that the last program of the school will be held tonight.

Nearly 300 persons attended the leadership school at the First Christian church Tuesday night, Miss Ruth Towne, registrar and secretary, announced.

Andrews, East Texas Urge Cut In Production, Others Ask Increase

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (U.P.)—Decreased oil production from the gigantic East Texas oil field and from newly discovered Fullerton and Union oil fields, West Texas, during March were urged today at the state railroad commission's proration hearing.

Drop in bottomhole pressure of East Texas field is viewed with "alarm," H. P. Nichols, Tyler, of the East Texas Oil association told the commission.

"We can't expect East Texas to furnish war demands or any part if the field continues to be pulled at its present rate," Nichols said.

Should Use Influence

Nichols said he had no criticism for the commission, but that it should use its influence to have the Petroleum Administration for War to change its certification, getting sweet crude oil elsewhere than from East Texas for the Big Inch pipe line.

Commission Chairman Olin Culberson answered the commission had informed PAW previously where additional sweet crude could be secured, but could do nothing else.

Culberson said he believed operators agreed the present high rate of East Texas production was necessary for the war effort.

"We feel there's enough pressure in the field to last through the war, and we'll furnish the oil even if it takes the last drop," Culberson said.

Pressure Drops Sharply

During January bottomhole pressure on a mathematical calculation declined 6.41 pounds per square inch and dropped 3.18 pounds on a weighted average calculation.

From the newly discovered Union and Fullerton fields, Andrews county, Magnolia Pipe Line company requested reduced allowables in March because its pipe line has reached capacity between Midland and Corsicana.

Reduction from 15,000 to 14,000 barrels daily for Fullerton and from 15,00 to 1,000 for Union were asked for the sweet crude wells.

Magnolia asked that the reduction be made horizontally, and representatives of Ohio, Phillips, Stanolind, Gulf and Continental Oil companies concurred if the lower production is ordered.

Magnolia could move an additional 3,000 barrels daily if the Midland - Corsicana bottleneck were eliminated. One protest was heard that if the allowables are cut, an active drilling program in the area now would be curtailed.

Others Ask Increase

In three other West Texas fields increases were requested. Stanolind Oil Purchasing company asked Slaughter field be raised 7,900 barrels daily to total 69,000 and Wasson increased 6,500 to total 74,500 barrels daily on a calendar day basis.

Ohio wanted Yates oil field production raised 3,486 barrels daily to a total of 38,492 barrels daily on a 28-day production basis during March.

The commission granted for remainder of February and March Stanolind's nomination for 100 barrels daily from wells in Campbell field, Hunt county.

Continued exemption from shutdowns in March for Panhandle field was asked by E. H. Foster of Phillips Oil Co.

Commissioners spoke praise for operators in West Pampa oil field who have contracted for beginning a repressuring project. C. G. Condra, Stanolind, said the project would affect 14,000 acres.

Pay Hike For Engineers

Tom Graham, Corpus Christi operator, urged the legislature be asked to increase salaries of commission engineers. Other operators joined his idea and commissioners said the pay should be hiked.

William Murray, Houston engineer, said committees soon would be completed to survey natural gas waste in Texas and operators were cooperating.

PAW certification for Texas' March production was 2,316,000 barrels daily of all petroleum liquids, of which 2,160,000 barrels daily of crude oil was specified. The 22,000-barrel daily crude oil increase from February was ordered produced from West Texas fields.

March Order Sets 2,160,675 Barrels

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Texas oil wells will produce approximately 2,160,675 barrels daily of crude in March, based on a statewide proration order issued by the railroad commission today.

Although daily allowable was set at 2,294,928 barrels, underproduction estimated at 5.85 per cent of allowable is calculated to reduce actual flow to 2,160,675 barrels or 675 more than certified by the Petroleum Administration for War to meet war and civilian demands.

Overall Allowable

Overall Texas allowable for March was set at 2,320,558 barrels daily including 159,883 barrels of distillates and natural gasoline or 4,558 barrels more than total petroleum liquids certification of PAW.

The March pattern in Texas includes 25 general producing days and 25 for East Texas. This month there are 22 general days and 23 for East Texas. There are 28 calendar days this month and 31 next month. The Panhandle field remains exempt from closing in March, unchanged from February.

The commission ordered a statewide proration hearing for March 20 for testimony on which to base an April production order.

Tax Initiative Sought For Texas Senate

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (U.P.)—Among new proposals presented to the Texas legislature today was a constitutional amendment to permit tax bills to originate in the Senate. Now they must start in the House.

New Senate bills called for a $14,000,000 annual state appropriation for rural schools and for an annual report to county taxing officials of oil in storage on Jan. 1.

A resolution, sent to committee, asked for a joint commission of senate and house members to study child delinquency legislation.

Initial Instrument Class To Complete Work At LAAF Today

The first class of student officers in Lubbock Army Air field's AAF Instructors school for instrument pilots will complete its training today and plans have been made for the arrival of the third class later this week, it was announced at the field Tuesday afternoon.

The initial class of pilots—most of whom are combat veterans who have flown bombers, fighters and cargo planes all over the world—have under gone a most intensive course of training the past six weeks at LAAF, learing the latest methods of flight by instrument. And for the most part these men are now qualified "all weather" pilots who will return to their base stations throughout the nationwide AAF Training Command to teach other fliers the latest methods of flying by instrument—men who soon may be carrying on the aerial war against the Nazis and Japs under weather conditions which in the past has grounded the Allied air arm.

Half way through their six weeks course of round-the-clock training is the second class, also made up of veterans who have seen action on practically every battlefront and whose members wear the Air Medal, Distinguished Flying cross and in some instances the Soldier medal and the Silver star as testimony to the part they have played in the war.

This program of training at LAAF will find a class finishing every three weeks and a new one arriving that often as officials push the intensive six weeks program of ground school, radio study, weather study and actual flying.

The third class of student officers, which like the others will represent many fields from coast to coast, is scheduled to arrive at LAAF Thursday and Friday with its members ready to start actual training Saturday.

As soon as final checks are given the first class of officers those passing the rigid tests will be presented with instrument cards showing their proficiency and ability as instructors. They also will receive diplomas showing their attendance at the AAF Instructors school.

There are nine Texans included in the first group of student officers at LAAF who complete their training today. The group from this state includes Capt. Wilton E. Wyche, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wyche of Gustine; Capt. James T. Landrum, whose wife lives in San Benito, Texas; Capt. John L. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Williams of Hamilton; Capt. Leonard T. Glaser, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Glaser of San Antonio; 1st. Lt. Benjamin George Mumme, son of Mrs. Ted Green of San Antonio, 1st. Lt. Charles A. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Lewis of San Antonio; 1st. Lt. Robert Ernest Lackey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lackey of Mertzon; 1st. Lt. William T. Roberts, whose wife lives in Childress, and 1st. Lt. Leslie Lee Wilder, whose wife lives in Dallas.

Soldier And Woman Are Asphyxiated

DALHART, Feb. 20 (U.P.)—The names of a Dalhart Army Air field corporal and his woman companion who were asphyxiated in an air-tight room this weekend have been revealed by officials.

They were Cpl. Christy R. Jull, 22, of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. A. J. (Catherine) Matuska, 26, whose mother and young son live in Council Bluffs, Ia. Her husband is overseas. The body was sent to Logan, Ia., for burial.

Mia Slavenska, Ballerina, To Dance In City Tonight

A ballet program ranging from the performance of a classic solo of "Salome" to interpretations of negro spirituals will be presented by Mia Slavenska, her dancing partner David Tihmar, and company at 8 o'clock tonight at the Lubbock High School auditorium, sponsored by Tech Artists course.

Slavenska, recent star ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, will open the performance, assisted by her troupe, with a choregraphic description of the emotional content and musical patterns of Cesar Franck's "Symphonic Variations." This number, which is divided in three sections, comprises the first part of the program.

Scene To Be Portrayed

The famous old Delibes ballet "Coppelia," or "The Girl With the Enamel Eyes," will be featured in the second section. Based on the original three-scene Coppellia, excerpts designed in pure ballet style portray a village feast and lads and maidens who break into a dollmaker's shop. Solos and pas de deux will be presented by Slavenska and Tihmar in this wedding festival scene. Miss Keane and Joseph A. Harris will do a Mazurka; Vaslavina will dance "Prayer" and Miss Keane will represent "Dawn."

Last part of the program will be a series of divertissements or unrelated dances, opened by Tihmar who depicts the emotions of the Negro race as seen in spirituals. Mr. Harris will dance a solo to music by Auber, with choregraphy by Vincenzo Celli, which is designed to express the purely technical medium of traditional ballet style through the exuberant spirits and energy of a young dancer.

Slavenska will be seen in her portrayal of "Salome" to music by Glazouv. Inspired by Oscar Wilde's drama, this dance tells of Salome or the woman who believes immune to the dangers of her abominable inheritance of crime and vice. Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumblebee" will be performed by Vaslavina, followed by a brief collection of "Balkan Sketches" which have been choregraphed by Slavenska for Keane and Harris to music by Tajchevitch.

The finales will be "American Ballade" dance by the entire cast. Tihmar has used the music of Stephen Foster for the background of a summer afternoon in the 1860's, depicting gaiety of that period in light-hearted dancing. All accompaniments will be played by the duo-pianists, William Schatzkamer and Mary Bray.

General admission and reserve tickets, $1.80, including federal tax, are on sale at B. E. Adair Music company, 1012 Main.
